46 A rumour ſhall both come one year, and after that in another year ſhall come a rumour, &c.) The prophet gives theſe tokens, that they may know that the time of the diſſolution of the empire is drawing near, namely, that the firſt rumour of war denounced againſt the head of that empire ſhall be the year before the ſiege, when Cyrus and Belſhazzar ſhall engage in a battle, and the latter ſhall be defeated; upon which the conqueror ſhould, the following year, lay ſiege to Babylon itſelf.

58 The broad walls of Babylon ſhall be utterly broken, &c.) The walls of Babylon, according to Herodotus, were eighty ſeven feet in breadth; Cteſias ſays, they were ſo wide that ſix chariots might run a-breaſt: their height was three hundred and fifty feet: the city was ſquare, and on each ſide were twenty-five gates of braſs, which were taken away by Darius, when he made himſelf maſter of the city; he alſo reduced the walls to the height of fifty cubits.

63 Thou ſhalt bind a ſtone to it, and caſt it in the midſt of Euphrates.) The prophets often gave ſenſible repreſentations of the judgments they foretold. This was a ſignificant emblem of Babylon's ſinking irrecoverably under the judgments here denounced againſt her. This threatning was in a literal ſenſe fulfilled, by Cyrus's breaking down the head or dam of the great lake that was on the weſt ſide of the city, in order to turn the current of the river that way: for no care being afterwards taken to repair the breach, the whole country around it was overflown. So that the prophecy of Iſaiah was alſo literally fulfilled, of making the country of Babylon a poſſeſſion for the bittern and pools of water, chap. xiv. 23.

COMMENTARY on Chap. LII.

1 Zedekiah was one and twenty years old, &c.) This chapter is chiefly tranſcribed from the latter part of the ſecond book of Kings, with ſome few additions, which Ezra probably ſupplied out of the public records, from whence the book of Kings are compiled.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah; and the king of Babylon bound him in chains, and carried him to Babylon, and put him in priſon till the day of his death.

12 Now in the fifth month, in the tenth day of the month, which was the nineteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, came Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard, which ſerved the king of Babylon, into Jeruſalem,

13 And burned the houſe of the Lord, and the king's houſe; and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and all the houſes of the great men burned he with fire:

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans that were with the captain of the guard brake down all the walls of Jeruſalem round about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the reſidue of the people that remained in the city, and thoſe that fell away, that fell to the king of Babylon, and the reſt of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard left certain of the poor of the land for vine-dreſſers and for huſbandmen.

17 Alſo the pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the Lord, and the baſes, and the braſen ſea that was in the houſe of the Lord, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the braſs of them to Babylon.

18 The caldrons alſo, and the ſhovels, and the ſnuffers, and the bowls, and the ſpoons, and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtered, took they away.

19 And the baſons, and the fire-pans, and the bowls, and the caldrons, and the candleſticks, and the ſpoons, and the cups, that which was of gold in gold, and that which was of ſilver in ſilver, took the captain of the guard away.

20 The two pillars, one ſea, and twelve braſen bulls that were under the baſes, which king Solomon had made in the houſe of the Lord: the braſs of all theſe veſſels was without weight.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits; and a fillet of twelve cubits did compaſs it; and the thickneſs thereof was four fingers: it was hollow.

22 And a chapiter of braſs was upon it; and the height of one chapiter was five cubits, with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapiters round about, all of braſs. The ſecond pillar alſo and the pomegranates were like unto theſe.

23 And there were ninety and ſix pomegranates on a ſide; and all the pomegranates upon the net-work were an hundred round about.

24 And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief prieſt, and Zephaniah the ſecond prieſt, and the three keepers of the door.

25 He took alſo out of the city an eunuch which had the charge of the men of war; and ſeven men of them that were near the king's perſon, which were found in the city, and the principal ſcribe of the hoſt, who muſtered the people of the land; and threeſcore men of the people of the land that were found in the midſt of the city.

26 So Nebuzar-adan, the captain of the guard, took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babylon ſmote them, and put them to death in Riblah, in the land of Hamath. Thus Judah was carried away captive out of his own land.

28 This is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried away captive: in the ſeventh year, three thouſand Jews and three and twenty:

29 In the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar he carried away captive from Jeruſalem eight hundred thirty and two perſons:

30 In the three and twentieth year of Nebuchadrezzar, Nebuzar-adan, the captain of the guard, carried away captive of the Jews ſeven hundred forty and five perſons: all the perſons were four thouſand and ſix hundred.

31 And it came to paſs, in the ſeven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the five and twentieth day of the month, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the firſt year of his reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and brought him forth out of priſon,

32 And ſpake kindly unto him, and ſet his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon,

33 And changed his priſon-garments; and he did continually eat bread before him all the days of his life.

34 And for his diet there was a continual diet given him of the king of Babylon, every day a portion, until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

13 And burned the houſe of the Lord, &c.) After it had ſtood, according to Joſephus, four hundred and ſeventy years; but archbiſhop Uſher reckons it had ſtood only four hundred and twenty-four years, from the laying of the firſt foundation by Solomon.

28 This is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried away captive, &c.) Archbiſhop Uſher ſuppoſes that this and the two following verſes give an account of the leſſer captivities which the Jews ſuffered under Nebuchadrezzar: whereas there were three others, in which many more perſons were carried away.

34 Until the day of his death.) Theſe words ſeem to be a moſt unneceſſary tautology; we do not find them in the parallel paſſage in 2 Kings, chap. xxv. 30, nor in our oldeſt manuſcripts.

THE LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book is a kind of funeral elegy on the death of the good king Josiah, as sufficiently appears from what is recorded in 2 Chron. xxxv. 25. St. Jerom is of opinion that the prophet laments the loss of Josiah, as the beginning of those calamities that followed: accordingly he prophetically bewails the miserable state of the Jews, and the destruction of Jerusalem. The style of these Lamentations is lively, pathetic, and affecting.

CHAP. I.

1 Jerusalem's misery for her sins. 12 Her complaint, 18 and confessing of God's righteous judgments.

HOW doth the city sit solitary that was full of people! how is she become as a widow! she that was great among the nations, and princes among the provinces, how is she become tributary!

2 She weepeth sore in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks: among all her lovers she hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt treacherously with her; they are become her enemies.

3 Judah is gone into captivity because of affliction, and because of great servitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, she findeth no rest: all her persecutors overtook her between the straits.

4 The ways of Zion do mourn, because none come to the solemn feasts: all her gates are desolate: her priests sigh, her virgins are afflicted, and she is in bitterness.

5 Her adversaries are the chief, her enemies prosper; for the Lord hath afflicted her for the multitude of her transgressions: her children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture; and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.

7 Jerusalem remembered in the days of her affliction, and of her miseries, all her pleasant things that she had in the days of old, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adversaries saw her, and did mock at her sabbaths.

8 Jerusalem hath grievously sinned; therefore she is removed: all that honoured her despise her, because they have seen her nakedness; yea, she sigheth, and turneth backward.

9 Her filthiness is in her skirts: she remembereth not her last end: therefore she came down wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, behold my affliction: for the enemy hath magnified himself.

10 The adversary hath spread out his hand upon all her pleasant things: for she hath seen that the heathen entered into her sanctuary, whom thou didst command that they should not enter into thy congregation.

11 All her people sigh, they seek bread; they have given their pleasant things for meat to relieve the soul: see, O Lord, and consider; for I am become vile.

12 ¶ Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? behold and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce anger.

13 From above hath he sent fire into my bones, and it prevaileth against them: he hath spread a net for my feet, he hath turned me back: he hath made me desolate, and faint all the day.

14 The yoke of my transgressions is bound by his hand; they are wreathed and come up upon my neck; he hath made my strength to fall, the Lord hath delivered me into their hands from whom I am not able to rise up.

15 The Lord hath trodden under foot all my mighty men in the midst of me: he hath called an assembly against me to crush my young men: the Lord hath trodden the virgin the daughter of Judah as in a wine-press.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 How doth the city sit solitary that was full of people! how is she become as a widow! &c.) Cities are commonly described as the mothers of their inhabitants, and their kings and princes, as their husbands and children. When, therefore, they are bereaved of these, they are said to be widows and children. Under these affecting circumstances, Jerusalem is described as sitting alone, and in a pensive condition, the multitude of her inhabitants being dispersed and destroyed.

2 Among all her lovers, she hath none to comfort her, &c.) All her allies, whose friendship she courted by sinful compliances, have forsaken her in her afflictions, and even joined with her enemies in insulting over her.

4 The ways of Zion do mourn, because none come to the solemn feasts, &c.) The highways that lead to Jerusalem are unfrequented: none go up thither at the solemn feasts, because the temple and altar are destroyed.

15 The Lord hath troden under foot, &c.) He hath troden them under foot, as they that tread grapes in the wine-press.

16 For

16 For theſe things I weep: mine eye, mine eye runneth down with water, becauſe the comforter that ſhould relieve my ſoul is far from me; my children are deſolate, becauſe the enemy prevailed.

17 Zion ſpreadeth forth her hands, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath commanded concerning Jacob, that his adverſaries ſhould be round about him: Jeruſalem is as a menſtruous woman among them.

18 ¶ The Lord is righteous: for I have rebelled againſt his commandment; hear, I pray you, all people and behold my ſorrow; my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 I called for my lovers, but they deceived me: my prieſts and mine elders gave up the ghoſt in the city, while they ſought their meat to relieve their ſouls.

20 Behold, O Lord for I am in diſtreſs: my bowels are troubled, mine heart is turned within me: for I have grievouſly rebelled: abroad the ſword bereaveth, at home there is as death.

21 They have heard that I ſigh: there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble; they are glad that thou haſt done it: thou wilt bring the day that thou haſt called, and they ſhall be like unto me.

22 Let all their wickedneſs come before thee: and do unto them, as thou haſt done unto me for all my tranſgreſſions, for my ſighs are many, and my heart is faint.

CHAP. II.

1 Jeremiah lamenteth Jeruſalem's miſery: 20 he complaineth thereof to God.

HOW hath the Lord covered the daughter of Zion with a cloud in his anger, and caſt down from heaven unto the earth the beauty of Iſrael, and remembered not his footſtool in the day of his anger!

2 The Lord hath ſwallowed up all the habitations of Jacob, and hath not pitied: he hath thrown down in his wrath the ſtrong holds of the daughter of Judah; he hath brought them down to the ground: he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Iſrael: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, and he burned againſt Jacob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about.

4 He hath bent his bow like an enemy: he ſtood with his right hand as an adverſary, and ſlew all that were pleaſant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his fury like fire.

5 The Lord was as an enemy: he hath ſwallowed up Iſrael, he hath ſwallowed up all her palaces; he hath deſtroyed his ſtrong holds, and hath increaſed in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation.

6 And he hath violently taken away his tabernacle, as if it were of a garden; he hath deſtroyed his places of the aſſembly: the Lord hath cauſed the ſolemn feaſts and ſabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath deſpiſed, in the indignation of his anger, the king and the prieſt.

7 The Lord hath caſt off his altar, he hath abhorred his ſanctuary, he hath given up into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces; they have made a noiſe in the houſe of the Lord, as in the day of a ſolemn feaſt.

8 The Lord hath purpoſed to deſtroy the wall of the daughter of Zion; he hath ſtretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from deſtroying; therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament; they languiſhed together.

9 Her gates are ſunk into the ground; he hath deſtroyed and broken her bars; her king and her princes are among the Gentiles: the law is no more; her prophets alſo find no viſion from the Lord.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion ſit upon the ground, and keep ſilence: they have caſt up duſt upon their heads; they have girded themſelves with ſackcloth: the virgins of Jeruſalem hang down their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes do fail with tears, my bowels are troubled, my liver is poured upon the earth, for the deſtruction of the daughter of my people; becauſe the children and the ſucklings ſwoon in the ſtreets of the city.

12 They ſay to their mothers, Where is corn and wine? when they ſwooned as the wounded in the ſtreets of the city, when their ſoul was poured out into their mother's boſom.

13 What thing ſhall I take to witneſs for thee? what thing ſhall I liken to thee, O daughter of Jeruſalem? what ſhall I equal to thee that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for thy breach is great like the ſea: who can heal thee?

14 Thy prophets have ſeen vain and fooliſh things for thee: and they have not diſcovered thine iniquity, to turn away thy captivity: but have ſeen for thee falſe burdens and cauſes of baniſhment.

15 All that paſs by clap their hands at thee: they hiſs and wag their head at the daughter of Jeruſalem, ſaying, Is this the city that men call The Perfection of beauty, The Joy of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth againſt thee: they hiſs and gnaſh the teeth: they ſay, We have ſwallowed her up: certainly this is the day that we looked for; we have found, we have ſeen it.

17 The Lord hath done that which he hath deviſed, he hath fulfilled his word that he had commanded in the days of old: he hath thrown down, and hath not pitied: and he hath cauſed thine enemy to rejoice over thee, he hath ſet up the horn of thine adverſaries.

18 Their heart cried unto the Lord, O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears run down like a river day and night; give thyſelf no reſt; let not the apple of thine eye ceaſe.

19 Ariſe, cry out in the night; in the beginning of the watches pour out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord: lift up thy hands toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the top of every ſtreet.

20 ¶ Behold, O Lord, and conſider to whom thou haſt

21 Thou wilt bring the day that thou haſt called, &c.) The day when thou wilt execute thy judgments upon the Babylonians will certainly come at the time thou haſt appointed for that purpoſe.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 And remembered not his footſtool in the day of his anger!) And even ſpared not the ark itſelf, the footſtool of the Shechinah, which ſat between the cherubims as on a throne.

14 Falſe burdens, &c.) The word, tranſlated falſe burdens, ſignifies likewiſe prophecy in general; for Jeremiah here complains of thoſe impoſtors who propheſied peace, and ſoothed men in their ſins, to their final deſtruction.

15 Is this the city that men call the perfection of beauty, the joy of the whole earth?) Jeruſalem was the metropolis of the Jewiſh nation, and highly valued by them for the magnificence of their temple, and the preſence of the true God there; whither the whole nation reſorted to celebrate their ſolemn feſtivals, which were obſerved with all the magnificence of a religious joy. Their being deprived of theſe ornaments, gave occaſion to their enemies to inſult them in their diſtreſs.

haſt done this. Shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a ſpan long? ſhall the prieſt and the prophet be ſlain in the ſanctuary of the Lord?

21 The young and the old lie on the ground in the ſtreets: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the ſword: thou haſt ſlain them in the day of thine anger; thou haſt killed, and not pitied.

22 Thou haſt called as in a ſolemn day my terrors round about, ſo that in the day of the Lord's anger none eſcaped nor remained: thoſe that I have ſwaddled and brought up hath mine enemy conſumed.

CHAP. III.

The faithful bewail their calamity.

I AM the man that hath ſeen affliction by the rod of his wrath.

2 He hath led me and brought me into darkneſs, but not into light.

3 Surely againſt me is he turned; he turneth his hand againſt me all the day.

4 My fleſh and my ſkin hath he made old: he hath broken my bones.

5 He hath builded againſt me, and compaſſed me with gall and travail.

6 He hath ſet me in dark places, as they that be dead of old.

7 He hath hedged me about that I cannot get out: he hath made my chain heavy.

8 Alſo when I cry and ſhout, he ſhutteth out my prayer.

9 He hath incloſed my ways with hewn ſtone, he hath made my paths crooked.

10 He was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a lion in ſecret places.

11 He hath turned aſide my ways, and pulled me in pieces: he hath made me deſolate.

12 He hath bent his bow, and ſet me as a mark for the arrow.

13 He hath cauſed the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins.

14 I was a deriſion to all my people, and their ſong all the day.

15 He hath filled me with bitterneſs, he hath made me drunken with wormwood.

16 He hath alſo broken my teeth with gravel-ſtones, he hath covered me with aſhes.

17 And thou haſt removed my ſoul far off from peace: I forgat proſperity.

18 And I ſaid, My ſtrength and my hope is periſhed from the Lord:

19 Remembering mine affliction and my miſery, the wormwood and the gall.

20 My ſoul hath them ſtill in remembrance, and is humbled in me.

21 This I recal to my mind, therefore have I hope.

22 It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not conſumed, becauſe his compaſſions fail not.

23 They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulneſs.

24 The Lord is my portion, ſaith my ſoul; therefore will I hope in him.

25 The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the ſoul that ſeeketh him.

26 It is good that a man ſhould both hope and quietly wait for the ſalvation of the Lord.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.

28 He ſitteth alone and keepeth ſilence, becauſe he hath borne it upon him.

29 He putteth his mouth in the duſt, if ſo be there may be hope.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that ſmiteth him: he is filled full with reproach.

31 For the Lord will not caſt off for ever.

32 But though he cauſe grief, yet will he have compaſſion according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 For he doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men.

34 To cruſh under his feet all the priſoners of the earth,

35 To turn aſide the right of a man before the face of the Moſt High,

36 To ſubvert a man in his cauſe, the Lord approveth not.

37 Who is he that ſaith, and it cometh to paſs, when the Lord commandeth it not?

38 Out of the mouth of the Moſt High proceedeth not evil and good?

39 Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the puniſhment of his ſins?

40 Let us ſearch and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord.

41 Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens.

42 We have tranſgreſſed and have rebelled: thou haſt not pardoned.

43 Thou haſt covered with anger, and perſecuted us: thou haſt ſlain, thou haſt not pitied.

44 Thou haſt covered thyſelf with a cloud, that our prayer ſhould not paſs through.

45 Thou haſt made us as the off-ſcouring and refuſe in the midſt of the people.

46 All our enemies have opened their mouths againſt us.

47 Fear and a ſnare is come upon us, deſolation and deſtruction.

48 Mine eye runneth down with rivers of water for the deſtruction of the daughter of my people.

49 Mine eye trickleth down, and ceaſeth not, without any intermiſſion;

50 Till the Lord look down, and behold from heaven.

51 Mine eye affecteth mine heart, becauſe of all the daughters of my city.

20 Shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a ſpan long? &c.) Or, as the margin has it, ſwaddled with their hands. God thought proper to pour upon them that terrible judgment he had denounced againſt them, if they continued to provoke him, namely, that they ſhould eat the fleſh of their ſons and daughters.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

2 He hath led me, and brought me into darkneſs, but not into light.) Light is often uſed in ſcripture for happineſs or comfort, and darkneſs for affliction or miſery.

16 He hath alſo broken my teeth with gravel-ſtones, he hath covered me with aſhes.) In this and the preceding verſe, the prophet aggravates the calamities of his people, by ſuch expreſſions as imply that miſery and affliction are poured without meaſure upon the ſons of Jacob.

28 He ſitteth alone and keepeth ſilence, &c.) The diſcipline of affliction renders a man ſerious and thoughtful: it diſpoſes him to reflect upon himſelf and his ways, and inſtructs him to acquieſce in the deſigns of providence.

37 Who is he that ſaith, and it cometh to paſs, when the Lord commandeth it not?) The king of Babylon, and ſuch haughty tyrants, may boaſt of their power, as if it were equal to that of Omnipotence itſelf; but ſtill it is God's prerogative to bring to paſs whatever he pleaſes, without any ſtop or impediment, only by ſpeaking or declaring his purpoſe, that the thing ſhould be done, as he did at the creation of the world.

52 Mine enemies chaſed me ſore like a bird, without cauſe.

53 They have cut off my life in the dungeon, and caſt a ſtone upon me.

54 Waters flowed over mine head; then I ſaid, I am cut off.

55 I called upon thy name, O Lord, out of the low dungeon.

56 Thou haſt heard my voice; hide not thine ear at my breathing, at my cry.

57 Thou dreweſt near in the day that I called upon thee: thou ſaidſt, Fear not.

58 O Lord, thou haſt pleaded the cauſes of my ſoul: thou haſt redeemed my life.

59 O Lord thou haſt ſeen my wrong: judge thou my cauſe.

60 Thou haſt ſeen all their vengeance, and all their imaginations againſt me.

61 Thou haſt heard their reproach, O Lord, and all their imaginations againſt me;

62 The lips of thoſe that roſe up againſt me, and their device againſt me all the day.

63 Behold, their ſitting down, and their riſing up; I am their muſic.

64 Render unto them a recompence, O Lord, according to the work of their hands.

65 Give them ſorrow of heart, thy curſe unto them.

66 Perſecute and deſtroy them in anger from under the heavens of the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

1 Zion's pitiful eſtate bewailed. 13 She confeſſeth her ſins. 21 Edom threatened.

HOW is the gold become dim! how is the moſt fine gold changed! the ſtones of the ſanctuary are poured out in the top of every ſtreet.

2 The precious ſons of Zion, comparable to fine gold, how are they eſteemed as earthen pitchers, the work of the hands of the potter!

3 Even the ſea-monſters draw out the breaſt, they give ſuch to their young ones: the daughter of my people is become cruel, like the oſtriches in the wilderneſs.

4 The tongue of the ſucking child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirſt; the young children aſk bread, and no man breaketh it unto them.

5 They that did feed delicately are deſolate in the ſtreets; they that were brought up in ſcarlet embrace dung-hills.

6 For the puniſhment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people is greater than the puniſhment of the ſin of Sodom, that was overthrown as in a moment, and no hands ſtayed on her.

7 Her Nazarites were purer than ſnow, they were whiter than milk, they were more ruddy in body than rubies, their poliſhing was of ſapphire:

8 Their viſage is blacker than a coal; they are not known in the ſtreets: their ſkin cleaveth to their bones; it is withered, it is become like a ſtick.

9 They that be ſlain with the ſword are better than they that be ſlain with hunger: for theſe pine away, ſtricken through for want of the fruits of the field.

10 The hands of the pitiful women have ſodden their own children, they were their meat in the deſtruction of the daughter of my people.

11 The Lord hath accompliſhed his fury; he hath poured out his fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof.

12 The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world, would not have believed that the adverſary and the enemy ſhould have entered into the gates of Jeruſalem.

13 ¶ For the ſins of her prophets, and the iniquities of her prieſts, that have ſhed the blood of the juſt in the midſt of her;

14 They have wandered as blind men in the ſtreets, they have polluted themſelves with blood, ſo that men could not touch their garments.

15 They cried unto them, Depart ye; it is unclean; depart, depart, touch not: when they fled away and wandered, they ſaid among the heathen, They ſhall no more ſojourn there.

16 The anger of the Lord hath divided them; he will no more regard them: they reſpected not the perſons of the prieſts, they favoured not the elders.

17 As for us, our eyes as yet failed for our vain help: in our watching we have watched for a nation that could not ſave us.

18 They hunt our ſteps, that we cannot go in our ſtreets: our end is near, our days are fulfilled; for our end is come.

19 Our perſecutors are ſwifter than the eagles of the heaven: they purſued us upon the mountains, they laid wait for us in the wilderneſs.

20 The breath of our noſtrils, the anointed of the Lord, was taken in their pits, of whom we ſaid, Under his ſhadow we ſhall live among the heathen.

21 ¶ Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, that dwelleſt in the land of Uz: the cup alſo ſhall paſs through unto thee; thou ſhalt be drunken, and ſhalt make thyſelf naked.

22 The puniſhment of thine iniquity is accompliſhed, O daughter of Zion; he will no more carry thee away into captivity: he will viſit thine iniquity, O daughter of Edom; he will diſcover thy ſins.

52 Mine enemies chaſed me ſore like a bird without cauſe.) The prophet, in this and the following verſes, deſcribes his own ſufferings, when his enemies ſeized him, and caſt him into the dungeon. He compared them to a fowler who is in purſuit of a bird, as they, like him, took every opportunity of depriving him of his life or liberty, and even without any provocation on his part.

63 I am their muſic.) The object of their ſcorn and deriſion.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 How is the gold become dim! &c.) How is the glory of the temple obſcured! The ſanctuary, which was overlaid with gold, now lies in ruins; and the ſtones of it blended with the rubbiſh in one common heap of confuſion. The prieſts and Levites alſo who conſtantly attended on the ſervice of the Almighty, and the elders of the people, who kept their court within the precincts of the temple; theſe reverend perſons, who might be reſembled to the pillars or corner-ſtones of the ſacred building, are now involved in the ſame deſtruction with the meaneſt of the people.

2 The precious ſons of Zion, comparable to fine gold, how are they eſteemed as earthen pitchers! &c.) Thoſe that in honour and worth exceeded the common people, as much as gold doth earthen-ware, now lie undiſguiſed in one promiſcuous heap of carnage.

12 The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed, &c.) Jeruſalem was ſo ſtrongly fortified, both by art and nature, and had been ſo often miraculouſly preſerved by God from the attempts of its enemies, that there was not the leaſt reaſon to believe it would fall into their hands.

19 Our perſecutors are ſwifter than the eagles of the heaven, &c.) God hath brought upon us the judgment he threatened to Moſes, of bringing a nation againſt us as ſwift as the eagle fleeth; for ſuch are the horſemen in the Chaldean army.

21 Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, &c.) An ironical expreſſion like that of Solomon, Rejoice O young man, &c.

CHAP. V.

A pitiful complaint of Zion in prayer to God.

REMEMBER, O Lord, what is come upon us: conſider and behold our reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to ſtrangers, our houſes to aliens.

3 We are orphans and fatherleſs, our mothers are as widows.

4 We have drunken our water for money: our wood is ſold unto us.

5 Our necks are under perſecution: we labour and have no reſt.

6 We have given the hand to the Egyptians, and to the Aſſyrians, to be ſatisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers have ſinned, and are not, and we have borne their iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us: there is none that doth deliver us out of their hand.

9 We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, becauſe of the ſword of the wilderneſs.

10 Our ſkin was black like an oven, becauſe of the terrible famine.

11 They raviſhed the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah.

12 Princes are hanged up by their hand: the faces of elders were not honoured.

13 They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under the wood.

14 The elders have ceaſed from the gate, the young men from their muſic.

15 The joy of our heart is ceaſed: our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crown is fallen from our head: woe unto us that we have ſinned!

17 For this our heart is faint; for theſe things our eyes are dim.

18 Becauſe of the mountain of Zion which is deſolate, the foxes walk upon it.

19 Thou, O Lord, remaineſt for ever; thy throne from generation to generation.

20 Wherefore doſt thou forget us for ever, and forſake us ſo long time?

21 Turn thou us unto thee, O Lord, and we ſhall be turned; renew our days as of old.

22 But thou haſt utterly rejected us; thou art very wroth againſt us.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

1 Remember, O Lord, &c.) This chapter, in the vulgar Latin, is called The Prayer of Jeremiah, and contains a pathetical complaint to God of the miſerable condition of the Jews, both with reſpect to their ſpiritual and temporal ſtate.

6 We have given the hand, &c.) We have ſubmitted to the Egyptians.

16 The crown is fallen from our head, &c.) All our glory is at an end, together with the advantages of being thy people, and enjoying thy preſence amongſt us, by which we are diſtinguiſhed from the reſt of the world.

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET

E Z E K I E L.

THE ARGUMENT.

Ezekiel was the ſon of Buzi, of the houſe of Aaron. He was carried captive to Babylon with Jeconiah, and began to propheſy in the fifth year of that captivity, which is the æra he uſes in all his predictions. He continued to propheſy during twenty years, and was cotemporary with Jeremiah, who propheſied at the ſame time in Judea. He foretold a great number of events, particularly the deſtruction of the temple; the fatal cataſtrophe of thoſe who revolted from Babylon to Egypt; and, at laſt, the happy return of the Jews to their own land.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of Ezekiel's prophecy. 4 His viſion of four cherubims, 15 of four wheels, 26 and of the glory of God.

NOW it came to paſs in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the river of Chebar, that the heavens were opened, and I ſaw viſions of God.

2 In the fifth day of the month, which was the fifth year of king Jehoiachin's captivity.

3 The word of the Lord came expreſsly unto Ezekiel the prieſt, the ſon of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar: and the hand of the Lord was there upon him.

4 ¶ And I looked, and behold a whirlwind came out of the north, a great cloud, and a fire infolding itſelf, and a brightneſs was about it, and out of the midſt thereof as the colour of amber, out of the midſt of the fire.

5 Alſo out of the midſt thereof came the likeneſs of four living creatures. And this was their appearance; they had the likeneſs of a man.

6 And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings.

7 And their feet were ſtraight feet; and the ſole of their feet was like the ſole of a calf's foot: and they ſparkled like the colour of burniſhed braſs.

8 And they had the hands of a man under their wings on their four ſides; and they four had their faces and their wings.

9 Their wings were joined one to another; they turned not when they went; they went every one ſtraight forward.

10 As for the likeneſs of their faces, they four had the face of a man, and the face of a lion, on the right ſide; and they four had the face of an ox on the left ſide; they four alſo had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces; and their wings were ſtretched upward; two wings of every one were joined one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And they went every one ſtraight forward: whither the ſpirit was to go, they went; and they turned not when they went.

13 As for the likeneſs of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps; it went up and down among the living creatures; and the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

4 And I looked, and behold, a whirlwind came out of the north.) God's anger and judgments are often compared to a whirlwind, and this whirlwind is here repreſented as coming out of the north, becauſe Babylon lay to the northward of Jeruſalem.

A great cloud, and a fire infolding itſelf, and a brightneſs was about it, &c.) The divine preſence is uſually repreſented in ſcripture as a bright light, or flaming fire breaking out of a thick cloud. God is alſo deſcribed as a conſuming fire, when he comes to execute his judgment upon ſinners.

6 Every one had four faces, &c.) Theſe were the faces of a man, a lion, an ox, and an eagle; which were the figures of the ſtandards of the four principal tribes. The lion is the moſt noble among wild beaſts; the ox among beaſts of labour; the eagle among birds; and man is God's maſter-piece. And if it be true, as is pretended, that the cherubims which God ordered to be put over the ark had the figures of theſe four ſtandards about them, then was the ark truly and literally a military chariot, in which God, as general of his armies, fought againſt his enemies: and this is the explanation of this ſo difficult, but magnificent a viſion. For God being inviſible, under what form more worthy of him could he ſhew himſelf, than under that of a warrior, who has an equal ſhare of ſtrength, prudence, addreſs, and underſtanding, whom none can reſiſt, from whom nothing is hid, who is every where preſent, and marches with extreme expedition wherever he pleaſes? Thus did theſe cherubims repreſent the four beaſts, and therefore the virtues before-mentioned; and the whole viſion was a ſtrong and lively repreſentation of the majeſty and power of God, under the appearance of a warrior in a triumphal chariot.

13 Their appearance was like burning coals of fire, &c.) The angels are always deſcribed of a bright and flaming colour; but here the coals of fire, and the lightning breaking forth out of the fire, denote God's flaming vengeance coming to deſtroy the temple of Jeruſalem.

14 And the living creatures ran, and returned, as the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15 ¶ Now, as I beheld the living creatures, behold, one wheel upon the earth by the living creatures, with his four faces.

16 The appearance of the wheels and their work was like unto the colour of a beryl; and they four had one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the middle of a wheel.

17 When they went, they went upon their four sides; and they turned not when they went.

18 As for their rings, they were so high that they were dreadful; and their rings were full of eyes round about them four.

19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels went by them; and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up.

20 Whithersoever the spirit was to go they went, thither was their spirit to go; and the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels.

21 When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels.

22 And the likeness of the firmament upon the heads of the living creature was as the colour of the terrible crystal, stretched forth over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other: every one had two, which covered on this side, and every one had two, which covered on that side, their bodies.

24 And when they went I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of great waters, as the voice of the Almighty, the voice of speech as the noise of an host: when they stood they let down their wings.

25 And there was a voice from the firmament that was over their heads when they stood, and had let down their wings.

26 ¶ And above the firmament that was over their heads was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of a sapphire-stone: and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as the appearance of a man above upon it.

27 And I saw as the colour of amber, as the appearance of fire round about within it; from the appearance of his loins even upward, and from the appearance of his loins even downward, I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and it had brightness round about.

28 As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.

CHAP. II.

1 Ezekiel's commission. 6 His instruction. 9 The roll of his heavy prophecy.

AND he said unto me, Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak unto thee.

2 And the spirit entered into me when he spake unto me, and set me upon my feet, that I heard him that spake unto me.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against me: they and their fathers have transgressed against me even unto this very day.

4 For they are impudent children and stiff-hearted: I do send thee unto them: and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God.

5 And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, for they are a rebellious house, yet shall know that there hath been a prophet among them.

6 ¶ And thou, son of man, be not afraid of them, neither be afraid of their words, though briers and thorns be with thee, and thou dost dwell among scorpions: be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, though they be a rebellious house.

7 And thou shalt speak my words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear: for they are most rebellious.

8 But thou, son of man, hear what I say unto thee; Be not thou rebellious like that rebellious house, open thy mouth; and eat that I give thee.

9 ¶ And when I looked, behold an hand was sent unto me; and lo, a roll of a book was therein.

10 And he spread it before me; and it was written within and without; and there was written therein lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

16 Their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the middle of a wheel.) As it were one wheel put across within another, like two circles in a sphere cutting each other at right angles, to signify the stability and uniformity of their motion, and the subserviency of one part of providence to another.

18 As for their rings, they were so high, that they were dreadful, &c.) Their circumference was so prodigious, as to cause a terror in the prophet who beheld them, to signify the vast compass of providence, which reacheth from one end of the earth to the other.

26 And upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as the appearance of a man above upon it.) When Moses and the elders saw the God of Israel, or the glory of God, as the Targum explains it, they saw no determinate figure, but an inconceivably resplendant brightness, that they might not think God could be represented by any image. But in this vision, the form and shape of a man is directly represented to Ezekiel, as a preludium or figure of the incarnation.

28 As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud, &c.) The light reflected from this vision had the appearance of a rainbow, a token of God's benevolent covenant with the sons of men, to denote that the Almighty, in the midst of justice, would remember mercy, and not utterly destroy his people, especially as this vision was an evident representation of the word that was to be made flesh, whose incarnation is the basis of God's covenant and mercy with mankind. A rainbow, the symbol and token of mercy, was a very proper attendant on that glorious vision.

Commentary on Chap. II.

1 And he said unto me, Son of man, &c.) This expression is commonly understood to signify the same with a common and ordinary man, as it is usually expounded in the following text of the Psalmist, What is man that thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that thou visitest him? Psal. viii. 4. So here most commentators understand it as applied to the prophet, to remind him of his frailty and mortality, and of the infinite distance between God and man. In which sense it is supposed to be taken when applied to Christ in the New Testament, signifying his great humility in assuming our nature, and appear no otherwise than as an ordinary man. But some critics have observed that the phrase, Son of man, is also used to imply a man of dignity or character. And there is no incongruity in supposing that Christ may be stiled Son of man, by way of eminence, as a title denoting him to be that great person whom God promised to raise up to be a prince and a saviour to his people. In the same manner, the title, Son of man, may be here given to the prophet, as one set apart for the prophetical office.

8 Open thy mouth, and eat that I give thee.) The knowledge of divine truths is often expressed by the metaphors of bodily food and nourishment; and therefore to eat the words of this prophecy, signifies to commit them to memory, to meditate upon them, and digest them.

10 And there was written therein lamentations, and mourning and woe.) All the prophecies contained in this roll consisted of God's judgments and mournful events, without any mixture of mercy, at least with regard to the people then alive.

CHAP. III.

1 Ezekiel eateth the roll. 15 God ſheweth him the rule of prophecy, 22 and ſhutteth and openeth the prophet's mouth.

MOREOVER he ſaid unto me, Son of man, eat that thou findeſt; eat this roll, and go ſpeak unto the houſe of Iſrael.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he cauſed me to eat that roll.

3 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, cauſe thy belly to eat, and fill thy bowels with this roll that I give thee. Then did I eat it; and it was in my mouth as honey for ſweetneſs.

4 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, go get thee unto the houſe of Iſrael, and ſpeak with my words unto them.

5 For thou art not ſent to a people of a ſtrange ſpeech, and of an hard language, but to the houſe of Iſrael;

6 Not to many people of a ſtrange ſpeech and of an hard language, whoſe words thou canſt not underſtand. Surely had I ſent thee to them, they would have hearkened unto thee.

7 But the houſe of Iſrael will not hearken unto thee; for they will not hearken unto me: for all the houſe of Iſrael are impudent and hard-hearted.

8 Behold, I have made thy face ſtrong againſt their faces, and thy forehead ſtrong againſt their foreheads.

9 As an adamant harder than flint have I made thy forehead: fear them not, neither be diſmayed at their looks, though they be a rebellious houſe.

10 Moreover, he ſaid unto me, Son of man, all my words that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, receive in thine heart, and hear with thine ears.

11 And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and ſpeak unto them, and tell them, Thus ſaith the Lord God; whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.

12 Then the ſpirit took me up, and I heard behind me a voice of a great ruſhing, ſaying, Bleſſed be the glory of the Lord from his place.

13 I heard alſo the noiſe of the wings of the living creatures that touched one another, and the noiſe of the wheels over againſt them, and a noiſe of a great ruſhing.

14 So the ſpirit liſted me up, and took me away, and I went in bitterneſs in the heat of my ſpirit; but the hand of the Lord was ſtrong upon me.

15 ¶ Then I came to them of the captivity at Telabib, that dwelt by the river of Chebar, and I ſat where they ſat, and remained there aſtoniſhed among them ſeven days.

16 And it came to paſs at the end of ſeven days, that the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying, 17 Son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the houſe of Iſrael: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me.

18 When I ſay unto the wicked, Thou ſhalt ſurely die; and thou giveſt him not warning, nor ſpeakeſt to warn the wicked from his wicked way to ſave his life; the ſame wicked man ſhall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedneſs, nor from his wicked way, he ſhall die in his iniquity but thou haſt delivered thy ſoul.

20 Again, when a righteous man doth turn from his righteouſneſs, and commit iniquity, and I lay a ſtumbling-block before him he ſhall die; becauſe thou haſt not given him warning, he ſhall die in his ſin, and his righteouſneſs which he hath done ſhall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Nevertheleſs, if thou warn the righteous man that the righteous ſin not, and he doth not ſin, he ſhall ſurely live, becauſe he is warned; alſo thou haſt delivered thy ſoul.

22 ¶ And the hand of the Lord was there upon me; and he ſaid unto me, Ariſe, go forth into the plain, and I will there talk with thee.

23 Then I aroſe and went forth into the plain: and behold, the glory of the Lord ſtood there, as the glory which I ſaw by the river of Chebar; and I fell on my face.

24 Then the ſpirit entered into me, and ſet me upon my feet, and ſpake with me, and ſaid unto me, Go, ſhut thyſelf within thine houſe.

25 But thou, O ſon of man, behold, they ſhall put bands upon thee, and ſhall bind thee with them, and thou ſhalt not go out among them:

26 And I will make thy tongue cleave to the roof of thy mouth, that thou ſhalt be dumb, and ſhalt not be to them a reprover: for they are a rebellious houſe.

27 But when I ſpeak with thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him hear; and he that forbeareth let him forbear; for they are a rebellious houſe.

CHAP. IV.

By the type of a ſiege is ſhewed the time from Jeroboam's deſection to the captivity.

THOU alſo, ſon of man, take thee a tile, and lay it before thee, and pourtray upon it the city, even Jeruſalem:

2 And lay ſiege againſt it, and build a fort againſt it, and caſt a mount againſt it; ſet the camp alſo againſt it, and ſet battering-rams againſt it round about.

3 Moreover, take thou unto thee an iron pan, and ſet it for a wall of iron between thee and the city: and ſet thy face againſt it, and it ſhall be beſieged, and thou ſhalt lay ſiege againſt it. This ſhall be a ſign to the houſe of Iſrael.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

3 It was in my mouth as honey for ſweetneſs.) I took delight in having God's ſecret counſels communicated to me, and delivering his commands to my brethren, being pleaſed with the hopes of proving an inſtrument of their converſion, at leaſt of the amendment of ſome. But this pleaſure was greatly leſſened, when I underſtood that I was to be a meſſenger of heavy tidings, and expect ill treatment from the ſons of Jacob.

12 Bleſſed be the glory of the Lord from his place.) Whatever place God honours with his eſpecial preſence is equivalent to his temple; and there the angels always attend upon his divine majeſty, to give him the honour due unto his name. The words imply, that though God ſhould forſake his temple, and deſtroy the place called by his name, yet his preſence will render any ſpot a temple, and multitudes of the heavenly hoſts will be always ready to do him ſervice.

27 He that heareth, let him hear, &c.) This is the ſum of what thou ſhalt ſay unto them, to let them know this is the laſt warning God will give them: let them therefore either give heed to what is ſaid to them, or neglect it at their utmoſt peril.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 Take thee a tile, and lay it before thee, &c.) The prophets often foreſhew impending judgments by ſignificative emblems, as being of greater force and efficacy than words. Accordingly God here commands the prophet to take a tile or ſlate, and on it delineate Jeruſalem ſurrounded by armies.

4 Lie thou alſo upon thy left ſide, and lay the iniquity of the houſe Iſrael upon it: according to the number of the days that thou ſhalt lie upon it thou ſhalt bear their iniquity.

5 For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days: ſo ſhalt thou bear the iniquity of the houſe of Iſrael.

6 And when thou haſt accompliſhed them, lie again on thy right ſide, and thou ſhalt bear the iniquity of the houſe of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee each day for a year.

7 Therefore thou ſhalt ſet thy face toward the ſiege of Jeruſalem, and thine arm ſhall be uncovered, and thou ſhalt propheſy againſt it.

8 And, behold, I will lay bands upon thee, and thou ſhalt not turn thee from one ſide to another, till thou haſt ended the days of thy ſiege.

9 Take thou alſo unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one veſſel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou ſhalt lie upon thy ſide; three hundred and ninety days ſhalt thou eat thereof.

10 And thy meat which thou ſhalt eat ſhall be by weight, twenty ſhekels a-day: from time to time ſhalt thou eat it.

11 Thou ſhalt drink alſo water by meaſure, the ſixth part of an hin: from time to time ſhalt thou drink.

12 And thou ſhalt eat it as barley-cakes, and thou ſhalt bake it with dung that cometh out of man in their ſight.

13 And the Lord ſaid, Even thus ſhall the children of Iſrael eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will drive them.

14 Then ſaid I, Ah Lord God! behold, my ſoul hath not been polluted; for from my youth up, even till now, have I not eaten of that which dieth of itſelf, or is torn in pieces; neither came there abominable fleſh into my mouth.

15 Then he ſaid unto me, Lo, I have given thee cow's dung for man's dung, and thou ſhalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover, he ſaid unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break the ſtaff of bread in Jeruſalem; and they ſhall eat bread by weight, and with care; and they ſhall drink water by meaſure, and with aſtoniſhment:

17 That they may want bread and water, and be aſtonied one with another, and conſume away for their iniquity.

CHAP. V.

1 Under the type of hair, 5 is ſhewed the judgment of Jeruſalem for their rebellion, 12 by famine, ſword and diſperſion.

AND thou, ſon of man, take thee a ſharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cauſe it to paſs upon thine head and upon thy beard; then take thee balances to weigh and divide the hair.

2 Thou ſhalt burn with fire a third part in the midſt of the city when the days of the ſiege are fulfilled; and thou ſhalt take a third part, and ſmite about it with a knife; and a third part thou ſhalt ſcatter in the wind; and I will draw out a ſword after them.

3 Thou ſhalt alſo take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy ſkirts.

4 Then take of them again, and caſt them into the midſt of the fire and burn them in the fire: for thereof ſhall a fire come forth into all the houſe of Iſrael.

5 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, This is Jeruſalem: I have ſet it in the midſt of the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And ſhe hath changed my judgments into wickedneſs more than the nations, and my ſtatutes more than the countries that are round about her: for they have refuſed my judgments, and my ſtatutes, they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye multiplied more than the nations that are round about you, and have not walked in my ſtatutes, neither have kept my judgments, neither have done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you;

8 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I, am againſt thee, and will execute judgments in the midſt of thee, in the ſight of the nations.

9 And I will do in thee that which I have not done, and whereunto I will not do any more the like; becauſe of all thine abominations.

10 Therefore the fathers ſhall eat the ſons in the midſt of thee, and the ſons ſhall eat their fathers: and I will execute judgments in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I ſcatter into all the winds.

11 Wherefore as I live, ſaith the Lord God, Surely, becauſe thou haſt defiled my ſanctuary with all thy deteſtable things, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I alſo diminiſh thee; neither ſhall mine eye ſpare, neither will I have any pity.

12 ¶ A third part of thee ſhall die with the peſtilence, and with famine ſhall they be conſumed in the midſt of thee: and a third part ſhall fall by the ſword round about thee; and I will ſcatter a third part into all the winds, and I will draw out a ſword after them.

13 Thus ſhall mine anger be accompliſhed, and I will cauſe my fury to reſt upon them, and I will be comforted: and they ſhall know that I the Lord have ſpoken it in my zeal, when I have accompliſhed my fury in them.

14 Moreover, I will make thee waſte, and a reproach among the nations that are round about thee, in the ſight of all that paſs by.

15 So it ſhall be a reproach and a taunt, an inſtruc-

5 Three hundred and ninety days, &c.) That is, Years; and beginning probably from Jeroboam's firſt ſetting up the idolatrous worſhip of the golden calves, to the laſt captivity of the Jews in the 23d year of Nebuchadrezzar's reign.

7 And thine arm ſhall be uncovered, &c.) The habits of the ancients were ſo contrived, that the right hand was diſengaged from the upper garments, that they might be the more ready for action.

13 Even thus ſhall the children of Iſrael eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, &c.) The circumſtances of their captivity ſhall not permit them to obſerve the rules relating to unclean meats; nay, they will be forced to partake of that which has been offered unto idols.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

5 This is Jeruſalem: I have ſet it in the midſt of the nations, &c.) This Jeruſalem thou now propheſieſt againſt was placed in the midſt of heathen nations; it made a figure among them on account of my temple, and the viſible tokens of my preſence there. It was a city erected on my holy mountain, on purpoſe that it might be to them a pattern of religion and virtue.

10 And the whole remnant of thee will I ſcatter into all the winds.) This judgment was alſo threatened by Moſes, and is remarkably fulfilled in their laſt diſperſion, when every known part of the world hath ſome of them, and yet they live every where like ſtrangers, having no place they can call their own.

13 And I will be comforted, &c.) This and the following expreſſions are borrowed from the paſſions of men, who find ſome eaſe and reſt in their minds upon their venting them, and bringing offenders to condign puniſhment: ſo the Almighty is here deſcribed as feeling ſome eaſe and ſatisfaction in executing his juſtice upon obſtinate and incorrigible ſinners.

tion and an aſtoniſhment unto the nations that are round about thee, when I ſhall execute judgments in thee, in anger, and in fury, and in furious rebukes. I the Lord have ſpoken it.

16 When I ſhall ſend upon them the evil arrows of famine, which ſhall be for their deſtruction, and which I will ſend to deſtroy you: and I will increaſe the famine upon you, and will break your ſtaff of bread;

17 So will I ſend upon you famine, and evil beaſts: and they ſhall bereave thee; and peſtilence and blood ſhall paſs through thee: and I will bring the ſword upon thee. I the Lord have ſpoken it.

CHAP. VI.

1 The judgment of Iſrael for their idolatry. 8 A remnant ſhall be ſaved. 11 The faithful are exhorted to lament their calamities.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,
2 Son of man, ſet thy face toward the mountains of Iſrael, and propheſy againſt them,

3 And ſay, Ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord God: Thus ſaith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, behold I, even I, will bring a ſword upon you, and I will deſtroy your high places:

4 And your altars ſhall be deſolate, and your images ſhall be broken; and I will caſt down your ſlain men before your idols.

5 And I will lay the dead carcaſes of the children of Iſrael before their idols; and I will ſcatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling-places the cities ſhall be laid waſte, and the high places ſhall be deſolate; that your altars may be laid waſte and made deſolate, and your idols may be broken and ceaſe, and your images may be cut down, and your works may be aboliſhed.

7 And the ſlain ſhall fall in the midſt of you; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

8 ¶ Yet will I leave a remnant, that ye may have ſome that ſhall eſcape the ſword among the nations, when ye ſhall be ſcattered through the countries.

9 And they that eſcape of you ſhall remember me among the nations, whither they ſhall be carried captives, becauſe I am broken with their whoriſh heart, which hath departed from me, and with their eyes, which go a whoring after their idols: and they ſhall loathe themſelves for the evils which they have committed in all their abominations.

10 And they ſhall know that I am the Lord, and that I have not ſaid in vain that I would do this evil unto them.

11 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, Smite with thine hand, and ſtamp with thy foot, and ſay, Alas, for all the evil abominations of the houſe of Iſrael! for they ſhall fall by the ſword, by the famine, and by the peſtilence.

12 He that is far off ſhall die of the peſtilence; and he that is near ſhall fall by the ſword; and he that remaineth and is beſieged ſhall die by the famine: thus will I accompliſh my fury upon them.

13 Then ſhall ye know that I am the Lord, when their ſlain men ſhall be among their idols round about their altars, upon every high hill, in all the tops of the mountains, and under every green tree, and under every thick oak, the place where they did offer ſweet ſavour to all their idols.

14 So will I ſtretch out my hand upon them, and make the land deſolate; yea, more deſolate than the wilderneſs toward Diblath, in all their habitations; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

1 Iſrael's final deſolation. 16 The mournful repentance of them that eſcape. 23 Under the type of a chain is ſhewed their miſerable captivity.

MOREOVER, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Alſo thou ſon of man, thus ſaith the Lord God unto the land of Iſrael, An end, the end is come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come upon thee, and I will ſend mine anger upon thee, and will judge thee according to thy ways, and will recompenſe upon thee all thine abominations.

4 And mine eye ſhall not ſpare thee, neither will I have pity: but I will recompenſe thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations ſhall be in the midſt of thee; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord God, An evil, an only evil, behold, is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come: it watcheth for thee; behold, it is come.

7 The morning is come unto thee, O thou that dwelleſt in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the ſounding again of the mountains.

8 Now will I ſhortly pour out my fury upon thee, and accompliſh mine anger upon thee, and I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will recompenſe thee for all thine abominations.

9 And mine eye ſhall not ſpare, neither will I have pity: I will recompenſe thee according to thy ways, and thine abominations that are in the midſt of thee: and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord that ſmiteth.

10 Behold the day, behold it is come: the morning is gone forth; the rod hath bloſſomed, pride hath budded.

11 Violence is riſen up into a rod of wickedneſs: none of them ſhall remain, nor of their multitude, nor of any of theirs; neither ſhall there be wailing for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer rejoice, nor the ſeller mourn: for wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

17 And peſtilence and blood ſhall paſs through thee, &c.) Blood ſignifies any unuſual ſort of death, and denotes here ſuch a peſtilence as ſhall deſtroy multitudes.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, &c.) Every part of the country had been defiled with idolatry: the altars built for idol-worſhip were generally placed upon mountains and hills; the ſhady vallies and banks of the rivers were alſo uſed for the ſame purpoſe, particularly for that inhuman rite, the ſacrificing of children to Moloch. Accordingly the prophet denounces a general judgment againſt the whole country.

9 I am broken with their whoriſh heart, &c.) God is here introduced as ſpeaking after the manner of men, whoſe patience is tired out by repeated provocations.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

5 An only evil, behold, is come, &c.) Such an evil as ſhall comprehend in it all other calamities.

7 And not the ſounding again of the mountains.) The ſound of war and tumults; not ſuch a joyful ſound as uſed to echo from the mountains, by which the treaders of grapes expreſſed their ſatisfaction at the time of vintage.

12 Let not the buyer rejoice, nor the ſeller mourn, &c.) The buyer will have no reaſon to rejoice, becauſe he will not enjoy what he hath purchaſed; nor the ſeller cauſe to mourn for the loſs of his poſſeſſions which the approaching captivity will for ever deprive him of.

13 For the ſeller ſhall not return to that which is ſold, although they were yet alive: for the viſion is touching the whole multitude thereof, which ſhall not return; neither ſhall any ſtrengthen himſelf in the iniquity of his life.

14 They have blown the trumpet, even to make all ready; but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

15 The ſword is without and the peſtilence and the famine within: he that is in the field ſhall die with the ſword; and he that is in the city, famine and peſtilence ſhall devour him.

16 ¶ But they that eſcape of them ſhall eſcape, and ſhall be on the mountains like doves of the vallies, all of them mourning, every one for his iniquity.

17 All hands ſhall be feeble, and all knees ſhall be weak as water.

18 They ſhall alſo gird themſelves with ſackcloth, and horror ſhall cover them; and ſhame ſhall be upon all faces, and baldneſs, upon all their heads.

19 They ſhall caſt their ſilver in the ſtreets, and their gold ſhall be removed: their ſilver and their gold ſhall not be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord: they ſhall not ſatisfy their ſouls, neither fill their bowels: becauſe it is the ſtumbling-block of their iniquity.

20 As for the beauty of his ornament he ſet it in majeſty: but they made the images of their abominations, and of their deteſtable things therein: therefore have I ſet it far from them.

21 And I will give it into the hands of the ſtrangers for a prey, and to the wicked of the earth for a ſpoil; and they ſhall pollute it.

22 My face will I turn alſo from them, and they ſhall pollute my ſecret place: for the robbers ſhall enter into it, and defile it.

23 ¶ Make a chain for the land is full of bloody crimes, and the city is full of violence.

24 Wherefore I will bring the worſt of the heathen, and they ſhall poſſeſs their houſes: I will alſo make the pomp of the ſtrong to ceaſe; and their holy places ſhall be defiled.

25 Deſtruction cometh: and they ſhall ſeek peace, and there ſhall be none.

26 Miſchief ſhall come upon miſchief, and rumour ſhall be upon rumour, then ſhall they ſeek a viſion of the prophet; but the law ſhall periſh from the prieſt, and counſel from the ancients.

27 The king ſhall mourn, and the prince ſhall be clothed with deſolation, and the hands of the people of the land ſhall be troubled: I will do unto them after their way, and according to their deſerts will I judge them: and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Ezekiel's viſion of jealouſy. 7 The chambers of imagery.

AND it came to paſs in the ſixth year, in the ſixth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I ſat in mine houſe, and the elders of Judah ſat before me, that the hand of the Lord God fell there upon me.

2 Then I beheld, and, lo, a likeneſs as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins, even downward, fire; and from his loins, even upward, as the appearance of brightneſs, as the colour of amber.

3 And he put forth the form of an hand, and took me by a lock of mine head, and the ſpirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me in the viſions of God to Jeruſalem, to the door of the inner gate that looketh toward the north, where was the ſeat of the image of jealouſy, which provoketh to jealouſy.

4 And, behold, the glory of the God of Iſrael was there, according to the viſion that I ſaw in the plain.

5 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now the way toward the north. So I lifted up mine eyes the way toward the north, and, behold, northward at the gate of the altar, this image of jealouſy in the entry.

6 He ſaid, furthermore, unto me, Son of man, ſeeſt thou what they do? even the great abominations that the houſe of Iſrael committeth here, that I ſhould go far off from my ſanctuary? but turn thee yet again, and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations.

7 ¶ And he brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, behold, a hole in the wall.

8 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall: and when I had digged in the wall, behold, a door.

9 And he ſaid unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in and ſaw; and, behold, every form of creeping things, and abominable beaſts, and all the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, pourtrayed upon the wall round about.

11 And there ſtood before them ſeventy men of the ancients of the houſe of Iſrael, and in the midſt of them ſtood Jaazaniah, the ſon of Shaphan, with every man his cenſer in his hand; and a thick cloud of incenſe went up.

12 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, haſt thou ſeen what the ancients of the houſe of Iſrael do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? for they ſay, The Lord ſeeth us not; the Lord hath forſaken the earth.

13 He ſaid alſo unto me, Turn thee yet again, and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations that they do.

14 Then he brought me to the door of the gate of the Lord's houſe which was toward the north; and, behold, there ſat women weeping for Tammuz.

15 ¶ Then ſaid he unto me, Haſt thou ſeen this, O ſon of man? Turn thee yet again, and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations than theſe.

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the

20 As for the beauty of his ornament, he ſet it in majeſty, &c.) This expreſſion relates to the glory and magnificence of the temple, called often the beauty of holineſs. This very place they have defiled with idolatry; therefore I have given it into the hand of the Gentiles, to profane and pollute it.

26 Law ſhall periſh from the prieſt, and counſel from the ancients.) Jeremiah, David, and himſelf, were carried into captivity. After which there was no prophet left among them favoured with divine revelation. By the word ancients is meant the elders, or men in authority, and famous for wiſdom, whoſe advice they aſked in all caſes of difficulty.

Commentary on Chap. VIII.

3 The ſpirit lifted me up—and brought me in the viſions of God to Jeruſalem.) This expreſſion, in the viſion of God, ſeems to indicate that all this repreſentation was performed only in a viſion; that is, by a lively repreſentation to the mind, as if the prophet had been perſonally preſent at Jeruſalem. But it may alſo ſignify a local tranſlation of the prophet from Chaldea to Jeruſalem.

Where was—the image of jealouſy, which provoketh to jealouſy.) An image ſet up within the preeincts of the temple, to provoke the Moſt High to jealouſy, by placing a rival againſt him, in the place dedicated to his own worſhip.

10 Abominable beaſts—pourtrayed upon the wall round about.) Pictures were as much prohibited by the law as carved images.

16 Their backs toward the temple—and their faces toward the eaſt, &c.) So they turned their backs to God, and their faces toward the ſun.

Lord's houſe, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the eaſt; and they worſhipped the ſun toward the eaſt.

17 Then he ſaid unto me, Haſt thou ſeen this, O ſon of man? Is it a light thing to the houſe of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger; and, lo, they put the branch to their noſe.

18 Therefore will I alſo deal in fury: mine eye ſhall not ſpare, neither will I have pity; and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them.

CHAP. IX.

1 A viſion whereby is ſhewed the preſervation of ſome, 5 and the deſtruction of the reſt. 8 God will not be intreated for them.

HE cried alſo in mine ears with a loud voice, ſaying, Cauſe them that have charge over the city to draw near, even every man with his deſtroying weapon in his hand.

2 And behold, ſix men came from the way of the higher gate, which lieth toward the north, and every man a ſlaughter-weapon in his hand; and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's ink-horn by his ſide: and they went in and ſtood beſide the braſen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Iſrael was gone up from the cherub whereupon he was, to the threſhold of the houſe. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's ink-horn by his ſide;

4 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Go thro' the midſt of the city, thro' the midſt of Jeruſalem, and ſet a mark upon the foreheads of the men that ſigh, and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midſt thereof.

5 ¶ And to the others he ſaid in mine hearing, Go ye after him through the city, and ſmite: let not your eyes ſpare, neither have ye pity.

6 Slay utterly old and young, both maids and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark: and begin at my ſanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the houſe.

7 And he ſaid unto them, Defile the houſe, and fill the courts with the ſlain: go ye forth. And they went forth, and ſlew in the city.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs while they were ſlaying them, and I was left, that I fell upon my face, and cried, and ſaid, Ah, Lord God! wilt thou deſtroy all the reſidue of Iſrael, in thy pouring out of thy fury upon Jeruſalem?

9 Then ſaid he unto me, The iniquity of the houſe of Iſrael and Judah is exceeding great, and the land is full of blood, and the city full of perverſeneſs: for they ſay, The Lord hath forſaken the earth: and, The Lord ſeeth not.

10 And as for me alſo, mine eye ſhall not ſpare, neither will I have pity, but I will recompenſe their way upon their head.

11 And behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the ink-horn by his ſide, reported the matter, ſaying, I have done as thou haſt commanded me.

CHAP. X.

1 The viſion of the coals of fire to be ſcattered over the city. 8 The viſion of the cherubims.

THEN I looked, and behold, in the firmament that was above the head of the cherubims, there appeared over them as it were a ſapphire ſtone, as the appearance of the likeneſs of a throne.

2 And he ſpake unto the man clothed with linen, and ſaid, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hand with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and ſcatter them over the city. And he went in in my ſight.

3 Now the cherubims ſtood on the right ſide of the houſe, when the man went in; and the cloud filled the inner court,

4 Then the glory of the Lord went up from the cherub, and ſtood over the threſhold of the houſe; and the houſe was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightneſs of the Lord's glory.

5 And the ſound of the cherubims' wings was heard even to the outer court, as the voice of the Almighty God when he ſpeaketh.

6 And it came to paſs that when he had commanded the man clothed with linen, ſaying, Take fire from between the wheels, from between the cherubims; then he went in and ſtood beſide the wheels.

7 And one cherub ſtretched forth his hand from between the cherubims unto the fire that was between the cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it, and went out.

8 ¶ And there appeared in the cherubims the form of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And when I looked, behold, the four wheels by the cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub; and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a beryl-ſtone.

10 And as for their appearances, they four had one likeneſs, as if a wheel had been in the midſt of a wheel.

11 When they went, they went upon their four ſides; they turned not as they went, but to the place whither the head looked they followed it; they turned not as they went.

12 And their whole body, and their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels, were full of eyes round about, even the wheels that they four had.

13 As for the wheels, it was cried unto them, in my hearing, O wheel.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

2 And one man among them was clothed with linen.) That is, an angel, who was to ſupply the place of the chief ſacrificing prieſt.

With a writer's ink-horn by his ſide, &c.) To ſet a mark upon thoſe who were to be ſaved from the common deſtruction.

8 And I was left, &c.) The prophet thought himſelf preſerved alone out of the common deſtruction, the ſlaughter was ſo great; although thoſe who had a mark in their forehead were certainly preſerved.

COMMENTARY on Chap. X.

2 Fill thine hand with coals of fire, &c.) This part of the viſion repreſented the burning of the city, which was accordingly done by the Chaldeans.

3 And the cloud filled the inner court.) This bright cloud ſeems to be an attendant upon that glory repreſented in this viſion to Ezekiel. But the words may be underſtood of the Shechinah removing from the inner ſanctuary, or holy of holies, and coming towards the door of the houſe.

13 It was cried unto them in my hearing, O wheel.) They were put in mind of continually attending upon their duty; for the wheels and living creature were animated with the ſame principle of underſtanding and motion.

14 And every one had four faces; the firſt face was the face of a cherub, and the ſecond face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubims were lifted up: this is the living creature that I ſaw by the river of Chebar.

16 And when the cherubims went, the wheels went by them; and when the cherubims lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the ſame wheels alſo turned not from beſide them:

17 When they ſtood, theſe ſtood: and when they were lifted up, theſe lifted up themſelves alſo: for the ſpirit of the living creature was in them.

18 Then the glory of the Lord departed from off the threſhold of the houſe, and ſtood over the cherubims.

19 And the cherubims lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my ſight: when they went out, the wheels alſo were beſide them: and every one ſtood at the door of the eaſt gate of the Lord's houſe: and the glory of the God of Iſrael was over them above.

20 This is the living creature that I ſaw under the God of Iſrael by the river of Chebar; and I knew that they were the cherubims.

21 Every one had four faces apiece, and every one four wings: and the likeneſs of the hands of a man was under their wings.

22 And the likeneſs of their faces was the ſame faces which I ſaw by the river of Chebar, their appearances, and themſelves: they went every one ſtraight forward.

CHAP. XI.

1 The princes preſumption: 4 their ſin and judgment. 14 God's purpoſe in ſaving a remnant, 21 and puniſhing the wicked.

MOREOVER, the ſpirit lifted me up, and brought me unto the eaſt gate of the Lord's houſe, which looketh eaſtward: and, behold, at the door of the gate five and twenty men; among whom I ſaw Jaazaniah, the ſon of Azur, and Pelatiah, the ſon of Benaiah, princes of the people.

2 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, theſe are the men that deviſe miſchief, and give wicked counſel, in this city;

3 Which ſay, It is not near; let us build houſes: this city is the caldron, and we be the fleſh.

4 ¶ Therefore propheſy againſt them, propheſy, O ſon of man.

5 And the ſpirit of the Lord fell upon me, and ſaid unto me, Speak; Thus ſaith the Lord, Thus have ye ſaid, O houſe of Iſrael: for I know the things that come into your mind, every one of them.

6 Ye have multiplied your ſlain in this city, and ye have filled the ſtreets thereof with the ſlain.

7 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Your ſlain, whom ye have laid in the midſt of it, they are the fleſh, and this city is the caldron; but I will bring you forth out of the midſt of it.

8 Ye have feared the ſword; and I will bring a ſword upon you, ſaith the Lord God.

9 And I will bring you out of the midſt thereof, and deliver you into the hands of ſtrangers, and will execute judgments among you.

10 Ye ſhall fall by the ſword: I will judge you in the border of Iſrael; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city ſhall not be your caldron, neither ſhall ye be the fleſh in the midſt thereof; but I will judge you in the border of Iſrael:

12 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord: for ye have not walked in my ſtatutes, neither executed my judgments, but have done after the manners of the heathen that are round about you.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs, when I propheſied, that Pelatiah, the ſon of Benaiah, died: then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and ſaid, Ah Lord God! wilt thou make a full end of the remnant of Iſrael?

14 ¶ Again the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

15 Son of man, thy brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the houſe of Iſrael wholly, are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jeruſalem have ſaid, Get ye far from the Lord: unto us is this land given in poſſeſſion.

16 Therefore ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Although I have caſt them far off among the heathen, and although I have ſcattered them among the countries, yet will I be to them as a little ſanctuary in the countries where they ſhall come.

17 Therefore ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will even gather you from the people, and aſſemble you out of the countries where ye have been ſcattered, and I will give you the land of Iſrael.

18 And they ſhall come thither, and they ſhall take away all the deteſtable things thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new ſpirit within you; and I will take the ſtony heart out of their fleſh, and will give them an heart of fleſh;

20 That they may walk in my ſtatutes, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: and they ſhall be my people, and I will be their God.

21 ¶ But as for them whoſe heart walketh after the heart of their deteſtable things and their abominations, I will recompenſe their way upon their own heads, ſaith the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did the cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels beſide them; and the glory of the God of Iſrael was over them above.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midſt of the city, and ſtood upon the mountain which is on the eaſt ſide of the city.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

3 This city is the caldron, and we be the fleſh.) Jeremiah foretold the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, under the metaphor of a ſeething-pot, and Ezekiel himſelf here uſes the ſame figure of ſpeech. Theſe infidels therefore made uſe of the ſame expreſſion, in order to deride the menaces of the prophets; as if they had ſaid, If this city be a caldron, we had rather take our chance in being conſumed in it, than leave our commodious habitations, and other advantages, and run the riſk of war and captivity.

16 Yet will I be to them as a little ſanctuary, &c.) The Jews were under the immediate protection of the Almighty, expreſſed in ſcripture, by dwelling under the ſhadow of his wings; alluding to the wings of the cherubims covering the mercy-ſeat, and denoting God's peculiar preſence among them, and protection over his people. To comfort thoſe, therefore, who were under a ſtate of exile and captivity, God tells them, that though they were deprived of the benefits of attending upon his ſanctuary, and being placed under the protection of his preſence there imported, yet he would ſupply that deficiency by being a conſtant refuge and defence to them in the countries where they were ſcattered.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midſt of the city, &c.) The preſence of the Almighty was before departed from the temple, and now it quite left the city, to ſignify that he would acknowledge no longer any relation to either, but deliver them up to be profaned by the heathens.

24 Afterwards

24 Afterwards the spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the spirit of God into Chaldea, to them of the captivity. So the vision that I had seen went up from me.

25 Then I spake unto them of the captivity all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

1 The type of Ezekiel's removing, 8 sheweth the captivity of Zedekiah. 17 Ezekiel's trembling sheweth the Jews desolation.

THE word of the Lord also came unto me, saying,
2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a rebellious house, which have eyes to see, and see not; they have ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore, thou son of man, prepare thee stuff for removing, and remove by day in their sight; and thou shalt remove from thy place to another place in their sight: it may be they will consider, though they be a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuff by day in their sight, as stuff for removing: and thou shalt go forth at even in their sight, as they that go forth into captivity.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou bear it upon thy shoulders, and carry it forth in the twilight: thou shalt cover thy face, that thou see not the ground; for I have set thee for a sign unto the house of Israel.

7 And I did so as I was commanded: I brought forth my stuff by day, as stuff for captivity, and in the even I digged through the wall with mine hand; I brought it forth in the twilight, and I bare it upon my shoulder in their sight.

8 ¶ And in the morning came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

9 Son of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said unto thee, What doest thou?

10 Say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This burden concerneth the prince in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them; they shall remove, and go into captivity.

12 And the prince that is among them shall bear upon his shoulder in the twilight, and shall go forth; they shall dig through the wall to carry out thereby: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net also will I spread upon him, and he shall be taken in my snare; and I will bring him to Babylon to the land of the Chaldeans: yet shall he not see it: though he shall die there.

14 And I will scatter toward every wind all that are about him to help him, and all his bands: and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countries.

16 But I will leave a few men of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the heathen whither they come; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

18 Son of man, eat thy bread with quaking, and drink thy water with trembling, and with carefulness.

19 And say unto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Jerusalem and of the land of Israel, They shall eat their bread with carefulness, and drink their water with astonishment, that the land may be desolate from all that is therein, because of the violence of all them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited shall be laid waste, and the land shall be desolate; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

22 Son of man, what is that proverb that ye have in the land of Israel, saying, The days are prolonged, and every vision faileth?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel; but say unto them, The days are at hand, and the effect of every vision.

24 For there shall be no more any vain vision nor flattering divination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the Lord: I will speak, and the word that I shall speak shall come to pass: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your days, O rebellious house, will I say the word, and will perform it, saith the Lord God.

26 ¶ Again the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

27 Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth is for many days to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are far off.

28 Therefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, There shall none of my words be prolonged any more, but the word which I have spoken shall be done, saith the Lord God.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

2 Thou dwellest in the midst of a rebellious house, &c.) The prophet applies himself to those of the captivity among whom he dwelt. They saw Jerusalem still inhabited, and under the government of its own king. So that they, who were left in the land of Canaan, insulted the exiles, who repined at their own unfortunate condition, thinking those who dwelt at Jerusalem in a much better condition than themselves. The following parables, therefore, are designed to shew that they who were left behind to sustain the miseries of a siege, and the insults of a conqueror, would be in a much worse condition than those who were already settled in a foreign land 13 Yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there.) That is, his eyes shall be put out before he arrives at Babylon, in which city he shall die. Accordingly he was brought before the king of Babylon in Riblah, where he passed sentence upon him, as one that had broken the oath and covenant he had made with him, and then putting out his eyes, carried him to Babylon, where he continued 'till death put at once a period to his life and miseries.

22 The days are prolonged, and every vision faileth?) This is spoken in the person of infidels, who turn the grace of God into wantonness, and take encouragement from his patience and long-suffering to despise his threatnings, as if they would never be executed.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

2 Say thou unto them that prophesy out of their own hearts, &c.) The true prophets often denounce God's judgments against the false ones; laying to their charge many misdemeanors in their private conversation, and upbraiding them severely for unfaithfulness in the office they undertook of guiding and directing men's consciences.

pheſy out of their own hearts, Hear ye the word of the Lord;

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Woe unto the fooliſh prophets that follow their own ſpirit, and have ſeen nothing!

4 O Iſrael, thy prophets are like the foxes in the deſerts.

5 Ye have not gone up into the gaps, neither made up the hedge for the houſe of Iſrael, to ſtand in the battle in the day of the Lord.

6 They have ſeen vanity and lying divination, ſaying, The Lord ſaith; and the Lord hath not ſent them: and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word.

7 Have ye not ſeen a vain viſion, and have ye not ſpoken a lying divination, whereas ye ſay, The Lord ſaith it; albeit, I have not ſpoken?

8 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye have ſpoken vanity, and ſeen lies, therefore behold, I am againſt you, ſaith the Lord God.

9 And mine hand ſhall be upon the prophets that ſee vanity, and that divine lies: they ſhall not be in the aſſembly of my people, neither ſhall they be written in the writing of the houſe of Iſrael; neither ſhall they enter into the land of Iſrael; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord God.

10 Becauſe, even becauſe they have ſeduced my people, ſaying, Peace, and there was no peace; and one built up a wall, and lo, others daubed it with untempered mortar:

11 Say unto them which daub it with untempered mortar, that it ſhall fall: there ſhall be an overflowing ſhower; and ye, O great hail-ſtones ſhall fall; and a ſtormy wind ſhall rend it.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, ſhall it not be ſaid unto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye have daubed it?

13 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I will even rend it with a ſtormy wind in my fury; and there ſhall be an overflowing ſhower in mine anger, and great hail-ſtones in my fury to conſume it.

14 So will I break down the wall that ye have daubed with untempered mortar, and bring it down to the ground, ſo that the foundation thereof ſhall be diſcovered, and it ſhall fall: and ye ſhall be conſumed in the midſt thereof, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accompliſh my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that have daubed it with untempered mortar, and will ſay unto you, The wall is no more, neither they that daubed it.

16 To wit, the prophets of Iſrael which propheſy concerning Jeruſalem, and which ſee viſions of peace for her, and there is no peace ſaith the Lord God.

17 ¶ Likewiſe, thou ſon of man, ſet thy face againſt the daughters of thy people, which propheſy out of their own heart, and propheſy thou againſt them.

18 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Woe to the women that ſew pillows to all arm-holes, and make kerchiefs upon the head of every ſtature to hunt ſouls! Will ye hunt the ſouls of my people, and will ye ſave the ſouls alive that come unto you?

19 And will ye pollute me among my people for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, to ſlay the ſouls that ſhould not die, and to ſave the ſouls alive that ſhould not live, by your lying to my people that hear your lies?

20 Wherefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I am againſt your pillows wherewith ye there hunt the ſouls to make them fly, and I will tear them from your arms, and will let the ſouls go, even the ſouls that ye hunt to make them fly.

21 Your kerchiefs alſo will I tear, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they ſhall be no more in your hand to be hunted; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

22 Becauſe with lies ye have made the heart of the righteous ſad, whom I have not made ſad: and ſtrengthened the hands of the wicked, that he ſhould not return from his wicked way, by promiſing him life;

23 Therefore ye ſhall ſee no more vanity, nor divine divinations: for I will deliver my people out of your hand; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

1 God anſwereth idolaters according to their own heart. 12 God's irrevocable ſentence. 22 A remnant ſhall be ſaved.

THEN came certain of the elders of Iſrael unto me, and ſat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

3 Son of man, theſe men have ſet up their idols in their heart, and put the ſtumbling-block of their iniquity before their face: ſhould I be enquired of at all by them?

4 Therefore ſpeak unto them, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Every man of the houſe of Iſrael that ſetteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the ſtumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the prophet, I the Lord will anſwer him that cometh according to the multitude of his idols;

5 That I may take the houſe of Iſrael in their own heart, becauſe they are all eſtranged from me through their idols.

6 Therefore ſay unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Repent, and turn yourſelves from your idols; and turn away your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtranger that ſojourneth in Iſrael, which ſeparateth

5 Ye have not gone up into the gaps, &c.) Or, ſtood in the gap, alluding to the interceſſion made by Moſes for the Iſraelites, whereby he with-held, as it were, the hand of the Almighty, when it was ſtretched out to take vengeance of the people for their enormous crime, for making the golden calf. In like manner it was the office and duty of theſe prophets, if they had really been what they pretended, to put a ſtop, by their prayers and interceſſions, to the vengeance of Omnipotence, when it was juſt ready to be poured out upon a ſinful people.

10 They have ſeduced my people, ſaying, Peace; and there was no peace, &c.) They have deceived my people, by telling them that none of thoſe judgments ſhould overtake them which Jeremiah and the other prophets threatened them with; but have ſpoken peace to the conſciences of men upon falſe grounds and principles.

17 Set thy face againſt the daughters of thy people, which propheſy, &c.) Direct thy diſcourſe againſt thoſe female pretenders to prophecy. Deborah and others were favoured with this gift, which made other women pretend to be inſpired in the ſame manner.

18 Woe to the women that ſew pillows to all arm-holes, &c.) As the prophet had before compared the deceitful practices of the falſe prophets to the daubing of a wall, ſo he repreſents the artifices of thoſe female ſeducers, by ſewing pillows to the elbows of their hearers, that they might reſt ſecurely in their evil ways.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

5 That I may take the houſe of Iſrael in their own heart, &c.) That I may deal with them according to their deſerts, and thereby convince them that I am a ſearcher of hearts, and know the inward and ſecret wickedneſs of their thoughts.

7 Or of the ſtranger that ſojourneth in Iſrael, &c.) Theſe, tho' they were not all of them circumciſed, yet devoted themſelves to the ſervice of the true God, and therefore were called his worſhippers.

himſelf from me, and ſetteth up his idols in his heart and putteth the ſtumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to enquire of him, concerning me; I the Lord will anſwer him by myſelf:

8 And I will ſet my face againſt that man, and will make him a ſign and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midſt of my people; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

9 And if the prophet be deceived when he hath ſpoken a thing, I the Lord have deceived that prophet; and I will ſtretch out my hand upon him, and will deſtroy him from the midſt of my people Iſrael.

10 And they ſhall bear the puniſhment of their iniquity: the puniſhment of the prophet ſhall be even as the puniſhment of him that ſeeketh unto him;

11 That the houſe of Iſrael may go no more aſtray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their tranſgreſſions; but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, ſaith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The word of the Lord came again to me, ſaying,

13 Son of man, when the land ſinneth againſt me by treſpaſſing grievouſly, then will I ſtretch out mine hand upon it, and will break the ſtaff of the bread thereof, and will ſend famine upon it, and will cut off man and beaſt from it:

14 Though theſe three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they ſhould deliver but their own ſouls by their righteouſneſs, ſaith the Lord God.

15 If I cauſe noiſome beaſts to paſs through the land, and they ſpoil it, ſo that it be deſolate, that no man may paſs through becauſe of the beaſts:

16 Though theſe three men were in it, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall deliver neither ſons nor daughters; they only ſhall be delivered, but the land ſhall be deſolate.

17 Or if I bring a ſword upon that land, and ſay, Sword, go through the land; ſo that I cut off man and beaſt from it:

18 Though theſe three men were in it, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall deliver neither ſons nor daughters, but they only ſhall be delivered themſelves.

19 ¶ Or if I ſend a peſtilence into that land, and pour out my fury upon it in blood, to cut off from it man and beaſt:

20 Though Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall deliver neither ſon nor daughter; they ſhall but deliver their own ſouls by their righteouſneſs.

21 For thus ſaith the Lord God, How much more when I ſend my four ſore judgments upon Jeruſalem, the ſword, and the famine, and the noiſome beaſt, and the peſtilence, to cut off from it man and beaſt?

22 ¶ Yet, behold, therein ſhall be left a remnant that ſhall be brought forth, both ſons and daughters; behold, they ſhall come forth unto you, and ye ſhall ſee their way and their doings: and ye ſhall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jeruſalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 And they ſhall comfort you, when ye ſee their ways and their doings: and ye ſhall know that I have not done without cauſe all that I have done in it, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

1 By the unfitneſs of the vine-branch for any work, 6 is ſhewed the rejection of Jeruſalem.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, what is the vine-tree more than any tree, or than a branch which is among the trees of the foreſt?

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to do any work? or will men take a pin of it to hang any veſſel thereon?

4 Behold, it is caſt into the fire for fuel: the fire devoureth both the ends of it, and the midſt of it is burned: Is it meet for any work?

5 Behold, when it was whole, it was meet for no work: how much leſs ſhall it be meet yet for any work when the fire hath devoured it, and it is burned?

6 ¶ Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, As the vine-tree among the trees of the foreſt, which I have given to the fire for fuel, ſo will I give the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

7 And I will ſet my face againſt them: they ſhall go out from one fire, and another fire ſhall devour them: and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I ſet my face againſt them.

8 And I will make the land deſolate, becauſe they have committed a treſpaſs, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

1 By a wretched infant is ſhewed the ſtate of Jeruſalem: 6 God's love to her.

AGAIN the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, cauſe Jeruſalem to know her abominations,

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God unto Jeruſalem; Thy birth and thy nativity is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And as for thy nativity, in the day thou waſt born, thy navel was not cut, neither waſt thou waſhed in

14 Though theſe three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, &c.) All theſe perſons were eminent for their piety: Noah and his family were ſaved from the univerſal deluge, and obtained a promiſe from the Moſt High, that he would never again deſtroy the world by an inundation of water. Daniel interceded with the Almighty for the whole nation of the Jews, and obtained a promiſe of their reſtoration, (Dan. ix.) and Job was appointed by God himſelf to make interceſſion for his three friends. But when the Almighty's irreverſible decree is gone out againſt a nation, even the prayers of ſuch favourites of heaven would be ineffectual to procure their deliverance. We may hence obſerve how early the fame of Daniel's piety was ſpread through Chaldea; for, at this time, he was not above thirty years of age; nor had he been above thirteen years captive in Babylon.

22 Ye ſhall ſee their way and their doings, &c.) Their afflictions ſhall bring them to a due ſenſe of their former iniquities, and they ſhall humbly confeſs their own ſins, and the ſins of thoſe who were conſumed in the deſtruction of the city; whereby it will appear that I have not puniſhed them beyond what their ſins deſerved.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

2 What is the vine-tree more than any tree, &c.) The Jewiſh church is often compared to a vine in the ſacred writings. The latter part of the verſe may be better rendered in the following manner: If it be as a branch which is among the trees of the foreſt. That is, if it prove unfruitful.

4 The fire devoureth both the ends of it, and the midſt of it is burned, &c.) A very appoſite repreſentation of the preſent ſtate of Judea, when both its extremities were conſumed by the ravages of the common deſtroyer, and the middle of it, where the capital city ſtood, threatened every moment with deſtruction by the enemy.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

2 Cauſe Jeruſalem to know her abominations.) This order was probably performed by way of letter, as Jeremiah ſignified the will of the Almighty to the captives at Babylon. God here particularly upbraids the city of Jeruſalem for her iniquities, becauſe it was the place he had choſen for his peculiar reſidence, and yet the inhabitants had defiled that very place, nay, even the temple itſelf with idolatry, the ſin particularly denoted by the word abomination.

4 Thou waſt not ſalted at all, &c.) It was an ancient cuſtom to ſalt the bodies of new born infants, or to ſprinkle them with ſalt, or to waſh them in ſalt-water, which they imagined would dry up all ſuperfluous humours, would purify the body, and prevent putrefaction.

water to ſupple thee; thou waſt not ſalted at all, nor ſwaddled at all.

5 None eye pitied thee, to do any of theſe unto thee; to have compaſſion upon thee; but thou waſt caſt out in the open field to the loathing of thy perſon, in the day that thou waſt born.

6 ¶ And when I paſſed by thee, and ſaw thee polluted in thine own blood, I ſaid unto thee when thou waſt in thy blood, Live; yea, I ſaid unto thee when thou waſt in thy blood, Live.

7 I have cauſed thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou haſt increaſed and waxen great, and thou art come to excellent ornaments; thy breaſts are faſhioned, and thine hair is grown, whereas thou waſt naked and bare.

8 Now when I paſſed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, thy time was the time of love: and I ſpread my ſkirt over thee, and covered thy nakedneſs: yea, I ſware unto thee, and entered into a covenant with thee, ſaith the Lord God, and thou becameſt mine.

9 Then waſhed I thee with water: yea, I thoroughly waſhed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oil.

10 I clothed thee alſo with broidered work, and ſhod thee with badgers' ſkin, and I girded thee about with fine linen, and I covered thee with ſilk.

11 I decked thee alſo with ornaments, and I put bracelets upon thy hands, and a chain on thy neck.

12 And I put a jewel on thy forehead, and earrings in thine ears, and a beautiful crown upon thine head.

13 Thus waſt thou decked with gold and ſilver; and thy raiment was of fine linen, and ſilk, and broidered work; thou didſt eat fine flour, and honey, and oil: and thou waſt exceeding beautiful, and thou didſt proſper into a kingdom.

14 And thy renown went forth among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my comeline ſs which I had put upon thee, ſaith the Lord God.

15 But thou didſt truſt in thine own beauty, and playedſt the harlot becauſe of thy renown, and pouredſt out thy fornications on every one that paſſed by; his it was.

16 And of thy garments thou didſt take, and deckedſt thy high places with divers colours, and playedſt the harlot thereupon: the like things ſhall not come, neither ſhall it be ſo.

17 Thou haſt alſo taken thy fair jewels of my gold and of my ſilver, which I had given thee, and madeſt to thyſelf images of men, and didſt commit whoredom with them,

18 And tookeſt thy broidered garments and coveredſt them; and thou haſt ſet mine oil and mine incenſe before them.

19 My meat alſo which I gave thee, fine flour, and oil, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou haſt even ſet it before them for a ſweet ſavour: and thus it was, ſaith the Lord God.

20 Moreover, thou haſt taken thy ſons and thy daughters, whom thou haſt borne unto me, and theſe haſt thou ſacrificed unto them to be devoured. Is this of thy whoredoms a ſmall matter,

21 That thou haſt ſlain my children, and delivered them to cauſe them to paſs through the fire for them?

22 And in all thine abominations and thy whoredoms thou haſt not remembered the days of thy youth, when thou waſt naked and bare, and waſt polluted in thy blood.

23 And it came to paſs after all thy wickedneſs, (Woe, woe unto thee! ſaith the Lord God.)

24 That thou haſt alſo built unto thee an eminent place, and haſt made thee an high place in every ſtreet.

25 Thou haſt built thy high-place at every head of the way, and haſt made thy beauty to be abhorred, and haſt opened thy feet to every one that paſſed by, and multiplied thy whoredoms.

26 Thou haſt alſo committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, great of fleſh; and haſt increaſed thy whoredoms, to provoke me to anger.

27 Behold, therefore, I have ſtretched out my hand over thee, and have diminiſhed thine ordinary food, and delivered thee unto the will of them that hate thee, the daughters of the Philiſtines, which are aſhamed of thy lewd way.

28 Thou haſt played the whore alſo with the Aſſyrians, becauſe thou waſt unſatiable; yea, thou haſt played the harlot with them, and yet couldeſt not be ſatisfied.

29 Thou haſt, moreover, multiplied thy fornication in the land of Canaan unto Chaldea, and yet thou waſt not ſatisfied herewith.

30 How weak is thine heart, ſaith the Lord God, ſeeing thou doeſt all theſe things, the work of an imperious whoriſh woman;

31 In that thou buildeſt thine eminent place in the head of every way, and makeſt thine high place in every ſtreet; and haſt not been as an harlot, in that thou ſcorneſt hire;

32 But as a wife that committeth adultery, which taketh ſtrangers inſtead of her huſband!

33 They give gifts to all whores; but thou giveſt thy gifts to all thy lovers, and hireſt them, that they may come unto thee on every ſide for thy whoredom.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy whoredoms, whereas none followeth thee to commit whoredoms: and in that thou giveſt a reward, and no reward is given unto thee; therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord:

36 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thy filthineſs was poured out, and thy nakedneſs diſcovered through thy whoredoms with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thy abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou didſt give unto them;

37 Behold, therefore, I will gather all thy lovers, with whom thou haſt taken pleaſure, and all them that thou haſt loved, with all them that thou haſt hated; I will even gather them round about againſt thee, and will diſcover thy nakedneſs unto them, that they may ſee all thy nakedneſs.

38 And I will judge thee as women that break wedlock, and ſhed blood, are judged; and I will give thee blood in fury and jealouſy.

39 And I will alſo give thee into their hand, and they ſhall throw down thine eminent place, and ſhall break down thy high places: they ſhall ſtrip thee alſo of thy clothes, and ſhall take thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare.

40 They ſhall alſo bring up a company againſt

10 And ſhod thee with badger's ſkin, &c.) This and the following verſes allude to thoſe parts of the women's attire as ſerved both for uſe and ornament, and import that God did not only provide the Jews with neceſſaries, but with ſuperfluities.

22 Thou haſt not remembered the days of thy youth, &c.) Thou haſt forgotten the miſerable condition from which I reſcued thee, when I firſt took thee under my protection, and ſet thee apart for mine own inheritance.

30 How weak is thine heart, &c.) Thou art not only unſtable with regard to good reſolutions, but even reſtleſs and unſettled in the practice of wickedneſs, ſtill hankering after ſome new kind of idolatry, and reſolved to indulge a wandering appetite.

thee, and they ſhall ſtone thee with ſtones, and thruſt thee through with their ſwords.

41 And they ſhall burn thine houſes with fire, and execute judgments upon thee in the ſight of many women: and I will cauſe thee to ceaſe from playing the harlot, and thou alſo ſhalt give no hire any more.

42 So will I make my fury toward thee to reſt, and my jealouſy ſhall depart from thee, and I will be quiet, and will be no more angry.

43 Becauſe thou haſt not remembered the days of thy youth, but haſt fretted me in all theſe things; behold, therefore, I alſo will recompenſe thy way upon thine head, ſaith the Lord God: and thou ſhalt not commit this lewdneſs above all thine abominations.

44 Behold, every one that uſeth proverbs ſhall uſe this proverb againſt thee, ſaying, As is the mother, ſo is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mother's daughter, that loatheth her huſband and her children; and thou art the ſiſter of thy ſiſters, which loathed their huſbands and their children: your mother was an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 And thine elder ſiſter is Samaria, ſhe and her daughters that dwell at thy left hand: and thy younger ſiſter, that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

47 Yet haſt thou not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations; but as if that were a very little thing, thou waſt corrupted more than they in all thy ways.

48 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, Sodom thy ſiſter hath not done, ſhe nor her daughters, as thou haſt done, thou and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of thy ſiſter Sodom, pride, fulneſs of bread, and abundance of idleneſs was in her, and in her daughters, neither did ſhe ſtrengthen the hand of the poor and needy.

50 And they were haughty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I took them away as I ſaw good.

51 Neither hath Samaria committed half of thy ſins; but thou haſt multiplied thine abominations more than they, and haſt juſtified thy ſiſters in all thine abominations which thou haſt done.

52 Thou alſo, which haſt judged thy ſiſters, bear thine own ſhame, for thy ſins that thou haſt committed more abominable than they: they are more righteous than thou; yea, be thou confounded alſo, and bear thy ſhame, in that thou haſt juſtified thy ſiſters.

53 When I ſhall bring again their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, then will I bring again the captivity of thy captives in the midſt of them;

54 That thou mayeſt bear thine own ſhame, and mayeſt be confounded in all that thou haſt done, in that thou art a comfort unto them.

55 When thy ſiſters, Sodom and her daughters, ſhall return to their former eſtate, and Samaria and her daughters ſhall return to their former eſtate, then thou and thy daughters ſhall return to your former eſtate.

56 For thy ſiſter Sodom was not mentioned by thy mouth in the day of thy pride.

57 Before thy wickedneſs was diſcovered, as at the time of thy reproach of the daughters of Syria, and all that are round about her, the daughters of the Philiſtines, which deſpiſe thee round about,

58 Thou haſt borne thy lewdneſs and thine abominations, ſaith the Lord.

59 For thus ſaith the Lord God, I will even deal with thee as thou haſt done, which haſt deſpiſed the oath in breaking the covenant.

60 Nevertheleſs, I will remember my covenant with thee in the days of thy youth, and I will eſtabliſh unto thee an everlaſting covenant.

61 Then thou ſhalt remember thy ways, and be aſhamed, when thou ſhalt receive thy ſiſters, thine elder and thy younger; and I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not by thy covenant.

62 And I will eſtabliſh my covenant with thee; and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord;

63 That thou mayeſt remember and be confounded, and never open thy mouth any more, becauſe of thy ſhame, when I am pacified toward thee for all that thou haſt done, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVII.

1 By two eagles and a vine, 11 is ſhewed God's judgment upon Jeruſalem. 22 God promiſeth to plant the the cedar of the goſpel.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,
2 Son of man, put forth a riddle, and ſpeak a parable unto the houſe of Iſrael;

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, A great eagle with great wings, long-winged, full of feathers, which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and took the higheſt branch of the cedar:

4 He cropped off the top of his young twigs, and carried it into a land of traffick; he ſet it in a city of merchants.

5 He took alſo of the ſeed of the land, and planted it in a fruitful field; he placed it by great waters, and ſet it as a willow-tree;

6 And it grew, and became a ſpreading vine of low ſtature, whoſe branches turned toward him, and the roots thereof were under him: ſo it became a vine, and brought forth branches, and ſhot forth ſprigs.

7 There was alſo another great eagle with great

44 Behold, every one that uſeth proverbs ſhall uſe this proverb againſt thee, &c.) They that love to apply the memorable ſayings of former ages to the preſent times ſhall apply that common proverb to thee, that the daughter followeth the mother's ſteps, and that Jeruſalem is no better than the Amorites, whoſe land they inhabit, and whoſe manners they imitate.

46 And thine elder ſiſter is Samaria, ſhe and her daughters that dwell at thy left hand, &c.) Samaria is called the elder ſiſter of Jeruſalem, as being the capital city of the ten tribes, a much larger kingdom than that of Judah, of which Jeruſalem was the metropolis. She alſo led the way to that idolatry which afterwards infected the whole nation, forſaking the worſhip which God had appointed in his temple, and ſetting up the idolatry of the golden calves.

51 Neither hath Samaria committed half of thy ſins, &c.) The ingratitude of Jeruſalem was greater than that of Samaria, becauſe God had placed his name there, whoſe worſhip they forſook, and profaned the temple by placing idols in it; a degree of idolatry much greater than any the ten tribes were ever guilty of.

60 Nevertheleſs, I will remember my covenant with thee in the days of thy youth, &c.) I will have ſome regard for you, becauſe you were formerly my people, by virtue of my covenant I made with you at your coming out of Egypt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVII.

3 A great eagle with great wings, &c.) That is, the king of Babylon. Conquerors are, in other parts of ſcripture, reſembled to eagles, which are birds of prey, and remarkable for their ſwiftneſs.

7 There was alſo another great eagle, &c.) Pharaoh king of Egypt, with whom Zedekiah made an alliance; whereupon an army of Egyptians came to his aſſiſtance, and raiſed the ſiege of Jeruſalem.

wings and many feathers; and, behold, this vine did bend her roots toward him, and ſhot forth her branches toward him, that he might water it by the furrows of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good ſoil by great waters that it might bring forth branches, and that it might bear fruit, that it might be a goodly vine.

9 Say thou, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Shall it proſper? ſhall he not pull up the roots thereof, and cut off the fruit thereof, that it wither? it ſhall wither in all the leaves of her ſpring, even without great power or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

10 Yea, behold, being planted, ſhall it proſper? ſhall it not utterly wither, when the eaſt wind toucheth it? it ſhall wither in the furrows where it grew.

11 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

12 Say now to the rebellious houſe, Know ye not what theſe things mean? tell them, Behold, the king of Babylon is come to Jeruſalem, and hath taken the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babylon:

13 And hath taken of the king's ſeed, and made a covenant with him, and hath taken an oath of him, he hath alſo taken the mighty of the land:

14 That the kingdom might be baſe, that it might not lift itſelf up, but that by keeping of his covenant it might ſtand.

15 But he rebelled againſt him in ſending his ambaſſadors into Egypt, that they might give him horſes and much people. Shall he proſper? ſhall he eſcape that doeth ſuch things? or ſhall he break the covenant, and be delivered?

16 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ſurely in the place where the king dwelleth that made him king, whoſe oath he deſpiſeth, and whoſe covenant he brake, even with him in the midſt of Babylon he ſhall die.

17 Neither ſhall Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company make for him in the war, by caſting up mounts, and building forts to cut off many perſons.

18 Seeing he deſpiſed the oath by breaking the covenant, when lo, he had given his hand, and hath done all theſe things he ſhall not eſcape.

19 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, As I live, ſurely mine oath that he hath deſpiſed, and my covenant that he hath broken, even it will I recompenſe upon his own head.

20 And I will ſpread my net upon him, and he ſhall be taken in my ſnare, and I will bring him to Babylon, and will plead with him there for his treſpaſs that he hath treſpaſſed againſt me.

21 And all his fugitives with all his bands ſhall fall by the ſword, and they that remain ſhall be ſcattered toward all winds: and ye ſhall know that I the Lord have ſpoken it.

22 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will alſo take of the higheſt branch of the high cedar, and will ſet it; I will crop off from the top of his young twigs a tender one, and will plant it upon an high mountain and eminent.

23 In the mountain of the height of Iſrael will I plant it: and it ſhall bring forth boughs, and bear fruit, and be a goodly cedar: and under it ſhall dwell all fowl of every wing; in the ſhadow of the branches thereof ſhall they dwell.

24 And all the trees of the field ſhall know that I the Lord have brought down the high tree, have exalted the low tree, have dried up the green tree, and have made the dry tree to flouriſh: I the Lord have ſpoken and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 God reproveth the unjuſt parable of four grapes: 25 he defendeth his juſtice, 31 and exhorteth to repentance.

THE word of the Lord came unto me again, ſaying.

2 What mean ye, that ye uſe this proverb concerning the land of Iſrael, ſaying, The fathers have eaten ſour grapes, and the children's teeth are ſet on edge?

3 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ye ſhall not have occaſion any more to uſe this proverb in Iſrael.

4 Behold, all ſouls are mine; as the ſoul of the father, ſo alſo the ſoul of the ſon is mine: the ſoul that ſinneth, it ſhall die.

5 But if a man be juſt, and do that which is lawful and right,

6 And hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, neither hath defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath come near to a menſtruous woman,

7 And hath not oppreſſed any, but hath reſtored to the debtor his pledge, hath ſpoiled none by violence, hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment;

8 He that hath not given forth upon uſury, neither hath taken any increaſe, that hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, hath executed true judgment between man and man,

9 Hath walked in my ſtatutes, and hath kept my judgments, to deal truly; he is juſt, he ſhall ſurely live, ſaith the Lord God.

10 ¶ If he beget a ſon that is a robber, a ſhedder

22 I will alſo take of the higheſt branch of the high cedar, and will ſet it.) The prophet, purſuing the ſame metaphor, foretels the reſtoration of the royal family of David, in ſuch terms as might in ſome degree be fulfilled at the return from the captivity, when Zerubabel, of the lineage of David, had the ſhadow of kingly authority among the Jews, and, by his means, their church and conſtitution were again reſtored. But the words belong more properly to Chriſt and his kingdom, which ſhall be extended over all the world.

I will crop off from the top of his young twigs a tender one, &c.) This deſcription may be very properly applied to our bleſſed Saviour, in reſpect to the mean condition to which the family of David was then reduced. The meanneſs of his outward condition and appearance is repreſented by the prophet Iſaiah under the ſame expreſſions.

24 Have brought down the high tree, have exalted the low tree, &c.) Chriſt's kingdom ſhall by degrees exalt itſelf above all the kingdoms of the world, ſhall at length put an end to them, and itſelf continue to all eternity.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVIII.

3 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ye ſhall not have occaſion any more to uſe this proverb in Iſrael.) I will ſo viſibly diſtinguiſh between the righteous and the wicked, between thoſe that tread in the ſteps of their forefathers, and thoſe who take warning by their examples, that you ſhall have no further occaſion to uſe this proverb amongſt you. God expreſsly threatens to viſit the ſins of the fathers upon the children: but this is to be underſtood only with regard to temporal, not eternal puniſhments. The ſcripture takes notice of a certain meaſure of iniquity, which is filling up from one generation to another, 'till at laſt it renders a nation or family ripe for deſtruction. And though theſe perſons, to whom this vengeance falls, ſuffer no more than their own perſonal ſins deſerved; yet becauſe the ſins of former generations, which they equal, if not excel, make it time for God to deſtroy them utterly, and hence the ſins of many ages and generations are ſaid to fall upon their heads.

6 And hath not eaten upon the mountains, &c.) Idolatrous worſhip was generally performed on the mountains or high places; and eating part of the ſacrifice, was properly maintaining communion with the idol to whom it was offered.

of blood, and that doeth the like to any one of theſe things,

11 And that doeth not any of thoſe duties, but even hath eaten upon the mountains, and defiled his neighbour's wife,

12 Hath oppreſſed the poor and needy, hath ſpoiled by violence, hath not reſtored the pledge, and hath lifted up his eyes to the idols, hath committed abomination,

13 Hath given forth upon uſury, and hath taken increaſe: ſhall he then live? he ſhall not live: he hath done all theſe abominations; he ſhall ſurely die; his blood ſhall be upon him.

14 Now, lo, if he beget a ſon that ſeeth all his father's ſins which he hath done, and conſidereth, and doeth not ſuch like,

15 That hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lifted up his eyes to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, hath not defiled his neighbour's wife,

16 Neither hath oppreſſed any, hath not withholden the pledge, neither hath ſpoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment,

17 That hath taken off his hand from the poor, that hath not received uſury nor increaſe, hath executed my judgments, hath walked in my ſtatutes; he ſhall not die for the iniquity of his father, he ſhall ſurely live.

18 As for his father, becauſe he cruelly oppreſſed, ſpoiled his brother by violence, and did that which is not good among his people, lo, even he ſhall die in his iniquity.

19 Yet ſay ye, Why? doth not the ſon bear the iniquity of the father? When the ſon hath done that which is lawful and right, and hath kept all my ſtatutes, and hath done them, he ſhall ſurely live.

20 The ſoul that ſinneth, it ſhall die. The ſon ſhall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither ſhall the father bear the iniquity of the ſon; the righteouſneſs of the righteous ſhall be upon him, and the wickedneſs of the wicked ſhall be upon him.

21 But if the wicked will turn from all his ſins that he hath committed, and keep all my ſtatutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he ſhall ſurely live, he ſhall not die.

22 All his tranſgreſſions that he hath committed, they ſhall not be mentioned unto him: in his righteouſneſs that he hath done he ſhall live.

23 Have I any pleaſure at all that the wicked ſhould die? ſaith the Lord God; and not that he ſhould return from his ways, and live.

24 But when the righteous turneth away from his righteouſneſs, and committeth iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, ſhall he live? All his righteouſneſs that he hath done ſhall not be mentioned: in his treſpaſs that he hath treſpaſſed, and in his ſin that he hath ſinned, in them ſhall he die.

25 ¶ Yet ye ſay, The way of the Lord is not equal. Hear now, O houſe of Iſrael, Is not my way equal? are not your ways unequal?

26 When a righteous man turneth away from his righteouſneſs, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them; for his iniquity that he hath done ſhall he die.

27 Again, when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedneſs that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he ſhall ſave his ſoul alive.

28 Becauſe he conſidereth, and turneth away from all his tranſgreſſions that he hath committed, he ſhall ſurely live, he ſhall not die.

29 Yet ſaith the houſe of Iſrael, The way of the Lord is not equal. O houſe of Iſrael, are not my ways equal? are not your ways unequal?

30 Therefore I will judge you, O houſe of Iſrael, every one according to his ways, ſaith the Lord God. Repent, and turn yourſelves from all your tranſgreſſions; ſo iniquity ſhall not be your ruin.

31 ¶ Caſt away from you all your tranſgreſſions, whereby ye have tranſgreſſed; and make you a new heart and a new ſpirit: for why will ye die, O houſe of Iſrael?

32 For I have no pleaſure in the death of him that dieth, ſaith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourſelves, and live ye.

CHAP. XIX.

A lamentation for the princes of Iſrael, under the parable of lion's whelps taken in a pit.

MOREOVER, take thou up a lamentation for the princes of Iſrael,

2 And ſay, What is thy mother? A lioneſs: ſhe lay down among lions, ſhe nouriſhed her whelps among young lions.

3 And ſhe brought up one of her whelps: it became a young lion, and it learned to catch the prey; it devoured men.

4 The nations alſo heard of him: he was taken in their pit, and they brought him with chains into the land of Egypt.

5 Now when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had waited, and her hope was loſt, then ſhe took another of her whelps, and made him a young lion:

6 And he went up and down among the lions, he became a young lion, and learned to catch the prey, and devoured men.

7 And he knew their deſolate palaces, and he laid waſte their cities; and the land was deſolate, and the fulneſs thereof by the noiſe of his roaring.

8 Then the nations ſet againſt him on every ſide from the provinces, and ſpread their net over him; he was taken in their pit.

19 Yet ſay ye, Why? doth not the ſon bear the iniquity of the father?) The Jews ſtill appealed to their own experience, as the ground of their complaint.

When the ſon hath done that which is lawful and right, &c.) In like manner, if ye had forſaken your father's ſins, ye might have eſcaped the judgments I denounced againſt your anceſtors; but ſince ye have continued in your abominations, the puniſhment due to them juſtly falls upon you.

26, 27 When a righteous man turneth away from his righteouſneſs, &c.) An opinion prevailed among the Jews, that, at the day of judgment, a conſiderable number of good actions would over-balance men's evil ones; they therefore thought it hard that a perſon who had lived righteouſly the greateſt part of his life, if he at laſt committed iniquity, that his former righteouſneſs ſhould avail him nothing. In oppoſition to this doctrine, God here declares, that a righteous man ſinning, and not repenting, ſhould die in his ſins; and the wicked man, upon repenting, ſhould ſave his ſoul alive.

31 Make you a new heart and a new ſpirit, &c.) The prophets often exhort the Jews to an inward purity and holineſs, that they might not rely upon an outward legal righteouſneſs, and a ſcrupulous exactneſs in the obſervance of the ritual parts of the law. By thus inſtructing them in a more excellent way of ſerving God than the ceremonial law directly preſcribed, they prepared their minds for receiving thoſe truths which would be more fully diſplayed by the goſpel.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIX.

1 Take thou up a lamentation, &c.) The expreſſion alludes to the mournful ſongs uſed at funerals. Such a lamentation the prophet is directed to apply to the melancholy condition of the royal family of Judah, particularly with regard to Jehoahaz and Jehoiakim.

3 She brought up one of her whelps: it became a young lion, &c.) This is meant of Jehoahaz, who neglected to follow the good example of his father Joſiah, and purſued the evil practices of his wicked predeceſſors.

9 And they put him in ward in chains, and brought him to the king of Babylon: they brought him into holds, that his voice ſhould no more be heard upon the mountains of Iſrael.

10 Thy mother is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters; ſhe was fruitful and full of branches by reaſon of many waters.

11 And ſhe had ſtrong rods for the ſceptres of them that bare rule, and her ſtature was exalted among the thick branches, and ſhe appeared in her height with the multitude of her branches.

12 But ſhe was plucked up in fury, ſhe was caſt down to the ground, and the eaſt wind dried up her fruit: her ſtrong rods were broken and withered; the fire conſumed them.

13 And now ſhe is planted in the wilderneſs, in a dry and thirſty ground.

14 And fire is gone out of a rod of her branches, which hath devoured her fruit, ſo that ſhe hath no ſtrong rod to be a ſceptre to rule. This is a lamentation, and ſhall be for a lamentation.

CHAP. XX.

1 God refuſeth to be conſulted by the elders of Iſrael. 5 The ſtory of their rebellions. 33 He promiſeth to gather them.

AND it came to paſs in the ſeventh year in the fifth month, the tenth day of the month, that certain of the elders of Iſrael came to enquire of the Lord, and ſat before me.

2 Then came the word of the Lord unto me, ſaying,

3 Son of man, ſpeak unto the elders of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Are ye come to enquire of me? As I live, ſaith the Lord God, I will not be enquired of by you.

4 Wilt thou judge them, ſon of man, wilt thou judge them? cauſe them to know the abominations of their fathers;

5 ¶ And ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, In the day when I choſe Iſrael, and lifted up mine hand unto the ſeed of the houſe of Jacob, and made myſelf known unto them in the land of Egypt, when I lifted up mine hand unto them, ſaying, I am the Lord your God;

6 In the day that I lifted up mine hand unto them, to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had eſpied for them, flowing with milk and honey; which is the glory of all lands:

7 Then ſaid I unto them, Caſt ye away every man the abominations of his eyes, and defile not yourſelves with the idols of Egypt: I am the Lord your God;

8 But they rebelled againſt me, and would not hearken unto me: they did not every man caſt away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forſake the idols of Egypt. Then I ſaid, I will pour out my fury upon them, to accompliſh my anger againſt them in the midſt of the land of Egypt.

9 But I wrought for my name's ſake, that it ſhould not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, in whoſe ſight I made myſelf known unto them in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.

10 Wherefore I cauſed them to go forth out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderneſs.

11 And I gave them my ſtatutes, and ſhewed them my judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall even live in them.

12 Moreover alſo, I gave them my ſabbaths to be a ſign between me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord that ſanctify them.

13 But the houſe of Iſrael rebelled againſt me in the wilderneſs: they walked not in my ſtatutes, and they deſpiſed my judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall even live in them; and my ſabbaths they greatly polluted: then I ſaid, I would pour out my fury upon them in the wilderneſs, to conſume them.

14 But I wrought for my name's ſake, that it ſhould not be polluted before the heathen, in whoſe ſight I brought them out.

15 Yet alſo I lifted up my hand unto them in the wilderneſs, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which is the glory of all lands;

16 Becauſe they deſpiſed my judgments, and walked not in my ſtatutes, but polluted my ſabbaths: for their heart went after their idols.

17 Nevertheleſs mine eye ſpared them from deſtroying them, neither did I make an end of them in the wilderneſs.

18 But I ſaid unto their children in the wilderneſs, Walk ye not in the ſtatutes of your fathers, neither obſerve their judgments, nor defile yourſelves with their idols.

19 I am the Lord your God. Walk in my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them:

20 And hallow my ſabbaths; and they ſhall be a ſign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithſtanding the children rebelled againſt me: they walked not in my ſtatutes, neither kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he ſhall even live in them; they polluted my ſabbaths: then I ſaid, I would pour out my fury upon them, to accompliſh my anger againſt them in the wilderneſs.

22 Nevertheleſs I withdrew mine hand, and wrought for my name's ſake, that it ſhould not be polluted in the ſight of the heathen, in whoſe ſight I brought them forth.

23 I lifted up mine hand unto them alſo in the wilderneſs, that I would ſcatter them among the heathen, and diſperſe them through the countries;

24 Becauſe they had not executed my judgments, but had deſpiſed my ſtatutes, and had polluted my ſabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

12 And ſhe had ſtrong rods for the ſceptres of them that bare rule, &c.) From her ſprung ſovereign princes, who were themſelves very powerful, and made their people appear conſiderable among their neighbours. A rod or ſceptre is an emblem of authority.

13 And now ſhe is planted in the wilderneſs, in a dry and thirſty ground.) A great part of her people are carried captive, where their condition is as different from what it was formerly, as the condition of a tree is when it is removed out of a rich and well-watered, into a barren and thirſty ſoil.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XX.

5 In the day when I choſe Iſrael, and lifted up mine hand unto the ſeed of the houſe of Jacob, &c.) When I entered into a ſolemn covenant with them purſuant to the oath I had ſworn to their fathers. Lifting up the hand was a ceremony uſed in taking an oath, and hence the prophet has applied it to God himſelf.

11 Which if a man do, he ſhall even live in them.) By life is meant all that happineſs which is contained in the literal ſenſe of the promiſes belonging to that covenant. Under theſe were myſtically comprehended the promiſes of a better life, wherein God will beſtow upon his ſervants the peculiar marks of his favour. Theſe promiſes were made to the Jews, upon their perpetually obſerving the whole law. But as theſe conditions were impoſſible to be performed, ſo no perſon could lay claim to eternal life by virtue of any promiſe therein contained. And hence St. Paul infers the neceſſity of ſeeking Chriſt, and laying hold of the promiſes of the goſpel, in order to obtain juſtification and eternal life.

25 Wherefore I gave them alſo ſtatutes that were not good, and judgments whereby they ſhould not live.

26 And I polluted them in their own gifts, in that they cauſed to paſs through the fire all that openeth the womb, that I might make them deſolate, to the end that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore, ſon of man, ſpeak unto the houſe of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers have blaſphemed me, in that they have committed a treſpaſs againſt me.

28 For when I had brought them into the land for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they ſaw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their ſacrifices, and there they preſented the provocation of their offering: there alſo they made their ſweet ſavour, and poured out there their drink-offerings.

29 Then I ſaid unto them, What is the high place whereunto ye go? and the name thereof is called Bamah unto this day.

30 Wherefore ſay unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Are ye polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye whoredom after their abominations?

31 For when ye offer your gifts, when ye make your ſons to paſs through the fire, ye pollute yourſelves with all your idols, even unto this day: and ſhall I be enquired of by you, O houſe of Iſrael? As I live ſaith the Lord God, I will not be enquired of by you.

32 And that which cometh into your mind ſhall not be at all, that ye ſay, We will be as the heathen, as the families of the countries, to ſerve wood and ſtone.

33 ¶ As I live ſaith the Lord God, ſurely with a mighty hand, and with a ſtretched-out arm, and with fury poured out, will I rule over you.

34 And I will bring you out from the people, and will gather you out of the countries wherein ye are ſcattered, with a mighty hand, and with a ſtretched-out arm, and with fury poured out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderneſs of the people, and there will I plead with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderneſs of the land of Egypt, ſo will I plead with you, ſaith the Lord God.

37 And I will cauſe you to paſs under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant.

38 And I will purge out from among you the rebels, and them that tranſgreſs againſt me: I will bring them forth out of the country where they ſojourn, and they ſhall not enter into the land of Iſrael: and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

39 As for you, O houſe of Iſrael, thus ſaith the Lord God, Go ye: ſerve ye every one his idols, and hereafter alſo, if ye will not hearken unto me: but pollute ye my holy name no more with your gifts and with your idols.

40 For in mine holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God, there ſhall all the houſe of Iſrael, all of them in the land, ſerve me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the firſt-fruits of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I will accept you with your ſweet ſavour, when I bring you out from the people, and gather you out of the countries wherein ye have been ſcattered; and I will be ſanctified in you before the heathen.

42 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I ſhall bring you into the land of Iſrael, into the country for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And there ſhall ye remember your ways, and all your doings, wherein ye have been defiled; and ye ſhall loathe yourſelves in your own ſight, for all your evils that ye have committed.

44 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I have wrought with you for my name's ſake, not according to your wicked ways, nor according to your corrupt doings, O ye houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

45 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

46 Son of man, ſet thy face toward the ſouth, and drop thy word toward the ſouth, and propheſy againſt the foreſt of the ſouth field;

47 And ſay to the foreſt of the ſouth, Hear the word of the Lord, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it ſhall devour every green tree in thee, and every dry tree: the flaming flame ſhall not be quenched, and all faces from the ſouth to the north ſhall be burnt therein:

48 And all fleſh ſhall ſee that I the Lord have kindled it: it ſhall not be quenched.

49 Then ſaid I, Ah Lord God! they ſay of me, Doth he not ſpeak parables?

CHAP. XXI.

1 Ezekiel propheſieth againſt Jeruſalem. 8 The ſharp and bright ſword.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face toward Jeruſalem, and drop thy word toward the holy places, and propheſy againſt the land of Iſrael.

3 And ſay to the land of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord,

25 Wherefore I gave them alſo ſtatutes that were not good, &c.) This ſome underſtand of the ceremonial law, as if it were given purely to be a check and reſtraint to that perverſe people, conſiſting of numerous rites and obſervances, many of which had no intrinſic goodneſs. But I imagine the ſtatutes here ſpoken of were of a very different nature from thoſe mentioned ver. 11, becauſe they have a quite contrary character given of them; and therefore, I think, the words import, That God, to puniſh them for their diſobedience to his own laws, gave them up to a reprobate mind, and ſuffered them to walk after the idolatrous and impious cuſtoms of the heathens round about them. And, as by obeying the laws and ordinances which he had given them, they might have lived happily, ſo, by diſobeying them, they became ſlaves to the vile and cruel practices of the heathen idolatries, and even offered up their very children in ſacrifice to idols, to the utter deſtruction of themſelves and their poſterity. That this was the true ſenſe of the text will appear, if we conſult Deut. iv. 28, xxviii. 36, Jer. xvi. 13, where God threatens them, as a puniſhment for their neglect of his worſhip, to diſperſe them in the heathen countries, and thereby deprive them of an opportunity of ſerving him in public, and expoſe them to the peril of being ſeduced by idols.

39 Go ye, ſerve ye every one his idols, &c.) An ironical permiſſion, full of indignation and rebuke, ſharply upbraiding them for deſpiſing thoſe many warnings God had given them, and implying, that he now reſolved to forſake them, and give them up to ſtrong deluſion, as a juſt judgment for their abuſe of the means of grace ſo long offered to them, and ſtill rejected by them.

46 And propheſy againſt the foreſt of the ſouth field.) That is, againſt Jeruſalem, the word foreſt being taken by the prophets metaphorically for a city, becauſe its ſtately buildings reſemble tall cedars ſtanding in their ſeveral ranks.

47 I will kindle a fire in thee, and it ſhall devour every green tree in thee, and every dry tree, &c.) Fire is often taken in a general ſenſe for God's ſevere judgments; but it here ſeems particularly to denote the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by fire; which the prophet ſaith, ſhall deſtroy both the green trees, and the dry, that is, the righteous, as well as the wicked.

49 Doth he not ſpeak parables?) They make this an argument for diſregarding whatever I ſay to them, that I uſe ſo many metaphorical expreſſions, that they cannot diſcover my meaning; whereupon God commands him in the next chapter to ſpeak in plainer terms.

Behold,

Behold I am againſt thee, and will draw forth my ſword out of his ſheath, and will cut off from thee the righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee the righteous and the wicked, therefore ſhall my ſword go forth out of his ſheath againſt all fleſh from the ſouth to the north:

5 That all fleſh may know that I the Lord have drawn forth my ſword out of his ſheath: it ſhall not return any more.

6 Sigh therefore, thou ſon of man, with the breaking of thy loins, and with bitterneſs ſigh before their eyes.

7 And it ſhall be, when they ſay unto thee, Wherefore ſigheſt thou? that thou ſhalt anſwer, For the tidings, becauſe it cometh, and every heart ſhall melt, and all hands ſhall be feeble, and every ſpirit ſhall faint, and all knees ſhall be weak as water: behold it cometh, and ſhall be brought to paſs, ſaith the Lord God.

8 ¶ Again the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

9 Son of man, propheſy and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord, Say, A ſword, a ſword is ſharpened, and alſo furbiſhed.

10 It is ſharpened to make a ſore ſlaughter: it is furbiſhed that it may glitter: ſhould we then make mirth? it contemneth the rod of my ſon, as every tree.

11 And he hath given it to be furbiſhed, that it may be handled: this ſword is ſharpened, and it is furbiſhed, to give it into the hand of the ſlayer.

12 Cry and howl, ſon of man; for it ſhall be upon my people, it ſhall be upon all the princes of Iſrael: terrors by reaſon of the ſword ſhall be upon my people; ſmite therefore upon thy thigh.

13 Becauſe it is a trial, and what if the ſword contemn even the rod? it ſhall be no more, ſaith the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, ſon of man, propheſy, and ſmite thine hands together, and let the ſword be doubled the third time, the ſword of the ſlain: it is the ſword of the great men that are ſlain, which entereth into their privy chambers.

15 I have ſet the point of the ſword againſt all their gates, that their heart may faint, and their ruins be multiplied: ah, it is made bright, it is wrapped up for the ſlaughter!

16 Go thee one way or other, either on the right hand, or on the left, whitherſoever thy face is ſet.

17 I will alſo ſmite mine hands together, and I will cauſe my fury to reſt. I the Lord have ſaid it.

18 The word of the Lord came unto me again, ſaying,

19 Alſo, thou ſon of man, appoint thee two ways, that the ſword of the king of Babylon may come: both twain ſhall come forth out of one land: and chooſe thou a place, chooſe it at the head of the way to the city.

20 Appoint a way that the ſword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Judah, in Jeruſalem the defenced.

21 For the king of Babylon ſtood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to uſe divination: he made his arrows bright, he conſulted with images, he looked in the liver.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Jeruſalem to appoint captains, to open the mouth in the ſlaughter, to lift up the voice with ſhouting, to appoint battering rams againſt the gates, to caſt a mount, and to build a fort.

23 And it ſhall be unto them as a falſe divination in their ſight, to them that have ſworn oaths: but he will call to remembrance the iniquity that they may be taken.

24 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your tranſgreſſions are diſcovered, ſo that in all your doings your ſins do appear: becauſe, I ſay, that ye are come to remembrance, ye ſhall be taken with the hand.

25 And thou profane wicked prince of Iſrael, whoſe day is come, when iniquity ſhall have an end,

26 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this ſhall not be the ſame: exalt him that is low, and abaſe him that is high.

27 I will overturn, overturn, overturn it: and it ſhall be no more, until he come whoſe right it is: and I will give it him.

28 And thou, ſon of man, propheſy, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God concerning the Ammonites, and concerning their reproach; even ſay thou, The ſword, the ſword is drawn: for the ſlaughter it is furbiſhed, to conſume becauſe of the glittering:

29 Whiles they ſee vanity unto thee, whiles they divine a lie unto thee, to bring thee upon the necks of them that are ſlain, of the wicked whoſe day is come, when their iniquity ſhall have an end.

30 Shall I cauſe it to return into his ſheath? I will judge thee in the place where thou waſt created, in the land of thy nativity.

31 And I will pour out mine indignation upon thee, I will blow againſt thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliver thee into the hand of brutiſh men, and ſkilful to deſtroy.

32 Thou ſhalt be for fuel to the fire; thy blood ſhall be in the midſt of the land, thou ſhalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord have ſpoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 A catalogue of ſins in Jeruſalem. 17 God will burn them as droſs in his furnace.

MOREOVER, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Now, thou ſon of man, wilt thou judge, wilt thou judge the bloody city? yea, thou ſhalt ſhew her all her abominations.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXI.

3 And will cut off from thee the righteous and the wicked, &c.) That is, thoſe who have not been guilty of idolatry, and other national ſins, as well as thoſe that have. God's abſolute dominion will juſtify any calamity which he thinks fit to bring upon the human race. And every man is ſo much a ſinner, that no evil which befals him in this world can be thought unjuſt in God who afflicts it. But yet, when the Almighty puniſhes men immediately by himſelf, as he did in the deſtruction of the old world, and of Sodom, it may be expected he would put a difference between the righteous and the wicked, as Abraham reaſoned with him upon this ſubject.

13 If the ſword contemn even the rod, &c.) That is, the ſceptre and royal family.

16 Go thee one way or other, &c.) The words are directed to the ſword, implying, that he hath given it a large commiſſion to go through the land without any reſtraint.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Jeruſalem, &c.) When the king of Babylon ſtood at the head of the two ways to conſult which of them he ſhould take, the tokens which were ſhewed him perſuaded him to lead his army to the right, that is, towards Jeruſalem.

27 And it ſhall be no more, until he come whoſe right it is, and I will give it him.) After Zedekiah is deprived of his regal authority, there ſhall be no more kings of that family, 'till the coming of the Meſſiah; the king ſo often told and promiſed, who, in due time, ſhall ſit upon the throne of his father David, and of whoſe kingdom there ſhall be no end.

3 Then ſay thou, Thus ſaith the Lord God, The city ſheddeth blood in the midſt of it, that her time may come; and maketh idols againſt herſelf to defile herſelf.

4 Thou art become guilty in thy blood that thou haſt ſhed; and haſt defiled thyſelf in thine idols which thou haſt made; and thou haſt cauſed thy days to draw near, and art come even unto thy years: therefore have I made thee a reproach unto the heathen, and a mocking to all countries.

5 Thoſe that be near, and thoſe that be far from thee, ſhall mock thee, which art infamous and much vexed.

6 Behold, the princes of Iſrael, every one were in thee to their power to ſhed blood.

7 In thee have they ſet light by father and mother: in the midſt of thee have they dealt by oppreſſion with the ſtranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherleſs and the widow.

8 Thou haſt deſpiſed mine holy things, and haſt profaned my ſabbaths.

9 In thee are men that carry tales to ſhed blood; and in thee they eat upon the mountains; in the midſt of thee they commit lewdneſs;

10 In thee have they diſcovered their father's nakedneſs; in thee have they humbled her that was ſet apart for pollution.

11 And one hath committed abomination with his neighbour's wife; and another hath lewdly defiled his daughter-in-law; and another in thee hath humbled his ſiſter, his father's daughter.

12 In thee have they taken gifts to ſhed blood; thou haſt taken uſury and increaſe, and thou haſt greedily gained of thy neighbours by extortion, and haſt forgotten me, ſaith the Lord God.

13 Behold, therefore, I have ſmitten mine hand at thy diſhoneſt gain which thou haſt made, and at thy blood which hath been in the midſt of thee.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be ſtrong, in the days that I ſhall deal with thee? I the Lord have ſpoken it, and will do it.

15 And I will ſcatter thee among the heathen, and diſperſe thee in the countries, and will conſume thy filthineſs out of thee.

16 And thou ſhalt take thine inheritance in thyſelf in the ſight of the heathen, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, the houſe of Iſrael is to me become droſs: all they are braſs, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the midſt of the furnace; they are even the droſs of ſilver.

19 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye are all become droſs, behold, therefore I will gather you into the midſt of Jeruſalem.

20 As they gather ſilver, and braſs, and iron, and lead, and tin, into the midſt of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it, to melt it; ſo will I gather you in mine anger and in my fury, and I will leave you there, and melt you.

21 Yea, I will gather you, and blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye ſhall be melted in the midſt thereof.

22 As ſilver is melted in the midſt of the furnace, ſo ſhall ye be melted in the midſt thereof; and ye ſhall know that I the Lord have poured out my fury upon you.

23 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

24 Son of man, ſay unto her, Thou art the land that is not cleanſed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation.

25 There is a conſpiracy of her prophets in the midſt thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey: they have devoured ſouls; they have taken the treaſure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midſt thereof.

26 Her prieſts have violated my law, and have profaned mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they ſhewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my ſabbaths, and I am profaned among them.

27 Her princes in the midſt thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to ſhed blood, and to deſtroy ſouls, to get diſhoneſt gain.

28 And her prophets have daubed them with untempered mortar, ſeeing vanity, and divining lies unto them, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God, when the Lord hath not ſpoken.

29 The people of the land have uſed oppreſſion, and exerciſed robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy; yea, they have oppreſſed the ſtranger wrongfully.

30 And I ſought for a man among them that ſhould make up the hedge, and ſtand in the gap before me for the land, that I ſhould not deſtroy it; but I found none.

31 Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them; I have conſumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own way have I recompenſed upon their heads, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 The whoredoms of Aholah and Aholibah. 22 Aholibah is to be plagued by her lovers. 45 Their judgments.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother:

3 And they committed whoredoms in Egypt; they committed whoredoms in their youth: there were their breaſts preſſed, and there they bruiſed the teats of their virginity.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXII.

4 Thou haſt cauſed thy days to draw near, and art come even unto thy years, &c.) Thou haſt filled up the meaſure of thine iniquities, and brought the times of vengeance upon thy head.

16 And thou ſhalt take thine inheritance in thyſelf in the ſight of the heathen, &c.) Inſtead of being mine inheritance, and under my peculiar care and protection, thou ſhalt be caſt out among the heathen, and there eat the fruit of thine own ways, and receive the juſt reward of thy wickedneſs.

29 Yea, they have oppreſſed the ſtranger wrongfully.) Contrary to the expreſs prohibitions of the divine law, frequently repeated, and urged upon them, from the conſideration that they themſelves were ſtrangers in Egypt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIII.

2 There were two women, the daughters of one mother.) Countries are generally repreſented as mothers of their people, and the inhabitants as their children. Accordingly Samaria and Jeruſalem are deſcribed as in this chapter as ſiſters, the offspring of the ſame land or country.

4 And

4 And the names of them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her ſiſter: and they were mine, and they bare ſons and daughters. Thus were their names, Samaria is Aholah; and Jeruſalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot when ſhe was mine, and ſhe doted on her lovers, on the Aſſyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blue, captains and rulers, all of them deſirable young men, horſemen riding upon horſes.

7 Thus ſhe committed her whoredoms with them, with all them that were the choſen men of Aſſyria, and with all on whom ſhe doted: with all their idols ſhe defiled herſelf.

8 Neither left ſhe her whoredoms brought from Egypt: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruiſed the breaſts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her.

9 Wherefore I have delivered her into the hand of her lovers, into the hand of the Aſſyrians, upon whom ſhe doted.

10 Theſe diſcovered her nakedneſs: they took her ſons and her daughters, and ſlew her with the ſword: and ſhe became famous among women: for they had executed judgment upon her.

11 And when her ſiſter Aholibah ſaw this, ſhe was more corrupt in her inordinate love than ſhe, and in her whoredoms more than her ſiſter in her whoredoms.

12 She doted upon the Aſſyrians her neighbours, captains and rulers, clothed moſt gorgeouſly, horſemen riding upon horſes, all of them deſirable young men.

13 Then I ſaw that ſhe was defiled, that they took both one way,

14 And that ſhe increaſed her whoredoms: for when ſhe ſaw men pourtrayed upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans pourtrayed with vermilion,

15 Girded with girdles upon their loins, exceeding in dyed attire upon their heads, all of them princes to look to, after the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea the land of their nativity:

16 And as ſoon as ſhe ſaw them with her eyes, ſhe doted upon them, and ſent meſſengers unto them into Chaldea.

17 And the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their whoredom, and ſhe was polluted with them, and her mind was alienated from them.

18 So ſhe diſcovered her whoredoms, and diſcovered her nakedneſs: then my mind was alienated from her, like as my mind was alienated from her ſiſter.

19 Yet ſhe multiplied her whoredoms, in calling to remembrance the days of her youth, wherein ſhe had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For ſhe doted upon their paramours, whoſe fleſh is as the fleſh of aſſes, and whoſe iſſue is like the iſſue of horſes.

21 Thus thou calledſt to remembrance the lewdneſs of thy youth, in bruiſing thy teats by the Egyptians for the paps of thy youth.

22 ¶ Therefore, O Aholibah, thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold I will raiſe up thy lovers againſt thee, from whom thy mind is alienated, and I will bring them againſt thee on every ſide:

23 The Babylonians, and all the Chaldeans, Pekod, and Shoa, and Koa, and all the Aſſyrians with them; all of them deſirable young men, captains and rulers, great lords and renowned, all of them riding upon horſes.

24 And they ſhall come againſt thee with chariots, waggons, and wheels, and with an aſſembly of people, which ſhall ſet againſt thee buckler and ſhield, and helmet round about: and I will ſet judgment before them, and they ſhall judge thee according to their judgments.

25 And I will ſet my jealouſy againſt thee, and they ſhall deal furiouſly with thee: they ſhall take away thy noſe and thine ears; and thy remnant ſhall fall by the ſword; they ſhall take thy ſons and thy daughters; and thy reſidue ſhall be devoured by the fire.

26 They ſhall alſo ſtrip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy fair jewels.

27 Thus will I make thy lewdneſs to ceaſe from thee, and thy whoredom brought from the land of Egypt: ſo that thou ſhalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them whom thou hateſt, into the hand of them from whom thy mind is alienated.

29 And they ſhall deal with thee hatefully, and ſhall take away all thy labour, and ſhall leave thee naked and bare: and the nakedneſs of thy whoredoms ſhall be diſcovered, both thy lewdneſs and thy whoredoms.

30 I will do theſe things unto thee, becauſe thou haſt gone a whoring after the heathen, and becauſe thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou haſt walked in the way of thy ſiſter: therefore will I give her cup into thine hand.

32 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Thou ſhalt drink of thy ſiſter's cup deep and large: thou ſhalt be laughed to ſcorn and had in deriſion; it containeth much.

33 Thou ſhalt be filled with drunkenneſs and ſorrow, with the cup of aſtoniſhment and deſolation, with the cup of thy ſiſter Samaria.

34 Thou ſhalt even drink it, and ſuck it out, and thou ſhalt break the ſherds thereof, and pluck off thine own breaſts; for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

35 Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt forgotten me, and caſt me behind thy back, therefore bear thou alſo thy lewdneſs and thy whoredoms.

36 ¶ The Lord ſaid, moreover, unto me, Son of man, wilt thou judge Aholah and Aholibah? yea, declare unto them their abominations;

37 That they have committed adultery, and blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery; and have alſo cauſed their ſons, whom they bare unto me, to paſs for them through the fire, to devour them.

38 Moreover, this they have done unto me: they have defiled my ſanctuary in the ſame day, and have profaned my ſabbaths.

4 And the names of them were, Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her ſiſter—Samaria is Aholah, and Jeruſalem Aholibah.) The word Aholah ſignifies her tent or tabernacle: Aholibah denotes my tent or tabernacle is in her. Theſe two appellations imply, that Samaria had indeed a place for public worſhip, but of her own founding, namely, at Dan-Bethel, where the golden calves were ſet up: whereas God's tabernacle at firſt, and afterwards his temple, was placed at Jeruſalem, the city he choſe for his peculiar reſidence. Samaria is called the elder ſiſter to Jeruſalem, as being the capital city of the kingdom of Iſrael, a much larger kingdom than that of Judah, of which Jeruſalem was the metropolis.

14 She ſaw men pourtrayed upon the wall, &c.) Theſe were probably the pictures of thoſe deified heroes whom the Chaldeans worſhipped as gods.

24 And I will ſet judgment before them, &c.) I will deliver thee into their power, as the miniſters of my juſtice, who ſhall make thy puniſhments proportional to thy guilt.

27 Thus will I make thy lewdneſs to ceaſe from thee, &c.) Theſe ſevere judgments ſhall effectually deter thee from idolatry, and make thee abhor the leaſt approaches towards it. Accordingly we find that, after the captivity, the Jews never returned to their idolatrous practices.

39 For when they had ſlain their children to their idols, then they came the ſame day into my ſanctuary to profane it; and, lo, thus have they done in the midſt of mine houſe.

40 And furthermore, that ye have ſent for men to come from far, unto whom a meſſenger was ſent; and lo, they came: for whom thou didſt waſh thyſelf, paintedſt thy eyes, and deckedſt thyſelf with ornaments

41 And ſatteſt upon a ſtately bed, and a table prepared before it, whereupon thou haſt ſet mine incenſe and mine oil.

42 And a voice of a multitude being at eaſe was with her: and with the men of the common ſort, were brought Sabeans from the wilderneſs, which put bracelets upon their hands, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 Then ſaid I unto her that was old in adulteries, Will they now commit whoredoms with her, and ſhe with them?

44 Yet they went in unto her, as they go in unto a woman that playeth the harlot; ſo went they in unto Aholah and unto Aholibah, the lewd women.

45 ¶ And the righteous men, they ſhall judge them after the manner of adultereſſes, and after the manner of women that ſhed blood; becauſe they are adultereſſes, and blood is in their hands.

46 For thus ſaith the Lord God, I will bring up a company upon them, and will give them to be removed and ſpoiled.

47 And the company ſhall ſtone them with ſtones, and diſpatch them with their ſwords: they ſhall ſlay their ſons and their daughters, and burn up their houſes with fire.

48 Thus will I cauſe lewdneſs to ceaſe out of the land, that all women may be taught not to do after your lewdneſs.

49 And they ſhall recompenſe your lewdneſs upon you, and ye ſhall bear the ſins of your idols; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 By a boiling pot, 6 is ſhewed Jeruſalem's deſtruction. 15 By Ezekiel's not mourning for his wife, 19 is ſhewed the Jews calamity to be beyond all ſorrow.

AGAIN, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this ſame day: the king of Babylon ſet himſelf againſt Jeruſalem this ſame day.

3 And utter a parable unto the rebellious houſe, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Set on a pot, ſet it on, and alſo pour water into it:

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, the thigh and the ſhoulder; fill it with the choice bones.

5 Take the choice of the flock, and burn alſo the bones under it, and make it boil well, and let them ſee the bones of it therein.

6 ¶ Wherefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Woe to the bloody city, to the pot whoſe ſcum is therein, and whoſe ſcum is not gone out of it! bring it out piece by piece; let no lot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midſt of her; ſhe ſet it upon the top of a rock; ſhe poured it not upon the ground to cover it with duſt:

8 That it might cauſe fury to come up to take vengeance; I have ſet her blood upon the top of a rock, that it ſhould not be covered.

9 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Woe to the bloody city! I will even make the pile for fire great.

10 Heap on wood, kindle the fire, conſume the fleſh, and ſpice it well, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then ſet it empty upon the coals thereof, that the braſs of it may be hot, and may burn, and that the filthineſs of it may be molten in it, that the ſcum of it may be conſumed.

12 She hath wearied herſelf with lies, and her great ſcum went not forth out of her: her ſcum ſhall be in the fire.

13 In thy filthineſs is lewdneſs: becauſe I have purged thee, and thou waſt not purged, thou ſhalt not be purged from thy filthineſs any more, till I have cauſed my fury to reſt upon thee.

14 I the Lord have ſpoken it: it ſhall come to paſs, and I will do it: I will not go back, neither will I ſpare, neither will I repent. According to thy ways and according to thy doings ſhall they judge thee, ſaith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Alſo the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the deſire of thine eyes with a ſtroke: yet neither ſhalt thou mourn nor weep, neither ſhall thy tears run down.

17 Forbear to cry, make no mourning for the dead, bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and put on thy ſhoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat not the bread of men.

18 So I ſpake unto the people in the morning; and at even my wife died; and I did in the morning as I was commanded.

19 ¶ And the people ſaid unto me, Wilt thou not tell us what theſe things are to us, that thou doeſt ſo?

20 Then I anſwered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

21 Speak unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will profane my ſanctuary, the excellency of your ſtrength, the deſire of your eyes, and that which your ſoul pitieth; and your ſons and your daughters whom ye have left ſhall fall by the ſword.

41 And ſatteſt upon a ſtately bed, and a table prepared before it, &c.) The expreſſions denote their ſitting down with idolaters, and partaking of their ſacrifices. The words altar and table are uſed promiſcuouſly in the prophets, becauſe all ſacrifices were feaſts dedicated to the ſervice of the Almighty: ſo that he was properly the entertainer, and thoſe that participated of the ſacrifices of his gueſts, eat at his table in token of their being in covenant and friendſhip with him.

45 And the righteous men, they ſhall judge them, &c.) By righteous or juſt men, ſome underſtand the Babylonians, who, tho' a wicked and idolatrous people, were ſent to execute the juſtice of the Almighty upon a nation that had ſinned againſt a clearer light and greater convictions. Accordingly Nebuchadrezzar and other princes are called God's ſervants, as being inſtruments of his providence. But the expreſſions may, in a more proper ſenſe, be underſtood of the prophets, who foretold the judgments God would inflict upon Samaria and Jeruſalem, and are ſaid to execute the judgments they foretel. So Ezekiel ſays of himſelf, that he was ſent to deſtroy the city, that is, to propheſy its deſtruction.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIV.

3 And utter a parable unto the rebellious houſe, &c.) Add this emblem or parable concerning a boiling-pot to the reſt thou haſt delivered to them, though they ſeem reſolved not to regard what thou deliverеſt, either in plain words or figurative expreſſions.

21 Behold, I will profane my ſanctuary, the excellency of your ſtrength, &c.) I will deliver my temple into the hands of the heathen, and they ſhall profane and deſtroy it; that temple wherein you placed your glory, and thought my reſidence there your greateſt protection.

22 And

22 And ye shall do as I have done: ye shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of men.

23 And your tires shall be upon your heads, and your shoes upon your feet; ye shall not mourn nor weep; but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is unto you a sign; according to all that he hath done shall ye do; and when this cometh, ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from them their strength, the joy of their glory, the desire of their eyes, and that whereupon they set their minds, their sons and their daughters,

26 That he that escapeth in that day shall come unto thee, to cause thee to hear it with thine ears?

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb: and thou shalt be a sign unto them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

God's vengeance on the Ammonites for their insolence against the Jews, &c.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,
2 Son of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophesy against them:

3 And say unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God; Thus saith the Lord God; Because thou saidst, Aha, against my sanctuary, when it was profaned; and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate; and against the house of Judah, when they went into captivity;

4 Behold, therefore, I will deliver thee to the men of the east for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drink thy milk.

5 And I will make Rabbah a stable for camels, and the Ammonites a couching-place for flocks; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped thine hands, and stamped with the feet, and rejoiced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel;

7 Behold, therefore, I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee for a spoil to the heathen; and I will cut thee off from the people, and I will cause thee to perish out of the countries: I will destroy thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir do say, Behold, the house of Judah is like unto all the heathen;

9 Therefore, behold, I will open the side of Moab from the cities, from his cities which are on his frontiers, the glory of the country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim,

10 Unto the men of the east with the Ammonites, and will give them in possession, that the Ammonites may not be remembered among the nations.

11 And I will execute judgments upon Moab; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath dealt against the house of Judah by taking vengeance, and hath greatly offended, and revenged himself upon them:

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will also stretch out mine hand upon Edom, and will cut off man and beast from it; and I will make it desolate from Teman; and they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I will lay my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel; and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to my fury; and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistines have dealt by revenge, and have taken vengeance with a despiteful heart, to destroy it for the old hatred;

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will stretch out mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea-coast.

17 And I will execute great vengeance upon them with furious rebukes; and they shall know that I am the Lord when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Tyrus for insulting against Jerusalem is threatened. 7 Nebuchadrezzar's power against her. 15 The mourning for her.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, she is broken that was the gates of the people: she is turned unto me: I shall be replenished, now she is laid waste:

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against thee, O Tyrus, and will cause many nations to come up against thee, as the sea causeth his waves to come up.

4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyrus, and break down her towers; I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rock.

5 It shall be a place for the spreading of nets in the midst of the sea: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God: and it shall become a spoil to the nations.

---

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, &c.) From this time to the time the news arrives of the city's being taken, thou shalt not prophesy any more to thine own people, but then I will give thee a new commission, and thou shalt speak with freedom and plainness; not by signs and emblems, as thou doest at present: for the events shall so exactly answer thy predictions, that thy words shall receive a new authority.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXV.

3 Because thou saidst, Aha, against my sanctuary, &c.) The Ammonites, Moabites, and Edomites, though nearly related to the Jews, bore them a constant hatred, and took all opportunities to shew it, when they were under any distress, particularly at the time of the general captivity and destruction of their city and temple. For this they were often reproved by the prophets, and threatened with the like, and severer judgments, particularly the Ammonites.

12 Because that Edom hath dealt against the house of Judah, by taking vengeance, &c.) The Idumeans, being the posterity of Esau, bear an inveterate malice against the Jews, on account of their ancestor's losing his birth-right, and the reduction of Edom afterwards by David. Upon these accounts they embraced every opportunity of venting their malice against the Jews, especially at the time of a captivity, when their cruelty was remarkable, as appears from these pathetic words of the psalmist: Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem, how they said, Down with it, down with it, even unto the ground.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXVI.

2 She is broken that was the gates of the people.) There was a great confluence of people to Jerusalem from all parts at the solemn feasts of the year, both Jews and proselytes.

I shall be replenished, now she is laid waste.) Tyre was noted for all sorts of trade, so that when Jerusalem was taken, the spoil of the city was carried thither for sale, and, in all probability, several of the inhabitants that were made captives were sold there as slaves.

6 And her daughters which are in the field ſhall be ſlain by the ſword: and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 ¶ For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, a king of kings, from the north, with horſes and with chariots, and with horſemen, and companies, and much people.

8 He ſhall ſlay with the ſword thy daughters in the field: and he ſhall make a fort againſt thee: and caſt a mount againſt thee, and lift up the buckler againſt thee.

9 And he ſhall ſet engines of war againſt thy walls, and with his axes he ſhall break down thy towers.

10 By reaſon of the abundance of his horſes their duſt ſhall cover thee: thy walls ſhall ſhake at the noiſe of the horſemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he ſhall enter into thy gates, as men enter into a city wherein is made a breach.

11 With the hoofs of his horſes ſhall he tread down all thy ſtreets; he ſhall ſlay thy people by the ſword, and thy ſtrong garriſons ſhall go down to the ground.

12 And they ſhall make a ſpoil of thy riches, and make a prey of thy merchandiſe; and they ſhall break down thy walls, and deſtroy thy pleaſant houſes: and they ſhall lay thy ſtones, and thy timber, and thy duſt in the midſt of the water.

13 And I will cauſe the noiſe of thy ſongs to ceaſe; the ſound of thy harps ſhall be no more heard.

14 And I will make thee like the top of a rock, thou ſhalt be a place to ſpread nets upon; thou ſhalt be built no more: for I the Lord have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God to Tyrus, ſhall not the iſles ſhake at the ſound of thy fall, when the wounded cry, when the ſlaughter is made in the midſt of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the ſea ſhall come down from their thrones, and lay away their robes, and put off their broidered garments: they ſhall clothe themſelves with trembling, they ſhall ſit upon the ground, and ſhall tremble at every moment, and be aſtoniſhed at thee.

17 And they ſhall take up a lamentation for thee, and ſay to thee, How art thou deſtroyed, that waſt inhabited of ſea-faring men, the renowned city which waſt ſtrong in the ſea, ſhe and her inhabitants, which cauſe their terror to be on all that haunt it:

18 Now ſhall the iſles tremble in the day of thy fall; yea the iſles that are in the ſea ſhall be troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus ſaith the Lord God, When I ſhall make thee a deſolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited: when I ſhall bring up the deep upon thee, and great waters ſhall cover thee;

20 When I ſhall bring thee down with them that deſcend into the pit, with the people of old time, and ſhall ſet thee in the low parts of the earth, in places deſolate of old, with them that go down to the pit, that thou be not inhabited; and I ſhall ſet glory in the land of the living:

21 I will make thee a terror, and thou ſhalt be no more: though thou be ſought for, yet ſhalt thou never be found again, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 The rich ſupply of Tyrus. 26 The great and irrecoverable fall thereof.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Now, thou ſon of man, take up a lamentation for Tyrus;

3 And ſay unto Tyrus, O thou that art ſituate at the entry of the ſea, which art a merchant of the people for many iſles, Thus ſaith the Lord God, O Tyrus, thou haſt ſaid, I am of perfect beauty.

4 Thy borders are in the midſt of the ſeas, thy builders have perfected thy beauty.

5 They have made all thy ſhip-boards of fir-trees of Senir: they have taken cedars from Lebanon to make maſts for thee.

6 Of the oaks of Baſhan have they made thine oars: the company of the Aſhurites have made thy benches of ivory, brought out of the iſles of Chittim.

7 Fine linen with broidered work from Egypt was that which thou ſpreadeſt forth to be thy ſail; blue and purple from the iſles of Eliſhah was that which covered thee.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad were thy mariners: thy wiſe men, O Tyrus, that were in thee, were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of Gebal and the wiſe men thereof were in thee thy calkers: all the ſhips of the ſea with their mariners were in thee to occupy thy merchandiſe.

10 They of Perſia, and of Lud, and of Phut were in thine army, thy men of war: they hanged the ſhield and helmet in thee, they ſet forth thy comeline ſs.

11 The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers; they hanged their ſhields upon thy walls round about: they have made thy beauty perfect.

12 Tarſhiſh was thy merchant by reaſon of the multitude of all kind of riches, with ſilver, iron, tin, and lead they traded in thy fairs.

13 Javan, Tubal, and Meſhech, they were thy merchants: they traded the perſons of men and veſſels of braſs in thy market.

14 They of the houſe of Togarmah traded in thy fairs with horſes, and horſemen, and mules.

15 The men of Dedan were thy merchants; many iſles were the merchandiſe of thine hand: they brought thee for a preſent horns of ivory and ebony.

16 Syria was thy merchant by reaſon of the multitude of the wares of thy making: they occupied in thy fairs with emeralds, purple and broidered work, and fine linen, and coral, and agate.

14 I will make thee like the top of a rock, &c.) This part of the prophecy was fulfilled in the new Tyre, whoſe inhabitants were quite deſtroyed by Alexander, when he took the city, which afterwards became deſolate.

16, 17 Then all the princes of the ſea ſhall come down from their thrones, &c.) All the princes and rich merchants of Sidon, Carthage, and other maritime cities, who carry on a trade with Tyre, theſe ſhall expreſs a deep concern for her misfortune.

20 And I ſhall ſet glory in the land of the living.) When I ſhall reſtore other cities conquered by the king of Babylon, to that flouriſhing condition they formerly enjoyed among the inhabitants of the earth.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXVII.

2 Take up a lamentation for Tyrus.) This alludes to the melancholy ſongs uſed at funerals, wherein the women recounted every thing that was valuable or praiſe-worthy in the deceaſed, and then lamented his loſs. In like manner, thoſe who traded with Tyre ſhould mourn over her, and bewail the loſs of her riches and greatneſs.

7 Fine linen with broidered work from Egypt was that which thou ſpreadeſt forth to be thy ſail, &c.) Fine linen was one of the principal commodities of Egypt, and worn by princes and great men. And hence we ſee to what great exceſs of vanity the Tyrians were arrived, to uſe ſuch coſtly manufactures for their ſails.

17 Judah, and the land of Iſrael, they were thy merchants: they traded in thy market wheat of Minnith, and Pannag, and honey, and oil, and balm.

18 Damaſcus was thy merchant in the multitude of the wares of thy making, for the multitude of all riches; in the wine of Helbon, and white wool.

19 Dan alſo and Javan going to and fro occupied in thy fairs: bright iron, caſſia, and calamus were in thy market.

20 Dedan was thy merchant in precious clothes for chariots.

21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar, they occupied with thee in lambs, and rams, and goats: in theſe were they thy merchants.

22 The merchants of Sheba and Raamah, they were thy merchants: they occupied in thy fairs with chief of all ſpices, and with all precious ſtones, and gold.

23 Haran, and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Aſſhur, and Chilmad were thy merchants.

24 Theſe were thy merchants in all ſorts of things, in blue clothes, and broidered work, and in cheſts of rich apparel bound with cords, and made of cedar among thy merchandiſe.

25 The ſhips of Tarſhiſh did ſing of thee in thy market; and thou waſt repleniſhed and made very glorious in the midſt of the ſeas.

26 ¶ Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: the eaſt wind hath broken thee in the midſt of the ſeas.

27 Thy riches and thy fairs, thy merchandiſe, thy mariners, and thy pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandiſe, and all thy men of war that are in thee, and in all thy company, which is in the midſt of thee, ſhall fall into the midſt of the ſeas in the day of thy ruin.

28 The ſuburbs ſhall ſhake at the ſound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the ſea, ſhall come down from their ſhips, they ſhall ſtand upon the land;

30 And ſhall cauſe their voice to be heard againſt thee, and ſhall cry bitterly, and ſhall caſt up duſt upon their heads; they ſhall wallow themſelves in the aſhes;

31 And they ſhall make themſelves utterly bald for thee, and gird them with ſackcloth; and they ſhall weep for thee with bitterneſs of heart and bitter wailing.

32 And in their wailing they ſhall take up a lamentation for thee, and lament over thee, ſaying, What city is like Tyrus, like the deſtroyed in the midſt of the ſea?

33 When thy wares went forth out of the ſeas, thou filledſt many people; thou didſt enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches, and of thy merchandiſe.

34 In the time when thou ſhalt be broken by the ſeas in the depths of the waters, thy merchandiſe, and all thy company in the midſt of thee, ſhall fall.

35 All the inhabitants of the iſles ſhall be aſtoniſhed at thee, and their kings ſhall be ſore afraid, they ſhall be troubled in their countenance.

36 The merchants among the people ſhall hiſs at thee; thou ſhalt be a terror, and never ſhall be any more.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 God's judgment upon the prince of Tyrus. 20 The judgment of Zidon.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſay unto the prince of Tyrus, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thine heart is lifted up, and thou haſt ſaid, I am a god, I ſit in the ſeat of God, in the midſt of the ſeas; yet thou art a man, and not God, though thou ſet thine heart as the heart of God:

3 Behold, thou art wiſer than Daniel; there is no ſecret that they can hide from thee:

4 With thy wiſdom and with thine underſtanding thou haſt gotten thee riches, and haſt gotten gold and ſilver into thy treaſures:

5 By thy great wiſdom and by thy traffick haſt thou increaſed thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up becauſe of thy riches:

6 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt ſet thine heart as the heart of God,

7 Behold, therefore, I will bring ſtrangers upon thee, the terrible of the nations: and they ſhall draw their ſwords againſt the beauty of thy wiſdom, and they ſhall defile thy brightneſs.

8 They ſhall bring thee down to the pit, and thou ſhalt die the deaths of them that are ſlain in the midſt of the ſeas.

9 Wilt thou yet ſay before him that ſlayeth thee, I am God; but thou ſhalt be a man, and no God, in the hand of him that ſlayeth thee.

10 Thou ſhalt die the deaths of the uncircumciſed, by the hand of ſtrangers: for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

11 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

12 Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyrus, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Thou ſealeſt up the ſum, full of wiſdom, and perfect in beauty.

13 Thou haſt been in Eden the garden of God: every precious ſtone was thy covering, the ſardius, topaz, and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx, and the jaſper, the ſapphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle, and gold: the workmanſhip of thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou waſt created.

14 Thou art the anointed cherub that covereth:

25 The ſhips of Tarſhiſh did ſing of thee in thy market, &c.) Ships of Tarſhiſh is a general expreſſion for any trading or merchant ſhips. The prophet had already reckoned up the principal countries that traded with Tyre, and here adds in comprehenſive terms, that all merchants ſung or ſpake great things of her riches.

31 Make themſelves utterly bald, &c.) This cuſtom of tearing off the hair was done not only in token of ſorrow, but had a concealed meaning, that as the hair was ſeparated from the head, and was never more to be joined to it, ſo was the dead ſeparated from the living, never more to return.

Commentary on Chap. XXVIII.

2 I am a god, I ſit in the ſeat of God, in the midſt of the ſeas, &c.) Some princes have been ſo extravagant as to affect divine honours; and this ſeems to have been the temper of the vain prince of Tyre: the words are an inſolent boaſt of ſelf-ſufficiency, as if he had ſaid, I neither fear any prince, nor ſtand in need of aſſiſtance: I am ſeated in a place of impregnable ſtrength; the ſeas ſurround me; I am free from the aſſaults of an enemy.

10 Thou ſhalt die the deaths of the uncircumciſed, &c.) Thou ſhalt die by ſuch a remarkable judgment as God uſually inflicts upon notorious offenders; thou ſhalt fall untimely like other enemies of the Almighty and his truth. Circumciſion being the rite which diſtinguiſhes the people of God from the heathen, uncircumciſed is uſed by the ſacred writers to ſignify wicked or profane. Accordingly the Chaldee paraphraſt renders this paſſage, Thou ſhalt die the death of the wicked.

13 Thou haſt been in Eden, the garden of God, &c.) As thy ſituation was pleaſant, ſo thou waſt plentifully ſupplied with every thing that could contribute to render thy life pleaſant and agreeable. A ſtate of paradiſe in the common acceptation denotes a condition every way complete and happy; but this expreſſion alludes to the happineſs which Adam enjoyed in paradiſe before his fall.

and I have set thee so: thou wast upon the holy mountain of God; thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise they have filled the midst of thee with violence, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God; and I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctuaries by the multitude of thine iniquities, by the iniquity of thy traffick; therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, it shall devour thee; and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that know thee among the people shall be astonished at thee; thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt thou be any more.

20 ¶ Again the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesy against it,

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against thee, O Zidon; and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have executed judgments in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, and blood into her streets; and the wounded shall be judged in the midst of her by the sword upon her on every side; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And there shall be no more a pricking brier unto the house of Israel, nor any grieving thorn of all that are round about them that despised them; and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people among whom they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in their land that I have given to my servant Jacob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, and shall build houses, and plant vineyards; yea, they shall dwell with confidence, when I have executed judgments upon all those that despise them round about them; and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 The judgment of Pharaoh. 8 The desolation of Egypt. 21 Israel shall be restored.

IN the tenth year, in the tenth month, in the twelfth day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and against all Egypt:

3 Speak, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, which hath said, My river is mine own, and I have made it for myself.

4 But I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales; and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

5 And I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness, thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the open fields; thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of the heaven.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because they have been a staff of reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they took hold of thee by thy hand, thou didst break, and rend all their shoulder: and when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest, and madest all their loins to be at a stand.

8 ¶ Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and cut off man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste; and they shall know that I am the Lord; because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore, I am against thee, and against thy rivers, and I will make the land of Egypt utterly waste and desolate; from the tower of Syene even unto the border of Ethiopia.

11 No foot of man shall pass through it, nor foot of beast shall pass through it, neither shall it be inhabited forty years.

12 And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities among the cities that are laid waste shall be desolate forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 Yet thus saith the Lord God, At the end of forty years will I gather the Egyptians from the people whither they were scattered.

14 And I will bring again the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation; and they shall be there a base kingdom.

15 It shall be the basest of the kingdoms; neither shall it exalt itself any more above the nations: for I will diminish them that they shall no more rule over the nations.

16 And it shall be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, which bringeth their iniquity to remembrance, when they shall look after them: but they shall know that I am the Lord God.

17 And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year,

14 Thou wast upon the holy mountain of God, &c.) The temple is often stiled God's holy mountain, and, being the place of his peculiar residence, is sometimes used for heaven itself. The prophet therefore compares this prince to the cherubims over-shadowing the mercy-seat, or the angels who stood before the throne of the Most High, typified by the cherubims in the temple: the expression alludes to the high state of Satan before his apostacy.

26 When I have executed judgments upon all those that despise them, &c.) The prophets conclude their threatenings against infidels with gracious promises to God's people; implying, that he will not make utter destruction of them, as of other people, but reserve a remnant, to whom he will fulfil the promises he made to their fathers.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIX.

3 The great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, &c.) By the dragon is here meant the crocodile, a creature found in the river Nile, to which the prophet compares the king of Egypt, because he valued himself upon his dominion over that river.

15 The basest of the kingdoms, &c.) On the failure of the Persian empire, Egypt became subject to the Macedonians, after them to the Romans, then to the Saracens, then to the Mammalukes, and is now a province of the Turkish empire.

year, in the firſt month, in the firſt day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon cauſed his army to ſerve a great ſervice againſt Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every ſhoulder was peeled; yet had he no wages, nor his army, for Tyrus, for the ſervice that he had ſerved againſt it:

19 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon: and he ſhall take her multitude, and take her ſpoil, and take her prey: and it ſhall be the wages for his army.

20 I have given him the land of Egypt for his labour wherewith he ſerved againſt it, becauſe they wrought for me, ſaith the Lord God.

21 ¶ In that day will I cauſe the horn of the houſe of Iſrael to bud forth, and I will give thee the opening of the mouth in the midſt of them, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

1 The deſolation of Egypt and her helpers. 20 The arm of Babylon ſhall be ſtrengthened to break the arm of Egypt.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, propheſy and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Howl ye, Woe worth the day!

3 For the day is near, even the day of the Lord is near, a cloudy day: it ſhall be the time of the heathen.

4 And the ſword ſhall come upon Egypt, and great pain ſhall be in Ethiopia, when the ſlain ſhall fall in Egypt, and they ſhall take away her multitude, and her foundations ſhall be broken down.

5 Ethiopia, and Libya, and Lydia, and all the mingled people, and Chub, and the men of the land that is in league, ſhall fall with them by the ſword.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord, they alſo that uphold Egypt ſhall fall, and the pride of her power ſhall come down: from the tower of Syene ſhall they fall in it by the ſword, ſaith the Lord God.

7 And they ſhall be deſolate in the midſt of the countries that are deſolate, and her cities ſhall be in the midſt of the cities that are waſted.

8 And they ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I have ſet a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers ſhall be deſtroyed.

9 In that day ſhall meſſengers go forth from me in ſhips to make the careleſs Ethiopians afraid, and great pains ſhall come upon them, as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh.

10 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will alſo make the multitude of Egypt to ceaſe by the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.

11 He and his people with him, the terrible of the nations, ſhall be brought to deſtroy the land: and they ſhall draw their ſwords againſt Egypt, and fill the land with the ſlain.

12 And I will make the rivers dry, and ſell the land into the hand of the wicked; and I will make the land waſte, and all that is therein, by the hand of ſtrangers; I the Lord have ſpoken it.

13 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will alſo deſtroy the idols, and I will cauſe their images to ceaſe out of Noph: and there ſhall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt: and I will put a fear in the land of Egypt.

14 And I will make Pathros deſolate, and will ſet fire in Zoan, and will execute judgments in No.

15 And I will pour my fury upon Sin, the ſtrength of Egypt: and I will cut off the multitude of No.

16 And I will ſet fire in Egypt: Sin ſhall have great pain, and No ſhall be rent aſunder, and Noph ſhall have diſtreſſes daily.

17 The young men of Aven and of Phibeſeth ſhall fall by the ſword: and theſe cities ſhall go into captivity.

18 At Tehaphnehes alſo the day ſhall be darkened, when I ſhall break there the yokes of Egypt: and the pomp of her ſtrength ſhall ceaſe in her: as for her, a cloud ſhall cover her, and her daughters ſhall go into captivity.

19 Thus will I execute judgments in Egypt; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs in the eleventh year, in the firſt month, in the ſeventh day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

21 Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and lo, it ſhall not be bound up to be healed, to put a roller to bind it, to make it ſtrong to hold the ſword.

22 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I am againſt Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will break his arms, the ſtrong, and that which was broken: and I will cauſe the ſword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will ſcatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will diſperſe them through the countries.

24 And I will ſtrengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my ſword in his hand: but I will break Pharaoh's arms: and he ſhall groan before him with the groanings of a deadly-wounded man.

25 But I will ſtrengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh ſhall fall down; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I ſhall put my ſword into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he ſhall ſtretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will ſcatter the Egyptians among the nations, and diſperſe them among the countries; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 A relation unto Pharaoh, 3 of the glory of Aſſyria, 10 and the fall thereof for pride. 18 The like deſtruction of Egypt.

AND it came to paſs in the eleventh year, in the third month, in the firſt day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying, 18 Every head was made bald, &c.) This ſiege laſted thirteen years: the heads of the ſoldiers became bald by continually wearing their helmets, and their ſkin was worn off their ſhoulders with carrying earth to raiſe fortifications.

21 In that day will I cauſe the horn of the houſe of Iſrael to bud forth, &c.) The word horn implies ſtrength, and thence is uſed to denote proſperity or a flouriſhing condition. Here it ſignifies, that notwithſtanding the enemies of God and his church, denoted by Tyre, Egypt, and other oppreſſors of the Jews, the kingdom and ſtate of Iſrael ſhould again flouriſh under the Meſſiah.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXX.

12 And I will make the rivers dry, &c.) I will deſtroy the ſtrength of Egypt: the metaphor is taken from the decreaſe or falling of the Nile, upon the overflowing of which all the plenty and proſperity of Egypt depended.

13 And I will cauſe their images to ceaſe out of Noph, &c.) Noph or Memphis was one of the principal cities of Egypt, a ſeat of their kings, and a place where their ſepulchres were made. This place was famous for the worſhip of Apis or Oſyris; for which reaſon the prophet, in a very peculiar manner, denounces deſtruction to the idolatry of that place.

2 Son of man, ſpeak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude; Whom are thou like in thy greatneſs?

3 ¶ Behold, the Aſſyrian was a cedar in Lebanon with fair branches, and with a ſhadowing ſhroud, and of an high ſtature; and his top was among the thick boughs.

4 The waters made him great, the deep ſet him up on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and ſent out her little rivers unto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches became long, becauſe of the multitude of waters, when he ſhot forth.

6 All the fowls of heaven made their neſts in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beaſts of the field bring forth their young, and under his ſhadow dwelt all great nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatneſs, in the length of his branches: for his root was by great waters.

8 The cedars in the garden of God could not hide him: the fir-trees were not like his boughs, and the cheſnut-trees were not like his branches; nor any tree in the garden of God was like unto him in his beauty.

9 I have made him fair by the multitude of his branches: ſo that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

10 ¶ Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt lifted up thyſelf in height, and he hath ſhot up his top among the thick boughs, and his heart is lifted up in his height;

11 I have therefore delivered him up into the hand of the mighty one of the heathen; he ſhall ſurely deal with him: I have driven him out for his wickedneſs.

12 And ſtrangers, the terrible of the nations, have cut him off, and have left him: upon the mountains and in all the vallies his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land; and all the people of the earth are gone down from his ſhadow, and have left him.

13 Upon his ruin ſhall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beaſts of the field ſhall be upon his branches:

14 To the end that none of all the trees by the waters exalt themſelves for their height, neither ſhoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither their trees ſtand up in their height, all that drink water: for they are all delivered unto death, to the nether parts of the earth, in the midſt of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus ſaith the Lord God, In the day when he went down to the grave I cauſed a mourning: I covered the deep for him, and I reſtrained the floods thereof, and the great waters were ſtayed; and I cauſed Lebanon to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted for him.

16 I made the nations to ſhake at the ſound of his fall, when I caſt him down to hell with them that deſcend into the pit; and all the trees of Eden, the choice and beſt of Lebanon, all that drink water, ſhall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They alſo went down into hell with him, unto them that be ſlain with the ſword; and they that were his arm, that dwelt under his ſhadow in the midſt of the heathen.

18 ¶ To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatneſs among the trees of Eden? yet ſhalt thou be brought down with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: thou ſhalt lie in the midſt of the uncircumciſed with them that be ſlain by the ſword. This is Pharaoh, and all his multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

A lamentation for the fearful fall of Egypt.

AND it came to paſs in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in the firſt day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and ſay unto him, Thou art like a young lion of the nations, and thou art as a whale in the ſeas; and thou cameſt forth with thy rivers, and troubleſt the waters with thy feet, and fouleſt their rivers.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will therefore ſpread out my net over thee with a company of many people; and they ſhall bring thee up in my net.

4 Then will I leave thee upon the land, I will caſt thee forth upon the open field, and will cauſe all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill the beaſts of the whole earth with thee.

5 And I will lay thy fleſh upon the mountains, and fill the vallies with thy height.

6 I will alſo water with thy blood the land wherein thou ſwimmeſt, even to the mountains; and the rivers ſhall be full of thee.

7 And when I ſhall put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the ſtars thereof dark; I will cover the ſun with a cloud, and the moon ſhall not give her light.

8 All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over thee, and ſet darkneſs upon thy land, ſaith the Lord God.

9 I will alſo vex the hearts of many people, when I ſhall bring thy deſtruction among the nations, into the countries which thou haſt not known.

Commentary on Chap. XXXI.

v. 3 Behold, the Aſſyrian was a cedar in Lebanon, &c.) The king of Nineveh is here compared to a tall and fair cedar, ſuch as grew on mount Lebanon. It was in this prince's reign, when Nebupoleſſar king of Babylon and Cyaxerxes king of Media joined their forces to beſiege Nineveh; and, after a long ſiege, took and utterly deſtroyed that great and famous city, and put an end to that part of the Aſſyrian empire. In this remarkable cataſtrophe, the prophecies of Nahum, Jonah, and Zephaniah, foretelling the deſtruction of Nineveh, were fulfilled.

13 Upon his ruin ſhall all the fowls of the heaven remain, &c.) As birds ſit upon the boughs of a tree cut down, and the beaſts browze upon its branches, ſo his dominions ſhall be a prey to the conquerors.

18 To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatneſs among the trees of Eden?) The prophet now applies himſelf to the king of Egypt, and aſks him, Wilt thou ſtill boaſt thyſelf as if no prince was thine equal? But remember, that thou ſhalt undergo the ſame fate with this fair flouriſhing cedar, the king of Aſſyria.

This is Pharaoh, and all his multitude, ſaith the Lord God.) The judgments that befel the king of Aſſyria (here deſcribed) is an exact repreſentation of the deſtruction of Pharaoh and his people.

Commentary on Chap. XXXII.

2 Thou art as a whale in the ſeas, &c.) By the word tanniin, here rendered a whale, we may properly underſtand a crocodile; and the following deſcription agrees very well with that amphibious animal, but cannot be applied to the whale.

7, 8 I will cover the heaven, and make the ſtars thereof dark, &c.) Theſe metaphors denote the downfal of ſtates and governments, kings and rulers being figuratively expreſſed by the ſun, moon, and ſtars. The judgments of the Almighty being earneſts of a general judgment, they are deſcribed in ſuch terms as if the whole frame of nature was diſſolved.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, and their kings ſhall be horribly afraid for thee, when I ſhall brandiſh my ſword before them; and they ſhall tremble at every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The ſword of the king of Babylon ſhall come upon thee:

12 By the ſwords of the mighty will I cauſe thy multitude to fall, the terrible of the nations, all of them; and they ſhall ſpoil the pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof ſhall be deſtroyed.

13 I will deſtroy alſo all the beaſts thereof from beſides the great waters; neither ſhall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beaſts trouble them.

14 Then will I make their waters deep, and cauſe their rivers to run like oil, ſaith the Lord God.

15 When I ſhall make the land of Egypt deſolate, and the country ſhall be deſtitute of that whereof it was full, when I ſhall ſmite all them that dwell therein, then ſhall they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the lamentation wherewith they ſhall lament her: the daughters of the nations ſhall lament her: they ſhall lament for her, even for Egypt, and for all her multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

17 It came to paſs alſo in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, wail for the multitude of Egypt, and caſt them down, even her, and the daughters of the famous nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 Whom doſt thou paſs in beauty? go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumciſed.

20 They ſhall fall in the midſt of them that are ſlain by the ſword: ſhe is delivered to the ſword: draw her and all her multitudes.

21 The ſtrong among the mighty ſhall ſpeak to him out of the midſt of hell, with them that help him; they are gone down, they lie uncircumciſed, ſlain by the ſword.

22 Aſſhur is there and all her company: his graves are about him; all of them ſlain, fallen by the ſword;

23 Whoſe graves are ſet in the ſides of the pit, and her company is round about her grave: all of them ſlain, fallen by the ſword, which cauſed terror in the land of the living.

24 There is Elam, and all her multitude round about her grave; all of them ſlain, fallen by the ſword, which are gone down uncircumciſed into the nether parts of the earth, which cauſed their terror in the land of the living; yet have they borne their ſhame with them that go down to the pit.

25 They have ſet her a bed in the midſt of the ſlain with all her multitude: her graves are round about him; all of them uncircumciſed, ſlain by the ſword; though their terror was cauſed in the land of the living, yet have they borne their ſhame with them that go down to the pit: he is put in the midſt of them that be ſlain.

26 There is Meſhech, Tubal, and all her multitude: her graves are round about him; all of them uncircumciſed, ſlain by the ſword; though they cauſed their terror in the land of the living.

27 And they ſhall not lie with the mighty that are fallen of the uncircumciſed, which are gone down to hell with their weapons of war: and they have laid their ſwords under their heads; but their iniquities ſhall be upon their bones, though they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou ſhalt be broken in the midſt of the uncircumciſed, and ſhalt lie with them that are ſlain with the ſword.

29 There is Edom, her kings, and all her princes, which with their might are laid by them that were ſlain by the ſword: they ſhall lie with the uncircumciſed, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 There be the princes of the north, all of them, and all the Zidonians, which are gone down with the ſlain: with their terror they are aſhamed of their might; and they lie uncircumciſed with them that be ſlain by the ſword, and bear their ſhame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh ſhall ſee them, and ſhall be comforted over all his multitude, even Pharaoh and all his army ſlain by the ſword, ſaith the Lord God.

32 For I have cauſed my terror in the land of the living: and he ſhall be laid in the midſt of the uncircumciſed with them that are ſlain with the ſword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 By the duty of a watchman, 7 Ezekiel is admoniſhed of his duty. 10 God ſheweth the juſtice of his ways.

AGAIN the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſpeak to the children of thy people, and ſay unto them, When I bring the ſword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their coaſts, and ſet him for a watchman:

3 If when he ſee the ſword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warn the people;

4 Then whoſoever heareth the ſound of the trumpet, and taketh not warning; if the ſword come, and take him away, his blood ſhall be upon his own head;

5 He heard the ſound of the trumpet, and took not warning; his blood ſhall be upon him: but he that taketh warning ſhall deliver his ſoul.

6 But if the watchman ſee the ſword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the ſword come and take any perſon from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 ¶ So thou, O ſon of man, I have ſet thee a watchman unto the houſe of Iſrael: therefore thou ſhalt hear the word at my mouth, and warn them from me.

8 When I ſay unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou ſhalt ſurely die; if thou doſt not ſpeak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man ſhall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheleſs, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he do not turn from his way, he ſhall die in his iniquity; but thou haſt delivered thy ſoul.

10 ¶ Therefore, O thou ſon of man, ſpeak unto the 21 The ſtrong among the mighty ſhall ſpeak to him out of the midſt of hell, with them that help him, &c.) The prophet has given, in this and the following verſes, a poetical deſcription of the infernal regions; where the ghoſts of deceaſed tyrants, with their ſubjects, are repreſented as coming to meet the king of Egypt and his auxiliaries, upon their arrival at the ſame place. By the word hell is to be underſtood the ſtate of the dead.

25 A bed in the midſt of the ſlain, &c.) The word bed is here uſed for the grave.

30 There be the princes of the north, all of them, and all the Zidonians, &c.) By the princes of the north the prophet ſeems to mean the Tyrians and their allies, joined here with the Zidonians their near neighbours, from their being placed together in this prophecy, as ſharers in the ſame deſtruction.

houſe of Iſrael, Thus ye ſpeak, ſaying, If our tranſgreſſions and our ſins be upon us, and we pine away in them, how ſhould we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, ſaith the Lord God, I have no pleaſure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye, from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O houſe of Iſrael?

12 Therefore, thou ſon of man, ſay unto the children of thy people, The righteouſneſs of the righteous ſhall not deliver him in the day of his tranſgreſſion: as for the wickedneſs of the wicked, he ſhall not fall thereby in the day that he turneth from his wickedneſs: neither ſhall the righteous be able to live for his righteouſneſs in the day that he ſinneth.

13 When I ſhall ſay to the righteous, that he ſhall ſurely live: if he truſt to his own righteouſneſs and commit iniquity, all his righteouſneſs ſhall not be remembered; but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he ſhall die for it.

14 Again, when I ſay unto the wicked, Thou ſhalt ſurely die: if he turn from his ſin, and do that which is lawful and right:

15 If the wicked reſtore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the ſtatutes of life, without committing iniquity, he ſhall ſurely live, he ſhall not die.

16 None of his ſins that he hath committed ſhall be mentioned unto him: he hath done that which is lawful and right; he ſhall ſurely live.

17 Yet the children of thy people ſay, The way of the Lord is not equal: but as for them, their way is not equal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteouſneſs, and committeth iniquity, he ſhall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked turn from his wickedneſs, and do that which is lawful and right, he ſhall live thereby.

20 Yet ye ſay, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye houſe of Iſrael, I will judge you every one after his ways:

21 ¶ And it came to paſs, in the twelfth year of our captivity, in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, that one that had eſcaped out of Jeruſalem came unto me, ſaying, The city is ſmitten.

22 Now the hand of the Lord was upon me in the evening afore he that was eſcaped came, and had opened my mouth until he came to me in the morning: and my mouth was opened, and I was no more dumb.

23 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

24 Son of man, they that inhabit thoſe waſtes of the land of Iſrael ſpeak, ſaying, Abraham was one, and he inherited the land: but we are many; the land is given us for inheritance.

25 Wherefore ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Ye eat with the blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and ſhed blood: and ſhall ye poſſeſs the land?

26 Ye ſtand upon your ſword, ye work abomination, and ye defile every one his neighbour's wife: and ſhall ye poſſeſs the land?

27 Say thou thus unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, As I live, ſurely they that are in the waſtes ſhall fall by the ſword; and him that is in the open field will I give to the beaſts to be devoured; and they that be in the forts, and in the caves, ſhall die of the peſtilence.

28 For I will lay the land moſt deſolate, and the pomp of her ſtrength ſhall ceaſe; and the mountains of Iſrael ſhall be deſolate, that none ſhall paſs through.

29 Then ſhall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid the land moſt deſolate, becauſe of all their abominations which they have committed.

30 Alſo thou ſon of man, the children of thy people ſtill are talking againſt thee by the walls, and in the doors of the houſes, and ſpeak one to another, every one to his brother, ſaying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh forth from the Lord.

31 And they come unto thee as the people cometh, and they ſit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouth they ſhew much love, but their heart goeth after their covetouſneſs.

32 And lo, thou art unto them as a very lovely ſong of one that hath a pleaſant voice, and can play well on an inſtrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not.

33 And when this cometh to paſs, (lo it will come) then ſhall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Bad ſhepherds reproved. 7 Their judgment. 11 God's providence for his flock. 20 The kingdom of Chriſt.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,
2 Son of man, propheſy againſt the ſhepherds of Iſrael, propheſy, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God unto the ſhepherds, Woe be to the ſhepherds of Iſrael that do feed themſelves! ſhould not the ſhepherds feed the flocks?

3 Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, ye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock.

4 The diſeaſed have ye not ſtrengthened, neither have ye healed that which was ſick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye ſought that which was loſt; but with force and with cruelty have ye ruled them.

5 And they were ſcattered becauſe there is no ſhepherd: and they became meat to all the beaſts of the field when they were ſcattered.

6 My ſheep wandered through all the mountains,

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXIII.

10 If our tranſgreſſions and our ſins be upon us, and we pine away in them, how ſhould we then live?) Thou haſt already threatened that we ſhould pine away in our ſins, how then can the promiſes of life belong to us? Theſe are the words of perſons deſpairing of God's mercy, and from hence taking encouragement to continue in their ſins.

21 In the twelfth year of our captivity, &c.) The news of the taking and burning of Jeruſalem was brought to that part of the Babyloniſh dominions where the Jewiſh captives were placed, in about a year and four months after the calamity happened.

27 And they that be in the forts, and in the caves, ſhall die of the peſtilence.) The caves here mentioned were a ſet of ſtrong holds formed by nature in the rocks, or cut out in the ſides of the mountains. They were ſo large that men might ſecure themſelves, their families and goods in them. Such was the cave of Adulam, where David had his reſidence for ſome time, and was reſorted to by his relations, and the principal officers of his army.

33 When this cometh to paſs, (lo, it will come) &c.) Or rather, lo, it is come. When you ſee my prophecies concerning the deſtruction of Jeruſalem actually come to paſs, as it appears they are at this very time, then you will be convinced of the truth of my miſſion, and of your own inexcuſable crime in deſpiſing my predictions.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXIV.

6 My ſheep wandered through all the mountains, &c.) As ſheep, when deſtitute of a ſhepherd, wander from one mountain and hill to another, ſo my people have been forced to leave their habitations, and flee to any place where they might hope for protection.

and

and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was ſcattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did ſearch or ſeek after them.

7 ¶ Therefore, ye ſhepherds hear the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ſurely becauſe my flock became a prey, and my flock became meat to every beaſt of the field, becauſe there was no ſhepherd, neither did my ſhepherds ſearch for my flock, but the ſhepherds fed themſelves, and fed not my flock;

9 Therefore, O ye ſhepherds, hear the word of the Lord;

10 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I am againſt the ſhepherds: and I will require my flock at their hand, and cauſe them to ceaſe from feeding the flock: neither ſhall the ſhepherds feed themſelves any more: for I will deliver my flock from their mouth, that they may not be meat for them.

11 ¶ For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I, will both ſearch my ſheep, and ſeek them out.

12 As a ſhepherd ſeeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his ſheep that are ſcattered; ſo will I ſeek out my ſheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been ſcattered in the cloudy and dark day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Iſrael by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I will feed them in a good paſture, and upon the high mountains of Iſrael ſhall their fold be: there ſhall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat paſture ſhall they feed upon the mountains of Iſrael.

15 I will feed my flock, and I will cauſe them to lie down, ſaith the Lord God.

16 I will ſeek that which was loſt, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will ſtrengthen that which was ſick: but I will deſtroy the fat and the ſtrong: I will feed them with judgment.

17 And as for you, O my flock, thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I judge between cattle and cattle, between the rams and the he-goats.

18 Seemeth it a ſmall thing unto you to have eaten up the good paſture, but ye muſt tread down with your feet the reſidue of your paſtures? and to have drunk of the deep waters, but ye muſt foul the reſidue with your feet?

19 And as for my flock, they eat that which ye have trodden with your feet, and they drink that which ye have fouled with your feet.

20 ¶ Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God unto them, Behold, I, even I, will judge between the fat cattle and between the lean cattle.

21 Becauſe ye have thruſt with ſide and with ſhoulder, and puſhed all the diſeaſed with your horns, till ye have ſcattered them abroad;

22 Therefore will I ſave my flock, and they ſhall no more be a prey; and I will judge between cattle and cattle.

23 And I will ſet up one ſhepherd over them, and he ſhall feed them, even my ſervant David: he ſhall feed them, and he ſhall be their ſhepherd:

24 And I the Lord will be their God, and my ſervant David a prince among them: I the Lord have ſpoken it.

25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cauſe the evil beaſts to ceaſe out of the land: and they ſhall dwell ſafely in the wilderneſs, and ſleep in the woods.

26 And I will make them and the places round about my hill a bleſſing: and I will cauſe the ſhower to come down in his ſeaſon; there ſhall be ſhowers of bleſſing.

27 And the tree of the field ſhall yield her fruit, and the earth ſhall yield her increaſe, and they ſhall be ſafe in their land, and ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken the bands of their yoke, and delivered them out of the hand of thoſe that ſerved themſelves of them.

28 And they ſhall no more be a prey to the heathen, neither ſhall the beaſts of the land devour them; but they ſhall dwell ſafely, and none ſhall make them afraid.

29 And I will raiſe up for them a plant of renown, and they ſhall be no more conſumed with hunger in the land, neither bear the ſhame of the heathen any more.

30 Thus ſhall they know that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they, even the houſe of Iſrael, are my people, ſaith the Lord God.

31 And ye my flock, the flock of my paſture, are men, and I am your God, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXV.

The judgment of mount Seir for their hatred of Iſrael.

MOREOVER, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face againſt mount Seir, and propheſy againſt it,

3 And ſay unto it, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, O mount Seir, I am againſt thee, and I will ſtretch out mine hand againſt thee, and I will make thee moſt deſolate:

4 I will lay thy cities waſte, and thou ſhalt be deſolate, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

5 Becauſe thou haſt had a perpetual hatred, and haſt ſhed the blood of the children of Iſrael by the force of the ſword, in the time of their calamity, in the time that their iniquity had an end:

6 Therefore, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood ſhall purſue thee; ſith thou haſt not hated blood, even blood ſhall purſue thee.

12 So will I ſeek out my ſheep, &c.) I will bring them home from their ſeveral diſperſions, whither they have been driven in the dark and diſmal time of the deſtruction of their country, and their melancholy captivity.

23 And I will ſet up one ſhepherd over them—even my ſervant David.) The Meſſiah is often deſcribed, both in the Old and New Teſtament, under the title of a ſhepherd; and the title may be applied to him with reſpect to his office of king, as well as prophet. He is called, in other places of ſcripture, by the name of David, as being the perſon in whom all the promiſes made to David were fulfilled.

He ſhall feed them, and he ſhall be their ſhepherd.) This propheſy was remarkably fulfilled, when Chriſt, by the preaching of the goſpel, gathered in one the children of God which were ſcattered abroad, among whom were many of the loſt ſheep of the houſe of Iſrael.

29 A plant of renown, &c.) The Meſſiah is often deſcribed under the name of a branch.

31 And ye my flock, the flock of my paſture, are men, &c.) Theſe words, at the concluſion of the chapter, explain the metaphor which runs through the whole, that was ſaid of a flock and its ſhepherd, is to be underſtood of men and their governors; and eſpecially of God's people, whom he takes care of as a ſhepherd does of his flock.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXV.

6 Sith thou haſt not hated blood, even blood ſhall purſue thee.) Since thou haſt loved cruelty, and taken delight in ſhedding blood, vengeance ſhall purſue thee, and thou ſhalt fall into the hands of thoſe that will be as eager to ſhed thine.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir moſt deſolate, and cut off from it him that paſſeth out, and him that returneth.

8 And I will fill his mountains with his ſlain men: in thy hills, and in thy vallies, and in all thy rivers ſhall they fall that are ſlain with the ſword.

9 I will make thee perpetual deſolations, and thy cities ſhall not return: and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

10 Becauſe thou haſt ſaid, Theſe two nations and theſe two countries ſhall be mine, and we will poſſeſs it, whereas the Lord was there.

11 Therefore, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, I will even do according to thine anger, and according to thine envy which thou haſt uſed out of thy hatred againſt them; and I will make myſelf known among them, when I have judged thee.

12 And thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord, and that I have heard all thy blaſphemies which thou haſt ſpoken againſt the mountains of Iſrael, ſaying, They are laid deſolate, they are given us to conſume.

13 Thus with your mouth ye have boaſted againſt me, and have multiplied your words againſt me; I have heard them.

14 Thus ſaith the Lord God, When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee deſolate.

15 As thou didſt rejoice at the inheritance of the houſe of Iſrael, becauſe it was deſolate, ſo will I do unto thee: thou ſhalt be deſolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 The land of Iſrael is comforted by the heathens' deſtruction, 8 and God's bleſſing.

ALSO, thou ſon of man, propheſy unto the mountains of Iſrael, and ſay, Ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord:

2 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe the enemy hath ſaid againſt you, Aha, even the ancient high places are ours in poſſeſſion;

3 Therefore propheſy and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe they have made you deſolate, and ſwallowed you up on every ſide, that ye might be a poſſeſſion unto the reſidue of the heathen, and ye are taken up in the lips of talkers, and are an infamy of the people:

4 Therefore, ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord God: Thus ſaith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, to the deſolate waſtes and to the cities that are forſaken, which became a prey and deriſion to the reſidue of the heathen that are round about;

5 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Surely in the fire of my jealouſy have I ſpoken againſt the reſidue of the heathen, and againſt all Idumea, which have appointed my land into their poſſeſſion with the joy of all their heart, with deſpiteful minds, to caſt it out for a prey.

6 Propheſy, therefore, concerning the land of Iſrael, and ſay unto the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I have ſpoken in my jealouſy and in my fury becauſe ye have borne the ſhame of the heathen.

7 Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord God, I have lifted up mine hand, Surely the heathen that are about you they ſhall bear their ſhame.

8 ¶ But ye, O mountains of Iſrael, ye ſhall ſhoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people of Iſrael; for they are at hand to come.

9 For, behold, I am for you, and I will turn unto you, and ye ſhall be tilled and ſown.

10 And I will multiply men upon you, all the houſe of Iſrael, even all of it: and the cities ſhall be inhabited, and the waſtes ſhall be builded:

11 And I will multiply upon you man and beaſt; and they ſhall increaſe and bring fruit: and I will ſettle you after your old eſtates, and will do better unto you than at your beginnings; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I will cauſe men to walk upon you, even my people Iſrael; and they ſhall poſſeſs thee, and thou ſhalt be their inheritance, and thou ſhalt no more henceforth bereave them of men.

13 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe they ſay unto you, Thou land devoureſt up men, and haſt bereaved thy nations;

14 Therefore thou ſhalt devour men no more, neither bereave thy nations any more, ſaith the Lord God.

15 Neither will I cauſe men to hear in thee the ſhame of the heathen any more, neither ſhalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither ſhalt thou cauſe thy nations to fall any more, ſaith the Lord God.

16 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

17 Son of man, when the houſe of Iſrael dwelt in their own land, they defiled it by their own way, and by their doings: their way was before me as the uncleanneſs of a removed woman.

18 Wherefore I poured my fury upon them for the blood that they had ſhed upon the land, and for their idols wherewith they had polluted it:

19 And I ſcattered them among the heathen, and they were diſperſed through the countries: according to their way, and according to their doings, I judged them.

20 And when they entered unto the heathen, whither they went, they profaned my holy name, when they ſaid to them, Theſe are the people of the Lord, and are gone forth out of his land.

21 But I had pity for mine holy name, which the houſe of Iſrael had profaned among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore ſay unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, I do not this for your ſakes, O houſe of Iſrael, but for mine holy name's ſake, which ye have profaned among the heathen whither ye went.

23 And I will ſanctify my great name which was profaned among the heathen, which ye have profaned in the midſt of them; and the heathen ſhall know that I am the Lord, ſaith the Lord God, when I ſhall be ſanctified in you before their eyes.

14 When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee deſolate.) When I ſhall reſtore other countries conquered by the king of Babylon to their proſperity, thou ſhalt ſtill lie waſte and deſolate. The Edomites never recovered their country after they were driven out of it by the Nabatheans.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXVI.

3 And ye are taken up in the lips of talkers, and are an infamy of the people.) Your calamities have made you become a proverb, a bye-word, and a reproach among the heathen round about you, according to the threatnings of the prophets denounced againſt you.

11 I will do better unto you than at your beginnings, &c.) In beſtowing upon you the bleſſings of the goſpel.

23 And the heathen ſhall know that I am the Lord, &c.) The return of the Jews from the Babyloniſh captivity was remarked by the heathen as a ſignal inſtance of God's providence towards them.

24 For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land.

25 Then will I ſprinkle clean water upon you, and ye ſhall be clean: from all your filthineſs, and from all your idols will I cleanſe you,

26 A new heart alſo will I give you, and a new ſpirit will I put within you: and I will take away the ſtony heart out of your fleſh, and I will give you an heart of fleſh.

27 And I will put my ſpirit within you, and cauſe you to walk in my ſtatutes, and ye ſhall keep my judgments and do them.

28 And ye ſhall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers: and ye ſhall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will alſo ſave you from all your uncleanneſſes: and I will call for the corn, and I will increaſe it, and lay no famine upon you.

30 And I will multiply the fruit of the tree and the increaſe of the field, that ye ſhall receive no more reproach of famine among the heathen.

31 Then ſhall ye remember your own evil ways, and your doings that were not good, and ſhall loathe yourſelves in your own ſight, for your iniquities and for your abominations.

32 Not for your ſakes do I this, ſaith the Lord God, be it known unto you: be aſhamed and confounded for your own ways, O houſe of Iſrael.

33 Thus ſaith the Lord God, In the day that I ſhall have cleanſed you from all your iniquities, I will alſo cauſe you to dwell in the cities, and the waſtes ſhall be builded.

34 And the deſolate land ſhall be tilled, whereas it lay deſolate in the ſight of all that paſſed by.

35 And they ſhall ſay, This land that was deſolate, is become like the garden of Eden: and the waſte and deſolate and ruined cities are become fenced, and are inhabited.

36 Then the heathen that are left round about you ſhall know that I the Lord build the ruined places, and plant that that was deſolate: I the Lord have ſpoken it, and I will do it.

37 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will yet for this be enquired of by the houſe of Iſrael, to do it for them: I will increaſe them with men like a flock.

38 As the holy flock, as the flock of Jeruſalem in her ſolemn feaſts; ſo ſhall the waſte cities be filled with flocks of men: and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 By the reſurrection of dry bones, 11 The dead hope of Iſrael is revived. 21 The promiſes of Chriſt's kingdom.

THE hand of the Lord was upon me, and carried me out in the ſpirit of the Lord, and ſet me down in the midſt of the valley which was full of bones;

2 And cauſed me to paſs by them round about: and behold, there were very many in the open valley; and lo, they were very dry.

3 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, can theſe bones live? and I anſwered, O Lord God thou knoweſt.

4 Again he ſaid unto me, Propheſy upon theſe bones, and ſay unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord God unto theſe bones, Behold, I will cauſe breath to enter into you, and ye ſhall live:

6 And I will lay ſinews upon you, and will bring up fleſh upon you, and cover you with ſkin, and put breath in you, and ye ſhall live; and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I propheſied as I was commanded: and as I propheſied there was a noiſe, and behold, a ſhaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo the ſinews and the fleſh came up upon them, and the ſkin covered them above: but there was no breath in them.

9 Then ſaid he unto me, Propheſy unto the wind, propheſy ſon of man, and ſay to the wind, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon theſe ſlain that they may live.

10 So I propheſied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and ſtood up upon their feet an exceeding great army.

11 ¶ Then he ſaid unto me, Son of man, theſe bones are the whole houſe of Iſrael: behold, they ſay, Our bones are dried, and our hope is loſt; we are cut off for our parts.

12 Therefore propheſy, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, O my people, I will open your graves, and cauſe you to come up out of your graves, and bring you into the land of Iſrael.

13 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your graves, 14 And ſhall put my ſpirit in you, and ye ſhall live; and I ſhall place you in your own land: then ſhall ye know that I the Lord have ſpoken it, and performed it, ſaith the Lord.

15 The word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

16 Moreover, thou ſon of man, take thee one ſtick, and write upon it, For Judah and for the children of Iſrael his companions: then take another ſtick, and write upon it, For Joſeph, the ſtick of Ephraim, and for all the houſe of Iſrael his companions:

17 And join them one to another into one ſtick; and they ſhall become one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people ſhall ſpeak unto thee, ſaying, Wilt thou not ſhew us what thou meaneſt by theſe?

19 Say unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the ſtick of Joſeph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Iſrael his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the ſtick of Judah, and make them one ſtick, and they ſhall be one in mine hand.

20 And the ſticks whereon thou writeſt ſhall be in thine hand before their eyes.

21 ¶ And ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord

---

38 As the holy flock, as the flock of Jeruſalem in her ſolemn feaſts, &c.) The ſheep and the lambs deſigned for the ſacrifices, which were offered at three ſolemn feaſts, were very numerous, and, at the ſame time, the beſt of their kind.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXVII.

4 O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.) A prophetic and lively repreſentation of the voice of the ſon of God, which all that are in the ground ſhall hear at the laſt day, and ſhall come forth.

9 Propheſy unto the wind, &c.) Or rather to the breath, implying that vital principle which unites ſoul and body together, and is mentioned as diſtinct from the four winds in the following words.

Come from the four winds, O breath, &c.) The words figuratively repreſent the reſtoration of the Jewiſh nations from the ſeveral countries whither they were diſperſed over the world, expreſſed by their being ſcattered toward all winds, chap. v. 10.

God

God, Behold, I will take the children of Iſrael from among the heathen whither they be gone, and will gather them on every ſide, and bring them into their own land.

22 And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Iſrael: and one king ſhall be king to them all: and they ſhall be no more two nations, neither ſhall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all:

23 Neither ſhall they defile themſelves any more with their idols, nor with their deteſtable things, nor with any of their tranſgreſſions: but I will ſave them out of all their dwelling places wherein they have ſinned, and will cleanſe them: ſo ſhall they be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And David my ſervant ſhall be king over them: and they all ſhall have one ſhepherd: they ſhall alſo walk in my judgments, and obſerve my ſtatutes, and do them.

25 And they ſhall dwell in the land that I have given unto Jacob my ſervant, wherein your fathers have dwelt, and they ſhall dwell therein, even they and their children, and their children's children for ever: and my ſervant David ſhall be their prince for ever.

26 Moreover, I will make a covenant of peace with them; it ſhall be an everlaſting covenant with them: and I will place them, and multiply them, and will ſet my ſanctuary in the midſt of them for evermore.

27 My tabernacle alſo ſhall be with them: yea, I will be their God, and they ſhall be my people.

28 And the heathen ſhall know that I the Lord do ſanctify Iſrael, when my ſanctuary ſhall be in the midſt of them for evermore.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 The army, 8 and malice of Gog. 14 God's judgment againſt him.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,
2 Son of man, ſet thy face againſt Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal, and prophecy againſt him.

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I am againſt thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal.

4 And I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine army, horſes and horſemen, all of them clothed with all ſorts of armour, even a great company, with bucklers and ſhields, all of them handling ſwords:

5 Perſia, Ethiopia, and Libya with them: all of them with ſhield and helmet:

6 Gomer and all his bands; the houſe of Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

7 Be thou prepared, and prepare for thyſelf, thou and all thy company that are aſſembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them.

8 ¶ After many days thou ſhalt be viſited: in the latter years thou ſhalt come into the land that is brought back from the ſword, and is gathered out of many people, againſt the mountains of Iſrael, which have been always waſte: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they ſhall dwell ſafely, all of them.

9 Thou ſhalt aſcend and come like a ſtorm; thou ſhalt be like a cloud to cover the land, thou and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus ſaith the Lord God, It ſhall alſo come to paſs, that at the ſame time ſhall things come into thy mind, and thou ſhalt think an evil thought:

11 And thou ſhalt ſay, I will go up to the land of unwalled villages; I will go to them that are at reſt, that dwell ſafely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates,

12 To take a ſpoil and to take a prey; to turn thine hand upon the deſolate places that are now inhabited, and upon the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods, that dwell in the midſt of the land.

13 Sheba and Dedan, and the merchants of Tarſhiſh, with all the young lions thereof, ſhall ſay unto thee, Art thou come to take a ſpoil? haſt thou gathered thy company to take a prey? to carry away ſilver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to take a great ſpoil?

14 ¶ Therefore, ſon of man, prophely and ſay unto Gog, Thus ſaith the Lord God, In that day when my people of Iſrael dwelleth ſafely, ſhalt thou not know it?

15 And thou ſhalt come from thy place out of the north parts, thou and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horſes, a great company, and a mighty army:

16 And thou ſhalt come up againſt my people of Iſrael, as a cloud to cover the land; it ſhall be in the latter days, and I will bring thee againſt my land, that the heathen may know me, when I ſhall be ſanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

17 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Art thou he of whom I have ſpoken in old time by my ſervants the prophets of Iſrael, which prophefied in thoſe days many years, that I would bring thee againſt them?

18 And it ſhall come to paſs at the ſame time, when Gog ſhall come againſt the land of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God, that my fury ſhall come up in my face.

19 For in my jealouſy, and in the fire of my wrath have I ſpoken, Surely in that day there ſhall be a great ſhaking in the land of Iſrael.

20 So that the fiſhes of the ſea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beaſts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, ſhall ſhake at my preſence, and the mountains ſhall be thrown down, and the ſteep places ſhall fall, and every wall ſhall fall to the ground.

22 And one king ſhall be king to them all, &c.) The Meſſiah, who is that one ſhepherd and prince that ſhall rule over them all as one nation. The Meſſiah is deſcribed as king of the Jews in moſt of the prophecies of the Old Teſtament (a truth unanimouſly owned by the Jews) ſo that they impiouſly renounced their own avowed principles, when they told Pilate, that they had no king but Cæſar.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXVIII.

2 Set thy face againſt Gog, the land of Magog, &c.) Magog was the ſon of Japhet, from whom the Scythians are generally ſuppoſed to be derived. Dr. Hyde informs us, that the Mogul Tartars are ſtill called by that name. The Turks, therefore, who were originally natives of Tartary, are probably here meant by Gog and Magog. The land of Canaan hath for ſeveral years been in poſſeſſion of the Turks, nor was the whole ſtrength of Europe ſufficient to recover that land from the infidels: the Almighty, therefore, ſeems to have reſerved that work for himſelf, when that country ſhall be the ſcene of ſome extraordinary event of providence.

17 Of whom I have ſpoken in old time by my ſervants the prophets of Iſrael, &c.) The prophet is here ſpeaking of ſome terrible enemy to God's people, who ſhall be ſubdued by the immediate hand of heaven, which victory ſhould be a prelude to the glorious times of peace and proſperity. This enemy is ſaid to be foretold by the prophets, and is therefore probably deſcribed under the names of ſuch nations as were the chief enemies to the Jews in the particular times of each prophet. The expreſſion here uſed, in old time, plainly implies, that there was to be a ſucceſſion of many ages between the publiſhing of theſe prophecies, and the event foretold by them, and therefore ſeems to look beyond the times of Antiochus Epiphanes, which expoſitions apply to this paſſage of Ezekiel.

21 And I will call for a ſword againſt him throughout all my mountains, ſaith the Lord God: every man's ſword ſhall be againſt his brother.

22 And I will plead againſt him with peſtilence and with blood: and I will rain upon him and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and great hailſtones, fire and brimſtone.

23 Thus will I magnify myſelf, and ſanctify myſelf; and I will be known in the eyes of many nations; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 God's judgments upon Gog. 8 Iſrael's victory. 17 The feaſt of the fowls.

THEREFORE, thou ſon of man, propheſy againſt Gog, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I am againſt thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal:

2 And I will turn thee back, and leave but the ſixth part of thee, and will cauſe thee to come up from the north parts, and will bring thee upon the mountains of Iſrael:

3 And I will ſmite thy bow out of thy left hand, and will cauſe thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou ſhalt fall upon the mountains of Iſrael, thou, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: I will give thee unto the ravenous birds of every ſort, and to the beaſts of the field, to be devoured.

5 Thou ſhalt fall upon the open field; for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

6 And I will ſend a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell careleſsly in the iſles; and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 So will I make my holy name known in the midſt of my people Iſrael; and I will not let them pollute my holy name any more; and the heathen ſhall know that I am the Lord, the holy One in Iſrael.

8 ¶ Behold, it is come, and it is done, ſaith the Lord God; this is the day whereof I have ſpoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Iſrael ſhall go forth, and ſhall ſet on fire and burn the weapons, both the ſhields and the bucklers, the bows and the arrows, and the hand-ſtaves and the ſpears, and they ſhall burn them with fire ſeven years:

10 So that they ſhall take no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the foreſts; for they ſhall burn the weapons with fire: and they ſhall ſpoil thoſe that ſpoiled them, and rob thoſe that robbed them, ſaith the Lord God.

11 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, that I will give unto Gog a place there of graves in Iſrael, the valley of the paſſengers on the eaſt of the ſea; and it ſhall ſtop the noſes of the paſſengers: and there ſhall they bury Gog and all his multitude; and they ſhall call it, The valley of Hamon-gog.

12 And ſeven months ſhall the houſe of Iſrael be burying of them, that they may cleanſe the land,

13 Yea, all the people of the land ſhall bury them; and it ſhall be to them a renown, the day that I ſhall be glorified, ſaith the Lord God.

14 And they ſhall ſever out men of continual employment, paſſing through the land, to bury with the paſſengers, thoſe that remain upon the face of the earth, to cleanſe it: after the end of ſeven months ſhall they ſearch.

15 And the paſſengers that paſs through the land, when any ſeeth a man's bone, then ſhall he ſet up a ſign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-gog.

16 And alſo the name of the city ſhall be Hamonah. Thus ſhall they cleanſe the land.

17 ¶ And, thou, ſon of man, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Speak unto every feathered fowl, and to every beaſt of the field: Aſſemble yourſelves, and come; gather yourſelves on every ſide to my ſacrifice that I do ſacrifice for you, even a great ſacrifice upon the mountains of Iſrael, that ye may eat fleſh and drink blood.

18 Ye ſhall eat the fleſh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, of lambs, and of goats, of bullocks, all of them fatlings of Baſhan.

19 And ye ſhall eat fat till ye be full, and drink blood till ye be drunken, of my ſacrifice which I have ſacrificed for you.

20 Thus ye ſhall be filled at my table with horſes and chariots, with mighty men, and with all men of war, ſaith the Lord God.

21 And I will ſet my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen ſhall ſee my judgment that I have executed, and my hand that I have laid upon them.

22 So the houſe of Iſrael ſhall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and forward.

23 And the heathen ſhall know that the houſe of Iſrael went into captivity for their iniquity: becauſe they treſpaſſed againſt me, therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into the hand of their enemies: ſo fell they all by the ſword.

24 According to their uncleanneſs and according to their tranſgreſſions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have mercy upon the whole houſe of Iſrael, and will be jealous for my holy name:

26 After that they have borne their ſhame, and all their treſpaſſes whereby they have treſpaſſed againſt me, when they dwelt ſafely in their land, and none made them afraid.

27 When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am ſanctified in them in the ſight of many nations;

28 Then ſhall they know that I am the Lord their God, which cauſed them to be led into captivity among the heathen, but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there.

29 Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have poured out my ſpirit upon the houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXIX.

2 I will—leave but the ſixth part of thee, &c.) Others render it, I will ſtrike thee with five plagues, mentioned ch. xxxviii. ver. 22.

8 Behold, it is come, and it is done, ſaith the Lord God, &c.) The time appointed for this great deſtruction is come, and it is the laſt and finiſhing ſtroke of God's juſtice upon the enemies of his church and truth.

17 Speak unto every feathered fowl, and to every beaſt of the field, &c.) It was the cuſtom for perſons that offered ſacrifice to invite their friends to the feaſt that was made of the remainder; ſo here the prophet, by God's command, invites the beaſts and fowls to partake of the ſacrifice of his enemies ſlain. The ſlaughter of God's enemies is called a ſacrifice, becauſe it is offered as an atonement to the divine juſtice.

20 Thus ye ſhall be filled at my table, &c.) The feaſt made upon the peace-offerings, or ſacrifices of thankſgiving, is properly called The table of the Lord; from whence the expreſſion is applied to the feaſt of the Lord's ſupper.

CHAP. XL.

1 The time, manner, and end of Ezekiel's vision. 6 The description of the temple.

IN the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten, in the self-same day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 In the visions of God brought he me into the land of Israel, and set me upon a very high mountain, by which was as the frame of a city on the south.

3 And he brought me thither, and behold, there was a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of brass, with a line of flax in his hand, and a measuring-reed; and he stood in the gate.

4 And the man said unto me, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee; for to the intent that I might shew them unto thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest, to the house of Israel.

5 And behold, a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring-reed of six cubits long by the cubit, and an hand-breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed, and the height one reed.

6 Then came he unto the gate which looketh toward the east, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad, and the other threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad; and between the little chambers were five cubits, and the threshold of the gate, by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate eight cubits: and the posts thereof, two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the little chambers of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure: and the posts had one measure on this side and on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate, ten cubits: and the length of the gate thirteen cubits.

12 The space also before the little chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door.

14 He made also posts of threescore cubits, even unto the post of the court round about the gate.

15 And from the face of the gate of the entrance unto the face of the porch of the inner gate were fifty cubits.

16 And there were narrow windows to the little chambers, and to their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and windows were round about inward: and upon each post were palm-trees.

17 Then brought he me into the outward court, and lo, there were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about: thirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement by the side of the gates over-against the length of the gates was the lower pavement.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the fore-front of the lower gate unto the forefront of the inner court without, an hundred cubits eastward and northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court that looked toward the north, he measured the length thereof and the breadth thereof.

21 And the little chambers thereof were three on this side, and three on that side: and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows, and their arches, and their palm-trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh towards the east: and they went up unto it by seven steps; and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court was over-against the gate toward the north, and toward the east: and he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubits.

24 After that he brought me toward the south, and behold, a gate toward the south: and he measured the posts thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about, like those windows: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm-trees, one on this side, and another on that side upon the posts thereof.

27 And there was a gate in the inner court toward the south: and he measured from gate to gate toward the south an hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me to the inner court by the south-gate: and he measured the south-gate according to these measures.

29 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures: and there were windows in it, and in the arches

COMMENTARY on Chap. XL.

1 The hand of the Lord was upon me, &c.) That is, the prophet felt sensible impressions of the power and spirit of the Almighty. God having forsaken the city and temple of Jerusalem, and given them up to destruction for the idolatries and other sins committed there, he shews the prophet, in this and the following chapters, the model or plan of another temple, of the same dimensions with that built by Solomon. David had the pattern of the temple, built by his successor, revealed to him by God; and Moses had the model of the tabernacle represented to him in a vision, while he continued in mount Sinai. And here the plan of Solomon's temple is again discovered to Ezekiel, who, foretelling the destruction of this temple by the Chaldeans, shews how highly it was valued by the Jews, when he calls it, The dwelling-place of their strength, and the desire of their eyes: they, indeed, considered it as the honour, glory, and safeguard of their nation. This fabric lying in ruins at the time when Ezekiel had this vision, the Jews stood in need of comfort, instruction and promises on this occasion: they would not have been desirous of returning home, had they received no promise of the restoration of the temple, as well as of their commonwealth, the temple being the pledge of God's presence among them. The ritual law of Moses would soon have been adapted to the manners of the Gentiles where they lived, had not the expectation of a new temple, to which most of its rites were fitted, restrained their propensity to idolatry; and they would have been dispirited beyond measure, as they were afterwards upon sight of the second temple, if the prophet had plainly foretold that the new structure should fall short of the glory of the old one; they were therefore to be encouraged with hopes of returning to rebuild their temple, which should be finished after the plan of that of Solomon.

thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the outer court: and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof; and the going up to it had eight ſteps.

32 And he brought me into the inner court toward the eaſt,: and he meaſured the gate according to theſe meaſures.

33 And the little chambers thereof, and the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to theſe meaſures: and there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outward court; and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof on this ſide, and on that ſide: and the going-up to it had eight ſteps.

35 And he brought me to the north gate, and meaſured it according to theſe meaſures;

36 The little chambers thereof, the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, and the windows to it round about: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the poſts thereof were toward the outer court; and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof on this ſide, and on that ſide: and the going-up to it had eight ſteps.

38 And the chambers and the entries thereof were by the poſts of the gates, where they waſhed the burnt-offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this ſide, and two tables on that ſide, to ſlay thereon the burnt-offering, and the ſin-offering, and the treſpaſs-offering.

40 And at the ſide without, as one goeth up to the entry of the north-gate, were two tables; and on the other ſide, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this ſide, and four tables on that ſide, by the ſide of the gate; eight tables, whereupon they ſlew their ſacrifices.

42 And the four tables were of hewn ſtone for the burnt-offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high; whereupon alſo they laid the inſtruments wherewith they ſlew the burnt-offering and the ſacrifice.

43 And within were hooks, an hand broad, faſtened round about: and upon the tables was the fleſh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate were the chambers of the ſingers in the inner court, which was at the ſide of the north gate; and their proſpect was toward the ſouth: one at the ſide of the eaſt gate, having the proſpect toward the north.

45 And he ſaid unto me, This chamber whoſe proſpect is toward the ſouth, is for the prieſts the keepers of the charge of the houſe.

46 And the chamber whoſe proſpect is toward the north, is for the prieſts the keepers of the charge of the altar: theſe are the ſons of Zadok among the ſons of Levi, which come near to the Lord to miniſter unto him.

47 So he meaſured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, four ſquare, and the altar that was before the houſe.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the houſe, and meaſured each poſt of the porch, five cubits on this ſide, and five cubits on that ſide; and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this ſide, and three cubits on that ſide.

49 The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits: and he brought me by the ſteps whereby they went up to it: and there were pillars by the poſts, one on this ſide, and another on that ſide.

CHAP. XLI.

The meaſures, parts, chambers, and ornaments of the temple.

AFTERWARD he brought me to the temple, and meaſured the poſts, ſix cubits broad on the one ſide, and ſix cubits broad on the other ſide, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the door was ten cubits; and the ſides of the door were five cubits on the one ſide, and five cubits on the other ſide: and he meaſured the length thereof forty cubits; and the breadth twenty cubits.

3 Then went he inward, and meaſured the poſt of the door two cubits, and the door ſix cubits, and the breadth of the door ſeven cubits.

4 So he meaſured the length thereof, twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, before the temple; and he ſaid unto me, This is the moſt holy place.

5 After he meaſured the wall of the houſe ſix cubits; and the breadth of every ſide-chamber, four cubits, round about the houſe on every ſide.

6 And the ſide-chambers were three, one over another, and thirty in order: and they entered into the wall which was of the houſe for the ſide-chambers round about, that they might have hold, but they had not hold in the wall of the houſe.

7 And there was an enlarging and a winding about ſtill upward to the ſide-chambers; for the winding about of the houſe went ſtill upward round about the houſe: therefore the breadth of the houſe was ſtill upward, and ſo increaſed from the loweſt chamber to the higheſt by the midſt.

8 I ſaw alſo the height of the houſe round about the foundations of the ſide chambers were a full reed of ſix great cubits.

9 The thickneſs of the wall which was for the ſide chamber without, was five cubits; and that which was left, was the place of the ſide chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideneſs of twenty cubits round about the houſe on every ſide.

11 And the doors of the ſide chamber were toward 46 Theſe are the ſons of Zadok among the ſons of Levi, &c.) The high prieſthood belonged to the eldeſt houſe of the ſons of Aaron; ſo that the office properly belonged to the family of Zadok, tho' that of Ithamar uſurped it for ſome time from Eli, who was high prieſt, in the time of Samuel, to Abiather, whom Solomon diſpoſſeſſed, and reſtored the high prieſthood to the right line, by placing Zadok in his room. The family of Zadok alone is mentioned in this viſion, probably becauſe they continued attached to the worſhip of the true God, when the prieſts of Ithamar's line forſook it, and fell into idolatry; and as the eldeſt ſon of the family of Zadok had an undoubted right to the prieſthood, ſo he was an eminent type of the Meſſiah, the eternal high prieſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLI.

3 Then went he inward, and meaſured the poſt of the door, &c.) There is no underſtanding this without the help of the Septuagint. It is a deſcription of the partition-wall and door between the Holy and Holy of Holies, which, according to the Septuagint, was twenty cubits long, viz. the door ſix cubits, and the breadth of the wall on each ſide ſeven cubits, and two thick.

the place that was left, one door toward the north, and another door toward the ſouth: and the breadth of the place that was left, was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the ſeparate place, at the end toward the weſt, was ſeventy cubits broad: and the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and the length thereof ninety cubits.

13 So he meaſured the houſe, an hundred cubits long; and the ſeparate place, and the building, with the walls thereof, an hundred cubits long.

14 Alſo the breadth of the face of the houſe, and of the ſeparate place toward the eaſt, an hundred cubits.

15 And he meaſured the length of the building over againſt the ſeparate place which was behind it and the galleries thereof on the one ſide, and on the other ſide, an hundred cubits, with the inner temple, and the porches of the court;

16 The door-poſts, and the narrow windows, and the galleries round about on their three ſtories, over againſt the door, ceiled with wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

17 To that above the door, even unto the inner houſe and without, and by all the wall round about, within and without, by meaſure.

18 And it was made with cherubims and palm-trees, ſo that a palm-tree was between a cherub and a cherub; and every cherub had two faces;

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palm-tree on the one ſide, and the face of a young lion toward the palm-tree on the other ſide: it was made through all the houſe round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm-trees made, and on the wall of the temple.

21 The poſts of the temple were ſquared, and the face of the ſanctuary; the appearance of the one as the appearance of the other.

22 The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits; and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof, were of wood: and he ſaid unto me, This is the table that is before the Lord.

23 And the temple and the ſanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two leaves apiece, two turning leaves; two leaves for the one door, and two leaves for the other door.

25 And there were made on them, on the doors of the temple, cherubims and palm-trees, like as were made upon the walls: and there were thick planks upon the face of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windows, and palm-trees on the one ſide and on the other ſide, on the ſides of the porch, and upon the ſide-chambers of the houſe, and thick planks.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The prieſts chambers: 13 the uſe thereof. 19 The outward court meaſured.

THEN he brought me forth into the outer court, the way toward the north, and he brought me into the chamber that was over againſt the ſeparate place, and which was before the building toward the north.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and the breadth was fifty cubits.

3 Over againſt the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over againſt the pavement which was for the outer court, was gallery againſt gallery in three ſtories.

4 And before the chambers was a walk of ten cubits breadth inward, a way of one cubit: and their doors toward the north.

5 Now the upper chambers were ſhorter: for the galleries were higher than theſe, than the lower, and than the middlemoſt of the building.

6 For they were in three ſtories, but had not pillars as the pillars of the courts: therefore the building was ſtraitened more than the loweſt and the middlemoſt from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over againſt the chambers, toward the outer court on the fore-part of the chambers, the length thereof was fifty cubits.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the outer court was fifty cubits: and lo, before the temple were an hundred cubits.

9 And from under theſe chambers was the entry on the eaſt ſide, as one goeth into them from the outer court.

10 The chambers were in the thickneſs of the wall of the court toward the eaſt, over againſt the ſeparate place, and over againſt the building.

11 And the way before them was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, as long as they, and as broad as they, and all their goings out were both according to their faſhions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers that were toward the ſouth, was a door in the head of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the eaſt, as one entereth into them.

13 ¶ Then ſaid he unto me, The north chambers, and the ſouth chambers, which are before the ſeparate place, they be holy chambers, where the prieſts that approach unto the Lord ſhall eat the moſt holy things: there ſhall they lay the moſt holy things, and the meat-offering, and the ſin-offering, and the treſpaſs-offering; for the place is holy.

14 When the prieſts enter therein, then ſhall they not go out of the holy place into the outer court, but there they ſhall lay their graments werein they miniſter; for they are holy: and ſhall put on other garments, and ſhall approach to thoſe things which are for the people.

15 Now, when he had made an end of meaſuring the inner houſe, he brought me forth toward the gate

---

14 Alſo the breadth of the face of the houſe, and of the ſeparate place toward the eaſt, an hundred cubits.) The whole front of the houſe eaſtward was an hundred cubits, which ſome expoſitors thus compute; the breadth of the temple twenty cubits, the thickneſs of the outward walls twelve cubits, the ſide chambers eight cubits, the walls of thoſe chambers five cubits on each ſide, and the twenty cubits round about the houſe.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLII.

1 Then he brought me forth into the outer court, the way toward the north, &c.) The angel here brings the prophet out of the inner court by the north gate into ſome chamber or building which looked towards the ſouth ſide of the temple, and which faced the wall or incloſure that encompaſſed the north ſide of the inner court and temple. Some ſuppoſe this to be a building diſtinct from all the parts of the temple hitherto deſcribed.

14 Then ſhall they not go out of the holy place into the outer court, but there they ſhall lay their garments, wherein they miniſter, &c.) They ſhall not go into the court of the people in their veſtments, but ſhall lay them up in ſome of theſe chambers. The prieſtly garments were only to be uſed in the time of their miniſtration.

whoſe proſpect is toward the eaſt, and meaſured it round about.

16 He meaſured the eaſt ſide with the meaſuring-reed, five hundred reeds, with the meaſuring-reed round about.

17 He meaſured the north ſide five hundred reeds, with the meaſuring reed round about.

18 He meaſured the ſouth ſide five hundred reeds, with the meaſuring-reed.

19 ¶ He turned about to the weſt ſide and meaſured five hundred reeds, with the meaſuring reed.

20 He meaſured it by the four ſides: it had a wall round about, five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make a ſeparation between the ſanctuary and the profane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 The returning of the glory of God into the temple.
7 The ſin of Iſrael hindered God's preſence.

AFTERWARD he brought me to the gate, even the gate that looketh toward the eaſt:

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Iſrael came from the way of the eaſt: and his voice was like a noiſe of many waters: and the earth ſhined with his glory.

3 And it was according to the appearance of the viſion which I ſaw, even according to the viſion that I ſaw when I came to deſtroy the city: and the viſions were like the viſion that I ſaw by the river Chebar: and I fell upon my face.

4 And the glory of the Lord came into the houſe by the way of the gate whoſe proſpect is toward the eaſt.

5 So the ſpirit took me up, and brought me into the inner court, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the houſe.

6 And I heard him ſpeaking unto me out of the houſe: and the man ſtood by me.

7 ¶ And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, the place of my throne, and the place of the ſoles of my feet where I will dwell in the midſt of the children of Iſrael for ever: and my holy name ſhall the houſe of Iſrael no more defile, neither they, nor their kings by their whoredom, nor by the carcaſes of their kings in their high places.

8 In their ſetting of their threſhold by my threſholds, and their poſt by my poſts, and the wall between me and them, they have even defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have conſumed them in mine anger.

9 Now let them put away their whoredom, and the carcaſes of their kings far from me, and I will dwell in the midſt of them for ever.

10 Thou ſon of man, ſhew the houſe to the houſe of Iſrael, that they may be aſhamed of their iniquities: and let them meaſure the pattern.

11 And if they be aſhamed of all that they have done, ſhew them the form of the houſe, and the faſhion thereof, and the goings-out thereof, and the comings-in thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof, and write it in their ſight, that they may keep the whole form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

12 This is the law of the houſe; Upon the top of the mountain, the whole limit thereof round about ſhall be moſt holy: Behold, this is the law of the houſe.

13 And theſe are the meaſures of the altar after the cubits. The cubit is a cubit and an hand breadth: even the bottom ſhall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit; and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about ſhall be a ſpan: and this ſhall be the higher place of the altar.

14 And from the bottom upon the ground even to the lower ſettle ſhall be two cubits, and the breadth one cubit, and from the leſſer ſettle even to the greater ſettle ſhall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 So the altar ſhall be four cubits; and from the altar and upwards ſhall be four horns.

16 And the altar ſhall be twelve cubits long, twelve broad, ſquare in the four ſquares thereof.

17 And the ſettle ſhall be fourteen cubits long, and fourteen broad in the four ſquares thereof; and the border about it ſhall be half a cubit: and the bottom thereof ſhall be a cubit about: and his ſtairs ſhall look toward the eaſt.

18 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, thus ſaith the Lord God, Theſe are the ordinances of the altar, in the day when they ſhall make it, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, and to ſprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou ſhalt give to the prieſts the Levites, that be of the ſeed of Zadok which approach unto me, to miniſter unto me, ſaith the Lord God, a young bullock for a ſin-offering.

20 And thou ſhalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the four horns of it, and on the four corners of the ſettle, and upon the border round about. Thus ſhalt thou cleanſe and purge it.

21 Thou ſhalt take the bullock alſo of the ſin-offering, and he ſhall burn it in the appointed place of the houſe without the ſanctuary.

22 And on the ſecond day thou ſhalt offer a kid of the goats without blemiſh for a ſin-offering: and they ſhall cleanſe the altar, as they did cleanſe it with the bullock.

23 When thou haſt made an end of cleanſing it, thou ſhalt offer a young bullock without blemiſh, and a ram out of the flock without blemiſh.

16 He meaſured the eaſt ſide with the meaſuring-reed five hundred reeds, &c.) This is the meaſure of the holy mountain, or area upon which the temple ſtood, deſcribed to be an exact ſquare, conſiſting of five hundred reeds in meaſure on each ſide of it. We may obſerve, that the heavenly Jeruſalem repreſented to St. John (Rev. xxi. 16) is likewiſe deſcribed as four ſquare, that figure being an emblem of ſolidity; and Ezekiel's viſion, as well as St. John's, is deſigned, in its myſtical ſenſe, to repreſent the regularity and ſtrength of Chriſt's kingdom.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLIII.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Iſrael came from the way of the eaſt, &c.) The word behold, is an expreſſion of joy and admiration, as if the prophet had ſaid, Behold a wonderful and joyful ſight! the glory of that God who calls himſelf the God of Iſrael, as chuſing to dwell among them, and to give evident tokens of his preſence and protection: this glory, which had departed from this place for ſo long a time, now returned to it, and fixed its reſidence among them. The glory of the Lord, when it forſook the temple, is deſcribed as departing from the eaſtern gate of it: afterwards it is repreſented as quite forſaking the city, and removing to a mountain on the eaſt ſide of it; and now it returns by the ſame way it departed.

5 And behold, the glory of the Lord filled the houſe.) The glory, or ſymbol of the divine preſence, which ye ſaw coming from the eaſt, entered into the temple, and ſettled there, as it did, when it was finiſhed by Solomon.

7 Where I will dwell in the midſt of the children of Iſrael for ever, &c.) The prophet here means the promiſe formerly made in relation to the tabernacle and temple, alluding to Chriſt, in whom all the promiſes of the Old Teſtament are to have their final accompliſhment. Zechariah propheſies of the Meſſiah, that he ſhould build the temple of the Lord, and bear the glory; that is, as the ſpiritual ſenſe of theſe propheſies is explained in the New Teſtament, he ſhall build the Chriſtian church; in him ſhall all the fulneſs of the Godhead dwell bodily and really, not in types or figures.

8 The wall between me and them, &c.) The margin gives a better ſenſe: There was but a wall between me and them.

24 And thou ſhalt offer them before the Lord, and the prieſt ſhall caſt ſalt upon them, and they ſhall offer them up for a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

25 Seven days ſhalt thou prepare every day a goat for a ſin-offering: they ſhall alſo prepare a young bullock; and a ram out of the flock without blemiſh.

26 Seven days ſhall they purge the altar and purify it; and they ſhall conſecrate themſelves.

27 And when theſe days are expired, it ſhall be that upon the eighth day, and ſo forward, the prieſts ſhall make your burnt-offerings upon the altar, and your peace-offerings: and I will accept you, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLIV.

1 The eaſt gate aſſigned only to the prince. 9 Idolaters incapable of the prieſt's office. 17 Ordinances for the prieſts.

THEN he brought me back the way of the gate of the outward ſanctuary which looketh toward the eaſt; and it was ſhut.

2 Then ſaid the Lord unto me, This gate ſhall be ſhut, it ſhall not be opened, and no man ſhall enter in by it: becauſe the Lord the God of Iſrael hath entered in by it: therefore it ſhall be ſhut.

3 It is for the prince: the prince, he ſhall ſit in it to eat bread before the Lord: he ſhall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and ſhall go out by the way of the ſame.

4 Then brought he me the way of the north gate before the houſe: and I looked, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the houſe of the Lord: and I fell upon my face.

5 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Son of man, mark well, and behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I ſay unto thee concerning all the ordinances of the houſe of the Lord, and all the laws thereof: and mark well the entering in of the houſe, with every going-forth of the ſanctuary.

6 And thou ſhalt ſay to the rebellious, even to the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, O ye houſe of Iſrael, let it ſuffice you of all your abominations,

7 In that ye have brought into my ſanctuary ſtrangers uncircumciſed in heart, and uncircumciſed in fleſh, to be in my ſanctuary, to pollute it, even my houſe, when ye offer my bread, the fat and the blood, and they have broken my covenant, becauſe of all your abominations.

8 And ye have not kept the charge of mine holy things: but ye have ſet keepers of my charge in my ſanctuary for yourſelves.

9 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, No ſtranger uncircumciſed in heart, nor uncircumciſed in fleſh, ſhall enter into my ſanctuary, of any ſtranger that is among the children of Iſrael.

10 And the Levites that are gone away far from me when Iſrael went aſtray, which went aſtray away from me after their idols; they ſhall even bear their iniquity.

11 Yet they ſhall be miniſters in my ſanctuary, having charge at the gates of the houſe, and miniſtering to the houſe: they ſhall ſlay the burnt-offering, and the ſacrifice for the people, and they ſhall ſtand before them to miniſter unto them.

12 Becauſe they miniſtered unto them before their idols, and cauſed the houſe of Iſrael to fall into iniquity; therefore have I lifted up mine hand againſt them, ſaith the Lord God, and they ſhall bear their iniquity.

13 And they ſhall not come near unto me to do the office of a prieſt unto me, nor to come near to any of my holy things in the moſt holy place: but they ſhall bear their ſhame, and their abominations which they have committed:

14 But I will make them keepers of the charge of the houſe for all the ſervice thereof, and for all that ſhall be done therein.

15 But the prieſts the Levites, the ſons of Zadok, that kept the charge of my ſanctuary when the children of Iſrael went aſtray from me, they ſhall come near to me, to miniſter unto me, and they ſhall ſtand before me to offer unto me the fat and the blood, ſaith the Lord God.

16 They ſhall enter into my ſanctuary, and they ſhall come near to my table to miniſter unto me, and they ſhall keep my charge.

17 ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs, that when they enter in at the gates of the inner court, they ſhall be clothed with linen garments; and no wool ſhall come upon them, whiles they miniſter in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They ſhall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and ſhall have linen breeches upon their loins; they ſhall not gird themſelves with any thing that cauſeth ſweat.

19 And when they go forth into the outer court, even into the outer court to the people, they ſhall put off their garments wherein they miniſtered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they ſhall put on other garments, and they ſhall not ſanctify the people with their garments.

20 Neither ſhall they ſhave their heads nor ſuffer their locks to grow long: they ſhall only poll their heads.

21 Neither ſhall any prieſt drink wine when they enter into the inner court.

22 Neither ſhall they take for their wives a widow, nor her that is put away; but they ſhall take maidens of the ſeed of the houſe of Iſrael, or a widow that had a prieſt before.

23 And they ſhall teach my people the difference between the holy and profane, and cauſe them to diſcern between the unclean and the clean.

24 And in controverſy they ſhall ſtand in judgment;

---

26 Shall conſecrate themſelves.) This is a wrong tranſlation; the Hebrew expreſsly ſays, They ſhall conſecrate it.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLIV.

2 This gate ſhall be ſhut, it ſhall not be opened, &c.) It ſhall not ſtand open continually, as it formerly did, but on certain ſeaſons only, and that out of reſpect to the divine glory, which made its entrance that way, where it had now taken up its reſidence, not to depart any more by the eaſt gate of the temple, as it formerly did.

5 Mark well the entering in of the houſe, with every going-forth of the ſanctuary.) The word laws is here to be repeated to this ſenſe, that the prophet ſhould admoniſh the people of the laws relating to the admiſſion of certain perſons into the temple, or the courts of it, and ſuffer none unqualified to attend upon God's ſervice therein.

10 And the Levites that are gone away far from me, &c.) The ſame who are called the prieſts the Levites, the ſons of Levi who are prieſts. Many of theſe departed from attending upon God's ſervice, and fell into idolatry: firſt, in the general apoſtacy of the ten tribes, afterwards under Ahaz, and other wicked kings of Judah. Theſe ſhall be degraded from attending upon the higher offices belonging to the prieſthood, God having particularly threatened to puniſh the ſin of idolatry to the third and fourth generation.

20 Neither ſhall they ſhave their heads, &c.) This ſentence may be tranſlated, Thou ſhalt not ſhave thy head with baldneſs, that is, to make baldneſs, for the dead. The Jews underſtand it as an expreſſion of mourning for the dead, which agrees with the ſenſe of the parallel texts. The words in the original contain a general prohibition, including the times of mourning as well as other ſeaſons.

and they ſhall judge it according to my judgments: and they ſhall keep my laws and my ſtatutes in all mine aſſemblies; and they ſhall hallow my ſabbaths.

25 And they ſhall come at no dead perſon to defile themſelves: but for father or for mother, or for ſon or for daughter, for brother or for ſiſter, that hath had no huſband, they may defile themſelves.

26 And after he is cleanſed, they ſhall reckon unto him ſeven days.

27 And in the day that he goeth into the ſanctuary, unto the inner court, to miniſter in the ſanctuary, he ſhall offer his ſin-offering, ſaith the Lord God.

28 And it ſhall be unto them for an inheritance: I am their inheritance. And ye ſhall give them no poſſeſſion in Iſrael; I am their poſſeſſion.

29 They ſhall eat the meat-offering, and the ſin-offering, and the treſpaſs-offering; and every dedicated thing in Iſrael ſhall be theirs.

30 And the firſt of all the firſt fruits of all things, and every oblation of all of every ſort of your oblations ſhall be the prieſt's: ye ſhall alſo give unto the prieſt the firſt of your dough, that he may cauſe the bleſſing to reſt in thine houſe.

31 The prieſts ſhall not eat of any thing that is dead of itſelf, or torn, whether it be fowl or beaſt.

CHAP. XLV.

1 The portion of the land for the ſanctuary, 6 for the city and for the prince.

MOREOVER, when ye ſhall divide by lot the land for inheritance, ye ſhall offer an oblation unto the Lord, an holy portion of the land: the length ſhall be the length of five and twenty thouſand reeds, and the breadth ſhall be ten thouſand. This ſhall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 Of this there ſhall be for the ſanctuary five hundred in length, with five hundred in breadth, ſquare round about; and fifty cubits round about for the ſuburbs thereof.

3 And of this meaſure ſhalt thou meaſure the length of five and twenty thouſand, and the breadth of ten thouſand: and in it ſhall be the ſanctuary and the moſt holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land ſhall be for the prieſts the miniſters of the ſanctuary, which ſhall come near to miniſter unto the Lord; and it ſhall be a place for their houſes, and an holy place for the ſanctuary.

5 And the five and twenty thouſand of length, and the ten thouſand of breadth ſhall alſo the Levites, the miniſters of the houſe have for themſelves, for a poſſeſſion for twenty chambers.

6 ¶ And he ſhall appoint the poſſeſſion of the city five thouſand broad and five and twenty thouſand long over againſt the oblation of the holy portion: it ſhall be for the whole houſe of Iſrael.

7 And a portion ſhall be for the prince on the one ſide and on the other ſide of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the poſſeſſion of the city, before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the poſſeſſion of the city, from the weſt ſide weſtward, and from the eaſt ſide eaſtward; and the length ſhall be over againſt one of the portions, from the weſt border unto the eaſt border.

8 In the land ſhall be his poſſeſſion in Iſrael: and my princes ſhall no more oppreſs my people; and the reſt of the land ſhall they give to the houſe of Iſrael according to their tribes.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Let it ſuffice you, O princes of Iſrael: remove violence and ſpoil, and execute judgment and juſtice, take away your exactions from my people, ſaith the Lord God.

10 Ye ſhall have juſt balances, and a juſt ephah, and a juſt bath.

11 The ephah and the bath ſhall be of one meaſure, that the bath may contain the tenth part of an homer, and the ephah the tenth part of an homer; the meaſure thereof ſhall be after the homer.

12 And the ſhekel ſhall be twenty gerahs; twenty ſhekels, five and twenty ſhekels, fifteen ſhekels, ſhall be your maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye ſhall offer: the ſixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye ſhall give the ſixth part of an ephah of an homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of oil, the bath of oil, ye ſhall offer the tenth part of a bath out of the cor, which is an homer of ten baths; for ten baths are an homer:

15 And one lamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the fat paſtures of Iſrael, for a meat-offering, and for a burnt-offering, and for peace-offerings, to make reconciliation for them, ſaith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land ſhall give this oblation for the prince in Iſrael.

17 And it ſhall be the prince's part to give burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and drink-offerings, in the feaſts and in the new moons, and in the ſabbaths, in all ſolemnities of the houſe of Iſrael: he ſhall prepare the ſin-offering, and the meat-offering, and the burnt-offering, and the peace-offerings, to make reconciliation for the houſe of Iſrael.

18 Thus ſaith the Lord God, In the firſt month, in the firſt day of the month, thou ſhalt take a young bullock without blemiſh, and cleanſe the ſanctuary.

19 And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering, and put it upon the poſts of the houſe, and upon the four corners of the ſettle of the altar, and upon the poſts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And ſo thou ſhalt do the ſeventh day of the month, for every one that erreth, and for him that is ſimple: ſo ſhall ye reconcile the houſe.

21 In the firſt month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye ſhall have the paſſover, a feaſt of ſeven days; unleavened bread ſhall be eaten.

30 Ye ſhall alſo give unto the prieſt the firſt of your dough.) The firſt dough that you bake of the new corn every year ſhall belong to the prieſts, in the ſame proportion as in other firſt-fruits, that is, a ſixtieth part.

That he may cauſe the bleſſing to reſt in thine houſe.) That the prieſt, whoſe office it is to bleſs the people in God's name, may procure a bleſſing for thee and thy family, according to the promiſe made, to bleſs thoſe who pay their tithes and offerings, through the prieſts, to him, the giver of all good things.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLV.

1 Moreover, when ye ſhall divide by lot the land for inheritance, ye ſhall offer an oblation unto the Lord, &c.) The land was divided by lot in the firſt diviſion of it under Joſhua: a particular ſhare of which was to be God's portion, as an acknowledgment of his ſovereign dominion. This practice has been adopted in all wiſe governments, in which the king has appointments of honorary tributes, not in themſelves intrinſic, but marks of obeiſance and homage. It is therefore called trumpa, or oblation, which word properly ſignifies the offering made to God out of the firſt fruits, and other increaſe of the ground.

16 All the people of the land ſhall give this oblation for the prince, &c.) Or, with the prince; that is, the prince ſhall join with the people in making theſe oblations; whereas the other offerings are to be at the ſole charge of the prince.

18 In the firſt month, &c.) Which was Niſan, containing part of March and part of April.

22 And

22 And upon that day ſhall the prince prepare for himſelf, and for all the people of the land, a bullock for a ſin-offering.

23 And ſeven days of the feaſt he ſhall prepare a burnt-offering to the Lord, ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams without blemiſh, daily the ſeven days; and a kid of the goats daily for a ſin-offering.

24 And he ſhall prepare a meat-offering of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and an hin of oil for an ephah.

25 In the ſeventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, ſhall he do the like in the feaſt of the ſeven days, according to the ſin-offering, according to the burnt-offering, and according to the meat-offering, and according to the oil.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 Ordinances for the prince in his worſhip, 9 and for the people.

THUS ſaith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court that looketh toward the eaſt ſhall be ſhut the ſix working days: but on the ſabbath it ſhall be opened, and in the day of the new-moon it ſhall be opened.

2 And the prince ſhall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and ſhall ſtand by the poſt of the gate, and the prieſt ſhall prepare his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings, and he ſhall worſhip at the threſhold of the gate: then he ſhall go forth: but the gate ſhall not be ſhut until the evening.

3 Likewiſe the people of the land ſhall worſhip at the door of this gate before the Lord in the ſabbaths and in the new-moons.

4 And the burnt-offering that the prince ſhall offer unto the Lord in the ſabbath-day, ſhall be ſix lambs without blemiſh, and a ram without blemiſh.

5 And the meat-offering ſhall be an ephah for a ram, and the meat-offering for the lambs as he ſhall be able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

6 And in the day of the new-moon it ſhall be a young bullock without blemiſh, and ſix lambs, and a ram: they ſhall be without blemiſh.

7 And he ſhall prepare a meat-offering, an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram; and for the lambs according as his hand ſhall attain unto, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

8 And when the prince ſhall enter, he ſhall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he ſhall go forth by the way thereof.

9 ¶ But when the people of the land ſhall come before the Lord in the ſolemn feaſts, he that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worſhip ſhall go out by the way of the ſouth gate; and he that entereth by the way of the ſouth gate ſhall go forth by the way of the north gate; he ſhall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but ſhall go forth over againſt it:

10 And the prince in the midſt of them, when they go in, ſhall go in: and when they go forth, ſhall go forth.

11 And in the feaſts and in the ſolemnities the meat-offering ſhall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs as he is able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

12 Now when the prince ſhall prepare a voluntary burnt-offering, or peace-offerings voluntarily unto the Lord, one ſhall then open him the gate that looketh toward the eaſt, and he ſhall prepare his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings, as he did on the ſabbath-day: then he ſhall go forth; and after his going forth one ſhall ſhut the gate.

13 Thou ſhalt daily prepare a burnt-offering unto the Lord of a lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh; thou ſhalt prepare it every morning.

14 And thou ſhalt prepare a meat-offering for it every morning, the ſixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to temper with the fine flour; a meat-offering continually, by a perpetual ordinance, unto the Lord.

15 Thus ſhall they prepare the lamb, and the meat-offering, and the oil, every morning, for a continual burnt-offering.

16 Thus ſaith the Lord God, If the prince give a gift unto any of his ſons, the inheritance thereof ſhall be his ſons; it ſhall be their poſſeſſion by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his ſervants, then it ſhall be his to the year of liberty; after it ſhall return to the prince: but his inheritance ſhall be his ſons for them.

18 Moreover, the prince ſhall not take of the people's inheritance by oppreſſion, to thruſt them out of their poſſeſſion: but he ſhall give his ſons inheritance out of his own poſſeſſion; that my people be not ſcattered every man from his poſſeſſion.

19 After he brought me through the entry, which was at the ſide of the gate, into the holy chambers of the prieſts which looked toward the north: and behold, there was a place on the two ſides weſtward.

20 Then ſaid he unto me, This is the place where the prieſts ſhall boil the treſpaſs-offering and the ſin-offering, where they ſhall bake the meat-offering; that they bear them not out into the outer court, to ſanctify the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the outer court, and cauſed me to paſs by the four corners of the court: and behold, in every corner of the court there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts joined of forty cubits long, and thirty broad: theſe four corners were of one meaſure.

23 And there was a row of building round about in them, round about them four, and it was made with boiling-places under the rows round about.

24 Then ſaid he unto me, Theſe are the places of them that boil, where the miniſters of the houſe ſhall boil the ſacrifice of the people.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLVI.

3 Likewiſe the people of the land ſhall worſhip at the door of this gate, &c.) During the continuance of the tabernacle, they that would offer any ſacrifices were required to bring it to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and there lay their hands upon it, under the temple: they came to the porch or ſouth gate of the inner court, according as the ſacrifice was to be ſlain on the north or ſouth ſide of the altar, and there preſented their ſacrifice. Here the inner porch of the eaſt gate is aſſigned for their ſtation who came to preſent themſelves before the Lord upon the ſolemn feſtivals, and they were to come no farther into the inner court.

9 He that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worſhip, ſhall go out by the way of the ſouth gate, &c.) The words imply the reaſon why the people were not to come in at the eaſt gate; becauſe there being no paſſage or thoroughfare weſtward, if they had entered in at the eaſt gate, they muſt have returned back the ſame way they came in, which would have been turning their back upon God, and the place of his reſidence.

17 It ſhall be his to the year of liberty, &c.) The year of jubilee is called the year of liberty, becauſe it freed men's perſons from the ſervice of their maſters, and their eſtates from any engagements, by which the right of them was transferred from their owners.

24 Theſe are the places of them that boil, where the miniſters of the houſe ſhall boil the ſacrifice of the people.) As there was a place in the inner temple for boiling the treſpaſs and ſin-offerings, ſo theſe may be appointed for boiling the peace-offerings, which were leſs eſteemed in dignity of holineſs, and theſe were probably boiled by the Levites or inferior miniſters; whereas the former were boiled in the court appointed for them, though indeed the prieſts and Levites are mentioned indiſcriminately through this prophecy.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The viſion of the holy waters: 6 the virtue of them. 13 The borders of the land.

AFTERWARD he brought me again unto the door of the houſe; and, behold, waters iſſued out from under the threſhold of the houſe eaſtward: for the fore-front of the houſe ſtood toward the eaſt, and the waters came down from under, from the right ſide of the houſe, at the ſouth ſide of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out of the way of the gate northward, and led me about the way without unto the outer gate by the way that looketh eaſtward; and, behold, there ran out waters on the right ſide.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eaſtward, he meaſured a thouſand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the waters were to the ancles.

4 Again he meaſured a thouſand, and brought me through the waters; the waters were to the knees. Again he meaſured a thouſand, and brought me through; the waters were to the loins.

5 Afterward he meaſured a thouſand; and it was a river that I could not paſs over: for the waters were riſen, waters to ſwim in, a river that could not be paſſed over.

6 ¶ And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, haſt thou ſeen this? then he brought me, and cauſed me to return to the brink of the river.

7 Now, when I had returned, behold, at the bank of the river were very many trees on the one ſide and on the other.

8 Then ſaid he unto me, Theſe waters iſſue out toward the eaſt country, and go down into the deſart, and go into the ſea; which being brought forth into the ſea, the waters ſhall be healed.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs, that every thing that liveth, which moveth, whitherſoever the rivers ſhall come, ſhall live; and there ſhall be a very great multitude of fiſh, becauſe theſe waters ſhall come thither: for they ſhall be healed; and every thing ſhall live whither the river cometh.

10 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the fiſhers ſhall ſtand upon it, from En-gedi even unto En-eglaim; they ſhall be a place to ſpread forth nets: their fiſh ſhall be according to their kinds as the fiſh of the great ſea, exceeding many.

11 But the miry places thereof, and the marſhes thereof, ſhall not be healed; they ſhall be given to ſalt.

12 And by the river upon the bank thereof on this ſide and on that ſide, ſhall grow all trees for meat, whoſe leaf ſhall not fade, neither ſhall the fruit thereof be conſumed; it ſhall bring forth new fruit according to his months, becauſe their waters they iſſued out of the ſanctuary: and the fruit thereof ſhall be for meat, and the leaf thereof for medicine.

13 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, This ſhall be the border whereby ye ſhall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael: Joſeph ſhall have two portions.

14 And ye ſhall inherit it one as well as another; concerning the which I lifted up mine hand to give it unto your fathers: and this land ſhall fall unto you for inheritance.

15 And this ſhall be the border of the land toward the north ſide: from the great ſea, the way of Hethlon, as men go to Zedad;

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is between the border of Damaſcus, and the border of Hamath; Hazar-hatticon, which is by the coaſt of Hauran.

17 And the border from the ſea ſhall be Hazar-enan, the border of Damaſcus, and the north northward, and the border of Hamath. And this is the north ſide.

18 And the eaſt ſide ye ſhall meaſure from Hauran, and from Damaſcus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Iſrael by Jordan, from the border unto the eaſt ſea. And this is the eaſt ſide.

19 And the ſouth ſide ſouthward, from Tamar even to the waters of ſtrife in Kadeſh, the river to the great ſea. And this is the ſouth ſide ſouthward.

20 The weſt ſide alſo ſhall be the great ſea from the border, till a man come over againſt Hamath. This is the weſt ſide.

21 So ſhall ye divide this land unto you, according to the tribes of Iſrael.

22 And it ſhall come to paſs, that ye ſhall divide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, and to the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, which ſhall beget children among you; and they ſhall be unto you as born in the country among the children of Iſrael; they ſhall have inheritance with you among the tribes of Iſrael.

23 And it ſhall come to paſs, that in what tribe the ſtranger ſojourneth, there ſhall ye give him his inheritance, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1, 23 The portions of the twelve tribes, 8 of the ſanctuary, &c.

NOW theſe are the names of the tribes. From the north end to the coaſt of the way of Heſhlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazar-enan, the border of Damaſcus northward to the coaſt of Hamath; for theſe are his ſides eaſt and weſt; a portion for Dan.

2 And by the border of Dan, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Aſher.

3 And by the border of Aſher, from the eaſt ſide even unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Naphtali.

4 And by the border of Naphtali, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Manaſſeh.

5 And by the border of Manaſſeh, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the eaſt ſide even unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Reuben.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLVII.

1 And behold, waters iſſued out from under the threſhold of the houſe eaſtward, &c.) There was a large quantity of water for the uſes of the temple conveyed in pipes under ground from the fountain of Etam: in alluſion to theſe waters, this viſion is occaſioned.

2 And behold, there ran out waters on the right ſide.) Theſe were the ſpare waters not uſed in the ſervice of the temple, which were conveyed away by the eaſt part of the mountain, and by degrees increaſed their ſtream 'till they became a river, and loſt themſelves in the Dead Sea.

12 Whoſe leaf ſhall not fade, neither ſhall the fruit thereof be conſumed, &c.) Flouriſhing like the trees of Paradiſe: a very proper emblem of the righteous ſtill bringing forth fruit unto holineſs, and whoſe end is everlaſting life.

13 This ſhall be the border, &c.) By the captivities of Judah and Iſrael, the ſeveral limits or borders belonging to the inheritance of each tribe were obliterated and forgotten, whereupon here is a new boundary and diviſion made of the Holy Land, to be underſtood in a myſtical ſenſe; they might have expected to enjoy a full poſſeſſion, if their ſins had not prevented ſuch a bleſſing.

22 And to the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, &c.) Foreigners never had before the privilege of purchaſing or poſſeſſing any inheritance among the Jews; ſo that this myſtically denoted the incorporating the Gentiles into the ſame church with the Jews, making them fellow-heirs and of the ſame body with them by the goſpel.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the eaſt ſide even unto the weſt ſide, a portion for Judah.

8 ¶ And by the border of Judah, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide ſhall be the offering which ye ſhall offer of five and twenty thouſand reeds in breadth, and in length as one of the other parts, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide: and the ſanctuary ſhall be in the midſt of it.

9 The oblation that ye ſhall offer unto the Lord ſhall be of five and twenty thouſand in length, and of ten thouſand in breadth.

10 And for them, even for the prieſts, ſhall be this holy oblation; toward the north five and twenty thouſand in length, and toward the weſt ten thouſand in breadth, and toward the eaſt ten thouſand in breadth, and toward the ſouth five and twenty thouſand in length: and the ſanctuary of the Lord ſhall be in the midſt thereof.

11 It ſhall be for the prieſts that are ſanctified, of the ſons of Zadok; which have kept my charge, which went not aſtray when the children of Iſrael went aſtray, as the Levites went aſtray.

12 And this oblation of the land that is offered ſhall be unto them a thing moſt holy by the border of the Levites.

13 And over againſt the border of the prieſts, the Levites ſhall have five and twenty thouſand in length, and ten thouſand in breadth: all the length ſhall be five and twenty thouſand, and the breadth ten thouſand.

14 And they ſhall not ſell of it, neither exchange, nor alienate the firſt-fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the Lord.

15 And the five thouſand that are left in the breadth over againſt the five and twenty thouſand ſhall be a profane place for the city: for dwelling and for ſuburbs; and the city ſhall be in the midſt thereof.

16 And theſe ſhall be the meaſures thereof; the north ſide four thouſand and five hundred, and the ſouth ſide four thouſand and five hundred, and on the eaſt ſide four thouſand and five hundred, and the weſt ſide four thouſand and five hundred.

17 And the ſuburbs of the city ſhall be toward the north two hundred and fifty, and toward the ſouth two hundred and fifty, and toward the eaſt two hundred and fifty, and toward the weſt two hundred and fifty.

18 And the reſidue in length over againſt the oblation of the holy portion ſhall be ten thouſand eaſtward, and ten thouſand weſtward: and it ſhall be over againſt the oblation of the holy portion: and the increaſe thereof ſhall be for food unto them that ſerve the city.

19 And they that ſerve the city ſhall ſerve it out of all the tribes of Iſrael.

20 All the oblation ſhall be five and twenty thouſand, by five and twenty thouſand: ye ſhall offer the holy oblation four ſquare, with the poſſeſſion of the city.

21 And the reſidue ſhall be for the prince on the one ſide and on the other of the holy oblation, and of the poſſeſſion of the city over againſt the five and twenty thouſand of the oblation toward the eaſt border, and weſtward over againſt the five and twenty thouſand toward the weſt border, over againſt the portions for the prince; and it ſhall be the holy oblation; and the ſanctuary of the houſe ſhall be in the midſt thereof.

22 Moreover, from the poſſeſſion of the Levites, and from the poſſeſſion of the city, being in the midſt of that which is the prince's, between the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin, ſhall be for the prince.

23 ¶ As for the reſt of the tribes, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, Benjamin ſhall have a portion.

24 And by the border of Benjamin, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, Simeon ſhall have a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, Iſſachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Iſſachar, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun, from the eaſt ſide unto the weſt ſide, Gad a portion.

28 And by the border of Gad, at the ſouth ſide ſouthward, the border ſhall be even from Tamar unto the waters of ſtrife in Kadeſh, and to the river toward the great ſea.

29 This is the land which ye ſhall divide by lot unto the tribes of Iſrael for inheritance, and theſe are their portions, ſaith the Lord God.

30 And theſe are the goings out of the city on the north ſide, four thouſand and five hundred meaſures.

31 And the gates of the city ſhall be after the names of the tribes of Iſrael, three gates northward; one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, one gate of Levi.

32 And at the eaſt ſide four thouſand and five hundred: and three gates; and one gate of Joſeph; one gate of Benjamin, one gate of Dan.

33 And at the ſouth ſide four thouſand and five hundred meaſures; and three gates; one gate of Simeon, one gate of Iſſachar, one gate of Zebulun.

34 At the weſt ſide four thouſand and five hundred, with their three gates; one gate of Gad, one gate of Aſher, one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was round about eighteen thouſand meaſures: and the name of the city from that day ſhall be, The Lord is there.

Commentary on Chap. XLVIII.

7 And by the border of Reuben—a portion for Judah.) From the firſt verſe to the ſeventh, the ſituation of ſeven of the twelve tribes is deſcribed, which were placed on the north ſide of the holy portion, the length of Judea from north to ſouth being divided into twelve equal parts.

11 As the Levites went aſtray.) The word Levites is here uſed in its greateſt latitude, and comprehends the prieſts, as well as thoſe who are properly called the Levites. Many of theſe had defiled themſelves with idolatry, for which crime they were to be degraded from the honours and privileges due to thoſe prieſts who had continued faithful in their office.

35 And the name of the city from that day ſhall be, The Lord is there.) Jeruſalem was formerly called the city of God, and the city of the Great King. But, in the new Jeruſalem, God ſhall dwell in a more glorious manner, and make it the place of his perpetual reſidence; ſo that every part of that city ſhall be honoured with evident tokens of the Divine Preſence, and every member of it being dedicated to God's ſervice, and becoming an habitation of God through his ſpirit, ſhall have ſome degree of the holineſs of the temple, where God had placed his name.

THE BOOK OF DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Daniel was deſcended from the royal houſe of the kings of Judah, and was cotemporary with Ezekiel. He was one of the children of the captivity, being carried to Babylon when he was but eighteen years of age. His name is not prefixed to his book, but the many paſſages in which he ſpeaks in the firſt perſon, are a ſufficient proof that he was the author. His prophecies concerning the coming of the Meſſiah, and the other great events of after-times, are ſo clear and explicit, that Porphyry objected to them on that account, declaring that they muſt have been written after the facts were done. Among the old prophets, ſays the great Sir Iſaac Newton, Daniel is the moſt diſtinct in the order of time, and eaſieſt to be underſtood; and therefore, in thoſe things which relate to the laſt times, he is the key to the reſt.

CHAP. I.

1 Jehoiakim's captivity. 3 Aſhpenaz taketh Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah: 8 They, refuſing the king's portion, do proſper with pulſe and water: 17 Their excellency in wiſdom.

IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jeruſalem, and beſieged it.

2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the veſſels of the houſe of God, which he carried into the land of Shinar, into the houſe of his god; and he brought the veſſels into the treaſure-houſe of his god.

3 ¶ And the king ſpake unto Aſhpenaz, the maſter of his eunuchs, that he ſhould bring certain of the children of Iſrael, and of the king's ſeed, and of the princes;

4 Children in whom was no blemiſh, but well-favoured, and ſkilful in all wiſdom, and cunning in knowledge, and underſtanding ſcience, and ſuch as had ability in them to ſtand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily proviſion of the king's meat, and of the wine which he drank; ſo nouriſhing them three years, that at the end thereof they might ſtand before the king.

6 Now among theſe were of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah;

7 Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names: for he gave unto Daniel the name of Belteſhazzar; and to Hananiah, of Shadrach; and to Miſhael of Meſhach; and to Azariah of Abed-nego.

8 ¶ But Daniel purpoſed in his heart that he would not defile himſelf with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he requeſted of the prince of the eunuchs that he might not defile himſelf.

9 Now God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the prince of the eunuchs.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs ſaid unto Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: for why ſhould he ſee your faces worſe liking than the children which are of your ſort: then ſhall ye make me endanger my head to the king.

11 Then ſaid Daniel to Melzar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had ſet over Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy ſervants, I beſeech thee, ten days: and let them give us pulſe to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou ſeeſt, deal with thy ſervants.

14 So he conſented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their countenances

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

4 Children in whom was no blemiſh, &c.) He was directed to make choice of ſuch as had the beſt accompliſhments both of body and mind, as the more fit to attend at court; the word yeladim (children) does not extend to childhood, but refers to more advanced years, as we term the word manhood; nor can we ſuppoſe Daniel, or his companions, to be leſs than from ſeventeen years of age to twenty at this time, as may be concluded from their being put into conſiderable poſts and employments in the goverment a ſhort time after.

8 But Daniel purpoſed in his heart; that he would not defile himſelf with the portion of the king's meat, &c.) It was the cuſtom of moſt nations, before their meals, to make an offering of ſome part of what they were to eat or drink to their gods, as a thankful acknowledgment, that every thing they enjoyed was their gift. Theſe oblations among the Romans were called Proficiæ and Libamia; ſo that every entertainment had ſomething in it of the nature of a ſacrifice. This practice generally prevailing, made Daniel and his friends look upon the proviſions coming from the king's table as no better than meats offered to idols, and by ſuch offering became polluted and unclean.

appeared fairer and fatter in fleſh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they ſhould drink; and gave them pulſe.

17 As for theſe four children, God gave them knowledge and ſkill in all learning and wiſdom: and Daniel had underſtanding in all viſions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days that the king had ſaid he ſhould bring them in, then the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah; therefore ſtood they before the king.

20 And in all matters of wiſdom and underſtanding that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and aſtrologers that were in all his realm.

21 And Daniel continued even unto the firſt year of king Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

1 Nebuchadnezzar forgetteth his dream. 14 Daniel findeth it. 31 The dream, 36 and interpretation.

AND in the ſecond year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, wherewith his ſpirit was troubled, and his ſleep brake from him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the magicians, and the aſtrologers, and the ſorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to ſhew the king his dreams. So they came and ſtood before the king.

3 And the king ſaid unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my ſpirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then ſpake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriack, O king, live for ever: tell thy ſervants the dream, and we will ſhew the interpretation.

5 The king anſwered, and ſaid to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me: if ye will not make known unto me the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye ſhall be cut in pieces, and your houſes ſhall be made a dunghill.

6 But if ye ſhew the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye ſhall receive of me gifts and rewards and great honour: therefore ſhew me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They anſwered again, and ſaid, Let the king tell his ſervants the dream, and we will ſhew the interpretation of it.

8 The king anſwered and ſaid, I know of certainty that ye would gain the time, becauſe ye ſee the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not make known unto me the dream, there is but one decree for you; for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to ſpeak before me till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, and I ſhall know that ye can ſhew me the interpretation thereof.

10 The Chaldeans anſwered before the king, and ſaid, There is not a man upon the earth that can ſhew the king's matter: therefore there is no king, lord, nor ruler, that aſked ſuch things at any magician, or aſtrologer, or Chaldean.

11 And it is a rare thing that the king requireth; and there is none other that can ſhew it before the king except the gods, whoſe dwelling is not with fleſh.

12 For this cauſe the king was angry and very furious, and commanded to deſtroy all the wiſe men of Babylon.

13 And the decree went forth that the wiſe men ſhould be ſlain; and they ſought Daniel and his fellows to be ſlain.

14 ¶ Then Daniel anſwered with counſel and wiſdom to Arioch the captain of the king's guard, which was gone forth to ſlay the wiſe men of Babylon:

15 He anſwered and ſaid to Arioch the king's captain, Why is the decree ſo haſty from the king? Then Arioch made the thing known to Daniel.

16 Then Daniel went in, and deſired of the king that he would give him time, and that he would ſhew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his houſe, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah, his companions:

18 That they would deſire mercies of the God of heaven concerning this ſecret; that Daniel and his fellows ſhould not periſh with the reſt of the wiſe men of Babylon.

19 Then was the ſecret revealed unto Daniel in a night viſion. Then Daniel bleſſed the God of heaven:

20 Daniel anſwered and ſaid, Bleſſed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wiſdom and might are his;

21 And he changeth the times and the ſeaſons: he removeth kings, and ſetteth up kings: he giveth wiſdom unto the wiſe, and knowledge to them that know underſtanding.

22 He revealeth the deep and ſecret things: he knoweth what is in the darkneſs, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praiſe thee, O thou God of my fathers, who haſt given me wiſdom and might, and haſt made known unto me now what we deſired of thee: for thou haſt now made known unto us the king's matter.

24 Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to deſtroy the wiſe men of Babylon: he went and ſaid thus unto him, Deſtroy not the wiſe men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will ſhew unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haſte, and ſaid thus unto him, I have found a man of the captives of Judah that will make known unto the king the interpretation.

26 The king anſwered, and ſaid to Daniel, whoſe name was Belteſhazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have ſeen, and the interpretation thereof?

---

21 And Daniel continued even unto the firſt year of king Cyrus.) He lived to ſee the overthrow of the Babyloniſh monarchy by Cyrus, which made way for the fulfilling of Jeremiah's prophecy concerning the ſeventy weeks, in the return of the Jews from their firſt captivity, which was accompliſhed in the firſt year of king Cyrus, for the completion of which prophecy Daniel was very ſolicitous.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, &c.) Though it was but one continued dream, it contained divers ſcenes of affairs, it being a deſcription of the ſucceſſion of the four monarchies, which were to continue in different forms to the end of the world.

21 And he changeth the times and the ſeaſons: he removeth kings, and ſetteth up kings, &c.) The great changes and revolutions of the world are brought to paſs, by removing kings, and tranſlating their dominions to others, by raiſing ſome empires, and bringing down others: of this Nebuchadnezzar's dream, revealed to Daniel, was a ſignal inſtance, which contained the ſucceſſion of the four great monarchies of the world. The prophet ſpeaks of the diſpoſal of empires, as one of God's prerogatives, and the means whereby he works the moſt conſiderable changes. This is a very good and eſſential reaſon for perſuading men to ſubmit to ſuch viciſſitudes, as being the immediate acts of providence for very great and wiſe reaſons.

27 Daniel anſwered in the preſence of the king, and ſaid, The ſecret, which the king hath demanded, cannot the wiſe men, the aſtrologers, the magicians, the ſoothſayers ſhew unto the king:

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth ſecrets, and maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar what ſhall be in the latter days. Thy dream and the viſions of thy head upon thy bed, are theſe:

29 As for thee, O king, thy thoughts came into thy mind upon thy bed, what ſhould come to paſs hereafter: and he that revealeth ſecrets maketh known to thee what ſhall come to paſs.

30 But as for me, this ſecret is not revealed to me for any wiſdom that I have more than any living, but for their ſakes that ſhall make known the interpretation to the king, and that thou mighteſt know the thoughts of thy heart.

31 ¶ Thou, O king, ſaweſt, and behold a great image. This great image, whoſe brightneſs was excellent, ſtood before thee, and the form thereof was terrible.

32 This image's head was of fine gold, his breaſt and his arms of ſilver, his belly and his thighs of braſs.

33 His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou ſaweſt till that a ſtone was cut out without hands, which ſmote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the braſs, the ſilver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of the ſummer threſhing-floors; and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the ſtone that ſmote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

36 ¶ This is the dream; and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king.

37 Thou, O king, art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and ſtrength, and glory.

38 And whereſoever the children of men dwell, the beaſts of the field and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all. Thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee ſhall ariſe another kingdom inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of braſs, which ſhall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdom ſhall be ſtrong as iron: foraſmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and ſubdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all theſe, ſhall it break in pieces, and bruiſe.

41 And whereas thou ſaweſt the feet and toes, part of potter's clay, and part of iron, the kingdom ſhall be divided; but there ſhall be in it of the ſtrength of the iron, foraſmuch as thou ſaweſt the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron and part of clay, ſo the kingdom ſhall be partly ſtrong and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou ſaweſt iron mixed with miry clay, they ſhall mingle themſelves with the ſeed of men, but they ſhall not cleave one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

44 And in the days of theſe kings ſhall the God of heaven ſet up a kingdom which ſhall never be deſtroyed: and the kingdom ſhall not be left to other people, but it ſhall break in pieces and conſume all theſe kingdoms, and it ſhall ſtand for ever:

45 Foraſmuch as thou ſaweſt that the ſtone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the braſs, the clay, the ſilver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what ſhall come to paſs hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof ſure.

46 Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and worſhipped Daniel, and commanded that they ſhould offer an oblation and ſweet odours unto him.

47 The king anſwered unto Daniel, and ſaid, Of a truth it is, that your God is a God of gods, and a Lord of kings, and a revealer of ſecrets, ſeeing thou couldeſt reveal this ſecret.

48 Then the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and chief of the governors over all the wiſe men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel requeſted of the king, and he ſet Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel ſat in the gate of the king.

CHAP. III.

1 Nebuchadnezzar dedicateth a golden image in Dura.
8 Shadrach, Meſhach and Abed-nego are accuſed.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king made an image of gold, whoſe height was threeſcore cubits, 32 This image's head was of fine gold.) The Babylonian monarchy was arrived at the height of glory under Nebuchadnezzar, and Babylon was deemed the wonder of the world; ſo that this empire might be juſtly compared to a golden head.

His breaſt and his arms of ſilver.) The ſecond monarchy (namely, the Perſian) will be inferior to the Median or Babylonian, perhaps with reſpect to continuance.

And his thighs of braſs. 33 His legs of iron, &c.) Theſe emblems denote the ſtrength of the third monarchy (the Macedonian or Grecian) and of the fourth (the Roman monarchy) and are expreſſive of the irreſiſtible force with which they ſubdued their enemies, as iron and braſs are ſymbols of ſtrength in the prophetical writings.

35 And the ſtone that ſmote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.) This denotes the advancement and increaſe of Chriſt's kingdom, that it ſhould, from ſmall beginnings, proceed to fill the whole earth, as if a ſtone ſhould, by degrees, ſwell to a mountain.—Thus Chriſt is deſcribed as going forth conquering, and to conquer. This kingdom is deſcribed here under two ſtates or forms; the one may be ſtiled, by way of diſtinction, the kingdom of the ſtone, the other that of the mountain: the firſt commenced upon the erection of the fourth kingdom, while the ſtatue continued on its feet; the other was to be manifeſt under its laſt and weakeſt ſtate. Chriſt, the foundation of the church, is often compared to ſtone, and the church, in its flouriſhing ſtate, is repreſented as a mountain.

40 And the fourth kingdom ſhall be ſtrong as iron, &c.) In the ſeventh chapter of this prophecy it is repreſented as having great iron teeth. This fourth kingdom can be no other than the Roman empire. Some commentators, indeed, have reckoned the empire continued to Alexander's ſucceſſors, as a diſtinct kingdom from that which was ſet up by himſelf; but no writer of the hiſtory of thoſe times ſpeaks of it as ſuch; and this notion plainly contradicts the deſcription which Daniel gives of that kingdom. There the prophet repreſents the third kingdom as it was ſet up by Alexander, and continued under his ſucceſſors, by the metaphor of a goat having one great horn; and afterwards expreſsly calls Alexander the firſt king, and farther tells us that his kingdom ſhall be broken, and divided towards the four winds of heaven.

45 The ſtone was cut out of the mountain without hands, &c.) The phraſe, without hands, denotes it to be an act of God's own immediate power, and brought about by a miraculous interpoſition, free from any ſecondary cauſes: ſo the heavenly body, given to us at the reſurrection, is called a building, not made with hands. The ſame expreſſion is uſed concerning the human tabernacle, in oppoſition to buildings of heavenly ſtructure. In like manner Chriſt, at his coming into the world, had a body prepared for him by the Holy Ghoſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, &c.) This image was probably ſet up in honour of Bel, a teutelar deity, from whom Nebuchadnezzar called Daniel, Belteſhazzar. The proportion of this image ſhews it to have been made of a very irregular form, as no man's height is above ſix times his thickneſs. This makes it probable that the pedeſtal is included in the threeſcore cubits, together with the image, and ſuppoſes the image to have been thirty-ſix cubits, and the pedeſtal twenty-four.

and the breadth thereof ſix cubits: he ſet it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon.

2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king ſent to gather together the princes, the governors, and the captains, the judges, the treaſurers, the counſellors, the ſheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had ſet up.

3 Then the princes, the governors, and captains, the judges, the treaſurers, the counſellors, the ſheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces were gathered together unto the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had ſet up; and they ſtood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had ſet up.

4 Then an herald cried aloud, To you it is commanded, O people, nations, and languages,

5 That at what time ye hear the ſound of the cornet, flute, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, dulcimer, and all kinds of muſick, ye fall down and worſhip the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath ſet up.

6 And whoſo falleth not down and worſhippeth, ſhall the ſame hour be caſt into the midſt of a burning fiery furnace.

7 Therefore at that time, when all the people heard the ſound of the cornet, flute, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, and all kinds of muſick, all the people, the nations, and the languages fell down and worſhipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had ſet up.

8 ¶ Wherefore at that time certain Chaldeans came near and accuſed the Jews.

9 They ſpake and ſaid to the king Nebuchadnezzar, O king, live for ever.

10 Thou, O king, haſt made a decree that every man that ſhall hear the ſound of the cornet, flute, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery and dulcimer, and all kinds of muſick, ſhall fall down and worſhip the golden image:

11 And whoſo falleth not down and worſhippeth, that he ſhall be caſt into the midſt of a burning fiery furnace.

12 There are certain Jews whom thou haſt ſet over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego: theſe men, O king, have not regarded thee, they ſerve not thy gods, nor worſhip the golden image which thou haſt ſet up.

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in his rage and fury commanded to bring Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego: then they brought theſe men before the king.

14 Nebuchadnezzar ſpake and ſaid unto them, Is it true, O Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego? do not ye ſerve my gods, nor worſhip the golden image which I have ſet up.

15 Now if ye be ready that at what time ye hear the ſound of the cornet, flute, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery and dulcimer, and all kinds of muſick, ye fall down and worſhip the image which I have made, well; but if ye worſhip not, ye ſhall be caſt the ſame hour in the midſt of a burning fiery furnace; and who is that god that ſhall deliver you out of my hands?

16 Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego anſwered and ſaid to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we are not careful to anſwer thee in this matter.

17 If it be ſo, our God whom we ſerve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not ſerve thy gods, nor worſhip the golden image which thou haſt ſet up.

19 Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury, and the form of his viſage was changed againſt Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego: therefore he ſpake and commanded that they ſhould heat the furnace one ſeven times more than it was wont to be heated.

20 And he commanded the moſt mighty men that were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, and to caſt them into the burning fiery furnace.

21 Then theſe men were bound in their coats, their hoſen, and their hats, and their other garments, and were caſt into the midſt of the burning fiery furnace.

22 Therefore, becauſe the king's commandment was urgent, and the furnace exceeding hot, the flame of the fire ſlew thoſe men that took up Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego.

23 And theſe three men, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, fell down bound into the midſt of the burning fiery furnace.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was aſtoniſhed, and roſe up in haſte, and ſpake, and ſaid unto his counſellors, Did not we caſt three men bound into the midſt of the fire? They anſwered and ſaid unto the king, True, O king.

25 He anſwered and ſaid, Lo, I ſee four men looſe, walking in the midſt of the fire, and they have no hurt: and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God.

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and ſpake and ſaid, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, ye ſervants of the moſt high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego came forth of the midſt of the fire.

27 And the princes, governors and captains, and the king's counſellors, being gathered together, ſaw theſe men, upon whoſe bodies the fire had no power, nor was an hair of their head ſinged, neither were their coats changed, nor the ſmell of fire had paſſed on them.

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar ſpake, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the God of Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, who hath ſent his angel, and delivered his ſervants that truſted in him, and have changed the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they might not ſerve nor worſhip any god, except their own God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, That every people, nation, and language, which ſpeak any thing amiſs againſt the God of Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, ſhall be cut in pieces, and their houſes ſhall be made a dunghill; becauſe there is no other god that can deliver after this ſort.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abed-nego, in the province of Babylon.

4 O people, nations, and languages.) Whatſoever parts of the empire ye come from, or whatever language ye ſpeak. This form of ſpeech was deſigned to ſet forth the largeneſs and extent of the Babyloniſh empire, which had ſubjects of ſo many different languages. The ſame phraſe was afterwards made uſe of under the Medes and Perſians.

17 Our God, whom we ſerve, is able to deliver us—and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.) As we are firmly perſuaded of his power to deliver us, ſo we truſt in his mercy and goodneſs, that he will ſave us from this imminent danger: this they ſpeak out of a well-grounded hope, not from a certain foreſight, or prophetical inſpiration of being delivered, as ſuch a confidence would have defeated the worth of their courage and conſtancy, in deſpiſing the danger which threatened them.

19 Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury, and the form of his viſage was changed againſt Shadrach, &c.) He diſcovered in his looks the marks of his fierce diſpleaſure againſt theſe three perſons, not only on account of their ſuppoſed guilt of diſobedience, but likewiſe of the higheſt ingratitude towards him, who had preferred them to places of truſt and honour.

28 Bleſſed be the God of Shadrach, &c.) So Darius offered up his acknowledgments to the God of Daniel, as ſuperior to other gods and demons, but not as the only true God.

CHAP. IV.

CHAP. IV.

Nebuchadnezzar's dream. 19 Daniel interpreteth it. 28 The ſtory of the event.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwelt in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

2 I thought it good to ſhew the ſigns and wonders that the high God hath wrought toward me.

3 How great are his ſigns! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

4 ¶ I Nebuchadnezzar was at reſt in mine houſe, and flouriſhing in my palace:

5 I ſaw a dream which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed and the viſions of my head troubled me.

6 Therefore made I a decree to bring in all the wiſe men of Babylon before me, that they might make known unto me the interpretation of the dream.

7 Then came in the magicians, the aſtrologers, the Chaldeans, and the ſoothſayers: and I told the dream before them; but they did not make known unto me the interpretation thereof.

8 But at the laſt Daniel came in before me, whoſe name was Belteſhazzar, according to the name of my God, and in whom is the ſpirit of the holy gods: and before him I told the dream, ſaying,

9 O Belteſhazzar, maſter of the magicians, becauſe I know that the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no ſecret troubleth thee, tell me the viſions of my dream that I have ſeen, and the interpretation thereof.

10 Thus were the viſions of mine head in my bed; I ſaw, and behold, a tree in the midſt of the earth, and the height thereof was great.

11 The tree grew, and was ſtrong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the ſight thereof to the end of all the earth.

12 The leaves thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: the beaſts of the field had ſhadow under it, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all fleſh was fed of it.

13 I ſaw in the viſions of my head upon my bed, and behold, a watcher, and an holy one came down from heaven.

14 He cried aloud, and ſaid thus, Hew down the tree, and cut off his branches, ſhake off his leaves, and ſcatter his fruit: let the beaſts get away from under it, and the fowls from his branches.

15 Nevertheleſs, leave the ſtump of his roots in the earth, even with a band of iron and braſs, in the tender graſs of the field: and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beaſts in the graſs of the earth.

16 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beaſt's heart be given unto him: and let ſeven times paſs over him.

17 This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones; to the intent that the living may know that the Moſt High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will, and ſetteth up over it the baſeſt of men.

18 This dream I king Nebuchadnezzar have ſeen. Now thou, O Belteſhazzar, declare the interpretation thereof, foraſmuch as all the wiſe men of my kingdom are not able to make known unto me the interpretation: but thou art able; for the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee.

19 ¶ Then Daniel whoſe name was Belteſhazzar, was aſtonied for one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. The king ſpake, and ſaid, Belteſhazzar, let not the dream or the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteſhazzar anſwered and ſaid, My lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

20 The tree that thou ſaweſt, which grew, and was ſtrong, whoſe height reached unto the heaven, and the ſight thereof to all the earth;

21 Whoſe leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all; under which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and upon whoſe branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation:

22 It is thou, O king, that art grown and become ſtrong: for thy greatneſs is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

23 And whereas the king ſaw a watcher and an holy one coming down from heaven, and ſaying, Hew the tree down, and deſtroy it; yet leave the ſtump of the roots thereof in the earth, even with a band of iron and braſs, in the tender graſs of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beaſts of the field, till ſeven times paſs over him;

24 This is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the moſt High, which is come upon my lord the king:

25 That they ſhall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhall be with the beaſts of the field, and they ſhall make thee to eat graſs as oxen, and they ſhall wet thee with the dew of heaven, and ſeven times ſhall paſs over thee, till thou know that the moſt High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will.

26 And whereas they commanded to leave the ſtump of the tree-roots; thy kingdom ſhall be ſure unto thee, after that thou ſhalt have known that the heavens do rule.

27 Wherefore, O king, let my counſel be acceptable

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 Nebuchadnezzar the king, unto all people, nations, and languages, &c.) This chapter contains a recital of that edict or proclamation which Nebuchadnezzar had publiſhed after his being reſtored, the better to confirm the truth of the event here related.

10 I ſaw, and behold, a tree in the midſt of the earth, &c.) Princes and great men are often repreſented in ſcripture under the figure of fair and flouriſhing trees.

15 Nevertheleſs, leave the ſtump of his roots in the earth, &c.) As when the root of a tree is ſtill alive, there is a poſſibility of its flouriſhing again, ſo there ſhould ſtill be hopes of the king's recovering his former ſtate and dignity.

16 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beaſt's heart be given unto him.) Let him loſe his reaſon.

And let ſeven times paſs over him.) Seven years; ſo the expreſſion is taken, where the Hebrew reads, The kings of the north ſhall come at the end of times, or years. So the time, times, and an half, ſignify three years and an half, and are explained by forty-two months in Revelations.

17 This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones, &c.) It is called the decree of the Moſt High in the 24th verſe. The expreſſion of the text is an alluſion to the proceedings of earthly princes, who publiſh their decrees by the advice of their chief miniſters. Thus God is deſcribed as ſummoning all the hoſts of angels, and taking reſolutions according to their advice, and Chriſt is repreſented as attended with angels and ſaints, as his co-aſſeſſors at the day of judgment. This ſentence or decree might alſo be explained, that it was pronounced at the requeſt of thoſe angels whom God had appointed to preſide over the affairs of the Babyloniſh empire. Watchers and holy ones are here ſpoken of in the plural number; whereas, in the 13th verſe, the words are in the ſingular, which difference may be thus accounted for, that the ſentence was pronounced at the joint requeſt of many, but was to be put in execution by one ſingle angel.

19 Then Daniel—was aſtonied for one hour, &c.) Both at the ſurpriſing circumſtance of the judgments pronounced againſt the king, and from a tender regard for his perſon, and a grateful acknowledgment of the royal favours conferred on him and his three friends.

unto thee, and break off thy ſins by righteouſneſs, and thine iniquities by ſhewing mercy to the poor; if it may be a lengthening of thy tranquillity.

28 ¶ All this came upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

29 At the end of twelve months he walked in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon.

30 The king ſpake and ſaid, Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the houſe of the kingdom, by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majeſty?

31 While the word was in the king's mouth there fell a voice from heaven, ſaying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee, it is ſpoken; The kingdom is departed from thee.

32 And they ſhall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhall be with the beaſts of the field: they ſhall make thee to eat graſs as oxen, and ſeven times ſhall paſs over thee, until thou know that the Moſt High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will.

33 The ſame hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar: and he was driven from men, and did eat graſs as oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown like eagles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws.

34 And at the end of the days, I Nebuchadnezzar lifted up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine underſtanding returned unto me, and I bleſſed the Moſt High, and I praiſed and honoured him that liveth for ever, whoſe dominion is an everlaſting dominion, and his kingdom is from generation to generation.

35 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and he doeth according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth: and none can ſtay his hand, or ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

36 At the ſame time my reaſon returned unto me; and for the glory of my kingdom, mine honour and brightneſs returned unto me; and my counſellors and my lords ſought unto me; and I was eſtabliſhed in my kingdom, and excellent majeſty was added unto me.

37 Now I Nebuchadnezzar praiſe and extol and honour the King of heaven, all whoſe works are truth, and his ways judgment: and thoſe that walk in pride he is able to abaſe.

CHAP. V.

1 Belſhazzar's impious feaſt. 5 A hand writing troubleth him. 17 Daniel reproveth him, 25 and interpreteth the writing.

BELSHAZZAR the king made a great feaſt to a thouſand of his lords, and drank wine before the thouſand.

2 Belſhazzar, whiles he taſted the wine, commanded to bring the golden and ſilver veſſels which his father Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of the temple which was in Jeruſalem; that the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines might drink therein.

3 Then they brought the golden veſſels that were taken out of the temple of the houſe of God which was at Jeruſalem: and the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines drank in them.

4 They drank wine, and praiſed the gods of gold, and of ſilver, of braſs, of iron, of wood, and of ſtone.

5 ¶ In the ſame hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over againſt the candleſtick upon the plaiſter of the wall of the king's palace; and the king ſaw the part of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, ſo that the joints of his loins were looſed, and his knees ſmote one againſt another.

7 The king cried aloud to bring in the aſtrologers, the Chaldeans, and the ſooth-ſayers: and the king ſpake, and ſaid to the wiſe men of Babylon, Whoſoever ſhall read this writing, and ſhew me the interpretation thereof, ſhall be clothed with ſcarlet, and have a chain of gold about his neck, and ſhall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wiſe men: but they could not read the writing, nor make known to the king the interpretation thereof.

9 Then was king Belſhazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his lords were aſtonied.

10 Now the queen, by reaſon of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banquet-houſe, and the queen ſpake and ſaid, O king, live for ever; let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 There is a man in thy kingdom in whom is the ſpirit of the holy gods: and in the days of thy father, light and underſtanding, and wiſdom, like the wiſdom of the gods, was found in him; whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy father, the king, I ſay, thy father, made maſter of the magicians, aſtrologers, Chaldeans, and ſoothſayers;

12 Foraſmuch as an excellent ſpirit, and knowledge, and underſtanding, interpreting of dreams, and ſhewing of hard ſentences, and diſſolving of doubts were found in the ſame Daniel, whom the king named Belteſhazzar. Now, let Daniel be called, and he will ſhew the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought in before the king. And the king ſpake and ſaid unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom the king my father brought out of Jewry?

14 I have even heard of thee, that the ſpirit of the 30 Is not this great Babylon that I have built? &c.) Though Babylon was one of the oldeſt cities in the world, yet Nebuchadnezzar had very much improved it, on account of its largeneſs and height of its new walls, the temple of Belus, his own palace, and the pencil gardens, the banks of the river, and the canals made for draining it, all which were additions made by the king.

34 At the end of the days, I Nebuchadnezzar lifted up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine underſtanding returned unto me, &c.) He became ſenſible of his dependance upon God, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, in devout acknowledgment of the ſovereign majeſty of the King of Kings, the ruler of the earth, whoſe dominion alone is without end, unchangeable and eternal.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

2 Belſhazzar--commanded to bring the golden and ſilver veſſels, &c.) Theſe veſſels were carried by Nebuchadnezzar into the temple of his own god, and ſet apart for religious uſes: this farther profanation of them was contrary to the rules of their own religion, and may be ſuppoſed to have been committed by Belſhazzar in exceſſive riot of drinking. Without queſtion, the veſſels and other furniture with which Solomon adorned the temple were very magnificent, ſince Nebuchadnezzar thought them worth carrying to Babylon, to furniſh the temple he had built there in honour of Belus, a ſtructure that might be reckoned one of the wonders of the world.

10 Now the queen, by reaſon of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banquet-houſe, &c.) The king's wives and concubines ſat with him at the feaſt; ſo the perſon here mentioned muſt be the queen-mother, or dowager Nicoris, a lady of eminent wiſdom, who had the chief direction of public affairs.

13 Art thou that Daniel? &c.) Though his grandfather Nebuchadnezzar had promoted Daniel to conſiderable places of honour, yet Belſhazzar knew nothing of him, which argues his being a weak vicious prince, according to the character hiſtorians give of him, leaving the care of public buſineſs to his mother.

gods

gods is in thee, and that light, and underſtanding, and excellent wiſdom, is found in thee.

15 And now the wiſe men, the aſtrologers, have been brought in before me, that they ſhould read this writing, and make known unto me the interpretation thereof: but they could not ſhew the interpretation of the thing:

16 And I have heard of thee that thou canſt make interpretations, and diſſolve doubts: now, if thou canſt read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation thereof, thou ſhalt be clothed with ſcarlet, and have a chain of gold about thy neck, and ſhalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 ¶ Then Daniel anſwered and ſaid before the king, Let thy gifts be to thyſelf, and give thy rewards to another; yet I will read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, the moſt high God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majeſty, and glory, and honour:

19 And, for the majeſty that he gave him, all people, nations, and languages, trembled and feared before him: whom he would he ſlew, and whom he would he kept alive, and whom he would he ſet up, and whom he would he put down.

20 But when his heart was liſted up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was depoſed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21 And he was driven from the ſons of men, and his heart was made like the beaſts, and his dwelling was with the wild aſſes: they fed him with graſs like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till he knew that the moſt high God ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomſoever he will.

22 And thou his ſon, O Belſhazzar, haſt not humbled thine heart, though thou kneweſt all this:

23 But haſt lifted up thyſelf againſt the Lord of heaven, and they have brought the veſſels of his houſe before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou haſt praiſed the gods of ſilver and gold, of braſs, iron, wood, and ſtone, which ſee not, nor hear, nor know: and the God in whoſe hand thy breath is, and whoſe are all thy ways, haſt thou not glorified.

24 Then was the part of the hand ſent from him, and this writing was written.

25 ¶ And this is the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing: MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finiſhed it.

27 TEKEL; Thou art weighed in the ballances, and art found wanting.

28 PERES; thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Perſians.

29 Then commanded Belſhazzar, and they clothed Daniel with ſcarlet, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he ſhould be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 In that night was Belſhazzar the king of the Chaldeans ſlain.

31 And Darius the Median, took the kingdom, being about threeſcore and two years old.

CHAP. VI.

1 Daniel's preferment. 10 He is caſt into the den of lions, 18 and ſaved.

IT pleaſed Darius to ſet over the kingdom an hundred and twenty princes, which ſhould be over the whole kingdom.

2 And over theſe three preſidents; of whom Daniel was firſt: that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king ſhould have no damage.

3 Then this Daniel was preferred above the preſidents and princes, becauſe an excellent ſpirit was in him; and the king thought to ſet him over the whole realm.

4 Then the preſidents and princes ſought to find occaſion againſt Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find none occaſion or fault; foraſmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

5 Then ſaid theſe men, We ſhall not find any occaſion againſt this Daniel, except we find it againſt him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then theſe preſidents and princes aſſembled together to the king, and ſaid thus unto him, King Darius live for ever.

7 All the preſidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counſellors, and the captains have conſulted together to eſtabliſh a royal ſtatute, and to make a firm decree, that whoſoever ſhall aſk a petition of any god or man for thirty days, ſave of thee, O king, he ſhall be caſt into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, eſtabliſh the decree, and ſign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the law of the Medes and Perſians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius ſigned the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel knew that the writing was ſigned, he went into his houſe: and his windows being open in his chamber toward Jeruſalem, he 26 MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finiſhed it.) The years appointed by God for the continuance of thy reign, and the Babyloniſh monarchy, are finiſhed: ſo God is ſaid to number the months of man's life, and to appoint him bounds which he cannot paſs. The word Mene is doubled in the foregoing verſe, to ſhew that the thing is certain, and eſtabliſhed by God, as Joſeph told Pharaoh in a ſimilar caſe.

27 TEKEL; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.) Wicked men are frequently compared to ſilver adulterated, and alloyed with baſer metals, which render it too light, when weighed in the ſcales: ſuch appeared Belſhazzar, when weighed in the balance of divine juſtice.

28 PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Perſians.) The verb Paras, from whence Peres is derived as an appellative, ſignifies to divide or break; it is likewiſe the proper name of the Perſians, who were the ſharers in the diviſion of the Babyloniſh empire. Upharſin, in the 25th verſe, is a particle of the verb pharas: it literally ſignifies, And they divided it.

30 In that night was Belſhazzar king of the Chaldeans ſlain.) He and all his nobles were ſlain together in the midſt of their feaſting and revels. Thus the prophecy of Jeremiah was fulfilled, that Babylon ſhould be taken at the time of a public feaſt, while her princes and great men, her captains, her rulers and mighty men ſhould be drunken, and ſhould ſleep a perpetual ſleep, and not awake.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 It pleaſed Darius to ſet over the kingdom an hundred and twenty princes, &c.) According to the number of provinces which were ſubject to the Medo-Perſian empire: theſe were afterwards enlarged to an hundred and twenty-ſeven, by the victories of Cambyſes and Darius Hyſtaſpes.

2 And over theſe three preſidents, of whom Daniel was firſt, &c.) He had been appointed one of the principal officers of ſtate by Belſhazzar. Darius did not dwell at Babylon, but at Ecbatane in Media, whither he ſent for Daniel, that he might be always near him, and where it is likely he received this new advancement.

8 According to the law of the Medes and Perſians, which altereth not.) After it is once enacted by the king, with the advice of his counſellors. We may obſerve the difference of the ſtile between this text, and that of Eſther, in the firſt chapter and ninth verſe: here the words are, The law of the Medes and Perſians, out of regard to the king, who was a Mede; there it was ſtiled, The law of the Perſians and Medes, the king being a Perſian at that time.

kneeled upon his knees three times a-day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then theſe men aſſembled, and found Daniel praying and making ſupplication before his God.

12 Then they came near, and ſpake before the king concerning the king's decree; Haſt thou not ſigned a decree, that every man that ſhall aſk a petition of any god or man, within thirty days, ſave of thee, O king, ſhall be caſt into the den of lions? the king anſwered, and ſaid, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Perſians, which altereth not.

13 Then anſwered they, and ſaid before the king, That Daniel which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou haſt ſigned, but maketh his petition three times a-day.

14 Then the king when he heard theſe words, was ſore diſpleaſed with himſelf, and ſet his heart on Daniel to deliver him; and he laboured till the going down of the ſun to deliver him.

15 Then theſe men aſſembled unto the king, and ſaid unto the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and Perſians is, That no decree nor ſtatute which the king eſtabliſheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and caſt him into the den of lions. Now the king ſpake and ſaid unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou ſerveſt continually, he will deliver thee.

17 And a ſtone was brought and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the king ſealed it with his own ſignet, and with the ſignet of his lords; that the purpoſe might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went to his palace, and paſſed the night faſting: neither were inſtruments of muſic brought before him, and his ſleep went from him.

19 Then the king aroſe very early in the morning, and went in haſte unto the den of lions.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel; and the king ſpake and ſaid to Daniel, O Daniel ſervant of the living God, is thy God whom thou ſerveſt continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then ſaid Daniel unto the king, O king live for ever.

22 My God hath ſent his angel, and hath ſhut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me: foraſmuch as before him innocency was found in me: and alſo before thee, O king, have I done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they ſhould take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, becauſe he believed in his God.

24 And the king commanded, and they brought thoſe men which had accuſed Daniel, and they caſt them into the den of lions, them, their children, and their wives; and the lions had the maſtery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces or ever they came at the bottom of the den.

25 Then king Darius wrote unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth: Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, That in every dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel; for he is the living God and ſtedfaſt for ever, and his kingdom that which ſhall not be deſtroyed, and his dominion ſhall be even unto the end.

27 He delivereth and reſcueth, and he worketh ſigns and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel proſpered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus the Perſian.

CHAP. VII.

1 Daniel's viſion of the four beaſts, 9 of God's kingdom: 15 The interpretation thereof.

IN the firſt year of Belſhazzar king of Babylon, Daniel had a dream, and viſions of his head upon his bed. Then he wrote the dream, and told the ſum of the matters.

2 Daniel ſpake and ſaid, I ſaw in my viſion by night, and, behold, the four winds of the heaven ſtrove upon the great ſea:

3 And four great beaſts came up from the ſea, diverſe one from another.

4 The firſt was like a lion, and had eagles wings: I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, and it was lifted up from the earth, and made ſtand upon the feet as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

5 And behold, another beaſt, a ſecond, like to a bear, and it raiſed up itſelf on one ſide, and it had three ribs in the mouth of it between the teeth of it: and they ſaid thus unto it, Ariſe, devour much fleſh.

6 After this I beheld, and, lo, another, like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl: the beaſt had alſo four heads; and dominion was given to it.

7 After this I ſaw in the night viſions, and behold, a fourth beaſt, dreadful and terrible, and ſtrong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and ſtamped the reſidue with the 13 That Daniel which is of the children of the captivity, &c.) This is added to aggravate his fault, that one who is a foreigner, and brought hither a captive, ſhould offer a public affront to the laws of a king whoſe favour and protection he enjoys.

20 O Daniel, ſervant of the living God, &c.) God ſometimes makes the mouths of infidels inſtrumental in ſetting forth his praiſe.

24 Them, their children, and their wives, &c.) According to the cruel laws and cuſtoms which prevailed in ſome countries, of involving whole families in the puniſhment of particulars; in oppoſition to which, that equitable law of Moſes was ordained, The fathers ſhould not be put to death for the children, nor the children for the fathers.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

1 In the firſt year of Belſhazzar king of Babylon, Daniel had a dream, &c.) The prophet having related ſome remarkable paſſages that occurred, concerning himſelf and his brethren, and given proofs of his ſkill in explaining other men's dreams, proceeds to give an account of ſome of his own viſions; and therefore he goes back to the firſt year of Belſhazzar's reign, which was ſeventeen years before the hiſtory contained in the laſt chapter.

2 Behold, the four winds of the heaven ſtrove upon the great ſea.) Denoting thoſe commotions of the world, and that troubleſome ſtate of affairs, from which empires and kingdoms commonly take their riſe.

4 I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, and it was lifted up from the earth, &c.) Or rather, wherewith it was lifted up from the earth, as the margin reads. There was a ſtop put to the progreſs of its victories, by the frequent irruptions made by the armies led by Cyrus and Darius, or Cyaxerxes, againſt the Babylonians for twenty years, before the final overthrow of that empire.

5 And behold, another beaſt, a ſecond, like unto a bear, and it raiſed up itſelf on one ſide, &c.) This beaſt denotes the Perſian empire, its firſt beginning to advance itſelf to arrive at empire. The margin reads, And it raiſed up one dominion, that is, it made one empire out of the joint powers of Media and Perſia.

6 After this I beheld, and lo, another like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl, &c.) The third beaſt denotes the Grecian empire, begun by Alexander, and continued in his four ſucceſſors. The four wings ſignify the ſwiftneſs of its conqueſt.

7 Behold, a fourth beaſt, dreadful and terrible, and ſtrong exceedingly, &c.) And for that reaſon compared unto iron: this muſt mean the Roman empire, which deſtroyed the Grecian, and became miſtreſs of the world.

feet of it: and it was diverſe from all the beaſts that were before it; and it had ten horns.

8 I conſidered the horns, and, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the firſt horns plucked up by the roots: and behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth ſpeaking great things.

9 ¶ I beheld till the thrones were caſt down, and the Ancient of the days did ſit, whoſe garment was white as ſnow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire:

10 A fiery ſtream iſſued and came forth from before him: thouſand thouſands miniſtered unto him, and ten thouſand times ten thouſand ſtood before him: the judgment was ſet, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld then, becauſe of the voice of the great words which the horn ſpake; I beheld, even till the beaſt was ſlain, and his body deſtroyed, and given to the burning flame.

12 As concerning the reſt of the beaſts, they had their dominion taken away: yet their lives were prolonged for a ſeaſon and time.

13 I ſaw in the night viſions, and behold, one like the ſon of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him:

14 And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations and languages ſhould ſerve him: his dominion is an everlaſting dominion, which ſhall not paſs away, and his kingdom that which ſhall not be deſtroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was grieved in my ſpirit in the midſt of my body, and the viſions of my head troubled me.

16 I came near unto one of them that ſtood by, and aſked him the truth of all this: ſo he told me, and made me know the interpretation of the things.

17 Theſe great beaſts, which are four, are four kings, which ſhall ariſe out of the earth.

18 But the ſaints of the Moſt High ſhall take the kingdom, and poſſeſs the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 Then I would know the truth of the fourth beaſt, which was diverſe from all the others, exceeding dreadful, whoſe teeth were of iron, and his nails of braſs; which devoured, brake in pieces, and ſtamped the reſidue with his feet;

20 And of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, and before whom three fell; even of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that ſpake very great things, whoſe look was more ſtout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, and the ſame horn made war with the ſaints, and prevailed againſt them;

22 Until the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the ſaints of the Moſt High; and the time came that the ſaints poſſeſſed the kingdom.

23 Thus he ſaid, The fourth beaſt ſhall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which ſhall be diverſe from all kingdoms, and ſhall devour the whole earth, and ſhall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that ſhall ariſe; and another ſhall riſe after them, and he ſhall be diverſe from the firſt, and he ſhall ſubdue three kings.

25 And he ſhall ſpeak great words againſt the Moſt High, and ſhall wear out the ſaints of the Moſt High, and think to change times and laws: and they ſhall be given into his hand, until a time and times and the dividing of time.

26 But the judgment ſhall ſit, and they ſhall take away his dominion, to conſume and to deſtroy it unto the end.

27 And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatneſs of the kingdom under the whole heaven, ſhall be given to the people of the ſaints of the Moſt High: whoſe kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and all dominions ſhall ſerve and obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, my cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in my heart.

13 Behold, one like the ſon of man came with the clouds of heaven, &c.) One in the ſhape and likeneſs of a man, but clothed with ſuch enſigns of majeſty, as ſhewed him to be an extraordinary perſon: indeed no leſs than the Meſſiah, as the deſcription of him that follows hereafter declares. The two foregoing verſes having explained why the fourth beaſt was deſtroyed, this part of the viſion declares by whom it was done, repreſents Chriſt in his judicial capacity, and deſcribes him by that title he often gives himſelf, The Son of Man. Particularly Chriſt alludes to this verſe of Daniel, where he ſpeaks of his coming in the clouds of heaven, by which expreſſion he acknowledges himſelf to be the Meſſiah, in direct anſwer to the queſtion, Art thou Chriſt, the ſon of the living God?

14 And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations and languages ſhould ſerve him, &c.) Upon the deſtruction of Antichriſt, the little horn of the fourth beaſt, the ſtone which Nebuchadnezzar ſaw in his firſt viſion, was to become a great mountain, and all the ancient prophecies are to be accompliſhed, which ſpeak of the uninterrupted glory and univerſality of Chriſt's dominion, which will be illuſtriouſly diſplayed at the day of judgment, when all the world ſhall be ſummoned to appear before him.

18 But the ſaints of the Moſt High ſhall take the kingdom, &c.) But theſe earthly kingdoms being taken away or deſtroyed, the ſucceeding kingdom ſhall be that of Chriſt and his ſaints. Inſtead of the Moſt High, the margin reads high ones, from the Chaldee: ſometimes the one true God is ſpoken of in the plural number by way of eminence, as in Joſh. xxiv. where it is in the Hebrew, he is a holy God.

24 And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that ſhall ariſe, &c.) A horn is an emblem of ſtrength, ſo it comes to ſignify power and authority, and is thence applied to ſovereignty and dominion. Theſe ten horns or kingdoms ſhall ariſe out of the diſſolution of the Roman empire, which came to paſs about the year of Chriſt 476; when it was divided into theſe different kingdoms: 1 Britons; 2 Saxons; 3 Franks; 4 Burgundians; 5 Viſigoths; 6 Suevians and Alans; 7 Vandals; 8 Almons; 9 Oſtrogoths; 10 Greeks.

28 As for me, Daniel, my cogitations much troubled me, &c.) The extraordinary circumſtances of the viſion made a great impreſſion on my mind; and it was a matter of great trouble to me to foreſee the profanation of God's holy law and worſhip, and the perſecutions and calamities which ſhould come upon his church and people.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

1 In the third year of the reign of king Belſhazzar, &c.) The foregoing prophecy was written in Chaldee, being a farther explication of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, interpreted in the ſecond chapter. This viſion following was written in Hebrew, becauſe that part of it which relates to Antiochus Epiphanes chiefly concerned the Jews.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns, and the two horns were high; but one was higher than the other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; but he did according to his will, and became great.

5 And as I was considering, behold, an he-goat came from the west, on the face of the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and the goat had a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns; and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he-goat waxed very great: and when he was strong the great horn was broken; and for it came up four notable ones, toward the four winds of heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed exceeding great toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the pleasant land.

10 And it waxed great even to the host of heaven; and it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, he magnified himself even to the prince of the host; and by him the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And an host was given him against the daily sacrifice by reason of transgression, and it cast down the truth to the ground; and it practised and prospered.

13 ¶ Then I heard one saint speaking, and another saint said unto that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days: then shall the sanctuary be cleansed.

15 And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, then behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid; and fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: but he touched me, and set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 The ram which thou sawest having two horns, are the kings of Media and Persia.

21 And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king.

22 Now, that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, when the transgressors are come to the full, a king of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty and the holy people.

25 And through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the prince of princes: but he shall be broken without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true; wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days.

27 And I Daniel fainted and was sick certain days: afterward I rose up and did the king's business: and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

CHAP. IX.

3 Daniel confesseth his sins, 16 prayeth for the restoration of Jerusalem: 20 Gabriel informeth him of the seventy weeks, &c.

IN the first year of Darius, the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, which was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans;

3 Behold there stood before the river a ram which had two horns, and the two horns were high, &c.) Horns are an emblem of power and dominion; so this ram denotes the kingdoms of Media and Persia united into one government: the Hebrew reads one ram. The ram was the royal ensign of the Persians, and rams' heads with horns, the one higher, and the other lower, are still to be seen in the ruins of Persepolis.

5 And as I was considering, behold, an he-goat came from the west, on the face of the whole earth, &c.) An he-goat was anciently the emblem of princes or great commanders. The goat is here described coming from the west, that is, Greece; on the face of the whole earth, that is, carrying all before him as he went; thereby denoting the uninterrupted success of Alexander the Great. A goat was, according to Justin, the emblem or arms of Macedon, ever since their king Caranus.

10 And it waxed great, even to the host of heaven.) As the faithful are heirs of the kingdom of heaven, so the names and titles of the heavenly church are given to that on earth. The christian church is called the Jerusalem which is above, and the governors of it are stiled angels. In like manner the host of heaven means here the Jewish church, and particularly the priests and the Levites, who are called the host of heaven; a title proper to angels, from their continual attendance on God's service in the temple, in imitation of the angelical office.

17 But he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, &c.) This is a title given to none of the prophets but Ezekiel and Daniel, who had more frequent converse with angels than any of the rest; and is given to the prophet here, either to put him in mind that he was but flesh and blood, that he might not be exalted by having these heavenly visions imparted to him; or else it may be interpreted to him as a mark, or title of honour, as implying something more than an ordinary man, as highly favoured of God in his conversation.

24 And shall destroy the mighty and the holy people.) That people, who being set apart for God's service, were under his peculiar protection, by virtue whereof, they were formerly victorious over all their enemies. Antiochus, in his first invasion of Judea, slew and led captive eighty thousand Jews; and two years afterwards sent Apollonius with an army of 22,000 men to destroy those that assembled in the synagogue on the sabbath.

27 But none understood it.) Daniel himself had but an imperfect comprehension of it, as when men view things at a distance, though the angel did impart to him the general meaning.

2 In the firſt year of his reign, I Daniel underſtood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accompliſh ſeventy years in the deſolations of Jeruſalem.

3 ¶ And I ſet my face unto the Lord God, to ſeek by prayer and ſupplications, with faſting, and ſackcloth, and aſhes:

4 And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confeſſion, and ſaid, O Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments;

5 We have ſinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments:

6 Neither have we hearkened unto thy ſervants the prophets, which ſpake in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, righteouſneſs belongeth unto thee; but unto us confuſion of faces, as at this day: to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and unto all Iſrael, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou haſt driven them, becauſe of their treſpaſs that they have treſpaſſed againſt thee.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth confuſion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, becauſe we have ſinned againſt thee.

9 To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgiveneſſes, though we have rebelled againſt him:

10 Neither have we obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he ſet before us by his ſervants the prophets.

11 Yea, all Iſrael have tranſgreſſed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curſe is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moſes the ſervant of God, becauſe we have ſinned againſt him.

12 And he hath confirmed his words which he ſpake againſt us, and againſt our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil: for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jeruſalem.

13 As it is written in the law of Moſes, All this evil is come upon us; yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God. that we might turn from our iniquities, and underſtand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord watched upon the evil, and brought it upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth; for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, that haſt brought thy people forth out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and haſt gotten thee renown as at this day; we have ſinned, we have done wickedly.

16 ¶ O Lord, according to all thy righteouſneſs, I beſeech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jeruſalem, thy holy mountain: becauſe for our ſins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jeruſalem and thy people are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy ſervant, and his ſupplications, and cauſe thy face to ſhine upon thy ſanctuary that is deſolate, for the Lord's ſake.

18 O my God, incline thine ear and hear: open thine eyes and behold our deſolations, and the city which is called by thy name, for we do not preſent our ſupplications before thee for our righteouſneſſes, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hearken, and do; defer not for thine own ſake, O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

20 ¶ And whiles I was ſpeaking, and praying, and confeſſing my ſin, and the ſin of my people Iſrael, and preſenting my ſupplication before the Lord my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was ſpeaking in prayer, even the man Gabriel, whom I had ſeen in the viſion at the beginning, being cauſed to fly ſwiftly, touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and ſaid, O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee ſkill and underſtanding.

23 At the beginning of thy ſupplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to ſhew thee: for thou art greatly beloved: therefore underſtand the matter, and conſider the viſion.

24 Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people, and upon thy holy city, to finiſh the tranſgreſſion, and to make an end of ſins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlaſting righteouſneſs, and to ſeal up the viſion and prophecy, and to anoint the moſt holy.

25 Know therefore and underſtand that from the going forth of the commandment to reſtore and to build Jeruſalem unto the Meſſiah the Prince ſhall be ſeven weeks, and threeſcore and two weeks: the ſtreet ſhall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times.

26 And after threeſcore and two weeks, ſhall Meſſiah be cut off, but not for himſelf: and the people of the prince that ſhall come ſhall deſtroy the city and the ſanctuary; and the end thereof ſhall be with a flood; and unto the end of the war deſolations are determined.

27 And he ſhall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midſt of the week he ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and the oblation to ceaſe, and for the overſpreading of abominations he ſhall make it deſolate, even until the conſummation, and that determined ſhall be poured upon the deſolate.

Commentary on Chap. IX.

2 I Daniel underſtood by books, &c.) The ſeveral prophecies of Jeremiah are called ſo many books. We may obſerve from hence, that the later prophets ſtudied the writings of the former, for the more perfect underſtanding of the times, when their prophecies were to be fulfilled. They alſo conſulted their own prophecies.

21 Touched me about the time of the evening oblation.) There were three hours of prayers; but the two moſt ſolemn ſeaſons of it were at the morning and evening oblation, in the name of the whole nation, at the third and ninth hours of the day, according to our nine in the morning, and three in the evening. But upon their ſolemn days of faſting and humiliation, they continued their devotions from the time of the morning ſacrifice, 'till that of the evening was finiſhed. Such was this of Daniel, and that of Cornelius.

24 Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people, and upon thy holy city.) This is juſtly allowed to be one of the nobleſt prophecies in the Old Teſtament, as it is one of the ſtrongeſt proofs againſt the Jews, in favour of Chriſtianity; ſince it determines the very time Chriſt was to come into the world, enter into his miniſtry, and be cut off for the ſins of the people. Soon after was to follow the deſtruction of the Jews, or, as the prophet ſtiles it, their ceaſing to be a people, with the promulgation of the goſpel, or the new covenant in and by that Meſſiah.

And to anoint the moſt holy.) The word anoint plainly alludes to the name of Meſſiah, which ſignifies, in Hebrew, anointed, and is tranſlated Chriſt in the Greek. To anoint, is here the ſame thing as to conſecrate the Meſſiah to be a prieſt, prophet, and king, all which offices were conveyed by the ceremony of anointing. The Meſſiah is ſtiled the Moſt Holy, on account of his unſpotted, original, and unblameable life.

27 He ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and the oblation to ceaſe, &c.) Chriſt, by his one oblation of himſelf once offered, ſhall put an end to all the ſacrifices and oblations made in the Jewiſh temple. The putting an end to the temple-ſervice by violence, as threatened by Antiochus, is expreſſed by taking away the daily ſacrifice.

CHAP. X.

1 Daniel, having humbled himſelf, ſeeth a viſion. 10 Being troubled with fear, he is comforted by an angel.

IN the third year of Cyrus king of Perſia, a thing was revealed unto Daniel, whoſe name was called Belteſhazzar: and the thing was true: but the time appointed was long: and he underſtood the thing, and had underſtanding of the viſion.

2 In thoſe days I Daniel was mourning three full weeks.

3 I ate no pleaſant bread, neither came fleſh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myſelf at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the firſt month, as I was by the ſide of the great river, which is Hiddekel;

5 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a certain man clothed in linen, whoſe loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz:

6 His body alſo was like the beryl, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet like in colour to poliſhed braſs, and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone ſaw the viſion: for the men that were with me ſaw not the viſion; but a great quaking fell upon them, ſo that they fled to hide themſelves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ſaw this great viſion, and there remained no ſtrength in me; for my comelineſs was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no ſtrength.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words then was I in a deep ſleep on my face, and my face toward the ground.

10 ¶ And behold, an hand touched me, which ſet me upon my knees, and upon the palms of my hands.

11 And he ſaid unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, underſtand the words that I ſpeak unto thee, and ſtand upright; for unto thee am I now ſent. And when he had ſpoken this word unto me, I ſtood trembling.

12 Then ſaid he unto me, Fear not Daniel: for from the firſt day that thou didſt ſet thine heart to underſtand, and to chaſten thyſelf before thy God, thy words were heard; and I am come for thy words.

13 But the prince of the kingdom of Perſia withſtood me one and twenty days: but lo, Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me; and I remained there with the kings of Perſia.

14 Now I am come to make thee underſtand what ſhall befal thy people in the latter days: for yet the viſion is for many days.

15 And when he had ſpoken ſuch words unto me, I ſet my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And behold, one like the ſimilitude of the ſons of men touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and ſpake, and ſaid unto him that ſtood before me, O my Lord, by the viſion my ſorrows are turned upon me, and I have retained no ſtrength.

17 For how can the ſervant of this my lord, talk with this my lord? for as for me, ſtraightway there remained no ſtrength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he ſtrengthened me,

19 And ſaid, O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be ſtrong, yea, be ſtrong. And when he had ſpoken unto me, I was ſtrengthened, and ſaid, Let my lord ſpeak: for thou haſt ſtrengthened me.

20 Then ſaid he, Knoweſt thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight with the prince of Perſia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia ſhall come.

21 But I will ſhew thee that which is noted in the ſcripture of truth: and there is none that holdeth with me in theſe things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

1 The overthrow of Perſia by the king of Grecia. 5 Kings of the north and ſouth. 30 The invaſion and tyranny of the Romans.

ALSO I, in the firſt year of Darius the Mede, even I, ſtood to confirm and to ſtrengthen him.

2 And now will I ſhew thee the truth. Behold, there ſhall ſtand up yet three kings in Perſia; and the fourth ſhall be far richer than they all: and by his ſtrength through his riches he ſhall ſtir up all againſt the realm of Grecia.

3 And a mighty king ſhall ſtand up, that ſhall rule with great dominion, and do according to his will.

4 And when he ſhall ſtand up, his kingdom ſhall be broken, and ſhall be divided toward the four winds of heaven; and not to his poſterity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom ſhall be plucked up, even for others beſides thoſe.

5 ¶ And the king of the ſouth ſhall be ſtrong, and one of his princes; and he ſhall be ſtrong above him, and have dominion; his dominion ſhall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of years they ſhall join themſelves together; for the king's daughter of the ſouth ſhall come to the king of the north to make an agreement: but ſhe ſhall not retain the power of the arm; neither ſhall he ſtand, nor his arm: but ſhe ſhall be given up,

---

COMMENTARY on Chap. X.

1 In the third year of Cyrus king of Perſia, &c. Daniel muſt have been above ninety years old: he could not have been much leſs than twenty when he was carried away captive, and that was ſeventy-three years before the date of this viſion, which was the laſt Daniel ſaw.

5 Behold, a certain man clothed in linen, whoſe loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz.) The habit of a high-prieſt. The deſcription St. John gives of Chriſt as high-prieſt of the church (Rev. i. 15) ſeems to be taken from this place of Daniel, which proves that the perſon here deſcribed could be no other than the Son of God, which may be farther confirmed by comparing the perſon deſcribed here, with him who is repreſented as ſetting his right foot upon the ſea, and his left upon the land, as Sovereign Lord of both elements.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XI.

1 Alſo I, in the firſt year of Darius the Mede, even I, ſtood to confirm and to ſtrengthen him.) This verſe ſhould have been joined to the laſt chapter. The angel goes on to add, that as he now joins with Michael to defend the cauſe of the Jewiſh nation; ſo, at the time of the overthrow of the Babyloniſh empire, he aſſiſted Michael in advancing Darius to the ſucceſſion, which was the occaſion of reſtoring the Jews from captivity.

3 And a mighty king ſhall ſtand up—and do according to his will.) Alexander the Great, whoſe ſucceſſes no prince was able to put a ſtop to.

5 And the king of the ſouth ſhall be ſtrong, &c.) The king of Egypt, the king of the north being Syria. Theſe two came at length to have the greateſt ſhare of Alexander's dominions, and made the greateſt figure of all his ſucceſſors: they alſo were alone concerned in the affairs of the Jews. The king of the ſouth means here Ptolomy the firſt, the ſon of Lajus, called Ptolomy Soter. He ſhall be ſtrong, ſays the angel: he had all Egypt and the adjacent parts of Libia, beſide Paleſtine, Cœlo-Syria, and moſt of the maritime provinces of the leſſer Aſia.

and they that brought her, and he that begat her, and he that ſtrengthened her in theſe times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots ſhall one ſtand up in his eſtate, which ſhall come with an army, and ſhall enter into the fortreſs of the king of the north, and ſhall deal againſt them, and ſhall prevail;

8 And ſhall alſo carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their princes, and with their precious veſſels of ſilver and of gold; and he ſhall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the ſouth ſhall come into his kingdom, and ſhall return into his own land.

10 But his ſons ſhall be ſtirred up, and ſhall aſſemble a multitude of great forces: and one ſhall certainly come, and overflow, and paſs through; then ſhall he return, and be ſtirred up, even to his fortreſs.

11 And the king of the ſouth ſhall be moved with choler, and ſhall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he ſhall ſet forth a great multitude; but the multitude ſhall be given into his hand.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his heart ſhall be lifted up; and he ſhall caſt down many ten thouſands: but he ſhall not be ſtrengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north ſhall return, and ſhall ſet forth a multitude greater than the former, and ſhall certainly come after certain years with a great army, and with much riches.

14 And in thoſe times there ſhall many ſtand up againſt the king of the ſouth: alſo the robbers of thy people ſhall exalt themſelves to eſtabliſh the viſion; but they ſhall fall.

15 So the king of the north ſhall come, and caſt up a mount, and take the moſt fenced cities; and the arms of the ſouth ſhall not withſtand, neither his choſen people, neither ſhall there be any ſtrength to withſtand.

16 But he that cometh againſt him ſhall do according to his own will, and none ſhall ſtand before him; and he ſhall ſtand in the glorious land, which by his hand ſhall be conſumed.

17 He ſhall alſo ſet his face to enter with the ſtrength of his whole kingdom, and upright ones with him; thus ſhall he do: and he ſhall give him the daughter of women, corrupting her; but ſhe ſhall not ſtand on his ſide, neither be for him.

18 After this ſhall he turn his face unto the iſles, and take many: but a prince for his own behalf ſhall cauſe the reproach offered by him to ceaſe; without his own reproach he ſhall cauſe it to turn upon him.

19 Then he ſhall turn his face toward the fort of his own land: but he ſhall ſtumble, and fall, and not be found.

20 Then ſhall ſtand up in his eſtate a raiſer of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he ſhall be deſtroyed, neither in anger nor in battle.

21 And in his eſtate ſhall ſtand up a vile perſon, to whom they ſhall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he ſhall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And with the arms of a flood ſhall they be overflown from before him, and ſhall be broken: yea, alſo the prince of the covenant.

23 And after the league made with him, he ſhall work deceitfully: for he ſhall come up, and ſhall become ſtrong with a ſmall people.

24 He ſhall enter peaceably even upon the fatteſt places of the province: and he ſhall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers: he ſhall ſcatter among them the prey, and ſpoil, and riches; yea, and he ſhall forecaſt his devices againſt the ſtrong holds, even for a time.

25 And he ſhall ſtir up his power and his courage againſt the king of the ſouth with a great army: and the king of the ſouth ſhall be ſtirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army: but he ſhall not ſtand: for they ſhall forecaſt devices againſt him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat ſhall deſtroy him, and his army ſhall overflow; and many ſhall fall down ſlain.

27 And both theſe kings' hearts ſhall be to do miſchief, and they ſhall ſpeak lies at one table: but it ſhall not proſper; for yet the end ſhall be at the time appointed.

28 Then ſhall he return into his land with great riches; and his heart ſhall be againſt the holy covenant: and he ſhall do exploits, and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he ſhall return, and come toward the ſouth; but it ſhall not be as the former, or as the latter.

30 For the ſhips of Chittim ſhall come againſt him; therefore he ſhall be grieved, and return, and have indignation againſt the holy covenant: ſo ſhall he do; he ſhall even return, and have intelligence with them that forſake the holy covenant.

31 And arms ſhall ſtand on his part, and they ſhall pollute the ſanctuary of ſtrength, and ſhall take away the daily ſacrifice, and they ſhall place the abomination that maketh deſolate.

32 And ſuch as do wickedly againſt the covenant ſhall he corrupt by flatteries: but the people that do know their God ſhall be ſtrong, and do exploits.

33 And they that underſtand among the people ſhall inſtruct many: yet they ſhall fall by the ſword, and by flame, by captivity, and by ſpoil many days.

34 Now when they ſhall fall they ſhall be holpen with a little help: but many ſhall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And ſome of them of underſtanding ſhall fall to try them, and to purge, and to make them white, even to the time of the end: becauſe it is yet for a time appointed.

10 And one ſhall certainly come, and overflow, and paſs through, &c.) Antiochus ſhall over-run Judea and Cœlo-Syria, with other provinces belonging to the kingdom of Egypt; taking the advantage of Ptolomy Evergetes' death, and the ſucceſſion of his ſon Ptolomy Philopater, a weak and profligate prince, under whoſe reign he attempted the recovery of Syria. We may obſerve here, that the text only ſpeaks of a ſingle perſon, Antiochus; for his brother Seleucus died in the beginning of this enterpriſe, having ſcarce reigned three years. The devaſtations of an army are fitly compared to inundations.

14 Alſo the robbers of thy people ſhall exalt themſelves to eſtabliſh the viſion; but they ſhall fall.) The apoſtates from the Jewiſh law ſhall exalt themſelves under the favour of the king of Egypt and his miniſters, to accompliſh what is ſaid in the writings of the prophets concerning the perſecutions that ſhall befal the people of God, and the puniſhments that ſhould at length overtake thoſe that forſake the truth. Accordingly theſe apoſtates did fall upon the people, and were cut off by Antiochus: for in the ninth year of the reign of Epiphanes, Antiochus made himſelf maſter of Jeruſalem, and cut off or drove from thence all thoſe Jews who were of Ptolemy's party, and beſtowed particular favours upon thoſe who perſevered in the obſervance of the law, and the worſhip of the God of their fathers.

22 Yea, alſo the prince of the covenant.) By the prince of the covenant, ſeems to be meant Onias the high-prieſt, who was depoſed and baniſhed by Antiochus, and afterwards murdered by one of his lieutenants.

31 And arms ſhall ſtand on his part, and they ſhall pollute the ſanctuary of ſtrength, &c.) His arms ſhall ſo far prevail, as to make an entire conqueſt of Judea, profane the temple, and cauſe the daily ſervice performed there to ceaſe. The temple is called the ſanctuary of ſtrength, becauſe it was a token of the divine protection, being the place of God's ſpecial reſidence.

36 And the king ſhall do according to his will, and he ſhall exalt himſelf, and magnify himſelf above every god, and ſhall ſpeak marvellous things againſt the God of gods, and ſhall proſper till the indignation be accompliſhed: for that that is determined ſhall be done.

37 Neither ſhall he regard the God of his fathers, nor the deſire of women, nor regard any god: for he ſhall magnify himſelf above all.

38 But in his eſtate ſhall he honour the God of forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not ſhall he honour with gold and ſilver, and with precious ſtones, and pleaſant things.

39 Thus ſhall he do in the moſt ſtrong holds with a ſtrange god, whom he ſhall acknowledge and increaſe with glory: and he ſhall cauſe them to rule over many, and ſhall divide the land for gain.

40 And at the time of the end ſhall the king of the ſouth puſh at him: and the king of the north ſhall come againſt him like a whirlwind, with chariots and with horſemen, and with many ſhips: and he ſhall enter into the countries, and ſhall overflow and paſs over.

41 He ſhall enter alſo into the glorious land, and many countries ſhall be overthrown: but theſe ſhall eſcape out of his hand, even Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He ſhall ſtretch forth his hand alſo upon the countries; and the land of Egypt ſhall not eſcape.

43 But he ſhall have power over the treaſures of gold and of ſilver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians ſhall be at his ſteps.

44 But tidings out of the eaſt and out of the north ſhall trouble him: therefore he ſhall go forth with great fury to deſtroy, and utterly to make away many.

45 And he ſhalt plant the tabernacles of his palaces between the ſeas in the glorious holy mountain: yet he ſhall come to his end, and none ſhall help him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Michael ſhall deliver Iſrael from their troubles. 5 Daniel is informed of the times.

AND at that time ſhall Michael ſtand up, the great prince which ſtandeth for the children of thy people; and there ſhall be a time of trouble, ſuch as never was ſince there was a nation even to that ſame time: and at that time thy people ſhall be delivered, every one that ſhall be found written in the book.

2 And many of them that ſleep in the duſt of the earth ſhall awake, ſome to everlaſting life, and ſome to ſhame and everlaſting contempt.

3 And they that be wiſe ſhall ſhine as the brightneſs of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteouſneſs as the ſtars for ever and ever.

4 But thou, O Daniel, ſhut up the words, and ſeal the book, even to the time of the end: many ſhall run to and fro, and knowledge ſhall be increaſed.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there ſtood other two, the one on this ſide of the bank of the river, and the other on that ſide of the bank of the river.

6 And one ſaid to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, How long ſhall it be to the end of theſe wonders!

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and ſware by him that liveth for ever, that it ſhall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he ſhall have accompliſhed to ſcatter the power of the holy people, all theſe things ſhall be finiſhed.

8 And I heard, but I underſtood not: then ſaid I, O my Lord, what ſhall be the end of theſe things?

9 And he ſaid, Go thy way, Daniel; for the words are cloſed up and ſealed till the time of the end.

10 Many ſhall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked ſhall do wickedly: and none of the wicked ſhall underſtand, but the wiſe ſhall underſtand.

11 And from the time that the daily ſacrifice ſhall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh deſolate ſet up, there ſhall be a thouſand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Bleſſed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thouſand three hundred and five and thirty days.

13 But go thou thy way till the end be: for thou ſhalt reſt, and ſtand in thy lot at the end of the days.

36 The king ſhall do according to his will, &c.) Antiochus was a type of Antichriſt; ſo here the angel makes a ſudden tranſition from the type to the deſcription of Antichriſt himſelf.

39 Shall divide the land for gain.) That is, the biſhops, prieſts, monks, and religious orders; which is a fact that has been verified in a very remarkable manner.

40 At the time of the end ſhall the king of the ſouth.) That is, in the latter days of the Roman empire, the Saracens, who were of Arabia, and came from the ſouth, under their falſe prophet Mohammed and his ſucceſſors, with amazing rapidity made themſelves maſters of Egypt, Syria, and many other fine provinces.

The king of the north, &c.) That is, the Turks, who were originally Scythians.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

7 And when he ſhall have accompliſhed to ſcatter the power of the holy people, all theſe things ſhall be finiſhed.) When the Jewiſh diſperſions ſhall be ended, then the moſt remarkable events in this prophecy ſhall be fulfilled. This paſſage is parallel with the following words of our bleſſed Saviour: Jeruſalem ſhall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. Luke xxi. 24.

9 Go thy way, Daniel; for the words are cloſed up and ſealed till the time of the end.) Be content with what hath been revealed to thee; for the fuller explication of this prophecy is deferred till the time of its accompliſhment draweth near.

13 Thou ſhalt reſt, and ſtand in thy lot at the end of the days.) The prophet was now ninety years of age at leaſt, and therefore could not expect to live much longer. Accordingly the angel here tells him, that after his mortal life was ended, he ſhould reſt in peace with the ſouls of the righteous, and, at the reſurrection, obtain a ſhare of that happineſs which is reſerved for the faithful ſervants of the Almighty, and which ſhall actually be conferred upon them at the concluſion of the times here mentioned.

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

Hoſea, the ſon of Beeri, is the firſt of the leſſer prophets. He lived in the kingdom of Samaria, and propheſied in the reign of Jeroboam II. and his ſucceſſors, kings of Iſrael; and at the time when Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, filled the throne of Judah.

CHAP. I.

1 Hoſea to ſhew God's judgment of ſpiritual whoredom, taketh Gomer, 4 and hath by her Jezreel, &c.

THE word of the Lord that came unto Hoſea the ſon of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael.

2 The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hoſea. And the Lord ſaid to Hoſea, Go take unto thee a wife of whoredoms, and children of whoredoms: for the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived and bare him a ſon.

4 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto him, Call his name Jezreel: for yet a little while and I will avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the houſe of Jehu, and will cauſe to ceaſe the kingdom of the houſe of Iſrael.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, that I will break the bow of Iſrael in the valley of Jezreel.

6 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God ſaid unto him, Call her name Lo-ruhamah, for I will no more have mercy upon the houſe of Iſrael: but I will utterly take them away.

7 But I will have mercy upon the houſe of Judah, and will ſave them by the Lord their God, and will not ſave them by bow, nor by ſword, nor by battle, by horſes, nor by horſemen.

8 Now when ſhe had weaned Lo-ruhamah, ſhe conceived and bare a ſon.

9 Then ſaid God, Call his name Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 Yet the number of the children of Iſrael ſhall be as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be meaſured nor numbered: and it ſhall come to paſs, that in the place where it was ſaid unto them, Ye are not my people, there it ſhall be ſaid unto them, Ye are the ſons of the living God.

11 Then ſhall the children of Judah and the children of Iſrael be gathered together, and appoint themſelves one head, and they ſhall come up out of the land: for great ſhall be the day of Jezreel.

CHAP. II.

1 The idolatry of the people: 6 God's judgments againſt them. 14 His promiſes of reconciliation with them

SAY ye unto your brethren, Ammi; and to your ſiſters, Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your mother, plead; for ſhe is not my wife, neither am I her huſband: let her, therefore, put away her whoredoms out of her ſight, and her adultries from between her breaſts;

3 Leſt I ſtrip her naked, and ſet her as in the day that ſhe was born, and make her as a wilderneſs, and ſet her like a dry land, and ſlay her with thirſt.

4 And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they be the children of whoredoms.

5 For their mother hath played the harlot; ſhe

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

4 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Call his name Jezreel, &c.) The word Jezreel ſignifies either the arm of God, or the ſeed of God, and is taken in both theſe ſenſes in the following verſes: and it does not ſeem proper to make an illegitimate child the earneſt of ſuch acts of God's juſtice or mercy as are implied in either of theſe ſenſes.

5 And I will break the bow of—Jezreel, &c.) That is, I will deſtroy the armies or ſtrength of Jezreel. This is commonly underſtood of the invaſion of Iſrael by Tiglath Pileſer, when he ſubdued a great part of the kingdom, and carried the inhabitants away captive.

10 Yet the number of the children of Iſrael ſhall be as the ſand of the ſea, &c.) Though God caſts off the ten tribes, yet he will in due time ſupply their loſs, by bringing in great numbers of true Iſraelites into the church, not only of the Jews, but alſo of the Gentiles, and making them, who before were ſtrangers to the covenant of promiſe, fellow-heirs with the Jews.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

2 Plead with your mother, plead, &c.) Theſe words are directed to thoſe pious perſons who ſtill remained among the ten tribes, and who were required to reprove and uſe their beſt endeavours to reform that general corruption which the nation had contracted by its idolatry, whereby they brake the covenant made with their God, and produced a ſeparation or divorce between them.

3 Leſt I ſtrip her naked, &c.) The puniſhment commonly inflicted upon harlots was, to ſtrip them naked and expoſe them to the world. In the ſame manner God threatens to deal with the nation or kingdom of Iſrael, namely, to deliver her into the hands of her enemies, who ſhall ſtrip her of all her wealth and ornaments, and carry her away naked into captivity.

that conceived them hath done ſhamefully: for ſhe ſaid, I will go after my lovers, that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my drink.

6 ¶ Therefore, behold, I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and make a wall, that ſhe ſhall not find her paths.

7 And ſhe ſhall follow after her lovers, but ſhe ſhall not overtake them; and ſhe ſhall ſeek them, but ſhall not find them: then ſhall ſhe ſay, I will go and return to my firſt huſband; for then was it better with me than now.

8 For ſhe did not know that I gave her corn, and wine, and oil, and multiplied her ſilver and gold, which they prepared for Baal.

9 Therefore will I return, and take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the ſeaſon thereof, and will recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedneſs.

10 And now will I diſcover her lewdneſs in the ſight of her lovers, and none ſhall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 I will alſo cauſe all her mirth to ceaſe, her feaſt-days, her new-moons, and her ſabbaths, and all her ſolemn feaſts.

12 And I will deſtroy her vines, and her fig-trees, whereof ſhe hath ſaid, Theſe are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and I will make them a foreſt, and the beaſts of the field ſhall eat them.

13 And I will viſit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein ſhe burned incenſe to them, and ſhe decked herſelf with her ear-rings and her jewels, and ſhe went after her lovers, and forgat me, ſaith the Lord.

14 ¶ Therefore behold, I will allure her, and bring her into the wilderneſs, and ſpeak comfortably unto her,

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for a door of hope; and ſhe ſhall ſing there, as in the days of her youth, and as in the day when ſhe came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it ſhall be at that day, ſaith the Lord, that thou ſhalt call me Iſhi, and ſhalt call me no more Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they ſhall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And in that day will I make a covenant for them with the beaſts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground; and I will break the bow, and the ſword, and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to lie down ſafely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever: yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteouſneſs, and in judgment, and in loving-kindneſs, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulneſs: and thou ſhalt know the Lord.

21 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, I will hear, ſaith the Lord, I will hear the heavens; and they ſhall hear the earth:

22 And the earth ſhall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they ſhall hear Jezreel.

23 And I will ſow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercy upon her that hath not obtained mercy; and I will ſay to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they ſhall ſay, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 By the expiation of an adultereſs, 4 is ſhewed the deſolation of Iſrael before their reſtoration.

THEN ſaid the Lord unto me, Go yet, love a woman, beloved of her friend, yet an adultereſs, according to the love of the Lord toward the children of Iſrael, who look to other gods, and love flagons of wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of ſilver, and for an homer of barley, and an half homer of barley.

3 And I ſaid unto her, Thou ſhalt abide for me many days: thou ſhalt not play the harlot, and thou ſhalt not be for another man: ſo will I alſo be for thee.

4 ¶ For the children of Iſrael ſhall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without a ſacrifice, and without an image, and without an ephod, and without teraphim:

5 Afterward ſhall the children of Iſrael return and ſeek the Lord their God, and David their king, and ſhall fear the Lord and his goodneſs in the latter days.

CHAP. IV.

1 God's judgments againſt the ſins of the people, 6 and of the prieſts. 15 Judah is exhorted to take warning by Iſrael's calamity.

HEAR the word of the Lord, ye children of Iſrael: for the Lord hath a controverſy with the inhabitants of the land, becauſe there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God, in the land.

2 By ſwearing, and lying, and killing, and ſtealing, and committing adultery, they break out, and blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore ſhall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein ſhall languiſh, with the beaſts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fiſhes of the ſea alſo ſhall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man ſtrive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that ſtrive with the prieſt.

8 For ſhe did not know that I gave her corn and wine, &c.) She did not conſider that all the neceſſaries ſhe enjoyed, as well as her riches and ornaments, were my gift, which yet ſhe ungratefully beſtowed on the ſervice of her idols.

14 Therefore behold, I will allure her, &c.) Here is a plain alteration of the ſtile from threatnings to promiſes, and therefore the firſt word of this verſe ſhould have been tranſlated nevertheleſs. The following part of the chapter imports a general promiſe of the Jewiſh nation: a ſubject often treated of by the prophets, eſpecially Ezekiel.

15 And the valley of Achor for a door of hope, &c.) As at the Iſraelites firſt entrance into Canaan, their taking poſſeſſion of the fruitful valley of Achor gave them encouragement to hope they ſhould become maſters of the whole land flowing with milk and honey; ſo the ſame auſpicious token of the divine favour ſhould accompany them at their return to their own country.

21 22 I will hear the heavens, and they ſhall hear the earth, &c.) All creatures ſhall anſwer the deſires and wants of my people: the heavens ſhall anſwer the wants of the earth, by ſending down ſeaſonable ſhowers; and the earth ſhall anſwer the wants of mankind, in bringing forth corn and wine, and all the other neceſſaries of life: nay, the very fruits of the earth ſhall anſwer the wiſhes of my people, now returned into their own land, by giving them due nouriſhment.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 According to the love of the Lord toward the children of Iſrael, The dealing of Hoſea, with regard to his wife, was exactly ſimilar to the favour which the Almighty ſhewed towards the Iſraelites; who, notwithſtanding all their obligations to him, retained an incurable propenſity to idolatry, often ſtiled ſpiritual whoredom.

5 And David their king, &c.) The Meſſiah is often called David by the prophets, as being the perſon in whom all the promiſes made to that powerful prince were to be fulfilled.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 The Lord hath a controverſy with the inhabitants of the land, &c.) The expreſſion alludes to the actions or ſuits which one perſon hath againſt another for injuries or damages received. So here the Almighty is repreſented as entering into judgment with the inhabitants of the ten tribes for their impieties, as being ſo many injuries to his honour, for which he demands ſatisfaction.

5 Therefore

5 Therefore ſhalt thou fall in the day, and the prophet alſo ſhall fall with thee in the night, and I will deſtroy thy mother.

6 ¶ My people are deſtroyed for lack of knowledge: becauſe thou haſt rejected knowledge, I will alſo reject thee, that thou ſhalt be no prieſt to me: ſeeing thou haſt forgotten the law of thy God, I will alſo forget thy children.

7 As they were increaſed, ſo they ſinned againſt me: therefore will I change their glory into ſhame.

8 They eat up the ſin of my people, and they ſet their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there ſhall be, like people, like prieſt: and I will puniſh them for their ways, and reward them their doings.

10 For they ſhall eat, and not have enough: they ſhall commit whoredom, and ſhall not increaſe; becauſe they have left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 Whoredom, and wine, and new wine, take away the heart.

12 ¶ My people aſk counſel at their ſtocks, and their ſtaff declareth unto them: for the ſpirit of whoredoms hath cauſed them to err, and they have gone a whoreing from under their God.

13 They ſacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incenſe upon the hills, under oaks, and poplars, and elms, becauſe the ſhadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters ſhall commit whoredom, and your ſpouſes ſhall commit adultery.

14 I will not puniſh your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your ſpouſes when they commit adultery; for themſelves are ſeparated with whores, and they ſacrifice with harlots: therefore the people that doth not underſtand ſhall fall.

15 ¶ Though thou, Iſrael, play the harlot, yet let not Judah offend; and come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to Beth-aven, nor ſwear, The Lord liveth.

16 For Iſrael ſlideth back as a backſliding heifer: now the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: let him alone.

18 Their drink is ſour; they have committed whoredom continually: her rulers with ſhame do love, Give ye.

19 The wind hath bound her up in her wings, and they ſhall be aſhamed becauſe of their ſacrifices.

CHAP. V.

1 God's judgments againſt the prieſts, the people, and the princes of Iſrael, for their manifold ſins, 15 until they repent.

HEAR ye this, O prieſts; and hearken, ye houſe of Iſrael, and give ye ear, O houſe of the king; for judgment is toward you, becauſe ye have been a ſnare on Mizpah, and a net ſpread upon Tabor.

2 And the revolters are profound to make ſlaughter, though I have been a rebuker of them all.

3 I know Ephraim and Iſrael is not hid from me; for now, O Ephraim thou committeſt whoredom, and Iſrael is defiled.

4 They will not frame their doings to turn unto their God: for the ſpirit of whoredoms is in the midſt of them, and they have not known the Lord.

5 And the pride of Iſrael doth teſtify to his face: therefore ſhall Iſrael and Ephraim fall in their iniquity; Judah alſo ſhall fall with them.

6 They ſhall go with their flocks and with their herds to ſeek the Lord but they ſhall not find him: he hath withdrawn himſelf from them;

7 They have dealt treacherouſly againſt the Lord: for they have begotten ſtrange children: now ſhall a month devour them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: cry aloud at Beth-aven, after thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim ſhall be deſolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Iſrael have I made known that which ſhall ſurely be.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that remove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppreſſed, and broken in judgment; becauſe he willingly walked after the commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the houſe of Judah as rottenneſs.

13 When Ephraim ſaw his ſickneſs, and Judah ſaw his wound, then went Ephraim to the Aſſyrian, and ſent to king Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a young lion to the houſe of Judah: I, even I, will tear, and go away; I will take away, and none ſhall reſcue him.

15 ¶ I will go, and return to my place, till they acknowledge their offence, and ſeek my face; in their affliction they will ſeek me early.

CHAP. VI.

1 An exhortation to repentance. 4 A complaint of their untowardneſs and iniquity.

COME, and let us return unto the Lord, for he hath torn, and he will heal us: he hath ſmitten, and he will bind us up.

2 After two days will he revive us, in the third day he will raiſe us up, and we ſhall live in his ſight.

3 Then ſhall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord:

8 They eat up the ſin of my people, and they ſet their heart on their iniquity.) The idolatrous prieſts live upon the ſin-offerings of the people, and are ſo far from reſtraining them, that they delight in ſeeing them commit iniquity, becauſe the more they ſin, the greater is the number of their ſin-offerings, which are the prieſts' portion.

15 Come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to Beth-aven, &c.) Gilgal was remarkable for renewing the right of circumciſion, when the Iſraelites firſt paſſed over Jordan; and after Jeroboam ſet up idolatry, it was noted for the worſhip of falſe gods. It was joined with Bethel, noted alſo for the worſhip of Jeroboam's calves, called here Beth-aven. The word Bethel ſignifies the houſe of God, and was ſo called by Jacob, becauſe of God's appearing to him there, when he fled to Padan-aram, for fear of Eſau his brother: but when it became the ſeat of idolatry, it was called Beth-aven, the houſe of vanity.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

5 And the pride of Iſrael doth teſtify to his face, &c.) Their indecent behaviour towards the Almighty, whoſe worſhip they deſpiſe, ſufficiently diſcovers itſelf in every part of their behaviour, and convicts them of the juſt deſert of their ſins.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that remove the bound, &c.) They have violated the moſt ſacred laws of the Almighty, upon which not only the ordinances of his worſhip, but alſo the rights and properties of men depend; and are become guilty of the ſame injuſtice and confuſion with thoſe that remove the ancient bounds and land-marks.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

2 After two days will he revive us, in the third day he will raiſe us up, &c.) A deliverance from ſuch miſeries or calamities, from whence men deſpair of a recovery, is often repreſented as reſtoring them to life after death. If we take this expreſſion in its true and natural ſenſe, it is a plain prediction of our Saviour's reſurrection, and is accordingly referred to by St. Paul, as a prophecy of that great event.

Lord:

Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he ſhall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth.

4 ¶ O Ephraim, what ſhall I do unto thee? O Judah, what ſhall I do unto thee? for your goodneſs is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I hewed them by the prophets: I have ſlain them by the words of my mouth: and thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I deſired mercy and not ſacrifice; and the knowledge of God, more than burnt-offerings.

7 But they like men have tranſgreſſed the covenant: there have they dealt treacherouſly againſt me.

8 Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity, and is polluted with blood.

9 And as troops of robbers wait for a man, ſo the company of prieſts murder in the way by conſent: for they commit lewdneſs.

10 I have ſeen an horrible thing in the houſe of Iſrael: there is the whoredom of Ephraim, Iſrael is defiled.

11 Alſo, O Judah, he hath ſet an harveſt for thee, when I returned the captivity of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A reproof of manifold ſins. 11 God's wrath againſt them for their hypocriſy.

WHEN I would have healed Iſrael, then the iniquity of Ephraim was diſcovered, and the wickedneſs of Samaria: for they commit falſehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers ſpoileth without:

2 And they conſider not in their hearts that I remember all their wickedneſs: now their own doings have beſet them about; they are before my face.

3 They make the king glad with their wickedneſs, and the princes with their lies.

4 They are all adulterers, as an oven heated by the baker, who ceaſeth from raiſing after he hath kneaded the dough until it be leavened.

5 In the day of our king the princes have made him ſick with bottles of wine: he ſtretched out his hands with ſcorners.

6 For they have made ready their heart like an oven, whiles they lie in wait: their baker ſleepeth all the night; in the morning it burneth as a flaming fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges: all their kings are fallen; there is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim, he hath mixed himſelf among the people; Ephraim is a cake not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his ſtrength, and he knoweth it not; yea, gray hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Iſrael teſtifieth to his face; and they do not return to the Lord their God, nor ſeek him for all this.

11 ¶ Ephraim alſo is like a ſilly dove without heart: they call to Egypt, they go to Aſſyria.

12 When they ſhall go, I will ſpread my net upon them; I will bring them down as the fowls of the heaven; I will chaſtiſe them as the congregation hath heard.

13 Woe unto them! for they have fled from me; deſtruction unto them! becauſe they have tranſgreſſed againſt me: though I have redeemed them, yet they have ſpoken lies againſt me.

14 And they have not cried unto me with their heart, when they howled upon their beds: they aſſemble themſelves for corn and wine, and they rebel againſt me.

15 Though I have bound and ſtrengthened their arms, yet do they imagine miſchief againſt me.

16 They return, but not to the moſt High; they are like a deceitful bow: their princes ſhall fall by the ſword for the rage of their tongue: This ſhall be their deriſion in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. VIII.

1, 12 Deſtruction is threatened for their impiety, 5 and idolatry.

SET the trumpet to thy mouth. He ſhall come as an eagle againſt the houſe of the Lord, becauſe they have tranſgreſſed my covenant, and treſpaſſed againſt my law.

2 Iſrael ſhall cry unto me, My God, we know thee.

3 Iſrael hath caſt off the thing that is good: the enemy ſhall purſue him.

4 They have ſet up kings but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their ſilver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

5 ¶ Thy calf, O Samaria, hath caſt thee off: mine anger is kindled againſt them: how long will it be ere they attain to innocency?

6 For from Iſrael was it alſo; the workman made it; therefore it is not God: but the calf of Samaria ſhall be broken in pieces.

7 For they have ſown the wind, and they ſhall reap the whirlwind: it hath no ſtalk: the bud ſhall yield no meal: if ſo be it yield, the ſtrangers ſhall ſwallow it up.

8 Iſrael is ſwallowed up: now ſhall they be among the Gentiles as a veſſel wherein is no pleaſure.

9 For they are gone up to Aſſyria, a wild aſs alone by himſelf: Ephraim hath hired lovers.

10 Yea, though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they ſhall ſorrow a little for the burden of the king of princes.

11 O Judah, he hath ſet an harveſt for thee, &c.) Thou haſt, by thine iniquities, rendered thyſelf ripe for deſtruction.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges; all their kings are fallen, &c.) The flame of civil diſcord is ſpread among the people in general; and this hath proved the deſtruction both of their king and inferior magiſtrates. An anarchy continued eleven years after the death of Jeroboam the ſecond; and afterwards his ſon Zachariah and his ſucceſſors, Shallum and Pekahiah were ſlain by conſpiracies formed againſt them.

11 Ephraim alſo is like a ſilly dove without heart; they call to Egypt, they go to Aſſyria.) Like an unwary dove that falls into a ſnare: ſo the deſcendants of Jacob fly for refuge to their enemies: ſometimes they apply themſelves to the king of Egypt for aſſiſtance; and at other times to the king of Aſſyria.

12 I will chaſtiſe them as the congregation hath heard.) I will bring thoſe calamities upon them which I have denounced in my laws againſt the whole people of Iſrael whenever they forſake me.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

7 For they have ſown the wind, and they ſhall reap the whirlwind, &c.) A proverbial expreſſion uſed to ſignify, that the reward of men will be always proportionable to their works: that they who ſow iniquity, ſhall reap vanity. All the pains the kings of Iſrael have taken to enrich themſelves, and to ſtrengthen their kingdom, being built on the foundation of apoſtacy and idolatry, ſhall prove like a blaſted crop of corn; and even the ſmall increaſe ſhall be a prey to their enemies.

10 They ſhall ſorrow a little for the burden of the king of princes.) They ſhall feel the burdens and oppreſſions laid on them by the king of Aſſyria, who ſtiles himſelf King of kings, and hath conquered many kings and princes, and hath obliged them to become his tributaries.

11 Becauſe Ephraim hath made many altars to ſin, altars ſhall be unto him to ſin.

12 I have written to him the great things of my law, but they were counted as a ſtrange thing.

13 They ſacrifice fleſh for the ſacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it; but the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and viſit their ſins: they ſhall return to Egypt.

14 For Iſrael hath forgotten his Maker, and buildeth temples; and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but I will ſend a fire upon his cities, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

The diſtreſs and captivity of Iſrael for their ſins and idolatry.

REJOICE not, O Iſrael, for joy, as other people: for thou haſt gone a whoring from thy God, thou haſt loved a reward upon every corn-floor.

2 The floor and the wine-preſs ſhall not feed them, and the new wine ſhall fail in her.

3 They ſhall not dwell in the Lord's land, but Ephraim ſhall return to Egypt, and they ſhall eat unclean things in Aſſyria.

4 They ſhall not offer wine-offerings to the Lord, neither ſhall they be pleaſing unto him; their ſacrifices ſhall be unto them as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof ſhall be polluted: for their bread for their ſoul ſhall not come into the houſe of the Lord.

5 What will ye do in the ſolemn day, and in the day of the feaſt of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone becauſe of deſtruction; Egypt ſhall gather them up, Memphis ſhall bury them: the pleaſant places for their ſilver, nettles ſhall poſſeſs them: thorns ſhall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of viſitation are come, the days of recompenſe are come: Iſrael ſhall know it: the prophet is a fool, the ſpiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a ſnare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred in the houſe of his God.

9 They have deeply corrupted themſelves as in the days of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will viſit their ſins.

10 I found Iſrael like grapes in the wilderneſs: I ſaw your fathers as the firſt ripe in the fig-tree at her firſt time: but they went to Baal-peor, and ſeparated themſelves unto that ſhame; and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory ſhall fly away like a bird; from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet will I bereave them, that there ſhall not be a man left: yea, woe alſo to them when I depart from them!

13 Ephraim, as I ſaw Tyrus, is planted in a pleaſant place: but Ephraim ſhall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O Lord: what wilt thou give? give them a miſcarrying womb, and dry breaſts.

15 All their wickedneſs is in Gilgal; for there I hated them: for the wickedneſs of their doings I will drive them out of mine houſe, I will love them no more: all their princes are revolters.

16 Ephraim is ſmitten, their root is dried up, they ſhall bear no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I ſlay, even the beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will caſt them away becauſe they did not hearken unto him: and they ſhall be wanderers among the nations.

CHAP. X.

Iſrael is reproved and threatened for their impiety and idolatry.

ISRAEL is an empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himſelf: according to the multitude of his fruit he hath increaſed the altars; according to the goodneſs of his land they have made goodly images.

2 Their heart is divided; now ſhall they be found faulty: he ſhall break down their altars, he ſhall ſpoil their images.

3 For now they ſhall ſay, We have no king, becauſe we feared not the Lord; what then ſhould a king do to us?

4 They have ſpoken words, ſwearing falſely in making a covenant: thus judgment ſpringeth up as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria ſhall fear becauſe of the calves of Beth-aven: for the people thereof ſhall mourn over it, and the prieſts thereof that rejoiced on it, for the glory thereof, becauſe it is departed from it.

6 It ſhall be alſo carried unto Aſſyria for a preſent to king Jareb: Ephraim ſhall receive ſhame, and Iſrael ſhall be aſhamed of his own counſel.

7 As for Samaria her king is cut off as the foam upon the water.

8 The high places alſo of Aven, the ſin of Iſrael, ſhall be deſtroyed: the thorn and the thiſtle ſhall come up on their altars, and they ſhall ſay to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

9 O Iſrael, thou haſt ſinned from the days of Gibeah; there they ſtood: the battle in Gibeah againſt the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10 It is in my deſire that I ſhould chaſtiſe them; and the people ſhall be gathered againſt them, when they ſhall bind themſelves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer that is taught, and loveth to tread out the corn; but I paſſed over upon her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah ſhall plow, and Jacob ſhall break his clods.

12 Sow to yourſelves in righteouſneſs, reap in mercy;

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

6 For lo, they are gone, becauſe of deſtruction: Egypt ſhall gather them up, Memphis ſhall bury them, &c.) A great number of the Iſraelites retired into Egypt, for fear of the captivity threatened by Salmaneſer. But the prophet threatens them, that they ſhall have no better fate than their brethren, who were carried away into Aſſyria; for they ſhould die there, and never more return to their own country.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a ſnare of a fowler, &c.) The true prophet, like a watchman ſent from God, gave warning to Iſrael of their approaching calamities: but the words of a falſe prophet reſemble a ſnare laid by the fowler; they hurry men into miſchief and deſtruction.

13 Ephraim, as I ſaw Tyrus, is planted in a pleaſant place, &c.) The ſituation of Ephraim, and particularly the city of Samaria built in that tribe, is as pleaſant as that of Tyre.

COMMENTARY on Chap. X.

1 Iſrael is an empty vine, &c.) The word bokek, here tranſlated empty, ſignifies alſo flouriſhing, and ſeems to be the true ſenſe here. If this be granted, the ſenſe of the paſſage will be as follows: That though Iſrael, like a flouriſhing vine, abounded with plenty of all things, yet he brought forth no fruit unto God, but abuſed his bleſſings to the encouragement of ſin and idolatry.

8 And they ſhall ſay to the mountains, Cover us, &c.) Theſe words expreſs the great conſternation of the wicked, when the judgments of the Almighty ſhall overtake them. They ſhall then ſeek to hide themſelves from their God, and even wiſh to be buried under the ponderous load of the mountains.

break up your fallow ground: for it is time to ſeek the Lord, till he come and rain righteouſneſs upon you.

13 Ye have plowed wickedneſs, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: becauſe thou didſt truſt in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14 Therefore ſhall a tumult ariſe among thy people, and all thy fortreſſes ſhall be ſpoiled, as Shalman ſpoiled Beth-arbel in the day of battle: the mother was daſhed in pieces upon her children.

15 So ſhall Beth-el do unto you becauſe of your great wickedneſs: in a morning ſhall the king of Iſrael utterly be cut off.

CHAP. XI.

1 The ingratitude of Iſrael unto God for his benefits: 5 Their judgment.

WHEN Iſrael was a child, then I loved him, and called my ſon out of Egypt.

2 As they called them, ſo they went from them: they ſacrificed unto Baalim, and burnt incenſe to graven images.

3 I taught Ephraim alſo to go, taking them by their arms; but they knew not that I healed them.

4 I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love; and I was to them as they that take off the yoke on their jaws, and I laid meat unto them.

5 ¶ He ſhall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Aſſyrian ſhall be his king, becauſe they refuſed to return.

6 And the ſword ſhall abide on his cities, and ſhall conſume his branches, and devour them, becauſe of their own counſels.

7 And my people are bent to backſliding from me: though they called them to the Moſt High, none at all would exalt him.

8 How ſhall I give thee up, Ephraim? how ſhall I deliver thee, Iſrael? how ſhall I make thee as Admah? how ſhall I ſet thee as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together.

9 I will not execute the fierceneſs of mine anger, I will not return to deſtroy Ephraim, for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midſt of thee; and I will not enter into the city.

10 They ſhall walk after the Lord: he ſhall roar like a lion: when he ſhall roar, then the children ſhall tremble from the weſt.

11 They ſhall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of Aſſyria: and I will place them in their houſes, ſaith the Lord.

12 Ephraim compaſſeth me about with lies, and the houſe of Iſrael with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful with the ſaints.

CHAP. XII.

1 A reproof of Ephraim, Judah, and Jacob. 6 An exhortation to repentance.

EPHRAIM feedeth on wind, and followeth after the eaſt wind: he daily increaſeth lies and deſolation; and they do make a covenant with the Aſſyrians, and oil is carried into Egypt.

2 The Lord hath alſo a controverſy with Judah, and will puniſh Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompenſe him.

3 He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and by his ſtrength he had power with God.

4 Yea, he had power over the angel, and prevailed: he wept and made ſupplication unto him: he found him in Beth-el, and there he ſpake with us:

5 Even the Lord God of hoſts; the Lord is his memorial.

6 ¶ Therefore turn thou to thy God; keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually.

7 He is a merchant, the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to oppreſs.

8 And Ephraim ſaid, Yet I am become rich, I have found me out ſubſtance: in all my labours they ſhall find none iniquity in me that were ſin.

9 And I, that am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the ſolemn feaſt.

10 I have alſo ſpoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied viſions, and uſed ſimilitudes, by the miniſtry of the prophets.

11 Is there iniquity in Gilead? ſurely they are vanity: they ſacrifice bullocks in Gilgal; yea, their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

12 And Jacob fled into the country of Syria, and Iſrael ſerved for a wife, and for a wife he kept ſheep.

13 And by a prophet the Lord brought Iſrael out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preſerved.

14 Ephraim provoked him to anger moſt bitterly: therefore ſhall he leave his blood upon him, and his reproach ſhall his Lord return unto him.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Ephraim's glory, by reaſon of idolatry, vaniſheth. 5 God's anger for their unkindneſs. 9 A promiſe of God's mercy. 15 A judgment for rebellion.

---

14 As Shalman ſpoiled Beth-arbel in the day of battle, &c.) The prophet compares the deſtruction of Samaria with another terrible deſolation, which the ſame Salmaneſer called here Shalman, made at Beth-arbel, a place in Armenia, where all the inhabitants were put to the ſword without any regard to age or ſex.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XI.

1 When Iſrael was a child, then I loved him.) When this people was in the ſtate of childhood, that is, in the patriachal times, and during their heavy bondage in Egypt, then I loved them.

And called my ſon out of Egypt.) Iſrael is here called the ſon of God, and in other places of ſcripture his firſt-born, and therefore was an eminent type of the Meſſiah, in whom all the promiſes of the Almighty were fulfilled: and, indeed, the literal ſenſe of the words are more properly applied to Chriſt, than to Iſrael; and accordingly the evangeliſt St. Matthew tells us, that this prophecy was fulfilled when our bleſſed Saviour returned out of Egypt, whither he was carried by his parents to avoid the wrath of Herod.

10 They ſhall walk after the Lord: he ſhall roar like a lion, &c.) They ſhall follow the call of the Almighty, and comply with his commands, when he ſhall convert them by an efficacious call of his providence, or powerful preaching of the goſpel. The voice of God is elſewhere compared to the roaring of a lion, becauſe of the terror with which it is accompanied.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

4 He wept and made ſupplication unto him, &c.) Jacob's wreſtling with the angel (mentioned in the foregoing verſes) was not only a corporal, but alſo a ſpiritual conflict. From holy wreſtling, he had alſo recourſe to ſpiritual weapons; he poured forth tears with earneſt ſupplications and prayers, and ſtrove leſs for victory than for a bleſſing; the only method by which a feeble and impotent creature can prevail over his Maker.

10 I have alſo ſpoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied viſions, and uſed ſimilitudes, &c.) Here are three ſpecies of prophecy diſtinctly mentioned. 1. Immediate ſuggeſtion or inſpiration, when God dictates the very words to the prophet to deliver. 2. Viſions, or a repreſentation made of external objects to the imagination, in as lively a manner as if they were conveyed by the ſenſes. 3. Parables, or apt reſemblances.

WHEN Ephraim ſpake trembling, he exalted himſelf in Iſrael; but when he offended in Baal, he died.

2 And now they ſin more and more, and have made them molten images of their ſilver, and idols according to their own underſtanding, all of it the work of the craftſmen: they ſay of them, Let the men that ſacrifice kiſs the calves.

3 Therefore they ſhall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that paſſeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the ſmoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, and thou ſhalt know no God but me: for there is no ſaviour beſides me.

5 ¶ I did know thee in the wilderneſs, in the land of great drought.

6 According to their paſture, ſo were they filled; they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore have they forgotten me.

7 Therefore I will be unto them as a lion: as a leopard by the way will I obſerve them.

8 I will meet them as a bear that is bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: the wild beaſt ſhall tear them.

9 ¶ O Iſrael, thou haſt deſtroyed thyſelf; but in me, is thine help.

10 I will be thy king: where is any other that may ſave thee in all thy cities? and thy judges, of whom thou ſaidſt, Give me a king and princes?

11 I gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his ſin is hid.

13 The ſorrows of a travailing woman ſhall come upon him: he is an unwiſe ſon; for he ſhould not ſtay long in the place of the breaking forth of children.

14 I will ranſom them from the power of the grave: I will redeem them from death: O death, I will be thy plagues: O grave, I will be thy deſtruction: repentance ſhall be hid from mine eyes.

15 ¶ Though he be fruitful among his brethren, an eaſt-wind ſhall come, the wind of the Lord ſhall come up from the wilderneſs, and his ſpring ſhall become dry, and his fountain ſhall be dried up, he ſhall ſpoil the treaſure of all pleaſant veſſels.

16 Samaria ſhall become deſolate; for ſhe hath rebelled againſt her God: they ſhall fall by the ſword: their infants ſhall be daſhed in pieces, and their women with child ſhall be ripped up.

CHAP. XIV.

1 An exhortation to repentance. 4 A promiſe of God's bleſſing.

O Iſrael, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou haſt fallen by thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words, and turn to the Lord: ſay unto him, Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciouſly: ſo will we render the calves of our lips.

3 Aſſhur ſhall not ſave us; we will not ride upon horſes; neither will we ſay any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherleſs findeth mercy.

4 ¶ I will heal their backſliding, I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5 I will be as the dew unto Iſrael: he ſhall grow as the lily, and caſt forth his roots as Lebanon.

6 His branches ſhall ſpread, and his beauty ſhall be as the olive-tree, and his ſmell as Lebanon.

7 They that dwell under his ſhadow ſhall return; they ſhall revive as the corn, and grow as the vine: the ſcent thereof ſhall be as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim ſhall ſay, What have I to do any more with idols? I have heard him, and obſerved him: I am like a green fir-tree: from me is thy fruit found.

9 Who is wiſe, and he ſhall underſtand theſe things? prudent and he ſhall know them? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the juſt ſhall walk in them: but the tranſgreſſors ſhall fall therein.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

1 When Ephraim ſpake trembling, he exalted himſelf in Iſrael; but when he offended in Baal, he died.) While he behaved with ſubmiſſion and obedience towards his God, he was reckoned among the principal tribes of Iſrael: but when he gave himſelf up to idolatry, his ſtrength immediately declined, and exhibited evident ſymptoms of ruin and deſtruction. The word Baal here is uſed in a general ſenſe for all falſe gods, or idolatrous ways of worſhip.

14 O death, I will be thy plagues; O grave, I will be thy deſtruction, &c.) It is uſual for the prophets, when they foretel temporal deliverances, to be carried away beyond their firſt intentions, by the force of the prophetic ſpirit to predict the greater mercies and deliverances of the goſpel; ſo here the prophet takes occaſion, from foretelling temporal mercies, to enlarge his views, and diſplay that great and final deliverance of the faithful from the power of ſin and death, which ſhall be compleated by Chriſt at his ſecond coming, when he ſhall ſwallow up death and victory.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

5 I will be as the dew unto Iſrael, &c.) This and the following verſes contain gracious promiſes of God's favours and bleſſings, upon Iſrael's converſion, repreſented by different metaphors; in this ſentence it is deſcribed by the refreſhment which large dews give to the grais in the heat of ſummer.

JOEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Joel, the ſon of Pethuel, was of the tribe of Reuben, and a native of the city of Bethoron. His ſtyle is figurative, ſtrong, and expreſſive. He upbraids the Iſraelites for their idolatries, and foretels the calamities they ſhould ſuffer, as a puniſhment for their ſins.

CHAP. I.

1 Joel declaring ſundry judgments of God, exhorteth to obſerve them, 8 and to mourn. 14 He preſcribeth a faſt.

THE word of the Lord that came to Joel, the ſon of Pethuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear all ye inhabitants of the land. Hath this been in your days, or even in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell ye your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation:

4 That which the palmer-worm hath left, hath the locuſt eaten: and that which the locuſt hath left, hath the canker-worm eaten; and that which the canker-worm hath left, hath the caterpillar eaten.

5 Awake, ye drunkards and weep; and howl, all ye drinkers of wine; becauſe of the new wine; for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For a nation is come up upon my land, ſtrong, and without number, whoſe teeth are the teeth of a lion, and he hath the cheek-teeth of a great lion.

7 He hath laid my vine waſte, and barked my fig-tree: he hath made it clean bare, and caſt it away: the branches thereof are made white.

8 ¶ Lament like a virgin girded with ſackcloth for the huſband of her youth.

9 The meat-offering and the drink-offering is cut off from the houſe of the Lord; the prieſts the Lord's miniſters mourn.

10 The field is waſted, the land mourneth: for the corn is waſted, the new wine is dried up, the oil languiſheth.

11 Be ye aſhamed, O ye huſbandmen: howl, O ye vine-dreſſers, for the wheat and for the barley; becauſe the harveſt of the field is periſhed.

12 The vine is dried up, and the fig-tree languiſheth, the pomegranate-tree, the palm-tree alſo, and the apple-tree, even all the trees of the field, are withered: becauſe joy is withered away from the ſons of men.

13 Gird yourſelves and lament, ye prieſts, howl ye miniſters of the altar: come, lie all night in ſackcloth, ye miniſters of my God: for the meat-offering and the drink-offering is with-holden from the houſe of your God.

14 ¶ Sanctify ye a faſt, call a ſolemn aſſembly, gather the elders, and all the inhabitants of the land, into the houſe of the Lord your God, and cry unto the Lord.

15 Alas for the day! for the day of the Lord is at hand, and as a deſtruction from the Almighty ſhall it come.

16 Is not the meat cut off before our eyes, yea, joy and gladneſs from the houſe of our God?

17 The ſeed is rotten under their clods, the garners are laid deſolate, the barns are broken down: for the corn is withered.

18 How do the beaſts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, becauſe they have no paſture; yea, the flocks of ſheep are made deſolate.

19 O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the paſtures of the wilderneſs, and the flame hath burned all the trees of the field.

20 The beaſts of the field cry alſo unto thee: for the rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the paſtures of the wilderneſs.

CHAP. II.

1 The terribleneſs of God's judgments: 12 he exhorteth to repentance, 15 preſcribeth a faſt, 18 and promiſeth a bleſſing thereon.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land, &c.) The prophet ſhews how great and unparalleled the terrible famine coming upon the land, by a long drought and the locuſts, will be, by appealing to the memory of the aged, and the obſervations of the preſent generation, whether they ever knew or heard any thing like it: ſo that it deſerved to be recorded as a warning to after-times. Inſects are deſcribed as a nation, or people marching in order under their leaders, both by ſacred and profane writers, becauſe of their power to do miſchief, and their being irreſiſtible by human ſtrength or art.

8 Lament like a virgin girded with ſackcloth for the huſband of her youth.) Theſe words are an apoſtrophe to the land of Judea; and the prophet puts her in mind that ſhe ought to be deeply affected with the heavy ſtrokes of divine vengeance, and expreſs her inward ſenſe of theſe calamities, with the ſame external marks of mourning as a young virgin who had loſt the huſband of her youth.

BLOW ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain; let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord cometh, for it is nigh at hand;

2 A day of darkness and of gloominess, a day of clouds and of thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains: a great people and a strong; there hath not been ever the like, neither shall be any more after it, even to the years of many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before them, and behind them a flame burneth: the land is as the garden of Eden before them, and behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them.

4 The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, as a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained; all faces shall gather blackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men: they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks:

8 Neither shall one thrust another, they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the sword they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall: they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall enter in at the windows like a thief.

10 The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 And the Lord shall utter his voice before his army; for his camp is very great: for he is strong that executeth his word: for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible; and who can abide it?

12 ¶ Therefore also now, saith the Lord, Turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning;

13 And rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 Who knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat-offering, and a drink-offering, unto the Lord your God?

15 ¶ Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly;

16 Gather the people, sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet:

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them: wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 ¶ Then will the Lord be jealous for his land, and pity his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will answer, and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen:

20 But I will remove far off from you the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face toward the east sea, and his hinder part toward the utmost sea: and his stink shall come up, and his ill savour shall come up, because he hath done great things.

21 ¶ Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field: for the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig-tree and the vine do yield their strength.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month.

24 And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years that the locust hath eaten, the canker-worm, and the caterpillar, and the palmer-worm, my great army, which I sent among you.

26 And ye shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 And ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none else: and my people shall never be ashamed.

28 And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions:

29 And also upon the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit.

30 And I will shew wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood and fire and pillars of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the Lord come:

32 And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered: for in mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the Lord hath said, and in the remnant whom the Lord shall call.

Commentary on Chap. II.

1 Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain, &c.) The prophet, in the preceding chapter, describes the locusts and the catterpillars as the army of the Almighty; and now, in pursuance of the same metaphor, exhorts the people to prepare to meet them, in the same terms as if they were alarmed to oppose an enemy, which was always done by the sounding of a trumpet. This ceremony was used to publish the times of the solemn assemblies for the worship of God: and this is the chief use they were to make of it on this occasion, there being no other way to avert the impending judgment, but by humbling themselves before the God of their fathers, with fasting and prayer.

10 The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble, &c.) The inhabitants of the earth shall be seized with an horrible dread of their approach. The heavens shall put on the appearance of fear, by looking dark and dismal, because those noxious creatures shall come so such swarms, as to intercept the rays of the sun, and the light of the moon and stars. It must also be observed, that as God's particular judgments are an earnest and forerunner of the general judgment, the same expressions are common to both.

15 Let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, &c.) Let not the new-married couple observe the usual time of keeping within and feasting, but come forth on this occasion, and join in acts of public worship and humiliation. The time allowed for the marriage-feast was seven days.

20 But I will remove far off from you the northern army, &c.) The locusts are here stiled the northern army, because they entered the land at Hamath, one of the northern borders of it, and past quite through it 'till they came to the southern parts, about the Dead Sea, which were barren and desolate ever since the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah; and there they were either famished, or perished in the waters.

28 I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh, &c.) The plentiful effusion of the holy spirit is mentioned by the prophets as the peculiar character of the gospel state: and in several other parts of the scripture it is compared to the pouring of waters upon a thirsty land, whereby it is rendered fruitful.

CHAP. III.

1 God's judgments againſt the enemies of his people. 18 His bleſſings upon the church.

FOR behold, in thoſe days and in that time, when I ſhall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jeruſalem,

2 I will alſo gather all nations, and will bring them down into the valley of Jehoſhaphat, and will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Iſrael, whom they have ſcattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have caſt lots for my people; and have given a boy for an harlot, and ſold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and what have ye to do with me, O Tyre and Zidon, and all the coaſts of Paleſtine? will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompenſe me, ſwiftly and ſpeedily will I return your recompence upon your own head.

5 Becauſe ye have taken my ſilver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly pleaſant things:

6 The children alſo of Judah and the children of Jeruſalem have ye ſold unto the Grecians, that ye might remove them far from their border:

7 Behold, I will raiſe them out of the place whither ye have ſold them, and will return your recompence upon your own head.

8 And I will ſell your ſons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they ſhall ſell them to the Sabeans, to a people far off: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

9 Proclaim me this among the Gentiles: Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near, let them come up.

10 Beat your plow-ſhares into ſwords, and your pruning-hooks into ſpears: let the weak ſay, I am ſtrong.

11 Aſſemble yourſelves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourſelves together round about: thither cauſe thy mighty ones to come down, O Lord.

12 Let the heathen be weakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoſhaphat: for there will I ſit to judge all the heathen round about.

13 Put ye in the ſickle, for the harveſt is ripe: come, get ye down; for the preſs is full, the fats overflow; for their wickedneſs is great.

14 Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of deciſion: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of deciſion.

15 The ſun and the moon ſhall be darkened, and the ſtars ſhall withdraw their ſhining.

16 The Lord alſo ſhall roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jeruſalem; and the heavens and the earth ſhall ſhake: but the Lord will be the hope of his people, and the ſtrength of the children of Iſrael.

17 So ſhall ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain: then ſhall Jeruſalem be holy, and there ſhall no ſtrangers paſs through her any more.

18 ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs in that day that the mountains ſhall drop down new wine, and the hills ſhall flow with milk, and all the rivers of Judah ſhall flow with waters, and a fountain ſhall come forth of the houſe of the Lord, and ſhall water the valley of Shittim.

19 Egypt ſhall be a deſolation, and Edom ſhall be a deſolate wilderneſs, for the violence againſt the children of Judah, becauſe they have ſhed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Judah ſhall dwell for ever, and Jeruſalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will cleanſe their blood that I have not cleanſed: for the Lord dwelleth in Zion.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

3 Have given a boy for an harlot, &c.) Have ſold their ſlaves to ſupply their wanton luſts.

13 Put ye in the ſickle, for the harveſt is ripe, &c.) God will give his commands to the angels, who are the reapers, to cut off the wicked by a ſpeedy deſtruction; for their iniquities are come to maturity, and ripe for judgment.

18 The mountains ſhall drop down new wine, and the hills ſhall flow with milk, &c.) In the times of the millenium ſtate, there ſhall be plenty of all things. Vines are uſually planted upon hills; and theſe, the prophet tells the Jews, ſhall yield ſuch plenty of wine, as if the mountains flowed down with it; and at the ſame time, the flocks and the herds that feed upon the hills ſhall afford the ſame plenty of milk.

AMOS.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Amos, who had been a herdſman of Tekoa, a ſmall town near Jeruſalem, was ſent to the king of Baſhan, that is, the people of Samaria, or the kingdom of Iſrael, to bring them back to the God of their fathers, by repentance and amendment of life. For this purpoſe he boldly remonſtrates againſt the crying ſins that prevailed among them; as idolatry, oppreſſion, wantonneſs, and obſtinacy.

CHAP. I.

1 God's judgments upon Syria, 6 the Philiſtines, 9 Tyrus, 11 Edom, 13 and Ammon.

THE words of Amos, who was among the herdmen of Tekoa, which he ſaw concerning Iſrael, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael, two years before the earthquake:

2 And he ſaid, The Lord will roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jeruſalem: and the habitations of the ſhepherds ſhall mourn, and the top of Carmel ſhall wither.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Damaſcus, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof: becauſe they have threſhed Gilead with threſhing inſtruments of iron:

4 But I will ſend a fire into the houſe of Hazael, which ſhall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break alſo the bar of Damaſcus, and cut off the inhabitant from the plain of Aven, and him that holdeth the ſceptre from the houſe of Eden: and the people of Syria ſhall go into captivity, unto Kir, ſaith the Lord.

6 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof: becauſe they carried away captive the whole captivity, to deliver them up to Edom:

7 But I will ſend a fire on the wall of Gaza, which ſhall devour the palaces thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Aſhdod, and him that holdeth the ſceptre from Aſhkelon, and I will turn mine hand againſt Ekron: and the remnant of the Philiſtines ſhall periſh, ſaith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof: becauſe they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom, and remembered not the brotherly covenant:

10 But I will ſend a fire on the wall of Tyrus, which ſhall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof: becauſe he did purſue his brother with the ſword, and did caſt off all pity, and his anger did tear perpetually, and he kept his wrath for ever.

12 But I will ſend a fire upon Teman, which ſhall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof: becauſe they have ripped up the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border:

14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof, with ſhouting in the day of battle, with a tempeſt in the day of the whirlwind:

15 And their king ſhall go into captivity, he and his princes together, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

1 God's wrath againſt Moab, 4 upon Judah, 6 and upon Iſrael. 9 God complaineth of their unthankfulneſs.

THUS ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof; becauſe he burnt the bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 But I will ſend a fire upon Moab, and it ſhall de-

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

5 And cut off the inhabitant from the plain of Aven, &c.) Or as it is in the original, Bikath-aven, the plain of vanity; from whence ſome conjecture that it was a place famous for idolatry.

6 For three tranſgreſſions of Gaza, &c.) This city belonged to the Philiſtines, and was ſituated on the borders of Canaan. The inhabitants made frequent eruptions into the land of Iſrael, and carried away much ſpoil.

12 But I will ſend a fire upon Teman, which ſhall devour the palaces of Bozrah.) Teman and Bozrah were two principal cities of Idumea. This expreſſion imports their entire conqueſt and deſtruction, according to the predictions of ſeveral prophets.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 Becauſe he burnt the bones of the king of Edom into lime.) When this inhuman action was committed is uncertain; ſome ſuppoſe it alludes to the action of the king of Moab, who offered up his ſon a ſacrifice on the wall (2 Kings, iii. 2) but in that tranſaction it was not the king of Edom, but the prince of Moab, who was burnt.

vour the palaces of Kerioth; and Moab ſhall die with tumult, with ſhouting, and with the ſound of the trumpet:

3 And I will cut off the judge from the midſt thereof, and will ſlay all the princes thereof with him, ſaith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof; becauſe they have deſpiſed the law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lies cauſed them to err, after the which their fathers have walked:

5 But I will ſend a fire upon Judah, and it ſhall devour the palaces of Jeruſalem.

6 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Iſrael, and for four, I will not turn away the puniſhment thereof; becauſe they ſold the righteous for ſilver, and the poor for a pair of ſhoes;

7 That pant after the duſt of the earth on the head of the poor, and turn aſide the way of the meek; and a man and his father will go in unto the ſame maid, to profane my holy name:

8 And they lay themſelves down upon clothes laid to pledge, by every altar, and they drink the wine of the condemned in the houſe of their god.

9 ¶ Yet deſtroyed I the Amorite before them, whoſe height was like the height of the cedars, and he was ſtrong as the oaks; yet I deſtroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Alſo I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderneſs, to poſſeſs the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raiſed up of your ſons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Iſrael? ſaith the Lord.

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, ſaying, Propheſy not.

13 Behold, I am preſſed under you, as a cart is preſſed that is full of ſheaves.

14 Therefore the flight ſhall periſh from the ſwift, and the ſtrong ſhall not ſtrengthen his force, neither ſhall the mighty deliver himſelf:

15 Neither ſhall he ſtand that handleth the bow; and he that is ſwift of foot ſhall not deliver himſelf: neither ſhall he that rideth the horſe deliver himſelf:

16 And he that is courageous among the mighty ſhall flee away naked in that day, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

1 The neceſſity of God's judgment againſt Iſrael. 9 The publication and cauſes of it.

HEAR this word that the Lord hath ſpoken againſt you, O children of Iſrael, againſt the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will puniſh you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the foreſt when he hath no prey? will a young lion cry out of his den if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a ſnare upon the earth where no gin is for him? ſhall one take up a ſnare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not be afraid? ſhall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his ſecret unto his ſervants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord God hath ſpoken, who can but propheſy?

9 ¶ Publiſh in the palaces at Aſhdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and ſay, Aſſemble yourſelves upon the mountains of Samaria; and behold the great tumults in the midſt thereof, and the oppreſſed in the midſt thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, ſaith the Lord, who ſtore up violence and robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, An adverſary there ſhall be even round about the land; and he ſhall bring down thy ſtrength from thee, and thy palaces ſhall be ſpoiled.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, As the ſhepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; ſo ſhall the children of Iſrael be taken out that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in Damaſcus in a couch.

13 Hear ye, and teſtify in the houſe of Jacob, ſaith the Lord God, the God of hoſts:

14 That in the day that I ſhall viſit the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael upon him, I will alſo viſit the altars of Beth-el: and the horns of the altars ſhall be cut off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will ſmite the winter-houſe with the ſummer-houſe: and the houſes of ivory ſhall periſh, and the great houſes ſhall have an end, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

1 He reproveth Iſrael for oppreſſion, 4 for idolatry, 6 and for their incorrigibleneſs.

HEAR this word, ye kine of Baſhan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppreſs the poor, which cruſh the needy, which ſay to their maſters, Bring, and let us drink.

2 The Lord God hath ſworn by his holineſs, that lo, the days ſhall come upon you, that he will take you away with hooks, and your poſterity with fiſh-hooks.

---

8 And they lay themſelves down upon clothes laid to pledge, by every altar, &c.) This is to be underſtood of the feaſts that were made of part of their idolatrous ſacrifices, and were eaten in ſome apartments of their temples, according to the cuſtoms both of Jews and Gentiles: but the prophet does not only reprove them for partaking of things offered to idols, but likewiſe making uſe of other men's furniture, left in their hands for a pledge, to increaſe the ſplendor of their idolatrous entertainments. This was another inſtance of their unmerciful diſpoſition, detaining pledges received from the poor.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

7 Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his ſecret unto his ſervants the prophets.) There was a ſucceſſion of prophets from Samuel to the captivity: the people commonly conſulted them upon extraordinary occaſions, and they gave them counſel and directions what was proper to be done. The want of this prophetical gift was greatly lamented in the times of the captivity.

9 Publiſh in the palaces at Aſhdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, &c.) God calls upon the heathen to be witneſſes of his judgments upon his own people, that they may take warning thereby; particularly, he gives notice to the Philiſtines and Egyptians, the inveterate enemies of the Jews, that they may aſſemble themſelves, and with pleaſure behold the ravages and oppreſſions which their inſulting adverſaries will bring upon the kingdom of Iſrael, whoſe capital city was Samaria.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 Hear this word, ye kine of Baſhan, &c.) The luxury and inſolence of oppreſſors are often compared to the wantonneſs of full fed kine. Baſhan was remarkable for the richneſs of its paſtures, and its breed of cattle.

3 And ye ſhall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her, and ye ſhall caſt them into the palace, ſaith the Lord.

4 ¶ Come to Beth-el and tranſgreſs: at Gilgal multiply tranſgreſſion: and bring your ſacrifices every morning, and your tithes after three years.

5 And offer a ſacrifice of thankſgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publiſh the free-offerings: for this liketh you, O ye children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

6 ¶ And I alſo have given you cleanneſs of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

7 And alſo I have with-holden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harveſt: and I cauſed it to rain upon one city, and cauſed it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water; but they were not ſatisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

9 I have ſmitten you with blaſting and mildew; when your gardens, and your vineyards, and your fig-trees, and your olive-trees increaſed, the palmer-worm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

10 I have ſent among you the peſtilence after the manner of Egypt: your young men have I ſlain with the ſword, and have taken away your horſes: and I have made the ſtink of your camps to come up unto your noſtrils, yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

11 I have overthrown ſome of you, as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

12 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Iſrael: and becauſe I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Iſrael.

13 For lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkneſs, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, the God of hoſts is his name.

CHAP. V.

1 A lamentation for Iſrael. 4 An exhortation to repentance. 21 God rejecteth their hypocritical ſervice.

HEAR ye this word which I take up againſt you, even a lamentation, O houſe of Iſrael.

2 The virgin of Iſrael is fallen, ſhe ſhall no more riſe: ſhe is forſaken upon her land; there is none to raiſe her up.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The city that went out by a thouſand ſhall leave an hundred, and that which went forth by an hundred ſhall leave ten, to the houſe of Iſrael.

4 ¶ For thus ſaith the Lord unto the houſe of Iſrael, Seek ye me, and ye ſhall live.

5 But ſeek not Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and paſs not to Beer-ſheba: for Gilgal ſhall ſurely go into captivity, and Beth-el ſhall come to nought.

6 Seek the Lord, and ye ſhall live; leſt he break out like fire in the houſe of Joſeph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteouſneſs in the earth,

8 Seek him that maketh the ſeven ſtars and Orion, and turneth the ſhadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the ſea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The Lord is his name:

9 That ſtrengtheneth the ſpoiled againſt the ſtrong, ſo that the ſpoiled ſhall come againſt the fortreſs.

10 They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhor him that ſpeaketh uprightly.

11 Foraſmuch, therefore, as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat; ye have built houſes of hewn ſtone, but ye ſhall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleaſant vineyards, but ye ſhall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold tranſgreſſions and your mighty ſins: they afflict the juſt, they take a bribe, and they turn aſide the poor in the gate from their right.

13 Therefore the prudent ſhall keep ſilence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and ſo the Lord, the God of hoſts, ſhall be with you, as ye have ſpoken.

15 Hate the evil, and love the good, and eſtabliſh judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hoſts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joſeph.

16 Therefore the Lord, the God of hoſts, the Lord, ſaith thus, Wailing ſhall be in all ſtreets; and they ſhall ſay in all the highways, Alas! alas! and they ſhall call the huſbandman to mourning, and ſuch as are ſkilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards ſhall be wailing: for I will paſs through thee, ſaith the Lord.

18 Woe unto you that deſire the day of the Lord! to what end is it for you? the day of the Lord is darkneſs, and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the houſe, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a ſerpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord be darkneſs, and not light? even very dark, and no brightneſs in it?

11 And ye were as a fire-brand plucked out of the burning, &c.) Thoſe that remained very narrowly eſcaped. A proverbial expreſſion uſed both by ſacred and prophane authors, to ſignify a narrow eſcape out of an imminent danger.

Commentary on Chap. V.

5 And paſs not to Beer-ſheba, &c.) A place remarkable for being the dwelling of Abraham, and his planting a grove there for the worſhip of God: probably the grove ſtill continued, and was abuſed to idoatry. Beer-ſheba formerly belonged to Judah, but ſeems to have been taken from it by ſome of the kings of Iſrael.

8 Seek him that maketh the ſeven ſtars and Orion, &c.) Theſe and other conſtellations were thought to have a great influence upon the ſeaſons; and thence their riſing and ſetting uſed to be carefully obſerved by huſbandmen and ſhepherds, whoſe employment lying abroad in the fields, made them more obſervant of the heavenly appearances: this conſequently is an inſtance of Providence very proper to be mentioned by a perſon of Amos's profeſſion. Turneth the ſhadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night.) The viciſſitudes of day and night, and the lights iſſuing out of darkneſs, are juſt matters of admiration, and would aſtoniſh a rational being, did not the conſtant return of them leſſen the wonder.

10 They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, &c.) The oppreſſors of the poor hate thoſe magiſtrates that would puniſh the injurious, and do right to the oppreſſed. It was the cuſtom of judges to execute their offices ſitting in the gates of the cities.

18 Woe unto you that deſire the day of the Lord.) Infidels made a mock of the words of the prophets, when they told them, The day of the Lord was at hand; and from a principle of unbelief expreſſed their deſire of ſeeing this day, that they might be convinced of ſuch predictions by occular demonſtration.

To what end is it for you? the day of the Lord is darkneſs, and not light.) To what purpoſe ſhould you deſire to ſee the day of the Lord? It will certainly be a very uncomfortable time, when evils ſhall ſucceed each other ſo faſt, that he who endeavours to avoid one, ſhall fall into another.

21 ¶ I hate, I deſpiſe your feaſt-days, and I will not ſmell in your ſolemn aſſemblies.

22 Though ye offer me burnt-offerings, and your meat-offerings, I will not accept them; neither will I regard the peace-offerings of your fat beaſts.

23 Take thou away from me the noiſe of thy ſongs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols.

24 But let judgment run down as waters, and righteouſneſs as a mighty ſtream.

25 Have ye offered unto me ſacrifices and offerings in the wilderneſs forty years, O houſe of Iſrael?

26 But ye have borne the tabernacle of your Moloch and Chiun your images, the ſtar of your god, which ye made to yourſelves.

27 Therefore will I cauſe you to go into captivity beyond Damaſcus, ſaith the Lord, whoſe name is The God of hoſts.

CHAP. VI.

1 The wantonneſs of Iſrael, 7 ſhall be plagued with deſolation: 12 their incorrigibleneſs.

WOE to them that are at eaſe in Zion, and truſt in the mountain of Samaria, which are named chief of the nations, to whom the houſe of Iſrael came!

2 Paſs ye unto Calneh and ſee; and from thence go ye to Hamath the great: then go down to Gath of the Philiſtines: be they better than theſe kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that put far away the evil day, and cauſe the ſeat of violence to come near;

4 That lie upon beds of ivory, and ſtretch themſelves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midſt of the ſtall;

5 That chant to the ſound of the viol, and invent to themſelves inſtruments of muſic like David.

6 That drink wine in bowls, and anoint themſelves with the chief ointments; but they are not grieved for the affliction of Joſeph.

7 ¶ Therefore now ſhall they go captive with the firſt that go captive, and the banquet of them that ſtretched themſelves ſhall be removed.

8 The Lord God hath ſworn by himſelf, ſaith the Lord, the God of hoſts, I abhor the excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces; therefore will I deliver up the city, with all that is therein.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs, if there remain ten men in one houſe, that they ſhall die:

10 And a man's uncle ſhall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the houſe, and ſhall ſay unto him that is by the ſides of the houſe, Is there yet any with thee? and he ſhall ſay, No. Then ſhall he ſay, Hold thy tongue; for we may not make mention of the name of the Lord.

11 For, behold, the Lord commandeth, and he will ſmite the great houſe with breaches, and the little houſe with clefts.

12 ¶ Shall horſes run upon the rock? will one plow there with oxen? for ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteouſneſs into hemlock.

13 Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought, which ſay, Have we not taken to us horns by our own ſtrength?

14 But, behold, I will raiſe up againſt you a nation, O houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord, the God of hoſts; and they ſhall afflict you from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of the wilderneſs.

CHAP. VII.

1 The judgments of the graſhoppers, 4 and of the fire, are diverted by the prayer of Amos. 16 Amaziah's judgment.

THUS hath the Lord God ſhewed unto me: and behold, he formed graſhoppers in the beginning of the ſhooting up of the latter growth: and lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to paſs that when they had made an end of eating the graſs of the land, then I ſaid, O Lord God, forgive, I beſeech thee: by whom ſhall Jacob ariſe? for he is ſmall.

3 The Lord repented for this. It ſhall not be, ſaith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus hath the Lord God ſhewed unto me; and behold, the Lord God called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then ſaid I, O Lord God, ceaſe, I beſeech thee: by whom ſhall Jacob ariſe? for he is ſmall.

6 The Lord repented for this. This alſo ſhall not be, ſaith the Lord God.

7 Thus he ſhewed me: and behold, the Lord ſtood upon a wall made by a plumb-line, with a plumb-line in his hand.

8 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Amos, what ſeeſt thou? and I ſaid, A plumb-line. Then ſaid the Lord, Behold, I will ſet a plumb-line in the midſt of my people Iſrael: I will not again paſs by them any more.

9 And the high places of Iſaac ſhall be deſolate, and the ſanctuaries of Iſrael ſhall be laid waſte; and I will riſe againſt the houſe of Jeroboam with the ſword.

10 Then Amaziah the prieſt of Beth-el ſent to Jeroboam king of Iſrael, ſaying, Amos hath conſpired againſt thee in the midſt of the houſe of Iſrael: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Amos ſaith, Jeroboam ſhall die by the ſword, and Iſrael ſhall ſurely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Alſo Amaziah ſaid unto Amos, O thou ſeer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and propheſy there;

13 But propheſy not again any more at Beth-el: for it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court.

14 Then anſwered Amos, and ſaid to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's ſon; but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of ſycamore fruit;

15 And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord ſaid unto me, Go, propheſy unto my people Iſrael.

16 Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord: thou ſayeſt, Propheſy not againſt Iſrael, and drop not thy word againſt the houſe of Iſaac.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

6 Are not grieved for the affliction of Joſeph.) They do not humble themſelves under the afflicting hand of the Almighty, nor lay to heart the miſeries the divine judgments have brought upon the kingdom of Iſrael, called by the name of Joſeph. The words allude to the ſufferings of Joſeph, when he was ſold by his brethren into Egypt.

14 From the entering in of Hamath, &c.) That is, from one end of the land to the other; Hamath was the northern boundary, and the river of the wilderneſs, the Nile.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

4 The Lord God called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.) This repreſents a ſorer judgment than the former, and, in the opinion of moſt expoſitors, denotes the invaſion of Tiglah Pileſer, king of Aſſyria, who carried away great part of Iſrael captive, and therefore was properly repreſented by a raging fire, which conſumed the ſea, by turning the water into vapours, and then devoured a great part of the land.

13 For it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court.) Beth-el is the place where the king performs his religious worſhip in perſon, and often reſides there in his court, that he may the better attend upon the ſervice performed there.

17 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Thy wife ſhall be an harlot in the city, and thy ſons and thy daughters ſhall fall by the ſword, and thy land ſhall be divided by line; and thou ſhalt die in a polluted land: and Iſrael ſhall ſurely go into captivity forth of his land.

CHAP. VIII.

By a baſket of ſummer fruit is ſhewed Iſrael's end. 4 Oppreſſion reproved. 11 A famine of the word threatened.

THUS hath the Lord God ſhewed unto me: and behold, A baſket of ſummer-fruit.

2 And he ſaid, Amos, what ſeeſt thou? and I ſaid, A baſket of ſummer-fruit. Then ſaid the Lord unto me, The end is come upon my people of Iſrael: I will not again paſs by them any more.

3 And the ſongs of the temple ſhall be howlings in that day, ſaith the Lord God: there ſhall be many dead bodies in every place; they ſhall caſt them forth with ſilence.

4 ¶ Hear this, O ye that ſwallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail;

5 Saying, When will the new-moon be gone, that we may ſell corn? and the ſabbath that we may ſet forth wheat, making the ephah ſmall, and the ſhekel great, and falſifying the balances by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poor for ſilver, and the needy for a pair of ſhoes, yea, and ſell the refuſe for wheat?

7 The Lord hath ſworn by the excellency of Jacob, Surely I will never forget any of their works.

8 Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it ſhall riſe up wholly as a flood; and it ſhall be caſt out and drowned, as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, ſaith the Lord God, That I will cauſe the ſun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 And I will turn your feaſts into mourning, and all your ſongs into lamentation; and I will bring up ſackcloth upon all loins, and baldneſs upon every head; and I will make it as the mourning of an only ſon, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 ¶ Behold, the day is come, ſaith the Lord God, that I will ſend a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirſt for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord.

12 And they ſhall wander from ſea to ſea, and from the north even to the eaſt, they ſhall run to and fro, to ſeek the word of the Lord, and ſhall not find it.

13 In that day ſhall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirſt.

14 They that ſwear by the ſin of Samaria, and ſay Thy god, O Dan liveth: and, The manner of Beer-ſheba liveth: even they ſhall fall, and never riſe up again.

CHAP. IX.

1 The certainty of the deſolation. 11 The reſtoring of the tabernacle of David.

I SAW the Lord ſtanding upon the altar; and he ſaid, Smite the lintel of the door, that the poſts may ſhake; and cut them in the head, all of them; and I will ſlay the laſt of them with the ſword: he that fleeth of them ſhall not flee away; and he that eſcapeth of them ſhall not be delivered.

2 Though they dig into hell, thence ſhall mine hand take them; though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down:

3 And though they hide themſelves in the top of Carmel, I will ſearch and take them out thence; and though they be hid from my ſight in the bottom of the ſea, thence will I command the ſerpent, and he ſhall bite them:

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, thence will I command the ſword, and it ſhall ſlay them: and I will ſet mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord God of hoſts is he that toucheth the land, and it ſhall melt, and all that dwell therein ſhall mourn; and it ſhall riſe up wholly like a flood, and ſhall be drowned, as by the flood of Egypt.

6 It is he that buildeth his ſtories in the heaven, and hath founded his troop in the earth; he that calleth for the waters of the ſea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The Lord is his name.

7 Are ye not as children of the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Iſrael? ſaith the Lord. Have not I brought up Iſrael out of the land of Egypt, and the Philiſtines from Caphtor, and the Syrians from Kir?

8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the ſinful kingdom, and I will deſtroy it from off the face of the earth; ſaving that I will not utterly deſtroy the houſe of Jacob, ſaith the Lord.

9 For lo, I will command, and I will ſift the houſe of Iſrael among all nations, like as corn is ſifted in a ſieve, yet ſhall not the leaſt grain fall upon the earth.

10 All the ſinners of my people ſhall die by the ſword, which ſay, The evil ſhall not overtake nor prevent us.

11 ¶ In that day will I raiſe up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, and cloſe up the breaches thereof; and I will raiſe up his ruins, and I will build it as in the days of old:

12 That they may poſſeſs the remnant of Edom, and of all the heathen which are called by my name, ſaith the Lord that doeth this.

13 Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that the plowman ſhall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that ſoweth ſeed; and the mountains ſhall drop ſweet wine, and all the hills ſhall melt.

14 And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Iſrael, and they ſhall build the waſte cities and inhabit them; and they ſhall plant vineyards and drink the wine thereof; they ſhall alſo make gardens, and eat the fruit of them.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and they ſhall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, ſaith the Lord thy God.

---

17 And thou ſhalt die in a polluted land, &c.) Thou ſhalt be carried captive out of thine own country, and die in a land where the inhabitants are idolaters, and where it will be impoſſible to converſe without committing legal pollutions.

Commentary on Chap. VIII.

1 Behold, a baſket of ſummer-fruit.) The baſket of ripe ſummer fruit, which the prophet ſaw in a viſion, was to denote that the ſins of Iſrael were now ripe for judgment: as the time of a judgment is in other parts of ſcripture expreſſed by a harveſt or vintage.

14 They that ſwear by the ſin of Samaria, &c.) The calf ſet up at Beth-el by Jeroboam, who thereby committed a great ſin, and introduced idolatry into that kingdom.

Commentary on Chap. IX.

6 It is he that buildeth his ſtories in the heaven, &c.) An awful deſcription of God's irreſiſtible power diſcovering itſelf in the works of creation, particularly in his appointing ſeveral regions of the air as ſo many apartments that lead to the higheſt heavens, the ſeat of his own glory.

11 In that day will I raiſe up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, &c.) In the latter days I will reſtore the kingdom to the houſe and family of David, in the perſon of the Meſſiah, ſo often ſtiled in the prophets, The ſeed or offſpring of David, and known by that title among the Jews, at the time of our Saviour's appearance: and as that family had been for ſeveral years reduced to a mean and obſcure condition, it ſhall then recover its ancient ſplendor & dignity.

OBADIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

This prophecy is partly an invective againſt the cruelty of the Edomites, and partly a prediction of the deliverance and ſalvation of Iſrael, and of the victory and triumph of the whole church over her enemies.

1 The deſtruction of Edom, 3 for their pride, 10 and wrong unto Jacob.

THE viſion of Obadiah. Thus ſaith the Lord God concerning Edom: We have heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambaſſador is ſent among the heathen, Ariſe ye, and let us riſe up againſt her in battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee ſmall among the heathen: thou art greatly deſpiſed.

3 ¶ The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee; thou that dwelleſt in the clefts of the rock, whoſe habitation is high, that ſaith in his heart, Who ſhall bring me down to the ground?

4 Though thou exalt thyſelf as the eagle, and tho' thou ſet thy neſt among the ſtars, thence will I bring thee down, ſaith the Lord.

5 If thieves came to thee, if robbers by night (how art thou cut off!) would they not have ſtolen till they had enough? If the grape-gatherers came to thee, would they not leave ſome grapes?

6 How are the things of Eſau ſearched out! how are his hidden things ſought up!

7 All the men of thy confederacy have brought thee even to the border: the men that were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and prevailed againſt thee; they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee: there is none underſtanding in him.

8 Shall I not in that day, ſaith the Lord, even deſtroy the wiſe men out of Edom, and underſtanding out of the mount of Eſau?

9 And thy mighty men, O Teman, ſhall be diſmayed: to the end that every one of the mount of Eſau may be cut off by ſlaughter.

10 For thy violence againſt thy brother Jacob ſhame ſhall cover thee, and thou ſhalt be cut off for ever.

11 In the day that thou ſtoodeſt on the other ſide, in the day that the ſtrangers carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and caſt lots upon Jeruſalem, even thou waſt as one of them.

12 But thou ſhouldeſt not have looked on the day of thy brother in the day that he became a ſtranger; neither ſhouldeſt thou have rejoiced over the children of Judah in the day of their deſtruction; neither ſhouldeſt thou have ſpoken proudly in the day of diſtreſs.

13 Thou ſhouldeſt not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their calamity: yea, thou ſhouldeſt not have looked on their affliction in the day of their calamity, nor have laid hands on their ſubſtance in the day of their calamity.

14 Neither ſhouldeſt thou have ſtood in the croſs-way to cut off thoſe of his that did eſcape; neither ſhouldeſt thou have delivered up thoſe of his that did remain in the day of diſtreſs.

15 For the day of the Lord is near upon all the heathen: as thou haſt done, it ſhall be done unto thee; thy reward ſhall return upon thine own head.

16 For as ye have drunk upon my holy mountain, ſo ſhall all the heathen drink continually; yea, they ſhall drink, and they ſhall ſwallow down, and they ſhall be as though they had not been.

17 ¶ But upon mount Zion ſhall be deliverance, and there ſhall be holineſs: and the houſe of Jacob ſhall poſſeſs their poſſeſſions.

18 And the houſe of Jacob ſhall be a fire, and the houſe of Joſeph a flame, and the houſe of Eſau for ſtubble, and they ſhall kindle in them, and devour them; and there ſhall not be any remaining of the houſe of Eſau; for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

19 And they of the ſouth ſhall poſſeſs the mount of Eſau: and they of the plain the Philiſtines: and they ſhall poſſeſs the fields of Ephraim and the fields of Samaria: and Benjamin ſhall poſſeſs Gilead.

20 And the captivity of this hoſt of the children of Iſrael ſhall poſſeſs that of the Canaanites, even unto Zarephath; and the captivity of Jeruſalem, which is in Sepharad, ſhall poſſeſs the cities of the ſouth.

21 And ſaviours ſhall come up on mount Zion to judge the mount of Eſau; and the kingdom ſhall be the Lord's.

COMMENTARY on OBADIAH.

1 We have heard a rumour from the Lord, &c.) The prophets ſometimes repreſent the Almighty as ſummoning armies, and ſetting them in array of battle againſt thoſe people he purpoſes to deſtroy. And here, according to the cuſtom of earthly princes, he is deſcribed as ſending ambaſſadors to invite the nations to join in a confederacy againſt the Idumeans.

20 And the captivity of Jeruſalem, which is in Sepharad, ſhall poſſeſs the cities of the ſouth.) In the former part of this verſe the prophet mentioned the re-ſettlement of the ten tribes after their reſtoration; here he mentions that of Judah, under the name of Jeruſalem. But commentators are not agreed with regard to the meaning of the word Sepharad; ſome take it to be the name of part of the country of Edom, and ſuppoſe that the prophet intended to ſignify that the Jews, who were captives of Edom, ſhould poſſeſs thoſe cities of the ſouth that lay near that country; and others, that they ſhould poſſeſs the country called Sepharad, which literally implies a border, and therefore may denote that part of Arabia which borders on the ſouth of Judea, or the cities of the ſouth, here mentioned.

21 And ſaviours ſhall come up on mount Zion, to judge the mount of Eſau, &c.) That is, the preachers of ſalvation ſhall publiſh the glad tidings of ſalvation from the holy mount of Zion, and endeavour to convert all unbelievers and aliens to the commonwealth of Iſrael.

JONAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Jonah was the moſt ancient of all the prophets, whoſe writings are preſerved in ſcripture canon. He was ſent to Nineveh, to denounce deſtruction againſt that city, within forty days, if they repented not; but they complying with the ſummons of the prophet, God deferred the execution of his judgments 'till the increaſe of their iniquities made them ripe for deſtruction, which happened about 150 years afterwards.

CHAP. I.

1 Jonah, ſent to Nineveh, fleeth to Tarſhiſh. 4 He is diſcovered by a tempeſt, 11 thrown into the ſea, 17 and ſwallowed by a fiſh.

NOW the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the ſon of Amittai, ſaying,

2 Ariſe, go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry againſt it; for their wickedneſs is come up before me.

3 But Jonah roſe up to flee unto Tarſhiſh from the preſence of the Lord, and went down to Joppa; and he found a ſhip going to Tarſhiſh: ſo he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarſhiſh from the preſence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord ſent out a great wind into the ſea, and there was a mighty tempeſt in the ſea, ſo that the ſhip was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and caſt forth the wares that were in the ſhip into the ſea to lighten it of them. But Jonah was gone down into the ſides of the ſhip, and he lay, and was faſt aſleep.

6 So the ſhip-maſter came to him, and ſaid unto him, What meaneſt thou, O ſleeper? ariſe, call upon thy God, if ſo be that God will think upon us, that we periſh not.

7 And they ſaid every one to his fellow, Come, and let us caſt lots, that we may know for whoſe cauſe this evil is upon us. So they caſt lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then ſaid they unto him, Tell us, we pray thee, for whoſe cauſe this evil is upon us: what is thine occupation? and whence comeſt thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he ſaid unto them, I am an Hebrew: and I fear the Lord the God of heaven, which hath made the ſea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou done this? for the men knew that he fled from the preſence of the Lord; becauſe he had told them.

11 ¶ Then ſaid they unto him, What ſhall we do unto thee, that the ſea may be calm unto us? for the ſea wrought and was tempeſtuous.

12 And he ſaid unto them, Take me up, and caſt me forth into the ſea: ſo ſhall the ſea be calm unto you: for I know that for my ſake this great tempeſt is upon you.

13 Nevertheleſs the men rowed hard to bring it to the land: but they could not: for the ſea wrought, and was tempeſtuous againſt them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the Lord and ſaid, We beſeech thee, O Lord, we beſeech thee, let us not periſh for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood; for thou, O Lord haſt done as it pleaſed thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and caſt him forth into the ſea: and the ſea ceaſed from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a ſacrifice unto the Lord, and made vows.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fiſh to ſwallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fiſh three days and three nights.

CHAP. II.

1 The prayer of Jonah. 10 He is delivered from the fiſh.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the Lord his God out of the fiſhes belly,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

3 But Jonah roſe up to flee unto Tarſhiſh from the preſence of the Lord, &c.] He might think that the internal impulſe of the prophets might not exert itſelf in any other place than the land of Judea; or he might flee from his country by a ſudden fear: but however this be, it is ſufficiently evident, from ſeveral paſſages in this prophecy, that Jonah acknowledged the omnipreſence of God.

7 Come, and let us caſt lots, &c.) This was the uſual method of referring things to the appointment or diſcovery of providence.

16 Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, &c.) They were convinced of the power and greatneſs of that God whom Jonah worſhipped, which appeared both in raiſing this ſtorm, and in ſo ſuddenly laying it.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 Then Jonah prayed unto the Lord his God out of the fiſh's belly.) Thoſe devout thoughts which he had at that time, he afterwards digeſted into the following prayer, and added a thankſgiving for his deliverance at the concluſion of it. Several of David's pſalms were probably compoſed in the ſame manner, namely, after the trouble was over, but in a ſtile ſuitable to the thoughts he had at the time of his affliction, and with a grateful ſenſe of God's mercies for his deliverance.

2 And said, I cried by reason of mine affliction unto the Lord, and he heard me; out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: all thy billows and thy waves passed over me.

4 Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again toward thy holy temple.

5 The waters compassed me about even to the soul: the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head.

6 I went down to the bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life from corruption, O Lord my God.

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the Lord; and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

8 They that observe lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

9 But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. Salvation is of the Lord.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

1 Jonah, sent again, preacheth to the Ninevites: 5 upon their repentance, 10 God repenteth.

AND the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, according to the word of the Lord. Now Nineveh was an exceeding great city of three days journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a days journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 ¶ So the people of Nineveh believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

7 And he caused it to be proclaimed and published through Nineveh (by the decree of the king and his nobles) saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water.

8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands.

9 Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger that we perish not?

10 ¶ And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

CHAP. IV.

1 Jonah repining at God's mercy, 4 is reproved by the type of a gourd.

BUT it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.

2 And he prayed unto the Lord and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life from me: for it is better for me to die than to live.

4 ¶ Then said the Lord, Doest thou well to be angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city.

6 And the Lord God prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass when the sun did arise, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And God said to Jonah, Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? and he said, I do well to be angry, even unto death.

10 Then said the Lord thou hast had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night.

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than six score thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand, and also much cattle?

---

4 Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again toward thy holy temple.) My first apprehensions were, that as I had justly forfeited thy favour for my disobedience, so thou wouldst cast me out of thy protection; but, upon recollecting myself, I thought it my duty not to despair of thy mercy, but direct my prayer towards thy heavenly habitation.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

3 Now Nineveh was an exceeding great city of three days journey.) Diodorus Siculus informs us, that Nineveh was four hundred and eighty furlongs (or sixty of our miles) in compass; so that it was larger than Babylon, and agrees with the prophet's account, namely, that it was three days journey in compass, twenty miles being the common computation of a day's journey for a foot-traveller in the eastern countries.

5 So the people of Nineveh believed God, &c.) The fame of the wonderful works which God had wrought for the Jews was spread over the eastern parts of the world. This might induce the Ninevites to hearken to a man of that nation, that came to them as sent from God; especially as he doubtless gave them an account of the miraculous circumstances which attended his own mission: but certainly a sense of their own guilt, and their deserving whatever punishment heaven could inflict, was a principal reason that moved them to have a regard for his message: and, by the men of Nineveh's repenting at the preaching of Jonah, God designed to upbraid the stubbornness of his own people, and shame them as it were into repentance, lest the man of Nineveh should rise up in judgment against them, as our blessed Saviour speaks of the Israelites in his own time.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

2 And he prayed unto the Lord, and said, &c.) He uttered his complaints in his prayers to God, wherein he pleaded an excuse for his disobedience to the first commands of the Almighty.

3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life from me, &c.) I would rather die than live under the imputation of being a false prophet.

6 That it might be a shadow over his head to deliver him from his grief, &c.) From the burning heat of the sun, which still added to his former grief and vexation: the booth which he made at first being withered by the heat.

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than six score thousand persons? &c.) Surely the lives of so many persons are much more valuable than a single plant, which flourishes a few days, and then withers and dies. These reasons seem to have silenced Jonah's complaints, and made him sensible of his fault in repining at the mercies of the Almighty.

MICAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah prophesied in the kingdom of Judah before the Babylonish captivity; in the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. He preceded Jeremiah. He is generally concise; compressed; and acute; sometimes obscure; yet often much elevated; and very poetical.

CHAP. I.

1 Micah sheweth the wrath of God against Jacob for idolatry. 10 He exhorteth to mourning.

THE word of the Lord that came to Micah the Morasthite, in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Hear, all ye people; hearken, O earth, and all that therein is: and let the Lord God be witness against you; the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For behold, the Lord cometh forth out of his place, and will come down, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains shall be molten under him, and the vallies shall be cleft as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down a steep place.

5 For the transgression of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what are the high places of Judah? are they not Jerusalem.

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and as plantings of a vineyard: I will pour down the stones thereof into the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof shall be beaten to pieces, and all the hires thereof shall be burned with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I lay desolate; for she gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall return to the hire of an harlot.

8 Therefore I will wail and howl, I will go stripped and naked: I will make a wailing like the dragons, and mourning as the owls.

9 For her wound is incurable: for it is come unto Judah; he is come unto the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 ¶ Declare ye it not at Gath, weep ye not at all: in the house of Aphrah roll thyself in the dust.

11 Pass ye away, thou inhabitant of Saphir, having thy shame naked: the inhabitant of Zaanan came not forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel; he shall receive of you his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited carefully for good: but evil came down from the Lord unto the gate of Jerusalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, bind the chariot to the swift beast, she is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou give presents to Moreshethgath: the houses of Achzib shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah: he shall come unto Adullam the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee bald, and poll thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldness as the eagle: for they are gone into captivity from thee.

CHAP. II.

1 Against oppression. 4 A lamentation. 7 A reproof of injustice and idolatry. 12 A promise of restoring Jacob.

WOE to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light they practise it, because it is in the power of their hand.

2 And they covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: for this time is evil.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

3 For behold, the Lord cometh forth out of his place, &c.) God is described as coming from heaven to judgment, because of the visible effects of his power and presence upon earth.

5 What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? &c.) Where is the chief cause of the iniquity and apostacy of Israel? is it not in Samaria, the chief seat of that kingdom, the residence of the king and his princes, who have set up the idolatry of the golden calves, and made it the established religion of the kingdom?

8 Therefore I will wail and howl, I will go stripped and naked, &c.) I will sympathize with my countrymen in their calamities; I will dress myself in the habit of mourning, and, like those who bewail the dead, go without my upper garment, in order to denote the naked condition to which the ten tribes will be reduced by their enemies.

11 The inhabitant of Zaanan came not forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel, &c.) The inhabitants of Jerusalem were so much concerned to provide for their own security, that they took no notice of the mournful condition of their neighbours who dwelt in Beth-el.

4 ¶ In that day ſhall one take up a parable againſt you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, and ſay We be utterly ſpoiled; he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he removed it from me! turning away he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou ſhalt have none that ſhall caſt a cord by lot in the congregation of the Lord.

6 Propheſy ye not, ſay they to them that propheſy: they ſhall not propheſy to them that they ſhall not take ſhame.

7 ¶ O thou that art named The houſe of Jacob, is the Spirit of the Lord ſtraitened? are theſe his doings? do not my words do good to him that walketh uprightly?

8 Even of late my people is riſen up as an enemy: ye pull off the robe with the garment from them that paſs by ſecurely as men averſe from war.

9 The women of my people have ye caſt out from their pleaſant houſes; from their children have ye taken away my glory for ever.

10 Ariſe ye, and depart; for this is not your reſt: becauſe it is polluted, it ſhall deſtroy you, even with a ſore deſtruction.

11 If a man, walking in the ſpirit and falſehood, do lie, ſaying, I will propheſy unto thee of wine, and of ſtrong drink, he ſhall even be the prophet of this people.

12 ¶ I will ſurely aſſemble, O Jacob, all of thee; I will ſurely gather the remnant of Iſrael; I will put them together as the ſheep of Bozrah, as the flock in the midſt of their fold: they ſhall make great noiſe by reaſon of the multitude of men 13 The breaker is come up before them: they have broken up, and have paſſed through the gate, and are gone out by it; and their king ſhall paſs before them, and the Lord on the head of them.

CHAP. III.

1 The cruelty of the princes. 5 The falſehood of the prophets. 8 The ſecurity of them both.

AND I ſaid, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the houſe of Iſrael, is it not for you to know judgment?

2 Who hate the good and love the evil; who pluck off their ſkin from off them, and their fleſh from off their bones;

3 Who alſo eat the fleſh of my people, and flay their ſkin from off them, and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces as for the pot, and as fleſh within the caldron.

4 Then ſhall they cry unto the Lord: but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themſelves ill in their doings.

5 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord concerning the prophets that make my people err, that bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war againſt him.

6 Therefore night ſhall be unto you that ye ſhall not have a viſion; and it ſhall be dark unto you that ye ſhall not divine; and the ſun ſhall go down over the prophets, and the day ſhall be dark over them.

7 Then ſhall the ſeers be aſhamed, and the diviners confounded; yea, they ſhall all cover their lips: for there is no anſwer of God.

8 ¶ But truly I am full of power by the ſpirit of the Lord, and of judgment and of might, to declare unto Jacob his tranſgreſſion, and to Iſrael his ſin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the houſe of Jacob, and princes of the houſe of Iſrael, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 They build up Zion with blood, and Jeruſalem with iniquity.

11 The heads thereof judge for reward, and the prieſts thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money; yet will they lean upon the Lord, and ſay, Is not the Lord among us? none evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore ſhall Zion for your ſake be plowed as a field, and Jeruſalem ſhall become heaps, and the mountain of the houſe as the high places of the foreſt.

CHAP. IV.

1 The glory, 3 peace, 8 kingdom, 11 and victory of the church.

BUT in the laſt days it ſhall come to paſs, that the mountain of the houſe of the Lord ſhall be eſtabliſhed in the top of the mountains, and it ſhall be exalted above the hills; and people ſhall flow unto it.

2 And many nations ſhall come and ſay, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the houſe of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his way, and we will walk in his paths: for the law ſhall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jeruſalem.

3 ¶ And he ſhall judge among many people, and rebuke ſtrong nations afar off; and they ſhall beat their ſwords into plow-ſhares, and their ſpears into pruning-hooks: nation ſhall not lift up a ſword againſt nation, neither ſhall they learn war any more.

4 But they ſhall ſit every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree; and none ſhall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hoſts hath ſpoken it.

5 For all people will walk every one in the name of his god, and we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever.

6 In that day, ſaith the Lord, will I aſſemble her that halteth, and I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted;

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

5 Therefore thou ſhalt have none that ſhall caſt a cord by lot in the congregation of the Lord.) Iſrael were the Lord's people, the lot of his inheritance, and he divided their land among them by lot; but the prophet declares they ſhall be utterly expelled out of it, and ſent captives into a foreign country.

12 I will put them together as the ſheep of Bozrah, &c.) God is often ſtiled the ſhepherd of Iſrael; and his care over his people is compared to that of a ſhepherd over his flock, when he gathers them into the fold, and defends them there from beaſts of prey, ſo that they may lie down in ſafety. Bozrah was a place in Idumea, and remarkable for its large flocks of ſheep.

13 And their king ſhall paſs before them, and the Lord on the head of them.) The Meſſiah, who is both their God and their king, ſhall lead and conduct them as their captain and general.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

7 They ſhall all cover their lips, &c.) Men uſed to cover their mouths when they were under any great affliction.

11 The prieſts thereof teach for hire, &c.) It was the duty of the prieſts to inſtruct the people, as well as to attend upon the ſervice of the temple; and accordingly they had cities allotted them in all parts of Judea, but not content with that plentiful revenue which the law allowed them, they made a corrupt gain of their office, and ſold their inſtructions for money.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 That the mountain of the houſe of the Lord ſhall be eſtabliſhed in the top of the mountains, &c.) The temple, ſtanding on mount Moriah, is often called God's holy mountain, and from thence the phraſe is taken to denote the chriſtian church, in the prophetical writings. Our bleſſed Saviour himſelf compares his church to a city ſet on a hill, Matt. v. 14.

7 And

7 And I will make her that halted a remnant, and her that was caſt far off a ſtrong nation: and the Lord ſhall reign over them in mount Zion from henceforth even for ever.

8 ¶ And thou, O tower of the flock, the ſtrong hold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee ſhall it come, even the firſt dominion: the kingdom ſhall come to the daughter of Jeruſalem.

9 Now why doſt thou cry out aloud? is there no king in thee? is thy counſellor periſhed? for pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail.

10 Be in pain and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in travail: for now ſhalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou ſhalt dwell in the field, and thou ſhalt go even to Babylon: there ſhalt thou be delivered; there the Lord ſhall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 ¶ Now alſo many nations are gathered againſt thee, that ſay, Let her be defiled, and let our eye look upon Zion.

12 But they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither underſtand they his counſel; for he ſhall gather them as the ſheaves into the floor.

13 Ariſe, and threſh, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs braſs: and thou ſhalt beat in pieces many people: and I will conſecrate their gain unto the Lord, and their ſubſtance unto the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

1 The birth of Chriſt. 4 His kingdom. 8 His conqueſt.

NOW gather thyſelf in troops, O daughter of troops: he hath laid ſiege againſt us: they ſhall ſmite the judge of Iſrael with a rod upon the cheek.

2 But thou Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thouſands of Judah, yet out of thee ſhall he come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Iſrael; whoſe goings forth have been from of old, from everlaſting.

3 Therefore will he give them up until the time that ſhe which travaileth hath brought forth: then the remnant of his brethren ſhall return unto the children of Iſrael.

4 ¶ And he ſhall ſtand and feed in the ſtrength of the Lord, in the majeſty of the name of the Lord his God; and they ſhall abide: for now ſhall he be great unto the ends of the earth.

5 And this man ſhall be the peace, when the Aſſyrian ſhall come into our land; and when he ſhall tread in our palaces, then ſhall we raiſe againſt him ſeven ſhepherds, and eight principal men.

6 And they ſhall waſte the land of Aſſyria with the ſword, and the land of Nimrod in the entrances thereof: thus ſhall he deliver us from the Aſſyrian, when he cometh into our land, and when he treadeth within our borders.

7 And the remnant of Jacob ſhall be in the midſt of many people as a dew from the Lord, as the ſhowers upon the graſs, that tarrieth not for man, nor waiteth for the ſons of men.

8 ¶ And the remnant of Jacob ſhall be among the Gentiles in the midſt of many people as a lion among the beaſts of the foreſt, as a young lion among the flocks of ſheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand ſhall be lifted up upon thine adverſaries, and all thine enemies ſhall be cut off.

10 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, ſaith the Lord, that I will cut off thy horſes out of the midſt of thee, and I will deſtroy thy chariots:

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and throw down all thy ſtrong holds:

12 And I will cut off witchcrafts out of thine hand; and thou ſhalt have no more ſoothſayers.

13 Thy graven images alſo will I cut off, and thy ſtanding images out of the midſt of thee: and thou ſhalt no more worſhip the work of thine hands:

14 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midſt of thee: ſo will I deſtroy thy cities.

15 And I will execute vengeance in anger and fury upon the heathen, ſuch as they have not heard.

CHAP. VI.

1 God's controverſy for unkindneſs, 6 for ignorance, 10 for injuſtice, 16 and for idolatry.

HEAR ye now what the Lord ſaith; Ariſe, contend thou before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controverſy, and ye ſtrong foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a controverſy with his people, and he will plead with Iſrael.

3 O my people, what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? teſtify againſt me.

7 And I will make her that halted, a remnant, &c.) To this remnant many promiſes are made, which may, in ſome degree, be applied to the ſtate of the Jews after their return from captivity; but are chiefly to be underſtood of thoſe who were to be called by the goſpel, when the main body of the Jewiſh nation was to be rejected.

13 Ariſe and threſh, O daughter of Zion; for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs braſs, &c.) The expreſſion alludes to the manner of treading out the corn in the eaſtern countries, which was done by the feet of oxen. The words, as they relate to Zion, may be underſtood of reducing the Gentiles to the obedience of Chriſt, and that the promiſe will be fulfilled when all the enemies of the church ſhall be ſubdued, and the ſaints, reigning with Chriſt, ſhall have power over the nations, and ſhall rule the refractory with a rod of iron.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

2 But thou Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thouſands of Judah.) Ephrath, or Ephratah, was another name for Beth-lehem in the tribe of Judah, and both names are joined together to diſtinguiſh it from another Beth-lehem in the tribe of Zebulun. Both the houſe and city of David were reduced to a mean condition, at the time of our Saviour's birth; and therefore the bleſſed virgin, in her ſong, thankfully commemorates the extraordinary favour of the Moſt High, in honouring that low eſtate to which they were reduced, with the birth of the Meſſiah.

Yet out of thee ſhall he come forth unto me, that is to be ruler in Iſrael.) The Scribes and Phariſees underſtood this prophecy of the birth of the Meſſiah, as is plain from Matt. ii. 5, 6. as did alſo the generality of the Jews of that age, who ſpeak of it as an undoubted truth, that Chriſt was to come of the ſeed of David, and of the town of Beth-lehem, where David was, John vii. 42. Accordingly our bleſſed Saviour was, by a peculiar act of providence, born at Beth-lehem, that this prophecy might be plainly fulfilled.

Whoſe goings forth have been from of old, from everlaſting.) Theſe words naturally import an original, diſtinct from the birth of Chriſt, mentioned in the above ſentence, which is here declared to be from everlaſting; and plainly alludes to the divine nature of our bleſſed Saviour, as exiſting from all eternity.

5 This man ſhall be the peace, &c.) This title is peculiar to the Meſſiah, and is mentioned as a bleſſing attending his kingdom.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 Ariſe, contend thou before the mountains, &c.) God often appeals to inanimate objects for the juſtice of his proceedings, in order to upbraid the ſtupidity of men.

4 For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the houſe of ſervants; and I ſent before thee Moſes, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab conſulted, and what Balaam, the ſon of Beor, anſwered him from Shittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know the righteouſneſs of the Lord.

6 ¶ Wherewith ſhall I come before the Lord, and bow myſelf before the high God? ſhall I come before him with burnt-offerings, with calves of a year old?

7 Will the Lord be pleaſed with thouſands of rams, or with ten thouſands of rivers of oil? ſhall I give my firſt-born for my tranſgreſſion, the fruit of my body for the ſin of my ſoul?

8 He hath ſhewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doeth the Lord require of thee, but to do juſtly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?

9 The Lord's voice crieth unto the city, and the man of wiſdom ſhall ſee thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 ¶ Are there yet the treaſures of wickedneſs in the houſe of the wicked, and the ſcant meaſure that is abominable?

11 Shall I count them pure with the wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have ſpoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore alſo will I make thee ſick in ſmiting thee, in making thee deſolate becauſe of thy ſins.

14 Thou ſhalt eat, but not be ſatisfied; and thy caſting down ſhall be in the midſt of thee; and thou ſhalt take hold, but ſhalt not deliver; and that which thou deliverеſt will I give up to the ſword.

15 Thou ſhalt ſow, but thou ſhalt not reap; thou ſhalt tread the olives, but thou ſhalt not anoint thee with oil; and ſweet wine, but ſhalt not drink wine.

16 ¶ For the ſtatutes of Omri are kept, and all the works of the houſe of Ahab, and ye walk in their counſels; that I ſhould make thee a deſolation, and the inhabitants thereof an hiſſing: therefore ye ſhall bear the reproach of my people.

Both the dictates of reaſon, and the laws of God, ſufficiently inform men what are the ſubſtantial parts of their duty; namely, the practice of juſtice and mercy, a reverent behaviour towards God, and a looking up to him as their Lord and Maker. NAHUM.

THE ARGUMENT.

Nahum was a native of Elkoſhai, a ſmall village of Galilee; but the particular circumſtances of his life are altogether unknown. The ſtyle of this prophet is very bold and figurative.

CHAP. I.

The majeſty of God in goodneſs to his people, and ſeverity againſt his enemies.

THE burden of Nineveh. The book of the viſion of Nahum the Elkoſhite.

2 God is jealous, and the Lord revengeth; the Lord revengeth, and is furious: the Lord will take vengeance on his adverſaries, and he reſerveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The Lord is ſlow to anger, and great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked: the Lord hath his way in the whirlwind and in the ſtorm, and the clouds are the duſt of his feet.

4 He rebuketh the ſea, and maketh it dry, and drieth up all the rivers: Baſhan languiſheth, and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon languiſheth.

5 The mountains quake at him, and the hills melt, and the earth is burnt at his preſence, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can ſtand before his indignation? and who can abide in the fierceneſs of his anger? his fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him.

7 The Lord is good, a ſtrong hold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that truſt in him.

8 But with an over-running flood he will make an utter end of the place thereof, and darkneſs ſhall purſue his enemies.

9 What do ye imagine againſt the Lord? he will make an utter end: affliction ſhall not riſe up the ſecond time.

10 For while they be folden together as thorns, and while they are drunken as drunkards, they ſhall be devoured as ſtubble fully dry.

11 There is one come out of thee that imagineth evil againſt the Lord, a wicked counſellor.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, Though they be quiet, and likewiſe many, yet thus ſhall they be cut down, when he ſhall paſs through. Though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now will I break his yoke from off thee, and will burſt thy bonds in ſunder.

14 And the Lord hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be ſown: out of the houſe of thy gods will I cut off the graven image, and the molten image; I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.

15 Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publiſheth peace! O Judah, keep thy ſolemn feaſts, perform thy vows: for the wicked ſhall no more paſs through thee; he is utterly cut off.

CHAP. II.

The fearful and victorious armies of God againſt Nineveh.

HE that daſheth in pieces is come up before thy face: keep the munition, watch the way, make thy loins ſtrong, fortify thy power mightily.

2 For the Lord hath turned away the excellency of Jacob, as the excellency of Iſrael: for the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches.

3 The ſhield of his mighty men is made red, the valiant men are in ſcarlet: the chariots ſhall be with flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir-trees ſhall be terribly ſhaken.

4 The chariots ſhall rage in the ſtreets, they ſhall juſtle one againſt another in the broad ways: they ſhall ſeem like torches, they ſhall run like the lightnings.

5 He ſhall recount his worthies: they ſhall ſtumble in their walk; they ſhall make haſte to the wall thereof, and the defence ſhall be prepared.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

3 The Lord hath his way in the whirlwind, and in the ſtorm, and the clouds are the duſt of his feet.) A lofty deſcription of the appearance of the Almighty, alluding to his deſcent on mount Sinai, when darkneſs and tempeſts ſourrounded him: and in the ſame manner he will again appear at the laſt judgment, of which particular ones are the earneſt.

4 He rebuketh the ſea, and maketh it dry, &c.) The rivers and the ſea itſelf are dried up at his rebuke, as the Red Sea and Jordan were of old; and the moſt pleaſant and fruitful countries, as Baſhan, Carmel, and Lebanon, are parched up with drought when he is diſpleaſed.

15 Behold, upon the mountains, &c.) See Iſaiah, lii. 7. This paſſage is a prophecy of our Saviour.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

2 For the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches.) The Aſſyrian conquerors have plundered all their wealth, and bereaved them of their children, who are often in ſcripture compared to branches.

13 Behold, I am againſt thee, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will burn her chariots in the ſmoke, and the ſword ſhall devour thy young lions: and I will cut off thy prey from the earth, and the voice of thy meſſengers ſhall no more be heard.

Her maids denote the leſſer cities of the Aſſyrian kingdom, that ſhould ſhare with the capital in the ſame calamities.

HABAKKUK.

THE ARGUMENT.

We have no account in the Old Teſtament, either of the time in which this prophet lived, or from whom he was deſcended; but his propheſying the invaſion of the Chaldeans, in the ſame manner as Jeremiah did, gives reaſon to conjecture that he lived at the ſame time. It is ſaid by the authors of the lives of the prophets, that he was of the tribe of Simeon, and a native of Bethzacar.

CHAP. I.

1 Unto Habakkuk complaining of the iniquity of the land, 5 is ſhewed the fearful vengeance by the Chaldeans.

THE burden which Habakkuk the prophet did ſee.

2 O Lord, how long ſhall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not ſave!

3 Why doſt thou ſhew me iniquity, and cauſe me to behold grievance? for ſpoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raiſe up ſtrife and contention.

4 Therefore the law is ſlacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compaſs about the righteous, therefore wrong judgment proceedeth.

5 ¶ Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvelloufly: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe though it be told you.

6 For, lo, I raiſe up the Chaldeans, that bitter and haſty nation, which ſhall march through the breadth of the land, to poſſeſs the dwelling-places that are not theirs.

7 They are terrible and dreadful: their judgment and their dignity ſhall proceed of themſelves.

8 Their horſes alſo are ſwifter than the leopards, and are more fierce than the evening wolves: and their horſemen ſhall ſpread themſelves, and their horſemen ſhall come from far: they ſhall fly as the eagle that haſteth to eat.

9 They ſhall come all for violence: their faces ſhall ſup up as the eaſt wind, and they ſhall gather the captivity as the ſand.

10 And they ſhall ſcoff at the kings, and the princes ſhall be a ſcorn unto them: they ſhall deride every ſtrong hold; for they ſhall heap duſt, and take it.

11 Then ſhall his mind change, and he ſhall paſs over and offend, imputing this his power unto his god.

12 Art thou not from everlaſting O Lord my God, mine Holy One? we ſhall not die, O Lord thou haſt ordained them for judgment: and, O mighty God, thou haſt eſtabliſhed them for correction.

13 Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canſt not look on iniquity; wherefore lookeſt thou upon them that deal treacherouſly, and holdeſt thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makeſt men as the fiſhes of the ſea; as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all of them with the angle, they catch them in their net, and gather them in their drag: therefore they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore they ſacrifice unto their net, and burn incenſe unto their drag; becauſe by them their portion is fat, and their meat plenteous.

17 Shall they therefore empty their net, and not ſpare continually to ſlay the nations?

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

2 O Lord, how long ſhall I cry unto—thee of violence, and thou wilt not ſave!) The prophet here propoſeth the common objections againſt providence, drawn from the proſperity of the wicked, and the oppreſſion of the righteous, which have proved a ſtumbling block even to good men.

12 Art thou not from everlaſting?—we ſhall not die, &c.) Thou that liveſt for ever, and whoſe word is as unchangeable as thyſelf, will preſerve us from utter deſtruction, and in due time fulfil all thy promiſes.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 I will ſtand upon my watch, and ſet me upon the tower, &c.) It was the buſineſs of a watchman, in time of war, to obſerve from an eminence what meſſengers were coming, and to publiſh the meſſage as ſoon as poſſible. The prophet puts himſelf in that ſituation, that he might receive the anſwer from the Almighty to the complaint he made in the foregoing chapter.

2 Write the viſion, and make it plain upon tables, &c.) When the prophets are commanded to write any thing, it denotes that it is of the utmoſt importance, and therefore the notice of it ſhould be tranſmitted to poſterity. This viſion is accordingly ordered by God to be written in ſuch legible characters as were uſed in public tables, hung up in temples and market-places, that every perſon might read the contents.

viſion, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

3 For the viſion is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it ſhall ſpeak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; becauſe it will ſurely come, it will not tarry.

4 Behold, his ſoul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the juſt ſhall live by his faith.

5 ¶ Yea alſo, becauſe he tranſgreſſeth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his deſire as hell, and is as death, and cannot be ſatisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people:

6 Shall not all theſe take up a parable againſt him, and a taunting proverb againſt him, and ſay, Woe to him that increaſeth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himſelf with thick clay!

7 Shall they not riſe up ſuddenly that ſhall bite thee, and awake that ſhall vex thee, and thou ſhalt be for booties unto them?

8 Becauſe thou haſt ſpoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people ſhall ſpoil thee; becauſe of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 ¶ Woe to him that coveteth an evil covetouſneſs to his houſe, that he may ſet his neſt on high, that he may be delivered from the power of evil!

10 Thou haſt conſulted ſhame to thy houſe by cutting off many people, and haſt ſinned againſt thy ſoul.

11 For the ſtone ſhall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber ſhall anſwer it.

12 Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and ſtabliſheth a city by iniquity.

13 Behold, is it not of the Lord of hoſts that the people ſhall labour in the very fire, and the people ſhall weary themſelves for very vanity?

14 For the earth ſhall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the ſea.

15 ¶ Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that putteſt thy bottle to him, and makeſt him drunken alſo, that thou mayeſt look on their nakedneſs!

16 Thou art filled with ſhame for glory: drink thou alſo, and let thy foreſkin be uncovered: the cup of the Lord's right hand ſhall be turned unto thee, and ſhameful ſpewing ſhall be on thy glory.

17 For the violence of Lebanon ſhall cover thee, and the ſpoil of beaſts, which made them afraid becauſe of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

18 ¶ What profiteth the graven image, that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, and a teacher of lies, that the maker of his work truſteth therein, to make dumb idols?

19 Woe unto him that ſaith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb ſtone, Ariſe, it ſhall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and ſilver, and there is no breath at all in the midſt of it.

20 But the Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep ſilence before him.

ZEPHANIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Zephaniah was employed in the prophetic office in the time of king Joſiah, before that prince had re-eſtabliſhed the worſhip of God, and the obſervation of the law in its purity. He propheſied a little after the captivity of the ten tribes; and before that of Judah.

CHAP. I.

God's ſevere judgments againſt Judah for divers ſins.

THE word of the Lord which came unto Zephaniah the ſon of Cuſhi, the ſon of Gedaliah, the ſon of Amariah, the ſon of Hizkiah, in the days of Joſiah, the ſon of Amon king of Judah.

2 I will utterly conſume all things from off the land, ſaith the Lord.

3 I will conſume man and beaſt; I will conſume the fowls of the heaven: and the fiſhes of the ſea; and the ſtumbling-blocks with the wicked: and I will cut off man from off the land, ſaith the Lord.

4 I will alſo ſtretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem: and I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of the Chemarims with the prieſts;

5 And them that worſhip the hoſt of heaven upon the houſe-tops; and them that worſhip and that ſwear by the Lord, and that ſwear by Malcham;

6 And them that are turned back from the Lord, and thoſe that have not ſought the Lord, nor enquired for him.

7 Hold thy peace at the preſence of the Lord God: for the day of the Lord is at hand: for the Lord hath prepared a ſacrifice, he hath bid his gueſts.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs in the day of the Lord's ſacrifice, that I will puniſh the princes, and the king's children, and all ſuch as are clothed with ſtrange apparel.

9 In the ſame day alſo will I puniſh all thoſe that leap on the threſhold, which fill their maſters' houſes with violence and deceit.

10 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, ſaith the Lord, that there ſhall be the noiſe of a cry from the fiſh-gate, and an howling from the ſecond, and a great craſhing from the hills.

11 Howl, ye inhabitants of Makteſh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear ſilver are cut off.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs at that time, that I will ſearch Jeruſalem with candles, and puniſh the men that are ſettled on their lees, that ſay in their heart, The Lord will not do good, neither will he do evil.

13 Therefore their goods ſhall become a booty, and their houſes a deſolation: they ſhall alſo build houſes, but not inhabit them: and they ſhall plant vineyards, but not drink the wine thereof.

14 The great day of the Lord is near, it is near, and haſteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the Lord: the mighty man ſhall cry there bitterly.

15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and diſtreſs, a day of waſteneſs and deſolation, a day of darkneſs and gloominеſs, a day of clouds and thick darkneſs,

16 A day of the trumpet and alarm againſt the fenced cities and againſt the high towers.

17 And I will bring diſtreſs upon men, that they ſhall walk like blind men, becauſe they have ſinned againſt the Lord: and their blood ſhall be poured out as duſt, and their fleſh as the dung.

18 Neither their ſilver nor their gold ſhall be able to deliver them in the day of the Lord's wrath; but the whole land ſhall be devoured by the fire of his jealouſy: for he ſhall make even a ſpeedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

9 In the ſame day alſo will I puniſh all thoſe that leap on the threſhold, &c.) Or rather, that leap over the threſhold. The expreſſion probably alludes to ſome idolatrous rite, like that practiſed by the Philiſtines in the temple of their god Dagon, where the prieſts did not tread upon the threſhold, 1 Sam. v. 5.

4 ¶ For Gaza ſhall be forſaken, and Aſhkelon a deſolation: they ſhall drive out Aſhdod at the noon-day, and Ekron ſhall be rooted up.

5 Woe unto the inhabitants of the ſea-coaſts, the nation of the Cherethites! the word of the Lord is againſt you: O Canaan, the land of the Philiſtines, I will even deſtroy thee, that there ſhall be no inhabitant.

6 And the ſea-coaſt ſhall be dwellings and cottages for ſhepherds, and folds for flocks.

7 And the coaſt ſhall be for the remnant of the houſe of Judah; they ſhall feed thereupon: in the houſes of Aſhkelon ſhall they lie down in the evening; for the Lord their God ſhall viſit them, and turn away their captivity.

8 ¶ I have heard the reproach of Moab, and the revilings of the children of Ammon, whereby they have reproached my people, and magnified themſelves againſt their border.

9 Therefore, as I live, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Surely Moab ſhall be as Sodom, and the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, even the breeding of nettles, and ſalt-pits, and a perpetual deſolation: the reſidue of my people ſhall ſpoil them, and the remnant of my people ſhall poſſeſs them.

10 This ſhall they have for their pride, becauſe they have reproached and magnified themſelves againſt the people of the Lord of hoſts.

11 The Lord will be terrible unto them: for he will famiſh all the gods of the earth; and men ſhall worſhip him, every one from his place, even all the iſles of the heathen.

12 ¶ Ye Ethiopians alſo, ye ſhall be ſlain by my ſword.

13 And he will ſtretch out his hand againſt the north, and deſtroy Aſſyria; and will make Nineveh a deſolation, and dry like a wilderneſs.

14 And flocks ſhall lie down in the midſt of her, all the beaſts of the nations: both the cormorant and the bittern ſhall lodge in the upper lintels of it; their voice ſhall ſing in the windows; deſolation ſhall be in the threſholds: for he ſhall uncover the cedar-work.

15 This is the rejoicing city that dwelt careleſsly, that ſaid in her heart, I am, and there is none beſides me: how is ſhe become a deſolation, a place for beaſts to lie down in! every one that paſſeth by her ſhall hiſs, and wag his hand.

HAGGAI.

THE ARGUMENT.

Haggai was, in all probability, born at Babylon, from whence he returned with Zerubbabel. It was this prophet, who, by the command of God, perſuaded the Jews to finiſh the re-building of the temple, which had been intermitted for fourteen years.

CHAP. I.

1 Haggai reproving the people's negligence, 7 inciteth them to build the houſe, 12 and promiſeth God's aſſiſtance therein.

IN the ſecond year of Darius the king, in the ſixth month, in the firſt day of the month, came the word of the Lord by Haggai the prophet, unto Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel governor of Judah, and to Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, ſaying,

2 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, This people ſay, The time is not come, the time that the Lord's houſe ſhould be built.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by Haggai the prophet, ſaying,

4 Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your cieled houſes, and this houſe lie waſte?

5 Now therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Conſider your ways.

6 Ye have ſown much, and bring in little: ye eat, but ye have not enough: ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink: ye clothe you, but there is none warm: and he that earneth wages, earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes.

7 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Conſider your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood and build the houſe: and I will take pleaſure in it, and I will be glorified, ſaith the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, I did blow upon it. Why? ſaith the Lord of hoſts. Becauſe of mine houſe that is waſte, and ye run every man unto his own houſe.

10 Therefore the heaven over you is ſtayed from dew, and the earth is ſtayed from her fruit.

11 And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 ¶ Then Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the Lord their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the Lord their God had ſent him: and the people did fear before the Lord.

13 Then ſpake Haggai the Lord's meſſenger, in the Lord's meſſage unto the people, ſaying, I am with you, ſaith the Lord.

14 And the Lord ſtirred up the ſpirit of Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel governor of Judah, and the ſpirit of Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech, the high prieſt, and the ſpirit of all the remnant of the people; and they came, and did work in the houſe of the Lord of hoſts their God:

15 In the four and twentieth day of the ſixth month, in the ſecond year of Darius the king.

CHAP. II.

1 He encourageth the people to the work by the promiſe of greater glory to the ſecond temple than was in the firſt. 10 He ſheweth that their ſins hindered the work. 20 God's promiſe to Zerubbabel.

IN the ſeventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the Lord by the prophet Haggai, ſaying,

2 Speak now to Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel governor of Judah, and to Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, and to the reſidue of the people, ſaying,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 Governor of Judah, &c.) He is not ſtiled king, becauſe the Jews were ſubject to the Perſians, and it would have been impolitic to give him that title; beſides, he never aſſumed the title himſelf, was never anointed, though of the royal race, and exerciſed an inferior degree of authority.

4 Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your cieled houſes, and this houſe lie waſte?) You complain of the times; yet they have not been ſo difficult, but you have found means and opportunity to build fine houſes for yourſelves, though ye are content to let the houſe of the Moſt High lie in ruins.

5, 6 Conſider your ways, ye have ſown much, and bring in little, &c.) Conſider both your ingratitude in neglecting to reſtore my houſe and worſhip, and what you have acquired by your dealings; for none of your undertakings thrive, or are ſucceſsful: nor do you enjoy the fruits of your labour.

3 Who is left among you that ſaw this houſe in her firſt glory? and how do ye ſee it now? is it not in your eyes in compariſon of it as nothing?

4 Yet now be ſtrong, O Zerubbabel, ſaith the Lord; and be ſtrong, O Joſhua ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt; and be ſtrong, all ye people of the land, ſaith the Lord and work: for I am with you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts:

5 According to the word that I covenanted with you when ye came out of Egypt, ſo my ſpirit remaineth among you: fear ye not.

6 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Yet once, it is a little while, and I will ſhake the heavens, and the earth, and the ſea, and the dry land;

7 And I will ſhake all nations, and the deſire of all nations ſhall come: and I will fill this houſe with glory, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

8 The ſilver is mine, and the gold is mine, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 The glory of this latter houſe ſhall be greater than of the former, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: and in this place will I give peace, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

10 ¶ In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the ſecond year of Darius, came the word of the Lord by Haggai the prophet, ſaying,

3 Who is left among you that ſaw this houſe in her firſt glory? &c.) When the foundation of the houſe was laid in the ſecond year of Cyrus, many of the ancient men, who had ſeen the firſt, wept to ſee how much the latter temple would fall ſhort of the former. The ſecond year of Cyrus was fifty-three years after the deſtruction of the firſt temple; ſo that the oldeſt men among thoſe that returned from the captivity might very well remember the glory and ſplendor of the firſt temple: and though this prophecy was uttered fifteen years after the foundation of the ſecond temple, yet there might ſtill ſurvive ſome of thoſe who had ſeen the ſtructure built by Solomon.

6, 7, 8 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Yet once, it is a little while, &c.) The occaſion of this prophecy was the dejection of the Jews at the mean appearance of their new-erecting temple, verſe 3. The comfort therefore in the prophet's meſſage was ſurely ſuited to be conferred on this temple, to make it exceed the glory of the former. The preſence of one of great dignity gives honour and glory to the meaneſt cottage. It was the Shechinah, the ſymbol of God's preſence in Solomon's temple, that was truly its glory; and it is the reſtoring of this glory, in the days of the Meſſias, which, even in the opi

ZECHARIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Zechariah entered on his prophetical office at the ſame time with Haggai, ſome years before the return from the captivity; and he was ſent to the Jews upon the ſame meſſage, to reprove them for their backwardneſs in erecting the temple, and reſtoring the divine worſhip.

CHAP. I.

1 Zechariah exhorteth to repentance. 7 The viſion of the horſes. 12 Comfortable promiſes are made to Jeruſalem. 18 The viſion of the four horns.

IN the eighth month, in the ſecond year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the ſon of Barachiah, the ſon of Iddo the prophet, ſaying,

2 The Lord hath been ſore diſpleaſed with your fathers.

3 Therefore ſay thou unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Turn ye unto me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will turn unto you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former prophets have cried, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, ſaith the Lord.

5 Your fathers where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

6 But my words and my ſtatutes, which I commanded my ſervants the prophets, did they not take hold of your fathers? and they returned, and ſaid, Like as the Lord of hoſts thought to do unto us, according to our ways, and according to our doings, ſo hath he dealt with us.

7 ¶ Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Sebat, in the ſecond year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the ſon of Barachiah the ſon of Iddo the prophet, ſaying,

8 I ſaw by night, and behold, a man riding upon a red horſe, and he ſtood among the myrtle-trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there red horſes, ſpeckled, and white.

9 Then ſaid I, O my lord, what are theſe? and the angel that talked with me ſaid unto me, I will ſhew thee what theſe be.

10 And the man that ſtood among the myrtle-trees anſwered and ſaid, Theſe are they whom the Lord hath ſent to walk to and fro through the earth.

11 And they anſwered the angel of the Lord that ſtood among the myrtle-trees, and ſaid, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and behold all the earth ſitteth ſtill, and is at reſt.

12 ¶ Then the angel of the Lord anſwered and ſaid, O Lord of hoſts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jeruſalem and on the cities of Judah, againſt which thou haſt had indignation theſe threeſcore and ten years?

13 And the Lord anſwered the angel that talked with me with good words, and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me ſaid unto me, Cry thou, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I am jealous for Jeruſalem and for Zion with a great jealouſy.

15 And I am very ſore diſpleaſed with the heathen that are at eaſe: for I was but a little diſpleaſed, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, I am returned to Jeruſalem with mercies: my houſe ſhall be built in it, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and a line ſhall be ſtretched forth upon Jeruſalem.

17 Cry yet, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, My cities through proſperity ſhall yet be ſpread abroad; and the Lord ſhall yet comfort Zion, and ſhall yet chooſe Jeruſalem.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

2 The Lord hath been ſore diſpleaſed with your fathers.) Tho' God had been juſtly diſpleaſed with your fathers, and puniſhed them and their children with ſeventy years captivity, yet now he declares himſelf willing to be reconciled to you on your repentance.

5, 6 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, &c.) Tho' your fathers be dead, yet God's judgments in puniſhing them ought to be ſtill before your eyes; and though the prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for ever.

8 I ſaw by night, and behold, a man riding upon a red horſe.) A red horſe is an emblem of war and deſtruction. The man or angel riding upon him denotes the Logos, or Son of God, appearing as the captain of the hoſts or armies of the Almighty.

15 I am very ſore diſpleaſed with the heathen that are at eaſe, &c.) Who have not yet felt the ſeverity of my judgment; but they ſhall not eſcape unpuniſhed. This may be underſtood of the Babylonians, Samaritans, and other neighbours of the Jews, who had not been made ſuch terrible examples of God's vengeance as the deſcendants of Jacob were.

18 ¶ Then lifted I up mine eyes, and ſaw, and behold, four horns.

19 And I ſaid unto the angel that talked with me, What be theſe? and he anſwered me, Theſe are the horns which have ſcattered Judah, Iſrael, and Jeruſalem.

20 And the Lord ſhewed me four carpenters.

21 Then ſaid I, What come theſe to do? and he ſpake, ſaying, Theſe are the horns which have ſcattered Judah, ſo that no man did lift up his head: but theſe are come to fray them, to caſt out the horns of the Gentiles, which lifted up their horn over the land of Judah to ſcatter it.

CHAP. II.

1 God, in his care of Jeruſalem, ſendeth to meaſure it.
6 The redemption of Zion.

I LIFTED up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold, a man with a meaſuring-line in his hand.

2 Then ſaid I, Whither goeſt thou? and he ſaid unto me, To meaſure Jeruſalem, to ſee what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And ſaid unto him, Run, ſpeak to this young man, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein.

5 For I, ſaith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the midſt of her.

6 ¶ Ho, ho, come forth, and flee from the land of the north, ſaith the Lord: for I have ſpread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, ſaith the Lord.

7 Deliver thyſelf, O Zion, that dwelleſt with the daughter of Babylon.

8 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, After the glory hath he ſent me unto the nations which ſpoiled you; for he that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will ſhake mine hand upon them, and they ſhall be a ſpoil to their ſervants: and ye ſhall know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me.

10 Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion; for lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midſt of thee, ſaith the Lord.

11 And many nations ſhall be joined to the Lord in that day, and ſhall be my people: and I will dwell in the midſt of thee, and th

18 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and ſaw, and behold, four horns.) Horns often expreſs the ſtrength and power of princes or people, the metaphor being taken from cattle, whoſe ſtrength lies in their horns. The four horns may denote the Samaritans, the Arabians, the Ammonites, and the Philiſtines, who principally oppoſed the re-building of the temple.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

5 For I, ſaith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the midſt of her.) Her inhabitants may live in ſafety without the walls of the city; for I the Lord will defend her by my angels, as ſo many flames of fire ſurrounding her, as I did Eliſha againſt his enemies; and my ſpecial preſence ſhall be her protection, of which the cloud of glory in the firſt temple was a figure. This prophecy will receive its utmoſt completion in the new Jeruſalem, when the glory of the Lord and the Lamb ſhall be the light thereof.

8 For he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye.) God is very ſenſible of the injury offered to his people; it is like hurting the eye, which is the moſt tender and ſenſible part of the body: and though he made the Babylonians inſtruments of his vengeance, yet now he will call them to an account for exceeding their commiſſion.

1 By the golden candleſtick is foreſhewn the good ſucceſs of Zerubbabel's foundation. 11 By the two olive-trees, the two anointed ones.

AND the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his ſleep;

2 And ſaid unto me, What ſeeſt thou? and I ſaid, I have looked, and behold, a candleſtick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his ſeven lamps thereon, and ſeven pipes to the ſeven lamps which are upon the top thereof;

3 And two olive-trees by it, one upon the right ſide of the bowl, and the other upon the left ſide thereof.

4 So I anſwered and ſpake to the angel that talked with me, ſaying, What are theſe, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me anſwered and ſaid unto me, Knoweſt thou not what theſe be? and I ſaid, No, my lord.

6 Then he anſwered and ſpake unto me, ſaying, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, ſaying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou ſhalt become a plain: and he ſhall bring forth the head-ſtone thereof with ſhoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

8 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this houſe, his hands ſhall alſo finiſh it; and thou ſhalt know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me unto you.

10 For who hath deſpiſed the day of ſmall things? for they ſhall rejoice, and ſhall ſee the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with thoſe ſeven; they are the eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 ¶ Then anſwered I and ſaid unto him, What are theſe two olive-trees upon the right ſide of the candleſtick, and upon the left ſide thereof.

12 And I anſwered again, and ſaid unto him, What be theſe two olive-branches which through the two golden pipes empty the golden oil out of themſelves?

13 And he anſwered me and ſaid, Knoweſt thou not what theſe be? and I ſaid, No my lord.

14 Then ſaid he, Theſe are the two anointed ones that ſtand by the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

1 By the flying roll is ſhewed the curſe of thieves and ſwearers. 5 Babylon's ruin.

THEN I turned, and lift up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a flying roll.

2 And he ſaid unto me, What ſeeſt thou? And I anſwered, I ſee a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then ſaid he unto me, This is the curſe that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for every one that ſtealeth, ſhall be cut off as on this ſide, according to it; and every one that ſweareth, ſhall be cut off as on that ſide, according to it.

4 I will bring it forth, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and it ſhall enter into the houſe of the thief, and into the houſe of him that ſweareth falſely by my name: and it ſhall remain in the midſt of his houſe and ſhall conſume it with the timber thereof, and the ſtones thereof.

5 ¶ Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and ſaid unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and ſee what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I ſaid, What is it? and he ſaid, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He ſaid moreover, This is their reſemblance through all the earth.

7 And behold, there was lifted up a talent of lead; and this is a woman that ſitteth in the midſt of the ephah.

8 And he ſaid, This is wickedneſs. And he caſt it into the midſt of the ephah; and he caſt the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes and looked, and behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a ſtork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then ſaid I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do theſe bear the ephah?

11 And he ſaid unto me, To build it an houſe in the land of Shinar: and it ſhall be eſtabliſhed and ſet there upon her own baſe.

1 The viſion of the four chariots. 9 By the crowns of Joſhua is ſhewed the temple, and kingdom of Chriſt the Branch.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of braſs.

2 In the firſt chariot were red horſes, and in the ſecond chariot black horſes,

3 And in the third chariot white horſes, and in the fourth chariot griſled and bay horſes.

4 Then I anſwered and ſaid unto the angel that talked with me, What are theſe, my lord?

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou ſhalt become a plain.) Removing mountains, and levelling them into plains, are proverbial expreſſions to denote the overcoming the greateſt difficulties, and removing all obſtructions that lie in our way. So the angel here encourageth Zerubbabel to go on with his undertaking, aſſuring him that nothing ſhould withſtand him.

And he ſhall bring forth the head-ſtone thereof with ſhoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.) He ſhall place the top or finiſhing ſtone upon the walls of the temple; which action the ſpectators ſhall accompany with their wiſhes and prayers, that God's grace and favour may protect that holy place ſo happily finiſhed, and with ſuch joyful acclamations as they uſed at laying its foundation. The chief or head-ſtone myſtically repreſents the Meſſiah, and implies that God would bring him into the world as the finiſhing ornament and perfection of the church, God's ſpiritual houſe.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

6 An ephah, &c.) About the ſize of a buſhel: this being the meaſure of dry goods, denotes the unjuſt dealings of the Jews, in buying and ſelling.

11 To build it an houſe in the land of Shinar; and it ſhall be eſtabliſhed, &c.) The deſign of this viſion was to inſtruct the Jews, that as their fathers were carried into ſeventy years captivity to Babylon; ſo, if their poſterity ſhould not take warning by their puniſhment, a worſe captivity ſhould befal them, one of ſo long continuance as ſhould make them deſpair of returning home, and reſolve to ſettle themſelves in thoſe countries where they were diſperſed. This is expreſſed by removing them to Babylon, which was a proverbial expreſſion for utter ruin and deſolation.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 Behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of braſs.) The four chariots denote the four great empires which ſubdued the principal part of the then known world; and they are repreſented as coming between two mountains, becauſe mountains are the natural barriers which divide kingdoms, which are here, though as ſtrong as braſs, ſuppoſed to be broken through by thoſe that invade and conquer their neighbours: and it is obſervable, that ſome of the mighty conquerors owed the beginning of their greatneſs to their ſucceſsful paſſage through the ſtreights of mountains, where a ſmall force might have ſtopped the moſt powerful army.

5 And the angel anſwered and ſaid unto me, Theſe are the four ſpirits of the heavens, which go forth from ſtanding before the Lord of all the earth.

6 The black horſes which are therein go forth into the north country; and the white go forth after them: and the griſled go forth toward the ſouth country.

7 And the bay went forth, and ſought to go, that they might walk to and fro through the earth: and he ſaid, Get ye hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and ſpake unto me, ſaying, Behold, theſe that go toward the north country have quieted my ſpirit in the north country.

9 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobijah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou the ſame day, and go into the houſe of Joſiah the ſon of Zephaniah;

11 Then take ſilver and gold, and make crowns, and ſet them upon the head of Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt;

12 And ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, Behold, the man whoſe name is The BRANCH: and he ſhall grow up out of his place, and he ſhall build the temple of the Lord:

13 Even he ſhall build the temple of the Lord; and he ſhall bear the glory, and ſhall ſit and rule upon his throne; and he ſhall be a prieſt upon his throne: and the counſel of peace ſhall be between them both.

14 And the crowns ſhall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the ſon of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the temple of the Lord.

15 And they that are far off ſhall come and build in the temple of the Lord; and ye ſhall know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me unto you. And this ſhall come to paſs, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the Lord your God.

CHAP. VII.

1 The captives enquire of faſting. 4 Zechariah reproveth their hypocritical faſting. 8 Sin the cauſe of their captivity.

AND it came to paſs in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chiſleu.

2 When they had ſent unto the houſe of God, Sharezer and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the Lord,

3 And to ſpeak unto the prieſts which were in the houſe of the Lord of hoſts, and to the prophets, ſaying, Should I weep in the fifth month, ſeparating myſelf, as I have done theſe ſo many years?

4 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord of hoſts unto me, ſaying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the prieſts, ſaying, When ye faſted and mourned in the fifth and ſeventh month, even thoſe ſeventy years, did ye at all faſt unto me, even to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, do not ye eat for yourſelves, and drink for yourſelves?

7 Should ye not hear the words which the Lord hath cried by the former prophets, when Jeruſalem was inhabited and in proſperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited the ſouth and the plain?

8 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah, ſaying,

9 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, Execute true judgment, and ſhew mercy and compaſſions every man to his brother;

10 And oppreſs not the widow, nor the fatherleſs, the ſtranger nor the poor; and let none of you imagine evil againſt his brother in your heart.

11 But they refuſed to hearken, and pulled away the ſhoulder, and ſtopped their ears, that they ſhould not hear.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant ſtone, leſt they ſhould hear the law, and the words which the Lord of hoſts hath ſent in his ſpirit by the former prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hoſts.

13 Therefore it is come to paſs, that as he cried, and they would not hear; ſo they cried, and I would not hear, ſaith the Lord of hoſts:

14 But I ſcattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations whom they knew not. Thus the land was deſolate after them, that no man paſſed through nor returned: for they laid the pleaſant land deſolate.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midſt of Jeruſalem: and Jeruſalem ſhall be called, A city of truth; and the mountain of the Lord of hoſts, The holy mountain.

4 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts; There ſhall yet old men and old women dwell in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, and every man with his ſtaff in his hand for very age.

5 And the ſtreets of the city ſhall be full of boys and girls playing in the ſtreets thereof.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts; If it be marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in theſe days, ſhould it alſo be marvellous in mine eyes? ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Let your hands be ſtrong, ye that hear in theſe days theſe words by the mouth of the prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the houſe of the Lord of hoſts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before theſe days there was no hire for man, nor any hire for beaſt; neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in, becauſe of the affliction: for I ſet all men every one againſt his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the reſidue of this people as in the former days, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

12 For the ſeed ſhall be proſperous; the vine ſhall give her fruit, and the ground ſhall give her increaſe, and the heavens ſhall give their dew; and I will cauſe the remnant of this people to poſſeſs all theſe things.

14 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, As I thought to puniſh you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I repented not:

15 So again have I thought in theſe days to do well unto Jeruſalem and to the houſe of Judah: fear ye not.

16 Theſe are the things that ye ſhall do: Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates:

19 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, The faſt of the fourth month, and the faſt of the fifth, and the faſt of the ſeventh, and the faſt of the tenth ſhall be to the houſe of Judah joy and gladneſs, and cheerful feaſts: therefore love the truth and peace.

23 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts in thoſe days it ſhall come to paſs that ten men ſhall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even ſhall take hold of the ſkirt of him that is a Jew, ſaying, We will go with you, for we have heard that God is with you.

5 Aſhkelon ſhall ſee it, and fear; Gaza alſo ſhall ſee it, and be very ſorrowful; and Ekron, for her expectation ſhall be aſhamed; and the king ſhall periſh from Gaza, and Aſhkelon ſhall not be inhabited.

6 And a baſtard ſhall dwell in Aſhdod; and I will cut off the pride of the Philiſtines:

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he ſhall be for our God, and he ſhall be as a governor in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebuſite.

8 And I will encamp about mine houſe becauſe of the army, becauſe of him that paſſeth by, and becauſe of him that returneth: and no oppreſſor ſhall paſs through them any more: for now have I ſeen with mine eyes.

9 ¶ Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion, ſhout, O daughter of Jeruſalem, behold, thy King cometh unto thee; he is juſt, and having ſalvation; lowly, and riding upon an aſs, and upon a colt the foal of an aſs.

10 And I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horſe from Jeruſalem, and the battle bow ſhall be cut off: and he ſhall ſpeak peace unto the heathen: and his dominion ſhall be from ſea even to ſea, and from the river even to the ends of the earth.

11 As for thee alſo, by the blood of thy covenant I have ſent forth thy priſoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turn ye to the ſtrong hold, ye priſoners of hope: even to-day do I declare that I will render double unto thee:

13 When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raiſed up thy ſons, O Zion, againſt thy ſons, O Greece, and made thee as the ſword of a mighty man.

14 And the Lord ſhall be ſeen over them, and his arrow ſhall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord God ſhall blow the trumpet, and ſhall go with whirlwinds of the ſouth.

13 Ye were a curſe among the heathen, &c.) A ſtanding monument of God's vengeance, ſo that the heathen uſed this as a common form of imprecation, God do ſo to me as he did to the Jews.

19 Love the truth and peace.) God values an upright converſation more than the exacteſt care of external performances. Theſe inſtructions prepared the minds of men for receiving the goſpel, whoſe laws chiefly recommend purity of heart and life.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

1 The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of Hadrach, &c.) That is, a burdenſome prophecy, threatening ruin and deſtruction. This is the only place in ſcripture where Hadrach is mentioned as the name of a country; but the context ſhews that it muſt mean ſome parts of Syria, of which Damaſcus was the capital city. The prophecy ſeems to relate to the conqueſt of Syria by Alexander the Great, when Damaſcus, with all the treaſure of Darius depoſited there, was delivered up to him by treachery.

9 Behold, thy King cometh unto thee.) He, the Meſſiah, often deſcribed in the prophets as the king of Iſrael, and called elſewhere by the name of David their king, ſhall certainly come at the time appointed.

Lowly, and riding upon an aſs, and upon a colt the foal of an aſs.) This prophecy was literally fulfilled by the bleſſed Jeſus, when he entered Jeruſalem ſitting on an aſs, affecting the primitive ſimplicity of the judges and patriarchs of old, and ſhewing his regard to the command of Omnipotence, Thou ſhalt not multiply horſes to thyſelf.

11 By the blood of thy covenant, &c.) The words import the deliverance of mankind from the bondage of ſin and ſatan, by virtue of the covenant ſealed by the blood of Chriſt. The condition of men enſlaved by ſin and ignorance is often compared to that of priſoners confined in chains and darkneſs.

12 Turn ye to the ſtrong hold, ye priſoners of hope, &c.) Ye that are under any bondage or oppreſſion, do not deſpair, but rely upon the promiſes of the Almighty for deliverance: apply yourſelves to him who is a ſtrong tower and defence in time of trouble.

15 The Lord of hoſts ſhall defend them; and they ſhall devour, and ſubdue with ſling-ſtones; and they ſhall drink, and make a noiſe as through wine; and they ſhall be filled like bowls, and as the corners of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God ſhall ſave them in that day as the flock of his people: for they ſhall be as the ſtones of a crown, lifted up as an enſign upon his land.

17 For how great is his goodneſs! and how great is his beauty! Corn ſhall make the young men cheerful, and new wine the maids.

5 ¶ And they ſhall be as mighty men which tread down their enemies in the mire of the ſtreets in the battle: and they ſhall fight becauſe the Lord is with them, and the riders on horſes ſhall be confounded.

6 And I will ſtrengthen the houſe of Judah, and I will ſave the houſe of Joſeph, and I will bring them again to place them: for I have mercy upon them: and they ſhall be as though I had not caſt them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim ſhall be like a mighty man, and their heart ſhall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children ſhall ſee it, and be glad; their heart ſhall rejoice in the Lord.

8 I will hiſs for them and gather them; for I have redeemed them, and they ſhall increaſe as they have increaſed.

9 And I will ſow them among the people: and they ſhall remember me in far countries, and they ſhall live with their children and turn again.

1 Jeruſalem a cup of trembling to herſelf, 3 and a burdenſome ſtone to her adverſaries. 6 The victorious reſtoring of Judah. 10 The repentance of Jeruſalem.

THE burden of the word of the Lord for Iſrael, ſaith the Lord, which ſtretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and formeth the ſpirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jeruſalem a cup of trembling unto all the people round about, when they ſhall be in the ſiege both againſt Judah and againſt Jeruſalem.

3 ¶ And in that day will I make Jeruſalem a burdenſome ſtone for all people; all that burden themſelves with it ſhall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together againſt it.

4 In that day, ſaith the Lord, I will ſmite every horſe with aſtoniſhment, and his rider with madneſs; and I will open mine eyes upon the houſe of Judah, and will ſmite every horſe of the people with blindneſs.

5 And the governors of Judah ſhall ſay in their heart, The inhabitants of Jeruſalem ſhall be my ſtrength in the Lord of hoſts their God.

6 ¶ In that day will I make the governors of Judah like an hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a ſheaf; and they ſhall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jeruſalem ſhall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jeruſalem.

7 The Lord alſo ſhall ſave the tents of Judah firſt, that the glory of the houſe of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem do not magnify themſelves againſt Judah.

8 In that day ſhall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Jeruſalem; and he that is feeble among them at that day ſhall be as David; and the houſe of David ſhall be as God, as the angel of the Lord before them.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, that I will ſeek to deſtroy all the nations that come againſt Jeruſalem.

10 ¶ And I will pour upon the houſe of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, the ſpirit of grace and of ſupplications; and they ſhall look upon me whom they have pierced, and they ſhall mourn for him as one mourneth for his only ſon, and ſhall be in bitterneſs for him as one that is in bitterneſs for his firſt-born.

11 In that day ſhall there be a great mourning in Jeruſalem, as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the land ſhall mourn, every family apart; the family of the houſe of David apart, and their wives apart; the family of the houſe of Nathan apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the houſe of Levi apart, and their wives apart; the family of Shimei apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Jeruſalem's purgation from idolatry, and falſe prophecy. 7 The death of Chriſt, and the trial of a third part.

IN that day there ſhall be a fountain opened to the houſe of David, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, for ſin and for uncleanneſs.

2 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, that I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they ſhall no more be remembered: and alſo I will cauſe the prophets and the unclean ſpirit to paſs out of the land.

3 And it ſhall come to paſs, that when any ſhall yet propheſy, then his father and his mother that begat him, ſhall ſay unto him, Thou ſhalt not live: for thou ſpeakeſt lies in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begat him, ſhall thruſt him through when he propheſieth.

4 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day that the prophets ſhall be aſhamed every one of his viſion, when he hath propheſied, neither ſhall they wear a rough garment to deceive:

5 But he ſhall ſay, I am no prophet, I am an huſbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

6 And one ſhall ſay unto him, What are theſe wounds in thine hands? Then he ſhall anſwer, Thoſe with which I was wounded in the houſe of my friends.

7 ¶ Awake, O ſword, againſt my ſhepherd, and againſt the man that is my fellow, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: ſmite the ſhepherd, and the ſheep ſhall be ſcattered; and I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs that in all the land, ſaith the Lord, two parts therein ſhall be cut off, and die: but the third ſhall be left therein.

9 And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as ſilver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: they ſhall call on my name, and I will hear them: I will ſay, It is my people; and they ſhall ſay, The Lord is my God.

14 Then I cut aſunder mine other ſtaff, even Bands, &c.) As they refuſed to be united under me their head, ſo in breaking the other ſtaff, I foreſhewed the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the band and cement of all their tribes, being the centre both of their civil power and of the divine worſhip. The conſequence of this was the entire diſſolution of the nation, and the diſperſion and confuſion of all their tribes, whoſe families could no longer be diſtinguiſhed after the loſs of their genealogies.

MALACHI.

THE ARGUMENT.

The authors of the Lives of the Prophets tell us, that Malachi was of the tribe of Zebulun, and a native of Sapha, and that the name of Malachi was given him becauſe of his angelical mildneſs.

CHAP. I.

1 Malachi complaineth of Iſrael's unkindneſs, 6 irreligion, 12 and profaneneſs.

THE burden of the word of the Lord to Iſrael by Malachi.

2 I have loved you, ſaith the Lord. Yet ye ſay, Wherein haſt thou loved us? Was not Eſau Jacob's brother? ſaith the Lord: yet I loved Jacob.

3 And I hated Eſau, and laid his mountains and his heritage waſte, for the dragons of the wilderneſs.

4 Whereas Edom ſaith, We are impoveriſhed, but we will return and build the deſolate places: thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, They ſhall build, but I will throw down: and they ſhall call them, The border of wickedneſs, and, The people againſt whom the Lord hath indignation for ever.

5 And your eyes ſhall ſee, and ye ſhall ſay, The Lord will be magnified from the border of Iſrael.

6 ¶ A ſon honoureth his father, and a ſervant his maſter: if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a maſter, where is my fear? ſaith the Lord of hoſts unto you, O prieſts, that deſpiſe my name. And ye ſay, Wherein have we deſpiſed thy name?

7 Ye offer polluted bread upon mine altar, and ye ſay, Wherein have we polluted thee? in that ye ſay, The table of the Lord is contemptible.

8 And if ye offer the blind for ſacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and ſick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor, will he be pleaſed with thee, or accept thy perſon? ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 And now, I pray you, beſeech God, that he will be gracious unto us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your perſons? ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

10 Who is there even among you that would ſhut the doors for nought? neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought. I have no pleaſure in you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the riſing of the ſun, even unto the going down of the ſame, my name ſhall be great among the Gentiles: and in every place incenſe ſhall be offered unto my name, and a pure offering: for my name ſhall be great among the heathen, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

12 ¶ But ye have profaned it, in that ye ſay, The table of the Lord is polluted; and the fruit thereof, even his meat is contemptible.

13 Ye ſaid alſo, Behold, what a wearineſs is it! and ye have ſnuffed at it, ſaith the Lord of hoſts; and ye brought that which was torn, and the lame and the ſick; thus ye brought an offering: ſhould I accept this of your hand? ſaith the Lord.

14 But curſed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock a male, and voweth and ſacrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, ſaith the Lord of hoſts; and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

CHAP. II.

1 He reproveth the prieſts and people for idolatry, 14 adultery, 17 and infidelity.

AND now, O ye prieſts, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory unto my name, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I will even ſend a curſe upon you, and I will curſe your bleſſings: yea, I have curſed them already, becauſe ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt your ſeed, and ſpread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your ſolemn feaſts; and one ſhall take you away with it.

4 And ye ſhall know that I have ſent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

5 My covenant was with him of life and peace: and I gave them to him for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity.

7 For the prieſt's lips ſhould keep knowledge, and they ſhould ſeek the law at his mouth; for he is the meſſenger of the Lord of hoſts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye have cauſed many to ſtumble at the law; ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 Therefore have I alſo made you contemptible and baſe before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but have been partial in the law.

10 Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherouſly every man againſt his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

11 ¶ Judah hath dealt treacherouſly, and an abomination is committed in Iſrael and in Jeruſalem; for Judah hath profaned the holineſs of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a ſtrange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doeth this, the maſter and the ſcholar out of the tabernacles of Jacob, and him that offereth an offering unto the Lord of hoſts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, inſomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 ¶ Yet ye ſay, Wherefore? Becauſe the Lord hath been witneſs between thee and the wife of thy youth, againſt whom thou haſt dealt treacherouſly: yet is ſhe thy companion and the wife of thy covenant.

againſt

15 And did not he make one? yet had he the reſidue of the ſpirit. And wherefore one? That he might ſeek a godly ſeed: therefore take heed to your ſpirit, and let none deal treacherouſly againſt the wife of his youth.

16 For the Lord the God of Iſrael ſaith that he hateth putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: therefore take heed to your ſpirit, that ye deal not treacherouſly.

17 ¶ Ye have wearied the Lord with your words, yet ye ſay, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye ſay, Every one that doeth evil is good in the ſight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?

CHAP. III.

1 Of the meſſenger, majeſty, and grace of Chriſt. 7 Of the rebellion, 8 ſacrilege, 13 and infidelity of the people.

BEHOLD, I will ſend my meſſenger, and he ſhall prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye ſeek, ſhall ſuddenly come to his temple, even the meſſenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, he ſhall come, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

2 But who may abide the day of his coming? and who ſhall ſtand when he appeareth? for he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers ſoap.

3 And he ſhall ſit as a refiner and purifier of ſilver; and he ſhall purify the ſons of Levi, and purge them as gold and ſilver, that they may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteouſneſs.

4 Then ſhall the offering of Judah and Jeruſalem be pleaſant unto the Lord, as in the days of old, and as in former years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a ſwift witneſs againſt the ſorcerers, and againſt the adulterers, and againſt falſe ſwearers, and againſt thoſe that oppreſs the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherleſs, and that turn aſide the ſtranger from his right, and fear not me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

6 For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye ſons of Jacob are not conſumed.

7 ¶ Even from the days of your fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them. Return unto me, and I will return unto you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts. But ye ſaid, Wherein ſhall we return?

8 ¶ Will a man rob God? yet ye have robbed me. But ye ſay, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 Behold, I will ſend my meſſenger, &c.) To ſilence the cavils of unbelievers, mentioned in the foregoing chapter, the prophet here foretels the coming of the Meſſiah, who would ſet all things to right; and of his fore-runner, who ſhould prepare men for his reception. The meſſenger or prophet, here foretold to be the Lord's harbinger, was to be as much inferior to the Lord himſelf, as ſervants are to a great perſon they give notice of. This John the Baptiſt often confeſſed.

2 But who may abide the day of his coming? &c.) The coming of Chriſt denotes not only a time of mercy to thoſe who embrace the goſpel, but alſo a time of judgment upon the diſobedient. In the ſame manner John the Baptiſt deſcribes the coming of the Meſſiah, Matt. iii. 7, 12. The day of judgment of the Almighty, whether general or particular, is here deſcribed to be ſo terrible, that if he ſhould be extreme to mark what is done amiſs, not only the wicked, but even the righteous, would not be able to ſtand ſo ſevere a trial.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment, &c.) In anſwer to the demand of the wicked, Where is the God of Judgment? (chap. ii. 17) the Almighty tells them and it ſhall come ſpeedily upo demical among them; and if t of the goſpel, he will deſtroy t

THE ARGUMENT.

The books which follow those of the prophets of the Old Testament are stiled apocryphal, because they were not received by general consent, to be read and expounded publicly in the church, nor admitted to prove any point of the Christian religion, except where they are conformable to other scriptures, called canonical; but as these books were written by godly and pious men, they are allowed to be read for the improvement of our knowledge in the history of God's people. They are also evidences to prove this great truth, that God has at all times taken particular care of his church, and never left it totally destitute of teachers, and means to confirm the members in the hope of the promised Messiah; and at the same time to witness, that those calamities sent by God on his church were conformable to the predictions of his prophets, and intended to complete the destruction of their enemies, and try the faith and sincerity of his servants.

CHAP. I.

1 Josias' charge to the priests and Levites. 7 A passover kept: 32 his death: 34 his successors. 53 The temple, city, and people are destroyed. 56 The rest are carried unto Babylon.

AND Josias held the feast of the passover in Jerusalem unto his Lord, and offered the passover the fourteenth day of the first month;

2 Having set the priests according to their daily courses, being arrayed in long garments in the temple of the Lord.

3 And he spake unto the Levites, the holy ministers of Israel, that they should hallow themselves unto the Lord, to set the holy ark of the Lord in the house that king Solomon the son of David had built:

4 And said, Ye shall no more bear the ark upon your shoulders: now therefore serve the Lord your God, and minister unto his people Israel, and prepare you after your families and kindreds,

5 According as David the king of Israel prescribed, and according to the magnificence of Solomon his son: and standing in the temple, according to the several dignity of the families of you the Levites, who minister in the presence of your brethren the children of Israel.

6 Offer the passover in order, and make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, and keep the passover, according to the commandment of the Lord, which was given unto Moses.

7 ¶ And unto the people that was found there, Josias gave thirty thousand lambs, and kids, and three thousand calves: these things were given of the king's allowance, according as he promised to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites.

8 And Helkias, Zacharias, and Syelus, the governors of the temple, gave to the priests, for the passover, two thousand and six hundred sheep, and three hundred calves.

9 And Jeconias, and Samaias, and Nathanael, his brother, and Assabias and Ochiel, and Joram, captains over thousands gave to the Levites for the passover, five thousand sheep, and seven hundred calves.

10 And when these things were done, the priests and Levites, having the unleavened bread, stood in very comely order, according to the kindreds,

11 And according to the several dignities of the fathers before the people, to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses: and thus did they in the morning.

12 And they roasted the passover with fire, as appertaineth: as for the sacrifices they sod them in brass-pots and pans, with a good savour;

13 And set them before all the people; and afterward they prepared for themselves, and for the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron.

14 For the priests offered the fat until night: and the Levites prepared for themselves, and for the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron.

15 The holy singers also, the sons of Asaph, were in their order, according to the appointment of David, to wit, Asaph, Zacharias, and Jeduthun, who was of the king's retinue.

16 Moreover, the porters were at every gate; it was not lawful for any to go from his ordinary service: for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

17 Thus were the things that belonged to the sacrifices

crifices of the Lord accomplifhed in that day, that they might hold the paſſover,

18 And offer ſacrifices upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of king Joſias.

19 So the children of Iſrael which were preſent, held the paſſover at that time, and the feaſt of ſweet bread, ſeven days.

20 And ſuch a paſſover was not kept in Iſrael ſince the time of the prophet Samuel.

21 Yea, all the kings of Iſrael held not ſuch a paſſover as Joſias, and the prieſts, and the Levites, and the Jews, held with all Iſrael that were found dwelling at Jeruſalem.

22 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Joſias was this paſſover kept.

23 And the works of Joſias were upright before his Lord, with an heart full of godlineſs.

24 As for the things that came to paſs in his time, they were written in former times, concerning thoſe that ſinned, and did wickedly againſt the Lord, above all people and kingdoms, and how they grieved him exceedingly, ſo that the words of the Lord roſe up againſt Iſrael.

25 Now after all theſe acts of Joſias, it came to paſs that Pharaoh the king of Egypt came to raiſe war at Carchamis upon Euphrates: and Joſias went out againſt him.

26 But the king of Egypt ſent to him, ſaying, What have I to do with thee, O king of Judea?

27 I am not ſent out from the Lord God againſt thee: for my war is upon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, yea, the Lord is with me haſting me forward: depart from me, and be not againſt the Lord.

28 Howbeit, Joſias did not turn back his chariot from him, but undertook to fight with him, not regarding the words of the prophet Jeremy, ſpoken by the mouth of the Lord.

29 But joined battle with him in the plain of Magiddo; and the princes came againſt king Joſias.

30 Then ſaid the king unto his ſervants, Carry me away out of the battle; for I am very weak: and immediately his ſervants took him away out of the battle.

31 Then gat he up upon his ſecond chariot; and being brought back to Jeruſalem, died, and was buried in his fathers' ſepulchre.

32 ¶ And in all Jewry they mourned for Joſias, yea, Jeremy the prophet lamented for Joſias, and the chief men with the women made lamentation for him unto this day: and this was given out for an ordinance to be done continually in all the nation of Iſrael.

33 Theſe things are written in the book of the ſtories of the kings of Judah, and every one of the acts that Joſias did, and his glory, and his underſtanding in the law of the Lord, and the things that he had done before, and the things now recited, are reported in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judea.

34 And the people took Joachaz the ſon of Joſias, and made him king inſtead of Joſias his father, when he was twenty and three years old.

35 And he reigned in Judea and in Jeruſalem three months: and then the king of Egypt depoſed him from reigning in Jeruſalem.

36 And he ſet a tax upon the land of an hundred talents of ſilver and one talent of gold.

37 The king of Egypt alſo made king Joacim his brother king of Judea and Jeruſalem.

38 And he bound Joacim and the nobles: but Zaraces his brother he apprehended, and brought him out of Egypt.

39 Five and twenty years old was Joacim when he was made king in the land of Judea and Jeruſalem, and he did evil before the Lord.

40 Wherefore againſt him Nabuchodonoſor the king of Babylon came up, and bound him with a chain of braſs, and carried him unto Babylon.

41 Nabuchodonoſor alſo took of the holy veſſels of the Lord, and carried them away, and ſet them in his own temple at Babylon.

42 But thoſe things that are recorded of him, and of his uncleanneſs, and impiety, are written in the the chronicles of the kings.

43 And Joacim his ſon reigned in his ſtead: he was made king, being eighteen years old;

44 And reigned but three months and ten days in Jeruſalem, and did evil before the Lord.

45 So after a year Nabuchodonoſor ſent and cauſed him to be brought into Babylon, with the holy veſſels of the Lord,

46 And made Zedechias king of Judea and Jeruſalem, when he was one and twenty years old, and he reigned eleven years:

47 And he did evil alſo in the ſight of the Lord, and cared not for the words that were ſpoken unto him by the prophet Jeremy from the mouth of the Lord:

48 And after that king Nabuchodonoſor had made him to ſwear by the name of the Lord, he forſwore himſelf, and rebelled, and hardening his neck, and his heart, he tranſgreſſed the laws of the Lord God of Iſrael.

49 The governors alſo of the people and of the prieſts did many things againſt the laws, and paſſed all the pollutions of all nations, and defiled the temple of the Lord, which was ſanctified in Jeruſalem.

50 Nevertheleſs, the God of their fathers ſent by his meſſengers to call them back, becauſe he ſpared them, and his tabernacle alſo.

51 But they had his meſſengers in deriſion; and look, when the Lord ſpake unto them, they made a ſport of his prophets.

52 So far forth, that he being wroth with his people for their great ungodlineſs, commanded the kings of the Chaldees to come up againſt them:

53 Who ſlew their young men with the ſword, yea, even within the compaſs of their holy temple, and ſpared neither young man nor maid, old man nor child among them, for he delivered all into their hands.

54 And they took all the holy veſſels of the Lord, both great and ſmall, with the veſſels of the ark of God, and the king's treaſures, and carried them away into Babylon.

55 As for the houſe of the Lord, they burnt it, brake down the walls of Jeruſalem, and ſet fire upon her towers:

56 ¶ And as for her glorious things, they never ceaſed, till they had conſumed and brought them all to nought: and the people that were not ſlain with the ſword, he carried unto Babylon:

57 Who became ſervants to him and his children,

CHAP. II.

5 Cyrus is moved to build the temple, and giveth leave to the Jews to contribute.

IN the firſt year of Cyrus king of the Perſians, that the word of the Lord might be accompliſhed that he had promiſed by the mouth of Jeremy;

2 The Lord raiſed up the ſpirit of Cyrus the king of the Perſians, and he made proclamation through all his kingdoms, and alſo by writing,

3 Saying, Thus ſaith Cyrus king of the Perſians, The Lord of Iſrael, the moſt high Lord, hath made me king of the whole world,

4 And commanded me to build him an houſe at Jeruſalem, in Jewry.

5 If therefore there be any of you that are of his people, let the Lord, even his Lord, be with him, and let him go up to Jeruſalem that is in Judea, and build the houſe of the Lord of Iſrael; for he is the Lord that dwelleth in Jeruſalem.

6 Whoſoever then dwell in the places about, let them help him (thoſe, I ſay, that are his neighbours) with gold and with ſilver,

7 With gifts, with horſes, and with cattle, and other things, which have been ſet forth by vow for the temple of the Lord at Jeruſalem.

8 Then the chief of the families of Judea, and of the tribes of Benjamin, ſtood up; the prieſts alſo and the Levites, and all they whoſe mind the Lord had moved to go up, and to build an houſe for the Lord at Jeruſalem:

9 And they that dwelt round about them, and helped them in all things with ſilver and gold, with horſes and cattle, and with very many free gifts of a great number, whoſe minds were ſtirred up thereto.

10 King Cyrus alſo brought forth the holy veſſels, which Nabuchodonoſor had carried away from Jeruſalem, and had ſet up in his temple of idols.

11 Now when Cyrus king of the Perſians had brought them forth, he delivered them to Mithridates his treaſurer;

12 And by him they were delivered to Sanabaſſar, the governor of Judea.

13 And this was the number of them, A thouſand golden cups, and a thouſand of ſilver, cenſers of ſilver twenty-nine, vials of gold thirty, and of ſilver two thouſand four hundred and ten, and a thouſand other veſſels.

14 So all the veſſels of gold and of ſilver, which were carried away, were five thouſand four hundred threeſcore and nine.

15 Theſe were brought back by Sanabaſſar, together with them of the captivity, from Babylon to Jeruſalem.

16 But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Perſians, Belemus, and Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, Beeltethmus, and Semellius the ſecretary, with others that were in commiſſion with them, dwelling in Samaria, and other places, wrote unto him againſt them that dwelt in Judea and Jeruſalem theſe letters following:

17 To king Artaxerxes our lord, thy ſervants Rathumus the ſtory-writer, and Semellius the ſcribe, and the reſt of their council, and the judges that are in Celoſyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now known to the lord the king, that the Jews that are come up from you to us, being come into Jeruſalem, that rebellious and wicked city, do build the market-places, and repair the walls of it, and do lay the foundation of the temple.

19 Now, if this city and the walls thereof be made up again, they will not only refuſe to give tribute, but alſo rebel againſt kings.

20 And, foraſmuch as the things pertaining to the temple are now in hand, we think it meet not to neglect ſuch a matter,

21 But to ſpeak unto our Lord the king, to the intent that, if it be thy pleaſure, it may be ſought out in the books of thy fathers:

22 And thou ſhalt find in the Chronicles what is written concerning theſe things, and ſhalt underſtand that that city was rebellious, troubling both kings and cities:

23 And that the Jews were rebellious, and raiſed always wars therein; for the which cauſe even this city was made deſolate.

24 Wherefore now we do declare unto thee, O lord the king, that if this city be built again, and the walls thereof ſet up anew, thou ſhalt from henceforth have no paſſage into Celoſyria and Phenice.

25 Then the king wrote back again to Rathumus the ſtory-writer, to Beeltethmus, to Semellius the ſcribe and to the reſt that were in commiſſion, and dwellers in Samaria, and Syria, and Phenice, after this manner:

26 I have read the epiſtle which ye have ſent unto me: therefore I commanded to make diligent ſearch, and it hath been found, that that city was from the beginning practiſing againſt kings.

27 And the men therein were given to rebellion and war; and that mighty kings and fierce were in Jeruſalem, who reigned and exacted tributes in Celoſyria and Phenice.

28 Now therefore I have commanded to hinder thoſe men from building the city, and heed to be taken that there be no more done in it;

29 And that thoſe wicked workers proceed no farther to the annoyance of kings.

30 Then king Artaxerxes his letters being read, Rathumus, and Semellius the ſcribe, and the reſt that were in commiſſion with them removing in haſte towards Jeruſalem with a troop of horſemen, and a multitude of people in battle array, began to hinder the builders; and the building of the temple in Jeruſalem ceaſed, until the ſecond year of the reign of Darius king of the Perſians.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 In the firſt year of Cyrus king of the Perſians, &c.) Cyrus ſucceeded Cambyſes in the kingdom of Perſia, and Darius the Mede in the kingdom of the Medes and empire of Babylon. The prophets had frequently foretold the coming of Cyrus, and Iſaiah had been ſo particular as to declare his name above a century before he was born. Joſephus tells us, that the Jews of Babylon ſhewed this paſſage of the prophet to Cyrus, and that this prince, in the edict he granted for their return, acknowledged that he received the empire of the world from the God of Iſrael; and that the ſame God had deſcribed him by name in the writing of the prophets, and foretold that he ſhould build a temple to him at Jeruſalem.

13 Two thouſand four hundred and ten, &c.) The number mentioned in the canonical book of Ezra is only four hundred and ten. See Ezra i. 10.

CHAP. III.

4 Three ſtrive to excel each other in wiſe ſpeeches: 9 they refer themſelves to the judgment of the king. 18 The firſt declareth the ſtrength of wine.

NOW, when Darius reigned, he made a great feaſt unto all his ſubjects, and unto all his houſehold, and unto all the princes of Media and Perſia,

2 And to all the governors, and captains, and lieutenants, that were under him, from India unto Ethiopia, of an hundred twenty and ſeven provinces.

3 And when they had eaten and drunken, and being ſatisfied were gone home, then Darius the king went into his bed-chamber and ſlept; and ſoon after awaked.

4 ¶ Then three young men, that were of the guard that kept the king's body, ſpake one to another,

5 Let every one of us ſpeak a ſentence: he that ſhall overcome, and whoſe ſentence ſhall ſeem wiſer than the others, unto him ſhall the king Darius give great gifts, and great things, in token of victory;

6 As, to be clothed in purple, to drink in gold, and to ſleep upon gold, and a chariot with bridles of gold, and an head-tire of fine linen, and a chain about his neck.

7 And he ſhall ſit next to Darius becauſe of his wiſdom, and ſhall be called Darius his couſin.

8 And then every one wrote his ſentence, ſealed it, and laid it under king Darius his pillow.

9 ¶ And ſaid, that, when the king is riſen, ſome will give him the writings; and of whoſe ſide the king and the three princes of Perſia ſhall judge that his ſentence is the wiſeſt, to him ſhall the victory be given, as was appointed.

10 The firſt wrote, Wine is the ſtrongeſt.

11 The ſecond wrote, The king is the ſtrongeſt.

12 The third wrote, Women are ſtrongeſt; but, above all things truth beareth away the victory.

13 Now, when the king was riſen up, they took their writings and delivered them unto him, and ſo he read them.

14 And ſending forth, he called all the princes of Perſia and Media, and the governors, and the captains, and the lieutenants, and the chief officers.

15 And ſat him down in the royal ſeat of judgment; and the writings were read before them.

16 And he ſaid, Call the young men, and they ſhall declare their own ſentences. So they were called, and came in.

17 And he ſaid unto them, Declare unto us your mind concerning the writings. Then began the firſt, who had ſpoken of the ſtrength of wine:

18 ¶ And he ſaid thus, O ye men, how exceeding ſtrong is wine: it cauſeth all men to err that drink it.

19 It maketh the mind of the king and of the fatherleſs child to be all one; of the bond-man and of the free-man, of the poor man and of the rich;

20 It turneth alſo every thought into jollity and mirth, ſo that a man remembereth neither ſorrow nor debt:

21 And it maketh every heart rich, ſo that a man remembereth neither king nor governor: and it maketh to ſpeak all things by talents:

22 And when they are in their cups, they forget their love both to friends and brethren, and a little after draw out ſwords:

23 But when they are from the wine, they remember not what they have done.

24 O ye men, is not wine the ſtrongeſt, that enforceth to do thus? And when he had ſo ſpoken he held his peace.

CHAP. IV.

1 The ſecond declareth the power of a king: 13 The third the force of women, &c.

THEN the ſecond, that had ſpoken of the ſtrength of the king, began to ſay,

2 O ye men, do not men excel in ſtrength that bear rule over the ſea and land, and all things in them?

3 But yet the king is more mighty; for he is lord of all theſe things, and hath dominion over them, and whatſoever he commandeth them, they do:

4 If he bid them make war one againſt the other, they do it: if he ſend them out againſt the enemies, they go, and break down mountains, walls, and towers.

5 They ſlay and are ſlain, and tranſgreſs not the king's commandment: if they get the victory, they bring all to the king, as well the ſpoil, as all things elſe.

6 Likewiſe for thoſe that are no ſoldiers, and have not to do with wars, but uſe huſbandry, when they have reaped again that which they had ſown, they bring it to the king, and compel one another to pay tribute unto the king.

7 And yet he is but one man: if he command to kill, they kill; if he command to ſpare, they ſpare:

8 If he command to ſmite, they ſmite; if he command to make deſolate, they make deſolate; if he command to build, they build:

9 If he command to cut down, they cut down; if he command to plant, they plant.

10 So all his people and his armies obey him; furthermore, he lieth down, he eateth and drinketh, and taketh his reſt:

11 And theſe keep (watch) round about him; neither may any one depart, and do his own buſineſs, neither diſobey they him in any thing.

12 O ye men, how ſhould not the king be mightieſt, when in ſuch ſort he is obeyed? And he held his tongue.

13 Then the third, who had ſpoken of women and of the truth (this was Zorobabel) began to ſpeak.

14 O ye men, it is not the great king, nor the multitude of men, neither is it wine that excelleth; who is it then that ruleth them, or hath the lordſhip over them? are they not women?

15 Women have born the king and all the people, that bear rule by ſea and land.

16 Even of them came they: and they nouriſhed them up that planted the vineyards from whence the wine cometh.

17 Theſe alſo make garments for men, theſe bring glory unto men; and without women cannot men be.

18 Yea, and if men have gathered together gold and ſilver, or any other goodly thing, do they not love a woman which is comely in favour and beauty?

19 And letting all thoſe things go, do they not gape, and even with open mouth fix their eyes faſt on her; and have not all men more deſire unto her than unto ſilver or gold, or any goodly thing whatſoever?

20 A man leaveth his own father that brought him up, and his own country, and cleaveth unto his wife.

21 He ſticketh not to ſpend his life with his wife, and remembereth neither father, nor mother, nor country.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

4 Then three young men that were of the guard, &c.) Joſephus has given a large account of this tranſaction, in which are ſeveral particulars not mentioned by the author of the book of Eſdras, but too long to be inſerted here.

10 The firſt wrote, Wine is the ſtrongeſt.) Joſephus tells us that the queſtions, recorded in this and the two following verſes, were propoſed by Darius himſelf to three of his body-guards, promiſing, at the ſame time, a reward to him who ſhould make the wiſeſt and trueſt anſwer.

22 By this alſo ye muſt know, that women have dominion over you: do ye not labour and toil, and give and bring all to the woman?

23 Yea, a man taketh his ſword, and goeth his way to rob and to ſteal, to ſail upon the ſea and upon rivers;

24 And looketh upon a lion, and goeth in the darkneſs; and when he hath ſtolen, ſpoiled and robbed, he bringeth it to his love.

25 Wherefore a man loveth his wife better than father and mother.

26 Yea, many there be that have run out of their wits for women, and become ſervants for their ſakes.

27 Many alſo have periſhed, have erred, and ſinned for women.

28 And now do ye not believe me? is not the king great in his power? do not all regions fear to touch him?

29 Yet did I ſee him and Apame the king's concubine, the daughter of the admirable Bartacus, ſitting at the right hand of the king,

30 And taking the crown from the king's head, and ſetting it upon her own head; ſhe alſo ſtruck the king with her left hand.

31 And yet, for all this the king gaped and gazed upon her with open mouth: if ſhe laughed upon him, he laughed alſo; but if ſhe took any diſpleaſure at him, the king was fain to flatter that ſhe might be reconciled to him again.

32 O ye men, how can it be but women ſhould be ſtrong, ſeeing they do thus?

33 Then the king and the princes looked one upon another: ſo he began to ſpeak of the truth.

34 O ye men, are not women ſtrong? great is the earth, high is the heaven, ſwift is the ſun in his courſe, for he compaſſeth the heavens round about, and fetcheth his courſe again to his own place in one day.

35 Is he not great that maketh theſe things? therefore great is the truth, and ſtronger than all things.

36 All the earth calleth upon the truth, and the heaven bleſſeth it; all works ſhake and tremble at it, and with it is no unrighteous thing.

37 Wine is wicked, the king is wicked, women are wicked, all the children of men are wicked, and ſuch are all their wicked works, and there is no truth in them; in their unrighteouſneſs alſo they ſhall periſh.

38 As for the truth it endureth, and is always ſtrong; it liveth and conquereth for evermore.

39 With her there is no accepting of perſons or rewards; but ſhe doeth the things that are juſt, and refraineth from all unjuſt and wicked things, and all men do well like of her works.

40 Neither in her judgment is any unrighteouſneſs; and ſhe is the ſtrength, kingdom, power and majeſty, of all ages. Bleſſed be the God of truth.

41 And with that he held his peace. And all the people then ſhouted, and ſaid, Great is truth, and mighty above all things.

42 Then ſaid the king unto him, Aſk what thou wilt more than is appointed in the writing, and we will give it thee, becauſe thou art found wiſeſt; and thou ſhalt ſit next me, and ſhalt be called my couſin.

43 Then ſaid he unto the king, Remember thy vow which thou haſt vowed, to build Jeruſalem, in the day when thou cameſt to thy kingdom;

44 And to ſend away all the veſſels that were taken away out of Jeruſalem, which Cyrus ſet apart, when he vowed to deſtroy Babylon, and to ſend them again thither.

45 Thou alſo haſt vowed to build up the temple which the Edomites burnt, when Judea was made deſolate by the Chaldees.

46 And now, O lord the king, this is that which I require, and which I deſire of thee, and this is the princely liberality proceeding from thyſelf: I deſire, therefore that thou make good the vow, the performance whereof, with thine own mouth, thou haſt vowed to the King of heaven.

47 Then Darius the king ſtood up, and kiſſed him, and wrote letters for him unto all the treaſurers, and lieutenants, and captains, and governors, that they ſhould ſafely convey on their way both him, and all thoſe that go up with him to build Jeruſalem.

48 He wrote letters alſo unto the lieutenants that were in Celoſyria and Phenice, and unto them in Libanus, that they ſhould bring cedar-wood from Libanus unto Jeruſalem, and that they ſhould build the city with him.

49 Moreover, he wrote for all the Jews that went out of his realm up into Jewry, concerning their freedom, that no officer, no ruler, no lieutenant, nor treaſurer, ſhould forcibly enter into their doors;

50 And that all the country which they hold, ſhould be free without tribute; and that the Edomites ſhould give over the villages of the Jews, which then they held:

51 Yea, that there ſhould be yearly given twenty talents to the building of the temple, until the time that it were built;

52 And other ten talents yearly, to maintain the burnt-offerings upon the altar every day (as they had a commandment to offer ſeventeen)

53 And that all they that went from Babylon to build the city, ſhould have free liberty, as well they as their poſterity, and all the prieſts that went away.

54 He wrote alſo concerning the charges, and the prieſts' veſtments wherein they miniſter;

55 And likewiſe for the charges of the Levites, to be given them, until the day that the houſe were finiſhed, and Jeruſalem builded up.

56 And he commanded to give to all that kept the city, penſions and wages.

57 He ſent away alſo all the veſſels from Babylon that Cyrus had ſet apart, and all that Cyrus had given in commandment, the ſame charged he alſo to be done, and ſent unto Jeruſalem.

58 Now when this young man was gone forth, he lifted up his face to heaven towards Jeruſalem, and praiſed the King of heaven,

59 And ſaid, From thee cometh victory, from thee cometh wiſdom, and thine is the glory, and I am thy ſervant.

60 Bleſſed art thou who haſt given me wiſdom: for to thee I give thanks, O Lord of our fathers.

61 And ſo he took the letters, and went out, and came unto Babylon, and told it all his brethren.

62 And they praiſed the God of their fathers, becauſe he had given them freedom and liberty

63 To go up and to build Jeruſalem, and the temple which is called by his name: and they feaſted with inſtruments of muſic and gladneſs ſeven days.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

34, 35 O ye men, &c.) Joſephus tells us, that Zorobabel reaſoned on truth in the following manner:—"I have already ſhewn the great power of women; yet both they and a king are very weak when oppoſed to truth; for the earth is large, and the heaven is high, and the ſun ſwift in his courſe; and all theſe are moved by the will of the Almighty, who is truth and righteouſneſs, and againſt whom no iniquity can prevail. Many things which ſeem ſtrong and powerful, are not permanent; they are ſubject to decay: but truth is eternal, and flouriſheth for ever. Truth beſtows upon us things not liable to be corrupted by time, or ſuch riches as fortune cannot take away; juſtice and equity are the gifts of truth, and by theſe we diſcern good from evil, and direct our way by their precepts."

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

1 After this were the principal men of the families choſen, &c.) This chapter contains the names and number of the Jews who returned from the Babyloniſh captivity; but the catalogue differs in many places from that given us in the canonical books of Ezra and Nehemiah.

41 So of Iſrael, from them of twelve years old and upward, they were all in number forty thouſand, beſides men-ſervants and women ſervants, two thouſand three hundred and ſixty.

42 Their men-ſervants and handmaids were ſeven thouſand three hundred forty and ſeven: the ſinging-men and ſinging-women, two hundred forty and five.

43 Four hundred thirty and five camels, ſeven thouſand thirty and ſix horſes, two hundred forty and five mules, five thouſand five hundred twenty and five beaſts uſed to the yoke.

44 And certain of the chief of their families, when they came to the temple of God that is in Jeruſalem, vowed to ſet up the houſe again in his own place, according to their ability,

45 And to give into the holy treaſury of the works a thouſand pounds of gold, five thouſand of ſilver, and an hundred prieſtly veſtments.

46 And ſo dwelt the prieſts and the Levites, and the people, in Jeruſalem, and in the country: the ſingers alſo and the porters, and all Iſrael in their villages.

47 But when the ſeventh month was at hand, and when the children of Iſrael were every man in his own place, they came altogether with one conſent into the open place of the firſt gate which is towards the eaſt.

48 Then ſtood up Jeſus the ſon of Joſedec, and his brethren the prieſts, and Zorobabel the ſon of Salathiel, and his brethren, and made ready the altar of the God of Iſrael, 49 To offer burnt-ſacrifices upon it, according as it is expreſsly commanded in the book of Moſes the man of God.

50 ¶ And there were gathered unto them out of the other nations of the land, and they erected the altar upon his own place, becauſe all the nations of the land were at enmity with them, and oppreſſed them; and they offered ſacrifices according to the time, and burnt-offerings to the Lord both morning and evening.

51 Alſo they held the feaſt of tabernacles, as it is commanded in the law, and offered ſacrifices daily, as was meet:

52 And after that, the continual oblations, and the ſacrifice of the ſabbaths, and of the new-moons, and of all holy feaſts.

53 And all they that had made any vow to God, began to offer ſacrifices to God from the firſt day of the ſeventh month, although the temple of the Lord was not yet built.

54 And they gave unto the maſons and carpenters money meat and drink, with cheerfulneſs.

55 Unto them of Zidon alſo and Tyre they gave carrs, that they ſhould bring cedar-trees from Libanus, which ſhould be brought by floats to the haven of Joppe, according as it was commanded them by Cyrus king of the Perſians.

56 And in the ſecond year and ſecond month, after his coming to the temple of God at Jeruſalem, began Zorobabel the ſon of Salathiel, and Jeſus the ſon of Joſedec, and their brethren, and the prieſts, and the Levites, and all they that were come unto Jeruſalem out of the captivity:

57 And they laid the foundation of the houſe of God in the firſt day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year after they were come to Jewry and Jeruſalem.

58 And they appointed the Levites, from twenty years old, over the works of the Lord. Then ſtood up Jeſus and his ſons and brethren, and Cadmiel his brother, and the ſon of Mediabun, with the ſons of Joda the ſon of Eliadun, with their ſons and brethren, all Levites, with one accord ſetters forward of the buſineſs, labouring to advance the works in the houſe of God. So the workmen built the temple of the Lord.

59 And the prieſts ſtood arrayed in their veſtments, with muſical inſtruments and trumpets, and the Levites the ſons of Aſaph had cymbals, 60 Singing ſongs of thankſgiving, and praiſing the Lord, according as David the king of Iſrael had ordained.

61 And they ſung with loud voices ſongs to the praiſe of the Lord: becauſe his mercy and glory is for ever in all Iſrael.

62 And all the people ſounded trumpets, and ſhouted with a loud voice, ſinging ſongs of thankſgiving unto the Lord, for the rearing up of the houſe of the Lord.

63 Alſo of the prieſts and Levites, and of the chief of their families, the ancients, who had ſeen the former houſe, came to the building of this with weeping and great crying.

64 But many, with trumpets and joy, ſhouted with loud voice,

65 Inſomuch that the trumpets might not be heard for the weeping of the people: yet the multitude ſounded marvelloufly, ſo that it was heard afar off:

66 ¶ Wherefore, when the enemies of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin heard it, they came to know what the noiſe of trumpets ſhould mean.

67 And they perceived that they that were of the captivity did build the temple unto the Lord God of Iſrael.

68 So they went to Zorobabel and Jeſus, and to the chief of the families, and ſaid unto them, We will build together with you:

69 For we likewiſe, as you, do obey your Lord, and do ſacrifice unto him from the days of Azbazareth the king of the Aſſyrians, who brought us hither.

70 Then Zorobabel and Jeſus, and the chief of the families of Iſrael, ſaid unto them, It is not for us and you to build together an houſe unto the Lord our God.

71 We ourſelves alone will build unto the Lord of Iſrael, according as Cyrus the king of the Perſians hath commanded us.

72 But the heathen of the land, lying heavy upon the inhabitants of Judea, and holding them ſtrait hindered their building:

73 And by their ſecret plots, and popular perſuaſions and commotions, they hindered the finiſhing of the building all the time that king Cyrus lived: ſo they were hindered from building for the ſpace of two years, until the reign of Darius.

---

56 And in the ſecond year, &c.) Joſephus gives us the following account of this tranſaction:—"In the ſeventh month after their departure from Babylon, Jeſus the high prieſt, and Zorobabel the prince, ſent meſſengers round the adjacent countries, to aſſemble the whole nation at Jeruſalem. They obeyed the ſummons with great alacrity, and erected an altar on the very ſpot where it had ſtood before the captivity, with a reſolution to perform ſacrifices thereon to God, according to the law of Moſes; but while they were intent upon this good deſign, the neighbouring nations, who were their inveterate enemies, were incenſed againſt them. They alſo celebrated the feaſt of tabernacles as Moſes appointed, and offered up their daily oblations and burnt-ſacrifices, their ſacrifice of ſabbaths, and obſerved all their other feſtivals; and they who performed their vows, made them at the ſacrifice of the new moon of the ſeventh month. Moreover, they ſat about building the temple, beſtowing large ſums of money upon maſons and ſmiths, and furniſhing the people who brought materials with proviſions; for the Sidonians very readily felled cedars, and brought them from mount Libanus, and conveyed thence by ſea to the haven of Joppe; for Cyrus had given this command, and Darius now ordered it to be put in execution.

CHAP. VI.

1 The people ſtirred up to build the temple. 8 Darius is ſolicited to hinder it, &c.

NOW in the ſecond year of the reign of Darius, Aggeus, and Zacharias the ſon of Addo, the prophets, propheſied unto the Jews in Jewry and Jeruſalem, in the name of the Lord God of Iſrael, which was upon them.

2 Then ſtood up Zorobabel the ſon of Salathiel, and Jeſus the ſon of Joſedec, and began to build the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem, the prophets of the Lord being with them, and helping them.

3 At the ſame time came unto them Siſinnes the governor of Syria and Phenice, with Sathrabuzanes, and his companions, and ſaid unto them,

4 By whoſe appointment do you build this houſe and this roof, and perform all the other things? and who are the workmen that perform theſe things?

5 Nevertheleſs, the elders of the Jews obtained favour, becauſe the Lord had viſited the captivity.

6 And they were not hindered from building until ſuch time as ſignification was given unto Darius concerning them, and an anſwer received.

7 The copy of the letters which Siſinnes governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions, rulers in Syria and Phenice, wrote and ſent unto Darius; To king Darius, greeting:

8 Let all things be known unto our lord the king, that being come into the country of Judea, and entered into the city of Jeruſalem, we found in the city of Jeruſalem the ancients of the Jews, that were of the captivity,

9 Building an houſe unto the Lord, great and new, of hewn and coſtly ſtones, and the timber already laid upon the walls.

10 And thoſe works are done with great ſpeed, and the work goeth on proſperouſly in their hands, and with all glory and diligence is it made.

11 Then aſked we theſe elders, ſaying, By whoſe commandment build ye this houſe, and lay the foundations of theſe works?

12 Therefore, to the intent that we might give knowledge unto thee by writing, we demanded of them who were the chief doers, and we required of them the names in writing of their principal men.

13 So they gave us this anſwer, We are the ſervants of the Lord, which made heaven and earth.

14 And as for this houſe, it was builded many years ago by a king of Iſrael, great and ſtrong, and was finiſhed.

15 But when our fathers provoked God unto wrath, and ſinned againſt the Lord of Iſrael, which is in heaven, he gave them over into the power of Nabuchodonoſor king of Babylon, of the Chaldees:

16 Who pulled down the houſe, and burnt it, and carried away the people captives unto Babylon.

17 But in the firſt year that king Cyrus reigned over the country of Babylon, Cyrus the king wrote to build up this houſe.

18 And the holy veſſels of gold and of ſilver, that Nabuchodonoſor had carried away out of the houſe at Jeruſalem, and had ſet them in his own temple, thoſe Cyrus the king brought forth again out of the temple at Babylon, and they were delivered to Zorobabel, and to Sanabaſſarus the ruler,

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

3 At the ſame time came unto them, &c.) Joſephus ſets this whole affair in a very clear light, and therefore it will be proper to inſert it here, in order to illuſtrate this part of the hiſtory. "The Samaritans being refuſed, by Zorobabel, the liberty of joining with the Jews in building the temple, were highly offended, and perſuaded the nations of Syria, and the governors over them, to oppoſe the Jews in their vigorous endeavours to build the temple, as they had done before during the reigns of Cyrus and Cambyſes. And about this time, Siſinnes the governor of Syria and Phœnecia, and Sarabazanes, with ſome others, went up to Jeruſalem, and demanded of the prince of the Jews, by whoſe permiſſion they preſumed to build the temple, in a manner that it had much more the appearance of a tower of ſtrength than a place of worſhip; and what was their reaſon for ſurrounding the city with ſuch ſtrong ramparts and walls? To this Zorobabel and Jeſus anſwered, They were ſervants of the Moſt High God; and that the temple, formerly built by their happieſt and wiſeſt king, had for ſeveral ages remained ſecure: but that, for the tranſgreſſion of their forefathers againſt God, Nebuchodonoſor, the king of Babylon and Chaldea, after he had ſacked the city, entirely demoliſhed it, and, having riffled the temple, burnt it, carrying the people into captivity to Babylon, transferring many of them to other habitations. Yet Cyrus, his ſucceſſor in the Babylonian and Perſian kingdoms, had written a letter, commanding the temple to be rebuilt, and had given to Zorobabel, and Mithridates his treaſurer, ſeveral donations, together with all the veſſels which Nebuchodonoſor had taken from thence, in order to their being carried to Jeruſalem, and placed in the new temple; for he had given orders to uſe the utmoſt diſpatch in carrying on the building, and commanded Abeſſaras to go up to Jeruſalem, and be very diligent in erecting it; who, on receiving the letter, immediately repaired thither, and laid the foundations. Since which time the building hath been carried on, but never finiſhed, becauſe of the malice and hatred of our enemies. If therefore you are deſirous of knowing the truth, write the very words we have now uttered to Darius, that ſearch may be made in his records, and he himſelf made ſenſible that nothing we have now declared is falſe, or not authentic.

This anſwer of Zorobabel and the high prieſt ſatisfied Siſinnes and his followers; ſo that they ſuffered the Jews to continue their work, but wrote to Darius an account of the whole affair. In the mean time the Jews were extremely terrified, and had ſtrong apprehenſions, leſt Darius ſhould repent the leave he had granted the Jews to rebuild the temple. But the two prophets Aggeus and Zacharias, who were at that time among the people, deſired them to entertain the moſt pleaſing hopes, and not dread any wrong or injuſtice from the Perſians; for God had commanded them to deliver this prophecy. This encouragement ſupported them, and they once more very diligently reſumed the building, and loſt not a ſingle day through negligence.

But Darius, on receiving a letter of accuſation from the Samaritans, in which they repreſented the Jews as fortifying their city, and erecting a temple more like a ſtrong tower than a place of worſhip, together with the letters of Cambyſes, wherein he had forbidden the temple to be rebuilt, concluded that the labours of the Jews foreboded no good to his own affairs. He however ſuſpended his thoughts, 'till he had received the letter from Siſinnes and his colleagues, when he ordered a ſearch to be made among the royal records at Ecbatana, a tower in Media, where was found a regiſter-book, in which the following words were written:—"In the firſt year of his reign, king Cyrus commanded the temple and altar at Jeruſalem to be rebuilt, and to make its height and breadth ſixty cubits each, and to conſiſt of three partitioned walls of poliſhed ſtone, and one partition of the wood of the country; and that the expence ſhould be defrayed out of his treaſury. He likewiſe commanded all the veſſels, which Nebuchodonoſor had taken away and carried to Babylon, to be returned to Jeruſalem, giving the charge of them to Abeſſarus his governor, and to his preſident of Syria and Phœnicia, and his colleagues, whom he ſtrictly enjoined to refrain from injuring the Jews, and from oppoſing them in building the temple. He alſo commanded them to aſſiſt the Jews in their work, and to lay a tax on the province they governed, to ſupply them with bulls, rams, lambs, and kids; barley, oil, wine, and all other things the prieſts might have occaſion for in their ſacrifices, or at the times they offered up their prayers to God for the preſervation of the king and the Perſians. But that whoſoever ſhould diſregard his command in any particular, he ordered him to be apprehended and crucified, and his goods confiſcated to the royal treaſury. And laſtly, he ſolemnly prayed God to ſtrike that perſon dead for his impiety, who ſhould preſume to hinder the building of the temple."

When Darius had found theſe things mentioned in the records of Cyrus, he wrote to Siſinnes and his colleagues, to the following effect:—"Darius the king of Siſinnes, maſter of the horſe, and to Sarabazanes, and their colleagues, greeting: I have ſent you copies of the letters which I have found among the records of Cyrus, and I will and require you to act conformable to every article contained therein. Farewell."—From this letter, Siſinnes and his companions gathered the pleaſure and inclination of the king, and reſolved to perform it at a convenient time.

19 With

19 With commandment, that he ſhould carry away the ſame veſſels, and put them in the temple at Jeruſalem; and that the temple of the Lord ſhould be built in his place.

20 Then the ſame Sanabaſſarus, being come hither, laid the foundations of the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem; and from that time to this, being ſtill a building, it is not yet fully ended

21 Now therefore if it ſeem good unto the king, let ſearch be made among the records of king Cyrus:

22 And if it be found that the building of the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem hath been done with the conſent of king Cyrus, and if our lord the king be ſo minded, let him ſignify unto us thereof.

23 ¶ Then commanded king Darius to ſeek among the records at Babylon and ſo at Ecbatana the palace, which is in the country of Media, there was found a roll wherein theſe things were recorded.

24 In the firſt year of the reign of Cyrus, king Cyrus commanded that the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem ſhould be built again, where they do ſacrifice with continual fire:

25 Whoſe height ſhall be ſixty cubits, and the breadth ſixty cubits, with three rows of hewn ſtones, and one row of new wood of that country; and the expences thereof to be given out of the houſe of king Cyrus:

26 And that the holy veſſels of the houſe of the Lord, both of gold and ſilver, that Nabuchodonoſor took out of the houſe at Jeruſalem, and brought to Babylon, ſhould be reſtored to the houſe at Jeruſalem, and be ſet in the place where they were before.

27 And alſo he commanded, that Siſinnes the governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, and their companions, and thoſe which were appointed rulers in Syria and Phenice, ſhould be careful not to meddle with the place, but ſuffer Zorobabel the ſervant of the Lord, and governor of Judea, and the elders of the Jews, to build the houſe of the Lord in that place.

28 I have commanded alſo, to have it built up whole again; and that they look diligently to help thoſe that be of the captivity of the Jews, till the houſe of the Lord be finiſhed.

29 And out of the tribute of Celoſyria and Phenice, a portion carefully to be given theſe men, for the ſacrifices of the Lord, that is, to Zorobabel the governor, for bullocks, and rams, and lambs:

30 And alſo corn, ſalt, wine, and oil, and that continually every year without further queſtion, according as the prieſts that be in Jeruſalem ſhall ſignify to be daily ſpent:

31 That offerings may be made to the moſt high God, for the king, and for his children, and that they may pray for their lives:

32 And he commanded that whoſoever ſhould tranſgreſs, yea, or make light of any thing afore ſpoken or written, out of his own houſe ſhould a tree be taken, and he thereon be hanged, and all his goods ſeized for the king.

33 The Lord therefore, whoſe name is there called upon, utterly deſtroy every king and nation that ſtretcheth out his hand to hinder or endamage that houſe of the Lord in Jeruſalem.

34 I Darius the king have ordained, that according unto theſe things it be done with diligence.

CHAP. VII.

1 Siſinnes and others help forward the building. 5 The temple is finiſhed and dedicated.

THEN Siſinnes the governor of Celoſyria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions, following the commandments of king Darius,

2 Did very carefully overſee the holy works, aſſiſting the ancients of the Jews, and governors of the temple.

3 And ſo the holy works proſpered, when Aggeus and Zacharias the prophets propheſied.

4 And they finiſhed theſe things by the commandment of the Lord God of Iſrael, and with the conſent of Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes, kings of Perſia.

5 ¶ And thus was the holy houſe finiſhed in the three and twentieth day of the month Adar, in the ſixth year of Darius king of the Perſians.

6 And the children of Iſrael, the prieſts and the Levites, and others that were of the captivity, that were added unto them, did according to the things written in the book of Moſes.

7 And to the dedication of the temple of the Lord, they offered an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs;

8 And twelve goats, for the ſin of all Iſrael, according to the number of the chief of the tribes of Iſrael.

9 The prieſts alſo and the Levites ſtood arrayed in their veſtments, according to their kindreds, in the ſervice of the Lord God of Iſrael, according to the book of Moſes: and the porters at every gate.

10 And the children of Iſrael, that were of the captivity, held the paſſover the fourteenth day of the firſt month, after that the prieſts and the Levites were ſanctified.

11 They that were of the captivity, were not all ſanctified together, but the Levites were all ſanctified together.

12 And ſo they offered the paſſover for all them of the captivity, and for their brethren the prieſts, and for themſelves.

13 And the children of Iſrael that came out of the captivity did eat, even all they that had ſeparated themſelves from the abominations of the people of the land, and ſought the Lord.

14 And they kept the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven days, making merry before the Lord;

15 For that he had turned the counſel of the king of Aſſyria towards them, to ſtrengthen their hands in the works of the Lord God of Iſrael.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Eſdras bringeth the king's commiſſion to build. 8 The copy of it.

AND after theſe things, when Artaxerxes the king of the Perſians reigned, came Eſdras the ſon of Saraias, the ſon of Ezerias, the ſon of Helchiah, the the ſon of Salum,

2 The ſon of Sadduc, the ſon of Achitob, the ſon of Amarias, the ſon of Ezias, the ſon of Meremoth, the ſon of Zaraias, the ſon of Savias, the ſon of Boccas, the ſon of Abiſum, the ſon of Phinees, the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the chief prieſt.

3 This Eſdras went up from Babylon as a ſcribe, being very ready in the law of Moſes that was given by the God of Iſrael.

Commentary on Chap. VII.

4 And they finiſhed theſe, &c.) The enemies of the Jews, finding that Darius would be obeyed, aſſiſted the Jews in building the temple, which was accordingly finiſhed, and dedicated with great ſolemnity.

9 According to their kindreds, &c.) Or rather, according to their diviſions, See Ezra vi. 18.

4 And the king did him honour: for he found grace in his ſight in all his requeſts.

5 There went up with him alſo certain of the children of Iſrael, of the prieſts, of the Levites, of the holy ſingers, porters, and miniſters of the temple, unto Jeruſalem,

6 In the ſeventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes, in the fifth month (this was the king's ſeventh year) for they went from Babylon in the firſt day of the firſt month, and came to Jeruſalem, according to the proſperous journey which the Lord gave them.

7 For Eſdras had very great ſkill, ſo that he omitted nothing of the law and commandments of the Lord, but taught all Iſrael the ordinances and judgments.

8 ¶ Now the copy of the commiſſion which was written from Artaxerxes the king, and came to Eſdras the prieſt, and reader of the law of the Lord, is this that followeth:

9 King Artaxerxes unto Eſdras the prieſt, and reader of the law of the Lord, ſendeth greeting:

10 Having determined to deal graciouſly, I have given order, that ſuch of the nation of the Jews, and of the prieſts and Levites, being within our realm, as are willing and deſirous, ſhould go with thee unto Jeruſalem.

11 As many therefore as have a mind thereunto, let them depart with thee, as it hath ſeemed good both to me and my ſeven friends the counſellors;

12 That they may look unto the affairs of Judea and Jeruſalem, agreeably to that which is in the law of the Lord;

13 And carry the gifts unto the Lord of Iſrael to Jeruſalem, which I and my friends have vowed, and all the gold and ſilver that in the country of Babylon can be found, to the Lord in Jeruſalem,

14 With that alſo which is given of the people for the temple of the Lord their God at Jeruſalem: and that ſilver and gold may be collected for bullocks, rams, and lambs, and things thereunto appertaining:

15 To the end that they may offer ſacrifices unto the Lord upon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Jeruſalem.

16 And whatſoever thou and thy brethren will do with the ſilver and gold, that do, according to the will of thy God.

17 And the holy veſſels of the Lord, which are given thee for the uſe of the temple of thy God, which is in Jeruſalem, thou ſhalt ſet before thy God in Jeruſalem.

18 And whatſoever thing elſe thou ſhalt remember, for the uſe of the temple of thy God, thou ſhalt give it out of the king's treaſury.

19 And I king Artaxerxes have alſo commanded the keepers of the treaſures in Syria and Phenice, that whatſoever Eſdras the prieſt and the reader of the law of the moſt high God ſhall ſend for, they ſhould give it him with ſpeed,

20 To the ſum of an hundred talents of ſilver, likewiſe alſo of wheat, even to an hundred cors, and an hundred pieces of wine, and other things in abundance.

21 Let all things be performed after the law of God diligently unto the moſt high God, that wrath come not upon the kingdom of the king, and his ſons.

22 I command you alſo, that ye require no tax, nor any other impoſition, of any of the prieſts or Levites, or holy ſingers, or porters, or miniſters of the temple, or of any that have doings in this temple, and that no man have authority to impoſe any thing upon them.

23 And thou, Eſdras, according to the wiſdom of God, ordain judges and juſtices, that they may judge in all Syria and Phenice, all thoſe that know the law of thy God; and thoſe that know it not, thou ſhalt teach.

24 And whoſoever ſhall tranſgreſs the law of thy God, and of the king, ſhall be puniſhed diligently, whether it be by death, or other puniſhment, by penalty of money, or by impriſonment.

25 Then ſaid Eſdras the ſcribe, Bleſſed be the only Lord God of my fathers, who hath put theſe things into the heart of the king, to glorify his houſe that is in Jeruſalem;

26 And hath honoured me in the ſight of the king and his counſellors, and all his friends, and nobles.

27 Therefore was I encouraged by the help of the Lord my God, and gathered together men of Iſrael to go up with me.

28 And theſe are the chief, according to their families and ſeveral dignities, that went up with me from Babylon in the reign of king Artaxerxes:

29 Of the ſons of Phinees, Gerſon: of the ſons of Ithamar, Gamael: of the ſons of David, Lettus the ſon of Sechenias:

30 Of the ſons of Pharez, Zacharias; and with him were counted an hundred and fifty men:

31 Of the ſons of Pahath-moab, Eliaonias the ſon of Zaraias, and with him two hundred men:

32 Of the ſons of Zathoe, Sechenias the ſon of Jezelus, and with him three hundred men: of the ſons of Adin, Obeth the ſon of Jonathan, and with him two hundred and fifty men:

33 Of the ſons of Elam, Joſias ſon of Gotholias, and with him ſeventy men:

34 Of the ſons of Saphatias, Zarias ſon of Michael, and with him threeſcore and ten men:

35 Of the ſons of Joab, Abadias ſon of Jezelus, and with him two hundred and twelve men:

36 Of the ſons of Banid, Aſſalimoth ſon of Joſaphias, and with him an hundred and threeſcore men:

37 Of the ſons of Babi, Zacharias ſon of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight men:

38 Of the ſons of Aſtath, Johannes ſon of Acatan, and with him an hundred and ten men:

39 Of the ſons of Adonikam the laſt, and theſe are the names of them, Eliphalet, Jeuel, and Samaias, and with them ſeventy men:

40 Of the ſons of Bago, Uthi the ſon of Iſtalcurus, and with him ſeventy men.

41 And theſe I gathered together to the river called Theras, where we pitched our tents three days; and then I ſurveyed them.

42 But when I had found there none of the prieſts and Levites,

48 Then ſent I unto Eleazar, and Iduel, and Maſman,

44 And Alnathan, and Mamaias, and Joribas, and Nathan, Eunatan, Zacharias, and Moſollamon, principal men and learned.

45 And I bade them, that they ſhould go unto Saddeus the captain, who was in the place of the treaſury;

46 And commanded them, that they ſhould ſpeak unto Daddeus, and to his brethren, and to the treaſurers in that place, to ſend us ſuch men as might execute the prieſts' office in the houſe of the Lord.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

20 Even to an hundred cors, &c.) Cors is a Chaldaic word, and ſignifies meaſures. See Ezra vii. 22.

41 To the river called Theras, &c.) Or the river called Ahavah. See Ezra viii. 15.

41, 42 And then I ſurveyed them. &c.) Or rather, numbered the people and the prieſts, but found none of the ſons of Levi.

47 And

47 And by the mighty hand of our Lord they brought unto us ſkilful men of the ſons of Moli the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael, Aſebebia, and his ſons and his brethren, who were eighteen.

48 And Aſebia, and Annuus, and Oſaias his brother, of the ſons of Channuneus, and their ſons, were twenty men.

49 And of the ſervants of the temple whom David had ordained, and the principal men for the ſervice of the Levites, (to wit,) the ſervants of the temple, two hundred and twenty, the catalogue of whoſe names were ſhewed.

50 And there I vowed a faſt unto the young men before our Lord, to deſire of him a proſperous journey, both for us and them that were with us, for our children, and for the cattle;

51 For I was aſhamed to aſk the king footmen and horſemen, and conduct for ſafeguard againſt our adverſaries.

52 For we had ſaid unto the king, that the power of the Lord our God ſhould be with them that ſeek him, to ſupport them in all ways.

53 And again we beſought our Lord as touching theſe things, and found him favourable unto us.

54 Then I ſeparated twelve of the chief of the prieſts, Eſebrias, and Aſſanias, and ten men of their brethren with them.

55 And I weighed them the gold, and the ſilver, and the holy veſſels of the houſe of our Lord, which the king and his council, and the princes, and all Iſrael, had given.

56 And when I had weighed it, I delivered unto them ſix hundred and fifty talents of ſilver, and ſilver veſſels of an hundred talents, and an hundred talents of gold,

57 And twenty golden veſſels, and twelve veſſels of braſs, even of fine braſs, glittering like gold.

58 And I ſaid unto them, Both ye are holy unto the Lord, and the veſſels are holy, and the gold and the ſilver is a vow unto the Lord, the Lord of our fathers.

59 Watch ye, and keep them till ye deliver them to the chief of the prieſts and Levites, and to the principal men of the families of Iſrael, in Jeruſalem, into the chambers of the houſe of our God.

60 So the prieſts and the Levites, who had received the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels, brought them unto Jeruſalem, into the temple of the Lord.

61 And from the river Theras we departed the twelfth day of the firſt month, and came to Jeruſalem by the mighty hand of our Lord, which was with us: and from the beginning of our journey the Lord delivered us from every enemy, and ſo we came to Jeruſalem.

62 And when we had been there three days, the gold and ſilver that was weighed was delivered in the houſe of our Lord, on the fourth day, unto Marmoth the prieſt, the ſon of Iri.

63 And with him was Eleazar the ſon of Phinees, and with them were Joſabad the ſon of Jeſu, and Moeth the ſon of Sabban, Levites: all was delivered them by number and weight.

64 And all the weight of them was written up the ſame hour.

65 Moreover, they that were come out of the captivity offered ſacrifice unto the Lord God of Iſrael, even twelve bullocks for all Iſrael, fourſcore and ſixteen rams.

66 Threeſcore and twelve lambs, goats for a peace-offering, twelve; all of them a ſacrifice to the Lord.

67 And they delivered the king's commandments unto the king's ſtewards, and to the governors of Celoſyria and Phenice: and they honoured the people, and the temple of God.

68 Now, when theſe things were done, the rulers came unto me and ſaid,

69 The nation of Iſrael, the princes, the prieſts and Levites have not put away from them the ſtrange people of the land, nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Canaanites, Hittites, Pherezites, Jebuſites, and the Moabites, Egyptians, and Edomites:

70 For both they and their ſons have married with their daughters, and the holy ſeed is mixed with the ſtrange people of the land; and from the beginning of this matter the rulers and the great men have been partakers of this iniquity.

71 And as ſoon as I had heard theſe things I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and pulled off the hair from off my head and beard, and ſat me down ſad and very heavy.

72 So all they that were then moved at the word of the Lord God of Iſrael aſſembled unto me whilſt I mourned for the iniquity: but I ſat ſtill, full of heavineſs until the evening-ſacrifice.

73 Then riſing up from the faſt, with my clothes and the holy garment rent, and bowing my knees, and ſtretching forth my hands unto the Lord,

74 I ſaid, O Lord, I am confounded, and aſhamed before thy face;

75 For our ſins are multiplied above our heads, and our ignorances have reached up unto heaven,

76 For ever ſince the time of our fathers, we have been and are in great ſin, even unto this day,

77 And for our ſins, and our fathers, we, with our brethren, and our kings, and our prieſts, were given up unto the kings of the earth, to the ſword, and to captivity, and for a prey with ſhame unto this day.

78 And now in ſome meaſure hath mercy been ſhewed unto us from thee, O Lord, that there ſhould be left us a root, and a name, in the place of thy ſanctuary;

79 And to diſcover unto us a light in the houſe of the Lord our God, and to give us food in the time of our ſervitude.

80 Yea, when we were in bondage, we were not forſaken of our Lord; but he made us gracious before the kings of Perſia, ſo that they gave us food;

81 Yea, and honoured the temple of our Lord, and raiſed up the deſolate Sion, that they have given us a ſure abiding in Jewry and Jeruſalem.

82 And now, O Lord, what ſhall we ſay, having theſe things? for we have tranſgreſſed thy commandments which thou gaveſt by the hand of thy ſervants the prophets, ſaying,

83 That the land which ye enter into, to poſſeſs as an heritage, is a land polluted with the pollutions of the ſtrangers of the land, and they have filled it with their uncleanneſs.

84 Therefore now ſhall ye not join your daughters unto their ſons, neither ſhall ye take their daughters unto your ſons.

85 Moreover, ye ſhall never ſeek to have peace with them, that ye may be ſtrong, and eat the good things of the land, and that ye may leave the inheritance of the land unto your children for evermore.

86 And all that is befallen, is done unto us for our wicked works, and great ſins: for thou, O Lord, didſt make our ſins light, 87 And didſt give unto us ſuch a root; but we have turned back again to tranſgreſs thy law, and to mingle ourſelves with the uncleanneſs of the nations of the land.

88 Mighteſt not thou be angry with us to deſtroy us, us, till thou hadſt left us neither root, ſeed, nor name?

89 O Lord of Iſrael, thou art true: for we are left a root this day.

90 Behold, now are we before thee in our iniquities, for we cannot ſtand any longer by reaſon of theſe things before thee,

91 And as Eſdras in his prayer made his confeſſion, weeping, and lying flat upon the ground before the temple, there gathered unto him from Jeruſalem a very great multitude of men, and women, and children: for there was great weeping among the multitude.

92 Then Jechonias the ſon of Jeelus, one of the ſons of Iſrael, called out, and ſaid, O Eſdras we have ſinned againſt the Lord God, we have married ſtrange women of the nations of the land, and now is all Iſrael aloft.

93 Let us make an oath to the Lord, that we will put away all our wives which we have taken of the heathen, with their children,

94 Like as thou haſt decreed, and as many as do obey the law of the Lord.

95 Ariſe, and put in execution; for to thee doth this matter appertain, and we will be with thee: do valiantly.

96 So Eſdras aroſe, and took an oath of the chief of the prieſts and Levites of all Iſrael, to do after theſe things; and ſo they ſware.

CHAP. IX.

1 Eſdras aſſembleth all the people: 10 They promiſe to put away their ſtrange wives, &c.

THEN Eſdras, riſing from the court of the temple, went to the chamber of Joanan the ſon of Eliaſib,

2 And remained there, and did eat no meat, nor drink water, mourning for the great iniquities of the multitude.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Jewry and Jeruſalem, to all them that were of the captivity, that they ſhould be gathered together at Jeruſalem:

4 And that whoſoever met not there within two or three days, according as the elders that bare rule appointed, their cattle ſhould be ſeized to the uſe of the temple, and himſelf caſt out from them that were of the captivity.

5 And in three days were all they of the tribe of Juda and Benjamin gathered together at Jeruſalem, the twentieth day of the ninth month.

6 And all the multitude ſat trembling in the broad court of the temple, becauſe of the preſent foul weather.

7 So Eſdras aroſe up and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed the law in marrying ſtrange wives, thereby to increaſe the ſins of Iſrael.

8 And now by confeſſing give glory unto the Lord God of our fathers,

9 And do his will, and ſeparate yourſelves from the heathen of the land, and from the ſtrange women.

10 ¶ Then cried the whole multitude, and ſaid with a loud voice, Like as thou haſt ſpoken, ſo will we do.

11 But foraſmuch as the people are many, and it is foul weather, ſo that we cannot ſtand without, and this is not a work of a day or two, ſeeing our ſin in theſe things is ſpread far;

12 Therefore let the rulers of the multitude ſtay, and let all them of our habitations that have ſtrange wives, come at the time appointed,

13 And with them the rulers and judges of every place, till we turn away the wrath of the Lord from us for this matter.

14 Then Jonathan the ſon of Azael, and Ezechias the ſon of Theocanus, accordingly took this matter upon them: and Moſollam, and Levis, and Sabbatheus helped them.

15 And they that were of the captivity, did according to all theſe things.

16 And Eſdras the prieſt choſe unto him the principal men of their families, all by name; and in the firſt day of the tenth month, they ſat together to examine the matter.

17 So their cauſe that held ſtrange wives was brought to an end in the firſt day of the firſt month.

18 And of the prieſts that were come together, and had ſtrange wives, there were found:

19 Of the ſons of Jeſus the ſon of Joſedec, and his brethren; Matthelas, and Eleazar, and Joribus, and Joadanus.

20 And they gave their hands to put away their wives, and to offer rams, to make reconcilement for their errors.

21 And of the ſons of Emmer; Ananias, and Zabdeus, and Eanas, and Sameius, and Hiereel, and Azarias.

22 And of the ſons of Phaiſur; Elionas, Maſſias, Iſmael, and Nathanael, and Ocidelus, and Talſas.

23 And of the Levites; Jozabad and Semis, and Collius, who was called Calitas, and Patheus, and Judas, and Jonas.

24 Of the holy ſingers: Eleazurus, Bacchurus.

25 Of the porters; Sallumus, and Tolbanes.

26 Of them of Iſrael, of the ſons of Phoros; Hiermas, and Eddias, and Melchias, and Maelus, and Eleazar, and Aſibias, and Baanias.

27 Of the ſons of Ela; Matthanias, Zacharias, and Hierielus, and Hieremoth, and Aedias.

28 And of the ſons of Zamoth; Eliadas, Eliſimus, Othonias, Jarimoth, and Sabatus, and Sardeus.

29 Of the ſons of Bebai; Johannes, and Ananias, and Joſabad, and Amatheis.

30 Of the ſons of Mani; Olamus, Mamuchus, Jedeus, Jaſubus, Jaſael, and Hieremoth.

31 And of the ſons of Addi; Naathus, and Mooſias, Lacunus, and Naidus, and Mathanias, and Seſthel, Balnuus, and Manaſſeas.

32 And of the ſons of Annas; Elionas, and Aſeas, and Melchias, and Sabbeus, and Simon Choſameus.

33 And of the ſons of Aſom; Altaneus, and Matthias, and Bannaia, Eliphalet, and Manaſſes, and Semei.

34 And of the ſons of Maani; Jeremias, Momdis, Omaerus, Juel, Mabdai, and Pelias, and Anos, Carabaſion, and Enaſibus, and Mamnitanaimus; Eliaſis, Bannus, Eliali, Samis, Selemias, Nathanias: and of the ſons of Ozora; Seſis, Eſril, Azaelus, Samatus, Zambis, Joſephus.

35 And of the ſons of Ethma; Mazitias, Zabadaias, Edes, Juel, Banaias.

36 All theſe had taken ſtrange wives, and they put them away with their children.

37 And the prieſts and Levites, and they that were of Iſrael, dwelt in Jeruſalem, and in the country, in

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

1 Then Eſdras, riſing from the court, &c.) In this and the following verſes, we have an account of a proclamation publiſhed for all the Jews of the captivity to aſſemble in two or three days at Jeruſalem, on pain of their cattle being ſeized for the ſervice of the temple, and themſelves caſt out from among their brethren. See Ezra x.

37 The prieſts and Levites, &c.) The ſimilar paſſage from this verſe to the end of the chapter is in Nehem. viii. 1, to 13.

the

the firſt day of the ſeventh month: ſo the children of Iſrael were in their habitations.

38 And the whole multitude came together with one accord, into the broad place of the holy porch toward the eaſt:

39 And they ſpake unto Eſdras the prieſt and reader, that he would bring the law of Moſes, that was given of the Lord God of Iſrael.

40 ¶ So Eſdras the chief prieſt brought the law unto the whole multitude from man to woman, and to all the prieſts, to hear the law in the firſt day of the ſeventh month.

41 And he read in the broad court before the holy porch from morning until mid-day, before both men and women: and all the multitude gave heed unto the law.

42 And Eſdras, the prieſt and reader of the law, ſtood up upon a pulpit of wood which was made for that purpoſe.

43 And there ſtood up by him Mattathias, Sammus, Ananias, Azarias, Urias, Ezecias, Balaſamus, upon the right hand.

44 And upon his left hand ſtood Phaldaius, Miſael, Melchias, Lothaſubus, and Nabarius.

45 Then took Eſdras the book of the law before the multitude; for he ſat honourably in the firſt place in the ſight of them all.

46 And when he opened the law, they ſtood all ſtraight up. So Eſdras bleſſed the Lord God moſt high, the God of hoſts Almighty.

47 And all the people anſwered, Amen; and lifting up their hands, they fell to the ground, and worſhipped the Lord.

48 Alſo Jeſus, Anus, Sarabias, Adinus, Jacubus, Sabateas, Auteas, Maianeas, and Caliſas, Azarias, and Joazabdus, and Ananias, Biatas, the Levites, taught the law of the Lord, making them withal to underſtand it.

49 Then ſpake Attharates unto Eſdras the chief prieſt and reader, and to the Levites that taught the multitude, even to all, ſaying,

50 This day is holy unto the Lord; (for they all wept when they heard the law;)

51 Go then, and eat the fat, and drink the ſweet, and ſend part to them that have nothing;

52 For this day is holy unto the Lord: and be not ſorrowful; for the Lord will bring you to honour.

53 So the Levites publiſhed all things to the people, ſaying, This day is holy to the Lord; be not ſorrowful.

54 Then went they their way, every one to eat and drink, and make merry, and to give part to them that had nothing, and to make great cheer.

55 Becauſe they underſtood the words wherein they were inſtructed, and for the which they had been aſſembled.

---

38 And the whole multitude came together, &c.) Joſephus, who is the beſt expoſitor on the hiſtorical parts of the Apocrypha, has given us the following account of this tranſaction:—"On the ſeventh month, when the feaſt of tabernacles was celebrated, and all the people were met together in a place near the gate facing the eaſt, which opens into the capacious area of the temple, they deſired Eſdras to read to them the law of Moſes. Accordingly, he placed himſelf in the midſt of the audience, and continued reading unto them from morning until noon: and when they had heard the law, they not only learned to follow juſtice for the preſent, and the future, but alſo lamented what was paſt, and, with eyes drowned in tears, heavily mourned at this conſideration, that if they had paid a due regard to the laws, they had not ſuffered the misfortunes they had undergone. When Eſdras ſaw their mournful condition, he commanded them to repair to their reſpective habitations, and leave off weeping; for the day was a feſtival, and therefore a very improper time to ſhew any ſigns of ſorrow. He exhorted them to rejoice, as being more agreeable to the time; adding, that he hoped their ſorrow and repentance for their paſt offences would be a ſecurity againſt any future tranſgreſſions. The requeſt of Eſdras had the deſired effect. The people began their feaſt, which continued eight days in their tents, and then returned to the places of their dwellings, giving thanks and praiſes to God, and acknowledging their great obligations to Eſdras, who had piouſly taught them every part of their duty."

THE SECOND BOOK OF E S D R A S.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book is written with great art, to imitate the work of Ezra; but there are ſeveral particulars in it which declare it apocryphal; although he ſpeaks of our bleſſed Saviour and his Apoſtles in ſo clear a manner, that the Goſpel itſelf is hardly more expreſs.

CHAP. I.

1 Eſdras is commanded to reprove the people. 24 God threateneth to caſt them off.

THE ſecond book of the prophet Eſdras, the ſon of Saraias, the ſon of Azarias, the ſon of Helchias, the ſon of Sadamias, the ſon of Sadoc, the ſon of Achitob,

2 The ſon of Achias, the ſon of Phinees, the ſon of Heli, the ſon of Amarias, the ſon of Aziei, the ſon of Marimoth, the ſon of Arna, the ſon of Ozias, the ſon of Borith, the ſon of Abiſei, the ſon of Phinees, the ſon of Eleazar,

3 The ſon of Aaron of the tribe of Levi; which was captive in the land of the Medes, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of the Perſians.

4 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

5 Go thy way and ſhew my people their ſinful deeds, and their children their wickedneſs which they have done againſt me; that they may tell their children's children.

6 Becauſe the ſins of their fathers are increaſed in them: for they have forgotten me, and have offered unto ſtrange gods.

7 Am not I even he that brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage? but they have provoked me unto wrath, and deſpiſed my counſels.

8 Pull thou off then the hair of thy head, and caſt all evil upon them, for they have not been obedient unto my law, but it is a rebellious people.

9 How long ſhall I forbear them unto whom I have done ſo much good?

10 Many kings have I deſtroyed for their ſakes; Pharaoh with his ſervants, and all his power have I ſmitten down.

11 All the nations have I deſtroyed before them; and in the eaſt I have ſcattered the people [of two provinces, even of Tyrus and Sidon, and have ſlain all their enemies.

12 Speak thou therefore unto them, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord,

13 I led you through the ſea, and in the beginning gave you a large and ſafe paſſage: I gave you Moſes for a leader, and Aaron for a prieſt.

14 I gave you light in a pillar of fire, and great wonders have I done among you; yet have ye forgotten me, ſaith the Lord.

15 Thus ſaith the Almighty Lord, The quails were as a token for you; I gave you tents for your ſafeguard: nevertheleſs ye murmured there,

16 And triumphed not in my name for the deſtruction of your enemies, but ever to this day do ye yet murmur.

17 Where are the benefits that I have done for you? when ye were hungry and thirſty in the wilderneſs, did ye not cry unto me,

18 Saying, Why haſt thou brought us into this wilderneſs to kill us? it had been better for us to have ſerved the Egyptians, than to die in this wilderneſs.

19 Then had I pity upon your mournings, and gave you manna to eat; ſo ye did eat angels' bread.

20 When ye were thirſty, did I not cleave the rock, and waters flowed out to your fill? for the heat I covered you with the leaves of the trees.

21 I divided among you a fruitful land, I caſt out the Canaanites, the Pherezites, and the Philiſtines, before you: what ſhall I yet do more for you? ſaith the Lord.

22 Thus ſaith the Almighty Lord, When ye were in the wilderneſs, in the river of the Amorites, being athirſt, and blaſpheming my name,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

5 Go thy way, and ſhew my people, &c.) Eſdras is ordered in this chapter to ſet before the people their numberleſs ſins, iniquities and idolatries, which far exceed thoſe of their forefathers. He alſo recites the wonderful works which God had done for that ſtiff-necked people, who, though he had uſed them with the greateſt indulgence, ſtill continued hardened and impenitent; for which reaſon God declares he will utterly abandon them, and give their habitations to a ſtrange people, who ſhould worſhip and adore his holy name, with a contrite heart and true ſpirit.

22 When ye were in the—river of the Amorites, &c.) That is, at the bitter waters or waters of Marah. See Exod. xv. 23.

23 I gave

23 I gave you not fire for your blaſphemies, but caſt a tree in the water, and made the river ſweet.

24 What ſhall I do unto thee, O Jacob? thou Juda wouldeſt not obey me: I will turn me to other nations, and unto thoſe will I give my name, that they may keep my ſtatutes.

25 Seeing ye have forſaken me, I will forſake you alſo: when ye deſire me to be gracious unto you, I ſhall have no mercy upon you.

26 Whenſoever ye ſhall call upon me, I will not hear you: for ye have defiled your hands with blood, and your feet are ſwift to commit man-ſlaughter.

27 Ye have not as it were forſaken me; but your own ſelves, ſaith the Lord.

28 Thus ſaith the Almighty Lord, Have I not prayed you as a father his ſons, as a mother her daughters, and a nurſe her young babes,

29 That ye would be my people, and I ſhould be your God; that ye would be my children, and I ſhould be your Father?

30 I gathered you together, as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings: but now, what ſhall I do unto you? I will caſt you out from my face.

31 When ye offer unto me, I will turn my face from you; for your ſolemn feaſt-days, your new-moons, and your circumciſions, have I forſaken.

32 I ſent unto you my ſervants the prophets, whom ye have taken and ſlain, and torn their bodies in pieces, whoſe blood I will require of your hands, ſaith the Lord.

33 Thus ſaith the Almighty Lord, Your houſe is deſolate, I will caſt you out as the wind doth ſtubble.

34 And your children ſhall not be fruitful; for they have deſpiſed my commandment, and done the thing that is evil before me.

35 Your houſes will I give to a people that ſhall come; which not having heard of me, yet ſhall believe me; to whom I have ſhewed no ſigns, yet they ſhall do that I have commanded them.

36 They have ſeen no prophets, yet they ſhall call their ſins to remembrance, and acknowledge them.

37 I take to witneſs the grace of the people to come, whoſe little ones rejoice in gladneſs: and though they have not ſeen me with bodily eyes, yet in ſpirit they believe the thing that I ſay.

38 And now, brother, behold what glory; and ſee the people that cometh from the eaſt:

39 Unto whom I will give for leaders, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, Oſeas, Amos, and Micheas, Joel, Abdias, and Jonas,

40 Nahum, and Abacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zachary, and Malachy, which is called alſo an angel of the Lord.

CHAP. II.

1 God complaineth of his people: 10 yet Eſdras is willed to comfort them.

THUS ſaith the Lord, I brought this people out of bondage, and I gave them my commandments by my ſervants the prophets; whom they would not hear, but deſpiſed my counſels.

2 The mother that bare them, ſaith unto them, Go your way, ye children; for I am a widow, and forſaken.

3 I brought you up with gladneſs: but with ſorrow and heavineſs have I loſt you: for ye have ſinned before the Lord your God, and done that thing that is evil before him.

4 But what ſhall I now do unto you? I am a widow and forſaken: go your way, O my children, and aſk mercy of the Lord.

5 As for me, O father, I call upon thee for a witneſs over the mother of theſe children, which would not keep my covenant.

6 That thou bring them to confuſion, and their mother to a ſpoil, that there may be no offspring of them.

7 Let them be ſcattered abroad among the heathen, let their names be put out of the earth: for they have deſpiſed my covenant.

8 Woe be unto thee, Aſſur, thou that hideſt the unrighteous in thee! O thou wicked people, remember what I did unto Sodom and Gomorrah;

9 Whoſe land lieth in clods of pitch, and heaps of aſhes: even ſo alſo will I do unto them that hear me not, ſaith the Almighty Lord.

10 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord unto Eſdras, Tell my people, that I will give them the kingdom of Jeruſalem, which I would have given unto Iſrael.

11 Their glory alſo will I take unto me, and give theſe the everlaſting tabernacles, which I had prepared for them.

12 They ſhall have the tree of life for an ointment of ſweet ſavour; they ſhall neither labour, nor be weary.

13 Go, and ye ſhall receive: pray for few days unto you, that they may be ſhortened: the kingdom is already prepared for you: watch.

14 Take heaven and earth to witneſs: for I have broken the evil in pieces, and created the good: for I live, ſaith the Lord.

15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them up with gladneſs; make their feet as faſt as a pillar: for I have choſen thee, ſaith the Lord.

16 And thoſe that be dead, will I raiſe up again from their places, and bring them out of their graves: for I have known my name in Iſrael.

17 Fear not thou, mother of the children: for I have choſen thee, ſaith the Lord.

18 For thy help will I ſend my ſervants Eſay and Jeremy; after whoſe counſel I have ſanctified and prepared for thee twelve trees laden with divers fruits,

19 And as many fountains flowing with milk and honey, and ſeven mighty mountains, whereupon there grow roſes and lilies: whereby I will fill thy children with joy.

20 Do right to the widow, judge for the fatherleſs, give to the poor, defend the orphan, clothe the naked, 21 Heal the broken and the weak, laugh not a lame man to ſcorn, defend the maimed, and let the blind man come into the ſight of my clearneſs.

22 Keep the old and young within thy walls,

23 Whereſoever thou findeſt the dead, take them and bury them, and I will give thee the firſt place in my reſurrection.

24 Abide ſtill, O my people, and take thy reſt, for thy quietneſs ſhall come.

25 Nouriſh thy children, O thou good nurſe; ſtabliſh their feet.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 Thus ſaith the Lord, I brought this people out of bondage, &c.) This chapter begins with a farther complaint of God againſt the people of Iſrael; and the Almighty, who is always merciful and indulgent to mankind, and who delighteth not in the death of a ſinner, ſends his prophet to comfort the people with offers of mercy, which they ungratefully reject.

10 Thus ſaith the Lord unto Eſdras, &c.) The Iſraelites ſtill continuing in their wickedneſs and impiety, notwithſtanding all the gracious offers of mercy and pardon offered them by the Almighty, God now declares that he will ſend a comfortable Saviour to the Gentiles, and exhorts them to receive the invaluable gift with a grateful heart.

26 As for the ſervants whom I have given thee, there ſhall not one of them periſh; for I will require them from among thy number.

27 Be not weary: for when the day of trouble and heavineſs cometh, others ſhall weep and be ſorrowful, but thou ſhalt be merry, and have abundance.

28 The heathen ſhall envy thee, but they ſhall be able to do nothing againſt thee, ſaith the Lord.

29 My hands ſhall cover thee, ſo that thy children ſhall not ſee hell.

30 Be joyful, O thou mother, with thy children; for I will deliver thee, ſaith the Lord.

31 Remember thy children that ſleep; for I ſhall bring them out of the ſides of the earth, and ſhew mercy unto them: for I am merciful, ſaith the Lord Almighty.

32 Embrace thy children until I come, and ſhew mercy unto them: for my wells run over, and my grace ſhall not fail;

33 I Eſdras received a charge of the Lord upon the mount Oreb, that I ſhould go unto Iſrael; but when I came unto them, they ſet me at nought, and deſpiſed the commandment of the Lord.

34 And therefore I ſay unto you, O ye heathen, that hear and underſtand, Look for your ſhepherd, he ſhall give you everlaſting reſt: for he is nigh at hand, that ſhall come in the end of the world.

35 Be ready to the reward of the kingdom, for the everlaſting light ſhall ſhine upon you for evermore.

36 Flee the ſhadow of this world, receive the joyfulneſs of your glory: I teſtify my ſaviour openly.

37 O receive the gift that is given you, and be glad, giving thanks unto him that hath called you to the heavenly kingdom.

38 Ariſe up, and ſtand, behold the number of thoſe that be ſealed in the feaſt of the Lord;

39 Which are departed from the ſhadow of the world, and have received glorious garments of the Lord.

40 Take thy number, O Sion, and ſhut up thoſe of thine that are clothed in white, which have fulfilled the law of the Lord.

41 The number of thy children whom thou longedſt for is fulfilled: beſeech the power of the Lord, that thy people, which have been called from the beginning, may be hallowed.

42 I Eſdras ſaw upon the mount Sion a great people, whom I could not number, and they all praiſed the Lord with ſongs:

43 And in the midſt of them there was a young man of a high ſtature, taller than all the reſt, and upon every one of their heads he ſet crowns, and was more exalted; which I marvelled at greatly.

44 So I aſked the angel, and ſaid, Sir, what are theſe?

45 He anſwered, and ſaid unto me, Theſe be they that have put off the mortal clothing, and put on the immortal, and have confeſſed the name of God: now are they crowned, and receive palms.

46 Then ſaid I unto the angel, What young perſon is it that crowneth them, and giveth them palms in their hands?

47 So he anſwered, and ſaid unto me, It is the Son of God, whom they have confeſſed in the world. Then began I greatly to commend them that ſtood ſo ſtiffly for the name of the Lord.

48 Then the angel ſaid unto me, Go thy way, and tell my people what manner of things, and how great wonders of the Lord thy God thou haſt ſeen.

CHAP. III.

1 Eſdras is troubled, 13 and acknowledgeth the ſins of the people.

IN the thirtieth year after the ruin of the city, I was in Babylon, and lay troubled upon my bed, and my thoughts came up over my heart:

2 For I ſaw the deſolation of Sion, and the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.

3 And my ſpirit was ſore moved, ſo that I began to ſpeak words full of fear to the Moſt High, and ſaid,

4 O Lord, who beareſt rule, thou ſpeakeſt at the beginning, when thou didſt plant the earth (and that thyſelf alone) and commandedſt the people,

5 And gaveſt a body unto Adam without ſoul, which was the workmanſhip of thine hands, and didſt breathe into him the breath of life, and he was made living before thee.

6 And thou leddeſt him into paradiſe, which thy right hand had planted, before ever the earth came forward.

7 And unto him thou gaveſt commandment, to love thy way; which he tranſgreſſed, and immediately thou appointedſt death in him, and in his generations, of whom came nations, tribes, people, and kindreds, out of number.

8 And every people walked after their own will, and did wonderful things before thee, and deſpiſed thy commandments.

9 And again, in proceſs of time, thou broughteſt the flood upon thoſe that dwelt in the world, and deſtroyedſt them.

10 And it came to paſs in every of them, that as death was to Adam, ſo was the flood to theſe.

11 Nevertheleſs, one of them thou lefteſt, namely, Noah with his houſehold, of whom came all righteous men.

12 And it happened, that when they that dwelt upon the earth began to multiply, and had gotten them many children, and were a great people, they began again to be more ungodly than the firſt.

13 Now when they lived ſo wickedly before thee, thou didſt chooſe thee a man from among them, whoſe name was Abraham.

14 Him thou lovedſt, and unto him only thou ſhewedſt thy will;

15 And madeſt an everlaſting covenant with him, promiſing him that thou wouldeſt never forſake his ſeed.

16 And unto him thou gaveſt Iſaac, and unto Iſaac alſo thou gaveſt Jacob and Eſau. As for Jacob, thou didſt chooſe him to thee, and put by Eſau: and ſo Jacob became a great multitude.

17 And it came to paſs, that when thou leddeſt his 42 I Eſdras ſaw upon the mount Sion a great people &c.) Eſdras, in this and the following verſes, gives an account of a viſion, wherein he ſees the Son of God, and thoſe he is pleaſed to honour with a crown of glory. See Rev. vii. 9.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 In the thirtieth year after the ruin of the city, &c.) In this chapter Eſdras relates the troubles of his ſpirit at beholding the afflictions of his people; on which he offers up his prayers to the Almighty, acknowledging he gave mankind a being by Adam, who tranſgreſſed the divine command. He then proceeds to recite the unbounded mercies of the God of Jacob, in ſaving Noah from the waters of the flood, whereby the generations of ſinners were deſtroyed from the face of the whole earth: and though the deſcendants of Noah were afterwards wicked and rebellious, yet it pleaſed the Almighty to chuſe Abraham, and to make with him an everlaſting covenant, with a promiſe to protect and defend his ſeed. He next recites the deliverance from the Egytian bondage, and the great mercy of God in calling David to build a city unto his glorious name, where oblations and ſacrifices might be offered; but the inhabitants, like Adam, having hearts filled with wickedneſs, were deprived of their city and temple by their enemies.

ſeed

ſeed out of Egypt, thou broughteſt them up to the mount Sinai:

18 And bowing the heavens, thou didſt ſet faſt the earth, movedſt the whole world, and madedſt the depths to tremble, and troubledſt the men of that age.

19 And thy glory went through four gates of fire, and of earthquake, and of wind, and of cold; that thou mighteſt give the law unto the ſeed of Jacob, and diligence unto the generation of Iſrael.

20 And yet tookeſt thou not away from them a wicked heart, that thy law might bring forth fruit in them.

21 For the firſt Adam, bearing a wicked heart, tranſgreſſed, and was overcome; and ſo be all they that are born of him.

22 Thus infirmity was made permanent; and the law (alſo) in the heart of the people with the malignity of the root; ſo that the good departed away, and the evil abode ſtill.

23 So the times paſſed away, and the years were brought to an end; then didſt thou raiſe thee up a ſervant, called David:

24 Whom thou commandedſt to build a city unto thy name, and to offer incenſe and oblations unto thee therein.

25 When this was done many years, then they that inhabited the city forſook thee,

26 And in all things did even as Adam and all his generations had done: for they alſo had a wicked heart:

27 And ſo thou gaveſt the city over into the hands of thine enemies.

28 Are their deeds then any better that inhabit Babylon, that they ſhould therefore have the dominion over Sion?

29 For when I came thither, and had ſeen impieties without number: then my ſoul ſaw many evil-doers in this thirtieth year, ſo that my heart failed me.

30 For I have ſeen how thou ſuffereſt them ſinning, and haſt ſpared wicked-doers; and haſt deſtroyed thy people, and haſt preſerved thine enemies, and haſt not ſignified it.

31 I do not remember how this way may be left: Are they then of Babylon better than they of Sion?

32 Or is there any other people that knoweth thee beſides Iſrael? or what generation hath ſo believed thy covenants as Jacob?

33 And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hath no fruit; for I have gone here and there through the heathen, and I ſee that they flow in wealth, and think not upon thy commandments.

34 Weigh thou therefore our wickedneſs now in the balance, and theirs alſo that dwell in the world: and ſo ſhall thy name no where be found but in Iſrael.

35 Or when was it, that they which dwell upon the earth have not ſinned in thy ſight? or what people hath ſo kept thy commandments?

36 Thou ſhalt find that Iſrael by name hath kept thy precepts; but not the heathen.

CHAP. IV.

The angel declareth the ignorance of Eſdras in God's judgments.

AND the angel that was ſent unto me, whoſe name was Uriel, gave me an anſwer,

2 And ſaid, Thy heart hath gone too far in this world, and thinkeſt thou to comprehend the way of the Moſt High?

3 Then ſaid I, Yea, my lord. And he anſwered me, and ſaid, I am ſent to ſhew thee three ways, and to ſet forth three ſimilitudes before thee:

4 Whereof, if thou canſt declare me one, I will ſhew thee alſo the way that thou deſireſt to ſee, and I ſhall ſhew thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

5 And I ſaid, Tell on, my lord. Then ſaid he unto me, Go thy way, weigh me the weight of the fire, or meaſure me the blaſt of the wind, or call me again the day that is paſt.

6 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, What man is able to do that, that thou ſhouldeſt aſk ſuch things of me?

7 And he ſaid unto me, If I ſhould aſk thee how great dwellings are in the midſt of the ſea? or how many ſprings are in the beginning of the deep? or how many ſprings are above the firmament? or which are the outgoings of paradiſe?

8 Peradventure thou wouldeſt ſay unto me, I never went down into the deep, nor as yet into hell, neither did I ever climb up into heaven.

9 Nevertheleſs, now have I aſked thee but only of the fire, and wind, and of the day wherethrough thou haſt paſſed, and of things from which thou canſt not be ſeparated, and yet canſt thou give me no anſwer of them.

10 He ſaid moreover unto me, Thine own things, and ſuch as are grown up with thee, Canſt thou not know;

11 How ſhould thy veſſel then be able to comprehend the way of the Higheſt, and the world being now outwardly corrupted, to underſtand the corruption that is evident in my ſight.

12 Then ſaid I unto him, It were better that we were not at all, than that we ſhould live ſtill in wickedneſs, and to ſuffer, and not to know wherefore.

13 He anſwered me and ſaid, I went into a foreſt into a plain, and the trees took counſel,

14 And ſaid, Come, let us go and make war againſt the ſea, that it may depart away before us, and that we may make us more woods.

15 The floods of the ſea alſo in like manner took counſel, and ſaid, Come let us go up and ſubdue the woods of the plain, that there alſo we may make us another country.

16 The thought of the wood was in vain, for the fire came and conſumed it.

17 The thought of the floods of the ſea came likewiſe to nought, for the ſand ſtood up and ſtopped them.

18 If thou wert judge now betwixt theſe two, whom wouldeſt thou begin to juſtify? or whom wouldeſt thou condemn?

19 I anſwered and ſaid, Verily it is a fooliſh thought that they both have deviſed, for the ground is given unto the wood, and the ſea alſo hath his place to bear his floods.

20 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, Thou haſt given

---

28 Are their deeds then any better that inhabit Babylon? &c) Eſdras, having in the foregoing verſes related the goodneſs and mercy of the Almighty, in pardoning the many tranſgreſſions of the houſe of Jacob, here too raſhly complains that the heathens, who held the ſeed of Jacob in ſubjection, were more prone to wickedneſs than even the people of Iſrael themſelves.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 And the angel that was ſent unto me, &c.) The prophet having ſpoken too haſtily, the angel was ordered to give him an anſwer. This he accordingly does, and reproves him for endeavouring to comprehend divine myſteries, which was above the reach of human underſtanding; but Eſdras, being naturally curious, ventures to aſk divers queſtions of the angel, and receives ſatisfactory anſwers to them. So great, ſo extenſive is the divine indulgence to frail, weak, and mortal man!

a right

a right judgment, but why judgeſt thou not thyſelf alſo?

21 For like as the ground is given unto the wood, and the ſea to his floods: even ſo they that dwell upon the earth may underſtand nothing but that which is upon the earth: and he that dwelleth above the heavens may only underſtand the things that are above the height of the heavens.

22 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, I beſeech thee, O Lord, let me have underſtanding.

23 For it was not my mind to be curious of the high things, but of ſuch as paſs by us daily, namely, wherefore Iſrael is given up as a reproach to the heathen; and for what cauſe the people whom thou haſt loved is given over unto ungodly nations; and why the law of our forefathers is brought to nought, and the written covenants come to none effect;

24 And we paſs away out of the world as graſſoppers, and our life is aſtoniſhment and fear; and we are not worthy to obtain mercy.

25 What will he then do unto his name whereby we are called? of theſe things have I aſked.

26 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, The more thou ſearcheſt, the more thou ſhalt marvel, for the world haſteth faſt to paſs away,

27 And cannot comprehend the things that are promiſed to the righteous in time to come: for this world is full of unrighteouſneſs and infirmities.

28 But as concerning the things whereof thou aſkeſt me, I will tell thee; for the evil is ſown, but the deſtruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If therefore that which is ſown be not turned upſide down, and if the place where the evil is ſown paſs not away, then cannot it come that is ſown with good.

30 For the grain of evil ſeed hath been ſown in the heart of Adam from the beginning, and how much ungodlineſs hath it brought up unto this time! and how much ſhall it yet bring forth until the time of threſhing come!

31 Ponder now by thyſelf, how great fruit of wickedneſs the grain of evil ſeed hath brought forth.

32 And when the ears ſhall be cut down, which are without number, how great a floor ſhall they fill!

33 Then I anſwered and ſaid, How, and when ſhall theſe things come to paſs? wherefore are our years few and evil?

34 And he anſwered me, ſaying, Do not thou haſten above the Moſt Higheſt: for thy haſte is in vain to be above him, for thou haſt much exceeded.

35 Did not the ſouls alſo of the righteous aſk queſtion of theſe things in their chambers, ſaying, How long ſhall I hope on this faſhion? when cometh the fruit of the floor of our reward?

36 And unto theſe things Uriel the archangel gave them anſwer, and ſaid, Even when the number of ſeeds is filled in you: for he hath weighed the world in the balance.

37 By meaſure hath he meaſured the times, and by number hath he numbered the times; and he doth not move nor ſtir them, until the ſaid meaſure be fulfilled.

38 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, O Lord that beareſt rule, even we all are full of impiety.

39 And for our ſakes peradventure it is that the floors of the righteous are not filled, becauſe of the ſins of them that dwell upon the earth.

40 So he anſwered me, and ſaid, Go thy way to a woman with child, and aſk of her, when ſhe hath fulfilled her nine months, if her womb may keep the birth any longer within her.

41 Then ſaid I, No, Lord, that can ſhe not. And he ſaid unto me, In the grave the chambers of ſouls are like the womb of a woman:

42 For like as a woman that travaileth maketh haſte to eſcape the neceſſity of the travail; even ſo do theſe places haſte to deliver thoſe things that are committed unto them.

43 From the beginning look what thou deſireſt to ſee, it ſhall be ſhewed thee.

44 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, If I have found favour in thy ſight and if it be poſſible, and if I be meet therefore,

45 Shew me then whether there be more to come than is paſt, or more paſt than is to come.

46 What is paſt I know, but what is for to come I know not.

47 And he ſaid unto me, Stand up upon the right ſide, and I ſhall expound the ſimilitude unto you.

48 So I ſtood and ſaw, and behold, an hot burning oven paſſed by before me; and it happened, that when the flame was gone by, I looked, and behold, the ſmoke remained ſtill.

49 After this there paſſed by before me a watery cloud, and ſent down much rain with a ſtorm; and when the ſtormy rain was paſt, the drops remained ſtill.

50 Then ſaid he unto me, Conſider with thyſelf? as the rain is more than the drops, and as the fire is greater than the ſmoke: but the drops and the ſmoke remain behind: ſo the quantity which is paſt did more exceed.

51 Then I prayed, and ſaid, May I live, thinkeſt thou, until that time? or what ſhall happen in thoſe days?

52 He anſwered me, and ſaid, As for the tokens whereof thou aſkeſt me, I may tell thee of them in part: but as touching thy life, I am not ſent to ſhew thee: for I do not know it.

CHAP. V.

1 The ſigns of the times to come. 23 He aſketh why God did caſt off his people.

NEVERTHELESS, as concerning the tokens, behold, the days ſhall come, that they which dwell upon earth ſhall be taken in a great number, and the way of truth ſhall be hidden, and the land ſhall be barren of faith.

2 But iniquity ſhall be increaſed above that which now thou ſeeſt, or that thou haſt heard long ago.

3 And the land that thou ſeeſt now to have root, ſhalt thou ſee waſted ſuddenly.

4 But if the Moſt High grant thee to live, thou ſhalt ſee after the third trumpet, that the ſun ſhall ſuddenly ſhine again in the night, and the moon thrice in the day:

5 And blood ſhall drop out of wood, and the ſtone ſhall give his voice, and the people ſhall be troubled;

6 And even he ſhall rule whom they look not for that dwell upon the earth, and the fowls ſhall take their flight away together;

7 And the Sodomitiſh ſea ſhall caſt out fiſh, and make a noiſe in the night, which many have not known; but they ſhall all hear the voice thereof.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

1 Nevertheleſs, as concerning the tokens, &c.) Juſtice and truth being wholly baniſhed from the land, God gives tokens of his vengeance to come. This the prophet ſaw in a viſion, and was exceedingly terrified, but is ſupported and comforted by an angel. And hence we ſhould learn, under all kinds of tribulation whatever, to truſt ſolely on the mercy and goodneſs of the Almighty, and repoſe ourſelves under the ſhadow of his wings. Then may we ſmile at deſtruction when it cometh, and behold, without terror, the ravages of the wide waſting peſtilence that walketh in darkneſs, and the devaſtations of the ſword that deſtroyeth at noon-day.

8 There ſhall be a confuſion alſo in many places, and the fire ſhall be oft ſent out again, and the wild beaſts ſhall change their places, and menſtruous women ſhall bring forth monſters;

9 And ſalt waters ſhall be found in the ſweet, and all friends ſhall deſtroy one another: then ſhall wit hide itſelf, and underſtanding withdraw itſelf into his ſecret chamber,

10 And ſhall be ſought of many, and yet not be found: then ſhall unrighteouſneſs and incontinency be multiplied upon earth.

11 One land alſo ſhall aſk another, and ſay, Is righteouſneſs that maketh a man righteous gone through thee? And it ſhall ſay, No.

12 At the ſame time ſhall men hope, but nothing obtain: they ſhall labour, but their ways ſhall not proſper.

13 To-ſhew thee ſuch tokens I have leave; and if thou wilt pray again, and weep as now, and faſt ſeven days, thou ſhalt hear yet greater things.

14 Then I awaked, and an extreme fearfulneſs went through all my body, and my mind was troubled, ſo that it fainted.

15 So the angel that was come to talk with me held me, comforted me, and ſet me up upon my feet.

16 And in the ſecond night it came to paſs, that Salathiel the captain of the people came unto me, ſaying, Where haſt thou been, and why is thy countenance ſo heavy?

17 Knoweſt thou not that Iſrael is committed unto thee, in the land of their captivity?

18 Up then, and eat bread, and forſake us not, as the ſhepherd that leaveth his flock in the hands of cruel wolves.

19 Then ſaid I unto him, Go thy ways from me, and come not nigh me. And he heard what I ſaid, and went from me.

20 And ſo I faſted ſeven days, mourning and weeping, like as Uriel the angel commanded me.

21 And after ſeven days, ſo it was that the thoughts of my heart were very grievous unto me again,

22 And my ſoul recovered the ſpirit of underſtanding, and I began to talk with the Moſt High again,

23 ¶ And ſaid, O Lord, that beareſt rule of every wood of the earth, and of all the trees thereof, thou haſt choſen thee one only vine:

24 And of all lands of the whole world thou haſt choſen thee one pit; and of all the flowers thereof, one lily:

25 And of all the depths of the ſea, thou haſt filled thee one river: and of all builded cities, thou haſt hallowed Sion unto thyſelf:

26 And of all the fowls that are created, thou haſt named thee one dove: and of all the cattle that are made, thou haſt provided thee one ſheep:

27 And among all the multitudes of people, thou haſt gotten thee one people: and unto this people whom thou lovedſt, thou gaveſt a law that is approved of all.

28 And now, O Lord, why haſt thou given this one people over unto many? and upon the one root haſt thou prepared others, and why haſt thou ſcattered thy only one people among many?

29 And they which did gainſay thy promiſes, and believed not thy covenants, have trodden them down.

30 If thou didſt ſo much hate thy people, yet ſhouldeſt thou puniſh them with thine own hands.

31 Now when I had ſpoken theſe words, the angel that came to me the night afore, was ſent unto me,

32 And ſaid unto me, Hear me, and I will inſtruct thee; hearken to the thing that I ſay, and I ſhall tell thee more.

33 And I ſaid, Speak on, my Lord: then ſaid he unto me, Thou art ſore troubled in mind for Iſrael's ſake: loveſt thou that people better than he that made them?

34 And I ſaid, No, Lord; but of very grief have I ſpoken: for my reins pain me every hour, while I labour to comprehend the way of the Moſt High, and to ſeek out part of his judgment.

35 And he ſaid unto me, Thou canſt not: and I ſaid, Wherefore, Lord? whereunto was I born, then? or why was not my mother's womb then my grave, that I might not have ſeen the travail of Jacob, and the weariſome toil of the ſtock of Iſrael?

36 And he ſaid unto me, Number me the things that are not yet come, gather me together the drops that are ſcattered abroad, make me the flowers green again that are withered;

37 Open me the places that are cloſed, and bring me forth the winds that in them are ſhut up, ſhew me the image of a voice: and then I will declare to thee the thing that thou laboureſt to know.

38 And I ſaid, O Lord, that beareſt rule, who may know theſe things, but he that hath not his dwelling with men?

39 As for me, I am unwiſe: how may I then ſpeak of theſe things whereof thou aſkeſt me?

40 Then ſaid he unto me, Like as thou canſt do none of theſe things that I have ſpoken of, even ſo canſt thou not find out my judgment, or in the end the love that I have promiſed unto my people.

41 And I ſaid, Behold, O Lord, yet art thou nigh unto them that be reſerved till the end: and what ſhall they do that have been before me, or we that be now, or they that ſhall come after us?

42 And he ſaid unto me, I will liken my judgment unto a ring: like as there is no ſlackneſs of the laſt, even ſo there is no ſwiftneſs of the firſt.

43 So I anſwered and ſaid, Couldeſt thou not make thoſe that have been made, and be now, and that are for to come, at once, that thou mighteſt ſhew thy judgment the ſooner?

44 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, The creature may not haſte above the Maker, neither may the world hold them at once that ſhall be created therein.

45 And I ſaid, As thou haſt ſaid unto thy ſervant, that thou, which giveſt life to all, haſt given life at once to the creature that thou haſt created, and the creature bare it; even ſo it might now alſo bear them that now be preſent at once.

46 And he ſaid unto me, Aſk the womb of a woman, and ſay unto her, If thou bringeſt forth children, why doſt thou it not together, but one after another? pray her therefore to bring forth ten children at once.

47 And I ſaid, She cannot; but muſt do it by diſtance of time.

48 Then ſaid he unto me, even ſo have I given the womb of the earth to thoſe that be ſown in it in their times.

49 For like as a young child may not bring forth the things that belong to the aged, even ſo have I diſpoſed the world which I created.

50 And I aſked and ſaid, Seeing thou haſt now given me the way, I will proceed to ſpeak before thee: for our mother, of whom thou haſt told me that ſhe is young, draweth now nigh unto age.

51 He anſwered me and ſaid, Aſk a woman that beareth children, and ſhe ſhall tell thee.

52 Say unto her, Wherefore are not they whom thou haſt now brought forth, like thoſe that were before, but leſs of ſtature?

53 And ſhe ſhall anſwer thee, They that be born in the ſtrength of youth are of one faſhion, and they that are born in the time of age (when the womb faileth) are otherwiſe.

54 Conſider thou therefore alſo, how that ye are leſs of ſtature than thoſe that were before you.

55 And ſo are they that come after you, leſs than ye, as the creatures which now begin to be old, and have paſſed over the ſtrength of youth.

56 Then ſaid I, Lord, I beſeech thee, if I have found favour in thy ſight, ſhew thy ſervant by whom thou viſiteſt thy creature.

CHAP. VI.

1 God's purpoſe is eternal. 8 The next world ſhall follow this immediately.

AND he ſaid unto me, In the beginning, when the earth was made, before the borders of the world ſtood, or ever the winds blew,

2 Before it thundered and lightened, or ever the foundations of paradiſe were laid,

3 Before the fair flowers were ſeen, or ever the moveable powers were eſtabliſhed, before the innumerable multitude of angels were gathered together,

4 Or ever the heights of the air were lifted up, before the meaſures of the firmament were named, or ever the chimnies in Sion were hot,

5 And ere the preſent years were ſought out, and or ever the inventions of them that now ſin were turned, before they were ſealed that have gathered faith for a treaſure:

6 Then did I conſider theſe things, and they all were made through me alone, and through none other: by me alſo they ſhall be ended, and by none other.

7 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, What ſhall be the parting aſunder of the times? or when ſhall be the end of the firſt, and the beginning of it that followeth?

8 ¶ And he ſaid unto me, From Abraham unto Iſaac, when Jacob and Eſau were born of him, Jacob's hand held firſt the heel of Eſau.

9 For Eſau is the end of the world, and Jacob is the beginning of it that followeth.

10 The hand of man is betwixt the heel and the hand: other queſtions, Eſdras, aſk thou not.

11 I anſwered then, and ſaid, O Lord that beareſt rule, if I have found favour in thy ſight, 12 I beſeech thee, ſhew thy ſervant the end of thy tokens, whereof thou ſhewedſt me part the laſt night.

13 So he anſwered and ſaid unto me, Stand up upon thy feet, and hear a mighty ſounding voice.

14 And it ſhall be as it were a great motion; but the place where thou ſtandeſt ſhall not be moved.

15 And therefore, when it ſpeaketh, be not afraid: for the word is of the end, and the foundation of the earth is underſtood.

16 And why? becauſe the ſpeech of theſe things trembleth, and is moved: for it knoweth that the end of theſe things muſt be changed.

17 And it happened, that when I had heard it, I ſtood up upon my feet, and hearkened, and behold, there was a voice that ſpake, and the ſound of it was like the ſound of many waters.

18 And it ſaid, Behold, the days come, that I will begin to draw nigh, and to viſit them that dwell upon the earth,

19 And will begin to make inquiſition of them, what they be that have hurt unjuſtly with their unrighteouſneſs, and when the affliction of Sion ſhall be fulfilled;

20 And when the world, that ſhall begin to vaniſh away, ſhall be finiſhed, then will I ſhew theſe tokens: the books ſhall be opened before the firmament, and they ſhall ſee altogether.

21 And the children of a year old ſhall ſpeak with their voices, the women with child ſhall bring forth untimely children of three or four months old, and they ſhall live, and be raiſed up.

22 And ſuddenly ſhall the ſown places appear unſown, the full ſtorehouſes ſhall ſuddenly be found empty.

23 And the trumpet ſhall give a ſound, which when every man heareth, they ſhall be ſuddenly afraid.

24 At that time ſhall friends fight one againſt another like enemies; and the earth ſhall ſtand in fear with thoſe that dwell therein, the ſprings of the fountains ſhall ſtand ſtill, and in three hours they ſhall not run.

25 Whoſoever remaineth from all theſe that I have told thee ſhall eſcape, and ſee my ſalvation, and the end of your world.

26 And the men that are received ſhall ſee it, who have not taſted death from their birth: and the heart of the inhabitants ſhall be changed, and turned into another meaning.

27 For evil ſhall be put out, and deceit ſhall be quenched.

28 As for faith, it ſhall flouriſh, corruption ſhall be overcome; and the truth, which hath been ſo long without fruit, ſhall be declared.

29 And when he talked with me, behold, I looked by little and little upon him before whom I ſtood.

30 And theſe words ſaid he unto me, I am come to ſhew thee the time of the night to come.

31 If thou wilt pray yet more, and faſt ſeven days again, I ſhall tell thee greater things by day than I have heard.

32 For thy voice is heard before the Moſt High: for the Mighty hath ſeen thy righteous dealing, he hath ſeen alſo thy chaſtity, which thou haſt had ever ſince thy youth.

33 And therefore hath he ſent me to ſhew thee all theſe things, and to ſay unto thee, Be of good comfort, and fear not.

34 And haſten not with the times that are paſt, to think vain things, that thou mayeſt not haſten from the latter times.

35 And it came to paſs after this, that I wept again, and faſted ſeven days in like manner, that I might fulfil the three weeks which he told me.

36 And in the eighth night was my heart vexed within me again, and I began to ſpeak before the Moſt High.

37 For my ſpirit was greatly ſet on fire, and my ſoul was in diſtreſs.

38 And I ſaid, O Lord, thou ſpakeſt from the be-

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 And he ſaid unto me, In the beginning, &c.) Eſdras is here taught that the purpoſes of the Almighty are eternal, without limits or without end. They ſubſiſted before the world was called from its primitive chaos, when night had ſpread her ſable mantle over the pathleſs void, and confuſion had erected her throne on the jarring particles of the univerſe.

18 Behold, the days come, &c.) The prophet is here informed, that the next world, the new heaven, and the new earth, ſhall ſucceed this immediately, and what aſtoniſhing things ſhall happen, when this world ſhall be diſſolved, and time ſhall give place to eternity.

38 O Lord, thou ſpakeſt from the beginning of the creation, &c.) The prophet here recounts the ſeven days work of the creation, and complains, in the moſt pathetic terms, that neither himſelf nor the reſt of the ſmall remnant of the ſeed of Jacob have any comfort, becauſe of the exultation of their enemies, who had laid the courts of Sion waſte, trodden down Jeruſalem, and carried her ſons and daughters into captivity.

ginning of the creation, even the firſt day and ſaidſt thus, Let heaven and earth be made and thy word was a perfect work.

39 And then was the ſpirit, and darkneſs and ſilence were on every ſide; the ſound of man's voice was not yet formed.

40 Then commandedſt thou a fair light to come forth of thy treaſures, that thy work might appear.

41 Upon the ſecond day thou madeſt the ſpirit of the firmament, and commandedſt it to part aſunder, and to make a diviſion betwixt the waters, that the one part might go up, and the other remain beneath.

42 Upon the third day thou didſt command, that the waters ſhould be gathered in the ſeventh part of the earth: ſix parts haſt thou dried up, and kept them, to the intent that of theſe ſome being planted of God, and tilled, might ſerve thee.

43 For as ſoon as thy word went forth, the work was made.

44 For immediately there was great and innumerable fruit, and many and divers pleaſures for the taſte, and flowers of unchangeable colour, and odours of wonderful ſmell: and this was done the third day.

45 Upon the fourth day thou commandedſt, that the ſun ſhould ſhine, and the moon give her light, and the ſtars ſhould be in order:

46 And gaveſt them a charge to do ſervice unto man, that was to be made.

47 Upon the fifth day, thou ſaidſt unto the ſeventh part, where the waters were gathered, that it ſhould bring forth living creatures, fowls, and fiſhes; and ſo it came to paſs.

48 For the dumb water, and without life, brought forth living things at the commandment of God, that all people might praiſe thy wondrous works.

49 Then didſt thou ordain two living creatures, the one thou calledſt Enoch, and the other Leviathan:

50 And didſt ſeparate the one from the other: for the ſeventh part (namely, where the water was gathered together) might not hold them both.

51 Unto Enoch thou gaveſt one part, which was dried up the third day, that he ſhould dwell in the ſame part, wherein are a thouſand hills:

52 But unto Leviathan thou gaveſt the ſeventh part, namely, the moiſt; and haſt kept him to be devoured of whom thou wilt, and when.

53 Upon the ſixth day thou gaveſt commandment unto the earth, that before thee it ſhould bring forth beaſts, cattle, and creeping things:

54 And after theſe, Adam alſo, whom thou madeſt lord of all thy creatures: of him come we all, and the people alſo whom thou haſt choſen.

55 All this have I ſpoken before thee, O Lord, becauſe thou madeſt the world for our ſakes.

56 As for the other people which alſo come of Adam, thou haſt ſaid, that they are nothing, but be like unto ſpittle, and haſt likened the abundance of them unto a drop that falleth from a veſſel.

57 And now, O Lord, behold, theſe heathen, which have ever been reputed as nothing, have begun to be lords over us, and to devour us.

58 But we thy people (whom thou haſt called thy firſt-born, thy only begotten, and thy fervent lover) are given into their hands.

59 If the world now be made for our ſakes, why do we not poſſeſs an inheritance with the world? how long ſhall this endure?

CHAP. VII.

1 The way is narrow. 28 All ſhall die, and riſe again. 33 Chriſt ſhall ſit in judgment.

AND when I had made an end of ſpeaking theſe words, there was ſent unto me the angel which had been ſent unto me the nights afore:

2 And he ſaid unto me, Up, Eſdras, and hear the words that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I ſaid, Speak on, my God. Then ſaid he unto me, The ſea is ſet in a wide place, that it might be deep and great.

4 But put the caſe the entrance were narrow, and like a river;

5 Who then could go into the ſea to look upon it, and to rule it? if he went not through the narrow, how could he come into the broad?

6 There is alſo another thing. A city is builded, and ſet upon a broad field, and is full of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrow, and is ſet in a dangerous place to fall, like as if there were a fire on the right hand, and on the left a deep water;

8 And one only path between them both, even between the fire and the water, ſo ſmall that there could but one man go there at once.

9 If this city now were given unto a man for an inheritance, if he never ſhall paſs the danger ſet before it, how ſhall he receive this inheritance?

10 And I ſaid, It is ſo, Lord. Then ſaid he unto me, Even ſo alſo is Iſrael's portion.

11 Becauſe for their ſakes I made the world: and when Adam tranſgreſſed my ſtatutes, then was decreed that now is done.

12 Then were the entrances of this world made narrow, full of ſorrow and travail: they are but few and evil, full of perils, and very painful.

13 For the entrances of the elder world were wide and ſure, and brought immortal fruit.

14 If then they that live labour not to enter theſe ſtrait and vain things, they can never receive thoſe that are laid up for them.

15 Now therefore why diſquieteſt thou thyſelf, ſeeing thou art but a corruptible man? and why art thou moved, whereas thou art but mortal?

16 Why haſt thou not conſidered in thy mind this thing that is to come, rather than that which is preſent?

17 Then anſwered I, and ſaid, O Lord, that beareſt rule, thou haſt ordained in thy law, that the righteous ſhould inherit theſe things, but that the ungodly ſhould periſh.

18 Nevertheleſs, the righteous ſhall ſuffer ſtrait things, and hope for wide: for they that have done wickedly have ſuffered the ſtrait things, and yet ſhall not ſee the wide.

19 And he ſaid unto me, There is no judge above God, and none that hath underſtanding above the Higheſt.

20 For there be many that periſh in this life, becauſe they deſpiſe the law of God that is ſet before them.

21 For God hath given ſtrait commandment to ſuch as came, what they ſhould do to live, even as they came, and what they ſhould obſerve to avoid puniſhment.

22 Nevertheleſs, they were not obedient unto him: but ſpake againſt him, and imagined vain things,

23 And deceived themſelves by their wicked deeds, and ſaid of the Moſt High, That he is not, and knew not his ways:

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

3 The ſea is ſet in a wide place, &c.) The prophet is informed, under the ſimilitude of a narrow paſſage into the ſea, and the ſtrait entrance into a city, the portion of Iſrael, and why the entrances into this world are narrow and travail, and the days of man are few and evil, full of ſorrow and travail, and his whole life one continued ſcene of pain, of peril, of ſighs, and lamentations.

24 But

24 But his law have they diſpiſed, and denied his covenant; in his ſtatutes have they not been faithful, and have not performed his works.

25 And therefore, Eſdras, for the empty are empty things, and for the full are the full things.

26 Behold, the time ſhall come that theſe tokens which I have told thee ſhall come to paſs, and the bride ſhall appear, and ſhe coming forth ſhall be ſeen, that now is withdrawn from the earth.

27 And whoſoever is delivered from the aforeſaid evils, ſhall ſee my wonders.

28 ¶ For my ſon Jeſus ſhall be revealed with thoſe that be with him, and they that remain ſhall rejoice within four hundred years.

29 After theſe years ſhall my ſon Chriſt die, and all men that have life.

30 And the world ſhall be turned into the old ſilence ſeven days, like as in the former judgments: ſo that no man ſhall remain.

31 And after ſeven days the world, that yet awaketh not, ſhall be raiſed up, and that ſhall die that is corrupt.

32 And the earth ſhall reſtore thoſe that are aſleep in her, and ſo ſhall the duſt thoſe that dwell in ſilence, and the ſecret places ſhall deliver thoſe ſouls that were committed unto them:

33 And the Moſt High ſhall appear upon the ſeat of judgment, and miſery ſhall paſs away, and the long-ſuffering ſhall have an end.

34 But judgment only ſhall remain, truth ſhall ſtand, and faith ſhall wax ſtrong;

35 And the work ſhall follow, and the reward ſhall be ſhewed, and the good deeds ſhall be of force, and wicked deeds ſhall bear no rule.

36 Then ſaid I, Abraham prayed firſt for the Sodomites, and Moſes for the fathers that ſinned in the wilderneſs:

37 And Jeſus after him for Iſrael in the time of Achan:

38 And Samuel and David for the deſtruction: and Solomon for them that ſhould come to the ſanctuary:

39 And Elias for thoſe that received rain, and for the dead, that he might live:

40 And Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib: and many for many.

41 Even ſo now, ſeeing corruption is grown up, and wickedneſs increaſed, and the righteous have prayed for the ungodly: wherefore ſhall it not be ſo now alſo?

42 He anſwered me, and ſaid, This preſent life is not the end where much glory doth abide; therefore have they prayed for the weak.

43 But the day of doom ſhall be the end of this time, and the beginning of the immortality for to come, wherein corruption is paſt.

44 Intemperance is at an end, infidelity is cut off, righteouſneſs is grown, and truth is ſprung up.

45 Then ſhall no man be able to ſave him that is deſtroyed, nor to oppreſs him that hath gotten the victory.

46 I anſwered then, and ſaid, This is my firſt and laſt ſaying, That it had been better not to have given the earth unto Adam; or elſe when it was given him, to have reſtrained him from ſinning.

47 For what profit is it for men now in this preſent time to live in heavineſs, and after death to look for puniſhment?

48 O thou Adam, what haſt thou done! for though it was thou that ſinned, thou art not fallen alone, but we all that come of thee.

49 For what profit is it unto us, if there be promiſed us an immortal time, whereas we have done the works that bring death?

50 And that there is promiſed us an everlaſting hope, whereas ourſelves being moſt wicked are made vain?

51 And that there are laid up for us dwellings of health and ſafety, whereas we have lived wickedly?

52 And that the glory of the Moſt High is kept to defend them which have led a wary life, whereas we have walked in the moſt wicked ways of all?

53 And that there ſhould be ſhewed a paradiſe, whoſe fruit endureth for ever, wherein is ſecurity and medicine, ſith we ſhall not enter into it?

54 (For we have walked in unpleaſant places,)

55 And that the faces of them which have uſed abſtinence ſhall ſhine above the ſtars, whereas our faces ſhall be blacker than darkneſs?

56 For while we lived, and committed iniquity, we conſidered not that we ſhould begin to ſuffer for it after death.

57 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, This is the condition of the battle, which man that is born upon the earth ſhall fight;

58 That, if he be overcome, he ſhall ſuffer as thou haſt ſaid: but if he get the victory, he ſhall receive the thing that I ſay.

59 For this is the life whereof Moſes ſpake unto the people while he lived, ſaying, Chooſe thee life that thou mayeſt live.

60 Neverthleſs, they believed not him, nor yet the prophets after him; no nor me which have ſpoken unto them,

61 That there ſhould not be ſuch heavineſs in their deſtruction, as ſhall be joy over them that are perſuaded to ſalvation.

62 I anſwered then, and ſaid, I know, Lord, that the Moſt High is called merciful, in that he hath mercy upon them which are not yet come into the world,

63 And upon thoſe alſo that turn to his law;

64 And that he is patient, and long ſuffereth thoſe that have ſinned, as his creatures;

65 And that he is bountiful, for he is ready to give where it needeth.

66 And that he is of great mercy, for he multiplieth more and more mercies to them that are preſent, and that are paſt, and alſo to them which are to come.

67 For if he ſhall not multiply his mercies, the world would not continue with them that inherit therein.

68 And he pardoneth; for if he did not ſo of his goodneſs, that they which have committed iniquities might be eaſed of them; the ten thouſandth part of men ſhould not remain living.

69 And being judge, if he ſhould not forgive them that are cured with his word, and put out the multitude of contentions,

70 There ſhould be very few left peradventure in an innumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Many created, but few ſaved. 6 He aſketh why God deſtroyeth his own work.

AND he anſwered me, ſaying, The Moſt High hath made this world for many, but the world to come for few.

2 I will tell thee a ſimilitude, Eſdras; As when

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

1 The Moſt High hath made this world for many, &c.) The angel here informs Eſdras that there are many created, but few ſaved. The prophet is ſurprized at this, and aſks, with ſome earneſtneſs, why the Almighty, who ſo curiouſly faſhioned man in the womb, ſhould deſtroy the work of his own hand?

thou

thou aſkeſt the earth, it ſhall ſay unto thee, that it giveth much mould whereof earthen veſſels are made, but little duſt that gold cometh of; even ſo is the courſe of this preſent world.

3 There be many created, but few ſhall be ſaved.

4 So anſwered I, and ſaid, Swallow then down, O my ſoul, underſtanding, and devour wiſdom.

5 For thou haſt agreed to give ear, and art willing to propheſy; for thou haſt no longer ſpace than only to live.

6 O Lord, if thou ſuffer not thy ſervant that we may pray before thee, and thou giveſt us ſeed unto our heart, and culture to our underſtanding, that there may come fruit of it; how ſhall each man live that is corrupt, who beareth the place of a man?

7 For thou art alone, and we all one workmanſhip of thine hands, like as thou haſt ſaid.

8 For when the body is faſhioned now in the mother's womb, and thou giveſt it members, thy creature is preſerved in fire and water, and nine months doth thy workmanſhip endure thy creature which is created in her.

9 But that which keepeth, and is kept, ſhall both be preſerved; and when the time cometh, the womb preſerved delivereth up the things that grew in it.

10 For thou haſt commanded out of the parts of the body, that is to ſay, out of the breaſts, milk to be given, which is the fruit of the breaſts,

11 That the thing which is faſhioned, may be nouriſhed for a time, till thou diſpoſeſt it to thy mercy.

12 Thou broughteſt it up with thy righteouſneſs, and nurturedſt it in thy law, and reformedſt it with thy judgment.

13 And thou ſhalt mortify it as thy creature, and quicken it as thy work.

14 If therefore thou ſhalt deſtroy him which with ſo great labour was faſhioned, it is an eaſy thing to be ordained by thy commandment, that the thing which was made might be preſerved.

15 Now, therefore, Lord, I will ſpeak (touching man in general, thou knoweſt beſt) but touching thy people, for whoſe ſake I am ſorry;

16 And for thine inheritance, for whoſe cauſe I mourn; and for Iſrael, for whom I am heavy; and for Jacob, for whoſe ſake I am troubled:

17 Therefore will I begin to pray before thee, for myſelf and for them: for I ſee the falls of us that dwell in the land.

18 But I have heard the ſwiftneſs of the judge which is to come.

19 Therefore hear my voice, and underſtand my words, and I ſhall ſpeak before thee: this is the beginning of the words of Eſdras, before he was taken up; and I ſaid,

20 O Lord, thou that dwelleſt in everlaſtingneſs, which beholdeſt from above things in the heaven, and in the air,

21 Whoſe throne is ineſtimable, whoſe glory may not be comprehended, before whom the hoſts of angels ſtand with trembling;

22 (Whoſe ſervice is converſant in wind and fire) whoſe word is true, and ſayings conſtant, whoſe commandment is ſtrong, and ordinance fearful,

23 Whoſe look drieth up the depths, and indignation maketh the mountains to melt away, which the truth witneſſeth:

24 O hear the prayer of thy ſervant, and give ear to the petition of thy creature.

25 For while I live, I will ſpeak, and ſo long as I have underſtanding, I will anſwer.

26 O look not upon the ſins of thy people: but on them which ſerve thee in truth.

27 Regard not the wicked inventions of the heathen; but the deſire of thoſe that keep thy teſtimonies in afflictions.

28 Think not upon thoſe that have walked feignedly before thee: but remember them which, according to thy will, have known thy fear.

29 Let it not be thy will to deſtroy them which have lived like beaſts; but to look upon them that have clearly taught thy law.

30 Take thou no indignation at them which are deemed worſe than beaſts; but love them that alway put their truſt in thy righteouſneſs and glory.

31 For we and our fathers do languiſh of ſuch diſeaſes; but becauſe of us ſinners, thou ſhalt be called merciful.

32 For if thou haſt a deſire to have mercy upon us, thou ſhalt be called merciful, to us namely, that have no works of righteouſneſs.

33 For the juſt, which have many good works laid up with thee; ſhall out of their own deeds receive reward.

34 For what is man, that thou ſhouldeſt take diſpleaſure at him? or what is a corruptible generation, that thou ſhouldeſt be ſo bitter toward it?

35 For in truth, there is no man among them that be born, but he hath dealt wickedly; and among the faithful there is none which hath not done amiſs.

36 For in this, O Lord, thy righteouſneſs and thy goodneſs ſhall be declared, if thou be merciful unto them which have not the confidence of good works.

37 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, Some things haſt thou ſpoken aright, and according unto thy words it ſhall be.

38 For indeed, I will not think on the diſpoſition of them which have ſinned before death, before judgment, before deſtruction;

39 But I will rejoice over the diſpoſition of the righteous, and I will remember alſo their pilgrimage, and the ſalvation, and the reward that they ſhall have.

40 Like as I have ſpoken now, ſo ſhall it come to paſs;

41 For as the huſbandman ſoweth much ſeed upon the ground, and planteth many trees, and yet the thing that is ſown good in his ſeaſon cometh not up, neither doth all that is planted take root: even ſo is it of them that are ſown in the world, they ſhall not all be ſaved.

42 I anſwered then, and ſaid, If I have found grace, let me ſpeak.

43 Like as the huſbandman's ſeed periſheth, if it come not up, and receive not the rain in due ſeaſon, or if there come too much rain, and corrupt it:

44 Even ſo periſheth man alſo which is formed with thy hands, and is called thine own image, becauſe thou art like unto him, for whoſe ſake thou haſt made all things, and likened him unto the huſbandman's ſeed.

45 Be not wroth with us, but ſpare thy people, and have mercy upon thine own inheritance: for thou art merciful unto thy creature.

46 Then anſwered he me, and ſaid, Things preſent are for the preſent, and things to come for ſuch as be to come.

---

20 O Lord, thou that dwelleſt in everlaſtingneſs, &c.) Eſdras prays for the Iſraelites, being ſenſible of approaching judgments, and begs the Almighty not to look upon the ſins of the people, but on them who ſerve him in ſincerity and truth. To which he is anſwered, that as all ſeed, ſown by the huſbandman is not good, ſo likewiſe all the ſeed of the ſons of men is not righteous, and therefore cannot all be ſaved.

43 Like as the huſbandman's ſeed periſheth, &c.) Eſdras implores the God of Jacob to be merciful to his people, and ſpare the remnant of his inheritance.

46 Things preſent are for the preſent, &c.) The angel tells Eſdras, that becauſe he was of an humble heart and lowly ſpirit, and worſhipped his God in ſincerity and truth, the gates of Paradiſe would be open to him and all believers.

47 For thou comeſt far ſhort, that thou ſhouldeſt be able to love my creature more than I: but I have oft-times drawn nigh unto thee, and unto it, but never to the unrighteous.

48 In this alſo thou art marvellous before the Moſt High:

49 In that thou haſt humbled thyſelf, as it becometh thee, and haſt not judged thyſelf worthy to be much glorified among the righteous.

50 For many great miſeries ſhall be done to them that in the latter time ſhall dwell in the world, becauſe they have walked in great pride.

51 But underſtand thou for thyſelf, and ſeek out the glory for ſuch as be like thee.

52 For unto you is paradiſe opened, the tree of life is planted, the time to come is prepared, plenteouſneſs is made ready, a city is builded, and reſt is allowed, yea, perfect goodneſs and wiſdom.

53 The root of evil is ſealed up from you, weakneſs and the moth is hid from you, and corruption is fled into hell to be forgotten:

54 Sorrows are paſſed, and in the end is ſhewed the treaſure of immortality.

55 And therefore aſk thou no more queſtions concerning the multitude of them that periſh.

56 For when they had taken liberty, they deſpiſed the Moſt High, thought ſcorn of his law, and forſook his ways.

57 Moreover, they have trodden down his righteous,

58 And ſaid in their heart, That there is no God: yea, and that knowing they muſt die.

59 For as the things aforeſaid ſhall receive you, ſo thirſt and pain are prepared for them: for it was not his will that men ſhould come to nought:

60 But they which he created have defiled the name of him that made them, and were unthankful unto him which prepared life for them.

61 And therefore is my judgment now at hand.

62 Theſe things have I not ſhewed unto all men, but unto thee, and a few like thee. Then anſwered I, and ſaid, 63 Behold, O Lord, now haſt thou ſhewed me the multitude of the wonders which thou wilt begin to do in the laſt times; but at what time, thou haſt not ſhewed me.

CHAP. IX.

7 Who ſhall be ſaved, and who not. 19 All the world is now corrupted.

HE anſwered me then, and ſaid, Meaſure thou the time diligently in itſelf: and when thou ſeeſt part of the ſigns paſt, which I have told thee before,

2 Then ſhalt thou underſtand, that it is the very ſame time, wherein the Higheſt will begin to viſit the world which he made.

3 Therefore, when there ſhall be ſeen earthquakes and uproars of the people in the world;

4 Then ſhalt thou well underſtand, that the Moſt High ſpake of thoſe things from the days that were before thee, even from the beginning.

5 For like as all that is made in the world hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifeſt;

6 Even ſo the times alſo of the Higheſt have plain beginnings in wonders and powerful works, and endings in effects and ſigns.

7 ¶ And every one that ſhall be ſaved, and ſhall be able to eſcape by his works, and by faith, whereby ye have believed,

8 Shall be preſerved from the ſaid perils, and ſhall ſee my ſalvation in my land, and within my borders; for I have ſanctified them for me from the beginning.

9 Then ſhall they be in pitiful caſe which now have abuſed my ways: and they that have caſt them away deſpitefully ſhall dwell in torments.

10 For ſuch as in their life have received benefits, and have not known me;

11 And they that have loathed my law, while they had yet liberty, and when as yet place of repentance was open unto them, underſtood not, but deſpiſed it;

12 The ſame muſt know it after death by pain.

13 And therefore be thou not curious how the ungodly ſhall be puniſhed, and when: but enquire how the righteous ſhall be ſaved, whoſe the world is, and for whom the world is created.

14 Then anſwered I, and ſaid,

15 I have ſaid before, and now do ſpeak, and will ſpeak it alſo hereafter, that there be many more of them which periſh, than of them which ſhall be ſaved;

16 Like as a wave is greater than a drop.

17 And he anſwered me, ſaying, Like as the field is, ſo is alſo the ſeed; as the flowers be, ſuch are the colours alſo; ſuch as the workman is, ſuch alſo is the work; and as the huſbandman is himſelf, ſo is his huſbandry alſo: for it was the time of the world.

18 And now, when I prepared the world which was not yet made, even for them to dwell in that now live, no man ſpake againſt me.

19 For then every one obeyed: but now the manners of them which are created in this world that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual ſeed, and by a law which is unſearchable rid themſelves.

20 So I conſidered the world, and, behold, there was peril, becauſe of the devices that were come into it.

21 And I ſaw and ſpared it greatly, and have kept me a grape of the cluſter, and a plant of a great people.

22 Let the multitude periſh then which was born in vain; and let my grape be kept, and my plant: for with great labour have I made it perfect.

23 Nevertheleſs, if thou wilt ceaſe yet ſeven days more, (but thou ſhalt not faſt in them, 24 But go into a field of flowers, where no houſe is builded, and eat only the flowers of the field; taſte no fleſh, drink no wine, but eat flowers only,)

25 And pray unto the Higheſt continually, then will I come and talk with thee.

26 So I went my way into the field which is called Ardath, like as he commanded me; and there I ſat among the flowers, and did eat of the herbs of the field, and the meat of the ſame ſatisfied me.

27 After ſeven days I ſat upon the graſs, and my heart was vexed within me, like as before.

28 And I opened my mouth, and began to talk before the Moſt High, and ſaid,

29 O Lord, thou that ſheweſt thyſelf unto us, thou waſt ſhewed unto our fathers in the wilderneſs, in a

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

1 Meaſure thou the time, &c.) The prophet is in this chapter informed who ſhould be ſaved, and the conditions on which they ſhall enter the regions of happineſs in the heavenly Canaan. He is alſo informed that the wicked, after they have paſſed the valley of the ſhadow of death, ſhall certainly be puniſhed.

13 And therefore be thou not curious, &c.) Men are not to be too curious in enquiring into the ſecret acts of providence, as he who ſpake the world into exiſtence, has thought proper to conceal them from the ſons of men.

19 For then every one obeyed, &c.) Eſdras is here informed, that a general corruption has overſpread the world; but the Almighty in his infinite mercy will ſave a remnant.

place where no man treadeth, in a barren place when they came out of Egypt.

30 And thou ſpakeſt, ſaying, Hear me, O Iſrael; and mark my words, thou ſeed of Jacob.

31 For, behold, I ſow my law in you, and it ſhall bring fruit in you, and ye ſhall be honoured in it for ever.

32 But our fathers which received the law kept it not, and obſerved not thy ordinances; and though the fruit of thy law did not periſh, neither could it, for it was thine;

33 Yet they that received it periſhed, becauſe they kept not the thing that was ſown in them.

34 And, lo, it is a cuſtom, when the ground hath received ſeed, or the ſea a ſhip, or any veſſel meat or drink, that that being periſhed wherein it was ſown, or caſt into,

35 That thing alſo which was ſown, or caſt therein, or received doth periſh, and remaineth not with us: but with us it hath not happened ſo.

36 For we that have received the law periſh by ſin, and our heart alſo which received it.

37 Notwithſtanding, the law periſheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 And when I ſpake theſe things in my heart, I looked back with mine eyes, and upon the right ſide I ſaw a woman, and behold, ſhe mourned and wept with a loud voice, and was much grieved in heart, and her clothes were rent, and ſhe had aſhes upon her head.

39 Then let I my thoughts go that I was in, and turned me unto her,

40 And ſaid unto her, Wherefore weepeſt thou? why art thou ſo grieved in thy mind?

41 And ſhe ſaid unto me, Sir, let me alone, that I may bewail myſelf, and add unto my ſorrow, for I am ſore vexed in my mind, and brought very low.

42 And I ſaid unto her, What ajleth thee? tell me.

43 She ſaid unto me, I thy ſervant have been barren, and had no child, though I had an huſband thirty years.

44 And thoſe thirty years I did nothing elſe day and night, and every hour, but make my prayer to the Higheſt.

45 After thirty years God heard me thine handmaid, looked upon my miſery, conſidered my trouble, and gave me a ſon: and I was very glad of him, ſo was my huſband alſo, and all my neighbours; and we gave great honour unto the Almighty.

46 And I nouriſhed him with great travail;

47 So when he grew up, and came to the time that he ſhould have a wife, I made a feaſt.

CHAP. X.

1 He comforteth the woman. 27 She vaniſheth away, and a city appeareth.

AND ſo it came to paſs, that when my ſon was entered into his wedding-chamber, he fell down and died.

2 Then we all overthrew the lights, and all my neighbours roſe up to comfort me: ſo I took my reſt unto the ſecond day at night.

3 And it came to paſs, when they had all left off to comfort me, to the end I might be quiet: then roſe I up by night and fled, and came hither into this field, as thou ſeeſt.

4 And I do now purpoſe not to return into the city, but here to ſtay, and neither to eat nor drink, but continually to mourn, and to faſt until I die.

5 Then left I the meditations wherein I was, and ſpake to her in anger, ſaying,

6 Thou fooliſh woman above all other, ſeeſt thou not our mourning, and what happeneth unto us?

7 How that Sion our mother is full of all heavineſs and much humbled, mourning very ſore?

8 And now ſeeing we all mourn, and are ſad, for we are all in heavineſs; art thou grieved for one ſon?

9 For aſk the earth, and ſhe ſhall tell thee, that it is ſhe which ought to mourn for the fall of ſo many that grow upon her.

10 For out of her came all at the firſt, and out of her ſhall all others come, and behold, they walk almoſt all into deſtruction, and a multitude of them is utterly rooted out.

11 Who then ſhould make more mourning than ſhe that hath loſt ſo great a multitude, and not thou, which art ſorry but for one?

12 But if thou ſayeſt unto me, my lamentation is not like the earth's, becauſe I have loſt the fruit of my womb, which I brought forth with pains, and bare with ſorrows;

13 But the earth not ſo; for the multitude preſent in it, according to the courſe of the earth, is gone, as it came:

14 Then ſay I unto thee, Like as thou haſt brought forth with labour: even ſo the earth alſo hath given her fruit, namely, man, ever ſince the beginning, unto him that made her.

15 Now therefore keep thy ſorrow to thyſelf, and bear with a good courage that which hath befallen thee.

16 For if thou ſhalt acknowledge the determination of God to be juſt, thou ſhalt both receive thy ſon in time, and ſhalt be commended amongſt women.

17 Go thy way then into the city, to thine huſband.

18 And ſhe ſaid unto me, That will I not do: I will not go into the city, but here will I die.

19 So I proceeded to ſpeak further unto her, and ſaid,

20 Do not ſo, but be counſelled by me: for how many are the adverſities of Sion? be comforted, in regard of the ſorrow of Jeruſalem.

21 For thou ſeeſt that our ſanctuary is laid waſte, our altar broken down, our temple deſtroyed:

22 Our pſaltery is laid on the ground, our ſong is put to ſilence, our rejoicing is at an end, the light of our candleſtick is put out, the ark of our covenant is ſpoiled, our holy things are defiled, and the name that is called upon us, is almoſt profaned: our children are put to ſhame, our prieſts are burnt, our Levites are gone into captivity, our virgins are defiled, and our wives raviſhed; our righteous men carried away, our little ones deſtroyed, our young men are brought in bondage, and our ſtrong men are become weak:

23 And, which is the greateſt of all, the ſeal of Sion hath now loſt her honour: for ſhe is delivered into the hands of them that hate us.

24 And therefore ſhake off thy great heavineſs, and put away the multitude of ſorrows, that the Mighty may be merciful unto thee again, and the Higheſt ſhall give thee reſt and eaſe from thy labour.

---

33 Yet they that received it periſhed, &c.) The prophet now complains that ſome of the people who obeyed the divine inſtitutions, and kept the law, periſhed; and that all their righteouſneſs could not ſhield them from the ſhafts of deſtruction.

Commentary on Chap. X.

1 And ſo it came to paſs, &c.) The beginning of this chapter belongs to the laſt, it being the concluſion of the woman's melancholy ſtory.

6 Thou fooliſh woman above all other, &c.) The prophet here ſets before the eyes of the woman the folly of her grief; becauſe it is not permitted for the children of the duſt to call in queſtion the proceedings of the Almighty; on the contrary, it is their duty to ſubmit to his determination, and conſider all his decrees as juſt.

25 And it came to paſs, while I was talking with her, behold, her face upon a ſudden ſhined exceedingly, and her countenance gliſtered, ſo that I was afraid of her, and muſed what it might be.

26 And behold, ſuddenly ſhe made a great cry, very fearful: ſo that the earth ſhook at the noiſe of the woman.

27 ¶ And I looked, and behold, the woman appeared unto me no more, but there was a city builded, and a large place ſhewed itſelf from the foundations; then was I afraid, and cried with a loud voice, and ſaid,

28 Where is Uriel the angel, who came unto me at the firſt? for he hath cauſed me to fall into many trances, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

29 And as I was ſpeaking theſe words, behold, he came unto me, and looked upon me.

30 And, lo, I lay as one that had been dead, and mine underſtanding was taken from me: and he took me by the right hand, and comforted me, and ſet me upon my feet, and ſaid unto me,

31 What aileth thee? and why art thou ſo diſquieted? and why is thine underſtanding troubled, and the thoughts of thine heart?

32 And I ſaid, Becauſe thou haſt forſaken me, and yet I did according to thy words, and I went into the field, and, lo, I have ſeen, and yet ſee, that I am not able to expreſs.

33 And he ſaid unto me, Stand up manfully, and I will adviſe thee.

34 Then ſaid I, Speak on, my Lord, in me; only forſake me not, leſt I die fruſtrate of my hope.

35 For I have ſeen that I knew not, and hear that I do not know.

36 Or is my ſenſe deceived, or my ſoul in a dream?

37 Now therefore I beſeech thee, that thou wilt ſhew thy ſervant of this viſion.

38 He anſwered me then and ſaid, Hear me, and I ſhall inform thee, and tell thee wherefore thou art afraid: for the Higheſt will reveal many ſecret things unto thee.

39 He hath ſeen that thy way is right: for that thou ſorroweſt continually for thy people, and makeſt great lamentation for Sion.

40 This therefore is the meaning of the viſion which thou lately ſaweſt:

41 Thou ſaweſt a woman mourning, and thou beganneſt to comfort her:

42 But now ſeeſt thou the likeneſs of the woman no more, but there appeared unto thee a city builded.

43 And whereas ſhe told thee of the death of her ſon, this is the ſolution:

44 This woman whom thou ſaweſt, is Sion: and whereas ſhe ſaid unto thee, (even ſhe whom thou ſeeſt as a city builded,)

45 Whereas, I ſay, ſhe ſaid unto thee, that ſhe hath been thirty years barren: thoſe are the thirty years wherein there was no offering made in her.

46 But after thirty years Solomon builded the city, and offered offerings: and then bare the barren a ſon.

47 And whereas ſhe told thee that ſhe nouriſhed him with labour; that was the dwelling in Jeruſalem.

48 But whereas ſhe ſaid unto thee, That my ſon, coming into his marriage-chamber happened to have a fall and died; this was the deſtruction that came to Jeruſalem.

49 And behold, thou ſaweſt her likeneſs; and becauſe ſhe mourned for her ſon thou beganneſt to comfort her: and of theſe things which have chanced, theſe are to be opened unto thee.

50 For now the Moſt High ſeeth that thou art grieved unfeignedly, and ſuffereſt from thy whole heart for her, ſo hath he ſhewed thee the brightneſs of her glory, and the comelineſs of her beauty:

51 And therefore I bade thee remain in the field, where no houſe was builded.

52 For I knew that the Higheſt would ſhew this unto thee.

53 Therefore I commanded thee to go into the field, where no foundation of any building was.

54 For in the place wherein the Higheſt beginneth to ſhew his city, there can no man's building be able to ſtand.

55 And therefore fear not, let not thine heart be affrighted, but go thy way in, and ſee the beauty and greatneſs of the building, as much as thine eyes be able to ſee.

56 And then ſhalt thou hear as much as thine ears may comprehend.

57 For thou art bleſſed above many other, and art called with the Higheſt, and ſo are but few.

58 But to-morrow at night thou ſhalt remain here.

59 And ſo ſhall the Higheſt ſhew thee viſions of the high things, which the Moſt High will do unto them that dwell upon earth in the laſt days. So I ſlept that night and another, like as he commanded me.

CHAP. XI.

1 He ſeeth an eagle coming out of the ſea, 37 and a lion out of the wood talking to the eagle.

THEN ſaw I a dream, and behold, there came up from the ſea an eagle, which had twelve feathered wings, and three heads.

2 And I ſaw, and behold, ſhe ſpread her wings over all the earth, and all the winds of the air blew on her, and were gathered together.

3 And I beheld, and out of her feathers there grew other contrary feathers; and they became little feathers and ſmall.

4 But her heads were at reſt: the head in the midſt was greater than the other, yet reſted it with the reſidue.

5 Moreover, I beheld, and lo, the eagle flew with her feathers, and reigned upon earth, and over them that dwelt therein.

6 And I ſaw that all things under heaven were ſubject unto her, and no man ſpake againſt her, no, not one creature upon earth.

7 And I beheld, and lo, the eagle roſe upon her talons, and ſpake to her feathers, ſaying,

8 Watch not all at once: ſleep every one in his own place, and watch by courſe:

9 But let the heads be preſerved for the laſt.

10 And I beheld, and lo, the voice went not out of her heads, but from the midſt of her body.

11 And I numbered her contrary feathers, and, behold, there were eight of them.

12 And I looked, and behold, on the right ſide there aroſe one feather, and reigned over all the earth;

13 And ſo it was, that when it reigned, the end of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more: ſo the next following ſtood up and reigned, and had a great time;

14 And it happened, that when it reigned, the end

27 And I looked, and behold, the woman appeared unto me no more, &c.) The woman, making a ſudden and fearful cry, vaniſhed, and in her place a city appeared, to the great aſtoniſhment of the prophet.

40 This therefore is the meaning of the viſion, &c.) The angel proceeds to explain the meaning of the viſion: the woman repreſented Sion; and the death of her ſon, the deſtruction of Jeruſalem.

of it came alſo, like as the firſt, ſo that it appeared no more.

15 Then came there a voice unto it, and ſaid,

16 Hear thou that haſt borne rule over the earth ſo long; this I ſay unto thee, before thou beginneſt to appear no more,

17 There ſhall none after thee attain unto thy time, neither unto the half thereof.

18 Then aroſe the third, and reigned as the other before, and appeared no more alſo.

19 So went it with all the reſidue one after another, as that every one reigned, and then appeared no more.

20 Then I beheld, and lo, in proceſs of time the feathers that followed ſtood up upon the right ſide, that they might rule alſo; and ſome of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For ſome of them were ſet up, but ruled not.

22 After this I looked, and, behold, the twelve feathers appeared no more, nor the two little feathers:

23 And there was no more upon the eagle's body but three heads that reſted, and ſix little wings.

24 Then ſaw I alſo, that two little feathers divided themſelves from the ſix, and remained under the head that was on the right ſide: for the four continued in their place.

25 And I beheld, and lo, the feathers that were under the wing thought to ſet up themſelves, and to have the rule.

26 And I beheld, and lo, there was one ſet up, but ſhortly it appeared no more.

27 And the ſecond was ſooner away than the firſt.

28 And I beheld, and lo, the two that remained thought alſo in themſelves to reign:

29 And when they ſo thought, behold, there awaked one of the heads that were at reſt, namely, it that was in the midſt: for that was greater than the two other heads.

30 And then I ſaw that the two other heads were joined with it.

31 And, behold, the head was turned with them that were with it, and did eat up the two feathers under the wing that would have reigned.

32 But this head put the whole earth in fear, and bare rule in it over all thoſe that dwelt upon the earth with much oppreſſion: and it had the governance of the world more than all the wings that had been.

33 And after this I beheld, and lo, the head that was in the midſt ſuddenly appeared no more, like as the wings.

34 But there remained the two heads, which alſo in like ſort ruled upon the earth, and over thoſe that dwelt therein.

35 And I beheld, and, lo, the head upon the right ſide devoured it that was upon the left ſide.

36 Then I heard a voice, which ſaid unto me, Look before thee, and conſider the thing that thou ſeeſt.

37 And I beheld, and lo, as it were a roaring lion chaſed out of the wood: and I ſaw that he ſent out a man's voice unto the eagle, and ſaid,

38 Hear thou, I will talk with thee, and the Higheſt ſhall ſay unto thee,

39 Art not thou it that remaineſt of the four beaſts, whom I made to reign in my world, that the end of their times might come through them?

40 And the fourth came, and overcame all the beaſts that were paſt, and had power over the world with great fearfulneſs, and over the whole compaſs of the earth with much wicked oppreſſion; and ſo long time dwelt he upon the earth with deceit.

41 For the earth haſt thou not judged with truth.

42 For thou haſt afflicted the meek, thou haſt hurt the peaceable, thou haſt loved liars, and deſtroyed the dwellings of them that brought forth fruit, and haſt caſt down the walls of ſuch as did thee no harm.

43 Therefore is thy wrongful dealing come up unto the Higheſt, and thy pride unto the Mighty.

44 The Higheſt alſo hath looked upon the proud times, and behold, they are ended, and his abominations are fulfilled.

45 And therefore appear no more, thou eagle, nor thy horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, nor thy hurtful claws, nor all thy vain body;

46 That all the earth may be refreſhed, and may return, being delivered from thy violence, and that ſhe may hope for the judgment and mercy of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

1 The eagle which he ſaw is deſtroyed. 10 The viſion is interpreted. 37 He is bid to write his viſions.

AND it came to paſs, whiles the lion ſpake theſe words unto the eagle, I ſaw,

2 And behold, the head that remained and the four wings appeared no more, and the two went unto it, and ſet themſelves up to reign, and their kingdom was ſmall and full of uproar.

3 And I ſaw, and behold, they appeared no more, and the whole body of the eagle was burnt, ſo that the earth was in great fear: then awaked I out of the trouble and trance of my mind, and from great fear, and ſaid unto my ſpirit,

4 Lo, this haſt thou done unto me, in that thou ſearcheſt out the ways of the Higheſt.

5 Lo, yet am I weary in my mind, and very weak in my ſpirit; and little ſtrength is there in me, for the great fear wherewith I was affrighted this night.

6 Therefore will I now beſeech the Higheſt, that he will comfort me unto the end.

7 And I ſaid, Lord that beareſt rule, if I have found grace before thy ſight, and if I am juſtified with thee before many others, and if my prayer indeed be come up before thy face;

8 Comfort me then, and ſhew me thy ſervant the interpretation, and plain difference of this fearful viſion, that thou mayeſt perfectly comfort my ſoul.

9 For thou haſt judged me worthy to ſhew me the laſt times.

10 ¶ And he ſaid unto me, This is the interpretation of the viſion:

11 The eagle whom thou ſaweſt come up from the ſea, is the kingdom which was ſeen in the viſion of thy brother Daniel.

12 But it was not expounded unto him, therefore now I declare it unto thee.

13 Behold, the days will come that there ſhall riſe up a kingdom upon earth, and it ſhall be feared above all the kingdoms that were before it.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

37 And I beheld, and lo, as it were a roaring lion, &c.) In the ſecond viſion, the prophet ſaw a roaring lion coming out of a wood and talking to the eagle in a human voice, forbidding the eagle to appear any more, becauſe the Almighty had decreed the earth ſhould be freed from the violence of the eagle.

Commentary on Chap. XII.

1 And it came to paſs, whiles the lion ſpake, &c.) Before the lion had done ſpeaking, the eagle was conſumed with fire; on which the prophet came out of his viſion, and, with great heavineſs of ſpirit, intreated the Almighty to ſhew him the meaning and interpretation of the viſion, which he graciouſly condeſcended to.

14 In the ſame ſhall twelve kings reign, one after another:

15 Whereof the ſecond ſhall begin to reign, and ſhall have more time than any of the twelve.

16 And this do the twelve wings ſignify, which thou ſaweſt.

17 As for the voice which thou heardeſt ſpeak, and that thou ſaweſt not to go out from the heads, but from the midſt of the body thereof, this is the interpretation:

18 That after the time of that kingdom there ſhall ariſe great ſtrivings, and it ſhall ſtand in peril of falling: nevertheleſs it ſhall not then fall, but ſhall be reſtored again to his beginning.

19 And whereas thou ſaweſt the eight ſmall underfeathers ſticking to her wings, this is the interpretation;

20 That in him there ſhall ariſe eight kings, whoſe times ſhall be but ſmall, and their years ſwift,

21 And two of them ſhall periſh: the middle time approaching, four ſhall be kept until their end begin to approach; but two ſhall be kept unto the end.

22 And whereas thou ſaweſt three heads reſting, this is the interpretation:

23 In his laſt days ſhall the Moſt High raiſe up three kingdoms, and renew many things therein, and they ſhall have the dominion of the earth,

24 And of thoſe that dwell therein, with much oppreſſion, above all thoſe that were before them; therefore are they called the heads of the eagle.

25 For theſe are they that ſhall accompliſh his wickedneſs, and that ſhall finiſh his laſt end.

26 And whereas thou ſaweſt that the great head appeared no more, it ſignifieth that one of them ſhall die upon his bed, and yet with pain.

27 For the two that remain ſhall be ſlain with the ſword.

28 For the ſword of the one ſhall devour the other: but at the laſt ſhall he fall through the ſword himſelf.

29 And whereas thou ſaweſt two feathers under the wings, paſſing over the head that is on the right ſide,

30 It ſignifieth that theſe are they whom the Higheſt hath kept unto their end: this is the ſmall kingdom, and full of trouble, as thou ſaweſt.

31 And the lion, whom thou ſaweſt riſing up out of the wood, and roaring, and ſpeaking to the eagle, and rebuking her for her unrighteouſneſs with all the words which thou haſt heard;

32 This is the anointed which the Higheſt hath kept for them and for their wickedneſs unto the end: he ſhall reprove them, and ſhall upbraid them with their cruelty.

33 For he ſhall ſet them before him alive in judgment, and ſhall rebuke them, and correct them.

34 For the reſt of my people ſhall he deliver with mercy, thoſe that have been preſerved upon my borders, and he ſhall make them joyful until the coming of the day of judgment, whereof I have ſpoken unto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dream that thou ſaweſt, and theſe are the interpretations.

36 Thou only haſt been meet to know this ſecret of the Higheſt.

37 ¶ Therefore write all theſe things that thou haſt ſeen, in a book, and hide them:

38 And teach them to the wiſe of the people, whoſe hearts thou knoweſt may comprehend and keep theſe ſecrets.

39 But wait thou here thyſelf yet ſeven days more, that it may be ſhewed thee whatſoever it pleaſeth the Higheſt to declare unto thee. And with that he went his way.

40 And it came to paſs, when all the people ſaw that the ſeven days were paſt, and I not come again into the city, they gathered them all together, from the leaſt unto the greateſt, and came unto me, and ſaid,

41 What have we offended thee? and what evil have we done againſt thee, that thou forſakeſt us, and ſitteſt here in this place?

42 For of all the prophets thou only art left us, as a cluſter of the vintage, and as a candle in a dark place, and as a haven or ſhip preſerved from the tempeſt.

43 Are not the evils which are come to us ſufficient?

44 If thou ſhalt forſake us, how much better had it been for us if we alſo had been burnt in the midſt of Sion?

45 For we are not better than they that died there. And they wept with a loud voice. Then anſwered I them, and ſaid,

46 Be of good comfort, O Iſrael; and be not heavy, thou houſe of Jacob:

47 For the Higheſt hath you in remembrance, and the Mighty hath not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for me, I have not forſaken you, neither am I departed from you; but am come into this place, to pray for the deſolation of Sion, and that I might ſeek mercy for the low eſtate of your ſanctuary.

49 And now go your way home every man, and after thoſe days will I come unto you.

50 So the people went their way into the city, like as I commanded them:

51 But I remained ſtill in the field ſeven days, as the angel commanded me; and did eat only in thoſe days of the flowers of the field, and had my meat of the herbs.

CHAP. XIII.

1 He ſeeth in his dream a man coming out of the ſea.
25 The declaration of his dream.

AND it came to paſs after ſeven days, I dreamed a dream by night:

2 And lo, there aroſe a wind from the ſea, that it moved all the waves thereof.

3 And I beheld, and lo, that man waxed ſtrong with the thouſands of heaven: and when he turned his countenance to look, all the things trembled that were ſeen under him.

4 And whenſoever the voice went out of his mouth, all they burnt that heard his voice, like as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fire.

37 Therefore write all theſe things, &c.) After the interpretation was finiſhed, the prophet is commanded to commit his viſions to writing, that he might communicate them to the heads of the people: he is alſo commanded to ſtay ſeven days, and faſt, that he may ſee more viſions.

40 And it came to paſs, when all the people ſaw, &c.) The people, finding the prophet delayed to come among them, repair to him with one accord, weeping before him, as thinking the Almighty had forgotten them, and caſt off for ever the remnant of his people.

46 Be of good comfort, O Iſrael, &c.) The prophet aſſures the people, that their fears of being forſaken by the Almighty God of Jacob were vain; their Omnipotent Creator ſtill conſidered them as his people, and would protect his heritage; adding, that when he had what he was commanded by a meſſage from on high, he would return to them; upon which he and the people remained in the field ſeven days, living upon the ſpontaneous productions of nature.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

1 I dreamed a dream by night.) The prophet in a dream ſees a man coming out of the ſea, and relates many particulars about him; but is ignorant of the intent and meaning of it.

2 There aroſe a wind, &c.) The margin reads, A certain man as the wind.

5 And

5 And after this I beheld, and lo, there was gathered together a multitude of men, out of number, from the four winds of the heaven, to ſubdue the man that came out of the ſea.

6 But I beheld, and lo, he had graved himſelf a great mountain, and flew up upon it.

7 But I would have ſeen the region or place whereout the hill was graven, and I could not.

8 And after this I beheld, and lo, all they which were gathered together to ſubdue him, were ſore afraid, and yet durſt fight.

9 And lo, as he ſaw the violence of the multitude that came, he neither lifted up his hand, nor held ſword, nor any inſtrument of war.

10 But only I ſaw that he ſent out of his mouth as it had been a blaſt of fire, and out of his lips a flaming breath, and out of his tongue he caſt out ſparks and tempeſts.

11 And they were all mixed together: the blaſt of fire, the flaming breath, and the great tempeſt; and fell with violence upon the multitude which was prepared to fight, and burnt them up every one, ſo that upon a ſudden, of an innumerable multitude, nothing was to be perceived, but only duſt and ſmell of ſmoke: when I ſaw this, I was afraid.

12 Afterward ſaw I the ſame man come down from the mountain, and call unto him another peaceable multitude,

13 And there came much people unto him, whereof ſome were glad, ſome were ſorry, ſome of them were bound, and other ſome brought of them that were offered: then was I ſick, through great fear, and I awaked, and ſaid,

14 Thou haſt ſhewed thy ſervant theſe wonders from the beginning, and haſt counted me worthy that thou ſhouldeſt receive my prayer:

15 Shew me now yet the interpretation of this dream.

16 For as I conceive in mine underſtanding, woe unto them that ſhall be left in thoſe days! and much more woe unto them that are not left behind!

17 For they that were not left were in heavineſs.

18 Now underſtand I the things that are laid up in the latter days, which ſhall happen unto them, and to thoſe that are left behind.

19 Therefore are they come into great perils, and many neceſſities, like as theſe dreams declare.

20 Yet it is eaſier for him that is in danger to come into theſe things, than to paſs away as a cloud out of the world, and not to ſee the things that happen in the laſt days. And he anſwered unto me, and ſaid,

21 The interpretation of the viſion ſhall I ſhew thee, and I will open unto thee the thing that thou haſt required.

22 Whereas thou haſt ſpoken of them that are left behind, this is the interpretation:

23 He that ſhall endure the peril in that time hath kept himſelf: they that be fallen into danger are ſuch as have works, and faith towards the Almighty.

24 Know this therefore, that they which be left behind are more bleſſed than they that be dead.

25 ¶ This is the meaning of the viſion, Whereas thou ſaweſt a man coming up from the midſt of the ſea:

26 The ſame is he whom God the Higheſt hath kept a great ſeaſon, which by his ownſelf ſhall deliver his creature: and he ſhall order them that are left behind.

27 And whereas thou ſaweſt, that out of his mouth there came as a blaſt of wind, and fire, and ſtorm;

28 And that he held neither ſword, nor any inſtrument of war, but that the ruſhing in of him deſtroyed the whole multitude that came to ſubdue him; this is the interpretation:

29 Behold, the days come, when the Moſt High will begin to deliver them that are upon the earth.

30 And he ſhall come to the aſtoniſhment of them that dwell on the earth.

31 And one ſhall undertake to fight againſt another, one city againſt another, one place againſt another, one people againſt another, and one realm againſt another.

32 And the time ſhall be when theſe things ſhall come to paſs, and the ſigns ſhall happen which I ſhewed thee before, and then ſhall my ſon be declared, whom thou ſaweſt as a man aſcending.

33 And when all the people hear his voice, every man ſhall in their own land leave the battle they have one againſt another.

34 And an innumerable multitude ſhall be gathered together, as thou ſaweſt them, willing to come, and to overcome him by fighting.

35 But he ſhall ſtand upon the top of the mount Sion.

36 And Sion ſhall come, and ſhall be ſhewed to all men, being prepared and builded, like as thou ſaweſt the hill graven without hands.

37 And this my Son ſhall rebuke the wicked inventions of thoſe nations, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempeſt;

38 And ſhall lay before them their evil thoughts, and the torments wherewith they ſhall begin to be tormented, which are like unto a flame; and he ſhall deſtroy them without labour, by the law which is like unto fire.

39 And whereas thou ſaweſt that he gathered another peaceable multitude unto him;

40 Thoſe are the ten tribes which were carried away priſoners out of their own land, in the time of Oſea the king, whom Salmanaſar the king of Aſſyria led away captive, and he carried them over the waters, and ſo came they into another land.

41 But they took this counſel among themſelves, that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go forth into a further country, where never mankind dwelt,

42 That they might there keep their ſtatutes, which they never kept in their own land.

43 And they entered into Euphrates by the narrow paſſages of the river.

44 For the Moſt High then ſhewed ſigns for them, and held ſtill the flood, till they were paſſed over.

45 For through that country there was a great way to go; namely, of a year and a half: and the ſame region is called Arſareth.

46 Then dwelt they there until the latter time: and now when they ſhall begin to come,

47 The Higheſt ſhall ſtay the ſprings of the ſtream again, that they may go through: therefore ſaweſt thou the multitude with peace.

48 But thoſe that be left behind of thy people, are they that are found within my borders.

49 Now when he deſtroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he ſhall defend his people that remain.

50 And then ſhall he ſhew them great wonders.

51 Then ſaid I, O Lord that beareſt rule, ſhew me this: Wherefore have I ſeen the man coming up from the midſt of the ſea?

52 And he ſaid unto me, Like as thou canſt neither

---

25 This is the meaning of the viſion, &c.) The prophet being unable to explain the meaning of the viſion, God vouchſafed to explain it to him, and ſheweth him, that Iſrael ſhall again return in peace to their own land, ſeek

ſeek out, nor know the things that are in the deep of the ſea: even ſo can no man upon earth ſee my Son, or thoſe that be with him, but in the day-time.

53 This is the interpretation of the dream which thou ſaweſt, and whereby thou only art here lightened.

54 For thou haſt forſaken thine own way, and applied thy diligence unto my law, and ſought it.

55 Thy life haſt thou ordered in wiſdom, and haſt called underſtanding thy mother.

56 And therefore have I ſhewed thee the treaſures of the Higheſt; after other three days I will ſpeak other things unto thee, and declare unto thee mighty and wondrous things.

57 Then went I forth into the field, giving praiſe and thanks greatly unto the Moſt High, becauſe of his wonders which he did in time, 58 And becauſe he governeth the ſame, and ſuch things as fall in their ſeaſons: and there I ſat three days.

CHAP. XIV.

1 A voice out of a buſh calleth Eſdras, 10 and telleth him that the world waxeth old.

AND it came to paſs upon the third day, I ſat under an oak, and behold, there came a voice out of a buſh over againſt me, and ſaid, Eſdras, Eſdras.

2 And I ſaid, Here am I, Lord; and I ſtood up upon my feet.

3 Then ſaid he unto me, In the buſh I did manifeſtly reveal myſelf unto Moſes, and talked with him, when my people ſerved in Egypt.

4 And I ſent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him up to the mount of Sinai, where I held him by me a long ſeaſon,

5 And told him many wondrous things, and ſhewed him the ſecrets of the times, and the end: and commanded him, ſaying,

6 Theſe words ſhalt thou declare, and theſe ſhalt thou hide.

7 And now I ſay unto thee,

8 That thou lay up in thy heart the ſigns that I have ſhewed, and the dreams that thou haſt ſeen, and the interpretations which thou haſt heard:

9 For thou ſhalt be taken away from all, and from henceforth thou ſhalt remain with my Son, and with ſuch as be like thee, until the times be ended.

10 ¶ For the world hath loſt his youth, and the times begin to wax old.

11 For the world is divided into twelve parts, and the ten parts of it are gone already, and half of a tenth part.

12 And there remaineth that which is after the half of the tenth part.

13 Now therefore ſet thine houſe in order, and reprove thy people, comfort ſuch of them as be in trouble, and now renounce corruption.

14 Let go from thee mortal thoughts, caſt away the burdens of man, put off now the weak nature,

15 And ſet aſide the thoughts that are moſt heavy unto thee, and haſte thee to flee from theſe times.

16 For yet greater evils than thoſe which thou haſt ſeen happen ſhall be done hereafter.

17 For look how much the world ſhall be weaker through age, ſo much the more ſhall evils increaſe upon them that dwell therein.

18 For the truth is fled far away, and leaſing is hard at hand: for now haſteth the viſion to come which thou haſt ſeen.

19 Then anſwered I before thee, and ſaid;

20 Behold, Lord, I will go as thou haſt commanded me, and reprove the people which are preſent: but they that ſhall be born afterward, who ſhall admoniſh them? thus the world is ſet in darkneſs, and they that dwell therein are without light.

21 For thy law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the works that ſhall begin.

22 But if I have found grace before thee, ſend the Holy Ghoſt into me, and I ſhall write all that hath been done in the world ſince the beginning, which were written in thy law, that men may find thy path, and that they which will live in the latter days may live.

23 And he anſwered me, ſaying, Go thy way, gather the people together, and ſay unto them, That they ſeek thee not for forty days.

24 But look thou, prepare thee many box-trees, and take with thee Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Aſiel, theſe five which are ready to write ſwiftly.

25 And come hither, and I ſhall light a candle of underſtanding in thine heart, which ſhall not be put out, till the things be performed which thou ſhalt begin to write.

26 And when thou haſt done, ſome things ſhalt thou publiſh, and ſome things ſhalt thou ſhew ſecretly to the wiſe: to-morrow this hour ſhalt thou begin to write.

27 Then went I forth, as he commanded, and gathered all the people together, and ſaid,

28 Hear theſe words, O Iſrael:

29 Our fathers at the beginning were ſtrangers in Egypt, from whence they were delivered:

30 And received the law of life which they kept not, which ye alſo have tranſgreſſed after them.

31 Then was the land, even the land of Sion, parted among you by lot: but your fathers, and ye yourſelves, have done unrighteouſneſs, and have not kept the ways which the Higheſt commanded you.

32 And foraſmuch as he is a righteous judge, he took from you in time the thing that he had given you.

33 And now are ye here, and your brethren among you.

34 Therefore, if ſo be that ye will ſubdue your own underſtanding, and reform your hearts, ye ſhall be kept alive, and after death ye ſhall obtain mercy.

35 For after death ſhall the judgment come, when we ſhall live again: and then ſhall the names of the righteous be manifeſt, and the works of the ungodly ſhall be declared.

36 Let no man therefore come unto me now, nor ſeek after me theſe forty days.

37 So I took the five men as he commanded me, and we went into the field, and remained there.

38 And the next day, behold, a voice called me,

54 For thou haſt forſaken thine own way, &c.) As the prophet had applied himſelf to the keeping of the law of the Lord, and taken heed to walk ſtedfaſtly in his ways, God declares he was well pleaſed with him, and would ſhew him yet more wonderful and aſtoniſhing things.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

1 Behold, there came a voice out of a buſh over againſt me, &c.) Eſdras, from a voice out of a neighbouring buſh, is informed that the world is greatly decayed, and ſhould ſtill continue to wax weaker and weaker, becauſe truth was fled from the earth.

22 Send the Holy Ghoſt into me, &c.) The prophet preſents his ſupplication to the Almighty, that he might by divine inſpiration write the law, becauſe the roll which contained it was burnt with fire.

23 Go thy way, gather the people together, &c.) The Almighty hearkened to the voice of the prophet, and accordingly writing tables and five ſwift writers were ordered to be procured; which being performed, both Eſdras and his companions are filled with the ſpirit of underſtanding, and write the law: but Eſdras is commanded not to publiſh the whole revelation.

ſaying,

ſaying, Eſdras, open thy mouth, and drink that I give thee to drink.

39 Then opened I my mouth, and behold, he reached me a full cup, which was full as it were with water, but the colour of it was like fire.

40 And I took it and drank: and when I had drunk of it my heart uttered underſtanding, and wiſdom grew in my breaſt, for my ſpirit ſtrengthened my memory:

41 And my mouth was opened, and ſhut no more.

42 The Higheſt gave underſtanding unto the five men, and they wrote the wonderful viſions of the night that were told, which they knew not: and they ſat forty days, and they wrote in the day, and at night they ate bread.

43 As for me, I ſpake in the day, and I held not my tongue by night.

44 In forty days they wrote two hundred and four books.

45 And it came to paſs, when the forty days were fulfilled, that the Higheſt ſpake, ſaying, The firſt that thou haſt written publiſh openly, that the worthy and unworthy may read it.

46 But keep the ſeventy laſt, that thou mayeſt deliver them only to ſuch as be wiſe among the people.

47 For in them is the ſpring of underſtanding, the fountain of wiſdom, and the ſtream of knowledge.

48 And I did ſo.

CHAP. XV.

1 This prophecy is certain. 10 God will take vengeance.

BEHOLD, ſpeak thou in the ears of my people the words of prophecy, which I will put in thy mouth, ſaith the Lord,

2 And cauſe them to be written in paper: for they are faithful and true.

3 Fear not the imaginations againſt thee, let not the incredulity of them trouble thee that ſpeak againſt thee.

4 For all the unfaithful ſhall die in their unfaithfulneſs.

5 Behold, ſaith the Lord, I will bring plagues upon the world; the ſword, famine, death and deſtruction.

6 For wickedneſs hath exceedingly polluted the whole earth, and their hurtful works are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, ſaith the Lord,

8 I will hold my tongue no more as touching their wickedneſs, which they profanely commit, neither will I ſuffer them in thoſe things, in which they wickedly exerciſe themſelves: behold, the innocent and righteous blood crieth unto me, and the ſouls of the juſt complain continually.

9 And therefore, ſaith the Lord, I will ſurely avenge them, and receive unto me all the innocent blood from among them.

10 Behold, my people is led as a flock to the ſlaughter: I will not ſuffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt.

11 But I will bring them with a mighty hand, and a ſtretched-out arm, and ſmite Egypt with plagues as before, and will deſtroy all the land thereof.

12 Egypt ſhall mourn, and the foundation of it ſhall be ſmitten with the plague and puniſhment that God ſhall bring upon it.

13 They that till the ground ſhall mourn: for their ſeeds ſhall fail through the blaſting and hail, and with a fearful conſtellation.

14 Woe to the world, and them that dwell therein!

15 For the ſword and their deſtruction draweth nigh, and one people ſhall ſtand up to fight againſt another, and ſwords in their hands.

16 For there ſhall be ſedition among men, and invading one another; they ſhall not regard their kings nor princes, and the courſe of their actions ſhall ſtand in their power.

17 A man ſhall deſire to go into a city, and ſhall not be able.

18 For becauſe of their pride the cities ſhall be troubled, the houſes ſhall be deſtroyed, and men ſhall be afraid.

19 A man ſhall have no pity upon his neighbour, but ſhall deſtroy their houſes with the ſword, and ſpoil their goods becauſe of the lack of bread, and for great tribulation.

20 Behold, ſaith God, I will call together all the kings of the earth to reverence me, which are from the riſing of the ſun, from the ſouth, from the eaſt, and Libanus, to turn themſelves one againſt another, and repay the things that they have done to them.

21 Like as they do yet this day unto my choſen, ſo will I do alſo, and recompenſe in their boſom. Thus ſaith the Lord God, 22 My right hand ſhall not ſpare the ſinners, and my ſword ſhall not ceaſe over them that ſhed innocent blood upon the earth.

23 The fire is gone forth from his wrath, and hath conſumed the foundations of the earth, and the ſinners, like the ſtraw that is kindled.

24 Woe to them that ſin, and keep not my commandments! ſaith the Lord.

25 I will not ſpare them: go your way, ye children, from the power, defile not my ſanctuary.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that ſin againſt him, and therefore delivereth he them unto death and deſtruction.

27 For now are the plagues come upon the whole earth, and ye ſhall remain in them: for God ſhall not deliver you, becauſe ye have ſinned againſt him.

28 ¶ Behold, an horrible viſion, and the appearance thereof from the eaſt:

29 Where the nations of the dragons of Arabia ſhall come out with many chariots, and the multitude of them ſhall be carried as the wind upon earth, that all they which hear them may fear and tremble.

30 Alſo the Carmanians raging in wrath ſhall go forth as the wild boars of the wood, and with great power ſhall they come, and join battle with them, and ſhall waſte a portion of the land of the Aſſyrians.

31 And then ſhall the dragons have the upper hand, remembering their nature; and if they ſhall turn themſelves, conſpiring together in great power to perſecute them:

32 Then theſe ſhall be troubled, and keep ſilence through their power, and ſhall flee.

33 And from the land of the Aſſyrians ſhall the enemy beſiege them, and conſume ſome of them, and in their hoſt ſhall be fear and dread, and ſtrife among their kings.

34 Behold, clouds from the eaſt, and from the north, unto the ſouth, and they are very horrible to look upon, full of wrath and ſtorm.

35 They ſhall ſmite one upon another, and they ſhall ſmite down a great multitude of ſtars upon the earth, even their own ſtar; and blood ſhall be from the ſword unto the belly,

36 And dung of men unto the camel's bough.

37 And there ſhall be great fearfulneſs and trembling upon the earth: and they that ſee the wrath ſhall be afraid, and trembling ſhall come upon them.

38 And then ſhall there come great ſtorms from the ſouth, and from the north, and another part from the weſt.

39 And ſtrong winds ſhall ariſe from the eaſt, and ſhall open it, and the cloud which he raiſed up in wrath, and the ſtar ſtirred to cauſe fear toward the eaſt and weſt wind, ſhall be deſtroyed.

40 The great and mighty clouds ſhall be lifted up full of wrath, and the ſtar, that they may make all the earth afraid, and them that dwell therein: and they ſhall pour out, over every high and eminent place, an horrible ſtar.

41 Fire and hail, and flying ſwords, and many waters, that all fields may be full, and all rivers with the abundance of great waters.

42 And they ſhall break down the cities and walls, mountains and hills, trees of the wood, and graſs of the meadows, and their corn.

43 And they ſhall go ſtedfaſtly unto Babylon, and make her afraid.

44 They ſhall come to her, and beſiege her, the ſtar and all wrath ſhall they pour out upon her: then ſhall the duſt and ſmoke go up unto the heaven, and all they that be about her ſhall bewail her.

45 And they that remain under her ſhall do ſervice unto them that have put her in fear.

46 And thou, Aſia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and art the glory of his perſon:

47 Woe be unto thee, thou wretch! becauſe thou haſt made thyſelf like unto her; and haſt decked thy daughters in whoredom, that they might pleaſe and glory in thy lovers, which have alway deſired to commit whoredom with thee.

48 Thou haſt followed her that is hated in all her works and inventions: therefore ſaith God,

49 I will ſend plagues upon thee; widowhood, poverty, famine, ſword, and peſtilence, to waſte thy houſes with deſtruction and death.

50 And the glory of thy power ſhall be dried up as a flower, when the heat ſhall ariſe that is ſent over thee.

51 Thou ſhalt be weakened as a poor woman with ſtripes, and as one chaſtiſed with wounds, ſo that the mighty and lovers ſhall not be able to receive thee.

52 Would I with jealouſy have ſo proceeded againſt thee, ſaith the Lord,

53 If thou hadſt not always ſlain my choſen, exalting the ſtroke of thine hands, and ſaying over their dead, when thou waſt drunken,

54 Set forth the beauty of thy countenance?

55 The reward of thy whoredom ſhall be in thy boſom, therefore ſhalt thou receive recompence.

56 Like as thou haſt done unto my choſen, ſaith the Lord, even ſo ſhall God do unto thee, and ſhall deliver thee into miſchief.

57 Thy children ſhall die of hunger, and thou ſhalt fall through the ſword; thy cities ſhall be broken down, and all thine ſhall periſh with the ſword in the field.

58 They that be in the mountains ſhall die of hunger, and eat their own fleſh, and drink their own blood, for very hunger of bread, and thirſt of water.

59 Thou, as unhappy, ſhalt come through the ſea, and receive plagues again.

60 And in the paſſage they ſhall ruſh on the idle city, and ſhall deſtroy ſome portion of thy land, and conſume part of thy glory, and ſhall return to Babylon that was deſtroyed.

61 And thou ſhalt be caſt down by them as ſtubble, and they ſhall be unto thee as fire:

62 And ſhall conſume thee, and thy cities, thy land, and thy mountains; all thy woods and thy fruitful trees ſhall they burn up with fire.

63 Thy children ſhall they carry away captive; and, look, what thou haſt, they ſhall ſpoil it, and mar the beauty of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Babylon threatened. 40 The ſervants of the Lord muſt look for trouble.

WOE be unto thee, Babylon and Aſia: woe be unto thee, Egypt and Syria!

2 Gird up yourſelves with clothes of ſack and hair, bewail your children, and be ſorry; for your deſtruction is at hand.

3 A ſword is ſent upon you, and who may turn it back?

4 A fire is ſent among you, and who may quench it?

5 Plagues are ſent unto you, and what is he that he may drive them away?

6 May any man drive away an hungry lion in the wood? or may any one quench the fire in ſtubble, when it hath begun to burn?

7 May one turn again the arrow that is ſhot of a ſtrong archer?

8 The mighty Lord ſendeth the plagues, and who is he that can drive them away?

9 A fire ſhall go forth from his wrath, and who is he that may quench it?

10 He ſhall caſt lightnings, and who ſhall not fear? he ſhall thunder, and who ſhall not be afraid?

11 The Lord ſhall threaten, and who ſhall not be utterly beaten to powder at his preſence?

12 The earth quaketh, and the foundations thereof; the ſea ariſeth up with waves from the deep, and the waves of it are troubled, and the fiſhes thereof alſo, before the Lord, and before the glory of his power.

13 For ſtrong is his right hand that bendeth the bow, his arrows that he ſhooteth are ſharp, and ſhall not miſs when they begin to be ſhot into the ends of the world.

14 Behold, the plagues are ſent, and ſhall not return again, until they come upon the earth.

15 The fire is kindled, and ſhall not be put out, till it conſume the foundation of the earth.

16 Like as an arrow, which is ſhot of a mighty archer, returneth not backward: even ſo the plagues, that ſhall be ſent upon earth, ſhall not return again.

17 Woe is me! woe is me! who will deliver me in thoſe days?

18 The beginning of ſorrows and great mourning; the beginning of famine and great dearth; the beginnings of wars, and the powers ſhall ſtand in fear; the beginning of evils! what ſhall I do when theſe evils ſhall come?

19 Behold, famine and plague, tribulation and anguiſh, are ſent as ſcourges for amendment.

20 But for all theſe things they ſhall not turn from their wickedneſs, nor be alway mindful of the ſcourges.

21 Behold, victuals ſhall be ſo good cheap upon earth, that they ſhall think themſelves to be in good caſe, and even then ſhall evils grow upon earth, ſword, famine, and great confuſion.

22 For many of them that dwell upon earth ſhall periſh of famine; and the other that eſcape the hunger, ſhall the ſword deſtroy.

23 And the dead ſhall be caſt out as dung, and there ſhall be no man to comfort them: for the earth ſhall be waſted, and the cities ſhall be caſt down.

24 There ſhall be no man left to till the earth and to ſow it.

25 The trees ſhall give fruit, and who ſhall gather them?

26 The grapes ſhall ripen, and who ſhall tread them? for all places ſhall be deſolate of men:

27 So that one man ſhall deſire to ſee another, and to hear his voice.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

43 And they ſhall go ſtedfaſtly unto Babylon, &c.) Babylon and Aſia are next threatened for their whoredoms and idolatrous inventions, with poverty, famine, ſword and peſtilence, deſtruction and death; their children were to be carried into captivity, and their land totally ſpoiled and laid waſte.

28 For of a city there ſhall be ten left, and two of the field, which ſhall hide themſelves in the thick groves, and in the clefts of the rocks.

29 As in an orchard of olives, upon every tree there are left three or four olives;

30 Or as when a vineyard is gathered, there are left ſome cluſters of them that diligently ſeek through the vineyard:

31 Even ſo in thoſe days there ſhall be three or four left by them that ſearch their houſes with the ſword.

32 And the earth ſhall be laid waſte, and the fields thereof ſhall wax old, and her ways and all her paths ſhall grow full of thorns, becauſe no man ſhall travel there-through.

33 The virgins ſhall mourn, having no bridegrooms; the women ſhall mourn, having no huſbands; their daughters ſhall mourn, having no helpers.

34 In the wars ſhall their bridegrooms be deſtroyed, and their huſbands ſhall periſh of famine.

35 Hear now theſe things, and underſtand them, ye ſervants of the Lord.

36 Behold, the word of the Lord, receive it: believe not the gods of whom the Lord ſpake.

37 Behold, the plagues draw nigh, and are not ſlack.

38 As when a woman with child in the ninth month bringeth forth her ſon, within two or three hours of her birth great pains compaſs her womb, which pains, when the child cometh forth, they ſlack not a moment:

39 Even ſo ſhall not the plagues be ſlack to come upon the earth, and the world ſhall mourn, and ſorrows ſhall come upon it on every ſide.

40 ¶ O my people, hear my word: make you ready to the battle, and, in thoſe evils, be even as pilgrims upon the earth.

41 He that ſelleth, let him be as he that fleeth away: and he that buyeth, as one that will loſe:

42 He that occupieth merchandiſe, as he that hath no profit by it; and he that buildeth, as he that ſhall not dwell therein:

43 He that ſoweth, as if he ſhould not reap: ſo alſo he that planteth the vineyard, as he that ſhall not gather the grapes:

44 They that marry, as they that ſhall get no children; and they that marry not, as the widowers:

45 And therefore they that labour, labour in vain.

46 For ſtrangers ſhall reap their fruits, and ſpoil their goods, overthrow their houſes, and take their children captives; for in captivity and famine ſhall they get children.

47 And they that occupy their merchandiſe with robbery, the more they deck their cities, their houſes, their poſſeſſions, and their own perſons,

48 The more will I be angry with them for their ſin, ſaith the Lord.

49 Like as a whore envieth a right honeſt and virtuous woman;

50 So ſhall righteouſneſs hate iniquity when ſhe decketh herſelf, and ſhall accuſe her to her face, when he cometh that ſhall defend him that diligently ſearcheth out every ſin upon earth.

51 And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the works thereof.

52 For yet a little, and iniquity ſhall be taken away out of the earth, and righteouſneſs ſhall reign among you.

53 Let not the ſinner ſay that he hath not ſinned: for God ſhall burn coals of fire upon his head, which ſaith before the Lord God and his glory, I have not ſinned.

54 Behold, the Lord knoweth all the works of men, their imaginations, their thoughts, and their hearts;

55 Which ſpake but the word, Let the earth be made, and it was made; let the heaven be made, and it was created.

56 In his word were the ſtars made, and he knoweth the number of them.

57 He ſearcheth the deep and the treaſures thereof; he hath meaſured the ſea, and what it containeth.

58 He hath ſhut the ſea in the midſt of the waters; and with his word hath he hanged the earth upon the waters.

59 He ſpreadeth out the heavens like a vault, upon the waters hath he founded it.

60 In the deſert hath he made ſprings of water, and pools upon the tops of the mountains, that the floods might pour down from the high rocks to water the earth.

61 He made man, and put his heart in the midſt of the body, and gave him breath, life, and underſtanding.

62 Yea, and the Spirit of Almighty God, which made all things, and ſearcheth out all hidden things in the ſecrets of the earth.

63 Surely he knoweth your inventions, and what ye think in your hearts, even them that ſin, and would hide their ſin.

64 Therefore hath the Lord exactly ſearched out all your works, and he will put you all to ſhame.

65 And when your ſins are brought forth, ye ſhall be aſhamed before men, and your own ſins ſhall be your accuſers in that day.

66 What will ye do? or how will ye hide your ſins before God and his angels.

67 Behold, God himſelf is the judge, fear him: leave off from your ſins, and forget your iniquities, to meddle no more with them for ever; ſo ſhall God lead you forth, and deliver you from all trouble.

68 For behold, the burning wrath of a great multitude is kindled over you, and they ſhall take away certain of you, and feed you, being idle, with things offered unto idols.

69 And they that conſent unto them ſhall be had in deriſion, and in reproach, and trodden under foot.

70 For there ſhall be in every place, and in the next cities, a great inſurrection upon thoſe that fear the Lord.

71 They ſhall be like madmen, ſparing none, but ſtill ſpoiling and deſtroying thoſe that fear the Lord.

72 For they ſhall waſte and take away their goods, and caſt them out of their houſes.

73 Then ſhall they be known who are my choſen, and they ſhall be tried as the gold in the fire.

74 Hear, O ye my beloved, ſaith the Lord: behold, the days of trouble are at hand, but I will deliver you from the ſame.

75 Be ye not afraid, neither doubt, for God is your guide,

76 And the guide of them who keep my commandments and precepts, ſaith the Lord God: let not your ſins weigh you down, and let not your iniquities lift up themſelves.

77 Woe be unto them that are bound with their ſins, and covered with their iniquities! like as a field is covered over with buſhes, and the path thereof covered with thorns, that no man may travel through:

78 It is left undreſſed, and is caſt into the fire to be conſumed therewith.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

40 O my people, hear my word, &c.) The true worſhippers of the Moſt High, being only pilgrims in this vale of miſery, muſt expect to go through troubles and afflictions; no man is without ſin, no man ſhould therefore endeavour to conceal it; but make confeſſion of his faults to the Almighty, who is faithful, and juſt to forgive us our ſins, and to cleanſe us from all unrighteouſneſs. 1 John, i. 9.

THE BOOK OF

T O B I T.

THE ARGUMENT.

The book of Tobit was never eſteemed as canonical, except by a decree of the Council of Trent, and probably was never ſeen by the Jewiſh church. It has however been allowed by the generality of the fathers of the Chriſtian church to be a true hiſtory of this particular family, a good example of charity and benevolence, and an excellent pattern of paternal care and filial obedience.

CHAP. I.

1 Tobit's devotion: 9 his marriage, 10 captivity, 13 preferment, 16 his alms.

THE book of the words of Tobit, ſon of Tobiel, the ſon of Ananiel, the ſon of Aduel, the ſon of Gabael, of the ſeed of Aſael of the tribe of Nephtali,

2 Who in the time of Enemeſſar king of the Aſſyrians, was led captive out of Thiſbe, which is at the right hand of that city which is called properly Nephtali in Galilee above Aſer.

3 I Tobit have walked all the days of my life in the way of truth and juſtice, and I did many alms-deeds to my brethren, and my nation, who came with me to Nineve, into the land of the Aſſyrians.

4 And when I was in mine own country, in the land of Iſrael, being but young, all the tribe of Nephtali my father fell from the houſe of Jeruſalem, which was choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael, that all the tribes ſhould ſacrifice there, where the temple of the habitation of the Moſt High was conſecrated and built for all ages.

5 Now all the tribes which together revolted, and the houſe of my father Nephtali, ſacrificed unto the heifer Baal.

6 But I alone went often to Jeruſalem at the feaſts, as it was ordained unto all the people of Iſrael by an everlaſting decree, having the firſt-fruits, and tenths of increaſe, with that which was firſt ſhorn; and them gave I at the altar to the prieſts the children of Aaron.

7 The firſt tenth part of all increaſe I gave to the ſons of Aaron, who miniſtered at Jeruſalem: another tenth part I ſold away, and went and ſpent it every year at Jeruſalem:

8 And the third I gave unto them to whom it was meet as Debora my father's mother had commanded me, becauſe I was left an orphan by my father.

9 ¶ Furthermore, when I was come to the age of a man, I married Anna of mine own kindred, and of her I begat Tobias.

10 ¶ And when we were carried away captives to Nineve, all my brethren, and thoſe that were of my kindred, did eat of the bread of the Gentiles.

11 But I kept myſelf from eating;

12 Becauſe I remembered God with all my heart.

13 ¶ And the Moſt High gave me grace and favour before Enemeſſar, ſo that I was his purveyor.

14 And I went into Media, and left in truſt with Gabael, the brother of Gabrias, at Rages, a city of Media, ten talents of ſilver.

15 Now when Enemeſſar was dead, Sennacherib his ſon reigned in his ſtead, whoſe eſtate was troubled, that I could not go into Media.

16 ¶ And in the time of Enemeſſar, I gave many alms to my brethren, and gave my bread to the hungry,

17 And my clothes to the naked: and if I ſaw any of my nation dead, or caſt about the walls of Nineve, I buried him.

18 And if the king Sennacherib had ſlain any, when he was come and fled from Judea, I buried them privily (for in his wrath he killed many); but the bodies were not found, when they were ſought for of the king.

19 And when one of the Ninevites went and complained of me to the king, that I buried them, and hid myſelf; underſtanding that I was ſought for to be put to death, I withdrew myſelf for fear.

20 Then all my goods were forcibly taken away,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

6 But I alone went often to Jeruſalem, &c.) Though bad examples are often of the moſt pernicious conſequences, yet they only allure, not compel. Tobit, in the midſt of a degenerate people, ſtill maintained his integrity, and worſhipped the God of his fathers in the place which he had choſen out of all the tribe of Iſrael to put his name there.

14 Rages a city of Media, &c.) Rages was ſituated among the mountains that ſeparate Media from Parthia, and about a day's journey from Ecbatane.

neither

neither was there any thing left me, beſides my wife Anna, and my ſon Tobias.

21 And there paſſed not five and fifty days before two of his ſons killed him, and they fled into the mountains of Ararath, and Sarchedonus his ſon reigned in his ſtead; who appointed over his father's accounts, and over all his affairs, Achiacharus, my brother Anael's ſon.

22 And Achiacharus entreating for me, I returned to Nineve. Now Achiacharus was cup-bearer, and keeper of the ſignet, and ſteward, and overſeer of the accounts; and Sarchedonus appointed him next unto him: and he was my brother's ſon.

CHAP. II.

1 Tobit leaveth his meat to bury the dead. 10 He becometh blind.

NOW when I was come home again, and my wife Anna was reſtored unto me, with my ſon Tobias, in the feaſt of Pentecoſt, which is the holy feaſt of the ſeven weeks, there was a good dinner prepared me, in the which I ſat down to eat.

2 And when I ſaw abundance of meat, I ſaid to my ſon, Go, and bring what poor man ſoever thou ſhalt find out of our brethren, who is mindful of the Lord; and lo, I tarry for thee.

3 But he came again, and ſaid, Father, one of our nation is ſtrangled, and caſt out in the market-place.

4 Then, before I had taſted of any meat, I ſtarted up, and took him up into a room, until the going down of the ſun.

5 Then I returned and waſhed myſelf, and ate my meat in heavineſs,

6 Remembering that prophecy of Amos, as he ſaid, Your feaſts ſhall be turned into mourning, and all your mirth into lamentation.

7 Therefore I wept: and after the going down of the ſun I went and made a grave and buried him.

8 But my neighbours mocked me, and ſaid, This man is not yet afraid to be put to death for this matter, who fled away; and yet lo, he burieth the dead again.

9 The ſame night alſo I returned from the burial, and ſlept by the wall of my court-yard, being polluted, and my face was uncovered:

10 ¶ And I knew not that there were ſparrows in the wall; and mine eyes being open, the ſparrows muted warm dung into mine eyes, and a whiteneſs came in mine eyes: and I went to the phyſicians, but they helped me not: moreover, Achiacharus did nouriſh me, until I went into Elymais.

11 And my wife Anna did take women's works to do.

12 And when ſhe had ſent them home to the owners they paid her wages, and gave her alſo beſides a kid.

13 And when it was in my houſe, and began to cry, I ſaid unto her, From whence is this kid? is it not ſtolen? render it to the owners; for it is not lawful to eat any thing that is ſtolen.

14 But ſhe replied unto me, It was given for a gift more than the wages: howbeit, I did not believe her, but bade her render it to the owners; and I was abaſhed at her. But ſhe replied unto me, Where are thine alms and thy righteous deeds? behold, thou and all thy works are known.

CHAP. III.

1 Tobit grieved with his wife's taunts, prayeth. 7 Sara, being reproached, prayeth alſo.

THEN I being grieved did weep, and in my ſorrow prayed, ſaying,

2 O Lord thou art juſt; and all thy works, and all thy ways, are mercy and truth; and thou judgeſt truly and juſtly for ever.

3 Remember me, and look on me; puniſh me not for my ſins and ignorances, and the ſins of my fathers, who have ſinned before thee:

4 For they obeyed not thy commandments: wherefore thou haſt delivered us for a ſpoil, and unto captivity and unto death, and for a proverb of reproach to all the nations among whom we are diſperſed.

5 And now thy judgments are many and true: deal with me according to my ſins and my fathers'; becauſe we have not kept thy commandments, neither have walked in truth before thee.

6 Now therefore deal with me as ſeemeth beſt unto thee, and command my ſpirit to be taken from me, that I may be diſſolved, and become earth; for it is profitable for me to die rather than to live, becauſe I have heard falſe reproaches, and have much ſorrow: command therefore that I may now be delivered out of this diſtreſs, and go into the everlaſting place: turn not thy face away from me.

7 ¶ It came to paſs the ſame day, that in Ecbatane, a city of Media, Sara the daughter of Raguel was alſo reproached by her father's maids;

8 Becauſe that ſhe had been married to ſeven huſbands, whom Aſmodeus the evil ſpirit had killed before they had lain with her. Doſt thou not know, ſaid they, that thou haſt ſtrangled thine huſbands? thou haſt had already ſeven huſbands, neither waſt thou named after any of them.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

4 Then, before I had taſted of any meat, &c.) We have here a very remarkable inſtance of humanity. Tobit, on hearing that an Iſraelite was ſlain, would not taſte any meat 'till he had taken up the body and conveyed it to his chamber, in order to bury it during the darkneſs of the night. He well knew what he had to expect from the king of Nineve, ſhould he be informed of this tranſaction, and had ſuffered before ſeverely on the ſame account: but danger could not deter him from performing an action of charity; and he rather choſe to expoſe himſelf to the fury of Sarchedonus, than let the dead body of any one of his brethren remain expoſed in the ſtreet.

6 Your feaſts ſhall be turned into mourning, &c.) See Amos viii. 10. Tobit here applies the words of Amos to the ſufferings of the ſeed of Jacob, and acknowledges that they ſuffered no more than what their ſins merited, and what the prophet had foretold would be the conſequence if they did not forſake their wicked courſes, and implore forgiveneſs from their Maker.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

7 Ecbatane, a city of Media, &c.) Herodotus ſays expreſsly, that the city of Ecbatane was built by Deioces the firſt king of the Medes; but he is doubtleſs wrong in aſcribing the whole honour of the work to him, which his ſon Phraortis at leaſt finiſhed and beautified to ſuch a degree, that, though the ſcripture is ſilent, prophane authors have given us a very advantageous account of it. The city, according to them, was ſituated on a ſpacious eminence, and into it Deioces had brought together the whole nation of the Medes, who ever before had lived in caves and huts, diſperſed up and down the country; and this great concourſe of people rendered it very large and populous. It was encompaſſed with ſeven walls at equal diſtances from each other. The firſt was the loweſt, and equal in circumference with the walls of Athens, that is, according to Thucydides, an hundred and ſeventy-eight furlongs. The reſt roſe gradually, and overlooked each other about the height of a battlement. Theſe walls made a very elegant appearance from their battlements being of different colours. The firſt was white, the ſecond black, the third red, the fourth blue, the fifth of a deep red, the ſixth of a ſilver, and the ſeventh of a gold colour; and for this reaſon, the city was uſually called by the ancients, Agbata, which, in the Arabic language, ſignifies a thing of different and diſtinct colours. The royal palace and treaſury ſtood within the ſeventh wall; and the former alone, according to Polybius, was ſeven furlongs in circumference, and built with all the coſt and ſkill requiſite in a ſtately fabric; for ſome of its beams were ſaid to have been of ſilver, and the reſt of cedar, ſtrengthened with plates of gold.

9 Wherefore doſt thou beat us for them? if they be dead, go thy ways after them, let us never ſee of thee either ſon or daughter.

10 When ſhe heard theſe things ſhe was very ſorrowful, ſo that ſhe thought to have ſtrangled herſelf; and ſhe ſaid, I am the only daughter of my father, and if I do this it ſhall be a reproach unto him, and I ſhall bring his old age with ſorrow unto the grave.

11 Then ſhe prayed toward the window, and ſaid, Bleſſed art thou, O Lord my God, and thine holy and glorious name is bleſſed and honourable for ever: let all thy works praiſe thee for ever.

12 And now, O Lord, I ſet mine eyes and my face toward thee,

13 And ſay, Take me out of the earth, that I may hear no more the reproach.

14 Thou knoweſt, Lord, that I am pure from all ſin with man.

15 And that I never polluted my name, nor the name of my father, in the land of my captivity: I am the only daughter of my father, neither hath he any child to be his heir, neither any near kinſman, nor any ſon of his alive, to whom I may keep myſelf for a wife: my ſeven huſbands are already dead, and why ſhould I live? but if it pleaſe not thee that I ſhould die, command ſome regard to be had of me, and pity taken of me, that I hear no more reproach.

16 So the prayers of them both were heard before the majeſty of the great God.

17 And Raphael was ſent to heal them both, that is, to ſcale away the whiteneſs of Tobit's eyes, and to give Sara the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the ſon of Tobit: and to bind Aſmodeus the evil ſpirit, becauſe ſhe belonged to Tobias by right of inheritance. The ſelf-ſame time came Tobit home, and entered into his houſe, and Sara the daughter of Raguel came down from her upper chamber.

CHAP. IV.

3 Tobit giveth inſtructions to his ſon, 20 and telleth him of money left in Media.

IN that day Tobit remembered the money which he had committed to Gabael in Rages of Media,

2 And ſaid with himſelf, I have wiſhed for death; wherefore do I not call for my ſon Tobias, that I may ſignify to him of the money before I die?

3 ¶ And when he had called him, he ſaid, My ſon, when I am dead, bury me, and deſpiſe not thy mother, but honour her all the days of thy life, and do that which ſhall pleaſe her, and grieve her not.

4 Remember, my ſon, that ſhe ſaw many dangers for thee, when thou waſt in her womb; and when ſhe is dead, bury her by me in one grave.

5 My ſon, be mindful of the Lord our God all thy days, and let not thy will be ſet to ſin, or to tranſgreſs his commandments: do uprightly all thy life long, and follow not the ways of unrighteouſneſs.

6 For if thou deal truly, thy doings ſhall proſperouſly ſucceed to thee, and to all them that live juſtly.

7 Give alms of thy ſubſtance; and when thou giveſt alms, let not thine eye be envious, neither turn thy face from any poor, and the face of God ſhall not be turned away from thee,

8 If thou haſt abundance, give alms accordingly: if thou have but a little, be not afraid to give according to that little.

9 For thou layeſt up a good treaſure for thyſelf againſt the day of neceſſity.

10 Becauſe that alms do deliver from death, and ſuffereth not to come into darkneſs.

11 For alms is a good gift unto all that give it, in the ſight of the Moſt High.

12 Beware of all whoredom, my ſon, and chiefly take a wife of the ſeed of thy fathers, and take not a ſtrange woman to wife, which is not of thy fathers' tribe; for we are the children of the prophets, Noe, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob: remember, my ſon, that our fathers from the beginning, even that they all married wives of their own kindred, and were bleſſed in their children, and their ſeed ſhall inherit the land.

13 Now therefore, my ſon, love thy brethren, and deſpiſe not in thy heart thy brethren, the ſons and daughters of thy people, in not taking a wife of them: for in pride is deſtruction and much trouble, and in lewdneſs is decay and great want: for lewdneſs is the mother of famine.

14 Let not the wages of any man, which hath wrought for thee, tarry with thee, but give him it out of hand; for if thou ſerve God, he will alſo repay thee: be circumſpect, my ſon, in all things thou doeſt, and be wiſe in all thy converſation.

15 Do that to no man which thou hateſt: drink not wine to make thee drunken; neither let drunkenneſs go with thee in thy journey.

16 Give of thy bread to the hungry, and of thy garments to them that are naked; and according to thine abundance give alms; and let not thine eye be envious when thou giveſt alms.

17 Pour out thy bread on the burial of the juſt, but give nothing to the wicked.

18 Aſk counſel of all that are wiſe, and deſpiſe not any counſel that is profitable.

19 Bleſs the Lord thy God alway, and deſire of him that thy ways may be directed, and that all thy paths and counſels may proſper: for every nation hath not counſel; but the Lord himſelf giveth all good things, and he humbleth whom he will, as he will; now therefore, my ſon, remember my commandments, neither let them be put out of thy mind.

20 ¶ And now I ſignify this to thee, that I committed ten talents to Gabael the ſon of Gabrias at Rages in Media.

21 And fear not, my ſon, that we are made poor: for thou haſt much wealth, if thou fear God, and depart from all ſin, and do that which is pleaſing in his ſight.

CHAP. V.

4 Young Tobias ſeeketh a guide into Media: 6 an angel agreeth to go with him.

TOBIAS then anſwered and ſaid, Father I will do all things which thou haſt commanded me.

2 But how can I receive the money, ſeeing I know him not?

3 Then he gave him the hand-writing, and ſaid unto him, Seek thee a man which may go with thee whiles I yet live, and I will give him wages: and go and receive the money.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

3 My ſon, when I am dead, bury me, and deſpiſe not thy mother, &c.) Theſe inſtructions of Tobit to his ſon Tobias ſhould be read with attention, and imprinted on the memory of every youth; for they contain directions that cannot fail of conducting him through the wilderneſs of this world with ſafety and applauſe. They will teach him the duties he owes to his parents and fellow mortals, and direct him to obſerve the precepts of religion, and obey the commands of the Moſt High.

4 ¶ Therefore when he went to ſeek a man, he found Raphael that was an angel;

5 But he knew not; and he ſaid unto him, Canſt thou go with me to Rages? and knoweſt thou thoſe places well?

6 ¶ To whom the angel ſaid, I will go with thee, and I know the way well: for I have lodged with our brother Gabael.

7 Then Tobias ſaid unto him, Tarry for me till I tell my father.

8 Then he ſaid unto him, Go and tarry not, So he went in and ſaid to his father, Behold, I have found one which will go with me. Then he ſaid, Call him unto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be a truſty man to go with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, and they ſaluted one another.

10 Then Tobit ſaid unto him, Brother ſhew me of what tribe and family thou art.

11 To whom he ſaid, Doſt thou ſeek for a tribe or family, or an hired man to go with thy ſon? Then Tobit ſaid unto him, I would know, brother thy kindred and name.

12 Then he ſaid, I am Azarias, the ſon of Ananias the great, and of thy brethren.

13 Then Tobit ſaid, Thou art welcome, brother; be not now angry with me, becauſe I have enquired to know thy tribe, and thy family; for thou art my brother, of an honeſt and good ſtock; for I know Ananias and Jonathas, ſons of that great Samaias; as we went together to Jeruſalem to worſhip, and offered the firſt-born, and the tenths of the fruits; and they were not ſeduced with the error of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a good ſtock.

14 But tell me, what wages ſhall I give thee? wilt thou a drachm a-day, and things neceſſary, as to mine own ſon?

15 Yea, moreover, if ye return ſafe, I will add ſomething to thy wages.

16 So they were well pleaſed. Then ſaid he to Tobias, Prepare thyſelf for the journey, and God ſend you a good journey. And when his ſon had prepared all things for the journey, his father ſaid, Go thou with this man, and God which dwelleth in heaven, proſper your journey, and the angel of God keep you company. So they went forth both, and the young man's dog with them.

17 But Anna his mother wept, and ſaid to Tobit, Why haſt thou ſent away our ſon? is he not the ſtaff of our hand, in going in and out before us?

18 Be not greedy to add money to money: but let it be as refuſe in reſpect of our child:

19 For that which the Lord hath given us to live with doth ſuffice us.

20 Then ſaid Tobit to her, Take no care, my ſiſter; he ſhall return in ſafety, and thine eyes ſhall ſee him.

21 For the good angel will keep him company, and his journey ſhall be proſperous, and he ſhall return ſafe.

22 Then ſhe made an end of weeping.

CHAP. VI.

4 The angel directeth Tobias about a fiſh, 16 and to drive the wicked ſpirit away.

AND as they went on their journey, they came in the evening to the river Tigris, and they lodged there.

2 And when the young man went down to waſh himſelf, a fiſh leaped out of the river, and would have devoured him.

3 Then the angel ſaid unto him, Take the fiſh; and the young man laid hold on the fiſh, and drew it to land.

4 ¶ To whom the angel ſaid, Open the fiſh, and take the heart, and the liver, and the gall, and put them up ſafely.

5 So the young man did as the angel commanded him; and when they had roaſted the fiſh, they did eat it: then they both went on their way, till they drew near to Ecbatane.

6 Then the young man ſaid to the angel, Brother Azarias, to what uſe is the heart, and the liver, and the gall of the fiſh?

7 And he ſaid unto him, Touching the heart and the liver, if a devil or an evil ſpirit trouble any, we muſt make a ſmoke thereof before the man or the woman, and the party ſhall be no more vexed.

8 As for the gall, it is good to anoint a man that hath whiteneſs in his eyes, and he ſhall be healed.

9 And when they were come near to Rages,

10 The angel ſaid to the young man, Brother, to-day we ſhall lodge with Raguel, who is thy couſin; he alſo hath one only daughter, named Sara; I will ſpeak for her, that ſhe may be given thee for a wife.

11 For to thee doth the right of her appertain, ſeeing thou only art of her kindred.

12 And the maid is fair and wiſe: now therefore hear me, and I will ſpeak to her father; and when we return from Rages, we will celebrate the marriage; for I know that Raguel cannot marry her to another, according to the law of Moſes, but he ſhall be guilty of death, becauſe the right of inheritance doth rather appertain to thee than to any other.

13 Then the young man anſwered the angel, I have heard, brother Azarias, that this maid hath been given to ſeven men, who all died in the marriage-chamber.

14 And now I am the only ſon of my father, and I am afraid, leſt if I go in unto her, I die as the other before: for a wicked ſpirit loveth her, which hurteth nobody, but thoſe which come unto her; wherefore I alſo fear leſt I die, and bring my father's and my mother's life (becauſe of me) to the grave with ſorrow: for they have no other ſon to bury them.

15 Then the angel ſaid unto him, Doſt thou not

Commentary on Chap. V.

4 He found Raphael that was an angel.) Tobias obeyed the directions of his father, and went out to find a man to accompany him in his journey; and as he was paſſing through the ſtreet, the angel Raphael appeared to him in the form of a young Iſraelite, and offered to conduct him to his father's friend Gabael, at Rages, at whoſe houſe he had lodged.

Commentary on Chap. VI.

1 And as they went on their journey, &c.) Tobias and his companion, as they purſued their journey, came one evening to the river Tigris, near which they lodged; and Tobias went into the river to waſh his feet, when a great fiſh came towards him, and ſeemed determined to devour him; but the angel encouraged Tobias, adviſing him to lay hold of the fiſh, and draw it to the ſhore. This he accordingly did, and the angel ordered him to take out the entrails of it, and keep the heart, the gall, and the liver, as they were poſſeſſed of remarkable virtues.

8 As for the gall, &c.) This fiſh, according to Bochart, is that river fiſh which the Latins call Silurus: it is found only in great rivers, and is the boldeſt and moſt voracious of any freſh-water fiſh whatever; its throat is very large, its teeth very ſharp, and phyſicians ſay, its gall is very good for the eyes.

15 Doſt thou not remember the precepts which thy father gave thee? &c.) The angel, to remove the fears of Tobias, told him that the perſons over whom the evil ſpirits had power, were ſuch as married without the fear of the Almighty, and only to ſatisfy their brutal appetites; but that if he followed his inſtructions, he would be able to drive the evil ſpirit from the houſe.

remember

remember the precepts which thy father gave thee, that thou ſhouldeſt marry a wife of thine own kindred? wherefore hear me, O my brother, for ſhe ſhall be given thee to wife; and make thou no reckoning of the evil ſpirit; for this ſame night ſhall ſhe be given thee in marriage.

16 ¶ And when thou ſhalt come into the marriage-chamber, thou ſhalt take the aſhes of perfume, and lay upon them ſome of the heart and liver of the fiſh, and ſhalt make a ſmoke with it:

17 And the devil ſhall ſmell it, and flee away, and never come again any more: but when thou ſhalt come to her, riſe up both of you, and pray to God, which is merciful, who will have pity on you, and ſave you: fear not, for ſhe is appointed unto thee from the beginning; and thou ſhalt preſerve her, and ſhe ſhall go with thee: moreover, I ſuppoſe that ſhe ſhall bear thee children. Now when Tobias had heard theſe things, he loved her, and his heart was effectually joined to her.

CHAP. VII.

12 Raguel giveth Tobias his daughter. 17 She weepeth: 18 is comforted.

AND when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the houſe of Raguel, and Sara met them: and after they had ſaluted one another, ſhe brought them into the houſe.

2 Then ſaid Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this young man to Tobit my couſin!

3 And Raguel aſked them, From whence are ye, brethren? To whom they ſaid, We are of the ſons of Nephthalim, which are captives in Nineve.

4 Then he ſaid unto them, Do ye know Tobit our kinſman? And they ſaid, We know him. Then ſaid he, Is he in good health?

5 And they ſaid, He is both alive, and in good health: and Tobias ſaid, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped up, and kiſſed him, and wept,

7 And bleſſed, and ſaid unto him, Thou art the ſon of an honeſt and good man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blind, he was ſorrowful, and wept,

8 And likewiſe Edna his wife and Sara his daughter wept. Moreover they entertained them chearfully; and after that they had killed a ram of the flock, they ſet ſtore of meat on the table. Then ſaid Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, ſpeak of thoſe things of which thou didſt talk in the way, and let this buſineſs be diſpatched.

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel: and Raguel ſaid to Tobias, Eat and drink, and make merry:

10 For it is meet that thou ſhouldeſt marry my daughter: nevertheleſs, I will declare unto thee the truth.

11 I have given my daughter in marriage to ſeven men, who died that night they came in unto her: nevertheleſs, for the preſent be merry. But Tobias ſaid, I will eat nothing here, till we agree, and ſwear one to another.

12 ¶ Raguel ſaid, Then take her from henceforth, according to the manner, for thou art her couſin, and ſhe is thine, and the merciful God give you good ſucceſs in all things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sara, and ſhe came to her father, and he took her by the hand, and gave her to be wife to Tobias, ſaying, Behold, take her after the law of Moſes, and lead her away to thy father; and he bleſſed them;

14 And called Edna his wife, and took paper, and did write an inſtrument of covenants, and ſealed it.

15 Then they began to eat.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and ſaid unto her, Siſter, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thither.

17 ¶ Which when ſhe had done, as he had bidden her, ſhe brought her thither; and ſhe wept, and ſhe received the tears of her daughter, and ſaid unto her,

18 ¶ Be of good comfort, my daughter; the Lord of heaven and earth give thee joy for this thy ſorrow: be of good comfort, my daughter.

CHAP. VIII.

3 Tobias driveth the wicked ſpirit away, as he was taught: 4 he and his wife pray.

AND when they had ſupped, they brought Tobias in unto her.

2 And as he went he remembered the words of Raphael, and took the aſhes of the perfumes, and put the heart and the liver of the fiſh thereupon, and made a ſmoke therewith.

3 The which ſmell, when the evil ſpirit had ſmelled, he fled into the utmoſt parts of Egypt, and the angel bound him.

4 And after that they were both ſhut in together, Tobias roſe out of the bed, and ſaid, Siſter, ariſe, and let us pray that God would have pity on us.

5 Then began Tobias to ſay, Bleſſed art thou, O God of our fathers, and bleſſed is thy holy and glorious name for ever; let the heavens bleſs thee, and all thy creatures.

6 Thou madeſt Adam, and gaveſt him Eve his wife for an helper and ſtay: of them came mankind. Thou haſt ſaid, It is not good that man ſhould be alone; let us make unto him an aid like unto himſelf.

7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my ſiſter for luſt, but uprightly: therefore mercifully ordain, that we may become aged together,

8 And ſhe ſaid with him, Amen.

9 So they ſlept both that night. And Raguel aroſe, and went and made a grave,

10 Saying, I fear, leſt he alſo be dead.

11 But when Raguel was come into his houſe,

12 He ſaid unto his wife Edna, Send one of the maids, and let her ſee whether he be alive: if he be not, that we may bury him, and no man know it.

13 So the maid opened the door, and went in, and found them both aſleep,

14 And came forth and told them, that he was alive.

15 Then Raguel praiſed God, and ſaid, O God, thou art worthy to be praiſed with all pure and holy praiſe; therefore let thy ſaints praiſe thee, with all thy creatures;

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

10 For it is meet that thou ſhouldeſt marry my daughter, &c.) In this tranſaction between Raguel and Tobias, in relation to the intended marriage, we may obſerve the honeſty of Raguel, in acquainting Tobias, before the ceremony was performed, of the terrible conſequences which would in all probability follow their nuptials, from what had befallen her former huſbands. But Tobias, confiding in and reſolving to obey the directions which had been given him, for his conduct and behaviour on this occaſion, refuſed to eat or drink 'till Raguel had abſolutely agreed to give him his daughter in marriage.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

5 Bleſſed art thou, O God of our fathers, &c.) This prayer, which Tobias offered to the Almighty, is very pious and well adapted to the occaſion, nor is it an improper form to be uſed by every new married couple, even in our days.

creatures; and let all thine angels and thine elect praise thee for ever.

16 Thou art to be praised, for thou hast made me joyful; and that is not come to me which I suspected; but thou hast dealt with us according to thy great mercy.

17 Thou art to be praised, because thou hast had mercy of two that were the only begotten children of their fathers: grant them mercy, O Lord, and finish their life in health, with joy and mercy.

18 Then Raguel bade his servants to fill the grave.

19 And he kept the wedding-feast fourteen days.

20 For before the days of the marriage were finished, Raguel had said unto him by an oath, that he should not depart till the fourteen days of the marriage were expired.

21 And then he should take the half of his goods, and go in safety to his father; and should have the rest, when I and my wife be dead.

CHAP. IX.

1 Tobias sendeth the angel for the money. 6 The angel bringeth it.

THEN Tobias called Raphael, and said unto him, 2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a servant and two camels, and go to Rages of Media, to Gabael, and bring me the money, and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hath sworn, that I shall not depart.

4 But my father counteth the days, and if I tarry long, he will be very sorry.

5 So Raphael went out, and lodged with Gabael, and gave him the hand-writing; who brought forth bags which were sealed up, and gave them to him.

6 ¶ And early in the morning they went forth, both together, and came to the wedding, and Tobias blessed his wife.

CHAP. X.

1 Tobit and his wife long for their son. 7 She will not be comforted by her husband.

NOW Tobit his father counted every day: and when the days of the journey were expired, and they came not,

2 Then Tobit said, Are they detained? or is Gabael dead, and there is no man to give him the money?

3 Therefore he was very sorry.

4 Then his wife said to him, My son is dead, seeing he stayeth long: and she began to bewail him, and said,

5 Now I care for nothing, my son, since I have let thee go, the light of mine eyes.

6 To whom Tobit said, Hold thy peace, take no care, for he is safe.

7 ¶ But she said, Hold thy peace, and deceive me not; my son is dead: and she went out every day into the way which they went, and did eat no meat on the day time, and ceased not whole nights to bewail her son Tobias, until the fourteen days of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworn that he should spend there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me go, for my father and my mother look no more to see me.

8 But his father-in-law said unto him, Tarry with me, and I will send to thy father, and they shall declare unto him, how things go with thee.

9 But Tobias said, No; but let me go to my father.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gave him Sara his wife, and half his goods, servants, and cattle, and money:

11 And he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heaven give you a prosperous journey, my children.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father and thy mother-in-law, which are now thy parents, that I may hear good report of thee, and he kissed her. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heaven restore thee, my dear brother, and grant that I may see thy children of my daughter Sara before I die, that I may rejoice before the Lord: behold, I commit my daughter unto thee of special trust; wherefore do not entreat her evil.

CHAP. XI.

6 Tobias' mother spieth her son coming: 10 his father meeteth him at the door, and recovereth his sight.

AFTER these things Tobias went his way, praising God that he had given him a prosperous journey, and blessed Raguel, and Edna his wife, and went on his way till they drew near unto Nineve.

2 Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didst leave thy father.

3 Let us haste before thy wife, and prepare the house:

4 And take in thine hand the gall of the fish. So they went their way, and the dog went after them.

5 Now Anna sat looking about towards the way for her son.

6 And when she espied him coming, she said to his father, Behold, thy son cometh, and the man that went with him.

7 Then said Raphael, I know, Tobias, that thy father will open his eyes.

8 Therefore anoint thou his eyes with the gall; and being pricked therewith, he shall rub, and the whiteness shall fall away, and he shall see thee.

9 Then Anna ran forth, and fell upon the neck of her son, and said unto him, Seeing I have seen thee,

Commentary on Chap. IX.

1 Then Tobias called Raphael, &c.) Tobias, that he might not seem to neglect his father's affairs, while he was feasting with his father-in-law, intreated the angel to go to Rages, and receive from Gabael the money due to his father. The angel consented, went and received the money, told Gabael what had happened to Tobias, and conducted him to the wedding.

In this chapter, the filial duty and tender regard of Tobias for his aged parents is very remarkable. The kind entertainment, the feasting and rejoicing, with which his father-in-law endeavoured to amuse him, nor even the delight which he doubtless took in his new bride, could banish from his thoughts the care and concern, in which, he reasonably imagined, his aged parents were involved on his account. An excellent pattern for children, and well worthy their imitation!

Commentary on Chap. X.

1 Now Tobit his father counted every day, &c.) Tobit and his wife were in great pain for their son, who had now staid longer than they expected, or they knew was necessary for the journey, if no accident intervened. Tobit, indeed, put his trust in providence, but his wife was inconsolable, and refused to be comforted.

11 And he blessed them, and sent them away, &c.) The conclusion of this chapter exhibits a remarkable instance of that endearing affection which nature has implanted in the hearts of parents for their children and offspring; especially when providence thinks proper to separate them from each other.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

1 After these things Tobias went his way, praising God, &c.) The pious historian has taken care, in every transaction he has recorded, to render the whole honour to the Almighty; and it would be of the greatest advantage to us, if we imitated his example: and surely, when it is remembered that every good gift cometh from above, we shall be very ungrateful to receive the benefit, and not be thankful to the giver. It is to him we owe our creation, preservation, and all the happiness we enjoy; and therefore we should be careful to render him our constant tribute of praise and thanksgiving, my ſon, from henceforth I am content to die. And they wept both.

10 Tobit alſo went forth toward the door, and ſtumbled: but his ſon ran unto him,

11 And took hold of his father; and he ſtrake of the gall on his father's eyes, ſaying, Be of good hope, my father.

12 And when his eyes began to ſmart, he rubbed them;

13 And the whiteneſs pilled away from the corners of his eyes; and when he ſaw his ſon, he fell upon his neck.

14 And he wept, and ſaid, Bleſſed art thou, O God, and bleſſed is thy name for ever; and bleſſed are all thine holy angels:

15 For thou haſt ſcourged, and haſt taken pity on me: for, behold, I ſee my ſon Tobias. And his ſon went in rejoicing, and told his father the great things that had happened to him in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter-in-law at the gate of Nineve, rejoicing and praiſing God: and they which ſaw him go marvelled, becauſe he had received his ſight.

17 But Tobit gave thanks before them, becauſe God had mercy on him. And when he came near to Sara his daughter-in-law, he bleſſed her, ſaying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be bleſſed, which hath brought thee unto us, and bleſſed be thy father and thy mother. And there was joy among all his brethren which were at Nineve.

18 And Achiacharus, and Naſbas his brother's ſon, came.

19 And Tobias's wedding was kept ſeven days with great joy.

CHAP. XII.

1 Tobit offereth half to the angel: 6 who telleth them that he was an angel.

THEN Tobit called his ſon Tobias, and ſaid unto him, My ſon, ſee that the man have his wages which went with thee, and thou muſt give him more.

2 And Tobias ſaid unto him, O father, it is no harm to me to give him one half of thoſe things which I have brought:

3 For he hath brought me again to thee in ſafety, and made whole my wife, and brought me the money, and likewiſe healed thee.

4 Then the old man ſaid, It is due unto him.

5 So he called the angel, and he ſaid unto him, Take half of all that ye have brought, and go away in ſafety.

6 ¶ Then he took them both apart, and ſaid unto them, Bleſs God, praiſe him, and magnify him, and praiſe him for the things which he hath done unto you in the ſight of all that live. It is good to praiſe God, and exalt his name, and honourably to ſhew forth the works of God; therefore be not ſlack to praiſe him.

7 It is good to keep cloſe the ſecrets of a king, but it is honourable to reveal the works of God: do that which is good, and no evil ſhall touch you.

8 Prayer is good with faſting, and alms and righteouſneſs: a little with righteouſneſs is better than much with unrighteouſneſs: it is better to give alms than to lay up gold:

9 For alms doth deliver from death, and ſhall purge away all ſin. Thoſe that exerciſe alms and righteouſneſs ſhall be filled with life:

10 But they that ſin are enemies to their own life.

11 Surely I will keep cloſe nothing from you. For I ſaid it was good to keep cloſe the ſecrets of a king, but that it was honourable to reveal the works of God.

12 Now therefore, when thou didſt pray, and Sara thy daughter-in-law, I did bring the remembrance of your prayers before the Holy One; and when thou didſt bury the dead, I was with thee likewiſe.

13 And when thou didſt not delay to riſe up, and leave thy dinner, to go and cover the dead, thy good deed was not hid from me: but I was with thee.

14 And now God hath ſent me to heal thee, and Sara thy daughter-in-law.

15 I am Raphael, one of the ſeven holy angels, which preſent the prayers of the ſaints, and which go in and out before the glory of the Holy One.

16 Then they were both troubled, and fell upon their faces: for they feared.

17 But he ſaid unto them, Fear not, for it ſhall go well with you; praiſe God therefore.

18 For not of any favour of mine, but by the will of our God, I came; wherefore praiſe him for ever.

19 All theſe days I did appear unto you; but I did neither eat nor drink, but ye did ſee a viſion.

20 Now therefore give God thanks: for I go up to him that ſent me; but write all things, which are done, in a book.

21 And when they aroſe, they ſaw him no more.

22 Then they confeſſed the great and wonderful works of God, and how the angel of the Lord had appeared unto them.

CHAP. XIII.

The thankſgiving unto God, which Tobit wrote.

THEN Tobit wrote a prayer of rejoicing, and ſaid, Bleſſed be God that liveth for ever, and bleſſed be his kingdom.

2 For he doth ſcourge, and hath mercy; he leadeth down to hell, and bringeth up again: neither is there any that can avoid his hand.

3 Confeſs him before the Gentiles, ye children of Iſrael: for he hath ſcattered us among them.

4 There declare his greatneſs, and extol him before all the living; for he is our Lord, and he is the God our Father for ever.

5 And he will ſcourge us for our iniquities, and will

---

14 Bleſſed art thou, O God, &c.) On the arrival of Tobias, and the great mercy his father received in having his ſight reſtored him, all the family rejoiced, and made a feaſt for their friends. But it deſerves our notice in what manner they expreſſed their ſatisfaction on this joyful occaſion, and this was not entirely in feaſting and merriment: no, they thought it their indiſpenſible duty firſt to return God thanks, who was the author of ſo many mercies and bleſſings; and having offered up the tribute of their thanks to the Almighty God of Jacob, they called together their friends and relations, and were innocently merry one with another.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

1 Then Tobit called his ſon Tobias, &c.) Tobit, conſidering the great trouble Azarias had taken, and being deſirous to reward him in proportion to the greatneſs of his ſervice, offered him half the riches they had acquired in their journey: an inſtance of juſtice and benevolence that merits attention, and ſhews that Tobit and his ſon delighted in the works of liberality.

6 Then he took them both apart, &c.) The angel, on Tobit's making him ſo generous an offer, took him with his ſon apart from the reſt of his family, and declared unto them that he was the angel Raphael; exhorting them at the ſame time to bleſs, praiſe, and magnify the glorious name of the Almighty, who had done ſo many and ſo great things for them, in order to reward the charity of Tobit.—This account of the angel, whether true or fictitious, affords this excellent moral, That obedience to God, and a tender and dutiful regard to parents, is pleaſing to the Almighty, and will ſooner or later be ſurely rewarded by the great Creator of the univerſe.

have mercy again, and will gather us out of all nations, among whom he hath ſcattered us.

6 If ye turn to him with your whole heart, and with your whole mind, and deal uprightly before him, then will he turn unto you, and will not hide his face from you. Therefore ſee what he will do with you, and confeſs him with your whole mouth, and praiſe the Lord of might, and extol the everlaſting King. In the land of my captivity do I praiſe him, and declare his might and majeſty to a ſinful nation. O ye ſinners, turn and do juſtice before him: who can tell if he will accept you, and have mercy on you?

7 I will extol my God, and my ſoul ſhall praiſe the King of heaven, and ſhall rejoice in his greatneſs.

8 Let all men ſpeak, and let all praiſe him for his righteouſneſs.

9 O Jeruſalem, the holy city, he will ſcourge thee for thy children's works, and will have mercy again on the ſons of the righteous.

10 Give praiſe to the Lord, for he is good: and praiſe the everlaſting King, that his tabernacle may be builded in thee again with joy, and let him make joyful there in thee thoſe that are captives, and love in thee for ever thoſe that are miſerable.

11 Many nations ſhall come from far to the name of the Lord God with gifts in their hands, even gifts to the King of heaven: all generations ſhall praiſe thee with great joy.

12 Curſed are all they which hate thee, and bleſſed ſhall all be which love thee for ever.

13 Rejoice and be glad for the children of the juſt: for they ſhall be gathered together, and ſhall bleſs the Lord of the juſt.

14 O bleſſed are they which love thee, for they ſhall rejoice in thy peace: bleſſed are they which have been ſorrowful for all thy ſcourges; for they ſhall rejoice for thee, when they have ſeen all thy glory, and ſhall be glad for ever.

15 Let my ſoul bleſs God the great King.

16 For Jeruſalem ſhall be built up with ſapphires, and emeralds, and precious ſtone: thy walls and towers, and battlements, with pure gold.

17 And the ſtreets of Jeruſalem ſhall be paved with beryl, and carbuncle, and ſtones of Ophir.

18 And all her ſtreets ſhall ſay, Alleluia; and they ſhall praiſe him, ſaying, Bleſſed be God which hath extolled it for ever.

CHAP. XIV.

3 Tobit giveth inſtructions to his ſon. 11 He and his wife die. 14 Tobias dieth.

SO Tobit made an end of praiſing God.

2 And he was eight and fifty years old when he loſt his ſight, which was reſtored to him after eight years: and he gave alms, and he increaſed in the fear of the Lord God, and praiſed him.

3 ¶ And when he was very aged, he called his ſon, and the ſix ſons of his ſon, and ſaid to him, My ſon, take thy children: for behold, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life.

4 Go into Media, my ſon, for I ſurely believe thoſe things which Jonas the prophet ſpake of Nineve; that it ſhall be overthrown, and that for a time peace ſhall rather be in Media; and that our brethren ſhall lie ſcattered in the earth from that good land; and Jeruſalem ſhall be deſolate, and the houſe of God in it ſhall be burned, and ſhall be deſolate for a time;

5 And that again, God will have mercy on them, and bring them again into the land, where they ſhall build a temple, but not like to the firſt, until the time of that age be fulfilled; and afterward they ſhall return from all places of their captivity, and build up Jeruſalem gloriouſly, and the houſe of God ſhall be built in it for ever; with a glorious building, as the prophets have ſpoken thereof.

6 And all nations ſhall turn and fear the Lord God truly, and ſhall bury their idols.

7 So ſhall all nations praiſe the Lord, and his people ſhall confeſs God, and the Lord ſhall exalt his people; and all thoſe which love the Lord God in truth and juſtice, ſhall rejoice, ſhewing mercy to our brethren.

8 And now, my ſon, depart out of Nineve, becauſe that thoſe things which the prophet Jonas ſpake, ſhall ſurely come to paſs.

9 But keep thou the law and the commandments, and ſhew thyſelf merciful and juſt, that it may go well with thee.

10 And bury me decently, and thy mother with me; but tarry no longer at Nineve. Remember, my ſon, how Aman handled Achiacharus that brought him up, how out of light he brought him into darkneſs, and how he rewarded him again: yet Achiacharus was ſaved, but the other had his reward: for he went down into darkneſs. Manaſſes gave alms, and eſcaped the ſnares of death which they had ſet for him: but Aman fell into the ſnare, and periſhed.

11 Wherefore now, my ſon, conſider what alms doth, and how righteouſneſs doth deliver. When he had ſaid theſe things he gave up the ghoſt in the bed, being an hundred and eight and fifty years old; and he buried him honourably.

12 And when Anna his mother was dead, he buried her with his father: but Tobias departed with his wife and children to Ecbatane, to Raguel his father-in-law,

13 Where he became old with honour; and he buried his father and mother-in-law honourably, and he inherited their ſubſtance, and his father Tobit's.

14 And he died at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundred and ſeven and twenty years old.

15 But before he died, he heard of the deſtruction of Nineve, which was taken by Nabuchodonoſor and Aſſuerus: and before his death he rejoiced over Nineve.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

2 And he was eight and fifty years old, &c.) In this chapter, which concludes the book of Tobit, we have an account of the great age of Tobit and his ſon, and of the proſperity they enjoyed during the latter part of their lives; ſo that their good works were rewarded even in this life; and ſhould teach us to put our truſt in that benevolent Being who inſpired us with life, and who continually directs and governs the operations of nature.

8 And now, my ſon, depart out of Nineve, &c.) Tobit, when he drew near the valley of the ſhadow of death, cautioned his ſon to leave Nineve, aſſuring him that the prophecy of Jonas would be certainly fulfilled, and the ſuperb buildings of that magnificent city blended with the duſt. Tobias obeyed the voice of his father, retired into Media, and ſaw the deſtruction of Nineve.

THE BOOK OF JUDITH.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Jews and the ancient Chriſtians, though they did not receive the Book of Judith into their canon of ſcripture, yet always conſidered it as a true hiſtory; and accordingly Clement, in his Epiſtle to the Corinthians, has cited it, as well as the author of the Apoſtolic Conſtitutions, which go under his name; and St. Athanaſius, or the writer of the Synopſis aſcribed to him, has given a ſummary account of it, in the ſame manner as he has done of the ſacred books.

CHAP. I.

2 Arphaxad doth fortify Ecbatane: 5 Nabuchodonoſor maketh war againſt him.

IN the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonoſor, who reigned in Nineve, the great city, (in the days of Arphaxad, which reigned over the Medes in Ecbatane,

2 And built in Ecbatane walls round about, of ſtones hewn three cubits broad, and ſix cubits long; and made the height of the wall ſeventy cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits;

3 And ſet the towers thereof upon the gates of it, an hundred cubits high, and the breadth thereof in the foundation threeſcore cubits;

4 And he made the gates thereof, even gates that were raiſed to the height of ſeventy cubits, and the breadth of them was forty cubits, for the going forth of his mighty armies, and for the ſetting in array of his footmen,)

5 Even in thoſe days king Nabuchodonoſor made war with king Arphaxad in the great plain, which is the plain in the borders of Ragau.

6 And there came unto him all they that dwelt in the hill-country, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tigris, and Hydaſpes, and the plain of Arioch the king of the Elymeans, and very many nations of the ſons of Chelod aſſembled themſelves to the battle.

7 Then Nabuchodonoſor king of the Aſſyrians, ſent unto all that dwelt in Perſia, and to all that dwelt weſtward, and to thoſe that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damaſcus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt upon the ſea-coaſt,

8 And to thoſe among the nations that were of Carmel, and Galaad, and the higher Galilee, and the great plain of Eſdrelom,

9 And to all that were in Samaria and the cities thereof, and beyond Jordan unto Jeruſalem, and Betane, and Chellus, and Kades, and the river of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameſſe, and all the land of Geſem,

10 Until you come beyond Tanis and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, until you come to the borders of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of the land made light of the commandment of Nabuchodonoſor king of the Aſſyrians, neither went they with him to the battle; for they were not afraid of him: yea, he was before them as one man, and they ſent away his ambaſſadors from them without effect, and with diſgrace.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonoſor was very angry with all this country, and ſware by his throne and kingdom, that he would ſurely be avenged upon all thoſe coaſts of Cicilia, and Damaſcus, and Syria, and that he would ſlay with the ſword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Judea, and all that were in Egypt, till you come to the borders of the two ſeas.

13 Then he marched in battle array with his power againſt king Arphaxad, in the ſeventeenth year, and he prevailed in his battle: for he overthrew all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horſemen, and all his chariots,

14 And became lord of his cities, and came unto Ecbatane, and took the towers, and ſpoiled the ſtreets thereof, and turned the beauty thereof into ſhame.

15 He took alſo Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragau, and ſmote him through with his darts, and deſtroyed him utterly that day.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 In the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonoſor, &c.) This Nabuchodonoſor is the ſame prince whom Herodotus calls Saoſduchinus, who, after the death of Eſarhaddon, ſucceeded to his acquiſitions; and the reaſon why the author of the book of Judith, who certainly wrote either in Babylon, or ſome other part of Chaldee, calls him Nabuchodonoſor, is, becauſe this was the common name of the kings of the country.

16 So he returned afterward to Nineve, both he and all his company of ſundry nations, being a very great multitude of men of war, and there he took his eaſe, and banqueted, both he and his army, an hundred and twenty days.

CHAP. II.

1 Holofernes is appointed general, 11 and charged to ſpare none that will not yield.

AND in the eighteenth year, the two and twentieth day of the firſt month, there was talk in the houſe of Nabuchodonoſor king of the Aſſyrians, that he ſhould, as he ſaid, avenge himſelf on all the earth.

2 So he called unto him all his officers, and all his nobles, and communicated with them his ſecret counſel, and concluded the afflicting of the whole earth out of his own mouth.

3 Then they decreed to deſtroy all fleſh that did not obey the commandment of his mouth.

4 ¶ And when he had ended his counſel, Nabuchodonoſor king of the Aſſyrians called Holofernes, the chief captain of his army, which was next unto him, and ſaid unto him,

5 Thus ſaith the great king, the lord of the whole earth, Behold, thou ſhalt go forth from my preſence, and take with thee men that truſt in their own ſtrength, of footmen an hundred and twenty thouſand; and the number of horſes with their riders, twelve thouſand.

6 And thou ſhalt go againſt all the weſt country, becauſe they diſobeyed my commandment.

7 And thou ſhalt declare unto them, that they prepare for me earth and water; for I will go forth in my wrath againſt them, and will cover the whole face of the earth with the feet of mine army, and I will give them for a ſpoil unto them:

8 So that their ſlain ſhall fill their vallies and brooks, and the river ſhall be filled with their dead, till it overflow.

9 And I will lead them captives to the utmoſt parts of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore ſhalt go forth, and take beforehand for me all their coaſts: and if they will yield themſelves unto thee, thou ſhalt reſerve them for me till the day of their puniſhment.

11 ¶ But concerning them that rebel, let not thine eyes ſpare them; but put them to the ſlaughter, and ſpoil them whereſoever thou goeſt.

12 For as I live, and by the power of my kingdom, whatſoever I have ſpoken, that will I do by mine hand.

13 And take thou heed, that thou tranſgreſs none of the commandments of thy lord, but accompliſh them fully, as I have commanded thee, and defer not to do them.

14 Then Holofernes went forth from the preſence of his lord, and called all the governors and captains, and the officers of the army of Aſſur.

15 And he muſtered the choſen men for the battle, as his lord had commanded him, unto an hundred and twenty thouſand, and twelve thouſand archers on horſeback.

16 And he ranged them as a great army is ordered for the war.

17 And he took camels and aſſes for their carriages, a very great number; and ſheep, and oxen, and goats, without number, for their proviſion:

18 And plenty of victual for every man of the army, and very much gold and ſilver out of the king's houſe.

19 Then he went forth, and all his power, to go before king Nabuchodonoſor in the voyage, and to cover all the face of the earth weſtward with their chariots, and horſemen, and their choſen footmen.

20 A great number alſo of ſundry countries came with them like locuſts, and like the ſand of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

21 And they went forth of Nineve, three days journey toward the plain of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth near the mountain which is at the left hand of the Upper Cilicia.

22 Then he took all his army, his footmen and horſemen, and chariots, and went from thence into the hill-country;

23 And deſtroyed Phud and Lud, and ſpoiled all the children of Raſſes, and the children of Iſmael, which were toward the wilderneſs at the ſouth of the land of the Chellians.

24 Then he went over Euphrates, and went through Meſopotamia, and deſtroyed all the high cities that were upon the river Arbonai, till you come to the ſea.

25 And he took the borders of Cilicia, and killed all that reſiſted him, and came to the borders of Japeth, which were toward the ſouth, over-againſt Arabia.

26 He compaſſed alſo all the children of Madian, and burnt up their tabernacles, and ſpoiled their ſheep-cotes.

27 Then he went down into the plain of Damaſcus in the time of wheat-harveſt, and burnt up all their fields, and deſtroyed their flocks and herds, alſo he ſpoiled their cities, and utterly waſted their countries, and ſmote all their young men with the edge of the ſword.

28 Therefore the fear and dread of him fell upon all the inhabitants of the ſea-coaſts, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur and Ocina, and all that dwelt in Jemnaan; and they that dwelt in Azotus and Aſcalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

1 They ſue for peace: 7 Holofernes is received there: 8 He deſtroyeth their gods.

SO they ſent ambaſſadors unto him, to treat of peace ſaying,

2 Behold, we the ſervants of Nabuchodonoſor the great king lie before thee; uſe us as ſhall be good in thy ſight.

3 Behold, our houſes, and all our places, and all our fields of wheat, and flocks, and herds, and all the lodges of our tents, lie before thy face; uſe them as it pleaſeth thee.

4 Behold, even our cities, and the inhabitants thereof, are thy ſervants; come, and deal with them as ſeemeth good unto thee.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

4 Holofernes, the chief captain of his army, &c.) Some commentators are of opinion, that the word Holofernes is of Perſian extract; but others think that this general was a native either of Pontus or Cappadocia. Polybius mentions one of this name, who having captured Cappadocia, ſoon loſt it again, becauſe he was for changing the ancient cuſtoms of the country, and introducing drunkenneſs, together with the feaſts and ſongs to Bacchus; and hence Caſaubon conjectures, that this was the ſame Holofernes who commanded Nabuchodonoſor's army, as his riot and debauchery, as well as the rapidity of his conqueſts, ſeem to form a ſtrong reſemblance with thoſe of the conqueror of Cappadocia.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 So they ſent ambaſſadors unto him, &c.) The prodigious ſtrength of his army, and the horrid actions they had committed on the inhabitants of thoſe countries who had oppoſed their progreſs, induced the others to ſue for peace; and, that their offers might be accepted, ſubmitted themſelves wholly to the mercy of the conqueror.

5 So the men came to Holofernes, and declared unto him after this manner.

6 Then came he down toward the ſea-coaſt, both he and his army, and ſet garriſons in the high cities, and took out of them choſen men for aid.

7 ¶ So they and all the country round about received them with garlands, with dances, and with timbrels.

8 ¶ Yet he did caſt down their frontiers, and cut down their groves: for he had decreed to deſtroy all the gods of the land, that all nations ſhould worſhip Nabuchodonoſor only, and that all tongues and tribes ſhould call upon him as god.

9 Alſo he came over againſt Eſdraelon, near unto Judea, over againſt the great ſtrait of Judea.

10 And he pitched between Geba and Scythopolis, and there he tarried a whole month, that he might gather together all the carriages of his army.

CHAP. IV.

1 The Jews fear Holofernes, 5 and fortify the hills. 9 All Iſrael faſt and pray.

NOW the children of Iſrael that dwelt in Judea, heard all that Holofernes the chief captain of Nabuchodonoſor king of the Aſſyrians had done to the nations, and after what manner he had ſpoiled all their temples, and brought them to nought.

2 Therefore they were exceedingly afraid of him, and were troubled for Jeruſalem, and for the temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned from the captivity, and all the people of Judea were lately gathered together: and the veſſels, and the altar, and the houſe, were ſanctified after the profanation.

4 Therefore they ſent into all the coaſts of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoron, and Belmen, and Jericho, and to Choba, and Eſora, and to the valley of Salem:

5 And poſſeſſed themſelves beforehand of all the tops of the high mountains, and fortified the villages that were in them, and laid up victuals for the proviſion of war: for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Alſo Joacim the high prieſt, which was in thoſe days in Jeruſalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia, and Betomeſtham, which is over againſt Eſdraelon toward the open country near to Dothaim,

7 Charging them to keep the paſſages of the hill-country: for by them there was an entrance into Judea, and it was eaſy to ſtop them that would come up, becauſe the paſſage was ſtrait for two men at the moſt.

8 And the children of Iſrael did as Joacim the high prieſt had commanded them, with the ancients of all the people of Iſrael which dwelt at Jeruſalem.

9 Then every man of Iſrael cried to God with great fervency, and with great vehemency did they humble their ſouls:

10 Both they, and their wives, and their children, and their cattle, and every ſtranger and hireling, and their ſervants bought with money, put ſackcloth upon their loins.

11 Thus every man and woman, and the little children, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, fell before the temple, and caſt aſhes upon their heads, and ſpread out their ſackcloth before the face of the Lord: alſo they put ſackcloth about the altar,

12 And cried to the God of Iſrael, all with one conſent earneſtly, that he would not give their children for a prey, and their wives for a ſpoil, and the cities of their inheritance to deſtruction, and the ſanctuary to profanation and reproach, and for the nations to rejoice at.

13 So God heard their prayers, and looked upon their afflictions: for the people faſted many days in all Judea and Jeruſalem before the ſanctuary of the Lord Almighty.

14 And Joacim the high prieſt, and all the prieſts that ſtood before the Lord, and they which miniſtered unto the Lord, had their loins girt with ſackcloth, and offered the daily burnt-offerings, with the vows and free gifts of the people,

15 And had aſhes on their mitres, and cried unto the Lord with all their power, that he would look upon all the houſe of Iſrael graciouſly.

CHAP. V.

5 Achior telleth Holofernes what the Jews are, 8 and what their God had done for them.

THEN was it declared to Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Aſſur, that the children of Iſrael had prepared for war, and had ſhut up the paſſages of the hill-country, and had fortified all the tops of the high hills, and had laid impediments in the champain countries;

2 Wherewith he was very angry, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captains of Ammon, and all the governors of the ſea-coaſt,

3 And he ſaid unto them, Tell me now, ye ſons of Chanaan, who this people is that dwelleth in the hill-country, and what are the cities that they inhabit, and what is the multitude of their army, and wherein is their power and ſtrength, and what king is ſet over them, or captain of their army:

4 And why have they determined not to come and meet me, more than all the inhabitants of the weſt.

---

6 Then came he down toward the ſea-coaſt, &c.) The ſubmiſſive manner in which the inhabitants received Holofernes, mitigated his wrath, and induced him to grant them the peace they deſired; but he took the precaution of demoliſhing their fortifications and ſtrong holds, leſt, on his departure, they ſhould break the treaty, and join the enemy.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 Now the children of Iſrael, &c.) The deſcendants of Jacob, hearing of the terrible deſtruction of thoſe countries through which the army of Holofernes had paſſed, and being deſirous of preſerving their liberty and religion, took poſſeſſion of the ſtrait paſſes of the mountains, the only ways that led to their country, in order to ſtop the progreſs of the enemy, and preſerve the temple of Jeruſalem, ſo lately purified, from being deſtroyed and polluted by the hands of the heathen.

6 Them that dwelt in Bethulia, &c.) Our modern travellers to the Holy Land almoſt unanimouſly agree, that Bethulia is ſituated in the tribe of Zebulun, about a league on the weſt ſide of Tiberias, where, they pretend, are ſtill ſome marks of the tent of Holofernes: but ſeveral learned men are apt to ſuſpect the report of theſe travellers, who too often reſt ſatisfied with the traditions of the country, though they are often founded on falſehood. But however this be, it is inconteſtible that both Judith and her huſband were of the tribe of Simeon; and why they ſhould remove to ſo great a diſtance from their own inheritance, and ſettle in a country ſo far from that of their nativity, is not eaſy to ſay. Since therefore the ſcripture mentions a place in the tribe of Simeon, named Bethul, or Bethuel (Joſh. xix. 4) a place dependant upon Gaza of the Philiſtines, and famous for its temples, it is highly probable that this was the place; ſince the other which travellers mention, in the tribe of Zebulun, muſt be of too modern a date to be the city intended here, becauſe we find neither Joſhua, Joſephus, Euſebius, nor St. Jerome, make any mention of it,

5 ¶ Then ſaid Achior the captain of all the ſons of Ammon, Let my lord now hear a word from the mouth of thy ſervant, and I will declare unto thee the truth concerning this people which dwelleth near thee, and inhabiteth the hill-countries: and there ſhall no lie come out of the mouth of thy ſervant.

6 This people are deſcended of the Chaldeans:

7 And they ſojourned heretofore in Meſopotamia, becauſe they would not follow the gods of their fathers which were in the land of Chaldea.

8 ¶ For they left the way of their anceſtors, and worſhipped the God of heaven, the God whom they knew: ſo they caſt them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Meſopotamia, and ſojourned there many days.

9 Then their God commanded them to depart from the place where they ſojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan: where they dwelt, and were increaſed with gold and ſilver, and with very much cattle.

10 But when a famine covered all the land of Chanaan, they went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there, while they were nouriſhed, and became there a great multitude, ſo that one could not number their nation.

11 Therefore the king of Egypt roſe up againſt them, and dealt ſubtily with them, and brought them low, with labouring in brick, and made them ſlaves.

12 Then they cried unto their God, and he ſmote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: ſo the Egyptians caſt them out of their ſight.

13 And God dried the Red Sea before them,

14 And brought them to mount Sinai, and Cades Barne, and caſt forth all that dwelt in the wilderneſs.

15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they deſtroyed by their ſtrength all them of Eſebon, and, paſſing over Jordan, they poſſeſſed all the hill-country.

16 And they caſt forth before them the Chanaanite, the Pherezite, the Jebuſite, and the Sychemite, and all the Gergeſites, and they dwelt in that country many days.

17 And whilſt they ſinned not before their God, they proſpered, becauſe the God that hateth iniquity was with them.

18 But when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were deſtroyed in many battles very ſore, and were led captives into a land that was not theirs, and the temple of their God was caſt to the ground, and their cities were taken by the enemies.

19 But now are they returned to their God, and are come up from the places where they were ſcattered, and have poſſeſſed Jeruſalem where their ſanctuary is, and are ſeated in the hill-country; for it was deſolate.

20 Now therefore, my lord and governor, if there be any error in this people, and they ſin againſt their God, let us conſider that this ſhall be their ruin, and let us go up, and we ſhall overcome them.

21 But if there be no iniquity in their nation, let my lord now paſs by, leſt their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproach before all the world.

22 And when Achior had finiſhed theſe ſayings, all the people ſtanding round about the tent murmured, and the chief men of Holofernes, and all that dwelt by the ſea-ſide, and in Moab, ſpake that he ſhould kill him.

23 For, ſay they, we will not be afraid of the face of the children of Iſrael: for lo, it is a people that have no ſtrength nor power for a ſtrong battle.

24 Now therefore, lord Holofernes, we will go up, and they ſhall be a prey, to be devoured of all thine army.

CHAP. VI.

1 Holofernes deſpiſeth God: 6 he threateneth Achior, and ſendeth him away.

AND when the tumult of men that were about the council was ceaſed, Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Aſſur, ſaid unto Achior and all the Moabites, before all the company of other nations,

2 And who art thou, Achior, and the hirelings of Ephraim, that thou haſt propheſied among us as to-day, and haſt ſaid that we ſhould not make war with the people of Iſrael, becauſe their God will defend them? and who is God, but Nabuchodonoſor?

3 He will ſend his power, and will deſtroy them from the face of the earth, and their God ſhall not deliver them: but we his ſervants will deſtroy them as one man; for they are not able to ſuſtain the power of our horſes:

4 For with them we will tread them under foot, and their mountains ſhall be drunken with their blood, and their fields ſhall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footſteps ſhall not be able to ſtand before us, for they ſhall utterly periſh, ſaith king Nabuchodonoſor, lord of all the earth; for he ſaid, None of my words ſhall be in vain.

5 And thou Achior, an hireling of Ammon, which haſt ſpoken theſe words in the day of thine iniquity, ſhalt ſee my face no more from this day, until I take vengeance of this nation that came out of Egypt.

6 ¶ And then ſhall the ſword of mine army, and the multitude of them that ſerve me, paſs through thy ſides, and thou ſhalt fall among their ſlain, when I return.

7 Now, therefore, my ſervants ſhall bring thee back into the hill-country, and ſhall ſet thee in one of the cities of the paſſages.

8 And thou ſhalt not periſh till thou be deſtroyed with them.

9 And if thou perſuade thyſelf in thy mind that they ſhall not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I have ſpoken it, and none of my words ſhall be in vain.

10 Then Holofernes commanded his ſervants that waited in his tent, to take Achior, and bring him to Bethulia, and deliver him into the hands of the children of Iſrael.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

5 Then ſaid Achior the captain of all the ſons of Ammon, &c.) Achior, from his being a native of the country bordering upon Canaan, was well acquainted with the government and religion of the Iſraelites. Their hiſtory was too ſingular to be forgotten by the inhabitants of thoſe kingdoms that lay near the inheritance of the ſons of Jacob, and the many miracles wrought by the Almighty in their favour too evident to be denied. Accordingly, Achior gave a conciſe account of them, and enumerated ſome of the facts in which the hand of Omnipotence had been remarkably conſpicuous.

20 Now therefore, my lord, &c.) Having given a conciſe hiſtory of the Iſraelites, Achior preſumed to diſſuade Holofernes from attempting any thing againſt them, unleſs they had ſinned againſt their God; aſſuring him, that no attack againſt them, while they obeyed his commandments, would proſper.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

2 Who is God, but Nabuchodonoſor?) How blaſphemouſly does Holofernes treat the God of Iſrael! He even preſumes to place the king of Aſſyria above that Being who fills immenſity, and can, with a ſingle word, not only tumble monarchs from their thrones, but annihilate thoſe ſtupendous globes that decorate the fields of æther. But alas! preſumptuous mortal! ſoon ſhalt thou find that thou art ſo far from being able to oppoſe Omnipotence, that even the policy of a weak woman ſhall prove thy deſtruction!

11 So his ſervants took him, and brought him out of the camp into the plain, and they went from the midſt of the plain into the hill-country, and came unto the fountains that were under Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the city ſaw them, they took up their weapons, and went out of the city to the top of the hill: and every man that uſed a ſling kept them from coming up, by caſting of ſtones againſt them.

13 Nevertheleſs, having gotten privily under the hill, they bound Achior, and caſt him down, and left him at the foot of the hill, and returned to their lord.

14 But the Iſraelites deſcended from their city, and came unto him, and looſed him, and brought him into Bethulia, and preſented him to the governors of the city:

15 Which were in thoſe days, Ozias, the ſon of Micha of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the ſon of Gothoniel, and Charmis the ſon of Melchiel.

16 And they called together all the ancients of the city, and all their youth ran together, and their women, to the aſſembly, and they ſet Achior in the midſt of all their people. Then Ozias aſked him of that which was done.

17 And he anſwered, and declared unto them the words of the council of Holofernes, and all the words that he had ſpoken in the midſt of the princes of Aſſur, and whatſoever Holofernes had ſpoken proudly againſt the houſe of Iſrael.

18 Then the people fell down and worſhipped God, and cried unto God, ſaying,

19 O Lord God of heaven, behold their pride, and pity the low eſtate of our nation, and look upon the face of thoſe that are ſanctified unto thee this day.

20 Then they comforted Achior, and praiſed him greatly.

21 And Ozias took him out of the aſſembly unto his houſe, and made a feaſt to the elders, and they called on the God of Iſrael all that night for help.

CHAP. VII.

1 Holofernes beſieges Bethulia, and ſtoppeth the water from them: 22 They murmur.

THE next day Holofernes commanded all his army, and all his people which were come to take his part, that they ſhould remove their camp againſt Bethulia, to take aforehand the aſcents of the hill-country, and to make war againſt the children of Iſrael.

2 Then their ſtrong men removed their camps in that day, and the army of the men of war was an hundred and ſeventy thouſand footmen, and twelve thouſand horſemen, beſide the baggage, and other men that were a-foot among them, a very great multitude.

3 And they camped in the valley near unto Bethulia, by the fountain, and they ſpread themſelves in breadth over Dothaim even to Belmaim, and in length from Bethulia unto Cyamon, which is over againſt Eſdraelon.

4 Now the children of Iſrael, when they ſaw the multitude of them, were greatly troubled, and ſaid every one to his neighbour, Now will theſe men lick up the face of the earth; for neither the high mountains, nor the vallies nor the hills, are able to bear their weight.

5 Then every man took up his weapons of war, and when they had kindled fires upon their towers, they remained and watched all that night.

6 But in the ſecond day, Holofernes brought forth all his horſemen in the ſight of the children of Iſrael which were in Bethulia,

7 And viewed the paſſages up to the city, and came to the fountains of their waters, and took them, and ſet garriſons of men of war over them, and he himſelf removed towards his people.

8 Then came unto him all the chief of the children of Eſau, and all the governors of the people of Moab, and the captains of the ſea-coaſt, and ſaid,

9 Let our lord now hear a word, that there be not an overthrow in thine array.

10 For this people of the children of Iſrael do not truſt in their ſpears, but in the height of the mountains wherein they dwell, becauſe it is not eaſy to come up to the tops of their mountains.

11 Now therefore, my lord, fight not againſt them in battle-array, and there ſhall not ſo much as one man of thy people periſh.

12 Remain in thy camp, and keep all the men of thine army, and let thy ſervants get into their hands the fountain of water, which iſſueth forth of the foot of the mountain:

13 (For all the inhabitants of Bethulia have their water thence:) ſo ſhall thirſt kill them, and they ſhall give up their city, and we and our people ſhall go up to the tops of the mountains that are near, and will camp upon them, to watch that none go out of the city.

14 So they, and their wives, and their children, ſhall be conſumed with famine; and before the ſword come againſt them, they ſhall be overthrown in the ſtreets where they dwell.

15 Thus ſhalt thou render them an evil reward; becauſe they rebelled, and met not thy perſon peaceably.

16 And theſe words pleaſed Holofernes, and all his ſervants, and he appointed to do as they had ſpoken.

17 So the camp of the children of Ammon departed, and with them five thouſand of the Aſſyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and took the waters, and the fountains of the waters of the children of Iſrael.

18 Then the children of Eſau went up with the children of Ammon, and camped in the hill-country over againſt Dothaim; and they ſent ſome of them toward the ſouth, and toward the eaſt, over againſt Ekrebel, which is near unto Chuſi, that is upon the brook Mochmur; and the reſt of the army of the Aſſyrians camped in the plain, and covered the face of the whole land; and their tents and carriages were pitched to a very great multitude.

19 Then the children of Iſrael cried unto the Lord their God, becauſe their heart failed, for all their enemies had compaſſed them round about, and there was no way to eſcape out from among them.

20 Thus all the company of Aſſur remained about them, both their footmen, chariots, and horſemen, four and thirty days, ſo that all their veſſels of water failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the ciſterns were emptied, and they had not water to drink their fill for one day; for they gave them drink by meaſure.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

1 The next day Holofernes commanded all his army, &c.) Holofernes now moved againſt Bethulia, and, in order to terrify the inhabitants, cauſed his army to be drawn up in their ſight. This had the deſired effect; the inhabitants were ſtruck with the greateſt terror at the ſight of ſo prodigious a multitude. But he ſhould have remembered, that though he could by his numbers terrify men, yet he that ſitteth on the heavens was able to defeat all his ſchemes, and confound his numerous army.

19 Then the children of Iſrael, &c.) The Iſraelites well knew that they were of themſelves unable to oppoſe ſo great a multitude, and therefore applied for help to him that was able to ſave,—to that tremendous Being who had ſo often preſerved their fathers from deſtruction, and would always have rendered the deſigns of their enemies abortive, had they been careful to obſerve his laws, and worſhip him in ſpirit and in truth.

22 ¶ Therefore their young children were out of heart, and their women and young men fainted for thirſt, and fell down in the ſtreets of the city, and by the paſſages of the gates, and there was no longer any ſtrength in them.

23 Then all the people aſſembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the city, both young men and women, and children, and cried with a loud voice, and ſaid before all the elders, 24 God be judge between us and you; for ye have done us great injury, in that ye have not required peace of the children of Aſſur.

25 For now we have no helper: but God hath ſold us into their hands, that we ſhould be thrown down before them with thirſt, and great deſtruction.

26 Now therefore call them unto you, and deliver the whole city for a ſpoil to the people of Holofernes, and to all his army.

27 For it is better for us to be made a ſpoil unto them, than to die for thirſt: for we will be his ſervants, that our ſouls may live, and not ſee the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wives, nor our children to die.

28 We take to witneſs againſt you, the heaven and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers, which puniſheth us according to our ſins, and the ſins of our fathers, that he do not according as we have ſaid this day.

29 Then there was great weeping with one conſent in the midſt of the aſſembly; and they cried unto the Lord God with a loud voice.

30 Then ſaid Ozias to them, Brethren, be of good courage, let us yet endure five days, in the which ſpace the Lord our God may turn his mercy towards us; for he will not forſake us utterly.

31 And if theſe days paſs, and there come no help unto us, I will do according to your word.

32 And he diſperſed the people, every one to their own charge; and they went unto the walls and towers of their city, and ſent the women and children into their houſes: and they were very low brought into the city.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judith blameth the governors, 17 and adviſeth them to truſt in God.

NOW at the time Judith heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari, the ſon of Ox, the ſon of Joſeph, the ſon of Oziel, the ſon of Elcia, the ſon of Ananias, the ſon of Gedeon, the ſon of Raphaim, the ſon of Acitho, the ſon of Elihu, the ſon of Eliab, the ſon of Nathanael, the ſon of Samael, the ſon of Salaſadai, the ſon of Iſrael.

2 And Manaſſes was her huſband, of her tribe and kindred, who died in the barley-harveſt.

3 For as he ſtood overſeeing them that bound ſheaves in the field, the heat came upon his head, and he fell on his bed, and died in the city of Bethulia, and they buried him with his fathers in the field, between Dothaim and Balamo.

4 So Judith was a widow in her houſe three years and four months.

5 And ſhe made her tent upon the top of her houſe, and put on ſackcloth upon her loins, and ware her widow's apparel.

6 And ſhe faſted all the days of her widowhood, ſave the eves of the ſabbaths, and the ſabbaths, and the eves of the new moons, and the new moons, and the feaſts, and ſolemn days of the houſe of Iſrael.

7 She was alſo of a goodly countenance, and very beautiful to behold: and her huſband Manaſſes had left her gold and ſilver, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and cattle, and lands, and ſhe remained upon them.

8 And there was none that gave her an ill word: for ſhe feared God greatly.

9 Now when ſhe heard the evil words of the people againſt the governor, that they fainted for lack of water (for Judith had heard all the words that Ozias had ſpoken unto them, and that he had ſworn to deliver the city unto the Aſſyrians after five days)

10 Then ſhe ſent her waiting-woman that had the government of all things that ſhe had, to call Ozias, and Chabris, and Charmis, the ancients of the city.

11 And they came unto her, and ſhe ſaid unto them, Hear me now, O ye governors of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your words that ye have ſpoken before the people this day are not right, touching this oath which ye made, and pronounced between God and you, and have promiſed to deliver the city to our enemies, unleſs within theſe days the Lord turn to help you.

12 And now, who are ye that have tempted God this day, and ſtand inſtead of God among the children of men?

13 And now try the Lord Almighty, but ye ſhall never know any thing.

14 For ye cannot find the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceive the things that he thinketh: then how can ye ſearch out God, that hath made all theſe things, and know his mind, or comprehend his purpoſe? Nay, my brethren, provoke not the Lord our God to anger.

15 For if he will not help us within theſe five days, he hath power to defend us, when he will, even every day, or to deſtroy us before our enemies.

16 Do not bind the counſels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man, that he may be threatened; neither is he as the ſon of man, that he ſhould be wavering.

17 ¶ Therefore let us wait for ſalvation of him, and call upon him to help us, and he will hear our voice, if it pleaſe him.

18 For there aroſe none in our age, neither is there any now in theſe days, neither tribe, nor family, nor people, nor city among us, which worſhip gods made with hands, as hath been afore-time.

19 For the which cauſe our fathers were given to the ſword, and for a ſpoil, and had a great fall before our enemies.

20 But we know none other god, therefore we truſt that he will not deſpiſe us, nor any of our nation.

21 For if we be taken ſo, all Judea ſhall lie waſte, and our ſanctuary ſhall be ſpoiled, and he will require the profanation thereof at our mouth.

22 And the ſlaughter of our brethren, and the captivity of the country, and the deſolation of our inheritance, will he turn upon our heads among the Gentiles, whereſoever we ſhall be in bondage, and we ſhall be an offence and a reproach to all them that poſſeſs us.

23 For our ſervitude ſhall not be directed to favour: but the Lord our God ſhall turn it to diſhonour.

24 Now, therefore, O brethren, let us ſhew an example to our brethren, becauſe their hearts depend upon us, and the ſanctuary, and the houſe, and the altar, reſt upon us.

Commentary on Chap. VIII.

11 Hear me now, O ye governors, &c.) Judith here expoſtulates with the governors of the city, for the raſh promiſe they had made to the people of delivering Bethulia to the enemy in five days, if they were not relieved. She juſtly told them, that they ought to have relied on the Lord their God, and waited their deliverance from his hand.

25 Moreover, let us give thanks to the Lord our God, which trieth us, even as he did our fathers.

26 Remember what things he did to Abraham, and how he tried Iſaac, and what happened to Jacob in Meſopotamia of Syria, when he kept the ſheep of Laban his mother's brother.

27 For he hath not tried us in the fire as he did them, for the examination of their hearts, neither hath he taken vengeance on us: but the Lord doth ſcourge them that come near unto him, to admoniſh them.

28 Then ſaid Ozias to her, All that thou haſt ſpoken, haſt thou ſpoken with a good heart, and there is none that may gainſay thy words.

29 For this is not the firſt day wherein thy wiſdom is manifeſted; but from the beginning of thy days all the people have known thy underſtanding, becauſe the diſpoſition of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirſty, and compelled us to do unto them as we have ſpoken, and to bring an oath upon ourſelves, which we will not break.

31 Therefore now pray thou for us, becauſe thou art a godly woman, and the Lord will ſend us rain to fill our ciſterns, and we ſhall faint no more.

32 Then ſaid Judith unto them, Hear me, and I will do a thing which ſhall go throughout all generations, to the children of our nation.

33 Ye ſhall ſtand this night in the gate, and I will go forth with my waiting-woman: and within the days that ye have promiſed to deliver the city to our enemies, the Lord will viſit Iſrael by mine hand.

34 But inquire not ye of mine act: for I will not declare it unto you, until the things be finiſhed that I do.

35 Then ſaid Ozias and the princes unto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

36 So they returned from the tent, and went to their wards.

CHAP. IX.

1 Judith humbleth herſelf, 2 and prayeth God to proſper her purpoſe againſt the enemies of his ſanctuary.

THEN Judith fell upon her face, and put aſhes upon her head, and uncovered the ſackcloth wherewith ſhe was clothed; and about the time that the incenſe of that evening was offered in Jeruſalem in the houſe of the Lord, Judith cried with a loud voice, and ſaid,

2 O Lord God of my father Simeon, to whom thou gaveſt a ſword to take vengeance of the ſtrangers, who looſened the girdle of a maid to defile her, and diſcovered the thigh to her ſhame, and polluted her virginity to her reproach; (for thou ſaidſt, It ſhall not be ſo, and yet they did ſo;)

3 Wherefore thou gaveſt their rulers to be ſlain, ſo that they dyed their bed in blood, being deceived, and ſmoteſt the ſervants with their lords, and the lords upon their thrones;

4 And haſt given their wives for a prey, and their daughters to be captives, and all their ſpoils to be divided among thy dear children, which were moved with thy zeal, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called upon thee for aid: O God, O my God, hear me alſo a widow.

5 For thou haſt wrought not only thoſe things, but alſo the things which fell out before, and which enſued after; thou haſt thought upon the things which are now, and which are to come.

6 Yea, what things thou didſt determine were ready at hand, and ſaid, Lo, we are here: for all thy ways are prepared, and thy judgments are in thy foreknowledge.

7 For, behold, the Aſſyrians are multiplied in their power; they are exalted with horſe and man; they glory in the ſtrength of their footmen; they truſt in ſhield, and ſpear, and bow, and ſling, and know not that thou art the Lord that breakeſt the battles: the Lord is thy name.

8 Throw down their ſtrength in thy power, and bring down their force in thy wrath: for they have purpoſed to defile thy ſanctuary, and to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious name reſteth, and to caſt down with ſword the horn of thy altar.

9 Behold their pride, and ſend thy wrath upon their heads: give into mine hand, which am a widow, the power that I have conceived.

10 Smite by the deceit of my lips the ſervant with the prince, and the prince with the ſervant: break down their ſtatelineſs by the hand of a woman.

11 For thy power ſtandeth not in multitude, nor thy might in ſtrong men: for thou art a God of the afflicted, an helper of the oppreſſed, an upholder of the weak, a protector of the forlorn, a ſaviour of them that are without hope.

12 I pray thee, I pray thee, O God of my father, and God of the inheritance of Iſrael, Lord of the heavens and earth, Creator of the waters, King of every creature, hear thou my prayer;

13 And make my ſpeech and deceit to be their wound and ſtripe, who have purpoſed cruel things againſt thy covenant, and thy hallowed houſe, and againſt the top of Sion, and againſt the houſe of the poſſeſſion of thy children.

14 And make every nation and tribe to acknowledge that thou art the God of all power and might, and that there is none other that protecteth the people of Iſrael but thou.

CHAP. X.

3 Judith adorneth herſelf: 10 ſhe and her maid go forth into the camp: 17 the watch take and conduct her to Holofernes.

NOW, after that ſhe had ceaſed to cry unto the God of Iſrael, and had made an end of all theſe words,

2 She roſe where ſhe had fallen down, and called her maid, and went down into the houſe in the which ſhe abode in the ſabbath-days, and in her feaſt-days,

3 ¶ And pulled off the ſackcloth which ſhe had on, and put off the garments of her widowhood, and waſhed her body all over with water, and anointed herſelf with precious ointment, and braided the hair of 32 Hear me, and I will do a thing, &c.) After telling them their fault, in not relying on the Lord for help, ſhe declared that ſhe would herſelf undertake the deliverance of the city; but at the ſame time enjoined them not to aſk, or endeavour to diſcover, the manner in which ſhe purpoſed to perform it, being determined to keep the ſecret inviolable in her own breaſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

1 Then Judith fell upon her face, &c.) Before Judith entered upon this important action, ſhe proſtrated herſelf before the Almighty God of Jacob, and implored from him that aſſiſtance which ſhe well knew could not be expected from man.

11 For thy power ſtandeth not in multitude, &c.) Thou, O worſhip of Iſrael, haſt no occaſion for an arm of fleſh; before thee the multitude of an hoſt and all the inſtruments of war are vain. It is to thee the afflicted fly for ſuccour, and the weak for defence, againſt the tyranny of man. Hear therefore, O Almighty God of Jacob, the prayer of thy ſervant, and protect thine handmaid in this her daring attempt to reſcue thine inheritance from the hands of ſtrangers, and prevent thine holy temple from being defiled by the pollutions of the heathen.

her

her head, and put on a tire upon it, and put on her garments of gladneſs, wherewith ſhe was clad during the life of Manaſſes her huſband.

4 And ſhe took ſandals upon her feet, and put about her her bracelets, and her chains, and her rings, and her ear-rings, and all her ornaments, and decked herſelf bravely, to allure the eyes of all men that ſhould ſee her.

5 Then ſhe gave her maid a bottle of wine, and a cruſe of oil, and filled a bag with parched corn, and lumps of figs, and with fine bread; ſo ſhe folded all theſe things together, and laid them upon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the city of Bethulia, and found ſtanding there Ozias, and the ancients of the city, Chabris, and Charmis.

7 And when they ſaw her, that her countenance was altered, and her apparel was changed, they wondered at her beauty very greatly, and ſaid unto her,

8 The God, the God of our fathers give thee favour, and accompliſh thine enterpriſes to the glory of the children of Iſrael, and to the exaltation of Jeruſalem: then they worſhipped God.

9 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Command the gates of the city to be opened unto me, that I may go forth to accompliſh the things whereof ye have ſpoken with me: ſo they commanded the young men to open unto her as ſhe had ſpoken.

10 And when they had done ſo, Judith went out, ſhe and her maid with her, and the men of the city looked after her, until ſhe was gone down the mountain, and till ſhe had paſſed the valley, and could ſee her no more.

11 Thus they went ſtraight forth in the valley: and the firſt watch of the Aſſyrians met her,

12 And took her; and aſked her, Of what people art thou? and whence comeſt thou? and whither goeſt thou? And ſhe ſaid, I am a woman of the Hebrews, and am fled from them: for they ſhall be given you to be conſumed:

13 And I am coming before Holofernes, the chief captain of your army, to declare words of truth, and I will ſhew him a way whereby he ſhall go and win all the hill-country, without loſing the body or life of any one of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her words, and beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beauty, and ſaid unto her,

15 Thou haſt ſaved thy life, in that thou haſted to come down to the preſence of our lord: now therefore come to his tent, and ſome of us ſhall conduct thee, until they have delivered thee to his hands.

16 And when thou ſtandeſt before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but ſhew unto him according to thy word, and he will intreat thee well.

17 Then they choſe out of them an hundred men to accompany her and her maid; and they brought her to the tent of Holofernes.

18 Then was there a concourſe throughout all the camp; for her coming was noiſed among the tents; and they came about her, as ſhe ſtood without the tent of Holofernes, till they told him of her.

19 And they wondered at her beauty, and admired the children of Iſrael, becauſe of her; and every one ſaid to his neighbour, Who would deſpiſe this people that have among them ſuch women? ſurely it is not good that one man of them be left, who, being let go, might deceive the whole earth.

20 And they that lay near Holofernes went out, and all his ſervants, and they brought her into the tent.

21 Now Holofernes reſted upon his bed under a canopy, which was woven with purple and gold, and emeralds, and precious ſtones.

22 So they ſhewed him of her; and he came out before his tent, with ſilver lamps going before him.

23 And when Judith was come before him and his ſervants, they all marvelled at the beauty of her countenance; and ſhe fell down upon her face, and did reverence unto him: and his ſervants took her up.

CHAP. XI.

3 Holofernes aſketh Judith the cauſe of her coming:
6 ſhe telleth him how to prevail.

THEN ſaid Holofernes unto her, Woman be of good comfort, fear not in thine heart: for I never hurt any that was willing to ſerve Nabuchodonoſor, the king of all the earth.

2 Now therefore if thy people that dwelleth in the mountains had not ſet light by me, I would not have lifted up my ſpear againſt them: but they have done theſe things to themſelves.

3 ¶ But now tell me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come unto us: for thou art come for ſafeguard; be of good comfort, thou ſhalt live this night and hereafter:

4 For none ſhall hurt thee, but entreat thee well, as they do the ſervants of king Nabuchodonoſor my lord.

5 Then Judith ſaid unto him, Receive the words of thy ſervant, and ſuffer thine handmaid to ſpeak in thy preſence, and I will declare no lie unto my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt follow the words of thine handmaid, God will bring the thing perfectly to paſs by thee; and my lord ſhall not fail of his purpoſes.

7 As Nabuchodonoſor king of all the earth liveth, and as his power liveth, who hath ſent thee for the upholding of every living thing: for not only men ſhall ſerve him by thee, but alſo the beaſts of the field, and the cattle, and the fowls of the air, ſhall live by thy power, under Nabuchodonoſor and all his houſe.

8 For we have heard of thy wiſdom and thy policies, and it is reported in all the earth, that thou only are excellent in all the kingdom, and mighty in knowledge, and wonderful in feats of war.

9 Now as concerning the matter which Achior did ſpeak in thy council, we have heard his words; for the men of Bethulia ſaved him, and he declared unto them all that he had ſpoken unto thee.

10 Therefore, O lord and governor, reject not his word; but lay it up in thine heart, for it is true: for our nation ſhall not be puniſhed, neither can the ſword prevail againſt them, except they ſin againſt their God.

11 And now that my lord be not defeated, and

Commentary on Chap. X.

11 Thus they went ſtraight forth in the valley, &c.) The city of Bethulia was ſituated on the top of a mountain, and the hoſt of the Aſſyrians were encamped in the vallies below; ſo that Judith and her attendant ſoon reached the advanced guards of the enemy, who were ſtationed at the very foot of the mountains.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

1 Then ſaid Holofernes unto her, &c.) The general of Nabuchodonoſor was charmed with the beauty of Judith, and encouraged her to tell him the reaſon of her coming, at the ſame time aſſuring her that ſhe had nothing to fear in the Aſſyrian camp; for orders ſhould be given for treating her in all reſpects as if ſhe had been a ſubject of his lord, and not like a captive.

9 Now as concerning the matter which Achior did ſpeak, &c.) Judith confirms what Achior had before told Holofernes, namely, that the Jews could not be conquered, unleſs they forſook the God of their fathers; but added, that they would ſoon lay their hands on the things dedicated to the Almighty, who would then forſake them, and they would fall an eaſy prey to his victorious army fruſtrate of his purpoſe, even death is now fallen upon them, and their ſin hath overtaken them, wherewith they will provoke their God to anger, whenſoever they ſhall do that which is not fit to be done:

18 For their victuals fail them, and all their water is ſcant, and they have determined to lay hands upon their cattle, and purpoſed to conſume all thoſe things that God hath forbidden them to eat by his laws;

13 And are reſolved to ſpend the firſt-fruits of the corn, and the tenths of wine and oil, which they had ſanctified and reſerved for the prieſts that ſerve in Jeruſalem, before the face of our God, the which things it is not lawful for any of the people ſo much as to touch with their hands.

14 For they have ſent ſome to Jeruſalem, becauſe they alſo that dwell there have done the like, to bring them a licenſe from the ſenate.

15 Now when they ſhall bring them word, they will forthwith do it, and they ſhall be given thee to be deſtroyed the ſame day.

16 Wherefore, I thine handmaid, knowing all this, am fled from their preſence; and God hath ſent me to work things with thee, whereat all the earth ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and whoſoever ſhall hear it.

17 For thy ſervant is religious, and ſerveth the God of heaven day and night: now therefore, my lord, I will remain with thee, and thy ſervant will go out by night into the valley, and I will pray unto God, and he will tell me when they have committed their ſins:

18 And I will come and ſhew it unto thee: then thou ſhalt go forth with all thine army, and there ſhall be none of them that ſhall reſiſt thee.

19 And I will lead thee through the midſt of Judea, until thou come before Jeruſalem, and I will ſet thy throne in the midſt thereof, and thou ſhalt drive them as ſheep that have no ſhepherd, and a dog ſhall not ſo much as open his mouth at thee; for theſe things were told me according to my foreknowledge, and they were declared unto me, and I am ſent to tell thee.

20 Then her words pleaſed Holofernes, and all his ſervants; and they marvelled at her wiſdom, and ſaid,

21 There is not ſuch a woman from one end of the earth to the other, both for beauty of face, and wiſdom of words.

22 Likewiſe Holofernes ſaid unto her, God hath done well to ſend thee before the people, that ſtrength might be in our hands, and deſtruction upon them that lightly regard my lord.

23 And now thou art both beautiful in thy countenance, and witty in thy words: ſurely, if thou do as thou haſt ſpoken, thy God ſhall be my God, and thou ſhalt dwell in the houſe of king Nabuchodonoſor, and ſhalt be renowned through the whole earth.

CHAP. XII.

2 Judith will not eat of Holofernes' meat: 7 ſhe tarrieth three days in the camp.

THEN he commanded to bring her in where his plate was ſet, and bade that they ſhould prepare for her of his own meats, and that ſhe ſhould drink of his own wine.

2 And Judith ſaid, I will not eat thereof, leſt there be an offence: but proviſions ſhall be made for me of the things that I have brought.

3 Then Holofernes ſaid unto her, If thy proviſion ſhould fail, how ſhould we give thee the like? for there be none with us of thy nation.

4 Then ſaid Judith unto him, As thy ſoul liveth, my lord, thine handmaid ſhall not ſpend thoſe things that I have, before the Lord work by mine hand, the things that he hath determined.

5 Then the ſervants of Holofernes brought her into the tent, and ſhe ſlept till midnight, and ſhe aroſe when it was towards the morning watch.

6 And ſent to Holofernes, ſaying, Let my lord now command that thine handmaid may go forth unto prayer.

7 ¶ Then Holofernes commanded his guard, that they ſhould not ſtay her: thus ſhe abode in the camp three days, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and waſhed herſelf in a fountain of water by the camp.

8 And when ſhe came out, ſhe beſought the Lord God of Iſrael to direct her way, to the raiſing up of the children of her people.

9 So ſhe came in clean, and remained in the tent, until ſhe did eat her meat at evening.

10 And in the fourth day Holofernes made a feaſt to his own ſervants only, and called none of the officers to the banquet.

11 Then ſaid he to Bagoas the eunuch, who had charge over all that he had, Go now, and perſuade this Hebrew woman which is with thee, that ſhe come unto us, and eat and drink with us.

12 For, lo, it will be a ſhame for our perſon, if we ſhall let ſuch a woman go, not having had her company: for if we draw her not unto us, ſhe will laugh us to ſcorn.

13 Then went Bagoas from the preſence of Holofernes, and came to her, and he ſaid, Let not this fair damſel fear to come to my lord, and to be honoured in his preſence, and drink wine, and be merry with us, and be made this day as one of the daughters of the Aſſyrians, which ſerve in the houſe of Nabuchodonoſor.

14 Then ſaid Judith unto him, Who am I now, that I ſhould gainſay my lord? Surely whatſoever pleaſeth him I will do ſpeedily, and it ſhall be my joy unto the day of my death.

---

20 Then her words pleaſed Holofernes, &c.) The Aſſyrian general liſtened with attention to the ſpeech of Judith, and determined to purſue her inſtructions, promiſing at the ſame time, that if her words proved true, ſhe ſhould have an honourable ſtation in the palace of Nabuchodonoſor, and that he himſelf would be a worſhipper of the God of Iſrael.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

2 I will not eat thereof, &c.) There was no law that prohibited the Jews from eating ſeveral things that the Gentiles made uſe of; bread, wine, fruits, and the like, were allowed them in common with other people; but either ſome tradition then prevalent among the Jews, or ſome religious vow, that Judith might have bound herſelf under, the fear of giving ſcandal to her countrymen when ſhe returned, or the prayers and invocations made over the meat ſerved up to Holofernes, in all probability, hindered her from accepting the offer made her by the general, of proviſions from his table, and induced her to requeſt the favour of eating alone.

7 And went out in the night, &c.) As prayer, no doubt, is beſt performed in places of retirement, and the hurry of a camp muſt needs be inconvenient for religious offices, Judith, who profeſſed herſelf a woman of ſtrict piety, had a good pretence to requeſt of the general, the liberty of retiring out of the camp to perform her devotions, which ſhe foreſaw would be a means to favour her eſcape, after ſhe had executed the deſign for which ſhe left her city, and ventured to put herſelf in the enemy's hand; for it was on this precaution, rather than any obligation, either from cuſtom or the law of Moſes, that this devotion of praying without the camp was founded.

15 So she arose, and decked herself with her apparel, and all her woman's attire; and her maid went and laid soft skins on the ground for her, over against Holofernes, which she had received of Bagoas for her daily use, that she might sit and eat upon them.

16 Now when Judith came in and sat down, Holofernes his heart was ravished with her, and his mind was moved, and he desired greatly her company; for he waited a time to deceive her from the day that he had seen her.

17 Then said Holofernes unto her, Drink now, and be merry with us.

18 So Judith said, I will drink now, my lord, because my life is magnified in me this day more than all the days since I was born.

19 Then she took and ate and drank before him what her maid had prepared.

20 And Holofernes took great delight in her, and drank much more wine than he had drunk at any time in one day since he was born.

CHAP. XIII.

2 Judith is left alone with Holofernes in his tent: 4 she prayeth God to give her strength.

NOW, when the evening was come, his servants made haste to depart, and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dismissed the waiters from the presence of his lord; and they went to their beds: for they were all weary, because the feast had been long.

2 ¶ And Judith was left alone in the tent, and Holofernes lying along upon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

3 Now Judith had commanded her maid to stand without her bed-chamber, and to wait for her coming forth, as she did daily: for she said she would go forth to her prayers, and she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

4 ¶ So all went forth, and none was left in the bed-chamber, neither little nor great. Then Judith, standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, look at this present upon the works of mine hands for the exaltation of Jerusalem.

5 For now is the time to help thine inheritance, and to execute mine enterprizes to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against us.

6 Then she came to the pillar of the bed which was at Holofernes' head, and took down his fauchion from thence,

7 And approached to his bed, and took hold of the hair of his head, and said, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel, this day.

8 And she smote twice upon his neck with all her might, and she took away his head from him,

9 And tumbled his body down from the bed, and pulled down the canopy from the pillars, and anon after she went forth, and gave Holofernes' head to her maid:

10 And she put it in her bag of meat; so they twain went together, according to their custom, unto prayer; and when they passed the camp they compassed the valley, and went up the mountain of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.

11 Then said Judith afar off to the watchmen at the gate, Open, open now the gate: God, even our God, is with us, to shew his power yet in Jerusalem, and his forces against the enemy, as he hath even done this day.

12 Now when the men of her city heard her voice, they made haste to go down to the gate of their city, and they called the elders of the city.

13 And then they ran all together, both small and great, for it was strange unto them that she was come: so they opened the gate and received them, and made a fire for a light, and stood round about them.

14 Then she said to them with a loud voice, Praise, praise God, praise God, I say; for he hath not taken away his mercy from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

15 So she took the head out of the bag, and shewed it, and said unto them, Behold the head of Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Assur, and behold the canopy, wherein he did lie in his drunkenness; and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

16 As the Lord liveth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceived him to his destruction, and yet hath he not committed sin with me to defile and shame me.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed themselves, and worshipped God, and said with one accord, Blessed be thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then said Ozias unto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the most high God above all the women upon the earth; and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heavens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting off of the head of the chief of our enemies.

19 For this thy confidence shall not depart from the heart of men, which remember the power of God for ever.

20 And God turn these things to thee for a perpetual praise, to visit thee in good things, because thou hast not spared thy life for the affliction of our nation, but hast revenged our ruin, walking a straight way before our God. And all the people said, So be it, so be it.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Judith's advice. 11 Head of Holofernes hanged up: 15 He is found dead.

THEN said Judith unto them, Hear me now, my brethren, and take this head, and hang it upon the highest place of your wall.

2 And so soon as the morning shall appear, and the sun shall come forth upon the earth, take ye every one his weapons, and go forth every valiant man out of the city, and set ye a captain over them, as though ye would

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

3 Now Judith had commanded her maid to stand without, &c.) It does not appear, from the whole history, that the maid knew any thing of Judith's design; and even the last night, when the action was performed, she seems only to have waited the return of her mistress, in order to their going into the valley to perform their accustomed devotion. Indeed, a scheme of this kind required the greatest secrecy; and therefore Judith wisely determined to keep it concealed in her own breast.

4 Then Judith, standing by his bed, &c.) Judith's project was now ripe for execution: she therefore first prayed to the Almighty for strength to perform it; and then approaching his bed, drew his fauchion, and at two strokes severed his head from his body. Thus fell the man who dar'd to place his master above the Almighty God of Jacob, and presumptuously to declare, that victory was given by Nabuchodonosor!

11 Then said Judith afar off to the watchmen, &c.) Judith, having executed the task she had undertaken, left the Assyrian camp, and hastened to the gates of Bethulia; but, before she reached them, she called aloud to the watch, assuring them that God had visibly declared for them, and would protect them against the power of the enemy.

go down into the field toward the watch of the Aſſyrians, but go not down.

3 Then they ſhall take their armour, and ſhall go into their camp, and raiſe up the captains of the army of Aſſur, and they ſhall run to the tent of Holofernes, but ſhall not find him: then fear ſhall fall upon them, and they ſhall flee before your face.

4 So ye, and all that inhabit the coaſt of Iſrael, ſhall purſue them, and overthrow them as they go.

5 But before ye do theſe things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may ſee and know him that deſpiſeth the houſe of Iſrael, and that ſent him to us, as it were to his death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the houſe of Ozias; and when he was come, and ſaw the head of Holofernes in a man's hand in the aſſembly of the people, he fell down on his face, and his ſpirit failed.

7 But when they had recovered him, he fell at Judith's feet, and reverenced her, and ſaid, Bleſſed art thou in all the tabernacle of Judah, and in all nations, which hearing thy name ſhall be aſtoniſhed.

8 Now therefore tell me all the things that thou haſt done in theſe days. Then Judith declared unto him, in the midſt of the people, all that ſhe had done from the day that ſhe went forth, until that hour ſhe ſpake unto them.

9 And when ſhe had left off ſpeaking, the people ſhouted with a loud voice, and made a joyful noiſe in their city.

10 And when Achior had ſeen all that the God of Iſrael had done, he believed in God greatly, and circumciſed the fleſh of his foreſkin, and was joined unto the houſe of Iſrael unto this day.

11 ¶ And as ſoon as the morning aroſe, they hanged the head of Holofernes upon the wall, and every man took his weapons, and they went forth by bands unto the ſtraits of the mountain.

12 But when the Aſſyrians ſaw them, they ſent to their leaders, which came to their captains and tribunes, and to every one of their rulers.

13 So they came to Holofernes' tent, and ſaid to him that had the charge of all his things, Waken now our lord: for the ſlaves have been bold to come down againſt us to battle, that they may be utterly deſtroyed.

14 Then went in Bagoas, and knocked at the door of the tent, for he thought that he had ſlept with Judith.

15 ¶ But becauſe none anſwered, he opened it, and went into the bed-chamber, and found him caſt upon the floor dead, and his head was taken from him.

16 Therefore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping and ſighing, and a mighty cry, and rent his garments.

17 After he went into the tent where Judith lodged; and when he found her not, he leaped out to the people, and cried,

18 Theſe ſlaves have dealt treacherouſly; one woman of the Hebrews hath brought ſhame upon the houſe of king Nabuchodonoſor: for behold, Holofernes lieth upon the ground without a head.

19 When the captains of the Ayrians' army heard theſe words, they rent their coats, and their minds were wonderfully troubled, and there was a cry, and a very great noiſe throughout the camp.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Aſſyrians are chaſed and ſlain. 13 The women crown Judith with a garland.

AND when they that were in the tents heard, they were aſtoniſhed at the thing that was done.

2 And fear and trembling fell upon them, ſo that there was no man that durſt abide in the ſight of his neighbour, but ruſhing out altogether, they fled into every way of the plain, and of the hill-country.

3 They alſo that had camped in the mountains round about Bethulia, fled away. Then the children of Iſrael, every one that was a warrior among them, ruſhed out upon them.

4 Then ſent Ozias to Betomaſthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Cola, and to all the coaſts of Iſrael, ſuch as ſhould tell the things that were done, and that all ſhould ruſh forth upon their enemies to deſtroy them.

5 Now when the children of Iſrael heard it, they all fell upon them with one conſent, and ſlew them unto Chobai: likewiſe alſo they that came from Jeruſalem, and from all the hill-country (for men had told them what things were done in the camp of their enemies) and they that were in Galaad, and in Galilee, chaſed them with a great ſlaughter, until they were paſt Damaſcus, and the borders thereof.

6 And the reſidue that dwelt at Bethulia fell upon the camp of Aſſur, and ſpoiled them, and were greatly enriched.

7 And the children of Iſrael that returned from the ſlaughter, had that which remained; and the villages, and the cities that were in the mountains and in the plain, got many ſpoils: for the multitude was very great.

8 Then Joacim the high prieſt, and the ancients of the children of Iſrael that dwelt in Jeruſalem, came to behold the good things that God had ſhewed to Iſrael, and to ſee Judith, and to ſalute her.

9 And when they came unto her, they bleſſed her with one accord, and ſaid unto her, Thou art the exaltation of Jeruſalem, thou art the great glory of Iſrael, thou art the great rejoicing of our nation:

10 Thou haſt done all theſe things by thine hand: thou haſt done much good to Iſrael, and God is pleaſed therewith: bleſſed be thou of the Almighty Lord for evermore: and all the people ſaid, So be it.

11 And the people ſpoiled the camp the ſpace of

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

11 And as ſoon as the morning aroſe, &c.) To encourage the beſieged to fight for their country and religion, Judith cauſed the head of Holofernes to be hung upon the wall in ſight of the enemy, that it might ſerve to animate the courage of the former, and ſtrike a panic into the minds of the latter.

12 But when the Aſſyrians ſaw them, &c.) The Bethulians appearing in the paſſes of the mountains, the advanced guards of the Aſſyrians gave notice to their officers, who ſent an account of it to the general; but Bagoas the eunuch, on entering the tent to inform his maſter of the appearance of the enemy, ſaw, with aſtoniſhment, the headleſs carcaſe of Holofernes, lying on the ground in its blood; and at the ſame time miſſing Judith, whom he had left with his maſter, he haſtened to her tent; but not finding her there, he was too well convinced who was the author of this tragical ſcene; and not being able to conceal the perturbation of his mind, publiſhed the death of his maſter in the Aſſyrian camp, which threw the whole army into the greateſt conſternation.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

2 And fear and trembling fell upon them, &c.) The Bethulians took the advantage of this diſorder of their enemies, and attacked them in ſmall parties from different quarters, and were aſſiſted by all the neighbouring countries; by which means the army of the Aſſyrians were totally diſcomfited and overthrown.

11 And the people ſpoiled the camp the ſpace of thirty days, &c.) The Syriac verſion was only three days; but when it is conſidered that the Aſſyrian camp was very great, and different parties were placed in the plains, and at the foot of the mountains, and that theſe parties, in their flight, either hid or caſt away the valuable things they had acquired, thirty days will not be thought too long; eſpecially as they were obliged to provide carriages to bring the ſpoil to the city, and there to divide it according to the precepts of the law.

thirty days, and they gave unto Judith Holofernes' tent, and all his plate, and beds, and veſſels, and all his ſtuff: and ſhe took it, and laid it on her mule; and made ready her carts, and laid them thereon.

12 Then all the women of Iſrael ran together to ſee her, and bleſſed her, and made a dance among them for her; and ſhe took branches in her hand, and gave alſo to the women that were with her.

13 ¶ And they put a garland of olive upon her, and her maid that was with her, and ſhe went before all the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Iſrael followed in their armour with garlands, and with ſongs in their mouths.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The ſong of Judith: 19 ſhe dedicateth the ſtuff of Holofernes.

THEN Judith began to ſing this thankſgiving in all Iſrael, and all the people ſang after her this ſong of praiſe.

2 And Judith ſaid, Begin unto my God with timbrels, ſing unto my Lord with cymbals: tune unto him a new pſalm: exalt him, and call upon his name.

3 For God breaketh the battles: for among the camps, in the midſt of the people, he hath delivered me out of the hands of them that perſecuted me.

4 Aſſur came out of the mountains from the north, he came with ten thouſands of his army, the multitude whereof ſtopped the torrents, and their horſemen have covered the hills.

5 He bragged that he would burn up my borders, and kill my young men with the ſword, and daſh the ſuckling children againſt the ground, and make mine infants as a prey, and my virgins as a ſpoil:

6 But the Almighty Lord hath diſappointed them by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mighty one did not fall by the young men, neither did the ſons of the Titans ſmite him, nor high giants ſet upon him: but Judith the daughter of Merari weakened him with the beauty of her countenance.

8 For ſhe put off the garment of her widowhood, for the exaltation of thoſe that were oppreſſed in Iſrael, and anointed her face with ointment, and bound her hair in a tire, and took a linen garment to deceive him.

9 Her ſandals raviſhed his eyes, her beauty took his mind priſoner, and the fauchion paſſed through his neck.

10 The Perſians quaked at her boldneſs, and the Medes were daunted at her hardineſs.

11 Then my afflicted ſhouted for joy, and my weak ones cried aloud; but they were aſtoniſhed: theſe lifted up their voices, but they were overthrown.

12 The ſons of the damſels have pierced them through, and wounded them as fugitives' children: they periſhed by the battle of the Lord.

13 I will ſing unto the Lord a new ſong: O Lord, thou art great and glorious, wonderful in ſtrength, and invincible.

14 Let all creatures ſerve thee: for thou ſpakeſt, and they were made; thou didſt ſend forth thy Spirit, and it created them; and there is none that can reſiſt thy voice.

15 For the mountains ſhall be moved from their foundations with the waters, the rocks ſhall melt as wax at thy preſence: yet thou art merciful to them that fear thee.

16 For all ſacrifice is too little for a ſweet ſavour unto thee, and all the fat is not ſufficient for thy burnt-offering: but he that feareth the Lord is great at all times.

17 Woe to the nations that riſe up againſt my kindred! the Lord Almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of judgment, in putting fire and worms in their fleſh; and they ſhall feel them, and weep for ever.

18 Now as ſoon as they entered into Jeruſalem, they worſhipped the Lord; and as ſoon as the people were puriſied, they offered their burnt-offerings, and their free-offerings, and their gifts.

19 Judith alſo dedicated all the ſtuff of Holofernes, which the people had given her, and gave the canopy which ſhe had taken out of his bed-chamber, for a gift unto the Lord.

20 So the people continued feaſting in Jeruſalem before the ſanctuary, for the ſpace of three months, and Judith remained with them.

21 After this time every one returned to his own inheritance, and Judith went to Bethulia, and remained in her own poſſeſſion, and was in her time honourable in all the country.

22 And many deſired her, but none knew her all the days of her life, after that Manaſſes her huſband was dead, and was gathered to his people.

23 But ſhe increaſed more and more in honour, and waxed old in her huſband's houſe, being an hundred and five years old, and made her maid free; ſo ſhe died in Bethulia: and they buried her in the cave of her huſband Manaſſes.

24 And the houſe of Iſrael lamented her ſeven days: and before ſhe died, ſhe did diſtribute her goods to all them that were neareſt of kindred to Manaſſes her huſband, and to them that were the neareſt of her kindred.

25 And there was none that made the children of Iſrael any more afraid in the days of Judith, nor a long time after her death.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

19 Judith alſo dedicated all the ſtuff of Holofernes, &c.) Nothing was more common, both among the Jews and Gentiles, than to dedicate the ſpoils taken in war to God, in acknowledgment of his goodneſs, and to commemorate the victory, which, by his favour and aſſiſtance, was then obtained.

PART OF THE TENTH CHAPTER, AFTER THE GREEK.

THE ARGUMENT.

The following chapters, which are ſubjoined as a ſupplement to the authentic Book of Eſther, are doubtleſs very ancient, ſince Joſephus has taken ſome of them into his hiſtory: but the ancient compilers of the ſacred canon found ſufficient grounds for placing them among the Apotryphal writings.

Mardocheus remembereth and expoundeth his dream of the river and the two dragons.

THEN Mardocheus ſaid, God hath done theſe things.

5 For I remember a dream which I ſaw concerning theſe matters, and nothing thereof hath failed.

6 A little fountain became a river, and there was light, and the ſun, and much water: this river is Eſther, whom the king married, and made queen.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the nations were thoſe that were aſſembled to deſtroy the name of the Jews:

9 And my nation is this Iſrael which cried to God, and were ſaved: for the Lord hath ſaved his people, and the Lord hath delivered us from all thoſe evils, and God hath wrought ſigns and great wonders, which have not been done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hath he made two lots, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

11 And theſe two lots came at the hour, and time, and day of judgment, before God among all nations.

12 So God remembered his people, and juſtified his inheritance.

13 Therefore thoſe days ſhall be unto them in the month Adar, the fourteenth and fifteenth day of the ſame month, with an aſſembly, and joy, and with gladneſs before God, according to the generations for ever among his people.

CHAP. XI.

2 The ſtock and quality of Mardocheus: 6 He dreameth of two dragons.

IN the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemeus and Cleopatra, Doſitheus, who ſaid he was a prieſt and Levite, and Ptolemeus his ſon, brought this epiſtle of Phurim, which they ſaid was the ſame, and that Lyſimachus the ſon of Ptolemeus, that was in Jeruſalem, had interpreted it.

2 In the ſecond year of the reign of Artaxerxes the great, in the firſt day of the month Niſan, Mardocheus the ſon of Jairus, the ſon of Semei, the ſon of Ciſai, of the tribe of Benjamin, had a dream;

3 Who was a Jew, and dwelt in the city of Suſa, a great man, being a ſervitor in the king's court.

4 He was alſo one of the captives which Nabuchodonoſor the king of Babylon carried from Jeruſalem, with Jechonias king of Judea, and this was his dream:

COMMENTARY on Chap. X.

4 Then Mardocheus ſaid, God hath done theſe things.) In order to connect this additional hiſtory with the book of Eſther, of which it is ſaid to be the remainder, we are to remember that, by the interpoſition of Mordecai, or as he is here called Mardocheus, and the aſſiſtance of queen Eſther, the Jews obtained a ſignal deliverance from the plot laid againſt them by Haman their mortal enemy. Mordecai, to perpetuate ſo wonderful an inſtance of the divine favour to his nation, inſtituted an annual feſtival, to be obſerved on the fifteenth and ſixteenth of the month Adar, for ever. After the firſt celebration of this feſtival, the people being reinſtated in their former tranquility, he conſiders within himſelf the part he had acted in this great revolution; and finding, on a careful review, ſuch manifeſt traces of the finger of God in all that had been tranſacted, he judged it impoſſible, as well as highly impious, to aſcribe it to his own wiſdom or policy; therefore, as if aſtoniſhed at the wonders he had ſeen, he cried out, in the beginning of this chapter, God hath done theſe things.

5 Behold,

5 Behold, a noiſe of a tumult, with thunder, and earthquakes, and uproar in the land:

6 And behold, two great dragons came forth ready to fight, and their cry was great.

7 And at their cry all nations were prepared to battle, that they might fight againſt the righteous people.

8 And lo, a day of darkneſs and obſcurity, tribulation and anguiſh, affliction, and great uproar upon the earth.

9 And the whole righteous nation was troubled, fearing their own evils, and were ready to periſh.

10 Then they cried unto God, and upon their cry, as it were from a little fountain, was made a great flood, even much water.

11 The light and the ſun roſe up, and the lowly were exalted, and devoured the glorious.

12 Now when Mardocheus, who had ſeen this dream, and what God had determined to do, was awake, he bare this dream in mind, and until night by all means was deſirous to know it.

CHAP. XII.

1 The conſpiracy of the two eunuchs is diſcovered by Mardocheus, 5 for which he is entertained by the king, and rewarded.

AND Mardocheus took his reſt in the court with Gabatha and Tharra, the two eunuchs of the king, and keepers of the palace.

2 And he heard their devices, and ſearched out their purpoſes, and learned that they were about to lay hands upon Artaxerxes the king; and ſo he certified the king of them.

3 Then the king examined the two eunuchs, and after that they had confeſſed it, they were ſtrangled.

4 And the king made a record of theſe things, and Mardocheus alſo wrote thereof.

5 So the king commanded Mardocheus to ſerve in the court, and for this he rewarded him.

6 Howbeit, Aman the ſon of Amadathus the Agagite, who was in great honour with the king, ſought to moleſt Mardocheus and his people, becauſe of the two eunuchs of the king.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The copy of the king's letters to deſtroy the Jews: 8 The prayer of Mardocheus for them

THE copy of the letters was this: The great king Artaxerxes writeth theſe things to the princes and governors that are under him from India unto Ethiopia, in an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces.

2 After that I became lord over many nations, and had dominion over the whole world, not lifted up with preſumption of my authority, but carrying myſelf alway with equity and mildneſs, I purpoſed to ſettle my ſubjects continually in a quiet life, and making my kingdom peaceable, and open for paſſage to the utmoſt coaſts, to renew peace, which is deſired of all men.

3 Now when I aſked my counſellors how this might be brought to paſs, Aman, that excelled in wiſdom among us, and was approved for his conſtant good will and ſtedfaſt fidelity, and had the honour of the ſecond place in the kingdom;

4 Declared unto us, that in all nations throughout the world there was ſcattered a certain malicious people, that had laws contrary to all nations, and continually deſpiſed the commandments of kings, ſo as the uniting of our kingdoms honourably, intended by us, cannot go forward.

5 Seeing then we underſtand that this people alone is continually in oppoſition unto all men, differing in the ſtrange manner of their laws, and evil-affected to our ſtate, working all the miſchief they can, that our kingdom may not be firmly eſtabliſhed:

6 Therefore have we commanded that all they that are ſignified in writing unto you by Aman (who is ordained over the affairs, and is next unto us) ſhall all, with their wives and children, be utterly deſtroyed by the ſword of their enemies, without all mercy and pity, the fourteenth day of the twelfth month Adar of this preſent year:

7 That they, who of old, and now alſo are malicious, may in one day with violence go into the grave, and ſo ever hereafter cauſe our affairs to be well ſettled, and without trouble.

8 Then Mardocheus thought upon all the works of the Lord, and made his prayer unto him,

9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the King Almighty: for the whole world is in thy power, and if thou haſt appointed to ſave Iſrael, there is no man that can gainſay thee:

10 For thou haſt made heaven and earth, and all the wondrous things under the heaven.

11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can reſiſt thee, which art the Lord.

12 Thou knoweſt all things, and thou knoweſt, Lord, that it was neither in contempt nor pride, nor for any deſire of glory, that I did not bow down to proud Aman.

13 For I could have been content with good will, for the ſalvation of Iſrael, to kiſs the ſoles of his feet.

14 But I did this, that I might not prefer the glory of man above the glory of God: neither will I worſhip any but thee, O God, neither will I do it in pride.

15 And now, O Lord God, and King, ſpare thy people: for their eyes are upon us to bring us to nought; yea, they deſire to deſtroy the inheritance that hath been thine from the beginning.

16 Deſpiſe not the portion which thou haſt delivered out of Egypt for thine own ſelf.

17 Hear my prayer, and be merciful unto thine inheritance;

Commentary on Chap. XI.

12 He bare this dream in mind, &c.) The intention of this dream was to predict the great diſtreſſes which his countrymen the Jews would feel, and the ſignal deliverance, which, by their prayer to the Almighty, they ſhould obtain from all the cruel attempts of their implacable adverſaries.

Commentary on Chap. XII.

1 And Mardocheus took his reſt in the court, &c.) The author here tells us, that Mordecai, from his apartment in the palace, overheard two of the king's chamberlains, who were chief officers near his royal perſon, plotting the death of their ſovereign, which Mordecai, as became a faithful ſubject, diſcovered to his majeſty. In the canonical book of Eſther, we are told that Mordecai was acquainted with this conſpiracy; but how he came by this intelligence is not mentioned: nor is there any great probability that he acquired this knowledge by overhearing the conſpirators in his own apartment. Deſigns like theſe require the utmoſt ſecrecy; and therefore it is not natural to imagine, that thoſe concerned in it would be ſo careleſs as to ſpeak of it in ſuch a manner as to be overheard in another apartment.

Commentary on Chap. XIII.

9 O Lord, Lord, the King Almighty, &c.) As ſoon as Mordecai was informed of this terrible decree, he proſtrated himſelf, and appealed to God for the ſincerity of his heart, that he had no deſign to affront Haman, in refuſing to bow before him; he only intended to ſhew that he was unwilling to give that glory to man, which belonged to God alone; concluding his prayer with intreating Omnipotence to be merciful to his people, and to deliver them from this intended deſtruction.

heritance: turn our ſorrow into joy, that we may live, O Lord, and praiſe thy name; and deſtroy not the mouths of them that praiſe thee, O Lord.

18 All Iſrael in like manner cried moſt earneſtly unto the Lord, becauſe their death was before their eyes.

CHAP. XIV.

The prayer of queen Eſther for herſelf and her people.

QUEEN Eſther alſo, being in fear of death, reſorted unto the Lord:

2 And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of anguiſh and mourning: and inſtead of precious ointment, ſhe covered her head with aſhes and dung, and ſhe humbled her body greatly, and all the places of her joy ſhe filled with her torn hair.

3 And ſhe prayed unto the Lord God of Iſrael, ſaying, O my Lord, thou only art our king: help me deſolate woman, which have no helper but thee:

4 For my danger is in mine hand.

5 From my youth up I have heard in the tribe of my family, that thou, O Lord, tookeſt Iſrael from among all people, and our fathers from all their predeceſſors, for a perpetual inheritance, and thou haſt performed whatſoever thou didſt promiſe them.

6 And now we have ſinned before thee: therefore haſt thou given us into the hands of our enemies.

7 Becauſe we worſhipped their gods: O Lord, thou art righteous.

8 Nevertheleſs, it ſatisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captivity: but they have ſtricken hands with their idols,

9 That they will aboliſh the thing that thou with thy mouth haſt ordained, and deſtroy thine inheritance, and ſtop the mouth of them that praiſe thee, and quench the glory of thy houſe, and of thine altar,

10 And open the mouths of the heathen, to ſet forth the praiſes of the idols, and to magnify a fleſhly king for ever.

11 O Lord, give not thy ſceptre unto them that be nothing, and let them not laugh at our fall; but turn their device upon themſelves, and make him an example that hath begun this againſt us.

12 Remember, O Lord, make thyſelf known in time of our affliction, and give me boldneſs, O King of the nations, and Lord of all power.

13 Give me eloquent ſpeech in my mouth before the lion: turn his heart to hate him that fighteth againſt us, that there may be an end of him, and of all that are like-minded to him:

14 But deliver us with thine hand, and help me, that am deſolate, and which have no other helper but thee.

15 Thou knoweſt all things, O Lord; thou knoweſt that I hate the glory of the unrighteous, and abhor the bed of the uncircumciſed, and of all the heathen.

16 Thou knoweſt my neceſſity: for I abhor the ſign of my high eſtate, which is upon mine head, in the days wherein I ſhew myſelf, and that I abhor it as a menſtruous rag, and that I wear it not when I am private by myſelf:

17 And that thine handmaid hath not eaten at Aman's table, and that I have not greatly eſteemed the king's feaſt, nor drunk the wine of the drink-offerings:

18 Neither had thine handmaid any joy ſince the day that I was brought hither, to this preſent, but in thee, O Lord God of Abraham.

19 O thou mighty God above all, hear the voice of the forlorn, and deliver us out of the hands of the miſchievous, and deliver me out of my fear.

CHAP. XV.

6 Eſther cometh into the king's preſence: 7 ſhe fainteth: 8 he comforteth her.

AND upon the third day, when ſhe had ended her prayer, ſhe laid away her mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparel.

2 And being gloriouſly adorned, after ſhe had called upon God, who is the beholder and ſaviour of all things, ſhe took two maids with her.

3 And upon the one ſhe leaned, as carrying herſelf daintily;

4 And the other followed, bearing up her train.

5 And ſhe was ruddy through the perfection of her beauty, and her countenance was chearful, and very amiable; but her heart was in anguiſh for fear.

6 Then having paſſed through all the doors, ſhe ſtood before the king, who ſat upon his royal throne, and was clothed with all his robes of majeſty, all glittering with gold and precious ſtones; and he was very dreadful.

7 Then, lifting up his countenance that ſhone with majeſty, he looked very fiercely upon her: and the queen fell down, and was pale, and fainted, and bowed herſelf upon the head of the maid that went before her.

8 Then God changed the ſpirit of the king into mildneſs, who in a fear leaped from his throne, and took her in his arms, till ſhe came to herſelf again, and comforted her with loving words, and ſaid unto her,

9 Eſther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheer;

10 Thou ſhalt not die, though our commandment be general: come near.

11 And ſo he held up his golden ſceptre, and laid it upon her neck;

12 And embraced her, and ſaid, Speak unto me.

13 Then ſaid ſhe unto him, I ſaw thee, my lord, as an angel of God, and my heart was troubled for fear of thy majeſty.

14 For wonderful art thou, lord, and thy countenance is full of grace.

15 And as ſhe was ſpeaking, ſhe fell down for faintneſs.

16 Then the king was troubled, and all his ſervants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The letter of Artaxerxes, 10 wherein he taxeth Aman.

THE great king Artaxerxes, unto the princes and governors of an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces, from India unto Ethiopia, and unto all our faithful ſubjects, greeting:

2 Many, the more often they are honoured with the great bounty of their gracious princes, the more proud they are waxen,

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

15 Thou knoweſt all things, O Lord, &c.) Eſther concludes her prayer with appealing to the Almighty, who knew the moſt ſecret intentions of the heart, that ſhe enjoyed very little ſatisfaction in her advancement in a partnerſhip in the throne with a prince of a religion ſo different from her own.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

1 The great king Artaxerxes, unto the princes, &c.) In order to avert the miſchief which would have befallen the Jews, from the deteſtable plot of Haman, it was abſolutely neceſſary that the ſame authority which gave the decree ſhould reverſe it. Accordingly the king, being prevailed upon by the interceſſion of Eſther and Mordecai, publiſhed his royal letters to countermand thoſe he had before ſent to the governors of his numerous provinces,

3 And

3 And endeavour to hurt, not our ſubjects only, but, not being able to bear abundance, do take in hand to practiſe alſo againſt thoſe that do them good;

4 And take not only thankfulneſs away from among men, but alſo, lifted up with the glorious words of lewd perſons, that were never good, they think to eſcape the juſtice of God, that ſeeth all things, and hateth evil.

5 Oftentimes alſo fair ſpeech of thoſe that are put in truſt to manage their friends' affairs, hath cauſed many that are in authority to be partakers of innocent blood, and hath enwrapped them in remedileſs calamities;

6 Beguiling, with the falſehood and deceit of their lewd diſpoſition, the innocency and goodneſs of princes.

7 Now ye may ſee this, as we have declared, not ſo much by ancient hiſtories, as ye may, if ye ſearch what hath been wickedly done of late through the peſtilent behaviour of them that are unworthily placed in authority.

8 And we muſt take care for the time to come, that our kingdom may be quiet and peaceable for all men,

9 Both by changing our purpoſes, and always judging things that are evident with more equal proceeding.

10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the ſon of Amadatha, being indeed a ſtranger from the Perſian blood, and far diſtant from our goodneſs, and as a ſtranger received of us,

11 Had ſo far forth obtained the favour that we ſhew toward every nation, as that he was called our father, and was continually honoured of all men, as the next perſon unto the king.

12 But he, not bearing his great dignity, went about to deprive us of our kingdom and life:

13 Having, by manifold and cunning deceits, ſought of us the deſtruction as well of Mardocheus, who ſaved our life, and continually procured our good, as alſo of blameleſs Eſther, partaker of our kingdom, with their whole nation.

14 For by theſe means he thought, finding us deſtitute of friends, to have tranſlated the kingdom of the Perſians to the Macedonians.

15 But we find that the Jews, whom this wicked wretch hath delivered to utter deſtruction, are no evil doers, but live by moſt juſt laws:

16 And that they be children of the moſt high and moſt mighty living God, who hath ordered the kingdom both unto us and to our progenitors in the moſt excellent manner.

17 Wherefore ye ſhall do well, not to put in execution the letters ſent unto you by Aman the ſon of Amadatha:

18 For he that was the worker of theſe things is hanged at the gates of Suſa, with all his family: God, who ruleth all things, ſpeedily rendering vengeance to him according to his deſerts.

19 Therefore ye ſhall publiſh the copy of this letter in all places, that the Jews may freely live after their own laws.

20 And ye ſhall aid them, that even the ſame day, being the thirteenth day of the twelfth month Adar, they may be avenged on them, who, in the time of their affliction, ſhall ſet upon them.

21 For Almighty God hath turned to joy unto them, the day wherein the choſen people ſhould have periſhed.

22 Ye ſhall therefore among your ſolemn feaſts keep it an high day with all feaſting:

23 That both now and hereafter there may be ſafety to us, and the well-affected Perſians, but to thoſe which do conſpire againſt us, a memorial of deſtruction.

24 Therefore every city and country whatſoever, which ſhall not do according to theſe things, ſhall be deſtroyed without mercy, with fire and ſword, and ſhall be made not only unpaſſable for men, but alſo moſt hateful to wild beaſts and fowls for ever.

---

24 Therefore every city and country, &c.) From the whole hiſtory of this tranſaction two things occur to our obſervation: Firſt, That when a haughty and ambitious miniſter has once obtained the aſcendency over his prince, he is ſure to enrich and aggrandize himſelf, and treat with the utmoſt ſeverity every perſon who ſhall preſume to thwart his ambition, or cenſure his adminiſtration. Secondly, That the prince who reſigns himſelf, and the great affairs of government, to the conduct of a favourite, has generally ſufficient reaſon to repent his weakneſs and fooliſh credulity.

THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON.

THE ARGUMENT.

The principal intention of this book is the inſtruction of kings, and the information of the great ones, and judges of the earth. To theſe the author directs his diſcourſe, and to their occaſions he accommodates his rules. At the ſame time, to incline them the more effectually to the ſtudy of wiſdom, he borrows the name of Solomon, ſpeaks to them in the name of that prince, and propoſes him to them as a pattern.

CHAP. I.

2 To whom God ſheweth himſelf, 4 and wiſdom herſelf. 6 An evil ſpeaker cannot be hid.

LOVE righteouſneſs, ye that be judges of the earth: think of the Lord with a good (heart), and in ſimplicity of heart ſeek him.

2 For he will be found of them that tempt him not; and ſheweth himſelf unto ſuch as do not diſtruſt him.

3 For froward thoughts ſeparate from God: and his power, when it is tried, reproveth the unwiſe.

4 For into a malicious ſoul wiſdom ſhall not enter; nor dwell in the body that is ſubject unto ſin.

5 For the holy ſpirit of diſcipline will flee deceit, and remove from thoughts that are without underſtanding, and will not abide when unrighteouſneſs cometh in.

6 For wiſdom is a loving ſpirit; and will not acquit a blaſphemer of his words: for God is witneſs of his reins, and a true beholder of his heart, and a hearer of his tongue.

7 For the Spirit of the Lord filleth the world: and that which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice.

8 Therefore he that ſpeaketh unrighteous things cannot be hid: neither ſhall vengeance, when it puniſheth, paſs by him.

9 For inquiſition ſhall be made into the counſels of the ungodly: and the ſound of his words ſhall come unto the Lord, for the manifeſtation of his wicked deeds.

10 For the ear of jealouſy heareth all things: and the noiſe of murmurings is not hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which is unprofitable, and refrain your tongue from backbiting; for there is no word ſo ſecret, that ſhall go for nought: and the mouth that belyeth, ſlayeth the ſoul.

12 Seek not death in the error of your life: and pull not upon yourſelves deſtruction, with the works of your hands.

13 For God made not death: neither hath he pleaſure in the deſtruction of the living.

14 For he created all things, that they might have their being: and the generations of the world were healthful; and there is no poiſon of deſtruction in them; nor the kingdom of death upon the earth.

15 For righteouſneſs is immortal.

16 But ungodly men, with their works and words, called it to them: for when they thought to have it their friend, they conſumed to nought, and made a covenant with it, becauſe they are worthy to take part with it.

CHAP. II.

1 The wicked think this life ſhort, 4 and of no other after this: 6 therefore they take pleaſure.

FOR the ungodly ſaid, reaſoning with themſelves, but not aright, Our life is ſhort and tedious, and in the death of a man there is no remedy: neither was there any man known to have returned from the grave.

2 For we are born at all adventure: and we ſhall be hereafter, as though we had never been: for the breath in our noſtrils is as ſmoke, and a little ſpark in the moving of our heart:

3 Which being extinguiſhed, our body ſhall be turned into aſhes, and our ſpirit ſhall vaniſh as the ſoft air,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 Love righteouſneſs ye that be judges of the earth, &c.) The firſt part of this chapter ſeems to be dictated for the uſe of judges and magiſtrates, who have the charge of men's lives and properties. They are exhorted to love righteouſneſs, and to ſeek the Lord in ſimplicity of heart; and, in order to be maſters of that true wiſdom which is neceſſary to a right diſcharge of their office, they are ſhewn how impoſſible it is to attain it, without diveſting themſelves of all froward and malicious diſpoſitions; and that deceit and folly are inconſiſtent with an upright heart.

6 For wiſdom is a loving ſpirit, &c.) The excellency of wiſdom is ſhewn by its effects; firſt, in reſpect to man, whom it always regards in the ſpirit of love, joy, peace, long-ſuffering, gentleneſs, goodneſs, &c. Secondly, in reſpect to God, whoſe honour it will vindicate, nor ſuffer the blaſphemer to go unpuniſhed.

4 And our name ſhall be forgotten in time, and no man ſhall have our works in remembrance, and our life ſhall paſs away as the trace of a cloud, and ſhall be diſperſed as a miſt that is driven away with the beams of the ſun, and overcome with the heat thereof.

5 For our time is a very ſhadow that paſſeth away: and after our end, there is no returning: for it is faſt ſealed, ſo that no man cometh again.

6 Come on therefore, let us enjoy the good things that are preſent: and let us ſpeedily uſe the creatures like as in youth.

7 Let us fill ourſelves with coſtly wine and ointments: and let no flower of the ſpring paſs by us.

8 Let us crown ourſelves with roſe-buds before they be withered.

9 Let none of us go without his part of the voluptuouſneſs; let us leave tokens of our joyfulneſs in every place: for this is our portion, and our lot is this.

10 Let us oppreſs the poor righteous man; let us not ſpare the widow, nor reverence the ancient grey hairs of the aged.

11 Let our ſtrength be the law of juſtice: for that which is feeble is found to be nothing worth.

12 Therefore let us lie in wait for the righteous; becauſe he is not for our turn, and he is clean contrary to our doings: he upbraideth us with our offending the law, and objecteth to our infamy the tranſgreſſions of our education.

13 He profeſſeth to have the knowledge of God; and he calleth himſelf the child of the Lord.

14 He was made to reprove our thoughts.

15 He is grievous unto us even to behold: for his life is not like other men's, his ways are of another faſhion.

16 We are eſteemed of him as counterfeits: he abſtaineth from our ways as from filthineſs: he pronounceth the end of the juſt to be bleſſed, and maketh his boaſt that God is his father.

17 Let us ſee if his words be true; and let us prove what ſhall happen in the end of him.

18 For if the juſt man be the ſon of God, he will help him, and deliver him from the hand of his enemies.

19 Let us examine him with deſpitefulneſs and torture, that we may know his meekneſs, and prove his patience.

20 Let us condemn him with a ſhameful death: for by his own ſaying he ſhall be reſpected.

21 Such things they did imagine, and were deceived: for their own wickedneſs hath blinded them.

22 As for the myſteries of God, they knew them not: neither hoped they for the wages of righteouſneſs; nor diſcerned a reward for blameleſs ſouls.

23 For God created man to be immortal, and made him to be an image of his own eternity.

24 Nevertheleſs, through envy of the devil came death into the world; and they that do hold of his ſide do find it.

CHAP. III.

1 The godly are happy in their death, 5 and in their troubles.

BUT the ſouls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there ſhall no torment touch them.

2 In the ſight of the unwiſe they ſeemed to die: and their departure is taken for miſery,

3 And their going from us to be utter deſtruction: but they are in peace.

4 For though they be puniſhed in the ſight of men, yet is their hope full of immortality.

5 And having been a little chaſtiſed, they ſhall be greatly rewarded: for God proved them, and found them worthy for himſelf.

6 As gold in the furnace hath he tried them, and received them as a burnt-offering.

7 And in the time of their viſitation they ſhall ſhine, and run to and fro like ſparks among the ſtubble.

8 They ſhall judge the nations, and have dominion over the people, and their Lord ſhall reign for ever.

9 They that put their truſt in him ſhall underſtand the truth; and ſuch as be faithful in love ſhall abide with him: for grace and mercy is to his ſaints, and he hath care for his elect.

10 But the ungodly ſhall be puniſhed according to their own imaginations, which have neglected the righteous, and forſaken the Lord.

11 For whoſo deſpiſeth wiſdom and nurture, he is miſerable, and their hope is vain, their labours unfruitful, and their works unprofitable:

12 Their wives are fooliſh, and their children wicked:

13 Their offspring is curſed: wherefore bleſſed is the barren that is undefiled, which hath not known the ſinful bed: ſhe ſhall have fruit in the viſitation of ſouls.

14 And bleſſed is the eunuch, which with his hands hath wrought no iniquity, nor imagined wicked things againſt God: for unto him ſhall be given the ſpecial gift of faith, and an inheritance in the temple of the Lord, more acceptable to his mind.

15 For glorious is the fruit of good labours; and the root of wiſdom ſhall never fall away.

16 As for the children of adulterers, they ſhall not come to their perfection, and the ſeed of an unrighteous bed ſhall be rooted out.

17 For though they live long, yet ſhall they be nothing regarded; and their laſt age ſhall be without honour.

18 Or if they die quickly, they have no hope, neither comfort in the day of trial.

19 For horrible is the end of the unrighteous generation.

CHAP. IV.

1 The chaſte man ſhall be crowned. 3 Baſtard ſlips ſhall not thrive.

BETTER it is to have no children, and to have virtue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: becauſe it is known with God, and with men.

2 When it is preſent, men take example at it; and when it is gone, they deſire it: it weareth a crown, and triumpheth for ever, having gotten the victory, ſtriving for undefiled rewards.

3 But the multiplying brood of the ungodly ſhall not thrive, nor take deep rooting from baſtard ſlips, nor lay any faſt foundation.

4 For though they flouriſh in branches for a time; yet, ſtanding not faſt, they ſhall be ſhaken with the wind,

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 But the ſouls of the righteous are in the hand of God, &c.) This chapter is a fine contraſt to the foregoing. The righteous man may indeed be afflicted with the troubles and calamities of this life, and his death may be attended with the moſt terrible circumſtances, which, in the erroneous judgment of the wicked, may be deemed his puniſhment; yet, having his confidence in God, and his hopes in enjoying him in the glorious regions of immortality, his ſoul is calm and ſerene amidſt the torments of his body; and his death, which his enemies may intend as the greateſt of evils, procure him joys that ſhall never paſs away.

wind, and through the force of winds they ſhall be rooted out.

5 The imperfect branches ſhall be broken off, their fruit unprofitable, not ripe to eat, yea, meet for nothing.

6 For children begotten of unlawful beds, are witneſſes of wickedneſs againſt their parents in their trial.

7 But though the righteous be prevented with death: yet ſhall he be in reſt.

8 For honourable age is not that which ſtandeth in length of time, nor that is meaſured by number of years:

9 But wiſdom is the grey hair unto men, and an unſpotted life is old age.

10 He pleaſed God, and was beloved of him: ſo that living among ſinners, he was tranſlated.

11 Yea, ſpeedily was he taken away, leſt that wickedneſs ſhould alter his underſtanding, or deceit beguile his ſoul.

12 For the bewitching of naughtineſs doth obſcure things that are honeſt: and the wandering of concupiſcence doth undermine the ſimple mind.

13 He being made perfect in a ſhort time, fulfilled a long time.

14 For his ſoul pleaſed the Lord: therefore haſted he to take him away from among the wicked.

15 This the people ſaw, and underſtood it not, neither laid they up this in their minds, that his grace and mercy is with his ſaints, and that he hath reſpect unto his choſen.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, ſhall condemn the ungodly which are living; and youth that is ſoon perfected, the many years and old age of the unrighteous.

17 For they ſhall ſee the end of the wiſe, and ſhall not underſtand what God in his counſel hath decreed of him, and to what end the Lord hath ſet him in ſafety.

18 They ſhall ſee him, and deſpiſe him: but God ſhall laugh them to ſcorn, and they ſhall hereafter be a vile carcaſe, and a reproach among the dead for evermore.

19 For he ſhall rend them, and caſt them down headlong, that they ſhall be ſpeechleſs: and he ſhall ſhake them from the foundation: and they ſhall be utterly laid waſte, and be in ſorrow: and their memorial ſhall periſh.

20 And when they caſt up the accounts of their ſins, they ſhall come with fear: and their own iniquities ſhall convince them to their face.

CHAP. V.

1 The wicked ſhall wonder at the godly, 4 and confeſs their error.

THEN ſhall the righteous man ſtand in great boldneſs, before the face of ſuch as have afflicted him, and made no account of his labours.

2 When they ſee it, they ſhall be troubled with terrible fear, and ſhall be amazed at the ſtrangeneſs of his ſalvation, ſo far beyond all that they looked for.

3 And they, repenting and groaning for anguiſh of ſpirit, ſhall ſay within themſelves, This was he whom we had ſometimes in deriſion, and a proverb of reproach.

4 We fools accounted his life madneſs; and his end to be without honour.

5 How is he numbered among the children of God, and his lot is among the ſaints!

6 Therefore have we erred from the way of truth, and the light of righteouſneſs hath not ſhined unto us, and the ſun of righteouſneſs roſe not upon us.

7 We wearied ourſelves in the way of wickedneſs and deſtruction: yea, we have gone through deſerts, where there lay no way: but as for the way of the Lord, we have not known it.

8 What hath pride profited us? or what good hath riches with our vaunting brought us?

9 All thoſe things are paſſed away like a ſhadow, and as a poſt that haſteth by;

10 And as a ſhip that paſſeth over the waves of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the path-way of the keel in the waves;

11 Or as when a bird hath flown through the air, there is no token of her way to be found, but the light air being beaten with the ſtroke of her wings, and parted with the violent noiſe and motion of them, is paſſed through, and therein afterwards no ſign where ſhe went is to be found;

12 Or like as when an arrow is ſhot at a mark, it parteth the air, which immediately cometh together again, ſo that a man cannot know where it went through:

13 Even ſo we in like manner, as ſoon as we were born, began to draw to our end, and had no ſign of virtue to ſhew; but were conſumed in our own wickedneſs.

14 For the hope of the ungodly is like duſt that is blown away with the wind; like a thin froth that is driven away with the ſtorm: like as the ſmoke which is diſperſed here and there with a tempeſt, and paſſeth away as the remembrance of a gueſt that tarrieth but a day.

15 But the righteous live for evermore; their reward alſo is with the Lord, and the care of them is with the Moſt High.

16 Therefore ſhall they receive a glorious kingdom, and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand: for with his right hand ſhall he cover them, and with his arm ſhall he protect them.

17 He ſhall take to him his jealouſy for compleat armour, and make the creature his weapon for the revenge of his enemies.

18 He ſhall put on righteouſneſs as a breaſt-plate, and true judgment inſtead of an helmet.

19 He ſhall take holineſs for an invincible ſhield.

20 His ſevere wrath ſhall he ſharpen for a ſword, and the world ſhall fight with him againſt the unwiſe.

21 Then ſhall the right-aiming thunderbolts go abroad, and from the clouds, as from a well-drawn bow, ſhall they fly to the mark.

22 And hailſtones full of wrath ſhall be caſt as out of a ſtone-bow, and the water of the ſea ſhall rage againſt them, and the floods ſhall cruelly drown them.

23 Yea, a mighty wind ſhall ſtand up againſt them, and like a ſtorm ſhall blow them away: thus iniquity ſhall lay waſte the whole earth, and ill dealing ſhall overthrow the thrones of the mighty.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead ſhall condemn the ungodly, &c.) The righteous, being under the ſpecial care of divine providence, are proof againſt all the aſſaults and temptations of a vain and wicked world, and in the laſt day ſhall riſe up in judgment againſt its ſinful inhabitants.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

1 Then ſhall the righteous man ſtand in great boldneſs, &c.) The condition of the godly in this world, with reſpect to external circumſtances, is ſo apparently worſe than that of the wicked, that the atheiſts in all ages have made it an argument for their diſbelief of a Supreme Being, or at leaſt of a providence to guide the world, and direct the affairs of mortals. But when theſe fooliſh men have paſſed the valley of the ſhadow of death, they will ſee, but ſee too late, their fatal miſtake; they will then behold the immortal manſions diſplayed to their view, and the hungry and oppreſſed good man ſhining in robes of glory, ſatisfied with the fulneſs of happineſs, and triumphing over all his former misfortunes in the exalted ſtations of bliſs, while they themſelves are precipitated into the gulph of miſery, unſpeakable and eternal.

CHAP. VI.

1 Kings muſt give ear: 3 they have their power from God.

HEAR therefore, O ye kings, and underſtand; learn, ye that be judges of the ends of the earth.

2 Give ear, ye that rule the people, and glory in the multitude of nations.

3 ¶ For power is given you of the Lord, and ſovereignty from the Higheſt, who ſhall try your works, and ſearch out your counſels.

4 Becauſe, being miniſters of his kingdom, ye have not judged aright, nor kept the law, nor walked after the counſel of God;

5 Horribly and ſpeedily ſhall he come upon you: for a ſharp judgment ſhall be to them that be in high places.

6 For mercy will ſoon pardon the meaneſt: but mighty men ſhall be mightily tormented.

7 For he which is Lord over all ſhall fear no man's perſon, neither ſhall he ſtand in awe of any man's greatneſs: for he hath made the ſmall and great, and careth for all alike.

8 But a ſore trial ſhall come upon the mighty.

9 Unto you therefore, O kings, do I ſpeak, that ye may learn wiſdom, and not fall away.

10 For they that keep holineſs holily ſhall be judged holy: and they that have learned ſuch things ſhall find what to anſwer.

11 Wherefore ſet your affection upon my words; deſire them, and ye ſhall be inſtructed.

12 Wiſdom is glorious, and never fadeth away: yea, ſhe is eaſily ſeen of them that love her, and found of ſuch as ſeek her.

13 She preventeth them that deſire her, in making herſelf firſt known unto them.

14 Whoſo ſeeketh her early ſhall have no great travail; for he ſhall find her ſitting at his doors.

15 To think therefore upon her is perfection of wiſdom: and whoſo watcheth for her ſhall quickly be without care.

16 For ſhe goeth about ſeeking ſuch as are worthy of her, ſheweth herſelf favourably unto them in the ways, and meeteth them in every thought.

17 For the very true beginning of her is the deſire of diſcipline; and the care of diſcipline is love;

18 And love is the keeping of her laws; and the giving heed unto her laws is the aſſurance of incorruption;

19 And incorruption maketh us near unto God:

20 Therefore the deſire of wiſdom bringeth to a kingdom.

21 If your delight be then in thrones and ſceptres, O ye kings of the people, honour wiſdom, that ye may reign for evermore.

22 As for wiſdom, what ſhe is, and how ſhe came up, I will tell you, and will not hide myſteries from you; but will ſeek her out from the beginning of her nativity, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and will not paſs over the truth.

23 Neither will I go with conſuming envy; for ſuch a man ſhall have no fellowſhip with wiſdom.

24 But the multitude of the wiſe is the welfare of the world; and a wiſe king is the upholding of the people.

25 Receive therefore inſtruction through my words, and it ſhall do you good.

CHAP. VII.

1 All men have their beginning and end alike. 8 Wiſdom preferred before all things.

I MYSELF alſo am a mortal man, like to all, and the offspring of him that was firſt made of the earth;

2 And in my mother's womb was faſhioned to be fleſh, in the time of ten months, being compacted in blood, of the ſeed of man, and the pleaſure that came with ſleep.

3 And when I was born, I drew in the common air, and fell upon the earth, which is of like nature, and the firſt voice that I uttered was crying, as all others do.

4 I was nurſed in ſwaddling-clothes, and that with cares.

5 For there is no king that had any other beginning of birth.

6 For all men have one entrance into life, and the like going out.

7 Wherefore I prayed, and underſtanding was given me: I called upon God, and the ſpirit of wiſdom came to me.

8 I preferred her before ſceptres and thrones, and eſteemed riches nothing in compariſon of her.

9 Neither compared I unto her any precious ſtone, becauſe all gold in reſpect of her is as a little ſand, and ſilver ſhall be counted as clay before her.

10 I loved her above health and beauty, and choſe to have her inſtead of light: for the light that cometh from her never goeth out.

11 All good things together came to me with her, and innumerable riches in her hands.

12 And I rejoiced in them all, becauſe wiſdom goeth before them: and I knew not that ſhe was the mother of them.

13 I learned diligently, and do communicate her liberally: I do not hide her riches.

14 For ſhe is a treaſure unto men that never faileth; which they that uſe become the friends of God, being commended for the gifts that come from learning.

15 God hath granted me to ſpeak as I would, and to conceive as is meet, for the things that are given me; becauſe it is he that leadeth unto wiſdom, and directeth the wiſe.

16 For in his hand are both we and our words: all wiſdom alſo and knowledge of workmanſhip.

17 For he hath given me certain knowledge of the things that are, namely, to know how the world was made, and the operation of the elements:

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 Hear therefore, O ye kings, &c.) The wiſe man here calls upon kings, judges, and men in high ſtations, to remember that all the power and authority they are inveſted with, are derived originally from God; and that to him they are accountable for the due adminiſtration of juſtice to the people committed to their care. They would alſo do well to remember, that the height of their advancement, and the largeneſs of their power, will only prove an aggravation of their crime and puniſhment, if they pervert judgment, and neglect the laws, which they are under the higheſt obligations to obſerve themſelves, and to ſee impartially diſpenſed among their ſubjects and dependents.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

1 I myſelf alſo am a mortal man, &c.) All men, with reſpect to their birth, are undoubtedly upon an equal footing; as the wiſe man is born, ſo is the fool; as the king, ſo is the beggar. It is wiſdom only that diſtinguiſhes, in reality, one man above the reſt of his fellow-creatures. All other advantages are foreign to the man; but wiſdom is incorporated with and makes a part of his very ſoul or ſelf. Health, ſtrength, riches, friends, rank—all theſe things are adventitious; and as we cannot beſtow them on ourſelves, ſo neither can we preſerve them; but wiſdom will be found by us, if we ſeek after her; and, being found by us, ſhe will never forſake us. Beſides, wiſdom, in a great meaſure, controuls what we call chance, and is an engine by which are maintained many of the comforts of life. In rude ages and uncivilized periods of ſociety, in which there is no fixed ſubordination of rank, it is wiſdom, combined with valour, that exalts an individual to the command of his neighbours.

18 The beginning, ending, and midſt of the times: the alterations of the turning of the ſun, and the change of ſeaſons:

19 The circuits of years, and the poſition of ſtars:

20 The natures of living creatures, and the furies of wild beaſts: the violence of winds, and the reaſonings of men: the diverſities of plants, and the virtues of roots:

21 And all ſuch things as are either ſecret or manifeſt, them I know.

22 For wiſdom, which is the worker of all things, taught me: for in her is an underſtanding ſpirit, holy, one only, manifold, ſubtil, lively, clear, undefiled, plain, not ſubject to hurt, loving the thing that is good, quick, which cannot be letted, ready to do good,

23 Kind to man, ſtedfaſt, ſure, free from care, having all power, overſeeing all things, and going through all underſtanding, pure and moſt ſubtil ſpirits.

24 For wiſdom is more moving than any motion: ſhe paſſeth and goeth through all things by reaſon of her pureneſs.

25 For ſhe is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence flowing from the glory of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing fall into her.

26 For ſhe is the brightneſs of the everlaſting light, the unſpotted mirror of the power of God, and the image of his goodneſs.

27 And being but one, ſhe can do all things; and remaining in herſelf, ſhe maketh all things new: and in all ages, entering into holy ſouls, ſhe maketh them friends of God and prophets.

28 For God loveth none but him that dwelleth with wiſdom.

29 For ſhe is more beautiful than the ſun, and above all the order of ſtars: being compared with the light, ſhe is found before it.

30 For after this cometh night: but vice ſhall not prevail againſt wiſdom.

CHAP. VIII.

2 He is in love with wiſdom; 4 for he that hath it, hath every good thing.

WISDOM reacheth from one end to another mightily: and ſweetly doth ſhe order all things.

2 ¶ I loved her, and ſought her out from my youth; I deſired to make her my ſpouſe, and I was a lover of her beauty.

3 In that ſhe is converſant with God, ſhe magnifieth her nobility: yea, the Lord of all things himſelf loved her.

4 ¶ For ſhe is privy to the myſteries of the knowledge of God, and a lover of his works.

5 If riches be a poſſeſſion to be deſired in this life; what is richer than wiſdom, that worketh all things?

6 And if prudence work: who of all that are, is a more cunning workman than ſhe?

7 And if a man love righteouſneſs, her labours are virtues; for ſhe teacheth temperance and prudence, juſtice and fortitude; which are ſuch things as men can have nothing more profitable in their life.

8 If a man deſire much experience, ſhe knoweth things of old, and conjectureth aright what is to come: ſhe knoweth the ſubtleties of ſpeeches, and can expound dark ſentences: ſhe foreſeeth ſigns and wonders, and the events of ſeaſons and times.

9 Therefore I purpoſed to take her to me to live with me, knowing that ſhe would be a counſellor of good things, and a comfort in cares and grief.

10 For her ſake I ſhall have eſtimation among the multitude, and honour with the elders, though I be young.

11 I ſhall be found of a quick conceit in judgment, and ſhall be admired in the ſight of great men.

12 When I hold my tongue, they ſhall bide my leiſure; and when I ſpeak, they ſhall give good ear unto me: if I talk much, they ſhall lay their hands upon their mouth.

13 Moreover, by the means of her I ſhall obtain immortality, and leave behind me an everlaſting memorial to them that come after me.

14 I ſhall ſet the people in order, and the nations ſhall be ſubject unto me.

15 Horrible tyrants ſhall be afraid when they do but hear of me; I ſhall be found good among the multitude, and valiant in war.

16 After I am come into mine houſe, I will repoſe myſelf with her: for her converſation hath no bitterneſs, and to live with her hath no ſorrow, but mirth and joy.

17 Now when I conſidered theſe things in myſelf, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be allied unto wiſdom is immortality;

18 And great pleaſure it is to have her friendſhip; and in the works of her hands are infinite riches; and in the exerciſe of conference with her, prudence; and in talking with her, a good report: I went about ſeeking how to take her to me.

19 For I was a witty child, and had a good ſpirit.

20 Yea rather, being good, I came into a body undefiled.

21 Nevertheleſs, when I perceived that I could not otherwiſe obtain her, except God gave her me, (and that was a point of wiſdom alſo to know whoſe gift ſhe was,) I prayed unto the Lord, and beſought him, and with my whole heart I ſaid,

CHAP. IX.

1 A prayer unto God for his wiſdom, 4 without which the beſt man is nothing worth.

O GOD of my fathers, and Lord of mercy, who haſt made all things with thy word,

2 And ordained man through thy wiſdom, that he ſhould have dominion over the creatures which thou haſt made,

3 And order the world according to equity and righteouſneſs, and execute judgment with an upright heart;

4 Give me wiſdom that ſitteth by thy throne, and reject me not from among thy children:

5 For I thy ſervant, and ſon of thine handmaid, am a feeble perſon, and of a ſhort time, and too young for the underſtanding of judgment and laws.

6 For though a man be never ſo perfect among the children of men, yet if thy wiſdom be not with him, he ſhall be nothing regarded.

7 Thou haſt choſen me to be a king of thy people, and a judge of thy ſons and daughters.

8 Thou haſt commanded me to build a temple upon thy holy mount, and an altar in the city wherein thou dwelleſt, a reſemblance of thy holy tabernacle which thou haſt prepared from the beginning.

9 And wiſdom was with thee, which knoweth thy

22 For wiſdom, which is the worker of all things, &c.) Wiſdom is an inexhauſtible treaſure of good things, and eſtabliſhes an indiſſoluble friendſhip between man and his Maker; it enlarges the underſtanding, and gives eloquence to the lips; it acquaints us with the hidden properties of nature, and the operations, qualities, and uſes of the elements; the nature of the animal and vegetable world, and the rational principles of men. In a word, wiſdom is one of the perfections of the Divine Being, and the expreſs image of his perſon.

works,

works, and was preſent when thou madeſt the world, and knew what was acceptable in thy ſight, and right in thy commandments:

10 O ſend her out of thy holy heavens, and from the throne of thy glory, that, being preſent, ſhe may labour with me, that I may know what is pleaſing unto thee.

11 For ſhe knoweth and underſtandeth all things, and ſhe ſhall lead me ſoberly in my doings, and preſerve me in her power.

12 So ſhall my works be acceptable, and then ſhall I judge thy people righteouſly, and be worthy to ſit in my father's ſeat.

13 For what man is he that can know the counſel of God? or who can think what the will of the Lord is?

14 For the thoughts of mortal men are miſerable, and our devices are but uncertain.

15 For the corruptible body preſſeth down the ſoul, and the earthly tabernacle weigheth down the mind that muſeth upon many things.

16 And hardly do we gueſs aright at things that are upon earth, and with labour do we find the things that are before us: but the things that are in heaven, who hath ſearched out?

17 And thy counſel, who hath known, except thou give wiſdom, and ſend thy Holy Spirit from above?

18 For ſo the ways of them which lived on the earth were reformed, and men were taught the things that are pleaſing unto thee, and were ſaved through wiſdom.

CHAP. X.

1 What wiſdom did for Adam, 4 Noe, 5 Abraham, 6 Lot, and againſt the five cities.

SHE preſerved the firſt-formed father of the world, that was created alone, and brought him out of his fall,

2 And gave him power to rule all things.

3 But when the unrighteous went away from her in his anger, he periſhed alſo in the fury, wherewith he murdered his brother.

4 For whoſe cauſe the earth being drowned with the flood, wiſdom again preſerved it, and directed the courſe of the righteous in a piece of wood of ſmall value.

5 Moreover, the nations in their wicked conſpiracy being confounded, ſhe found out the righteous, and preſerved him blameleſs unto God, and kept him ſtrong againſt his tender compaſſion toward his ſon.

6 When the ungodly periſhed, ſhe delivered the righteous man, who fled from the fire which fell down upon the five cities.

7 Of whoſe wickedneſs, even to this day, the waſte land that ſmoketh is a teſtimony, and plants bearing fruit that never come to ripeneſs: and a ſtanding pillar of ſalt is a monument of an unbelieving ſoul.

8 For regarding not wiſdom, they gat not only this hurt, that they knew not the things which were good; but alſo left behind them to the world a memorial of their fooliſhneſs; ſo that in the things wherein they offended, they could not ſo much as be hid.

9 But wiſdom delivered from pain thoſe that attended upon her.

10 When the righteous fled from his brother's wrath, ſhe guided him in right paths, ſhewed him the kingdom of God, and gave him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his travels, and multiplied the fruit of his labours.

11 In the covetouſneſs of ſuch as oppreſſed him, ſhe ſtood by him, and made him rich.

12 She defended him from his enemies, and kept him ſafe from thoſe that lay in wait, and in a ſore conflict ſhe gave him the victory, that he might know that godlineſs is ſtronger than all.

13 When the righteous was ſold, ſhe forſook him not, but delivered him from ſin: ſhe went down with him into the pit,

14 And left him not in bonds, till ſhe brought him the ſceptre of the kingdom, and power againſt thoſe that oppreſſed him: as for them that had accuſed him, ſhe ſhewed them to be liars, and gave him perpetual glory.

15 She delivered the righteous people and blameleſs ſeed from the nation that oppreſſed them.

16 She entered into the ſoul of the ſervant of the Lord, and withſtood dreadful kings in wonders and ſigns;

17 Rendered to the righteous a reward of their labours, guided them in a marvellous way, and was unto them for a covert by day, and a light of ſtars in the night-ſeaſon:

18 Brought them through the Red Sea, and led them through much water.

19 But ſhe drowned their enemies, and caſt them up out of the bottom of the deep.

20 Therefore the righteous ſpoiled the ungodly, and praiſed thy holy name, O Lord, and magnified, with one accord, thine hand that fought for them.

21 For wiſdom opened the mouth of the dumb, and made the tongues of them that cannot ſpeak, eloquent.

CHAP. XI.

The Egyptians were puniſhed, and the Iſraelites reſerved in the ſame thing.

SHE proſpered their works in the hand of the holy prophet.

2 They went through the wilderneſs that was not inhabited, and pitched tents in places where there lay no way.

3 They ſtood againſt their enemies, and were avenged of their adverſaries.

4 When they were thirſty they called upon thee, and water was given them out of the flinty rock, and their thirſt was quenched out of the hard ſtone.

5 For by what things their enemies were puniſhed, by the ſame they in their need were benefited.

Commentary on Chap. X.

1 She preſerved the firſt-formed father of the world, &c.) Wiſdom is a conſtant friend to the righteous; it was wiſdom that brought Adam out of his fall, and inſtructed him to govern the world. Cain, who forſook her in the inſtant of his brother's murder, incurred the curſe of his Creator. When the world, for the ſins of its inhabitants, was covered with a deluge, by her conduct Noah, and thoſe with him in the ark, were preſerved. When the nations, preſumptuouſly conſpiring in the erection of Babel, in order to get above the reach of the Almighty's vengeance, were confounded in their devices, ſhe found out Abraham, preſerved him blameleſs, and kept him reſolute in the ſtrong temptations to ſacrifice his ſon Iſaac. She delivered Lot from the deſtruction of Sodom, and preſerved Jacob in his travels; ſhe went with Joſeph into Egypt, brought Iſrael out of a hard bondage, and ſtrengthened Moſes to encounter all the fury of the tyrant Pharaoh.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

1 She proſpered their works in the hand of the holy prophet.) Moſes, by the aſſiſtance of wiſdom, led the people through innumerable dangers and difficulties in the wilderneſs; repulſed their enemies, gave them water out of a rock, and made uſe of the ſame means to relieve and cheriſh them, by which they were avenged of their adverſaries; and when they, in their folly, worſhipped ſerpents and wild beaſts, he puniſhed them by ſending multitudes of thoſe deſtructive creatures among them. This the Almighty did, by the hand of his ſervant Moſes, to manifeſt his own glory, and ſhew that he can work by the moſt contemptible means, either for the deſtruction of his enemies, or the ſalvation of his own children.

6 For inſtead of a fountain of a perpetual running river troubled with foul blood,

7 For a manifeſt reproof of that commandment whereby the infants were ſlain, thou gaveſt unto them abundance of water by a means, which they hoped not for:

8 Declaring by that thirſt then, how thou hadſt puniſhed their adverſaries.

9 For when they were tried, albeit but in mercy chaſtiſed, they knew how the ungodly were judged in wrath and tormented, thirſting in another manner than the juſt.

10 For theſe thou didſt admoniſh and try as a father: but the other, as a ſevere king, thou didſt condemn and puniſh.

11 Whether they were abſent or preſent, they were vexed alike.

12 For a double grief came upon them, and a groaning for the remembrance of things paſt.

13 For when they heard by their own puniſhments the other to be benefited, they had ſome feeling of the Lord.

14 For whom they rejected with ſcorn, when he was long before thrown out at the caſting forth of the infants, him in the end, when they ſaw what came to paſs, they admired.

15 But for the fooliſh devices of their wickedneſs, wherewith being deceived, they worſhipped ſerpents void of reaſon, and vile beaſts, thou didſt ſend a multitude of unreaſonable beaſts upon them for vengeance;

16 That they might know that wherewithal a man ſinneth, by the ſame alſo ſhall he be puniſhed.

17 For thy Almighty hand, that made the world of matter without form, wanted not means to ſend among them a multitude of bears, or fierce lions,

18 Or unknown wild beaſts full of rage, newly created, breathing out either a fiery vapour, or filthy ſcents of ſcattered ſmoke, or ſhooting horrible ſparkles out of their eyes;

19 Whereof not only the harm might diſpatch them at once, but alſo the terrible ſight utterly deſtroy them.

20 Yea, and without theſe might they have fallen down with one blaſt, being perſecuted of vengeance, and ſcattered abroad through the breath of thy power; but thou haſt ordered all things in meaſure, and number, and weight.

21 For thou canſt ſhew thy great ſtrength at all times when thou wilt, and who may withſtand the power of thine arm?

22 For the whole world before thee is as a little grain of the balance, yea, as a drop of the morning dew that falleth down upon the earth.

23 But thou haſt mercy upon all: for thou canſt do all things, and winkeſt at the ſins of men, becauſe they ſhould amend.

24 For thou loveſt all the things that are, and abhorreſt nothing which thou haſt made: for never wouldeſt thou have made any thing, if thou hadſt hated it.

25 And how could any thing have endured, if it had not been thy will? or been preſerved, if not called by thee?

26 But thou ſpareſt all: for they are thine, O Lord, thou lover of ſouls.

CHAP. XII.

2 God did not deſtroy thoſe of Chanaan all at once; 12 if he did ſo, who could controul him?

FOR thine uncorruptible Spirit is in all things:
2 Therefore chaſteneſt thou them by little and little that offend, and warneſt them by putting them in remembrance wherein they have offended, that, leaving their wickedneſs, they may believe on thee, O Lord.

3 For it was thy will to deſtroy, by the hands of our fathers, both thoſe old inhabitants of thy holy land,

4 Whom thou hatedſt for doing moſt odious works of witchcrafts, and wicked ſacrifices;

5 And alſo thoſe mercileſs murderers of children, and devourers of man's fleſh, and the feaſts of blood;

6 With their prieſts out of the midſt of their idolatrous crew, and the parents that killed with their own hands ſouls deſtitute of help:

7 That the land, which thou eſteemedſt above all other, might receive a worthy colony of God's children.

8 Nevertheleſs, even thoſe thou ſparedſt as men, and didſt ſend waſps, forerunners of thine hoſt, to deſtroy them by little and little.

9 Not that thou waſt unable to bring the ungodly under the hand of the righteous in battle, or to deſtroy them at once with cruel beaſts, or with one rough word:

10 But, executing thy judgments upon them by little and little, thou gaveſt them place of repentance, not being ignorant that they were a naughty generation, and that their malice was bred in them, and that their cogitation would never be changed.

11 For it was a curſed ſeed from the beginning; neither didſt thou for fear of any man give them pardon for thoſe things wherein they ſinned.

12 For who ſhall ſay, What haſt thou done? or who ſhall withſtand thy judgments? or who ſhall accuſe thee for the nations that periſh, whom thou haſt made? or who ſhall come to ſtand againſt thee to be revenged for the unrighteous men?

13 For neither is there any god but thou, that careſt for all, to whom thou mighteſt ſhew that thy judgment is not unright.

14 Neither ſhall king or tyrant be able to ſet his face againſt thee for any whom thou haſt puniſhed.

15 For ſo much then as thou art righteous thyſelf, thou ordereſt all things righteouſly: thinking it not agreeable with thy power to condemn him that hath not deſerved to be puniſhed.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteouſneſs, and becauſe thou art the Lord of all, it maketh thee to be gracious unto all.

17 For when men will not believe that thou art of a full power, thou ſheweſt thy ſtrength, and, among them that know it, thou makeſt their boldneſs manifeſt.

18 But thou, maſtering thy power, judgeſt with equity, and ordereſt us with great favour: for thou mayeſt uſe power when thou wilt.

19 But by ſuch works haſt thou taught thy people, that the juſt man ſhould be merciful, and haſt made thy children to be of a good hope, that thou giveſt repentance for ſins.

20 For if thou didſt puniſh the enemies of thy children and the condemned to death with ſuch deliberation, giving them time and place, whereby they might be delivered from their malice:

21 With how great circumſpection didſt thou judge thine own ſons, unto whoſe fathers thou haſt ſworn, and made covenants of good promiſes!

22 Therefore, whereas thou doſt chaſten us, thou ſcourgeſt our enemies a thouſand times more, to the intent that when we judge, we ſhould careſully think of thy goodneſs, and when we ourſelves are judged, we ſhould look for mercy.

23 Wherefore, whereas men have lived diſſolutely and unrighteouſly, thou haſt tormented them with their own abominations.

24 For they went aſtray very far in the ways of error, and held them for gods, which, even amongſt the the beaſts of their enemies, were deſpiſed, being deceived as children of no underſtanding.

25 Therefore unto them, as to children without the uſe of reaſon, thou didſt ſend a judgment to mock them.

26 But they that would not be reformed by that correction wherein he dallied with them, ſhall feel a judgment worthy of God.

27 For look for what things they grudged when they were puniſhed, (that is) for them whom they thought to be gods; [now] being puniſhed in them, when they ſaw it, they acknowledged him to be the true God, whom before they denied to know; and therefore came extreme damnation upon them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 They were not excuſed that worſhipped any of God's works: 10 but wretched are they that worſhip idols.

SURELY vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God, and could not, out of the good things that are ſeen, know him that is: neither by conſidering the works, did they acknowledge the work-maſter;

2 But deemed either fire, or wind, or the ſwift air, or the circle of the ſtars, or the violent water, or the lights of heaven, to be the gods which govern the world.

3 With whoſe beauty, if they, being delighted, took them to be gods: let them know how much better the Lord of them is: for the firſt Author of beauty hath created them.

4 But if they were aſtoniſhed at their power and virtue, let them underſtand by them, how much mightier he is that made them.

5 For by the greatneſs and beauty of the creatures, proportionably the maker of them is ſeen.

6 But yet for this they are the leſs to be blamed: for they, peradventure, err ſeeking God, and deſirous to find him.

7 For, being converſant in his works, they ſearch him diligently, and believe their ſight; becauſe the things are beautiful that are ſeen.

8 Howbeit, neither are they to be pardoned.

9 For if they were able to know ſo much, that they could aim at the world; how did they not ſooner find out the Lord thereof?

10 But miſerable are they, and in dead things is their hope, who called them gods which are the works of men's hands, gold and ſilver to ſhew art in, and reſemblances of beaſts, or a ſtone good for nothing, the work of an ancient hand.

11 Now a carpenter that felleth timber, after he hath ſawn down a tree meet for the purpoſe, and taken off all the bark ſkilfully round about, and hath wrought it handſomely, and made a veſſel thereof fit for the ſervice of man's life;

12 And after ſpending the refuſe of his work to dreſs his meat, hath filled himſelf;

13 And taking the very refuſe among thoſe which ſerved to no uſe (being a crooked piece of wood, and full of knots) hath carved it diligently, when he had nothing elſe to do, and formed it by the ſkill of his underſtanding, and faſhioned it to the image of a man;

14 Or made it like ſome vile beaſt, laying it over with vermillion, and with paint, colouring it with red, and covering every ſpot therein;

15 And when he had made a convenient room for it, ſet it in a wall, and made it faſt with iron;

16 For he provided for it that it might not fall, knowing that it was unable to help itſelf (for it is an image, and hath need of help);

17 Then maketh he prayer for his goods, for his wife and children, and is not aſhamed to ſpeak to that which hath no life.

18 For health, he calleth upon that which is weak; for life, prayeth to that which is dead; for aid, humbly beſeecheth that which hath leaſt means to help; and for a good journey, he aſketh of that which cannot ſet a foot forward:

19 And for gaining and getting, and for good ſucceſs of his hands, aſketh ability to do, of him that is unable to do any thing.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Though men do not pray to their ſhips, 5 yet are they ſaved rather by them than by their idols.

AGAIN, one preparing himſelf to ſail, and about to paſs through the raging waves, calleth upon a piece of wood, more rotten than the veſſel that carrieth him.

2 For verily, deſire of gain deviſed that, and the workman built it by his ſkill.

3 But thy providence, O Father, governeth it: for thou haſt made a way in the ſea, and a ſafe path in the waves;

4 Shewing that thou canſt ſave from all danger: yea, though a man went to ſea without art.

5 Nevertheleſs, thou wouldeſt not that the works of thy wiſdom ſhould be idle, and therefore do men commit their lives to a ſmall piece of wood, and paſſing the rough ſea in a weak veſſel are ſaved.

6 For in the old time alſo, when the proud giants periſhed, the hope of the world, governed by thy hand, eſcaped in a weak veſſel, and left to all ages a ſeed of generation.

7 For bleſſed is the wood whereby righteouſneſs cometh.

8 But that which is made with hands is curſed, as well it, as he that made it: he, becauſe he made it: and it, becauſe, being corruptible, it was called God.

9 For the ungodly, and his ungodlineſs, are both alike hateful unto God.

10 For that which is made, ſhall be puniſhed, together with him that made it.

11 Therefore, even upon the idols of the Gentiles ſhall there be a viſitation; becauſe in the creature of God they are become an abomination, and ſtumbling-blocks to the ſouls of men, and a ſnare to the feet of the unwiſe.

12 For the deviſing of idols was the beginning of ſpiritual fornication, and the invention of them the corruption of life.

13 For neither were they from the beginning, neither ſhall they be for ever.

14 For by the vain glory of men they entered into the world, and therefore ſhall they come ſhortly to an end.

Commentary on Chap. XIII.

1 Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God, &c.) It is certainly the laſt degree of ſtupidity in man to pretend ignorance of a Deity, when he beholds and conſiders the world about him; for an artiſt is known by his work. If then the works of creation neceſſarily lead us to the Creator, what folly is it to confine our adoration to any of his creatures, as did the heathen who worſhipped the elements, or the luminaries of heaven: the firſt for their uſefulneſs to mankind; the laſt for their beauty, without once conſidering how ſuperlatively excellent and perfect that Being muſt be who created the univerſe, and placed every thing in it in ſuch admirable order for the benefit or delight of mankind? But ſurely thoſe of all men are the moſt miſerably infatuated, who fall down to ſtocks or ſtones, the work of their own hands, that cannot help themſelves, much leſs thoſe that made them.

15 For a father afflicted with untimely mourning, when he hath made an image of his child ſoon taken away, now honoured him as a god, which was then a dead man, and delivered to thoſe that were under him ceremonies and ſacrifices.

16 Thus in proceſs of time an ungodly cuſtom, grown ſtrong, was kept as a law, and graven images were worſhipped by the commandments of kings.

17 Whom men could not honour in preſence, becauſe they dwelt afar off, they took the counterfeit of his viſage from far, and made an expreſs image of a king whom they honoured, to the end that by this their forwardneſs they might flatter him that was abſent, as if he were preſent.

18 Alſo the ſingular diligence of the artificer did help to ſet forward the ignorant to more ſuperſtition.

19 For he, peradventure willing to pleaſe one in authority, forced all his ſkill to make the reſemblance of the beſt faſhion.

20 And ſo the multitude, allured by the grace of the work, took him now for a god, which a little before was but honoured as a man.

21 And this was an occaſion to deceive the world, for men, ſerving either calamity or tyranny, did aſcribe unto ſtones and ſtocks the incommunicable name.

22 Moreover, this was not enough for them, that they erred in the knowledge of God; but whereas they lived in the great war of ignorance, thoſe ſo great plagues called they peace.

23 For whilſt they ſlew their children in ſacrifices, or uſed ſecret ceremonies; or made revellings of ſtrange rites:

24 They kept neither lives nor marriages any longer undefiled: but either one ſlew another traiterouſly, or grieved him by adultery.

25 So that there reigned in all men, without exception, blood, manſlaughter, theft and diſſimulation, corruption, unfaithfulneſs, tumults, perjury,

26 Diſquieting of good men, forgetfulneſs of good turns, defiling of ſouls, changing of kind, diſorder in marriages, adultery, and ſhameleſs uncleanneſs.

27 For the worſhipping of idols not to be named, is the beginning, the cauſe, and the end of all evil.

28 For either they are mad when they be merry, or propheſy lies, or live unjuſtly, or elſe lightly forſwear themſelves.

29 For inſomuch as their truſt is in idols, which have no life; though they ſwear falſely, yet they look not to be hurt.

30 Howbeit, for both cauſes ſhall they be juſtly puniſhed; both becauſe they thought not well of God, giving heed unto idols, and alſo unjuſtly ſwore in deceit, deſpiſing holineſs.

31 For it is not the power of them by whom they ſwear, but it is the juſt vengeance of ſinners, that puniſheth away the offence of the ungodly.

CHAP. XV.

1 We do acknowledge the true God. 7 The folly of idol-makers.

BUT thou, O God, art gracious and true, long-ſuffering, and in mercy ordering all things.

2 For if we ſin, we are thine, knowing thy power: but we will not ſin, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to know thee is perfect righteouſneſs; yea, to know thy power is the root of immortality.

4 For neither did the miſchievous invention of men deceive us, nor an image ſpotted with diverſe colours, the painter's fruitleſs labour;

5 The ſight whereof enticeth fools to luſt after it, and ſo they deſire the form of a dead image that hath no breath.

6 Both they that make them, they that deſire them, and they that worſhip them, are lovers of evil things, and are worthy to have ſuch things to truſt upon.

7 For the potter, tempering ſoft earth, faſhioneth every veſſel with much labour for our ſervice: yea, of the ſame clay he maketh both the veſſels that ſerve for clean uſes, and likewiſe all ſuch as ſerve to the contrary; but what is the uſe of either ſort, the potter himſelf is the judge.

8 And employing his labours lewdly, he maketh a vain god of the ſame clay, even he which a little before was made of earth himſelf, and within a little while after returneth to the ſame, out of the which he was taken, when his life, which was lent him, ſhall be demanded.

9 Notwithſtanding his care is, not that he ſhall have much labour, nor that his life is ſhort; but ſtriveth to excel gold-ſmiths and ſilver-ſmiths, and endeavoureth to do like the workers in braſs, and counteth it his glory to make counterfeit things.

10 His heart is aſhes, his hope is more vile than earth, and his life of leſs value than clay:

11 Foraſmuch as he knew not his Maker, and him that inſpired into him an active ſoul, and breathed in a living ſpirit.

12 But they counted our life a paſtime, and our time here a market for gain: for, ſay they, We muſt be getting every way, though it be by evil means.

13 For this man, that of earthly matter maketh brittle veſſels and graven images, knoweth himſelf to offend above all others.

14 And all the enemies of thy people that hold them in ſubjection are moſt fooliſh, and are more miſerable than very babes.

15 For they counted all the idols of the heathen to be gods: which neither have the uſe of eyes to ſee, nor noſes to draw breath, nor ears to hear, nor fingers of hands to handle; and as for their feet, they are ſlow to go.

16 For man made them, and he that borrowed his own ſpirit faſhioned them: but no man can make a god like unto himſelf.

17 For being mortal, he worketh a dead thing with wicked hands: for he himſelf is better than the things which he worſhippeth: whereas he lived once, but they never.

18 Yea, they worſhipped thoſe beaſts alſo that are moſt hateful: for, being compared together, ſome are worſe than others.

19 Neither are they beautiful, ſo much as to be deſired in reſpect of beaſts: but they went without the praiſe of God and his bleſſing.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

1 But thou, O God, art gracious and true, &c.) God orders all things in mercy to his children; and therefore are they the more cautious in offending him. They are not deceived by the inventions of men, nor allured to worſhip an idol, from the beauty of its painting, or the delicacy of its workmanſhip. Fooliſh, indeed, muſt that man be, who puts his confidence in an image of clay, knowing himſelf to be at the ſame time a compound of the ſame ſorry and fragile materials, and, rejoicing in his ignorance and ſuperſtition, oppreſſeth the righteous. In this he ſhews more egregious folly than an infant that knows nothing.

CHAP. XVI.

God gave ſtrange meat to his people, to ſtir up their appetite; and vile beaſts to their enemies, to take it from them.

THEREFORE by the like were they puniſhed worthily, and by the multitude of beaſts tormented.

2 Inſtead of which puniſhment, dealing graciouſly with thine own people, thou preparedſt for them meat of a ſtrange taſte, even quails, to ſtir up their appetite;

3 To the end that they, deſiring food, might, for the ugly ſight of the beaſts ſent among them, loathe even that which they muſt needs deſire; but theſe, ſuffering penury for a ſhort ſpace, might be made partakers of a ſtrange taſte.

4 For it was requiſite, that upon them exerciſing tyranny, ſhould come penury, which they could not avoid: but to theſe it ſhould only be ſhewed how their enemies were tormented.

5 For when the horrible fierceneſs of beaſts came upon theſe, and they periſhed with the ſtings of crooked ſerpents, thy wrath endured not for ever.

6 But they were troubled for a ſmall ſeaſon, that they might be admoniſhed, having a ſign of ſalvation, to put them in remembrance of the commandment of thy law.

7 For he that turned himſelf towards it, was not ſaved by the thing that he ſaw: but by thee that art the Saviour of all.

8 And in this thou madeſt thine enemies confeſs, that it is thou who delivereſt from all evil:

9 For them the bitings of graſshoppers and flies killed, neither was there found any remedy for their life: for they were worthy to be puniſhed by ſuch.

10 But thy ſons, not the very teeth of venomous dragons overcame: for thy mercy was ever by them, and healed them.

11 For they were pricked that they ſhould remember thy words, and were quickly ſaved, that not falling into deep forgetfulneſs, they might be continually mindful of thy goodneſs.

12 For it was neither herb nor mollifying plaiſter that reſtored them to health: but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things.

13 For thou haſt power of life and death: thou leadeſt to the gates of hell, and bringeſt up again.

14 A man indeed killeth through his malice: and the ſpirit, when it is gone forth, returneth not; neither the ſoul received up, cometh again.

15 But it is not poſſible to eſcape thine hand.

16 For the ungodly that denied to know thee, were ſcourged by the ſtrength of thine arm: with ſtrange rains, hails, and ſhowers, were they perſecuted, that they could not avoid, and through fire were they conſumed.

17 For, which is moſt to be wondered at, the fire had more force in the water, that quencheth all things: for the world fighteth for the righteous.

18 For ſome time the flame was mitigated, that it might not burn up the beaſts that were ſent againſt the ungodly: but themſelves might ſee and perceive, that they were perſecuted with the judgment of God.

19 And at another time it burneth even in the midſt of the water, above the power of fire, that it might deſtroy the fruits of an unjuſt land.

20 Inſtead whereof thou feddeſt thine own people with angels' food, and didſt ſend them from heaven bread prepared without their labour, able to content every man's delight, and agreeing to every taſte.

21 For thy ſuſtenance declared thy ſweetneſs unto thy children, and, ſerving to the appetite of the eater, tempered itſelf to every man's liking.

22 But ſnow and ice endured the fire, and melted not, that they might know that fire burning in the hail, and ſparkling in the rain, did deſtroy the fruits of the enemies.

23 But this again did even forget his own ſtrength, that the righteous might be nouriſhed.

24 For the creature that ſerveth thee, who art the Maker, increaſeth his ſtrength againſt the unrighteous for their puniſhment, and abateth his ſtrength for the benefit of ſuch as put their truſt in thee.

25 Therefore even then was it altered into all faſhions, and was obedient to thy grace that nouriſheth all things, according to the deſire of them that had need:

26 That thy children, O Lord, whom thou loveſt, might know that it is not the growing of fruits that nouriſheth man; but that it is thy word which preſerveth them that put their truſt in thee.

27 For that which was not deſtroyed of the fire, being warmed with a little ſun-beam, ſoon melted away:

28 That it might be known that we muſt prevent the ſun to give thee thanks, and at the day-ſpring pray unto thee.

29 For the hope of the unthankful ſhall melt away as the winter's hoar-froſt, and ſhall run away as unprofitable water.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Why the Egyptians were puniſhed with darkneſs: 4 the terrors of that darkneſs.

FOR great are thy judgments, and cannot be expreſſed: therefore unnurtured ſouls have erred.

2 For when unrighteous men thought to oppreſs the holy nation, they, being ſhut up in their houſes the priſoners of darkneſs, and fettered with the bonds of a long night, lay (there) exiled from the eternal providence.

3 For while they ſuppoſed to lie hid in their ſecret ſins, they were ſcattered under a dark veil of forgetfulneſs, being horribly aſtoniſhed, and troubled with (ſtrange) apparitions.

4 For neither might the corner that held them keep them from fear: but noiſes (as of waters) falling down, ſounded about them, and ſad viſions appeared unto them with heavy countenances.

5 No power of the fire might give them light; neither could the bright flames of the ſtars endure to lighten that horrible night.

6 Only there appeared unto them a fire kindled of itſelf, very dreadful; for being much terrified, they thought the things which they ſaw to be worſe than the ſight they ſaw not.

7 As for the illuſions of art magic, they were put down, and their vaunting in wiſdom was reproved with diſgrace.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

1 Therefore by the like were they puniſhed worthily, &c) The love of God to his choſen people is demonſtrated from the wonders he wrought for them in Egypt, and in the wilderneſs: when they were ready to periſh with hunger, he ſhewed a miracle, and gave them quails to eat, and manna from heaven: when for their ſins he puniſhed them with fiery ſerpents, he gave them a token of love, a ſymbol of their ſalvation, by looking to which they received immediate relief. In Egypt, graſshoppers and flies deſtroyed their enemies, while they themſelves were ſecure from the teeth of the moſt venomous dragons. He ſeverely puniſhed the ungodly with terrible rains, hail, and fire; but he ſaved mercifully his people from their rage, that they might truſt in him alone, who could work ſalvation for them.

8 For they, that promiſed to drive away terrors and troubles from a ſick ſoul, were ſick themſelves of fear, worthy to be laughed at.

9 For though no terrible thing did fear them: yet, being ſcared with beaſts that paſſed by, and hiſſing of ſerpents,

10 They died for fear, denying that they ſaw the air, which could of no ſide be avoided.

11 For wickedneſs, condemned by her own witneſs, is very timorous, and being preſſed with conſcience, always forecaſteth grievous things.

12 For fear is nothing elſe but a betraying of the ſuccours which reaſon offereth.

13 And the expectation from within, being leſs, counteth the ignorance more than the cauſe which bringeth the torment.

14 But they, ſleeping the ſame ſleep that night, which was indeed intolerable, and which came upon them out of the bottoms of inevitable hell,

15 Were partly vexed with monſtrous apparitions, and partly fainted, their heart failing them: for a ſudden fear, and not looked for, came upon them.

16 So then, whoſoever there fell down, was ſtraitly kept, ſhut up in a priſon without iron bars.

17 For whether he were huſbandman, or ſhepherd, or a labourer in the field, he was overtaken, and endured that neceſſity which could not be avoided: for they were all bound with one chain of darkneſs.

18 Whether it were a whiſtling wind, or a melodious noiſe of birds among the ſpreading branches, or a pleaſing fall of water running violently,

19 Or a terrible ſound of ſtones caſt down, or a running that could not be ſeen of ſkipping beaſts, or a roaring voice of moſt ſavage wild beaſts, or a rebounding echo from the hollow mountains; theſe things made them to ſwoon for fear.

20 For the whole world ſhined with clear light, and none were hindered in their labour.

21 Over them only was ſpread an heavy night, an image of that darkneſs which ſhould afterward receive them: but yet were they unto themſelves more grievous than the darkneſs.

CHAP. XVIII.

4 Why Egypt was puniſhed with darkneſs, 5 and with the death of their children.

NEVERTHELESS, thy ſaints had a very great light, whoſe voice they hearing, and not ſeeing their ſhape, becauſe they alſo had not ſuffered the ſame things, they counted them happy:

2 But for that they did not hurt them now, of whom they had been wronged before, they thanked them, and beſought them pardon, for that they had been enemies.

3 Inſtead whereof thou gaveſt them a burning pillar of fire, both to be a guide of the unknown journey, and an harmleſs ſun to entertain them honourably.

4 For they were worthy to be deprived of light, and impriſoned in darkneſs, who had kept thy ſons ſhut up, by whom the uncorrupt light of the law was to be given unto the world.

5 And when they had determined to ſlay the babes of the ſaints, one child being caſt forth, and ſaved, to reprove them, thou tookeſt away the multitude of their children, and deſtroyedſt them altogether in a mighty water.

6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that aſſuredly knowing unto what oaths they had given credence, they might afterwards be of good cheer:

7 So of thy people was accepted both the ſalvation of the righteous, and deſtruction of the enemies.

8 For wherewith thou didſt puniſh our adverſaries, by the ſame thou didſt glorify us whom thou hadſt called.

9 For the righteous children of good men did ſacrifice ſecretly, and with one conſent made a holy law, that the ſaints ſhould be like partakers of the ſame good and evil, the fathers now ſinging out the ſongs of praiſe.

10 But on the other ſide there ſounded an ill-according cry of the enemies, and a lamentable noiſe was carried abroad for children that were bewailed.

11 The maſter and the ſervant were puniſhed after one manner; and like as the king, ſo ſuffered the common perſon.

12 So they all together had innumerable dead with one kind of death; neither were the living ſufficient to bury them: for in one moment the nobleſt offſpring of them was deſtroyed.

13 For whereas they would not believe any thing, by reaſon of the inchantments upon the deſtruction of the firſt-born, they acknowledged this people to be the ſons of God.

14 For while all things were in quiet ſilence, and that night was in the midſt of her ſwift courſe,

15 Thine Almighty word leapt down from heaven, out of thy royal throne, as a fierce man of war into the midſt of a land of deſtruction,

16 And brought thine unfeigned commandment as a ſharp ſword, and, ſtanding up, filled all things with death; and it touched the heaven, but it ſtood upon the earth.

17 Then ſuddenly viſions of horrible dreams troubled them ſore; and terrors came upon them unlooked for.

18 And one thrown here, and another there, half dead, ſhewed the cauſe of his death.

19 For the dreams that troubled them did foreſhew this, leſt they ſhould periſh, and not know why they were afflicted.

20 Yea, the taſting of death touched the righteous alſo, and there was a deſtruction of the multitude in the wilderneſs: but the wrath endured not long:

21 For then the blameleſs man made haſte, and ſtood forth to defend them, and, bringing the ſhield of his proper miniſtry, even prayer, and the propitiation of incenſe, ſet himſelf againſt the wrath, and ſo brought the calamity to an end, declaring that he was thy ſervant.

22 So he overcame the deſtroyer, not with ſtrength of body, nor force of arms, but with a word ſubdued he him that puniſhed, alledging the oaths and covenants made with the fathers.

23 For when the dead were now fallen down by heaps one upon another, ſtanding between, he ſtayed the wrath, and parted the way to the living.

24 For in the long garment was the whole world, and in the four rows of the ſtones was the glory of the fathers graven, and thy majeſty upon the diadem of his head.

25 Unto theſe the deſtroyer gave place, and was afraid of them: for it was enough that they only taſted of the wrath.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVIII.

1 Nevertheleſs, thy ſaints had a very great light, &c.) In that horrible night of darkneſs in which God involved the Egyptians, he made a glorious diſtinction between them and his own people, who all the while enjoyed light in their dwellings. This their enemies were ſenſible of, and acknowledged the folly of their former enmity againſt them. But this was not all: God was pleaſed to give ſeveral other inſtances of his kind regard for his people, as the pillar of fire; Pharaoh reproved by the drowning of his hoſt in the ſea; the death of all the firſt-born in one night, and his ſevere corrections of his own people in the wilderneſs, for their folly and diſobedience. All which witneſs his paternal concern for them, and the diſtinction which he will always make between thoſe that fear him, and thoſe that fear him not.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Why God ſhewed no mercy to the Egyptians, 5 and how wonderful he deals with his people.

AS for the ungodly, wrath came upon them without mercy unto the end: for he knew before what they would do;

2 How that, having given them leave to depart, and ſent them haſtily away, they would repent and purſue them.

3 For whilſt they were mourning, and making lamentation at the graves of the dead, they added another fooliſh device, and purſued them as fugitives, whom they had intreated to be gone.

4 For the deſtiny, whereof they were worthy, drew them unto this end, and made them forget the things that had already happened, that they might fulfil the puniſhment which was wanting to their torments:

5 And that thy people might paſs a wonderful way: but they might find a ſtrange death.

6 For the whole creature in his proper kind was faſhioned again anew, ſerving the peculiar commandments that were given unto them, that thy children might be kept without hurt:

7 As namely, a cloud ſhadowing the camp; and where water ſtood before, dry land appeared; and out of the Red Sea, a way without impediment; and out of the violent ſtream, a green field:

8 Wherethrough all the people went that were defended with thy hand, ſeeing thy marvellous ſtrange wonders.

9 For they went at large like horſes, and leaped like lambs, praiſing thee, O Lord, who hadſt delivered them.

10 For they were yet mindful of the things that were done, while they ſojourned in the ſtrange land, how the ground brought forth flies inſtead of cattle, and how the river caſt up a multitude of frogs inſtead of fiſhes.

11 But afterwards they ſaw a new generation of fowls, when, being led with their appetite, they aſked delicate meats.

12 For quails came up unto them from the ſea, for their contentment.

13 And puniſhments came upon the ſinners, not without former ſigns by the force of thunders: for they ſuffered juſtly, according to their own wickedneſs, inſomuch as they uſed a more hard and hateful behaviour towards ſtrangers.

14 For the Sodomites did not receive thoſe whom they knew not when they came: but theſe brought friends into bondage, that had well deſerved of them.

15 And not only ſo, but, peradventure, ſome reſpect ſhall be had of thoſe, becauſe they uſed ſtrangers not friendly.

16 But theſe very grievouſly afflicted them, whom they had received with feaſtings, and were already made partakers of the ſame laws with them.

17 Therefore even with blindneſs were theſe ſtricken, as thoſe were at the door of the righteous man: when, being compaſſed about with horrible great darkneſs, every one ſought the paſſage of his own doors.

18 For the elements were changed in themſelves by a kind of harmony, like as in a pſaltery, notes change the name of the tune, and yet are always ſounds; which may well be perceived by the ſight of the things that have been done.

19 For earthly things were turned into watery, and the things that before ſwam in the water now went upon the ground.

20 The fire had power in the water, forgetting his own virtue: and the water forgat his own quenching nature.

21 On the other ſide, the flames waſted not the fleſh of the corruptible living things, though they walked therein; neither melted they the icy kind of heavenly meat, that was of nature apt to melt.

22 For in all things, O Lord, thou didſt magnify thy people, and glorify them, neither didſt thou lightly regard them: but didſt aſſiſt them in every time and place.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIX.

1 As for the ungodly, &c.) Though the Egyptians had been puniſhed in ſo exemplary a manner by a dreadful variety of God's judgments upon them, they madly purſued the fugitive Iſraelites. But what was the conſequence? Why, another manifeſtation of God's diſpleaſure at their implacable hatred againſt his people, and his ſuperlative kindneſs to his children, in opening a paſſage thro' the depths of the ſea. After this ſo ſignal an eſcape, when they were journeying in the wilderneſs, they had many other eminent occaſions of praiſing God for his continual care over them, ſtill magnifying them before all the nations through which they paſſed, without ever leaving them in any of their troubles and diſtreſſes.

THE WISDOM OF JESUS, THE SON OF SIRACH: OR, ECCLESIASTICUS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This is an Apocryphal book of ſcripture, which was read (in Eccleſia) in the church as a book of piety and inſtruction; but not of infallible authority. The anonymous preface to it informs us, that the author of it was a Jew, called Jeſus, the ſon of Sirach, who wrote it in Hebrew; but was rendered into Greek by his grandſon of the ſame name. It was written under the high-prieſthood of Onias III. and tranſlated in the reign of Ptolemy Euergetes, or Phyſion. Some of the ancients have aſcribed it to Solomon.

A PROLOGUE MADE BY AN UNCERTAIN AUTHOR.

THIS Jeſus was the ſon of Sirach, and grandchild to Jeſus of the ſame name with him: this man therefore lived in the latter times, after the people had been led away captive, and called home again, and almoſt after all the prophets. Now his grandfather Jeſus (as he himſelf witneſſeth) was a man of great diligence and wiſdom among the Hebrews, who did not only gather the grave and ſhort ſentences of wiſe men that had been before him, but himſelf alſo uttered ſome of his own, full of much underſtanding and wiſdom. When as therefore the firſt Jeſus died, leaving this book almoſt perfected, Sirach his ſon, receiving it after him, left it to his own ſon Jeſus, who, having gotten it into his hands, compiled it all orderly into one volume, and called it Wiſdom, intituling it both by his own name, his father's name, and his grandfather's: alluring the hearer, by the very name of Wiſdom, to have a greater love to the ſtudy of this book. It containeth therefore wiſe ſayings, dark ſentences, and parables, and certain particular ancient godly ſtories of men that pleaſed God: alſo his prayer and ſong; moreover, what benefits God had vouchſafed to his people, and what plagues he had heaped upon their enemies. This Jeſus did imitate Solomon, and was no leſs famous for wiſdom and learning, both being indeed a man of great learning, and ſo reputed alſo.

THE PROLOGUE OF THE WISDOM OF JESUS THE SON OF SIRACH.

WHEREAS many and great things have been delivered unto us by the law and the prophets, and by others that have followed their ſteps, for the which things Iſrael ought to be commended for learning and wiſdom; and whereof not only the readers muſt needs become ſkilful themſelves, but alſo they that deſire to learn, be able to profit them which are without, both by ſpeaking and writing: my grandfather Jeſus, when he had much given himſelf to the reading of the law, and the prophets, and other books of our fathers, and had gotten therein good judgment, was drawn on alſo himſelf to write ſomething pertaining to learning and wiſdom; to the intent that thoſe which are deſirous to learn, and are addicted to theſe things, might profit much more in living according to the law. Wherefore, let me entreat you to read it with favour and attention, and to pardon us wherein we may ſeem to come ſhort of ſome words which we have laboured to interpret. For the ſame things uttered in Hebrew, and tranſlated into another tongue, have not the ſame force in them: and not only theſe things, but the law itſelf, and the prophets, and the reſt of the books, have no ſmall difference, when they are ſpoken in their own language. For in the eight and thirtieth year coming into Egypt, when Euergetes was king, and continuing there ſome time, I found a book of no ſmall learning: therefore I thought it moſt neceſſary for me to beſtow ſome diligence and travail to interpret it; uſing great watchfulneſs and ſkill in that ſpace, to bring the book to an end, and ſet it forth for them alſo which in a ſtrange country are willing to learn, being prepared before in manners to live after the law.

CHAP. I.

CHAP. I.

1 All wiſdom is from God: 10 he giveth it to them that love him.

ALL wiſdom cometh from the Lord, and is with him for ever.

2 Who can number the ſand of the ſea, and the drops of rain, and the days of eternity?

3 Who can find out the height of heaven, and the breadth of the earth, and the deep, and wiſdom?

4 Wiſdom hath been created before all things, and the underſtanding of prudence from everlaſting.

5 The word of God moſt high is the fountain of wiſdom; and her ways are everlaſting commandments.

6 To whom hath the root of wiſdom been revealed? or who hath known her wiſe counſels?

7 (Unto whom hath the knowledge of wiſdom been made manifeſt? and who hath underſtood her great experience?)

8 There is one wiſe and greatly to be feared; the Lord ſitting upon his throne.

9 He created her, and ſaw her, and numbered her, and poured her out upon all his works.

10 She is with all fleſh according to his gift, and he hath given her to them that love him.

11 The fear of the Lord is honour, and glory, and gladneſs, and a crown of rejoicing.

12 The fear of the Lord maketh a merry heart, and giveth joy, and gladneſs, and a long life,

13 Whoſo feareth the Lord, it ſhall go well with him at the laſt, and he ſhall find favour in the day of his death.

14 To fear the Lord is the beginning of wiſdom: and it was created with the faithful in the womb.

15 She hath built an everlaſting foundation with men, and ſhe ſhall continue with their ſeed.

16 To fear the Lord is fulneſs of wiſdom, and filleth men with her fruits.

17 She filleth all their houſe with things deſirable, and the garners with her increaſe.

18 The fear of the Lord is a crown of wiſdom, making peace and perfect health to flouriſh: both which are the gifts of God: and it enlargeth their rejoicing that love him.

19 Wiſdom raineth down ſkill and knowledge of underſtanding, and exalteth them to honour that hold her faſt.

20 The root of wiſdom is to fear the Lord, and the branches thereof are long life.

21 The fear of the Lord driveth away ſins: and where it is preſent, it turneth away wrath.

22 A furious man cannot be juſtified; for the ſway of his fury ſhall be his deſtruction.

23 A patient man will bear for a time, and afterward joy ſhall ſpring up unto him.

24 He will hide his words for a time, and the lips of many ſhall declare his wiſdom.

25 The parables of knowledge are in the treaſures of wiſdom: but godlineſs is an abomination to a ſinner.

26 If thou deſire wiſdom keep the commandments, and the Lord ſhall give her unto thee.

27 For the fear of the Lord is wiſdom and inſtruction; and faith and meekneſs are his delight.

28 Diſtruſt not the fear of the Lord when thou art poor; and come not unto him with a double heart.

29 Be not an hypocrite in the ſight of men, and take good heed what thou ſpeakeſt.

30 Exalt not thyſelf, leſt thou fall, and bring diſhonour upon thy ſoul, and ſo God diſcover thy ſecrets, and caſt thee down in the midſt of the congregation, becauſe thou cameſt not in truth to the fear of the Lord, but thy heart is full of deceit.

CHAP. II.

1 God's ſervants muſt look for trouble, 7 and be patient, and truſt in him; 12 for woe to them that do not ſo.

MY ſon, if thou come to ſerve the Lord, prepare thy ſoul for temptation.

2 Set thy heart aright, and conſtantly endure, and make not haſte in time of trouble.

3 Cleave unto him, and depart not away, that thou mayeſt be increaſed at thy laſt end.

4 Whatſoever is brought upon thee take cheerfully, and be patient when thou art changed to a low eſtate.

5 For gold is tried in the fire, and acceptable men in the furnace of adverſity.

6 Believe in him, and he will help thee; order thy way aright, and truſt in him.

7 Ye that fear the Lord, wait for his mercy; and go not aſide, leſt ye fall.

8 Ye that fear the Lord, believe him; and your reward ſhall not fail.

9 Ye that fear the Lord, hope for good, and for everlaſting joy and mercy.

10 Look at the generations of old, and ſee: did ever any truſt in the Lord and was confounded? or did any abide in his fear, and was forſaken? or whom did he ever deſpiſe, that called upon him?

11 For the Lord is full of compaſſion and mercy, long-ſuffering, and very pitiful, and forgiveth ſins, and ſaveth in time of affliction.

12 Woe be to fearful hearts, and faint hands, and the ſinner that goeth two ways!

13 Woe unto him that is faint-hearted! for he believeth not; therefore ſhall he not be defended.

14 Woe unto you that have loſt patience! and what will ye do when the Lord ſhall viſit you?

15 They that fear the Lord will not diſobey his word; and they that love him will keep his ways.

16 They that fear the Lord will ſeek that which is well-pleaſing unto him; and they that love him ſhall be filled with the law.

17 They that fear the Lord will prepare their hearts, and humble their ſouls in his ſight,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 All wiſdom cometh from the Lord, and is with him for ever.) God is undoubtedly the fountain of all wiſdom; all our ideas of which muſt ariſe from thoſe emanations of it, which he has been pleaſed to transfuſe from himſelf into the human nature, and apparent alſo in his admirable works of creation around us, and in thoſe of providence.

10 She is with all fleſh, &c.) That is, every man hath ſome portion given him of the divine wiſdom, according to the part which God propoſeth he ſhould act in this world. But he hath given her largely, ſo the Greek word here imports, to ſuch as are religious from the contemplation of the wiſdom and goodneſs of the works of creation and providence.

21 The fear of the Lord driveth away ſins, &c.) A due veneration of God, when ſtrongly rooted in the ſoul, inclines and encourages men in the performance of their duty, and thereby keeps them from ſin and puniſhment, its ſure attendant.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 My ſon, if thou come to ſerve the Lord, &c.) The occaſion of this advice was, ſome think, that at this time the Jews were grievouſly afflicted under Ptolemy Lagus, who took Jeruſalem, and uſed the Jews with great ſeverity, ſending many thouſands of them captives into Egypt; which changes of ſtate might very probably incline many to forſake Judaiſm.

18 Saying, We will fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men: for as his majeſty is, ſo is his mercy.

CHAP. III.

2 Children muſt both honour and help their parents. 21 Wiſh not to know all things.

HEAR me your father, O children, and do thereafter, that ye may be ſafe.

2 For the Lord hath given the father honour over the children, and hath confirmed the authority of the mother over the ſons.

3 Whoſo honoureth his father maketh an atonement for his ſins;

4 And he that honoureth his mother is as one that layeth up treaſure.

5 Whoſo honoureth his father ſhall have joy of his own children; and when he maketh his prayer, he ſhall be heard.

6 He that honoureth his father ſhall have a long life; and he that is obedient unto the Lord ſhall be a comfort to his mother.

7 He that feareth the Lord will honour his father, and will do ſervice unto his parents as to his maſters.

8 Honour thy father and mother, both in word and deed, that a bleſſing may come upon thee from them.

9 For the bleſſing of the father eſtabliſheth the houſes of children; but the curſe of the mother rooteth out foundations.

10 Glory not in the diſhonour of thy father; for thy father's diſhonour is no glory unto thee.

11 For the glory of a man is from the honour of his father; and a mother in diſhonour is a reproach to the children.

12 My ſon, help thy father in his age, and grieve him not as long as he liveth.

13 And if his underſtanding fail, have patience with him, and deſpiſe him not when thou art in thy full ſtrength.

14 For the relieving of thy father ſhall not be forgotten: and inſtead of ſins it ſhall be added to build thee up.

15 In the day of thine affliction it ſhall be remembered; thy ſins alſo ſhall melt away as the ice in the fair warm weather.

16 He that forſaketh his father is as a blaſphemer; and he that angereth his mother is curſed of God.

17 My ſon, go on with thy buſineſs in meekneſs, ſo ſhalt thou be beloved of him that is approved.

18 The greater thou art, the more humble thyſelf, and thou ſhalt find favour before the Lord.

19 Many are in high place, and of renown: but myſteries are revealed unto the meek.

20 For the power of the Lord is great, and he is honoured of the lowly.

21 Seek not out the things that are too hard for thee, neither ſearch the things that are above thy ſtrength.

22 But what is commanded thee, think thereupon with reverence; for it is not needful for thee to ſee with thine eyes the things that are in ſecret.

23 Be not curious in unneceſſary matters: for more things are ſhewed unto thee than men underſtand.

24 For many are deceived by their own vain opinion; and an evil ſuſpicion hath overthrown their judgment.

25 Without eyes thou ſhalt want light: profeſs not the knowledge therefore, that thou haſt not.

26 A ſtubborn heart ſhall fare evil at the laſt; and he that loveth danger ſhall periſh therein.

27 An obſtinate heart ſhall be laden with ſorrows; and the wicked man ſhall heap ſin upon ſin.

28 In the puniſhment of the proud there is no remedy; for the plant of wickedneſs hath taken root in him.

29 The heart of the prudent will underſtand a parable, and an attentive ear is the deſire of a wiſe man.

30 Water will quench a flaming fire; and alms maketh an atonement for ſins.

31 And he that requiteth good turns is mindful of that which may come hereafter; and when he falleth he ſhall find a ſtay.

CHAP. IV.

1 We may not deſpiſe the poor or fatherleſs, 11 but ſeek for wiſdom.

MY ſon, defraud not the poor of his living, and make not the needy eyes to wait long.

2 Make not an hungry ſoul ſorrowful; neither provoke a man in his diſtreſs.

3 Add not more trouble to an heart that is vexed; and defer not to give to him that is in need.

4 Reject not the ſupplication of the afflicted; neither turn away thy face from a poor man.

5 Turn not away thine eye from the needy, and give him none occaſion to curſe thee:

6 For if he curſe thee in the bitterneſs of his ſoul, his prayer ſhall be heard of him that made him.

7 Get thyſelf the love of the congregation, and bow thy head to a great man.

8 Let it not grieve thee to bow down thine ear to the poor, and give him a friendly anſwer with meekneſs.

9 Deliver him that ſuffereth wrong from the hand of the oppreſſor; and be not faint-hearted when thou ſitteſt in judgment.

10 Be as a father unto the fatherleſs, and inſtead of an huſband unto their mother: ſo ſhalt thou be as the ſon of the Moſt High, and he ſhall love thee more than thy mother doth.

11 Wiſdom exalteth her children, and layeth hold of them that ſeek her.

12 He that loveth her loveth life; and they that ſeek to her early ſhall be filled with joy.

13 He that holdeth her faſt ſhall inherit glory; and whereſoever ſhe entereth the Lord will bleſs.

14 They that ſerve her ſhall miniſter to the Holy One; and them that love her the Lord doth love.

15 Whoſo giveth ear unto her ſhall judge the nations; and he that attendeth unto her ſhall dwell ſecurely.

16 If a man commit himſelf unto her he ſhall inherit her; and his generation ſhall hold her in poſſeſſion.

---

18 Saying, We will fall into the hands of the Lord, &c.) That is, they who have true wiſdom, and a right ſenſe of God upon their minds, will rather chuſe to receive God's paternal corrections, which are deſigned to recal them to their duty, and be humbled by them, than be left to go on in ſin, 'till their demerits require that they ſhould be delivered up into the hands of men.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

13 And if his underſtanding fail, have patience with him, &c.) This extends filial piety to the higheſt degree, inculcating that whatever difference there may be between a child and his parent, in health, ſtrength, underſtanding, riches, or honour; yet the parent is not to be deſpiſed, but to be honoured by the child, and care taken of by him.

25 Profeſs not the knowledge therefore, that thou haſt not.) Being by nature ignorant with regard to divine things, it is therefore abſurd to pretend to know more of them than God has been pleaſed to reveal; for as without eyes we could not ſee the light, ſo neither can we ſee any farther into divine things, than according to the knowledge which God gives us of them.

17 For at the firſt ſhe will walk with him by crooked ways, and bring fear and dread upon him, and torment him with her diſcipline; until ſhe may truſt his ſoul, and try him by her laws.

18 Then will ſhe return the ſtraight way unto him, and comfort him, and ſhew him her ſecrets.

19 But if he go wrong, ſhe will forſake him, and give him over to his own ruin.

20 Obſerve the opportunity, and beware of evil; and be not aſhamed when it concerneth thy ſoul.

21 For there is a ſhame that bringeth ſin, and there is a ſhame which is glory and grace.

22 Accept no perſon againſt thy ſoul, and let not the reverence of any man cauſe thee to fall.

23 And refrain not to ſpeak when there is occaſion to do good; and hide not thy wiſdom in her beauty.

24 For by ſpeech wiſdom ſhall be known, and learning by the word of the tongue.

25 In no wiſe ſpeak againſt the truth; but be abaſhed of the error of thine ignorance.

26 Be not aſhamed to confeſs thy ſins; and force not the courſe of the river.

27 Make not thyſelf an underling to a fooliſh man; neither accept the perſon of the mighty.

28 Strive for the truth unto death, and the Lord ſhall fight for thee.

29 Be not haſty in thy tongue, and in thy deeds ſlack and remiſs.

30 Be not as a lion in thine houſe, nor frantic among thy ſervants.

31 Let not thy hand be ſtretched out to receive, and ſhut when thou ſhouldeſt repay.

CHAP. V.

1 We muſt not preſume of our wealth and ſtrength, 6 nor of the mercy of God to ſin.

SET not thy heart upon thy goods; and ſay not, I have enough for my life.

2 Follow not thine own mind, and thy ſtrength, to walk in the ways of thine heart:

3 And ſay not, Who ſhall controul me for my works? for the Lord will ſurely revenge thy pride.

4 Say not, I have ſinned, and what harm hath happened unto me? for the Lord is long-ſuffering, he will in no wiſe let thee go.

5 Concerning propitiation, be not without fear to add ſin unto ſin:

6 And ſay not, His mercy is great; he will be pacified for the multitude of my ſins: for mercy and wrath come from him, and his indignation reſteth upon ſinners.

7 Make no tarrying to turn to the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for ſuddenly ſhall the wrath of the Lord come forth, and in thy ſecurity thou ſhalt be deſtroyed, and periſh in the day of vengeance.

8 Set not thine heart upon goods unjuſtly gotten; for they ſhall not profit thee in the day of calamity.

9 Winnow not with every wind, and go not into every way: for ſo doth the ſinner that hath a double tongue.

10 Be ſtedfaſt in thy underſtanding; and let thy word be the ſame.

11 Be ſwift to hear; and let thy life be ſincere; and with patience give anſwer.

12 If thou haſt underſtanding, anſwer thy neighbour; if not, lay thine hand upon thy mouth.

13 Honour and ſhame is in talk; and the tongue of man is his fall.

14 Be not called a whiſperer, and lie not in wait with thy tongue: for a foul ſhame is upon the thief, and an evil condemnation upon the double tongue.

15 Be not ignorant of any thing in a great matter or a ſmall.

CHAP. VI.

2 Do not extol thine own conceit, 7 but make choice of a friend. 18 Seek wiſdom

INSTEAD of a friend, become not an enemy; for (thereby) thou ſhalt inherit an ill name, ſhame, and reproach: even ſo ſhall a ſinner that hath a double tongue.

2 Extol not thyſelf in the counſel of thine own heart; that thy ſoul be not torn in pieces as a bull (ſtraying alone.)

3 Thou ſhalt eat up thy leaves, and loſe thy fruit, and leave thyſelf as a dry tree.

4 A wicked ſoul ſhall deſtroy him that hath it, and ſhall make him to be laughed to ſcorn of his enemies.

5 Sweet language will multiply friends: and a fair ſpeaking tongue will increaſe kind greetings.

6 Be in peace with many: nevertheleſs have but one counſellor of a thouſand.

7 If thou wouldeſt get a friend, prove him firſt, and be not haſty to credit him.

8 For ſome man is a friend for his own occaſion, and will not abide in the day of thy trouble.

9 And there is a friend, who, being turned to enmity and ſtrife, will diſcover thy reproach.

10 Again, ſome friend is a companion at the table, and will not continue in the day of thy affliction.

11 But in thy proſperity he will be as thyſelf, and will be bold over thy ſervants.

12 If thou be brought low, he will be againſt thee, and will hide himſelf from thy face.

13 Separate thyſelf from thine enemies, and take heed of thy friends.

14 A faithful friend is a ſtrong defence: and he that hath found ſuch an one, hath found a treaſure.

15 Nothing doth countervail a faithful friend, and his excellency is invaluable.

16 A faithful friend is the medicine of life; and they that fear the Lord ſhall find him.

17 Whoſo feareth the Lord ſhall direct his friendſhip aright: for as he is, ſo ſhall his neighbour be alſo.

Commentary on Chap. IV.

17 And bring fear and dread upon him, &c.) Here the writer's deſign was to encourage the young, at their firſt ſetting out, to endure the pains and difficulties which muſt be undergone to obtain wiſdom. He therefore compares her procedure to a wary man, who proves the integrity of a new acquaintance before he ventures to take him into his boſom, or make him his confident.

21 For there is a ſhame that bringeth ſin, &c.) He that complieth with evil company or ſinful cuſtoms, out of a culpable modeſty of contradicting others, or when ſinners entice him, ſheepiſhly complies, or, to pleaſe them, owns vices he was never guilty of; ſuch a criminal compliance in a man, is a ſin againſt a man's own ſoul. There is alſo a ſhame which bringeth ſin, when a man is laughed out of his modeſty and virtue, through the raillery or profane jeſts of others.

Commentary on Chap. V.

9 Winnow not with every wind, &c.) This is a proverbial expreſſion, not to change our ſentiments and actions, in order to ingratiate ourſelves with every one. Eſpouſe not every opinion, but ſeriouſly and impartially conſider where truth lies, and continue ſtedfaſtly and firmly attached to it.

14 For a foul ſhame is upon the thief, &c.) This ſeems to make the ſecret detractor worſe than the thief; and indeed, all circumſtances conſidered, he may be looked upon in a worſe light: for the thief one may in ſome meaſure guard againſt, but the ſecret detractor we cannot. The thief too is often forced upon robbery thro' want; but the whiſperer does as great, if not a greater injury to his neighbour, without any advantage to himſelf.

18 My ſon, gather inſtruction from thy youth up: ſo ſhalt thou find wiſdom till thine old age.

19 Come unto her as one that ploweth and ſoweth, and wait for her good fruits: for thou ſhalt not toil much in labouring about her, but thou ſhalt eat of her fruits right ſoon.

20 She is very unpleaſant to the unlearned: he that is without underſtanding will not remain with her.

21 She will lie upon him as a mighty ſtone of trial, and he will caſt her from him ere it be long.

22 For wiſdom is according to her name, and ſhe is not manifeſt unto many.

23 Give ear, my ſon, receive my advice, and refuſe not my counſel.

24 And put thy feet into her fetters, and thy neck into her chain.

25 Bow down thy ſhoulder, and bear her, and be not grieved with her bonds.

26 Come unto her with thy whole heart, and keep her ways with all thy power.

27 Search and ſeek, and ſhe ſhall be made known unto thee: and when thou haſt got hold of her, let her not go.

28 For at the laſt thou ſhalt find her reſt, and that ſhall be turned to thy joy.

29 Then ſhall her fetters be a ſtrong defence for thee, and her chains a robe of glory.

30 For there is a golden ornament upon her, and her bands are purple lace.

31 Thou ſhalt put her on as a robe of honour, and ſhalt put her about thee as a crown of joy.

32 My ſon, if thou wilt, thou ſhalt be taught; and if thou wilt apply thy mind, thou ſhalt be prudent.

33 If thou love to hear, thou ſhalt receive underſtanding; and if thou bow thine ear, thou ſhalt be wiſe.

34 Stand in the multitude of the elders, and cleave unto him that is wiſe.

35 Be willing to hear every godly diſcourſe; and let not the parables of underſtanding eſcape thee.

36 And if thou ſeeſt a man of underſtanding, get thee betimes unto him, and let thy foot wear the ſteps of his door.

37 Let thy mind be upon the ordinances of the Lord, and meditate continually in his commandments: he ſhall eſtabliſh thine heart, and give thee wiſdom at thine own deſire.

CHAP. VII.

1 We are exhorted from ſin, 4 from ambition, 8 preſumption, 10 and fainting in prayer.

DO no evil, ſo ſhall no harm come unto thee.

2 Depart from the unjuſt, and iniquity ſhall turn away from thee.

3 My ſon, ſow not upon the furrows of unrighteouſneſs, and thou ſhalt not reap them ſeven-fold.

4 Seek not of the Lord pre-eminence, neither of the king the ſeat of honour.

5 Juſtify not thyſelf before the Lord, and boaſt not of thy wiſdom before the king.

6 Seek not to be judge, being not able to take away iniquity, leſt at any time thou fear the perſon of the mighty, and lay a ſtumbling-block in the way of thy uprightneſs.

7 Offend not againſt the multitude of a city, and then thou ſhalt not caſt thyſelf down among the people.

8 Bind not one ſin upon another, for in one thou ſhalt not be unpuniſhed.

9 Say not, God will look upon the multitude of my oblations, and when I offer to the moſt high God, he will accept it.

10 Be not faint-hearted when thou makeſt thy prayer, and neglect not to give alms.

11 Laugh no man to ſcorn in the bitterneſs of his ſoul: for there is one which humbleth and exalteth.

12 Deviſe not a lie againſt thy brother: neither do the like to thy friend.

13 Uſe not to make any manner of lie: for the cuſtom thereof is not good.

14 Uſe not many words in a multitude of elders, and make not much babbling when thou prayeſt.

15 Hate not laborious work, neither huſbandry, which the Moſt High hath ordained.

16 Number not thyſelf among the multitude of ſinners, but remember that wrath will not tarry long.

17 Humble thy ſoul greatly: for the vengeance of the ungodly is fire and worms.

18 Change not a friend for any good by no means: neither a faithful brother for the gold of Ophir.

19 Forego not a wiſe and good woman, for her grace is above gold.

20 Whereas thy ſervant worketh truly, entreat him not evil, nor the hireling that beſtoweth himſelf wholly for thee.

21 Let thy ſoul love a good ſervant, and defraud him not of liberty.

22 Haſt thou cattle? have an eye to them: and if they be for thy profit, keep them with thee.

23 Haſt thou children? inſtruct them, and bow down their neck from their youth.

24 Haſt thou daughters? have a care of their body, and ſhew not thyſelf chearful toward them.

25 Marry thy daughter, and ſo ſhalt thou have performed a weighty matter: but give her to a man of underſtanding.

26 Haſt thou a wife after thy mind? forſake her not: but give not thyſelf over to a light woman.

27 Honour thy father with thy whole heart, and forget not the ſorrows of thy mother.

28 Remember that thou waſt begotten of them, and how canſt thou recompenſe them the things that they have done for thee?

29 Fear the Lord with all thy ſoul, and reverence his prieſts.

30 Love him that made thee with all thy ſtrength, and forſake not his miniſters.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

21 She will lie upon him as a mighty ſtone of trial, &c.) It was cuſtomary in Judea (ſee Zac xii. 3.) to have a great ſtone in moſt of the towns and villages, for the young men to make a trial of their ſtrength, by lifting it up as high as they could. To this ſtone of trial wiſdom is here compared.

34 Stand in the multitude of the elders, &c.) Seek the company of thoſe whom time and experience have taught wiſdom and knowledge, and attend upon their inſtructions.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

3 And thou ſhalt not reap them ſeven-fold.) Do no injuſtice or evil, leſt others (God ſo ordering it for thy juſt puniſhment) ſhould reap thee ſeven-fold. The Hebrews were wont to call actions the ſeed, and the rewards and puniſhments of them the harveſt.

6 Being not able to take away iniquity, &c.) By this ſeems principally to be meant, not having that ſtrength of mind which is neceſſary for the ſtrict execution of juſtice, but being of a diſpoſition to blunt the edge of the laws by an ill-timed compaſſion.

8 Bind not one ſin upon another, &c.) This may be underſtood in general of committing different ſins, or of the ſame ſin repeated many times; for every ſin makes us liable to puniſhment: but this ſeems to be ſpoken in particular to perſons in a public character, that they ſhould not let ſin in thoſe under them go unpuniſhed, and ſtill leſs imitate them.

31 Fear the Lord, and honour the prieſt: and give him his portion, as it is commanded thee; the firſt-fruits, and the treſpaſs-offering, and the gift of the ſhoulders, and the ſacrifice of ſanctification, and the firſt-fruits of the holy things:

32 And ſtretch thine hand unto the poor, that thy bleſſing may be perfected.

33 A gift hath grace in the ſight of every man living; and for the dead detain it not.

34 Fail not to be with them that weep, and mourn with them that mourn.

35 Be not ſlow to viſit the ſick: for that ſhall make thee to be beloved.

36 Whatſoever thou takeſt in hand, remember the end, and thou ſhalt never do amiſs.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Whom we may not ſtrive with, 8 nor deſpiſe, 10 nor provoke, 15 nor have to do with.

STRIVE not with a mighty man, leſt thou fall into his hands.

2 Be not at variance with a rich man, leſt he overweigh thee: for gold hath deſtroyed many, and perverted the hearts of kings.

3 Strive not with a man that is full of tongue, and heap not wood upon his fire.

4 Jeſt not with a rude man, leſt thy anceſtors be diſgraced.

5 Reproach not a man that turneth from ſin, but remember that we are all worthy of puniſhment.

6 Diſhonour not a man in his old age: for even ſome of us wax old.

7 Rejoice not over thy greateſt enemy being dead, but remember that we die all.

8 Deſpiſe not the diſcourſe of the wiſe, but acquaint thyſelf with their proverbs: for of them thou ſhalt learn inſtruction, and how to ſerve great men with eaſe.

9 Miſs not the diſcourſe of the elders: for they alſo learned of their fathers, and of them thou ſhalt learn underſtanding, and to give anſwer as need requireth.

10 Kindle not the coals of a ſinner, leſt thou be burnt with the flame of his fire.

11 Riſe not up (in anger) at the preſence of an injurious perſon, leſt he lie in wait to entrap thee in thy words.

12 Lend not unto him that is mightier than thyſelf: for if thou lendeſt him, count it but loſt.

13 Be not ſurety above thy power: for if thou be ſurety take care to pay it.

14 Go not to law with a judge: for they will judge for him according to his honour.

15 Travel not by the way with a bold fellow, leſt he become grievous unto thee: for he will do according to his own will, and thou ſhalt periſh with him through his folly.

16 Strive not with an angry man, and go not with him into a ſolitary place: for blood is as nothing in his ſight; and where there is no help, he will overthrow thee.

17 Conſult not with a fool: for he cannot keep counſel.

18 Do no ſecret thing before a ſtranger: for thou knoweſt not what he will bring forth.

19 Open not thine heart to every man, leſt he requite thee with a ſhrewd turn.

CHAP. IX.

1 We are adviſed how to uſe our wives: 8 what women to avoid.

BE not jealous over the wife of thy boſom, and teach her not an evil leſſon againſt thyſelf.

2 Give not thy ſoul unto a woman to ſet her foot upon thy ſubſtance.

3 Meet not with an harlot, leſt thou fall into her ſnares.

4 Uſe not much the company of a woman that is a ſinger, leſt thou be taken with her attempts.

5 Gaze not on a maid, that thou fall not by thoſe things that are precious in her.

6 Give not thy ſoul unto harlots, that thou loſe not thine inheritance.

7 Look not round about thee in the ſtreets of the city, neither wander thou in the ſolitary places thereof.

8 Turn away thine eye from a beautiful woman, and look not upon another's beauty: for many have been deceived by the beauty of a woman, for herewith love is kindled as a fire.

9 Sit not at all with another man's wife, nor ſit down with her in thine arms, and ſpend not thy money with her at the wine; leſt thine heart incline unto her, and ſo through thy deſire thou fall into deſtruction.

10 Forſake not an old friend; for the new is not comparable unto him: a new friend is as new wine; when it is old thou ſhalt drink it with pleaſure.

11 Envy not the glory of a ſinner: for thou knoweſt not what ſhall be his end.

12 Delight not in the thing that the ungodly have pleaſure in; but remember they ſhall not go unpuniſhed unto their grave.

13 Keep thee far from the man that hath power to kill, ſo ſhalt thou not doubt the fear of death: and if thou come unto him, make no fault, leſt he take away thy life preſently: remember that thou goeſt in the midſt of ſnares, and that thou walkeſt upon the battlements of the city.

14 As near as thou canſt, gueſs at thy neighbour, and conſult with the wiſe.

15 Let thy talk be with the wiſe, and all thy communication in the law of the Moſt High.

16 And let juſt men eat and drink with thee; and let thy glorying be in the fear of the Lord.

17 For the hand of the artificer the work ſhall be commended; and the wiſe ruler of the people for his ſpeech.

18 A man of an ill tongue is dangerous in his city; and he that is raſh in his talk ſhall be hated.

CHAP. X.

1 The advantages of a wiſe ruler. 7 Of pride, injuſtice, and covetouſneſs.

A WISE judge will inſtruct his people, and the government of the prudent man is well ordered.

2 As the judge of the people is himſelf, ſo are his officers; and what manner of man the ruler of the city is, ſuch are all they that dwell therein.

3 An unwiſe king deſtroyeth his people; but through the prudence of them which are in authority, the city ſhall be inhabited.

4 The power of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, and in due time he will ſet over it one that is profitable.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

10 Kindle not the coals of a ſinner, &c.) The meaning of this is ſomething uncertain: ſome take it to be an admonition not to reprove a ſinner unſeaſonably, leſt we inflame the party reproved, and draw on ourſelves abuſe or reſentment, and even provoke him by untimely reproofs to freſh offences: but the Oriental verſions underſtand this of keeping company with ſinners, and ſuffering by their evil communication.

18 Do no ſecret thing before a ſtranger, &c.) The ſenſe of the Greek is, Do not truſt a ſecret to a ſtranger, for you do not know whether he will prove faithful or perfidious.

5 In the hand of God is the prosperity of man: and upon the person of the scribe shall he lay his honour.

6 Bear not hatred to thy neighbour for every wrong, and do nothing at all by injurious practices.

7 Pride is hateful before God and man: and by both doth one commit iniquity.

8 Because of unrighteous dealings, injuries, and riches got by deceit, the kingdom is translated from one people to another.

9 Why is earth and ashes proud? There is not a more wicked thing than a covetous man: for such an one setteth his own soul to sale, because while he liveth, he casteth away his bowels.

10 The physician cutteth off a long disease; and he that is to-day a king, to-morrow shall die.

11 For when a man is dead, he shall inherit creeping things, beasts and worms.

12 The beginning of pride is, when one departeth from God, and his heart is turned away from his Maker.

13 For pride is the beginning of sin, and he that hath it, shall pour out abomination: and therefore the Lord brought upon them strange calamities, and overthrew them utterly.

14 The Lord hath cast down the thrones of proud princes, and set up the meek in their stead.

15 The Lord hath plucked up the roots of the proud nations, and planted the lowly in their place.

16 The Lord overthrew countries of the heathen, and destroyed them to the foundations of the earth.

17 He took some of them away, and destroyed them, and hath made their memorial to cease from the earth.

18 Pride was not made for men, nor furious anger for them that are born of a woman.

19 They that fear the Lord are a sure seed, and they that love him an honourable plant; they that regard not the law are a dishonourable seed; they that transgress the commandments, are a deceivable seed.

20 Among brethren, he that is chief, is honourable; so are they that fear the Lord in his eyes.

21 The fear of the Lord goeth before the obtaining of authority: but roughness and pride is the losing thereof.

22 Whether he be rich, noble, or poor, their glory is the fear of the Lord.

23 It is not meet to despise the poor man that hath understanding; neither is it convenient to magnify a sinful man.

24 Great men, and judges, and potentates, shall be honoured; yet is there none of them greater than he that feareth the Lord.

25 Unto the servant that is wise shall they that are free do service: and he that hath knowledge, will not grudge when he is reformed.

26 Be not over-wise in doing thy business, and boast not thyself in the time of thy distress.

27 Better is he that laboureth and aboundeth in all things, than he that boasteth himself, and wanteth bread.

28 My son, glorify thy soul in meekness, and give it honour according to the dignity thereof.

29 Who will justify him that sinneth against his own soul? and who will honour him that dishonoureth his own life?

30 The poor man is honoured for his skill; and the rich man is honoured for his riches.

31 He that is honoured in poverty, how much more in riches! and he that is dishonourable in riches, how much more in poverty!

CHAP. XI.

4 We may not vaunt, 8 nor answer rashly, nor meddle with many matters.

WISDOM lifteth up the head of him that is of low degree, and maketh him to sit among great men.

2 Commend not a man for his beauty; neither abhor a man for his outward appearance.

3 The bee is little among such as fly: but her fruit is the chief of sweet things.

4 Boast not of thy cloathing and raiment, and exalt not thyself in the day of honour: for the works of the Lord are wonderful, and his works among men are hidden.

5 Many kings have set down upon the ground; and one that was never thought of, hath worn the crown.

6 Many mighty men have been greatly disgraced; and the honourable delivered into other men's hands.

7 Blame not before thou hast examined the truth: understand first, and then rebuke.

8 Answer not before thou hast heard the cause: neither interrupt men in the midst of their talk.

9 Strive not in a matter that concerneth thee not; and sit not in judgment with sinners.

10 My son, meddle not with many matters: for if thou meddle much, thou shalt not be innocent; and if thou follow after, thou shalt not obtain, neither shalt thou escape by flying.

11 There is one that laboureth and taketh pains, and maketh haste, and is so much the more behind.

12 Again, there is another that is slow, and hath need of help, wanting ability, and full of poverty; yet the eye of the Lord looked upon him for good, and set him up from his low estate,

13 And lifted up his head from misery, so that many that saw it marvelled at him.

14 Prosperity and adversity, life and death, poverty and riches, come of the Lord.

15 Wisdom, knowledge, and understanding of the law, are of the Lord; love and the way of good works are from him.

16 Error and darkness had their beginning together with sinners: and evil shall wax old with them that glory therein.

17 The gift of the Lord remaineth with the godly, and his favour bringeth prosperity for ever.

18 There is that waxeth rich by his wariness and pinching, and this is the portion of his reward:

19 Whereas he saith, I have found rest, and now will eat continually of my goods, and yet he knoweth not what time shall come upon him, and that he must leave those things to others, and die.

Commentary on Chap. X.

9 Why is earth and ashes proud? &c.) That this verse is mingled and imperfect, appears from the different reading of it. From this incoherence many have been induced to think of a transposition, and suppose this reflection should be placed at the beginning of the eleventh verse.

25 He that hath knowledge, will not grudge when he is reformed.) This ought to be rendered, When he is reproved; for a sensible man will bear to be reproved, even by a servant, if he has more wisdom than himself.

28 My son, glorify thy soul in meekness, &c.) Or, Modestly study thy glory. The meaning is, that we should observe a medium; and neither be puffed up with pride, nor yet have too contemptible an opinion of ourselves.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

16 Error and darkness had their beginning together with sinners, &c.) The Greek word, which we here render beginning, often signifies no more than to order a thing: and therefore the true sense seems to be, that error or darkness of mind (God so ordering it) is joined with an habit of sinning.

20 Be ſtedfaſt in thy covenant, and be converſant therein, and wax old in thy work.

21 Marvel not at the works of ſinners, but truſt in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an eaſy thing in the ſight of the Lord, on the ſudden to make a poor man rich.

22 The bleſſing of the Lord is in the reward of the godly, and ſuddenly he maketh his bleſſing to flouriſh.

23 Say not, What profit is there of my ſervice? and what good things ſhall I have hereafter?

24 Again, ſay not, I have enough, and poſſeſs many things, and what evil can come to me hereafter?

25 In the day of proſperity, there is a forgetfulneſs of affliction: and in the day of affliction, there is no more remembrance of proſperity.

26 For it is an eaſy thing unto the Lord in the day of death, to reward a man according to his ways.

27 The affliction of an hour maketh a man forget pleaſure: and in his end his deeds ſhall be diſcovered.

28 Judge none bleſſed before his death; for a man ſhall be known in his children.

29 Bring not every man into thine houſe: for the deceitful man hath many trains.

30 Like as a partridge taken (and kept) in a cage, ſo is the heart of the proud; and like as a ſpy watcheth he for thy fall.

31 For he lieth in wait, and turneth good into evil; and in things worthy praiſe will lay blame upon thee.

32 Of a ſpark of fire a heap of coals is kindled; and a ſinful man layeth wait for blood.

33 Take heed of a miſchievous man, for he worketh wickedneſs; leſt he bring upon thee a perpetual blot.

34 Receive a ſtranger into thine houſe, and he will diſturb thee, and turn thee out of thine own.

CHAP. XII.

2 Be not liberal to the ungodly. 10 Truſt not thine enemy, nor the wicked.

WHEN thou wilt do good, know to whom thou doeſt it; ſo ſhalt thou be thanked for thy benefits.

2 Do good to the godly man, and thou ſhalt find a recompence; and if not from him, yet from the Moſt High.

3 There can no good come to him that is always occupied in evil; or to him that giveth no alms.

4 Give to the godly man, and help not a ſinner.

5 Do well unto him that is lowly, but give not to the ungodly: hold back thy bread, and give it not unto him, leſt he overmaſter thee thereby: for (elſe) thou ſhalt receive twice as much evil for all the good thou ſhalt have done unto him.

6 For the Moſt High hateth ſinners, and will repay vengeance unto the ungodly, and keepeth them againſt the mighty day of their puniſhment.

7 Give unto the good, and help not the ſinner.

8 A friend cannot be known in proſperity; and an enemy cannot be hid in adverſity.

9 In the proſperity of a man enemies will be grieved: but in his adverſity even a friend will depart.

10 Never truſt thine enemy: for like as iron ruſteth, ſo is his wickedneſs.

11 Though he humble himſelf, and go crouching, yet take good heed, and beware of him, and thou ſhalt be unto him as if thou hadſt wiped a looking-glaſs, and thou ſhalt know that his ruſt hath not been altogether wiped away.

12 Set him not by thee, leſt, when he hath overthrown thee, he ſtand up in thy place; neither let him ſit at thy right hand, leſt he ſeek to take thy ſeat, and thou at the laſt remember my words and be pricked therewith.

13 Who will pity a charmer that is bitten with a ſerpent, or any ſuch as come nigh wild beaſts?

14 So one that goeth to a ſinner, and is defiled with him in his ſins, who will pity?

15 For a while he will abide with thee, but if thou begin to fall, he will not tarry.

16 An enemy ſpeaketh ſweetly with his lips, but in his heart he imagineth how to throw thee into a pit: he will weep with his eyes, but if he find opportunity, he will not be ſatisfied with blood.

17 If adverſity come upon thee, thou ſhalt find him there firſt: and though he pretend to help thee, yet ſhall he undermine thee.

18 He will ſhake his head, and clap his hands, and whiſper much, and change his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

Keep not company with the proud, nor a mightier than thyſelf.

HE that toucheth pitch ſhall be defiled therewith: and he that hath fellowſhip with a proud man ſhall be like unto him.

2 Burden not thyſelf above thy power while thou liveſt: and have no fellowſhip with one that is mightier and richer than thyſelf: for how agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be ſmitten againſt the other it ſhall be broken.

3 The rich man hath done wrong, and yet he threateneth withal: the poor is wronged, and he muſt entreat alſo.

4 If thou be for his profit, he will uſe thee: but if thou have nothing, he will forſake thee.

5 If thou have any thing, he will live with thee; yea, he will make thee bare, and will not be ſorry for it.

6 If he have need of thee, he will deceive thee, and ſmile upon thee, and put thee in hope; he will ſpeak thee fair, and ſay, What wanteſt thou?

7 And he will ſhame thee by his meats, until he have drawn thee dry twice or thrice, and at the laſt he will laugh thee to ſcorn: afterward when he ſeeth thee, he will forſake thee, and ſhake his head at thee.

8 Beware that thou be not deceived, and brought down in thy jollity.

9 If thou be invited of a mighty man, withdraw thyſelf, and ſo much the more will he invite thee.

10 Preſs thou not upon him, leſt thou be put back; ſtand not far off, leſt thou be forgotten.

11 Affect not to be made equal unto him in talk,

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

11 And thou ſhalt be unto him as if thou hadſt wiped a looking-glaſs, &c.) If thou takeſt this prudent precaution to be upon thy guard, thou ſhalt find the caſe to be the ſame with him, as in wiping a mirror of poliſhed metal, that has once been ruſted, which, though you take a great deal of pains about, and think you have got clean, yet you ſtill find in it ſome ſpots of ruſt. So you will find the hatred and rancour of a man of an evil diſpoſition, whom you have once been at enmity with, will ſtill lurk in him, though he puts on the ſhadow of friendſhip; and that his malice towards you will ſtill break out afreſh, whenever he has an opportunity to injure you. The word mirror ſhould have been uſed inſtead of a looking-glaſs; for anciently they made uſe of poliſhed metal for the ſame purpoſes that we now do glaſs.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

9 If thou be invited of a mighty man, withdraw thyſelf, &c.) By the expreſſion, withdraw thyſelf, ſeems to be meant, Take your leave of him in a ſhort time, or as ſoon as you can with decency, leſt you ſhould diſguſt him by ſtaying long.

and

and believe not his many words: for with much communication will he tempt thee, and ſmiling upon thee will get out thy ſecrets:

12 But cruelly he will lay up thy words, and will not ſpare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in priſon.

13 Obſerve, and take good heed, for thou walkeſt in peril of thy overthrowing: when thou heareſt theſe things, awake in thy ſleep.

14 Love the Lord, all thy life, and call upon him for thy ſalvation.

15 Every beaſt loveth his like, and every man loveth his neighbour.

16 All fleſh conſorteth according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like.

17 What fellowſhip hath the wolf with the lamb? ſo the ſinner with the godly.

18 What agreement is there between the hyena and the dog? and what peace between the rich and the poor?

19 As the wild aſs is the lion's prey in the wilderneſs; ſo the rich eat up the poor.

20 As the proud hate humility; ſo doth the rich abhor the poor.

21 A rich man, beginning to fall, is held up of his friends: but a poor man being down, is thruſt alſo away by his friends.

22 When a rich man is fallen, he hath many helpers; he ſpeaketh things not to be ſpoken, and yet men juſtify him: the poor man ſlipt, and yet they rebuked him too; he ſpake wiſely, and could have no place.

23 When a rich man ſpeaketh, every man holdeth his tongue; and, look, what he ſaith they extol it to the clouds: but if the poor man ſpeak, they ſay, What fellow is this? and if he ſtumble they will help to overthrow him.

24 Riches are good unto him that hath no ſin, and poverty is evil in the mouth of the ungodly.

25 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be for good or evil: and a merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

26 A cheerful countenance is a token of a heart that is in proſperity; and the finding out of parables is a wearieſome labour of the mind.

CHAP. XIV.

1 A good conſcience maketh men happy. 5 The niggard doeth good to none.

BLESSED is the man that hath not ſlipt with his mouth, and is not pricked with the multitude of ſins.

2 Bleſſed is he whoſe conſcience hath not condemned him, and who is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are not comely for a niggard; and what ſhould an envious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth by defrauding his own ſoul, gathereth for others that ſhall ſpend his goods riotouſly.

5 He that is evil to himſelf, to whom will he be good? he ſhall not take pleaſure in his goods.

6 There is none worſe than he that envieth himſelf; and this is a recompence of his wickedneſs.

7 And if he doeth good, he doeth it unwillingly; and at the laſt he will declare his wickedneſs.

8 The envious man hath a wicked eye; he turneth away his face and deſpiſeth men.

9 A covetous man's eye is not ſatisfied with his portion: and the iniquity of the wicked drieth up his ſoul.

10 A wicked eye envieth (his) bread, and he is a niggard at his table.

11 My ſon, according to thy ability do good to thyſelf, and give the Lord his due offering.

12 Remember that death will not be long in coming, and that the covenant of the grave is not ſhewed unto thee.

13 Do good unto thy friend before thou die, and according to thy ability ſtretch out thy hand, and give to him.

14 Defraud not thyſelf of the good day, and let not the part of a good deſire overpaſs thee.

15 Shalt thou not leave thy travels unto another? and thy labours to be divided by lot?

16 Give, and take, and ſanctify thy ſoul; for there is no ſeeking of dainties in the grave.

17 All fleſh waxeth old as a garment: for the covenant from the beginning is, Thou ſhalt die the death.

18 As of the green leaves on a thick tree, ſome fall and ſome grow; ſo is the generation of fleſh and blood, one cometh to an end, and another is born.

19 Every work rotteth and conſumeth away, and the worker thereof ſhall go withal.

20 Bleſſed is the man that doth meditate good things in wiſdom, and that reaſoneth of holy things by his underſtanding.

21 He that conſidereth her ways in his heart, ſhall alſo have underſtanding in her ſecrets.

22 Go after her as one that traceth, and lie in wait in her ways.

23 He that prieth in at her windows, ſhall alſo hearken at her doors.

24 He that doth lodge near her houſe, ſhall alſo faſten a pin in her walls.

25 He ſhall pitch his tent nigh unto her, and ſhall lodge in a lodging where good things are.

26 He ſhall ſet his children under her ſhelter, and ſhall lodge under her branches.

27 By her he ſhall be covered from heat, and in her glory ſhall he dwell.

CHAP. XV.

2 Wiſdom embraceth thoſe that fear God: 7 the wicked ſhall not find her

HE that feareth the Lord will do good; and he that hath the knowledge of the law ſhall obtain her:

2 And as a mother ſhall ſhe meet him, and receive him as a wife married of a virgin.

3 With the bread of underſtanding ſhall ſhe feed him, and give him the water of wiſdom to drink.

4 He ſhall be ſtayed upon her, and ſhall not be moved; and ſhall rely upon her and ſhall not be confounded.

---

23 And if he ſtumble, they will help to overthrow him.) That is, if he ſays any thing that is the leaſt amiſs, or not quite agreeable, they will catch hold of it, and employ it to his diſadvantage, ſo as to overthrow, if they can, all he has been ſaying; and for a few words amiſs, they will condemn the whole.

24 Riches are good unto him that hath no ſin, &c.) Or rather, Riches are good in which there is no ſin; that is, which are got honeſtly, and procured by means in which there was no ſin.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

10 A wicked eye envieth (his) bread, &c.) A wicked eye was an expreſſion made uſe of among the Jews, to ſignify a covetous perſon; as A good eye was uſed to ſignify a liberal one. He grudgeth even bread to any one; and if by chance he makes an entertainment, it is in a very ſordid manner; for he will be in ſorrow at his table, as ſome verſions have it.

14 And let not the part of a good deſire overpaſs thee.) By A good deſire, or, as ſome render it, A good gift or portion, is meant preſents of eatables, which it was cuſtomary among the Jews to ſend to one another on feſtival days.

5 She ſhall exalt him above his neighbours, and in the midſt of the congregations ſhall ſhe open his mouth.

6 He ſhall find joy, and a crown of gladneſs, and ſhe ſhall cauſe him to inherit an everlaſting name.

7 But fooliſh men ſhall not attain unto her, and ſinners ſhall not ſee her.

8 For ſhe is far from pride, and men that are liars cannot remember her.

9 Praiſe is not ſeemly in the mouth of a ſinner, for it was not ſent him of the Lord.

10 For praiſe ſhall be uttered in wiſdom, and the Lord will proſper it.

11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I fell away: for thou oughteſt not to do the things that he hateth.

12 Say not thou, He hath cauſed me to err: for he hath no need of the ſinful man.

13 The Lord hateth all abomination; and they that fear God love it not.

14 He himſelf made man from the beginning, and left him in the hand of his counſel;

15 If thou wilt, to keep the commandments, and to perform acceptable faithfulneſs.

16 He hath ſet fire and water before thee: ſtretch forth thy hand unto whether thou wilt.

17 Before man is life and death, and whether him liketh, ſhall be given him.

18 For the wiſdom of the Lord is great, and he is mighty in power, and beholdeth all things;

19 And his eyes are upon them that fear him, and he knoweth every work of man.

20 He hath commanded no man to do wickedly, neither hath he given any man licence to ſin.

CHAP. XVI.

1 It is better to have none than ungodly children. 20 God's works unſearchable.

DESIRE not a multitude of unprofitable children, neither delight in ungodly ſons.

2 Though they multiply, rejoice not in them, except the fear of the Lord be with them.

3 Truſt not thou in their life, neither reſpect their multitude: for one that is juſt is better than a thouſand; and better it is to die without children, than to have them that are ungodly.

4 For by one that hath underſtanding, ſhall the city be repleniſhed: but the kindred of the wicked ſhall ſpeedily become deſolate.

5 Many ſuch things have I ſeen with mine eyes, and mine ear hath heard greater things than theſe.

6 In the congregation of the ungodly ſhall a fire be kindled; and in a rebellious nation wrath is ſet on fire.

7 He was not pacified toward the old giants, who fell away in the ſtrength of their fooliſhneſs.

8 Neither ſpared he the place where Lot ſojourned, but abhorred them for their pride.

9 He pitied not the people of perdition, who were taken away in their ſins:

10 Nor the ſix hundred thouſand footmen who were gathered together in the hardneſs of their hearts.

11 And if there be one ſtiff-necked among the people, it is marvel if he eſcape unpuniſhed: for mercy and wrath are with him; he is mighty to forgive, and to pour out diſpleaſure,

12 As his mercy is great, ſo is his correction alſo: he judgeth a man according to his works.

13 The ſinner ſhall not eſcape with his ſpoils; and the patience of the godly ſhall not be fruſtrate.

14 Make way for every work of mercy: for every man ſhall find according to his works.

15 The Lord hardened Pharaoh, that he ſhould not know him; that his powerful works might be known to the world,

16 His mercy is manifeſt to every creature, and he hath ſeparated his light from the darkneſs with an adamant.

17 Say not thou, I will hide myſelf from the Lord: ſhall any remember me from above? I ſhall not be remembered among ſo many people: for what is my ſoul among ſuch an infinite number of creatures?

18 Behold, the heaven, and the heaven of heavens, the deep, and the earth, and all that therein is, ſhall be moved when he ſhall viſit.

19 The mountains alſo and foundations of the earth ſhall be ſhaken with trembling, when the Lord looketh upon them.

20 No heart can think upon theſe things worthily: and who is able to conceive his ways?

21 It is a tempeſt which no man can ſee: for the moſt part of his works are hid.

22 Who can declare the works of his juſtice? or who can endure them? for his covenant is afar off, and the trial of all things is in the end.

23 He that wanteth underſtanding will think upon vain things: and a fooliſh man erring imagineth follies.

24 My ſon, hearken unto me, and learn knowledge, and mark my words with thy heart.

25 I will ſhew forth doctrine in weight, and declare his knowledge exactly.

26 The works of the Lord are done in judgment from the beginning: and from the time he made them he diſpoſed the parts thereof.

27 He garniſhed his works for ever, and in his hand are the chief of them unto all generations: they neither labour, nor are weary, nor ceaſe from their works.

28 None of them hindereth another, and they ſhall never diſobey his word.

29 After this the Lord looked upon the earth, and filled it with his bleſſings.

30 With all manner of living things hath he covered the face thereof; and they ſhall return into it again.

CHAP. XVII.

1 How God created and furniſhed man. 14 Avoid all ſin: 19 for God ſeeth all things.

THE Lord created man of the earth, and turned him into it again.

2 He gave them few days, and a ſhort time, and power alſo over the things therein.

3 He endued them with ſtrength by themſelves, and made them according to his image,

4 And put the fear of man upon all fleſh, and gave him dominion over beaſts and fowls.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

12 Say not thou, He hath cauſed me to err, &c.) Do not ſay or think that God hath formed you by the natural temperament of your body to vice, or incapable of virtue; for he is under no neceſſity, nor can have any motive to form a perſon unfit for virtue, or neceſſarily inclined to ſin.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVI.

21 It is a tempeſt which no man can ſee, &c.) This is a fine ſimile to illuſtrate the unſearchableneſs of God; for a ſtorm or tempeſt is inviſible in itſelf. We know not the cauſe or nature of it, though the effects are apparent.

25 I will ſhew forth doctrine in weight, &c.) That is, I will ſhew it as truly as the balance or ſcales do the weight of things, and declare the knowledge of true wiſdom; for we cannot ſuppoſe that this writer would ſay, he would declare the knowledge of God exactly, ſince he has in ſeveral places declared it unſearchable.

5 (They received the uſe of the five operations of the Lord, and in the ſixth place he imparted them underſtanding, and in the ſeventh, ſpeech, an interpreter of the cogitations thereof.)

6 Counſel, and a tongue, and eyes, ears, and a heart, gave he them to underſtand.

7 Withal, he filled them with the knowledge of underſtanding, and ſhewed them good and evil.

8 He ſet his eye upon their hearts, that he might ſhew them the greatneſs of his works.

9 He gave them to glory in his marvellous acts for ever, that they might declare his works with underſtanding.

10 And the elect ſhall praiſe his holy name.

11 Beſide this, he gave them knowledge, and the law of life for an heritage.

12 He made an everlaſting covenant with them, and ſhewed them his judgments.

13 Their eyes ſaw the majeſty of his glory, and their ears heard his glorious voice.

14 And he ſaid unto them, Beware of all unrighteouſneſs; and he gave every man commandment concerning his neighbour.

15 Their ways are ever before him, and ſhall not be hid from his eyes.

16 Every man from his youth is given to evil; neither could they make to themſelves fleſhy hearts for ſtony.

17 For in the diviſion of the nations of the whole earth, he ſet a ruler over every people; but Iſrael is the Lord's portion.

18 Whom, being his firſt-born, he nouriſheth with diſcipline; and, giving him the light of his love, doth not forſake him.

19 Therefore all their works are as the ſun before him, and his eyes are continually upon their ways.

20 None of their unrighteous deeds are hid from him, but all their ſins are before the Lord.

21 But the Lord being gracious, and knowing his workmanſhip, neither left nor forſook them, but ſpared them.

22 The alms of a man is as a ſignet with him, and he will keep the good deeds of man as the apple of the eye, and give repentance to his ſons and daughters.

23 Afterwards he will riſe up and reward them, and render their recompence upon their heads.

24 But unto them that repent he granted them return, and comforted thoſe that failed in patience.

25 Return unto the Lord, and forſake thy ſins, make thy prayer before his face, and offend leſs.

26 Turn again to the Moſt High, and turn away from iniquity: for he will lead thee out of darkneſs into the light of health; and hate thou abomination vehemently.

27 Who ſhall praiſe the Moſt High in the grave, inſtead of them which live and give thanks?

28 Thankſgiving periſheth from the dead, as from one that is not: the living and ſound in heart ſhall praiſe the Lord.

29 How great is the loving-kindneſs of the Lord our God, and his compaſſion unto ſuch as turn unto him in holineſs!

30 For all things cannot be in men, becauſe the ſon of man is not immortal.

31 What is brighter than the ſun? yet the light thereof faileth: and fleſh and blood will imagine evil.

32 He vieweth the power of the height of heaven; and all men are but earth and aſhes.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 God's works are wonderful. 9 Man's life is ſhort. 11 God is merciful.

HE that liveth for ever created all things in general.

2 The Lord only is righteous, and there is none other but he;

3 Who governeth the world with the palm of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he is the King of all, by his power dividing holy things among them from profane.

4 To whom hath he given power to declare his works? and who ſhall find out his noble acts?

5 Who ſhall number the ſtrength of his majeſty? and who ſhall alſo tell out his mercies?

6 As for the wondrous works of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, neither may any thing be put unto them, neither can the ground of them be found out;

7 When a man hath done, then he beginneth; and when he leaveth off, then he ſhall be doubtful.

8 What is man, and whereto ſerveth he? what is his good, and what is his evil?

9 The number of a man's days at the moſt are an hundred years.

10 As a drop of water unto the ſea, and a gravel-ſtone in compariſon of the ſand, ſo are a thouſand years to the days of eternity.

11 Therefore is God patient with them, and poureth forth his mercy upon them.

12 He ſaw and perceived their end to be evil; therefore he multiplied his compaſſion.

13 The mercy of man is toward his neighbour; but the mercy of the Lord is upon all fleſh: he reproveth, and nurtureth, and teacheth, and bringeth again, as a ſhepherd his flock.

14 He hath mercy on them that receive diſcipline, and that diligently ſeek after his judgments.

15 My ſon, blemiſh not thy good deeds, neither uſe uncomfortable words when thou giveſt any thing.

16 Shall not the dew aſſuage the heat? ſo is a word better than a gift.

17 Lo, is not a word better than a gift? but both are with a gracious man.

18 A fool will upbraid churliſhly, and a gift of the envious conſumeth the eyes.

19 Learn before thou ſpeak, and uſe phyſick or ever thou be ſick.

20 Before judgment examine thyſelf; and in the day of viſitation thou ſhalt find mercy.

21 Humble thyſelf before thou be ſick, and in the time of ſin ſhew repentance.

22 Let nothing hinder thee to pay thy vow in due time, and defer not until death to be juſtified.

23 Before thou prayeſt, prepare thyſelf; and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

24 Think upon the wrath that ſhall be at the end, and the time of vengeance when he ſhall turn away his face.

25 When thou haſt enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, think upon poverty and need.

26 From the morning until the evening the time is changed, and all things are ſoon done before the Lord.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVII.

31 And fleſh and blood will imagine evil.) Sometimes men will blin their duty, as their bodies are conſtituted of fleſh and blood; from whence naturally ariſe appetites and paſſions, which partake more of the fleſh than the ſpirit, or more vehemently excite to follow animal gratification than the dictates of reaſon.

27 A wise man will fear in every thing, and in the day of sinning he will beware of offence; but a fool will not observe time.

28 Every man of understanding knoweth wisdom, and will give praise unto him that found her.

29 They that were of understanding in sayings, became also wise themselves, and poured forth exquisite parables.

30 Go not after thy lusts, but refrain thyself from thine appetites.

31 If thou givest thy soul the desires that please her, she will make thee a laughing-stock to thine enemies that malign thee.

32 Take not pleasure in much good cheer, neither be tied to the expence thereof.

33 Be not made a beggar by banqueting upon borrowing, when thou hast nothing in thy purse; for thou shalt lie in wait for thine own life, and be talked on.

CHAP. XIX.

2 Women and wine seduce wise men. 7 Say not all thou hearest.

A LABOURING man that is given to drunkenness shall not be rich; and he that contemneth small things shall fall by little and little.

2 Wine and women will make men of understanding to fall away; and he that cleaveth to harlots will become impudent.

3 Moths and worms shall have him to heritage, and a bold man shall be taken away.

4 He that is hasty to give credit is light-minded; and he that sinneth shall offend against his own soul.

5 Whoso taketh pleasure in wickedness shall be condemned: but he that resisteth pleasures crowneth his life.

6 He that can rule his tongue shall live without strife; and he that hateth babbling shall have less evil.

7 Rehearse not unto another that which is told unto thee, and thou shalt fare never the worse.

8 Whether it be to a friend or foe, talk not of other men's lives: and if thou canst without offence, reveal them not.

9 For he heard and observed thee; and when time cometh, he will hate thee.

10 If thou hast heard a word, let it die with thee, and be bold, it will not burst thee.

11 A fool travaileth with a word, as a woman in labour of a child.

12 As an arrow that sticketh in a man's thigh, so is a word within a fool's belly.

13 Admonish a friend, it may be he hath not done it; and if he have done it, that he do it no more.

14 Admonish thy friend, it may be he hath not said it; and if he have, that he speak it not again.

15 Admonish a friend: for many times it is a slander, and believe not every tale.

16 There is one that slippeth in his speech, but not from his heart; and who is he that hath not offended with his tongue.

17 Admonish thy neighbour before thou threaten him; and not being angry give place to the law of the Most High.

18 The fear of the Lord is the first step to be accepted (of him,) and wisdom obtaineth his love.

19 The knowledge of the commandments of the Lord is the doctrine of life, and they that do things that please him shall receive the fruit of the tree of immortality.

20 The fear of the Lord is all wisdom, and in all wisdom is the performance of the law, and the knowledge of his omnipotency.

21 If a servant say to his master, I will not do as it pleaseth thee, though afterward he do it, he angereth him that nourisheth him.

22 The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom, neither at any time the counsel of sinners prudence.

23 There is a wickedness, and the same an abomination, and there is a fool wanting in wisdom.

24 He that hath small understanding, and feareth God, is better than one that hath much wisdom, and transgresseth the law of the Most High.

25 There is an exquisite subtilty, and the same is unjust, and there is one that turneth aside to make judgment appear: and there is a wise man that justifieth in judgment.

26 There is a wicked man that hangeth down his head sadly; but inwardly he is full of deceit:

27 Casting down his countenance, and making as if he heard not: where he is not known, he will do thee a mischief before thou be aware.

28 And if for want of power he be hindered from sinning, yet when he findeth opportunity he will do evil.

29 A man may be known by his look, and one that hath understanding by his countenance, when thou meetest him.

30 A man's attire, and excessive laughter, and gait, shew what he is.

CHAP. XX.

1 Of silence and speaking. 10 Of gifts and gain.

THERE is a reproof that is not comely: again, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

2 It is much better to reprove, than to be angry secretly; and he that confesseth his fault, shall be preserved from hurt.

3 How good is it when thou art reproved to shew repentance! for so shalt thou escape wilful sin.

4 As is the lust of an eunuch to deflower a virgin; so is he that executeth judgment with violence.

5 There is one that keepeth silence, and is found wise: and another by much babbling becometh hateful.

6 Some man holdeth his tongue because he hath not to answer; and some keepeth silence, knowing his time.

Commentary on Chap. XVIII.

27 A wise man will fear in every thing, &c.) A wise man will be careful to keep from sinning in every thing he says or does, and will in all times and places be upon his guard during a general corruption and degeneracy, that he be not infected with the popular contagion; while an inconsiderate man will not observe the occasion for him to be upon his guard.

Commentary on Chap. XIX.

25 And there is one that turneth aside to make judgment appear, &c.) Or better rendered thus, There is one that perverteth or turneth upside down, that he may pronounce judgment in favour of him to whom he is inclined. This seems to be spoken of those who, by their knowledge and nice distinctions in the law, know how to take an advantage of those who are less skilful, and so pervert and obscure things, as to make wrong appear right, and right wrong.

Commentary on Chap. XX.

1 There is a reproof that is not comely, &c.) To know when to be silent, and when to speak, and to observe the proper season of giving reproof, shews the judgment of a man. Wisdom does not consist in a multitude of words, without any regard to time, persons, or the circumstances and nature of things; but in seeking proper opportunities of placing them, so as they may have the desired effect. If we carefully observe the various humours, dispositions, and practices of mankind, we may collect many useful lessons to instruct us in our commerce with the world. By a heedful regard to the errors and mistakes of the fool, we may learn wisdom; and by the slips, failures, and misconduct of others, treasure up knowledge, and lay in a stock of experience, which we may apply to our own advantage as occasion serves.

7 A wiſe man will hold his tongue till he ſee opportunity: but a babbler and a fool will regard no time.

8 He that uſeth many words ſhall be abhorred; and he that taketh to himſelf authority therein ſhall be hated.

9 There is a ſinner that hath good ſucceſs in evil things; and there is a gain that turneth to loſs:

10 There is a gift that ſhall not profit thee; and there is a gift whoſe recompence is double.

11 There is an abaſement becauſe of glory; and there is that lifteth up his head from a low eſtate.

12 There is that buyeth much for a little, and repayeth it ſeven-fold:

13 A wiſe man by his words maketh himſelf beloved: but the graces of fools ſhall be poured out.

14 The gift of a fool ſhall do thee no good when thou haſt it; neither yet of the envious for his neceſſity: for he looketh to receive many things for one.

15 He giveth little, and upbraideth much; he openeth his mouth like a crier; to-day he lendeth, and to-morrow will he aſk it again; ſuch a one is to be hated of God and man.

16 The fool ſaith, I have no friends, I have no thank for all my good deeds, and they that eat my bread ſpeak evil of me.

17 How oft, and of how many ſhall he be laughed to ſcorn! for he knoweth not aright what it is to have: and it is all one unto him, as if he had it not.

18 To ſlip upon a pavement, is better than to ſlip with the tongue: ſo the fall of the wicked ſhall come ſpeedily.

19 An unſeaſonable tale will always be in the mouth of the unwiſe.

20 A wiſe ſentence ſhall be rejected, when it cometh out of a fool's mouth: for he will not ſpeak in due ſeaſon.

21 There is that is hindered from ſinning through want: and when he taketh reſt, he ſhall not be troubled.

22 There is that deſtroyeth his own ſoul through baſhfulneſs, and by accepting of perſons overthroweth himſelf.

23 There is that for baſhfulneſs promiſeth to his friend, and maketh him his enemy for nothing.

24 A lie is a foul blot in a man, yet it is continually in the mouth of the untaught.

25 A thief is better than a man that is accuſtomed to lie: but they both ſhall have deſtruction to heritage.

26 The diſpoſition of a liar is diſhonourable, and his ſhame is ever with him.

27 A wiſe man ſhall promote himſelf to honour with his words; and he that hath underſtanding will pleaſe great men.

28 He that tilleth his land, ſhall increaſe his heap: and he that pleaſeth great men, ſhall get pardon for iniquity.

29 Preſents and gifts blind the eyes of the wiſe, and ſtop up his mouth that he cannot reprove.

30 Wiſdom that is hid, and treaſure that is hoarded up, what profit is in them both?

31 Better is he that hideth his folly, than a man that hideth his wiſdom.

32 Neceſſary patience in ſeeking the Lord, is better than he that leadeth his life without a guide.

CHAP. XXI.

2 Flee from ſin as from a ſerpent. 12 The difference between the fool and the wiſe.

MY ſon, haſt thou ſinned? do ſo no more; but aſk pardon for thy former ſins.

2 Flee from ſin as from the face of a ſerpent: for if thou comeſt too near it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lion, ſlaying the ſouls of men.

3 All iniquity is as a two-edged ſword, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

4 To terrify and do wrong will waſte riches: thus the houſe of proud men ſhall be made deſolate.

5 A prayer out of a poor man's mouth reacheth to the ears of God, and his judgment cometh ſpeedily.

6 He that hateth to be reproved, is in the way of ſinners; but he that feareth the Lord, will repent from his heart.

7 An eloquent man is known far and near; but a man of underſtanding knoweth when he ſlippeth.

8 He that buildeth his houſe with other men's money, is like one that gathereth himſelf ſtones for the tomb of his burial.

9 The congregation of the wicked is like tow wrapped together: and the end of them is a flame of fire to deſtroy them.

10 The way of ſinners is made plain with ſtones, but at the end thereof is the pit of hell.

11 He that keepeth the law of the Lord getteth the underſtanding thereof; and the perfection of the fear of the Lord is wiſdom.

12 He that is not wiſe will not be taught: but there is a wiſdom which multiplieth bitterneſs.

13 The knowledge of a wiſe man ſhall abound like a flood; and his counſel is like a pure fountain of life.

14 The inner parts of a fool are like a broken veſſel, and he will hold no knowledge as long as he liveth.

15 If a ſkilful man hear a wiſe word, he will commend it, and add unto it; but as ſoon as one of no underſtanding heareth it, it diſpleaſeth him, and he caſteth it behind his back.

16 The talking of a fool is like a burden in the way: but grace ſhall be found in the lips of the wiſe.

17 They enquire at the mouth of the wiſe man in the congregation, and they ſhall ponder his words in their heart.

18 As is a houſe that is deſtroyed, ſo is wiſdom to a fool: and the knowledge of the unwiſe is as talk without ſenſe.

19 Doctrine unto fools is as fetters on the feet, and like manacles on the right hand.

20 A fool lifteth up his voice with laughter; but a wiſe man doth ſcarce ſmile a little.

21 Learning is unto a wiſe man as an ornament of gold, and like a bracelet upon his right arm.

22 A fooliſh man's foot is ſoon in his (neighbour's) houſe: but a man of experience is aſhamed of him.

23 A fool will peep in at the door into the houſe: but he that is well nurtured will ſtand without.

24 It is the rudeneſs of a man to hearken at the door: but a wiſe man will be grieved with the diſgrace.

25 The lips of talkers will be telling ſuch things as pertain not unto them: but the words of ſuch as have underſtanding are weighed in the balance.

26 The heart of fools is in their mouth; but the mouth of the wiſe is in their heart.

27 When the ungodly curſeth Satan, he curſeth his own ſoul.

28 A whiſperer defileth his own ſoul, and is hated wherefoever he dwelleth.

---

25 A thief is better than a man that is accuſtomed to lie, &c.) The writer does not mean to excuſe or juſtify the thief; but to expoſe the liar, through the odiouſneſs of the compariſon: for he ſays, in the following ſentence, that they are both wont to periſh miſerably.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXI.

8 He that buildeth his houſe with other men's money, &c.) He is heaping up ruin to himſelf. This alludes to the ancient cuſtom of heaping up ſtones over the graves of perſons remarkable for ſome crime, to perpetuate their infamy.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the ſlothful man, 3 and a fooliſh daughter. 20 What will loſe a friend.

A SLOTHFUL man is compared to a filthy ſtone, and every one will hiſs him out to his diſgrace.

2 A ſlothful man is compared to the filth of a dung-hill: every man that takes it up, will ſhake his hand.

3 An evil-nurtured ſon is the diſhonour of his father that begat him: and a (fooliſh) daughter is born to his loſs.

4 A wiſe daughter ſhall bring an inheritance to her huſband: but ſhe that liveth diſhoneſtly, is her father's heavineſs.

5 She that is bold, diſhonoureth both her father and her huſband, but they both ſhall deſpiſe her.

6 A tale out of ſeaſon (is as) muſick in mourning: but ſtripes and correction of wiſdom are never out of time.

7 Whoſo teacheth a fool, is as one that gluëth a potſherd together, and as he that waketh one from a ſound ſleep.

8 He that telleth a tale to a fool, ſpeaketh to one in a ſlumber: when he hath told his tale, he will ſay, What is the matter?

9 If children live honeſtly, and have wherewithal, they ſhall cover the baſeneſs of their parents.

10 But children being haughty, through diſdain and want of nurture, do ſtain the nobility of their kindred.

11 Weep for the dead, for he hath loſt the light: and weep for the fool, for he wanteth underſtanding: make little weeping for the dead, for he is at reſt: but the life of the fool is worſe than death.

12 Seven days do men mourn for him that is dead: but for a fool and an ungodly man, all the days of his life.

13 Talk not much with a fool, and go not to him that hath no underſtanding: beware of him, leſt thou have trouble, and thou ſhalt never be defiled with his fooleries: depart from him, and thou ſhalt find reſt, and never be diſquieted with madneſs.

14 What is heavier than lead? and what is the name thereof, but a fool?

15 Sand, and ſalt, and a maſs of iron, is eaſier to bear than a man without underſtanding.

16 As timber, girt and bound together in a building, cannot be looſed without ſhaking; ſo the heart that is eſtabliſhed by adviſed counſel ſhall fear at no time.

17 A heart ſettled upon a thought of underſtanding, is as a fair plaiſtering on the wall of a gallery.

18 Pales ſet on a high place will never ſtand againſt the wind: ſo a fearful heart, in the imagination of a fool, cannot ſtand againſt any fear:

19 He that pricketh the eye, will make tears to fall: and he that pricketh the heart, maketh it to ſhew her knowledge.

20 Whoſo caſteth a ſtone at the birds, frayeth them away: and he that upbraideth his friend, breaketh friendſhip.

21 Though thou dreweſt a ſword at thy friend, yet deſpair not: for there may be a returning (to favour).

22 If thou haſt opened thy mouth againſt thy friend, fear not: for there may be a reconciliation; except for upbraiding, or pride, or diſcloſing of ſecrets, or a treacherous wound: for theſe things every friend will depart.

23 Be faithful to thy neighbour in his poverty, that thou mayeſt rejoice in his proſperity: abide ſtedfaſt unto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayeſt be heir with him in his heritage: for a mean eſtate is not always to be contemned; nor the rich that is fooliſh, to be had in admiration.

24 As the vapour and ſmoke of a furnace goeth before the fire; ſo reviling before blood.

25 I will not be aſhamed to defend a friend; neither will I hide myſelf from him.

26 And if any evil happen unto me by him, every one that heareth it will beware of him

27 Who ſhall ſet a watch before my mouth, and a ſeal of wiſdom upon my lips, that I fall not ſuddenly by them, and that my tongue deſtroy me not?

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer for grace to flee from ſin. 23 An adulterous wife ſinneth many ways.

O LORD, Father and Governor of all my whole life, leave me not to their counſels, and let me not fall by them.

2 Who will ſet ſcourges over my thoughts, and the diſcipline of wiſdom over mine heart? that they ſpare me not for mine ignorances, and it paſs not by my ſins:

3 Leſt mine ignorances increaſe, and my ſins abound to my deſtruction, and I fall before mine adverſaries, and mine enemy rejoice over me, whoſe hope is far from thy mercy.

4 O Lord, Father and God of my life, give me not a proud look, but turn away from thy ſervants always a haughty mind.

5 Turn away from me vain hopes and concupiſcence, and thou ſhalt hold him up that is deſirous always to ſerve thee.

6 Let not the greedineſs of the belly, nor luſt of the fleſh, take hold of me, and give not over me thy ſervant into an impudent mind.

7 Hear, O ye children, the diſcipline of the mouth: he that keepeth it, ſhall never be taken in his lips.

8 The ſinner ſhall be left in his fooliſhneſs: both the evil-ſpeaker and the proud ſhall fall thereby.

9 Accuſtom not thy mouth to ſwearing: neither uſe thyſelf to the naming of the Holy One.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXII.

1 A ſlothful man is compared to a filthy ſtone, &c.) Sloth renders a man the diſtaſte of all about him. Children are either the honour or diſgrace of their parents: and as modeſty is the peculiar excellence of the fair ſex, ſhe who departs from it is not only a ſtain to her family, but if married caſts a ſlur upon her huſband, and becomes obnoxious both to his reſentment, and that of her father. A tale loſes its effect, if not well-timed; but the rebukes of wiſdom are always ſeaſonable. He that would reform a fool by inſtruction, or amuſe him with a ſtory, will loſe his labour. The fool deſerves our mourning more than he that is dead: the firſt is always committing ſomething which calls for ſorrow; but the other is at reſt, and inſenſible of our tears for him. The man who is fortified with wiſdom, is not to be terrified; but the fool is always afraid. Friendſhip ſhould be preſerved inviolable: a haſty word, ſpoken in paſſion, will not break it off, if we ſhew a ſenſibility of our error: but an overbearing inſolence, treachery, or betraying of ſecrets, will diſſolve the ties of the ſtricteſt amity.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIII.

1 O Lord, Father and Governor of all my whole life, &c.) The firſt part of this chapter contains a prayer for grace to get the maſtery over ſin, for ſtrength to ſubdue pride, vain hopes, concupiſcence, a luxurious appetite, and preſumptuous impudence. He, after this, addreſſes himſelf to children, adviſing them to ſet a guard on their lips. This naturally leads him to ſpeak of the ſin and folly of vain ſwearing and common diſcourſe. Ungoverned paſſions, unruly appetites, which are continually thrown in our way, are apt to entice us to commit follies which the nature of man, though fortified with the principles of religion, finds exceeding difficult to avoid or withſtand. But vain ſwearing is abſolutely inexcuſable, as affording no ſatisfaction in itſelf, has no temptation of advantage to induce a perſon to be guilty of it, and offends againſt a poſitive command; for a common ſwearer has no more credit than a common liar.

10 For as a ſervant that is continually beaten ſhall not be without a blue mark; ſo he that ſweareth, and nameth God continually, ſhall not be faultleſs.

11 A man that uſeth much ſwearing ſhall be filled with iniquity, and the plague ſhall never depart from his houſe: if he ſhall offend, his ſin ſhall be upon him; and if he acknowledge not his ſin, he maketh a double offence; and if he ſwear in vain, he ſhall not be innocent, but his houſe ſhall be full of calamities.

12 There is a word that is clothed about with death: God grant that it be not found in the heritage of Jacob: for all ſuch things ſhall be far from the godly, and they ſhall not wallow in their ſins.

13 Uſe not thy mouth to intemperate ſwearing, for therein is the word of ſin.

14 Remember thy father and thy mother, when thou ſitteſt among great men. Be not forgetful before them, and ſo thou by thy cuſtom become a fool, and wiſh that thou hadſt not been born, and curſe the day of thy nativity.

15 The man that is accuſtomed to opprobrious words will never be reformed all the days of his life.

16 Two ſorts of men multiply ſin, and the third will bring wrath: a hot mind is as a burning fire, it will never be quenched till it be conſumed: a fornicator in the body of his fleſh will never ceaſe till he hath kindled a fire.

17 All bread is ſweet to a whoremonger, he will not leave off till he die.

18 A man that breaketh wedlock, ſaying thus in his heart, Who ſeeth me? I am compaſſed about with darkneſs, the walls cover me, and nobody ſeeth me; what need I to fear? the Moſt High will not remember my ſins:

19 Such a man only feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thouſand times brighter than the ſun, beholding all the ways of men, and conſidering the moſt ſecret parts.

20 He knew all things ere ever they were created; ſo alſo after they were perfected he looked upon them all.

21 This man ſhall be puniſhed in the ſtreets of the city, and where he ſuſpecteth not he ſhall be taken.

22 Thus ſhall it go alſo with the wife that leaveth her huſband, and bringeth in an heir by another.

23 For, firſt, ſhe hath diſobeyed the law of the Moſt High; and, ſecondly, ſhe hath treſpaſſed againſt her own huſband; and, thirdly, ſhe hath played the whore in adultery, and brought children by another man.

24 She ſhall be brought out into the congregation, and inquiſition ſhall be made of her children.

25 Her children ſhall not take root, and her branches ſhall bring forth no fruit.

26 She ſhall leave her memory to be curſed, and her reproach ſhall not be blotted out.

27 And they that remain ſhall know that there is nothing better than the fear of the Lord, and that there is nothing ſweeter than to take heed unto the commandments of the Lord.

28 It is great glory to follow the Lord, and to be received of him is long life.

CHAP. XXIV.

2 Wiſdom doth praiſe herſelf, ſheweth her beginning, 4 her dwelling, 13 her glory, 17 her fruit, 26 her increaſe and perfection.

WISDOM ſhall praiſe herſelf, and ſhall glory in the midſt of her people.

2 In the congregation of the Moſt High ſhall ſhe open her mouth, and triumph before his power.

3 I came out of the mouth of the Moſt High, and covered the earth as a cloud.

4 I dwelt in high places, and my throne is in a cloudy pillar.

5 I alone compaſſed the circuit of heaven, and walked in the bottom of the deep.

6 In the waves of the ſea, and in all the earth, and in every people and nation, I got a poſſeſſion.

7 With all theſe I ſought reſt: and in whoſe inheritance ſhall I abide?

8 So the Creator of all things gave me a commandment, and he that made me cauſed my tabernacle to reſt, and ſaid, Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and thine inheritance in Iſrael.

9 He created me from the beginning, before the world, and I ſhall never fail.

10 In the holy tabernacle I ſerved before him; and ſo was I eſtabliſhed in Sion.

11 Likewiſe in the beloved city he gave me reſt, and in Jeruſalem was my power.

12 And I took root in an honourable people, even in the portion of the Lord's inheritance.

13 I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypreſs-tree upon the mountains of Hermon.

14 I was exalted like a palm-tree in Engaddi, and as a roſe-plant in Jericho, as a fair olive-tree in a pleaſant field, and grew up as a plane-tree by the water.

15 I gave a ſweet ſmell like cinnamon and aſpalathus, and I yielded a pleaſant odour like the beſt myrrh, as galbanum, and onyx, and ſweet ſtorax, and as the fume of frankincenſe in the tabernacle.

16 As the turpentine-tree I ſtretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

17 As the vine brought I forth pleaſant ſavour, and my flowers are the fruit of honour and riches.

18 I am the mother of fair love, and fear, and knowledge, and holy hope: I therefore, being eternal, am given to all my children which are named of him.

19 Come unto me, all ye that be deſirous of me, and fill yourſelves with my fruits.

20 For my memorial is ſweeter than honey, and mine inheritance than the honey-comb.

21 They that eat me ſhall yet be hungry, and they that drink me ſhall be thirſty.

22 He that obeyeth me ſhall never be confounded, and they that work by me ſhall not do amiſs.

23 All theſe things are the book of the covenant of the moſt high God, even the law which Moſes commanded for an heritage unto the congregations of Jacob.

24 Faint not to be ſtrong in the Lord; that he

14 Remember thy father and thy mother, &c.) This is ſomething obſcure. But it ſeems to intend, though thou be intimate with the great, and be thyſelf in a high ſtation, do not forget thy parents, nor ſpeak of them as if thou wert aſhamed of them.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIV.

1 Wiſdom ſhall praiſe herſelf, &c.) Wiſdom is the moſt noble principle which is implanted in the intelligent part of God's works. It derives its exiſtence from the Supreme Being, and was even a guide to the Moſt High in the formation of the world. Let us view the viſible heavens, the prodigious bodies of light placed there, and their regular courſes; the beauty and texture of the vegative and animal creation; the dependence of every being upon one another; and we muſt acknowledge the hand of wiſdom in the diſpoſition of every individual throughout the univerſe. Wiſdom, deſirous to reſide among men, ſearched out a place for her abode; but none pleaſed her but the tabernacles of Jacob, and the holy hill of Sion. There ſhe fixed her manſion; there ſhe flouriſhed: her fruit was delicious to the taſte, and her odour fragrant; the delights ſhe yielded were the moſt exquiſite: inſomuch that ſuch as once participated of her delicacies, ſtill craved for more. But ſo profound are the depths of wiſdom, that no finite being ever could, nor ever will fully comprehend them.

may confirm you, cleave unto him: for the Lord Almighty is God alone, and beſides him there is no other Saviour.

25 He filleth all things with his wiſdom, as Phiſon, and as Tigris in the time of the new fruits.

26 He maketh the underſtanding to abound like Euphrates, and as Jordan in the time of the harveſt.

27 He maketh the doctrine of knowledge appear as the light, and as Geon in the time of vintage.

28 The firſt man knew her not perfectly: no more ſhall the laſt find her out.

29 For her thoughts are more than the ſea, and her counſels profounder than the great deep.

30 I alſo came out as a brook from a river, and as a conduit into a garden.

31 I ſaid, I will water my beſt garden, and will water abundantly my garden-bed; and lo, my brook became a river, and my river became a ſea.

32 I will yet make doctrine to ſhine as the morning, and will ſend forth her light afar off.

33 I will yet pour out doctrine as prophecy, and leave it to all ages for ever.

34 Behold that I have not laboured for myſelf only, but for all them that ſeek wiſdom.

CHAP. XXV.

1 What things are beautiful, and what hateful. 6 What is the crown of age.

IN three things I was beautified, and ſtood up beautiful both before God and men: the unity of brethren, the love of neighbours, a man and a wife that agree together.

2 Three ſorts of men my ſoul hateth, and I am greatly offended at their life: a poor man that is proud, a rich man that is a liar, and an old adulterer that doteth,

3 If thou haſt gathered nothing in thy youth, how canſt thou find any thing in thine age?

4 O how comely a thing is judgment for grey hairs, and for ancient men to know counſel!

5 O how comely is the wiſdom of old men, and underſtanding and counſel to men of honour!

6 Much experience is the crown of old men, and the fear of God is their glory.

7 There be nine things which I have judged in mine heart to be happy, and the tenth I will utter with my tongue; A man that hath joy of his children; and he that liveth to ſee the fall of his enemy.

8 Well is him that dwelleth with a wife of underſtanding, and that hath not ſlipped with his tongue, and that hath not ſerved a man more unworthy than himſelf.

9 Well is him that hath found prudence, and he that ſpeaketh in the ears of them that will hear.

10 O how great is he that findeth wiſdom! yet is there none above him that feareth the Lord.

11 But the love of the Lord paſſeth all things for illumination: he that holdeth it whereto ſhall he be likened?

12 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of his love; and faith is the beginning of cleaving unto him.

13 (Give me) any plague, but the plague of the heart; and any wickedneſs, but the wickedneſs of a woman;

14 And any affliction, but the affliction from them that hate me; and any revenge, but the revenge of enemies.

15 There is no head above the head of a ſerpent; and there is no wrath above the wrath of an enemy.

16 I had rather dwell with a lion and a dragon, than to keep houſe with a wicked woman.

17 The wickedneſs of a woman changeth her face, and darkeneth her countenance like ſackcloth.

18 Her huſband ſhall ſit among his neighbours; and when he heareth it ſhall ſigh bitterly.

19 All wickedneſs is but little to the wickedneſs of a woman: let the portion of a ſinner fall upon her.

20 As the climbing up a ſandy way is to the feet of the aged, ſo is a wife full of words to a quiet man.

21 Stumble not at the beauty of a woman, and deſire her not for pleaſure.

22 A woman, if ſhe maintain her huſband, is full of anger, impudence, and much reproach.

23 A wicked woman abateth the courage, maketh an heavy countenance and a wounded heart: a woman that will not comfort her huſband in diſtreſs, maketh weak hands and feeble knees.

24 Of the woman came the beginning of ſin, and through her we all die.

25 Give the water no paſſage: neither a wicked woman liberty to gad abroad.

26 If ſhe go not as thou wouldeſt have her, cut her off from thy fleſh, and give her a bill of divorce, and let her go.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 A good wife, 4 and a good conſcience, do glad men.

BLESSED is the man that hath a virtuous wife, for the number of his days ſhall be double.

2 A virtuous woman rejoiceth her huſband, and he ſhall fulfil the years of his life in peace.

3 A good wife is a good portion, which ſhall be given in the portion of them that fear the Lord.

4 Whether a man be rich or poor, if he have a good heart toward the Lord, he ſhall at all times rejoice with a cheerful countenance.

5 There be three things that mine heart feareth; and for the fourth I was ſore afraid: the ſlander of a city, the gathering together of an unruly multitude, and a falſe accuſation: all theſe are worſe than death.

6 But a grief of heart and ſorrow is a woman that is

Commentary on Chap. XXV.

1 In three things I was beautified, &c.) The author's ſentiments in the beginning of this chapter, on things beautiful and hateful, are the reſult of a ſound judgment, formed on a thorough knowledge of mankind. His cenſures on a wicked and turbulent woman are very ſevere, yet pertinent; for nothing gives a peaceable man more vexation than a clamorous interruption, the abuſive language, and perpetual thwartings and impertinences of an ungoverned female tongue. The wickedneſs of a woman is more to be dreaded than the rage of wild beaſts. If a man be obliged to her for his maintenance, he is in the moſt abject ſtate of ſlavery; ſhe is a continual dead-weight upon his courage; ſhe weakens his reſolutions; in his diſtreſs ſhe diſconcerts all his meaſures, and adds to his affliction, 26 If ſhe go not as thou wouldeſt have her, &c.) What is ſaid in this chapter of women is to be underſtood of the bad among them; for a virtuous and deſerving woman is ſpoken of, in the next chapter, in terms of the higheſt reſpect. The writer's intention ſeems to have been to ſhew what prudence is neceſſary in the choice of a wife.

Commentary on Chap. XXVI.

1 Bleſſed is the man that hath a virtuous wife, &c.) A good wife and a good conſcience are certainly the greateſt bleſſings of human life. But a man who has a wife given to jealouſy, or that is a ſcold, drunkard, goſſip, or falſe to her marriage vows, needs no greater plague. A woman's excellence conſiſts in diſcretion, modeſty, the care of her family, love and reſpect for her huſband, and a ſilent ſubmiſſion to him.

jealous

jealous over another woman, and a ſcourge of the tongue which communicatethwith all.

7 An evil wife is a yoke ſhaken to and fro: he that hath hold of her is as though he held a ſcorpion.

8 A drunken woman, and a gadder abroad, cauſeth great anger, and ſhe will not cover her own ſhame.

9 The whoredom of a woman may be known in her haughty looks and eye-lids.

10 If thy daughter be ſhameleſs, keep her in ſtraitly, leſt ſhe abuſe herſelf through over-much liberty.

11 Watch over an impudent eye; and marvel not if ſhe treſpaſs againſt thee.

12 She will open her mouth, as a thirſty traveller when he hath found a fountain; and drink of every water near her: by every hedge ſhe will ſit down, and open her quiver againſt every arrow.

13 The grace of the wife delighteth her huſband, and her diſcretion will fatten his bones.

14 A ſilent and loving woman is a gift of the Lord; and there is nothing ſo much worth as a mind well inſtructed.

15 A ſhame-faced and faithful woman is a double grace, and her continent mind cannot be valued.

16 As the ſun when it ariſeth in the high heaven: ſo is the beauty of a good wife in the ordering of her houſe.

17 As the clear light is upon the holy candleſtick; ſo is the beauty of the face in ripe age.

18 As the golden pillars are upon the ſockets of ſilver; ſo are the fair feet with a conſtant heart.

19 My ſon, keep the flower of thine age ſound; and give not thy ſtrength to ſtrangers.

20 When thou haſt gotten a fruitful poſſeſſion through all the field, ſow it with thine own ſeed, truſting in the goodneſs of thy ſtock.

21 So thy race which thou leaveſt ſhall be magnified, having the confidence of their good deſcent.

22 An harlot ſhall be accounted as ſpittle: but a married woman is a tower againſt death to her huſband.

23 A wicked woman is given as a portion to a wicked man: but a godly woman is given to him that feareth the Lord.

24 A diſhoneſt woman contemneth ſhame: but an honeſt woman will reverence her huſband.

25 A ſhameleſs woman ſhall be counted as a dog: but ſhe that is ſhame-faced will fear the Lord.

26 A woman that honoureth her huſband ſhall be judged wiſe of all: but ſhe that diſhonoureth him in her pride ſhall be counted ungodly of all.

27 A loud-crying woman, and a ſcold, ſhall be ſought out to drive away the enemies.

28 There be two things that grieve my heart; and the third maketh me angry: a man of war that ſuffereth poverty; and men of underſtanding that are not ſet by; and one that returneth from righteouſneſs to ſin, the Lord prepareth ſuch an one for the ſword.

29 A merchant ſhall hardly keep himſelf from doing wrong; and an huckſter ſhall not be freed from ſin.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Of ſins in ſelling and buying. 7 Our ſpeech will tell what is in us.

MANY have ſinned for a ſmall matter; and he that ſeeketh for abundance will turn his eyes away.

2 As a nail ſticketh faſt between the joinings of the ſtones; ſo doth ſin ſtick cloſe between buying and ſelling.

3 Unleſs a man hold himſelf diligently in the fear of the Lord, his houſe ſhall ſoon be overthrown.

4 As when one ſifteth with a ſieve, the refuſe remaineth; ſo the filth of man in his talk.

5 The furnace proveth the potter's veſſels; ſo the trial of man is in his reaſoning.

6 The fruit declareth if the tree have been dreſſed; ſo is the utterance of a conceit in the heart of man.

7 Praiſe no man before thou heareſt him ſpeak: for this is the trial of men.

8 If thou followeſt righteouſneſs, thou ſhalt obtain her, and put her on as a glorious long robe.

9 The birds will reſort unto their like; ſo will truth return unto them that practiſe in her.

10 As the lion lieth in wait for the prey; ſo ſin for them that work iniquity.

11 The diſcourſe of a godly man is always with wiſdom: but a fool changeth as the moon.

12 If thou be among the indiſcreet, obſerve the time; but be continually among men of underſtanding.

13 The diſcourſe of fools is irkſome, and their ſport is in the wantonneſs of ſin.

14 The talk of him that ſweareth much maketh the hair ſtand upright.

15 The ſtrife of the proud is blood-ſhedding, and their revilings are grievous to the ear.

16 Whoſo diſcovereth ſecrets, loſeth his credit, and ſhall never find a friend to his mind.

17 Love thy friend, and be faithful unto him: but if thou bewrayeſt his ſecrets, follow no more after him.

18 For as a man hath deſtroyed his enemy; ſo haſt thou loſt the love of thy neighbour.

19 As one that letteth a bird go out of his hand; ſo haſt thou let thy neighbour go, and ſhalt not get him again.

20 Follow after him no more, for he is too far off, he is as a roe eſcaped out of the ſnare.

21 As for a wound, it may be bound up; and after reviling, there may be reconcilement: but he that bewrayeth ſecrets, is without hope.

22 He that winketh with the eyes, worketh evil: and he that knoweth him, will depart from him.

23 When thou art preſent, he will ſpeak ſweetly, and will admire thy words: but at the laſt he will writhe his mouth, and ſlander thy ſayings.

24 I have hated many things, but nothing like him, for the Lord will hate him.

25 Whoſo caſteth a ſtone on high, caſteth it on his own head; and a deceitful ſtroke ſhall make wounds.

26 Whoſo diggeth a pit, ſhall fall therein; and he that ſetteth a trap, ſhall be taken therein.

15 And her continent mind cannot be valued, &c.) A woman keeping within proper bounds in all things, who has not only conjugal chaſtity, but temperance in all reſpects, or a moderation of the paſſions, and a ſtrict virtue in the whole conduct of life, is ineſtimable.

29 A merchant ſhall hardly keep himſelf from doing wrong, &c.) Concerning the multiplicity of affairs in which a merchant is employed, and the diverſity of perſons with whom he is concerned, he finds it very difficult to hold the balance of juſtice exactly poiſed, ſo as no man ſhall have reaſon to complain: much leſs ſhall one who foreſtalls the market, monopolizes traffic, and impoſes upon the ignorance or credulity of the people, be deemed innocent.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXVII.

12 If thou be among the indiſcreet, obſerve the time, &c.) Meaning, that one ſhould never enter into the company of ſuch, unleſs abſolute neceſſity or urgent buſineſs obliges. But ſome think it means, that if we light into the company of idle and looſe perſons, not to enter into converſation with them, but defer ſpeaking to ſome better opportunity.

25 And a deceitful ſtroke ſhall make wounds.) The meaning ſeems to be, that he who intends to wound an enemy, by a ſtroke levelled in the dark, may chance to wound his friend inſtead of the other.

27 He that worketh miſchief, it ſhall fall upon him, and he ſhall not know whence it cometh.

28 Mockery and reproach are from the proud: but vengeance as a lion ſhall lie in wait for them.

29 They that rejoice at the fall of the righteous, ſhall be taken in the ſnare, and anguiſh ſhall conſume them before they die.

30 Malice and wrath, even theſe are abominations; and the ſinful man ſhall have them both.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Againſt revenge, 8 quarrelling, 10 anger, 14 and backbiting.

HE that revengeth, ſhall find vengeance from the Lord, and he will ſurely keep his ſins (in remembrance).

2 Forgive thy neighbour the hurt that he hath done unto thee, ſo ſhall thy ſins alſo be forgiven when thou prayeſt.

3 One man beareth hatred againſt another, and doth he ſeek pardon from the Lord?

4 He ſheweth no mercy to a man which is like himſelf, and doth he aſk forgiveneſs of his own ſins?

5 If he that is but fleſh nouriſh hatred, who will intreat for pardon of his ſins?

6 Remember thy end, and let enmity ceaſe; (remember) corruption and death, and abide in the commandments.

7 Remember the commandments, and bear no malice to thy neighbour; (remember) the covenant of the Higheſt, and wink at ignorance.

8 Abſtain from ſtrife, and thou ſhalt diminiſh thy ſins: for a furious man will kindle ſtrife.

9 A ſinful man diſquieteth friends, and maketh debate among them that be at peace.

10 As the matter of the fire is, ſo it burneth: and as a man's ſtrength is, ſo is his wrath; and according to his riches, his anger riſeth; and the ſtronger they are which contend, the more they will be inflamed.

11 An haſty contention kindleth a fire: and an haſty fighting ſheddeth blood.

12 If thou blow the ſpark, it ſhall burn; if thou ſpit upon it, it ſhall be quenched: and both theſe come out of thy mouth.

13 Curſe the whiſperer and double-tongued: for ſuch have deſtroyed many that were at peace.

14 A backbiting tongue hath diſquieted many, and driven them from nation to nation; ſtrong cities hath it pulled down, and overthrown the houſes of great men.

15 A backbiting tongue hath caſt out virtuous women, and deprived them of their labours.

16 Whoſo hearkeneth unto it, ſhall never find reſt, and never dwell quietly.

17 The ſtroke of the whip maketh marks in the fleſh; but the ſtroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 Many have fallen by the edge of the ſword; but not ſo many as have fallen by the tongue.

19 Well is he that is defended from it, and hath not paſſed through the venom thereof: who hath not drawn the yoke thereof, nor hath been bound in her bands.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of iron, and the bands thereof are bands of braſs.

21 The death thereof is an evil death, the grave were better than it.

22 It ſhall not have rule over them that fear God, neither ſhall they be burnt with the flame thereof.

23 Such as forſake the Lord, ſhall fall into it, and it ſhall burn in them, and not be quenched; it ſhall be ſent upon them as a lion, and devour them as a leopard.

24 Look that thou hedge thy poſſeſſion about with thorns, and bind up thy ſilver and gold:

25 And weigh thy words in a balance, and make a door and bar for thy mouth.

26 Beware thou ſlide not by it, leſt thou fall before him that lieth in wait.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 We muſt ſhew mercy, and lend: 4 but the borrower muſt not defraud the lender.

HE that is merciful, will lend unto his neighbour; and he that ſtrengtheneth his hand, keepeth the commandments.

2 Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour again in due ſeaſon.

3 Keep thy word, and deal faithfully with him, and thou ſhalt always find the thing that is neceſſary for thee.

4 Many, when a thing was lent them, reckoned it to be found, and put them to trouble that helped them.

5 Till he hath received, he will kiſs a man's hand; and for his neighbour's money he will ſpeak ſubmiſſively: but when he ſhould repay, he will prolong the time, and return words of grief, and complain of the time.

6 If he prevail, he ſhall hardly receive the half, and he will count as if he had found it: if not, he hath deprived him of his money, and he hath gotten him an enemy without cauſe: he payeth him with curſings and railings; and for honour, he will pay him diſgrace.

7 Many therefore have refuſed to lend for other men's ill dealing, fearing to be defrauded.

8 Yet have thou patience with a man in poor eſtate, and delay not to ſhew him mercy.

9 Help the poor for the commandments' ſake, and turn him not away becauſe of his poverty.

10 Loſe thy money for thy brother and thy friend, and let it not ruſt under a ſtone to be loſt.

11 Lay up thy treaſure according to the command-

Commentary on Chap. XXVIII.

1 He that revengeth, ſhall find vengeance, &c.) Revenge is a crime which deſerves the ſevereſt reprehenſion both from God and man. From God, as it invades his prerogative of rendering to every man according to his deeds; and from man, as it is a breach of that golden rule, Of doing to all men as we would be done to. Is there any who is abſolutely free from offences? or who does not find in himſelf the ſeeds or ground-work of all the ſins and follies committed by the reſt of mankind? With what face and conſcience then can he preſume to puniſh that in another, which, if he is not actually guilty of, yet he knows himſelf prone to? Or, how can he aſk pardon of God for his offences, when he has no mercy on the failings, or forgiveneſs for the treſpaſſes of his fellow-creatures, of the ſame paſſions, inclinations, and infirmities with himſelf. By avoiding all occaſions of ſtrife, we ſhall leſſen the number of our ſins; for, by raſhly engaging in quarrels, a fire is often kindled, which is not eaſily extinguiſhed. A back-biter is the bane of ſociety, deſtroys cities, and ruins the families of great men. A venomous tongue blaſts the reputation of innocent women, and is more deſtructive than the ſword, or even death itſelf.

Commentary on Chap. XXIX.

1 He that is merciful, will lend unto his neighbour, &c.) It is an undoubted truth, that no man was born for himſelf; and that if he has a larger ſhare of the bleſſings of this life than his neighbour, he ought to be the more benevolent and communicative to thoſe who have occaſion for his aſſiſtance; but above all things, we are required to be juſt in our dealings, and punctual in the performance of all our contracts and engagements. The contrary practice is not only highly criminal in itſelf, and brings diſhonour upon our name and character, but is frequently the means of preventing the beneficence of others, who, ſeeing how their neighbours are cheated, defrauded, and ill-treated for their civility, with-hold their hands from good, becauſe they will not put it in another's power to injure or uſe them ill. If we ſee our neighbour in diſtreſs, 'twill be a friendly part to become his ſurety: however in this we are to be very cautious: for ſuretyſhip has been the ruin of many a fine eſtate, and beggared numbers of brave men. In ſuch caſes, therefore, we ſhould proportion our kindneſs to the extent of our circumſtances. Poverty at home, with content, is preferable to luxurious living at another man's table, unleſs we can bear the reproaches and inſults of the rich.

ments of the Moſt High, and it ſhall bring thee more profit than gold.

12 Shut up alms in thy ſtore-houſes: and it ſhall deliver thee from all affliction.

13 It ſhall fight for thee againſt thine enemies, better than a mighty ſhield and ſtrong ſpear.

14 An honeſt man is ſurety for his neighbour: but he that is impudent will forſake him.

15 Forget not the friendſhip of thy ſurety, for he hath given his life for thee.

16 A ſinner will overthrow the good eſtate of his ſurety:

17 And he that is of an unthankful mind will leave him in (danger) that delivered him.

18 Suretyſhip hath undone many of good eſtate, and ſhaken them as a wave of the ſea: mighty men hath it driven from their houſes, ſo that they wandered among ſtrange nations.

19 A wicked man, tranſgreſſing the commandments of the Lord, ſhall fall into ſuretyſhip: and he that undertaketh and followeth other men's buſineſs for gain, ſhall fall into ſuits.

20 Help thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thyſelf fall not into the ſame.

21 The chief thing for life is water and bread, and clothing, and an houſe to cover ſhame.

22 Better is the life of a poor man in a mean cottage, than delicate fare in another man's houſe.

23 Be it little or much, hold thee contented, that thou hear not the reproach of thy houſe.

24 For it is a miſerable life to go from houſe to houſe: for where thou art a ſtranger, thou dareſt not open thy mouth.

25 Thou ſhalt entertain, and feaſt, and have no thanks: moreover, thou ſhalt hear bitter words:

26 Come, thou ſtranger, and furniſh a table, and feed me of that thou haſt ready;

27 Give place, thou ſtranger, to an honourable man, my brother cometh to be lodged, and I have need of mine houſe.

28 Theſe things are grievous to a man of underſtanding: the upbraiding of houſe-room, and reproaching of the lender.

CHAP. XXX.

1 It is good to correct our children, 7 and not to cocker them.

HE that loveth his ſon, cauſeth him oft to feel the rod, that he may have joy of him in the end.

2 He that chaſtiſeth his ſon ſhall have joy in him, and ſhall rejoice of him among his acquaintance.

3 He that teacheth his ſon, grieveth the enemy: and before his friends he ſhall rejoice of him.

4 Though his father die, yet he is as though he were not dead: for he hath left one behind him that is like himſelf.

5 While he lived, he ſaw and rejoiced in him; and when he died he was not ſorrowful.

6 He left behind him an avenger againſt his enemies, and one that ſhall requite kindneſs to his friends.

7 He that maketh too much of his ſon ſhall bind up his wounds, and his bowels will be troubled at every cry.

8 An horſe not broken becometh headſtrong; and a child left to himſelf will be wilful.

9 Cocker thy child, and he ſhall make thee afraid: play with him, and he will bring thee to heavineſs.

10 Laugh not with him, leſt thou have ſorrow with him, and leſt thou gnaſh thy teeth in the end.

11 Give him no liberty in his youth, and wink not at his follies.

12 Bow down his neck while he is young, and beat him on the ſides while he is a child, leſt he wax ſtubborn, and be diſobedient unto thee, and ſo bring ſorrow to thine heart.

13 Chaſtiſe thy ſon, and hold him to labour, leſt his lewd behaviour be an offence unto thee.

14 Better is the poor, being ſound and ſtrong of conſtitution, than a rich man that is afflicted in his body.

15 Health and good ſtate of body are above all gold, and a ſtrong body above infinite wealth.

16 There is no riches above a ſound body, and no joy above the joy of the heart.

17 Death is better than a bitter life, or continual ſickneſs.

18 Delicates poured upon a mouth ſhut up, are as meſſes of meat ſet upon a grave.

19 What good doeth the offering unto an idol? for neither can it eat nor ſmell; ſo is he that is perſecuted of the Lord.

20 He ſeeth with his eyes and groaneth, as an eunuch that embraceth a virgin and ſigheth.

21 Give not over thy mind to heavineſs, and afflict not thyſelf in thine own counſel.

22 The gladneſs of the heart is the life of man, and the joyfulneſs of a man prolongeth his days.

23 Love thine own ſoul, and comfort thy heart, remove ſorrow far from thee: for ſorrow hath killed many, and there is no profit therein.

24 Envy and wrath ſhorten the life, and carefulneſs bringeth age before the time.

25 A cheerful and good heart will have a care of his meat and diet.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Of the deſire of riches. 12 Of moderation and exceſs in eating, or drinking wine.

WATCHING for riches conſumeth the fleſh, and the care thereof driveth away ſleep.

2 Watching care will not let a man ſlumber, as a ſore diſeaſe breaketh ſleep.

3 The rich hath great labour in gathering riches together; and when he reſteth, he is filled with his delicates.

4 The poor laboureth in his poor eſtate; and when he leaveth off he is ſtill needy.

5 He that loveth gold ſhall not be juſtified, and he that followeth corruption ſhall have enough thereof.

6 Gold hath been the ruin of many, and their deſtruction was preſent.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXX.

6 He left behind him an avenger againſt his enemies, &c.) In the Greek it is, An avenger of his fame: that is, one who will vindicate his memory from all unjuſt aſperſions, and who, by his own actions and behaviour, will ſhew what a worthy man his father was, and who will do good alſo to thoſe who deſerved well of his father.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXI.

3 Watching for riches conſumeth the fleſh, &c.) An inordinate purſuit of riches is attended with a continual and reſtleſs diſquiet; it impairs a man's health, waſtes his fleſh, and ſuffers him not to enjoy the common comforts of life. It often puſhes him upon unjuſtifiable actions, the conſequences of which may prove his deſtruction. But happy is he who gets his riches with a conſcience unblemiſhed, and knows how to make a right uſe of them.

5 And he that followeth corruption, ſhall have enough thereof.) The meaning is, that he who is too intent upon getting riches ſhall be corrupted, ſeduced, and betrayed by them; or, he that ſeeketh after money with greedineſs, ſhall tranſgreſs often,

7 It is a ſtumbling-block unto them that ſacrifice unto it, and every fool ſhall be taken therewith.

8 Bleſſed is the rich that is found without blemiſh, and hath not gone after gold.

9 Who is he? and we will call him bleſſed: for wonderful things hath he done among his people.

10 Who hath been tried thereby, and found perfect? then let him glory. Who might offend, and hath not offended? or done evil, and hath not done it?

11 His goods ſhall be eſtabliſhed, and the congregation ſhall declare his alms.

12 If thou ſit at a bountiful table, be not greedy upon it, and ſay not, There is much meat on it.

13 Remember that a wicked eye is an evil thing; and what is created more wicked than an eye? therefore it weepeth upon every occaſion.

14 Stretch not thine hand witherſoever it looketh, and thruſt it not with him into the diſh.

15 Judge of thy neighbour by thyſelf; and be diſcreet in every point.

16 Eat, as it becometh a man, thoſe things which are ſet before thee; and devour not, leſt thou be hated.

17 Leave off firſt for manners' ſake; and be not unſatiable, leſt thou offend.

18 When thou ſitteſt among many, reach not thine hand out firſt of all.

19 A very little is ſufficient for a man well nurtured; and he fetcheth not his wind ſhort upon his bed.

20 Sound ſleep cometh of moderate eating; he riſeth early, and his wits are with him: but the pain of watching, and choler, and pangs of the belly, are with an unſatiable man.

21 And if thou haſt been forced to eat, ariſe, go forth, vomit, and thou ſhalt have reſt.

22 My ſon, hear me, and deſpiſe me not, and at the laſt thou ſhalt find as I told thee: in all thy works be quick, ſo ſhall there no ſickneſs come unto thee.

23 Whoſo is liberal of his meat, men ſhall ſpeak well of him; and the report of his good houſekeeping will be believed.

24 But againſt him that is a niggard of his meat, the whole city ſhall murmur; and the teſtimonies of his niggardneſs ſhall not be doubted of.

25 Shew not thy valiantneſs in wine; for wine hath deſtroyed many.

26 The furnace proveth the edge by dipping; ſo doth wine the hearts of the proud by drunkenneſs.

27 Wine is as good as life to a man, if it be drunk moderately: what is life then to a man that is without wine? for it was made to make men glad.

28 Wine meaſurably drunk, and in ſeaſon, bringeth gladneſs of the heart, and cheerfulneſs of the mind:

29 But wine drunken with exceſs maketh bitterneſs of the mind, with brawling and quarrelling.

30 Drunkenneſs increaſeth the rage of a fool till he offend: it diminiſheth ſtrength and maketh wounds.

31 Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and deſpiſe him not in his mirth: give him no deſpiteful words, and preſs not upon him with urging him (to drink.)

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Of his duty that is chief and maſter in a feaſt. 14 Of the fear of God.

IF thou be made the maſter (of the feaſt,) lift not thyſelf up, but be among them as one of the reſt; take diligent care for them, and ſo ſit down.

2 And when thou haſt done all thy office, take thy place, that thou mayeſt be merry with them, and receive a crown for thy well-ordering of the feaſt.

3 Speak thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee, but with ſound judgment; and hinder not muſic.

4 Pour not out words where there is a muſician; and ſhew not forth wiſdom out of time.

5 A concert of muſic in a banquet of wine, is as a ſignet of carbuncle ſet in gold.

6 As a ſignet of an emerald ſet in a work of gold, ſo is the melody of muſic with pleaſant wine.

7 Speak, young man, if there be need of thee; and yet ſcarcely when thou art twice aſked.

8 Let thy ſpeech be ſhort, comprehending much in few words; be as one that knoweth, and yet holdeth his tongue.

9 If thou be among great men, make not thyſelf equal with them; and when ancient men are in place, uſe not many words.

10 Before the thunder goeth lightning, and before a ſhame-faced man ſhall go favour.

11 Riſe up betimes, and be not the laſt; but get thee home without delay.

12 There take thy paſtime, and do what thou wilt: but ſin not by proud ſpeech.

13 And for theſe things bleſs him that made thee, and hath repleniſhed thee with his good things.

14 Whoſo feareth the Lord will receive his diſcipline; and they that ſeek him early ſhall find favour.

15 He that ſeeketh the law ſhall be filled therewith: but the hypocrite will be offended thereat.

16 They that fear the Lord ſhall find judgment, and ſhall kindle juſtice as a light.

17 A ſinful man will not be reproved, but findeth an excuſe according to his will.

18 A man of counſel will be conſiderate; but a ſtrange and proud man is not daunted with fear, even when of himſelf he hath done without counſel.

19 Do nothing without advice, and when thou haſt once done, repent not.

20 Go not in a way wherein thou mayeſt fall, and ſtumble not among the ſtones.

21 Be not confident in a plain way.

22 And beware of thine own children.

23 In every good work truſt thy own ſoul; for this is the keeping of the commandments.

24 He that believeth in the Lord taketh heed to the commandment, and he that truſteth in him ſhall fare never the worſe.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The ſafety of him that feareth the Lord. 7 Times and ſeaſons are of God.

THERE ſhall no evil happen unto him that feareth the Lord, but in temptation even again he will deliver him.

2 A wiſe man hateth not the law; but he that is an hypocrite therein is as a ſhip in a ſtorm.

3 A man of underſtanding truſteth in the law; and the law is faithful unto him as an oracle.

4 Prepare what to ſay, and ſo thou ſhalt be heard: and bind up inſtruction, and then make anſwer.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXII.

1 If thou be made the maſter (of a feaſt) lift not thyſelf up, &c.) When a man is appointed maſter of a feaſt, he is not to reckon himſelf upon a footing with his gueſts, but rather as their ſervant, 'till he has gone thro' every part of his office, and placed all things in proper decorum: then, indeed, he may take his place, be merry with them, and receive the applauſe which his ſkill and care to pleaſe them deſerve.

13 And for theſe things bleſs him that made thee, &c.) Or rather, And above theſe things. This mind, above all things, to give thanks to the great Creator who hath made ſo many good things for thy enjoyment.

5 The heart of the fooliſh is like a cart-wheel; and his thoughts are like a rolling axle-tree.

6 A ſtallion horſe is as a mocking friend, he neigheth under every one that ſitteth upon him.

7 Why doth one day excel another, when as all the light of every day in the year is of the ſun?

8 By the knowledge of the Lord they were diſtinguiſhed: and he altered ſeaſons and feaſts.

9 Some of them hath he made high days, and hallowed them, and ſome of them hath he made ordinary days.

10 And all men are from the ground, and Adam was created of earth.

11 In much knowledge the Lord hath divided them, and made their ways diverſe.

12 Some of them hath he bleſſed and exalted, and ſome of them hath he ſanctified and ſet near himſelf: but ſome of them hath he curſed and brought low, and turned out of their places.

13 As the clay is in the potter's hand, to faſhion it at his pleaſure; ſo man is in the hand of him that made him, to render to them as liketh him beſt.

14 Good is ſet againſt evil, and life againſt death; ſo is the godly againſt the ſinner, and the ſinner againſt the godly.

15 So look upon all the works of the Moſt High; and there are two and two, one againſt another.

16 I awaked up laſt of all, as one that gathereth after the grape-gatherers: by the bleſſing of the Lord I profited, and filled my wine-preſs like a gatherer of grapes.

17 Conſider that I laboured not for myſelf only, but for all them that ſeek learning.

18 Hear me, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your ears, ye rulers of the congregation.

19 Give not thy ſon and wife, thy brother and friend, power over thee while thou liveſt, and give not thy goods to another; leſt it repent thee, and thou entreat for the ſame again.

20 As long as thou liveſt, and haſt breath in thee, give not thyſelf over to any.

21 For better it is that thy children ſhould ſeek to thee, than that thou ſhouldeſt ſtand to their courteſy.

22 In all thy works keep to thyſelf the pre-eminence; leave not a ſtain in thine honour.

23 At the time when thou ſhalt end thy days, and finiſh thy life, diſtribute thine inheritance.

24 Fodder, a wand, and burdens, are for the aſs; and bread, correction, and work, for a ſervant.

25 If thou ſet thy ſervant to labour, thou ſhalt find reſt: but if thou let him go idle, he ſhall ſeek liberty.

26 A yoke and a collar do bow the neck; ſo are tortures and torments for an evil ſervant.

27 Send him to labour, that he be not idle; for idleneſs teacheth much evil.

28 Set him to work as is fit for him: if he be not obedient, put on more heavy fetters.

29 But be not exceſſive toward any, and without diſcretion do nothing.

30 If thou have a ſervant, let him be unto thee as thyſelf, becauſe thou haſt bought him with a price.

31 If thou have a ſervant, intreat him as a brother; for thou haſt need of him as of thine own ſoul: if thou intreat him evil, and he run from thee, which way wilt thou go to ſeek him?

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Of dreams. 13 The praiſe and bleſſing of them that fear the Lord.

THE hopes of a man void of underſtanding are vain and falſe: and dreams lift up fools.

2 Whoſo regardeth dreams, is like him that catcheth at a ſhadow, and followeth after the wind.

3 The viſion of dreams is the reſemblance of one thing to another, even as the likeneſs of a face to a face.

4 Of an unclean thing, what can be cleanſed? and from that thing which is falſe, what truth can come?

5 Divinations, and ſoothſayings and dreams are vain, and the heart fancieth as a woman's heart in travail.

6 If they be not ſent from the Moſt High in thy viſitation, ſet not thy heart upon them.

7 For dreams have deceived many, and they have failed that put their truſt in them.

8 The law ſhall be found perfect without lies: and wiſdom is perfection to a faithful mouth.

9 A man that hath travelled, knoweth many things; and he that hath much experience, will declare wiſdom.

10 He that hath no experience, knoweth little; but he that hath travelled, is full of prudence.

11 When I travelled, I ſaw many things, and I underſtand more than I can expreſs.

12 I was oft-times in danger of death; yet I was delivered, becauſe of theſe things.

13 The ſpirit of thoſe that fear the Lord ſhall live, for their hope is in him that ſaveth them.

14 Whoſo feareth the Lord, ſhall not fear, nor be afraid, for he is his hope.

15 Bleſſed is the ſoul of him that feareth the Lord: to whom doth he look? and who is his ſtrength?

16 For the eyes of the Lord are upon them that love him, he is their mighty protection and ſtrong ſtay, a defence from heat, and a cover from the ſun at noon, a preſervation from ſtumbling, and a help from falling.

17 He raiſeth up the ſoul, and lighteneth the eyes; he giveth health, life, and bleſſing.

18 He that ſacrificeth of a thing wrongfully gotten, his offering is ridiculous; and the gifts of unjuſt men are not accepted.

19 The Moſt High is not pleaſed with the offerings

Commentary on Chap. XXXIII.

13 As the clay is in the potter's hand to faſhion it at his pleaſure, &c.) As the potter faſhions his clay agreeably to his own fancy, ſo God in the formation of mankind diverſifies his gifts among them, as it has pleaſed him beſt: ſome he enriches with knowledge and underſtanding; bleſſes them with grace, and fits them for the enjoyment of himſelf; while others are deprived of the means of obtaining his favour, and left to fall under the curſe of his diſpleaſure.

Commentary on Chap. XXXIV.

1 The hopes of a man void of underſtanding are vain, &c.) As dreams are no more than the ſportings of fancy, and vagaries of the imagination, when the ſenſes are at reſt; he who pretends to prognoſticate either good or evil from them, dreams himſelf, and puts his confidence in that which hath nothing to ſupport it. A man who travels has many opportunities of treaſuring up knowledge; and his wiſdom, which is the reſult of a well-digeſted experience, inſtructs him to avoid thoſe dangers, which the want of it would expoſe him to. He who fears the Lord has a mighty Saviour, who will deliver him from all his miſeries, keep him from falling, and comfort and enliven his ſoul with the graces of his good ſpirit.

6 If they be not ſent from the Moſt High, &c.) Draw not concluſions from dreams, or think that they intimate any thing, unleſs you have ſufficient reaſon to think that the dream comes from God. Tho' dreams, generally ſpeaking, are idle and falſe, and the reliance upon them a piece of fond credulity; yet were there ſome true ones that claimed a regard, as being ſupernatural intimations of ſome great event to be fulfilled in its ſeaſon. Such were all thoſe prophetical ones in ſcripture, the completion of which atteſted their veracity and original. The heathens acknowledged in like manner two ſorts of dreams; the one true, proceeding from God; the other falſe and deceitful.

of the wicked; neither is he pacified for ſin by the multitude of ſacrifices.

20 Whoſo bringeth an offering of the goods of the poor, doeth as one that killeth the ſon before his father's eyes.

21 The bread of the needy is their life: he that defraudeth him thereof, is a man of blood.

22 He that taketh away his neighbour's living, ſlayeth him; and he that defraudeth the labourer of his hire, is a blood-ſhedder.

23 When one buildeth, and another pulleth down, what profit have they then but labour?

24 When one prayeth, and another curſeth, whoſe voice will the Lord hear?

25 He that waſheth himſelf after the touching of a dead body, if he touch it again, what availeth his waſhing?

26 So is it with a man that faſteth for his ſins, and goeth again and doeth the ſame: who will hear his prayer? or what doth his humbling profit him?

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Sacrifices pleaſing to God. 14 The prayer of the fatherleſs and widow.

HE that keepeth the law bringeth offerings enough: he that taketh heed to the commandment offereth a peace-offering.

2 He that requiteth a good turn offereth fine flour; and he that giveth alms ſacrificeth praiſe.

3 To depart from wickedneſs is a thing pleaſing to the Lord; and to forſake unrighteouſneſs is a propitiation.

4 Thou ſhalt not appear empty before the Lord.

5 For all theſe things (are to be done) becauſe of the commandment.

6 The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the ſweet ſavour thereof is before the Moſt High.

7 The ſacrifice of a juſt man is acceptable, and the memorial thereof ſhall never be forgotten.

8 Give the Lord his honour with a good eye, and diminiſh not the firſt-fruits of thine hands.

9 In all thy gifts ſhew a cheerful countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladneſs.

10 Give unto the Moſt High according as he hath enriched thee; and as thou haſt gotten, give with a cheerful eye.

11 For the Lord recompenſeth, and will give thee ſeven times as much.

12 Do not think to corrupt with gifts; for ſuch he will not receive: and truſt not to unrighteous ſacrifices; for the Lord is judge, and with him is no reſpect of perſons.

13 He will not accept any perſon againſt a poor man, but will hear the prayer of the oppreſſed.

14 He will not deſpiſe the ſupplication of the fatherleſs; nor the widow, when ſhe poureth out her complaint.

15 Do not the tears run down the widow's cheeks? and is not her cry againſt him that cauſeth them to fall?

16 He that ſerveth the Lord ſhall be accepted with favour, and his prayer ſhall reach unto the clouds.

17 The prayer of the humble pierceth the clouds; and till it come nigh he will not be comforted; and will not depart till the moſt High ſhall behold to judge righteouſly, and execute judgment.

18 For the Lord will not be ſlack, neither will the Mighty be patient towards them, till he have ſmitten in ſunder the loins of the unmerciful, and repaid vengeance to the heathen; till he have taken away the multitude of the proud, and broken the ſceptre of the unrighteous;

19 Till he have rendered to every man according to his deeds, and to the works of men according to their devices; till he have judged the cauſe of his people, and made them to rejoice in his mercy.

20 Mercy is ſeaſonable in the time of affliction, as clouds of rain in the time of drought.

CHAP. XXXVI.

A prayer for the church againſt the enemies thereof.

HAVE mercy upon us, O Lord God of all; and behold us:

2 And ſend thy fear upon all the nations that ſeek not after thee.

3 Lift up thy hand againſt the ſtrange nations, and let them ſee thy power.

4 As thou waſt ſanctified in us before them; ſo be thou magnified among them before us.

5 And let them know thee, as we have known thee, that there is no god but only thou, O God.

6 Shew new ſigns, and make other ſtrange wonders: glorify thy hand and thy right arm, that they may ſet forth thy wondrous works.

7 Raiſe up indignation, and pour out wrath: take away the adverſary, and deſtroy the enemy.

8 Make the time ſhort, remember the covenant, and let them declare thy wonderful works.

9 Let him that eſcapeth be conſumed by the rage of the fire; and let them periſh that oppreſs the people.

10 Smite in ſunder the heads of the rulers of the heathen, that ſay, There is none other but we.

11 Gather all the tribes of Jacob together, and inherit thou them, as from the beginning.

12 O Lord, have mercy upon the people that is called by thy name, and upon Iſrael, whom thou haſt named thy firſt-born.

13 O be merciful unto Jeruſalem thy holy city, the place of thy reſt.

14 Fill Sion with thine unſpeakable oracles, and thy people with thy glory.

15 Give teſtimony unto thoſe that thou haſt poſſeſſed from the beginning, and raiſe up prophets that have been in thy name.

16 Reward them that wait for thee, and let thy prophets be found faithful.

17 O Lord, hear the prayer of thy ſervants, according to the bleſſing of Aaron over thy people, that all they which dwell upon the earth may know that thou art the Lord, the eternal God.

18 The belly devoureth all meats; yet is one meat better than another.

19 As the palate taſteth diverſe kinds of veniſon; ſo doth an heart of underſtanding falſe ſpeeches.

---

20 Whoſo bringeth an offering of the goods of the poor, &c.) God is the protector of the poor, whoſe bread (in the next verſe) is ſaid to be his life. To take this away, or by any act of violence to diminiſh his little ſubſtance, is in ſome ſort to take away his life. To offer to God, or to his ſervice, what has been taken by oppreſſion, or by fraud from the needy, is here, by a moſt appoſite and beautiful metaphor, compared with that ſhocking inſtance of cruelty, the ſpilling the blood of a ſon in the ſight of a fond and tender father. Whence we may learn, how dear the poor are to God, and what a regard he hath for them, though their condition ſeems to be forlorn.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXXVI.

4 As thou waſt ſanctified in us, &c.) As thou gotteſt thyſelf a great name formerly, by wonderfully delivering us out of the hands of the Egyptians in the ſight of many nations, and ſince, by bringing us back from captivity out of ſo many kingdoms; ſo do thou raiſe the glory of thy name among us, by treating them according to their deſerts.

20 A froward heart cauſeth heavineſs: but a man of experience will recompence him.

21 A woman will receive every man; yet is one daughter better than another.

22 The beauty of a woman cheereth the countenance, and a man loveth nothing better.

23 If there be kindneſs, meekneſs, and comfort in her tongue, then is not her huſband like other men.

24 He that getteth a wife, beginneth a poſſeſſion, a help like unto himſelf, and a pillar of reſt.

25 Where no hedge is, there the poſſeſſion is ſpoiled; and he that hath no wife, will wander up and down mourning.

26 Who will truſt a thief well appointed, that ſkippeth from city to city? ſo (who will believe) a man that hath no houſe, and lodgeth whereſoever the night taketh him?

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 How to know friends and counſellors. 27 Learn to refrain thine appetite.

EVERY friend ſaith, I am his friend alſo: but there is a friend which is only a friend in name.

2 Is it not a grief unto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemy?

3 O wicked imagination, whence cameſt thou in to cover the earth with deceit?

4 There is a companion which rejoiceth in the proſperity of a friend: but in the time of trouble will be againſt him.

5 There is a companion which helpeth his friend for the belly, and taketh up the buckler againſt the enemy.

6 Forget not thy friend in thy mind, and be not unmindful of him in thy riches.

7 Every counſellor extolleth counſel; but there is ſome that counſelleth for himſelf.

8 Beware of a counſellor, and know before what need he hath (for he will counſel for himſelf) leſt he caſt the lot upon thee:

9 And ſay unto thee, Thy way is good: and afterward he ſtand on the other ſide, to ſee what ſhall befal thee.

10 Conſult not with one that ſuſpecteth thee: and hide thy counſel from ſuch as envy thee.

11 Neither conſult with a woman, touching her of whom ſhe is jealous; neither with a coward, in matters of war; nor with a merchant, concerning exchange; nor with a buyer, of ſelling; nor with an envious man, of thankfulneſs; nor with an unmerciful man, touching kindneſs; nor with the ſlothful, for any work; nor with an hireling for a year, of finiſhing work; nor with an idle ſervant, of much buſineſs; hearken not unto theſe in any matter of counſel.

12 But be continually with a godly man, whom thou knoweſt to keep the commandments of the Lord; whoſe mind is according to thy mind, and will ſorrow with thee, if thou ſhalt miſcarry.

13 And let the counſel of thine own heart ſtand: for there is no man more faithful unto thee than it.

14 For a man's mind is ſometime wont to tell him more than ſeven watchmen, that ſit above in an high tower.

15 And, above all this, pray to the Moſt High, that he will direct thy way in truth.

16 Let reaſon go before every enterpriſe, and counſel before every action.

17 The countenance is a ſign of changing of the heart.

18 Four manner of things appear; good and evil, life and death: but the tongue ruleth over them continually.

19 There is one that is wiſe and teacheth many, and yet is unprofitable to himſelf.

20 There is one that ſheweth wiſdom in words, and is hated: he ſhall be deſtitute of all food.

21 For grace is not given him from the Lord: becauſe he is deprived of all wiſdom.

22 Another is wiſe to himſelf: and the fruits of underſtanding are commendable in his mouth.

23 A wiſe man inſtructeth his people, and the fruits of his underſtanding fail not.

24 A wiſe man ſhall be filled with bleſſing, and all they that ſee him ſhall count him happy.

25 The days of the life of man may be numbered: but the days of Iſrael are innumerable.

26 A wiſe man ſhall inherit glory among his people, and his name ſhall be perpetual.

27 My ſon, prove thy ſoul in thy life, and ſee what is evil for it, and give not that unto it.

28 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath every ſoul pleaſure in every thing.

29 Be not unſatiable in any dainty thing, nor too greedy upon meats:

30 For exceſs of meats bringeth ſickneſs, and ſurfeiting will turn into choler.

31 By ſurfeiting have many periſhed, but he that taketh heed prolongeth his life.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 Honour due to the phyſician. 16 How to weep and mourn for the dead.

HONOUR a phyſician with the honour due unto him, for the uſes which ye may have of him: for the Lord hath created him.

2 For of the Moſt High cometh healing, and he ſhall receive honour of the king.

3 The ſkill of the phyſician ſhall lift up his head: and in the ſight of great men he ſhall be in admiration.

4 The Lord hath created medicines out of the earth; and he that is wiſe will not abhor them.

5 Was not the water made ſweet with wood, that the virtue thereof might be known?

6 And he hath given men ſkill, that he might be honoured in his marvellous works.

7 With ſuch doth he heal (men) and taketh away their pains.

8 Of ſuch doth the apothecary make a confection; and of his works there is no end, and from him is peace over all the earth.

9 My ſon, in thy ſickneſs be not negligent: but pray unto the Lord, and he will make thee whole.

10 Leave off from ſin, and order thy hands aright, and cleanſe thy heart from all wickedneſs.

11 Give a ſweet ſavour, and a memorial of fine flour; and make a fat-offering, as not being.

12 Then give place to the phyſician, for the Lord hath created him: let him not go from thee, for thou haſt need of him.

13 There is a time when in their hands there is good ſucceſs.

14 For they ſhall alſo pray unto the Lord, that he would proſper that which they give for eaſe and remedy to prolong life.

---

24 He that getteth a wife, beginneth a poſſeſſion, &c.) He that hath a good wife in all reſpects, has laid the beſt foundation of his houſe; has the ſureſt grounds to build his hopes of happineſs upon, and of raiſing a family to his mind. Or, he that takes a wife, ſets over his houſe and fortune a help-mate, and aſſiſtant equal to himſelf, who will ſhare his cares, and in whoſe prudent œconomy he may ſafely confide; and ſhe will be to him a pillar of ſecurity, as well as of agreeable reſt.

15 He that ſinneth before his Maker, let him fall into the hand of the phyſician.

16 My ſon, let tears fall down over the dead, and begin to lament, as if thou hadſt ſuffered great harm thyſelf: then cover his body according to the cuſtom, and neglect not his burial.

17 Weep bitterly, and make great moan, and uſe lamentation as he is worthy, and that a day or two, leſt thou be evil-ſpoken of: and then comfort thyſelf for thy heavineſs.

18 For of heavineſs cometh death, and the heavineſs of the heart breaketh ſtrength.

19 In affliction alſo ſorrow remaineth: and the life of the poor is the curſe of the heart.

20 Take no heavineſs to heart: drive it away, and remember the laſt end.

21 Forget it not, for there is no turning again: thou ſhalt not do him good, but hurt thyſelf.

22 Remember my judgment: for thine alſo ſhall be ſo; yeſterday for me, and to-day for thee.

23 When the dead is at reſt, let his remembrance reſt; and be comforted for him when his ſpirit is departed from him.

24 The wiſdom of a learned man cometh by opportunity of leiſure; and he that hath little buſineſs ſhall become wiſe.

25 How can he get wiſdom that holdeth the plough, and that glorieth in the goad; that driveth oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and whoſe talk is of bullocks?

26 He giveth his mind to make furrows; and is diligent to give the kine fodder.

27 So every carpenter and work-maſter, that laboureth night and day; and they that cut and grave ſeals, and are diligent to make great variety, and give themſelves to counterfeit imagery, and watch to finiſh a work.

28 The ſmith alſo ſitting by the anvil, and conſidering the iron work, the vapour of the fire waſteth his fleſh, and he fighteth with the heat of the furnace: the noiſe of the hammer and the anvil is ever in his ears, and his eyes look ſtill upon the pattern of the thing that he maketh; he ſetteth his mind to finiſh his work, and watcheth to poliſh it perfectly.

29 So doth the potter ſitting at his work, and turning the wheel about with his feet, who is always carefully ſet at his work, and maketh all his work by number;

30 He faſhioneth the clay with his arm, and boweth down his ſtrength before his feet; he applieth himſelf to lead it over; and he is diligent to make clean the furnace.

31 All theſe truſt to their hands; and every one is wiſe in his work.

32 Without theſe cannot a city be inhabited; and they ſhall not dwell where they will, nor go up and down.

33 They ſhall not be ſought for in public counſel, nor ſit high in the congregation: they ſhall not ſit on the judge's ſeat, nor underſtand the ſentence of judgment: they cannot declare juſtice and judgment; and they ſhall not be found where parables are ſpoken.

34 But they will maintain the ſtate of the world, and (all) their deſire is in the work of their craft.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 A deſcription of him that is truly wiſe. 22 An exhortation to praiſe God.

BUT he that giveth his mind to the law of the Moſt High, and is occupied in the meditation thereof, will ſeek out the wiſdom of all the ancient, and be occupied in prophecies.

2 He will keep the ſayings of the renowned men; and where ſubtile parables are, he will be there alſo.

3 He will ſeek out the ſecrets of grave ſentences, and be converſant in dark parables.

4 He ſhall ſerve among great men, and appear before princes: he will travel through ſtrange countries; for he hath tried the good and the evil among men.

5 He will give his heart to reſort early to the Lord that made him, and will pray before the Moſt High, and will open his mouth in prayer, and make ſupplication for his ſins.

6 When the great Lord will, he ſhall be filled with the ſpirit of underſtanding: he ſhall pour out wiſe ſentences, and give thanks unto the Lord in his prayer.

7 He ſhall direct his counſel and knowledge, and in his ſecrets ſhall he meditate.

8 He ſhall ſhew forth that which he hath learned, and ſhall glory in the law of the covenant of the Lord.

9 Many ſhall commend his underſtanding; and, ſo long as the world endureth, it ſhall not be blotted out; his memorial ſhall not depart away, and his name ſhall live from generation to generation.

10 Nations ſhall ſhew forth his wiſdom, and the congregation ſhall declare his praiſe.

11 If he die, he ſhall leave a greater name than a thouſand; and if he live, he ſhall increaſe it.

12 Yet have I more to ſay which I have thought upon: for I am filled as the moon at the full.

13 Hearken unto me, ye holy children, and bud forth as a roſe growing by the brook of the field:

14 And give ye a ſweet ſavour as frankincenſe, and flouriſh as a lily, ſend forth a ſmell, and ſing a ſong of praiſe, bleſs the Lord in all his works.

15 Magnify his name, and ſhew forth his praiſe with the ſongs of your lips, and with harps, and in praiſing him ye ſhall ſay after this manner:

16 All the works of the Lord are exceeding good,

Commentary on Chap. XXXVIII.

15 He that ſinneth before his Maker, let him fall, &c.) Or, He that ſinneth grievouſly againſt God, ſhall fall, as ſome verſions have it: that is, ſhall be long and grievouſly afflicted with ſickneſs, ſo as to be almoſt continually under the hand of a phyſician.

34 But they will maintain the ſtate, &c.) But notwithſtanding they are not fit to be called into the counſel of the nation, or the ſeat of judgment, yet are they highly uſeful and neceſſary to the world, for building of convenient habitations, preparing of food, or the neceſſary utenſils.

Commentary on Chap. XXXIX.

1 But he that giveth his mind to the law, &c.) A truly wiſe man employs himſelf in the law of God, ſtudying the philoſophy of the ancients, the meaning of prophecies, and attending to the parables and wiſe maxims of great men. His wiſdom entitles him to the company of princes, and commands reſpect in the remoteſt parts of the world; in public aſſemblies it will bring him into high repute; it will get him an honourable name while living, and give him a ſweet memorial in the grave. The author, after beſtowing theſe high encomiums on wiſdom, makes an abrupt addreſs to the holy children to join in praiſe to God for the goodneſs viſible in all his works: for the power and wiſdom he exerted in the creation of the world; for his diſpoſing all things for the uſe and delight of man, eſpecially the righteous; and in preparing the means and inſtruments of his vengeance, to puniſh incorrigible ſinners. To make diſtinction with regard to God's works, and to call one good, and another bad, is profane and impious; for if we wait but a little, 'till God has brought about the iſſue of them which he intended, we then ſhall pronounce them all equally worthy of him. In illuſtrating theſe ſeveral particulars, the preacher has given us a very ſublime and inſtructive deſcription of the ways of providence, ſome of the divine attributes, and the wiſe and juſt diſpenſations of God to mankind.

and whatſoever he commandeth ſhall be accompliſhed in due ſeaſon.

17 And none may ſay, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time convenient they ſhall be ſought out: at his commandment the waters ſtood as an heap, and at the words of his mouth the receptacles of waters.

18 At his commandment is done whatſoever pleaſeth him, and none can hinder when he will ſave.

19 The works of all fleſh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 He ſeeth from everlaſting to everlaſting; and there is nothing wonderful before him.

21 A man need not to ſay, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hath made all things for their uſes.

22 His bleſſing covered the dry land as a river, and watered it as a flood.

23 As he hath turned the waters into ſaltneſs; ſo ſhall the heathen inherit his wrath.

24 As his ways are plain unto the holy, ſo are they ſtumbling-blocks unto the wicked.

25 For the good, are good things created from the beginning: ſo evil things for ſinners.

26 The principal things for the whole uſe of man's life are water, fire, iron, and ſalt, flour of wheat, honey, milk, and the blood of the grape, and oil, and clothing.

27 All theſe things are for good to the godly: ſo to the ſinners they are turned into evil.

28 There be ſpirits that are created for vengeance, which in their fury lay on ſore ſtrokes; in the time of deſtruction they pour out their force, and appeaſe the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fire and hail, and famine and death, all theſe were created for vengeance;

30 Teeth of wild beaſts, and ſcorpions, ſerpents, and the ſword, puniſhing the wicked to deſtruction.

31 They ſhall rejoice in his commandment, and they ſhall be ready upon earth, when need is; and when their time is come, they ſhall not tranſgreſs his word.

32 Therefore from the beginning I was reſolved, and thought upon theſe things, and have left them in writing.

33 All the works of the Lord are good: and he will give every needful thing in due ſeaſon.

34 So that a man cannot ſay, This is worſe than that: for in time they ſhall all be well approved.

35 And therefore praiſe ye the Lord with the whole heart and mouth, and bleſs the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Many miſeries in life. 17 A virtuous friend rejoiceth the heart.

GREAT travail is created for every man, and an heavy yoke is upon the ſons of Adam, from the day that they go out of their mother's womb, till the day that they return to the mother of all things.

2 Their imagination of things to come, and the day of death (trouble) their thought, and (cauſe) fear of heart;

3 From him that ſitteth on a throne of glory, unto him that is humbled in earth and aſhes;

4 From him that weareth purple and a crown, unto him that is clothed with a linen frock.

5 Wrath and envy, trouble and unquietneſs, fear of death, and anger and ſtrife, and in the time of reſt upon his bed his night ſleep do change his knowledge.

6 A little or nothing is his reſt, and afterward he is in his ſleep, as in a day of keeping watch, troubled in the viſion of his heart, as if he were eſcaped out of a battle:

7 When all is ſafe, he awaketh and marvelleth that the fear was nothing.

8 (Such things happen) unto all fleſh, both man and beaſt, and that is ſevenfold more upon ſinners.

9 Death, and blood-ſhed, ſtrife, and ſword, calamities, famine, tribulation, and the ſcourge;

10 Theſe things are created for the wicked, and for their ſakes came the flood.

11 All things that are of the earth ſhall turn to the earth again: and that which is of the waters, doth return into the ſea.

12 All bribery and injuſtice ſhall be blotted out: but true dealing ſhall endure for ever.

13 The goods of the unjuſt ſhall be dried up like a river, and ſhall vaniſh with noiſe, like a great thunder in rain.

14 While he openeth his hand, he ſhall rejoice: ſo ſhall tranſgreſſors come to nought.

15 The children of the ungodly ſhall not bring forth many branches: but are as unclean roots upon a hard rock.

16 The weed, growing upon every water and bank of a river, ſhall be pulled up before all graſs.

17 Bountifulneſs is as a moſt fruitful garden, and mercifulneſs endureth for ever.

18 To labour, and to be content with that a man hath, is a ſweet life: but he that findeth a treaſure is above them both.

19 Children, and the building of a city, continue a man's name: but a blameleſs wife is counted above them both.

20 Wine and muſick rejoice the heart: but the love of wiſdom is above them both.

21 The pipe and the pſaltery make ſweet melody: but a pleaſant tongue is above them both.

22 Thine eye deſireth favour and beauty: but more than both, corn while it is green.

23 A friend and a companion never meet amiſs: but above both is a wife with her huſband.

24 Brethren and help are againſt time of trouble: but alms ſhall deliver more than them both.

25 Gold and ſilver make the foot ſtand ſure: but counſel is eſteemed above them both.

26 Riches and ſtrength lift up the heart: but the fear of the Lord is above them both: there is no want in the fear of the Lord, and it needeth not to ſeek help.

28 There be ſpirits that are created for vengeance, &c.) Some are of opinion, that the ſpirits here meant are the angels, who are employed as well to execute the vengeance of the Almighty, as to declare his favour to the children of men. Others think that the word ſpirits implies no more than the natural force or efficacy of things, which was impreſſed on them when the world iſſued from its primitive chaos. But whatever be the true meaning of the word, this uſeful admonition will reſult from the paſſage, namely, that the wickedneſs of man will not eſcape the vengeance of the Lord, nor his crimes, however ſecretly they may have been committed, be buried in the gulph of forgetfulneſs.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XL.

8 (Such things happen) unto all fleſh, both man and beaſt, &c.) It is agreed on all hands that man is ſubject to all the paſſions above enumerated by the wiſe man, namely, fear, anger, revenge, jealouſy, and uneaſineſs; but how far beaſts are ſubject to theſe is a queſtion not readily ſolved, eſpecially if we deny them the uſe of reaſon and reflection. For with what juſtice can we impute to them paſſions which have their ſource from reflecting on actions that are paſt, or on thoſe particulars which we apprehend will happen hereafter. Experience has indeed abundantly convinced us, that beaſts are very ſubject to fear, rage, and revenge; but they cannot be ſuppoſed to be ſubject to paſſions whoſe ſole cauſe is the reaſoning on paſt and future events. The expreſſion therefore muſt be underſtood with ſome reſtriction; and we ſhould do well to remember, that however common theſe evils are both to men and brutes, yet they will fall with a ſeven-fold ſeverity on the wicked.

13 The goods of the unjuſt ſhall be dried up like a river, &c.) What are properly called rivers do not uſually dry up; but what is meant here is a torrent or land flood; which though of a ſudden ſwells mightily, yet ſoon ſinks quite away again, 27 The fear of the Lord is a fruitful garden, and covereth him above all glory.

28 My ſon, lead not a beggar's life: for better it is to die than to beg.

29 The life of him that dependeth on another man's table, is not to be counted for a life: for he polluteth himſelf with other men's meat: but a wiſe man well nurtured will beware thereof.

30 Begging is ſweet in the mouth of the ſhameleſs: but in his belly there ſhall burn a fire.

CHAP. XLI.

1 The remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared.

O DEATH, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liveth at reſt in his poſſeſſions, unto the man that hath nothing to vex him, and that hath proſperity in all things; yea, unto him that is yet able to receive meat!

2 O death, acceptable is thy ſentence unto the needy, and unto him whoſe ſtrength faileth, that is now in the laſt age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that deſpaireth, and hath loſt patience!

3 Fear not the ſentence of death, remember them that have been before thee, and that come after; for this is the ſentence of the Lord over all fleſh.

4 And why art thou againſt the pleaſure of the Moſt High? there is no inquiſition in the grave, whether thou have lived ten, or an hundred, or a thouſand years.

5 The children of ſinners are abominable children, and they that are converſant in the dwelling of the ungodly.

6 The inheritance of ſinners' children ſhall periſh, and their poſterity ſhall have a perpetual reproach.

7 The children will complain of an ungodly father, becauſe they ſhall be reproached for his ſake.

8 Woe be unto you, ungodly men, which have forſaken the law of the moſt high God! for if ye increaſe, it ſhall be to your deſtruction;

9 And if ye be born, ye ſhall be born to a curſe; and if ye die, a curſe ſhall be your portion.

10 All that are of the earth ſhall turn to earth again: ſo the ungodly ſhall go from a curſe to deſtruction.

11 The mourning of men is about their bodies: but an ill name of ſinners ſhall be blotted out.

12 Have regard to thy name: for that ſhall continue with thee above a thouſand great treaſures of gold.

13 A good life hath but few days: but a good name endureth for ever.

14 My children keep diſcipline in peace: for wiſdom that is hid, and a treaſure that is not ſeen, what profit is in them both?

15 A man that hideth his fooliſhneſs is better than a man that hideth his wiſdom.

16 Therefore be ſhame-faced according to my word: for it is not good to retain all ſhame-facedneſs, neither is it altogether approved in every thing.

17 Be aſhamed of whoredom before father and mother; and of a lie before a prince and a mighty man;

18 Of an offence before a judge and ruler; of iniquity before a congregation and people; of unjuſt dealing before thy partner and friend;

19 And of theft in regard of the place where thou ſojourneſt, and in regard of the truth of God and his covenant; and to lean with thine elbow upon the meat; and of ſcorning to give and take;

20 And of ſilence before them that ſalute thee; and to look upon an harlot;

21 And to turn away thy face from thy kinſman; or to take away a portion or a gift; or to gaze upon another man's wife.

22 Or to be over-buſy with his maid, and come not near her bed; or of upbraiding ſpeeches before friends; and after thou haſt given, upbraid not;

23 Or of iterating and ſpeaking again that which thou haſt heard; and of revealing of ſecrets.

24 So ſhalt thou be truly ſhame-faced, and find favour before all men.

CHAP. XLII.

1 Whereof we ſhould not be aſhamed of. 9 Be careful of thy daughter.

OF theſe things be not thou aſhamed, and accept no perſon to ſin thereby:

2 Of the law of the Moſt High, and his covenant; and of judgment to juſtify the ungodly.

3 Of reckoning with thy partners and travellers: or of the gift of the heritage of friends;

4 Of exactneſs of balance and weights; or of getting much or little;

5 And of merchants' indifferent ſelling; of much correction of children; and to make the ſide of an evil ſervant to bleed.

6 Sure keeping is good where an evil wife is; and ſhut up where many hands are.

7 Deliver all things in number and weight; and put all in writing that thou giveſt out, or receiveſt in.

8 Be not aſhamed to inform the unwiſe and fooliſh, and the extreme aged that contendeth with thoſe that are young: thus ſhalt thou be truly learned, and approved of all men living.

9 The father waketh for the daughter when no man knoweth, and the care for her taketh away ſleep: when ſhe is young, leſt ſhe paſs away the flower of her age; and being married, leſt ſhe ſhould be hated:

10 In her virginity, leſt ſhe ſhould be defiled, and gotten with child in her father's houſe; and having an huſband, leſt ſhe ſhould miſbehave herſelf; and when ſhe is married, leſt ſhe ſhould be barren.

11 Keep a ſure watch over a ſhameleſs daughter, leſt ſhe make thee a laughing-ſtock to thine enemies, and a by-word in the city, and a reproach among the people, and make thee aſhamed before the multitude.

12 Behold not every body's beauty, and ſit not in the midſt of women.

13 For from garments cometh a moth, and from women wickedneſs.

14 Better is the churliſhneſs of a man than a courteous woman; a woman, I ſay, which bringeth ſhame and reproach.

15 I will now remember the works of the Lord, and declare the things that I have ſeen: In the words of the Lord are his works.

16 The ſun that giveth light looketh upon all things, and the work thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 The Lord hath not given power to the ſaints to declare all his marvellous works, which the Almighty Lord firmly ſettled, that whatſoever is, might be eſtabliſhed for his glory.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLI.

1 O death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man, &c.) When a man is in the height of his proſperity, in full poſſeſſion of riches, and the abundance of all temporal bleſſings, and has nothing to fear, and nothing to moleſt or diſturb him, in the full enjoyment of whatever this world can produce for the gratification of his moſt unbounded appetites, how grating muſt the conſideration be, that death will as certainly one day deprive him of them all at once, as that he now enjoys them in their fulleſt extent!

18 He ſeeketh out the deep, and the heart, and conſidereth their crafty devices: for the Lord knoweth all that may be known, and he beholdeth the ſigns of the world.

19 He declareth the things that are paſt, and for to come, and revealeth the ſteps of hidden things.

20 No thought eſcapeth him, neither any word is hidden from him.

21 He hath garniſhed the excellent works of his wiſdom, and he is from everlaſting to everlaſting: unto him may nothing be added, neither can he be diminiſhed, and he hath no need of any counſellor.

22 O how deſirable are all his works! and that a man may ſee, even to a ſpark.

23 All theſe things live and remain for ever for all uſes, and they are all obedient.

24 All things are double one againſt another; and he hath made nothing imperfect.

25 One thing eſtabliſheth the good of another; and who ſhall be filled with beholding his glory?

CHAP. XLIII.

The works of God exceeding glorious.

THE pride of the height, the clear firmament, the beauty of heaven with his glorious ſhew;

2 The ſun when it appeareth, declaring at his riſing a marvellous inſtrument, the work of the Moſt High.

3 At noon it parcheth the country, and who can abide the burning heat thereof?

4 A man blowing a furnace is in works of heat, but the ſun burneth the mountains three times more; breathing out fiery vapours, and ſending forth bright beams, it dimmeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and at his commandment it runneth haſtily.

6 He made the moon alſo to ſerve in her ſeaſon, for a declaration of times, and a ſign of the world.

7 From the moon is the ſign of feaſts, a light that decreaſeth in her perfection.

8 The month is called after her name, increaſing wonderfully in her changing, being an inſtrument of the armies above, ſhining in the firmament of heaven;

9 The beauty of heaven, the glory of the ſtars, an ornament giving light in the higheſt places of the Lord.

10 At the commandment of the Holy One, they will ſtand in their order, and never faint in their watches.

11 Look upon the rainbow, and praiſe him that made it, very beautiful it is in the brightneſs thereof.

12 It compaſſeth the heaven about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the Moſt High have bended it.

13 By his commandment he maketh the ſnow to fall apace, and ſendeth ſwiftly the lightnings of his judgment.

14 Through this the treaſures are opened: and clouds fly forth as fowls.

15 By his great power he maketh the clouds firm, and the hailſtones are broken ſmall.

16 At his ſight the mountains are ſhaken, and at his will the ſouth wind bloweth.

17 The noiſe of the thunder maketh the earth to tremble: ſo doth the northern ſtorm and the whirlwind: as birds flying he ſcattereth the ſnow, and the falling down thereof is as the lighting of graſshoppers.

18 The eye marvelleth at the beauty of the whiteneſs thereof, and the heart is aſtoniſhed at the raining of it.

19 The hoar-froſt alſo as ſalt he poureth on the earth, and being congealed, it lieth on the top of ſharp ſtakes.

20 When the cold north wind bloweth, and the water is congealed into ice, it abideth upon every gathering together of water, and clotheth the water as with a breaſt-plate.

21 It devoureth the mountains, and burneth the wilderneſs, and conſumeth the graſs as fire.

22 A preſent remedy of all is a miſt coming ſpeedily: a dew, coming after heat, refreſheth.

23 By his counſel he appeaſeth the deep, and planteth iſlands therein.

24 They that ſail on the ſea, tell of the danger thereof; and when we hear it with our ears, we marvel thereat.

25 For therein be ſtrange and wondrous works, variety of all kinds of beaſts, and whales created.

26 By him the end of them hath proſperous ſucceſs, and by his word all things conſiſt.

27 We may ſpeak much, and yet come ſhort: wherefore in ſum, He is all.

28 How ſhall we be able to magnify him? for he is great above all his works.

29 The Lord is terrible and very great, and marvellous is his power.

30 When ye glorify the Lord, exalt him as much as ye can: for even yet will he far exceed: and when ye exalt him, put forth all your ſtrength, and be not weary; for ye can never go far enough.

31 Who hath ſeen him, that he might tell us? and who can magnify him as he is?

32 There are yet hid greater things than theſe be, for we have ſeen but a few of his works:

33 For the Lord hath made all things, and to the godly hath he given wiſdom.

CHAP. XLIV.

The praiſe of certain holy men.

LET us now praiſe famous men, and our fathers that begat us.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLII.

24 All things are double one againſt another, &c.) Every thing has its contrary in nature, and the one is oppoſed to the other, as earth an opaque body, to the ſun a body of light, night to day, heat to cold, &c. This is according to an opinion among the ancient philoſophers, who thought the univerſe ſubſiſted by a juſt temperature of theſe oppoſites, none of which predominated over the other.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLIII.

1 The pride of the height, the clear firmament, &c.) The ſon of Sirach having led us thus far thro' a variety of uſeful obſervations, grave and wiſe maxims, and given many wholeſome inſtructions and infallible rules, for the conduct of life, and for managing our commerce and dealings with the world, interſperſing in his diſcourſes many noble encomiums on the excellence of wiſdom, recommending piety and the fear of God, and eſtabliſhing the belief of a deity, from the viſible effects of his power in the creation,—comes in this chapter to ſpeak more particularly of the wonderful acts of God's wiſdom and omnipotence, manifeſted thro' all his works. He points out to us, in the moſt elevated and poetical language, the high and glorious roof of the arched firmament, and the beautiful expanſe of the heavens; that prodigious maſs of fire, the ſun; the ſhining body of the moon, which changes her form, to vary the ſeaſons, and adjuſt the periods of time for the uſe of men; the ſtars brightening the hemiſphere with their luſtre; the rainbow with its colours delightfully mingled. He further declares the power of God in the beauty and whiteneſs of ſnow; the firmneſs of the clouds, the breaking of the hail, the noiſe and terror of thunder, ſtorms and whirlwinds, froſt, and the congealing of water into ice; his power likewiſe reaches to the bottom of the deep, and the ſea is full of his wonders; by him all things that are exiſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLIV.

1 Let us now praiſe famous men, &c.) Next to the praiſe due to the Almighty, for the wonders which are to be read in every part of the creation, we ſhould not forget the eulogiums of thoſe brave and famous men, whom God has made the inſtruments of his own glory, and the means of innumerable benefits to mankind. Their names and heroic actions are tranſmitted to us, that we may honour their memories, and that their fame may be handed down to the lateſt poſterity. In the liſt of thoſe ancient renowned heroes, Enoch ſtands the foremoſt, who, for his ſingular piety, was exempted from the pains of death, and admitted in the fleſh to the immediate preſence of God. Next Noah, for his righteouſneſs, had the honour of ſeeing two worlds, and had a promiſe given him, that all fleſh ſhould no more periſh with a flood. Abraham, in all his trials, was found a faithful ſervant of God; and for his faithfulneſs, the Almighty eſtabliſhed his covenant with him, promiſing that in him all the nations of the earth ſhould be bleſſed.

2 The Lord hath wrought great glory by them thro' his great power from the beginning.

3 Such as did bear rule in their kingdoms, men renowned for their power, giving counsel by their understanding, and declaring prophecies:

4 Leaders of the people by their counsels, and by their knowledge of learning meet for the people, wise and eloquent in their instructions.

5 Such as found out musical tunes, and recited verses in writing.

6 Rich men furnished with ability, living peaceably in their habitations.

7 All these were honoured in their generations, and were the glory of their times.

8 There be of them that have left a name behind them, that their praises might be reported.

9 And some there be, which have no memorial, who are perished as though they had never been, and are become as though they had never been born, and their children after them.

10 But these were merciful men, whose righteousness hath not been forgotten.

11 With their seed shall continually remain a good inheritance, and their children are within the covenant.

12 Their seed standeth fast, and their children for their sakes.

13 Their seed shall remain for ever, and their glory shall not be blotted out.

14 Their bodies are buried in peace; but their name liveth for evermore.

15 The people will tell of their wisdom, and the congregation will shew forth their praise.

16 Enoch pleased the Lord, and was translated, being an example of repentance to all generations.

17 Noah was found perfect and righteous; in the time of wrath he was taken in exchange (for the world;) therefore was he left as a remnant unto the earth when the flood came.

18 An everlasting covenant was made with him, that all flesh should perish no more by the flood.

19 Abraham was a great father of many people: in glory was there none like unto him.

20 Who kept the law of the Most High, and was in covenant with him: he established the covenant in his flesh; and when he was proved, he was found faithful.

21 Therefore he assured him by an oath, that he would bless the nations in his seed, and that he would multiply him as the dust of the earth, and exalt his seed as the stars, and cause them to inherit from sea to sea, and from the river unto the utmost part of the land.

22 With Isaac did he establish likewise (for Abraham his father's sake) the blessing of all men and the covenant,

23 And made it rest upon the head of Jacob. He acknowledged him in his blessing, and gave him an heritage, and divided his portions; among the twelve tribes did he part them.

CHAP. XLV.

1 The praise of Moses, 6 of Aaron, 23 and of Phinees.

AND he brought out of him a merciful man, which found favour in the sight of all flesh, even Moses, beloved of God and men, whose memorial is blessed.

2 He made him like to the glorious saints, and magnified him, so that his enemies stood in fear of him.

3 By his words he caused the wonders to cease, and he made him glorious in the sight of kings, and gave him a commandment for his people, and shewed him part of his glory.

4 He sanctified him in his faithfulness and meekness, and chose him out of all men.

5 He made him to hear his voice, and brought him into the dark cloud, and gave him commandments before his face; even the law of life and knowledge, that he might teach Jacob his covenants, and Israel his judgments.

6 He exalted Aaron, an holy man like unto him, even his brother, of the tribe of Levi.

7 An everlasting covenant he made with him, and gave him the priesthood among the people; he beautified him with comely ornaments, and clothed him with a robe of glory.

8 He put upon him perfect glory; and strengthened him with rich garments, with breeches, with a long robe, and the ephod.

9 And he compassed him with pomegranates, and with many golden bells round about, that, as he went, there might be a sound, and a noise made that might be heard in the temple, for a memorial to the children of his people;

10 With an holy garment, with gold and blue silk, and purple, the work of the embroiderer, with a breastplate of judgment, and with Urim and Thummim;

11 With twisted scarlet, the work of the cunning workman, with precious stones graven like seals, and set in gold, the work of the jeweller, with a writing engraved for a memorial, after the number of the tribes of Israel.

12 He set the crown of gold upon the mitre, wherein was engraved Holiness, an ornament of honour, a costly work, the desires of the eyes, goodly and beautiful.

13 Before him there were none such, neither did ever any stranger put them on, but only his children, and his children's children perpetually.

14 Their sacrifices shall be wholly consumed every day twice continually.

15 Moses consecrated him, and anointed him with holy oil: this was appointed unto him by an everlasting covenant, and to his seed so long as the heavens should remain, that they should minister unto him, and execute the office of the priesthood, and bless the people in his name.

16 He chose him out of all men living to offer sacrifices to the Lord, incense, and a sweet savour, for a memorial, to make reconciliation for his people.

17 He gave unto him his commandments, and authority in the statutes of judgments, that he should teach Jacob the testimonies, and inform Israel in his laws.

18 Strangers conspired together against him, and maligned him in the wilderness, even the men that were of Dathan's and Abiron's side, and the congregation of Core, with fury and wrath.

19 This the Lord saw, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignation were they consumed: he did wonders upon them to consume them with the fiery flame.

20 But he made Aaron more honourable, and gave him an heritage, and divided unto him the first-fruits of the increase, especially he prepared bread in abundance:

21 For they ate of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gave unto him and his seed.

22 Howbeit, in the land of the people he had no inheritance, neither had he any portion among the people: for the Lord himself is his portion and inheritance.

23 The third in glory is Phinees the son of Eleazar, because he had zeal in the fear of the Lord, and stood up with good courage of heart, when the people were turned back, and made reconciliation for Israel.

24 Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the chief of the sanctuary, and of his people, and that he and his posterity should have the dignity of the priesthood for ever;

25 According

25 According to the covenant made with David ſon of Jeſſe, of the tribe of Juda, that the inheritance of the king ſhould be to his poſterity alone; ſo the inheritance of Aaron ſhould alſo be unto his ſeed.

26 God give you wiſdom in your heart to judge his people in righteouſneſs, that their good things be not aboliſhed, and that their glory may endure for ever.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The praiſe of Joſhua, 9 of Caleb, 13 of Samuel.

JESUS the ſon of Nave was valiant in the wars, and was the ſucceſſor of Moſes in prophecies, who, according to his name, was made great for the ſaving of the elect of God, and taking vengeance of the enemies that roſe up againſt them, that he might ſet Iſrael in their inheritance.

2 How great glory gat he when he did lift up his hands, and ſtretched out his ſword againſt the cities!

3 Who before him ſo ſtood to it? for the Lord himſelf brought his enemies unto him.

4 Did not the ſun go back by his means? and was not one day as long as two?

5 He called upon the Moſt High Lord, when the enemies preſſed upon him on every ſide; and the great Lord heard him.

6 And with hailſtones of mighty power he made the battle to fall violently upon the nations, and in the deſcent (of Bethoron) he deſtroyed them that reſiſted, that the nations might know all their ſtrength, becauſe he fought in the ſight of the Lord, and he followed the Mighty One.

7 In the time of Moſes alſo he did a work of mercy, he and Caleb the ſon of Jephunne, in that they withſtood the congregation, and with-held the people from ſin, and appeaſed the wicked murmuring.

8 And of ſix hundred thouſand people on foot, they two were preſerved to bring them into the heritage, even unto the land that floweth with milk and honey.

9 The Lord gave ſtrength alſo unto Caleb, which remained with him unto his old age: ſo that he entered upon the high places of the land, and his ſeed obtained it for an heritage;

10 That all the children of Iſrael might ſee that it is good to follow the Lord.

11 And concerning the judges, every one by name, whoſe heart went not a whoring, nor departed from the Lord, let their memory be bleſſed.

12 Let their bones flouriſh out of their place, and let the name of them that were honoured be continued upon their children.

13 Samuel the prophet of the Lord, beloved of his Lord, eſtabliſhed a kingdom, and anointed princes over his people.

14 By the law of the Lord he judged the congregation, and the Lord had reſpect unto Jacob.

15 By his faithfulneſs he was found a true prophet, and by his word he was known to be faithful in viſion.

16 He called upon the mighty Lord, when his enemies preſſed upon him on every ſide, when he offered the ſucking-lamb.

17 And the Lord thundered from heaven, and with a great noiſe made his voice to be heard.

18 And he deſtroyed the rulers of the Tyrians, and all the princes of the Philiſtines.

19 And before his long ſleep he made proteſtations in the ſight of the Lord and his anointed, I have not taken any man's goods, ſo much as a ſhoe: and no man did accuſe him.

20 And after his death he propheſied, and ſhewed the king his end, and lifted up his voice from the earth in prophecy, to blot out the wickedneſs of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The praiſe of Nathan, 2 of David, 12 of Solomon; his glory and infirmities.

AND after him roſe up Nathan to propheſy in the time of David,

2 As is the fat taken away from the peace-offering, ſo was David choſen out of the children of Iſrael.

3 He played with lions as with kids, and with bears as with lambs.

4 Slew he not a giant when he was yet but young? and did he not take away reproach from the people, when he lifted up his hand with the ſtone in the ſling, and beat down the boaſting of Goliath?

5 For he called upon the Moſt High Lord, and he gave him ſtrength in his right-hand to ſlay that mighty warrior, and ſet up the horn of his people.

6 So the people honoured him with ten thouſands, and praiſed him in the bleſſings of the Lord, in that he gave him a crown of glory.

7 For he deſtroyed the enemies on every ſide, and brought to nought the Philiſtines his adverſaries, and brake their horn in ſunder unto this day.

8 In all his works he praiſed the Holy One Moſt High with words of glory; with his whole heart he ſung ſongs, and loved him that made him.

9 He ſet ſingers alſo before the altar, that by their voices they might make ſweet melody, and daily ſing praiſes in their ſongs.

10 He beautified their feaſts, and ſet in order the ſolemn times until the end, that they might praiſe his holy name, and that the temple might ſound from morning.

11 The Lord took away his ſins, and exalted his horn for ever: he gave him a covenant of kings, and a throne of glory in Iſrael.

12 After him roſe up a wiſe ſon, and for his ſake he dwelt at large.

13 Solomon reigned in a peaceable time, and was honoured; for God made all quiet round about him, that he might build an houſe in his name, and prepare his ſanctuary for ever.

14 How wiſe waſt thou in thy youth, and as a flood filled with underſtanding!

15 Thy ſoul covered the whole earth, and thou filledſt it with dark parables.

16 Thy name went far unto the iſlands; and for thy peace thou waſt beloved.

17 The countries marvelled at thee for thy ſongs, and proverbs, and parables, and interpretations.

18 By the name of the Lord God, which is called the Lord God of Iſrael, thou didſt gather gold as tin, and didſt multiply ſilver as lead.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLVI.

1 Jeſus the ſon of Nave was valiant in the wars, &c.) Joſhua, here called Jeſus the ſon of Nave, was Iſrael's renowned general, and the worthy ſucceſſor of Moſes. He led the people forth to war, fought their battles, and ſettled them in their promiſed inheritance in the land of Canaan. What honour did the Almighty do him in the ſight of his enemies, when, at his ſingle word, the ſun's progreſs was ſtopped in the midſt of the heavens for the ſpace of a whole day, in order to give this noble warrior time for compleating his triumph over his vanquiſhed enemies! Caleb was alſo a zealous aſſerter of God's honour, particularly at the time when he and Joſhua withſtood the whole congregation; who, on the evil report which the reſt of the ſpies brought of the promiſed land, were for returning to Egypt; for this their courageous act, thoſe two only, of the whole multitude of Iſrael, were ſuffered to paſs over into Canaan.

19 Thou didſt bow thy loins unto women, and by thy body thou waſt brought into ſubjection.

20 Thou didſt ſtain thy honour, and polſute thy ſeed: ſo that thou broughteſt wrath upon thy children, and waſt grieved for thy folly.

21 So the kingdom was divided, and out of Ephraim ruled a rebellious kingdom.

22 But the Lord will never leave off his mercy, neither ſhall any of his works periſh, neither will he aboliſh the poſterity of his elect, and the ſeed of him that loveth him he will not take away; wherefore he gave a remnant unto Jacob, and out of him a root unto David.

23 Thus reſted Solomon with his fathers, and of his ſeed he left behind him Roboam, even the fooliſhneſs of the people, and one that had no underſtanding, who turned away the people through his counſel. There was alſo Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who cauſed Iſrael to ſin, and ſhewed Ephraim the way of ſin;

24 And their ſins were multiplied exceedingly, that they were driven out of the land:

25 For they ſought out all wickedneſs, till the vengeance came upon them.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 The praiſe of Elias, 12 of Eliſeus, 17 and of Ezekias.

THEN ſtood up Elias the prophet as fire, and his word burnt like a lamp.

2 He brought a ſore famine upon them, and by his zeal he diminiſhed their number.

3 By the word of the Lord he ſhut up the heaven, and alſo three times brought down fire.

4 O Elias, how waſt thou honoured in thy wondrous deeds! and who may glory like unto thee!

5 Who didſt raiſe up a dead man from death, and his ſoul from the place of the dead by the word of the Moſt High:

6 Who broughteſt kings to deſtruction, and honourable men from their bed:

7 Who heardeſt the rebuke of the Lord in Sinai, and in Horeb the judgment of vengeance:

8 Who anointedſt kings to take revenge, and prophets to ſucceed after him:

9 Who was taken up in a whirlwind of fire, and in a chariot of fiery horſes.

10 Who waſt ordained for reproofs in their times, to pacify the wrath of the Lord's judgment, before it brake forth into fury, and to turn the heart of the father unto the ſon, and to reſtore the tribes of Jacob.

11 Bleſſed are they that ſaw thee, and ſlept in love, for we ſhall ſurely live.

12 Elias it was who was covered with a whirlwind: and Eliſeus was filled with his ſpirit: whilſt he lived he was not moved with the preſence of any prince, neither could any bring him into ſubjection.

13 No word could overcome him; and after his death his body propheſied.

14 He did wonders in his life, and at his death were his works marvellous.

15 For all this the people repented not, neither departed they from their ſins, till they were ſpoiled and carried out of their land, and were ſcattered through all the earth: yet there remained a ſmall people, and a ruler in the houſe of David:

16 Of whom ſome did that which was pleaſing to God, and ſome multiplied ſins.

17 Ezekias fortified his city, and brought in water into the midſt thereof; he digged the hard rock with iron, and made wells for waters.

18 In his time Sennacherib came up, and ſent Rabſaces, and lifted up his hand againſt Sion, and boaſted proudly.

19 Then trembled their hearts and hands, and they were in pain as women in travail.

20 But they called upon the Lord which is merciful, and ſtretched out their hands towards him: and immediately the Holy One heard them out of heaven, and delivered them by the miniſtry of Eſay.

21 He ſmote the hoſt of the Aſſyrians, and his angel deſtroyed them.

22 For Ezekias had done the thing that pleaſed the Lord, and was ſtrong in the ways of David his father, as Eſay the prophet, who was great and faithful in his viſion, had commanded him.

23 In his time the ſun went backward, and he lengthened the king's life.

24 He ſaw by an excellent ſpirit what ſhould come to paſs at the laſt, and he comforted them that mourned in Sion.

25 He ſhewed what ſhould come to paſs for ever, and ſecret things or ever they came.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 The praiſe of Joſias, 4 of David and Ezekias, 6 of Jeremias, 8 of Ezekiel.

THE remembrance of Joſias is like the compoſition of the perfume that is made by the art of the apothecary: it is ſweet as honey in all mouths, and as muſic at a banquet of wine.

2 He behaved himſelf uprightly in the converſion of the people, and took away the abominations of iniquity.

3 He directed his heart unto the Lord, and in the time of the ungodly he eſtabliſhed the worſhip of God.

4 All, except David, and Ezekias, and Joſias, were defective; for they forſook the law of the Moſt High, even the kings of Judah failed:

5 Therefore he gave their power unto others, and their glory unto a ſtrange nation.

6 They burnt the choſen city of the ſanctuary, and made the ſtreets deſolate, according to the prophecy of Jeremias.

7 For they entreated him evil, who, nevertheleſs, was a prophet ſanctified in his mother's womb, that he might root out, and afflict, and deſtroy; and that he might build up alſo and plant.

8 It was Ezekiel who ſaw the glorious viſion, which was ſhewed him upon the chariot of the cherubims.

9 For he made mention of the enemies under the figure of the rain, and directed them that went right.

Commentary on Chap. XLVIII.

1 Then ſtood up Elias the prophet as fire, &c.) When Iſrael thro' the bad example of their kings, had forſaken the true God, he raiſed up the prophet Elias, who zealouſly aſſerted the honour of Jehovah, and was enabled to do many miraculous works. At his word, fire came from heaven, and a famine upon the land; the dead was raiſed by his prayer, and by the ſame power kings were deprived of life, and great men depoſed from their elevated ſtations. He authoriſed kings to execute vengeance, and appointed his ſucceſſor in the prophetic dignity; and at laſt he aſcended the heights of heaven in a fiery chariot. Eliſeus, his ſervant and ſucceſſor, was bleſſed with the ſame ſpirit; for he was never daunted at the frowns of kings: his life was a continued ſeries of miraculous actions; and when he lay in the grave, the lifeleſs corpſe wrought a miracle, 2 Kings, xiii. 21. Ezekias (Hezekiah) was a good king, and did many beneficial acts for the public; wherefore, when he was beſieged by a mighty army, with which he was unable to encounter by his own ſtrength, God himſelf appeared for him, and overthrew his enemies by the interceſſion of Iſaiah the prophet.

10 And of the twelve prophets let the memorial be bleſſed, and let their bones flouriſh again out of their place: for they comforted Jacob, and delivered them by aſſured hope.

11 How ſhall we magnify Zorobabel? even he was as a ſignet on the right hand.

12 So was Jeſus the ſon of Joſedec: who, in their time, builded the houſe, and ſet up an holy temple to the Lord, which was prepared for everlaſting glory.

13 And among the elect was Neemias, whoſe renown is great, who raiſed up for us the walls that were fallen, and ſet up the gates and the bars, and raiſed up our ruins again:

14 But upon the earth was no man created like Enoch; for he was taken from the earth.

15 Neither was there a man born like unto Joſeph, a governor of his brethren, a ſtay of the people, whoſe bones were regarded of the Lord.

16 Sem and Seth were in great honour among men, and ſo was Adam above every living thing in the creation.

CHAP. L.

1 Of Simon the ſon of Onias. 22 How the people were taught to praiſe God.

SIMON the high prieſt, the ſon of Onias, who in his life repaired the houſe again, and in his days fortified the temple:

2 And by him was built from the foundation the double height, the high fortreſs of the wall about the temple;

3 In his days the ciſtern to receive water, being in compaſs as the ſea, was covered with plates of braſs:

4 He took care of the temple that it ſhould not fall, and fortified the city againſt beſieging:

5 How was he honoured in the midſt of the people, in his coming out of the ſanctuary!

6 He was as the morning ſtar in the midſt of a cloud, and as the moon at the full:

7 As the ſun ſhining upon the temple of the Moſt High, and as the rainbow giving light in the bright clouds:

8 And as the flower of roſes in the ſpring of the year, as lilies by the rivers of waters, and as the branches of the frankincenſe-tree in the time of ſummer:

9 As fire and incenſe in the cenſer, and as a veſſel of beaten gold ſet with all manner of precious ſtones:

10 And as a fair olive-tree budding forth fruit, and as a cypreſs-tree which groweth up to the clouds.

11 When he put on the robe of honour, and was clothed with the perfection of glory, when he went up to the holy altar, he made the garment of holineſs honourable.

12 When he took the portions out of the prieſt's hands, he himſelf ſtood by the hearth of the altar, compaſſed with his brethren round about, as a young cedar in Libanus; and as palm-trees compaſſed they him round about.

13 So were all the ſons of Aaron in their glory, and the oblations of the Lord in their hands, before all the congregation of Iſrael.

14 And finiſhing the ſervice at the altar, that he might adorn the offering of the Moſt High Almighty.

15 He ſtretched out his hand to the cup, and poured of the blood of the grape, he poured out at the foot of the altar a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour unto the Moſt High King of all.

16 Then ſhouted the ſons of Aaron and ſounded the ſilver trumpets, and made a great noiſe to be heard, for a remembrance before the Moſt High.

17 Then all the people together haſted, and fell down to the earth upon their faces, to worſhip their Lord God Almighty the Moſt High.

18 The ſingers alſo ſang praiſes with their voices, with great variety of ſounds was there made ſweet melody.

19 And the people beſought the Lord the Moſt High, by prayer before him that is merciful, till the ſolemnity of the Lord was ended, and they had finiſhed his ſervice.

20 Then he went down, and lifted up his hands over the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael, to give the bleſſing of the Lord with his lips, and to rejoice in his name.

21 And they bowed themſelves down to worſhip the ſecond time, that they might receive a bleſſing from the Moſt High.

22 Now, therefore, bleſs ye the God of all, which only doeth wondrous things every where, which exalteth our days from the womb, and dealeth with us according to his mercy.

23 He grants us joyfulneſs of heart, and that peace may be in our days in Iſrael for ever:

24 That he would confirm his mercy with us, and deliver us at his time.

25 There be two manner of nations which my heart abhorreth, and the third is no nation:

26 They that ſit upon the mountain of Samaria, and they that dwell among the Philiſtines, and that fooliſh people that dwell in Sichem.

27 Jeſus the ſon of Sirach of Jeruſalem hath written in this book the inſtruction of underſtanding and knowledge, who out of his heart poureth forth wiſdom.

28 Bleſſed is he that ſhall be exerciſed in theſe things; and he that layeth them up in his heart ſhall become wiſe.

29 For if he do them he ſhall be ſtrong to all things: for the light of the Lord leadeth him, who giveth wiſdom to the godly. Bleſſed be the Lord for ever. Amen, amen.

CHAP. LI.

A prayer of Jeſus the ſon of Sirach.

I WILL thank thee, O Lord and King, and praiſe thee, O God, my Saviour, I do give praiſe unto thy name:

2 For thou art my defender and helper, and haſt preſerved my body from deſtruction, and from the ſnare of the ſlanderous tongue, and from the lips that forge lies, and haſt been mine helper againſt mine adverſaries:

3 And haſt delivered me according to the multitude of thy mercies, and greatneſs of thy name, from the teeth of them that were ready to devour me, and out of

COMMENTARY on Chap. XLIX.

10 And of the twelve prophets let the memorial be bleſſed, &c.) He ſpeaks here of the twelve minor prophets, as they are called, whoſe prophecies compleat the Old Teſtament canon. From the mention of this here, it ſeems manifeſt, that the canon of the ſacred books was already made, when this tract of Eccleſiaſticus was compoſed, and the prophecies digeſted into one body: and that the Old Teſtament was in the ſame order that it now is, with reſpect to the prophetical writing at leaſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. LI.

1 I will thank thee, O Lord and King, &c.) The firſt part of this chapter contains a prayer of Jeſus the ſon of Sirach. The purport of which is to pay his grateful acknowledgments to God for the many mercies and deliverances he had experienced in the courſe of his life; and, from the ſeveral topics of his thankſgiving we may learn the different kinds of troubles, difficulties, diſtreſſes, and dangers, with which he had been afflicted and ſurrounded; and from which, upon his earneſt ſolicitations at the throne of grace, he had been happily delivered.

the hands of ſuch as ſought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had;

4 From the choaking of fire on every ſide, and from the midſt of the fire which I kindled not;

5 From the depth of the belly of hell, from an unclean tongue, and from lying words:

6 By an accuſation to the king from an unrighteous tongue, my ſoul drew near even unto death, my life was near to the hell beneath.

7 They compaſſed me on every ſide, and there was no man to help me: I looked for the ſuccour of men, but there was none.

8 Then thought I upon thy mercy, O Lord, and upon thy acts of old, how thou deliverеſt ſuch as wait for thee, and ſaveſt them out of the hands of the enemies.

9 Then lifted I up my ſupplication from the earth, and prayed for deliverance from death.

10 I called upon the Lord, the Father of my Lord, that he would not leave me in the days of my trouble, and in the time of the proud, when there was no help.

11 I will praiſe thy name continually, and will ſing praiſe with thankſgiving; and ſo my prayer was heard;

12 For thou ſavedſt me from deſtruction, and deliveredſt me from the evil time: therefore will I give thanks, and praiſe thee, and bleſs thy name, O Lord.

13 When I was yet young, or ever I went abroad, I deſired wiſdom openly in my prayer.

14 I prayed for her before the temple, and will ſeek her out even to the end.

15 Even from the flower, till the grape was ripe, hath my heart delighted in her; my foot went the right way, from my youth up ſought I after her.

16 I bowed down mine ear a little, and received her, and gat much learning.

17 I profited therein, therefore will I aſcribe the glory unto him that giveth me wiſdom.

18 For I purpoſed to do after her, and earneſtly I followed that which is good; ſo ſhall I not be confounded.

19 My ſoul hath wreſtled with her, and in my doings I was exact: I ſtretched forth my hands to the heaven above, and bewailed my ignorances of her.

20 I directed my ſoul unto her, and I found her in pureneſs; I have had my heart joined with her from the beginning, therefore ſhall I not be forſaken.

21 My heart was troubled in ſeeking her: therefore have I gotten a good poſſeſſion.

22 The Lord hath given a tongue for my reward, and I will praiſe him therewith.

23 Draw near unto me, ye unlearned, and dwell in the houſe of learning.

24 Wherefore are ye ſlow, and what ſay ye of theſe things, ſeeing your ſouls are very thirſty!

25 I opened my mouth, and ſaid, Buy her for yourſelves without money.

26 Put your neck under the yoke, and let your ſoul receive inſtruction; ſhe is hard at hand to find.

27 Behold with your eyes, how that I have had but little labour, and have gotten unto me much reſt.

28 Get learning with a great ſum of money, and get much gold by her.

29 Let your ſoul rejoice in his mercy, and be not aſhamed of his praiſe.

30 Work your work betimes, and in his time he will give you your reward.

BARUCH.

THE ARGUMENT.

In the reign of Jehoiachim, king of Judah, while Jeremiah was in priſon, this prophet received orders from the Lord to ſet down in writing all the prophecies which he had written 'till that time. He therefore ſent for Baruch, the ſon of Neraiah, of an illuſtrious birth, and of the tribe of Judah, who was his ſecretary while he lived, and dictated them by heart to him.

CHAP. I.

1 Baruch wrote a book in Babylon: 5 the Jews there wept at the reading of it.

AND theſe are the words of the book which Baruch the ſon of Nerias, the ſon of Maaſias, the ſon of Sedecias, the ſon of Aſadias, the ſon of Chelcias, wrote in Babylon,

2 In the fifth year, and in the ſeventh day of the month, what time as the Chaldeans took Jeruſalem, and burnt it with fire.

3 And Baruch did read the words of this book in the hearing of Jechonias the ſon of Joachim king of Juda, and in the ears of all the people that came to hear the book,

4 And in the hearing of the nobles, and of the king's ſons, and in the hearing of the elders, and of all the people from the loweſt unto the higheſt, even of all them that dwelt at Babylon by the river Sud.

5 Whereupon they wept, faſted and prayed, before the Lord.

6 They made alſo a collection of money, according to every man's power.

7 And they ſent it to Jeruſalem unto Joachim the high prieſt, the ſon of Chelcias, ſon of Salom, and to the prieſts, and to all the people which were found with him at Jeruſalem.

8 At the ſame time when he received the veſſels of the houſe of the Lord, that were carried out of the temple, to return them into the land of Juda, the tenth day of the month Sivan, namely, ſilver veſſels, which Sedecias the ſon of Joſias king of Juda had made.

9 After that Nabuchodonoſor king of Babylon had carried away Jechonias, and the princes and the captives, and the mighty men, and the people of the land, from Jeruſalem, and brought them unto Babylon.

10 And they ſaid, Behold, we have ſent you money to buy you burnt-offerings, and ſin-offerings, and incenſe, and prepare ye manna, and offer upon the altar of the Lord our God;

11 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonoſor king of Babylon, and for the life of Balthaſar his ſon, that their days may be upon earth as the days of heaven:

12 And the Lord will give us ſtrength, and lighten our eyes, and we ſhall live under the ſhadow of Nabuchodonoſor king of Babylon, and under the ſhadow of Balthaſar his ſon, and we ſhall ſerve them many days, and find favour in their ſight.

13 Pray for us alſo unto the Lord our God, for we have ſinned againſt the Lord our God, and unto this day the fury of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from us.

14 And ye ſhall read this book which we have ſent unto you, to make confeſſion in the houſe of the Lord, upon the feaſts and ſolemn days;

15 And ye ſhall ſay, To the Lord our God belongeth righteouſneſs, but unto us the confuſion of faces, as it is come to paſs this day unto them of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem,

16 And to our kings, and to our princes, and to our prieſts, and to our prophets, and to our fathers.

17 For we have ſinned before the Lord,

18 And diſobeyed him, and have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in the commandments that he gave us openly:

19 Since the day that the Lord brought our forefathers out of the land of Egypt, unto this preſent day, we have been diſobedient unto the Lord our God, and we have been negligent in not hearing his voice.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 And theſe are the words of the book, &c.) After Baruch has given us his own genealogy, he informs us of the preciſe time of his reading this book to the people, elders, and nobility, then reſiding in Babylon, and of what happened thereupon, namely, that the people were ſo ſenſibly affected by it, that they made a collection, and ſent it, together with this book, to Joachim the high prieſt at Jeruſalem; at the ſame time that the king of Babylon returned the holy veſſels he had taken out of the temple. He intimates alſo the deſign for which the money had been collected among the Jews at Babylon, namely, to buy the offerings and incenſe which were to be prepared for the altar of the Lord at Jeruſalem; and exhorts them to pray for the life of the king and his ſon, that ſo they who were yet captives in Babylon might live peaceably and quietly under that government; and that they would ſupplicate the Almighty to turn away his wrath from them. He likewiſe orders them to read this book; and preſcribes to them the form and term of their humiliations and prayers, which conſiſt in acknowledging the righteouſneſs of God, and the juſtice of their own ſufferings and puniſhment.

20 Wherefore the evils cleaved unto us, and the curſe which the Lord appointed by Moſes his ſervant, at the time that he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to give us a land that floweth with milk and honey, like as it is to ſee, this day.

21 Nevertheleſs, we have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, according unto all the words of the prophets, whom he ſent unto us:

22 But every man followed the imagination of his own wicked heart, to ſerve ſtrange gods, and to do evil in the ſight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

The prayer and confeſſion which the Jews at Babylon made.

THEREFORE the Lord hath made good his word, which he pronounced againſt us, and againſt our judges that judged Iſrael, and againſt our kings, and againſt our princes, and againſt the men of Iſrael and Juda,

2 To bring upon us great plagues, ſuch as never happened under the whole heaven, as it came to paſs in Jeruſalem, according to the things that were written in the law of Moſes;

3 That a man ſhould eat the fleſh of his own ſon, and the fleſh of his own daughter.

4 Moreover, he hath delivered them to be in ſubjection to all the kingdoms that are round about us, to be as a reproach and deſolation among all the people round about, where the Lord hath ſcattered them.

5 Thus we were caſt down, and not exalted, becauſe we have ſinned againſt the Lord our God, and have not been obedient unto his voice.

6 To the Lord our God appertaineth righteouſneſs: but unto us and to our fathers open ſhame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all theſe plagues are come upon us, which the Lord hath pronounced againſt us.

8 Yet have we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turn every one from the imaginations of his wicked heart.

9 Wherefore the Lord watched over us for evil, and the Lord hath brought it upon us, for the Lord is righteous in all his works which he hath commanded us.

10 Yet we have not hearkened unto his voice, to walk in the commandments of the Lord, that he hath ſet before us.

11 And now, O Lord God of Iſrael, that haſt brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and high arm, and with ſigns, and with wonders, and with great power, and haſt gotten thyſelf a name, as appeareth this day:

12 O Lord our God, we have ſinned, we have done ungodly, we have dealt unrighteouſly in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turn from us: for we are but a few left among the heathen where thou haſt ſcattered us.

14 Hear our prayers, O Lord, and our petitions, and deliver us for thine own ſake, and give us favour in the ſight of them which have led us away:

15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, becauſe Iſrael and his poſterity is called by thy name.

16 O Lord, look down from thy holy houſe, and conſider us: bow down thine ear, O Lord, to hear us.

17 Open thine eyes, and behold, for the dead that are in the graves, whoſe ſouls are taken from their bodies, will give unto the Lord neither praiſe nor righteouſneſs:

18 But the ſoul that is greatly vexed, which goeth ſtooping and feeble, and the eyes that fail, and the hungry ſoul, will give thee praiſe and righteouſneſs, O Lord.

19 Therefore we do not make our humble ſupplication before thee, O Lord our God, for the righteouſneſs of our fathers, and of our kings.

20 For thou haſt ſent out thy wrath and indignation upon us, as thou haſt ſpoken by thy ſervants the prophets, ſaying,

21 Thus ſaith the Lord, Bow down your ſhoulders to ſerve the king of Babylon: ſo ſhall ye remain in the land that I gave unto your fathers.

22 But if ye will not hear the voice of the Lord, to ſerve the king of Babylon,

23 I will cauſe to ceaſe out of the cities of Juda, and from without Jeruſalem, the voice of mirth, and the voice of joy, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: and the whole land ſhall be deſolate of inhabitants.

24 But we would not hearken unto thy voice to ſerve the king of Babylon: therefore haſt thou made good the words that thou ſpakeſt by thy ſervants the prophets, namely, that the bones of our kings, and the bones of our fathers, ſhould be taken out of their places.

25 And lo, they are caſt out to the heat of the day, and to the froſt of the night, and they died in great miſeries by famine, by ſword, and by peſtilence.

26 And the houſe which is called by thy name (haſt thou laid waſte) as it is to be ſeen this day, for the wickedneſs of the houſe of Iſrael, and the houſe of Juda.

27 O Lord our God, thou haſt dealt with us after all thy goodneſs, and according to all that great mercy of thine:

28 As thou ſpakeſt by thy ſervant Moſes, in the day when thou didſt command him to write thy law before the children of Iſrael, ſaying,

29 If ye will not hear my voice, ſurely this very great multitude ſhall be turned into a ſmall number among the nations where I will ſcatter them.

30 For I knew that they would not hear me, becauſe it is a ſtiff-necked people: but in the land of their captivities they ſhall remember themſelves,

31 And ſhall know that I am the Lord their God: for I will give them an heart, and ears to hear.

32 And they ſhall praiſe me in the land of their captivity, and think upon my name,

33 And return from their ſtiff-neck, and from their wicked deeds: for they ſhall remember the way of their fathers, which ſinned before the Lord.

34 And I will bring them again into the land which

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 O Lord Almighty, God of Iſrael, &c) The Jews in captivity proceed in their prayer and confeſſion, begun in the preceding chaper. —In the bitterneſs of their anguiſh, they pour out complaints and ſupplications to the Almighty, beſeeching him to regard their extreme afflictions, and to bury in oblivion the iniquity of their fathers. They conceive hopes of his mercy, becauſe he had inclined their hearts to call upon his name, and to praiſe him in their captivity; and remind him of their ſufferings and ſlavery in their preſent ſubjection, inflicted on them in conſequence of the ſins of their progenitors. At the end of the prayer and confeſſion, Baruch, addreſſing himſelf to Iſrael, intreats them to hearken to the inſtructions of wiſdom. He interrogates them concerning the length of their captivity, and the cauſe of their pollutions in a ſtrange country. The cauſe was plain; namely, their contempt of wiſdom, and diſobedience to the law of God. Dear bought experience may now inform them wherein wiſdom conſiſts, and, conſequently, how to obtain a prolongation of life and temporal happineſs. Few are poſſeſſed of wiſdom; ſo that the princes of the heathens, philoſophers, and inventors of fables, in vain pretend to a true knowledge of her. The giants of old, renowned for their ſkill and exploits in arms, were ignorant of her. She is not to be purchaſed with gold; her conſtant reſidence is only with the Omniſcient God; he gave her to Jacob, and afterwards clothed her with humanity, and ſent her, in the perſon of his own ſon, to converſe with men.

I promiſed with an oath unto their fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and they ſhall be lords of it: and I will increaſe them, and they ſhall not be diminiſhed.

35 And I will make an everlaſting covenant with them to be their God, and they ſhall be my people: and I will no more drive my people of Iſrael out of the land that I have given them.

CHAP. III.

The reſt of their prayer and confeſſion contained in that book which Baruch wrote, and ſent to Jeruſalem.

O LORD Almighty, God of Iſrael, the ſoul in anguiſh, the troubled ſpirit crieth unto thee.

2 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy; for thou art merciful: and have pity upon us, becauſe we have ſinned before thee.

3 For thou endureſt for ever, and we periſh utterly.

4 O Lord Almighty, thou God of Iſrael, hear now the prayers of the dead Iſraelites, and of their children, which have ſinned before thee, and not hearkened unto the voice of thee their God: for the which cauſe theſe plagues cleave unto us.

5 Remember not the iniquities of our forefathers: but think upon thy power and thy name now at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God; and thee, O Lord, will we praiſe.

7 And for this cauſe thou haſt put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we ſhould call upon thy name, and praiſe thee in our captivity: for we have called to mind all the iniquity of our forefathers, that ſinned before thee.

8 Behold, we are yet this day in our captivity, where thou haſt ſcattered us for a reproach and a curſe, and to be ſubject to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which departed from the Lord our God.

9 Hear, Iſrael, the commandments of life: give ear to underſtand wiſdom.

10 How happeneth it, Iſrael, that thou art in thine enemies' land, that thou art waxen old in a ſtrange country, that thou art defiled with the dead,

11 That thou art counted with them that go down into the grave?

12 Thou haſt forſaken the fountain of wiſdom.

13 For if thou hadſt walked in the way of God, thou ſhouldeſt have dwelled in peace for ever.

14 Learn where is wiſdom, where is ſtrength, where is underſtanding; that thou mayeſt know alſo where is length of days and life, where is the light of the eyes and peace.

15 Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treaſures?

16 Where are the princes of the heathen become, and ſuch as ruled the beaſts upon the earth;

17 They that had their paſtime with the fowls of the air, and they that hoarded up ſilver and gold, wherein men truſt, and made no end of their getting?

18 For they that wrought in ſilver, and were ſo careful, and whoſe works are unſearchable,

19 They are vaniſhed, and gone down to the grave, and others are come up in their ſteads.

20 Young men have ſeen light, and dwelt upon the earth: but the way of knowledge have they not known,

21 Nor underſtood the paths thereof, nor laid hold of it; their children were far off from that way.

22 It hath not been heard of in Chanaan, neither hath it been ſeen in Theman.

23 The Agarenes that ſeek wiſdom upon earth, the merchants of Merran, and of Theman, the authors of fables, and ſearchers out of underſtanding; none of theſe have known the way of wiſdom, or remember her paths.

24 O Iſrael, how great is the houſe of God! and how large is the place of his poſſeſſion!

25 Great, and hath none end; high, and unmeaſurable.

26 There were the giants famous from the beginning, that were of ſo great ſtature, and ſo expert in war.

27 Thoſe did not the Lord chooſe, neither gave he the way of knowledge unto them:

28 But they were deſtroyed, becauſe they had no wiſdom, and periſhed through their own fooliſhneſs.

29 Who hath gone up into heaven and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds?

30 Who hath gone over the ſea, and found her, and will bring her for pure gold?

31 No man knoweth her way, nor thinketh of her path.

32 But he that knoweth all things knoweth her, and hath found her out with his underſtanding: he that prepared the earth for evermore, hath filled it with four-footed beaſts:

33 He that ſendeth forth light, and it goeth, calleth it again, and it obeyeth him with fear.

34 The ſtars ſhined in their watches, and rejoiced: when he calleth them, they ſay, Here we be; and ſo with cheerfulneſs they ſhewed light unto him that made them.

35 This is our God, and there ſhall none other be accounted of in compariſon of him.

36 He hath found out all the way of knowledge, and hath given it unto Jacob his ſervant, and to Iſrael his beloved.

37 Afterward did he ſhew himſelf upon earth, and converſed with men.

CHAP. IV.

The book of the commandments is that wiſdom which was commended in the former chapter.

THIS is the book of the commandments of God, and the law that endureth for ever: all they that keep it ſhall come to life; but ſuch as leave it ſhall die.

2 Turn thee, O Jacob, and take hold of it; walk in the preſence of the light thereof, that thou mayeſt be illuminated.

3 Give not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable unto thee to a ſtrange nation.

4 O Iſrael, happy are we: for things that are pleaſing to God are made known unto us.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

1 This is the book of the commandments of God, &c.) Baruch commends this book as containing God's everlaſting law; and that thoſe who obſerve and obtain it, ſhall obtain life; but the tranſgreſſors of it, certain death. He therefore exhorts them to lay hold of it, that their minds may be illuminated thereby. He comforts his brethren with the conſideration, that the will of God is made known to them; and that though, by reaſon of their ſins, they were captives in a ſtrange land, and Jeruſalem, for the iniquities of its inhabitants, was deſolate and laid waſte, yet God would deliver them from their enemies: and therefore that it was their duty to humble themſelves in prayer to the Almighty; whence he was confident that God would ſpeedily appear in mercy to them; that their neighbours and enemies, who had triumphed in their misfortunes, ſhould ſee the ſalvation which God would ſend them, and that they themſelves ſhould ſoon behold the deſtruction of their perſecutors. From all which he takes occaſion to comfort Jeruſalem, and encourages her to hope, aſſuring her that joy and ſalvation were juſt ready to meet her.

5 Be of good cheer, my people, the memorial of Iſrael.

6 Ye were ſold to the nations, not for (your) deſtruction: but becauſe ye moved God to wrath, ye were delivered unto the enemies.

7 For ye provoked him that made you, by ſacrificing unto devils, and not to God.

8 Ye have forgotten the everlaſting God that brought you up; and ye have grieved Jeruſalem that nurſed you.

9 For when ſhe ſaw the wrath of God coming upon you, ſhe ſaid, Hearken, O ye that dwell about Sion: God hath brought upon me great mourning;

10 For I ſaw the captivity of my ſons and daughters, which the Everlaſting brought upon them.

11 With joy did I nouriſh them; but ſent them away with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man rejoice over me a widow, and forſaken of many, who, for the ſins of my children, am left deſolate; becauſe they departed from the law of God.

13 They knew not his ſtatutes, nor walked in the ways of his commandments, nor trode in the paths of diſcipline in his righteouſneſs.

14 Let them that dwell about Sion come; and remember ye the captivity of my ſons and daughters, which the Everlaſting hath brought upon them.

15 For he hath brought a nation upon them from far, a ſhameleſs nation, and of a ſtrange language, who neither reverenced old man, nor pitied child.

16 Theſe have carried away the dear beloved children of the widow, and left her that was alone deſolate without daughters.

17 But what can I help you?

18 For he that brought theſe plagues upon you, will deliver you from the hands of your enemies.

19 Go your way, O my children, go your way: for I am left deſolate.

20 I have put off the clothing of peace, and put upon me the ſackcloth of my prayer: I will cry unto the Everlaſting in my days.

21 Be of good cheer, O my children, cry unto the Lord, and he ſhall deliver you from the power and hand of the enemies.

22 For my hope is in the Everlaſting, that he will ſave you, and joy is come unto me from the Holy One, becauſe of the mercy which ſhall ſoon come unto you from the Everlaſting our Saviour.

23 For I ſent you out with mourning and weeping; but God will give you to me again with joy and gladneſs for ever.

24 Like as now the neighbours of Sion have ſeen your captivity; ſo ſhall they ſee ſhortly your ſalvation from our God, which ſhall come upon you with great glory, and brightneſs of the Everlaſting.

25 My children, ſuffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you from God: for thine enemy hath perſecuted thee: but ſhortly thou ſhalt ſee his deſtruction, and ſhalt tread upon his neck.

26 My delicate ones have gone rough ways, and were taken away as a flock caught of the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, O my children, and cry unto God: for ye ſhall be remembered of him that brought theſe things upon you.

28 For as it was your mind to go aſtray from God: ſo being returned, ſeek him ten times more.

29 For he that hath brought theſe plagues upon you, ſhall bring you everlaſting joy again with your ſalvation.

30 Take a good heart, O Jeruſalem: for he that gave thee that name will comfort thee.

31 Miſerable are they that afflicted thee, and rejoiced at thy fall.

32 Miſerable are the cities which thy children ſerved: miſerable is ſhe that received thy ſons.

33 For as ſhe rejoiced at thy ruin, and was glad of thy fall: ſo ſhall ſhe be grieved for her own deſolation.

34 For I will take away the rejoicing of her great multitude, and her pride ſhall be turned into mourning.

35 For fire ſhall come upon her from the Everlaſting, long to endure, and ſhe ſhall be inhabited of devils for a great time.

36 O Jeruſalem, look about thee toward the eaſt, and behold the joy that cometh unto thee from God.

37 Lo, thy ſons come whom thou ſenteſt away, they come gathered together from the eaſt to the weſt, by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

CHAP. V.

Jeruſalem is moved to rejoice.

PUT off, O Jeruſalem, the garment of thy mourning and affliction, and put on the comelineſs of the glory that cometh from God for ever.

2 Caſt about thee a double garment of the righteouſneſs which cometh from God; and ſet a diadem on thine head of the glory of the Everlaſting.

3 For God will ſhew thy brightneſs unto every country under heaven.

4 For thy name ſhall be called of God for ever, The peace of righteouſneſs; and, The glory of God's worſhip.

5 Ariſe, O Jeruſalem, and ſtand on high, and look about toward the eaſt, and behold thy children gathered from the weſt unto the eaſt by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they departed from thee on foot, and were led away of their enemies: but God bringeth them unto thee, exalted with glory, as children of the kingdom.

7 For God hath appointed that every high hill, and banks of long continuance, ſhould be caſt down, and vallies filled up, to make even the ground, that Iſrael may go ſafely in the glory of God.

8 Moreover, even the woods, and every ſweet-ſmelling tree, ſhall overſhadow Iſrael, by the commandment of God.

9 For God ſhall lead Iſrael with joy, in the light of his glory, with the mercy and righteouſneſs that cometh from him.

THE EPISTLE OF JEREMY.

CHAP. VI.

The cauſe of their captivity is their ſin.

A COPY of an epiſtle, which Jeremy ſent unto them which were to be led captives into Babylon, by the king of the Babylonians, to certify them, as it was commanded him of God.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 A copy of an epiſtle, which Jeremy ſent, &c.) If this epiſtle was written by the prophet Jeremiah, it was undoubtedly penned immediately upon the taking of Jeruſalem by the Chaldeans, and while the people were in the enemy's camp, and not yet carried out of the land into their captivity. When the city was ſeized, Jeremiah had his liberty granted him to reſide where he pleaſed, and he choſe to remain in Judea with the remnant of the people that were left; it is therefore probable that he wrote it to his brethren, juſt upon the point of taking their journey to go into captivity, in order to inſtruct them how to conduct themſelves in the country into which they were to be carried; and as their continuance in bondage was to be very long, he particularly cautions them againſt the idolatries which they would ſee very frequent in Babylon. The gods which were worſhipped there, and the folly of ſuch homage, are very minutely deſcribed, the better to recommend to the people a conſtant and aſſiduous worſhip of the only true God, the Creator of all things, and ſole Governor of the univerſe.

2 Becauſe

2 Becauſe of the ſins which ye have committed before God, ye ſhall be led away captives into Babylon by Nabuchodonoſor king of the Babylonians.

3 So when ye be come unto Babylon, ye ſhall remain there many years, and for a long ſeaſon, namely, ſeven generations; and after that I will bring you away peaceably from thence.

4 Now ſhall ye ſee in Babylon gods of ſilver, and of gold, and of wood, borne upon ſhoulders, which cauſe the nations to fear.

5 Beware therefore, that ye in no wiſe be like to ſtrangers, neither be ye afraid of them, when ye ſee the multitude before them and behind them, worſhipping them.

6 But ſay ye in your hearts, O Lord, we muſt worſhip thee.

7 For mine angel is with you, and I myſelf caring for your ſouls.

8 As for their tongue it is poliſhed by the workman, and they themſelves are gilded, and laid over with ſilver; yet are they but falſe, and cannot ſpeak.

9 And taking gold as it were for a virgin that loveth to go gay, they make crowns for the heads of their gods.

10 Sometimes alſo the prieſts convey from their gods gold and ſilver, and beſtow it upon themſelves.

11 Yea, they will give thereof to the common harlots, and deck them as men with garments, (being) gods of ſilver, and gods of gold, and wood.

12 Yet cannot theſe gods ſave themſelves from ruſt and moths, though they be covered with purple raiment.

13 They wipe their faces becauſe of the duſt of the temple, when there is much upon them.

14 And he that cannot put to death one that offendeth him holdeth a ſceptre, as though he were a judge of the country.

15 He hath alſo in his right hand a dagger and an axe; but cannot deliver himſelf from war and thieves.

16 Whereby they are known not to be gods: therefore fear them not.

17 For like as a veſſel that a man uſeth is nothing worth when it is broken; even ſo it is with their gods; when they be ſet up in the temple, their eyes be full of duſt through the feet of them that come in.

18 And as the doors are made ſure on every ſide upon him that offendeth the king, as being committed to ſuffer death; even ſo the prieſts make faſt their temples, with doors, with locks and bars, leſt their gods be ſpoiled with robbers.

19 They light them candles, yea, more than for themſelves, whereof they cannot ſee one.

20 They are as one of the beams of the temple, yet they ſay their hearts are gnawed upon by things creeping out of the earth, and when they eat them and their clothes, they feel it not.

21 Their faces are blacked through the ſmoke that cometh out of the temple.

22 Upon their bodies and heads ſit bats, ſwallows and birds, and the cats alſo.

23 By this ye may know that they are no gods: therefore fear them not.

24 Notwithſtanding, the gold that is about them to make them beautiful, except they wipe off the ruſt, they will not ſhine: for neither when they were molten, did they feel it.

25 The things wherein there is no breath are bought for a moſt high price.

26 They are borne upon ſhoulders, having no feet, whereby they declare unto men that they be nothing worth.

27 They alſo that ſerve them are aſhamed; for if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot riſe up again of themſelves: neither if one ſet them upright, can they move of themſelves: neither if they be bowed down, can they make themſelves ſtraight: but they ſet gifts before them as unto dead men.

28 As for the things that are ſacrificed unto them, their prieſts ſell and abuſe: in like manner their wives lay up part thereof in ſalt, but unto the poor and impotent they give nothing of it.

29 Menſtruous women, and women in child-bed, eat their ſacrifices: by theſe things ye may know that they are no gods: fear them not.

30 For how can they be called gods? becauſe women ſet meat before the gods of ſilver, gold, and wood.

31 And the prieſts ſit in their temples, having their clothes rent, and their heads and beards ſhaven, and nothing upon their heads.

32 They roar and cry before their gods, as men do at a feaſt when one is dead.

33 The prieſts alſo take off their garments, and clothe their wives and children.

34 Whether it be evil that one doeth unto them, or good, they are not able to recompenſe it: they can neither ſet up a king, nor put him down.

35 In like manner, they can neither give riches nor money: though a man make a vow unto them, and keep it not, they will not require it.

36 They can ſave no man from death, neither deliver the weak from the mighty.

37 They cannot reſtore a blind man to his ſight, nor help any man in his diſtreſs.

38 They can ſhew no mercy to the widow, nor do good to the fatherleſs.

39 Their gods of wood, and which are overlaid with gold and ſilver, are like the ſtones that be hewn out of the mountain: they that worſhip them ſhall be confounded.

40 How ſhould a man then think and ſay that they are gods, when even the Chaldeans themſelves diſhonour them?

41 Who if they ſhall ſee one dumb that cannot ſpeak, they bring him, and entreat Bel that he may ſpeak, as though he were able to underſtand.

42 Yet they cannot underſtand this themſelves, and leave them: for they have no knowledge.

43 The women alſo with cords about them, ſitting in the ways, burn bran for perfume: but if any of them, drawn by ſome that paſſeth by, lie with him, ſhe reproacheth her fellow, that ſhe was not thought as worthy as herſelf, nor her cord broken.

44 Whatſoever is done among them is falſe: how may it then be thought or ſaid that they are gods?

45 They are made of carpenters and goldſmiths; they can be nothing elſe than the workmen will have them to be.

46 And they themſelves that made them can never continue long; how ſhould then the things that are made of them be gods?

47 For they left lies and reproaches to them that come after.

48 For when there cometh any war or plague upon them, the prieſts conſult with themſelves where they may be hidden with them.

49 How then cannot men perceive that they be no gods, which can neither ſave themſelves from war, nor from plague?

50 For, ſeeing they be but of wood, and overlaid with ſilver and gold, it ſhall be known hereafter that they are falſe:

51 And it ſhall manifeſtly appear to all nations and kings kings that they are no gods, but the works of men's hands, and that there is no work of God in them.

52 Who then may not know that they are no gods?

53 For neither can they ſet up a king in the land, nor give rain unto men.

54 Neither can they judge their own cauſe, nor redreſs a wrong, being unable: for they are as crows between heaven and earth.

55 Whereupon, when fire falleth upon the houſe of gods of wood, or laid over with gold or ſilver, their prieſts will flee away, and eſcape; but they themſelves ſhall be burnt aſunder like beams.

56 Moreover, they cannot withſtand any king or enemies; how can it then be thought or ſaid that they be gods?

57 Neither are thoſe gods of wood, and laid over with ſilver, or gold, able to eſcape either from thieves or robbers.

58 Whoſe gold, and ſilver, and garments wherewith they are clothed, they that are ſtrong do take, and go away withal: neither are they able to help themſelves.

59 Therefore it is better to be a king that ſheweth his power, or elſe a profitable veſſel in an houſe, which the owner ſhall have uſe of, than ſuch falſe gods; or to be a door in an houſe, to keep ſuch things ſafe as be therein, than ſuch falſe gods; or a pillar of wood in a palace, than ſuch falſe gods.

60 For ſun, moon, and ſtars, being bright, and ſent to do their offices, are obedient.

61 In like manner the lightning, when it breaketh forth, is eaſy to be ſeen, and after the ſame manner the wind bloweth in every country.

62 And when God commandeth the clouds to go over the whole world, they do as they are bidden.

63 And the fire ſent from above to conſume hills, and woods, doeth as it is commanded: but theſe are like unto them neither in ſhew nor power.

64 Wherefore it is neither to be ſuppoſed nor ſaid, that they are gods, ſeeing they are able neither to judge cauſes, nor to do good unto men.

65 Knowing therefore that they are no gods, fear them not:

66 For they can neither curſe nor bleſs kings.

67 Neither can they ſhew ſigns in the heavens among the heathen, nor ſhine as the ſun, nor give light as the moon.

68 The beaſts are better than they: for they can get under a covert, and help themſelves.

69 It is then by no means manifeſt unto us that they are gods: therefore fear them not.

70 For as a ſcarecrow in a garden of cucumbers keepeth nothing: ſo are their gods of wood, and laid over with ſilver and gold:

71 And likewiſe their gods of wood, and laid over with ſilver and gold, are like to a white thorn in an orchard, that every bird ſitteth upon: as alſo to a dead body that is caſt into the dark.

72 And ye ſhall know them to be no gods, by the bright purple that rotteth upon them; and they themſelves afterward ſhall be eaten, and ſhall be a reproach in the country.

73 Better therefore is the juſt man that hath none idols; for he ſhall be far from reproach.

THE SONG

OF THE

THREE HOLY CHILDREN:

Which followeth in the third chapter of Daniel, after this place, " Fell down bound into the midſt of the burning fiery furnace." That which followeth is not in the Hebrew, to wit, " And they walked," unto theſe words, " Then Nebuchadnezzar," verſe 24.

Azarias his prayer and confeſſion. 28 The ſong of the three children in the oven.

AND they walked in the midſt of the fire, praiſing God, and bleſſing the Lord.

2 Then Azarias ſtood up, and prayed on this manner; and opening his mouth in the midſt of the fire, ſaid,

3 Bleſſed art thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy name is worthy to be praiſed and glorified for evermore:

For thou art righteous in all the things that thou hast done to us, yea, true are all thy works, thy ways are right, and all thy judgments truth.

5 In all the things that thou haſt brought upon us, and upon the holy city of our fathers, even Jeruſalem, thou haſt executed true judgment: for according to truth and judgment didſt thou bring all theſe things upon us, becauſe of our ſins.

6 For we have ſinned, and committed iniquity, departing from thee.

7 In all things have we treſpaſſed, and not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou haſt commanded us, that it might go well with us.

8 Wherefore all that thou haſt brought upon us, and every thing that thou haſt done to us, thou haſt done in true judgment.

9 And thou didſt deliver us into the hands of lawleſs enemies, moſt hateful forſakers of God, and to an unjuſt king, and the moſt wicked in all the world.

10 And now we cannot open our mouths, we are become a ſhame and reproach to thy ſervants, and to them that worſhip thee.

11 Yet deliver us not up wholly, for thy name's ſake, neither diſannul thou thy covenant:

12 And cauſe not thy mercy to depart from us, for thy beloved Abraham's ſake, for thy ſervant Iſaac's ſake, and for thy holy Iſrael's ſake;

13 To whom thou haſt ſpoken and promiſed, That thou wouldeſt multiply their ſeed as the ſtars of heaven, and as the ſand that lieth upon the ſea-ſhore.

14 For we, O Lord, are become leſs than any nation, and be kept under this day in all the world, becauſe of our ſins.

15 Neither is there at this time prince, or prophet,

COMMENTARY on the SONG of the THREE CHILDREN.

1 And they walked in the midſt of the fire, &c.) No ſooner were theſe three brethren fallen into the midſt of the fiery furnace, the flame of which was ſo furious that it deſtroyed thoſe who were appointed executioners of this tyrannic degree, but they immediately got on their feet; and by the aſſiſtance of an angel, who was viſibly preſent to ſecure them from the fierceneſs of the fire, they not only retained the full uſe of their limbs, but the faculties of ſpeech and reaſon, as free and perfect as though they had been quite at large. This they rightly judged was the fitteſt occaſion that poſſibly could have offered, to ſet forth and proclaim the glory of the true God, whom they worſhipped, and who now ſo eminently appeared to defend them from the rage of the flames, and the fury of a bigotted tyrant. Accordingly Azarias opens his mouth in the midſt of the fire with a prayer to God, in which he confeſſes the juſtice of the Almighty in puniſhing their nation for their innumerable tranſgreſſions of his law, and the repeated provocations which they had given him: yet he beſeeches the Lord that he would graciouſly accept of them, ſince, with the utmoſt humility and contrition of heart, they made their preſent ſupplications to him, and truſted wholly to his mercy for deliverance; and that, by his appearing for them at this juncture, his enemies might be confounded, and forced to acknowledge him to be the only true God. When Azarias had finiſhed his prayer, finding that the fire had no power to hurt or touch their bodies, they all three joined in a ſong of praiſe to God.

or leader, or burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, or oblation, or incenſe, or place to ſacrifice before thee, and to find mercy.

16 Nevertheleſs, in a contrite heart and an humble ſpirit, let us be accepted.

17 Like as in the burnt-offerings of rams and bullocks, and like as in ten thouſands of fat lambs: ſo let our ſacrifice be in thy ſight this day, and grant that we may wholly go after thee: for they ſhall not be confounded that put their truſt in thee.

18 And now we follow thee with all our heart, we fear thee, and ſeek thy face.

19 Put us not to ſhame; but deal with us after thy loving-kindneſs, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

20 Deliver us alſo according to thy marvellous works, and give glory to thy name, O Lord: and let all them that do thy ſervants hurt be aſhamed;

21 And let them be confounded in all their power and might, and let their ſtrength be broken;

22 And let them know that thou art Lord, the only God, and glorious over the whole world.

23 And the king's ſervants, that put them in, ceaſed not to make the oven hot with roſin, pitch, tow, and ſmall wood.

24 So that the flame ſtreamed forth above the furnace forty and nine cubits.

25 And it paſſed through, and burnt thoſe Chaldeans it found about the furnace.

26 But the angel of the Lord came down into the oven, together with Azarias and his fellows, and ſmote the flame of the fire out of the oven;

27 And made the midſt of the furnace as it had been a moiſt whiſtling wind, ſo that the fire touched them not at all, neither hurt nor troubled them.

28 Then the three, as out of one mouth, praiſed, glorified, and bleſſed God in the furnace, ſaying,

29 Bleſſed art thou, O Lord God of our fathers: and to be praiſed and exalted above all for ever.

30 And bleſſed is thy glorious and holy name: and to be praiſed and exalted above all for ever.

31 Bleſſed art thou in the temple of thine holy glory: and to be praiſed and glorified above all for ever.

32 Bleſſed art thou that beholdeſt the depths, and ſitteſt upon the cherubims: and to be praiſed and exalted above all for ever.

33 Bleſſed art thou on the glorious throne of thy kingdom: and to be praiſed and glorified above all for ever.

34 Bleſſed art thou in the firmament of heaven: and above all to be praiſed and glorified for ever.

35 O all ye works of the Lord, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

36 O ye heavens, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

37 O ye angels of the Lord, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

38 O all ye waters that be above the heaven, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

44 O ye fire and heat, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all.

45 O ye winter and ſummer, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

46 O ye dews and ſtorms of ſnow, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

47 O ye nights and days, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

48 O ye light and darkneſs, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

49 O ye ice and cold, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

50 O ye froſt and ſnow, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

51 O ye lightnings and clouds, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

52 O let the earth bleſs the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

53 O ye mountains and little hills, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

54 O all ye things that grow on the earth, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

55 O ye fountains, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

56 O ye ſeas and rivers, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

57 O ye whales, and all that move in the waters, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

58 O all ye fowls of the air, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

59 O all ye beaſts and cattle, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

60 O ye children of men, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

61 O Iſrael, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

62 O ye prieſts of the Lord, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

63 O ye ſervants of the Lord, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

64 O ye ſpirits and ſouls of the righteous, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

65 O ye holy and humble men of heart, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever.

66 O Ananias, Azarias, and Miſael, bleſs ye the Lord: praiſe and exalt him above all for ever. For he hath delivered us from hell, and ſaved us from the hand of death, and delivered us out of the midſt of the burning fiery furnace, and burning flame: even out of the midſt of the fire hath he delivered us.

67 O give thanks unto the Lord, becauſe he is gracious: for his mercy endureth for ever.

68 O all ye that worſhip the Lord, bleſs the God of gods, praiſe him, and give him thanks: for his mercy endureth for ever.

THE HISTORY OF SUSANNA,

Set apart from the Beginning of Daniel, becauſe it is not in the Hebrew, as neither the Narration of Bel and the Dragon.

THE ARGUMENT.

This hiſtory is not in the Hebrew of the book of Daniel, to which it has been added in the Latin vulgate, as tranſlated from the Greek of Theodotian. Many have looked upon it only as a pious fable, invented in order to give a ſample of a chaſte and faithful ſpouſe; and ſo not only deny it the quality of a divine writing, but even of a true hiſtory.

Two judges hide themſelves in the garden of Suſanna, to have their pleaſure of her.

THERE dwelt a man in Babylon, called Joacim:

2 And he took a wife, whoſe name was Suſanna, the daughter of Chelcias, a very fair woman, and one that feared the Lord.

3 Her parents alſo were righteous, and taught their daughter according to the law of Moſes.

4 Now Joacim was a great rich man, and had a fair garden joining unto his houſe: and to him reſorted the Jews; becauſe he was more honourable than all others.

5 The ſame year were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be judges, ſuch as the Lord ſpake ſalem, tho' wickedneſs came from Babylon from ancient to truth, who ſeemed to govern the people.
upon us. heſe kept much at Joacim's houſe; and all that 6 Fo[illegible]y ſuits in law came unto them.
parting Now, when the people departed away at noon,
7 I[illegible]nna went into her huſband's garden to walk.
And the two elders ſaw her going in every day,
Co[illegible]d walking, ſo that hteir luſt was inflamed toward her.

9 And they perverted their own mind, and turned away their eyes, that they might not look unto heaven, nor remember juſt judgments.

10 And albeit they both were wounded with their love, yet durſt not one ſhew another his grief.

11 For they were aſhamed to declare their luſt, that they deſired to have to do with her.

12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to ſee her.

13 And the one ſaid to the other, Let us now go home: for it is dinner-time.

14 So when they were gone out, they parted the one from the other, and turning back again they came to the ſame place: and after that they had aſked one another the cauſe, they acknowledged their luſt: then appointed they a time both together, when they might find her alone.

15 And it fell out, as they watched a fit time, ſhe went in as before, with two maids only, and ſhe was deſirous to waſh herſelf in the garden: for it was hot.

16 And there was nobody there, ſave the two elders that had hid themſelves, and watched her.

17 Then ſhe ſaid to her maids, Bring me oil and waſhing-balls, and ſhut the garden doors, that I may waſh me.

18 And they did as ſhe bade them, and ſhut the gar-

COMMENTARY on the HISTORY of SUSANNA.

1 There dwelt a man in Babylon, called Joacim.) In this hiſtory of Suſanna we have an account of her huſband's and her own family. She dwelt at Babylon, being carried thither into captivity with her huſband. She was a woman of extraordinary beauty, and of as much piety and fear of God. The captive Jews, who were then at Babylon, uſed to aſſemble at Joacim's houſe for the determination of their affairs; and every year they appointed two judges for the deciſion of ſuch difficulties as might ariſe with regard to themſelves, that they might not be obliged to have recourſe to heathens, in order to decide cauſes among the Iſraelites. This was doubtleſs a very proper meaſure; and had the actions of theſe judges been directed only by virtue and juſtice, they would have proved ſerviceable to the ſons of Jacob. But, alas! inſtead of being guided by ſuch worthy principles, they followed the dictates of their own luſt, and even attempted to take away the life of the innocent.

den doors, and went out themſelves at privy doors to fetch the things that ſhe had commanded them: but they ſaw not the elders, becauſe they were hid.

19 Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders roſe up, and ran unto her, ſaying,

20 Behold, the garden doors are ſhut, that no man can ſee us, and we are in love with thee; therefore conſent unto us, and lie with us.

21 If thou wilt not, we will bear witneſs againſt thee, that a young man was with thee; and therefore thou didſt ſend away thy maids from thee.

22 Then Suſanna ſighed, and ſaid, I am ſtraitened on every ſide: for if I do this thing, it is death unto me: and if I do it not, I cannot eſcape your hands.

23 It is better for me to fall into your hands, and not do it, than to ſin in the ſight of the Lord.

24 With that Suſanna cried with a loud voice; and the two elders cried out againſt her.

25 Then ran the one, and opened the garden door.

26 So when the ſervants of the houſe heard the cry in the garden, they ruſhed in at a privy door, to ſee what was done unto her.

27 But when the elders had declared their matter, the ſervants were greatly aſhamed: for there was never ſuch a report made of Suſanna.

28 And it came to paſs the next day, when the people were aſſembled to her huſband Joacim, the two elders came alſo full of miſchievous imagination againſt Suſanna, to put her to death.

29 And ſaid before the people, Send for Suſanna, the daughter of Chelcias, Joacim's wife. And ſo they ſent.

30 So ſhe came with her father and mother, her children, and all her kindred.

31 Now Suſanna was a very delicate woman, and beauteous to behold.

32 And theſe wicked men commanded to uncover her face, (for ſhe was covered,) that they might be filled with her beauty.

33 Therefore her friends and all that ſaw her wept.

34 Then the two elders ſtood up in the midſt of the people, and laid their hands upon her head.

35 And ſhe, weeping, looked up towards heaven: for her heart truſted in the Lord.

36 And the elders ſaid; As we walked in the garden alone, this woman came in with two maids, and ſhut the garden doors, and ſent the maids away.

37 Then a young man, who was there hid, came unto her, and lay with her.

38 Then we that ſtood in a corner of the garden, ſeeing this wickedneſs, ran unto them.

39 And when we ſaw them together, the man we could not hold: for he was ſtronger than we, and opened the door, and leaped out.

40 But having taken this woman, we aſked who the young man was, but ſhe would not tell us: theſe things do we teſtify.

41 Then the aſſembly believed them, as thoſe that were the elders and judges of the people: ſo they condemned her to death.

42 Then Suſanna cried out with a loud voice, and ſaid, O everlaſting God, that knoweſt the ſecrets, and knoweſt all things before they be,

43 Thou knoweſt that they have borne falſe witneſs againſt me, and behold, I muſt die; whereas I never did ſuch things as theſe men have maliciouſly invented againſt me.

44 And the Lord heard her voice.

45 Therefore, when ſhe was led to be put to death, the Lord raiſed up the holy ſpirit of a young youth, whoſe name was Daniel;

46 Who cried with a loud voice, I am clear from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turned them towards him, and ſaid, What mean theſe words that thou haſt ſpoken?

48 So he, ſtanding in the midſt of them, ſaid, Are ye ſuch fools, ye ſons of Iſrael, that, without examination or knowledge of the truth, ye have condemned a daughter of Iſrael.

49 Return again to the place of judgment: for they have borne falſe witneſs againſt her.

50 Wherefore all the people turned again in haſte, and the elders ſaid unto him, Come, ſit down among us, and ſhew it us, ſeeing God hath given thee the honour of an elder.

51 Then ſaid Daniel unto them, Put theſe two aſide, one far from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put aſunder one from another, he called one of them, and ſaid unto him, O thou that art waxen old in wickedneſs, now thy ſins which thou haſt committed aforetime are come to light:

53 For thou haſt pronounced falſe judgment, and haſt condemned the innocent, and haſt let the guilty go free; albeit the Lord ſaith, The innocent and righteous ſhalt thou not ſlay.

54 Now then, if thou haſt ſeen her, tell me, Under what tree ſaweſt thou them companying together? Who anſwered, Under a maſtick-tree.

55 And Daniel ſaid, Very well; thou haſt lied againſt thine own head: for even now the angel of God hath received the ſentence of God to cut thee in two.

56 So he put him aſide, and commanded to bring the other, and ſaid unto him, O thou ſeed of Chanaan, and not of Juda, beauty hath deceived thee, and luſt hath perverted thine heart.

57 Thus have ye dealt with the daughters of Iſrael, and they for fear companied with you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickedneſs.

58 Now, therefore, tell me, Under what tree didſt thou take them companying together? Who anſwered, Under an holm-tree.

59 Then ſaid Daniel unto him, Well; thou haſt alſo lied againſt thine own head: for the angel of God waiteth with the ſword to cut thee in two, that he may deſtroy you.

60 With that all the aſſembly cried out with a loud voice, and praiſed God who ſaveth them that truſt in him.

61 And they aroſe againſt the two elders, (for Daniel had convicted them of falſe witneſs by their own mouth,)

62 And, according to the law of Moſes, they did unto them in ſuch ſort as they maliciouſly intended to do to their neighbour: and they put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was ſaved the ſame day.

63 Therefore Chelcias and his wife praiſed God for their daughter Suſanna, with Joacim her huſband, and all the kindred, becauſe there was no diſhoneſty found in her.

64 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the ſight of the people.

42 O everlaſting God, that knoweſt the ſecrets, &c.) Suſanna had no other way of vindicating her innocence, than by appealing to the Moſt High. She therefore directed her prayers to Him that was able to ſave; to that Being who is of purer eyes than to behold iniquity, and who will ſurely puniſh the wickedneſs of the children of men. She therefore addreſſed herſelf to him, called him to witneſs her innocence, and make it appear before the children of her people. Nor were her prayers in vain; the Almighty heard her from his radiant throne, and inſpired Daniel with wiſdom to deliver her.

THE

HISTORY OF THE DESTRUCTION

OF

BEL AND THE DRAGON:

Cut off from the End of DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

This hiſtory is wholly fabulous and apocryphal; as will evidently appear by comparing it with the true narrative of Daniel, with regard to the real grounds of the malice and hatred which the great men of the Babyloniſh court had conceived againſt him, and which induced them to petition the king to have him thrown into the den of lions: for it will thence appear that both narratives cannot be true; but as that in the canonical book is not to be diſputed, this muſt be fabulous.

19 The fraud of Bel's prieſts is diſcovered by Daniel,
27 and the dragon ſlain which was worſhipped.

AND king Aſtyages was gathered to his fathers, and Cyrus of Perſia received his kingdom.

2 And Daniel converſed with the king, and was honoured above all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idol called Bel, and there was ſpent upon him every day twelve great meaſures of fine flour, and forty ſheep, and ſix veſſels of wine.

4 And the king worſhipped it, and went daily to adore it: but Daniel worſhipped his own God. And the king ſaid unto him, Why doſt not thou worſhip Bel?

5 Who anſwered and ſaid, Becauſe I may not worſhip idols, made with hands, but the living God, who hath created the heaven and the earth, and hath ſovereignty over all fleſh.

6 Then ſaid the king unto him, Thinkeſt thou not that Bel is a living god? ſeeſt thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day?

7 Then Daniel ſmiled, and ſaid, O king, be not deceived: for this is but clay within, and braſs without, and did never eat or drink any thing.

8 So the king was wroth, and called for his prieſts, and ſaid unto them, If ye tell me not who this is that devoureth theſe expences, ye ſhall die.

9 But if ye can certify me, that Bel devoureth them, then Daniel ſhall die: for he hath ſpoken blaſphemy againſt Bel. And Daniel ſaid unto the king, Let it be according to thy word.

10 (Now the prieſts of Bel were threeſcore and ten, beſide their wives and children) and the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bel's prieſts ſaid, Lo, we go out: but thou, O king, ſet on the meat, and make ready the wine, and ſhut the door faſt, and ſeal it with thine own ſignet.

12 And to-morrow, when thou comeſt in, if thou findeſt not that Bel hath eaten up all, we will ſuffer death: or elſe Daniel that ſpeaketh falſely againſt us.

13 And they little regarded it: for under the table they had made a privy entrance, whereby they entered in continually, and conſumed thoſe things.

14 So when they were gone forth, the king ſet meats before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his ſervants to bring aſhes, and thoſe they ſtrewed throughout all the temple, in the preſence of the king alone: then

COMMENT. on the HISTORY of BEL & DRAGON.

2 And Daniel converſed with the king, &c.) In order to give an air of truth and importance to this hiſtory, Daniel, who, by his conſummate wiſdom and wonderful knowledge in divine myſteries, was become the moſt famous perſon in that part of the world, is introduced as the principal actor in this affair; and indeed the ſtory is told in a plain ſimple manner, and the reflections, which naturally ariſe from reading it, deſerve ſome regard.

went

went they out, and ſhut the door, and ſealed it with the king's ſignet, and ſo departed.

15 Now in the night came the prieſts with their wives and children (as they were wont to do) and did eat and drink up all.

16 In the morning betime the king aroſe, and Daniel with him.

17 And the king ſaid, Daniel, are the ſeals whole? And he ſaid, Yea, O king, they be whole.

18 And as ſoon as he had opened the door, the king looked upon the table, and cried with a loud voice, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit at all.

19 Then laughed Daniel, and held the king, that he ſhould not go in, and ſaid, Behold now the pavement, and mark well whoſe footſteps are theſe.

20 And the king ſaid, I ſee the footſteps of men, women, and children. And then the king was angry, 21 And took the prieſts, with their wives and children, who ſhewed him the privy door, where they came in, and conſumed ſuch things as were upon the table.

22 Therefore the king ſlew them, and delivered Bel into Daniel's power, who deſtroyed him and his temple.

23 And in that ſame place there was a great dragon, which they of Babylon worſhipped.

24 And the king ſaid unto Daniel, Wilt thou alſo ſay that this is of braſs? lo, he liveth, he eateth and drinketh, thou canſt not ſay that he is no living god; therefore worſhip him.

25 Then ſaid Daniel unto the king, I will worſhip the Lord my God: for he is the living God.

26 But give me leave, O king, and I ſhall ſlay this dragon without ſword or ſtaff. The king ſaid, I give thee leave.

27 Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hair, and did ſeethe them together, and made lumps thereof: this he put in the dragon's mouth, and ſo the dragon burſt in ſunder: and Daniel ſaid, Lo, theſe are the gods ye worſhip.

28 When they of Babylon heard that, they took great indignation, and conſpired againſt the king, ſaying, The king is become a Jew, and he hath deſtroyed Bel, he hath ſlain the dragon, and put the prieſts to death.

29 So they came to the king, and ſaid, Deliver us Daniel, or elſe we will deſtroy thee and thine houſe.

30 Now when the king ſaw that they preſſed him ſore, being conſtrained, he delivered Daniel unto them;

31 Who caſt him into the lions' den; where he was ſix days.

32 And in the den there were ſeven lions, and they had given them every day two carcaſes, and two ſheep; which then were not given to them, to the intent they might devour Daniel.

33 Now there was in Jewry a prophet called Habbacuc, who had made pottage, and had broken bread in a bowl, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers.

34 But the angel of the Lord ſaid unto Habacuc, Go, carry the dinner that thou haſt into Babylon, unto Daniel, who is in the lions' den.

35 And Habbacuc ſaid, Lord, I never ſaw Babylon; neither do I know where the den is.

36 Then the angel of the Lord took him by the crown, and bare him by the hair of his head, and through the vehemency of his ſpirit ſet him in Babylon over the den.

37 And Habbacuc cried, ſaying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner which God hath ſent thee.

38 And Daniel ſaid, Thou haſt remembered me, O God; neither haſt thou forſaken them that ſeek thee, and love thee.

39 So Daniel aroſe, and did eat; and the angel of the Lord ſet Habbacuc in his own place again immediately.

40 Upon the ſeventh day the king went to bewail Daniel; and when he came to the den, he looked in, and behold, Daniel was ſitting.

41 Then cried the king with a loud voice, ſaying, Great art thou, O Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other beſides thee.

42 And he drew him out, and caſt thoſe that were the cauſe of his deſtruction into the den: and they were devoured in a moment before his face.

---

28 When they of Babylon heard that, &c.) Though the deſign of Daniel was conſiſtent and praiſe-worthy, both with regard to reaſon and religion, as his actions tended only to expoſe the wicked devices of theſe prieſts, yet the effect of bigotry and ſuperſtition was great: the people were ſo enraged at the deſtruction of their gods, that nothing would ſatisfy them but the blood of him who had removed the veil of falſhood; and proved, beyond the poſſibility of contradiction, that they had been vilely impoſed upon by crafty men. Accordingly, Daniel is thrown into the lions' den; but thoſe ſavage creatures, inſtead of deſtroying, fawn'd upon him. This deliverance erected a noble monument to the glory of that God whom alone he worſhipped.

THE PRAYER

OF

MANASSES, KING OF JUDA,

When he was holden Captive in BABYLON.

THE ARGUMENT.

This prayer, though truly pious, and full of divine ſentiments, was never known to the ancient Jewiſh church. And it ſeems more likely to be the form of a prayer compoſed for the uſe of ſome great prince, who, conſcious of his own wickedneſs, repented of his ſins, and ſet himſelf to ſeek the Lord with his whole heart, as probably Manaſſes did when he was carried priſoner to Babylon, than a prayer actually made by himſelf. This at leaſt is the opinion of the learned concerning this compoſition.

O LORD, Almighty God of our fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and of their righteous ſeed; who haſt made heaven and earth, with all the ornament thereof; who haſt bound the ſea by the word of thy commandment; who haſt ſhut up the deep, and ſealed it by thy terrible and glorious name; whom all men fear, and tremble before thy power; for the majeſty of thy glory cannot be borne, and thine angry threatening towards ſinners is importable: but thy merciful promiſe is unmeaſurable and unſearchable; for thou art the Moſt High Lord, of great compaſſion, long-ſuffering, very merciful, and repenteſt of the evils of men. Thou, O Lord, according to thy great goodneſs, haſt promiſed repentance and forgiveneſs to them that have ſinned againſt thee; and of thine infinite mercies haſt appointed repentance unto ſinners, that they may be ſaved. Thou therefore, O Lord, that art the God of the juſt, haſt not appointed repentance to the juſt, as to Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, which have not ſinned againſt thee; but thou haſt appointed repentance unto me that am a ſinner; for I have ſinned above the number of the ſands of the ſea. My tranſgreſſions, O Lord, are multiplied; my tranſgreſſions are multiplied, and I am not worthy to behold and ſee the height of heaven, for the multitude of mine iniquities. I am bowed down with many iron bands, that I cannot lift up mine head, neither have any releaſe; for I have provoked thy wrath, and done evil before thee; I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandments: I have ſet up abominations, and have multiplied offences. Now therefore I bow the knee of mine heart, beſeeching thee of grace: I have ſinned, O Lord, I have ſinned, and I acknowledge mine iniquities: wherefore I humbly beſeech thee, forgive me, O Lord, forgive me, and deſtroy me not with mine iniquities. Be not angry with me for ever, by reſerving evil for me; neither condemn me into the lower parts of the earth. For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent; and in me thou wilt ſhew all thy goodneſs; for thou wilt ſave me that am unworthy, according to thy great mercy. Therefore I will praiſe thee for ever all the days of my life; for all the powers of the heavens do praiſe thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

REMARKS on the PRAYER of MANASSES.

O Lord, Almighty God of our fathers, &c.) The author begins his prayer very properly with an addreſs to the God of the Jewiſh patriarchs: for from whom elſe could a Jewiſh prince in diſtreſs expect relief and deliverance, but from that divine aſſiſtance, which, on ſo many ſignal occaſions, had been eminently diſplayed in favour of his forefathers? In the next place he raiſed his thoughts to contemplate the omnipotence of God in the creation and formation of the univerſe, and ſeems aſtoniſhed at the wonderful contrivances and the beautiful diſpoſition of all his works: but when he conſiders the majeſty and glory of Jehovah, and the terrors of his juſtice to ſinners, he is ſtruck with wonder and amazement, 'till he recollects the infinite goodneſs of the Almighty, the thought of which baniſhes deſpair, and gives him hopes of mercy and ſalvation. He therefore humbly lays hold of the promiſe of pardon which God has declared he will beſtow on repenting ſinners; confeſſes his numerous tranſgreſſions, with their many heinous aggravations; owns the juſtice of his puniſhment, and beſeeches the Lord to avert his anger from him, and ſave him from hell and eternal deſtruction, which he acknowledges his ſins had moſt righteouſly deſerved.

THE

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE

MACCABEES.

THE ARGUMENT.

The two following books are ſo called from Judas the ſon of Mattathias, ſurnamed Maccabees, or Aſmoneus, the latter being the name of this family. It was originally written in the Chaldee language, or that ſpoken by the Jews after their return from Babylon: in which language it was extant in St. Jerome's time. The author is not certainly known; but the moſt probable opinion is, that it was compoſed in the time of John Hircanus, when the wars of the Maccabees were over, either by Hircanus himſelf, who was prince and high-prieſt of the Jews near thirty years, and began his government at the time where this hiſtory ends, or by ſome others employed by him.

CHAP. I.

14 Antiochus gave leave to ſet up the faſhions of the Gentiles in Jeruſalem, 22 and ſpoiled it, and the temple in it.

AND it happened, after that Alexander, ſon of Philip the Macedonian, who came out of the land of Chettim, had ſmitten Darius king of the Perſians and Medes, that he reigned in his ſtead, the firſt over Greece,

2 And made many wars, and won many ſtrong holds, and ſlew the kings of the earth,

3 And went through to the ends of the earth, and took ſpoils of many nations, inſomuch that the earth was quiet before him; whereupon he was exalted, and his heart was lifted up.

4 And he gathered a mighty ſtrong hoſt, and ruled over countries, and nations, and kings, who became tributaries unto him.

5 And after theſe things he fell ſick, and perceived that he ſhould die.

6 Wherefore he called his ſervants, ſuch as were honourable, and had been brought up with him from his youth, and parted his kingdom among them, while he was yet alive.

7 So Alexander reigned twelve years, and then died.

8 And his ſervants bare rule every one in his place.

9 And after his death they all put crowns upon themſelves: ſo did their ſons after them many years: and evils were multiplied in the earth.

10 And there came out of them a wicked root, Antiochus ſurnamed Epiphanes, ſon of Antiochus the king, who had been an hoſtage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundred and thirty and ſeventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

11 In thoſe days went there out of Iſrael wicked men, who perſuaded many, ſaying, Let us go and make a covenant with the heathen that are round about us: for ſince we departed from them we have had much ſorrow.

12 So this device pleaſed them well.

13 Then certain of the people were ſo forward herein, that they went to the king, who gave them licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen:

14 Whereupon they built a place of exerciſe at Jeruſalem, according to the cuſtoms of the heathen:

15 And made themſelves uncircumciſed, and forſook the holy covenant, and joined themſelves to the heathen, and were ſold to do miſchief.

16 Now when the kingdom was eſtabliſhed before Antiochus, he thought to reign over Egypt, that he might have the dominion of two realms.

17 Wherefore he entered into Egypt with a great multitude, with chariots, and elephants, and horſemen, and a great navy,

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 And it happened after that Alexander, ſon of Philip, &c.) By Greece is here meant the kingdoms of Syria and Egypt. By Chettim is meant Macedonia: and the ſmiting here mentioned relates to the battle of Arbela, in which Alexander gained ſo complete a victory as got him Darius's kingdom.

11 Wicked men, who perſuaded many, &c.) The wicked men, here ſpoken of, were Manelaus and the ſons of Tobijoh, who propoſed to the people that they ſhould make a covenant with Antiochus, and, in order to make it the firmer, embrace their religious ceremonies. They aſſigned a falſe reaſon for the evils which they ſuffered, namely, their forſaking of the worſhip of the falſe gods; whereas they had been releaſed from their captivity in a wonderful manner, upon forſaking that worſhip and turning to the true God.

18 And made war againſt Ptolemee king of Egypt: but Ptolemee was afraid of him, and fled; and many were wounded to death.

19 Thus they got the ſtrong cities in the land of Egypt, and he took the ſpoils thereof.

20 And after that Antiochus had ſmitten Egypt, he returned again in the hundred forty and third year, and went up againſt Iſrael and Jeruſalem with a great multitude,

21 And entered proudly into the ſanctuary, and took away the golden altar, and the candleſtick of light, and all the veſſels thereof,

22 And the table of the ſhew-bread, and the pouring veſſels, and the vials, and the cenſers of gold, and the veil, and the crowns, and the golden ornaments that were before the temple, all which he pulled off.

23 He took alſo the ſilver and the gold, and the precious veſſels: alſo he took the hidden treaſures which he found.

24 And when he had taken all away, he went into his own land, having made a great maſſacre, and ſpoken very proudly.

25 Therefore there was great mourning in Iſrael, in every place where they were:

26 So that the princes and elders mourned, the virgins and young men were made feeble, and the beauty of women was changed.

27 Every bridegroom took up lamentation, and ſhe that ſat in the marriage-chamber was in heavineſs.

28 The land alſo was moved for the inhabitants thereof, and all the houſe of Jacob was covered with confuſion.

29 And after two years fully expired, the king ſent his chief collector of tribute unto the cities of Juda, who came unto Jeruſalem with a great multitude,

30 And ſpake peaceable words unto them, but all was deceit: for when they had given him credence, he fell ſuddenly upon the city, and ſmote it very ſore, and deſtroyed much people of Iſrael.

31 And when he had taken the ſpoils of the city, he ſet it on fire, and pulled down the houſes and walls thereof on every ſide.

32 But the women and children took they captive, and poſſeſſed the cattle.

33 Then builded they the city of David with a great and ſtrong wall, and with mighty powers, and made it a ſtrong hold for them.

34 And they put therein a ſinful nation, wicked men, and fortified themſelves therein.

35 They ſtored it alſo with armour and victuals; and when they had gathered together the ſpoils of Jeruſalem, they laid them up there, and ſo they became a ſore ſnare:

36 For it was a place to lie in wait againſt the ſanctuary, and an evil adverſary to Iſrael.

37 Thus they ſhed innocent blood on every ſide of the ſanctuary, and defiled it:

38 Inſomuch that the inhabitants of Jeruſalem fled becauſe of them: whereupon the city was made an habitation of ſtrangers, and became ſtrange to thoſe that were born in her, and her own children left her.

39 Her ſanctuary was laid waſte like a wilderneſs, her feaſts were turned into mourning, her ſabbaths into reproach, her honour into contempt.

40 As had been her glory, ſo was her diſhonour increaſed, and her excellency was turned into mourning.

41 Moreover, king Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all ſhould be one people,

42 And every one ſhould leave his laws; ſo all the heathen agreed, according to the commandment of the king.

43 Yea, many alſo of the Iſraelites conſented to his religion, and ſacrificed unto idols, and profaned the ſabbath.

44 For the king had ſent letters by meſſengers unto Jeruſalem, and the cities of Juda, that they ſhould follow the ſtrange laws of the land,

45 And forbid burnt-offerings, and ſacrifice, and drink-offerings in the temple; and that they ſhould profane the ſabbaths and feſtival days:

46 And pollute the ſanctuary and holy people:

47 Set up altars and groves, and chapels of idols, and ſacrifice ſwine's fleſh and unclean beaſts:

48 That they ſhould alſo leave their children uncircumciſed, and make their ſouls abominable with all manner of uncleanneſs and profanation;

49 To the end they might forget the law, and change all the ordinances.

50 And whoſoever would not do according to the commandment of the king, he ſaid, he ſhould die.

51 In the ſelf ſame manner wrote he to his whole kingdom, and appointed overſeers over all the people, commanding the cities of Juda to ſacrifice, city by city.

52 Then many of the people were gathered unto them, to wit, every one that forſook the law, and ſo they committed evils in the land:

53 And drove the Iſraelites into ſecret places, even whereſoever they could flee for ſuccour.

54 Now the fifteenth day of the month Caſleu, in the hundred forty and fifth year, they ſet up the abomination of deſolation upon the altar, and builded idol altars throughout the cities of Juda on every ſide;

55 And burnt incenſe at the doors of their houſes, and in the ſtreets.

56 And when they had rent in pieces the books of the law which they found, they burnt them with fire.

57 And whereſoever was found with any the book of the teſtament, or if any conſented to the law, the king's commandment was, that they ſhould put him to death.

58 Thus did they by their authority unto the Iſraelites every month, to as many as were found in the cities.

59 Now the five and twentieth day of the month they did ſacrifice upon the idol altar which was upon the altar of God.

60 At which time, according to the commandment, they put to death certain women, that had cauſed their children to be circumciſed.

61 And they hanged the infants about their necks, and rifled their houſes, and ſlew them that had circumciſed them.

62 Howbeit, many in Iſrael were fully reſolved and confirmed in themſelves, not to eat any unclean thing.

63 Wherefore they choſe rather to die, that they might not be defiled with meats, and that they might not profane the holy covenant: ſo then they died.

64 And there was very great wrath upon Iſrael.

CHAP. II.

6 Mattathias lamenteth the caſe of Jeruſalem.

IN thoſe days aroſe Mattathias the ſon of John, the ſon of Simeon, a prieſt of the ſons of Joarib, from Jeruſalem, and dwelt in Modin.

2 And he had five ſons, Joannan, called Caddis:

34 And they put therein a ſinful nation, &c.) This ſeems to ſignify, That to the garriſon which Antiochus placed there, many profligate and impious Jews joined themſelves.

59 They did ſacrifice upon the idol altar, &c.) They erected an altar to the idol upon the altar of God. This they did, probably, that they might put it out of the power of the pious Jews to make any offerings upon that altar; and the Jewiſh law did not allow of their making any altar elſewhere.

3 Simon, called Thaſſi:
4 Judas, who was called Maccabeus:
5 Eleazar, called Avaran: and Jonathan, whoſe ſurname was Apphus.
6 And when he ſaw the blaſphemies that were committed in Juda and Jeruſalem,
7 He ſaid, Woe is me! wherefore was I born to ſee this miſery of my people, and of the holy city, and to dwell there, when it was delivered into the hand of the enemy, and the ſanctuary into the hand of ſtrangers?
8 Her temple is become as a man without glory.
9 Her glorious veſſels are carried away into captivity; her infants are ſlain in the ſtreets, her young men with the ſword of the enemy.
10 What nation hath not had a part in her kingdom, and gotten of her ſpoils?
11 All her ornaments are taken away; of a free woman ſhe is become a bond ſlave.
12 And behold, our ſanctuary, even our beauty and our glory, is laid waſte, and the Gentiles have profaned it.
13 To what end therefore ſhall we live any longer?
14 Then Mattathias and his ſons rent their clothes, and put on ſackcloth, and mourned very ſore.
15 In the mean while the king's officers, ſuch as compelled the people to revolt, came into the city Modin, to make them ſacrifice.
16 And when many of Iſrael came unto them, Mattathias alſo and his ſons came together.
17 Then anſwered the king's officers, and ſaid to Mattathias on this wiſe, Thou art a ruler, and an honourable and great man in this city, and ſtrengthened with ſons and brethren:
18 Now therefore, come thou firſt, and fulfil the king's commandment, like as all the heathen have done, yea, and the men of Juda alſo, and ſuch as remain at Jeruſalem: ſo ſhalt thou and thy houſe be in the number of the king's friends, and thou and thy children ſhall be honoured with ſilver and gold, and many rewards.
19 Then Mattathias anſwered, and ſpake with a loud voice, Though all the nations that are under the king's dominion obey him, and fall away every one from the religion of their fathers, and give conſent to his commandments;
20 Yet will I, and my ſons, and my brethren, walk in the covenant of our fathers.
21 God forbid that we ſhould forſake the law and the ordinances.
22 We will not hearken to the king's words, to go from our religion, either on the right hand, or the left.
23 Now, when he had left ſpeaking theſe words, there came one of the Jews in the ſight of all to ſacrifice on the altar which was at Modin, according to the king's commandment.
24 Which thing when Mattathias ſaw, he was inflamed with holy zeal, and his reins trembled, neither could he forbear to ſhew his anger according to judgment: wherefore he ran and ſlew him upon the altar.
25 Alſo the king's commiſſioner, who compelled men to ſacrifice, he killed at that time, and the altar he pulled down.
26 Thus dealt he zealouſly for the law of God, like as Phinees did unto Zambri the ſon of Salom.
27 And Mattathias cried throughout the city with a loud voice, ſaying, Whoſoever is zealous of the law, and maintaineth the covenant, let him follow me.
28 So he and his ſons fled into the mountains, and left all that ever they had in the city.
29 Then many, that ſought after juſtice and judgment, went down into the wilderneſs to dwell there.
30 Both they, and their children, and their wives, and their cattle; becauſe afflictions increaſed ſore upon them.
31 Now when it was told the king's ſervants, and the hoſt that was at Jeruſalem in the city of David, that certain men, who had broken the king's commandment, were gone down into the ſecret places in the wilderneſs,
32 They purſued after them a great number; and having overtaken them, they camped againſt them, and made war againſt them on the ſabbath-day.
33 And they ſaid unto them, Let that which ye have done hitherto ſuffice; come forth, and do according to the commandment of the king, and ye ſhall live.
34 But they ſaid, We will not come forth, neither will we do the king's commandment, to profane the ſabbath-day.
35 So then they gave them the battle with all ſpeed.
36 Howbeit, they anſwered them not, neither caſt they a ſtone at them, nor ſtopped the places where they lay hid;
37 But ſaid, Let us die all in our innocency; heaven and earth ſhall teſtify for us, that ye put us to death wrongfully.
38 So they roſe up againſt them in battle on the ſabbath, and they ſlew them with their wives and children, and their cattle, to the number of a thouſand people.
39 Now, when Mattathias and his friends underſtood hereof, they mourned for them right ſore.
40 And one of them ſaid to another, If we all do as our brethren have done, and fight not for our lives and laws againſt the heathen, they will now quickly root us out of the earth.
41 At that time, therefore, they decreed, ſaying, Whoſoever ſhall come to make battle with us on the ſabbath-day, we will fight againſt him; neither will we die all, as our brethren that were murdered in the ſecret places.
42 Then came there unto him a company of Aſſideans, who were mighty men of Iſrael, even all ſuch as were voluntarily devoted unto the law.
43 Alſo all they that fled for perſecution joined themſelves unto them, and were a ſtay unto them.
44 So they joined their forces, and ſmote ſinful men in their anger, and wicked men in their wrath: but the reſt fled to the heathen for ſuccour.
45 Then Mattathias and his friends went round about, and pulled down the altars.
46 And what children ſoever they found within the coaſt of Iſrael uncircumciſed, thoſe they circumciſed valiantly.
47 They purſued alſo after the proud men, and the work proſpered in their hands.
48 So they recovered the law out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, neither ſuffered they the ſinner to triumph.
49 Now when the time drew near that Mattathias

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

42 Then came there unto him a company of Aſſideans, &c.) The Aſſideans ſeem to have been a ſect who were not only ſtrict in the obſervance of the divine laws in general, but obliged themſelves by particular ones, or did more than the law required. The meaning of ſuch as were voluntarily devoted unto the law ſeems to be, that they took up arms, tho' the law laid no obligation upon them to do ſo: for the doing of that for the ſervice or honour of God, which is not expreſsly commanded by the law, is called in ſcripture willingly offering; or, as it is expreſſed here, being voluntarily devoted.

ſhould

ſhould die, he ſaid unto his ſons, Now hath pride and rebuke gotten ſtrength, and the time of deſtruction, and the wrath of indignation:

50 Now therefore, my ſons, be ye zealous for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of your fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what acts our fathers did in their time; ſo ſhall ye receive great honour and an everlaſting name.

52 Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation, and it was imputed unto him for righteouſneſs?

53 Joſeph, in the time of his diſtreſs, kept the commandment, and was made lord of Egypt.

54 Phinees our father, in being zealous and fervent, obtained the covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood.

55 Jeſus, for fulfilling the word, was made a judge in Iſrael.

56 Caleb, for bearing witneſs before the congregation, received the heritage of the land.

57 David, for being merciful, poſſeſſed the throne of an everlaſting kingdom.

58 Elias, for being zealous and fervent for the law, was taken up into heaven.

59 Ananias, Azarias, and Miſael, by believing, were ſaved out of the flame.

60 Daniel, for his innocency, was delivered from the mouth of lions.

61 And thus conſider ye throughout all ages, that none that put their truſt in him ſhall be overcome.

62 Fear not then the words of a ſinful man; for his glory ſhall be dung and worms.

63 To-day he ſhall be lifted up, and to-morrow he ſhall not be found, becauſe he is returned into his duſt, and his thought is come to nothing.

64 Wherefore, ye my ſons, be valiant, and ſhew yourſelves men in the behalf of the law, for by it ſhall ye obtain glory.

65 And behold, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counſel; give ear unto him alway: he ſhall be a father unto you.

66 As for Judas Maccabeus, he hath been mighty and ſtrong, even from his youth up: let him be your captain, and fight the battle of the people.

67 Take alſo unto you all thoſe that obſerve the law, and avenge ye the wrong of your people.

68 Recompenſe fully the heathen, and take heed to the commandments of the law.

69 So he bleſſed them, and was gathered to his fathers.

70 And he died in the hundred forty and ſixth year, and his ſons buried him in the ſepulchres of his fathers, at Modin, and all Iſrael made great lamentation for him.

CHAP. III.

1 The valour of Judas Maccabeus: 10 he overthroweth the forces of Samaria and Syria.

THEN his ſon Judas, called Maccabeus, roſe up in his ſtead.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and ſo did all they that held with his father, and they fought with cheerfulneſs the battle of Iſrael.

3 So he gat his people great honour, and put on a breaſt-plate as a giant, and girt his warlike harneſs about him, and he made battles, protecting the hoſt with his ſword.

4 In his acts he was like a lion, and like a lion's whelp roaring for his prey.

5 For he purſued the wicked, and ſought them out, and burnt up thoſe that vexed his people.

6 Wherefore the wicked ſhrunk for fear of him, and all the workers of iniquity were troubled, becauſe ſalvation proſpered in his hand.

7 He grieved alſo many kings, and made Jacob glad with his acts, and his memorial is bleſſed for ever.

8 Moreover, he went through the cities of Juda, deſtroying the ungodly out of them, and turning away wrath from Iſrael:

9 So that he was renowned unto the utmoſt part of the earth, and he received unto him ſuch as were ready to periſh.

10 Then Apollonius gathered the Gentiles together, and a great hoſt out of Samaria, to fight againſt Iſrael.

11 Which thing when Judas perceived, he went forth to meet him, and ſo he ſmote him, and ſlew him: many alſo fell down ſlain, but the reſt fled.

12 Wherefore Judas took their ſpoils, and Apollonius' ſword alſo, and therewith he fought all his life long.

13 Now when Seron, a prince of the army of Syria, heard ſay that Judas had gathered unto him a multitude and company of the faithful, to go out with him to war,

14 He ſaid, I will get me a name and honour in the kingdom: for I will go fight with Judas, and them that are with him, who deſpiſe the king's commandment.

15 So he made him ready to go up, and there went with him a mighty hoſt of the ungodly to help him, and to be avenged of the children of Iſrael.

16 And when he came near to the going up of Bethhoron, Judas went forth to meet him with a ſmall company.

17 Who, when they ſaw the hoſt coming to meet them, ſaid unto Judas, How ſhall we be able, being ſo few, to fight againſt ſo great a multitude, and ſo ſtrong, ſeeing we are ready to faint with faſting all this day?

18 Unto whom Judas anſwered, It is no hard matter for many to be ſhut up in the hands of a few; and with the God of heaven it is all one to deliver with a great multitude, or a ſmall company;

19 For the victory of battle ſtandeth not in the multitude of an hoſt, but ſtrength cometh from heaven.

20 They come againſt us in much pride and iniquity, to deſtroy us and our wives and children, and to ſpoil us:

21 But we fight for our lives and our laws.

22 Wherefore the Lord himſelf will overthrow them before our face: and as for you, be ye not afraid of them.

23 Now as ſoon as he had left off ſpeaking, he leaped ſuddenly upon them, and ſo Seron and his hoſt were overthrown before him.

24 And they purſued them from the going down of Beth-horon, unto the plain, where were ſlain about eight hundred men of them; and the reſidue fled into the land of the Philiſtines.

25 Then began the fear of Judas and his brethren, and an exceeding great dread, to fall upon the nations round about them:

26 Inſomuch as his fame came unto the king, and all nations talked of the battles of Judas.

27 Now when king Antiochus heard theſe things, he was full of indignation: wherefore he ſent and ga-

52 Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation? &c.) Abraham's believing in God, or truſting firmly in his word or promiſe, notwithſtanding all appearances were againſt it, as when he was commanded to ſlay that ſon whereby he was to have the promiſed ſeed; and alſo before that, in verily believing he ſhould have a ſon by Sarai, upon God's promiſe, tho' he knew, in the natural courſe of things, that Sarai was paſt child-bearing. Theſe acts of ſtrong faith or confidence in God were imputed unto him for righteouſneſs, or conſidered as if he had done ſome ſignal righteous act.

68 Recompenſe fully the heathen, &c.) This concluſion of Mattathias's ſpeech is according to the notions entertained under the law, that to take revenge of their enemies was lawful and even commendable; but, under the goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt, we are taught not only to recompenſe fully to our enemies, but to forgive them entirely.

thered together all the forces of his realm, even a very ſtrong army.

28 He opened alſo his treaſure, and gave his ſoldiers pay for a year, commanding them to be ready whenſoever he ſhould need them.

29 Nevertheleſs, when he ſaw that the money of his treaſures failed, and that the tributes in the country were ſmall becauſe of the diſſenſion and plague which he had brought upon the land, in taking away the laws which had been of old time;

30 He feared that he ſhould not be able to bear the charges any longer, nor to have ſuch gifts to give ſo liberally as he did before: for he had abounded above the kings that were before him.

31 Wherefore, being greatly perplexed in his mind, he determined to go into Perſia, there to take the tributes of the countries, and to gather much money.

32 So he left Lyſias, a nobleman, and one of the blood-royal, to overſee the affairs of the king, from the river Euphrates, unto the borders of Egypt;

33 And to bring up his ſon Antiochus, until he came again.

34 Moreover, he delivered unto him the half of his forces, and the elephants, and gave him charge of all things that he would have done, as alſo concerning them that dwelt in Juda and Jeruſalem:

35 To wit, that he ſhould ſend an army againſt them, to deſtroy and root out the ſtrength of Iſrael and the remnant of Jeruſalem, and to take away their memorial from that place;

36 And that he ſhould place ſtrangers in all their quarters, and divide their land by lot.

37 So the king took the half of the forces that remained, and departed from Antioch his royal city, the hundred forty and ſeventh year; and having paſſed the river Euphrates, he went through the high countries.

38 Then Lyſias choſe Ptolomee, the ſon of Dorymenes, and Nicanor, and Gorgias, mighty men of the king's friends.

39 And with them he ſent forty thouſand footmen, and ſeven thouſand horſemen, to go into the land of Juda, and to deſtroy it as the king commanded.

40 So they went forth with all their power, and came and pitched by Emmaus, in the plain country.

41 And the merchants of the country, hearing the fame of them, took ſilver and gold very much, with ſervants, and came into the camp to buy the children of Iſrael for ſlaves: a power alſo of Syria, and of the land of the Philiſtines, joined themſelves unto them.

42 Now when Judas and his brethren ſaw that miſeries were multiplied, and that the forces did encamp themſelves in their borders, (for they knew how the king had given commandment to deſtroy the people, and utterly aboliſh them)

43 They ſaid one to another, Let us reſtore the decayed eſtate of our people, and let us fight for our people, and the ſanctuary.

44 Then was the congregation gathered together, that they might be ready for battle, and that they might pray, and aſk mercy and compaſſion.

45 Now Jeruſalem lay void as a wilderneſs, there was none of her children that went in or out: the ſanctuary alſo was trodden down, and aliens kept the ſtrong hold; the heathen had their habitation in that place; and joy was taken from Jacob, and the pipe with the harp ceaſed.

46 Wherefore the Iſraelites aſſembled themſelves together, and came to Maſpha, over againſt Jeruſalem: for in Maſpha was the place where they prayed aforetime in Iſrael.

47 Then they faſted that day, and put on ſackcloth, and caſt aſhes upon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And laid open the book of the law, wherein the heathen had ſought to paint the likeneſs of their images.

49 They brought alſo the prieſts' garments, and the firſt-fruits, and the tithes: and the Nazarites they ſtirred up, who had accompliſhed their days.

50 Then cried they with a loud voice toward heaven, ſaying, What ſhall we do with theſe, and whither ſhall we carry them away?

51 For thy ſanctuary is trodden down and profaned, and thy prieſts are in heavineſs, and brought low.

52 And, lo, the heathen are aſſembled together againſt us to deſtroy us: what things they imagine againſt us thou knoweſt.

53 How ſhall we be able to ſtand againſt them, except thou, O God, be our help.

54 Then ſounded they with trumpets, and cried with a loud voice.

55 And after this Judas ordained captains over the people, even captains over thouſands, and over hundreds, and over fifties, and over tens.

56 But as for ſuch as were building houſes, or had betrothed wives, or were planting vineyards, or were fearful, thoſe he commanded that they ſhould return, every man to his own houſe, according to the law.

57 So the camp removed, and pitched upon the ſouth ſide of Emmaus.

58 And Judas ſaid, Arm yourſelves, and be valiant men, and ſee that ye be in readineſs againſt the morning, that ye may fight with theſe nations that are aſſembled together againſt us, to deſtroy us and our ſanctuary:

59 For it is better for us to die in battle, than to behold the calamities of our people and our ſanctuary.

60 Nevertheleſs, as the will of God is in heaven, ſo let him do.

CHAP. IV.

1 Judas defeateth the plot, 14 and forces of Gorgias, 23 and ſpoileth their tents, &c.

THEN took Gorgias five thouſand foot-men, and a thouſand of the beſt horſemen, and removed out of the camp by night;

2 To the end he might ruſh in upon the camp of the Jews, and ſmite them ſuddenly. And the men of the fortreſs were his guides.

3 Now when Judas heard thereof, he himſelf removed, and the valiant men with him, that he might ſmite the king's army which was at Emmaus,

4 While as yet the forces were diſperſed from the camp.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

29 Nevertheleſs, when he ſaw that the money of his treaſures failed, &c.) Tyrants may learn from this, that their infringing upon the rights of their ſubjects, and depopulating countries by their tyranny, turns greatly to their loſs. The great tribute which Antiochus might have drawn from Judea, had he left them to the quiet poſſeſſion of their laws and privileges in their own country, dwindled to nothing upon his depriving them of theſe by violence and perſecution, and forcing them to quit the lands whence the king's revenues were to ariſe.

48 And laid open the book of the law, &c.) The Macedonians ſought to paint the likeneſs of their idols in the book of the law, that they might not only render it uſeleſs to the Jews, but grieve them ſore by ſeeing the ſacred book profaned by pictures of idols. —This ſeems to have been the book which had been uſed in the temple, and brought from thence when they fled out of Jeruſalem.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

4 While as yet the forces were diſperſed from the camp.) When this detached party was on their march from Gorgias' camp, to fall upon that of the Jews, Judas, having intelligence of it, decamped ſecretly, and by another route marched with all his forces, no more than three thouſand men, to Seron's camp, in order to attack him and his forty thouſand men in it, whilſt weakened by this detachment of ſeven thouſand under Gorgias.

5 In the mean ſeaſon came Gorgias by night into the camp of Judas; and when he found no man there, he ſought them in the mountains; for ſaid he, Theſe fellows flee from us.

6 But as ſoon as it was day, Judas ſhewed himſelf in the plain with three thouſand men, who, nevertheleſs, had neither armour nor ſwords to their minds.

7 And they ſaw the camp of the heathen, that it was ſtrong and well harneſſed, and compaſſed round about with horſemen; and theſe were expert of war.

8 Then ſaid Judas to the men that were with him, Fear ye not their multitude, neither be ye afraid of their aſſault.

9 Remember how our fathers were delivered in the Red Sea, when Pharaoh purſued them with an army.

10 Now, therefore, let us cry unto heaven, if peradventure the Lord will have mercy upon us, and remember the covenant of our fathers, and deſtroy this hoſt before our face this day:

11 That ſo all the heathen may know that there is one who delivereth and ſaveth Iſrael.

12 Then the ſtrangers lifted up their eyes, and ſaw them coming over againſt them.

13 Wherefore they went out of the camp to battle; but they that were with Judas ſounded their trumpets.

14 So they joined battle, and the heathen, being diſcomfited, fled into the plain.

15 Howbeit, all the hindmoſt of them were ſlain with the ſword; for they purſued them unto Gazera, and unto the plains of Idumea, and Azotus, and Jamnia; ſo that there were ſlain of them about three thouſand men.

16 This done, Judas returned again with his hoſt from purſuing them:

17 And ſaid to the people, Be not greedy of the ſpoils, inaſmuch as there is a battle before us.

18 And Gorgias and his hoſt are here by us in the mountain: but ſtand ye now againſt our enemies, and overcome them, and after this ye may boldly take the ſpoils.

19 As Judas was yet ſpeaking theſe words, there appeared a part of them looking out of the mountain;

20 Who when they perceived that the Jews had put their hoſt to flight, and were burning the tents (for the ſmoke that was ſeen declared what was done,)

21 When therefore they perceived theſe things, they were ſore afraid, and ſeeing alſo the hoſt of Judas in the plain ready to fight,

22 They fled every one into the land of ſtrangers.

23 Then Judas returned to ſpoil the tents, where they got much gold and ſilver, and blue ſilk, and purple of the ſea, and great riches.

24 After this they went home, and ſung a ſong of thankſgiving, and praiſed the Lord in heaven: becauſe it is good, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever.

25 Thus Iſrael had a great deliverance that day.

26 Now all the ſtrangers that had eſcaped, came and told Lyſias what had happened:

27 Who, when he heard thereof, was confounded and diſcouraged, becauſe neither ſuch things as he would were done unto Iſrael, nor ſuch things as the king commanded him were come to paſs.

28 The next year therefore following, Lyſias gathered together threeſcore thouſand choice men of foot, and five thouſand horſemen, that he might ſubdue them.

29 So they came into Idumea, and pitched their tents at Bethſura, and Judas met them with ten thouſand men.

30 And when he ſaw that mighty army, he prayed, and ſaid, Bleſſed art thou, O Saviour of Iſrael, who didſt quell the violence of the mighty man by the hand of thy ſervant David, and gaveſt the hoſt of ſtrangers into the hands of Jonathan the ſon of Saul, and his armour-bearer;

31 Shut up this army in the hand of thy people Iſrael, and let them be confounded in their power and horſemen;

32 Make them to be of no courage, and cauſe the boldneſs of their ſtrength to fall away, and let them quake at their deſtruction;

33 Caſt them down with the ſword of them that love thee, and let all thoſe that know thy name praiſe thee with thankſgiving.

34 So they joined battle; and there were ſlain of the hoſt of Lyſias about five thouſand men, even before them were they ſlain.

35 Now when Lyſias ſaw his army put to flight, and the manlineſs of Judas' ſoldiers, and how they were ready either to live or die valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered together a company of ſtrangers, and having made his army greater than it was, he purpoſed to come again into Judea.

36 Then ſaid Judas and his brethren, Behold, our enemies are diſcomfited: let us go up to cleanſe and dedicate the ſanctuary.

37 Upon this all the hoſt aſſembled themſelves together, and went up into mount Sion.

38 And when they ſaw the ſanctuary deſolate, and the altar profaned, and the gates burnt up, and ſhrubs growing in the courts as in a foreſt, or in one of the mountains, yea, and the prieſts' chambers pulled down:

39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and caſt aſhes upon their heads,

40 And fell down flat to the ground upon their faces, and blew an alarm with the trumpets, and cried towards heaven.

41 Then Judas appointed certain men to fight againſt thoſe that were in the fortreſs, until he had cleanſed the ſanctuary.

42 So he choſe prieſts of blameleſs converſation, ſuch as had pleaſure in the law;

43 Who cleanſed the ſanctuary, and bare out the defiled ſtones into an unclean place.

44 And when as they conſulted what to do with the altar of burnt-offerings, which was profaned;

45 They thought it beſt to pull it down, leſt it ſhould be a reproach to them, becauſe the heathen had defiled it: wherefore they pulled it down,

46 And laid up the ſtones in the mountain of the temple in a convenient place, until there ſhould come a prophet, to ſhew what ſhould be done with them.

47 Then they took whole ſtones according to the law, and built a new altar according to the former;

48 And made up the ſanctuary, and the things that were within the temple, and hallowed the courts.

49 They made alſo new holy veſſels, and into the temple they brought the candleſtick, and the altar of burnt-offerings, and of incenſe, and the table.

50 And upon the altar they burnt incenſe, and the 23 They got much gold and ſilver, and blue ſilk, &c.) The camp was thus enriched through the money and various merchandiſe which the neighbouring merchants had brought into it, with a view (as in chap. iii. 41) of buying the children of Iſrael as ſlaves; not at all doubting but ſuch a prodigious army as was brought againſt the Iſraelites would have made ſlaves of them all.

48 And made up the ſanctuary, &c.) By the ſanctuary ſeems to be meant the Holy of Holies, and not the whole temple, as it ſignifies in ſome of the foregoing verſes. It is probable that the heathen did the greateſt damage to this, as being accounted the moſt holy place by the Jews, and that they laid it open to the reſt of the temple; and therefore the making of it up again ſeems to ſignify ſeparating it from the reſt of the temple.

lamps

lamps that were upon the candleſtick they lighted, that they might give light in the temple.

51 Furthermore, they ſet the loaves upon the table, and ſpread out the veils, and finiſhed all the works which they had begun to make.

52 Now on the five and twentieth day of the ninth month (which is called the month Caſleu) in the hundred forty and eighth year, they roſe up betimes in the morning,

53 And offered ſacrifice according to the law, upon the new altar of burnt-offerings, which they had made.

54 Look at what time, and what day, the heathen had profaned it, even in that was it dedicated with ſongs, and citherns, and harps, and cymbals.

55 Then all the people fell upon their faces, worſhipping and praiſing the God of heaven, who had given them good ſucceſs.

56 And ſo they kept the dedication of the altar eight days, and offered burnt-offerings with gladneſs, and ſacrificed the ſacrifice of deliverance and praiſe.

57 They decked alſo the fore-front of the temple with crowns of gold, and with ſhields; and the gates and the chambers they renewed, and hanged doors upon them.

58 Thus was there very great gladneſs among the people, for that the reproach of the heathen was put away.

59 Moreover, Judas and his brethren, with the whole congregation of Iſrael, ordained that the days of the dedication of the altar ſhould be kept in their ſeaſon from year to year, by the ſpace of eight days, from the five and twentieth day of the month Caſleu, with mirth and gladneſs.

60 At that time alſo they builded up the mount Sion with high walls, and ſtrong towers round about, leſt the Gentiles ſhould come and tread it down, as they had done before.

61 And they ſet there a garriſon to keep it: and fortified Bethſura to preſerve it; that the people might have a defence againſt Idumea.

CHAP. V.

Judas ſmiteth the children of Eſau, Bean, and Ammon.

NOW when the nations round about heard that the altar was built, and the ſanctuary renewed as before, it diſpleaſed them very much.

2 Wherefore they thought to deſtroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and thereupon they began to ſlay and deſtroy the people.

3 Then Judas fought againſt the children of Eſau in Idumea at Arrabattine, becauſe they beſieged Iſrael; and he gave them a great overthrow, and abated their courage, and took their ſpoils.

4 Alſo he remembered the injury of the children of Bean, who had been a ſnare and an offence unto the people, in that they lay in wait for them in the ways.

5 He ſhut them up, therefore, in the towers, and encamped againſt them, and deſtroyed them utterly, and burnt the towers of that place with fire, and all that were therein.

6 Afterward he paſſed over to the children of Ammon, where he found a mighty power, and much people, with Timotheus their captain.

7 So he fought many battles with them, till at length they were diſcomfited before him; and he ſmote them.

8 And when he had taken Jazer, with the towns belonging thereto, he returned into Judea.

9 Then the heathen that were at Galaad aſſembled themſelves together againſt the Iſraelites that were in their quarters, to deſtroy them; but they fled to the fortreſs of Bathema,

10 And ſent letters unto Judas and his brethren: The heathen that are round about us are aſſembled together againſt us to deſtroy us:

11 And they are preparing to come and take the fortreſs whereunto we are fled, Timotheus being captain of their hoſt.

12 Come now, therefore, and deliver us from their hands, for many of us are ſlain.

13 Yea, all our brethren that were in the places of Tobie are put to death: their wives and their children alſo have they carried away captives, and borne away their ſtuff; and they have deſtroyed there about a thouſand men.

14 While theſe letters were yet reading, behold, there came other meſſengers from Galilee, with their clothes rent, who reported on this wiſe,

15 And ſaid, They of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles, are aſſembled together againſt us, to conſume us.

16 Now when Judas and the people heard theſe words, there aſſembled a great congregation together, to conſult what they ſhould do for their brethren that were in trouble, and aſſaulted of them.

17 Then ſaid Judas unto Simon his brother, Chooſe thee out men, and go and deliver thy brethren that are in Galilee; for I and Jonathan my brother will go into the country of Galaad.

18 So he left Joſeph the ſon of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the people, with the remnant of the hoſt in Judea, to keep it:

19 Unto whom he gave commandment, ſaying, Take ye charge of this people, and ſee that ye make not war againſt the heathen, until the time that we come again.

20 Now unto Simon were given three thouſand men to go into Galilee, and unto Judas eight thouſand men for the country of Galaad.

21 Then went Simon into Galilee, where he fought many battles with the heathen, ſo that the heathen were diſcomfited by him.

22 And he purſued them unto the gate of Ptolemais; and there were ſlain of the heathen about three thouſand men, whoſe ſpoils he took.

23 And thoſe that were in Galilee, and in Arbattis, with their wives and their children, and all that they had, took he away with him, and brought them into Judea with great joy.

24 Judas Maccabeus alſo, and his brother Jonathan,

58 Thus was there very great gladneſs among the people, &c.) That is, the reproaches flung upon the God of Iſrael, by the idolatrous nations around, were taken away, and even turned upon themſelves: for there was no room now for reflections on the God of the Jews, as unable to ſave his worſhippers or his temple; on the contrary, his great power was ſhewn in thus delivering it by ſo few againſt ſo many.

COMMENTARY ON Chap. V.

1 Now when the nations round about, &c.) By theſe are meant the Idumeans, Ammonites, Moabites, Phœnicians, &c. All which nations were inveterate againſt the Jews, and could not brook to ſee them proſper.

4 Alſo he remembered the injury of the children of Bean, &c.) Thoſe called here the children of Bean were ſome men of great power among the Idumeans, who had been a great plague to the Iſraelites, by laying ambuſhes to deſtroy them as they paſſed on the highways, and travelled out of Judea into any of the neighbouring countries: theſe Judas was reſolved to deſtroy.

23 And thoſe that were in Galilee, and in Arbattis, &c.) Some, inſtead of rendering Arbattis as the name of a place, make it thoſe who were in plain uncultivated places; meaning, that Simon took under his protection thoſe of the Jews whom he found in places without defence, or in wild deſert places, to which they had fled for refuge, and brought them with him into Judea.

went

went over Jordan, and travelled three days journey in the wilderneſs;

25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who came unto them in peaceable manner, and told them every thing that had happened to their brethren in the land of Galaad;

26 And how that many of them were ſhut up in Boſora, and Boſor, and Alema, Caſphor, Maked, and Carnaim; (all theſe cities are ſtrong and great;)

27 And that they were ſhut up in the reſt of the cities of the country of Galaad, and that againſt tomorrow they had appointed to bring their hoſt againſt the forts, and to take them, and to deſtroy them all in one day.

28 Hereupon Judas and his hoſt turned ſuddenly by the way of the wilderneſs unto Boſora; and when he had won the city, he ſlew all the males with the edge of the ſword, and took all their ſpoils, and burnt the city with fire.

29 From whence he removed by night, and went till he came to the fortreſs.

30 And betimes in the morning they looked up, and behold, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and other engines of war, to take the fortreſs, for they aſſaulted them.

31 When Judas therefore ſaw that the battle was begun, and that the cry of the city went up to heaven, with trumpets, and a great ſound,

32 He ſaid unto his hoſt, Fight this day for your brethren,

33 So he went forth behind them in three companies, who ſounded their trumpets, and cried with prayer.

34 Then the hoſt of Timotheus, knowing that it was Maccabeus, fled from him: wherefore he ſmote them with a great ſlaughter; ſo that there were killed of them that day about eight thouſand men.

35 This done, Judas turned aſide to Maſpha: and after he had aſſaulted it, he took it, and ſlew all the males therein, and received the ſpoils thereof, and burnt it with fire.

36 From thence went he and took Caſphon, Maged, Boſor, and the other cities of the country of Galaad.

37 After theſe things gathered Timotheus another hoſt, and encamped againſt Raphon beyond the brook.

38 So Judas ſent men to eſpy the hoſt, who brought him word, ſaying, All the heathen that be round about us are aſſembled unto them, even a very great hoſt.

39 He hath alſo hired the Arabians to help them, and they have pitched their tents beyond the brook, ready to come and fight againſt thee: upon this Judas went to meet them.

40 Then Timotheus ſaid unto the captains of his hoſt, When Judas and his hoſt come near the brook, if he paſs over firſt unto us, we ſhall not be able to withſtand him: for he will mightily prevail againſt us.

41 But if he be afraid, and camp beyond the river, we ſhall go over unto him, and prevail againſt him.

42 Now when Judas came near the brook, he cauſed the ſcribes of the people to remain by the brook; unto whom he gave commandment, ſaying, Suffer no man to remain in the camp, but let all come to the battle.

43 So he went firſt over unto them, and all the people after him: then all the heathen, being diſcomfited before him, caſt away their weapons, and fled unto the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 But they took the city, and burnt the temple, with all that were therein. Thus was Carnaim ſubdued, neither could they ſtand any longer before Judas.

45 Then Judas gathered together all the Iſraelites that were in the country of Galaad, from the leaſt unto the greateſt, even their wives, and their children, and their ſtuff, a very great hoſt, to the end they might come into the land of Judea.

46 Now when they came unto Ephron, (this was a great city in the way as they ſhould go, very well fortified,) they could not turn from it, either on the right hand or the left, but muſt needs paſs through the midſt of it.

47 Then they of the city ſhut them out, and ſtopped up the gates with ſtones.

48 Whereupon Judas ſent unto them in a peaceable manner, ſaying, Let us paſs through your land to go into our own country, and none ſhall do you any hurt; we will only paſs through on foot: howbeit, they would not open unto him.

49 Wherefore Judas commanded a proclamation to be made throughout the hoſt, that every man ſhould pitch his tent in the place where he was.

50 So the ſoldiers pitched, and aſſaulted the city all that day, and all that night, till at the length the city was delivered into his hands:

51 Who then ſlew all the males with the edge of the ſword, and razed the city and took the ſpoils thereof, and paſſed through the city over them that were ſlain.

52 After this went they over Jordan, into the great plain before Bethſan.

53 And Judas gathered together thoſe that came behind, and exhorted the people all the way through, till they came into the land of Judea.

54 So they went up to mount Sion with joy and gladneſs, where they offered burnt-offerings, becauſe not one of them were ſlain until they had returned in peace.

55 Now what time as Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon his brother in Galilee before Ptolemais,

56 Joſeph the ſon of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the garriſons, heard of the valiant acts and warlike deeds which they had done:

57 Wherefore they ſaid, Let us alſo get us a name, and go fight againſt the heathen that are round about us.

58 So when they had given charge unto the garriſon that was with them, they went towards Jamnia.

59 Then came Gorgias and his men out of the city to fight againſt them.

60 And ſo it was that Joſeph and Azarias were put to flight, and purſued unto the borders of Judea: and there were ſlain that day of the people of Iſrael, about two thouſand men.

61 Thus was there a great overthrow among the children of Iſrael, becauſe they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought to do ſome valiant act.

30 And betimes in the morning they looked, &c.) This verſe is expreſſed ſomewhat obſcurely; but the meaning is, that in the morning Judas' party ſaw a great number of the Gentiles going to make an attack upon the caſtle, in which their brethren the Jews had taken refuge.

43 So he went firſt over unto them, &c.) Here it may be obſerved how the divine providence ſecretly over-rules and directs things. Timotheus, the enemy's general, had, from ſome ſecret fancy, or preſage, it may be, which is not eaſy to be accounted for, pronounced to his men, that in caſe Judas paſſed the brook firſt to attack them, that then he would certainly prevail. Judas, when he comes to the brook, is inſpired with reſolutions to paſs it: the conſequence of which was, that the enemy, calling to mind what their general had pronounced or predicted, were ſtruck with an univerſal panic, or made little or no reſiſtance. By ſuch ways as theſe, in which men themſelves are made the agents, does the divine providence bring about its purpoſes.

53 And Judas gathered together thoſe that came behind, &c.) That is, he cauſed all the army to halt, 'till thoſe who were in the rear came up, and took care that no hurt ſhould be done them by any ſudden incurſion from the enemies; he comforted and encouraged them all the way.

62 Moreover,

62 Moreover, theſe men came not of the ſeed of thoſe, by whoſe hand deliverance was given unto Iſrael.

63 Howbeit, the man Judas and his brethren were greatly renowned in the ſight of all Iſrael, and of all the heathen whereſoever their name was heard of:

64 Inſomuch as the people aſſembled unto them with joyful acclamations.

65 Afterward went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought againſt the children of Eſau in the land toward the ſouth, where he ſmote Hebron, and the towns thereof, and pulled down the fortreſs of it, and burnt the towers thereof round about.

66 From thence he removed to go into the land of the Philiſtines, and paſſed through Samaria.

67 At that time certain prieſts, deſirous to ſhew their valour, were ſlain in battle, for that they went out to fight unadviſedly.

68 So Judas turned to Azotus in the land of the Philiſtines; and when he had pulled down their altars, and burnt their carved images with fire, and ſpoiled their cities, he returned into the land of Judea.

CHAP. VI.

8 Antiochus falleth ſick, 12 and confeſſeth the wrong done to Jeruſalem.

ABOUT that time king Antiochus, travelling thro' the high countries, heard ſay, that Elymais, in the country of Perſia, was a city greatly renowned for riches, ſilver and gold:

2 And that there was in it a very rich temple, wherein were coverings of gold, and breaſt-plates, and ſhields, which Alexander ſon of Philip the Macedodian king, who reigned firſt among the Grecians, had left there.

3 Wherefore he came and ſought to take the city, and to ſpoil it; but he was not able, becauſe they of the city, having had warning thereof,

4 Roſe up againſt him in battle: ſo he fled, and departed thence with great heavineſs, and returned to Babylon.

5 Moreover, there came one who brought him tidings into Perſia, that the armies which went againſt the land of Judea were put to flight:

6 And that Lyſias, who went forth firſt with a great power, was driven away of the Jews; and that they were made ſtrong by the armour, and power, and ſtore of ſpoils, which they had gotten of the armies whom they had deſtroyed:

7 Alſo that they had pulled down the abomination which he had ſet up upon the altar in Jeruſalem, and that they had compaſſed about the ſanctuary with high walls, as before, and his city Bethſura.

8 Now when the king heard theſe words, he was aſtoniſhed, and ſore moved: whereupon he laid him down upon his bed, and fell ſick for grief, becauſe it had not befallen him as he looked for.

9 And there he continued many days: for his grief was ever more and more, and he made account that he ſhould die.

10 Wherefore he called for all his friends, and ſaid unto them, The ſleep is gone from mine eyes, and my heart faileth for very care.

11 And I thought with myſelf, Into what tribulation am I come, and how great a flood of miſery is it wherein now I am! for I was bountiful, and beloved in my power:

12 But now I remember the evils that I did at Jeruſalem, and that I took all the veſſels of gold and ſilver that were therein, and ſent to deſtroy the inhabitants of Judea without a cauſe:

13 I perceive therefore that for this cauſe theſe troubles are come upon me, and behold, I periſh through great grief in a ſtrange land.

14 Then called he for Philip, one of his friends, whom he made ruler over all his realm.

15 And gave him the crown, and his robe, and his ſignet, to the end he ſhould bring up his ſon Antiochus, and nouriſh him up for the kingdom.

16 So king Antiochus died there in the hundred forty and ninth year.

17 Now when Lyſias knew that the king was dead, he ſet up Antiochus his ſon (whom he had brought up, being young) to reign in his ſtead, and his name he called Eupator.

18 About this time, they that were in the tower ſhut up the Iſraelites round about the ſanctuary, and ſought always their hurt, and the ſtrengthening of the heathen.

19 Wherefore Judas, purpoſing to deſtroy them, called all the people together to beſiege them.

20 So they came together, and beſieged them in the hundred and fiftieth year, and he made mounts for ſhot againſt them, and other engines.

21 Howbeit, certain of them that were beſieged got forth, unto whom ſome ungodly men of Iſrael joined themſelves.

22 And they went unto the king, and ſaid, How long will it be ere thou execute judgment, and avenge our brethren?

23 We have been willing to ſerve thy father, and to do as he would have us, and to obey his commandments;

24 For which cauſe they of our nation beſiege the tower, and are alienated from us: moreover, as many of us as they could light on, they ſlew, and ſpoiled our inheritance.

25 Neither have they ſtretched out their hand againſt us only, but alſo againſt all their borders.

26 And behold, this day are they beſieging the tower at Jeruſalem, to take it: the ſanctuary alſo and Bethſura have they fortified.

27 Wherefore, if thou doſt not prevent them quickly, they will do greater things than theſe, neither ſhalt thou be able to rule them.

62 Moreover, theſe men came not of the ſeed, &c.) They were not of that family whom God had choſen to deliver Iſrael by. This plainly attributes the ſurpriſing ſucceſſes of the Maccabees to the divine favour and protection, and that they were expreſsly appointed by God to deliver the Jewiſh nation from the Macedonian yoke.

67 Were ſlain in battle, for that they went out to fight unadviſedly.) That is, without firſt imploring the divine help, and perhaps contrary to Judas' advice; ſo that God ſeems to have had intention to convince them, that it was not by the ſtrength of their own hand that they gained ſuch great victories over the Macedonians, but through his bleſſing upon them: and therefore thoſe who went out to fight not under the direction of the Maccabees his choſen captains, he did not proſper; but always let them fall before the enemy.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

13 I perceive therefore that for this cauſe, &c.) It deſerves to be obſerved how this haughty and cruel tyrant was humbled and brought to a confeſſion: for it was on account of his own wicked deeds, that his troubles came upon him, and brought him to an end in a land remote from his royal ſeat, having, as the hiſtorian Appian ſays, died of a conſumption.

18 About this time they that were in the tower, &c.) When Judas took poſſeſſion of Jeruſalem, he had no time to beſiege the Macedonian garriſon which was in the tower of David, being obliged to go and attack the neighbouring nations that were gathered againſt him; but theſe being now all quelled, he turned his thoughts to reduce it, as they much annoyed the Iſraelites in going to or from the temple, making frequent ſallies, and ſlaying many of them.

22 And they went unto the king, &c.) Thoſe whom they meant were Jews of the ſame ſtamp with themſelves, who had turned apoſtates, and joined the Macedonians againſt their countrymen who ſtood up in defence of their religion and laws. Theſe, as well as themſelves, they repreſent as faithful ſubjects to the king, and on that account were perſecuted by their countrymen. They excite the king to ſend immediate relief to thoſe beſieged in the tower.

28 Now when the king heard this, he was angry, and gathered together all his friends, and the captains of his army, and thoſe that had charge of the horſe.

29 There came alſo unto him from other kingdoms, and from iſles of the ſea, bands of hired ſoldiers.

30 So that the number of his army was an hundred thouſand footmen, and twenty thouſand horſemen, and two and thirty elephants exerciſed in battle.

31 Theſe went through Idumea, and pitched againſt Bethſura, which they aſſaulted many days, making engines of war; but they of Bethſura came out and burnt them with fire, and fought valiantly.

32 Upon this Judas removed from the tower, and pitched in Bathzacharias, over-againſt the king's camp.

33 Then the king riſing very early, marched fiercely with his hoſt toward Bathzacharias, where his armies made them ready to battle, and ſounded the trumpets.

34 And to the end they might provoke the elephants to fight, they ſhewed them the blood of grapes and mulberries.

35 Moreover, they divided the beaſts among the armies; and for every elephant they appointed a thouſand men, armed with coats of mail, and with helmets of braſs on their heads; and beſides this, for every beaſt were ordained five hundred horſemen of the beſt.

36 Theſe were ready at every occaſion: whereſoever the beaſt was, and whitherſoever the beaſt went, they went alſo, neither departed they from him.

37 And upon the beaſts there were ſtrong towers of wood, which covered every one of them, and were girt faſt unto them with devices: there were alſo upon every one, two and thirty ſtrong men that fought upon them, beſides the Indian that ruled him.

38 As for the remnant of the horſemen, they ſet them on this ſide and that ſide, at the two parts of the hoſt, giving them ſigns what to do, and being harneſſed all over amidſt the ranks.

39 Now when the ſun ſhone upon the ſhields of gold and braſs, the mountains gliſtered therewith, and ſhined like lamps of fire.

40 So part of the king's army being ſpread upon the high mountains, and part on the vallies below, they marched on ſafely, and in order.

41 Wherefore all that heard the noiſe of their multitude, and the marching of the company, and the rattling of the harneſs, were moved, for the army was very great and mighty.

42 Then Judas and his hoſt drew near, and entered into battle, and there were ſlain of the king's army ſix hundred men.

43 Eleazar, alſo ſurnamed Savaran, perceiving that one of the beaſts, armed with royal harneſs, was higher than all the reſt, and ſuppoſing that the king was upon him,

44 Put himſelf in jeopardy, to the end he might deliver his people, and get him a perpetual name:

45 Wherefore he ran upon him courageouſly through the midſt of the battle, ſlaying on the right hand and on the left, ſo that they were divided from him on both ſides.

46 Which done, he crept under the elephant, and thruſt him under, and ſlew him: whereupon the elephant fell down upon him, and there he died.

47 Howbeit, the reſt of the Jews, ſeeing the ſtrength of the king, and the violence of his forces, turned away from them.

48 Then the king's army went up to Jeruſalem to meet them, and the king pitched his tents againſt Judea, and againſt mount Sion.

49 But with them that were in Bethſura he made peace: for they came out of the city, becauſe they had no victuals there, to endure the ſiege, it being a year of reſt to the land.

50 So the king took Bethſura, and ſet a garriſon there to keep it.

51 As for the ſanctuary, he beſieged it many days; and ſet there artillery with engines, and inſtruments to caſt fire and ſtones, and pieces to caſt darts and ſlings.

52 Whereupon, they alſo made engines againſt their engines, and held them battle a long ſeaſon.

53 Yet at the laſt their veſſels being without victuals (for that it was the ſeventh year, and they in Judea that were delivered from the Gentiles, had eaten up the reſidue of the ſtore)

54 There were but a few left in the ſanctuary, becauſe the famine did ſo prevail againſt them, that they were fain to diſperſe themſelves, every man to his own place.

55 At that time Lyſias heard ſay that Philip (whom Antiochus the king, whiles he lived, had appointed to bring up his ſon Antiochus, that he might be king)

56 Was returned out of Perſia and Media, and the king's hoſt alſo that went with him, and that he ſought to take unto him the ruling of the affairs:

57 Wherefore he went in all haſte, and ſaid to the king, and the captains of the hoſt, and the company, We decay daily, and our victuals are but ſmall, and the place we lay ſiege unto is ſtrong, and the affairs of the kingdom lie upon us.

58 Now therefore let us be friends with theſe men, and make peace with them and with all their nation;

59 And covenant with them that they ſhall live after their laws, as they did before: for they are therefore diſpleaſed, and have done all theſe things, becauſe we aboliſhed their laws.

60 So the king and the princes were content: wherefore he ſent unto them to make peace, and they accepted thereof.

61 Alſo the king and the princes made an oath unto them: whereupon they went out of the ſtrong hold.

62 Then the king entered into mount Sion: but when he ſaw the ſtrength of the place, he brake his oath that he had made, and gave commandment to pull down the wall round about.

63 Afterward departed he in all haſte, and returned unto Antiochia, where he found Philip to be maſter of the city: ſo he fought againſt him, and took the city by force.

CHAP. VII.

1 Antiochus is ſlain, and Demetrius reigneth in his ſtead.
5 Alcimus would be high prieſt.

IN the hundred and one and fiftieth year, Demetrius the ſon of Seleucus departed from Rome, and came up with a few men unto a city of the ſea-coaſt, and reigned there.

46 He crept under the elephant, and thruſt him under, &c.) The moſt vulnerable part about an elephant is the belly; and therefore this Jew crept under the elephant, that he might the more certainly diſpatch it, though he was certain he ſhould be cruſhed to death by the fall of it upon him.

60 So the king and the princes were content, &c.) Thus we ſee how the divine providence works, and makes uſe of the paſſions of men to bring about its purpoſes, and to ſerve thoſe who put their confidence in it. Lyſias's envy to Philip prevailed over his hatred to the Jews, though this undoubtedly was moſt inveterate.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

1 Demetrius the ſon of Seleucus departed from Rome, &c.) Demetrius being an hoſtage in Rome at the time of his father's death, his uncle Antiochus Epiphanes ſeized upon the kingdom of Syria, but at length reſolved to quit Rome with no more than eight approved friends and their ſervants, and make an attempt to recover his right. He firſt came to Tripoli in Syria, where he was received as rightful king, and his party increaſed ſo that he was able to march on to the capital, and take both Antiochus and Lyſias priſoners.

2 And

2 And as he entered into the palace of his anceſtors, ſo it was that his forces had taken Antiochus and Lyſias to bring them unto him.

3 Wherefore, when he knew it, he ſaid, Let me not ſee their faces.

4 So his hoſt ſlew them. Now when Demetrius was ſet upon the throne of his kingdom,

5 There came unto him all the wicked and ungodly men of Iſrael, having Alcimus (who was deſirous to be high prieſt) for their captain.

6 And they accuſed the people to the king, ſaying, Judas and his brethren have ſlain all thy friends, and driven us out of our own land.

7 Now therefore ſend ſome man whom thou truſteſt, and let him go and ſee what havock he hath made amongſt us, and in the king's land, and let him puniſh them with all them that aid them.

8 Then the king choſe Bacchides a friend of the king, who ruled beyond the flood, and was a great man in the kingdom, and faithful to the king.

9 And him he ſent with that wicked Alcimus, whom he made high prieſt, and commanded that he ſhould take vengeance of the children of Iſrael.

10 So they departed, and came with a great power into the land of Judea, where they ſent meſſengers to Judas and his brethren with peaceable words deceitfully.

11 But they gave no heed to their words; for they ſaw that they were come with a great power.

12 Then did there aſſemble unto Alcimus and Bacchides, a company of ſcribes, to require juſtice.

13 Now the Aſſideans were the firſt among the children of Iſrael that ſought peace of them.

14 For ſaid they, One that is a prieſt of the ſeed of Aaron is come with this army, and he will do us no wrong.

15 So he ſpake unto them peaceably, and ſware unto them, ſaying, We will procure the harm neither of you nor your friends.

16 Whereupon they believed him: howbeit, he took of them threeſcore men, and ſlew them in one day, according to the words which he wrote,

17 The fleſh of thy ſaints have they caſt out, and their blood have they ſhed round about Jeruſalem, and there was none to bury them.

18 Wherefore the fear and dread of them fell upon all the people, who ſaid, There is neither truth nor righteouſneſs in them; for they have broken the covenant and oath that they made.

19 After this removed Bacchides from Jeruſalem, and pitched his tents in Bezeth, where he ſent and took many of the men that had forſaken him, and certain of the people alſo, and when he had ſlain them, he caſt them into the great pit.

20 Then committed he the country to Alcimus, and left with him a power to aid him: ſo Bacchides went to the king.

21 But Alcimus contended for the high prieſthood.

22 And unto him reſorted all ſuch as troubled the people, who, after they had gotten the land of Judea into their power, did much hurt in Iſrael.

23 Now when Judas ſaw all the miſchief that Alcimus and his company had done among the Iſraelites, even above the heathen,

24 He went out into all the coaſts of Judea round about, and took vengeance of them that had revolted from him, ſo that they durſt no more go forth into the country.

25 On the other ſide, when Alcimus ſaw that Judas and his company had gotten the upper hand, and knew that he was not able to abide their force, he went again to the king, and ſaid all the worſt of them that he could.

26 Then the king ſent Nicanor, one of his honourable princes, a man that bare deadly hatred unto Iſrael, with commandment to deſtroy the people.

27 So Nicanor came to Jeruſalem with a great force, and ſent unto Judas and his brethren deceitfully with friendly words, ſaying,

28 Let there be no battle between me and you: I will come with a few men, that I may ſee you in peace.

29 He came therefore to Judas, and they ſaluted one another peaceably. Howbeit, the enemies were prepared to take away Judas by violence.

30 Which thing, after it was known to Judas, to wit, that he came unto him with deceit, he was ſore afraid of him, and would ſee his face no more.

31 Nicanor alſo, when he ſaw that his counſel was diſcovered, went out to fight againſt Judas beſides Capharſalama:

32 Where there were ſlain of Nicanor's ſide about five thouſand men, and the reſt fled into the city of David.

33 After this went Nicanor up to mount Sion, and there came out of the ſanctuary certain of the prieſts, and certain of the elders of the people, to ſalute him peaceably, and to ſhew him the burnt-ſacrifice that was offered for the king.

34 But he mocked them and laughed at them, and abuſed them ſhamefully, and ſpake proudly:

35 And ſware in his wrath, ſaying, Unleſs Judas and his hoſt be now delivered into my hands, if ever I come again in ſafety, I will burn up this houſe: and with that he went out in a great rage.

36 Then the prieſts entered in, and ſtood before the altar and the temple, weeping, and ſaying,

37 Thou, O Lord, didſt chooſe this houſe to be called by thy name, and to be a houſe of prayer and petition for thy people:

38 Be avenged of this man and his hoſt, and let them fall by the ſword: remember their blaſphemies, and ſuffer them not to continue any longer.

39 So Nicanor went out of Jeruſalem, and pitched his tents in Bethoron, where an hoſt out of Syria met him.

40 But Judas pitched in Adaſa with three thouſand men, and there he prayed, ſaying,

41 O Lord, when they that were ſent from the king of the Aſſyrians blaſphemed, thine angel went out, and ſmote an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand of them:

42 Even ſo deſtroy thou this hoſt before us this day, that the reſt may know that he hath ſpoken blaſphemouſly againſt thy ſanctuary, and judge thou him according to his wickedneſs.

3 Let me not ſee their faces.) This was, in other words, giving orders for putting them to death: which accordingly we find done, from the following verſe.

8 Who ruled beyond the flood, &c.) That is, beyond the river Euphrates: for the river, by way of diſtinction in the Jewiſh writings, always means this. Bacchides (here mentioned) was governor of Meſopotamia, as Joſephus relates.

22 After they had gotten the land of Judea into their power, &c.) By this is meant the profligate Jews and ſoldiers whom Bacchides left to aſſiſt Alcimus upon occaſion; who made themſelves maſters of ſeveral towns in Judea, and did much hurt to Judas' party, or to thoſe who ſtood in defence of their religion and laws.

32 Where there were ſlain of Nicanor's ſide about five thouſand, &c.) This verſe is obſcure: for if Nicanor's troops had been worſted, they certainly would not have fled into the city of David, where they were ſure of being greatly harraſſed, if not deſtroyed by the Jews; but would rather have fled into Syria, or to ſome of the neighbouring people, whom they knew to be enemies to the Jews. Beſides, what follows plainly ſhews that Nicanor gained the advantage in this battle; and therefore it ought to be rendered, There were ſlain by Nicanor's party about five thouſand men, namely, of the Jews. And the reſt fled into the city of David; by which it is there meant the Temple, as Joſephus expreſsly ſays: and it appears from the next verſe, that the Macedonians were at this time in poſſeſſion of the fortreſs in that part of Jeruſalem called the city of David.

43 So

43 So the thirteenth day of the month Adar the hoſts joined battle: but Nicanor's hoſt was diſcomfited, and he himſelf was firſt ſlain in the battle.

44 Now when Nicanor's hoſt ſaw that he was ſlain, they caſt away their weapons, and fled.

45 Then they purſued after them a day's journey, from Adaſa unto Gazera, ſounding an alarm after them with their trumpets.

46 Whereupon they came forth out of all the towns of Judea round about, and cloſed them in; ſo that they, turning back upon them that purſued them, were all ſlain with the ſword, and not one of them was left.

47 Afterwards they took the ſpoils and the prey, and ſmote off Nicanor's head, and his right hand, which he ſtretched out ſo proudly, and brought them away, and hanged them up towards Jeruſalem.

48 For this cauſe the people rejoiced greatly, and they kept that day a day of great gladneſs.

49 Moreover, they ordained to keep yearly this day, being the thirteenth of Adar.

50 Thus the land of Juda was in reſt a little while.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judas being informed of the power of the Romans, 20 maketh a league with them.

NOW Judas had heard of the fame of the Romans, that they were mighty and valient men, and ſuch as would lovingly accept all that joined themſelves unto them, and make a league of amity with all that came unto them;

2 And that they were men of great valour. It was told him alſo of their wars and noble acts which they had done among the Galatians, and how they had conquered them, and brought them under tribute;

3 And what they had done in the country of Spain, for the winning of the mines of the ſilver and gold which is there;

4 And that by their policy and patience they had conqueſted all the place (though it were very far from them) and the kings alſo that came againſt them from the uttermoſt part of the earth, till they had diſcomfited them, and given them a great overthrow, ſo that the reſt did give them tribute every year.

5 Beſides this, how they had diſcomfited in battle Philip, and Perſeus king of the Citims, with others that lifted up themſelves againſt them, and had overcome them:

6 How alſo Antiochus the great king of Aſia, that came againſt them in battle, having an hundred and twenty elephants, with horſemen and chariots, and a very great army, was diſcomfited by them:

7 And how they took him alive, and covenanted that he, and ſuch as reigned after him, ſhould pay a great tribute, and give hoſtages, and that which was agreed upon,

8 And the country of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of the goodlieſt countries; which they took of him, and gave to king Eumenes:

9 Moreover, how the Grecians had determined to come and deſtroy them;

10 And that they, having knowledge thereof, ſent againſt them a certain captain, and fighting with them, ſlew many of them, and carried away captives their wives and their children, and ſpoiled them, and took poſſeſſion of their lands, and pulled down their ſtrong holds, and brought them to be their ſervants unto this day.

11 It was told him beſides, how they deſtroyed and brought under their dominion all other kingdoms and iſles, that at any time reſiſted them:

12 But with their friends, and ſuch as relied upon them, they kept amity: and that they had conquered kingdoms both far and nigh, inſomuch as all that heard of their name were afraid of them;

13 Alſo, that whom they would help to a kingdom, thoſe reign: and whom again they would, they diſplace: finally, that they were greatly exalted:

14 Yet, for all this, none of them wore a crown, or was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby:

15 Moreover, how they had made for themſelves a ſenate-houſe, wherein three hundred and twenty men ſat in council daily, conſulting alway for the people, to the end they might be well ordered:

16 And that they committed their government to one man every year, who ruled over all their country, and that all were obedient to that one, and that there was neither envy nor emulation among them.

17 In conſideration of theſe things, Judas choſe Eupolemus the ſon of John, the ſon of Accos, and Jaſon the ſon of Eleazar, and ſent them to Rome, to make a league of amity and confederacy with them,

18 And to entreat them that they would take the yoke from them; for they ſaw that the kingdom of the Grecians did oppreſs Iſrael with ſervitude.

19 They went therefore to Rome, (which was a very great journey,) and came into the ſenate, where they ſpake and ſaid,

20 Judas Maccabeus, with his brethren, and the people of the Jews, have ſent us unto you, to make a confederacy and peace with you, and that we might be regiſtered your confederates and friends.

21 So that matter pleaſed the Romans well.

22 And this is the copy of the epiſtle which the ſenate wrote back again, in tables of braſs, and ſent to Jeruſalem, that there they might have by them a memorial of peace and confederacy:

23 Good ſucceſs be to the Romans, and to the people of the Jews, by ſea and by land for ever: the ſword alſo and enemy be far from them.

24 If there come firſt any war upon the Romans, or any of their confederates throughout all their dominion,

25 The people of the Jews ſhall help them, as the time ſhall be appointed, with all their heart.

26 Neither ſhall they give any thing unto them that make war upon them, or aid them with victuals, weapons, money, or ſhips, as it hath ſeemed good unto the Romans; but they ſhall keep their covenant without taking any thing therefore.

27 In the ſame manner alſo, if war come firſt upon the nation of the Jews, the Romans ſhall help them with all their heart, according as the time ſhall be appointed them.

28 Neither ſhall victuals be given to them that take

---

46 Whereupon they came forth out of all the towns, &c.) The meaning of this ſeems to be, that the inhabitants of all the towns and villages on every ſide came out to fall upon the flying enemy; ſo that in going forward they found the paſſage oppoſed, and halting or retiring, they fell by the ſwords of thoſe who purſued them.—Joſephus ſays, there were nine thouſand of them ſlain at this time.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

1 Now Judas had heard of the fame of the Romans, &c.) Judas was by this time, as Joſephus relates, advanced to the high prieſthood, and to have the chief command in his country. The Romans are here ſpoken of ſuch as they were before the third Punic war, 'till which time their virtues and abilities were remarkable.

8 And the country of India, and Media, and Lydia, &c.) This is a miſtake of the tranſcribers crept into the Greek copies; for certain it is, that neither India nor Media were in the power of the Romans at the time here ſpoken of: ſo that it ought undoubtedly to be read, Ionia, and Myſia, and Lydia, ſince theſe were actually taken from Antiochus by the Romans, and given to king Eumenes.

part

part againſt them, or weapons, or money, or ſhips, as it hath ſeemed good to the Romans: but they ſhall keep their covenants, and that without deceit.

29 According to theſe articles did the Romans make a covenant with the people of the Jews.

30 Howbeit, if hereafter the one party or the other ſhall think meet to add or diminiſh any thing, they may do it at their pleaſures: and whatſoever they ſhall add or take away, ſhall be ratified.

31 And as touching the evils that Demetrius doeth to the Jews, we have written unto him, ſaying, Wherefore haſt thou made thy yoke heavy upon our friends and confederates the Jews?

32 If therefore they complain any more againſt thee, we will do them juſtice, and fight with thee by ſea and by land.

CHAP. IX.

Alcimus and Bacchides come again with new forces into Judea:

FURTHERMORE, when Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his hoſt were ſlain in battle, he ſent Bacchides and Alcimus into the land of Judea the ſecond time, and with them the chief ſtrength of his hoſt:

2 Who went forth by the way that leadeth to Galgala, and pitched their tents before Maſaloth, which is in Arbela, and after they had won it, they ſlew much people.

3 Alſo the firſt month of the hundred fifty and ſecond year they encamped before Jeruſalem:

4 From whence they removed, and went to Berea, with twenty thouſand footmen, and two thouſand horſemen.

5 Now Judas had pitched his tents at Eleaſa, and three thouſand choſen men with him;

6 Who, ſeeing the multitude of the other army to be ſo great, were ſore afraid; whereupon many conveyed themſelves out of the hoſt, inſomuch as there abode of them no more than eight hundred men.

7 When Judas therefore ſaw that his hoſt ſlipt away, and that the battle preſſed upon him, he was ſore troubled in mind, and much diſtreſſed, for that he had no time to gather them together.

8 Nevertheleſs, unto them that remained, he ſaid, Let us ariſe, and go up againſt our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them.

9 But they dehorted him, ſaying, We ſhall never be able: let us now rather ſave our lives, and hereafter we will return with our brethren, and fight againſt them; for we are but few.

10 Then Judas ſaid, God forbid that I ſhould do this thing, and flee away from them: if our time be come, let us die manfully for our brethren, and let us not ſtain our honour.

11 With that the hoſt of Bacchides removed out of their tents, and ſtood over againſt them, their horſemen being divided into two troops, and their ſlingers and archers going before the hoſt, and they that marched in the fore-ward were all mighty men.

12 As for Bacchides he was in the right wing; ſo the hoſt drew near on the two parts, and ſounded their trumpets.

13 They alſo of Judas' ſide, even they ſounded their trumpets alſo, ſo that the earth ſhook at the noiſe of the armies; and the battle continued from morning till night.

14 Now when Judas perceived that Bacchides and the ſtrength of his army were on the right ſide, he took with him all the hardy men.

15 Who diſcomfited the right wing, and purſued them unto the mount Azotus.

16 But when they of the left wing ſaw that they of the right wing were diſcomfited, they followed upon Judas and thoſe that were with him hard at the heels from behind:

17 Whereupon there was a ſore battle, inſomuch as many were ſlain on both parts.

18 Judas alſo was killed, and the remnant fled.

19 Then Jonathan and Simon took Judas their brother, and buried him in the ſepulchre of his fathers in Modin.

20 Moreover, they bewailed him, and all Iſrael made great lamentation for him, and mourned many days, ſaying,

21 How is the valiant man fallen, that delivered Iſrael!

22 As for the other things concerning Judas and his wars, and the noble acts which he did, and his greatneſs, they are not written: for they were very many.

23 Now after the death of Judas, the wicked began to put forth their heads in all the coaſts of Iſrael, and there roſe up all ſuch as wrought iniquity.

24 In thoſe days alſo was there a very great famine, by reaſon whereof the country revolted, and went with them.

25 Then Bacchides choſe the wicked men, and made them lords of the country.

26 And they made enquiry and ſearch for Judas' friends, and brought them unto Bacchides, who took vengeance of them, and uſed them deſpitefully.

27 So was there a great affliction in Iſrael, the like whereof was not ſince the time that a prophet was not ſeen among them.

28 For this cauſe all Judas' friends came together, and ſaid unto Jonathan,

29 Since thy brother Judas died, we have no man like him to go forth againſt our enemies and Bacchides, and againſt them of our nation that are adverſaries to us.

30 Now therefore we have choſen thee this day to be our prince and captain in his ſtead, that thou mayeſt fight our battles.

31 Upon this Jonathan took the governance upon him at that time, and roſe up inſtead of his brother Judas.

32 But when Bacchides gat knowledge thereof, he ſought for to ſlay him.

33 Then Jonathan and Simon his brother, and all that were with him, perceiving that, fled into the wilderneſs of Thecoe, and pitched their tents by the water of the pool Aſphar.

34 Which when Bacchides underſtood, he came near to Jordan with all his hoſt upon the ſabbath-day.

35 Now Jonathan had ſent his brother John, a captain of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they might leave with them their carriage, which was much.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

9 Let us now rather ſave our lives, &c.) Let us now rather conſult how to ſave our lives, ſeeing we are ſo very few, than regard any matter of glory at preſent, that we may return again with a reinforcement, and fight againſt them with greater probability of ſucceſs. This ſeems to have been no bad advice, as matters then ſtood; but the courage and quick ſenſe of honour in Judas, as appears from the following verſe, together with the firm confidence which he had in the protection of God, would not let him follow it.

35 That they might leave with them their carriage, which was much.) By their carriage, or, as it might be rendered, their ſtuff, is to be underſtood their goods and implements of various kinds, which it would be burthenſome to carry with them; and therefore they were willing to depoſit them with their friends the Nabathites, in order to ſecure them from being taken by the enemy.

36 But the children of Jambri came out of Medaba, and took John and all that he had, and went their way with it.

37 After this came word to Jonathan and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambri made a great marriage, and were bringing the bride from Nadabatha with a great train, as being the daughter of one of the great princes of Chanaan.

38 Therefore they remembered John their brother, and went up and hid themſelves under the covert of the mountain,

39 Where they lifted up their eyes and looked, and behold, there was much ado, and great carriage: and the bridegroom came forth, and his friends and brethren, to meet them with drums and inſtruments of muſick, and many weapons.

40 Then Jonathan, and they that were with him, roſe up againſt them from the place where they lay in ambuſh, and made a ſlaughter of them in ſuch ſort, as many fell down dead, and the remnant fled into the mountain, and they took all their ſpoils.

41 Thus was the marriage turned into mourning, and the noiſe of their melody into lamentation.

42 So when they had avenged fully the blood of their brother, they turned again to the mariſh of Jordan.

43 Now when Bacchides heard thereof, he came on the ſabbath-day unto the banks of Jordan with a great power.

44 Then Jonathan ſaid to his company, Let us go up now and fight for our lives, for it ſtandeth not with us to-day, as in time paſt:

45 For behold, the battle is before us and behind us, and the water of Jordan on this ſide and that ſide, the mariſh likewiſe, and wood, neither is there place for us to turn aſide.

46 Wherefore cry ye now unto heaven, that ye may be delivered from the hand of your enemies.

47 With that they joined battle, and Jonathan ſtretched forth his hand to ſmite Bacchides, but he turned back from him.

48 Then Jonathan, and they that were with him, leapt into Jordan, and ſwam over unto the farther bank; howbeit, the other paſſed not over Jordan unto them.

49 So there were ſlain of Bacchides' ſide that day about a thouſand men.

50 Afterward returned Bacchides to Jeruſalem, and repaired the ſtrong cities in Judea; the fort in Jericho, and Emmaus, and Beth-horon, and Beth-el, and Thamnatha, Pharathoni, and Taphon, theſe did he ſtrengthen with high walls, with gates and with bars.

51 And in them he ſet a garriſon, that they might work malice upon Iſrael.

52 He fortified alſo the city of Bethſura, and Gazara, and the tower, and put forces in them, and proviſion of victuals.

53 Beſides, he took the chief men's ſons in the country for hoſtages, and put them into the tower at Jeruſalem to be kept.

54 Moreover, in the hundred fifty and third year, in the ſecond month, Alcimus commanded that the wall of the inner court of the ſanctuary ſhould be pulled down; he pulled down alſo the works of the prophets.

55 And as he began to pull down, even at that time was Alcimus plagued, and his enterprizes hindered: for his mouth was ſtopped, and he was taken with a palſy, ſo that he could no more ſpeak any thing, nor give order concerning his houſe.

56 So Alcimus died at that time with great torment.

57 Now when Bacchides ſaw that Alcimus was dead, he returned to the king, whereupon the land of Judea was in reſt two years.

58 Then all the ungodly men held a council, ſaying, Behold, Jonathan and his company are at eaſe, and dwell without care: now therefore we will bring Bacchides hither, who ſhall take them all in one night.

59 So they went and conſulted with him.

60 Then removed he, and came with a great hoſt, and ſent letters privily to his adherents in Judea, that they ſhould take Jonathan and thoſe that were with him: howbeit, they could not, becauſe their counſel was known unto them.

61 Wherefore they took of the men of the country, that were authors of that miſchief, about fifty perſons, and ſlew them.

62 Afterward Jonathan, and Simon, and they that were with him, got them away to Bethbaſi, which is in the wilderneſs, and they repaired the decays thereof, and made it ſtrong.

63 Which thing when Bacchides knew, he gathered together all his hoſt, and ſent word to them that were of Judea.

64 Then went he and laid ſiege againſt Bethbaſi; and they fought againſt it a long ſeaſon, and made engines of war.

65 But Jonathan left his brother Simon in the city, and went forth himſelf into the country, and with a certain number went he forth.

66 And he ſmote Odonarkes and his brethren, and the children of Phaſiron in their tent.

67 And when he began to ſmite them, and came up with his forces, Simon and his company went out of the city, and burnt up the engines of war,

68 And fought againſt Bacchides, who was diſcomfited by them, and they afflicted him ſore: for his counſel and travail was in vain.

69 Wherefore, he was very wroth at the wicked men that gave him counſel to come into the country, inſomuch as he ſlew many of them, and purpoſed to return into his own country.

70 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, he ſent ambaſſadors unto him, to the end he ſhould make peace with him, and deliver them the priſoners.

71 Which thing he accepted, and did according to his demands, and ſware unto him, that he would never do him harm all the days of his life.

72 When therefore he had reſtored unto him the priſoners that he had taken afore-time out of the land

44 Let us go up now and fight for our lives, &c.) He repreſented to them that the caſe was not the ſame with them now as it was before, when they encamped in the wilderneſs of Thecoe, where they could retire at any time, and avoid an engagement: but now there was no retiring, as they were hemmed in upon every ſide; and therefore they muſt fight, or periſh. And their lives being thus in danger, it was lawful for them to engage, though it was on the ſabbath-day.

50 Afterward returned Bacchides to Jeruſalem, &c.) That is, as we find it in Joſephus' hiſtory, to the fort or town called the city of David in the firſt chapter, where, during all theſe troubles, the Macedonians had ſtill kept a garriſon.

55 His mouth was ſtopped, and he was taken with a palſy, &c.) He could not give the laſt directions about his family, as dying people are wont to do. This ſeems to have been a divine judgment inflicted on Alcimus for his attempting to take away thoſe diſtinctions between the Jews and Gentiles in the temple which God had ſtill thought proper to have kept up.

66 And he ſmote Odonarkes and his brethren, &c.) Jonathan ſeems to have taken a circuit, and falling upon ſome of Bacchides' friends in the way, he at laſt penetrated ſo far as to come upon the rear of his army; which when his brother Simon ſaw from the walls or towers of Bethbaſi, he ſallied out, and burnt all the engines of the beſiegers, whilſt they were drawn off by Jonathan's attack, and fell upon them in front; ſo that they were attacked both ways, and routed.

of Judea, he returned and went his way into his own land, neither came he any more into their borders.

73 Thus the ſword ceaſed from Iſrael: but Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began to govern the people, and he deſtroyed the ungodly men out of Iſrael.

CHAP. X.

4 Demetrius maketh large offers to have peace with Jonathan: 25 his letters to the Jews.

IN the hundred and ſixtieth year, Alexander the ſon of Antiochus, ſurnamed Epiphanes, went up and took Ptolemais: for the people had received him, by means whereof he reigned there.

2 Now when king Demetrius heard thereof, he gathered together an exceeding great hoſt, and went forth againſt him to fight.

3 Moreover, Demetrius ſent letters unto Jonathan with loving words, ſo as he magnified him.

4 For ſaid he, Let us firſt make peace with him, before he join with Alexander againſt us:

5 Elſe he will remember all the evils that we have done againſt him, and againſt his brethren and his people.

6 Wherefore he gave him authority to gather together an hoſt, and to provide weapons that he might aid him in battle: he commanded alſo that the hoſtages that were in the tower ſhould be delivered him.

7 Then came Jonathan to Jeruſalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the tower;

8 Who were ſore afraid, when they heard that the king had given him authority to gather together an hoſt.

9 Whereupon they of the tower delivered their hoſtages unto Jonathan, and he delivered them unto their parents.

10 This done, Jonathan ſettled himſelf in Jeruſalem, and began to build and repair the city.

11 And he commanded the workmen to build the walls, and the mount Sion round about with ſquare ſtones, for fortification; and they did ſo.

12 Then the ſtrangers, that were in the fortreſſes which Bacchides had built, fled away;

13 Inſomuch as every man left his place, and went into his own country.

14 Only at Bethſura certain of thoſe that had forſaken the law and the commandments remained ſtill: for it was their place of refuge.

15 Now when king Alexander had heard what promiſes Demetrius had ſent unto Jonathan: when alſo it was told him of the battles and noble acts which he and his brethren had done, and of the pains that they had endured,

16 He ſaid, Shall we find ſuch another man? now therefore we will make him our friend and confederate.

17 Upon this he wrote a letter, and ſent it unto him, according to theſe words, ſaying,

18 King Alexander to his brother Jonathan, ſendeth greeting:

19 We have heard of thee, that thou art a man of great power, and meet to be our friend.

20 Wherefore now this day we ordain thee to be the high prieſt of thy nation, and to be called the king's friend (and therewithal he ſent him a purple robe, and a crown of gold) and require thee to take our part, and keep friendſhip with us.

21 So in the ſeventh month of the hundred and ſixtieth year, at the feaſt of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy robe, and gathered together forces, and provided much armour.

22 Whereof when Demetrius heard, he was very ſorry, and ſaid,

23 What have we done, that Alexander hath prevented us in making amity with the Jews, to ſtrengthen himſelf?

24 I alſo will write unto them words of encouragement, and promiſe them dignities and gifts, that I may have their aid.

25 He ſent unto them therefore to this effect: King Demetrius unto the people of the Jews, ſendeth greeting:

26 Whereas ye have kept covenants with us, and continued in our friendſhip, not joining yourſelves with our enemies, we have heard thereof, and are glad.

27 Wherefore now continue ye ſtill to be faithful unto us, and we will well recompenſe you for all things ye do in our behalf;

28 And will grant you many immunities, and give you rewards.

29 And now do I free you, and for your ſake I releaſe all the Jews from tributes, and from the cuſtoms of ſalt, and from crown-taxes.

30 And from that which appertaineth unto me to receive for the third part of the ſeed, and the half of the fruit of the trees, I releaſe it from this day forth, ſo that they ſhall not be taken of the land of Judea, nor of the three governments which are added thereunto out of the country of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth for evermore.

31 Let Jeruſalem alſo be holy and free, with the borders thereof, both from tenths and tributes.

32 And as for the tower which is at Jeruſalem, I yield up my authority over it, and give it to the high prieſt, that he may ſet in it ſuch men as he ſhall chooſe to keep it.

33 Moreover, I freely ſet at liberty every one of the Jews that were carried captives out of the land of Judea into any part of my kingdom, and I will that all my officers remit the tributes even of their cattle.

34 Furthermore, I will that all the feaſts, and ſabbaths, and new-moons, and ſolemn days, and the three days before the feaſt, and the three days after the feaſt, ſhall be all days of immunity and freedom for all the Jews in my realm.

35 Alſo no man ſhall have authority to meddle with them, or to moleſt any of them in any matter.

36 I will further, that there be enrolled among the king's forces about thirty thouſand men of the Jews, unto whom pay ſhall be given as belongeth to all the king's forces.

37 And of them ſome ſhall be placed in the king's ſtrong holds, of whom alſo ſome ſhall be ſet over the affairs of the kingdom, which are of truſt: and I will

Commentary on Chap. X.

11 And the mount Sion round about with ſquare ſtones, &c.) By mount Sion is here meant the whole city of Jeruſalem, except the tower or fortreſs, and the temple, the Macedonian garriſon ſtill keeping poſſeſſion of the tower.

21 Jonathan put on the holy robe, &c.) Namely, the robe of the high prieſt: not that ſent him by Jonathan; for Jonathan, being of the lineage of Aaron, was qualified for taking upon him the high prieſthood.

29 I releaſe all the Jews from tributes, and from the cuſtoms of ſalt, &c.) By the cuſtoms of ſalt ſeems to be meant the acknowledgment paid to the king for all ſalt taken out of the ſalt-pits in Judea. By crown-taxes ſeems to be meant the crowns of gold which the Jews uſually preſented every year to the kings they were ſubject to.

33 I will that all my officers remit the tributes, &c.) By this is meant the ſervices which they were obliged to render to the king, in carrying burdens for him with their cattle, cultivating the royal lands, &c. for to ſuch things in the king's ſervice the people were formerly ſubject. They are here ſtiled tributes, probably from its being then cuſtomary to pay a ſum of money in lieu of ſuch ſervice.

that

that their overſeers and governors be of themſelves, and that they live after their own laws, even as the king hath commanded, in the land of Judea.

38 And concerning the three governments that are added to Judea from the country of Samaria, let them be joined with Judea, that they may be reckoned to be under one, nor bound to obey other authority than the high prieſt's.

39 As for Ptolemais, and the land pertaining thereto, I give it as a free gift to the ſanctuary at Jeruſalem, for the neceſſary expences of the ſanctuary.

40 Moreover, I give every year fifteen thouſand ſhekels of ſilver out of the king's accounts, from the places appertaining.

41 And all the overplus which the officers payed not in, as in former time, from henceforth ſhall be given towards the works of the temple.

42 And beſides this, the five thouſand ſhekels of ſilver, which they took from the uſes of the temple out of the accounts year by year, even thoſe things ſhall be releaſed, becauſe they appertain to the prieſts that miniſter.

43 And whoſoever they be that flee unto the temple at Jeruſalem, or be within the liberties thereof, being indebted unto the king, or for any other matter, let them be at liberty, and all that they have in my realm.

44 For the building alſo and repairing of the works of the ſanctuary, expences ſhall be given of the king's accounts:

45 Yea, and for the building of the walls of Jeruſalem, and the fortifying thereof round about, expences ſhall be given out of the king's accounts, as alſo for the building of the walls in Judea.

46 Now when Jonathan and the people heard theſe words, they gave no credit unto them, nor received them, becauſe they remembered the great evil that he had done in Iſrael; for he had afflicted them very ſore.

47 But with Alexander they were well pleaſed, becauſe he was the firſt that intreated of true peace with them, and they were confederate with him always.

48 Then gathered king Alexander great forces, and camped over-againſt Demetrius.

49 And after the two kings had joined battle, Demetrius' hoſt fled: but Alexander followed after him, and prevailed againſt them.

50 And he continued the battle very ſore until the ſun went down; and that day was Demetrius ſlain.

51 Afterward Alexander ſent ambaſſadors to Ptolemee king of Egypt, with a meſſage to this effect:

52 Foraſmuch as I am come again to my realm, and am ſet in the throne of my progenitors, and have gotten the dominion, and overthrown Demetrius, and recovered our country;

53 (For after I had joined battle with him, both he and his hoſt was diſcomfited by us, ſo that we ſit in the throne of his kingdom:)

54 Now, therefore, let us make a league of amity together, and give me now thy daughter to wife: and I will be thy ſon-in-law, and will give both thee and her gifts according to thy dignity.

55 Then Ptolomee the king gave anſwer, ſaying, Happy be the day wherein thou didſt return into the land of thy fathers, and ſatteſt in the throne of their kingdom.

56 And now will I do to thee as thou haſt written: meet me therefore at Ptolemais, that we may ſee one another; for I will marry my daughter to thee according to thy deſire.

57 So Ptolomee went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and they came unto Ptolemais in the hundred threeſcore and ſecond year;

58 Where king Alexander meeting him, he gave unto him his daughter Cleopatra, and celebrated her marriage at Ptolemais with great glory, as the manner of kings is.

59 Now king Alexander had written unto Jonathan, that he ſhould come and meet him.

60 Who thereupon went honourably to Ptolemais, where he met the two kings, and gave them and their friends ſilver and gold, and many preſents, and found favour in their ſight.

61 At that time certain peſtilent fellows of Iſrael, men of a wicked life, aſſembled themſelves againſt him, to accuſe him: but the king would not hear them.

62 Yea, more than that, the king commanded to take off his garments, and clothe him in purple: and they did ſo.

63 Alſo he made him ſit by himſelf, and ſaid unto his princes, Go with him into the midſt of the city, and make proclamation, that no man complain againſt him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any manner of cauſe.

64 Now when his accuſers ſaw that he was honoured according to the proclamation, and clothed in purple, they fled all away.

65 So the king honoured him, and wrote him among his chief friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.

66 Afterward Jonathan returned to Jeruſalem with peace and gladneſs.

67 Furthermore, in the hundred threeſcore and fifth year, came Demetrius, ſon of Demetrius, out of Crete into the land of his fathers.

68 Whereof when king Alexander heard tell, he was right ſorry, and returned into Antioch.

69 Then Demetrius made Apollonius, the governor of Celoſyria, his general, who gathered together a great hoſt, and camped in Jamnia, and ſent unto Jonathan the high prieſt, ſaying, 70 Thou alone lifteſt up thyſelf againſt us, and I am laughed to ſcorn for thy ſake, and reproached, and why doſt thou vaunt thy power againſt us in the mountains?

71 Now therefore, if thou truſteſt in thine own ſtrength, come down to us into the plain field, and there let us try the matter together: for with me is the power of the cities.

72 Aſk, and learn who I am, and the reſt that take our part, and they ſhall tell thee, that thy foot is not able to ſtand before our face; for thy fathers have been twice put to flight in their own land.

73 Wherefore now thou ſhalt not be able to abide the horſemen, and ſo great a power in the plain, where is neither ſtone nor flint, nor place to flee unto.

74 So when Jonathan heard theſe words of Apollo-

39 As for Ptolemais, and the land pertaining thereto, &c.) This was a grant, the receiving actual benefit from which depended upon circumſtances; for Ptolemais was at this time in the hands of Alexander his rival: and this was indeed a ſtrong, intereſting motive for the Jews heartily ſiding with Demetrius, as the revenues of this place, on their ſtrenuouſly contributing their aſſiſtance to drive Alexander out of it, would in the event thereof accrue to themſelves.

43 Let them be at liberty, &c.) According to the cuſtoms of the Greeks, Demetrius granted the privileges of an aſſylum for all who were indebted to him, &c. in the temple, and that ſuch as took refuge there ſhould not only be unmoleſted in their perſons, but likewiſe that their effects ſhould not be confiſcated.

73 Where is neither ſtone nor flint, &c.) Where there is no cave to retreat to, nor mountain to run behind: and where the battle muſt be fought with warlike weapons, and not with ſtones. By theſe taunting ſpeeches, it is eaſy to obſerve that Appollonius deſigned to provoke Jonathan to quit the mountains, and come down and engage him in the plain country, where he thought himſelf ſecure of victory.

nius,

nius, he was moved in his mind, and chooſing ten thouſand men, he went out of Jeruſalem, where Simon his brother met him for to help him.

75 And he pitched his tents againſt Joppe: but they of Joppe ſhut him out of the city, becauſe Apollonius had a garriſon there.

76 Then Jonathan laid ſiege unto it: whereupon they of the city let him in for fear: and ſo Jonathan won Joppe.

77 Whereof when Apollonius heard, he took three thouſand horſemen, with a great hoſt of footmen, and went to Azotus, as one that journeyed, and therewithal drew him forth into the plain, becauſe he had a great number of horſemen, in whom he put his truſt.

78 Then Jonathan followed after him to Azotus, where the armies joined battle.

79 Now Apollonius had left a thouſand horſemen in ambuſh.

80 And Jonathan knew that there was an ambuſhment behind him; for they had compaſſed in his hoſt, and caſt darts at the people from morning till evening.

81 But the people ſtood ſtill, as Jonathan had commanded them: and ſo the enemies' horſes were tired.

82 Then brought Simon forth his hoſt, and ſet them againſt the footmen (for the horſemen were ſpent) who were diſcomfited by him, and fled.

83 The horſemen alſo, being ſcattered in the field, fled to Azotus, and went into Beth-dagon, their idol's temple, for ſafety.

84 But Jonathan ſet fire on Azotus, and the cities round about it, and took their ſpoils; and the temple of Dagon, with them that were fled into it, he burnt with fire.

85 Thus there were burnt and ſlain with the ſword, well nigh eight thouſand men.

86 And from thence Jonathan removed his hoſt, and camped againſt Aſcalon, where the men of the city came forth, and met him with great pomp.

87 After this returned Jonathan and his hoſt unto Jeruſalem, having many ſpoils.

88 Now when king Alexander heard theſe things, he honoured Jonathan yet more,

89 And ſent him a buckle of gold, as the uſe is to be given to ſuch as are of the king's blood: he gave him alſo Accaron, with the borders thereof, in poſſeſſion.

CHAP. XI.

Ptolemee taketh away his daughter from Alexander, and entereth upon his kingdom.

AND the king of Egypt gathered together a great hoſt, like the ſand that lieth upon the ſea-ſhore, and many ſhips, and went about through deceit to get Alexander's kingdom, and join it to his own.

2 Whereupon he took his journey into Syria in peaceable manner, ſo as they of the cities opened unto him, and met him: for king Alexander had commanded them ſo to do, becauſe he was his father-in-law.

3 Now as Ptolemee entered into the cities, he ſet in every one of them a garriſon of ſoldiers to keep it.

4 And when he came near to Azotus, they ſhewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus and the ſuburbs thereof that were deſtroyed, and the bodies that were caſt abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battle; for they had made heaps of them by the way where he ſhould paſs.

5 Alſo they told the king whatſoever Jonathan had done, to the intent he might blame him: but the king held his peace.

6 Then Jonathan met the king with great pomp at Joppe, where they ſaluted one another, and lodged.

7 Afterward Jonathan, when he had gone with the king to the river called Eleutherus, returned again to Jeruſalem.

8 King Ptolemee, therefore, having gotten the dominion of the cities by the ſea, unto Seleucia upon the ſea-coaſt, imagined wicked counſels againſt Alexander.

9 Whereupon he ſent ambaſſadors unto king Demetrius, ſaying, Come, let us make a league betwixt us, and I will give thee my daughter whom Alexander hath, and thou ſhalt reign in thy father's kingdom;

10 For I repent that I gave my daughter unto him; for he ſought to ſlay me.

11 Thus did he ſlander him, becauſe he was deſirous of his kingdom.

12 Wherefore he took his daughter from him, and gave her to Demetrius, and forſook Alexander, ſo that their hatred was openly known.

13 Then Ptolemee entered into Antioch, where he ſet two crowns upon his head, the crown of Aſia, and of Egypt.

14 In the mean ſeaſon was king Alexander in Cilicia, becauſe thoſe that dwelt in thoſe parts had revolted from him.

15 But when Alexander heard of this, he came to war againſt him: whereupon king Ptolemee brought forth his hoſt, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

16 So Alexander fled into Arabia, there to be defended: but king Ptolemee was exalted:

17 For Zabdiel the Arabian took off Alexander's head, and ſent it unto Ptolemee.

18 King Ptolomee alſo died the third day after, and they that were in the ſtrong holds were ſlain one of another.

19 By this means Demetrius reigned in the hundred threeſcore and ſevent hyear.

20 At the ſame time Jonathan gathered together them that were in Judea, to take the tower that was in Jeruſalem: and he made many engines of war againſt it.

---

81 But the people ſtood ſtill, &c.) The meaning ſeems to be, that Jonathan ordered his men to ſtand upon the defenſive only, with their ſhields held cloſe to one another over their heads, ſo that the enemy's darts fell only upon their ſhields, without wounding the ſoldiers, 'till at length the enemy's horſe grew faint and jaded with being ſo long in the field.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XI.

1 And the king of Egypt gathered together, &c.) This was the ſame who a little before had given his daughter to Alexander, and made a ſhew of having a great friendſhip for him: but this the writer ſeems to think was not ſincere, and that he only ſought for an opportunity of gaining ſome advantage himſelf, and ſeizing upon Alexander's kingdom.

4 And them that he had burnt in the battle, &c.) This is inaccurately expreſſed. The meaning is, them which Jonathan had deſtroyed, by ſetting fire to Azotus, &c. as in the preceding chapter. The inhabitants thought that by piling up thoſe where the king was to paſs, he would be moved to take revenge on the Jews.

12 Wherefore he took his daughter from him, &c.) It is likely that he deſired his daughter Cleopatra to come to him upon ſome pretence or other, and then he detained her, obliging her to marry Demetrius; whereupon he openly avowed his deſigns upon Alexander, which, 'till then, he ſeems to have concealed.

13 He ſet two crowns upon his head, &c.) That is, the crown of Syria, and of the ſeveral regions of Aſia belonging to it, that, having gotten thus the authority, he might the more eaſily reconcile the inhabitants of Antioch to his new ſon-in-law Demetrius, to come under whoſe obedience they were averſe, as fearing he would be revenged of them for revolting from his father.

18 King Ptolemee alſo died the third day after, &c.) We are left in the dark here with regard to the cauſe of Ptolemee's death. Joſephus and other hiſtorians write that he died of a grievous wound which he received in his head in battle; probably that with Alexander above-mentioned, 21 Then certain ungodly perſons, who hated their own people, went unto the king, and told him that Jonathan beſieged the tower.

22 Whereof when he heard, he was angry, and immediately removing, he came to Ptolemais, and wrote unto Jonathan, that he ſhould not lay ſiege to the tower, but come and ſpeak with him at Ptolemais in great haſte.

23 Neverthelefs, Jonathan, when he heard this, commanded to beſiege it ſtill: and he choſe certain of the elders of Iſrael, and the prieſts, and put himſelf in peril;

24 And took ſilver and gold, and raiment, and divers preſents beſides, and went to Ptolemais, unto the king, where he found favour in his ſight.

25 And though certain ungodly men of the people had made complaints againſt him,

26 Yet the king intreated him as his predeceſſors had done before, and promoted him in the ſight of all his friends,

27 And confirmed him in the high prieſthood, and in all the honours that he had before, and gave him pre-eminence among his chief friends.

28 Then Jonathan deſired the king, that he would make Judea free from tribute, as alſo the three governments, with the country of Samaria; and he promiſed him three hundred talents.

29 So the king conſented, and wrote letters unto Jonathan of all theſe things, after this manner:

30 King Demetrius unto his brother Jonathan, and unto the nation of the Jews, ſendeth greeting:

31 We ſend you here a copy of the letter which we did write unto our couſin Laſthenes, concerning you, that you might ſee it.

32 King Demetrius unto his father Laſthenes, ſendeth greeting:

33 We are determined to do good to the people of the Jews, who are our friends, and keep covenants with us, becauſe of their good will towards us.

34 Wherefore we have ratified unto them the borders of Judea, with the three governments of Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathem, that are added unto Judea, from the country of Samaria, and all things appertaining unto them, for all ſuch as do ſacrifice in Jeruſalem, inſtead of the payments which the king received of them yearly aforetime out of the fruits of the earth and of trees.

35 And as for other things that belong unto us, of the tithes and cuſtoms pertaining unto us, as alſo the ſalt-pits, and the crown-taxes, which are due unto us, we diſcharge them of them all for their relief.

36 And nothing hereof ſhall be revoked from this time forth for ever.

37 Now therefore, ſee that thou make a copy of theſe things; and let it be delivered unto Jonathan, and ſet upon the holy mount in a conſpicuous place.

38 After this, when king Demetrius ſaw that the land was quiet before him, and that no reſiſtance was made againſt him, he ſent away all his forces, every one to his own place, except certain bands of ſtrangers, whom he had gathered from the iſles of the heathen: wherefore all the forces of his fathers hated him.

39 Moreover, there was one Tryphon, that had been of Alexander's part afore, who, ſeeing that all the hoſt murmured againſt Demetrius, went to Simalcue the Arabian, that brought up Antiochus the young ſon of Alexander,

40 And lay ſore upon him to deliver him this young Antiochus, that he might reign in his father's ſtead; he told him, therefore, all that Demetrius had done, and how his men of war were at enmity with him: and there he remained a long ſeaſon.

41 In the mean time Jonathan ſent unto king Demetrius, that he would caſt thoſe of the tower out of Jeruſalem, and thoſe alſo in the fortreſſes: for they fought againſt Iſrael.

42 So Demetrius ſent unto Jonathan, ſaying, I will not only do this for thee and thy people, but I will greatly honour thee and thy nation, if opportunity ſerve.

43 Now, therefore, thou ſhalt do well if thou ſend me men to help me; for all my forces are gone from me.

44 Upon this Jonathan ſent him three thouſand ſtrong men unto Antioch; and when they came to the king, the king was very glad of their coming.

45 Howbeit they that were of the city gathered themſelves together into the midſt of the city, to the number of an hundred and twenty thouſand men, and would have ſlain the king.

46 Wherefore the king fled into the court; but they of the city kept the paſſages of the city, and began to fight.

47 Then the king called to the Jews for help, who came unto him all at once; and, diſperſing themſelves through the city, ſlew that day in the city to the number of an hundred thouſand.

48 Alſo they ſet fire on the city, and gat many ſpoils that day and delivered the king.

49 So when they of the city ſaw that the Jews had got the city as they would, their courage was abated: wherefore they made ſupplication to the king, and cried, ſaying,

50 Grant us peace, and let the Jews ceaſe from aſſaulting us and the city.

51 With that they caſt away their weapons, and made peace; and the Jews were honoured in the ſight of the king, and in the ſight of all that were in his realm; and they returned to Jeruſalem, having great ſpoils.

52 So king Demetrius ſat on the throne of his kingdom, and the land was quiet before him.

53 Neverthelefs, he diſſembled in all that ever he ſpake, and eſtranged himſelf from Jonathan, neither rewarded he him according to the benefits which he had received of him, but troubled him very ſore.

54 After this returned Tryphon, and with him the young child Antiochus, who reigned and was crowned.

55 Then there gathered unto him all the men of war, whom Demetrius had put away, and they fought againſt Demetrius, who turned his back and fled.

56 Moreover, Tryphon took the elephants, and won Antioch.

57 At that time young Antiochus wrote unto Jonathan, ſaying, I confirm thee in the high prieſthood, and appoint thee ruler over the four governments, and to be one of the king's friends.

58 Upon this he ſent him golden veſſels to be ſerved in, and gave him leave to drink in gold, and to be clothed in purple, and to wear a golden buckle.

59 His brother Simon alſo he made captain, from the place called The Ladder of Tyrus, unto the borders of Egypt.

46 They of the city kept the paſſages of the city, &c.) Demetrius having retired into the ſecureſt part of the palace, was beſieged as it were by the people, who kept poſſeſſion of all the avenues from the palace to the city, that the king might neither eſcape nor receive any aſſiſtance.

47 And diſperſing themſelves through the city, &c.) Here the matter is obſcurely expreſſed: for it does not appear from the following account, nor the circumſtances of the caſe, that the Jews diſperſed themſelves thro' the city; for it is not probable that three thouſand men would have diſperſed themſelves among one hundred and twenty thouſand of the enraged inhabitants. Thus the caſe ſeems to have ſtood; the Jews from the top of the royal palace flung down ſtones and darts upon the multitude gathered beneath; by ſuch means, and by ſetting the city on fire, namely, ſome houſes near the palace, which ſoon ſpread, and the more eaſily as they were of wood, they ſlew thus ſo many of them.

60 Then

60 Then Jonathan went forth, and paſſed through the cities beyond the water, and all the forces of Syria gathered themſelves unto him for to help him: and when he came to Aſcalon, they of the city met him honourably.

61 From whence he went to Gaza, but they of Gaza ſhut him out; wherefore he laid ſiege unto it, and burned the ſuburbs thereof with fire, and ſpoiled them.

62 Afterward, when they of Gaza made ſupplication unto Jonathan, he made peace with them, and took the ſons of their chief men for hoſtages, and ſent them to Jeruſalem, and paſſed through the country unto Damaſcus.

63 Now, when Jonathan heard that Demetrius' princes were come to Cades, which is in Galilee, with a great power, purpoſing to remove him out of the country,

64 He went to meet them, and left Simon his brother in the country.

65 Then Simon encamped againſt Bethſura, and fought againſt it a long ſeaſon, and ſhut it up:

66 But they deſired to have peace with him, which he granted them, and then put them out from thence, and took the city, and ſet a garriſon in it.

67 As for Jonathan and his hoſt, they pitched at the water of Genneſar, from whence, betimes in the morning, they gat them to the plain of Naſor.

68 And behold, the hoſt of ſtrangers met them in the plain, who, having laid men in ambuſh for him in the moutains, came themſelves over-againſt him.

69 So when they that lay in ambuſh roſe out of their places, and joined battle, all that were of Jonathan's ſide fled;

70 Inſomuch as there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the ſon of Abſalom, and Judas the ſon of Calphi, the captains of the hoſt.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and caſt earth upon his head, and prayed.

72 Afterwards, turning again to battle, he put them to flight, and ſo they ran away.

73 Now when his own men that were fled ſaw this, they turned again unto him, and with him purſued them to Cades, even unto their own tents, and there they camped.

74 So there were ſlain of the heathen that day about three thouſand men: but Jonathan returned to Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XII.

Jonathan reneweth his league with the Romans and Lacedemonians.

NOW when Jonathan ſaw that the time ſerved him, he choſe certain men, and ſent them to Rome, for to confirm and renew the friendſhip that they had with them.

2 He ſent letters alſo to the Lacedemonians, and to other places, for the ſame purpoſe.

3 So they went unto Rome, and entered into the ſenate, and ſaid, Jonathan the high prieſt, and the people of the Jews, ſent us unto you, to the end ye ſhould renew the friendſhip which ye had with them, and league, as in former time.

4 Upon this the Romans gave them letters unto the governors of every place, that they ſhould bring them into the land of Judea peaceably.

5 And this is the copy of the letters which Jonathan wrote to the Lacedemonians:

6 Jonathan the high prieſt, and the elders of the nation, and the prieſts, and the other people of the Jews, unto the Lacedemonians their brethren, ſend greeting:

7 There were letters ſent in times paſt unto Onias the high prieſt from Darius, who reigned then among you, to ſignify that ye are our brethren, as the copy here under-written doth ſpecify.

8 At which time Onias entreated the ambaſſador that was ſent, honourably, and received the letters, wherein declaration was made of the league and friendſhip.

9 Therefore we alſo, albeit, we need none of theſe things, for that we have the holy books of ſcripture in our hands to comfort us,

10 Have nevertheleſs attempted to ſend unto you, for the renewing of brotherhood and friendſhip, leſt we ſhould become ſtrangers unto you altogether: for there is a long time paſſed ſince ye ſent unto us.

11 We, therefore, at all times without ceaſing, both in our feaſts, and other convenient days, do remember you in the ſacrifices which we offer, and in our prayers, as reaſon is, and as it becometh us to think upon our brethren:

12 And we are right glad of your honour.

13 As for ourſelves, we have had great troubles and wars on every ſide, foraſmuch as the kings that are round about us have fought againſt us.

14 Howbeit, we would not be troubleſome unto you, nor to others of our confederates and friends in the wars.

15 For we have help from heaven that ſuccoureth us, ſo as we are delivered from our enemies, and our enemies are brought under foot.

16 For this cauſe we choſe Numenius the ſon of Antiochus, and Antipater the ſon of Jaſon, and ſent them unto the Romans, to renew the amity that we had with them, and the former league.

17 We commanded them alſo to go unto you, and to ſalute you, and to deliver you our letters concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

18 Wherefore now ye ſhall do well to give us an anſwer thereto.

19 And this is the copy of the letters which Oniares ſent:

20 Areus king of the Lacedemonians to Onias the high prieſt, greeting:

---

60 And paſſed through the cities beyond the water, &c.) That is, beyond the river Jordan. By all the forces of Syria gathering themſelves, is meant, all the old ſtanding forces of the kingdom of Syria which Demetrius had before diſbanded; theſe joined Jonathan, becauſe he declared for the young Antiochus.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

1 When Jonathan ſaw that the time ſerved him, &c.) Namely, that his affairs ſucceeded well, he ſent an embaſſy to Rome, in order to ſtrengthen the alliance which had been formerly made between the two nations (ch. viii.) and to make ſuch additions to it as the preſent circumſtances of the Jewiſh affairs required.

7 Letters ſent in times paſt to Onias the high prieſt from Darius, &c.) This ought to be read, From Areus, who then reigned among you, (for ſo Joſephus has it) ſince no Darius reigned among the Lacedemonians. The word brethren is not uſed here in a general ſenſe, as ſignifying no more than friends and allies, but is to be taken in the ſenſe of kindred, the Lacedemonians aſſerting that they were deſcended from Abraham.

9 Therefore we alſo, albeit, we need none of theſe things, &c.) The ſenſe of this verſe is ſomewhat obſcure; but the meaning as Joſephus explains it, is, That Jonathan wrote the Lacedemonians word that he was convinced of the kindred between them, without any teſtimony of theirs from the Holy Scriptures; in which he learned that they were deſcended from different branches of the ſame progenitors. The Lacedemonians are ſuppoſed to have derived their origin from the deſcendants of Abraham by Keturah. What is rendered in this verſe, to comfort us, may be rendered to admoniſh or inſtruct us.

12 And we are right glad of your honour.) The Lacedemonians were at that time in friendſhip with the Romans, and in a very flouriſhing condition.

21 It is found in writing, that the Lacedemonians and Jews are brethren, and that they are of the ſtock of Abraham:

22 Now therefore, ſince this is come to our knowledge, ye ſhall do well to write unto us of your proſperity.

23 We do write back again to you, that your cattle and goods are ours, and ours are yours. We do command, therefore, our ambaſſadors to make report unto you on this wiſe.

24 Now when Jonathan heard that Demetrius' princes were come to fight againſt him with a greater hoſt than afore,

25 He removed from Jeruſalem, and met them in the land of Amathas: for he gave them no reſpite to enter his country.

26 He ſent ſpies alſo unto their tents, who came again, and told him that they were appointed to come upon them in the night-ſeaſon.

27 Wherefore ſo ſoon as the ſun was down, Jonathan commanded his men to watch, and to be in arms, that all the night long they might be ready to fight: alſo he ſent forth centinels round about the hoſt.

28 But when the adverſaries heard that Jonathan and his men were ready for battle, they feared and trembled in their hearts, and they kindled fires in their camp.

29 Howbeit, Jonathan and his company knew it not till the morning: for they ſaw the lights burning.

30 Then Jonathan purſued after them, but overtook them not: for they were gone over the river Eleutherus.

31 Wherefore Jonathan turned to the Arabians, who were called Zabadeans, and ſmote them, and took their ſpoils.

32 And removing thence, he came to Damaſcus, and ſo paſſed through all the country.

33 Simon alſo went forth, and paſſed through the country unto Aſcalon, and the holds there adjoining, from whence he turned aſide to Joppe, and won it.

34 For he had heard that they would deliver the hold unto them that took Demetrius' part; wherefore he ſet a garriſon there to keep it.

35 After this came Jonathan home again; and, calling the elders of the people together, he conſulted with them, about building ſtrong holds in Judea,

36 And making the walls of Jeruſalem higher, and raiſing a great mount between the tower and the city, for to ſeparate it from the city, that ſo it might be alone, that men might neither ſell nor buy in it.

37 Upon this they came together to build up the city; foraſmuch as part of the wall toward the brook on the eaſt ſide was fallen down, and they repaired that which was called Caphenatha.

38 Simon alſo ſet up Adida in Sephela, and made it ſtrong with gates and bars.

39 Now Tryphon went about to get the kingdom of Aſia, and to kill Antiochus the king, that he might ſet the crown upon his own head.

40 Howbeit, he was afraid that Jonathan would not ſuffer him, and that he would fight againſt him; wherefore he ſought a way how to take Jonathan, that he might kill him. So he removed, and came to Bethſan.

41 Then Jonathan went out to meet him with forty thouſand men choſen for the battle, and came to Bethſan.

42 Now when Tryphon ſaw that Jonathan came with ſo great a force, he durſt not ſtretch his hand againſt him;

43 But received him honourably, and commended him unto all his friends, and gave him gifts, and commanded his men of war to be as obedient unto him as to himſelf.

44 Unto Jonathan alſo he ſaid, Why haſt thou put all this people to ſo great trouble, ſeeing there is no war betwixt us?

45 Therefore ſend them now home again, and chooſe a few men to wait on thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemais, for I will give it thee, and the reſt of the ſtrong holds and forces, and all that have any charge: as for me, I will return and depart; for this is the cauſe of my coming.

46 So Jonathan believing him, did as he bade him, and ſent away his hoſt, who went into the land of Judea.

47 And with himſelf he retained but three thouſand men, of whom he ſent two thouſand into Galilee, and one thouſand went with him.

48 Now as ſoon as Jonathan entered into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais ſhut the gates, and took him; and all them that came with him they ſlew with the ſword.

49 Then ſent Tryphon an hoſt of footmen and horſemen into Galilee, and into the great plain, to deſtroy all Jonathan's company.

50 But when they knew that Jonathan and they that were with him, were taken and ſlain, they encouraged one another, and went cloſe together, prepared to fight.

51 They, therefore, that followed upon them, perceiving that they were ready to fight for their lives, turned back again.

52 Whereupon they all came into the land of Judea peaceably, and there they bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with him, and they were ſore afraid; wherefore all Iſrael made great lamentation.

53 Then all the heathen that were round about them ſought to deſtroy them: for ſaid they, They have no captain, nor any to help them: now, therefore, let us make war upon them, and take away their memorial from among men.

CHAP. XIII.

Simon is made captain in his brother Jonathan's room.

NOW when Simon heard that Tryphon had gathered together a great hoſt to invade the land of Judea, and deſtroy it,

2 And ſaw that the people was in great trembling and fear, he went up to Jeruſalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gave them exhortation, ſaying, Ye yourſelves know what great things I, and my brethren, and my father's houſe, have done for the laws and the ſanctuary, the battles alſo and troubles which we have ſeen,

4 By reaſon whereof all my brethren are ſlain for Iſrael's ſake, and I am left alone.

---

26 They were appointed to come upon them in the night-ſeaſon.) This the ſpies learned of ſome which they took priſoners in their returning to Jonathan, as Joſephus informs us.

31 The Arabians, who were called Zabadeans, &c.) Joſephus has Nabatheans inſtead of Zabadeans, and this ſeems to be the true reading; for the Nabatheans continued on Demetrius' ſide.

36 And raiſing a great mount between the tower and the city, &c.) He propoſed to build ſuch a high wall between the tower and the city of Jeruſalem as ſhould cut off all communication: ſo that none ſhould be able to bring the garriſon any proviſions from the city, nor buy any commodities of them. The garriſon, it is likely, uſed to ſally out from time to time, and make a booty, which ſome of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem purchaſed of them, or exchanged for proviſions. Thus Jonathan intended to ſtraiten the garriſon, and oblige them to ſurrender.

50 But when they knew that Jonathan and they that were with him, were taken and ſlain, &c.) Fame, as is uſually the caſe, reported more than was true; for it appears from the next chapter that Jonathan was not ſlain at this time,

5 Now, therefore, be it far from me that I ſhould ſpare mine own life in any time of trouble: for I am no better than my brethren.

6 Doubtleſs I will avenge my nation, and the ſanctuary, and our wives, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered to deſtroy us of very malice.

7 Now as ſoon as the people heard theſe words, their ſpirit revived.

8 And they anſwered with a loud voice, ſaying, Thou ſhalt be our leader inſtead of Judas and Jonathan thy brethren:

9 Fight thou our battles, and whatſoever thou commandeſt us, that will we do.

10 So then he gathered together all the men of war, and made haſte to finiſh the walls of Jeruſalem, and he fortified it round about.

11 Alſo he ſent Jonathan the ſon of Abſalom, and with him a great power, to Joppe: who, caſting out them that were therein, remained there in it.

12 So Tryphon removed from Ptolemais with a great power to invade the land of Judea; and Jonathan was with him in ward.

13 But Simon pitched his tents at Adida, overagainſt the plain.

14 Now when Tryphon knew that Simon was riſen up inſtead of his brother Jonathan, and meant to join battle with him, he ſent meſſengers unto him, ſaying,

15 Whereas we have Jonathan thy brother in hold, it is for money that he is owing unto the king's treaſure, concerning the buſineſs that was committed unto him.

16 Wherefore now ſend an hundred talents of ſilver, and two of his ſons for hoſtages, that when he is at liberty, he may not revolt from us, and we will let him go.

17 Hereupon Simon, albeit, he perceived that they ſpake deceitfully unto him, yet ſent he the money and the children, leſt peradventure he ſhould procure to himſelf great hatred of the people:

18 Who might have ſaid, Becauſe I ſent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead.

19 So he ſent them the children and the hundred talents: howbeit, Tryphon diſſembled, neither would he let Jonathan go.

20 And after this came Tryphon to invade the land, and deſtroy it, going round about by the way that leadeth unto Adora: but Simon and his hoſt marched againſt him in every place whereſoever he went.

21 Now they that were in the tower ſent meſſengers unto Tryphon, to the end that he ſhould haſten his coming unto them by the wilderneſs, and ſend them victuals.

22 Wherefore Tryphon made ready all his horſemen to come that night: but there fell a very great ſnow, by reaſon whereof he came not. So he departed, and came into the country of Galaad.

23 And when he came near to Baſcama, he ſlew Jonathan, who was buried there.

24 Afterward Tryphon returned, and went into his own land.

25 Then ſent Simon, and took the bones of Jonathan his brother, and buried them in Modin, the city of his fathers.

26 And all Iſrael made great lamentation for him, and bewailed him many days.

27 Simon alſo built a monument upon the ſepulchre of his father and his brethren, and raiſed it aloft to the ſight, with hewn ſtone behind and before.

28 Moreover, he ſet up ſeven pyramids, one againſt another, for his father, and his mother, and his four brethren.

29 And in theſe he made cunning devices, about the which he ſet great pillars, and upon the pillars he made all their armour for a perpetual memory, and by the armour ſhips carved, that they might be ſeen of all that ſail on the ſea.

30 This is the ſepulchre which he made at Modin, and it ſtandeth yet unto this day.

31 Now Tryphon dealt deceitfully with the young king Antiochus, and ſlew him.

32 And he reigned in his ſtead, and crowned himſelf king of Aſia, and brought a great calamity upon the land.

33 Then Simon built up the ſtrong holds in Judea, and fenced them about with high towers, and great walls, and gates, and bars, and laid up victuals therein.

34 Moreover, Simon choſe men, and ſent to king Demetrius, to the end he ſhould give the land an immunity, becauſe all that Tryphon did was to ſpoil.

35 Unto whom king Demetrius anſwered and wrote after this manner:

36 King Demetrius unto Simon the high prieſt, and friend of kings, as alſo unto the elders and nation of the Jews, ſendeth greeting:

37 The golden crown, and the ſcarlet robe, which ye ſent unto us, we have received: and we are ready to make a ſtedfaſt peace with you, yea, and to write unto our officers, to confirm the immunities which we have granted.

38 And whatſoever covenants we have made with you ſhall ſtand; and the ſtrong holds, which ye have builded, ſhall be your own.

39 As for any overſight or fault committed unto this day, we forgive it, and the crown-tax alſo which ye owe us: and if there were any other tribute paid in Jeruſalem, it ſhall no more be paid.

40 And look who are meet among you to be in our court, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace betwixt us.

41 Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken away from Iſrael in the hundred and ſeventieth year.

42 Then the people of Iſrael began to write in their inſtruments and contracts, In the firſt year of Simon the high prieſt, the governor and leader of the Jews.

43 In thoſe days Simon camped againſt Gaza, and beſieged it round about; he made alſo an engine of war, and ſet it by the city, and battered a certain tower, and took it.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

11 Caſting out them that were therein, &c.) They ejected all the inhabitants, as being inclined to Tryphon's intereſt, ſo that only the Jewiſh garriſon which had been placed there before (ch. xii. 34.) and thoſe which went at this time, remained in the town.

29 About the which he ſet great pillars, &c.) He made a portico of pillars, each one entire ſtone, as Joſephus relates, who ſays they were all ſtanding in his time; he alſo hung their armour upon theſe pillars, a thing cuſtomary then to ſet great men's armour over their ſepulchres, unleſs repreſentatives of them were cut in the ſtone, as the words ſeem to inſinuate; and alſo ſhips were carved upon them, as having dominion over the maritime coaſts.

34 Simon choſe men, and ſent to king Demetrius, &c.) This ſhould be rendered, He had choſen men, and ſent them to Demetrius, before the latter had been made priſoner by the Parthians; and this he was before Tryphon killed Antiochus, and ſeized upon the kingdom, that he ſhould remit the tribute or taxes which were due to that time; the country having been ſo much impoveriſhed by the rapines of Tryphon, as not to be able to pay the accuſtomed rates.

40 And look who are meet among you to be in our court, &c.) Tho' this, according to our verſion, ſeems to ſignify ſome higher honour than being admitted as ſoldiers into the king's ſervice, and receiving his pay, yet the original means no more; and this was accounted a great privilege, as may be concluded from ch. x. 36. There it is confined to a certain number, but here it is extended to as many as were qualified for it.

44 And they that were in the engine leapt into the city; whereupon there was a great uproar in the city;

45 Insomuch as the people of the city rent their clothes, and climbed upon the walls with their wives and children, and cried with a loud voice, beseeching Simon to grant them peace.

46 And they said, Deal not with us according to our wickedness, but according to thy mercy.

47 So Simon was appeased towards them, and fought no more against them, but put them out of the city, and cleansed the houses wherein the idols were; and so entered into it with songs and thanksgiving.

48 Yea, he put all uncleanness out of it, and placed such men there as would keep the law, and made it stronger than it was before, and built therein a dwelling-place for himself.

49 They also of the tower in Jerusalem were kept so strait, that they could neither come forth, nor go into the country, nor buy, nor sell: wherefore they were in great distress for want of victuals, and a great number of them perished through famine.

50 Then cried they to Simon, beseeching him to be at one with them; which thing he granted them: and when he had put them out from thence, he cleansed the tower from pollutions,

51 And entered into it the three and twentieth day of the second month, in the hundred seventy and first year, with thanksgiving, and branches of palm-trees, and with harps and cymbals, and with viols, and hymns, and songs; because there was destroyed a great enemy out of Israel.

52 He ordained also that that day should be kept every year with gladness. Moreover, the hill of the temple that was by the tower he made stronger than it was, and there he dwelt himself with his company.

53 And when Simon saw that John his son was a valiant man, he made him captain of all the hosts; and he dwelt in Gazara.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Demetrius taken by the king of Persia. 4 The good deeds of Simon.

NOW in the hundred threescore and twelfth year, king Demetrius gathered his forces together, and went into Media, to get him help to fight against Tryphon.

2 But when Arsaces, the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius was entered within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him alive:

3 Who went and smote the host of Demetrius, and took him, and brought him to Arsaces, by whom he was put in ward.

4 As for the land of Judea, that was quiet all the days of Simon; for he sought the good of his nation in such wise, as that evermore his authority and honour pleased them well.

5 And as he was honourable in all his acts, so in this, that he took Joppe for an haven, and made an entrance to the isles of the sea,

6 And enlarged the bounds of his nation, and recovered the country,

7 And gathered together a great number of captives, and had the dominion of Gazara, and Bethsura, and the tower, out of the which he took all uncleanness; neither was there any that resisted him.

8 Then did they till their ground in peace, and the earth gave her increase, and the trees of the field their fruit.

9 The ancient men sat all in the streets, communing together of good things, and the young men put on glorious and warlike apparel.

10 He provided victuals for the cities, and set in them all manner of munition, so that his honourable name was renowned unto the end of the world.

11 He made peace in the land, and Israel rejoiced with great joy:

12 For every man sat under his vine, and his fig-tree, and there was none to fray them:

13 Neither was there any left in the land to fight against them: yea, the kings themselves were overthrown in those days.

14 Moreover, he strengthened all those of his people that were brought low: the law he searched out, and every contemner of the law, and wicked person, he took away.

15 He beautified the sanctuary, and multiplied the vessels of the temple.

16 Now when it was heard at Rome, and as far as Sparta, that Jonathan was dead, they were very sorry.

17 But as soon as they heard that his brother Simon was made high priest in his stead, and ruled the country, and the cities therein:

18 They wrote unto him in tables of brass, to renew the friendship and league which they had made with Judas and Jonathan his brethren:

19 Which writings were read before the congregation at Jerusalem.

20 And this is the copy of the letters that the Lacedemonians sent: The rulers of the Lacedemonians, with the city, unto Simon the high priest, and the elders and priests, and residue of the people of the Jews, our brethren, send greeting;

21 The ambassadors, that were sent unto our people, certified us of your glory and honour, wherefore we were glad of their coming:

22 And did register the things that they spake in the council of the people, in this manner, Numenius son of Antiochus, and Antipater son of Jason, the Jews' ambassadors, came unto us to renew the friendship they had with us.

23 And it pleased the people to entertain the men honourably, and to put the copy of their ambassage in public records, to the end the people of the Lacedemonians might have a memorial thereof: furthermore, we have written a copy thereof unto Simon the high priest.

24 After this, Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight, to confirm the league with them.

25 Whereof, when the people heard, they said, What thanks shall we give to Simon and his sons?

26 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father, have established Israel, and chased away in fight their enemies from them, and confirmed their liberty.

27 So then they wrote it in tables of brass, which they set upon pillars in mount Sion: and this is the copy of the writing; The eighteenth day of the month

52 The hill of the temple that was by the tower he made stronger, &c.) By this is meant the temple itself, which Simon made stronger, as Josephus informs us, by throwing down the tower, and that part of the mountain which commanded the temple.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

1 Now in the hundred threescore and twelfth year, &c.) Here the history goes back with regard to the affairs of Demetrius; for the writer relates now those things which happened to him before Tryphon murdered Antiochus, and seized upon his kingdom, but omitted to speak of them in their proper place, that he might not break the thread of his history with regard to the Jews. Demetrius's gathering his forces seems to signify, that his scheme was to make a conquest of these countries, in order to gain sufficient strength, by such an accession of territory, as to contend with Tryphon.

Elul, in the hundred threeſcore and twelfth year, being the third year of Simon the high prieſt,

28 At Saramel in the great congregation of the prieſts and people, and rulers of the nation, and elders of the country, were theſe things notified unto us:

29 Foraſmuch as oftentimes there have been wars in the country, wherein, for the maintenance of their ſanctuary, and the law, Simon the ſon of Mattathias, of the poſterity of Jarib, together with his brethren, put themſelves in jeopardy, and, reſiſting the enemies of their nation, did their nation great honour.

30 (For after that Jonathan having gathered his nation together, and been their high prieſt, was added to his people,

31 Their enemies purpoſed to invade their country, that they might deſtroy it, and lay hands on the ſanctuary.

32 At which time Simon roſe up, and fought for his nation, and ſpent much of his own ſubſtance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gave them wages,

33 And fortified the cities of Judea, together with Bethſura that lieth upon the borders of Judea, where the armour of the enemies had been before; but he ſet a garriſon of Jews there.

34 Moreover, he fortified Joppe which lieth upon the ſea, and Gazara that bordereth upon Azotus, where the enemies had dwelt before: but he placed Jews there, and furniſhed them with all things convenient for the reparation thereof).

35 The people therefore ſeeing the acts of Simon, and unto what glory he thought to bring his nation, made him their governor and chief prieſt, becauſe he had done all theſe things, and for the juſtice and faith which he kept to his nation, and for that he ſought by all means to exalt his people.

36 For in his time things proſpered in his hands, ſo that the heathen were taken out of their country, and they alſo that were in the city of David in Jeruſalem, who had made themſelves a tower out of which they iſſued, and polluted all about the ſanctuary, and did much hurt in the holy places:

37 But he placed Jews therein, and fortified it for the ſafety of the country and the city, and raiſed up the walls of Jeruſalem.

38 King Demetrius alſo confirmed him in the high prieſthood, according to thoſe things, 39 And made him one of his friends, and honoured him with great honour.

40 For he had heard ſay, that the Romans had called the Jews their friends, and confederates, and brethren; and that they had entertained the ambaſſadors of Simon honourably;

41 Alſo, that the Jews and prieſts were well pleaſed that Simon ſhould be their governor and high prieſt for ever, until there ſhould ariſe a faithful prophet.

42 Moreover, that he ſhould be their captain, and ſhould take charge of the ſanctuary, to ſet them over their works, and over the country, and over the armour, and over the fortreſſes, that (I ſay) he ſhould take charge of the ſanctuary;

43 Beſides this, that he ſhould be obeyed of every man, and that all the writings in the country ſhould be made in his name, and that he ſhould be clothed in purple, and wear gold;

44 Alſo, that it ſhould be lawful for none of the people or prieſts to break any of theſe things, or to gainſay his words, or to gather an aſſembly in the country without him, or to be clothed in purple, or wear a buckle of gold.

45 And whoſoever ſhould do otherwiſe, or break any of theſe things, he ſhould be puniſhed.

46 Thus it liked all the people to deal with Simon, and to do as hath been ſaid.

47 Then Simon accepted hereof, and was well pleaſed to be high prieſt, and captain, and governor of the Jews and prieſts, and to defend them all.

48 So they commanded that this writing ſhould be put in tables of braſs, and that they ſhould be ſet up within the compaſs of the ſanctuary in a conſpicuous place;

49 Alſo that the copies thereof ſhould be laid up in the treaſury, to the end that Simon and his ſons might have them.

CHAP. XV.

Antiochus deſireth leave to paſs through Judea, and granteth great honour to Simon and the Jews.

MOREOVER Antiochus, ſon of Demetrius the king, ſent letters from the iſles of the ſea unto Simon the prieſt, and prince of the Jews, and to all the people;

2 The contents whereof were theſe: King Antiochus to Simon the high prieſt, and prince of his nation, and to the people of the Jews, greeting:

3 Foraſmuch as certain peſtilent men have uſurped the kingdom of our fathers, and my purpoſe is to challenge it again, that I may reſtore it to the old eſtate, and to that end have gathered a multitude of foreign ſoldiers together, and prepared ſhips of war;

4 My meaning alſo being to go through the country, that I may be avenged of them that have deſtroyed it, and made many cities in the kingdom deſolate:

5 Now, therefore, I confirm unto thee all the oblations which the kings before me granted thee, and whatſoever gifts beſides they granted.

6 I give thee leave alſo to coin money for thy country, with thine own ſtamp.

7 And as concerning Jeruſalem, and the ſanctuary, let them be free; and all the armour that thou haſt made, and fortreſſes that thou haſt built, and keepeſt in thine hands, let them remain unto thee.

35 For the juſtice and faith which he kept to his nation, &c.) For the juſtice and fidelity which he exerciſed in governing his nation, not encroaching upon their liberty, or committing any act of oppreſſion or injuſtice.

41 Well pleaſed that Simon ſhould be their governor and high prieſt for ever, &c.) That is, he and his poſterity in the male line: there aroſe one worthy of credit, who, by his predictions and miracles, ſhould prove himſelf a true prophet: true prophecy had failed after Malichi; but the renewal of it was expected before the coming of the Meſſiah.

42 That he ſhould—take charge of the ſanctuary, &c.) That is, the chief inſpection was given to him of all new works added to the temple, and of all repairs of it. He had alſo the power of nominating the prefects over the ſeveral provinces of Judea, and of appointing commanders in the army and fortified places. Our tranſlators have added the words (I ſay) as if this was only a repetition of the ſame thing which is ſaid in the beginning of the verſe; but probably this ſignifies a different thing, namely, that he had the charge of directing the ceremonies of the temple, the other prieſts adminiſtering according to his directions.

Commentary on Chap. XV.

1 Antiochus ſon of Demetrius the king, &c.) He was ſurnamed Sidetus, from Side, a town of Pamphylia, and was the ſon of the elder Demetrius, ſo that when his brother was made a priſoner in Parthia, he laid claim to the kingdom in oppoſition to Tryphon. He made his firſt declaration of this in Seleucia Pieria, which lay near the ſea, and therefore it is ſaid here that he ſent his letters from the iſles of the ſea.

8 And if any thing be, or ſhall be, owing to the king, let it be forgiven thee from this time forth for evermore.

9 Furthermore, when we have obtained our kingdom, we will honour thee and thy nation, and thy temple, with great honour, ſo that your honour ſhall be known throughout the world.

10 In the hundred threeſcore and fourteenth year went Antiochus into the land of his fathers: at which time all the forces came together unto him, ſo that few were left with Tryphon.

11 Wherefore, being purſued by king Antiochus, he fled unto Dora, which lieth by the ſea-ſide.

12 For he ſaw that troubles came upon him all at once, and that his forces had forſaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus againſt Dora, having with him an hundred and twenty thouſand men of war, and eight thouſand horſemen.

14 And when he had compaſſed the city round about, and joined ſhips cloſe to the town on the ſea-ſide, he vexed the city by land and by ſea, neither ſuffered he any to go out or in.

15 In the mean ſeaſon came Numenius and his company from Rome, having letters to the kings and countries; wherein were written theſe things:

16 Lucius, conſul of the Romans, unto king Ptolemee greeting:

17 The Jews' ambaſſadors, our friends and confederates, came unto us to renew the old friendſhip and league, being ſent from Simon the high prieſt, and from the people of the Jews:

18 And they brought a ſhield of gold of a thouſand pound.

19 We thought it good, therefore, to write unto the kings and countries, that they ſhould do them no harm, nor fight againſt them, their cities or countries, nor yet aid their enemies againſt them.

20 It ſeemed alſo good to us to receive the ſhield of them.

21 If therefore there be any peſtilent fellows that have fled from their country unto you, deliver them unto Simon the high prieſt, that he may puniſh them according to their own law.

22 The ſame things wrote he likewiſe unto Demetrius the king, and Attalus, to Ariarathes, and Arſaces,

23 And to all the countries, and to Sampſames, and the Lacedemonians, and to Delus, and Myndus, and Sicyon, and Caria, and Samos, and Pamphylia, and Lycia, and Halicarnaſſus, and Rhodus, and Phaſelis, and Cos, and Side, and Aradus, and Gortyna, and Cnidus, and Cyprus, and Cyrene.

24 And the copy hereof they wrote to Simon the high prieſt.

25 So Antiochus the king camped againſt Dora the ſecond day, aſſaulting it continually, and making engines, by which means he ſhut up Tryphon, that he could neither go out nor in.

26 At that time Simon ſent him two thouſand choſen men to aid him: ſilver alſo and gold, and much armour.

27 Nevertheleſs, he would not receive them, but brake all the covenants which he had made with him afore, and became ſtrange unto him.

28 Furthermore, he ſent unto him Athenobius, one of his friends, to commune with him, and ſay, Ye with-hold Joppe and Gazara, with the tower that is in Jeruſalem, which are cities of my realm.

29 The borders thereof ye have waſted, and done great hurt in the land, and got the dominion of many places within my kingdom.

30 Now therefore deliver the cities which ye have taken, and the tributes of the places whereof ye have gotten dominion without the borders of Judea:

31 Or elſe give me for them five hundred talents of ſilver; and for the harm that ye have done, and the tributes of the cities, other five hundred talents: if not, we will come and fight againſt you.

32 So Athenobius, the king's friend, came to Jeruſalem: and when he ſaw the glory of Simon, and the cupboard of gold and ſilver plate, and his great attendance, he was aſtoniſhed, and told him the king's meſſage.

33 Then anſwered Simon, and ſaid unto him, We have neither taken other men's land, nor holden that which appertaineth to others, but the inheritance of our fathers, which our enemies had wrongfully in poſſeſſion a certain time.

34 Wherefore we, having opportunity, hold the inheritance of our fathers.

35 And whereas thou demandeſt Joppe and Gazara, albeit, they did great harm unto the people in our country, yet will we give an hundred talents for them. Hereunto Athenobius anſwered him not a word;

36 But returned in a rage to the king, and made report unto him of theſe ſpeeches, and of the glory of Simon, and of all that he had ſeen: whereupon the king was exceeding wroth.

37 In the mean time fled Tryphon by ſhip unto Orthoſias.

38 Then the king made Cendebeus captain of the ſea-coaſt, and gave him an hoſt of footmen and horſemen,

39 And commanded him to remove his hoſt toward Judea: alſo he commanded him to build up Cedron, and to fortify the gates, and to war againſt the people: but as for the king himſelf, he purſued Tryphon.

40 So Cendebeus came to Jamnia, and began to provoke the people, and to invade Judea, and to take the people priſoners, and ſlay them.

41 And when he had built up Cedron, he ſet horſemen there, and an hoſt of footmen, to the end that, iſſuing out, they might make out-roads upon the ways of Judea, as the king had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

Judas and John prevail againſt the forces ſent by Antiochus.

THEN came up John from Gazara, and told Simon his father what Cendebeus had done.

---

22 The ſame things wrote he likewiſe unto Demetrius, &c.) The letters were addreſſed to Demetrius, as being alive and upon the throne, when the ambaſſadors ſet out from Rome; but Antiochus having ſucceeded him before their return into Syria, they delivered the letters to him. Attalus was king of Pergamus, and Ariarathes king of Cappadocia.

23 And to all the countries, &c.) Namely, all in friendſhip with the Romans, both the free cities in alliance with them, and thoſe under the ſubjection of the kings their allies, but chiefly to the maritime ones, as the Jewiſh ambaſſadors went home by ſea; but they were willing to touch at the principal places by the way, probably to eſtabliſh a correſpondence and friendſhip with the different nations.

31 Or elſe give me for them five hundred talents, &c.) The ſenſe of this verſe ſeems to be, That Antiochus demanded five hundred talents of ſilver by way of purchaſe, or as a conſideration for ſurrendering his rights in them; and five hundred more for the damage which had been done, and the amount of the tributes of theſe places during the time that the Jews had been in poſſeſſion of them.

37 Fled Tryphon by ſhip unto Orthoſias.) A port in Phœnicia; from whence he betook himſelf to Apamas, as Joſephus relates, where he was born, the people of which place were his moſt faithful friends.

39 He commanded him to build up Cedron, &c.) Or rather, to fortify Gedor, a city in the tribe of Dan, on the confines of the Idumeans. The Greek word, here tranſlated gates, rather ſignifies the ſtraits of ſome mountain; and to this ſenſe is Joſephus' hiſtory.

2 Wherefore Simon called his two eldeſt ſons, Judas and John, and ſaid unto them, I, and my brethren, and my father's houſe, have ever, from our youth unto this day, fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael; and things have proſpered ſo well in our hands, that we have delivered Iſrael oftentimes.

3 But now I am old, and ye, by God's mercy, are of a ſufficient age: be ye inſtead of me and my brother, and go and fight for our nation, and the help from heaven be with you.

4 So he choſe out of the country twenty thouſand men of war, with horſemen, who went out againſt Cendebeus, and reſted that night at Modin.

5 And when as they roſe in the morning, and went into the plain, behold, a mighty great hoſt, both of footmen and horſemen, came againſt them: howbeit, there was a water-brook betwixt them.

6 So he and his people pitched over-againſt them: and when he ſaw that the people were afraid to go over the water-brook, he went firſt over himſelf, and then the men, ſeeing him, paſſed through after him.

7 That done, he divided his men, and ſet the horſemen in the midſt of the footmen: for the enemy's horſemen were very many.

8 Then ſounded they with the holy trumpets: whereupon Cendebeus and his hoſt were put to flight, ſo that many of them were ſlain, and the remnant gat them to the ſtrong hold.

9 At that time was Judas, John's brother, wounded; but John ſtill followed after them, until he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had built.

10 So they fled even unto the towers in the fields of Azotus, wherefore he burnt it with fire: ſo that there were ſlain of them about two thouſand men. Afterward he returned into the land of Judea in peace.

11 Moreover, in the plain of Jericho was Ptolemeus, the ſon of Abudus, made captain, and he had abundance of ſilver and gold:

12 For he was the high prieſt's ſon-in-law.

13 Wherefore, his heart being lifted up, he thought to get the country to himſelf, and thereupon conſulted deceitfully againſt Simon and his ſons, to deſtroy them.

14 Now Simon was viſiting the cities that were in the country, and taking care for the good ordering of them; at which time he came down himſelf to Jericho with his ſons, Mattathias and Judas, in the hundred threeſcore and ſeventh year, in the eleventh month, called Sabat;

15 Where the ſon of Abudus, receiving them deceitfully into a little hold, called Docus, which he had built, made them a great banquet: howbeit, he had hid men there.

16 So when Simon and his ſons had drunk largely, Ptolemee and his men roſe up, and took their weapons, and came upon Simon into the banqueting place, and ſlew him, and his two ſons, and certain of his ſervants:

17 In which doing he committed a great treachery, and recompenſed evil for good.

18 Then Ptolemee wrote theſe things, and ſent to the king, that he ſhould ſend him an hoſt to aid him, and he would deliver him the country and cities.

19 He ſent others alſo to Gazara to kill John; and unto the tribunes he ſent letters to come unto him, that he might give them ſilver, and gold, and rewards.

20 And others he ſent to take Jeruſalem, and the mountain of the temple:

21 Now one had run afore to Gazara, and told John that his father and brethren were ſlain, and (quoth he) Ptolemee hath ſent to ſlay thee alſo.

22 Hereof, when he heard, he was ſore aſtoniſhed: ſo he laid hands on them that were come to deſtroy him, and ſlew them; for he knew that they ſought to make him away.

23 As concerning the reſt of the acts of John, and his wars and worthy deeds which he did, and the building of the walls which he made, and his doings,

24 Behold, theſe are written in the chronicles of his prieſthood, from the time he was made high prieſt after his father.

Commentary on Chap. XVI.

10 So they fled even unto the towers, &c.) As one part fled to Gedor, ſo another part fled to the watch-towers in the fields of Azotus; which being made of wood, John ſet them on fire.

24 Behold, theſe are written in the chronicles, &c.) Joſephus relates in what manner he was, through the favour of the people, made high prieſt after his father, though an elder brother was alive. It is probable that the writer collected what he relates of him from the chronicles of his prieſthood, or thoſe diaries which it was uſual for the high prieſts to keep themſelves, or take care to have kept of their actions. It appears as if the author of this book of the Maccabees died, or was prevented by ſome misfortune from carrying on his hiſtory any further than to the relation of the attempt which Ptolemee made to deſtroy John in Gazara, mentioned in ver. 22, and that theſe two laſt verſes were added by ſome other hand, to make a concluſion of the hiſtory, as it were.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE MACCABEES.

THE ARGUMENT.

This is an abridgment of a large work compoſed by one Jaſon, and contains the hiſtory of the perſecution carried on by Epiphanes and Eupator againſt the Jews. The author of this abridgment is unknown, and the entire work of Jaſon no longer to be found. They were both Greeks, and followed by the computation of the Seleucidæ, according to the cuſtom of the Syrians, who began their year about the month of October. The two laſt chapters contain things that happened under the reign of Demetrius Soter, the ſucceſſor of Antiochus Eupator; and there are ſuch varieties obſervable in the ſtile, as render it doubtful whether they were written by the ſame author as the reſt of the work. It contains an hiſtory of about fifteen years from the execution of Heliodorus' commiſſion, who was ſent by Seleucus to fetch away the treaſures of the temple, to the victory obtained by Judas Maccabeus over Nicanor; that is, from the year of the world, 3828 to 3843.

CHAP. I.

A letter of the Jews from Jeruſalem to them of Egypt, to thank God for the death of Antiochus.

THE brethren the Jews that be at Jeruſalem, and in the land of Judea, wiſh unto the brethren the Jews that are throughout Egypt, health and peace.

2 God be gracious unto you, and remember his covenant that he made with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, his faithful ſervants;

3 And give you all an heart to ſerve him, and to do his will with a good courage, and a willing mind;

4 And open your hearts in his law and commandments, and ſend you peace,

5 And hear your prayers, and be at one with you, and never forſake you in time of trouble.

6 And now we be here praying for you.

7 What time as Demetrius reigned, in the hundred threeſcore and ninth year, we the Jews wrote unto you in the extremity of trouble that came upon us in thoſe years, from the time that Jaſon and his company revolted from the holy land and kingdom,

8 And burnt the porch, and ſhed innocent blood: then we prayed unto the Lord, and were heard; we offered alſo ſacrifices, and fine flour, and lighted the lamps, and ſet forth the loaves.

9 And now ſee that ye keep the feaſt of tabernacles, in the month Caſleu.

10 In the hundred fourſcore and eighth year, the people that were at Jeruſalem, and in Judea, and the council, and Judas, ſent greeting and health unto Ariſtobulus, king Ptolemeus' maſter, who was of the ſtock of the anointed prieſts, and to the Jews that were in Egypt:

11 Inſomuch as God hath delivered us from great perils, we thank him highly, as having been in battle againſt a king.

12 For he caſt them out that fought within the holy city.

13 For when the leader was come into Perſia, and the army with him that ſeemed invincible, they were ſlain in the temple of Nanea, by the deceit of Nanea's prieſts.

14 For Antiochus, as though he would marry her, came into the place, and his friends that were with him, to receive money in name of a dowry.

15 Which when the prieſts of Nanea had ſet forth, and he was entered with a ſmall company into the compaſs of the temple, they ſhut the temple as ſoon as Antiochus was come in:

16 And opening a privy door of the roof, they threw ſtones like thunderbolts, and ſtruck down the captain, hewed them in pieces, ſmote off their heads, and caſt them to thoſe that were without.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 The brethren the Jews that be at Jeruſalem, &c.) This chapter and part of the next contains a letter which the Jews at Jeruſalem wrote to their brethren who then reſided in Egypt. It begins in the uſual form of ſalutation then practiſed in the epiſtolary method, namely, by wiſhing the perſons, written to, health and peace.

10 In the hundred fourſcore and eighth year.) This computation is made according to the Greek method, and anſwers to the three thouſand eight hundred and eightieth year of the world.

Ariſtobulus, king Ptolemeus' maſter, &c.) Ariſtobulus was probably the inſtructor of Ptolemeus in the laws and cuſtoms of the Jews, or one of his philoſophical maſters.

17 Bleſſed

17 Bleſſed be our God in all things, who hath delivered up the ungodly.

18 Therefore, whereas we are now purpoſed to keep the purification of the temple upon the five and twentieth day of the month Caſleu, we thought it neceſſary to certify you thereof, that ye alſo might keep it, as the feaſt of the tabernacles, and of the fire which was given us when Neemias offered ſacrifice, after that he had builded the temple and the altar.

19 For when our fathers were led into Perſia, the prieſts that were then devout took the fire of the altar privily, and hid it in an hollow place of a pit without water, where they kept it ſure, ſo that the place was unknown to all men.

20 Now after many years, when it pleaſed God, Neemias, being ſent from the king of Perſia, did ſend of the poſterity of thoſe prieſts that had hid it, to the fire: but when they told us they found no fire, but thick water;

21 Then commanded he them to draw it up, and to bring it: and when the ſacrifices were laid on, Neemias commanded the prieſts to ſprinkle the wood and the things laid thereupon with the water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the ſun ſhone, which afore was hid in the cloud, there was a great fire kindled, ſo that every man marvelled.

23 And the prieſts made a prayer whilſt the ſacrifice was conſuming (I ſay) both the prieſts, and all the reſt, Jonathan beginning, and the reſt anſwering thereunto, as Neemias did.

24 And the prayer was after this manner: O Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, who art fearful and ſtrong, and righteous, and merciful, and the only and gracious King,

25 The only giver of all things, the only juſt, almighty, and everlaſting, thou that deliverеſt Iſrael from all trouble, and didſt chooſe the fathers, and ſanctify them:

26 Receive the ſacrifice for thy whole people Iſrael, and preſerve thine own portion, and ſanctify it.

27 Gather thoſe together that are ſcattered from us, deliver them that ſerve among the heathen, look upon them that are deſpiſed and abhorred, and let the heathen know that thou art our God.

28 Puniſh them that oppreſs us, and with pride do us wrong.

29 Plant thy people again in thy holy place, as Moſes hath ſpoken.

30 And the prieſts ſung pſalms of thankſgiving.

31 Now when the ſacrifice was conſumed, Neemias commanded the water that was left to be poured on the great ſtones.

32 When this was done, there was kindled a flame: but it was conſumed by the light that ſhined from the altar.

33 So when this matter was known, it was told the king of Perſia, that in the place where the prieſts that were led away had hid the fire, there appeared water, and that Neemias had purified the ſacrifices therewith.

34 Then the king, incloſing the place, made it holy, after he had tried the matter.

35 And the king took many gifts, and beſtowed thereof on thoſe whom he would gratify.

36 And Neemias called this thing Naphthar, which is as much as to ſay, a cleanſing; but many men call it Nephi.

CHAP. II.

1 What Jeremy the prophet did: 5 how he hid the tabernacle, the ark, and the altar.

IT is alſo found in the records, that Jeremy the prophet commanded them that were carried away, to take of the fire, as it hath been ſignified:

2 And how that the prophet, having given them the law, charged them not to forget the commandments of the Lord, and that they ſhould not err in their minds, when they ſee images of ſilver and gold, with their ornaments.

3 And with other ſuch ſpeeches exhorted he them, that the law ſhould not depart from their hearts.

4 It was alſo contained in the ſame writing, that the prophet, being warned of God, commanded the tabernacle and the ark to go with him, as he went forth into the mountain, where Moſes climbed up, and ſaw the heritage of God.

5 And when Jeremy came thither, he found an hollow cave, wherein he laid the tabernacle, and the ark, and the altar of incenſe, and ſo ſtopped the door.

6 And ſome of thoſe that followed him came to mark the way, but they could not find it.

7 Which when Jeremy perceived, he blamed them, ſaying, As for that place, it ſhall be unknown until the time that God gather his people again together, and receive them unto mercy.

8 Then ſhall the Lord ſhew them theſe things, and the glory of the Lord ſhall appear, and the cloud alſo, as it was ſhewed under Moſes, and as when Solomon deſired that the place might be honourably ſanctified.

9 It was declared that he, being wiſe, offered the ſacrifice of dedication, and of the finiſhing of the temple.

10 And as when Moſes prayed unto the Lord, the fire came down from heaven, and conſumed the ſacrifices: even ſo prayed Solomon alſo, and the fire came down from heaven, and conſumed the burnt-offerings.

11 And Moſes ſaid, Becauſe the ſin-offering was not to be eaten, it was conſumed.

12 So Solomon kept thoſe eight days.

13 The ſame things alſo were reported in the writings and commentaries of Neemias; and how he, founding a library, gathered together the acts of the kings and the prophets, and of David, and the epiſtles of the kings concerning the holy gifts.

14 In like manner alſo Judas gathered together all thoſe things that were loſt by reaſon of the war we had, and they remain with us.

15 Wherefore, if ye have need thereof, ſend ſome to fetch them unto you.

16 Whereas we then are about to celebrate the purification, we have written unto you, and ye ſhall do well if ye keep the ſame days.

17 We hope alſo that the God that delivered all his people, and gave them all an heritage, and the kingdom, and the prieſthood, and the ſanctuary,

18 As he promiſed in the law, will ſhortly have mercy upon us, and gather us together, out of every land under heaven, unto the holy place: for he hath delivered us out of great troubles, and hath purified the place.

19 Now as concerning Judas Maccabeus, and his

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1 It is alſo found in the records, &c.) The letter, begun in the laſt chapter, is here continued, and ſome farther account given of the holy fire, the diſcovery and application of which was mentioned in the preceding part of this letter.

16 Whereas we then are about to celebrate the purification, &c.) The Jews at Jeruſalem here remind their brethren, that they intend to celebrate the purification of the ſanctuary, recommending to them the ſame act of piety; hoping that the Almighty, who had wrought ſuch eminent deliverances for them, would in a ſhort time be graciouſly pleaſed to look with pity on his people, and reſtore them again to their own land, and ſuffer them to worſhip together in his ſanctuary.

brethren,

brethren, and the purification of the great temple, and the dedication of the altar,

20 And the wars againſt Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his ſon.

21 And the manifeſt ſigns that came from heaven unto thoſe that behaved themſelves manfully to their honour for Judaiſm: ſo that, being but a few, they overcame the whole country, and chaſed barbarous multitudes,

22 And recovered again the temple, renowned all the world over, and freed the city, and upheld the laws which were going down, the Lord being gracious unto them with all favour.

23 All theſe things, I ſay, being declared by Jaſon of Cyrene in five books, we will aſſay to abridge in one volume.

24 For conſidering the infinite number, and the difficulty they find that deſire to look into the narrations of the ſtory, for the variety of the matter,

25 We have been careful, that they that will read might have delight, and that they that are deſirous to commit to memory might have eaſe, and that all into whoſe hands it comes might have profit.

26 Therefore to us, that have taken upon us this painful labour of abridging, it was not eaſy, but a matter of ſweat and watching;

27 Even as it is no eaſe unto him that prepareth a banquet, and ſeeketh the benefit of others: yet, for the pleaſuring of many, we will undertake gladly this great pains;

28 Leaving to the author the exact handling of every particular, and labouring to follow the rules of an abridgment.

29 For as the maſter-builder of a new houſe muſt care for the whole building; but he that undertaketh to ſet it out, and paint it, muſt ſeek out fit things for the adorning thereof; even ſo I think it is with us.

30 To ſtand upon every point, and go over things at large, and to be curious in particulars, belongeth to the firſt author of the ſtory:

31 But to uſe brevity, and avoid much labouring of the work, is to be granted to him that will make an abridgment.

32 Here then will we begin the ſtory: only adding thus much to that which hath been ſaid, that it is a fooliſh thing to make a long prologue, and to be ſhort in the ſtory itſelf.

CHAP. III.

Of the honour done to the temple by the kings of the Gentiles.

NOW when the holy city was inhabited with all peace, and the laws were kept very well, becauſe of the godlineſs of Onias the high prieſt, and his hatred of wickedneſs,

2 It came to paſs, that even the kings themſelves did honour the place, and magnify the temple with their beſt gifts;

3 Inſomuch, that Seleucus king of Aſia, of his own revenues, bare all the coſts belonging to the ſervice of the ſacrifices.

4 But one Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, who was made governor of the temple, fell out with the high prieſt about diſorder in the city.

5 And when he could not overcome Onias, he gat him to Apollonius the ſon of Thraſeas, who then was governor of Celoſyria and Phenice,

6 And told him, that the treaſury in Jeruſalem was full of infinite ſums of money, ſo that the multitude of their riches, which did not pertain to the account of the ſacrifices, was innumerable, and that it was poſſible to bring all into the king's hand.

7 Now when Apollonius came to the king, and had ſhewed him of the money whereof he was told, the king choſe out Heliodorus his treaſurer, and ſent him with a commandment to bring him the foreſaid money.

8 So forthwith Heliodorus took his journey, under a cover of viſiting the cities of Celoſyria and Phenice, but indeed to fulfil the king's purpoſe.

9 And when he was come to Jeruſalem, and had been courteouſly received of the high prieſt of the city, he told him what intelligence was given of the money, and declared wherefore he came, and aſked if theſe things were ſo indeed.

10 Then the high prieſt told him, that there was ſuch money laid up for the relief of widows and fatherleſs children;

11 And that ſome of it belonged to Hircanus, ſon of Tobias, a man of great dignity, and not as that wicked Simon had miſinformed: the ſum whereof in all was four hundred talents of ſilver, and two hundred of gold;

12 And that it was altogether impoſſible that ſuch wrong ſhould be done unto them, that had committed it to the holineſs of the place, and to the majeſty and inviolable ſanctity of the temple, honoured over all the world.

13 But Heliodorus, becauſe of the king's commandment given him, ſaid, That in any wiſe it muſt be brought into the king's treaſury.

14 So at the day which he appointed, he entered in to order this matter: wherefore there was no ſmall agony throughout the whole city.

15 But the prieſts, proſtrating themſelves before the altar in their prieſts' veſtments, called unto heaven upon him that made a law concerning things given to be kept, that they ſhould ſafely be preſerved for ſuch as had committed them to be kept.

16 Then whoſo had looked the high prieſt in the face, it would have wounded his heart: for his countenance and the changing of his colour, declared the inward agony of his mind.

17 For the man was ſo compaſſed with fear and horror of the body, that it was manifeſt to them that looked upon him, what ſorrow he had now in his heart.

18 Others ran flocking out of their houſes to the general ſupplication, becauſe the place was like to come into contempt.

19 And the women, girt with ſackcloth under their breaſts, abounded in the ſtreets, and the virgins that were kept in, ran, ſome to the gates, and ſome to the walls, and others looked out of the windows.

20 And all, holding their hands towards heaven, made ſupplication.

21 Then it would have pitied a man to ſee the falling down of the multitude of all ſorts, and the fear of the high prieſt, being in ſuch an agony.

22 They then called upon the Almighty Lord, to keep the things, committed of truſt, ſafe and ſure for thoſe that had committed them.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

4 But one Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, &c.) We have here a very remarkable inſtance of revenge. Simon, who had unjuſtly quarrelled with Onias, was filled with wrath, becauſe he had not the power of overcoming him, and applied to Apollonius, informing him that there were prodigious ſums laid up in the temple, which might eaſily be converted to the king's uſe. Thus, rather than not gratify his revengeful temper, he preferred an information againſt the temple itſelf, hoping that the high prieſt would ſuffer ſufficiently for the affront he had given him, tho' he well knew that if the treaſure was taken from the temple, the loſs would fall heavieſt on the widows and orphans, who had never injured him.

23 Nevertheleſs,

23 Nevertheleſs, Heliodorus executed that which was decreed.

24 Now as he was there preſent himſelf, with his guard about the treaſury, the Lord of ſpirits, and the Prince of all power, cauſed a great apparition, ſo that all that preſumed to come in with him were aſtoniſhed at the power of God, and fainted, and were ſore afraid.

25 For there appeared unto them an horſe with a terrible rider upon him, and adorned with a very fair covering, and he ran fiercely, and ſmote at Heliodorus with his fore-feet, and it ſeemed that he that ſat upon the horſe had complete harneſs of gold.

26 Moreover, two other young men appeared before him, notable in ſtrength, excellent in beauty, and comely in apparel, who ſtood by him on either ſide, and ſcourged him continually, and gave him many ſore ſtripes.

27 And Heliodorus fell ſuddenly unto the ground, and was compaſſed with great darkneſs: but they that were with him took him up, and put him into a litter.

28 Thus him, that lately came with a great train, and with all his guard into the ſaid treaſury, they carried out, being unable to help himſelf with his weapons; and manifeſtly they acknowledged the power of God:

29 For he by the hand of God was caſt down, and lay ſpeechleſs without all hope of life.

30 But they praiſed the Lord that had miraculouſly honoured his own place: for the temple, which a little afore was full of fear and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with joy and gladneſs.

31 Then ſtraightways certain of Heliodorus' friends prayed Onias that he would call upon the Moſt High to grant him his life, who lay ready to give up the ghoſt.

32 So the high prieſt, ſuſpecting leſt the king ſhould miſconceive that ſome treachery had been done to Heliodorus by the Jews, offered a ſacrifice for the health of the man.

33 Now as the high prieſt was making an atonement, the ſame young men, in the ſame clothing, appeared, and ſtood beſide Heliodorus, ſaying, Give Onias the high prieſt great thanks, inſomuch as for his ſake the Lord hath granted thee life:

34 And ſeeing that thou haſt been ſcourged from heaven, declare unto all men the mighty power of God. And when they had ſpoken theſe words, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus, after he had offered ſacrifice unto the Lord, and made great vows unto him that had ſaved his life, and ſaluted Onias, returned with his hoſt to the king.

36 Then teſtified he to all men the works of the great God, which he had ſeen with his eyes.

37 And when the king aſked Heliodorus, who might be a fit man to be ſent yet once again to Jeruſalem, he ſaid,

38 If thou haſt any enemy or traitor, ſend him thither, and thou ſhalt receive him well ſcourged, if he eſcape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is an eſpecial power of God.

39 For he that dwelleth in heaven hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it; and he beateth and deſtroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 And the things concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treaſury, fell out on this ſort.

CHAP. IV.

1 Simon ſlandereth Onias: 34 Andronichus murdereth him: 36 for which he is put to death.

THIS Simon now (of whom we ſpake afore) having been a bewrayer of the money, and of his country, ſlandered Onias, as if he had terrified Heliodorus, and been the worker of theſe evils.

2 Thus was he bold to call him a traitor, that had deſerved well of the city, and tendered his own nation, and was ſo zealous of the laws.

3 But when their hatred went ſo far, that by one of Simon's faction murders were committed,

4 Onias ſeeing the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, as being the governor of Celoſyria and Phenice, did rage, and increaſe Simon's malice,

5 He went to the king, not to be an accuſer of his countrymen, but ſeeking the good of all, both public and private;

6 For he ſaw that it was impoſſible that the ſtate ſhould continue quiet, and Simon leave his folly, unleſs the king did look thereunto.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, took the kingdom, Jaſon, the brother of Onias, laboured underhand to be high prieſt,

8 Promiſing unto the king, by interceſſion, three hundred and threeſcore talents of ſilver, and of another revenue eighty talents:

9 Beſides this, he promiſed to aſſign an hundred and fifty more, if he might have licence to ſet him up a place for exerciſe, and for the training up of youth in the faſhions of the heathen, and to write them of Jeruſalem by the name of Antiochians.

10 Which when the king had granted, and he had gotten into his hand the rule, he forthwith brought his own nation to the Greekiſh faſhion.

11 And the royal privileges granted of ſpecial favour to the Jews, by the means of John the father of Eupolemus, who went ambaſſador to Rome for amity and aid, he took away; and putting down the governments which were according to the law, he brought up new cuſtoms againſt the law:

12 For he built gladly a place of exerciſe under the tower itſelf, and brought the chief young men under his ſubjection, and made them wear a hat.

13 Now ſuch was the height of Greek faſhions, and increaſe of heatheniſh manners, through the exceeding profaneneſs of Jaſon that ungodly wretch, and no high prieſt:

14 That the prieſts had no courage to ſerve any more at the altar, but deſpiſing the temple, and neglecting the ſacrifices, haſtened to be partakers of the unlawful allowance in the place of exerciſe, after the game of Diſcus called them forth.

Commentary on Chap. IV.

1 This Simon now, &c.) The traitor Simon, ſeeing Heliodorus ſo horribly terrified, though he muſt have been convinced that it was done by the immediate and miraculous intervention of the Divine Power, to puniſh the preſumption of a proud mortal, was yet ſo diabolically malicious, as to aſſert that the terror of Heliodorus was nothing more than a contrivance of Onias, to prevent his taking the money. This at length became a party-cauſe; and ſo enraged and violent were the partizans of Simon, that inſults and murders were the effects of their contention.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, &c.) Onias had now another and more dangerous enemy to ſtruggle with, namely, his own brother Jaſon, who endeavoured to deprive him of the prieſthood. In order to obtain which, he offers the king a prodigious ſum of money for his aſſiſtance therein, beſides a large gratuity for the king's permiſſion to educate the Jewiſh youth in the cuſtoms and rites of the heathen. Both theſe requeſts Jaſon obtained of the king: and ſo hearty was he in proſecuting this odious buſineſs, that no regard was any longer had for the laws of Moſes, the ſanctity of the temple, or the true worſhip of God. Every thing ſacred was profaned; and the Grecian games, plays, and fooleries, were preferred to the eſtabliſhed religion and Jewiſh cuſtoms, which their anceſtors had received from God himſelf.

15 Not ſetting by the honours of their fathers, but liking the glory of the Grecians beſt of all.

16 By reaſon whereof ſore calamity came upon them: for they had them to be their enemies and avengers, whoſe cuſtom they followed ſo earneſtly, and unto whom they deſired to be like in all things.

17. For it is not a light thing to do wickedly againſt the laws of God: but the time following ſhall declare theſe things.

18 Now when the game that was uſed every fifth year was kept at Tyrus, the king being preſent,

19 This ungracious Jaſon ſent ſpecial meſſengers from Jeruſalem, who were Antiochians, to carry three hundred drachms of ſilver to the ſacrifice of Hercules, which even the bearers thereof thought fit not to beſtow upon the ſacrifice, becauſe it was not convenient, but to be reſerved for other charges.

20 This money then, in regard of the ſender, was appointed to Hercules' ſacrifice; but becauſe of the bearers thereof, it was employed to the making of gallies.

21 Now when Apollonius the ſon of Meneſtheus was ſent into Egypt, for the coronation of king Ptolemeus Philometor, Antiochus, underſtanding him not to be well-affected to his affairs, provided for his own ſafety: whereupon he came to Joppe, and from thence to Jeruſalem:

22 Where he was honourably received of Jaſon, and of the city, and was brought in with torch-light, and with great ſhoutings: and ſo afterward went with his hoſt unto Phenice.

23 Three years afterward Jaſon ſent Menelaus, the foreſaid Simon's brother, to bear the money unto the king, and to put him in mind of certain neceſſary matters.

24 But he being brought to the preſence of the king, when he had magnified him for the glorious appearance of his power, got the prieſthood to himſelf, offering more than Jaſon by three hundred talents of ſilver.

25 So he came with the king's mandate, bringing nothing worthy of the high prieſthood, but having the fury of a cruel tyrant, and the rage of a ſavage beaſt.

26 Then Jaſon, who had undermined his own brother, being undermined by another, was compelled to flee into the country of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus got the principality: but as for the money that he had promiſed unto the king, he took no good order for it, albeit Soſtratus the ruler of the caſtle required it:

28 For unto him appertained the gathering of the cuſtoms. Wherefore they were both called before the king.

29 Now Menelaus left his brother Lyſimachus in his ſtead in the prieſthood; and Soſtratus left Crates, who was governor of the Cyprians.

30 While thoſe things were in doing, they of Tarſus and Mallos made inſurrection, becauſe they were given to the king's concubine called Antiochis.

31 Then came the king in all haſte to appeaſe matters, leaving Andronicus, a man in authority, for his deputy.

32 Now Menelaus, ſuppoſing that he had gotten a convenient time, ſtole certain veſſels of gold out of the temple, and gave ſome of them to Andronicus, and ſome he ſold into Tyrus, and the cities round about.

33 Which when Onias knew of a ſurety, he reproved him, and withdrew himſelf into a ſanctuary at Daphne, that lieth by Antiochia.

34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus apart, prayed him to get Onias into his hands; who being perſuaded thereunto, and coming to Onias in deceit, gave him his right hand with oaths; and though he were ſuſpected by him, yet perſuaded he him to come forth of the ſanctuary: whom forthwith he ſhut up without regard of juſtice.

35 For the which cauſe not only the Jews, but many alſo of other nations took great indignation, and were much grieved for the unjuſt murder of the man.

36 And when the king was come again from the places about Cilicia, the Jews that were in the city, and certain of the Greeks that abhorred the fact alſo, complained, becauſe Onias was ſlain without cauſe.

37 Therefore Antiochus was heartily ſorry, and, moved to pity, and wept, becauſe of the ſober and modeſt behaviour of him that was dead.

38 And being kindled with anger, forthwith he took away Andronicus his purple, and rent off his clothes, and leading him through the whole city, unto that very place where he had committed impiety againſt Onias, there ſlew he the curſed murderer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his puniſhment, as he had deſerved.

39 Now when many ſacrileges had been committed in the city by Lyſimachus, with the conſent of Menelaus, and the bruit thereof was ſpread abroad, the multitude gathered themſelves together againſt Lyſimachus, many veſſels of gold being already carried away.

40 Whereupon the common people riſing, and being filled with rage, Lyſimachus armed about three thouſand men, and began firſt to offer violence; one Auranus being the leader, a man far gone in years, and no leſs in folly.

41 They then ſeeing the attempt of Lyſimachus, ſome of them caught ſtones, ſome clubs, others taking handfuls of duſt that was next at hand, caſt them altogether upon Lyſimachus, and thoſe that ſet upon them.

42 Thus many of them they wounded, and ſome they ſtruck to the ground, and all of them they forced to flee: but as for the church-robber himſelf, him they killed beſide the treaſury.

43 Of theſe matters, therefore, there was an accuſation laid againſt Menelaus.

44 Now when the king came to Tyrus, three men that were ſent from the ſenate pleaded the cauſe before him:

45 But Menelaus, being now convicted, promiſed Ptolemee, the ſon of Dorymenes, to give him much money, if he would pacify the king towards him.

46 Whereupon Ptolemee, taking the king aſide into a certain gallery, as it were to take the air, brought him to be of another mind:

47 Inſomuch that he diſcharged Menelaus from the accuſations, who, notwithſtanding, was cauſe of all the miſchief: and thoſe poor men, who, if they had told their cauſe, yea, before the Scythians, ſhould have been judged innocent, them he condemned to death.

48 Thus they that followed the matter for the city, and for the people, and for the holy veſſels, did ſoon ſuffer unjuſt puniſhment.

49 Wherefore even they of Tyrus, moved with hatred of that wicked deed, cauſed them to be honourably buried.

50 And ſo through the covetouſneſs of them that were of power, Menelaus remained ſtill in authority, increaſing in malice, and being a great traitor to the citizens.

CHAP. V.

Of the signs and tokens seen in Jerusalem.

ABOUT the same time Antiochus prepared his second voyage into Egypt:

2 And then it happened, that through all the city, for the space almost of forty days, there were seen horsemen running in the air, in cloth of gold, and armed with lances, like a band of soldiers,

3 And troops of horsemen in array, encountering and running one against another, with shaking of shields, and multitude of pikes, and drawing of swords, and casting of darts, and glittering of golden ornaments, and harness of all sorts.

4 Wherefore every man prayed, that that apparition might turn to good.

5 Now when there was gone forth a false rumour as though Antiochus had been dead, Jason took at the least a thousand men, and suddenly made an assault upon the city; and they that were upon the walls being put back, and the city at length taken, Menelaus fled into the castle:

6 But Jason slew his own citizens without mercy, not considering that to get the day of them of his own nation, would be a most unhappy day for him: but thinking they had been his enemies, and not his countrymen, whom he conquered.

7 Howbeit, for all this, he obtained not the principality, but at the last received shame for the reward of his treason, and fled again into the country of the Ammonites.

8 In the end, therefore, he had an unhappy return, being accused before Aretas the king of the Arabians, fleeing from city to city, pursued of all men, hated as a forsaker of the laws, and being had in abomination as an open enemy of his country and countrymen, he was cast out into Egypt.

9 Thus he that had driven many out of their country perished in a strange land, retiring to the Lacedemonians, and thinking there to find succour by reason of his kindred.

10 And he that had cast out many unburied, had none to mourn for him, nor any solemn funerals at all, nor sepulchre with his fathers.

11 Now when this that was done came to the king's ear, he thought that Judea had revolted: whereupon, removing out of Egypt in a furious mind, he took the city by force of arms,

12 And commanded his men of war not to spare such as they met, and to slay such as went up upon the houses.

13 Thus there was killing of young and old, making away of men, women, and children, slaying of virgins and infants.

14 And there were destroyed, within the space of three whole days, fourscore thousand, whereof forty thousand were slain in the conflict; and no fewer sold than slain.

15 Yet was he not content with this, but presumed to go into the most holy temple of all the world; Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country, being his guide:

16 And taking the holy vessels with polluted hands, and with profane hands pulling down the things that were dedicated by other kings to the augmentation, and glory, and honour of the place, he gave them away.

17 And so haughty was Antiochus in mind, that he considered not that the Lord was angry for a while for the sins of them that dwelt in the city, and therefore his eye was not upon the place.

18 For had they not been formerly wrapped in many sins, this man, as soon as he had come, had forthwith been scourged, and put back from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to view the treasury.

19 Nevertheless, God did not choose the people for the place's sake, but the place for the people's sake.

20 And therefore the place itself, that was partaker with them of the adversity that happened to the nation, did afterward communicate in the benefits sent from the Lord: and as it was forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so again, the great Lord being reconciled, it was set up with all glory.

21 So when Antiochus had carried out of the temple a thousand and eight hundred talents, he departed in all haste unto Antiochia, weening in his pride to make the land navigable, and the sea passable by foot; such was the haughtiness of his mind.

22 And he left governors to vex the nation: at Jerusalem, Philip, for his country a Phrygian, and for manners more barbarous than he that sent him there;

23 And at Garizim, Andronicus; and besides, Menelaus, who, worse than all the rest, bore an heavy hand over the citizens, having a malicious mind against his countrymen the Jews.

24 He sent also that detestable ringleader Apollonius, with an army of two and twenty thousand, commanding him to slay all those that were in their best age, and to sell the women and the younger sort:

25 Who coming to Jerusalem, and pretending peace, did forbear till the holy day of the sabbath, when, taking the Jews keeping holy-day, he commanded his men to arm themselves.

26 And so he slew all them that were gone to the celebrating of the sabbath, and running through the city with weapons, slew great multitudes.

27 But Judas Maccabeus, with nine others, or thereabouts, withdrew himself into the wilderness, and lived in the mountains after the manner of beasts with his company, who fed on herbs continually, lest they should be partakers of the pollution.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Jews are compelled to leave the law of God. 4 The temple is defiled.

NOT long after this the king sent an old man of Athens, to compel the Jews to depart from the laws of their fathers, and not to live after the laws of God;

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

1 About the same time Antiochus prepared his second voyage into Egypt.) Whilst these contentions prevailed between Menelaus and the Jews, God was pleased to give them some fearful warnings of what he was about to bring upon them. Dreadful visions of warlike encounters between men and horses were seen in the air for forty days successively; with which the people were so terrified, that they unanimously joined in their prayers to God that he would avert those evils which seemed to be threatened, or make them favourable omens of future success and prosperity to their nation.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 Not long after this the king sent an old man, &c.) Antiochus, still raging against the Jews, and not satisfied with destroying and massacreing them by multitudes at a time, now takes another resolution, tho' as barbarous as any of his former decrees against them; which was, to compel them to renounce their religion and the worship of the true God, and to embrace idolatry. For this purpose he chuses a proper instrument, an ancient man of Athens, or, as the Latin interpreters say, of Antioth, whom he sends on this odious and impious business to Jerusalem. His orders were, to force the Jews to forsake their laws; to abolish the worship of the sanctuary; to give the temple at Jerusalem the title of Jupiter Olympus; that in Gerizim, of Jupiter the Defender of Strangers, or, as Josephus has it, Jupiter Hellenius.

2 And

2 And to pollute alſo the temple in Jeruſalem, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympius; and that in Garizim, of Jupiter the Defender of Strangers, as they did deſire that dwelt in the place.

3 The coming in of this miſchief was ſore and grievous to the people:

4 For the temple was filled with riot and revelling by the Gentiles, who dallied with harlots, and had to do with women within the circuit of the holy places, and beſides that, brought in things that were not lawful.

5 The altar alſo was filled with profane things, which the law forbiddeth.

6 Neither was it lawful for a man to keep ſabbath-days, or ancient feaſts, or to profeſs himſelf at all to be a Jew.

7 And in the day of the king's birth, every month they were brought by bitter conſtraint to eat of the ſacrifices; and when the feaſt of Bacchus was kept, the Jews were compelled to go in proceſſion to Bacchus, carrying ivy.

8 Moreover, there went out a decree to the neighbour cities of the heathen, by the ſuggeſtion of Ptolemee, againſt the Jews, that they ſhould obſerve the ſame faſhions, and be partakers of their ſacrifices:

9 And whoſo would not conform themſelves to the manners of the Gentiles, ſhould be put to death. Then might a man have ſeen the preſent miſery.

10 For there were two women brought, who had circumciſed their children, whom, when they had openly led round about the city, the babes hanging at their breaſts, they caſt them down headlong from the wall.

11 And others that had run together into caves near by, to keep the ſabbath-day ſecretly, being diſcovered to Philip, were all burnt together, becauſe they made a conſcience to help themſelves, for the honour of the moſt ſacred day.

12 Now I beſeech thoſe that read this book, that they be not diſcouraged for theſe calamities, but that they judge thoſe puniſhments not to be for deſtruction, but for a chaſtening of our nation.

13 For it is a token of his great goodneſs, when wicked doers are not ſuffered any long time, but forthwith puniſhed.

14 For not as with other nations, whom the Lord patiently forbeareth to puniſh, till they be come to the fulneſs of their ſins, ſo dealeth he with us;

15 Leſt, that being come to the height of ſin, afterwards he ſhould take vengeance of us.

16 And therefore he never withdraweth his mercy from us: and though he puniſh with adverſity, yet doth he never forſake his people.

17 But let this that we have ſpoken be for a warning unto us. And now will we come to the declaring of the matter in few words.

18 Eleazar, one of the principal ſcribes, an aged man, and of well-favoured countenance, was conſtrained to open his mouth, and to eat ſwine's fleſh.

19 But he chooſing rather to die gloriouſly, than to live ſtained with ſuch an abomination, ſpit it forth, and came of his own accord to the torment;

20 As it behoved them to come, that are reſolute to ſtand out againſt ſuch things as are not lawful for love of life to be taſted.

21 But they that had the charge of that wicked feaſt, for the old acquaintance they had with the man, taking him aſide, beſought him to bring fleſh of his own proviſion, ſuch as was lawful for him to uſe, and make as if he did eat of the fleſh taken from the ſacrifice commanded by the king;

22 That in ſo doing he might be delivered from death, and for the old friendſhip with them, find favour.

23 But he began to conſider diſcreetly, and as became his age, and the excellency of his ancient years, and the honour of his grey head, whereunto he was come, and his moſt honeſt education from a child, or rather the holy law made and given by God: therefore he anſwered accordingly, and willed them ſtraightways to ſend him to the grave.

24 For it becometh not our age (ſaid he) in any wiſe to diſſemble, whereby many young perſons might think that Eleazar, being fourſcore years old and ten, were now gone to a ſtrange religion.

25 And ſo they, through mine hypocriſy, and deſire to live a little time, and a moment longer, ſhould be deceived by me, and I get a ſtain to mine old age, and make it abominable.

26 For though for the preſent time I ſhould be delivered from the puniſhment of men; yet ſhould I not eſcape the hand of the Almighty, neither alive nor dead.

27 Wherefore, now manfully changing this life, I will ſhew myſelf ſuch an one as mine age requireth,

28 And leave a notable example to ſuch as be young, to die willingly and courageouſly for the honourable and holy laws: and when he had ſaid theſe words, immediately he went to the torment:

29 They that led him, changing the good will they bare him a little before into hatred, becauſe the foreſaid ſpeeches proceeded, as they thought, from a deſperate mind.

30 But when he was ready to die with ſtripes, he groaned, and ſaid, It is manifeſt unto the Lord, that hath the holy knowledge, that whereas I might have been delivered from death, I now endure ſore pains in body, by being beaten; but in ſoul am well content to ſuffer theſe things, becauſe I fear him.

31 And thus this man died, leaving his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorial of virtue, not only unto young men, but unto all his nation.

CHAP. VII.

Cruel death of ſeven brethren and their mother, for refuſing to eat ſwine's fleſh.

IT came to paſs alſo, that ſeven brethren with their mother were taken, and compelled by the king, againſt the law, to taſte ſwine's fleſh, and were tormented with ſcourges and whips.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

1 It came to paſs alſo, that ſeven brethren with their mother were taken, and compelled—to taſte ſwine's fleſh, &c.) In this chapter we have a particular account of the martyrdom of a mother and her ſeven ſons, who ſuffered, with unparalleled conſtancy and firmneſs, the moſt exquiſite tortures that the invention of the tyrant Antiochus could furniſh, or his executioners act, rather than violate a precept of their law, which forbad the eating of ſwine's fleſh. Not the red-hot caldrons, nor all the various inſtruments of torture preſented to their views, could induce them to break one ſingle injunction of their law-giver, nor terrify them into a compliance with the king's order. So great was their veneration for the name of God, ſo noble their concern for the honours of his law, that life itſelf was of no account, when by their deaths God was to be glorified, and his law preſerved inviolate. Such are the principles of true heroiſm, neither voluntarily to court death, nor meanly to avoid it, by ſacrificing a good cauſe and a clear conſcience to preſerve a ſhort and tranſitory life. The virtue and innocence of the man remains inherent amidſt all the injuries done to his body; and the immortal ſoul looks with contempt on the bloody executioners of a tyrant's vengeance, ſmiles at his rage, and defies his utmoſt malice.

If we ſtrictly examine the ſeveral anſwers which theſe generous youths made in the midſt of their tortures to the tyrant's offers of life and pardon, on recanting their alledged errors, we muſt admire their piety, reſolution, and courage. If we conſider the extremity of their tortures, we muſt believe they were firmly perſuaded of a happy immortality. In whatever view we contemplate their behaviour and ſufferings, we find ſufficient matter to raiſe our ve-

2 But

2 But one of them that ſpake firſt, ſaid thus, What wouldeſt thou aſk or learn of us? we are ready to die, rather than to tranſgreſs the laws of our fathers.

3 Then the king, being in a rage, commanded pans and caldrons to be made hot.

4 Which forthwith being heated, he commanded to cut out the tongue of him that ſpake firſt, and to cut off the utmoſt parts of his body, the reſt of his brethren and his mother looking on.

5 Now when he was thus maimed in all his members, he commanded him, being yet alive, to be brought to the fire, and to be fried in the pan: and as the vapour of the pan was for a good ſpace diſperſed, they exhorted one another, with the mother, to die manfully, ſaying thus,

6 The Lord God looketh upon us, and in truth hath comfort in us, as Moſes in his ſong, which witneſſed to their faces, declared, ſaying, And he ſhall be comforted in his ſervants.

7 So when the firſt was dead after this manner, they brought the ſecond, to make him a mocking-ſtock: and when they had pulled off the ſkin of his head with the hair, they aſked him, Wilt thou eat before thou be puniſhed throughout every member of thy body?

8 But he anſwered in his own language, and ſaid, No. Wherefore he alſo received the next torment, in order as the former did.

9 And when he was at the laſt gaſp, he ſaid, Thou like a fury takeſt us out of this preſent life, but the King of the world ſhall raiſe us up, who have died for his laws, unto everlaſting life.

10 After him was the third made a mocking-ſtock: and when he was required, he put out his tongue, and that right ſoon, holding forth his hands manfully,

11 And ſaid courageouſly, Theſe I had from heaven; and for his laws I deſpiſe them; and from him I hope to receive them again.

12 Inſomuch that the king, and they that were with him, marvelled at the young man's courage, for that he nothing regarded the pains.

13 Now when this man was dead alſo, they tormented and mangled the fourth in like manner.

14 So when he was ready to die, he ſaid thus, It is good, being put to death by men, to look for hope from God, to be raiſed up again by him: as for thee, thou ſhalt have no reſurrection to life.

15 Afterward they brought the fifth alſo, and mangled him.

16 Then looked he unto the king, and ſaid, Thou haſt power over men, thou art corruptible, thou doeſt what thou wilt; yet think not that our nation is forſaken of God:

17 But abide awhile, and behold his great power, how he will torment thee and thy ſeed.

18 After him alſo they brought the ſixth, who, being ready to die, ſaid, Be not deceived without cauſe: for we ſuffer theſe things for ourſelves, having ſinned againſt our God: therefore marvellous things are done unto us;

19 But think not thou, that takeſt in hand to ſtrive againſt God, that thou ſhalt eſcape unpuniſhed.

20 But the mother was marvellous above all, and worthy of honourable memory; for when ſhe ſaw her ſeven ſons ſlain within the ſpace of one day, ſhe bare it with a good courage, becauſe of the hope that ſhe had in the Lord.

21 Yea, ſhe exhorted every one of them in her own language, filled with courageous ſpirits; and, ſtirring up her womaniſh thoughts with a manly ſtomach, ſhe ſaid unto them,

22 I cannot tell how ye came into my womb; for I neither gave you breath nor life, neither was it I that formed the members of every one of you:

23 But doubtleſs the Creator of the world, who formed the generation of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will alſo, of his own mercy, give you breath and life again, as ye now regard not your own ſelves for his laws' ſake.

24 Now Antiochus, thinking himſelf deſpiſed, and ſuſpecting it to be a reproachful ſpeech, whilſt the youngeſt was yet alive, did not only exhort him by words, but alſo aſſured him with oaths, that he would make him both a rich and a happy man, if he would turn from the laws of his fathers: and that alſo he would take him for his friend, and truſt him with affairs.

25 But when the young man would in no caſe hearken unto him, the king called his mother, and exhorted her that ſhe would counſel the young man to ſave his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many words, ſhe promiſed him that ſhe would counſel her ſon.

27 But ſhe, bowing herſelf towards him, laughing the cruel tyrant to ſcorn, ſpake in her country language on this manner, O my ſon, have pity upon me that bare thee nine months in my womb, and gave thee ſuck three years, and nouriſhed thee, and brought thee up unto this age, and endured the troubles of education.

28 I beſeech thee, my ſon, look upon the heaven and the earth, and all that is therein, and conſider that God made them of things that were not; and ſo was mankind made likewiſe.

29 Fear not this tormentor, but, being worthy of thy brethren, take thy death, that I may receive thee again in mercy with thy brethren.

30 Whilſt ſhe was yet ſpeaking theſe words, the young man ſaid, Whom wait ye for? I will not obey the king's commandment: but I will obey the commandment of the law that was given unto our fathers by Moſes.

31 And thou that haſt been the author of all miſchief againſt the Hebrews, ſhalt not eſcape the hands of God.

32 For we ſuffer becauſe of our ſins.

33 And though the living Lord be angry with us a little while for our chaſtening and correction, yet ſhall he be at one again with his ſervants.

34 But thou, O godleſs man, and of all other moſt wicked, be not lifted up without a cauſe, nor puffed up with uncertain hopes, lifting up thy hand againſt the ſervants of God:

35 For thou haſt not yet eſcaped the judgment of Almighty God, who ſeeth all things.

36 For our brethren, who now have ſuffered a ſhort pain, are dead under God's covenant of everlaſting life: but thou, through the judgment of God, ſhalt receive juſt puniſhment for thy pride.

37 But I, as my brethren, offer up my body and life for the laws of our fathers, beſeeching God that he would ſpeedily be merciful unto our nation; and that thou, by torments and plagues, mayeſt confeſs that he alone is God;

38 And that in me, and my brethren, the wrath of neration for their piety and bravery, and enough to excite us to an imitation of their virtues. For if theſe Jews, in the darkneſs of Judaiſm, were actuated with ſo fervent a zeal for a ſingle injunction, which at beſt was not a moral precept, but belonged to the ceremonial part of the law, with what ſhame and confuſion ſhould a Chriſtian be covered, who, under the enlightening diſpenſation of the goſpel, can ſo eaſily, as many do, ſuffer the riches, honours, and grandeur of the world to weigh down all concern about a future ſtate, and the ſalvation and eternal welfare of their precious and immortal ſouls, ſo dearly purchaſed by the blood of a gracious Redeemer, ſo clearly and ſo particularly deſcribed in the ſacred records of the New Teſtament!

---

the Almighty, which is juſtly brought upon all our nation, may ceaſe.

39 Then the king, being in a rage, handled him worſe than all the reſt, and took it grievouſly that he was mocked.

40 So this man died undefiled, and put his whole truſt in the Lord.

41 Laſt of all, after the ſons, the mother died.

42 Let this be enough now to have ſpoken concerning the idolatrous feaſts, and the extreme tortures.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judas gathereth an hoſt: 9 Nicanor is ſent againſt him: 28 Nicanor fleeth.

THEN Judas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went privily into the towns, and called their kinsfolks together, and took unto them all ſuch as continued in the Jews' religion, and aſſembled about ſix thouſand men.

2 And they called upon the Lord, that he would look upon the people that was trodden down of all; and alſo pity the temple profaned of ungodly men;

3 And that he would have compaſſion upon the city, ſore defaced, and ready to be made even with the ground, and hear the blood that cried unto him,

4 And remember the wicked ſlaughter of harmleſs infants, and the blaſphemies committed againſt his name; and that he would ſhew his hatred againſt the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had his company about him, he could not be withſtood by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy.

6 Therefore he came at unawares, and burnt up towns and cities, and got into his hands the moſt commodious places, and overcame and put to flight no ſmall number of his enemies.

7 But ſpecially took he advantage of the night for ſuch privy attempts, inſomuch that the bruit of his manlineſs was ſpread every where.

8 So when Philip ſaw that this man increaſed by little and little, and that things proſpered with him ſtill more and more, he wrote unto Ptolemeus the governor of Celoſyria and Phenice, to yield more aid to the king's affairs.

9 Then forthwith chooſing Nicanor the ſon of Patroclus, one of his ſpecial friends, he ſent him with no fewer than twenty thouſand of all nations under him, to root out the whole generation of the Jews; and with him alſo he joined Gorgias a captain, who in maters of war had great experience.

10 So Nicanor undertook to make ſo much money of the captive Jews as ſhould defray the tribute of two thouſand talents, which the king was to pay to the Romans.

11 Wherefore immediately he ſent to the cities upon the ſea-coaſt, proclaiming a ſale of the captive Jews, and promiſing that they ſhould have fourſcore and ten bodies for one talent, not expecting the vengeance that was to follow upon him from the Almighty God.

12 Now when word was brought unto Judas of Nicanor's coming, and he had imparted unto thoſe that were with him that the army was at hand,

13 They that were fearful, and diſtruſted the juſtice of God, fled, and conveyed themſelves away.

14 Others ſold all that they had left, and withal beſought the Lord to deliver them, being ſold by the wicked Nicanor before they met together:

15 And if not for their own ſakes, yet for the covenants he had made with their fathers, and for his holy and glorious name's ſake, by which they were called.

16 So Maccabeus called his men together unto the number of ſix thouſand, and exhorted them not to be ſtricken with terror of the enemy, nor to fear the great multitude of the heathen, who came wrongfully againſt them; but to fight manfully,

17 And to ſet before their eyes the injury that they had unjuſtly done to the holy place, and the cruel handling of the city, whereof they made a mockery, and alſo the taking away of the government of their forefathers:

18 For they, ſaid he, truſt in their weapons and boldneſs, but our confidence is in the Almighty God, who at a beck can caſt down both them that come againſt us, and alſo all the world.

19 Moreover, he recounted unto them what helps their forefathers had found, and how they were delivered, when under Sennacherib an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand periſhed.

20 And he told them of the battle that they had in Babylon with the Galatians, how they came but eight thouſand in all to the buſineſs, with four thouſand Macedonians, and that, the Macedonians being perplexed, the eight thouſand deſtroyed an hundred and twenty thouſand, becauſe of the help that they had from heaven; and ſo received a great booty.

21 Thus when he had made them bold with theſe words, and ready to die for the laws and the country, he divided his army into four parts;

22 And joined with himſelf his own brethren, leaders of each band, to wit, Simon, and Joſeph, and Jonathan, giving each one fifteen hundred men.

23 Alſo he appointed Eleazar to read the holy book: and when he had given them this watchword, The help of God; himſelf leading the firſt band, he joined battle with Nicanor.

24 And, by the help of the Almighty, they ſlew above nine thouſand of their enemies, and wounded and maimed the moſt part of Nicanor's hoſt, and ſo put all to flight;

25 And took their money that came to buy them, and purſued them far; but lacking time, they returned:

26 For it was the day before the ſabbath, and therefore they would no longer purſue them.

27 So when they had gathered their armour together, and ſpoiled their enemies, they occupied themſelves about the ſabbath, yielding exceeding praiſe and thanks to the Lord, who had preſerved them unto that day, which was the beginning of mercy diſtilling upon them.

28 And after the ſabbath, when they had given part of the ſpoils to the maimed, and the widows, and orphans, the reſidue they divided among themſelves and their ſervants.

29 When this was done, and they had made a common ſupplication, they beſought the merciful Lord to be reconciled with his ſervants for ever.

30 Moreover, of thoſe that were with Timotheus and Bacchides, who fought againſt them, they ſlew above twenty thouſand, and very eaſily got high and ſtrong holds, and divided among themſelves many ſpoils more, and made the maimed, orphans, widows, yea, and the aged alſo, equal in ſpoils with themſelves.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

ver. 1. Then Judas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went privily into the towns, &c.) The author having concluded his account of the idolatrous feaſt, at which the poor Jews were compelled to be preſent and aſſiſt, and likewiſe of the inhuman cruelties exerciſed on thoſe whoſe faith and reſolution were ſtrong enough to outbrave all the tyrant's barbarities, in this begins his narrative of the noble exploits performed by Judas Maccabeus in defence of their laws, religion, and country.

31 And

31 And when they had gathered their armour together, they laid them up carefully in convenient places, and the remnant of the ſpoils they brought to Jeruſalem.

32 They ſlew alſo Philarches that wicked perſon, who was with Timotheus, and had annoyed the Jews many ways.

33 Furthermore, at ſuch time as they kept the feaſt for the victory in their country, they burnt Caliſthenes that had ſet fire upon the holy gates, who was fled into a little houſe, and ſo he received a reward meet for his wickedneſs.

34 As for that moſt ungracious Nicanor, who had brought a thouſand merchants to buy the Jews,

35 He was, through the help of the Lord, brought down by them of whom he made leaſt account; and putting off his glorious apparel, and diſcharging his company, he came like a fugitive ſervant through the mid-land unto Antioch, having very great diſhonour, for that his hoſt was deſtroyed.

36 Thus he that took upon him to make good to the Romans their tribute, by means of the captives in Jeruſalem, told abroad, that the Jews had God to fight for them, and therefore they could not be hurt; becauſe they followed the laws that he gave them.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus is chaſed from Perſepolis: 5 he is ſtricken with a ſore diſeaſe.

ABOUT that time came Antiochus with diſhonour out of the country of Perſia.

2 For he had entered the city called Perſepolis, and went about to rob the temple, and to hold the city; whereupon the multitude, running to defend themſelves with their weapons, put them to flight; and ſo it happened that Antiochus, being put to flight of the inhabitants, returned with ſhame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatane, news was brought him what had happened unto Nicanor and Timotheus.

4 Then, ſwelling with anger, he thought to avenge upon the Jews the diſgrace done unto him by thoſe that made him flee. Therefore commanded he his chariot-man to drive without ceaſing, and to diſpatch the journey, the judgment of God now following him: for he had ſpoken proudly in this ſort, That he would come to Jeruſalem, and make it a common burying-place of the Jews.

5 But the Lord Almighty, the God of Iſrael, ſmote him with an incurable and inviſible plague: for as ſoon as he had ſpoken theſe words, a pain of the bowels, that was remedileſs, came upon him, and ſore torments of the inner parts;

6 And that moſt juſtly: for he had tormented other men's bowels with many and ſtrange torments.

7 Howbeit, he nothing at all ceaſed from his bragging, but ſtill was filled with pride, breathing out fire in his rage againſt the Jews, and commanding to haſte the journey: but it came to paſs, that he fell down from his chariot, carried violently: ſo that, having a ſore fall, all the members of his body were much pained.

8 And thus he that a little afore thought he might command the waves of the ſea (ſo proud was he beyond the condition of man) and weigh the high mountains in a balance, was now caſt on the ground, and carried in an horſe-litter, ſhewing forth unto all the manifeſt power of God.

9 So that the worms roſe up out of the body of this wicked man, and whiles he lived in ſorrow and pain, his fleſh fell away, and the filthineſs of his ſmell was noiſome to all his army.

10 And the man that thought a little afore he could reach to the ſtars of heaven, no man could endure to carry, for his intolerable ſtink.

11 Here therefore, being plagued, he began to leave off his great pride, and to come to the knowledge of himſelf by the ſcourge of God, his pain increaſing every moment.

12 And when he himſelf could not abide his own ſmell, he ſaid theſe words, It is meet to be ſubject unto God, and that a man that is mortal ſhould not proudly think of himſelf, as if he were God.

13 This wicked perſon vowed alſo unto the Lord (who now no more would have mercy upon him) ſaying thus,

14 That the holy city (to the which he was going in haſte to lay it even with the ground, and to make it a common burying-place) he would ſet at liberty.

15 And as touching the Jews, whom he had judged not worthy ſo much as to be buried, but to be caſt out with their children, to be devoured of the fowls and wild beaſts, he would make them all equals to the citizens of Athens.

16 And the holy temple, which before he had ſpoiled, he would garniſh with goodly gifts, and reſtore all the holy veſſels, with many more, and out of his own revenue defray the charges belonging to the ſacrifices:

17 Yea, and that alſo he would become a Jew himſelf, and go through all the world that was inhabited, and declare the power of God.

18 But for all this his pains would not ceaſe; for the juſt judgment of God was come upon him: therefore, deſpairing of his health, he wrote unto the Jews the letters under-written, containing the form of a ſupplication, after this manner:

19 Antiochus king and governor, to the good Jews his citizens, wiſheth much joy, health, and proſperity,

20 If ye and your children fare well, and your affairs be to your contentment, I give very great thanks to God, having my hope in heaven.

21 As for me, I was weak, or elſe I would have remembered

COMMENTARY on Chap. IX.

1 About that time came Antiochus with diſhonour out of the country of Perſia.) Theſe ill ſucceſſes of the arms of Antiochus, employed in Judea, were not the only misfortunes which befel that monarch: for about the ſame time he himſelf, with the forces under his command in Perſia, was forced to abandon his enterpriſes there, being ſhamefully routed, in attempting to rob the temple and plunder the city of Perſepolis. After returning to Ecbatane from his unfortunate expedition, he was told of the defeat of his generals Nicanor and Timotheus: at the news of which he was ſo enraged, that he vowed the ſevereſt vengeance on the Jews for the diſgrace which they had brought on his arms in Judea. With this view he mounts his chariot in all haſte, and orders his charioteer to drive with the utmoſt ſpeed he could. Being on his journey, and in full career to execute his bloody purpoſes, he is overtaken by the hand of God, and ſeized with an uncommon and incurable diſeaſe. This, however, at firſt did not retard his journey, or ſlacken the furious reſolution which he had taken againſt the Jews: but the diſtemper increaſing upon him, his pains growing intolerable, and his death appearing inevitable, his pride began to be humbled, and he, who juſt before thought himſelf little leſs than a God, was now ſenſible that he was really a poor, mortal, miſerable man. He acknowledges the Deity, and his own wretched folly in pretending a compariſon with the Almighty. In this fit of contrition he changes his cruel purpoſes againſt Jeruſalem and the Jews, into vows of doing all the acts of kindneſs and benevolence to that nation: nay, further, that if it ſhould pleaſe God to reſtore him to his health, he would himſelf become a Jew, and proclaim the power of God throughout the whole habitable world. But his diſeaſe ſtill increaſing, and his death every moment apprehended, he writes a letter to the Jews, acquainting them that he had appointed his ſon Antiochus to be his ſucceſſor on the throne, and praying them to preſerve their allegiance to him and his ſon. Thus died this murderer and blaſphemer, miſerably tortured with the violence of his diſeaſe, in the mountains and in a foreign country.

membered kindly your honour and good-will. Returning out of Perſia, and being taken with a grievous diſeaſe, I thought it neceſſary to care for the common ſafety of all:

22 Not diſtruſting mine health, but having great hope to eſcape this ſickneſs:

23 But conſidering that even my father, at what time he led an army into the high countries, appointed a ſucceſſor,

24 To the end that if any thing fell out contrary to expectation, or if any tidings were brought that were grievous, they of the land, knowing to whom the ſtate was left, might not be troubled.

25 Again, conſidering how that the princes that are borderers, and neighbours unto my kingdom, wait for opportunities, and expect what ſhall be the event, I have appointed my ſon Antiochus king, whom I often committed and commended unto many of you, when I went up into the high provinces: to whom I have written as followeth:

26 Therefore I pray and requeſt you to remember the benefits that I have done unto you generally, and in ſpecial, and that every man will be ſtill faithful to me and my ſon:

27 For I am perſuaded that he, underſtanding my mind, will favourably and graciouſly yield to your deſires.

28 Thus the murderer and blaſphemer, having ſuffered moſt grievouſly, as he entreated other men, ſo died he a miſerable death in a ſtrange country in the mountains.

29 And Philip, that was brought up with him, carried away his body; who alſo, fearing the ſon of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

CHAP. X.

1 Judas recovereth the city: 35 Gazara taken, and Timotheus ſlain.

NOW Maccabeus and his company, the Lord guiding them, recovered the temple and the city:

2 But the altars which the heathen had built in the open ſtreet, and alſo the chapels, they pulled down.

3 And, having cleanſed the temple, they made another altar; and, ſtriking ſtones, they took fire out of them, and offered a ſacrifice after two years, and ſet forth incenſe, and lights, and ſhew-bread.

4 When that was done, they fell flat down, and beſought the Lord that they might come no more into ſuch troubles; but if they ſinned any more againſt him, that he himſelf would chaſten them with mercy, and that they might not be delivered unto the blaſphemous and barbarous nations.

5 Now upon the ſame day that the ſtrangers profaned the temple, on the very ſame day it was cleanſed again, even the five and twentieth day of the ſame month, which is Caſleu.

6 And they kept eight days with gladneſs, as in the feaſt of the tabernacles, remembering that not long afore they had held the feaſt of the tabernacles, when as they wandered in the mountains and dens like beaſts.

7 Therefore they bare branches and fair boughs, and palms alſo, and ſang pſalms unto him that had given them good ſucceſs in cleanſing his place.

8 They ordained alſo, by a common ſtatute and decree, That every year thoſe days ſhould be kept of the whole nation of the Jews.

9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

10 Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Eupator, who was the ſon of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the wars.

11 So when he was come to the crown, he ſet one Lyſias over the affairs of his realm, and appointed him chief governor of Celoſyria and Phenice.

12 For Ptolemeus that was called Macron, chooſing rather to do juſtice unto the Jews, for the wrongs that had been done unto them, endeavoured to continue peace with them.

13 Whereupon, being accuſed of the king's friends before Eupator, and called traitor at every word, becauſe he had left Cyprus, that Philometor had committed unto him, and departed to Antiochus Epiphanes, and ſeeing that he was in no honourable place, he was ſo diſcouraged, that he poiſoned himſelf and died.

14 But when Gorgias was governor of the holds,

COMMENTARY ON Chap. X.

1 Now Maccabeus, &c.) Judas, having already met with great ſucceſs in all his enterpriſes againſt the enemy in the country, leads his forces to Jeruſalem, and recovers the city and temple out of the hands of the heathen, deſtroys the altar devoted to idolatrous worſhip, and pulls down the chapels erected for the ſame impious ſervices, cleanſes the temple from the impurities with which the heathen had polluted it, builds a new altar, and renews the ſacrifices and ceremonial rights, after two years intermiſſion. After doing all this, they humbly ſupplicate the Almighty to put an end to their troubles; and that, in caſe they ſinned any more, he himſelf would chaſten them with his fatherly correction, and not deliver them up to the mercy of barbarous and blaſphemous enemies. The hiſtorian remarks a particular act of Divine Providence in diſpoſing the courſe of things in ſuch a manner, that the very ſame day of the year on which the temple had been profaned with the abominations of the heathen, the ſame day it was cleanſed, namely, the twenty-fifth of the month Caſleu, which anſwers to about the third day of our December. An annual feſtival in commemoration thereof was likewiſe inſtituted to be kept eight days ſucceſſively.

The author proceeds next to relate the exploits and actions of Antiochus Eupator, the ſon of Antiochus Epiphanes. At his acceſſion to the crown, he made Lyſias his prime miniſter, and gave him the government of Celoſyria and Phenice: for it ſeems that Ptolemy was too open a friend to the Jews, at a court where they were generally hated, to be admitted into any truſt, though he had been in the confidence and friendſhip of the father of the reigning monarch: and ſo hard was he preſſed by the malice of his adverſaries, as even to be charged with high treaſon; ſo that in diſcontent he poiſoned himſelf. Gorgias, on the contrary, did all he could to foment a war with the Jews, no doubt, in revenge for his former defeat by them, (1 Mac. iv.) and being made governor-general of the forts and garriſons in the parts adjacent to Judea, and being particularly favoured by the Idumeans, who got their fortreſſes into their hands, he harraſſed the Jews very much. Judas, having intelligence of theſe commotions, thought it high time to beſtir himſelf. Accordingly he and his men, having firſt beſought the Almighty for ſucceſs, ruſhed in upon his enemies, took their ſtrong holds in Idumea, made a vaſt ſlaughter of their men, and routed them every where. But it ſeems two of the fortreſſes, which were ſtronger than the reſt, ventured to ſtand a ſiege: but Judas' preſence being neceſſary in other places, he left three of his generals, with ſufficient forces, to carry on the ſieges, whilſt he haſtened to the aſſiſtance of his friends in diſtreſs elſewhere. But being informed that ſome of his officers, to whom he had intruſted the care of beſieging the caſtles, had taken money to connive at the eſcape of ſome of the beſieged, he returned, and having examined into the truth of the fact, he puniſhed thoſe traitors to their country with death, at length took the caſtle, and ſlew their garriſons, conſiſting of twenty thouſand men.

Timotheus, another of Antiochus' generals, who had before been defeated by the Jews, gathering together a vaſt army, marches againſt them. Then Judas and his people, as was their uſual cuſtom, offered up their prayers to God for ſucceſs, and ſet out to meet the enemy. The battle is joined, and in the midſt of it, when the combat was hotteſt, five men on horſeback, glorioufly accoutred, of a ſudden appeared, leading on the Jews, and ſupporting Judas: at which unuſual ſight the enemy were ſo diſmayed and confounded, that they could no longer continue the fight, but ſuffered themſelves to be ſlain in heaps, to the number of twenty thouſand. Upon this Timotheus fled to the ſtrong hold of Gazara, which Judas immediately inveſted, and on the fifth day took and burnt it. Here Timotheus, and Chereas the governor, with his brother and many more, were ſlain. The Jews, having obtained ſo ſignal a victory, returned triumphant to Jeruſalem, lauding and magnifying the Lord for it.

he hired ſoldiers, and nouriſhed war continually with the Jews.

15 And therewithal the Idumeans, having gotten into their hands the moſt commodious holds, kept the Jews occupied; and, receiving thoſe that were baniſhed from Jeruſalem, they went about to nouriſh war.

16 Then they that were with Maccabeus made ſupplication, and beſought God that he would be their helper; and ſo they ran with violence upon the ſtrong holds of the Idumeans;

17 And aſſaulting them ſtrongly, they won the holds, and kept off all that fought upon the wall, and ſlew all that fell into their hands, and killed no fewer than twenty thouſand.

18 And becauſe certain (who were no leſs than nine thouſand) were fled together into two very ſtrong caſtles, having all manner of things convenient to ſuſtain the ſiege;

19 Maccabeus left Simon and Joſeph, and Zaccheus alſo, and them that were with him, who were enough to beſiege them, and departed himſelf unto thoſe places which more need his help.

20 Now they that were with Simon, being led with covetouſneſs, were perſuaded for money (through certain of thoſe that were in the caſtle) and took ſeventy thouſand drachms, and let ſome of them eſcape.

21 But when it was told Maccabeus what was done, he called the governors of the people together, and accuſed thoſe men that they had ſold their brethren for money, and ſet their enemies free to fight againſt them.

22 So he ſlew thoſe that were found traitors, and immediately took the two caſtles.

23 And having good ſucceſs with his weapons in all things he took in hand, he ſlew in the two holds more than twenty thouſand.

24 Now Timotheus, whom the Jews had overcome before, when he had gathered a great multitude of foreign forces, and horſes out of Aſia not a few, came as though he would take Jewry by force of arms.

25 But when he drew near, they that were with Maccabeus turned themſelves to pray unto God, and ſprinkled earth upon their heads, and girded their loins with ſackcloth,

26 And fell down at the foot of the altar, and beſought him to be merciful to them, and to be an enemy to their enemies, and an adverſary to their adverſaries, as the law declareth.

27 So, after the prayer, they took their weapons, and went on further from the city; and when they drew near to their enemies, they kept by themſelves.

28 Now, the ſun being nearly riſen, they joined both together; the one part having, together with their virtue, their refuge alſo unto the Lord for a pledge of their ſucceſs and victory: the other ſide making their rage leader of their battle.

29 But when the battle waxed ſtrong, there appeared unto the enemies from heaven five comely men upon horſes, with bridles of gold, and two of them led the Jews,

30 And took Maccabeus betwixt them, and covered him on every ſide with their weapons, and kept him ſafe, but ſhot arrows and lightnings againſt the enemies: ſo that, being confounded with blindneſs, and full of trouble, they were killed.

31 And there were ſlain of footmen twenty thouſand and five hundred, and ſix hundred horſemen.

32 As for Timotheus himſelf, he fled into a very ſtrong hold, called Gazara, where Chereas was governor.

33 But they that were with Maccabeus laid ſiege againſt the fortreſs courageouſly four days.

34 And they that were within, truſting to the ſtrength of the place, blaſphemed exceedingly, and uttered wicked words.

35 Nevertheleſs, upon the fifth day early, twenty young men of Maccabeus' company, inflamed with anger becauſe of the blaſphemies, aſſaulted the wall manly, and with a fierce courage killed all that they met withal.

36 Others likewiſe aſcending after them, whiles they were buſied with them that were within, burnt the towers, and, kindling fires, burnt the blaſphemers alive: and others broke open the gates, and, having received in the reſt of the army, took the city;

37 And killed Timotheus that was hid in a certain pit, and Chereas his brother, with Apollophanes.

38 When this was done, they praiſed the Lord with pſalms and thankſgiving, who had done ſo great things for Iſrael, and given them the victory.

CHAP. XI.

1 Lyſias is put to flight. 16 The letters of Lyſias to the Jews.

NOT long after this, Lyſias the king's protector and couſin, who alſo managed the affairs, took ſore diſpleaſure for the things that were done.

2 And when he had gathered about fourſcore thouſand, with all the horſemen, he came againſt the Jews, thinking to make the city an habitation of the Gentiles,

3 And to make a gain of the temple, as of the other chapels of the heathen, and to ſet the high prieſthood to ſale every year:

4 Not at all conſidering the power of God, but puffed up with his ten thouſands of footmen, and his thouſands of horſemen, and his fourſcore elephants.

5 So he came to Judea, and drew near to Bethſura, which was a ſtrong town, but diſtant from Jeruſalem about five furlongs, and he laid ſore ſiege unto it.

6 Now when they that were with Maccabeus heard that he beſieged the holds, they and all the people, with lamentation and tears, beſought the Lord that he would ſend a good angel to deliver Iſrael.

Commentary on Chap. XI.

1 Not long after this, Lyſias the king's protector and couſin, &c.) The news of the great ſucceſſes of Judas reaching the ears of Lyſias, who was the guardian and kinſman of the young king Antiochus, and who had likewiſe the direction and chief adminiſtration of the government, was very much chagrined at the misfortune that had attended the arms of his maſter in Judea. Upon which, muſtering a vaſt army of horſe and foot, he marched with great fury againſt the Jews, not only to revenge himſelf for the diſgraces former generals had ſuffered from that people, but to enrich himſelf with their ſpoils. Judas and his men, having intelligence of this expedition of Lyſias, ſupplicate the Almighty for deliverance from the evils which threatened them. In anſwer to whoſe prayers, and as a token of the great things God intended to do for them, he cauſes them to ſee the apparition of a man on horſeback, clad in armour of gold, at the head of their troops, as they were marching out of their city, and, as it were, leading them on againſt the enemy. This now inſpired them with ſuch courage and reſolution, that nothing ſeemed too great for them to attempt. In this diſpoſition they made a furious onſet on their enemies, and defeated them with a dreadful ſlaughter, Lyſias himſelf hardly eſcaping with his life.

After this defeat, Lyſias, wiſely conſidering that the Jews muſt have ſome ſuperior aſſiſtance, to be able with ſo few forces to beat ſuch a numerous and ſtrong army as his was, and that, in fighting againſt them, it was in effect fighting againſt God himſelf, concluded that it was his beſt way to be at peace with them. Whereupon, ſending a very friendly meſſage, he perſuades them to accept of reaſonable conditions, and he promiſes, at the ſame time, to engage the king in their favour. Judas, with a due regard to the public welfare, accepts of the terms, and the king afterwards ratifies the treaty.

7 Then Maccabeus himſelf firſt of all took weapons, exhorting the other, that they would jeopard themſelves together with him to help their brethren: ſo they went forth together with a willing mind.

8 And as they were at Jeruſalem, there appeared before them on horſeback, one in white clothing, ſhaking his armour of gold.

9 Then they praiſed the merciful God all together, and took heart, inſomuch that they were ready not only to fight with men, but with moſt cruel beaſts, and to pierce through walls of iron.

10 Thus they marched forward in their armour, having an helper from heaven: for the Lord was merciful unto them.

11 And, giving a charge upon their enemies like lions, they ſlew eleven thouſand footmen, and ſixteen hundred horſemen, and put all the other to flight.

12 Many of them alſo, being wounded, eſcaped naked; and Lyſias himſelf fled away ſhamefully, and ſo eſcaped.

13 Who, as he was a man of underſtanding, caſting with himſelf what loſs he had had, and conſidering that the Hebrews could not be overcome, becauſe the Almighty God helped them, he ſent unto them,

14 And perſuaded them to agree to all reaſonable conditions, and promiſed that he would perſuade the king that he muſt needs be a friend unto them.

15 Then Maccabeus conſented to all that Lyſias deſired, being careful of the common good; and whatſoever Maccabeus wrote unto Lyſias concerning the Jews, the king granted it.

16 For there were letters written unto the Jews from Lyſias to this effect: Lyſias unto the people of the Jews ſendeth greeting:

17 John and Abſalom, who were ſent from you, delivered me the petition ſubſcribed, and made requeſt for the performance of the contents thereof.

18 Therefore, what things ſoever were meet to be reported to the king, I have declared them, and he hath granted as much as might be.

19 If then ye will keep yourſelves loyal to the ſtate, hereafter alſo will I endeavour to be a means of your good.

20 But of the particulars I have given order, both to theſe, and the other that came from me, to commune with you.

21 Fare ye well. The hundred and eight and fortieth year, the four and twentieth day of the month Dioſcorinthius.

22 Now the king's letter contained theſe words: King Antiochus unto his brother Lyſias ſendeth greeting:

23 Since our father is tranſlated unto the gods, our will is, that they that are in our realm live quietly, that every one may attend upon his own affairs.

24 We underſtand alſo, that the Jews would not conſent to our father, for to be brought unto the cuſtom of the Gentiles, but had rather keep their own manner of living: for the which cauſe they require of us, that we ſhould ſuffer them to live after their own laws.

25 Wherefore our mind is, that this nation ſhall be in reſt, and we have determined to reſtore them their temple, that they may live according to the cuſtoms of their forefathers.

26 Thou ſhalt do well, therefore, to ſend unto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our mind, they may be of good comfort, and ever go cheerfully about their own affairs.

27 And the letter of the king unto the nation of the Jews was after this manner: King Antiochus ſendeth greeting unto the council, and the reſt of the Jews:

28 If ye fare well, we have our deſire; we are alſo in good health.

29 Menelaus declared unto us, that your deſire was to return home, and to follow your own buſineſs:

30 Wherefore they that will depart ſhall have ſafe conduct, till the thirtieth day of Xanthicus, with ſecurity.

31 And the Jews ſhall uſe their own kind of meats and laws, as before; and none of them, any manner of ways, ſhall be moleſted for things ignorantly done.

32 I have ſent alſo Menelaus, that he may comfort you.

33 Fare ye well. In the hundred forty and eighth year, and the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

34 The Romans alſo ſent unto them a letter containing theſe words: Quintus Memmius, and Titus Manlius, ambaſſadors of the Romans, ſend greeting unto the people of the Jews:

35 Whatſoever Lyſias the king's couſin hath granted, therewith we alſo are well pleaſed.

36 But touching ſuch things as he judged to be referred to the king, after ye have adviſed thereof, ſend one forthwith that we may declare as it is convenient for you; for we are now going to Antioch.

37 Therefore ſend ſome with ſpeed, that we may know what is your mind.

38 Farewell. This hundred and eight and fortieth year, the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

CHAP. XII.

1 The king's lieutenants vex the Jews. 4 They of Joppe drown two hundred Jews.

WHEN theſe covenants were made, Lyſias went unto the king, and the Jews were about their huſbandry.

2 But of the governors of ſeveral places, Timotheus, and Appollonius the ſon of Genneus, alſo Hieronymus, and Demophon, and beſides them Nicanor the governor of Cyprus, would not ſuffer them to be quiet, and live in peace.

3 The men of Joppe alſo did ſuch an ungodly deed: they prayed the Jews that dwelt among them to go with their wives and children into the boats which they had prepared, as though they had meant them no hurt.

4 Who accepted of it according to the common decree of the city, as being deſirous to live in peace, and ſuſpecting nothing: but when they were gone forth into the deep, they drowned no leſs than two hundred of them.

5 When Judas heard of this cruelty done unto his countrymen,

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

1 When theſe covenants were made, &c.) Notwithſtanding this treaty of peace ſo lately concluded, the king's governors in Judea would not ſuffer the Jews to enjoy the fruits of it. At Joppe no leſs than two hundred of them were drowned by a trick put upon them by the garriſon. This act of cruelty ſo enraged Judas, that without more to do he arms his forces, burns the harbour, kills thoſe murderers of his brethren, and would probably have deſtroyed the town itſelf; but being at that inſtant informed that the Jamnites intended to ſerve the Jews that lived amongſt them in the very ſame manner, he ſuddenly turns againſt them, and, coming upon them in the night, ſets fire to their harbour and navy, which lighted up ſuch a blaze as to be ſeen at Jeruſalem, the diſtance of two hundred and forty furlongs. Departing from thence, in order to purſue Timotheus, he is attacked in his journey by an army of Arabians, whom he encounters, and after a ſharp conteſt defeats: yet at their requeſt he grants them terms of peace. He marches on 'till he arrives at the ſtrong city of Caſpis, which being well garriſoned, and ſtored with all kinds of proviſions, bids defiance to his arms. But Judas, who is not to be frightened from his reſolution, aſſaults and takes the city ſword in hand, and makes ſuch ſlaughter of the people, that a large lake ran with the blood of the ſlain.

countrymen, he commanded thoſe that were with him to make them ready.

6 And calling upon God the righteous Judge, he came againſt thoſe murderers of his brethren, and burnt the haven by night, and ſet the boats on fire, and thoſe that fled thither he ſlew.

7 And when the town was ſhut up, he went backward, as if he would return to root out all them of the city of Joppe.

8 But when he heard that the Jamnites were minded to do in like manner unto the Jews that dwelt among them,

9 He came upon the Jamnites alſo by night, and ſet fire on the haven and the navy, ſo that the light of the fire was ſeen at Jeruſalem, two hundred and forty furlongs off.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their journey toward Timotheus, no fewer than five thouſand men on foot, and five hundred horſemen of the Arabians, ſet upon him.

11 Whereupon there was a very ſore battle; but Judas' ſide, by the help of God, got the victory: ſo that the Nomades of Arabia, being overcome, beſought Judas for peace, promiſing both to give him cattle, and to pleaſure him otherwiſe.

12 Then Judas, thinking indeed that they would be profitable in many things, granted them peace: whereupon they ſhook hands, and ſo they departed to their tents.

13 He went alſo about to make a bridge to a certain ſtrong city, which was fenced about with walls, and inhabited by people of diverſe countries; and the name of it was Caſpis.

14 But they that were within it put ſuch truſt in the ſtrength of the walls, and proviſion of victuals, that they behaved themſelves rudely towards them that were with Judas, railing and blaſpheming, and uttering ſuch words as were not to be ſpoken.

15 Wherefore Judas with his company, calling upon the great Lord of the world, who, without any rams or engines of war, did caſt down Jericho in the time of Joſhua, gave a fierce aſſault againſt the walls,

16 And took the city by the will of God, and made unſpeakable ſlaughters, inſomuch that a lake two furlongs broad, near adjoining thereunto, being filled full, was ſeen running with blood.

17 Then departed they from thence ſeven hundred and fifty furlongs, and came to Characa unto the Jews that are called Tubieni.

18 But as for Timotheus, they found him not in the places: for before he had diſpatched any thing he departed from thence, having left a very ſtrong garriſon in a certain hold.

19 Howbeit, Doſitheus and Soſipater, who were of Maccabeus' captains, went forth, and ſlew thoſe that Timotheus had left in the fortreſs, above ten thouſand men.

20 And Maccabeus ranged his army by bands, and ſet them over the bands, and went againſt Timotheus, who had about him an hundred and twenty thouſand men of foot, and two thouſand and five hundred horſemen.

21 Now when Timotheus had knowledge of Judas' coming, he ſent the women and children, and the other baggage, unto a fortreſs called Carnion: (for the town was hard to beſiege, and uneaſy to come unto, by reaſon of the ſtraitneſs of all the places.)

22 But when Judas' firſt band came in ſight, the enemies, being ſmitten with fear and terror, through the appearing of him that ſeeth all things, fled amain, one running this way, another that way, ſo as that they were often hurt of their men, and wounded with the points of their own ſwords.

23 Judas alſo was very earneſt in purſuing them, killing thoſe wicked wretches, of whom he ſlew about thirty thouſand men.

24 Moreover, Timotheus himſelf fell into the hands of Doſitheus and Soſipater, whom he beſought with much craft to let him go with his life, becauſe he had many of the Jews' parents, and the brethren of ſome of them, who, if they had put him to death, ſhould not be regarded.

25 So when he had aſſured them with many words, that he would reſtore them without hurt, according to the agreement, they let him go for the ſaving of their brethren.

26 Then Maccabeus marched forth to Carnion, and to the temple of Artargatis, and there he ſlew five and twenty thouſand perſons.

27 And after he had put to flight and deſtroyed them, Judas removed the hoſt towards Ephron, a ſtrong city, wherein Lyſias abode, and a great multitude of divers nations, and the ſtrong young men kept the walls, and defended them mightily: wherein alſo was great proviſion of engines and darts.

28 But when Judas and his company had called upon Almighty God (who with his power breaketh the ſtrength of his enemies) they won the city, and ſlew twenty and five thouſand of them that were within.

29 From thence they departed to Scythopolis, which lieth ſix hundred furlongs from Jeruſalem.

30 But when the Jews that dwelt there, had teſtified that the Scythopolitans dwelt lovingly with them, and entreated them kindly in the time of their adverſity;

31 They gave them thanks, deſiring them to be friendly ſtill unto them: and ſo they came to Jeruſalem, the feaſt of the weeks approaching.

32 And after the feaſt called Pentecoſt, they went forth againſt Gorgias the governor of Idumea, 33 Who came out with three thouſand men of foot, and four hundred horſemen.

34 And it happened that in their fighting together, a few of the Jews were ſlain.

35 At which time Doſitheus, one of Barcenor's company, who was on horſeback, and a ſtrong man, was ſtill upon Gorgias, and, taking hold of his coat, drew him by force; and when he would have taken that curſed man alive, a horſeman of Thracia, coming upon him, ſmote off his ſhoulder, ſo that Gorgias fled into Mariſa.

36 Now when they that were with Gorgias had fought long, and were weary, Judas called upon the Lord, that he would ſhew himſelf to be their helper, and leader of the battle.

37 And with that he began in his own language, and ſung pſalms with a loud voice, and ruſhing unawares upon Gorgias' men, he put them to flight.

38 So Judas gathered his hoſt, and came into the city of Odollam. And when the ſeventh day came, they purified themſelves (as the cuſtom was) and kept the ſabbath in the ſame place.

39 And upon the day following, as the uſe had been, Judas and his company came to take up the bodies of them that were ſlain, and to bury them with their kinſmen in their fathers' graves.

40 Now under the coats of every one that was ſlain, they found things conſecrated to the idols of the Jamnites, which is forbidden the Jews by the law. Then every man ſaw that this was the cauſe wherefore they were ſlain.

41 All men therefore praiſing the Lord the righteous Judge, who had opened the things that were hid,

42 Betook

42 Betook themſelves unto prayer, and beſought him, that the ſin committed might wholly be put out of remembrance. Beſides, that noble Judas exhorted the people to keep themſelves from ſin, forſomuch as they ſaw before their eyes the things that came to paſs, for the ſins of thoſe that were ſlain.

43 And when he had made a gathering throughout the company, to the ſum of two thouſand drachms of ſilver, he ſent it to Jeruſalem to offer a ſin-offering, doing therein very well and honeſtly, in that he was mindful of the reſurrection:

44 (For if he had not hoped that they that were ſlain ſhould have riſen again, it had been ſuperfluous and vain to pray for the dead.)

45 And alſo, in that he perceived that there was great favour laid up for thoſe that died godly. (It was an holy and good thought.) Whereupon he made a reconciliation for the dead, that they might be delivered from ſin.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Eupator invadeth Judea. 18 His purpoſe defeated. 23 He maketh peace.

IN the hundred forty and ninth year it was told Judas, that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great power into Judea,

2 And with him Lyſias, his protector and ruler of his affairs, having either of them a Grecian power, of footmen an hundred and ten thouſand, and horſemen five thouſand and three hundred, and elephants two and twenty, and three hundred chariots armed with hooks.

3 Menelaus alſo joined himſelf with them, and with great diſſimulation encouraged Antiochus, not for the ſafeguard of the country, but becauſe he thought to have been made governor.

4 But the King of kings moved Antiochus' mind againſt this wicked wretch, and Lyſias informed the king, that this man was the cauſe of all miſchief, ſo that the king commanded to bring him unto Berea, and to put him to death as the manner is in that place.

5 Now there was in that place a tower of fifty cubits high, full of aſhes, and it had a round inſtrument, which on every ſide hanged down into the aſhes.

6 And whoſoever was condemned of ſacrilege, or had committed any other grievous crime, there did all men thruſt him unto death.

7 Such a death it happened that wicked man to die, not having ſo much as burial in the earth, and that moſt juſtly.

8 For inaſmuch as he had committed many ſins about the altar, whoſe fire and aſhes were holy, he received his death in aſhes.

9 Now the king came with a barbarous and haughty mind, to do far worſe to the Jews than had been done in his father's time.

10 Which things when Judas perceived, he commanded the multitude to call upon the Lord night and day, that if ever, at any other time, he would now alſo help them, being at the point to be put from their law, from their country, and from the holy temple:

11 And that he would not ſuffer the people, that had even now been but a little refreſhed, to be in ſubjection to the blaſphemous nations.

12 So when they had all done this together, and beſought the merciful Lord with weeping and faſting, and lying flat upon the ground three days long, Judas having exhorted them, commanded they ſhould be in readineſs.

13 And Judas, being apart with the elders, determined, before the king's hoſt ſhould enter into Judea, and get the city, to go forth and try the matter in fight by the help of the Lord.

14 So when he had committed all to the Creator of the world, and exhorted his ſoldiers to fight manfully, even unto death, for the laws, the temple, the city, the country, and the common-wealth, he camped by Modin.

15 And having given the watch-word to them that were about him, Victory is of God; with the moſt valiant and choice young men he went in into the king's tent by night, and ſlew in the camp about four thouſand men, and the chiefeſt of the elephants, with all that were upon them.

16 And at laſt they filled the camp with fear and tumult, and departed with good ſucceſs.

17 This was done in the break of the day, becauſe the protection of the Lord did help him.

18 Now when the king had taken a taſte of the manlineſs of the Jews, he went about to take the holds by policy,

19 And marched towards Bethſura, which was a ſtrong hold of the Jews; but he was put to flight, failed, and loſt of his men.

20 For Judas had conveyed unto them that were in it ſuch things as were neceſſary,

21 But Rhodocus, who was in the Jews' hoſt, diſcloſed the ſecrets to the enemies; therefore he was ſought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in priſon.

22 The king treated with them in Bethſura the ſecond time, gave his hand, took theirs, departed, fought with Judas, was overcome;

23 Heard that Philip, who was left over the affairs in Antioch, was deſperately bent, confounded, entreated the Jews, ſubmitted himſelf, and ſware to all equal conditions, agreed with them, and offered ſacrifice, honoured the temple, and dealt kindly with the place;

24 And accepted well of Maccabeus, made him principal governor from Ptolemais unto the Gerrhenians;

25 Came to Ptolemais: the people there were grieved for the covenants; for they ſtormed, becauſe they would make their covenants void.

26 Lyſias went up to the judgment-ſeat, ſaid as much as could be in defence of the cauſe, perſuaded, pacified, made them well affected, returned to Antioch. Thus it went touching the king's coming and departing.

CHAP. XIV.

6 Alcimus accuſeth Judas. 18 Nicanor maketh peace with Judas.

AFTER three years was Judas informed, that Demetrius the ſon of Seleucus, having entered by the haven of Tripolis with a great power and navy,

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

1 In the hundred forty and ninth year, &c.) Antiochus, with Lyſias his tutor and prime miniſter, having gathered together a great army of horſe, foot, elephants, and chariots, marched to invade Judea, being inſtigated thereto by Menelaus, with a view to his own obtaining it. Lyſias knew the character of the man ſo well, that he quickly ſaw through his diſſimulation, and ſo reported his former actions and behaviour to the king, who, to prevent his perpetrating any further miſchief, and as a juſt puniſhment of his former crimes, orders him to be carried to Berea, and let down from the top of a high tower into a heap of aſhes, and lie to periſh among them.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIV.

1 After three years, &c.) Three years afterwards, Judas received intelligence that Demetrius had recovered his kingdom, and ſlain Antiochus and his tutor Lyſias. Alcimus, who had been formerly high-prieſt, but depoſed for favouring and encouraging the idolatries of the heathen, in hopes of regaining the ſacredotal dignity, by a plauſible repreſentation of his caſe to Demetrius, goes to him, and, as an earneſt of his ſincere ſubmiſſion and loyal intentions, preſents the king with a crown of gold, a palm, and certain boughs which had been conſecrated to the uſe of the temple. Soon after, being called before the king and council, he was aſked ſome queſtions with regard to the diſpoſition and deſigns of the Jews.

2 Had

2 Had taken the country, and killed Antiochus, and Lyſias his protector.

3 Now one Alcimus, who had been high prieſt, and had defiled himſelf wilfully in the times of their mingling with the Gentiles, ſeeing that by no means he could ſave himſelf, nor have any more acceſs to the holy altar,

4 Came to king Demetrius in the hundred and one and fiftieth year, preſenting unto him a crown of gold, and a palm, and alſo of the bows which were uſed ſolemnly in the temple: and ſo that day he held his peace.

5 Howbeit, having gotten opportunity to further his fooliſh enterprize, and being called into council by Demetrius, and aſked how the Jews ſtood affected, and what they intended, he anſwered thereunto:

6 Thoſe of the Jews that be called Aſſideans, (whoſe captain is Judas Maccabeus,) nouriſh war, and are ſeditious, and will not let the realm be in peace:

7 Therefore I, being deprived of mine anceſtors' honour, (I mean the high prieſthood,) am now come hither:

8 Firſt, verily, for the unfeigned care I have of things pertaining to the king: and, ſecondly, even for that I intend the good of mine own countrymen: for all our nation is in no ſmall miſery, through the unadviſed dealing of them aforeſaid.

9 Wherefore, O king, ſeeing thou knoweſt all theſe things, be careful for the country, and our nation, which is preſſed on every ſide, according to the clemency that thou readily ſheweſt unto all.

10 For as long as Judas liveth, it is not poſſible that the ſtate ſhould be quiet.

11 This was no ſooner ſpoken of him, but others, of the king's friends, being maliciouſly ſet againſt Judas, did more incenſe Demetrius.

12 And forthwith, calling Nicanor, who had been maſter of the elephants, and making him governor over Judea, he ſent him forth,

13 Commanding him to ſlay Judas, and to ſcatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus high prieſt of the great temple.

14 Then the heathen, that had fled out of Judea from Judas, came to Nicanor by flocks, thinking the harm and calamities of the Jews to be their welfare.

15 Now when the Jews heard of Nicanor's coming, and that the heathen were up againſt them, they caſt earth upon their heads, and made ſupplication to him that had eſtabliſhed his people for ever, and who always helpeth his portion with manifeſtation of his preſence.

16 So, at the commandment of the captain, they removed ſtraightways from thence, and came near unto them at the town of Deſſau.

17 Now Simon, Judas' brother, had joined battle with Nicanor, but was ſomewhat diſcomfited through the ſudden ſilence of his enemies.

18 Nevertheleſs Nicanor, hearing of the manlineſs of them that were with Judas, and the courageouſneſs that they had to fight for their country, durſt not try the matter by the ſword.

19 Wherefore he ſent Poſidonius, and Theodotus, and Mattathias to make peace.

20 So when they had taken long adviſement thereupon, and the captain had made the multitude acquainted therewith, and it appeared that they were all of one mind, they conſented to the covenants,

21 And appointed a day to meet in together by themſelves; and when the day came, and ſtools were ſet for either of them,

22 Judas placed armed men ready in convenient places, leſt ſome treachery ſhould be ſuddenly practiſed by the enemies: ſo they made a peaceable conference.

23 Now Nicanor abode in Jeruſalem, and did no hurt, but ſent away the people that came flocking unto him.

24 And he would not willingly have Judas out of his ſight; for he loved the man from his heart.

25 He prayed him alſo to take a wife, and to beget children: ſo he married, was quiet, and took part of this life.

26 But Alcimus, perceiving the love that was betwixt them, and conſidering the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanor was not well affected towards the ſtate; for that he had ordained Judas, a traitor to his realm, to be the king's ſucceſſor.

27 Then the king being in a rage, and provoked with the accuſations of the moſt wicked man, wrote to Nicanor, ſignifying that he was much diſpleaſed with the covenants, and commanding him that he ſhould ſend Maccabeus priſoner in all haſte unto Antioch.

This he thought a fit opportunity for promoting his own buſineſs. His anſwer was therefore to this effect: That the Aſſidean Jews, of whom Judas Maccabeus was the ringleader, were ſeditious, turbulent, and promoters of civil diſcord: but by their means he had been deprived of his hereditary dignity of the prieſthood; and for the regard he had to the king's ſervice, and the good-will which he bore to his country, he was now an humble ſupplicant to his majeſty, beſeeching him to conſider, that while Judas was alive, the kingdom would never be in peace. This remonſtrance of Alcimus, being backed by ſeveral in the council, ſo incenſed the king, that immediately calling for Nicanor, who had been maſter of the elephants, he appoints him governor of Judea, and commands him to kill Judas, and advance Alcimus to the prieſthood.

The news of Nicanor's intended invaſion ſoon reached the Jews; who, firſt recommending themſelves by prayer and humiliation to the protection of God, ſet out, under the command of Simon, to meet the enemy, whom they engaged, but, by ſome ſtratagem of Nicanor's, were repulſed. Yet, notwithſtanding this ſmall advantage Nicanor had obtained over the Jews, he had ſuch proofs of the courage of Judas and his men, that he thought it much better to make peace with them, if it could be done upon any reaſonable terms, than to diſpute the matter at the point of the ſword. The place of congreſs was accordingly appointed, the parties met, and a peace was concluded: in conſequence of which, Nicanor went to Jeruſalem, reſiding there quietly, and in perfect friendſhip with Judas, whom he perſuaded to marry.

This harmony and good underſtanding, betwixt Judas and Nicanor, not in the leaſt correſponding with the ambitious views of Alcimus, he took another journey to Demetrius, before whom he villified Nicanor, accuſed him of treachery to the king, and affirmed that he had nominated Judas, a proſcribed traitor, to be his ſucceſſor on the throne. Theſe accuſations ſo ſenſibly touched Demetrius, that he immediately diſpatched letters to Nicanor, intimating his diſſatisfaction with the articles of peace concluded between him and Judas, whom he ordered to be ſent priſoner to Antioch. Nicanor was exceedingly vexed that he muſt be obliged to break the peace: but, conſidering that it was to no purpoſe to diſpute his maſter's will, he concerted meaſures for having it obeyed. Judas ſoon perceived an alteration in Nicanor's behaviour, which he judged prognoſticated no good to him; and therefore gathered together his friends and followers, and with them retired out of his reach. As ſoon as Nicanor found himſelf prevented in his deſign upon Judas, he went to the temple, ſuppoſing, no doubt, that he was hid there, and demanded him of the prieſts, who ſolemnly proteſted that they knew nothing of him. He, however, did not think fit to believe them; but ſwore that, unleſs they would deliver him up the man he demanded, he would utterly deſtroy the temple, and erect another to Bacchus in its ſtead. This threatening ſo terrified the Jews, that they directly had recourſe to prayer, beſeeching God to preſerve the place undefiled, which he had appointed for his reſidence among them. Nicanor, having now taken off the maſk, took all occaſions to oppreſs the Jews. An inſtance of his implacable malice is here recorded. One Razis, a man highly eſteemed by all the people for the love which he conſtantly bore his country, and therefore a proper object of Nicanor's reſentment, was accuſed to Nicanor. Razis endeavoured to ſecure himſelf in a tower; but finding it impoſſible to eſcape, fell upon his own ſword: when this not doing his buſineſs effectually, and unwilling to be at the mercy of his enemies, he threw himſelf off from the battlements, and yet not diſpatching himſelf, he ran to a high precipice, where, firſt tearing out his bowels, and throwing them in the face of his enemies, he leaped down and died.

28 When

28 When this came to Nicanor's hearing, he was much confounded in himſelf, and took it grievouſly that he ſhould make void the articles which were agreed upon, the man being in no fault.

29 But becauſe there was no dealing againſt the king, he watched his time to accompliſh this thing by policy.

30 Notwithſtanding, when Maccabeus ſaw that Nicanor began to be churliſh unto him, and that he entreated him more roughly than he was wont, perceiving that ſuch ſour behaviour came not of good, he gathered together not a few of his men, and withdrew himſelf from Nicanor.

31 But the other knowing that he was notably prevented by Judas' policy, came into the great and holy temple, and commanded the prieſts, that were offering their uſual ſacrifices, to deliver him the man.

32 And when they ſware that they could not tell where the man was whom he ſought,

33 He ſtretched out his right hand toward the temple, and made an oath in this manner: If ye will not deliver me Judas as a priſoner, I will lay this temple of God even with the ground, and I will break down the altar, and erect a notable temple unto Bacchus.

34 After theſe words he departed. Then the prieſts lifted up their hands towards heaven, and beſought him that was ever a defender of their nation, ſaying in this manner:

35 Thou, O Lord of all things, who haſt need of nothing, waſt pleaſed that the temple of thine habitation ſhould be among us:

36 Therefore now, O holy Lord of all holineſs, keep this houſe ever undefiled, which lately was cleanſed, and ſtop every unrighteous mouth.

37 Now was there accuſed unto Nicanor, one Razis, one of the elders of Jeruſalem, a lover of his countrymen, and a man of very good report, who, for his kindneſs, was called a father of the Jews.

38 For in the former times, when they mingled not themſelves with the Gentiles, he had been accuſed of Judaiſm, and did boldly jeopard his body and life with all vehemency for the religion of the Jews.

39 So Nicanor, willing to declare the hate that he bare unto the Jews, ſent above five hundred men of war to take him.

40 For he thought, by taking him, to do the Jews much hurt.

41 Now when the multitude would have taken the tower, and violently broken into the outer door, and bade that fire ſhould be brought to burn it, he, being ready to be taken on every ſide, fell upon his ſword;

42 Chooſing rather to die manfully, than to come into the hands of the wicked, to be abuſed otherwiſe than beſeemed his noble birth:

43 But miſſing his ſtroke through haſte, the multitude alſo ruſhing within the doors, he ran boldly up to the wall, and caſt himſelf down manfully among the thickeſt of them.

44 But they quickly giving back, and a ſpace being made, he fell down into the midſt of the void place.

45 Nevertheleſs, while there was yet breath within him, being inflamed with anger, he roſe up; and though his blood guſhed out like ſpouts of water, and his wounds were grievous, yet he ran through the midſt of the throng, and ſtanding upon a ſteep rock,

46 When as his blood was now quite gone, he plucked out his bowels, and taking them in both his hands, he caſt them upon the throng, and calling upon the Lord of life and ſpirit to reſtore him thoſe again, he thus died.

CHAP. XV.

5 Nicanor's blaſphemy. 11 Judas encourageth his men by his dream. 28 Nicanor is ſlain.

BUT Nicanor, hearing that Judas and his company were in the ſtrong places about Samaria, reſolved, without any danger, to ſet upon them on the ſabbath-day.

2 Nevertheleſs, the Jews that were compelled to go with him, ſaid, O deſtroy not ſo cruelly and barbarouſly, but give honour to that day, which he that ſeeth all things hath honoured with holineſs, above other days.

3 Then the moſt ungracious wretch demanded, if there were a Mighty One in heaven that had commanded the ſabbath-day to be kept.

4 And when they ſaid, There is in heaven a living Lord, and mighty, who commanded the ſeventh day to be kept:

5 Then ſaid the other, And I alſo am mighty upon earth, and I command to take arms, and to do the king's buſineſs: yet he obtained not to have his wicked will done.

6 So Nicanor, in exceeding pride and haughtineſs, determined to ſet up a publick monument of his victory over Judas and them that were with him.

7 But Maccabeus had ever ſure confidence that the Lord would help him:

8 Wherefore he exhorted his people not to fear the coming of the heathen againſt them, but to remember the help which in former times they had received from heaven, and now to expect the victory and aid which ſhould come unto them from the Almighty.

9 And ſo comforting them out of the law and the prophets, and withal putting them in mind of the battles that they won afore, he made them more cheerful.

10 And when he had ſtirred up their minds, he gave them their charge, ſhewing them therewithal the falſhood of the heathen, and the breach of oaths.

11 Thus he armed every one of them, not ſo much with defence of ſhields and ſpears, as with comfortable and good words: and beſides that, he told them a dream worthy to be believed, as if it had been ſo indeed, which did not a little rejoice them.

12 And this was his viſion, That Onias, who had

COMMENTARY on Chap. XV.

1 But Nicanor hearing that Judas and his company were in the ſtrong places, &c.) Nicanor at length getting intelligence that Judas was in poſſeſſion of the fortreſſes in Samaria, and perhaps not confiding much in his own forces, which conſiſted partly of Jews whom he had compelled into the ſervice, and partly of his own troops who had been often beat by the Jews, choſe rather to take a cowardly advantage of the piety of the Jews, and to ſet upon them on the ſabbath-day, when he imagined they would make no defence.—Againſt this impious deſign the Jews in his camp ſtrongly remonſtrated. But he blaſphemouſly anſwered, That though the God of heaven might ordain the keeping holy the ſabbath, yet that he himſelf had power ſufficient to cancel that duty, when it became inconſiſtent with the performance of the king's buſineſs; which he therefore commanded them to do without heſitation.

Nicanor became ſo elate with his imagined ſucceſs, and the victory which he did not doubt but he ſhould eaſily obtain, that he determined, in the pride of his ſoul, to perpetuate ſo glorious an action by erecting a public monument in memory of it. The conduct of Judas in this juncture was very different: he placed his confidence not in an arm of fleſh, in the ſtrength and bravery of his troops, but in the living God, who had often delivered him in the like emergencies. He read his ſoldiers a lecture out of the law and the prophets; recounted the noble exploits of their fathers, and the eminent deliverances they had received from God; told them of the perfidy of the heathens; and from ſuch kind of topics he encouraged them to fight the enemy, who had no ſuch helps. And, as a farther argument for inducing them to behave themſelves valiantly, he told them a dream, in which it was plainly intimated to him, that both they and he were under the Divine protection.

been high prieſt, a virtuous and a good man, reverend in converſation, gentle in condition, well ſpoken alſo, and exerciſed from a child in all points of virtue, holding up his hands, prayed for the whole body of the Jews.

13 This done, in like manner there appeared a man with grey hairs, and exceeding glorious, who was of a wonderful and excellent majeſty.

14 Then Onias anſwered, ſaying, This is a lover of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy city, to wit, Jeremias the prophet of God.

15 Whereupon Jeremias, holding forth his right hand, gave to Judas a ſword of gold, and in giving it ſpake thus,

16 Take this holy ſword, a gift from God, with the which thou ſhalt wound the adverſaries.

17 Thus being well comforted by the words of Judas, which were very good, and able to ſtir them up to valour, and to encourage the hearts of the young men, they determined not to pitch camp, but courageouſly to ſet upon them, and manfully to try the matter by conflict, becauſe the city, and the ſanctuary, and the temple, were in danger.

18 For the care that they took for their wives and their children, their brethren and kinſfolks, was in leaſt account with them: but the greateſt and principal fear was for the holy temple.

19 Alſo they that were in the city took not the leaſt care, being troubled for the conflict abroad.

20 And now, when as all looked what ſhould be the trial, and the enemies were already come near, and the army was ſet in array, and the beaſts conveniently placed, and the horſemen ſet in wings,

21 Maccabeus ſeeing the coming of the multitude, and the diverſe preparations of armour, and the fierceneſs of the beaſts, ſtretched out his hands toward heaven, and called upon the Lord that worketh wonders, knowing that victory cometh not by arms, but even as it ſeemeth good to him, he giveth it to ſuch as are worthy.

22 Therefore, in his prayer, he ſaid after this manner; O Lord, thou didſt ſend thine angel in the time of Ezekias king of Judea, and didſt ſlay in the hoſt of Sennacherib, an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand:

23 Wherefore now alſo, O Lord of heaven, ſend a good angel before us, for a fear and dread unto them;

24 And through the might of thine arm let thoſe be ſtricken with terror, that come againſt thy holy people to blaſpheme: and he ended thus.

25 Then Nicanor, and they that were with him, came forward with trumpets and ſongs.

26 But Judas and his company encountered the enemies with invocation and prayer.

27 So that, fighting with their hands, and praying unto God with their hearts, they ſlew no leſs than thirty and five thouſand men: for through the appearance of God they were greatly cheered.

28 Now when the battle was done, returning again with joy, they knew that Nicanor lay dead in his harneſs.

29 Then they made a great ſhout and a noiſe, praiſing the Almighty in their own language.

30 And Judas, who was ever the chief defender of the citizens, both in body and mind, and who continued his love towards his countrymen all his life, commanded to ſtrike off Nicanor's head and his hand, with his ſhoulder, and bring them to Jeruſalem.

31 So when he was there, and had called them of his nation together, and ſet the prieſts before the altar, he ſent for them that were of the tower;

32 And ſhewed them vile Nicanor's head, and the hand of that blaſphemer, which, with proud brags, he had ſtretched out againſt the holy temple of the Almighty.

33 And when he had cut out the tongue of that ungodly Nicanor, he commanded that they ſhould give it by pieces unto the fowls, and hang up the reward of his madneſs before the temple.

34 So every man praiſed toward the heaven the glorious Lord, ſaying, Bleſſed be he that hath kept his own place undefiled.

35 He hanged alſo Nicanor's head upon the tower, an evident and manifeſt ſign unto all of the help of the Lord.

36 And they ordained all with a common decree, in no caſe to let that day paſs without ſolemnity, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which in the Syrian tongue is called Adar, the day before Mardocheus' day.

37 Thus went it with Nicanor: and from that time forth the Hebrews had the city in their power. And here will I make an end.

38 And if I have done well, and as is fitting the ſtory, it is that which I deſired: but if ſlenderly and meanly, it is that which I could attain unto.

39 For as it is hurtful to drink wine or water alone; and as wine mingled with water is pleaſant, and delighteth the taſte: even ſo, ſpeech finely framed delighteth the ears of them that read the ſtory. And here ſhall be an end.

Judas' men were ſo ſurpriſingly encouraged by this harrangue, that they eagerly longed for the engagement. In the mean time Nicanor's army approached, ranged in order of battle; which Judas ſeeing, after a ſhort ejaculation to God for ſucceſs, he joined battle, ſlew thirty-five thouſand of the enemy, and obtained a complete victory. Among the ſlain they found the body of Nicanor, which occaſioned an univerſal joy among the people; and Judas, to ſhew his reſentment at the blaſphemies uttered by this impious man, ordered his head and right hand to be ſtruck off, and fixed on the tower in Jeruſalem, as a monument of the juſtice of God on ſo audacious an offender, and his tongue to be cut out, and given peace-meal to the fowls. And that the memory of ſo ſignal a victory might not be forgotten, an annual feſtival was inſtituted to be kept on the thirteenth day of the month Adar, which anſwers to our February. After this, the Jews enjoyed the quiet poſſeſſion of their city, religion, and liberties.

THE ARGUMENT.

St. Matthew wrote his goſpel in Judea, at the requeſt of thoſe he had converted. It is thought he began this work about the year forty-one, eight years after our Saviour's reſurrection. It was written, according to the unanimous teſtimony of the ancients, in the Hebrew or the Syriac language, then common in Judea. The Greek verſion of St. Matthew's goſpel, which is now conſidered as the original, is as old as the time of the apoſtles. The author of it is unknown: ſome aſcribe it to St. Matthew; ſome to St. James the Leſs; ſome to St. John the Evangeliſt; ſome to St. Paul; and others to St. Luke, or St. Barnabas. It was well known to all the apoſtles, who uſed it in the Greek churches, and therefore muſt be authentic.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

1 The book of the generation of Jeſus Chriſt, &c.) This genealogy is given in the line of Joſeph, becauſe Chriſt was born of the Virgin Mary in lawful wedlock with him; accordingly the Jews commonly accounted and called him Joſeph's ſon. And as it was a rule with them to reckon genealogies by the family of the father; ſo this account of Chriſt's pedigree, by Joſeph, from Abraham and David, was a ſufficient proof of his deſcent from them by his mother too, becauſe Joſeph and Mary really were of the ſame tribe and family, as appears by their going to the ſame city of David, viz. Bethlehem, to be taxed, Luke ii. 4, 5. And the genealogy in his mother's line is alſo given by the evangeliſt Luke, chap. iii.

But it would carry us beyond the nature and compaſs of our deſign to enter into all the particular difficulties which attend theſe ſeverally, and as compared with each other. The enemies of Chriſtianity have ſtarted and urged them; and many learned men have laboured with good ſucceſs in accounting for them. But if there were any that could not eaſily be removed, they rather affect the Jewiſh tables, than any point of our faith: For the evangeliſts herein only act the part of hiſtorians, ſetting down the genealogies as they ſtood in thoſe public and allowed records; and therefore they were to take them as they found them. Nor was it needful that they ſhould be inſpired to correct the miſtakes, if there were any; for theſe accounts ſufficiently anſwer the end for which they are recited, as they unqueſtionably prove the grand point in view, viz. That Chriſt is of the family from whence the promiſed ſeed was to ſpring: And they had more weight with the Jews for this purpoſe, than if any alterations had been made by inſpiration itſelf; for ſuch alterations would only have introduced endleſs diſputes between them and the diſciples of our Lord, to no advantage. It was therefore highly prudent in the ſacred writers, to avoid all fooliſh queſtions, and genealogies, &c. for they are unprofitable and vain, Tit. iii. 9: And for the like reaſons, it becomes us to avoid captious enquiries about them.

3 And Judas begat Phares and Zara of Thamar, &c.) It is remarkable that only four women are mentioned in this genealogy, and all of them branded in the ſacred hiſtory with a mark of infamy, namely, Thamar for inceſt; Rahab (or, as the name ſtands in our tranſlation, Rachab) for fornication; Ruth for heatheniſm; and Bathſheba for adultery. Perhaps the Holy Ghoſt deſigned to obviate the cavils of the Jews, who entertained low thoughts of Chriſt, becauſe he was born of ſo mean a mother. For they could not but ſee the abſurdity of ſuch a prejudice, when they conſider that their moſt illuſtrious heroes ſprung from women, whoſe actions rendered them infinitely meaner than the mother of our Lord, to whom her ſpotleſs character and unaffected piety were nobler ornaments than all the boaſted gifts of fortune.

14 And Azor begat Sadoc; and Sadoc begat Achim; and Achim begat Eliud;

15 And Eliud begat Eleazar; and Eleazar begat Matthan; and Matthan begat Jacob;

16 And Jacob begat Joſeph the huſband of Mary, of whom was born Jeſus, who is called Chriſt.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Chriſt are fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Jeſus Chriſt was on this wiſe: When as his mother Mary was eſpouſed to Joſeph, before they came together, ſhe was found with child of the Holy Ghoſt.

19 Then Joſeph her huſband, being a juſt man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away privily.

20 But while he thought on theſe things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, ſaying, Joſeph, thou ſon of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife; for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghoſt.

21 ¶ And ſhe ſhall bring forth a ſon, and thou ſhalt call his name JESUS; for he ſhall ſave his people from their ſins.

22 (Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken of the Lord by the prophet, ſaying, 23 ¶ Behold, a virgin ſhall be with child, and ſhall bring forth a ſon, and they ſhall call his name Emmanuel; which, being intepreted, is, God with us.)

24 Then Joſeph, being raiſed from ſleep, did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife;

25 And knew her not till ſhe had brought forth her firſt-born ſon: and he called his name JESUS.

CHAP. II.

1 The wiſe men coming to Chriſt, 11 worſhip him. 14 Joſeph fleeth into Egypt.

NOW when Jeſus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wiſe men from the eaſt to Jeruſalem,

2 Saying, Where is he that is born king of the Jews; for we have ſeen his ſtar in the eaſt, and are come to worſhip him.

3 When Herod the king had heard theſe things, he was troubled, and all Jeruſalem with him.

4 And when he had gathered all the chief prieſts and ſcribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Chriſt ſhould be born.

5 And they ſaid unto him, In Bethlehem of Judea: for thus it is written by the prophet,

6 And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the leaſt among the princes of Juda: for out of thee ſhall come a Governor, that ſhall rule my people Iſrael.

7 Then Herod, when he had privily called the wiſe men, enquired of them diligently what time the ſtar appeared.

8 And he ſent them to Bethlehem, and ſaid, Go, and ſearch diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worſhip him alſo.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the ſtar, which they ſaw in the eaſt, went before them, till it came and ſtood over where the young child was.

10 When they ſaw the ſtar, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 ¶ And when they were come into the houſe, they ſaw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worſhipped him; and when they had opened their treaſures, they preſented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincenſe, and myrrh.

12 And being warned of God in a dream that they ſhould not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

13 And when they were departed, behold, the angel of the Lord appeareth to Joſeph in a dream, ſaying, Ariſe, and take the young child and his mother, and flee

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David, &c.) Matthew, deſigning to ſhew that Jeſus was the Meſſiah, began his genealogy at Abraham, to whom the promiſe was originally made, that in his ſeed all the families of the earth ſhould be bleſſed. But the ſucceſſion of Chriſt's anceſtors, from Abraham downward, naturally reſolved itſelf into three claſſes: namely, firſt of private perſons, from Abraham to David; next of kings, from David to Jehoiakim; and then of private perſons again, from the Babyloniſh captivity, when an end was put to the regal dignity of our Lord's progenitors in the perſon of Jehoiakim, who, tho' he was born twenty-ſix years before the captivity, and really ſwayed the ſceptre of Judah, is properly enough reckoned among the private perſons, from the captivity to Chriſt, becauſe the Babylonians ſtript him of his dignity, and reduced him to the condition of a private man.

20 But while he thought on theſe things, &c.) We have here a remarkable inſtance of the care which the Almighty takes of good men, both in affording them protection, and keeping them from ſin. Joſeph, when he diſcovered the pregnancy of Mary, was incenſed, and meditated the diſſolution of the marriage, and at the ſame time reſolved to do it privately. But while he was muſing in his mind upon theſe things, a meſſenger from the court of heaven appeared to him in a dream, and ſaid, "Joſeph, baniſh from your mind all evil thoughts concerning Mary your wife; for ſhe is not only innocent of what you wrongfully ſuſpect of her, but is alſo choſen of God to be the inſtrument of an aſtoniſhing and miraculous work. For the child that is now conceived in her, is by the wonderful and immediate power of the Holy Ghoſt."

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

2 Saying, Where is he that is born king of the Jews?) They were probably perſuaded of this by a diving impreſſion upon their minds, and by the general expectation, at that time in their country, that ſuch a king was quickly to be born in Judea, who would be ruler over all the earth: and they came to pay him homage, either in a civil way, as a temporal prince; or rather in a religious way, as the Meſſiah, according to the notions they might have about him.

For we have ſeen his ſtar, &c.) Whatever luminous body this was, it had the appearance of a ſtar, and was formed and conducted by the divine power on this ſpecial occaſion.

4 And when he had gathered all the chief prieſts, &c.) The chief prieſts were not only the high prieſt, and the ſagan his deputy, but alſo the heads of the twenty-four ſacerdotal families, (1 Chron. xxiv. 6. and 2 Chron. xxxvi. 14.) and it is probable, that any prieſts were ſo called, who were members of the great ſanhedrim: and the ſcribes of the people were their rabbies or doctors that explained the law to them, (Ezra vii. 6—10. and Matt. vii. 29.) and perhaps ſuch of them as were members of the ſanhedrim, but were not of the ſacerdotal order, were called ſcribes of the people, in diſtinction from thoſe that were alſo prieſts.

8 That I may come and worſhip him alſo.) This profeſſion of reſpect was mere diſſimulation, Herod's intention, as it afterwards appeared, being to kill the infant king, who he imagined was to be a temporal prince, and to wreſt the ſceptre from him or his deſcendants; for he had no notion that the Meſſiah's empire was of a ſpiritual nature. But how very conſpicuous did the wiſdom and power of divine providence appear on this occaſion, in the preſervation of the infant Jeſus! Herod neither accompanied the Magi in perſon, nor, under pretence of doing honour to theſe learned ſtrangers, did he ſend a guard to eſcort them, with ſecret orders to deſtroy the child and his parents: inſtead of theſe precautions, he acted altogether careleſs in the affair, and quite contrary to his known character. Perhaps he imagined, that if he had gone in perſon, or ſent a guard, it might have alarmed the parents of the Meſſiah, and made them flee with their infant ſon into ſome diſtant region, where they would have been ſafe from his tyranny.

11 Gold, and frankincenſe, and myrrh.) The nature of theſe preſents inclines us to believe that the wiſe men came from Arabia, becauſe the queen of Sheba, who came from thence, made the like preſents to Solomon.

into

into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod will ſeek the young child to deſtroy him.

14 ¶ When he aroſe, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt,

15 And was there until the death of Herod; that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken of the Lord by the prophet, ſaying, Out of Egypt have I called my Son.

16 Then Herod, when he ſaw that he was mocked of the wiſe men, was exceeding wroth, and ſent forth, and ſlew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coaſts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently enquired of the wiſe men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by Jeremy the prophet, ſaying,

18 In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, becauſe they are not.

19 But when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeareth in a dream to Joſeph in Egypt,

20 Saying, Ariſe, and take the young child and his mother, and go into the land of Iſrael: for they are dead which ſought the young child's life.

21 And he aroſe, and took the young child and his mother, and came into the land of Iſrael.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judea, in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: notwithſtanding, being warned of God in a dream, he turned aſide into the parts of Galilee.

23 And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophets, He ſhall be called a Nazarene.

CHAP. III.

1 John preacheth. 4 His apparel, meat, and baptiſm. 7 He reprehendeth the Phariſees.

IN thoſe days came John the Baptiſt, preaching in the wilderneſs of Judea;

2 And ſaying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he that was ſpoken of by the prophet Eſaias, ſaying, The voice of one crying in the wilderneſs, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths ſtraight.

4 ¶ And the ſame John had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and his meat was locuſts and wild honey.

5 Then went out to him Jeruſalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan,

6 And were baptized of him in Jordan, confeſſing their ſins.

7 ¶ But when he ſaw many of the Phariſees and Sadducees come to his baptiſm, he ſaid unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth, therefore, fruits meet for repentance:

9 And think not to ſay within yourſelves, We have Abraham to our father: for I ſay unto you, That God is able of theſe ſtones to raiſe up children unto Abraham.

10 And now alſo the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

11 I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whoſe ſhoes I am not worthy to bear; he ſhall baptize you with the Holy Ghoſt, and with fire:

12 Whoſe fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner: but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

13 ¶ Then cometh Jeſus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

14 But John forbade him, ſaying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comeſt thou to me?

15 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaid unto him, Suffer it to be ſo now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteouſneſs. Then he ſuffered him.

16 And Jeſus, when he was baptized, went up ſtraightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he ſaw the Spirit of God deſcending like a dove, and lighting upon him:

17 And lo, a voice from heaven, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed.

CHAP. IV.

1 Chriſt faſteth, is tempted, and overcometh. 17 He beginneth to preach, and calleth ſome to be his diſciples.

THEN was Jeſus led up of the ſpirit into the wilderneſs, to be tempted of the devil.

2 And when he had faſted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungered.

---

18 Rachel weeping for her children, &c.) It is probable that this maſſacre of infants extended to the territories of Rama, which was in the tribe of Benjamin, (Joſh. xviii. 21—25.) and ſo cut off ſome of Rachel's poſterity.

22 Archelaus.) He was of a moſt cruel diſpoſition: in the beginning of his reign he cauſed 3000 Jews to be maſſacred in the temple. He was baniſhed into Gaul by Auguſtus for his cruelties.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

1 In thoſe days came John the Baptiſt, &c.) John the ſon of Zacharias, and forerunner of the bleſſed Jeſus, was a prieſt by deſcent, and a prophet by office. He was ſurnamed the Baptiſt, from his baptizing or waſhing the people; and was antiently foretold under the name of Elijah, becauſe he was to come in the ſpirit and power of that prophet. From his infancy he dwelt in the hill-country with his father, till the word of God, probably an audible voice from heaven, ſuch as the prophets of old heard, and which he knew to be that of Jehovah, by the majeſty thereof, came to him, and called him forth to prepare the Jews for the reception of the Meſſiah, according to what was propheſied of him.

4 His meat was locuſts and wild honey.) The Jews were permitted to eat locuſts, and if we may believe Pliny, they made a conſiderable part of the food of the Parthians and Ethiopians. Tho' ſome are of opinion that the Evangeliſt does not mean the inſect called the locuſt, but a vegetable production growing on a tree called the locuſt-tree. The wild honey was probably that depoſited by bees in the hollow trunks of trees; theſe inſects being very numerous in Paleſtine.

7 But when he ſaw many of the Phariſees and Sadducees, &c.) The Phariſees were a ſuperſtitious ſect among the Jews, that pretended to extraordinary holineſs; but placed the chief of their religion in ritual obſervances, and in zeal for the traditions of the elders: and the Sadducees were the free-thinkers of the age, that denied the reſurrection of the dead, and the exiſtence of angels, or human ſouls in a ſeparate ſtate; and ſo ſapped the foundation of all religion.

O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?) John ſeeing many of them come to hear his doctrine, and knowing their remarkable pride in valuing themſelves on their deſcent from Abraham, and their ſtrict obſervance of certain external rites of the law, ſeverely reproved them, calling them a perverſe and hypocritical generation of men, and telling them, that they muſt not think his baptiſm, or any other ceremonial performance, ſufficient for eſcaping the wrath and judgment of the Almighty.

16 And he ſaw the Spirit of God deſcending like a dove, &c.) Many have ſuppoſed that the Holy Ghoſt deſcended in the viſible ſhape of a dove: but others have thought the alluſion not to be to the ſhape, but to the hovering of a dove; and that, had it related to the ſhape or form, it ſhould not have been as a dove, but as of a dove, as the likeneſs of fire is expreſſed, (Acts ii. 3.) "There appeared cloven tongues as of fire."

17 This is my beloved Son, &c.) Mark and Luke report theſe words as directed to Chriſt himſelf, ſaying, Thou art my beloved Son, &c. and it ſeems as if this were the form of expreſſion uſed on this occaſion, in anſwer to Chriſt's prayer (Luke iii. 21.) But as it was likewiſe deſigned to give ſatisfaction to John, that he might bear witneſs of it, Matthew ſeems to report it as if it were ſaid of Chriſt, in John's hearing.

3 And when the tempter came to him, he ſaid, If thou be the Son of God, command that theſe ſtones be made bread.

4 But he anſwered and ſaid, It is written, Man ſhall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

5 Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, and ſetteth him on a pinnacle of the temple.

6 And ſaith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, caſt thyſelf down: for it is written, He ſhall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they ſhall bear thee up, leſt at any time thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone.

7 Jeſus ſaid unto him, It is written again, Thou ſhalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

8 Again the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and ſheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them;

9 And ſaith unto him, All theſe things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worſhip me.

10 Then ſaith Jeſus unto him, Get thee hence Satan; for it is written, Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve.

11 Then the devil leaveth him, and, behold, angels came and miniſtered unto him.

12 Now when Jeſus had heard that John was caſt into priſon, he departed into Galilee;

13 And leaving Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is upon the ſea-coaſt, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim:

14 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the prophet, ſaying,

15 The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim, by the way of the ſea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles;

16 The people which ſat in darkneſs ſaw great light; and to them which ſat in the region and ſhadow of death, light is ſprung up.

17 ¶ From that time Jeſus began to preach, and to ſay, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

18 And Jeſus, walking by the ſea of Galilee, ſaw two brethren, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, caſting a net into the ſea: for they were fiſhers.

19 And he ſaith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fiſhers of men.

20 And they ſtraightway left their nets, and followed him.

21 And going on from thence, he ſaw other two brethren, James the ſon of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ſhip with Zebedee their father, mending their nets: and he called them.

22 And they immediately left the ſhip and their father, and followed him.

23 And Jeſus went about all Galilee, teaching in their ſynagogues, and preaching the goſpel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of ſickneſs, and all manner of diſeaſe, among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all ſick people that were taken with divers diſeaſes and torments, and thoſe which were poſſeſſed with devils, and thoſe which were lunatick, and thoſe that had the palſy; and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes of people from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jeruſalem, and from Judea, and from beyond Jordan.

CHAP. V.

3 Who are bleſſed. 13 The apoſtles are the ſalt of the earth, and light of the world.

AND ſeeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain; and when he was ſet, his diſciples came unto him:

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

5 Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, &c.) It is too curious and frivolous to enquire whether our Lord went with Satan through the air, or upon the ground: but whichever it was, there is no occaſion to ſuppoſe that he ſo far put himſelf into the power of the devil, as to go to any place without his own conſent. Satan only led him, or took him along with him to Jeruſalem, as it is expreſſed, Luke iv. 9.

6 If thou be the Son of God, caſt thyſelf down, &c.) The Jews were undoubtedly right in thinking the Meſſiah is mentioned by Daniel, in the following paſſage, Behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, ſhould ſerve him. Dan. vii. 13, 14. But they fell into a groſs miſtake, when, interpreting this paſſage literally, they believed the Meſſiah would actually come in the clouds of heaven, and wreſt the ſceptre from the hands of the Romans. And the whole nation were ſo ſtrongly impreſſed with this notion, that they overlooked all the proofs of our Saviour's miſſion, and rejected him, becauſe he did not confirm it with this ſign. We know (ſaid they) this man whence he is; but when Chriſt cometh, no man knoweth whence he is. John vii. 27. For though the Jewiſh doctors taught that Chriſt was to be born in Bethlehem, he was to be immediately conveyed from thence, and concealed, 'till Elijah the Tiſhbite came down from heaven, and prepared the world for his reception; after which he was to be revealed in a miraculous manner. And as they expected that the Meſſiah would come in the clouds of heaven, ſo they thought his firſt appearance would be in the temple; becauſe it is ſaid, Behold, I will ſend my meſſenger, and he ſhall prepare the way before me, and the Lord whom ye ſeek ſhall ſuddenly come to his temple. Mal. iii. 1. If therefore we conſider this ſecond temptation in the light of a popular error, we ſhall find it of conſiderable ſtrength; for the meaning of the tempter was, Since thou art the Son of God, thou ſhouldeſt caſt thyſelf down from hence over the courts below, where the numerous worſhippers, ſeeing thee ſupported by angels, will immediately acknowledge thee as the Meſſiah coming in the clouds of heaven. Had not this been the devil's meaning, there was not the leaſt reaſon for carrying Jeſus to Jeruſalem, and ſetting him on the pinnacle of the temple. He might as well have bidden him caſt himſelf down from any precipace in the wilderneſs, or from the torret of any neighbouring town, where the interpoſition of the angels in his preſervation would have been a conſpicuous proof to him of his Meſſiahſhip, as in the city of Jeruſalem. It may indeed be objected, that the text cited does not by any means promiſe a viſible interpoſition of miniſtering ſpirits for the preſervation of the Meſſiah, as this ſenſe of the temptation ſeems to require. But the anſwer is, That there was nothing to hinder the father of lies from putting an artful gloſs upon a text of ſcripture, in order to deceive.

23 Synagogues.) Theſe were places where the Jews met to pray and hear the interpretation of the law and the prophets. It was uſual for the heads of the ſynagogue to deſire ſuch learned perſons as happened to be there, to make a diſcourſe to the people; and by virtue of this cuſtom it was that Chriſt and St. Paul were allowed to preach in their ſynagogues.

24 And they brought unto him—thoſe which were poſſeſſed with devils, &c.) It muſt be obſerved, that poſſeſſed with devils cannot mean only perſons afflicted with ſome ſtrange diſeaſe; for they are here, and in other places, evidently diſtinguiſhed from the diſeaſed: and Chriſt's ſpeaking on various occaſions to theſe evil ſpirits as diſtinct from the perſons poſſeſſed by them; his commanding them, and aſking them queſtions, and receiving anſwers from them, or not ſuffering them to ſpeak; and ſeveral circumſtances relating to the terrible preternatural effects they had upon the poſſeſſed, and to the manner of Chriſt's caſting them out, and particularly their aſking and obtaining leave to enter the herd of ſwine, and hurrying them headlong into the ſea; can never be accounted for by any diſtemper whatſoever. And whereas inſtances of ſuch poſſeſſions are not ſo commonly to be met with before or ſince the days of our Saviour on earth; it ſeems to have been ordered by a ſpecial providence, that they ſhould be ſuffered to be more frequent then, that he, who came to deſtroy the works of the devil, might the more remarkably and viſibly triumph over him; and that all the legions of hell might be put to the more open and diſmaying ſhame, at a time when their power was at its higheſt both in the ſouls and bodies of men; as alſo that plain facts might be a ſenſible confutation of the Sadducean error, which denied the exiſtence of angels or ſpirits, (Acts xxiii. 8.) and prevailed among the chief men of figure and learning in thoſe days.

2 And he opened his mouth, and taught them, ſaying,

3 ¶ Bleſſed are the poor in ſpirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Bleſſed are they that mourn: for they ſhall be comforted.

5 Bleſſed are the meek: for they ſhall inherit the earth.

6 Bleſſed are they which do hunger and thirſt after righteouſneſs: for they ſhall be filled.

7 Bleſſed are the merciful: for they ſhall obtain mercy.

8 Bleſſed are the pure in heart; for they ſhall ſee God.

9 Bleſſed are the peace-makers: for they ſhall be called the children of God.

10 Bleſſed are they which are perſecuted for righteouſneſs' ſake: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Bleſſed are ye when men ſhall revile you, and perſecute you, and ſhall ſay all manner of evil againſt you falſely for my ſake.

12 Rejoice and be exceeding glad; for great is your reward in heaven: for ſo perſecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 ¶ Ye are the ſalt of the earth: but if the ſalt have loſt his ſavour, wherewith ſhall it be ſalted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be caſt out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

14 Ye are the light of the world. A city that is ſet on an hill cannot be hid.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a buſhel, but on a candleſtick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the houſe.

16 Let your light ſo ſhine before men, that they may ſee your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

17 Think not that I am come to deſtroy the law or the prophets: I am not come to deſtroy, but to fulfil.

18 For verily I ſay unto you, Till heaven and earth paſs, one jot or one tittle ſhall in no wiſe paſs from the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 Whoſoever, therefore, ſhall break one of theſe leaſt commandments, and ſhall teach men ſo, he ſhall be called the leaſt in the kingdom of heaven: but whoſoever ſhall do and teach them, the ſame ſhall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I ſay unto you, That except your righteouſneſs ſhall exceed the righteouſneſs of the ſcribes and Phariſees, ye ſhall in no caſe enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 Ye have heard that it was ſaid by them of old time, Thou ſhalt not kill, and whoſoever ſhall kill, ſhall be in danger of the judgment:

22 But I ſay unto you, That whoſoever is angry with his brother without a cauſe, ſhall be in danger of the judgment: and whoſoever ſhall ſay to his brother, Raca, ſhall be in danger of the council: but whoſoever ſhall ſay, Thou fool, ſhall be in danger of hell fire.

23 Therefore, if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there remembereſt that thy brother hath ought againſt thee;

24 Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; firſt be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

25 Agree with thine adverſary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him: leſt at any time the adverſary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be caſt into priſon.

26 Verily I ſay unto thee, Thou ſhalt by no means come out thence till thou haſt paid the utmoſt farthing.

27 Ye have heard that it was ſaid by them of old time, Thou ſhalt not commit adultery:

28 But I ſay unto you, That whoſoever looketh on a woman to luſt after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

29 And if thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and caſt it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members ſhould periſh, and not that thy whole body ſhould be caſt into hell.

30 And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and caſt it from thee; for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members ſhould periſh, and not that thy whole body ſhould be caſt into hell.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

3 Bleſſed are the poor in ſpirit, &c.) The characters wherewith we ſee the bleſſings here connected, agree to himſelf in the firſt place; and they are not to be found in their perfection, but in him alone. "The poor in ſpirit;—that mourn;—the meek;—which hunger and thirſt after righteouſneſs;—the merciful;—the pure in heart;—the peace-makers;—which are perſecuted for righteouſneſs' ſake." And certainly no man ever fulfilled the law, in every jot and tittle, as it is here given, but he alone.

That great reward in heaven, which is here ſet before us, is no other than the reward of the obedience of the Son of God, made under the law, to fulfil it for us. It was by this that we could receive the adoption of ſons, and not by our own ſervice. It is only in his right that we can receive the reward of the inheritance, for he is the Son; and if he make us free, we ſhall be free indeed. And by this only can we ſinners look up to the holy God as our Father, aſk of the righteous Father the remiſſion of our ſins, truſt in him as our Father, and expect to find him our rewarder, as we are here called to do.

Thus the Son of God hath delivered us from the bondage of the law, without giving down any thing of its juſt demand: and in place of a yoke which we were not able to bear, he hath made it, as James calls it, the law of liberty to us.

17 Think not that I am come to deſtroy the law or the prophets, &c) The Lord Jeſus gives us the law here in the ſhape wherein he came to fulfil it, who is the end of the law for righteouſneſs to every one that believeth. He declares, that he came not to ſlacken the demand of the law, or to looſe the connection betwixt every ſin and the curſe of God, or to make the condition of life and term of acceptance with God leſs than a perfect obedience; but that he came to fulfil it. And truly this was the great errand upon which the Son of God came forth from the Father, and came into the world, to ſatisfy the demand of the law, and fulfil all righteouſneſs for ſinners. See Gal. iv. 4, 5. Heb. x. 5, 6, 7. and Pſal. xl. 8.

We ſee him profeſſing this great undertaking, to fulfil all righteouſneſs for his people, at John's baptiſm, and the Father then teſtifying his being well pleaſed in him; even as, when he had performed that undertaking, and finiſhed that work of righteouſneſs in his death, the Father demonſtrated himſelf well pleaſed in him, as having done his will, by raiſing him from the dead, and recompenſing his ſervice under the law with that ſame glorious heavenly reward that is ſet before us here in this ſermon on the mount.

28 Whoſoever looketh on a woman, &c.) In this paſſage our Lord makes looking on a woman to luſt after her, to be adultery. He ſpeaks to his diſciples as the phyſician of their ſouls, comparing the irregularity of their paſſions to a mortification in the members of the body. And he ſhews them, that as a mortified member muſt be cut off to ſave the life of the body, however loath we be to part with a bodily member; even ſo muſt we part with an unlawful paſſion to preſerve the life of the ſoul, and prevent the ſecond death. And he ſays the very ſame (Mat. xviii. 8. and Mark ix. 47.) with reſpect to that pride whereby we are ready to deſpiſe and offend his little ones. But this buſineſs of mortifying the deeds of the body through the Spirit is not finiſhed at once, is not the work of a day. It is the labour of a Chriſtian, in diſtinction from thoſe who live after the fleſh, as long as he fights the good fight of faith, and while the fleſh luſts againſt the ſpirit in him; that is, as long as he lives in the body. See Rom. vii. 21,—24. Gal. v. 16, 17. and 2 Cor. xii. 7, 8, 9. Our Lord here ſuppoſes the corruption of the paſſions in his diſciples: and he teaches them to look on every irregular motion of the paſſions in them, as bringing them into danger of hell fire; even as a gangrene in a bodily part threatens death to the whole body. And therefore they who regard theſe ſayings of his, muſt be afraid of indulging and gratifying theſe paſſions, as of hell fire: and they muſt daily ſee the neceſſity of repentance, and remiſſion of ſins through his blood; and the neceſſity of his grace and ſtrength, ſhewing itſelf perfect in weakneſs, to reſt upon them, and preſerve them from being overcome by their luſts continually warring againſt their ſouls.

31 It hath been ſaid, Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement:

32 But I ſay unto you, That whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, ſaving for the cauſe of fornication, cauſeth her to commit adultery; and whoſoever ſhall marry her that is divorced, committeth adultery.

33 Again, ye have heard that it hath been ſaid by them of old time, Thou ſhalt not forſwear thyſelf, but ſhalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths.

34 But I ſay unto you, Swear not at all: neither by heaven; for it is God's throne:

35 Nor by the earth; for it is his footſtool: neither by Jeruſalem; for it is the city of the great King.

36 Neither ſhalt thou ſwear by thy head, becauſe thou canſt not make one hair white or black.

37 But let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatſoever is more than theſe cometh of evil.

38 Ye have heard that it hath been ſaid, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.

39 But I ſay unto you, that ye reſiſt not evil; but whoſoever ſhall ſmite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other alſo.

40 And if any man will ſue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak alſo.

41 And whoſoever ſhall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 Give to him that aſketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 Ye have heard that it hath been ſaid, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy:

44 But I ſay unto you, Love your enemies, bleſs them that curſe you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which deſpitefully uſe you, and perſecute you:

45 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his ſun to riſe on the evil and on the good, and ſendeth rain on the juſt and on the unjuſt.

46 For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the ſame?

47 And if ye ſalute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans ſo?

48 Be ye, therefore, perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.

CHAP. VI.

1 Of alms, 5 prayer, 14 forgiveneſs, 19 our treaſure, 24 God and mammon.

TAKE heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be ſeen of them; otherwiſe ye have no reward of your Father which is in heaven.

2 Therefore, when thou doeſt thine alms, do not ſound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the ſynagogues, and in the ſtreets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I ſay unto you, They have their reward.

3 But when thou doeſt alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth;

4 That thine alms may be in ſecret: and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret, himſelf ſhall reward thee openly.

5 ¶ And when thou prayeſt, thou ſhalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray ſtanding in the ſynagogues, and in the corners of the ſtreets, that they may be ſeen of men. Verily I ſay unto you, they have their reward.

6 But thou, when thou prayeſt, enter into thy cloſet, and when thou haſt ſhut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in ſecret, and thy Father, which ſeeth in ſecret, ſhall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, uſe not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they ſhall be heard for their much ſpeaking.

8 Be not ye, therefore, like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of before ye aſk him.

9 After this manner, therefore, pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven; hallowed be thy name.

10 Thy kingdom come; thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven:

11 Give us this day our daily bread;

12 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors:

13 And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

14 ¶ For if ye forgive men their treſpaſſes, your heavenly Father will alſo forgive you:

15 But if ye forgive not men their treſpaſſes, neither will your Father forgive your treſpaſſes.

16 Moreover, when ye faſt, be not as the hypocrites, of a ſad countenance: for they diſfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to faſt. Verily I ſay unto you, They have their reward.

17 But thou, when thou faſteſt, anoint thine head, and waſh thy face:

18 That thou appear not unto men to faſt, but unto thy Father which is in ſecret: and thy Father, which ſeeth in ſecret, ſhall reward thee openly.

19 ¶ Lay not up for yourſelves treaſures upon earth, where moth and ruſt doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and ſteal:

20 But lay up for yourſelves treaſures in heaven, where neither moth nor ruſt doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor ſteal.

21 For where your treaſure is, there will your heart be alſo.

22 The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be ſingle, thy whole body ſhall be full of light.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VI.

1 Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, &c.) Be careful not to give your alms openly, out of oſtentation, to be ſeen and commended by men: for then this praiſe will be conſidered as a recompenſe, and you will have no reward in the kingdom of heaven.

11 Give us this day our daily bread.) Here he directs them to pray every day to their Father for the forgiveneſs of their ſins, even as for their daily bread, while he diſtinguiſhes them from the hypocrites and the heathen in their prayers. And with reſpect to this, he ſays, If ye forgive not men their treſpaſſes, neither will your Father forgive your treſpaſſes. As he ſuppoſes men treſpaſſing againſt them, he likewiſe ſuppoſes them, even when perſecuted by the world for righteouſneſs' ſake, and offended by their brethren, treſpaſſing againſt their Father, and needing forgiveneſs from him daily, as they daily need their bread. Now this is one of theſe ſayings of the Lord Jeſus, which his people, in diſtinction from others, muſt hear, and do, That they ſhould daily pray his Father and their Father for the forgiveneſs of their ſins, as they ſhould always forgive when they pray, if they have ought againſt any: and he ſuppoſes not any day to them, nor any time when they enter their cloſet to pray, wherein they have no treſpaſs to confeſs to their Father who ſeeth in ſecret, and diſcerns the thoughts and intents of the heart. If we conſider the law, as the ſtricteſt ſect of Jews held it, or as any ſort of men hold it when they accommodate it to their own ability, we might ſay they would not have ſins to confeſs, they would not have treſpaſſes to be daily forgiven: but in the ſhape wherein Jeſus Chriſt fulfilled it, and wherein he here gives it to his diſciples, requiring conformity to him, we cannot at any time ſay before the Father, when we pray to him, that we have now no ſin to be forgiven; for his apoſtle John ſays, If we ſay we have no ſin, we deceive ourſelves, and the truth is not in us. If we confeſs our ſins, he is faithful and juſt to forgive us our ſins, and to cleanſe us from all unrighteouſneſs.

17 Anoint thine head, and waſh thy face.) This was uſual among the Jews, not only at feaſts, but at other times.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body ſhall be full of darkneſs. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkneſs, how great is that darkneſs!

24 ¶ No man can ſerve two maſters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or elſe he will hold to the one, and deſpiſe the other. Ye cannot ſerve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I ſay unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye ſhall eat, or what ye ſhall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye ſhall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 Behold the fowls of the air; for they ſow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his ſtature?

28 And why take ye thought for raiment? conſider the lilies of the field how they grow: they toil not, neither do they ſpin;

29 And yet I ſay unto you, That even Solomon, in all his glory, was not arrayed like one of theſe.

30 Wherefore, if God ſo clothe the graſs of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is caſt into the oven, ſhall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, ſaying, What ſhall we eat? or, What ſhall we drink? or, Wherewithal ſhall we be clothed?

32 (For after all theſe things do the Gentiles ſeek;) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all theſe things.

33 But ſeek ye firſt the kingdom of God, and his righteouſneſs, and all theſe things ſhall be added unto you.

34 Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow ſhall take thought for the things of itſelf. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

CHAP. VII.

1 Chriſt ending his ſermon on the mount, reproveth raſh judgment, 7 exhorteth to prayer, &c.

JUDGE not, that ye be not judged.

2 For with what judgment ye judge, ye ſhall be judged: and with what meaſure ye mete, it ſhall be meaſured to you again.

3 And why beholdeſt thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but conſidereſt not the beam that is in thine own eye?

4 Or how wilt thou ſay to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye: and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

5 Thou hypocrite, firſt caſt out the beam out of thine own eye; and then ſhalt thou ſee clearly to caſt out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

6 Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither caſt ye your pearls before ſwine, leſt they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.

7 ¶ Aſk, and it ſhall be given you; ſeek, and ye ſhall find; knock, and it ſhall be opened unto you;

8 For every one that aſketh, receiveth; and he that ſeeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it ſhall be opened.

9 Or what man is there of you, whom if his ſon aſk bread, will he give him a ſtone?

10 Or if he aſk a fiſh, will he give him a ſerpent?

11 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more ſhall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that aſk him?

12 Therefore all things whatſoever ye would that men ſhould do to you, do ye even ſo to them; for this is the law and the prophets.

13 ¶ Enter ye in at the ſtrait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to deſtruction, and many there be which go in thereat:

14 Becauſe ſtrait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.

15 ¶ Beware of falſe prophets, which come to you in ſheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 Ye ſhall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thiſtles?

17 Even ſo every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit: neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

20 Wherefore by their fruits ye ſhall know them.

21 ¶ Not every one that ſaith unto me, Lord, Lord, ſhall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

22 Many will ſay to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not propheſied in thy name? and in thy name

---

34 Take therefore no thought for the morrow, &c.) Be not too eagerly concerned to make proviſion for theſe earthly things againſt the time to come: it is ſoon enough to take care for theſe things by a moderate induſtry, as they are wanted. Sufficient to the preſent time are the preſent troubles of life; and the Almighty would not have you increaſe them by an unreaſonable ſolicitude for the future.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

12 Therefore all things whatſoever ye would that men ſhould do to you, do ye even ſo to them, &c.) And if God deals thus with mankind, as to give them whatever they can reaſonably expect from a moſt kind and loving Father; then ought ye alſo to deal ſo with one another, that every one may be always willing to do to another, what he can reaſonably expect from him. This is that great rule which contains our whole duty towards our neighbour; this is the ſum of true religion, of righteouſneſs and equity; this is what nature and the reaſon of things teach; and this is what all God's revelations to mankind, in the law and the prophets, tend ultimately to eſtabliſh.

15 Beware of falſe prophets, &c.) There are indeed many who will pretend to conduct you in this way to happineſs; but take care that ye be not deceived by falſe pretenders. They will come to you with great ſhews of piety, and ſpecious appearances of humility and innocence; but their ſecret deſign will be to pervert you by falſe doctrines, to ſerve their luſts, and promote their own gain by robbing and devouring you.

16 Ye ſhall know them by their fruits, &c.) Ye ſhall know them from ſincere preachers of righteouſneſs, by the tendency of their doctrine, and by their words and actions; by their pride, or their covetouſneſs, their ſenſuality or contentiouſneſs: for as thorns cannot produce grapes, nor thiſtles figs, ſo the tenor of a man's doctrine, and the actions of his life, will diſcover themſelves to be ſuitable to the diſpoſition of his mind.

22, 23 Many will ſay to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not propheſied in thy name? &c.) Many will flatter themſelves with vain hopes; and, when their fears begin to riſe in the awful days of death and judgment, will betake themſelves to falſe refuges, and with horror and ſurprize will plead in an appeal to me, ſaying, Lord, have we not preached the goſpel under thy commiſſion? and have we not had even the faith of miracles to caſt out devils, and to do many other great and marvellous works in thy name? wilt thou not therefore now receive and own us for thy diſciples, and beſtow upon us the reward of eternal life which we expected? But I will reject all their vain pleas, as utterly inſufficient, ſaying in a judicial way to them, I all along knew you to be ſecret hypocrites, while ye were profeſſing and preaching in my name, and doing the miraculous works which I ordered to be wrought by your hands, not for your own ſakes, but for the confirmation of my goſpel and the good of others; and therefore I never eſteemed or approved of you as my true diſciples and ſervants; nor will I now own or accept you as ſuch: I now baniſh you from my bleſſed and glorious preſence, to everlaſting miſery and deſpair, O all ye wilful tranſgreſſors.

have caſt out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?

23 And then will I profeſs unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

24 Therefore, whoſoever heareth theſe ſayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wiſe man, which built his houſe upon a rock:

25 And the rain deſcended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that houſe; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth theſe ſayings of mine, and doeth them not, ſhall be likened unto a fooliſh man, which built his houſe upon the ſand:

27 And the rain deſcended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that houſe; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to paſs, when Jeſus had ended theſe ſayings, that the people were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine;

29 For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the ſcribes.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Chriſt cleanſeth the leper, 5 healeth the centurion's ſervant, 23 ſtilleth the tempeſt, 28 driveth devils out of two men poſſeſſed.

WHEN he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2 ¶ And behold, there came a leper, and worſhipped him, ſaying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean.

3 And Jeſus put forth his hand, and touched him, ſaying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately his leproſy was cleanſed.

4 And Jeſus ſaith unto him, See thou tell no man: but go thy way, ſhew thyſelf to the prieſt, and offer the gift that Moſes commanded, for a teſtimony unto them.

5 ¶ And when Jeſus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beſeeching him,

6 And ſaying, Lord, my ſervant lieth at home ſick of the palſy, grievouſly tormented.

7 And Jeſus ſaith unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 The centurion anſwered, and ſaid, Lord, I am not worthy that thou ſhouldeſt come under my roof; but ſpeak the word only, and my ſervant ſhall be healed.

9 For I am a man under authority, having ſoldiers under me: and I ſay to this man, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my ſervant, Do this, and he doeth it.

10 When Jeſus heard it, he marvelled, and ſaid to them that followed, Verily I ſay unto you, I have not found ſo great faith, no, not in Iſrael.

11 And I ſay unto you, That many ſhall come from the eaſt and weſt, and ſhall ſit down with Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven:

12 But the children of the kingdom ſhall be caſt out into outer darkneſs: there ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth.

13 And Jeſus ſaid unto the centurion, Go thy way: and as thou haſt believed, ſo be it done unto thee. And his ſervant was healed in the ſelf-ſame hour.

14 And when Jeſus was come into Peter's houſe, he ſaw his wife's mother laid, and ſick of a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her; and ſhe aroſe, and miniſtered unto them.

16 When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were poſſeſſed with devils: and he caſt out the ſpirits with his word, and healed all that were ſick;

17 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the prophet, ſaying, Himſelf took our infirmities, and bare our ſickneſſes.

18 Now when Jeſus ſaw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other ſide.

19 And a certain ſcribe came, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, I will follow thee whitherſoever thou goeſt.

20 And Jeſus ſaith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have neſts: but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

21 And another of his diſciples ſaid unto him, Lord, ſuffer me firſt to go and bury my father.

22 But Jeſus ſaid unto him, Follow me, and let the dead bury their dead.

23 ¶ And when he was entered into a ſhip, his diſciples followed him.

24 And behold, there aroſe a great tempeſt in the ſea,

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

5 There came unto him a centurion.) It appears from Luke vii. that the centurion in his great humility thought himſelf unworthy to come to Chriſt; and therefore did not at firſt come himſelf, but ſent others whom he looked upon to be more worthy; and as theſe were his proxies, and ſpake the words he ordered them, ſome ſuppoſe that they, according to the language of the Jews, were reputed as the man himſelf, and he was ſaid to do that which he did by them: but it ſeems probable that at laſt, as Chriſt drew nearer, the centurion himſelf came and ſpake in this manner to him.

11 Many ſhall come from the eaſt and weſt, &c.) This was the firſt occaſion that Chriſt took to ſpeak of the calling of the Gentiles, and the rejection of the Jews. It is to be obſerved here, that the unbelieving Jews are called the children of the kingdom, becauſe born within the pale of the viſible church; they preſumed that the kingdom of heaven was entailed upon them, becauſe they were Abraham's ſeed; they boaſted of and gloried in their external and outward privileges. From thence we may note, 1. That goſpel-ordinances, and church-privileges enjoyed, are a ſpecial honour to a people admitted to the participation of them: our Saviour here ſtyles the Jews, upon that account, the children of the kingdom. 2. That ſuch privileges enjoyed, but not improved, do provoke Almighty God to inflict the heavieſt of judgments upon a people.

12 The children of the kingdom ſhall be caſt out into outer darkneſs, &c.) While the Jews, to whom the promiſes did originally belong, exclude themſelves from the true church of God here, and ſhall hereafter be thruſt out of the kingdom of heaven into darkneſs which is without, where ſhall be fruitleſs repentance and endleſs woe. Our bleſſed Saviour here beautifully deſcribes the grief, the fruitleſs repentance, and endleſs woe of wicked men, on their excluſion from heaven, by the behaviour of perſons excluded from the marriage-feaſt, which they came in full expectation of partaking of. They weep and gnaſh their teeth through vexation and rage. And as all the Jews made their grand entertainments in the evening, with candle-light, the darkneſs into which the diſgraced perſons were thruſt, fitly repreſents the ſadneſs of the damned, under ſentence of eternal baniſhment from the bliſsful preſence of God; a ſadneſs which can neither be expreſſed in words, nor conceived in thought.

16 When the even was come, &c.) The Jews' ſabbath was from the evening or ſun-ſetting of the day before, to the evening or ſun-ſetting of that day, Lev. xxiii. 32. And as the Phariſees objected againſt, and they themſelves ſcrupled carrying about their ſick on the ſabbath-day; ſo as ſoon as the evening or ſun-ſetting had put an end to it, they brought their diſeaſed to Chriſt to be healed.

17 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the prophet, &c.) That Iſaiah's prophecy of the Meſſiah, ſaying, (chap. liii. 4.) He has borne our griefs and carried our ſorrows, might be fulfilled in him, not only by his bearing our ſins in his own body on the tree, (1 Pet. ii. 24.) and ſo ſuffering for them in our room and ſtead; but likewiſe by his ſympathizing with us under our ſorrows, and healing us of thoſe diſeaſes that were the fruit of ſin, and ſo taking it away, with all its dreadful conſequences.

20 The Son of man hath not where to lay his head.) As our bleſſed Lord had been before much fatigued by his preaching, and by the crowds of people that came to him to be healed, he may be ſuppoſed to have referred in general to his mean circumſtances, and in particular to his being tired, and wanting to lie down to ſleep, when he ſpake of having no place to lay his head; accordingly, as ſoon as he went into the ſhip, he lay down with his head on a pillow, and fell aſleep, ver. 24. compared with Mark iv. 38.

inſomuch that the ſhip was covered with the waves: but he was aſleep.

25 And his diſciples came to him, and awoke him, ſaying, Lord, ſave us; we periſh.

26 And he ſaith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he aroſe, and rebuked the winds and the ſea; and there was a great calm.

27 But the men marvelled, ſaying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the ſea obey him!

28 ¶ And when he was come to the other ſide, into the country of the Gergeſenes, there met him two poſſeſſed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, ſo that no man might paſs by that way.

29 And behold, they cried out, ſaying, What have we to do with thee, Jeſus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 And there was a good way off from them an herd of many ſwine feeding.

31 So the devils beſought him, ſaying, If thou caſt us out, ſuffer us to go away into the herd of ſwine.

32 And he ſaid unto them, Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of ſwine: and behold, the whole herd of ſwine ran violently down a ſteep place into the ſea, and periſhed in the waters.

33 And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing; and what was befallen to the poſſeſſed of the devils:

34 And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jeſus: and when they ſaw him, they beſought him that he would depart out of their coaſts.

CHAP. IX.

1 Chriſt cureth the palſy, 9 calleth Matthew, 10 eateth with publicans and ſinners.

AND he entered into a ſhip, and paſſed over, and came into his own city.

2 ¶ And behold, they brought to him a man ſick of the palſy, lying on a bed: and Jeſus, ſeeing their faith, ſaid unto the ſick of the palſy, Son, be of good cheer; thy ſins be forgiven thee.

3 And behold, certain of the ſcribes ſaid within themſelves, This man blaſphemeth.

4 And Jeſus, knowing their thoughts, ſaid, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

5 For whether is eaſier to ſay, Thy ſins be forgiven thee? or to ſay, Ariſe, and walk?

6 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive ſins, (then ſaith he to the ſick of the palſy) Ariſe, take up thy bed, and go unto thine houſe.

7 And he aroſe, and departed to his houſe.

8 But when the multitude ſaw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given ſuch power unto men.

9 ¶ And as Jeſus paſſed forth from thence, he ſaw a man named Matthew, ſitting at the receipt of cuſtom; and he ſaith unto him, Follow me. And he aroſe, and followed him.

10 ¶ And it came to paſs, as Jeſus ſat at meat in the houſe, behold, many publicans and ſinners came and ſat down with him and his diſciples.

11 And when the Phariſees ſaw it, they ſaid unto his diſciples, Why eateth your maſter with publicans and ſinners?

12 But when Jeſus heard that, he ſaid unto them, They that be whole need not a phyſician, but they that are ſick.

13 But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not ſacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but ſinners to repentance.

14 Then came to him the diſciples of John, ſaying, Why do we and the Phariſees faſt oft, but thy diſciples faſt not?

15 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Can the children of the bride-chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come when the bridegroom ſhall be taken from them, and then ſhall they faſt.

16 No man putteth a piece of new cloth unto an old garment: for that which is put in to fill it up, taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worſe.

17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: elſe the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles periſh; but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preſerved.

18 While he ſpake theſe things unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worſhipped him, ſaying,

---

28 There met him two poſſeſſed with devils, coming out of the tombs.) The tombs in thoſe days were uſually in deſart places diſtant from towns; and were often made in the ſides of caves and dens in the rocks and mountains.

32 And when they were come out, they went into the herd of ſwine, &c.) Our Lord here gave an opportunity for the moſt ſenſible proof that could be, againſt the Sadducees, of the exiſtence of evil ſpirits; as alſo of their formidable power over animals as well as men, and of his own ſuperior, abſolute, and uncontroulable authority over them: and if the ſwine were kept by the Jews, their deſtruction by the devils was a righteous rebuke upon them, perhaps for eating ſwine's fleſh directly contrary to God's law; or at leaſt for bordering upon the breach of that law, by putting themſelves into the way of temptation to tranſgreſs it, and that in contradiction to their own conſtitutions after the days of Antiochus, which ſeverely forbad ſo much as their keeping ſwine. Or if they were kept by the Gentiles, who were worſhippers of devils, it carried ſtrong conviction to them of their folly and madneſs in worſhipping ſuch impure and miſchievous ſpirits, who, had Chriſt permitted them, would as willingly have deſtroyed them as their ſwine. But whoever were their owners, Chriſt hereby put them on a trial whether they had more regard to them than him.

Commentary on Chap. IX.

2 Son, be of good cheer: thy ſins be forgiven thee.) As on occaſion of Chriſt's healing diſeaſes, (chap. viii. 17.) of pardoning grace through him, that the propheey of Iſaiah might be fulfilled, ſaying, Himſelf took our infirmities, and bare our ſickneſſes; ſo here he more openly aſſerted his power to forgive ſins, as well as to take away their penal effects: and this is evidently to be underſtood of a proper forgiveneſs by his own authority; for it is diſtinguiſhed from his healing the palſy, and is ſaying more than any of the apoſtles ever pretended to in their miraculous cures, which they never called their forgiving of ſins: and had Chriſt only pronounced that God had forgiven this man, the ſcribes could have had no pretence to accuſe him of blaſphemy.

13 I will have mercy, and not ſacrifice, &c.) That we may know what the text meaneth, we muſt conſider, that this obedience that is better than the legal ſacrifices, this one offering that pleaſes God, who could not be pleaſed in all theſe, is wholly a work of mercy. For as the Father's mercy to ſinners is manifeſted in ſending him into the world, and giving him to be the propitiation for our ſins, to declare his juſtice in the forgiveneſs of ſin; ſo when he came to do this will of the Father, all that he did, and all that he ſuffered was in mercy to ſinners, whom he redeemed from the curſe of the law, being made a curſe for them, and for whom he poured out his ſoul to death, making interceſſion for the tranſgreſſors, bearing their ſins in his own body on the tree, and becoming a ſin-offering for them, that they might be made the righteouſneſs of God in him. This is the grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, well known by every Chriſtian, that though he was rich, yet for our ſakes he became poor, that we through his poverty might be rich, i. e. though he knew no ſin, yet he became ſin for us, that we might be made the righteouſneſs of God in him, 2 Cor. viii. 9. and v. 21. And by this grace or mercy of the Lord Jeſus, the apoſtle would have Chriſtians moved to the good works of mercy. Now this doing the will of God, this wonderful work of mercy, is more acceptable to God than all the burnt-offerings and ſacrifices of the law, as appears manifeſtly by his rewarding it with a moſt glorious eternal life from the dead, ſuitable to the dignity of the perſon who did that pleaſing work, and by his ſetting aſide all thoſe ſacrifices when this work of mercy was finiſhed.

18 There came a certain ruler, &c.) There were, at leaſt ſometimes, ſeveral rulers of one ſynagogue, as in this at Capernaum, Mark v. 22. in that at Antioch, Acts xiii. 15. and in that at Corinth, chap. xviii. 8, 17. And yet there ſeems to have been but one, who was, by way of eminence, the ruler or preſident, Luke xiii. 14.

My daughter is even now dead; but come and lay thy hand upon her, and ſhe ſhall live.

19 And Jeſus aroſe, and followed him, and ſo did his diſciples.

20 And behold, a woman, which was diſeaſed with an iſſue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment;

21 For ſhe ſaid within herſelf, If I may but touch his garment, I ſhall be whole.

22 But Jeſus turned him about, and when he ſaw her, he ſaid, Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

23 And when Jeſus came into the ruler's houſe, and ſaw the minſtrels and the people making a noiſe,

24 He ſaid unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but ſleepeth. And they laughed him to ſcorn.

25 But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid aroſe.

26 And the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

27 And when Jeſus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and ſaying, Thou ſon of David, have mercy on us.

28 And when he was come into the houſe, the blind men came to him: and Jeſus ſaith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, ſaying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened: and Jeſus ſtraitly charged them, ſaying, See that no man know it.

31 But they, when they were departed, ſpread abroad his fame in all that country.

32 As they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man poſſeſſed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was caſt out, the dumb ſpake; and the multitudes marvelled, ſaying, It was never ſo ſeen in Iſrael.

34 But the Phariſees ſaid, He caſteth out the devils through the prince of the devils.

35 And Jeſus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their ſynagogues, and preaching the goſpel of the kingdom, and healing every ſickneſs, and every diſeaſe among the people.

36 But when he ſaw the multitudes, he was moved with compaſſion on them, becauſe they fainted, and were ſcattered abroad, as ſheep having no ſhepherd.

37 Then ſaith he unto his diſciples, The harveſt truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few:

38 Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harveſt, that he will ſend forth labourers into his harveſt.

CHAP. X.

1 The apoſtles are ſent to do miracles, 5 and to preach.

AND when he had called unto him his twelve diſciples, he gave them power againſt unclean ſpirits, to caſt them out, and to heal all manner of ſickneſs, and all manner of diſeaſes.

2 Now the names of the twelve apoſtles are theſe: the firſt, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the ſon of Zebedee and John his brother;

3 Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the publican; James the ſon of Alpheus and Lebbeus, whoſe ſurname was Thaddeus;

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iſcariot, who alſo betrayed him.

38 Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harveſt, &c.) The Lord of the harveſt may be fitly underſtood to mean Chriſt himſelf, who, we find in the beginning of the next chapter, ſent out labourers into his harveſt.

COMMENTARY on Chap. X.

2, 3, 4 Now the names of the twelve apoſtles are theſe, &c.) In the catalogue of the apoſtles, Simon and Andrew, the ſons of Jonas, are named firſt, not becauſe they were greater in dignity than their brethren of the apoſtolical college, but becauſe they firſt became Chriſt's diſciples. This, with reſpect to Andrew, is plain, from John i. 40. 41. And as for Peter, it is probable he was the ſecond diſciple, notwithſtanding it was another perſon who accompanied Andrew when he firſt came to Jeſus. That perſon is ſuppoſed to have been John the ſon of Zebedee, and author of the goſpel, becauſe he is mentioned in the manner that St. John uſually ſpeaks of himſelf. But whoever he was, it does not by any means follow, that, becauſe Andrew was convinced, his companion was convinced alſo. The foundation of his faith might be laid at that meeting, though he did not acknowledge Chriſt 'till afterwards. Now as one of the apoſtles muſt have been placed firſt in the catalogue, the earlineſs of Peter's faith might be the reaſon for conferring that honour upon him. But he takes place even of his brother Andrew, who was converted before him, perhaps becauſe decency required it, being (as is generally believed) the elder brother. In like manner James, the ſon of Zebedee, being older than John his brother, is mentioned before him, though it is probable he was the younger diſciple. But whatever was the reaſon for thus ranking the apoſtles in the catalogue, we are certain they are not placed according to their dignity; for, had that been the caſe, the order of the names would not have been different in different evangeliſts; neither would the apoſtle St. Paul, in mentioning the pillars of the church (Gal. ii. 9.) have placed St. James the Leſs before St. Peter.

In this catalogue Simon, the brother of Andrew, is diſtinguiſhed from the other Simon by the ſurname of Peter, which had been conferred on him when he firſt came to Jeſus at Jordan; though the reaſon of the name was not aſſigned 'till long after. Simon and Andrew were originally fiſhermen, and inhabitants of Bethſaida, a town ſituated on the north ſhore of the lake Gennezareth. But after Peter's marriage, he and his brother ſettled in Capernaum, which ſtood at the influx of the Jordan. Before their acquaintance with Chriſt, they were diſciples of John the Baptiſt, who pointed him out to them as the Meſſiah. Andrew has left no writings, for which reaſon we are at a loſs to judge of his ſpirit and endowments; but Peter was the author of the two epiſtles that bear his name.

James and John, the ſons of Zebedee, were alſo fiſhermen; they dwelt in Capernaum, and ſeem to have been rather in better circumſtances than Peter and Andrew; for the goſpel mentions their having hired ſervants to aſſiſt them in their buſineſs. John is thought to have been the youngeſt of all the apoſtles; yet he was old enough to have been a follower of the Baptiſt before he came to Chriſt. On this or ſome other occaſion, James and John, the ſons of Zebedee, obtained the name of Boanerges, ſons of thunder, perhaps becauſe of the vehemence and impetuoſity of their tempers. Accordingly their ſpirit ſhewed itſelf in the deſire which they expreſſed to have the Samaritans deſtroyed by fire from heaven, becauſe they refuſed to entertain Jeſus in his road to Jeruſalem. It alſo appeared in their ambition to become the great officers of ſtate in their maſter's kingdom, which they then ſuppoſed to be a ſecular one. Beſides, the writings of St. John abundantly ſhew that he was a perſon of a warm and affectionate turn of mind. The warmth of his temper remarkably adapted him to friendſhip, in which he was not only amiable above all the diſciples, but happy, as it rendered him the object of his maſter's peculiar love; a love that will do him honour to the end of the world. As to James, his being put to death by Herod, is a ſufficient indication that his zeal was uncommon; and that it moved him to be more active and bold than the reſt of the apoſtles in the work of the goſpel. Had it been otherwiſe, he would not have become the object of Herod's reſentment. Some indeed are of opinion that the epithet, ſons of thunder, was not expreſſive of the diſpoſition of the two brothers, but of the force and ſucceſs with which they were to preach the goſpel. But if this was the only reaſon for the ſurname, it was equally applicable to all the apoſtles.

Philip is ſaid to have been a native of Bethſaida, the town of Andrew and Peter. He was originally a diſciple of the Baptiſt, but left him to follow Jeſus, as ſoon as he became acquainted with him at Jordan.—Bartholomew is ſuppoſed to have been the diſciple called Nathaniel, whoſe converſion is related, John i. 44. The ancients tell us he was a native of Cana, and well ſkilled in the law of Moſes.—Matthew was a rich publican of Capernaum. He was otherwiſe called Levi, and left a lucrative employment for the ſake of his Saviour. He wrote the goſpel aſcribed to him, and was the ſon of Alpheus, of whom we know nothing but the name. We have no account of Thomas before his converſion. But it is conjectured that, like the reſt, he was of mean extraction; and be-

5 ¶ Theſe twelve Jeſus ſent forth, and commanded them, ſaying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But go rather to the loſt ſheep of the houſe of Iſrael.

7 And, as ye go, preach, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

8 Heal the ſick, cleanſe the lepers, raiſe the dead, caſt out devils: freely ye have received, freely give.

9 Provide neither gold, nor ſilver, nor braſs, in your purſes;

10 Nor ſcrip for your journey, neither two coats, neither ſhoes, nor yet ſtaves: for the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into whatſoever city or town ye ſhall enter, enquire who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an houſe, ſalute it.

13 And if the houſe be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 And whoſoever ſhall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that houſe or city, ſhake off the duſt of your feet.

15 Verily I ſay unto you, It ſhall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah, in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 Behold, I ſend you forth as ſheep in the midſt of wolves: be ye, therefore, wiſe as ſerpents, and harmleſs as doves.

17 But beware of men; for they will deliver you up to the councils, and they will ſcourge you in their ſynagogues:

18 And ye ſhall be brought before governors and kings for my ſake, for a teſtimony againſt them and the Gentiles.

19 But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye ſhall ſpeak; for it ſhall be given you in that ſame hour what ye ſhall ſpeak.

20 For it is not ye that ſpeak, but the Spirit of your Father which ſpeaketh in you.

21 And the brother ſhall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the child: and the children ſhall riſe up againſt their parents, and cauſe them to be put to death.

22 And ye ſhall be hated of all men for my name's ſake; but he that endureth to the end ſhall be ſaved.

23 But when they perſecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I ſay unto you, Ye ſhall not have gone over the cities of Iſrael till the Son of man be come.

24 The diſciple is not above his maſter, nor the ſervant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the diſciple that he be as his maſter, and the ſervant as his lord. If they have called the maſter of the houſe Beelzebub, how much more ſhall they call them of his houſehold?

26 Fear them not, therefore: for there is nothing covered, that ſhall not be revealed; and hid, that ſhall not be known.

27 What I tell you in darkneſs, that ſpeak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the houſe-tops.

28 And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the ſoul: but rather fear him which is able to deſtroy both ſoul and body in hell.

29 Are not two ſparrows ſold for a farthing? and one of them ſhall not fall on the ground without your Father.

30 But the very hairs of your head are all numbered.

31 Fear ye not, therefore, ye are of more value than many ſparrows.

32 Whoſoever, therefore, ſhall confeſs me before men, him will I confeſs alſo before my Father which is in heaven.

33 But whoſoever ſhall deny me before men, him will I alſo deny before my Father which is in heaven.

cauſe he is mentioned (John xxi. 2, 3.) among thoſe who went a fiſhing, it is ſuppoſed that he was a fiſherman by occupation. He obtained the ſurname of Dydimus, probably becauſe he was a twin, and rendered himſelf remarkable by continuing longer than his brethren to doubt of his maſter's reſurrection.

In the college of apoſtles, beſides James the ſon of Zebedee, and brother of John, Judas Iſcariot who betrayed his maſter, and Simon ſurnamed Peter, we find (Mark xv. 40.) James ſurnamed the Leſs or Younger, to diſtinguiſh him from the other James the ſon of Zebedee, who was older than he: St. Mark alſo mentions Judas ſurnamed Thaddeus, and Simon Zelotes. James the Leſs, Thaddeus, and Simon Zelotes, were brothers, and ſons of one Alpheus or Cleophas, who was likewiſe a diſciple, being one of the two perſons to whom our Lord appeared on the road to Emmaus, after his reſurrection. They are called Chriſt's brethren; that is, his couſins, in which ſenſe the word is often uſed in ſcripture. It ſeems their mother Mary was ſiſter to our Lord's mother; for it was no unuſual thing among the Jews to have more children than one called by the ſame name. The three apoſtles therefore, who go by the name of our Lord's brethren, were really his couſin-germans.—James the Leſs, and Judas Thaddeus, or Jude, wrote the epiſtles that bear their names. This James was a perſon of great authority among the apoſtles; for in the council which met at Jeruſalem, to decide the diſpute concerning circumciſion, we find him ſitting as preſident, ſumming up the debate, and wording the decree.

11 And into whatſoever city or town ye ſhall enter, enquire who in it is worthy, &c.) Anciently they had no houſes of entertainment for the accommodation of travellers, as we have at preſent, but only houſes for lodging them, called by the moderns, caravanſaras, into which travellers brought their own proviſions, and accommodated themſelves in the beſt manner they could. But it was common for perſons of humane diſpoſitions, ſuch as our Lord here calls worthy perſons, to entertain ſtrangers according to their ability.

16 Behold, I ſend you forth as ſheep in the midſt of wolves, &c.) Behold, I ſend you forth weak and defenceleſs, among a cruel and wicked people. Be ye therefore wiſe and prudent, but at the ſame time take care neither to irritate unneceſſarily by your behaviour and doctrine; nor, on the other hand, let your prudence degenerate into craft, leſt it lead you to betray the truth, or to encourage men in their evil practices. Join prudence and innocence together; rendering yourſelves remarkable for integrity amidſt the greateſt temptations, and for meekneſs under the greateſt provocations.

21 And the brother ſhall deliver up the brother to death, &c.) Our Saviour goes on in a farther diſcovery of the world's hatred and enmity againſt the goſpel, and the preachers of it; and gives all Chriſtians in general, and his miniſters in particular, to underſtand, That ſuch is the enmity of the world againſt holineſs and the profeſſors of it, that it will overcome and extinguiſh even the natural affections of the neareſt and deareſt relations towards each other.—Grace teaches us to lay down our lives for our brethren; but corruption teaches a brother to take away the life of a brother: The brother ſhall deliver the brother to death. Yet we may obſerve, our Saviour comforts his diſciples that there will be no end of theſe ſufferings; and aſſures them, That if their faith and patience did hold out unto the end, they ſhould be ſaved. This is our comfort, that if our ſufferings for Chriſt end not in our life-time, they will end with our lives.

27 What ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the houſe-tops.) Two cuſtoms among the Jews ſeem to be alluded to in this verſe. Their doctors uſed to whiſper into the ear of a diſciple what he was to pronounce aloud to others; and as their houſes were low and flat-roofed, and had battlements on the tops, they ſometimes preached to the people from thence.

29, 30, 31 One of them ſhall not fall on the ground, &c.) Here we may obſerve the doctrine which our Saviour preaches to his diſciples; and that is the doctrine of divine providence, which concerns itſelf for the meaneſt creatures; even the birds of the air, and the hairs of our head, do fall within the compaſs of God's protecting care. Here is the uſe which our Saviour makes of this doctrine, namely, to fortify the ſpirits of his diſciples againſt all diſtruſtful fears and diſtracting cares; which teaches us, that the conſideration of the divine care and gracious providence of God over us and ours ought to antidote our ſpirits againſt all diſtruſtful fears whatſoever. If an hair from the head falls not to the ground without a providence, much leſs ſhall the head itſelf; if the very excrements of the body (ſuch are the hairs) be taken care of by God, ſurely the more noble parts of the body, and eſpecially the nobleſt part of ourſelves (our ſouls) ſhall fall under his particular regard.

34 Think not that I am come to ſend peace on earth: I came not to ſend peace, but a ſword.

35 For I am come to ſet a man at variance againſt his father, and the daughter againſt her mother, and the daughter-in-law againſt her mother-in-law.

36 And a man's foes ſhall be they of his own houſhold.

37 He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; and he that loveth ſon or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me.

38 And he that taketh not his croſs, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 He that findeth his life ſhall loſe it: and he that loſeth his life for my ſake ſhall find it.

40 He that receiveth you, receiveth me; and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that ſent me.

41 He that receiveth a prophet, in the name of a prophet, ſhall receive a prophet's reward; and he that receiveth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man, ſhall receive a righteous man's reward.

42 And whoſoever ſhall give to drink unto one of theſe little ones a cup of cold water only, in the name of a diſciple, verily I ſay unto you, he ſhall in no wiſe loſe his reward.

CHAP. XI.

2 John ſendeth his diſciples to Chriſt. 7 Teſtimony of Chriſt concerning John.

AND it came to paſs, when Jeſus had made an end of commanding his twelve diſciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 ¶ Now when John had heard in the priſon the works of Chriſt, he ſent two of his diſciples.

3 And ſaid unto him, Art thou he that ſhould come, or do we look for another?

4 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Go, and ſhew John again thoſe things which ye do hear and ſee.

5 The blind receive their ſight, and the lame walk; the lepers are cleanſed, and the deaf hear; the dead are raiſed up, and the poor have the goſpel preached to them.

6 And bleſſed is he whoſoever ſhall not be offended in me.

7 ¶ And as they departed, Jeſus began to ſay unto the multitudes, concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderneſs to ſee? A reed ſhaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to ſee? A man clothed in ſoft raiment? Behold, they that wear ſoft clothing, are in kings' houſes.

9 But what went ye out for to ſee? A prophet? Yea, I ſay unto you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I ſay unto you, Among them that are born of women, there hath not riſen a greater than John the Baptiſt: notwithſtanding, he that is leaſt in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And from the days of John the Baptiſt until now, the kingdom of heaven ſuffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For all the prophets and the law prophеſied until John.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is Elias which was for to come.

15 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 But whereunto ſhall I liken this generation? It is like unto children ſitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows,

17 And ſaying, We have piped unto you, and ye

34 Think not that I am come to ſend peace on earth, &c.) We muſt diſtinguiſh here betwixt the intentional aim of Chriſt's coming, and the accidental event of it. His intentional aim was to propagate and promote peace in the world; but through the corruption of man's nature, the accidental event of his coming, is war and diviſion: not that theſe are the genuine and natural fruits of the goſpel, but occaſional and accidental only. The preaching of the goſpel, and ſetting up the kingdom of Chriſt in the world, though it be not the natural cauſe, yet it is the accidental occaſion of much of that war and tumult, of much of that diſtraction and confuſion which the world abounds with.

37, 38, 39 He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me, &c.) By worthineſs we are not to underſtand the meritoriouſneſs of the action, but the qualification of the perſon. He that cometh to Chriſt (that is, will be his diſciple) muſt by a deliberate act of the underſtanding, and well-adviſed choice of the will, prefer him before all the world, and his deareſt relations whatſoever; not that our Saviour by theſe expreſſions doth condemn natural love and affection, either to our relations or our own lives, but only regulates and directs it, and ſhews that our firſt and chief love muſt be beſtowed upon himſelf. We may have tender and relenting affections towards our dear relations; but then the conſideration of Chriſt's truth and religion muſt take place of theſe, yea, of life itſelf: nay, when theſe come in competition, we are to regard them no more than if they were the objects of our hatred. See Luke xiv. 26. All the diſciples of Chriſt ſhould be ready and willing, whenever God calls them to it, to quit all their temporal intereſts and enjoyments, even life itſelf, and to ſubmit to any temporal inconvenience, even death itſelf: and all this willingly, cheerfully, and patiently, rather than diſown their relation to Chriſt, and quit the profeſſion of his truth and religion. Such as for ſecular intereſt, and the preſervation of temporal life, do renounce their profeſſion of Chriſt and his religion, they do not only greatly hazard their temporal life, but expoſe their eternal life to the greateſt danger. He that findeth his life ſhall loſe it, &c.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XI.

11 Among them that are born of women, there hath not riſen a greater than John the Baptiſt, &c.) Our Saviour having highly commended John in the foregoing verſes, here he ſets bounds to the honours of his miniſtry, adding, That though John was greater than all the prophets that went before him, ſeeing more of Chriſt than all of them, yet he ſaw leſs than them that came after him. The meaneſt evangelical miniſter that preaches Chriſt come, is to be preferred before all the old prophets, who propheſied of Chriſt to come. That miniſter who ſets forth the life, death, reſurrection, and aſcenſion of Jeſus Chriſt, is greater in the kingdom of heaven, that is, has an higher office in the church, and a more excellent miniſtry than all the prophets, yea than John himſelf. The excellency of a miniſtry conſiſts in the light and clearneſs of it. Now though John's light did exceed all that went before him, yet it fell ſhort of them that came after him: and thus he that was leaſt in the kingdom of grace on earth, much more he that is the leaſt in the kingdom of glory in heaven, was greater than John. Not that the meaneſt Chriſtian, but the meaneſt evangelical prophet, or preacher of the Chriſtian doctrine, is greater than John; partly in reſpect of his doctrine, which is more ſpiritual and heavenly; partly in reſpect of his office, which was to preach Chriſt crucified and riſen again; and partly in reſpect of divine aſſiſtance, for John did no miracle, but the apoſtles that ſucceeded him went forth, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with ſigns following. Add to this, that the Holy Ghoſt fell not upon John, and he ſpake not by any extraordinary inſpiration of the Holy Spirit ſent down from heaven, as the apoſtles did; and thus he that was leaſt in the kingdom of heaven was greater than John.

12 The violent take it by force.) The meaning is, that they who are moſt ready to embrace the goſpel, are chiefly thoſe who ſeemed moſt unworthy of it, ſuch as publicans, ſoldiers and proſtitutes.

17 We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced, &c.) It was cuſtomary in Judea, to have a kind of airy muſic at feaſts, accompanied with dancing; and at funerals melancholly airs, to which were joined the lamentations of perſons hired for that purpoſe. The children therefore in the country imitating theſe things in their diverſions, while one band of them performed the muſical part, if the other happened to be froward, and would not anſwer them by dancing or lamenting, as the game directed, it naturally gave occaſion to the complaint, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced, &c. which was at length turned into a proverb. The mourning airs properly repreſent the ſeverity of the Baptiſt's manners, and the diſagreeableneſs of the doctrine of repentance, which he preached. On the other hand, the cheerful airs beautifully repreſent our Lord's ſweet diſpoſition, affable converſation, and engaging method of giving inſtruction; ſo that every method was tried that could poſſibly have any influence on the Jews to bring them to repent. have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they ſay, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they ſay, Behold a man gluttinous, and a wine-bibber, a friend of publicans and ſinners: but Wiſdom is juſtified of her children.

20 Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein moſt of his mighty works were done, becauſe they repented not.

21 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethſaida! for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in ſackcloth and aſhes.

22 But I ſay unto you, It ſhall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment than for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, ſhalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works which have been done in thee had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.

24 But I ſay unto you, That it ſhall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment than for thee.

25 At that time Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt revealed them unto babes.

26 Even ſo, Father: for ſo it ſeemed good in thy ſight.

27 All things are delivered unto me of my Father; and no man knoweth the Son but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, ſave the Son, and he to whomſoever the Son will reveal him.

28 Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you reſt.

29 Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me: for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye ſhall find reſt unto your ſouls.

30 For my yoke is eaſy, and my burden is light.

CHAP. XII.

1 Chriſt reproveth the blindneſs of the Phariſees concerning the breach of the ſabbath. 31 Of blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt.

AT that time Jeſus went on the ſabbath-day thro' the corn: and his diſciples were an hungered, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 But when the Phariſees ſaw it they ſaid unto him, Behold, thy diſciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the ſabbath-day.

3 But he ſaid unto them, Have ye not read what David did when he was an hungered, and they that were with him;

4 How he entered into the houſe of God, and did eat the ſhew-bread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them that were with him, but only for the prieſts?

5 Or, Have ye not read in the law, how that, on the ſabbath-days the prieſts in the temple profane the ſabbath, and are blameleſs?

6 But I ſay unto you, That in this place is one greater than the temple.

7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, I will have mercy and not ſacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltleſs.

8 For the Son of man is lord even of the ſabbath-day.

9 And when he was departed thence, he went into their ſynagogue.

10 And, behold, there was a man which had his hand withered. And they aſked him, ſaying, Is it lawful to heal on the ſabbath-days? that they might accuſe him.

11 And he ſaid unto them, What man ſhall there be among you that ſhall have one ſheep, and if it fall into a pit on the ſabbath-day, will he not lay hold on it, and liſt it out?

12 How much then is a man better than a ſheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the ſabbath-days.

13 Then ſaith he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he ſtretched it forth; and it was reſtored whole, like as the other.

14 Then the Phariſees went out, and held a council againſt him how they might deſtroy him.

15 But when Jeſus knew it, he withdrew himſelf from thence; and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all;

16 And charged them that they ſhould not make him known:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the prophet, ſaying,

18 Behold, my ſervant, whom I have choſen; my beloved, in whom my ſoul is well pleaſed: I will put my ſpirit upon him, and he will ſhew judgment to the Gentiles.

19 He ſhall not ſtrive, nor cry; neither ſhall any man hear his voice in the ſtreets.

20 A bruiſed reed ſhall he not break, and ſmoaking-flax ſhall he not quench, till he ſend forth judgment unto victory.

---

28 Come unto me all ye that labour, &c.) This coming to Chriſt, muſt needs ſignify more than coming to hear him preach: for thus the perſons he ſpoke to were already come to him, and innumerable multitudes came in that manner without any ſaving advantage to themſelves: but our Lord ſpeaks of ſuch coming, as ſhould certainly iſſue in a ſpiritual reſt, which he would give, and they ſhould find to their ſouls, (ver. 29.) Accordingly, to explain his meaning in this phraſe, he at other times uſed it as exactly of the ſame import with believing in him, promiſcuouſly putting one for the other, again and again, John vi. 35, 36, 37, 40, 44, 45, 47, 64, 65, and vii. 37, 38, 39. And after he was gone to heaven, the apoſtle uſed theſe phraſes of coming to him, and believing on him, as equivalent terms, 1 Pet. ii. 3, 4, 6, 7.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

8 For the Son of man is lord even of the ſabbath-day.) Chriſt is that Lord of the ſabbath, who inſtituted it at firſt in the ſtate of innocence, and renewed the inſtitution at mount Sinai: and therefore muſt have an original right in himſelf to make what circumſtantial alterations he pleaſes about it: and as, agreeable to the nature and deſign of the goſpel-diſpenſation, he has only changed it from the ſeventh to the firſt day of the week, and has only allowed of works of neceſſity and mercy, and ſuch as relate to religious ſervices to be done on the ſabbath-day, all other obligations of a ſabbath remain in force; and if he did not deſign the continuance of a ſabbath under the goſpel-ſtate, it can hardly be ſuppoſed that he would have taken ſo much care to explain and ſettle the law concerning it, as he does here, and in the following verſes, and at other times.

20 A bruiſed reed ſhall he not break, &c.) The Evangeliſt takes notice (ver. 17.) how agreeable this his behaviour is to the account Iſaiah gave of him, when propheſying of his kingdom among the the nations. And ſo we may look on his behaviour at this time, as a repreſentation of his appearance as a king in this preſent world. He would not be the king of the Jewiſh nation, were he behoved to fix his throne, if his kingdom and dominion over the nations were of this world. But, according to this prophecy, the Spirit of God was to be upon him, for ſhewing judgment to the nations, that they might truſt in his name. The cures he did on the diſeaſed multitudes, were ſigns of that eternal ſalvation by the remiſſion of ſins, that miſerable ſinners of the nations were to truſt in him for. And his kingdom among the nations, when he ſhews judgment to them, and they truſt in his name, ſhall make no more noiſe and ſtir among the nations, nor appear any otherwiſe than as he himſelf did among the Jews, when he did not ſtrive, nor cry, nor cauſe his voice to be heard in the ſtreets.

A rod for a ſceptre, is the ſign of ſovereign power and dominion: Ezek. xix. 11.—Strong rods for the ſceptres of them that bear rule.

21 And in his name ſhall the Gentiles truſt.

22 Then was brought unto him one poſſeſſed with a devil, blind and dumb: and he healed him, inſomuch that the blind and dumb both ſpake and ſaw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and ſaid, Is not this the ſon of David?

24 But when the Phariſees heard it, they ſaid, This fellow doth not caſt out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

25 And Jeſus knew their thoughts, and ſaid unto them, Every kingdom divided againſt itſelf is brought to deſolation; and every city or houſe divided againſt itſelf ſhall not ſtand.

26 And if Satan caſt out Satan, he is divided againſt himſelf; how ſhall then his kingdom ſtand?

27 And if I by Beelzebub caſt out devils, by whom do your children caſt them out? therefore they ſhall be your judges.

28 But if I caſt out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you.

29 Or elſe, how can one enter into a ſtrong man's houſe, and ſpoil his goods, except he firſt bind the ſtrong man? and then he will ſpoil his houſe.

30 He that is not with me is againſt me; and he that gathereth not with me ſcattereth abroad.

31 ¶ Wherefore I ſay unto you, All manner of ſin and blaſphemy ſhall be forgiven unto men: but the blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt ſhall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whoſoever ſpeaketh a word againſt the Son of man, it ſhall be forgiven him: but whoſoever ſpeaketh againſt the Holy Ghoſt, it ſhall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or elſe make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit.

34 O generation of vipers! how can ye, being evil, ſpeak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth ſpeaketh.

35 A good man, out of the good treaſure of the heart, bringeth forth good things: and an evil man, out out of the evil treaſure, bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I ſay unto you, That every idle word that men ſhall ſpeak, they ſhall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou ſhalt be juſtified, and by thy words thou ſhalt be condemned.

38 Then certain of the ſcribes and of the Phariſees anſwered, ſaying, Maſter, we would ſee a ſign from thee.

39 But he anſwered and ſaid unto them, An evil and adulterous generation ſeeketh after a ſign; and there ſhall no ſign be given to it, but the ſign of the prophet Jonas.

40 For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, ſo ſhall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 The men of Nineveh ſhall riſe in judgment with this generation, and ſhall condemn it: becauſe they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

42 The queen of the ſouth ſhall riſe up in the judgment with this generation, and ſhall condemn it: for ſhe came from the uttermoſt parts of the earth to hear the wiſdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

43 When the unclean ſpirit is gone out of a man,

Pſalm cx. 2. The Lord ſhall ſend the rod of thy ſtrength out of Zion: rule thou in the midſt of thine enemies. The ſceptre of this kingdom is here called a reed. And we ſee the Roman ſoldiers, in deriſion to him, as pretending to a kingdom, putting a reed in his hand for a ſceptre, when they faſtened a thorny crown on his head. But the ſceptre of his kingdom is repreſented by the prophet as a bruiſed reed; the weakeſt of all rods for ſceptres of them that bear rule. Yet it is the rod of his ſtrength, whoſe power is manifeſted in preſerving this reed, bruiſed as it is in the midſt of his enemies, from being broken. He ſhall not be diſcouraged, or broken, till he have ſet judgment on the earth. And this is like the weakneſs of the preaching of Chriſt crucified, which the apoſtle declares to be the power of God to ſalvation, 1 Cor. i. 18. 22—25.

27 If I by Beelzebub caſt out devils, by whom do your children caſt them out? &c.) Chriſt here ſeems to refer to the Jewiſh exorciſts in thoſe days, who, as ancient writers aſſure us, ſometimes uſed to caſt out devils by invoking the name of the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob: or perhaps he referred to ſuch as caſt out devils in his name, but did not publicly own or follow him; Mark ix. 38.

28 But if I caſt out devils by the Spirit of God, &c.) Though Chriſt had all power in himſelf, as God, for the performance of his miracles; yet as none of the Divine Perſons act ſeparately from each other, their nature being the ſame; and as Chriſt was likewiſe man, and came, as the Meſſiah, in his Father's name; it was proper that the agency of the Holy Ghoſt ſhould be ſometimes taken notice of in his miraculous acts, to ſhew that the Father owned him in the execution of his office, as well as that at other times he ſhould behave as acting by his own power, as he moſt commonly did, to ſhew that he had it in himſelf.

31, 32 All manner of ſin and blaſphemy ſhall be forgiven unto men: but the blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt ſhall not be forgiven unto men, &c.) Our Saviour makes a difference betwixt ſpeaking againſt the Son of man, and ſpeaking againſt the Holy Ghoſt. By ſpeaking againſt the Son of man, is meant all thoſe reproaches which were caſt upon our Saviour's perſon as man, without reflecting upon his Divine Power as God, which he teſtified by his miracles. Such were their reproaching him with the meanneſs of his birth, their cenſuring him for a wine-bibber and a glutton, and the like. But by ſpeaking againſt the Holy Ghoſt, is meant their blaſpheming and reproaching that Divine Power whereby he wrought his miracles; which was an immediate reflection upon the Holy Spirit, and a blaſpheming of him. The nature of this ſin of ſpeaking againſt the Holy Ghoſt conſiſts in this: that the Phariſees, ſeeing our Saviour work miracles, and caſt out devils by the Spirit of God, contrary to the conviction of their own minds, they maliciouſly aſcribed his miracles to the power of the devil, charging him to be a ſorcerer and a magician, and to have a familiar ſpirit, by whoſe help he did thoſe mighty works; when in truth he did them by the Spirit of God. This ſin, above all others, is called unpardonable, and upon that account it is ſo. The caſe of ſuch blaſphemers of the Holy Spirit is not only dangerous, but deſperate, becauſe they reſiſt their laſt remedy, and oppoſe the beſt means for their conviction. What can God do more to convince a man that Jeſus Chriſt is the true Meſſiah, than to work miracles for that purpoſe? Now, if when men ſee plain miracles wrought, they will ſay it is not God that works them, but the devil, (as if Satan would conſpire againſt himſelf, and ſeek the ruin of his own kingdom) there is no way left to convince ſuch perſons, but they muſt and will continue in their oppoſition to truth, to their inevitable condemnation.

40 As Jonas was three days and three nights.) Jonah was a remarkable type of Chriſt in his death and reſurrection, and the preaching of repentance and remiſſion of ſins in his name to the Gentiles. But what ſhall we make of the ſtrange untoward temper that he ſhewed againſt God's mercy to the Ninevites repenting at his preaching? Is not that very like the pride and ill-nature of the Jews, that appeared againſt the Divine mercy and grace manifeſted in the goſpel, particularly in granting to the Gentiles repentance unto life; They thought they did God good ſervice in perſecuting to death the diſciples of Chriſt, eſpecially ſuch as proclaimed the grace of the Lord Jeſus to the Gentiles; even as Jonah thought he did well to be angry, complaining to God of his mercy to the Ninevites, and wanting to ſee them deſtroyed.

In the whale's belly.) Naturaliſts ſay, that the gullet of a whale is not wide enough to ſwallow a man; and hiſtorians obſerve, that whales are very rarely found in the Mediterranean.

The ſon of man be three days and three nights, &c.) The Jews' natural day was expreſſed by a day and a night, and they uſed to reckon a part of a day for a whole day; and ſo Chriſt's lying in the ſepulchre part of Friday and of the Lord's day, and the whole of the Saturday, is, according to their way of computing, called three days and three nights.

43, 44, 45 When the unclean ſpirit is gone out of a man, &c.) The deſign and ſcope of this parable, is to ſhew, that the Phariſees, by rejecting the goſpel, and refuſing to believe in Chriſt, were in a ſeven-fold worſe condition than if the goſpel had never been preached to them, and a Saviour had never come among them; becauſe, by our Saviour's miniſtry, Satan was in ſome ſort caſt out; but, for rejecting Chriſt and his grace, Satan had got a ſeven-fold ſtronger poſſeſſion of them now than before. From this parable we may learn, 1, That Satan is an unclean ſpirit; he has loſt his original he

he walketh through dry places, ſeeking reſt, and findeth none.

44 Then he ſaith, I will return into my houſe from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, ſwept and garniſhed.

45 Then goeth he, and taketh with himſelf ſeven other ſpirits more wicked than himſelf, and they enter in and dwell there: and the laſt ſtate of that man is worſe than the firſt. Even ſo ſhall it be alſo unto this wicked generation.

46 While he yet talked to the people, behold, his mother and his brethren ſtood without, deſiring to ſpeak with him.

47 Then one ſaid unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren ſtand without, deſiring to ſpeak with thee.

48 But he anſwered and ſaid unto him that told him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49 And he ſtretched forth his hand toward his diſciples, and ſaid, Behold my mother and my brethren!

50 For whoſoever ſhall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the ſame is my brother, and ſiſter, and mother.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the ſower and the ſeed. 24 Divers other parables. 34 Why Chriſt ſpake in parables. 53 Chriſt contemned by his own countrymen.

THE ſame day went Jeſus out of the houſe, and ſat by the ſea-ſide.

2 And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, ſo that he went into a ſhip and ſat: and the whole multitude ſtood on the ſhore.

3 ¶ And he ſpake many things unto them in parables, ſaying, Behold, a ſower went forth to ſow:

4 And when he ſowed, ſome ſeeds fell by the way-ſide, and the fowls came and devoured them up.

5 Some fell upon ſtony places, where they had not much earth; and forthwith they ſprung up, becauſe they had no deepneſs of earth:

6 And when the ſun was up, they were ſcorched; and becauſe they had no root, they withered away.

7 And ſome fell among thorns: and the thorns ſprung up, and choked them;

8 But others fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, ſome an hundred-fold, ſome ſixty-fold, ſome thirty-fold.

9 Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And the diſciples came, and ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou unto them in parables?

11 He anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Becauſe it is given unto you to know the myſteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

12 For whoſoever hath, to him ſhall be given, and he ſhall have more abundance; but whoſoever hath not, from him ſhall be taken away, even that he hath.

13 Therefore ſpeak I to them in parables: becauſe they ſeeing, ſee not; and hearing, they hear not, neither do they underſtand.

14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Eſaias, which ſaith, By hearing ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand: and ſeeing ye ſhall ſee, and ſhall not perceive.

15 For this people's heart is waxed groſs, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have cloſed; leſt at any time they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and ſhould underſtand with their heart, and ſhould be converted, and I ſhould heal them.

16 But bleſſed are your eyes, for they ſee; and your ears, for they hear.

17 For verily I ſay unto you, that many prophets and righteous men have deſired to ſee thoſe things which ye ſee, and have not ſeen them; and to hear thoſe things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 Hear ye, therefore, the parable of the ſower.

purity, his holy nature, in which he was created, and is become univerſally filthy in himſelf; no means being allowed him by God for purging of his filthy and unclean nature. Nay, he is a perfect enemy to purity and holineſs, maligning all that love it and would promote it. 2. That Satan is a reſtleſs and unquiet ſpirit; being caſt out of heaven he can reſt no where: when he is either gone out of a man through policy, or caſt out of a man by power, he has no content or ſatisfaction, till he returns into a filthy heart, where he delights to be as the ſwine in miry places. 3. That wicked and profane ſinners have this unclean ſpirit dwelling in them: their hearts are Satan's houſe and habitation; and the luſts of pride and unbelief, malice and revenge, envy and hypocriſy, theſe are the garniſhings of Satan's houſe. Man's heart was God's by creation, it is now Satan's by uſurpation and judiciary tradition. 4. That Satan, by the preaching of the goſpel, may ſeem to go out of perſons, and they become ſober and civiliſed; yet may he return to his old habitation, and the laſt end of that man may be worſe than the beginning.

46 His mother and his brethren ſtood without, &c.) It does not fully appear that Mary ever had any other child beſides Jeſus: and therefore theſe, who are called his brethren, may have been either the children of Joſeph by a former wife, or elſe the couſin-germans of our Lord, ſuch as the children of Mary, the wife of Cleophas, ſiſter to the mother of Jeſus; and ſuch relations, according to the language of the Jews, were called brethren. But ſome authors have ſuppoſed that our Lord's mother herſelf really had ſeveral other children after his birth; but whoever theſe children were, they probably deſigned to get Jeſus away, either leſt he ſhould overſpend himſelf, or offend the Phariſees, and expoſe himſelf to danger.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

3 And he ſpake many things unto them in parables, &c.) A parable is a continued compariſon of things, for the illuſtration of that which is deſigned to be repreſented; and teaching by parables was an uſual, pleaſant, and profitable way of inſtruction among the eaſtern nations, to excite the attention and enquiries of the hearers, and in the moſt familiar manner to inſtil the ſentiments of the ſpeaker, and fix them in the minds of thoſe who were deſirous to learn by them.

8 But others fell into good ground, &c.) The ſcope of this parable is to ſhew that there are four ſeveral ſorts of hearers of the word, and but one ſort only that hear to a ſaving advantage; alſo to ſhew us the cauſe of the different ſucceſs of the word preached. Chriſt and his apoſtles are the ſowers; he the prime and principal ſower, they the ſecondary and ſubordinate ſeedſmen. Chriſt ſows his own field, his miniſters ſow his field; he ſows his own ſeed, they ſow his ſeed. Woe unto us if we ſow our own ſeed, and not Chriſt's! The word of God is the ſeed ſown. Fabulous legends and unwritten traditions, which the ſeedſmen of the church of Rome ſow, theſe are not ſeed, but chaff, or their own ſeed, not Chriſt's. Our Lord's field muſt be ſown with his own ſeed, not with mixed grain. Hence we may learn, that the word of God preached is like ſeed ſown in the furrows of the field. As ſeed has a fructifying virtue in it, by which it increaſes and brings forth more of its own kind; ſo has the word of God a quickening power, to regenerate and make alive dead ſouls. The ſeed of the word, where it is moſt plentifully ſown, is not alike fruitful. As ſeed doth not thrive in all ground alike, ſo neither doth the word fructify alike in the hearts of men. There is a difference, both from the nature of the ſoil, and from the influence of the Spirit. The cauſe of the word's unfruitfulneſs is very different, and not the ſame in all: in ſome it is the policy of Satan, that bird of prey, which follows God's plough, and ſteals away the precious ſeed. In others it is a hard heart of unbelief; in others the cares of the world, like thorns, choke the word, overgrow the good ſeed, draw away the moiſture of the earth and the heart of the ſoil, and hinder the influence of the ſun. The far greater part of hearers are fruitleſs and unprofitable hearers. The beſt ground doth not bring forth fruit alike; ſome good ground brings forth more, and ſome leſs; ſome thirty, ſome ſixty, and ſome an hundred-fold.

18—23 Hear ye therefore the parable of the ſower, &c.) As if our Lord had ſaid, You, my diſciples, who are not ſatisfied with a ſound of words, I will explain to you the ſenſe and ſignification of this parable: the ſcope of which is, to ſhew the different effects which the word of God has upon men's hearts, and the reaſon of that difference. The ſeed is the word, the ſower is the preacher, the 19 When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and underſtandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was ſown in his heart. This is he which received ſeed by the way-ſide.

20 But he that received the ſeed into ſtony places, the ſame is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it:

21 Yet hath he not root in himſelf, but dureth for a while; for when tribulation or perſecution ariſeth becauſe of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 He alſo that received ſeed among the thorns, is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulneſs of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.

23 But he that receiveth ſeed into the good ground, is he that heareth the word and underſtandeth it; which alſo beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, ſome an hundredfold, ſome ſixty, ſome thirty.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which ſowed good ſeed in his field:

25 But while men ſlept, his enemy came and ſowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was ſprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares alſo.

27 So the ſervants of the houſeholder came and ſaid unto him, Sir, didſt not thou ſow good ſeed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 He ſaid unto them, An enemy hath done this. The ſervants ſaid unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he ſaid, Nay; leſt, while ye gather up the tares, ye root up alſo the wheat with them.

30 Let both grow together until the harveſt: and in the time of harveſt I will ſay to the reapers, Gather ye together firſt the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn.

31 Another parable put he forth unto them, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which a man took and ſowed in his field:

32 Which indeed is the leaſt of all ſeeds; but when it is grown it is the greateſt among herbs, and becometh a tree; ſo that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

33 Another parable ſpake he unto them, The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in three meaſures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

34 ¶ All theſe things ſpake Jeſus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable ſpake he not unto them:

35 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophet, ſaying, I will open my mouth in parables, I will utter things which have been kept ſecret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then Jeſus ſent the multitude away, and went into the houſe; and his diſciples came unto him, ſaying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 He anſwered and ſaid unto them, He that ſoweth the good ſeed is the Son of man;

38 The field is the world, the good ſeed are the children of the kingdom, but the tares are the children of the wicked one.

39 The enemy that ſowed them is the devil; the harveſt is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; ſo ſhall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man ſhall ſend forth his angels, and they ſhall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity:

42 And ſhall caſt them into a furnace of fire; there ſhall be wailing and gnaſhing of teeth.

43 Then ſhall the righteous ſhine forth as the ſun in the kingdom of their Father; who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 Again, The kingdom of heaven is like unto treaſure hid in a field: the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth, and ſelleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 Again, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant-man, ſeeking goodly pearls:

46 Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and ſold all that he had, and bought it.

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net that was caſt into the ſea, and gathered of every kind:

48 Which, when it was full, they drew to ſhore, and ſat down, and gathered the good into veſſels, but caſt the bad away.

49 So ſhall it be at the end of the world: the angels ſhall come forth, and ſever the wicked from among the juſt,

50 And ſhall caſt them into the furnace of fire; there ſhall be wailing and gnaſhing of teeth.

51 Jeſus ſaith unto them, Have ye underſtood all theſe things? They ſay unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then ſaid he unto them, Therefore every ſcribe which is inſtructed unto the kingdom of heaven, is like ſoil is the heart and ſoul of man.—Now our Saviour aſſures us, that the hearts of ſome hearers are like highway-ground, in which the ſeed is not covered with the harrow of meditation; others are like ſtony ground, in which the word has no root; no root in their underſtandings, memories, conſcience, will, or affections: but they are offended, either at the depth and profoundneſs of the word, or at the ſanctity or ſtrictneſs of it, or at the plainneſs and ſimplicity of it. Some hearers our Lord compares to thorny ground. Thorns are covetous deſires, which choke the good ſeed, ſhadow the blade when ſprung up, keep off the influence of the ſun, and draw away the fatneſs of the ſoil from the ſeed. All theſe effects have thorns in and among the ſeed; and the like effects have wordly affections and covetous deſires in the heart of man, rendering the word unfruitful and unprofitable. But the good Chriſtian hears the word attentively, keeps it retentively, believes it ſtedfaſtly, applies it particularly, practiſes it univerſally, and brings forth fruit with patience and perſeverence; fruit that will redound to his account in the great day of account. No hearers are in Chriſt's account good hearers of the word, but ſuch as bring forth the fruits of an holy, humble, and peaceable converſation. A perſon may be a good hearer of the word, if he brings forth the beſt fruit he can, though it be not in ſo great a proportion as others do: as ſome ground brings forth thirty, ſome ſixty, and ſome an hundred-fold; in like manner do all the ſincere hearers of the word, they all bring forth fruit, though not all alike; all in ſincerity and reality, though not all to the ſame degree, and none to perfection. Satan is here compared to the fowls of the air, which pick up the ſeed before it takes any root in the earth. The devil is very jealous of the ſucceſs of the word, and therefore labours all he can to deſtroy the word before it comes to operate upon the heart; which he doth ſometimes by the cares of the world, ſometimes by vain companions, who prove mere quench-coals unto early convictions; if he can ſteal away the word, or choke it, he has his deſire and deſign.

29, 30 But he ſaid, Nay; leſt, while ye gather up the tares, ye root up alſo the wheat with them, &c.) The reaſon Chriſt gives for letting the tares alone, intimates that he here ſpeaks only of profeſſors of dubious, though of very ſuſpicious characters, who may poſſibly be real Chriſtians, notwithſtanding ſome appearances to the contrary: for notoriouſly wicked perſons and ſcandalous apoſtates may undoubtedly be caſt out of the viſible church, without danger of miſtaking true believers for them, or of doing any injury to the true intereſt of Chriſt in the world. And though the world is ſaid to be the field in which the tares were ſown (ver. 38.) yet as miniſters and churches have nothing to do, in a way of extirpation, with them that are without (1 Cor. v. 12, 13.) it ſeems neceſſary to underſtand it of the viſible church as ſpread through the world, or at leaſt as having a mixture of hypocrites with true believers while it is in the world.

32 It is the greateſt among herbs, and becometh a tree, &c.) The muſtard-tree in that country grew to a prodigious ſize.

unto a man that is an houſeholder, which bringeth forth out of his treaſure things new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when Jeſus had finiſhed theſe parables, he departed thence.

54 And when he was come into his own country, he taught them in their ſynagogue, inſomuch that they were aſtoniſhed, and ſaid, Whence hath this man this wiſdom, and theſe mighty works?

55 Is not this the carpenter's ſon? is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren, James, and Joſes, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And his ſiſters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath this man all theſe things?

57 And they were offended in him. But Jeſus ſaid unto them, A prophet is not without honour, ſave in his own country and in his own houſe.

58 And he did not many mighty works there, becauſe of their unbelief.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Herod's opinion of Chriſt. 17 The miracle of the five loaves, 25 and of walking on the ſea.

AT that time Herod the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jeſus,

2 And ſaid unto his ſervants, This is John the Baptiſt; he is riſen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do ſhew forth themſelves in him.

3 For Herod had laid hold on John, and bound him, and put him in priſon, for Herodias' ſake, his brother Philip's wife.

4 For John ſaid unto him, It is not lawful for thee to have her.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, becauſe they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Herod's birth-day was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleaſed Herod.

7 Whereupon he promiſed with an oath to give her whatſoever ſhe would aſk.

8 And ſhe, being before inſtructed of her mother, ſaid, Give me here John Baptiſt's head in a charger.

9 And the king was ſorry: nevertheleſs, for the oath's ſake, and them which ſat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he ſent, and beheaded John in the priſon.

11 And his head was brought in a charger, and given to the damſel: and ſhe brought it to her mother.

12 And his diſciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jeſus.

13 When Jeſus heard of it, he departed thence by ſhip into a deſert place apart: and when the people had heard thereof, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jeſus went forth, and ſaw a great multitude, and was moved with compaſſion toward them, and he healed their ſick.

15 And when it was evening, his diſciples came to him, ſaying, This is a deſert place, and the time is now paſt: ſend the multitude away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themſelves victuals.

16 But Jeſus ſaid unto them, They need not depart; give ye them to eat.

17 ¶ And they ſay unto him, We have here but five loaves and two fiſhes.

18 He ſaid, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to ſit down on the graſs, and took the five loaves, and the two fiſhes, and, looking up to heaven, he bleſſed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his diſciples, and the diſciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the fragments that remained twelve baſkets full.

21 And they that had eaten were about five thouſand men, beſides women and children.

22 And ſtraightway Jeſus conſtrained his diſciples to get into a ſhip, and to go before him unto the other ſide, while he ſent the multitudes away.

23 And when he had ſent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 But the ſhip was now in the midſt of the ſea, toſſed with waves: for the wind was contrary.

57 A prophet is not without honour, ſave in his own country and in his own houſe.) A prophet is no where ſo likely to be undervalued and diſreſpected, as among his own countrymen and among his relations. For theſe men, judging of things only by temporal conſiderations, and deſpiſing a man's former meanneſs and envying his preſent honour, are therefore apt to reject him and diſbelieve his doctrine: but ſtrangers acknowledge the divine power by which a prophet acts; and admiring the excellency of the doctrine which he preaches, will receive, honour and believe him.

Commentary on Chap. XIV.

2 This is John the Baptiſt: he is riſen from the dead, &c.) Eraſmus is of opinion that as Herod was of the ſect of the Sadducees, who denied the immortality of the ſoul, ſo theſe words were ſpoken by way of irony, to ridicule the notions of the vulgar and thoſe who joined in that opinion. And this ſolution might have been admitted, had not Herod been perplexed on this occaſion. The image of the Baptiſt, whom he wrongfully put to death, preſented itſelf often to his thoughts, and tormented him: therefore, when it was reported that he was riſen from the dead and working miracles, Herod feared ſome puniſhment would be inflicted on him for his crime, and in the confuſion of his thoughts ſaid that John was riſen from the dead, though he was a Sadducee.

3 For Herod had laid hold on John—for Herodias' ſake, his brother Philip's wife.) This princeſs was grand-daughter to Herod the Great, by his ſon Ariſtobulus, and had formerly been married to her uncle Herod Philip, the ſon of her grand-father by Mariamne. Some time after that marriage, Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee, and ſon of Herod the Great by Malice, happening in his way to Rome to lodge at his brother's houſe, fell paſſionately in love with Herodias, and in his return made offers to her. She accepted his addreſſes, deſerting her huſband, who was only a private perſon, that ſhe might ſhare with the tetrarch in the honours of a crown. On the other hand, Herod, to make way for her, divorced his wife, the daughter of Aretas, king of Arabia. As Antipas was Herod the Great's ſon, he was brother to Herod Philip, the huſband of Herodias, and uncle to Herodias herſelf. Both parties therefore being guilty of inceſt, as well as adultery, they deſerved the rebuke which the Baptiſt gave them, with a courage highly becoming the meſſenger of God: for though he had experienced the advantages of the tetrarch's friendſhip, he was not afraid to diſpleaſe him when his duty required it. Herod had with great pleaſure heard John's diſcourſes, and by his perſuaſion had done many good actions; but now, being touched to the quick, he laid his monitor in irons. Thus it often happens that they who do not fear God ſincerely, will go great lengths in the obedience of his commands, provided ſomething is remitted to them by way of indulgence. But when they are more ſtraitly preſſed, they throw off the yoke, and become not only obſtinate but furious; which proves that no man has any reaſon of ſelf-complacency, becauſe he obeys many of the divine laws, unleſs he has learned to ſubject himſelf to God in every reſpect and without exception.

19 He bleſſed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his diſciples, &c.) Chriſt's bleſſing the food, is called his giving thanks in a like caſe (chap. xv. 36. Mark viii. 6.) and in this very caſe (John vi. 11.) And this evidently relates to his aſking a bleſſing (as was uſual) upon ſet meals, and not to his praying for a miraculous multiplication of the food: for we do not find that our Lord ever wrought his miracles by an application to his Father for aſſiſtance; but he commonly managed them in a ſovereign, independent way, like the God of nature, who had a power inherent in himſelf to perform them whenever he pleaſed: and as the widow's oil increaſed in the pouring it out (2 Kings iv. 4. &c.) ſo it is probable that Chriſt, by his creating power, multiplied this food in breaking it.

25 ¶ And

25 ¶ And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when his disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

28 And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and, beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.

34 And when they were gone over, they came into the land of Gennesaret.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased;

36 And besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment: and as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

CHAP. XV.

1 God's commandments, and men's traditions. 10 What defileth a man.

THEN came to Jesus scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 ¶ Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God commanded, saying, Honour thy father and mother: and, He that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father, or his mother, It is a gift by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me,

6 And honour not his father, or his mother, he shall be free. Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 Ye hypocrites, well did Esaias prophesy of you, saying,

8 This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

10 ¶ And he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand:

11 Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended after they heard this saying?

13 But he answered and said, Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone: they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 Then answered Peter, and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 And Jesus said, Are ye also yet without understanding?

17 Do not ye yet understand, that whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught.

18 But those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart, and they defile the man.

19 For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.

21 Then Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night, &c.) The Jews ordinarily divided their night only into three watches, and accounted the fourth, from about three o'clock, to belong to the morning rather than to the night. Mark xiii. 35.

27 Be of good cheer: it is I, &c.) Or literally, Be of good cheer: I am. I am is a form of speech used by the one and true God, to express his necessary and eternal existence, or the truth of his Godhead; and being applied to himself by the Son of God, is an argument that he is one with Jehovah, the necessary Being and the true God.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, &c.) Christ, being as ready to assist him as he was to ask it, immediately reached out his hand, and took hold of him to encourage and secure him; but at the same time reproved him for his unbelief, saying, After you knew that it was I, and had experienced my power in carrying you so far through your danger, why, O man of weak and wavering faith, should you nevertheless doubt of my further care to preserve you amidst the most threatening circumstances that could attend you?

Commentary on Chap. XV.

2 Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? &c.) The former part of this chapter acquaints us with a great contest between our Saviour and the Pharisees, about their traditions and old customs, which they valued more than the commandments of God: they accused the disciples for eating bread with unwashed hands, which, though it were in itself but a decent custom, the Pharisees made it a religious rite; for which reason our Saviour and his disciples would not observe it. Whence we may learn, that what is in itself and may without offence be done as a civil custom, ought to be discountenanced and opposed, when men require it of us as a religious act, or place religion in it. The Pharisees placed so much religion in washing their hands before meat, that they looked upon it as highly criminal to neglect it as to lye with a whore. One of them being in prison, and not having water enough to drink and to wash his hands too, chose rather to die with thirst, than to transgress the tradition of the elders.

3—6 Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition? &c.) Here we may observe the heavy charge which our Saviour brings in against the Pharisees, namely, for violating an express command of God, and preferring their own traditions before it: You make void the commandments of God by your traditions. The command which our Lord instances, as violated by them, is the fifth commandment, which requires children to relieve their parents in their necessity. Now though the Pharisees did not deny this in plain terms, yet they made an exception from it, which, if children had a mind, rendered it void and useless. For the Pharisees taught, that in case any would give a gift to the temple, which gift they called corban, and of which they themselves had a great share, that then children were discharged from making any further provision for their poor, aged, or impotent parents; and might say unto them after this manner, That which thou askest for thy supply is given to God, and therefore I cannot relieve thee. So that covetous and graceless children looked on it as the most frugal way, once for all, to find to the temple, rather than pay the constant rent of daily relief to the poor parents. This naturally teaches us, that no duty, gift, or offering to God, is accepted, where the duty of charity is neglected. It is more acceptable to God to refresh the bowels of his saints, who are the living temples of the Holy Ghost, than to adorn material temples with gold and silver.

23 But he anſwered her not a word. And his diſciples came and beſought him, ſaying, Send her away; for ſhe crieth after us.

24 But he anſwered and ſaid, I am not ſent but unto the loſt ſheep of the houſe of Iſrael.

25 Then came ſhe and worſhipped him, ſaying, Lord, help me.

26 But he anſwered and ſaid, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to caſt it to dogs?

27 And ſhe ſaid, Truth, Lord; yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their maſter's table.

28 Then Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

29 And Jeſus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the ſea of Galilee, and went up into a mountain, and ſat down there.

30 And great multitudes came unto him, having with them thoſe that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and caſt them down at Jeſus' feet, and he healed them;

31 Inſomuch that the multitude wondered, when they ſaw the dumb to ſpeak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to ſee: and they glorified the God of Iſrael.

32 Then Jeſus called his diſciples unto him, and ſaid, I have compaſſion on the multitude, becauſe they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not ſend them away faſting, leſt they faint in the way.

33 And his diſciples ſay unto him, Whence ſhould we have ſo much bread in the wilderneſs as to fill ſo great a multitude?

34 And Jeſus ſaith unto them, How many loaves have ye? and they ſaid, Seven, and a few little fiſhes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to ſit down on the ground.

36 And he took the ſeven loaves and the fiſhes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his diſciples, and the diſciples to the multitude.

37 And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left ſeven baſkets full.

38 And they that did eat were four thouſand men, beſide women and children.

39 And he ſent away the multitude, and took ſhip, and came into the coaſts of Magdala.

CHAP. XVI.

4 The ſign of Jonas. 5 The leaven of the Phariſees and Sadducees. 21 Chriſt foreſheweth his death.

THE Phariſees alſo, with the Sadducees, came, and, tempting, deſired him that he would ſhew them a ſign from heaven.

2 He anſwered and ſaid unto them, When it is evening, ye ſay, It will be fair weather; for the ſky is red:

3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to-day; for the ſky is red, and low'ring. O ye hypocrites! ye can diſcern the face of the ſky; but can ye not diſcern the ſigns of the times?

4 ¶ A wicked and adulterous generation ſeeketh after a ſign, and there ſhall no ſign be given unto it, but the ſign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.

5 ¶ And when his diſciples were come to the other ſide, they had forgotten to take bread.

6 Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Phariſees and of the Sadducees.

7 And they reaſoned among themſelves, ſaying, It is becauſe we have taken no bread.

8 Which when Jeſus perceived, he ſaid unto them, O ye of little faith, why reaſon ye among yourſelves, becauſe ye have brought no bread?

9 Do ye not yet underſtand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thouſand, and how many baſkets ye took up?

10 Neither the ſeven loaves of the four thouſand, and how many baſkets ye took up?

11 How is it that ye do not underſtand that I ſpake it not to you concerning bread, that ye ſhould beware of the leaven of the Phariſees and of the Sadducees?

12 Then underſtood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Phariſees and of the Sadducees.

13 When Jeſus came into the coaſts of Cæſarea

32—35 Then Jeſus called his diſciples unto him, &c.) Here we have the ſecond miracle of Chriſt's compaſſionately feeding the hungry multitude. Chap. xiv. we read of five thouſand fed with five loaves and two fiſhes; here Chriſt feeds four thouſand with ſeven loaves and a few ſmall fiſhes. Here we may obſerve, that Chriſt fed feweſt, when he had moſt proviſion; when he had ſeven loaves, he fed but four thouſand; when he had five loaves, he fed five thouſand. Thus the wiſdom and power of Chriſt is glorified by him as he pleaſes. The feeding of one thouſand with one loaf, was as true a miracle as the feeding ſeven thouſand. Our Saviour did put forth the power of his Godhead in working miracles after what manner ſeemed beſt to his own wiſdom 36 Gave thanks.) That is, he prayed for a bleſſing upon the food: teaching us our duty, that if the Son of God did look up to heaven, and bleſs his food, we ſhould not ſit down to our food as a beaſt to his fodder, without craving a bleſſing upon it.

37 They did all eat, &c.) Not a crumb or a bit, but to fulneſs and ſatisfaction; yet ſeven baſkets remain; anſwering the number of the loaves, as the twelve baſkets in the former miracle anſwered the twelve apoſtles: in both, more is left than was at firſt ſet on: it is hard to ſay which was the greater miracle, the miraculous eating, or miraculous leaving. If we conſider what they ate, we may juſtly wonder that they left any thing; if what they left, that they ate any thing. Chriſt would not have theſe fragments loſt, but gathered up; the Great Houſe-keeper of the world will not allow the loſs of his orts. O how dreadful will the account of thoſe be, who have large and plentiful eſtates to anſwer for as loſt, being ſpent upon their luſts in riot and exceſs!

Commentary on Chap. XVI.

6—12 Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Phariſees, &c.) We may obſerve here, how dull the diſciples of Chriſt were under Chriſt's own teaching, how apt to put a carnal ſenſe upon his words; they apprehended he had ſpoken to them of the leaven of bread, what he intended of the leaven of the Phariſees' doctrine; the ſmart and ſharp reproof which Chriſt gave his diſciples, for not underſtanding the ſenſe and ſignification of what he ſpake. The Lord Jeſus Chriſt is much diſpleaſed with his own people, when he diſcerns blindneſs and ignorance in them, after more than ordinary means of knowledge enjoyed by them; How is it that ye do not yet underſtand? Hence we may obſerve the metaphor which Chriſt ſets forth the corrupt doctrine of the Phariſees by; he compares it to leaven, partly for its fourneſs, and partly for its diffuſiveneſs. Leaven is apiece of four dough, that diffuſes itſelf into the whole maſs or lump of bread with which it is mixed. From whence our Saviour intimates, that the Phariſees were a four and proud ſort of people; and their doctrines, like themſelves, poiſonous and pernicious in their conſequences; the contagion of which our Lord warns his diſciples to avoid and ſhun.

13 When Jeſus came into the coaſts of Cæſarea Philippi.) This city, while it was poſſeſſed by the Canaanites, was called Leſhem, and Laiſh. But when the children of Dan took it, they named it after their progenitor. In later times it was called Paneas, from the mountain, at the foot of which it ſtood. The ſituation of Paneas pleaſed Philip the tetrach ſo exceedingly, that he reſolved to make it the ſeat of his court: for which purpoſe he enlarged and adorned it with many ſumptuous buildings, and called it Cæſarea, in honour of the Roman emperor. The tetrarch's own name, however, was commonly added to diſtinguiſh it from the other Cæſarea, ſo often mentioned in the Jewiſh hiſtory. The latter was a fine ſea-port on the Mediterranean, between Daro and Joppa, and formerly called Stratton's tower. But being rebuilt by Herod the Great, he called it Cæſarea, in compliment to his patron Auguſtus. The beauty of this Cæſarea, and the conveniences of its ſituation, were ſo extraordinary, that when the Romans reduced Judea into the form of a province, they made it the ſeat of their government, preferable even to Jeruſalem itſelf.

Philippi, he aſked his diſciples, ſaying, Whom do men ſay that I, the Son of man, am?

14 And they ſaid, Some ſay that thou art John the Baptiſt; ſome Elias; and others Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

15 He ſaith unto them, But whom ſay ye that I am?

16 And Simon Peter anſwered and ſaid, Thou art the Chriſt, the Son of the living God.

17 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, Bleſſed art thou, Simon Barjona: for fleſh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.

18 And I ſay alſo unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell ſhall not prevail againſt it.

19 And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatſoever thou ſhalt bind on earth, ſhall be bound in heaven; and whatſoever thou ſhalt looſe on earth, ſhall be looſed in heaven.

20 Then charged he his diſciples that they ſhould tell no man that he was Jeſus the Chriſt.

21 ¶ From that time forth began Jeſus to ſhew unto his diſciples how that he muſt go unto Jeruſalem, and ſuffer many things of the elders, and chief prieſts, and ſcribes, and be killed, and be raiſed again the third day.

22 Then Peter took him, and began to rebuke him, ſaying, Be it far from thee, Lord; this ſhall not be unto thee.

23 But he turned, and ſaid unto Peter, Get thee behind me, Satan, thou art an offence againſt me: for thou ſavoureſt not the things that be of God, but thoſe that be of men.

24 Then ſaid Jeſus unto his diſciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himſelf, and take up his croſs, and follow me.

25 For whoſoever will ſave his life, ſhall loſe it; and whoſoever will loſe his life for my ſake, ſhall find it.

26 For what is a man profited, if he ſhall gain the whole world, and loſe his own ſoul? or what ſhall a man give in exchange for his ſoul?

27 For the Son of man ſhall come in the glory of his Father, with his angels; and then he ſhall reward every man according to his works.

28 Verily I ſay unto you, There be ſome ſtanding here which ſhall not taſte of death, till they ſee the Son of man coming in his kingdom.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The transfiguration of Chriſt. 14 He healeth a lunatic, 22 foretelleth his own paſſion, 24 payeth tribute.

AND after ſix days Jeſus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart.

2 And was transfigured before them; and his face did ſhine as the ſun, and his raiment was white as the light.

3 And behold, there appeared unto them Moſes and Elias talking with him.

4 Then anſwered Peter, and ſaid unto Jeſus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias.

5 While he yet ſpake, behold, a bright cloud overſhadowed them: and behold, a voice out of the cloud, which ſaid, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed; hear ye him.

6 And when the diſciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were ſore afraid.

7 And Jeſus came and touched them, and ſaid, Ariſe, and be not afraid.

8 And when they had lifted up their eyes, they ſaw no man, ſave Jeſus only.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, Jeſus charged them, ſaying, Tell the viſion to no man, until the Son of man be riſen again from the dead.

14 Others Jeremias.) The Jews had a tradition, that Jeremiah the prophet would appear among them, when the Meſſiah came, to recover the ark of the covenant which they fancied he had hid, 2 Mac. ii. 5.

18 Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, &c.) It is highly probable that Chriſt pointed with his finger to himſelf, when he mentioned theſe words; in like manner as when he ſaid, Deſtroy this temple, &c. meaning the temple of his body, John ii. 19, 21. And as he is ſpoken of in ſcripture as the only foundation of the church, Iſa. xxviii. 16. 1 Cor. iii. 11, 12. and 1 Pet. ii. 6, 7; ſo this is that which the apoſtles and prophets laid in their preaching, Jeſus Chriſt himſelf being the chief corner ſtone, (Eph. ii. 20.) But a ſuppoſition of Peter's perſon being the rock here intended, is highly derogatory from the honour of the perſon of Chriſt, and lays a very inſufficient baſis for a ſpiritual building. It likewiſe appears ſtrangely uncouth to ſuppoſe, that ſo tranſient an act as his confeſſion, or as his afterwards preaching the goſpel, and not the perſon or doctrine contained therein, ſhould be the foundation of the church. It could, at moſt, be only laying the foundation, like a wiſe maſter builder, according to the grace of God given to him, as the apoſtle Paul ſpeaks of himſelf, (1 Cor. iii. 10.) and in this ſenſe the names of all the twelve apoſtles were equally inſcribed on the twelve foundations of the city of God, Rev. xxi. 14. But if any thing perſonal and peculiar to Peter be intended in this and the following verſe, it relates only to his being the firſt preacher of the faith he here confeſſed, to lay the foundation of the Chriſtian church, firſt among the Jews, and afterwards among the Gentiles, (Acts ii. and x.) and ſo it can never found a claim for the ſupremacy, or the infallibility, of the Pope: for in this reſpect Peter could have no ſucceſſor, much leſs one that reſides at Rome; and the Pope is ſo far from being the firſt preacher of the goſpel, and from going in perſon to convert Jews and Heathens, that he does not uſe to preach at all.

23 Get thee behind me, Satan, &c.) As Satan ſignifies an adverſary, poſſibly our Lord might only mean that Peter herein acted the part of an enemy to him. But as this motion had a real tendency to favour the devil's intereſt, and diſcourage Jeſus in his work; and as it proceeded from ſuch carnal principles and motives as a Satan excites to, it might alſo be ſpoken of as his work; though it ſeems that he did not deſign to prevent Chriſt's ſufferings and death, ſince we are expreſsly told, that the devil put it in the heart of Judas to betray him. John xiii. 1.

28 There be ſome ſtanding here which ſhall not taſte death, &c.) To taſte death, is a Hebraiſm for dying. Now all theſe things were ſeen by the apoſtle John, and ſome others, before they died; and the transfiguration, which ſome think is here peculiarly referred to, becauſe all the evangeliſts make this the preface to their account of it, was ſeen by Peter, James, and John, about a week afterwards. Chap. xvii. 1. Mark ix. 1, 2. and Luke ix. 27, 28, 29.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVII.

3 And behold, there appeared unto them Moſes and Elias talking with him.) The attendants upon our Saviour, at his glorious tranſfiguration, were two, Moſes and Elias. This being but a glimpſe of Chriſt's glory, not a full manifeſtation of it, only two of the glorified ſaints attend upon Chriſt at it: when he ſhall come in his full glory, ten thouſand of thouſands ſhall attend him. Theſe two attendants were two men, not two angels; becauſe men were more nearly concerned in what was done; they were not only ſpectators, but partners. Man's reſtoration was Chriſt's principal aim; the angels' confirmation his leſs principal deſign. But why Moſes and Elias? Moſes the giver of the law, and Elias the chief of the prophets, attending both upon Chriſt, did ſhew the conſent of the law and the prophets with Chriſt, and their fulfilling and accompliſhment in him. Becauſe theſe two were the moſt laborious ſervants of Chriſt, both adventured their lives in God's cauſe, and therefore are highly honoured by Chriſt. Such as honour him, he will honour.

5 Behold, a bright cloud overſhadowed them, &c.) This ſeems to have been ſuch a cloud of glory as directed Iſrael in the wilderneſs; which, as Jewiſh writers obſerve, departed at the death of Moſes. But it now appeared again in honour of our Lord, as the great prophet of the church, who was prefigured by Moſes.

10 And his diſciples aſked him, ſaying, Why then ſay the ſcribes that Elias muſt firſt come?

11 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Elias truly ſhall firſt come, and reſtore all things.

12 But I ſay unto you, That Elias is come already, and they knew him not; but have done unto him whatſoever they liſted: likewiſe ſhall alſo the Son of man ſuffer of them.

13 Then the diſciples underſtood that he ſpake unto them of John the Baptiſt.

14 ¶ And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and ſaying,

15 Lord, have mercy on my ſon; for he is lunatic, and ſore vexed: for oft-times he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy diſciples, and they could not cure him.

17 Then Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, O faithleſs and perverſe generation, how long ſhall I be with you? how long ſhall I ſuffer you? Bring him hither to me.

18 And Jeſus rebuked the devil, and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

19 Then came the diſciples to Jeſus apart, and ſaid, Why could not we caſt him out?

20 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Becauſe of your unbelief: for verily I ſay unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of muſtard-ſeed, ye ſhall ſay unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place, and it ſhall remove; and nothing ſhall be impoſſible unto you.

21 Howbeit, this kind goeth not out but by prayer and faſting.

22 ¶ And while they abode in Galilee, Jeſus ſaid unto them, The Son of man ſhall be betrayed into the hands of men;

23 And they ſhall kill him, and the third day he ſhall be raiſed again. And they were exceeding ſorry.

24 ¶ And when they were come to Capernaum, they that received tribute-money came to Peter, and ſaid, Doth not your maſter pay tribute?

25 He ſaith, Yes. And when he was come into the houſe Jeſus prevented him, ſaying, What thinkeſt thou, Simon? Of whom do the kings of the earth take cuſtom or tribute? of their own children, or of ſtrangers?

26 Peter ſaith unto him, Of ſtrangers. Jeſus ſaith unto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithſtanding, leſt we ſhould offend them, go thou to the ſea, and caſt an hook, and take up the fiſh that firſt cometh up; and when thou haſt opened his mouth, thou ſhalt find a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Chriſt teacheth to be humble. 7 Touching offences, 21 and forgiving one another.

AT the ſame time came the diſciples unto Jeſus, ſaying, Who is the greateſt in the kingdom of heaven?

2 And Jeſus called a little child unto him, and ſet him in the midſt of them,

3 And ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye ſhall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

10—13 And his diſciples aſked him, ſaying, Why then ſay the ſcribes, that Elias muſt firſt come? &c.) Here we have the diſciples' queſtion, and our Saviour's anſwer. They aſk our Saviour, how the obſervation of the Jewiſh doctors holds good, that Elias muſt come before the Meſſias come? We ſee the Meſſias, but we ſee no Elias; our Saviour anſwers, that Elias was come already; not Elijah in perſon, but one in the ſpirit and power of Elias; one of his ſpirit and temper, to wit, John the Baptiſt, who was propheſied of under the name of Elias. And indeed great was the reſemblance between the Elias of the Old Teſtament and of the New, namely, John the Baptiſt: they were both born in bad times; they were both zealous for God and religion; they were both undaunted reprovers of the faults of princes; and they were both hated and implacably perſecuted for the ſame. Hatred and perſecution, even unto death, has often been the lot and portion of ſuch as have had the zeal and courage to reprove the faults of princes; Elias is come, and they did unto him whatſoever they would.

17 O faithleſs and perverſe generation, &c.) Moſt expoſitors ſuppoſe this rebuke was given to the diſciples; but the appellation that our Lord here uſes, is more like thoſe which he was wont to give to the ſcribes than to his diſciples: and if he now called them a faithleſs and perverſe generation, they would have had no occaſion afterwards to aſk him the reaſon (as they did, ver. 19.) why they could not caſt out this devil. Beſides, the anſwer was directed to the father of the child, as one of this perverſe generation, Mark ix. 19.

21 Howbeit, this kind goeth not out but by prayer and faſting.) Prayer and faſting could have no relation to the caſting out of devils, but as they had a tendency to increaſe the faith of miracles, in the perſon who had formerly that power conferred upon him. For example, prayer, by impreſſing a perſon's mind with a more intimate ſenſe, that all things whatſoever depended upon the infinite and incomprehenſible power of the Almighty, raiſes his idea of that power to a greater ſublimity, than can be done by ordinary ſpeculation: and as for faſting, by weakening the animal life, it ſubdues ſuch paſſions as are nouriſhed by a continual repletion of body. Hence faſting has a tendency to free the mind from a dominion of paſſion, which never fails to occaſion an inward perturbation of mind, and at the ſame time is found to make even the beſt men inattentive, at leaſt to the more ſilent impreſſions of the Spirit of God. Faſting therefore produces an inward calmneſs and compoſure, very favourable to the increaſe of faith.

24 They that received tribute-money, &c.) The drachma, or tribute-money here mentioned, uſually ſignifies the money that was yearly paid into the treaſury of the temple. Two of theſe made a half-ſhekel, in value about fifteen pence; and four made the ſtater or ſhekel, the piece of money mentioned ver. 27. The way of Chriſt's arguing on this occaſion cannot eaſily be underſtood, without ſuppoſing that the tribute here ſpoken of was demanded by the temple-officers for its ſervice.

27 Go thou to the ſea, and caſt an hook, &c) Our bleſſed Saviour choſe to provide the tribute-money in this manner, becauſe the miracle was of ſuch a kind as to demonſtrate that he was the Son of the Great Monarch, worſhipped in the temple, and who rules the univerſe. In the very manner, therefore, of paying this tax, he ſhewed Peter that he was free from all taxes; and at the ſame time gave his followers this uſeful leſſon, that, in matters which affect their property in a ſmaller degree, it is better to recede ſomewhat of their juſt rights, than by ſtubbornly inſiſting on them to offend their brethren, or diſturb the ſtate.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XVIII.

1 Who is the greateſt in the kingdom of heaven?) Notwithſtanding our bleſſed Saviour had ſo often told his diſciples that his kingdom was not of this world, yet they ſtill dreamt of a temporal and earthly kingdom, which he, as the Meſſias, ſhould ſhew forth the glory of; in which there ſhould be diſtinct places of honour and offices, one above another; and accordingly, at this time, the ambition of the diſciples led them to enquire of our Saviour, who ſhould have the chief place of honour and dignity under him in that his kingdom, who ſhould be the principal officers of ſtate, concluding it muſt be ſome of them, though they could not agree who were fitteſt for thoſe high poſts of honour and ſervice. Hence we may learn, that the beſt and holieſt of men are too ſubject to pride and ambition, to court wordly dignity and greatneſs, to affect a precedency before, and a ſuperiority above others. The diſciples themſelves were tainted with the itch of ambition, which prompted them to enquire of their maſter, Who ſhould be the greateſt in his kingdom of the church?

2, 3 And Jeſus called a little child unto him, &c.) Our Saviour, intending to cure this pride and ambition in his diſciples, firſt preaches to them the doctrine of humility; and, to enforce his doctrine, he ſets before them a little child, the proper emblem of humility; aſſuring them, that unleſs they be converted, or turned from this ſin of pride and ambition, and become as a little child in lowlineſs of mind, and contempt of wordly greatneſs, they cannot be ſaved. No ſins are more odious and abominable in the ſight of God, than pride and ambition, eſpecially amongſt the miniſters of the goſpel. Perſons already converted do ſtand in need of farther converſion: they that are converted from a ſtate of ſin, may want to be converted from a particular act of ſin: this was the diſciples caſe here; they were turned from a courſe of ſin, but they wanted a converſion from a particular act of ſin, namely, ambition. Converſion, though ſincere, may be very imperfect. Converts ſtill have remains of corruption, ſome luſt often breaking forth, which they muſt take ſpecial care to reſiſt and ſubdue.

4 Whoſoever,

4 Whoſoever, therefore, ſhall humble himſelf as this little child, the ſame is greateſt in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And whoſo ſhall receive one ſuch little child in my name receiveth me.

6 But whoſo ſhall offend one of theſe little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millſtone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the ſea.

7 ¶ Woe unto the world becauſe of offences! for it muſt needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!

8 Wherefore, if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and caſt them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet, to be caſt into everlaſting fire.

9 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and caſt it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be caſt into hell-fire.

10 Take heed that ye deſpiſe not one of theſe little ones: for I ſay unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

11 For the Son of man is come to ſave that which was loſt.

12 How think ye, If a man have an hundred ſheep, and one of them be gone aſtray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and ſeeketh that which is gone aſtray.

13 And if ſo be that he find it, verily I ſay unto you, He rejoiceth more of that ſheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not aſtray.

14 Even ſo, it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of theſe little ones ſhould periſh.

15 Moreover, if thy brother ſhall treſpaſs againſt thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he ſhall hear thee, thou haſt gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witneſſes every word may be eſtabliſhed.

17 And if he ſhall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.

18 Verily I ſay unto you, Whatſoever ye ſhall bind on earth ſhall be bound in heaven; and whatſoever ye ſhall looſe on earth ſhall be looſed in heaven.

19 Again, I ſay unto you, That if two of you ſhall agree on earth as touching any thing that they ſhall aſk, it ſhall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midſt of them.

21 ¶ Then came Peter to him, and ſaid, Lord, how oft ſhall my brother ſin againſt me, and I forgive him? till ſeven times?

22 Jeſus ſaith unto him, I ſay not unto thee, Until ſeven times; but until ſeventy times ſeven.

23 Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his ſervants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him which owed him ten thouſand talents:

25 But foraſmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be ſold, and his wife and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The ſervant, therefore, fell down, and worſhipped him, ſaying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that ſervant was moved with compaſſion, and looſed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But the ſame ſervant went out, and found one of his fellow-ſervants which owed him an hundred pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, ſaying, Pay me that thou oweſt.

29 And his fellow-ſervant fell down at his feet, and beſought him, ſaying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not; but went and caſt him into priſon till he ſhould pay the debt.

31 So when his fellow-ſervants ſaw what was done, they were very ſorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord, after that he had called him, ſaid unto him, O thou wicked ſervant, I forgave thee all that debt, becauſe thou deſiredſt me:

33 Shouldeſt not thou alſo have had compaſſion on thy fellow-ſervant, even as I had pity on thee?

34 And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he ſhould pay all that was due unto him.

35 So likewiſe ſhall my heavenly Father do alſo unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their treſpaſſes.

CHAP. XIX.

2 Chriſt healeth the ſick, 3 anſwereth the Phariſees touching divorcement.

AND it came to paſs, that when Jeſus had finiſhed theſe ſayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coaſts of Judea, beyond Jordan:

2 ¶ And great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there.

24 Ten thouſandd talents.) A talent was the greateſt weight among the Jews; and that of ſilver, as many learned men compute, conſiſted of three thouſand ſhekels. But the Hebrew and Greek talents were different; and authors are ſo much divided about their value, that it is hardly poſſible to ſettle it with certainty and exactneſs. However, this is of little moment; but ten thouſand talents are here put for an exceeding great ſum.

25 His lord commanded him to be ſold, &c.) We are not to expect more in a parable than it is deſigned to repreſent; nor is it to be ſtrained to an interpretation exactly ſuited to every circumſtance: its principal ſcope is to be attended to; and ſentiments are to be accommodated to its other parts, only ſo far as the nature of things allows. It therefore is not to be thought ſtrange, that in this parable no notice is taken of the ſatisfaction of Chriſt; for the ſinner here repreſented is ſuppoſed to have excluded himſelf from the benefit of the goſpel-expedient for mercy, and to be dealt with according to his iniquities: and the king's forgiving his ſervant, and afterwards caſting him into priſon, cannot, in application of the parable, be underſtood of God's having actually remitted any man's ſins, and then reverſing the pardon; for this is directly contrary to the nature of his forgiveneſs, in which he blots out our tranſgreſſions, (Iſa. xliii. 25.) and is merciful to our unrighteouſneſſes, and remembers our ſins and iniquities no more, (Heb. viii. 12.) But the governing deſign of the parable is only to ſhew that we cannot expect forgiveneſs from God, unleſs we are diſpoſed to forgive others.

28 An hundred pence.) A Roman penny was the eighth part of an ounce of ſilver, and in value about ſeven-pence half-penny; and ſo an hundred pence was but three pounds two ſhillings and ſixpence: a very inconſiderable ſum, compared with the fore-mentioned ten thouſand talents!

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIX.

1, 2 He departed from Galilee, and came into the coaſts of Judea beyond Jordan, &c.) The country of the Jews was divided into three provinces, namely, Galilee, Samaria, and Judea. In Galilee were the cities of Nazareth, Chorazin, Bethſaida, and Capernaum; here Chriſt dwelt, and ſpent a conſiderable part of his time preaching to them, and working miracles among them. But now comes the time in which our holy Lord takes his leave of this province of Galilee, and returned no more to it: woe to that people, whoſe unthankfulneſs for Chriſt's preſence and miniſtry amongſt them, cauſes him finally to forſake them. Having left Galilee, our holy Lord paſſes through Samaria, (the Samaritans being prejudiced

3 ¶ The Phariſees alſo came unto him, tempting him, and ſaying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cauſe?

4 And he anſwered and ſaid unto them, Have ye not read that he which made them at the beginning, made them male and female,

5 And ſaid, For this cauſe ſhall a man leave father and mother, and ſhall cleave to his wife; and they twain ſhall be one fleſh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one fleſh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put aſunder.

7 They ſay unto him, Why did Moſes then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?

8 He ſaith unto them, Moſes, becauſe of the hardneſs of your hearts, ſuffered you to put away your wives; but from the beginning it was not ſo.

9 And I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and ſhall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoſo marrieth her which is put away, doth commit adultery.

10 His diſciples ſay unto him, If the caſe of the man be ſo with his wife, it is not good to marry.

11 But he ſaid unto them, All men cannot receive this ſaying, ſave they to whom it is given.

12 For there are ſome eunuchs which were ſo born from their mother's womb: and there are ſome eunuchs which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs which have made themſelves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's ſake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

13 Then were there brought unto him little children, that he ſhould put his hands on them, and pray: and the diſciples rebuked them.

14 But Jeſus ſaid, Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me: for of ſuch is the kingdom of heaven.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

16 ¶ And behold, one came and ſaid unto him, Good Maſter, what good thing ſhall I do that I may have eternal life?

17 And he ſaid unto him, Why calleſt thou me good? there is none good but one, that is God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

18 He ſaith unto him, Which? Jeſus ſaid, Thou ſhalt do no murder, Thou ſhalt not commit adultery, Thou ſhalt not ſteal, Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs, 19 Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf.

20 The young man ſaith unto him, All theſe things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

21 Jeſus ſaid unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go, and ſell that thou haſt, and give to the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven: and come and follow me.

22 But when the young man heard that ſaying, he went away ſorrowful: for he had great poſſeſſions.

23 Then ſaid Jeſus unto his diſciples, Verily I ſay unto you, that a rich man ſhall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again, I ſay unto you, it is eaſier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

25 When his diſciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, ſaying, Who then can be ſaved?

26 But Jeſus beheld them, and ſaid unto them, With men this is impoſſible, but with God all things are poſſible.

27 Then anſwered Peter, and ſaid unto him, Behold, we have forſaken all, and followed thee: what ſhall we have therefore?

28 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, That ye which have followed me in the regeneration, when the Son of man ſhall ſit in the throne of his glory, ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

againſt him, and refuſing to receive him) and comes into the coaſts of Judea, where multitudes of people flocked after him. The qualities of his followers, not the great ones of the world, not many mighty, not many noble; but the poor and deſpiſed multitude, the ſick, and weak, the deaf, and blind, the diſeaſed and diſtreſſed. None but ſuch as find their need of Chriſt, will ſeek after him, and come unto him. None will apply to him for help, till they feel themſelves helpleſs. Great multitudes of the ſick and diſeaſed came unto him, and he healed them all.

9 Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, &c.) The practice of unlimited divorces, which prevailed among the Jews, gave great encouragement to family quarrels, was very deſtructive of charity, and hindered the good education of their common offspring. Beſides, it greatly tended to make their children loſe that common reverence for them, which is due to parents, as it was ſcarcely poſſible for the children to avoid engaging in the quarrel. Our Lord's prohibition therefore of theſe divorces is founded on the ſtrongeſt reaſons, and highly tends to the peace and welfare of ſociety.

12 He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.) What is here ſaid of a ſingle life is entirely perverted by the Papiſts, when they produce it to diſcredit matrimony, and exalt celibacy as the more perfect ſtate: for, on this very occaſion, marriage is declared to be an inſtitution of God; and, leſt any one might have replied that it was a remedy contrived purely for our fallen ſtate, it is particularly obſerved that it was an inſtitution given to man in his ſtate of innocence. Wherefore, as the apoſtle tells us, marriage is honourable in all ranks and conditions, provided the duties thereof are inviolably maintained. Beſides, it is falſe to affirm that our Lord recommends celibacy: he only gives permiſſion for it, as a thing lawful, telling them, that if they were able to live continently, they would not ſin, though they did not marry, eſpecially as the times they lived in were times of perſecution. In which light alſo the judgment of St. Paul is to be conſidered, when he declared it better for Chriſtians, as matters then ſtood, not to marry.

23 A rich man ſhall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.) Hardly, that is, not that riches themſelves are any fault, but becauſe of the numerous temptations they accidentally lead men into, in a vicious and corrupt world.

24 It is eaſier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, &c.) The word here uſed is obſerved by ſome to ſignify a cable, as well as a camel, which ſeems to make the metaphor more natural: but others tell us, that a camel's or an elephant's paſſing through the eye of a needle, was a proverbial expreſſion of ſomething extremely difficult, if not impoſſible, in the ordinary courſe of things.

28 When the Son of man ſhall ſit in the throne of his glory, &c.) His followers had ſignalized their reſpects to him in ſuch a manner, that he promiſeth them not only treaſure, but honour in heaven; and here they have a grant or patent for it from him, who is the fountain of honour in that kingdom: Ye which have followed me in the regeneration—ſhall ſit upon twelve thrones. The preamble to the patent, or the conſideration of the grant, is, as uſual, a recital of their ſervices: You have followed me in the regeneration, and therefore this will I do for you. The time of Chriſt's appearing in this world was a time of regeneration, of reformation, (Heb. ix. 10.) when old things began to paſs away, and all things to look new. The diſciples had followed Chriſt when the church was yet in embryo, when the goſpel-temple was but in the framing, when they had more of the work and ſervice of apoſtles, than of the dignity and power that belonged to their office. Now they followed Chriſt with a conſtant fatigue, when few did; and therefore on them he will put particular marks of honour. Chriſt hath ſpecial favour for thoſe that begin early with him, that truſt him further than they can ſee him, as they did who followed him in the regeneration.—Peter ſpoke of their forſaking all to follow him; Chriſt only ſpeaks of their following him, which was the main matter. The date of their honour, which fixeth the time when it ſhould commence, was not immediately from the day of the date of the preſent; no, they muſt continue a while in obſcurity as they were: but when the Son of man ſhall ſit in the throne of his glory; and to this ſome refer that, in the regeneration: You which now have followed me, ſhall, in the regeneration, be thus dignified. Chriſt's ſecond coming will be a regeneration, when there ſhall be new heavens, and a new earth, and the reſtitution of all things. All that partake of the regeneration in grace (John iii. 3.) ſhall partake of the regeneration in glory; for as grace is the firſt reſurrection (Rev. xx. 6.) ſo glory is the ſecond regeneration. Now their honour being adjourned 'till the Son of man's ſitting in the throne of his glory, intimates, that they muſt ſtay for their advancement 'till then. As long as our

29 And every one that hath forſaken houſes, or brethren, or ſiſters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's ſake, ſhall receive an hundred fold, and ſhall inherit everlaſting life.

30 But many that are firſt ſhall be laſt, and the laſt ſhall be firſt.

CHAP. XX.

1 Of the labourers in the vineyard. 20 Chriſt teacheth his diſciples to be lowly.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an houſeholder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a-day, he ſent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and ſaw others ſtanding idle in the market-place,

4 And ſaid unto them, Go ye alſo into the vineyard, and whatſoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

5 Again, he went out about the ſixth and ninth hour, and did likewiſe.

6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others ſtanding idle, and ſaith unto them, Why ſtand ye here all the day idle?

7 They ſay unto him, Becauſe no man hath hired us. He ſaith unto them, Go ye alſo into the vineyard; and whatſoever is right that ſhall ye receive.

8 So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard ſaith unto his ſteward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the laſt unto the firſt.

9 And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny.

10 But when the firſt came, they ſuppoſed that they ſhould have received more; and they likewiſe received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they murmured againſt the good man of the houſe,

12 Saying, Theſe laſt have wrought but one hour, and thou haſt made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 But he anſwered one of them, and ſaid, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didſt not thou agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that thine is, and go thy way: I will give unto this laſt even as unto thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? is thine eye evil becauſe I am good?

16 So the laſt ſhall be firſt, and the firſt laſt; for many be called, but few choſen.

17 And Jeſus, going up to Jeruſalem, took the twelve diſciples apart in the way, and ſaid unto them,

18 Behold, we go up to Jeruſalem; and the Son of man ſhall be betrayed unto the chief prieſts and unto the ſcribes, and they ſhall condemn him to death,

19 And ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles to mock, and to ſcourge, and to crucify him: and the third day he ſhall riſe again.

20 ¶ Then came to him the mother of Zebedee's children, with her ſons, worſhipping him, and deſiring a certain thing of him.

21 And he ſaid unto her, What wilt thou? She ſaith unto him, Grant that theſe my two ſons may ſit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom.

22 But Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, Ye know not what ye aſk. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I ſhall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptiſm that I am baptized with? They ſay unto him, We are able.

23 And he ſaith unto them, Ye ſhall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptiſm that I am baptized with: but to ſit on my right hand and on my left is not mine to give, but it ſhall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 And when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation againſt the two brethren.

25 But Jeſus called them unto him, and ſaid, Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exerciſe dominion over them, and they that are great exerciſe authority on them.

26 But it ſhall not be ſo among you: but whoſoever will be great among you, let him be your miniſter:

27 And whoſoever will be chief among you, let him be your ſervant:

28 Even as the Son of man came not to be miniſtered unto, but to miniſter, and to give his life a ranſom for many.

29 And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

maſter's glory is delayed, it is fit ours ſhould be ſo too, and that we ſhould wait for it with an earneſt expectation, as of a hope not ſeen. We muſt live, and work, and ſuffer, in faith, and hope, and patience, which therefore muſt be tried by theſe delays. They muſt ſhare with Chriſt in his advancement; their honour muſt be a communion with him in his honour. They, having ſuffered with a ſuffering Jeſus, muſt reign with a reigning Jeſus; for both here and hereafter Chriſt will be all in all.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XX.

1, 2 Early in the morning, &c.) Some ſuppoſe, that early in the morning, and the third, the ſixth, the ninth, and the eleventh hours, which ſignify nine o'clock in the morning, noon, three, and five o'clock in the afternoon, relate to the times of the firſt promiſe, and afterwards of Abraham and Moſes, and then of the prophets, and laſt of all of Chriſt and his apoſtles: but as the kingdom of heaven, repreſented in this parable, ſignifies the goſpel-ſtate, they may be underſtood to relate to the ſeveral periods of its diſpenſation, and the various commiſſions for preaching it, firſt to the Jews, and afterwards to the Gentiles: and though this parable ſeems to relate primarily to the different ſeaſons of God's calling the Jews and Gentiles by the goſpel, and to the ſovereign diſtributions of his grace to one and the other of them; yet it is moſtly applicable to all perſons, wherever the goſpel comes.

16 For many be called, but few choſen.) This latter part of the verſe being brought in as a reaſon of what was ſaid in the former, ſeems naturally to intimate, that, by the laſt being firſt, and the firſt laſt, our Lord meant not only that the Gentiles ſhould be made equal, in goſpel-privileges and bleſſings, to the Jews; but that many, who were moſt likely in human view, to be made partakers of them, ſhould fall ſhort, through ſelf-conceit and unbelief; while others, who were much more unlikely, ſhould obtain them through faith, according to the ſovereign diſpoſals of God's grace.

29 And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.) The city of Jericho, for magnitude and opulence, was inferior to none in Paleſtine, Jeruſalem alone excepted. It was beautified with a palace for the reception of a governor, an amphitheatre for a public ſhew, and an hippodrome for horſe-races. The city was pleaſantly ſituated at the foot of that range of hills that bounded the Campus magnus to the weſt. The country around was the moſt fertile ſpot in Canaan, yielding, beſides the neceſſaries of life in great abundance, the beſt palms, excellent honey, and the celebrated balſam-tree, the moſt precious production of the earth. The fruitfulneſs of this region was owing to various cauſes, and, among the reſt, to a fine ſpring flowing through it, and which was anciently ſweetened by the prophet Eliſha, who alſo, by the command of the Almighty, bleſſed the land with perpetual and extraordinary fertility. The air here was exceedingly mild; for when it ſnowed in other parts of Paleſtine, and was ſo cold that the inhabitants were obliged to make uſe of the warmeſt cloathing, thoſe near Jericho were only cloathed in linen. Hence, as Joſephus tells us, the territory of Jericho was called Theion Chorion, a heavenly country, reſembling paradiſe for beauty of proſpect, fertility of ſoil, and felicity of climate. The fountain that enriched this delightful ſpot was ſo large as to deſerve the name of a water or river (Joſh. xvi. 1.) and refreſhed a plain of ſeventy ſtadiums long, and twenty broad: but the excellency of its quality was viſible in its effects; for it gladdened the whole tract through which it glided, and made it look like a garden, affording a proſpect the more agreeable, as the neighbouring country was black and inhoſpitable. Jericho was an hundred and twenty ſtadiums (or fifteen miles) from Jeruſalem, almoſt due eaſt, the country between being mountainous; but from thence to the Jordan, which was at the diſtance of twenty ſtadiums (or two miles and a half) and alſo towards the Dead-Sea, the land was flat and barren.

30 And behold, two blind men ſitting by the way ſide, when they heard that Jeſus paſſed by, cried out, ſaying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou Son of David.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, becauſe they ſhould hold their peace: but they cried the more, ſaying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou Son of David.

32 And Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and called them, and ſaid, What will ye that I ſhall do unto you?

33 They ſay unto him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 So Jeſus had compaſſion on them, and touched their eyes: and immediately their eyes received ſight, and they followed him.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Chriſt rideth into Jeruſalem on an aſs, 12 and caſteth out the buyers and ſellers.

AND when they drew nigh unto Jeruſalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then ſent Jeſus two diſciples,

2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over-againſt you, and ſtraightway ye ſhall find an aſs tied, and a colt with her; looſe them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man ſay aught unto you, ye ſhall ſay, The Lord hath need of them; and ſtraightway he will ſend them.

4 All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophet, ſaying,

5 Tell ye the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy king cometh unto thee, meek, and ſitting upon an aſs, and a colt the foal of an aſs.

6 And the diſciples went, and did as Jeſus commanded them.

7 And brought the aſs, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they ſet him thereon.

8 And a very great multitude ſpread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and ſtrawed them in the way.

9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, ſaying, Hoſanna to the Son of David: Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hoſanna in the higheſt.

10 And when he was come into Jeruſalem, all the city was moved, ſaying, Who is this?

11 And the multitude ſaid, This is Jeſus the prophet, of Nazareth of Galilee.

12 ¶ And Jeſus went into the temple of God, and caſt out all them that ſold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the table of the money-changers, and the ſeats of them that ſold doves,

13 And he ſaid unto them, It is written, My houſe ſhall be called the houſe of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves.

14 And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple: and he healed them.

15 And when the chief prieſts and ſcribes ſaw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and ſaying, Hoſanna to the Son of David, they were ſore diſpleaſed,

16 And ſaid unto him, Heareſt thou what theſe ſay? And Jeſus ſaith unto them, Yea; have ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and ſucklings thou haſt perfected praiſe?

17 And he left them, and went out of the city into Bethany, and he lodged there.

18 Now in the morning, as he returned into the city, he hungered.

19 And when he ſaw a fig-tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon but leaves only, and ſaid unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And preſently the fig-tree withered away.

20 And when the diſciples ſaw it, they marvelled, ſaying, How ſoon is the fig-tree withered away!

21 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, If ye have faith, and doubt not, ye ſhall not only do this which is done to the fig-tree, but alſo, if ye ſay unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou caſt into the ſea, it ſhall be done.

22 And all things whatſoever ye ſhall aſk in prayer, believing, ye ſhall receive.

23 And when he was come into the temple, the chief prieſts and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and ſaid, By what authority doeſt thou theſe things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, I alſo will aſk you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in likewiſe will tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

25 The baptiſm of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reaſoned with themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven; he will ſay unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?

26 But if we ſhall ſay, Of men; we fear the people: for all hold John as a prophet.

Commentary on Chap. XXI.

1, 2, 3 And when they drew nigh unto Jeruſalem, &c.) The former part of this chapter gives us an account of our Saviour's ſolemn and triumphant riding into the city of Jeruſalem. In all our Saviour's journeys and travels from place to place, he conſtantly went, like a poor man, on foot, without noiſe and without train; now he goes up to Jeruſalem to die for ſinners; he rides, to ſhew his great cheerfulneſs in that ſervice, and his forwardneſs to lay down his life for us. But what doth he ride upon? An aſs, according to the manner of great perſons among the Jews; but eſpecially to fulfil the prophecy, Zech. ix. 9. that the Meſſias, a King of the Jews, ſhould come riding upon an aſs. But this aſs was a colt, the foal of an aſs, on which never man had rode before, ſays St. Mark ch. xi. 12. ſignifying thereby, that the moſt unruly and untamed creatures become obedient and obſequious to him: and upon a borrowed aſs, the uſe of which he demands, thereby manifeſting his ſovereign right to all the creatures; and, accordingly, he bids his diſciples tell the owner of the aſs, That the Lord hath need of him; not our Lord, but the Lord, that is, the Lord of all, whoſe are the cattle upon a thouſand hills; he that is Lord of all the beaſts, and the owners too. Notwithſtanding Chriſt's ſupreme right to the aſs and the colt, he would have neither of them taken without the owner's knowledge, or againſt his will; but the diſciples muſt acquaint him with it, and by a double argument move him to it.

9 Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hoſanna in the higheſt.) Our Lord reſtrained all public tokens of honour from the people till now, that he might not ſtir up the envy of his enemies, nor interrupt the courſe of his preaching, before his time; but theſe reaſons now ceaſing, he ſuffered theſe loud acclamations of the multitude, that they might be a ſtrong and public teſtimony againſt their wickedneſs, who, in four or five days afterwards, would cry out, Crucify him, crucify him.

12, 13 And Jeſus went into the temple of God, &c.) Our bleſſed Saviour having entered Jeruſalem, his firſt walk was not to the palace, but to the temple, and his work there was to purge and reform: all reformation of manners muſt begin firſt at the houſe of God. Our Lord's buſineſs was to reform the temple, not to ruin it. Places dedicated to the ſervice of God, if profaned and polluted, ought to be purged from their abuſes, not pulled down and deſtroyed, becauſe they have been abuſed. The profanation of the temple which ſo offended our Saviour, was a public mart or market, held within the third or outer court of the temple, where were ſold oxen, ſheep, and doves, and ſuch things as were needful for ſacrifice: many of the Jews coming an hundred miles to the temple, it was burthenſome to bring their ſacrifices ſo far with them; wherefore order was taken by the prieſts, that ſheep and oxen, meal and oil, and all other requiſites for ſacrifice, ſhould be had for money cloſe by the altar, to the great eaſe of the offerer. Nothing could be more plauſible than this plea. But the faireſt pretences cannot bear out a ſin with God; therefore our bleſſed Saviour, in indignation at ſo foul an abuſe, whips out theſe chapmen, caſts down their tables, and vindicates the honour and reputation of his father's houſe.

27 And they anſwered Jeſus, and ſaid, We cannot tell. And he ſaid unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do theſe things.

28 But what think ye? A certain man had two ſons: and he came to the firſt, and ſaid, Son, go work to-day in my vineyard.

29 He anſwered and ſaid, I will not; but afterward he repented, and went.

30 And he came to the ſecond, and ſaid likewiſe. And he anſwered and ſaid, I go, ſir; and went not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of his father? They ſay unto him, The firſt. Jeſus ſaith unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For John came unto you in the way of righteouſneſs, and ye believed him not; but the publicans and the harlots believed him: and ye, when ye had ſeen it, repented not afterward, that ye might believe him.

33 Hear another parable; There was a certain houſeholder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a wine-preſs in it, and built a tower, and let it out to huſbandmen, and went into a far country:

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he ſent his ſervants to the huſbandmen, that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And the huſbandmen took his ſervants, and beat one, and killed another, and ſtoned another.

36 Again, he ſent other ſervants more than the firſt: and they did unto them likewiſe.

37 But laſt of all he ſent unto them his ſon, ſaying, They will reverence my ſon.

38 But when the huſbandmen ſaw the ſon, they ſaid among themſelves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and let us ſeize on his inheritance.

39 And they caught him, and caſt him out of the vineyard, and ſlew him.

40 When the lord, therefore, of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto thoſe huſbandmen?

41 They ſay unto him, He will miſerably deſtroy thoſe wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other huſbandmen, which ſhall render him the fruits in their ſeaſons.

42 Jeſus ſaith unto them, Did ye never read in the ſcriptures, The ſtone which the builders rejected, the ſame is become the head of the corner: this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

43 Therefore ſay I unto you, The kingdom of God ſhall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 And whoſoever ſhall fall on this ſtone, ſhall be broken; but on whomſoever it ſhall fall, it will grind him to powder.

45 And when the chief prieſts and Phariſees had heard his parables, they perceived that he ſpake of them.

46 But when they ſought to lay hands on him, they feared the multitude, becauſe they took him for a prophet.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Marriage of the king's ſon. 11 The wedding-garment. 15 Of paying tribute. 23 Of the reſurrection.

AND Jeſus anſwered, and ſpake unto them again by parables, and ſaid,

2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king which made a marriage for his ſon,

3 And ſent forth his ſervants to call them that were bidden to the wedding, and they would not come.

4 Again, he ſent forth other ſervants, ſaying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner; my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandiſe:

6 And the remnant took his ſervants, and entreated them ſpitefully, and ſlew them.

7 But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he ſent forth his armies, and deſtroyed thoſe murderers, and burned up their city.

8 Then ſaith he to his ſervants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy.

9 Go ye, therefore, into the high-ways, and, as many as ye ſhall find, bid to the marriage.

10 So thoſe ſervants went out into the the high-ways, and gathered together all, as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was furniſhed with gueſts.

11 ¶ And when the king came in to ſee the gueſts, he ſaw there a man which had not on a wedding-garment:

12 And he ſaith unto him, Friend, how cameſt thou in hither, not having a wedding-garment? And he was ſpeechleſs.

---

44 And whoſoever ſhall fall on this ſtone, &c.) Theſe words are taken out of the cxviiith Pſalm, which the Jews underſtood to be a prophecy of the Meſſiah, and accordingly Chriſt applies them to himſelf. The church is the building intended, Chriſt himſelf the ſtone rejected; the rejecters, or the builders rejecting, were the heads of the Jewiſh church; that is, the chief prieſts and Phariſees. God, the great maſter-builder of his church, takes this precious foundation-ſtone out of the rubbiſh, and ſets it in the head of the corner. Nevertheleſs, there are ſome who ſtumble at this ſtone. Some through ignorance, others through malice, ſtumble at his perſon, at his doctrine, at his inſtitutions: Theſe ſhall be broken in pieces; but on whomſoever this ſtone ſhall fall, it will grind him to powder: that is, Chriſt himſelf will fall as a burthenſome ſtone upon all thoſe that knowingly and maliciouſly oppoſe him; and particularly upon the Jews, who not only rejected him, but perſecuted him. Thus Chriſt tells the chief prieſts and Phariſees their own particular doom, and alſo declares what will be the fatal iſſue of all that oppoſition which is made againſt himſelf and his church.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXII.

2—13 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king which made a marriage for his ſon, &c.) The deſign and ſcope of this parable is to ſet forth that gracious offer of mercy and ſalvation, which was made by God in and through the preaching of the goſpel to the church of the Jews. The goſpel is here compared to a feaſt, becauſe in a feaſt there is plenty, variety, and dainties; alſo to a marriage-feaſt, being full of joy, delight, and pleaſure; and to a marriage-feaſt made by a king, as being full of ſtate, magnificence, and grandeur. To this marriage-feaſt, or goſpel-ſupper, Almighty God invited the church of the Jews; and the ſervants, ſent forth to invite them, were the prophets and apoſtles in general, and John the Baptiſt in particular, whom they entreated ſpitefully, and ſlew. The making light of the invitation, ſignifies the generality of the Jews' refuſal, and careleſs contempt of the offers of grace in the goſpel. By the armies which God ſent forth to deſtroy thoſe murderers, are meant the Roman ſoldiers, who ſpoiled and laid waſte the city of Jeruſalem, and were the ſevere executioners of God's wrath and judgment upon the wicked Jews. The highways ſignify the deſpiſed Gentiles, who, upon the Jew's refuſal, were invited to this ſupper, and prevailed with to come in. The king's coming in to ſee his gueſts, denotes that inſpection which Chriſt makes into his church in the times of the goſpel. By the man without the wedding-garment, we are to underſtand ſuch as are deſtitute of true grace and real holineſs, both in heart and life. In the examination of him, Chriſt ſays, Friend, how cameſt thou in hither? not, Friends, why came ye along with him? Teaching us, that if unholy perſons will preſs in to the Lord's ſupper, the ſin is theirs; but if we come not, becauſe they will come, the ſin is ours. The preſence of an unholy perſon at the Lord's table ought not to diſcourage us from our duty, or cauſe us to turn our back upon that ordinance. The command to bind the unqualified perſon hand and foot, and caſt him into utter darkneſs, plainly intimates, that the condition of ſuch perſons as live under the light, and enjoy the liberty of the goſpel, but walk not anſwerably to their profeſſion, is deplorably ſad and doleful; they do not only incur damnation, but no damnation like it. Bind him hand and foot, and caſt him into utter darkneſs.

13 Then ſaid the king to the ſervants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and caſt him into outer darkneſs: there ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth.

14 For many are called, but few are choſen.

15 ¶ Then went the Phariſees, and took counſel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they ſent out unto him their diſciples with the Herodians, ſaying, Maſter, we know that thou art true, and teacheſt the way of God in truth, neither careſt thou for any man; for thou regardeſt not the perſon of men.

17 Tell us, therefore, What thinkeſt thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Ceſar, or not?

18 But Jeſus perceived their wickedneſs, and ſaid, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute-money. And they brought unto him a penny.

20 And he ſaith unto them, Whoſe is this image and ſuperſcription?

21 They ſay unto him, Ceſar's. Then ſaith he unto them, Render, therefore, unto Ceſar the things which are Ceſar's; and unto God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard theſe words they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ The ſame day came to him the Sadducees, which ſay that there is no reſurrection, and aſked him,

24 Saying, Maſter, Moſes ſaid, If a man die, having no children, his brother ſhall marry his wife, and raiſe up ſeed unto his brother:

25 Now there were with us ſeven brethren: and the firſt, when he had married a wife, deceaſed; and, having no iſſue, left his wife unto his brother:

26 Likewiſe the ſecond alſo, and the third, unto the ſeventh.

27 And laſt of all the woman died alſo.

28 Therefore, in the reſurrection, whoſe wife ſhall ſhe be of the ſeven? for they all had her.

29 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Ye do err, not knowing the ſcriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For, in the reſurrection, they neither marry nor are given in marriage; but are as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the reſurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was ſpoken unto you by God, ſaying,

32 I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitude heard this, they were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine.

34 But when the Phariſees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to ſilence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was a lawyer, aſked him a queſtion, tempting him, and ſaying,

36 Maſter, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jeſus ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the firſt and great commandment.

39 And the ſecond is like unto it, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf.

40 On theſe two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

41 While the Phariſees were gathered together, Jeſus aſked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Chriſt? whoſe Son is he? They ſay unto him, The Son of David.

43 He ſaith unto them, How then doth David in ſpirit call him Lord, ſaying,

44 The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool?

45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his Son?

46 And no man was able to anſwer him a word; neither durſt any man, from that day forth, aſk him any more queſtions.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Scribes and Phariſees' good doctrine, but evil examples of life. 34 Deſtruction of Jeruſalem foretold.

THEN ſpake Jeſus to the multitude, and to his diſciples,

2 Saying, The ſcribes and the Phariſees ſit in Moſes' ſeat:

23—33 The ſame day came to him the Sadducees, which ſay that there is no reſurrection, &c.) Our bleſſed Saviour having put the Phariſees and Herodians to ſilence, next the Sadducees encounter him. This ſect denied the immortality of the ſoul, and the reſurrection of the body; and, as an objection againſt both, they propound a caſe to our Saviour, of a woman that had ſeven brethren ſucceſſively to her huſbands: they demand, Whoſe wife of the ſeven this woman ſhall be at the reſurrection? As if they had ſaid, If there be a reſurrection of bodies, ſurely there will be a reſurrection of relations too, and the other world will be like this, in which men will marry as they do here. And if ſo, whoſe wife of the ſeven ſhall this woman be, they all having an equal claim to her? Now our Saviour, for reſolving of this queſtion, ſhews the different ſtate of men in this world, and in the other world. The children of this world, ſays Chriſt, marry, and are given in marriage, but at the reſurrection they do neither. As if our Lord had ſaid, After men have lived awhile in this world, they die, and therefore marriage is neceſſary to maintain a ſucceſſion of mankind; but in the other world, men ſhould become immortal, and live for ever; and then the reaſon of marriage will wholly ceaſe. For when men can die no more, there will be no need of any new ſupplies of mankind. Our Saviour having got clear of the Sadducees' objection, by taking away the ground and foundation of it, he produceth an argument for a proof of the ſoul's immortality and the body's reſurrection: thus, Thoſe to whom Almighty God pronounced himſelf a God, are alive; but God pronounced himſelf a God to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, many hundred years after their bodies were dead; therefore their ſouls are yet alive, federally alive unto God: their covenant relation lives ſtill, otherwiſe God could not be their God; for he is not the God of the dead, but of the living. If one relation fails, the other neceſſarily fails with it; if God be their God, then certainly they are in being, for God is not the God of the dead, that is, of thoſe that are utterly periſhed. Therefore it muſt needs be, that although their bodies be naturally dead, yet do their ſouls ſtill live, and their bodies ſhall alſo live again at the reſurrection of the juſt.

45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his Son?) The Jewiſh doctors, it ſeems, did not expect any thing in their Meſſiah, more excellent than the moſt exalted perfections of human nature; for though they called him the Son of God, they had no notion that he was God: and therefore could offer no ſolution to the difficulty. The latter queſtion however might have ſhewed them their error: for, if the Meſſiah was to be only a temporal prince, as they ſuppoſed, ruling the men of his own times, he never could have been called Lord by perſons who died many ages before he was born: far leſs would ſo mighty a king as David, who was alſo his progenitor, have called him Lord. Wherefore, ſince he rules not only over the vulgar dead of former ages, but even over kings from whom he was himſelf deſcended, and his kingdom comprehends the men of all countries and times, paſt, preſent, and to come, the doctors, if they had thought accurately upon the ſubject, ſhould have expected in their Meſſiah a king different from all other kings whatever.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIII.

2, 3 The ſcribes and the Phariſees ſit in Moſes' ſeat, &c.) The ſcribes and Phariſees, ſo often mentioned in the goſpel, were the great doctors and ſpiritual guides amongſt the Jews. Scribe is the name of an office, Phariſee the name of a ſect. They were both learned in the law, and teachers of the law of Moſes. Our bleſſed Saviour, in the former part of this goſpel, held many conferences with theſe men, and uſed the moſt perſuaſive arguments to convince them both of their errors and wickedneſs. But their obſtinacy and malice being ſuch, that neither our Saviour's miniſtry nor miracles could convince them; hereupon our Lord denounces in this chapter eight ſeveral woes againſt them. But firſt he charitably warns his diſciples and the multitude againſt the pernicious practices of this

3 All, therefore, whatſoever they bid you obſerve, that obſerve and do; but do not ye after their works: for they ſay, and do not.

4 For they bind heavy burdens, and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's ſhoulders; but they themſelves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 But all their works they do for to be ſeen of men: they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

6 And love the uppermoſt rooms at feaſts, and the chief ſeats in the ſynagogues,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

8 But be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your Maſter, even Chriſt; and all ye are brethren.

9 And call no man your Father upon the earth: for one is your Father which is in heaven.

10 Neither be ye called Maſters: for one is your Maſter, even Chriſt.

11 But he that is greateſt among you ſhall be your ſervant.

12 And whoſoever ſhall exalt himſelf ſhall be abaſed; and he that ſhall humble himſelf ſhall be exalted.

13 But woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye ſhut up the kingdom of heaven againſt men: for ye neither go in yourſelves, neither ſuffer ye them that are entering to go in.

14 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows' houſes, and for a pretence make long prayer; therefore ye ſhall receive the greater damnation.

15 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye compaſs ſea and land to make one proſelyte; and when he is made, ye make him two-fold more the child of hell than yourſelves.

16 Woe unto you, ye blind guides! which ſay, Whoſoever ſhall ſwear by the temple, it is nothing; but whoſoever ſhall ſwear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor.

17 Ye fools, and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that ſanctifieth the gold?

18 And, Whoſoever ſhall ſwear by the altar, it is nothing; but whoſoever ſweareth by the gift that is upon it, he is guilty.

19 Ye fools, and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that ſanctifieth the gift?

20 Whoſo, therefore, ſhall ſwear by the altar, ſweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 And whoſo ſhall ſwear by the temple, ſweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein.

22 And he that ſhall ſwear by heaven, ſweareth by the throne of God, and by him that ſitteth thereon.

23 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint, and aniſe, and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: theſe ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

24 Ye blind guides, which ſtrain at a gnat, and ſwallow a camel.

25 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye make clean the outſide of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and exceſs.

26 Thou blind Phariſee, cleanſe firſt that which is within the cup and platter, that the outſide of them may be clean alſo.

27 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited ſepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanneſs.

28 Even ſo ye alſo outwardly appear righteous unto men; but within ye are full of hypocriſy and iniquity.

29 Woe unto you, ſcribes and Phariſees, hypocrites! becauſe ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garniſh the ſepulchres of the righteous,

30 And ſay, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.

ſort of men, ſaying, The ſcribes and Phariſees ſit in Moſes' ſeat; that is, they teach and expound the law of Moſes, which they were wont to do ſitting: Whatſoever they bid you obſerve, that obſerve and do; that is, What they teach you conſonant to the word of God, and agreeable to the writings of Moſes and the prophets: if they go not out of Moſes' chair into their own unwritten traditions, follow their doctrine, and obey their precepts; But do not after their works: follow not their example, take heed of their pride and hypocriſy, of their ambition and vain-glory. Obey their doctrine wherein it is ſound; but follow not their example wherein it is corrupt.

5, 6 They make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments, &c.) Theſe phylacteries were certain ſcrolls and labels of parchment, in which were written the ten commandments, and ſome ſections of the law; theſe they tied to their foreheads, and pinned upon their left ſleeves, that the law of God might be continually before their eyes, and perpetually in their remembrance. This ceremony they judged God preſcribed them, Deut. vi. 8.—By enlarging the borders of their garments, our Saviour points at the fringes and blue ribbons which the Jews did wear upon their garments, in obedience to the command. Numb. xv. 37, 38. As the threads in thoſe fringes and ribbons, cloſe woven together, did repreſent the connection, complication, and inſeparable conjunction of God's commandments amongſt themſelves; ſo the wearing of theſe fringes was to put them in mind of the laws of God; that which way ſoever they turned their eyes, they might meet with ſome pious admonition to keep the law of God. Now the vain-glorious Phariſees, that they might be thought more mindful of the law of God than other men, did make their phylacteries broader, and their fringes thicker and longer than other men. They fondly affected, and ambitiouſly contended for the firſt and uppermoſt ſeats in all conventions, as at feaſts, and in the ſynagogues, and loved to be reſpectfully ſaluted in open and public places, and to have titles of honour, ſuch as Rabbi, Maſter, Father, and Doctor, put upon them. Now that which our Saviour condemns, is the Phariſees' fond affection of theſe little things, and unduly ſeeking their own honour and glory. It was not their taking, but their loving the uppermoſt rooms at feaſts, that Chriſt condemns. Hypocrites are fond of affecting ceremonial obſervations and outward parts of commanded duties, neglecting the ſubſtance of religion itſelf. Theſe Phariſees were for carrying a library of God's law on their clothes, ſcarce a letter of it in their hearts. They wore the law of God as frontlets before their eyes, but not engraven on the tables of their hearts. The nature of hypocriſy is to ſtudy more to ſeem religious in the ſight of men, than to be religious indeed before God. The hypocrite is the world's ſaint, and not God's: he courts the world's acceptation more than the divine favour and approbation.

7 To be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.) The Rabbies were the great fathers of tradition, and maſters in Iſrael, who laid as much ſtreſs, or more, upon their own inventions, which in time became the traditions of the elders, than upon the words of ſcripture themſelves: and therefore, when all the Jewiſh traditions came afterwards to be collected in the book called their Talmud, the contenders for their authority were called Rabiniſts.

8 Be not ye called Rabbi, &c.) Our Lord does not condemn civil reſpect under the titles of father, maſter, and the like; for theſe reſult from known relations in life; and the apoſtle ſtyled himſelf a father, on religious accounts, to them whom he had been inſtrumental in converting to the faith of Chriſt: but all titles are to be condemned, as far as any are ambitious of them, and as far as they entrench upon God's authority, and are uſed to countenance a dominion over the faith of others.

15 Ye make him two-fold more the child of hell than yourſelves.) The Helleniſt Jews, who were moſtly proſelytes, ſhewed the bittereſt rancour of all others againſt Chriſtianity, (Acts xiii. 45. xiv. 2, 19. xvii. 5, 6, 13.) And Juſtin Martyr complained that the Jewiſh proſelytes were doubly more blaſphemous againſt the name of Chriſt, and deſirous to kill and torment believers in him, than the Jews were themſelves.

27 Whited ſepulchres.) The graves of the principal perſons were diſtinguiſhed by ſquare rooms with cupolas built over them, which being conſtantly kept clean, white-waſhed, and beautified, they continue to this day an excellent comment upon this expreſſion of our Saviour. They were thus whitened, that people might diſcern they were polluted places, and conſequently avoid coming near them.

31 Wherefore ye be witneſſes unto yourſelves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets.

32 Fill ye up then the meaſure of your fathers.

33 Ye ſerpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye eſcape the damnation of hell?

34 ¶ Wherefore, behold, I ſend unto you prophets, and wiſe men, and ſcribes; and ſome of them ye ſhall kill and crucify; and ſome of them ſhall ye ſcourge in your ſynagogues, and perſecute them from city to city:

35 That upon you may come all the righteous blood ſhed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, ſon of Barachias, whom ye ſlew between the temple and the altar.

36 Verily I ſay unto you, All theſe things ſhall come upon this generation.

37 O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, thou that killeſt the prophets, and ſtoneſt them which are ſent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!

38 Behold, your houſe is left unto you deſolate.

39 For I ſay unto you, Ye ſhall not ſee me henceforth, till ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The deſtruction of the temple foretold. 29 Of Chriſt's coming to judgment.

AND Jeſus went out, and departed from the temple: and his diſciples came to him, for to ſhew him the buildings of the temple.

2 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, See ye not all theſe things? Verily I ſay unto you, there ſhall not be left here one ſtone upon another, that ſhall not be thrown down.

3 And as he ſat upon the mount of Olives, the diſciples came unto him privately, ſaying, Tell us, when ſhall theſe things be? and what ſhall be the ſign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?

4 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you:

5 For many ſhall come in my name, ſaying, I am Chriſt, and ſhall deceive many.

6 And ye ſhall hear of wars, and rumours of wars: ſee that ye be not troubled: for all theſe things muſt come to paſs, but the end is not yet.

7 For nation ſhall riſe againſt nation, and kingdom againſt kingdom: and there ſhall be famines, and peſtilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.

8 All theſe are the beginning of ſorrows.

9 Then ſhall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and ſhall kill you: and ye ſhall be hated of all nations for my name's ſake.

10 And then ſhall many be offended, and ſhall betray one another, and ſhall hate one another.

11 And many falſe prophets ſhall riſe, and ſhall deceive many.

12 And, becauſe iniquity ſhall abound, the love of many ſhall wax cold.

13 But he that ſhall endure unto the end, the ſame ſhall be ſaved.

14 And this goſpel of the kingdom ſhall be preached in all the world, for a witneſs unto all nations; and then ſhall the end come.

15 When ye, therefore, ſhall ſee the abomination of deſolation ſpoken of by Daniel the prophet, ſtand in the holy place, (whoſo readeth, let him underſtand,)

16 Then let them which be in Judea flee into the mountains;

17 Let him which is on the houſe-top not come down to take any thing out of his houſe:

18 Neither let him which is in the field return back to take his clothes.

19 And woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give ſuck, in thoſe days.

20 But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the ſabbath-day:

21 For then ſhall be great tribulation, ſuch as was not ſince the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever ſhall be.

22 And except thoſe days ſhould be ſhortened, there ſhould no fleſh be ſaved; but for the elect's ſake thoſe days ſhall be ſhortened.

---

37 O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, thou that killeſt the prophets, &c.) O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, how deplorable is thy caſe who wert once the holy and beloved city of God, and the joy of the whole earth! Thou art now become ſo infamous for ſhedding blood, that a prophet cannot periſh but in thee, (Luke xiii. 33.) and ſo furious is thy rage, that thou art ſet upon ſtoning them for impoſtors, whom God, in the greatneſs of his mercy and with viſible tokens of his favour and authority, hath ſent to thee How often have I laboured by my doctrine and miracles, ſolemn warnings, kind invitations, and tenders of mercy, to call thy inhabitants, even thy wicked and rebellious children, to repentance, and to bring them in to myſelf! And what gracious overtures have I made to protect, cheriſh, comfort and ſave them, with a care and tenderneſs like that of a hen to gather her chickens under her wings when ſhe apprehends them to be in danger! But, alas! ye refuſed my counſel, and would have none of my reproof; ye obſtinately perſiſted in your infidelity and in your ſins, and would not ſubmit to my grace and government for your own ſalvation.

38 Behold, your houſe is left unto you deſolate.) Behold, therefore, now the glory is departed; your time of mercy is over; ye are given up, by the righteous judgment of God, as an incorrigible people; and your city, temple, and nation, are abandoned to utter ruin and deſolation.

39 Ye ſhall not ſee me henceforth, &c.) This was the laſt ſolemn warning that Chriſt gave to Jeruſalem, after two others that are recorded; one in Luke xiii. 34, 35. which was occaſioned by the Phariſees ſuggeſting that Herod deſigned to kill him; and the other in Luke xix. 41, &c. which was when he wept over the city, as he was riding in triumph to it, on the firſt day of the week, called in our almanacks Palm-Sunday; whereas this was afterwards in the temple, juſt before his laſt departure from it, ch. xxi. 23. xxiv. 1.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXIV.

2 There ſhall not be left here one ſtone upon another, &c.) The Jewiſh writers themſelves tell us, that this was moſt punctually fulfilled at the ſiege of Jeruſalem, under Titus the Roman commander; who, tho' he would fain have preſerved the temple, could not prevent the ſoldiers burning and deſtroying it: thereupon he ordered them to dig up its foundations; and Turnus Rufus plowed up the ground on which it had ſtood. The ſame might be obſerved of all the following parts of theſe predictions, relating to the deſtruction of the city and temple, as an unanſwerable proof of the truth of the Chriſtian religion.

14 And this goſpel of the kingdom ſhall be preached in all the world, &c.) The fulfilling of this part of the ptophecy we learn chiefly from the writings of the New Teſtament, which informs us, that the goſpel was preached by Paul in Arabia, and through the vaſt tract from Jeruſalem to Iconium in Lycaonia, and in Galatia, and through all Aſia Minor, and in Greece, and round about Illyricum, and in Crete and Italy, Spain and Gaul. Beſides, the goſpel reached much farther than this apoſtle carried it; for we find him writing to Chriſtians that had never ſeen his face. We have alſo ſtill remaining St. Peter's epiſtles to the converted Jews in Pontus, Aſia, Cappadocia, and Bithynia Probably the goſpel was preached in thoſe and many other countries by the Jews who ſojourned there, and who having come up to Jeruſalem to the paſſover, were converted on the day of Pentecoſt. The Ethiopean eunuch converted by Philip, would carry it alſo into his own country: but whatever way it happened, the fact is certain, that in moſt of thoſe countries, churches were planted within thirty years after our Saviour's death, or about ten years before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem.

21, 22 For then ſhall be great tribulation, &c.) The doleful miſeries, and dreadful calamities which were coming upon the Jews in general, and upon Jeruſalem in particular, are here foretold by our Saviour, partly from the Roman army without, and partly from the ſeditions and factions of the zealots within, who committed ſuch outrages and ſlaughters, that there were no leſs than an hundred thouſand ſlain, and ninety ſeven thouſand carried away captive, and 23 Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

24 For there shall arise false christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that (if it were possible) they shall deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore, if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

27 For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 For wheresoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

29 ¶ Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken;

30 And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

32 Now learn a parable of the fig-tree: When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh:

33 So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors.

34 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass till all these things be fulfilled.

35 Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only.

37 But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

39 And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

42 Watch, therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

43 But know this, that if the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

44 Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in due season?

46 Blessed is that servant whom his lord, when he cometh, shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, that he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming;

49 And shall begin to smite his fellow-servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken;

50 The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of,

51 And shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The parable of the ten virgins, 14 and of the talents: 31 also the description of the last judgment.

THEN shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom.

2 And five of them were wise, and five were foolish.

3 They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them.

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 While the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so: lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut.

11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not.

made prisoners. Now did the temple itself become a sacrifice, a whole burnt-offering, and was consumed to ashes. Christ promises that these calamitous days shall be shortened, for the elect's sake. God had a remnant which he determined should survive this destruction, to be an holy seed; and, accordingly, the providence of God so ordered, that the city was taken in six months, and the whole country depopulated in eighteen. Whence we may observe, how the Lord intermixes some mercy with the extremest misery that doth befal a people for their sin. On this side hell, no sinners can say that they feel the strokes of justice to the utmost, or that they have judgment without mercy.

37—41 But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be, &c.) In these verses, our Saviour declares that Jerusalem's destruction, and the world's final dissolution at the great day, would be much like the destruction of the old world, in regard of unexpectedness, and in respect to security and sensuality. How sensual and secure was the old world before the flood! They were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage: that is, wholly given up to sensuality and debauchery, and did not know of the flood's coming; they did not consider it, 'till the flood swept them away. Thus was it in the destruction of Jerusalem, and so will it be in the end of the world. As the old world perished by infidelity, security, and sensuality, so will the same sins be prevailing before the destruction of this present world. The true reason why sinners are drowned in sensuality, and given over to security, is this, because they do not believe the certainty, or consider the proximity and nearness of an approaching judgment. The old world knew not of the flood's coming, though Noah had told them of it an hundred and twenty years together. The meaning is, they did not consider it, and prepare for it. To such as are unprepared for, and unapprehensive of death and judgment, those evils are always sudden, altho' men be ever so often warned of them. But to such as are prepared, death is never sudden, let them die ever so suddenly.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXV.

1 Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, &c.) It was a frequent custom in those times to have weddings in the night: when the bridegroom used to go, attended with his friends, to the bride's house, where she waited for him with her bride-maids, who, when they heard of his approach, went out with lamps to light and conduct him into the house; and the number of virgins present, on those occasions, was seldom less than ten.

13 Watch, therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh.

14 ¶ For the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own ſervants, and delivered unto them his goods.

15 And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his ſeveral ability; and ſtraightway took his journey.

16 Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the ſame, and made them other five talents.

17 And likewiſe he that had received two, he alſo gained other two.

18 But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

19 After a long time the lord of thoſe ſervants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

20 And ſo he that had received five talents came, and brought other five talents, ſaying, Lord, thou deliveredſt unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beſides them five talents more.

21 His lord ſaid unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful ſervant; thou haſt been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

22 He alſo that had received two talents came, and ſaid, Lord, thou deliveredſt unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beſides them.

23 His lord ſaid unto him, Well done, good and faithful ſervant: thou haſt been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

24 Then he which had received the one talent came, and ſaid, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou haſt not ſown, and gathering where thou haſt not ſtrawed:

25 And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou haſt that is thine.

26 His lord anſwered and ſaid unto him, Thou wicked and ſlothful ſervant, thou kneweſt that I reap where I ſowed not, and gather where I have not ſtrawed;

27 Thou oughteſt, therefore, to have put my money to the exchangers, and then, at my coming, I ſhould have received mine own with uſury.

28 Take, therefore, the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 For unto every one that hath ſhall be given, and he ſhall have abundance: but from him that hath not ſhall be taken away, even that which he hath.

30 And caſt ye the unprofitable ſervant into outer darkneſs: there ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth.

31 When the Son of man ſhall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then ſhall he ſit upon the throne of his glory:

32 And before him ſhall be gathered all nations; and he ſhall ſeparate them one from another, as a ſhepherd divideth his ſheep from the goats.

33 And he ſhall ſet the ſheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then ſhall the king ſay unto them on his right hand, Come, ye bleſſed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

35 For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirſty, and ye gave me drink: I was a ſtranger, and ye took me in:

36 Naked, and ye clothed me: I was ſick, and ye viſited me: I was in priſon, and ye came unto me.

37 Then ſhall the righteous anſwer him, ſaying, Lord, when ſaw we thee an hungered, and fed thee? or thirſty, and gave thee drink?

38 When ſaw we thee a ſtranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when ſaw we thee ſick, or in priſon, and came unto thee?

40 And the king ſhall anſwer, and ſay unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, inaſmuch as ye have done it unto one of the leaſt of theſe my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

41 Then ſhall he ſay alſo unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye curſed, into everlaſting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels:

42 For I was an hungered, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirſty, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a ſtranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: ſick, and in priſon, and ye viſited me not.

44 Then ſhall they alſo anſwer him, ſaying, Lord, when ſaw we thee an hungered, or athirſt, or a ſtranger, or naked, or ſick, or in priſon, and did not miniſter unto thee?

45 Then ſhall he anſwer them, ſaying, Verily I ſay unto you, inaſmuch as ye did it not to one of the leaſt of theſe, ye did it not to me.

46 And theſe ſhall go away into everlaſting puniſhment: but the righteous into life eternal.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The rulers conſpire againſt Chriſt. 14 Judas ſelleth him. 17 Chriſt eateth the paſſover.

AND it came to paſs, when Jeſus had finiſhed all theſe ſayings, he ſaid unto his diſciples, 13 Watch, therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh.) Here we have our Lord's application of the foregoing parable, to be always upon our watch, and continually upon our guard to meet the bridegroom in death and judgment, becauſe we know not the time of his coming and approach. Watchfulneſs and a prepared readineſs is a great duty that lies upon all thoſe who believe and look for Chriſt's coming and appearance. Happy ſouls! who are found in a poſture of readineſs at the bridegroom's approach, ſtanding with lamps trimmed, loins girded, lights burning.

24—27 Then he which had received the one talent came, &c.) He that received but one talent, is called to an account as well as he that received five. Heathens that have but one talent, namely, the light of nature, muſt give an account for that one talent, as well as Chriſtians that have five muſt account for five. Here we may obſerve the ſlothful ſervant's allegation: I knew thee to be an hard man, and I was afraid. He was ſo prejudiced againſt his maſter, that he was afraid; and the fruit of his fear was ſuch, that he hid his talent in the earth. Sinners entertain in their minds very hard and unkind thoughts of God; they look upon him as an hard maſter, rigorous in his commands, and difficult to be pleaſed. Such hard thoughts of God naturally occaſion ſlavish fear, which is a great hindrance to the fearful diſcharge of our duty to God. Here we may alſo obſerve the maſter's reply to the ſlothful ſervant's allegation, which contains an exprobration, or upbraiding him for his ſloth and negligence: Thou wicked and ſlothful ſervant. The ſlothful ſervant is a wicked ſervant, as well as the unfaithful ſervant. The wicked and ſlothful ſervants, to excuſe themſelves, will not ſtick to charge their miſcarriages upon God himſelf; though no excuſes whatſoever will ſerve either the ſlothful or unfaithful ſervant at the bar of Chriſt.

41 Depart from me ye curſed, &c.) It is remarkable, that the fire of hell is here ſaid to be prepared for the devil and his angels: whereas the kingdom of heaven is ſaid to be made expreſsly for the righteous. Perhaps our Lord intended by this to teach us, that God's original intention was to make men happy, and not to condemn them. No ſooner were we created, than a ſtate of conſummate felicity was formed for us. But the fire of hell was prepared for the devil and his angels, namely, after their fall. And becauſe wicked men partake with devils in their ſin of rebellion againſt God, they are doomed to ſhare with them in their puniſhment. Perhaps alſo the fire of hell is declared to be made for the devil and his angels, to intimate the greatneſs of the miſery, to which men irreclaimably wicked ſhall be conſigned. The puniſhment they ſhall ſuffer is of the heavieſt kind, being the puniſhment of devils.

2 Ye know that after two days is the feaſt of the paſſover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.

3 Then aſſembled together the chief prieſts, and the ſcribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high prieſt, which was called Caiaphas,

4 And conſulted that they might take Jeſus by ſubtilty, and kill him.

5 But they ſaid, Not on the feaſt-day, leſt there be an uproar among the people.

6 Now when Jeſus was in Bethany, in the houſe of Simon the leper,

7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaſter-box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his head as he ſat at meat.

8 But when his diſciples ſaw it, they had indignation, ſaying, To what purpoſe is this waſte?

9 For this ointment might have been ſold for much, and given to the poor.

10 When Jeſus underſtood it, he ſaid unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for ſhe hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not always.

12 For in that ſhe hath poured this ointment on my body, ſhe did it for my burial.

13 Verily I ſay unto you, Whereſoever this goſpel ſhall be preached in the whole world, there ſhall alſo this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

14 ¶ Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iſcariot, went unto the chief prieſts,

15 And ſaid unto them, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of ſilver.

16 And from that time he ſought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶ Now the firſt day of the feaſt of unleavened bread the diſciples came to Jeſus, ſaying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the paſſover?

18 And he ſaid, Go into the city to ſuch a man, and ſay unto him, The Maſter ſaith, My time is at hand; I will keep the paſſover at thy houſe with my diſciples.

19 And the diſciples did as Jeſus had appointed them; and they made ready the paſſover.

20 Now when the even was come, he ſat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, that one of you ſhall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding ſorrowful, and began every one of them to ſay unto him, Lord, is it I?

23 And he anſwered and ſaid, He that dippeth his hand with me in the diſh, the ſame ſhall betray me.

24 The Son of man goeth, as it is written of him: but woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born.

25 Then Judas, which betrayed him, anſwered and ſaid, Maſter, is it I? He ſaid unto him, Thou haſt ſaid.

26 And as they were eating, Jeſus took bread, and bleſſed it, and brake it, and gave it to the diſciples, and ſaid, Take, eat; this is my body.

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, ſaying, Drink ye all of it:

28 For this is my blood of the new teſtament, which is ſhed for many for the remiſſion of ſins.

29 But I ſay unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And when they had ſung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 Then ſaith Jeſus unto them, All ye ſhall be offended becauſe of me this night; for it is written, I will ſmite the Shepherd, and the ſheep of the flock ſhall be ſcattered abroad.

32 But after I am riſen again, I will go before you into Galilee.

33 Peter anſwered and ſaid unto him, Though all men ſhall be offended becauſe of thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 Jeſus ſaid unto him, Verily I ſay unto thee,

Commentary on Chap. XXVI.

3 Then aſſembled together the chief prieſts, &c.) The Jewiſh ſanhedrim, or great council, was the ſupreme court of judicature, which God inſtituted in the days of Moſes, and conſiſted of ſeventy wiſe men or elders, beſides Moſes their prince or chief, Numb. xi. 16, 17, 24, 25. But ſome learned men ſuppoſe that Eldad and Medad (mentioned ver 26.) were added to the ſeventy, and ſo made ſeventy-two, after the rate of ſix for every tribe of Iſrael. This great council ordinarily ſat in a court or chamber of the temple, called Gazith, and judged of all matters of the greateſt conſequence. The next court of judicature, inferior to this, conſiſted of twenty-three; which, ſitting in a room by or over the gates of their cities, were called Judges and officers in their gates, to judge the people with juſt judgment, Deut. xvi. 18. Two ſuch councils ſat at Jeruſalem; one in the gate Shuſhan, or the gate of the mountain of the houſe; and the other in the gate Nicanor, or the gate of the court: and one council of this ſort ſat in the gate of every city that contained at leaſt one hundred and twenty heads of families; theſe had judgment in matters of life and death in ſome caſes, though not in all: and if in any town or city there were leſs than one hundred and twenty families, there was a court or conſiſtory of three, which took cognizance only of inferior cauſes, or ſuch as were not capital.

7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaſter-box of very precious ointment, &c.) This woman, St. John ſays, was Mary the ſiſter of Lazarus, who, to ſhew her love to Chriſt and put honour upon him, took a precious box of ointment, and poured it upon our Saviour's head, according to the cuſtom of the Eaſtern countries, who uſed ſo to do at their feaſts and banquets; to which David alludes, Pſal xxiii. 5. Hence we may learn, that where true love to Chriſt prevails in the heart, nothing is adjudged too dear for Chriſt. This box of ointment murmuring Judas valued at three hundred pence; which, reckoning the Roman penny at ſeven-pence halfpenny, makes of our money nine pounds ſeven ſhillings and ſixpence. Love (we ſee) ſpares for no coſt, but where the eſteem of Chriſt is high, the affection will be ſtrong. Where ſtrong love prevails towards Jeſus Chriſt, it ſuffers not itſelf to be out-ſhined by any examples. The weakeſt woman, that ſtrongly loves Jeſus Chriſt, will piouſly ſtrive with the greateſt apoſtle to expreſs the fervour of her love unto him; nor do we find any of the apoſtles at ſo much coſt to put honour upon Chriſt as this poor woman was. Love knows no bounds, no meaſures.

15 And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of ſilver.) Theſe pieces of ſilver are commonly ſuppoſed to have been ſhekels. A ſhekel was about two ſhillings and four-pence; but, if we reckon it at half-a-crown, this ſum amounted only to three pounds fifteen ſhillings ſterling.

26 And as they were eating, &c.) At the latter end of the paſchal ſupper, before the table was cleared, Jeſus, to ſhew that he was thereby typified as the Lamb of God who was to be ſacrificed for us, took in his hands ſuch bread as was then in common uſe; and having ſet it apart for ſacred ſervice by thankſgiving and prayer, he brake it, and diſtributed it among the diſciples, ſaying, Take, and eat it: for I appoint this ſacramental bread to be henceforth eaten as the memorial of my body's being broken for your redemption by my ſufferings and death; in like manner as the eating of the paſchal lamb was appointed to be a memorial of the preſervation of Iſrael from the deſtroying angel, and of their deliverance out of Egypt.

32 But after I am riſen again, I will go before you into Galilee.) The lenity of Chriſt towards his timorous and fearful diſciples is wonderful. Notwithſtanding their cowardly flight from him, he tells them he will not forſake them, but love them ſtill; and as an evidence of it, promiſes to meet them in Galilee, and that there they ſhould ſee him. And when they did ſee him, he never upbraided them with their timorouſneſs, but was friends with them, notwithſtanding their late cowardice. Chriſt's love to his diſciples is like himſelf, unchangeable and everlaſting.

34 This night, before the cock crow, thou ſhalt deny me thrice.) The time of cock-crowing was uſually reckoned from our midnight to three o'clock of our morning; and that about three o'clock was moſt remarkable, as being commonly the loudeſt towards break of day: accordingly this was ſometimes called the ſecond cock-crowing, and at other times, by way of eminence, the cock-crowing; and ſo the difference is eaſily reconciled between this place and Mark xiv. 30.

that this night, before the cock crow, thou ſhalt deny me thrice.

35 Peter ſaid unto him, Though I ſhould die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewiſe alſo ſaid all the diſciples.

36 Then cometh Jeſus with them unto a place called Gethſemane, and ſaith unto the diſciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he took with him Peter and the two ſons of Zebedee, and began to be ſorrowful and very heavy.

38 Then ſaith he unto them, My ſoul is exceeding ſorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here and watch with me.

39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, ſaying, O my Father, if it be poſſible, let this cup paſs from me: nevertheleſs, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 And he cometh unto the diſciples, and findeth them aſleep, and ſaith unto Peter, What! could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the ſpirit indeed is willing, but the fleſh is weak.

42 He went away again the ſecond time, and prayed, ſaying, O my Father, if this cup may not paſs away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came and found them aſleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, ſaying the ſame words.

45 Then cometh he to his diſciples, and ſaith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your reſt: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of ſinners.

46 Riſe, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

47 And while he yet ſpake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude, with ſwords and ſtaves, from the chief prieſts and elders of the people.

48 Now, he that betrayed him gave them a ſign, ſaying, Whomſoever I ſhall kiſs, that ſame is he: hold him faſt.

49 And forthwith he came to Jeſus, and ſaid, Hail, Maſter: and kiſſed him.

50 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jeſus, and took him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Jeſus, ſtretched out his hand, and drew his ſword, and ſtruck a ſervant of the high prieſt's, and ſmote off his ear.

52 Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Put up again thy ſword into his place; for all they that take the ſword, ſhall periſh with the ſword.

53 Thinkeſt thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he ſhall preſently give me more than twelve legions of angels?

54 But how then ſhall the ſcriptures be fulfilled, that thus it muſt be?

55 In that ſame hour ſaid Jeſus to the multitudes, Are ye come out, as againſt a thief, with ſwords and ſtaves for to take me? I ſat daily with you, teaching in the temple, and ye laid no hold on me.

56 But all this was done, that the ſcriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then all the diſciples forſook him, and fled.

57 And they that had laid hold on Jeſus led him away to Caiaphas the high prieſt, where the ſcribes and the elders were aſſembled.

58 But Peter followed him afar off, unto the high prieſt's palace, and went in, and ſat with the ſervants to ſee the end.

59 Now the chief prieſts, and elders, and all the council, ſought falſe witneſs againſt Jeſus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, tho' many falſe witneſſes came, yet found they none. At the laſt came two falſe witneſſes,

61 And ſaid, This fellow ſaid, I am able to deſtroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

62 And the high prieſt aroſe, and ſaid unto him, Anſwereſt thou nothing? What is it which theſe witneſs againſt thee?

63 But Jeſus held his peace. And the high prieſt anſwered and ſaid unto him, I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Chriſt, the Son of God.

64 Jeſus ſaith unto him, Thou haſt ſaid: nevertheleſs, I ſay unto you, Hereafter ſhall ye ſee the Son of man ſitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

65 Then the high prieſt rent his clothes, ſaying, He hath ſpoken blaſphemy; what further need have we of witneſſes? behold, now ye have heard his blaſphemy.

66 What think ye? They anſwered and ſaid, He is guilty of death.

67 Then did they ſpit in his face, and buffeted him; and others ſmote him with the palms of their hands.

68 Saying, Propheſy unto us, thou Chriſt; Who is he that ſmote thee?

69 Now Peter ſat without in the palace: and a damſel came unto him, ſaying, Thou alſo waſt with Jeſus of Galilee.

70 But he denied before them all, ſaying, I know not what thou ſayeſt.

71 And when he was gone out into the porch another maid ſaw him, and ſaid unto them that were there, This fellow was alſo with Jeſus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came unto him they that ſtood by, and ſaid to Peter, Surely thou alſo art one of them; for thy ſpeech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curſe and to ſwear, ſaying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 And Peter remembered the words of Jeſus, which ſaid unto him, Before the cock crow thou ſhalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly.

63 But Jeſus held his peace, &c.) Our Lord ſtood before his unjuſt judges and falſe accuſers, as a ſheep before the ſhearer, dumb, and not opening his mouth. Although a trial for his life was managed moſt maliciouſly and illegally againſt him, when he was reviled, he reviled not again; when he ſuffered, he threatened not, but committed himſelf to him that judgeth righteouſly. O let the ſame humble mind be in us, which was alſo in Chriſt Jeſus!

74 And immediately the cock crew.) It has been objected to this part of the hiſtory, that the Jews, according to tradition, never kept any cocks within the walls of Jeruſalem, and conſequently that Peter could not hear them crow, while he continued in the high prieſt's palace. But the objection may be eaſily removed, by calling the tradition itſelf in queſtion, becauſe it contradicts the teſtimony of writers, whoſe veracity is indiſputable, and who could not but know the cuſtoms of the age in which they lived, and becauſe many traditions of this kind were framed by the Rabins, to magnify the ſanctity of Jeruſalem. Or the objection may be removed, by ſuppoſing that the Romans, who lived in the city, neglected the inſtitutions of the Jews, and might keep theſe fowls about their houſes, perhaps for their tables, or for the auſpices, a ſort of divination they were particularly addicted to.

CHAP. XXVII.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Chriſt delivered to Pilate. 3 Judas hangeth himſelf. 35 Chriſt is crucified.

WHEN the morning was come, all the chief prieſts and elders of the people took counſel againſt Jeſus to put him to death.

2 And when they had bound him, they led him away, and delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 ¶ Then Judas, which had betrayed him, when he ſaw that he was condemned, repented himſelf, and brought again the thirty pieces of ſilver to the chief prieſts and elders,

4 Saying, I have ſinned, in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they ſaid, What is that to us? ſee thou to that.

5 And he caſt down the pieces of ſilver in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged himſelf.

6 And the chief prieſts took the ſilver pieces, and ſaid, It is not lawful for to put them into the treaſury, becauſe it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counſel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury ſtrangers in.

8 Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood unto this day.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by Jeremy the prophet, ſaying, And they took the thirty pieces of ſilver, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Iſrael did value,

10 And gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.

11 And Jeſus ſtood before the governor; and the governor aſked him, ſaying, Art thou the king of the Jews? And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Thou ſayeſt.

12 And when he was accuſed of the chief prieſts and elders, he anſwered nothing.

13 Then ſaith Pilate unto him, Heareſt thou not how many things they witneſs againſt thee?

14 And he anſwered him to never a word; inſomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 Now at that feaſt the governor was wont to releaſe unto the people a priſoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable priſoner, called Barabbas.

17 Therefore, when they were gathered together, Pilate ſaid unto them, Whom will ye that I releaſe unto you? Barabbas, or Jeſus, which is called Chriſt?

18 For he knew that for envy they had delivered him.

19 When he was ſet down on the judgment-ſeat, his wife ſent unto him, ſaying, Have thou nothing to do with that juſt man: for I have ſuffered many things this day in a dream becauſe of him.

20 But the chief prieſts and elders perſuaded the multitude, that they ſhould aſk Barabbas, and deſtroy Jeſus.

21 The governor anſwered and ſaid unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I releaſe unto you? They ſaid, Barabbas.

22 Pilate ſaith unto them, What ſhall I do then with Jeſus, which is called Chriſt? They all ſay unto him, Let him be crucified.

23 And the governor ſaid, Why? what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, ſaying, Let him be crucified.

24 When Pilate ſaw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he took water, and waſhed his hands before the multitude, ſaying, I am innocent of the blood of this juſt perſon; ſee ye to it.

25 Then anſwered all the people, and ſaid, His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 Then releaſed he Barabbas unto them; and when he had ſcourged Jeſus, he delivered him to be crucified.

27 Then the ſoldiers of the governor took Jeſus into the common hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of ſoldiers.

28 And they ſtripped him, and put on him a ſcarlet robe.

29 And when they had platted a crown of thorns they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand; and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, ſaying, Hail, king of the Jews!

30 And they ſpit upon him, and took the reed, and ſmote him on the head.

31 And after that they had mocked him, they took

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXVII.

3 Then Judas, which had betrayed him, &c.) Judas, in all likelihood, hoped that Chriſt would have confounded his enemies, or miraculouſly made his eſcape, and that he himſelf ſhould have got their money without any damage done to his maſter.

5 And went and hanged himſelf.) The expreſſion here uſed (he hanged himſelf or was ſuffocated) and that in Acts i. 18 (he falling headlong, burſt aſunder in the midſt) are eaſily accounted for and reconciled, by ſuppoſing, either that he was ſtrangled with grief or by the power of Satan in him, and, falling down, his bowels guſhed out; or that, if he hanged himſelf, the rope, or that to which it was faſtened, broke, and ſo he fell down; and if this were at the top of ſome precipice, it occaſioned the greater violence in the fall, and the more ſignally manifeſted the righteous judgment of God in ſo uncommon a death of a matchleſs traitor.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by Jeremy, &c.) How this tranſaction happens to be connected by a prophecy ſpoken by Jeremiah, is not eaſily accounted for, as the prophecy cited is found in the writings of Zechariah only. The Syriac verſion indeed has only, which was ſpoken by the prophet. If this be the genuine reading, it proves that the name (Jeremiah) was inſerted by ſome officious tranſcriber: or we may ſuppoſe that in copying, the word Jeremiah might be put down by miſtake inſtead of Zechariah. But if the preſent reading is retained, the ſolution offered by Grotius ſeems to be as near the truth as any. He thinks that the prophecy was originally ſpoken by Jeremiah, as the evangeliſt affirms: but that Zechariah, who, in many particulars, followed Jeremiah, was directed by the ſpirit to repeat it afterwards, and preſerve it in writing among his other prophecies: ſo that though it be now found in Zechariah, it was originally ſpoken by Jeremiah.

19 I have ſuffered many things this day in a dream becauſe of him.) This was a ſpecial appearance of Providence to bear witneſs to Chriſt's innocence, whilſt his enemies were loading him with unjuſt reproaches.

25 His blood be on us, and on our children.) That is, Let the guilt and puniſhment of his blood reſt upon us and our poſterity. A moſt horrid and impious imprecation! The dreadful effects of it began to come upon them forty years after, in the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and has reſted and remained upon their poſterity to this day, near eighteen hundred years; the Jews being vagabonds over the earth, abhorred by all nations whereſoever they come. The juſt God has heard their wicked wiſh, and cauſed that blood to fall upon them in ſo ſevere, though righteous a manner, as muſt pierce the heart of thoſe that read and obſerve it. God has given them blood to drink, as indeed they were worthy. This ought to be a terror and a warning to all perſons, that they avoid all curſed imprecations and wicked wiſhes upon themſelves or others.

26 And when he had ſcourged Jeſus, &c.) Whipping or ſcourging, in criminal caſes, was a puniſhment frequently uſed both by the Jews and Romans. The Jews commonly inflicted it by a whip of three cords, and limited the number of ſtripes to thirty-nine (2 Cor. xi. 24.) and ſo they gave only thirteen ſtrokes with the ſcourge of three laſhes, that they might be ſure not to exceed forty ſtripes, according to the law in Deut. xxv. 3. But the Romans' moſt uſual way of ſcourging was with ſuch rods or wands as the lictors carried in a bundle before their chief magiſtrates: and they, not confining themſelves to the Jewiſh number, were exceeding cruel in this ſort of puniſhment, as appears from Euſebius' account of their inflicting it on the primitive martyrs; of whom he ſays, "All the ſpectators were aſtoniſhed when they ſaw their fleſh torn with ſcourges, even to their veins and arteries, ſo that their very bowels might be ſeen." And as our Saviour was ſcourged at Pilate's order, it ſeems to have been done by his officers after the Roman faſhion, and to have been very ſevere as well as diſgraceful; for Pilate thereby intended to move the compaſſion of the Jews toward him, in order to his being releaſed, rather than to have him ſcourged, in order to his being crucified, as appears from Luke xxiii. 15, 16, 22. John xix. 1—6.

the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him.

32 And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; him they compelled to bear his croſs.

33 ¶ And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to ſay, A place of a ſcull,

34 They gave him vinegar to drink, mingled with gall: and when he had taſted thereof, he would not drink.

35 And they crucified him, and parted his garments, caſting lots: that it might be fulfilled, which was ſpoken by the prophet, They parted my garments among them, and upon my veſture did they caſt lots.

36 And ſitting down, they watched him there;

37 And ſet up over his head his accuſation written, THIS IS JESUS, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 Then were there two thieves crucified with him; one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that paſſed by reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And ſaying, Thou that deſtroyeſt the temple, and buildeſt it in three days, ſave thyſelf: if thou be the Son of God, come down from the croſs.

41 Likewiſe alſo the chief prieſts mocking him, with the ſcribes and elders, ſaid,

42 He ſaved others, himſelf he cannot ſave. If he be the king of Iſrael, let him now come down from the croſs, and we will believe him.

43 He truſted in God; let him deliver him now if he will have him: for he ſaid, I am the Son of God.

44 The thieves alſo, which were crucified with him, caſt the ſame in his teeth.

45 Now, from the ſixth hour, there was darkneſs over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour Jeſus cried with a loud voice, ſaying, Eli, Eli, lama ſabachthani? that is to ſay, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me?

47 Some of them that ſtood there, when they heard that, ſaid, This man calleth for Elias.

48 And ſtraightway one of them ran, and took a ſponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 The reſt ſaid, Let be, let us ſee whether Elias will come to ſave him.

50 Jeſus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghoſt.

51 And behold, the vail of the temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent,

52 And the graves were opened, and many bodies of the ſaints which ſlept aroſe,

53 And came out of the graves after his reſurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 Now when the centurion, and they that were with him watching Jeſus, ſaw the earthquake, and thoſe things that were done, they feared greatly, ſaying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there, beholding afar off, which followed Jeſus from Galilee, miniſtering unto him;

56 Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joſes, and the mother of Zebedee's children.

57 When the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joſeph, who alſo himſelf was Jeſus' diſciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jeſus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 And when Joſeph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth,

60 And laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great ſtone to the door of the ſepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, ſitting over-againſt the ſepulchre.

62 Now the next day, that followed the day of the preparation, the chief prieſts and Phariſees came together unto Pilate,

63 Saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver ſaid, while he was yet alive, After three days I will riſe again.

64 Command, therefore, that the ſepulchre be made ſure until the third day, leſt his diſciples come by night and ſteal him away, and ſay unto the people, He is riſen from the dead: ſo the laſt error ſhall be worſe than the firſt.

35 And they crucified him, &c.) When a perſon was crucified, he was nailed to the croſs, as it lay upon the ground, through each hand extended to its utmoſt ſtretch, and through both the feet together; then the croſs was erected, and the foot of it thruſt, with a violent jog, into a hole prepared in the ground to receive it; and this jog diſjointed the body, whoſe whole weight hung upon the nails, which went through the hands and feet, 'till the perſon expired by mere dint of pain. This kind of death, which was the moſt cruel, ſhameful, and curſed death that could be deviſed, was uſed only by the Romans for ſlaves, and the baſeſt of the people, who were capital offenders: but Jeſus was to endure this, that the very nature of the death itſelf might intimate his bearing our ſins in his own body on the tree, and being made a curſe for us. 1 Pet. ii. 24. Gal. iii. 13.

45 From the ſixth hour there was darkneſs over all the land unto the ninth hour.) It is reported, ſays Suidas, that Dionyſius ſaw it in Egypt; and knowing that it could not be a natural eclipſe, becauſe it was at the time of the full moon, and laſted three hours together, he, though a heathen philoſopher, ſaid, "Either the Divinity ſuffers, or ſympathizes with a ſufferer; or the frame of the world is diſſolved. But were we to ſuppoſe, with others, that this darkneſs was only over all the land of Paleſtine, it was no leſs miraculous.

51 The vail of the temple was rent in twain, &c.) That is, the hanging which parted the holy from the moſt holy place, to hide the myſteries therein, namely, the ark of the covenant and mercy-ſeat, from the view of the ordinary prieſts. This vail was now rent from the top to the bottom, and the rending of it did import theſe great myſteries: 1. That now our great High Prieſt was entering into the moſt holy place with his own blood, having made the atonement for us, Heb. ix. 12. 2. That the means whereby he entered into the moſt holy place, was by the rending of his humanity, his ſoul from his body, typified by rending of this vail; accordingly his body is called a vail, Heb. x. 20. 3. That now by the death of Chriſt all thoſe dark myſteries vailed up formerly in the moſt holy place, as the ark of the covenant and mercy-ſeat, are now unfolded and laid open, and the uſe of the whole ceremonial law at an end, and the Jewiſh temple-ſervice ceaſed. 4. That now the kingdom of heaven, the moſt holy place, is open to all believers. Chriſt, our great High Prieſt, is entered in with his own blood, and hath not cloſed the vail after him, but rent it aſunder, and made and left a paſſage for all believers to follow him.

57 There came a rich man of Arimathea, &c.) The riches and honourable ſtation of this perſon were not mentioned by the evangeliſt out of oſtentation, that a perſon of ſo conſiderable a figure ſhould pay reſpect to the body of Jeſus, but to ſhew how ſtrangely Providence fulfilled an ancient propheſy concerning the Meſſiah, that, notwithſtanding the infamous manner of his expiring, he ſhould make his grave with the rich in his death, Iſa. liii. 9. which was, in itſelf, a moſt improbable thing, becauſe the bodies of thoſe who were crucified, were, by the Roman laws, to hang upon the croſs till they were conſumed. And though the Jews did not allow of this ſeverity to the dead, yet they always buried their malefactors in ſome public, neglected, and ignominious place; and in this manner, in all probability, the body of the bleſſed Jeſus would have been treated, had not Joſeph himſelf applied to the governor, in whoſe diſpoſal the bodies of executed perſons were.

63 We remember that that deceiver ſaid—After three days I will riſe again.) Chriſt often ſaid this to his diſciples: but we do not find any account of his declaring it expreſsly to common people or the rulers of the Jews; unleſs when he ſpoke of the temple of his body, John ii. 19. 21. And if they here refer to what he then ſaid, how perverſe and iniquitous was their conſtruction of theſe words, as relating to the temple at Jeruſalem, when he was upon his trial before the council! Chap. xxvi. 61, 65 Pilate ſaid unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as ſure as ye can.

66 So they went, and made the ſepulchre ſure, ſealing the ſtone, and ſetting a watch.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Chriſt's reſurrection. 9 He appeareth to the women, 16 and his diſciples, 19 and ſendeth them to baptize.

IN the end of the ſabbath, as it began to dawn toward the firſt day of the week, came Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, to ſee the ſepulchre,

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord deſcended from heaven, and came and rolled back the ſtone from the door, and ſat upon it.

3 His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as ſnow:

4 And for fear of him the keepers did ſhake, and became as dead men.

5 And the angel anſwered and ſaid unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye ſeek Jeſus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here; for he is riſen, as he ſaid. Come, ſee the place where the Lord lay:

7 And go quickly, and tell his diſciples that he is riſen from the dead: and behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there ſhall ye ſee him: lo, I have told you.

8 And they departed quickly from the ſepulchre with fear and great joy, and did run to bring his diſciples word.

9 ¶ And as they went to tell his diſciples, behold, Jeſus met them, ſaying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worſhipped him.

10 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there ſhall they ſee me.

11 Now when they were going, behold, ſome of the watch came into the city, and ſhewed unto the chief prieſts all the things that were done.

12 And when they were aſſembled with the elders, and had taken counſel, they gave large money unto the ſoldiers,

13 Saying, Say ye, His diſciples came by night, and ſtole him away while we ſlept.

14 And if this come to the governor's ears, we will perſuade him, and ſecure you.

15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this ſaying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day.

16 ¶ Then the eleven diſciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jeſus had appointed them.

17 And when they ſaw him they worſhipped him; but ſome doubted.

18 And Jeſus came, and ſpake unto them, ſaying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.

19 ¶ Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghoſt;

20 Teaching them to obſerve all things whatſoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Amen.

65 Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as ſure as ye can.) Pilate, thinking their requeſt reaſonable, allowed them to take as many ſoldiers as they pleaſed out of the cohort, which, at the feaſt, came from the caſtle Antonia, and kept guard in the porticos of the temple; for that they were not Jewiſh, but Roman ſoldiers, whom the chief prieſts employed to watch the ſepulchre, is evident from their aſking them of the Roman governor. Beſides, when the ſoldiers returned with the news of Chriſt's reſurrection, the prieſts deſired them to report, that his diſciples had ſtolen his body away while they ſlept; and to encourage them to tell the falſhood boldly, promiſed to take proper methods to pacify the governor, if their neglect of duty ſhould come to his ears; a promiſe which there was no need of making to their own ſervants.

66 So they went, and made the ſepulchre ſure, ſealing the ſtone, &c.) They ſet Pilate's ſignet, or the public ſeal of the ſanhedrim, or ſome other ſeal, upon a faſtening which they had put to the ſtone: and all this uncommon caution was over-ruled by the providence of God, to give the ſtrongeſt proof of the reality of Chriſt's enſuing reſurrection: ſince there could be no room for the leaſt ſuſpicion of a deceit, when it ſhould be found that his body was raiſed out of a new tomb, where there was no other corpſe, and this a tomb hewn out of a rock, the mouth of which was ſecured by a great ſtone, under a ſeal, and a guard of ſoldiers.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XXVIII.

1 In the end of the ſabbath, &c.) Chriſt was buried on the latter part of the ſixth day of the week, (chap. xxvii.) lay in the grave all the ſeventh day, and roſe on the morning of the firſt day of the following week, which, reckoning from four o'clock on the Friday evening, to four on the Lord's-day morning, was thirty-ſix hours after he had been buried, and which anſwered his own and ſome other predictions about the time of his reſurrection upon the third day. This was long enough to prove undeniably that he was really dead, but not ſo long as to neceſſitate the putrefaction of his body, which was not to ſee corruption (Pſal. xvi. 10.) or as to ſuffer the thoughts and diſcourſe about his death to begin to die among the people before he ſhould riſe again. And ſuch is the wiſdom and grace of God, that he would not have the glorious fruits and conſequences of this grand event delayed, after his juſtice was fully ſatisfied by the death of his Son.

16 The eleven diſciples went away into Galilee, &c.) The meeting of our Saviour and his apoſtles upon a mountain in Galilee, was an appointed and general meeting. The mountain is ſuppoſed to be that near Capernaum, where he made that famous ſermon, called The ſermon on the mount: and the meeting is ſuppoſed to be appointed as a general rendezvous, for confirming the faith of all his diſciples in the certainty of his reſurrection. Poſſibly our Lord appointed this place in Galilee, ſo far from Jeruſalem, that his diſciples might without danger come thither to ſee their Saviour alive again, after his crucifixion. This is judged to be that famous appearance of which St. Paul ſpeaks, 1 Cor. xv. 6. And thoſe who ſaw him worſhipped him, who before had doubted.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO

S T. M A R K.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Evangeliſt wrote his goſpel at Rome, whither he accompanied St. Peter in the year of Chriſt 44. Tertullian and others, pretend that St. Mark was no more than an amanuenſis to St. Peter, who dictated this goſpel to him. Others ſay he wrote it after St. Peter's death. Some affirm it was compoſed in Greek, and others in Latin. But the Greek now paſſes, with moſt critics, for the original of St. Mark; though Baronius and Selden have declared for the other opinion.

CHAP. I.

1 John Baptiſt's office. 9 Jeſus is baptized, 12 tempted, 14 preacheth, 16 calleth Peter and others, 32 and cureth many.

THE beginning of the goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt, the Son of God;

2 As it is written in the prophets, Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare thy way before thee.

3 The voice of one crying in the wilderneſs, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths ſtraight.

4 John did baptize in the wilderneſs, and preach the baptiſm of repentance for the remiſſion of ſins.

5 And there went out unto him all the land of Judea, and they of Jeruſalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confeſſing their ſins.

6 And John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a ſkin about his loins; and he did eat locuſts and wild honey;

7 And preached, ſaying, There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whoſe ſhoes I am not worthy to ſtoop down and unlooſe.

8 I indeed have baptized you with water: but he ſhall baptize you with the Holy Ghoſt.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days, that Jeſus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 And ſtraightway, coming up out of the water, he ſaw the heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove, deſcending upon him:

11 And there came a voice from heaven, ſaying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed.

12 ¶ And immediately the ſpirit driveth him into the wilderneſs.

13 And he was there in the wilderneſs forty days tempted of Satan; and was with the wild beaſts: and the angels miniſtered unto him.

14 ¶ Now after that John was put in priſon, Jeſus came into Galilee, preaching the goſpel of the kingdom of God.

15 And ſaying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the goſpel.

16 ¶ Now as he walked by the ſea of Galilee, he ſaw Simon and Andrew his brother, caſting a net into the ſea: (for they were fiſhers:)

17 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fiſhers of men.

COMMENTARY on Chap. I.

5 And there went out unto him all the land of Judea, &c.) Here we have an account of the ſucceſs of St. John's miniſtry, in the general concourſe and reſort of the people to it, All Judea and Jeruſalem: that is, a great many of all degrees and ranks, of all ages and ſexes. John was famed for a prophet, and a prophet was now a great rarity. Malachi was the laſt prophet before John, and he lived about five hundred years before John. Now the excellency of his perſon, the earneſtneſs of his preaching, the acceptableneſs of his doctrine, that the Meſſias was come, and the auſterity of his life and converſation, all theſe cauſed the people to flock unto him.

7 There cometh one mightier than I after me, &c.) The high opinion that the Baptiſt had of Chriſt is worth our obſervation: He is mightier than I; that is, a perſon of greater dignity and excellency by far than myſelf; whence may be gathered, that though Chriſt was man, he was not mere man, but more than man; even very God, equal with his Father; for John Baptiſt was the greateſt of them that were born of women, Mat. xi. 11. yet, ſays he, Chriſt is mightier or greater than I, in reſpect to the dignity of his perſon, being both God and man in two diſtinct natures and one perſon. Here we may alſo obſerve the humble and low eſtimation that the Baptiſt had of himſelf; His ſhoe-latchet I am not worthy to unlooſe: a proverbial ſpeech, implying that he was unworthy to do the baſeſt and meaneſt ſervice for Chriſt. O how well doth humility of mind, an humble apprehenſion, a low eſteem and opinion of themſelves, and their own gifts and abilities, become the meſſengers and miniſters of Chriſt! John was a man of eminent abilities, yet of exemplary humility; he thought himſelf not worthy to unlooſe Chriſt's ſhoe, or do the meaneſt office for him.

18 And ſtraightway they forſook their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little farther thence, he ſaw James, the ſon of Zebedee, and John his brother, who alſo were in the ſhip mending their nets.

20 And ſtraightway he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ſhip with the hired ſervants, and went after him.

21 And they went into Capernaum; and ſtraightway on the ſabbath-day he entered into the ſynagogue, and taught.

22 And they were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine: for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the ſcribes.

23 And there was in their ſynagogue a man with an unclean ſpirit; and he cried out,

24 Saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jeſus of Nazareth? Art thou come to deſtroy us? I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God.

25 And Jeſus rebuked him, ſaying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And when the unclean ſpirit had torn him, and cried with a loud voice, he came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, inſomuch that they queſtioned among themſelves, ſaying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean ſpirits, and they do obey him.

28 And immediately his fame ſpread abroad throughout all the region round about Galilee.

29 And forthwith, when they were come out of the ſynagogue, they entered into the houſe of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 But Simon's wife's mother lay ſick of a fever; and anon they tell him of her.

31 And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her, and ſhe miniſtered unto them.

32 ¶ And at even, when the ſun did ſet, they brought unto him all that were diſeaſed, and them that were poſſeſſed with devils.

33 And all the city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were ſick of divers diſeaſes, and caſt out many devils; and ſuffered not the devils to ſpeak, becauſe they knew him.

35 And in the morning, riſing up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a ſolitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, and they that were with him, followed after him.

37 And when they had found him, they ſaid unto him, All men ſeek for thee.

38 And he ſaid unto them, Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there alſo: for therefore came I forth.

39 And he preached in their ſynagogues throughout all Galilee, and caſt out devils.

40 And there came a leper to him, beſeeching him, and kneeling down to him, and ſaying unto him, If thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean.

41 And Jeſus, moved with compaſſion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and ſaith unto him, I will; be thou clean.

42 And as ſoon as he had ſpoken, immediately the leproſy departed from him, and he was cleanſed.

43 And he ſtraitly charged him, and forthwith ſent him away;

44 And ſaith unto him, See thou ſay nothing to any man: but go thy way, ſhew thyſelf to the prieſt, and offer for thy cleanſing thoſe things which Moſes commanded, for a teſtimony unto them.

45 But he went out, and began to publiſh it much, and to blaze abroad the matter, inſomuch that Jeſus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in deſert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

CHAP. II.

1 Chriſt healeth the palſy, 14 calleth Matthew, 15 and eateth with publicans and ſinners.

AND again he entered into Capernaum after ſome days, and it was noiſed that he was in the houſe.

2 And ſtraightway many were gathered together, inſomuch that there was no room to receive them, no, not ſo much as about the door; and he preached the word unto them.

3 And they come unto him, bringing one ſick of the palſy, which was borne of four.

4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the preſs, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed wherein the ſick of the palſy lay.

5 When Jeſus ſaw their faith, he ſaid unto the ſick of the palſy, Son, thy ſins be forgiven thee.

6 But there were certain of the ſcribes ſitting there, and reaſoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man thus ſpeak blaſphemies? who can forgive ſins but God only?

8 And immediately, when Jeſus perceived in his ſpirit that they ſo reaſoned within themſelves, he ſaid unto them, Why reaſon ye theſe things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it eaſier to ſay to the ſick of the palſy, Thy ſins be forgiven thee; or to ſay, Ariſe, and take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive ſins (he ſaith to the ſick of the palſy)

11 I ſay unto thee, Ariſe, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine houſe.

18 They forſook their nets, and followed him.) They had believed in him, and on occaſions followed him as his diſciples, before; John i. 40, 41, 42. But now they were called to be his conſtant followers, in order to his training them up for the apoſtleſhip; and therefore they quitted their ſecular buſineſs, and devoted themſelves entirely to his ſervice.

COMMENTARY on Chap. II.

1, 2 Again he entered into Capernaum, &c.) In the laſt verſe of the foregoing chapter we find how induſtriouſly our bleſſed Saviour withdrew himſelf from the concourſe and throng of people which flocked after him from every quarter; and to ſhew how little he affected the applauſe and commendation of the multitude, he left the cities, and was without in deſert places; hereby giving his miniſters an inſtructive example to decline vain glory, and to ſhun popular applauſe. But now the words before us ſhew that our Saviour having entered (privately, as is probable) into the city of Capernaum, it is preſently noiſed and reported that he was in the houſe, and a mighty concourſe and throng of people are after him, inſomuch, that neither the houſe nor hardly the ſtreets could contain them. Such as leaſt ſeek after honour and applauſe from men, are oft-times moſt famous and renowned. Our Saviour was ſo far from ſeeking the people's praiſe and commendation, that he came into Capernaum without obſervation, and betook himſelf to his dwelling-houſe there; but the more he ſought to lie hid, the more he was taken notice of. Honour flies from them that purſue it, and purſues thoſe that fly from it. The way to be honoured, is to be humble. God ſeldom honours a proud man, by making him either eminently ſerviceable or ſucceſsful.

4 They uncovered the roof where he was, &c.) As the houſes of the Jews were uſually low-built with a flat roof, and they often had ſtairs or fixed ladders on the outſide; ſo, for the convenience of going up and down within ſide of the houſe, they, it ſeems, had a trap door or a lattice with a covering (2 Kings i. 2.) on the flat of the roof: and ſo the friends of this ſick man might carry him up thither, and forcing open the door which was faſtened within, might convey him, through this break of the roof, into the room where Jeſus was preaching to the people.

12 And immediately he aroſe, took up the bed, and went forth before them all; inſomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, ſaying, We never ſaw it on this faſhion.

13 And he went forth again by the ſea-ſide; and all the multitude reſorted unto him, and he taught them.

14 ¶ And as he paſſed by, he ſaw Levi the ſon of Alpheus ſitting at the receipt of cuſtom, and ſaid unto him, Follow me. And he aroſe, and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs, that as Jeſus ſat at meat in his houſe, many publicans and ſinners ſat alſo together with Jeſus and his diſciples: for there were many, and they followed him.

16 And when the ſcribes and Phariſees ſaw him eat with publicans and ſinners, they ſaid unto his diſciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and ſinners?

17 When Jeſus heard it, he ſaith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the phyſician, but they that are ſick: I came not to call the righteous, but ſinners to repentance.

18 And the diſciples of John and of the Phariſees uſed to faſt; and they come and ſay unto him, Why do the diſciples of John and of the Phariſees faſt, but thy diſciples faſt not?

19 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Can the children of the bride-chamber faſt while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot faſt.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom ſhall be taken away from them, and then ſhall they faſt in thoſe days.

21 No man alſo ſeweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment; elſe the new piece that filleth it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worſe.

22 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; elſe the new wine doth burſt the bottles, and the wine is ſpilled, and the bottles will be marred: but new wine muſt be put into new bottles.

23 And it came to paſs, that he went through the corn-fields on the ſabbath-day; and his diſciples began, as they went, to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Phariſees ſaid unto him, Behold, why do they on the ſabbath-day that which is not lawful?

25 And he ſaid unto them, Have ye never read what David did, when he had need, and was an hungered, he, and they that were with him,

26 How he went into the houſe of God in the days of Abiathar the high prieſt, and did eat the ſhew-bread, which is not lawful to eat but for the prieſts, and gave alſo to them which were with him?

27 And he ſaid unto them, The ſabbath was made for man, and not man for the ſabbath:

28 Therefore the Son of man is Lord alſo of the ſabbath.

CHAP. III.

1 The withered hand healed. 13 The twelve apoſtles choſen. 31 Who are Chriſt's relations.

AND he entered again into the ſynagogue, and there was a man there which had a withered hand.

2 And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the ſabbath-day; that they might accuſe him.

3 And he ſaith unto the man which had the withered hand, Stand forth.

4 And he ſaith unto them, Is it lawful to do good on the ſabbath-days, or to do evil? to ſave life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 And when he had looked round about on them with anger, being grieved for the hardneſs of their hearts, he ſaith unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he ſtretched it out: and his hand was reſtored whole as the other.

6 And the Phariſees went forth, and ſtraightway took counſel with the Herodians againſt him, how they might deſtroy him.

7 But Jeſus withdrew himſelf with his diſciples to the ſea: and a great multitude from Galilee followed him, and from Judea,

8 And from Jeruſalem, and from Idumea, and from beyond Jordan; and they about Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him.

9 And he ſpake to his diſciples, that a ſmall ſhip ſhould wait on him, becauſe of the multitude, leſt they ſhould throng him.

10 For he had healed many, inſomuch that they preſſed upon him for to touch him, as many as had plagues.

11 And unclean ſpirits, when they ſaw him, fell down before him, and cried, ſaying, Thou art the Son of God.

12 And he ſtraitly charged them that they ſhould not make him known.

13 ¶ And he goeth up into a mountain, and calleth unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.

14 And he ordained twelve, that they ſhould be with him, and that he might ſend them forth to preach,

15 And to have power to heal ſickneſſes, and to caſt out devils.

And as John the Baptiſt betook himſelf to an auſtere, abſtemious way of life; ſo his diſciples multiplied faſts, in imitation of their maſter, and of the cuſtom of the Phariſees.

26 He went into the houſe of God in the days of Abiathar, &c.) It appears from 1 Sam. xxi. 6. that this was in the days when Abimelech, the father of Abiathar, was high prieſt: but as Abiathar was more notified, and more remarkably concerned in David's affairs, than Abimelech, as appears from 1 Sam. xxii. xxiii. and xxx. and as he, ſoon after this fact, became high prieſt, and perhaps at this time acted as his father's deputy in that office, it is no great wonder that it ſhould be recited as done in his days: and if we only admit of an eaſy ſuppoſition, that Chriſt here ſpeaks of the days in which that more famous man was well known, and not of the days of his high prieſthood, it appears that all the laboured criticiſms are needleſs, which many learned men have uſed to rack this paſſage, and reconcile it to the hiſtory.

COMMENTARY on Chap. III.

6 The Phariſees—took counſel with the Herodians againſt him, &c.) Such a diſmal effect had this famous miracle of Chriſt upon the Phariſees and Herodians, that inſtead of being convinced by it, they conſpire againſt him for it. Theſe Herodians and Phariſees were of different opinions, enemies to one another, yet they join together in ſeeking the death of Chriſt. The Phariſees were againſt paying tribute to Ceſar, looking upon themſelves as a free people, and accounting the Roman emperor an uſurper. The Herodians were for it. Herod, being made by the Roman emperor king of the Jews, was zealous for the Jews paying tribute to Ceſar: and ſuch of the Jews as ſided with him, particularly his courtiers and favourites, were ſtiled Herodians.

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the ſon of Alpheus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the Canaanite, 19 And Judas Iſcariot, which alſo betrayed him: and they went into an houſe.

20 And the multitude cometh together again, ſo that they could not ſo much as eat bread.

21 And when his friends heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they ſaid, He is beſide himſelf.

22 And the ſcribes which came down from Jeruſalem ſaid, He hath Beelzebub, and by the prince of the devils caſteth he out devils.

23 And he called them unto him, and ſaid unto them in parables, How can Satan caſt out Satan?

24 And if a kingdom be divided againſt itſelf, that kingdom cannot ſtand.

25 And if a houſe be divided againſt itſelf, that houſe cannot ſtand.

26 And if Satan riſe up againſt himſelf, and be divided, he cannot ſtand, but hath an end.

27 No man can enter into a ſtrong man's houſe, and ſpoil his goods, except he will firſt bind the ſtrong man; and then he will ſpoil his houſe.

28 Verily I ſay unto you, All ſins ſhall be forgiven unto the ſons of men, and blaſphemies wherewithſoever they ſhall blaſpheme:

29 But he that ſhall blaſpheme againſt the Holy Ghoſt hath never forgiveneſs, but is in danger of eternal damnation:

30 Becauſe they ſaid, He hath an unclean ſpirit.

31 ¶ There came then his brethren and his mother, and, ſtanding without, ſent unto him, calling him.

32 And the multitude ſat about him: and they ſaid unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren without ſeek for thee.

33 And he anſwered them, ſaying, Who is my mother, or my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them which ſat about him, and ſaid, Behold my mother and my brethren!

35 For whoſoever ſhall do the will of God, the ſame is my brother, and my ſiſter, and mother.

CHAP. IV.

1 The parable of the ſower: 14 the meaning thereof. 26 Of the ſeed growing ſecretly.

AND he began again to teach by the ſea-ſide: and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, ſo that he entered into a ſhip, and ſat in the ſea; and the whole multitude was by the ſea on the land.

2 And he taught them many things by parables, and ſaid unto them in his doctrine,

3 Hearken: Behold, there went out a ſower to ſow.

4 And it came to paſs, as he ſowed, ſome fell by the way-ſide, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up.

5 And ſome fell on ſtony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it ſprang up, becauſe it had no depth of earth:

6 But when the ſun was up, it was ſcorched; and, becauſe it had no root, it withered away.

7 And ſome fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no fruit.

8 And other fell on good ground, and did yield fruit that ſprang up, and increaſed, and brought forth, ſome thirty, and ſome ſixty, and ſome an hundred.

9 And he ſaid unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him, with the twelve, aſked of him the parable.

11 And he ſaid unto them, Unto you it is given to know the myſtery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all theſe things are done in parables;

12 That ſeeing they may ſee, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not underſtand; leſt at any time they ſhould be converted, and their ſins ſhould be forgiven them.

13 And he ſaid unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables?

14 ¶ The ſower ſoweth the word.

15 And theſe are they by the way-ſide, where the word is ſown; but, when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was ſown in their hearts.

16 And theſe are they likewiſe which are ſown on ſtony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladneſs;

17 And have no root in themſelves, and ſo endure but for a time: afterward, when affliction or perſecution ariſeth, for the word's ſake, immediately they are offended.

18 And theſe are they which are ſown among thorns; ſuch as hear the word,

19 And the cares of this world, and the deceitfulneſs of riches, and the luſts of other things, entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

20 And theſe are they which are ſown on good ground: ſuch as hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit, ſome thirty-fold, ſome ſixty, and ſome an hundred.

21 And he ſaid unto them, Is a candle brought to be put under a buſhel, or under a bed, and not to be ſet on a candleſtick?

22 For there is nothing hid, which ſhall not be manifeſted; neither was any thing kept ſecret, but that it ſhould come abroad.

23 If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

24 And he ſaith unto them, Take heed what ye hear. With what meaſure ye mete, it ſhall be meaſured to you: and unto you that hear ſhall more be given.

25 For he that hath, to him ſhall be given: and he that hath not, from him ſhall be taken, even that which he hath.

26 ¶ And he ſaid, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man ſhould caſt ſeed into the ground;

27 And ſhould ſleep, and riſe night and day, and the ſeed ſhould ſpring and grow up, he knoweth not how.

COMMENTARY on Chap. IV.

15 Theſe are they by the way-ſide, &c.) As, in common language, ſometimes ſeed, and at others the ground on which it is caſt, is ſaid to be ſown; ſo in this interpretation of the parable we are to underſtand it with relation to the different ſorts of ground on which the ſeed is ſown, ſince it is deſigned to repreſent different ſorts of hearers, and the different entertainment they give to one and the ſame preaching of the goſpel.

26—29 So is the kingdom of God, &c.) This parable of our Saviour's is an inſtructive leſſon to the miniſters of the goſpel, faithfully to do their parts in ſowing the ſeed of the word amongſt their people, and then not to be over ſolicitous about the event, but to leave the iſſue to God; not to be diſcouraged, though the fruit of their labour doth not preſently appear. Accordingly Chriſt propounds the laborious huſbandman to his miniſters' imitation. As the huſbandman, when he has prudently and painfully caſt his ſeed into the ground, is not anxiouſly diſquieted, but goes to bed, and reſts in hope, and at length the corn ſprings up, firſt the blade, then the ear, then the grain: in like manner let the miniſters of God do their duty without diſcouragement; in the morning ſow their ſeed, and in the evening not with-hold their hand. And although the ſeed ſown doth not appear preſently, it may be not in our days, but ſeems rotten among the clods; yet may it appear afterwards with a plentiful increaſe, when our own heads are laid among the clods: verifying that ſaying of our Saviour, One ſoweth, and another reapeth.

28 For the earth bringeth forth fruit of herſelf: firſt the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear.

29 But when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he putteth in the ſickle, becauſe the harveſt is come.

30 And he ſaid, Whereunto ſhall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what compariſon ſhall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which, when it is ſown in the earth, is leſs than all the ſeeds that be in the earth:

32 But when it is ſown it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and ſhooteth out great branches; ſo that the fowls of the air may lodge under the ſhadow of it.

33 And with many ſuch parables ſpake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it.

34 But without a parable ſpake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his diſciples.

35 And the ſame day, when the even was come, he ſaith unto them, Let us paſs over unto the other ſide.

36 And when they had ſent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ſhip. And there were alſo with him other little ſhips.

37 And there aroſe a great ſtorm of wind, and the waves beat into the ſhip, ſo that it was now full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ſhip aſleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and ſay unto him, Maſter, careſt thou not that we periſh?

39 And he aroſe, and rebuked the wind; and ſaid unto the ſea, Peace, be ſtill. And the wind ceaſed, and there was a great calm.

40 And he ſaid unto them, Why are ye ſo fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and ſaid one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the ſea obey him?

CHAP. V.

1 Chriſt caſteth out the legion of devils, 25 heals the bloody iſſue, 35 and raiſes Jairus' daughter.

AND they came over unto the other ſide of the ſea, into the country of the Gadarenes.

2 And when he was come out of the ſhip, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean ſpirit,

3 Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4 Becauſe that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked aſunder by him; and the fetters broken in pieces; neither could any man tame him.

5 And always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying and cutting himſelf with ſtones.

6 But when he ſaw Jeſus afar off, he ran and worſhipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and ſaid, What have I to do with thee, Jeſus, thou Son of the Moſt High God? I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not.

8 (For he ſaid unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean ſpirit.)

9 And he aſked him, What is thy name? And he anſwered, ſaying, My name is Legion: for we are many.

10 And he beſought him much that he would not ſend them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there, nigh unto the mountains, a great herd of ſwine feeding.

12 And all the devils beſought him, ſaying, Send us into the ſwine, that we may enter into them.

13 And forthwith Jeſus gave them leave. And the unclean ſpirits went out, and entered into the ſwine; and the herd ran violently down a ſteep place into the ſea, (they were about two thouſand) and were choked in the ſea.

14 And they that fed the ſwine fled, and told it in the city, and in the country. And they went out to ſee what it was that was done.

15 ¶ And they come to Jeſus, and ſee him that was poſſeſſed with the devil, and had the legion, ſitting, and clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

16 And they that ſaw it told them how it befel to him that was poſſeſſed with the devil, and alſo concerning the ſwine.

17 And they began to pray him to depart out of their coaſts.

18 And when he was come into the ſhip, he that had been poſſeſſed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Jeſus ſuffered him not; but ſaith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compaſſion on thee.

20 And he departed, and began to publiſh in Decapolis how great things Jeſus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

21 And when Jeſus was paſſed over again by ſhip unto the other ſide, much people gathered unto him; and he was nigh unto the ſea.

22 And behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the ſynagogue, Jairus by name; and when he ſaw him, he fell at his feet, 34 He expounded all things, &c.) That is, he made a fuller diſcovery of his doctrine to his diſciples than to the multitude, becauſe they were more diſpoſed to receive it, and were afterwards to be the preachers of it, and to ſeal the truth of it with their blood.

---

36 There were alſo with him other little ſhips.) Theſe boats probably carried companies of people, who were deſirous to hear more of his doctrine, and ſee more of his miracles, and to follow him wherever he went.

COMMENTARY on Chap. V.

2 There met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean ſpirit.) This piece of hiſtory gives a very ſad relation of a perſon that was poſſeſſed with a legion of devils. We read of few, if any, in the Old Teſtament, that were thus poſſeſſed, but of many in the New Teſtament. Our Saviour came into the world to deſtroy the works of the devil; therefore he ſuffered Satan to enter ſome human bodies, to ſhew his divine power in caſting them out. The evil angels by their fall loſt their purity, but not their power; for with God's permiſſion they have power, not only to enter into men's bodies, and to poſſeſs them, but alſo to diſtemper their minds, and drive them to frenzy and madneſs, cauſing them to offer violence to their own lives, and to do hurt and miſchief to their own bodies. Thus did this poſſeſſed perſon here, wounding and cutting himſelf with ſtones. The reaſon why the evil angels do not oftener exert their power in doing miſchief to the bodies and lives of men, is from the reſtraining power of God.

9 My name is Legion: for we are many.) The number which conſtituted a legion of Roman ſoldiers, was, like our regiments, uncertain; ſome reckon them at 6000, and others at 12500: however, the devil's giving himſelf this name, intimates, that thoſe only who poſſeſſed this man were very numerous; and, being united in their malicious deſigns, were very powerful and warlike, under the government of a chief, who is emphatically called Satan, the old ſerpent, the prince of devils, and the like; and therefore the evil powers that poſſeſſed this man are ſometimes ſpoken of in the ſingular, and at others in the plural number.

20 He departed, and began to publiſh in Decapolis, &c.) Accordingly the man returned home, and reported in all the cities of Decapolis, how great a miracle Jeſus had wrote for him: and all the people of that country, well knowing the man's former condition, and ſeeing the certainty of his preſent cure, were convinced of the power of Jeſus with aſtoniſhment and admiration.

23 And beſought him greatly, ſaying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death; I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that ſhe may be healed, and ſhe ſhall live.

24 And Jeſus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

25 And a certain woman, which had an iſſue of blood twelve years,

26 And had ſuffered many things of many phyſicians, and had ſpent all that ſhe had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worſe,

27 When ſhe had heard of Jeſus, came in the preſs behind, and touched his garment:

28 For ſhe ſaid, If I may touch but his clothes, I ſhall be whole.

29 And ſtraightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and ſhe felt in her body that ſhe was healed of that plague.

30 And Jeſus, immediately knowing in himſelf that virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the preſs, and ſaid, Who touched my clothes?

31 And his diſciples ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt the multitude thronging thee, and ſayeſt thou, Who touched me?

32 And he looked round about to ſee her that had done this thing.

33 But the woman, fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

34 And he ſaid unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

35 ¶ While he yet ſpake, there came from the ruler of the ſynagogue's houſe certain which ſaid, Thy daughter is dead; why troubleſt thou the Maſter any further?

36 As ſoon as Jeſus heard the word that was ſpoken, he ſaith unto the ruler of the ſynagogue, Be not afraid, only believe.

37 And he ſuffered no man to follow him, ſave Peter and James, and John the brother of James.

38 And he cometh to the houſe of the ruler of the ſynagogue, and ſeeth the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And when he was come in, he ſaith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damſel is not dead, but ſleepeth.

40 And they laughed him to ſcorn. But when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damſel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damſel was lying.

41 And he took the damſel by the hand, and ſaid unto her, Talitha-cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damſel, (I ſay unto thee) ariſe.

42 And ſtraightway the damſel aroſe, and walked: for ſhe was of the age of twelve years. And they were aſtoniſhed with a great aſtoniſhment.

43 And he charged them ſtraitly that no man ſhould know it; and commanded that ſomething ſhould be given her to eat.

CHAP. VI.

1 Chriſt is contemned of his countrymen. 45 He walketh on the ſea.

AND he went out from thence, and came into his own country; and his diſciples follow him.

2 And when the ſabbath-day was come, he began to teach in the ſynagogue: and many hearing him, were aſtoniſhed, ſaying, From whence hath this man theſe things? and what wiſdom is this which is given unto him, that even ſuch mighty works are wrought by his hands?

3 Is not this the carpenter, the ſon of Mary, the brother of James and Joſes, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his ſiſters here with us? And they were offended at him.

4 But Jeſus ſaid unto them, A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own houſe.

5 And he could there do no mighty work, ſave that he laid his hands upon a few ſick folk, and healed them.

6 And he marvelled becauſe of their unbelief. And he went round about the villages, teaching.

7 And he calleth unto him the twelve, and began to ſend them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean ſpirits;

8 And commanded them that they ſhould take nothing for their journey, ſave a ſtaff only; no ſcrip, no bread, no money in their purſe;

9 But be ſhod with ſandals; and not put on two coats.

10 And he ſaid unto them, In what place ſoever ye enter into an houſe, there abide till ye depart from that place.

11 And whoſoever ſhall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, ſhake off the duſt under your feet for a teſtimony againſt them. Verily I ſay unto you, it ſhall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrha, in the day of judgment, than for that city.

12 And they went out, and preached that men ſhould repent.

13 And they caſt out many devils, and anointed with oil many that were ſick, and healed them.

14 And king Herod heard of him (for his name was ſpread abroad) and he ſaid, That John the Baptiſt was riſen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do ſhew forth themſelves in him.

15 Others ſaid, That it is Elias. And others ſaid, That it is a prophet, or as one of the prophets.

16 But when Herod heard thereof, he ſaid, It is John, whom I beheaded: he is riſen from the dead.

17 For Herod himſelf had ſent forth and laid hold upon John, and bound him in priſon for Herodias' ſake, his brother Philip's wife; for he had married her:

18 For John had ſaid unto Herod, It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife.

19 Therefore Herodias had a quarrel againſt him, and would have killed him; but ſhe could not.

20 For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a juſt man, and an holy, and obſerved him; and when he heard him he did many things, and heard him gladly.

21 And when a convenient day was come, that Herod on his birth-day made a ſupper to his lords, high captains, and chief eſtates of Galilee;

22 And when the daughter of the ſaid Herodias came in, and danced, and pleaſed Herod, and them that ſat with him, the king ſaid unto the damſel, Aſk of me whatſoever thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he ſware unto her, Whatſoever thou ſhalt aſk of me, I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom.

24 And ſhe went forth, and ſaid unto her mother, What ſhall I aſk? And ſhe ſaid, The head of John the Baptiſt.

30 Jeſus, immediately knowing in himſelf that virtue had gone out of him, &c.) It is never ſaid of the apoſtles, as it is here, and Luke vi. 19. viii. 46. of our Lord, that power or virtue went out of them for healing: they on the contrary diſclaimed it, aſcribing the entire efficacy to Chriſt, Acts iii. 12. 16. Nor could this be ſaid of any, but of the ſovereign Lord and Diſpoſer of life and death, and of ſickneſs and health: but Jeſus, as God, had power reſiding in himſelf, which he could exert at pleaſure, and by which alone he could heal all ſorts of diſeaſes, and chaſe away every unclean ſpirit; his diſpoſſeſſing of which may be reckoned among the cures he wrought by the virtue that went out of him, Luke vi. 18. 19.

25 And she came in straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I will that thou give me, by and by in a charger, the head of John the Baptist.

26 And the king was exceeding sorry; yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat with him, he would not reject her.

27 And immediately the king sent an executioner, and commanded his head to be brought: and he went and beheaded him in the prison;

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother.

29 And when his disciples heard of it, they came and took up his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

30 And the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while: for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32 And they departed into a desert place by ship privately.

33 And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran a-foot thither out of all cities, and out-went them, and came together unto him.

34 And Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to teach them many things.

35 And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed;

36 Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes.

39 And he commanded them to make all sit down by companies upon the green grass.

40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42 And they did all eat, and were filled.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that did eat of the loaves were about five thousand men.

45 ¶ And straightway he constrained his disciples to get into the ship, and to go to the other side before unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

46 And when he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

47 And when even was come the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them toiling in rowing: (for the wind was contrary unto them:) and about the fourth watch of the night he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, and would have passed by them.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out.

50 (For they all saw him and were troubled:) and immediately he talked with them, and saith unto them, Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

51 And he went up unto them into the ship; and the wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered.

52 For they considered not the miracle of the loaves: for their heart was hardened.

53 And when they had passed over, they came into the land of Genesaret, and drew to the shore.

54 And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

55 And ran through that whole region round about, and began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered, into villages, or cities, or country, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that they might touch, if it were but the border of his garment: and as many as touched him were made whole.

CHAP. VII.

1 The Pharisees find fault with the disciples for eating with unwashen hands. 14 Meat defileth no man.

THEN came together unto him the Pharisees, and certain of the scribes, which came from Jerusalem.

2 And when they saw some of his disciples eat bread with defiled (that is to say, with unwashen) hands, they found fault.

3 For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not. And many other things there be, which they have received to hold, as the washing of cups, and pots, brasen vessels, and of tables.

5 Then the Pharisees and scribes asked him, Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashen hands?

6 He answered and said unto them, Well hath Esaias prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

7 Howbeit, in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 For laying aside the commandment of God, ye hold the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and cups: and many other such like things ye do.

9 And he said unto them, Full well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition.

10 For Moses said, Honour thy father and thy mother;

Commentary on Chap. VI.

27 The king—commanded his head to be brought, &c.) It was and is still customary for the eastern monarchs to require the heads of those whom they order to be executed, to be brought to them, that they may be assured of their death.

41 He looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake the loaves, &c.) It is not to be supposed that twelve persons could put a piece of bread, and then a piece of fish into the hands of five thousand men, besides women and children, who were all fed with such expedition, that though the thing was not proposed to the disciples 'till about three, all was over by five o'clock in the afternoon. It is therefore natural to conclude that, in distributing the meat, the disciples used the most expeditious method, putting the bread first, and after that the fish, into the hands of those only who sat at the ends of the ranks, with orders to give it to their companions. On this supposition, the meat must have extended its dimensions, not only in our Lord's hands, but also in the hands of the multitude, continuing to swell 'till there was a greater quantity than they who held it could make use of; so that breaking off what was sufficient for themselves, they gave the remainder to the persons next to them, who, in like manner, saw the bread and fish swell, 'till they also had enough, and to spare. The meat being thus created among the multitude, and before their eyes, as long as there was a single person to be fed, they did all eat, and were filled to their unspeakable astonishment.

and, Whoſo curſeth father or mother, let him die the death:

11 But ye ſay, If a man ſhall ſay to his father or mother, It is Corban, that is to ſay, A gift, by whatſoever thou mighteſt be profited by me; he ſhall be free.

12 And ye ſuffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother;

13 Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition which ye have delivered: and many ſuch like things do ye.

14 ¶ And, when he had called all the people unto him, he ſaid unto them, Hearken unto me every one of you, and underſtand.

15 There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, thoſe are they that defile the man.

16 If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 And when he was entered into the houſe from the people, his diſciples aſked him concerning the parable.

18 And he ſaith unto them, Are ye ſo without underſtanding alſo? Do ye not perceive, that whatſoever thing from without entereth into the man, it cannot defile him;

19 Becauſe it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all meats?

20 And he ſaid, That which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man.

21 For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 Theſts, covetouſneſs, wickedneſs, deceit, laſciviouſneſs, an evil eye, blaſphemy, pride, fooliſhneſs:

23 All theſe evil things come from within, and defile the man.

24 And from thence he aroſe, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an houſe, and would have no man know it; but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whoſe young daughter had an unclean ſpirit, heard of him, and came and fell at his feet;

26 (The woman was a Greek, a Syrophenecian by nation) and ſhe beſought him that he would caſt forth the devil out of her daughter.

27 But Jeſus ſaid unto her, Let the children firſt be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and to caſt it unto the dogs.

28 And ſhe anſwered and ſaid unto him, Yes, Lord: yet the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs.

29 And he ſaid unto her, For this ſaying go thy way; the devil is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when ſhe was come to her houſe, ſhe found the devil gone out, and her daughter laid upon the bed.

31 And again, departing from the coaſts of Tyre and Sidon, he came unto the ſea of Galilee, through the midſt of the coaſts of Decapolis.

32 And they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his ſpeech; and they beſeech him to put his hand upon him.

33 And he took him aſide from the multitude, and put his fingers into his ears, and he ſpit, and touched his tongue;

34 And, looking up to heaven, he ſighed, and ſaith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.

35 And ſtraightway his ears were opened, and the ſtring of his tongue was looſed, and he ſpake plain.

36 And he charged them that they ſhould tell no man: but the more he charged them, ſo much the more a great deal they publiſhed it;

37 And were beyond meaſure aſtoniſhed, ſaying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to ſpeak.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Chriſt feedeth the people miraculouſly, 10 and refuſeth to give a ſign to the Phariſees.

IN thoſe days, the multitude being very great, and having nothing to eat, Jeſus called his diſciples unto him, and ſaid unto them,

2 I have compaſſion on the multitude, becauſe they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat;

3 And if I ſend them away faſting to their own houſes, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far.

4 And his diſciples anſwered him, From whence can a man ſatisfy theſe men with bread here in the wilderneſs?

5 And he aſked them, How many loaves have ye? And they ſaid, Seven.

6 And he commanded the people to ſit down on the ground: and he took the ſeven loaves, and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his diſciples to ſet before them; and they did ſet them before the people.

7 And they had a few ſmall fiſhes; and he bleſſed, and commanded to ſet them alſo before them.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VII.

15 There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him, &c.) Cleanneſs and uncleanneſs in the ſight of God are not outward accidents of the body, but inward diſpoſitions of the heart and mind. Whatever therefore is without the man, or enters only into his body, without affecting his mind, cannot make him unclean before God: but the things which render a man impure in the judgment of the Almighty, are only thoſe which proceed from within him, from the heart and mind, as evil thoughts, deſigns, and actions. Our bleſſed Saviour did not intend to overthrow the diſtinction which the law had eſtabliſhed between things clean and unclean in reſpect to man's food. That diſtinction, like all the other emblematical inſtitutions of Moſes, was wiſely appointed, being deſigned to teach the Iſraelites how carefully the familiar company and converſation of the wicked is to be avoided. He only affirmed that in itſelf no kind of meat can defile the mind, which is the man, tho' by accident it may; for inſtance, when taken in quantity contrary to the commandment of the Almighty: for this is gluttony, a vice of the mind.

34 He ſighed, &c.) Perhaps there were circumſtances, to us unknown, which rendered this dumb perſon a peculiar object of pity; or by this example of bodily deafneſs or dumbneſs our Lord might be led to reflect on the ſpiritual deafneſs and dumbneſs of men. But whatever was the cauſe, Chriſt ſighing on this occaſion evidently diſplayed the great love he bore to the human race; for certainly nothing leſs could move him to compaſſionate our miſeries, whether general or particular, in ſo affectionate a manner.

Be opened.) This was a word of ſovereign authority, directed to the man or to his diſtemper, and commanding the cure; and not an addreſs to God for power to heal: nor was there any need of ſuch addreſs; for Chriſt had a perpetual fund of power reſiding in himſelf, to work all miracles whenever he pleaſed, even to the quickening of the dead, as he had aſſerted, John v. 26. And this ſhews that his looking up to heaven was not in a way of application to his Father for aſſiſtance to do the work.

COMMENTARY on Chap. VIII.

7 And he bleſſed, &c.) As Chriſt's bleſſing the loaves and fiſhes related not to the miraculous multiplication of them, but to his cuſtomary acknowledgement of God as a bountiful benefactor; ſo it ſeems that his bleſſing them did not conſiſt of two prayers, diſtinctly made one after another over each; but only of one prayer, relating to the whole entertainment; for the loaves and fiſhes were doubtleſs eat together: and in all other places, where this, and the miracle of feeding five thouſand, are ſpoken of, his bleſſing both the loaves and fiſhes is repreſented but as one action. But the reaſon why, in the inſtitution of the Lord's ſupper, there were diſtinct prayers, one before the bread, and the other afterwards, before the cup was received, might be, not only for the greater ſolemnity; but likewiſe becauſe the eating was over before the drinking began, and becauſe the two elements were therein ſet apart for ſacred uſe, to ſignify and bring to remembrance two diſtinct parts of Chriſt's ſufferings, one of his body, as intimated in its being broken; and the other of his ſoul, in the ſhedding of his blood.

8 So they did eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left ſeven baſkets.

9 And they that had eaten were about four thouſand; and he ſent them away.

10 ¶ And ſtraightway he entered into a ſhip with his diſciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha.

11 And the Phariſees came forth, and began to queſtion with him, ſeeking of him a ſign from heaven, tempting him.

12 And he ſighed deeply in his ſpirit, and ſaith, Why doth this generation ſeek after a ſign? Verily I ſay unto you, There ſhall no ſign be given unto this generation.

13 And he left them, and entering into the ſhip again, departed to the other ſide.

14 Now the diſciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ſhip with them more than one loaf.

15 And he charged them, ſaying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Phariſees, and of the leaven of Herod.

16 And they reaſoned among themſelves, ſaying, It is becauſe we have no bread.

17 And when Jeſus knew it, he ſaith unto them, Why reaſon ye becauſe ye have no bread? perceive ye not yet, neither underſtand? have ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Having eyes, ſee ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember,

19 When I brake the five loaves among five thouſand, how many baſkets full of fragments took ye up? They ſay unto him, Twelve.

20 And when the ſeven among four thouſand, how many baſkets full of fragments took ye up? And they ſaid, Seven.

21 And he ſaid unto them, How is it that ye do not underſtand?

22 And he cometh to Bethſaida; and they bring a blind man unto him, and beſought him to touch him.

23 And he took the blind man by the hand, and led him out of the town: and when he had ſpit on his eyes, and put his hands upon him, he aſked him if he ſaw ought?

24 And he looked up, and ſaid, I ſee men as trees walking.

25 After that he put his hands again upon his eyes, and made him look up; and he was reſtored, and ſaw every man clearly.

26 And he ſent him away to his houſe, ſaying, Neither go into the town, nor tell it to any in the town.

27 And Jeſus went out, and his diſciples, into the towns of Ceſarea Philippi: and by the way he aſked his diſciples, ſaying unto them, Whom do men ſay that I am?

28 And they anſwered, John the Baptiſt; but ſome ſay, Elias; and others, One of the prophets.

29 And he ſaith unto them, But whom ſay ye that I am? And Peter anſwereth and ſaith unto him, Thou art the Chriſt.

30 And he charged them that they ſhould tell no man of him.

31 And he began to teach them, that the Son of man muſt ſuffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the chief prieſts, and ſcribes, and be killed; and after three days riſe again.

32 And he ſpake that ſaying openly. And Peter took him, and began to rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about, and looked on his diſciples, he rebuked Peter, ſaying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou ſavoureſt not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

34 And when he had called the people unto him, with his diſciples alſo, he ſaid unto them, Whoſoever will come after me, let him deny himſelf, and take up his croſs, and follow me.

35 For whoſoever will ſave his life ſhall loſe it; but whoſoever ſhall loſe his life for my ſake and the goſpel's, the ſame ſhall ſave it.

36 For what ſhall it profit a man, if he ſhall gain the whole world, and loſe his own ſoul?

37 Or what ſhall a man give in exchange for his ſoul?

38 Whoſoever, therefore, ſhall be aſhamed of me, and of my words, in this adulterous and ſinful generation, of him alſo ſhall the Son of man be aſhamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father, with the holy angels.

CHAP. IX.

2 Jeſus tranſfigured. 30 He foretelleth his death and reſurrection, 33 and giveth divers inſtructions.

AND he ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that there be ſome of them that ſtand here which ſhall not taſte of death till they have ſeen the kingdom of God come with power.

2 ¶ And after ſix days, Jeſus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themſelves: and he was tranſfigured before them.

3 And his raiment became ſhining, exceeding white as ſnow; ſo as no fuller on earth can white them.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias, with Moſes: and they were talking with Jeſus.

5 And Peter anſwered and ſaid to Jeſus, Maſter, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias.

6 For he wiſt not what to ſay: for they were ſore afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that overſhadowed them: and a voice came out of the cloud, ſaying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.

22—26 They bring a blind man unto him, &c.) Two things are remarkable in this miracle. Firſt, Our bleſſed Lord led the man out of the city before he would heal him; and when the cure was performed forbad him to return thither, or ſo much as to tell it to any one who lived in the town. The reaſon was, the people had for a long time been deſirous to have him acknowledged as the Meſſiah, and every new miracle they beheld, moved them afreſh to make the attempt. Nor could the inhabitants of Bethſaida complain of being ill uſed, though they were not permitted to be witneſſes of the cure, ſince they had brought this mark of Chriſt's diſpleaſure upon themſelves, by their ingratitude, impertinence, and infidelity. And with regard to the man, he could not think it any hardſhip, to be hindered from returning into the city, as it was not the place of his abode. Secondly, in giving ſight to this blind man, Jeſus did not, as on other occaſions of the like nature, impart the faculty all at once, but by degrees. For at firſt the man ſaw things but obſcurely; then, by a ſecond impoſition of Chriſt's hands, he had a clear ſight of every object in view. Our Lord's intention might be to make it evident that in his cures he was not confined to one method of operation, but that he could diſpenſe them in what method he pleaſed. The blind man's expreſſion, after the firſt impoſition of our Saviour's hands, may be eaſily accounted for, on ſuppoſition that he was not born blind, but had loſt his ſight by accident; for in that caſe he might have retained the idea both of men and trees: and hence his words, I ſee men as trees walking, expreſs very properly the indiſtinction of his viſion.

34 And take up his croſs, &c.) Taking up the croſs is an alluſion to a known cuſtom among the Romans, who obliged thoſe that were to be crucified to take their croſs, or at leaſt part of it, upon their ſhoulders, and carry it to the place of execution.

Commentary on Chap. IX.

1 Verily I ſay unto you, &c.) Be not ſurpriſed that I ſpeak of appearing hereafter in glory: for I tell you that ſome who are now preſent with me, ſhall live to ſee the kingdom of the Meſſiah begin to be graciouſly eſtabliſhed by the terrible deſtruction of his enemies, and by the wonderful ſucceſs and propagation of the goſpel, with great and glorious manifeſtations of the divine power.

8 And ſuddenly, when they had looked round about, they ſaw no man any more, ſave Jeſus only with themſelves.

9 And, as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they ſhould tell no man what things they had ſeen, till the Son of man were riſen from the dead.

10 And they kept that ſaying with themſelves, queſtioning one with another what the riſing from the dead ſhould mean.

11 And they aſked him, ſaying, Why ſay the ſcribes that Elias muſt firſt come?

12 And he anſwered and told them, Elias verily cometh firſt, and reſtoreth all things; and how it is written of the Son of man, that he muſt ſuffer many things, and be ſet at nought.

13 But I ſay unto you, That Elias is indeed come, and they have done unto him whatſoever they liſted, as it is written of him.

14 And when he came to his diſciples, he ſaw a great multitude about them, and the ſcribes queſtioning with them.

15 And ſtraightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and, running to him, ſaluted him.

16 And he aſked the ſcribes, What queſtion ye with them?

17 And one of the multitude anſwered and ſaid, Maſter, I have brought unto thee my ſon, which hath a dumb ſpirit:

18 And whereſoever he taketh him he teareth him; and he foameth, and gnaſheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I ſpake to thy diſciples that they ſhould caſt him out; and they could not.

19 He anſwereth him and ſaith, O faithleſs generation! how long ſhall I be with you? how long ſhall I ſuffer you? Bring him unto me.

20 And they brought him unto him: and when he ſaw him, ſtraightway the ſpirit tare him: and he fell on the ground, and wallowed, foaming.

21 And he aſked his father, How long is it ago ſince this came unto him? And he ſaid, Of a child.

22 And oft-times it hath caſt him into the fire, and into the waters, to deſtroy him: but if thou canſt do any thing, have compaſſion on us, and help us.

23 Jeſus ſaid unto him, If thou canſt believe, all things are poſſible to him that believeth.

24 And ſtraightway the father of the child cried out, and ſaid with tears, Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief.

25 When Jeſus ſaw that the people came running together, he rebuked the foul ſpirit, ſaying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf ſpirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 And the ſpirit cried, and rent him ſore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; inſomuch that many ſaid, He is dead.

27 But Jeſus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he aroſe.

28 And when he was come into the houſe, his diſciples aſked him privately, Why could not we caſt him out?

29 And he ſaid unto them, This kind can come forth by nothing but by prayer and faſting.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and paſſed through Galilee; and he would not that any man ſhould know it.

31 For he taught his diſciples, and ſaid unto them, The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they ſhall kill him; and after that he is killed he ſhall riſe the third day.

32 But they underſtood not that ſaying, and were afraid to aſk him.

33 ¶ And he came to Capernaum; and, being in the houſe, he aſked them, What was it that ye diſputed among yourſelves by the way?

34 But they held their peace; for by the way they had diſputed among themſelves who ſhould be the greateſt.

35 And he ſat down, and called the twelve, and ſaith unto them, If any man deſire to be firſt, the ſame ſhall be laſt of all, and ſervant of all.

36 And he took a child, and ſet him in the midſt of them: and, when he had taken him in his arms, he ſaid unto them,

37 Whoſoever ſhall receive one of ſuch children in my name, receiveth me: and whoſoever ſhall receive me, receiveth not me, but him that ſent me.

38 And John anſwered him, ſaying, Maſter, we ſaw one caſting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us; and we forbade him, becauſe he followeth not us.

39 But Jeſus ſaid, Forbid him not: for there is no man which ſhall do a miracle in my name that can lightly ſpeak evil of me.

40 For he that is not againſt us is on our part.

41 For whoſoever ſhall give you a cup of water to drink in my name, becauſe ye belong to Chriſt, verily I ſay unto you, He ſhall not loſe his reward.

42 And whoſoever ſhall offend one of theſe little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millſtone were hanged about his neck, and he were caſt into the ſea.

43 And if thy hand offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never ſhall be quenched;

44 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

45 And if thy foot offend thee, cut it off; it is better for thee to enter halt into life, than having two feet to be caſt into hell, into the fire that never ſhall be quenched;

---

31 He taught his diſciples, &c.) Our Saviour frequently forewarned his diſciples of his approaching ſufferings, more eſpecially as the time drew near; but all was little enough to arm them againſt the ſcandal of the croſs, and to reconcile their thoughts to a ſuffering condition. The diſciples had taken up the common opinion, that the Meſſiah was to be a temporal prince, and as ſuch to reign here upon earth, and they knew not how to reconcile this with his being delivered up into the hands of men that ſhould kill him; and yet they were afraid to aſk him concerning this matter. Now, from Chriſt's frequent forewarning his diſciples of approaching ſufferings, we may gather, That we can never hear either too often or too much of the doctrine of the croſs, nor be too frequently inſtructed in our duty to prepare for a ſuffering ſtate. As Chriſt went by his croſs to his crown, from a ſtate of abaſement to a ſtate of exaltation, ſo muſt all his diſciples and followers likewiſe.

43—48 And if thy hand offend thee, &c.) It may perhaps ſeem very hard for a man to avoid all the ways of incurring this guilt, and becoming liable to this puniſhment. It is poſſible that it may ſo happen, that he can by no means do it without incurring ſome great difficulties, or denying himſelf ſome of the greateſt ſatisfactions of life. But if the caſe be ſo, he had better chooſe to forſake any pleaſure, or ſuffer any temporal inconvenience whatſoever, than fall under the utmoſt diſpleaſure of the Almighty. It is poſſible alſo, that he may be tempted not only to diſcourage others, but even to apoſtatize from the truth himſelf, by ſome perſon or thing that is very dear to him; ſo that perhaps he cannot perſevere in the profeſſion and practice of true religion, without forſaking ſome friend, or parting with ſomething as dear to him as any members of his body. But when this is the caſe, as men chuſe to loſe a hand, a foot, or an eye, if there be no other way of preſerving their lives; ſo ought they readily to forſake any friend, or to part with any thing, however dear it may be to them, rather than fall under the laſt ſeverity of the divine vengeance, and be caſt into that place of torment, where there will be nothing but fruitleſs remorſe and endleſs puniſhment.

46 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

47 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out: it is better for thee to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be caſt into hell-fire;

48 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

49 For every one ſhall be ſalted with fire, and every ſacrifice ſhall be ſalted with ſalt.

50 Salt is good: but if the ſalt have loſt his ſaltneſs, wherewith will ye ſeaſon it? Have ſalt in yourſelves, and have peace one with another.

CHAP. X.

2 Touching divorcement. 13 Little children brought to Chriſt. 23 The danger of riches.

AND he aroſe from thence, and cometh into the coaſts of Judea, by the farther ſide of Jordan; and the people reſort unto him again; and, as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 ¶ And the Phariſees came to him, and aſked him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife; tempting him.

3 And he anſwered and ſaid unto them, What did Moſes command you?

4 And they ſaid, Moſes ſuffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, For the hardneſs of your heart he wrote you this precept:

6 But from the beginning of the creation God made them male and female.

7 For this cauſe ſhall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

8 And they twain ſhall be one fleſh: ſo then they are no more twain, but one fleſh.

9 What, therefore, God hath joined together, let not man put aſunder.

10 And in the houſe his diſciples aſked him again of the ſame matter.

11 And he ſaith unto them, Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery againſt her.

12 And if a woman ſhall put away her huſband, and be married to another, ſhe committeth adultery.

13 ¶ And they brought young children to him, that he ſhould touch them; and his diſciples rebuked thoſe that brought them.

14 But when Jeſus ſaw it, he was much diſpleaſed, and ſaid unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of ſuch is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he ſhall not enter therein.

16 And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and bleſſed them.

17 And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and aſked him, Good Maſter, what ſhall I do, that I may inherit eternal life?

18 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Why calleſt thou me good? there is none good but one, that is God.

19 Thou knoweſt the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not ſteal, Do not bear falſe witneſs, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother.

20 And he anſwered and ſaid unto him, Maſter, all theſe have I obſerved from my youth.

21 Then Jeſus, beholding him, loved him, and ſaid unto him, One thing thou lackeſt: go thy way, ſell whatſoever thou haſt, and give to the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven: and come, take up the croſs, and follow me.

22 And he was ſad at that ſaying, and went away grieved: for he had great poſſeſſions.

23 ¶ And Jeſus looked round about, and ſaith unto his diſciples, How hardly ſhall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And the diſciples were aſtoniſhed at his words. But Jeſus anſwereth again, and ſaith unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that truſt in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is eaſier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were aſtoniſhed out of meaſure, ſaying, among themſelves, Who then can be ſaved?

27 And Jeſus, looking upon them, ſaith, With men it is impoſſible, but not with God: for with God all things are poſſible.

28 Then Peter began to ſay unto him, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, There is no man that hath left houſe, or brethren, or ſiſters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my ſake and the goſpel's,

30 But he ſhall receive an hundred-fold now in this time,

---

49 Every one ſhall be ſalted with fire, &c.) As the ſacrifices were ſalted with ſalt, both as a preparation for their being conſumed by fire on the altar, and as an emblem of their purification from corruption, and of their ſavour and acceptableneſs to God; ſo it ſeems as if ſalting was here ſpoken of in this double view: accordingly ſome are ſaid to be ſalted with fire, to denote their deſtruction; and others are ſpoken of under the notion of a ſacrifice ſalted with ſalt, to denote their acceptance and preſervation

Commentary on Chap. X.

13 They brought young children to him, that he ſhould touch them, &c.) That theſe perſons believed in Chriſt, appears from the end for which they brought their children to him: which was, not that he might cure them of any corporal diſeaſe, (for there is no hint of their having any; and if they had, the diſciples would not have gone about to prevent them, any more than older people;) but it was, that he might bleſs them with the bleſſings of his kingdom, (ver. 16.) And his touching them is an expreſſion of the ſame import with his laying his hands upon them, as it is often uſed in the evangeliſts, and is particularly to be underſtood in this very caſe, ver. 16. and Matt. xix. 13, 14, 15.

23—26 And Jeſus looked round about, and ſaith unto his diſciples, How hardly ſhall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! &c.) From this diſcourſe of our holy Lord's, concerning the danger of riches, and the difficulty that attends rich men in their way to heaven, we may collect and gather, firſt, That rich men do certainly meet with more difficulties in their way to heaven than other men. It is difficult to withdraw their affections from riches, to place their ſupreme love upon God in the midſt of their abundance. It is difficult to depend entirely upon God in a rich condition; for the rich man's wealth is his ſtrong tower. Secondly, That yet the fault lies not in riches, but in rich men; who, by placing their truſt, and repoſing their confidence in riches, do render themſelves incapable of the kingdom of God. The ſpeech which our Saviour makes uſe of to ſet forth the difficulty of a rich man's ſalvation, It is eaſier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, was a proverb among the Jews, ſignifying a thing of great difficulty, next to an impoſſibility; and it implies thus much, That it is not only a very great difficulty, but an impoſſibility, for ſuch as abound in wordly wealth and place their confidence therein, to be ſaved, without an extraordinary grace and aſſiſtance from God. It is hard for God to make a rich man happy, becauſe he thinks himſelf happy without God. The diſciples are affected with wonder and admiration at this doctrine of our Saviour's, and cry out, Who then can be ſaved?—Such are the ſpecial and peculiar difficulties which lie in the rich man's way to ſalvation, that their getting to heaven is matter of wonder and admiration to the diſciples of Chriſt. Our Saviour reſolves this doubt, by telling his diſciples, That what was impoſſible with men, was poſſible with God; implying, that it is impoſſible for any man, rich or poor, by his own natural ſtrength to get to heaven; and that when we are diſcouraged with the ſenſe of our own impotency, we ſhould conſider the power of God, and fix our faith upon it.

time, houſes, and brethren, and ſiſters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with perſecutions; and in the world to come eternal life.

31 But many that are firſt ſhall be laſt, and the laſt firſt.

32 And they were in the way going up to Jeruſalem; and Jeſus went before them: and they were amazed; and as they followed they were afraid. And he took again the twelve, and began to tell them what things ſhould happen unto him,

33 Saying, Behold, we go up to Jeruſalem; and the Son of man ſhall be delivered unto the chief prieſts, and unto the ſcribes; and they ſhall condemn him to death, and ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles:

34 And they ſhall mock him, and ſhall ſcourge him, and ſhall ſpit upon him, and ſhall kill him; and the third day he ſhall riſe again.

35 And James and John, the ſons of Zebedee, come unto him, ſaying, Maſter, we would that thou ſhouldeſt do for us whatſoever we ſhall deſire.

36 And he ſaid unto them, What would ye that I ſhould do for you?

37 They ſaid unto him, Grant unto us that we may ſit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory.

38 But Jeſus ſaid unto them, Ye know not what ye aſk: can ye drink of the cup that I drink of? and be baptized with the baptiſm that I am baptized with?

39 And they ſaid unto him, We can. And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall indeed drink of the cup that I drink of; and with the baptiſm that I am baptized withal, ſhall ye be baptized:

40 But to ſit on my right hand, and on my left hand, is not mine to give; but it ſhall be given to them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard it, they began to be much diſpleaſed with James and John.

42 But Jeſus called them to him, and ſaith unto them, Ye know that they which are accounted to rule over the Gentiles exerciſe lordſhip over them; and their great ones exerciſe authority upon them.

43 But ſo ſhall it not be among you: but whoſoever will be great among you ſhall be your miniſter;

44 And whoſoever of you will be the chiefeſt ſhall be ſervant of all.

45 For even the Son of man came not to be miniſtered unto, but to miniſter, and to give his life a ranſom for many.

46 And they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his diſciples, and a great number of people, blind Bartimeus, the ſon of Timeus, ſat by the highway-ſide, begging.

47 And when he heard that it was Jeſus of Nazareth, he began to cry out and ſay, Jeſus, thou ſon of David, have mercy on me.

48 And many charged him that he ſhould hold his peace: but he cried the more a great deal, Thou ſon of David, have mercy on me.

49 And Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, ſaying unto him, Be of good comfort, riſe; he calleth thee.

50 And he, caſting away his garment, roſe, and came to Jeſus.

51 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, What wilt thou that I ſhould do unto thee? The blind man ſaid unto him, Lord, that I might receive my ſight.

52 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his ſight, and followed Jeſus in the way.

CHAP. XI.

1 Chriſt rideth with triumph into Jeruſalem. 12 He curſeth the fruitleſs fig-tree.

AND when they came nigh to Jeruſalem, unto Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount of Olives, he ſendeth forth two of his diſciples,

2 And ſaith unto them, Go your way into the village over-againſt you; and, as ſoon as ye be entered into it, ye ſhall find a colt tied, whereon never man ſat; looſe him, and bring him.

3 And if any man ſay unto you, Why do ye this? ſay ye that the Lord hath need of him; and ſtraightway he will ſend him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door without, in a place where two ways met; and they looſe him.

5 And certain of them that ſtood there ſaid unto them, What do ye looſing the colt?

6 And they ſaid unto them even as Jeſus had commanded: and they let them go.

7 And they brought the colt to Jeſus, and caſt their garments on him; and he ſat upon him.

8 And many ſpread their garments in the way; and others cut down branches off the trees, and ſtrawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, ſaying, Hoſanna; Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord:

10 Bleſſed be the kingdom of our father David that cometh in the name of the Lord: Hoſanna in the higheſt.

11 And Jeſus entered into Jeruſalem, and into the temple: and when he had looked round about upon all things, and now the even-tide was come, he went out unto Bethany with the twelve.

12 ¶ And on the morrow, when they were come from Bethany, he was hungry:

13 And ſeeing a fig-tree afar off, having leaves, he came, if haply he might find any thing thereon: and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet.

14 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto it, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his diſciples heard it.

15 And they came to Jeruſalem: and Jeſus went into 39 Ye ſhall indeed drink of the cup that I drink of, &c.) The apoſtle James ſuffered martyrdom under Herod, Acts xii. 2. and the apoſtle John met with various perſecutions, and was baniſhed to the iſle of Patmos, for the ſake of Chriſt, Rev. i. 9. But, as is generally believed, he only, of all the apoſtles, eſcaped a violent death.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XI.

7—10 And they brought the colt to Jeſus, &c.) The obedience of his diſciples is worthy our obſervation. They did as Jeſus had commanded; they do not diſpute their Lord's commands, nor raiſe objections, nor are afraid of dangers; when our call is clear, our obedience muſt be ſpeedy: what Chriſt commands, we are not to diſpute, but to obey. So great is the joy of the multitude in acknowledging Chriſt to be their King, that they caſt their garments on the ground for him to ride upon, according to the cuſtom of princes when they ride in ſtate; and do not only diſrobe their backs, but expend their breath in joyful acclamations and loud hoſannas, wiſhing all manner of proſperity to their meek but mighty King. In this princely, yet poor and deſpicable pomp, doth our Saviour enter the famous city of Jeruſalem. O, how far was our Lord from affecting wordly greatneſs and grandeur! He deſpiſed that glory which worldly hearts fondly admire; yet becauſe he was a King, he would be proclaimed ſuch, and have his kingdom confeſſed, applauded, and bleſſed. But that it might appear that his kingdom was not of this world, he abandons all wordly magnificence.

15 And Jeſus went into the temple, &c.) As this is related, Matt. xxi. 12, 13. among the tranſactions of the preceding day, and before he curſed the fig-tree; it is probable that ſome of the people, at the inſtigation of the prieſts, ventured to return to their traffic here the next morning, which occaſioned Chriſt's acting the ſame part over again. But as the evangeliſts did not always obſerve the exact order of time in their narratives, when it was of no importance to the hiſtory; ſo, poſſibly, either Matthew or Mark did not tye himſelf down to it here.

into the temple, and began to caſt out them that ſold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the ſeats of them that ſold doves;

16 And would not ſuffer that any man ſhould carry any veſſel through the temple.

17 And he taught, ſaying unto them, Is it not written, My houſe ſhall be called of all nations, The houſe of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves.

18 And the ſcribes and chief prieſts heard it, and ſought how they might deſtroy him: for they feared him, becauſe all the people was aſtoniſhed at his doctrine.

19 And when even was come he went out of the city.

20 And in the morning, as they paſſed by, they ſaw the fig-tree dried up from the roots.

21 And Peter, calling to remembrance, ſaith unto him, Maſter, behold, the fig-tree which thou curſedſt is withered away.

22 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaith unto them, Have faith in God.

23 For verily I ſay unto you, that whoſoever ſhall ſay unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou caſt into the ſea; and ſhall not doubt in his heart, but ſhall believe that thoſe things which he ſaith ſhall come to paſs; he ſhall have whatſoever he ſaith.

24 Therefore I ſay unto you, What things ſoever ye deſire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye ſhall have them.

25 And when ye ſtand praying, forgive, if ye have ought againſt any: that your Father alſo which is in heaven may forgive you your treſpaſſes.

26 But if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your treſpaſſes.

27 And they come again to Jeruſalem: and, as he was walking in the temple, there come to him the chief prieſts, and the ſcribes, and the elders,

28 And ſay unto him, By what authority doeſt thou theſe things? and who gave thee this authority to do theſe things?

29 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, I will alſo aſk of you one queſtion, and anſwer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

30 The baptiſm of John, was it from heaven, or of men? anſwer me.

31 And they reaſoned with themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven; he will ſay, Why then did ye not believe him?

32 But if we ſhall ſay, Of men; they feared the people: for all men counted John, that he was a prophet indeed.

33 And they anſwered and ſaid unto Jeſus, We cannot tell. And Jeſus anſwering, ſaith unto them, Neither do I tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

CHAP. XII.

1 The parable of the vineyard. 13 Touching the paying of tribute, 18 and the reſurrection. 41 The widow and the two mites.

AND he began to ſpeak unto them by parables. A certain man planted a vineyard, and ſet an hedge about it, and digged a place for the wine-fat, and built a tower, and let it out to huſbandmen, and went into a far country.

2 And at the ſeaſon he ſent to the huſbandmen a ſervant, that he might receive from the huſbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 And they caught him, and beat him, and ſent him away empty.

4 And again he ſent unto them another ſervant; and at him they caſt ſtones, and wounded him in the head, and ſent him away, ſhamefully handled.

5 And again he ſent another; and him they killed, and many others, beating ſome, and killing ſome.

6 Having yet, therefore, one ſon, his well-beloved, he ſent him alſo laſt unto them, ſaying, They will reverence my ſon.

7 But thoſe huſbandmen ſaid among themſelves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance ſhall be ours.

8 And they took him, and killed him, and caſt him out of the vineyard.

9 What ſhall, therefore, the Lord of the vineyard do? He will come and deſtroy the huſbandmen, and will give the vineyard unto others.

10 And have ye not read this ſcripture, The ſtone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner:

11 This was the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

12 And they ſought to lay hold on him, but feared the people; for they knew that he had ſpoken the parable againſt them: and they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ And they ſend unto him certain of the Phariſees and of the Herodians, to catch him in his words.

14 And when they were come, they ſay unto him, Maſter, we know that thou art true, and careſt for no man; for thou regardeſt not the perſon of men, but teacheſt the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Ceſar, or not?

15 Shall we give, or ſhall we not give? But he, knowing their hypocriſy, ſaid unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me a penny, that I may ſee it.

16 And they brought it. And he ſaith unto them, Whoſe is this image and ſuperſcription? And they ſaid unto him, Ceſar's.

17 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaid unto them, Render to Ceſar the things that are Ceſar's, and to God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him.

18 ¶ Then come unto him the Sadducees, which ſay, there is no reſurrection; and they aſked him, ſaying,

19 Maſter, Moſes wrote unto us, If a man's brother die, and leave his wife behind him, and leave no children, that his brother ſhould take his wife, and raiſe up ſeed unto his brother.

20 Now there were ſeven brethren: and the firſt took a wife, and, dying, left no ſeed.

21 And the ſecond took her, and died, neither left he any ſeed: and the third likewiſe.

22 And the ſeven had her, and left no ſeed: laſt of all the woman died alſo.

23 In the reſurrection, therefore, when they ſhall riſe, whoſe wife ſhall ſhe be of them? for the ſeven had her to wife.

24 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaid unto them, Do ye not therefore err, becauſe ye know not the ſcriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they ſhall riſe from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage; but are as the angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they riſe: have ye not read in the book of Moſes, how in the buſh God ſpake unto him, ſaying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living: ye, therefore, do greatly err.

28 And one of the ſcribes came, and having heard them reaſoning together, and perceiving that he had anſwered them well, aſked him, Which is the firſt commandment of all?

29 And Jeſus anſwered him, The firſt of all the commandments is, Hear, O Iſrael; The Lord our God is one Lord:

30 And thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy ſtrength. This is the firſt commandment.

31 And the ſecond is like, namely this, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf. There is none other commandment greater than theſe.

32 And the ſcribe ſaid unto him, Well, Maſter, thou haſt ſaid the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he.

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the underſtanding, and with all the ſoul, and with all the ſtrength, and to love his neighbour as himſelf, is more than all whole burnt-offerings and ſacrifices.

34 And when Jeſus ſaw that he anſwered diſcreetly, he ſaid unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durſt aſk him any queſtion.

35 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, while he taught in the temple, How ſay the ſcribes that Chriſt is the ſon of David?

36 For David himſelf ſaid by the Holy Ghoſt, The Lord ſaid to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

37 David, therefore, himſelf calleth him Lord; and whence is he then his ſon? And the common people heard him gladly.

38 And he ſaid unto them in his doctrine, Beware of the ſcribes, which love to go in long clothing, and love ſalutations in the market-places,

39 And the chief ſeats in the ſynagogues, and the uppermoſt rooms at feaſts;

40 Which devour widows' houſes, and for a pretence make long prayers: theſe ſhall receive greater damnation.

41 ¶ And Jeſus ſat over-againſt the treaſury, and beheld how the people caſt money into the treaſury: and many that were rich caſt in much.

42 And there came a certain poor widow, and ſhe threw in two mites, which make a farthing.

43 And he called unto him his diſciples, and ſaith unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that this poor widow hath caſt more in than all they which have caſt into the treaſury:

44 For all they did caſt in of their abundance; but ſhe of her want did caſt in all that ſhe had, even all her living.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XII.

38—40 Beware of the ſcribes, &c.) Here we may obſerve what it is that our Saviour condemns; not civil ſalutations in the market-place, not the chief ſeats in the ſynagogues, not the uppermoſt rooms at feaſts, but their fond affecting of theſe things, and their ambitious aſpiring after them. It was not their taking, but their loving the uppermoſt rooms at feaſts, which Chriſt condemns. Our Saviour alſo condemns the Phariſees for their groſs hypocriſy in colouring over their covetouſneſs with a pretence of religion, making long prayers in the temple and ſynagogues for widows, and thereupon perſuading them to give bountifully to corban, that is, the common treaſury for the temple, ſome part of which was employed for their maintenance. It is no new thing for deſigning hypocrites to cover the fouleſt tranſgreſſions with the cloak of religion. The Phariſees made long prayers a cloak and cover for their covetouſneſs.

41 The treaſury.) The cheſts for receiving alms are ſuppoſed to have been in one of the porches of the eaſtern gate of the temple.

COMMENTARY on Chap. XIII.

5—10 Take heed, leſt any man deceive you, &c.) Here, and in the following verſes, our Saviour gives his diſciples the ſigns which ſhould forerun the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. The firſt of which was this, that there ſhould ariſe falſe Chriſts, falſe prophets and ſeducers; ſuch as Theudas and others, under the name and perſon of the Meſſias, ſome affirming themſelves to be Chriſt perſonal, or the promiſed Meſſiah; others to be Chriſt doctrinal, affirming their erroneous opinions to be the mind and doctrine of Jeſus Chriſt. As there will be many ſeducers before the end of the world (for Jeruſalem's deſtruction was a type and emblem of the world's deſtruction) and many will be ſeduced and miſled by them; ſo it is the duty of Chriſt's own diſciples to take heed, leſt they, being alſo led away by the error of the wicked, do fall from their own ſtedfaſtneſs. The ſecond ſign of Jeruſalem's deſtruction was wars and rumours of wars; that is, civil broils and inteſtine commotions among themſelves; as alſo famine and earthquake. War and fire, earthquakes and famines, are judgments and calamities inflicted by God upon a ſinful people for their contempt of Chriſt and goſpel-grace. Although theſe be very terrible judgments, and deſolating calamities, yet to an incorrigible and irreclaimable people they are the forerunners of worſe judgments. Theſe are, ſays Chriſt, the beginnings of ſorrows. The third ſign of this approaching deſtruction was a general perſecution of the miniſters of the goſpel, for preaching the doctrine of the goſpel to a loſt world. The preaching of the goſpel, wherever it comes, will be for a teſtimony to them to whom it comes, either a teſtimony for them or againſt them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The deſtruction of the temple. 9 Perſecutions for the goſpel. 14 Great calamities to the Jews. 24 Chriſt's coming to judgment.

AND as he went out of the temple, one of his diſciples ſaith unto him, Maſter, ſee what manner of ſtones and what buildings are here!

2 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaith unto him, Seeſt thou theſe great buildings? there ſhall not be left one ſtone upon another, that ſhall not be thrown down.

3 And as he ſat upon the mount of Olives, over-againſt the temple, Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, aſked him privately,

4 Tell us, when ſhall theſe things be? and what ſhall be the ſign when all theſe things ſhall be fulfilled?

5 And Jeſus anſwering them, began to ſay, Take heed, leſt any man deceive you:

6 For many ſhall come in my name, ſaying, I am Chriſt; and ſhall deceive many.

7 And when ye ſhall hear of wars, and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for ſuch things muſt needs be; but the end ſhall not be yet.

8 For nation ſhall riſe againſt nation, and kingdom againſt kingdom; and there ſhall be earthquakes in divers places, and there ſhall be famines and troubles: theſe are the beginnings of ſorrows.

9 ¶ But take heed to yourſelves: for they ſhall deliver you up to councils; and in the ſynagogues ye ſhall be beaten: and ye ſhall be brought before rulers and kings for my ſake, for a teſtimony againſt them.

10 And the goſpel muſt firſt be publiſhed among all nations.

11 But when they ſhall lead you, and deliver you up, take no thought beforehand what ye ſhall ſpeak, neither do ye premeditate; but whatſoever ſhall be given you in that hour, that ſpeak ye: for it is not ye that ſpeak, but the Holy Ghoſt.

12 Now the brother ſhall betray the brother to death, and the father the ſon; and children ſhall riſe up againſt their parents, and ſhall cauſe them to be put to death.

13 And ye ſhall be hated of all men for my name's ſake: but he that ſhall endure unto the end, the ſame ſhall be ſaved.

14 ¶ But when ye ſhall ſee the abomination of deſolation, ſpoken of by Daniel the prophet, ſtanding where it ought not, (let him that readeth underſtand,) then let them that be in Judea flee to the mountains:

15 And let him that is on the houſe-top not go down into the houſe, neither enter therein, to take any thing out of his houſe:

16 And let him that is in the field not turn back again for to take up his garment.

17 But woe to them that are with child, and to them that give ſuck in thoſe days.

18 And pray ye that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For in thoſe days ſhall be affliction, ſuch as was not from the beginning of the creation, which God created, unto this time, neither ſhall be.

20 And except that the Lord had ſhortened thoſe days, no fleſh ſhould be ſaved: but for the elect's ſake, whom he hath choſen, he hath ſhortened the days.

21 And, then, if any man ſhall ſay to you, Lo, here is Chriſt; or, lo he is there; believe him not:

22 For falſe chriſts and falſe prophets ſhall riſe, and ſhall ſhew ſigns and wonders, to ſeduce, if it were poſſible, even the elect.

23 But take ye heed: behold, I have foretold you all things.

24 ¶ But in thoſe days, after that tribulation, the ſun ſhall be darkened, and the moon ſhall not give her light.

25 And the ſtars of heaven ſhall fall, and the powers that are in heaven ſhall be ſhaken.

26 And then ſhall they ſee the Son of man coming in the clouds, with great power and glory.

27 And then ſhall he ſend his angels, and ſhall gather together his elect from the four winds, from the uttermoſt part of the earth, to the uttermoſt part of heaven.

28 Now, learn a parable of the fig-tree; When her branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that ſummer is near:

29 So ye, in like manner, when ye ſhall ſee theſe things come to paſs, know that it is nigh, even at the doors.

30 Verily I ſay unto you, that this generation ſhall not paſs till all theſe things be done.

31 Heaven and earth ſhall paſs away: but my words ſhall not paſs away.
