FAMILY BIBLE:

BEING A NEW, CLEAR, FULL, AND UNIVERSAL

EXPOSITION AND COMMENTARY

ON THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

Containing the Whole of the SACRED TEXT of the HOLY BIBLE,

AS CONTAINED IN THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS,

WITH THE APOCRYPHA, AT LARGE.

ILLUSTRATED WITH

Moſt Valuable NOTES AND ANNOTATIONS,

Theological, Critical, Moral, Divine, Hiſtorical, Geographical, Syſtematical, Biographical, Practical, Admonitory, Chronological, and Explanatory.

WHEREIN

All the difficult and obſcure Paſſages are clearly explained; the ſeeming Contradictions in every Reſpect reconciled; the Miſ-tranſlations corrected; the Errors of former Commentators rectified and pointed out; the Objections of Deiſts and Infidels anſwered; the Prophecies and Parables faithfully elucidated; ſublime Paſſages properly noted; the Offices of the Jewiſh and Chriſtian Churches thoroughly inveſtigated; every minute Circumſtance of the revealed Will of God faithfully recorded; all proper Names, together with Scripture Weights and Meaſures, accompanied with the neceſſary Interpretations and Illuſtrations; and the Whole of Divine Revelation (upon which all our Hopes of eternal Happineſs depend) diſplayed in its original Purity, and rendered eaſy, pleaſant, and profitable to every Capacity, both with reſpect to Faith and Practice.

With PRACTICAL REFLECTIONS, IMPROVEMENTS, and USEFUL ADMONITIONS at the End of each Chapter; and an ILLUSTRATION of the DOCTRINES and DUTIES contained in the various Parts of the HOLY SCRIPTURES.

Calculated to Enlighten the Underſtanding, purify the Heart, and promote the Cauſe of Virtue and Piety; and thereby eſtabliſh the Happineſs and Peace of Chriſtian Families in this World, and ſecure their eternal Salvation in the Next.

TO WHICH ARE ADDED, AS A FARTHER ELUCIDATION OF THE WHOLE,

A complete Connection of the OLD and NEW TESTAMENTS; the Lives of all the inſpired Writers, from GENESIS to the REVELATIONS; a critical Account of the various Tranſlations of the HOLY BIBLE; Tables of Scripture Weights, Meaſures, &c. and many other Articles (too numerous to mention here) relating to Jewiſh and Chriſtian Antiquities, and other important Subjects, not to be found in any other Commentator, but which are eſſentially neceſſary to explain and illuſtrate the ſacred Writings.

This valuable Body of Chriſtian Divinity, and Treaſury of Divine Revelation, being the Reſult of more than forty Years Study and Experience (and not a haſty Production, undertaken to ſerve pecuniary Purpoſes) is executed in a Manner far ſuperior to other Publications of the Sort, and will alone form

A Complete UNIVERSAL LIBRARY of Divine Knowledge, Antient and Modern.

Being calculated on a Plan Entirely New, and containing, among the other great Improvements never before attempted, every Remark valuable or worthy of Notice, in former Works of this Kind.

INTRODUCTORY

TO

CHRISTIAN READERS.

THE HOLY BIBLE is the great Storehouſe of Divine Truths, given graciouſly by God himſelf to the Children of Men, for their conſtant, their never failing Support, through all the various Changes of this Life, and to lead them ſafely to a happy Immortality in the next. In every Trial and Difficulty, in every Circumſtance of adverſe Fortune, the pious CHRISTIAN will apply to the BIBLE for Light and Inſtruction, for Guide and Comfort: This divine Book is at once our Teacher, our Companion, and our Friend. We are aſſured that all Scripture is given by the Inſpiration of God, and is profitable for Doctrine, for Reproof, for Correction, and for Inſtruction in Righteouſneſs. As theſe ſacred Oracles treat of the moſt important Subjects, Subjects that concern the whole Period of our Exiſtence, and are able to make us wiſe unto Salvation, the lofty Terms in which they are recommended by their Great AUTHOR to Mankind in General, ſhould rather inſpire us with Gratitude than occaſion Aſtoniſhment. They contain, all of them in Connection together, an Univerſal Library of Divine Knowledge; and

THE OLD TESTAMENT may be divided into three general Heads, viz. Hiſtorical, Doctrinal and Practical.

THE Hiſtorical are thoſe which begin with GENESIS and end with the Book of ESTHER; comprehending, beſide ſeveral very important Affairs of civil Hiſtory, the giving of the Law on Mount Sinai, and many Typical Repreſentations of the Chriſtian Church.

THE Doctrinal Parts are thoſe of the PSALMS or HYMNS of David, the Writings of Solomon, and the antient Book of JOB.

THE Prophetical Books are thoſe inſpired Writings that begin with ISAIAH, and end with MALACHI.

SUCH are the general diviſions of the OLD TESTAMENT.

WITH regard to the APOCRYPHA, ſome of the Books were compoſed during the Captivity, others ſoon after the Return of the Jews from Babylon, and others probably after the Promulgation of Chriſtianity. Theſe Books contain a Mixture of Hiſtorical Facts, Moral Sentiments, and uncertain Traditions; our Church therefore does not admit the APOCRYPHA into the Canon of Scripture, but recommends it to be read for Example of Life and Inſtruction of Manners.

THE NEW TESTAMENT may alſo be divided into three general Heads: viz. the GOSPELS, the ACTS of the APOSTLES and the EPISTLES to the CHURCHES.

IN the GOSPELS we meet with many Divine Diſcourſes of our bleſſed REDEEMER; his wonderful Miracles; and his inimitable Examples, which are recorded that we may copy after them, as near as is conſiſtent with human Nature.

IN THE ACTS of the APOSTLES we have a faithful Account of the Propagation of Chriſtianity, and of the Operation of it upon the Minds of the People, notwithſtanding all the Oppoſition it met with from various Enemies.

THE EPISTLES, which were ſent to the newly converted Churches, either to rebuke them for ſome Abuſes, to warn them againſt falſe Doctrines, or to eſtabliſh them in their moſt Holy Faith, are ſufficient to convince every Reader that the Hearts of the Authors were influenced with Love to GOD, and had a real Concern for their Fellow Creatures.

HAVING ſaid thus much concerning the Sacred Scriptures in General, we muſt beg Leave to make a few Remarks relative to this important Undertaking, which, on many Accounts, is humbly offered to the Public as a more complete and perfect Work of the Kind for Chriſtian Families, than any other extant.

AMIDST the Variety of Commentaries on the BIBLE, which have been uſhered into the World from Time to Time, it has been long a Matter of great Aſtoniſhment that no one has been publiſhed on a Plan of GENERAL INFORMATION, ſuited to ſuch as wiſh to gain a PERFECT KNOWLEDGE of the DIVINE ORACLES. Almoſt all of them have ſlaviſhly followed each other, in taking much Pains to explain Paſſages which in themſelves are ſufficiently clear to every Capacity; while they have, in general, entirely left thoſe Parts unnoticed, which really want a judicious Illuſtration, and are not ſo eaſily comprehended by thoſe who have not made the ſacred Scriptures their conſtant Study. Some of theſe Publications have been ſold under the Names of fictitious Perſons, who never exiſted, or in the Names of others, who never in the leaſt contributed to the Compilation of the Works which bear their Signatures; and thus have the Public been impoſed on and deceived. It was in Conſequence of this great Defect and Abuſe of Public Confidence, that, at the Solicitation of numerous Friends, the Author has been induced to publiſh this Work, (the arduous Labour of many Years) which through the Bleſſing of GOD, and his own unremitted Attention to the Whole, ſhall be faithfully and regularly carried on, for the Benefit and Inſtruction of all pious and ſincere Chriſtians, in order to ſecure their eternal Salvation. In a Word, it has been the Author's ſincere Endeavour, in his Commentary, Annotations, and Practical Reflections, unfeignedly to promote the TEMPORAL and ETERNAL Happineſs of Mankind. He has pointed out the abſolute Neceſſity of PRACTICE as well as FAITH in the great and important Buſineſs of RELIGION; and upon the Whole has, he truſts, ſucceſsfully laboured to diſplay the HOLY SCRIPTURES in their GENUINE PURITY and LUSTRE. He has exerted his utmoſt Abilities to inſtruct the Unlearned, to remove the Doubts of the Diffident, to promote the fervent Zeal of the pious Chriſtian, and to fix the Faith of the Wavering on the great Author of our Holy Religion, the NEVER-FAILING ROCK OF AGES.

N. B. The Proprietor of this NEW FAMILY BIBLE begs Leave to refer thoſe who wiſh to be further ſatisfied reſpecting the Author's Abilities, and the maſterly and elegant Execution of this Work, to the REV. DR. WRIGHT's NEW and COMPLETE LIFE of CHRIST and his APOSTLES, &c. elegantly printed in Folio. An excellent WORK, collected and regularly digeſted, not only from the Evangeliſts, Epiſtles, &c. but alſo from the moſt judicious ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORIANS, and other Books (ancient and modern) of undoubted AUTHORITY: being intended as a neceſſary Supplement to the Holy Scriptures, which no Chriſtian Family ſhould be without. The Numbers of this Work, which are already publiſhed, on Account of the ſuperior Excellency of the beautiful Printing, large new Types, and magnificent Copper-plates, (which are executed by the moſt capital Artiſts) reflect great Honour to all Parties concerned, being univerſally approved of, in Preference to all other Works on the Subject, by Perſons in general throughout theſe Kingdoms; and the Public may be aſſured, The Rev. Dr. WRIGHT's NEW and COMPLETE BRITISH FAMILY BIBLE, now offered to the World, will be executed in the ſame maſterly and elegant Manner.

* * When we conſider the enormous Expence we have been at in making DR. WRIGHT's WORKS the moſt complete, and ſuperior to any others of the Kind, we think ourſelves amply rewarded by the various Encomiums that have been paſſed on them by Clergymen and Gentlemen of eminent Piety and great Abilities, together with the Succeſs and Countenance they are daily receiving from a diſcerning Public, which exceed every Thing hitherto experienced.

The REV. DR. WRIGHT's NEW and COMPLETE LIFE of CHRIST, &c. being juſt printed off, and thoroughly completed in Folio, may be had elegantly bound and lettered, Price 1l. 4s. or in 36 weekly Numbers, one or two at a Time, at the Option of the Purchaſers, Price only Six-Pence each.

TO

THE RIGHT REVEREND FATHER IN GOD,

THE

LORD BISHOP OF LONDON.

MY LORD,

TO whom can I with more Propriety dedicate this NEW EXPOSITION and COMMENTARY on the HOLY SCRIPTURES than to your LORDSHIP, whoſe unaffected Zeal and Attachment to the SACRED WRITINGS are celebrated in every enlightened Part of the Globe, and in whoſe Dioceſe I have long had the Honour of Miniſtring in Holy Things. Your LORDSHIP, I humbly preſume, will eaſily perceive that the following NOTES, ANNOTATIONS, and REFLECTIONS, are evidently calculated to inſpire Sentiments of true RELIGION, PIETY, and VIRTUE; they have been the Reſult of many Years Study, and I hope, through the Bleſſing of GOD, and the Influence of your Lordſhip's Patronage, will convey the greateſt BENEFIT and INSTRUCTION to all pious and ſincere Chriſtians.

Your Lordſhip delights to encourage Works of this Kind, undertaken and carried on for the general Good of Mankind; and therefore I am confident this TRIBUTE of DUTY and ESTEEM from one of your Lordſhip's own Clergy, will meet with your Lordſhip's favourable Notice and Protection.

I am, My Lord,

With all due Reſpect,

Your Lordſhip's moſt obedient and moſt dutiful

Son and Servant in the Church,

ON THE INSPIRED WRITERS.

THE Lives of All the Inſpired Writers of the Old Teſtament will be given at the End of the Notes on Malachi.

With Reſpect to the Inſpired Writers of the New Teſtament, St. MATTHEW, the Evangeliſt, called alſo Levi, was of Jewiſh Extraction, and the Son of Alpheus and Mary. His Occupation, when our Lord choſe him for one of his Diſciples, was that of a Publican, or Gatherer of the Roman Taxes levied on the Jews. He wrote the Goſpel which bears his Name, chiefly for the Uſe of the converted Jews. He died about the 70th Year of Chriſt.

St. MARK was alſo born of Jewiſh Parents, of the Tribe of Levi. He is ſuppoſed to have been a Diſciple and Convert of St. Peter, who calls him his Son; and is ſaid to have dictated the Goſpel which goes by his Name, though it was inſpired by the Holy Ghoſt. His Martyrdom is placed about the End of the Emperor Nero's Reign.

St. LUKE, the Evangeliſt, ſtyled the beloved Phyſician, accompanied St. Paul in his Travels, and was his Fellow-labourer. He dedicated his Goſpel to Theophilus, an eminent Perſon in the Church. He wrote likewiſe the Acts of the Apoſtles, compriſing an eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory of the firſt and pureſt Churches. The Time, Manner, and Place of his Death are uncertain.

St. JOHN, the Evangeliſt, ſtyled the beloved Diſciple, was the Brother of James the Great, and Son of Zebedee and Salome. He was a zealous Defender of the Perſon of Chriſt, in his divine and human Nature. Beſides his Goſpel, he wrote three Epiſtles, and the Book of Revelation. He is ſaid to have died in the Iſle of Patmos, 68 Years after Chriſt.

St. PAUL, miraculouſly converted from a furious Perſecutor to an eminent Apoſtle, abundant in Labours and Sufferings for Chriſt, was born at Tarſus, in Cilicia. He wrote an Epiſtle to the Roman, Corinthian, Galatian, Epheſian, Philippian, Coloſſian, and two to the Theſſalonian Converts: He alſo wrote two Epiſtles to Timothy, one to Titus, one to Philemon, and, it is generally thought, that to the Hebrews. He ſuffered Martyrdom under Nero.

St. JAMES the Leſs, called in Scripture, the Son of Alpheus and Mary, the Brother of Jude, Joſes, Simon, and of our Lord, wrote one practical Epiſtle to all the diſperſed Chriſtian Jews. He is ſuppoſed to have ſuffered Martyrdom from the Scribes and Phariſees at Jeruſalem, in the 96th Year of his Age, A. D. 60, after having been 30 Years Biſhop of Jeruſalem.

St. PETER, or Simon Peter, the Apoſtle, was the ſon of Jonas, a Fiſherman. He was a very zealous Diſciple, but too ſelf-confident, as his diſgraceful Fall teſtified. He wrote two excellent Epiſtles to the diſperſed Jewiſh Churches, confirming them in the Faith, and encouraging them to Conſtancy under the ſharpeſt Trials. He ſuffered Martyrdom under Nero, about the Year 65.

St. JUDE, the Apoſtle, alſo called Thaddeus and Lebbæus, was Brother to James the Leſs, and Son of Cleophas and Mary. He wrote a very earneſt Epiſtle, tending to fortify the Chriſtian Jews againſt the Errors and Corruptions of Seducers, and to enforce an Adherence to the Plainneſs and Simplicity of the Goſpel. He is thought to have outlived the Reign of Nero, and the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem.

With Regard to the Apocryphal Writers, as we have no certain unerring Information concerning the real Authors of the Hiſtory and Writings contained in the Apocrypha, we muſt therefore content ourſelves with giving the following Particulars, collected from the moſt reputable Authority we have been able to obtain; though it muſt be confeſſed, that with Reſpect to the Writers of ſome of the Books, the World is left altogether in the Dark.

The Firſt Book of ESDRAS is aſcribed to Ezra; and is ſaid to have been originally a Part of the Book of Ezra; but, on Account of ſeveral Errors having crept into it, was not received as canonical, either by the Jews or primitive Chriſtians. It is not certain who wrote the Second Book of ESDRAS, there being no Hebrew or Greek Copy of it extant. It is, however, inſerted in the Popiſh Bible.

TOBIT appears, from divers Paſſages in it, to be the Production of ſeveral different Perſons; but who they were cannot be aſcertained at this Diſtance of Time. The greateſt Part of it is conſidered as an Allegory, of which the Orientals were extremely fond.

JUDITH is ſuppoſed by ſome to have been written by a Jew during the Captivity; but others affirm that it was forged by a Heretic in the ſecond Century. It was written in the Chaldee Language. St. Jerom believed it to be a true and genuine Hiſtory of Facts, and accordingly tranſlated it into Latin as one of the canonical Books. Many Things in it, however, are either fabulous or allegorical.

The Writer of the Supplement to the Book of ESTHER is entirely unknown. It muſt have been written before the Time of Joſephus, as that Hiſtorian recites ſeveral Paſſages mentioned in it. The Contradictions to be met with in it, occaſioned it to be rejected by the Jews, and conſidered by them as uncanonical.

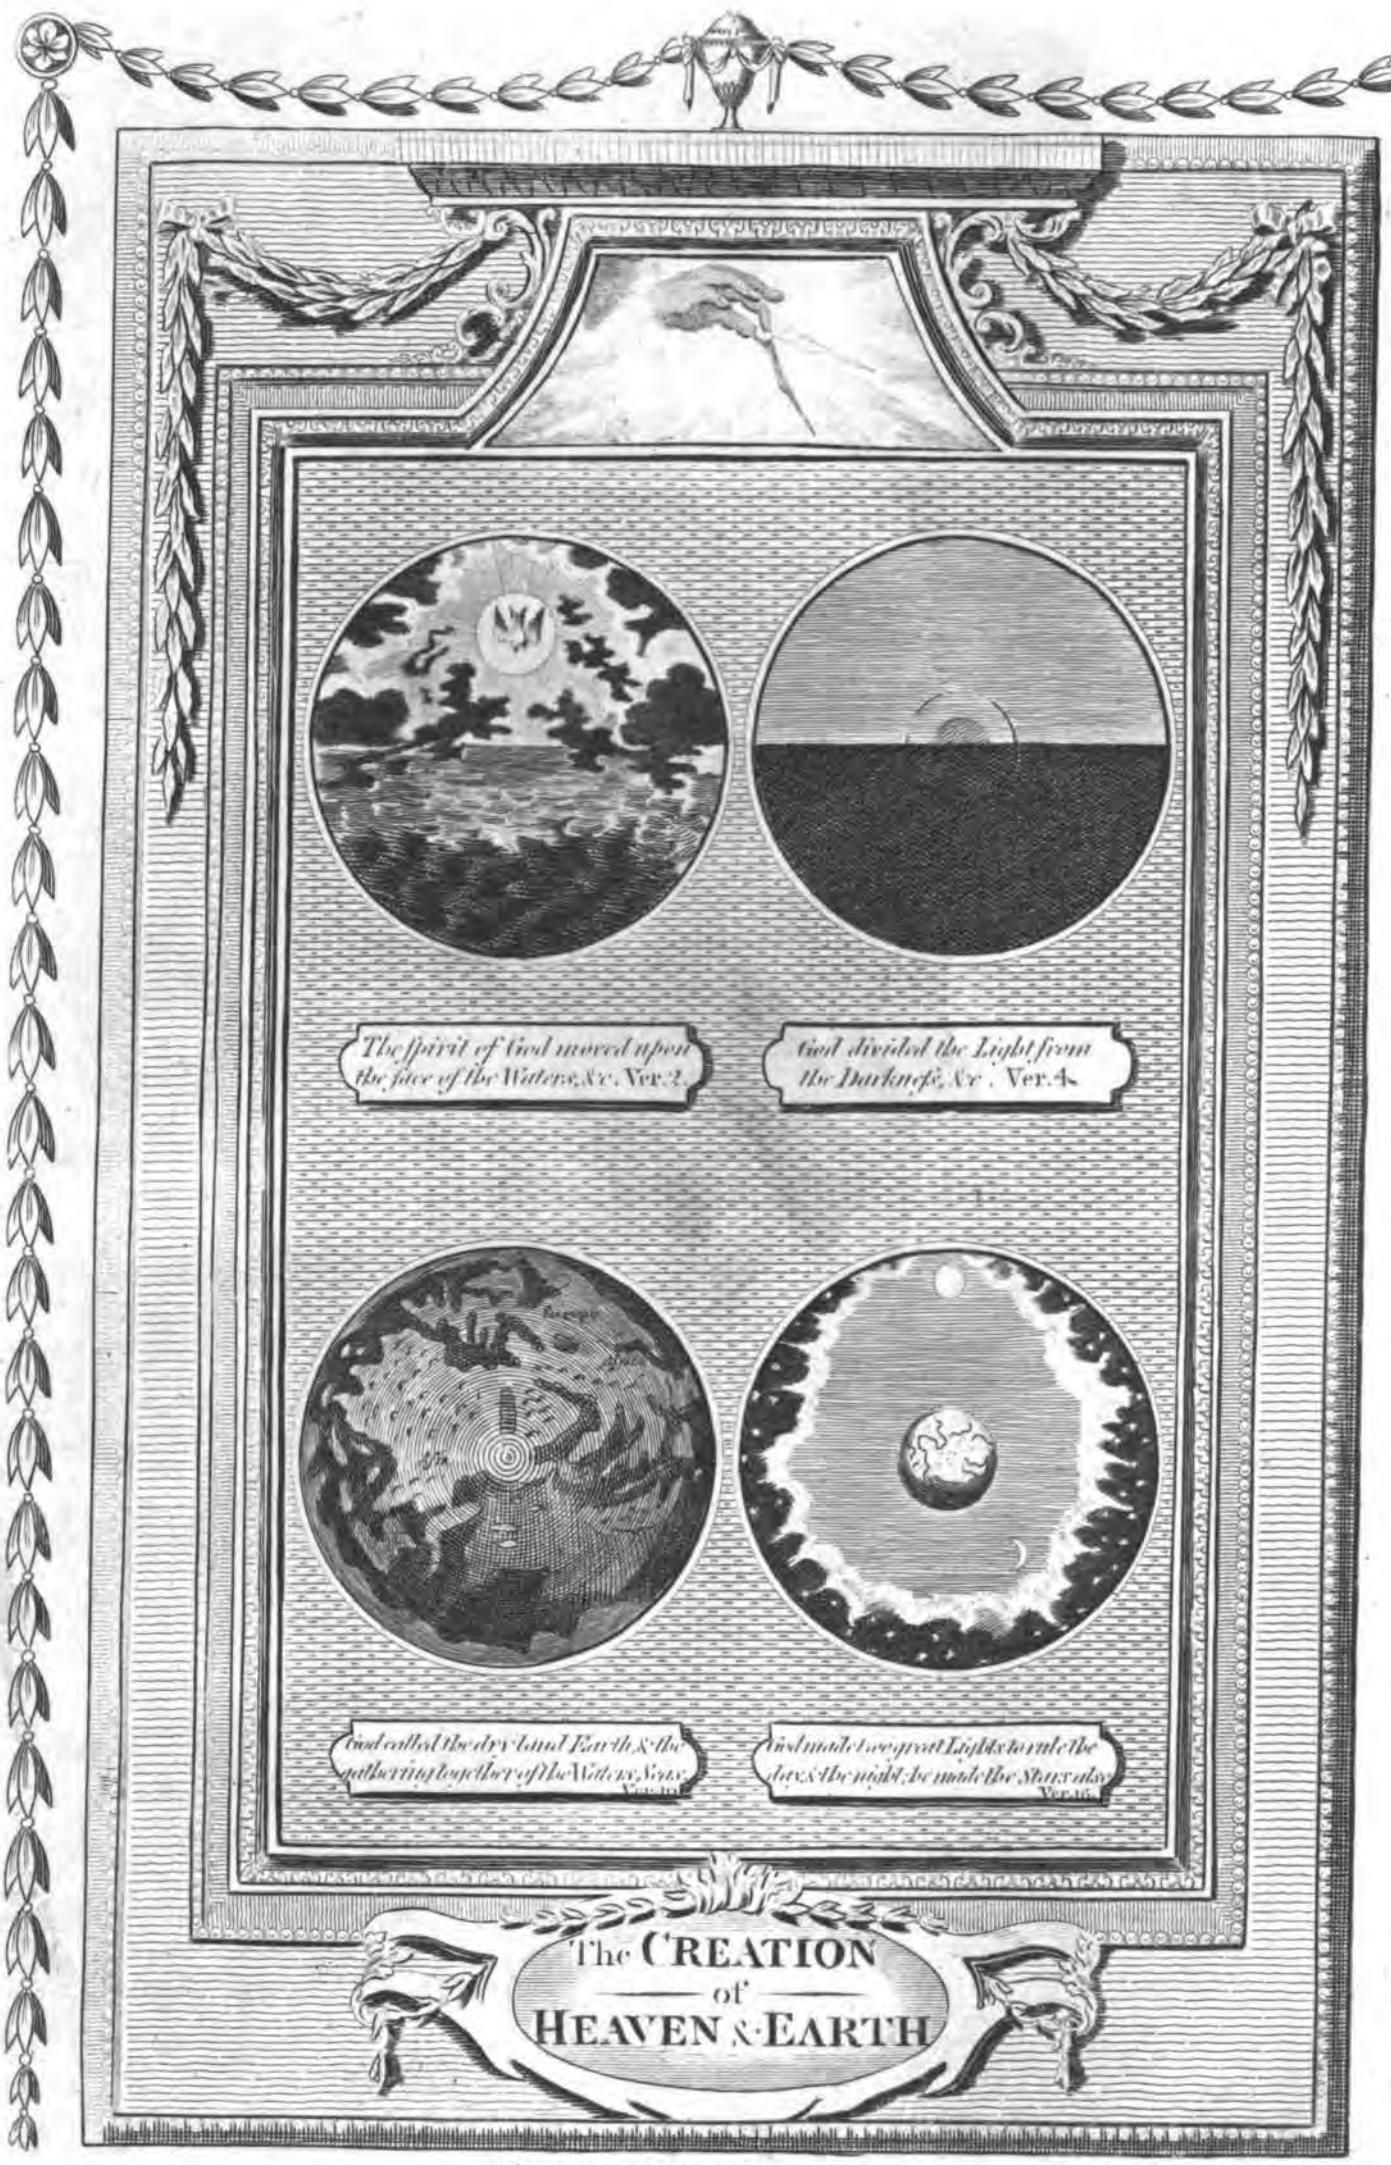
THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON was probably written by a Jew, who lived not long before the Birth of Chriſt. It was never received into the Jewiſh Canon; but yet has many excellent Things in it, worthy the Attention of a Chriſtian Reader.

ECCLESIASTICUS was, it is thought, penned by Jeſus the Son of Sirach, who lived about 200 Years before the Birth of Chriſt. It was tranſlated by his Grandſon out of the Hebrew into the Greek Language. It contains a fine Syſtem of Morality, and tends to inculcate Wiſdom in ſhort and pithy Sentences.

BARUCH is believed by ſome to have been forged by a Jew, after the Return from the Babyloniſh Captivity; others think it probable, that an Epiſtle, in the Form of this Book, was written by Baruch, a celebrated Jew, and Captive in Babylon, to thoſe Jews who remained in Judea.

THE SONG OF THE THREE HOLY CHILDREN is by ſeveral very learned Men ſuppoſed to have been written by the Author of the Book of Baruch.

SUSANNA is ſaid to have been written long after the Captivity, though we are not told who was its Author.



The Hiſtory of BEL and the DRAGON was probably written by ſome zealous Jew, who lived a few Years before the Birth of Chriſt, in a Province far diſtant from Jeruſalem. It has in all Ages been conſidered as fabulous or allegorical.

THE PRAYER OF MANASSES, which appears to be a ſtudied Compoſition, is alſo ſuppoſed to have been written by a Jew, who lived a few Years before the Birth of Chriſt.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE MACCABEES is conſidered as one of the moſt authentic and accurate in all the Apocryphal Writings. There is no mention of the Author's Name. It was originally written in the Chaldee Language, and afterwards tranſlated into Greek, from whence our Verſion is taken.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE MACCABEES is believed to have been written by one of the Jews who reſided in the Leſſer Aſia; but what is come to our Hands is only an Abridgment of a larger Work, written by one Jaſon, who lived in Greece and Syria. It is not ſo accurate as the former Book, and in ſome Parts of it there are apparent Falſhoods and Inconſiſtencies.

The First BOOK of MOSES,

CALLED

THE ARGUMENT.

This book, in the Hebrew copies of the Bible, is generally called Bereshith, which signifies, in the beginning, being the first word of it, as the other four books of Moses are also called from their initial words. The Greek version calls it Genesis, and so we and other versions from thence. It is called the first book of Moses, because there are four more that follow; the name the Jews give to the whole is, five fifths of the law, to which the Greek word Pentateuch answers, by which we commonly call those five books, of which this is the first. It is the oldest book in the world, and contains a series of events, of the utmost importance, which we must have been for ever ignorant of, had not Moses received the revelation by immediate inspiration, from the great and almighty God.

CHAP. I.

Before CHRIST 4004.

1 The creation of heaven and earth, 3 of the light, 6 of the firmament. 9 The earth separated from the waters, and made fruitful. 14 The creation of the sun, moon and stars, 20 of fish and fowl, 24 of beasts and cattle, 26 of man in the image of God; and his blessing. 29 The appointment of food.

IN the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

2 And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

3 ¶ And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.

4 And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. Before CHRIST 4004.

5 And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day.

6 ¶ And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

7 And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so.

8 And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 ¶ And God said, Let the waters under the heaven

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. I.

1 In the beginning God created] That is, this system, before which there was nothing but eternity. The word Elohim, here interpreted God, signifies the great Creator, as the sole object of religious adoration. Being used in the plural number, it implies a plurality of distinct persons in deity, which revelation informs us are three, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, who equally co-operated in the making of all things. 1 Cor. viii. 6. Eph. iii. 9. Job xxvi. 13.

The heaven and the earth] Not the solar system only, but the whole system of creation, visible or invisible. These are said to be created, that is, to be made out of nothing; for what pre-existent matter to this chaos could there be, out of which they could be formed? And the apostle says, "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear," Heb. xi. 3. From hence we learn, that the world was not eternal, either as to the matter or form of it, but had a beginning; and that its being is not owing to the fortuitous motion and conjunction of atoms, but to the power and wisdom of God, the first cause and sole author of all things, Prov. iii. 19.

2 And the earth was without form, and void] It was a fluid mass, wherein were the materials and ingredients of all bodies, but mingled in confusion with one another, so that heavy and light, dense and rare, fluid and solid particles were jumbled together, and the atoms or small constituent parts of fire, air, water and earth, were every one in every place, and all in a wild confusion and disorder; so that the matter whereof the chaos was composed was without form, without any shape or order, and void, empty and without any thing living, or growing in it.

And darkness was upon the face of the deep] Nothing was to be seen for want of light, which lay buried in the vast abyss, till an agitation was made by the Spirit, as is next observed.

And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.] Which covered the earth, Psalm civ. 6. The scriptures represent the original earth as standing out of the water, and consisting of it, 2 Pet. iii. 5. and upon the surface of these waters, before they were drained of the earth, the Spirit of God moved, which is to be understood not of a wind; since the air, which the wind is a motion of, was not made until the second day. The word moved, signifies to sit hovering or fluttering, as a bird does over her eggs, by her vital warmth, to cherish and quicken them; and, by a natural metaphor, represents the holy Spirit exerting his energy over the inactive, lifeless, lumpish mass, to impress every element with life and power, and thereby dispose them for the future ends for which they were intended.

3 And God said] This phrase is used nine times in this account of the creation, and it is most beautifully paraphrased and explained in Psalm xxxiii. 6. as expressive of the authority and efficacy of the Divine Being, whose word is clothed with power. He speaks and it is done: he commands, and his commands are instantly accomplished.

Let there be light, &c.] It appeared at once, "God commanded light to shine out of darkness," 2 Cor. iv. 6. his first production is light, that enlightens and cheers universal nature, and in its glory and beneficence bears the greatest resemblance to its Maker, the father of lights, from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift; hence, "God himself is called light." 1 John i. 5. This light was some bright, shining body, perhaps somewhat like the pillar of fire in the wilderness, and out of which the sun and stars appear to have been afterwards formed.

4 And God saw the light] He approved it, as very pleasant and delightful, useful and beneficial, according to the idea of it in his own mind, agreeable to which it was made, and what would answer the end for which he created it.

And God divided the light from the darkness] By making them take different places by turns; the light shining upon the one half of the mingled mass, and the darkness covering the other; in much the same manner, as our sun, by turns, illuminates the one half of the globe, and leaves the other in darkness.

5 And the evening, &c.] The evening, or night, is named before the morning, or day, because the darkness was before the light; hence, formerly, almost all nations, particularly the Jews, began their natural day, consisting of twenty-four hours, from the evening or setting of the sun. Lev. xxiii. 12.

6 Let there be a firmament, &c.] In the Hebrew it signifies an expansion, which includes both the region of the air, or atmosphere; and the superior and purer region of the sky, where the luminaries are placed.

7 The waters under the firmament] Are those in the rivers, lakes, and seas, and the waters above the firmament, are those exhaled into the air in vapours and clouds.

9 And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, &c.] Which are before called the waters under the firmament; and which were either on the surface of the earth, or in the bowels of it, or mixed with it, which, by the compressure of the expanse or air, were separated from it; and these, by apertures

10 And God called the dry land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God ſaw that it was good.

11 And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth graſs, the herb yielding ſeed, and the fruit-tree yielding fruit, after his kind, whoſe ſeed is in itſelf, upon the earth: and it was ſo.

12 And the earth brought forth graſs, and herb yielding ſeed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit whoſe ſeed was in itſelf, after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 ¶ And God ſaid, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night: and let them be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and years:

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was ſo.

16 And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the leſſer light to rule the night: he made the ſtars alſo.

17 And God ſet them on the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth,

18 And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkneſs: and God ſaw that it was good. Before CHRIST 4004.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20 And God ſaid, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

21 And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

22 And God bleſſed them, ſaying, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the ſeas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24 ¶ And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beaſt of the earth after his kind: and it was ſo.

25 And God made the beaſt of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

26 ¶ And God ſaid, Let us make man in our image, after

tures and channels made, were cauſed to flow as by a ſtraight line, unto the decreed place that was broken up for them, the great hollow or channel which now contains the waters of the ocean: this was done by the word of the Lord, at his rebuke; and when it ſeems there was a clap of thunder, and perhaps an earthquake, which made the vaſt cavity for the ſea, as well as threw up the hills and mountains, and made the vallies. Job xxxviii. 10. Pſalm civ. 6—8.

10 And God ſaw that it was good] The ſeparation of the waters was begun on the preceding day, but not perfected till this day; which ſeems to be the reaſon why there was no ſuch approbation of this day's work, as we find there was of the reſt: but now the ſeparation being completed, it is approved by God.

11 Let the earth bring forth, &c.] The earth, ſeparated from the waters, was bare and barren; God therefore next clothes it with graſs, and enriches and adorns it with herbs, flowers, and trees, of various kinds; and as no vegetables can be formed by mere matter and motion, however modified, God, as he produced every ſpecies of them at firſt by his almighty power, ſo he formed each of them productive of ſeed, by which they might be propagated and preſerved to the end of time.

14 Let there be lights in the firmament, &c.] The light that he had created on the firſt day, it is probable God now took, divided, increaſed, and condenſed, and formed into thoſe luminous orbs he now created. Their primary uſe was to divide the day and the night, by bringing in the interchange of light and darkneſs upon the earth. They were alſo to be for ſigns of good and bad weather; for the times of plowing, ſowing, reaping, &c. and for the ſeaſons of ſummer and winter, ſpring and autumn; for days, by a circular motion for the ſpace of twenty-four hours; and for years, by annual motion, for the ſpace of three hundred ſixty-five days, and odd hours.

16 And God made two great lights, &c.] Theſe are the ſun and the moon. The greater light is the ſun; that moſt ſtriking repreſentation of the Deity, and effulgence of his glory in the material world; that ſource of life and happineſs to this lower creation, which cheers with his light, and animates with his heat, univerſal nature. This glorious luminary is computed by aſtronomers to be five hundred thouſand times larger than this earth: nor will this be thought incredible, if we conſider that he is reckoned to be removed from us at the immenſe diſtance of eighty-one millions of miles: a ſpace which a cannon-ball would take upwards of twenty years to paſs, though flying with the ſame velocity with which it is diſcharged immediately from the piece. By this immenſe diſtance the ſun's magnitude is greatly diminiſhed in appearance, but the reality of it is indiſputably confirmed. The other great light is the moon, which is here called a light: not becauſe ſhe ſhines like the ſun with a light of her own, but becauſe ſhe reflects the light ſhe receives from the ſun to enlighten the earth; nor is ſhe called a great light, becauſe ſhe is greater than the other luminaries, for ſhe is one of the very leaſt the Creator made; but becauſe being placed the neareſt to the earth, ſhe is next to the ſun, the greateſt in appearance and utility to us.

He made the ſtars alſo.] Not the planets only, which derive their light from the ſun, and compoſe this ſolar ſyſtem, but the fixed ſtars alſo, which, at an inconceivable diſtance beyond the moſt diſtant planet, illuminate all around the immenſity of the ſky.

17 And God ſet them, &c.] He not only ordered that there they ſhould be, and made them that there they might be, but he placed them there with his own hands; and they are placed, particularly the ſun, at ſuch a particular diſtance, as to be beneficial and not hurtful: had it been ſet nearer to the earth, its heat would have been intolerable; and had it been farther off, it would have been of no uſe; in the one caſe we ſhould have been ſcorched with its heat, and in the other, been frozen up for want of it.

20 Let the waters, &c.] Having finiſhed the inanimate, the Almighty being proceeds next to the production of the animal creation. The ſea being fitted for the reception of the fiſhes, the firmament expanded, the earth diſpoſed, and both enlightened, for the breath, habitation, and flight of the fowls, God now forms theſe claſſes of creatures, and lodges them in thoſe elements he had provided for them: the fiſhes, in their various kinds, he formed from the water. From this verſe many have been led to think that the fowls were created from the water likewiſe; but if we look forward to chap. ii. ver. 19. we ſhall find it expreſsly affirmed, that the fowls were formed out of the ground. Theſe two accounts of the origin of fowls may eaſily be reconciled, by ſuppoſing what their nature ſeems indeed to indicate, viz. that they were created out of the water mingled with earth, as they were to be a middle claſs between the fiſhes and the beaſts. But beſides, this verſe may well be rendered, "not fowl that may fly," but, "let fowl fly in the open firmament of heaven." The Hebrew pointing indicates this to be the true meaning of the text, and both this and the following verſe confirm it; as in both their being created out of the waters is confined to the moving creature or fiſhes, without any origin being aſſigned of the fowls.

24 Let the earth, &c.] By cattle we may underſtand the tame beaſts; by creeping things, thoſe of the reptile; and by beaſts of the earth, thoſe of a wild and ſavage kind. All theſe were produced out of the earth. With regard to the animals and plants, it has been diſputed whether they were created in perfection at once, or roſe from ſeeds; howſoever this was, we may be well aſſured, that if they aroſe from ſeeds, the ſeeds muſt be firſt organized; and, after being organized, muſt be raiſed to perfection in a day at moſt, which could be only by the almighty power of God. But it is more natural to think, and this account of their creation ſeems to confirm it, that the materials of every plant and animal were collected and united, and they inſtantly produced in perfection; the command to be immediately fruitful and to multiply, indicates this; beſides, though the earth is ſaid to bring forth the living creatures, yet they are all declared to be created by God, ver. 25. A progreſſive growth from ſeeds, or principles, to full perfection, is the method of the divine procedure in the courſe of his providence; but an inſtantaneous perfection ſeems in every thing to have obtained in the work of creation.

26 And God ſaid, Let us make man in our image] The earth being now furniſhed with vegetables, and the expanſe of the air and ſky being ſpread out and irradiated with the luminous orbs, the ſea ſtocked with fiſhes, the air with fowls, and the earth with beaſts, the Almighty proceeds now to create the laſt and the nobleſt part of this viſible creation; this was man; that ſpecies of being to which we belong: the ends of his being were to be the contemplation, worſhip and enjoyment of his great Creator; and the government, under him, of this lower world: to qualify him for which, he muſt partake of both a rational and animal nature. To create a being of ſuch a manifold nature and uſe, a council of the Trinity is called and held; not to expreſs any difficulty omnipotence could find in the formation of him, but to ſignify our ſuperior excellence of nature, and importance of character in this lower creation. Theſe words, Let us make man in our image, cannot be ſuppoſed ſpoken to angels, much leſs to any inferior beings, as no creature can be veſted with a creative power: nor can it reaſonably be pretended, that God ſpeaks here after the manner of kings, who expreſs themſelves ſometimes in the plural number, as, our will is, or, we command; this is the practice only of later times, ſince kings generally ſpeak and act with the advice and conſent of their council, and was not known in the earlier ages. Thus the kings of Iſrael ſpeak of themſelves in the ſingular number, 2 Sam. iii. 28. 2 Chron. ii. 6. ſo alſo did the eaſtern monarchs, even in their public decrees, which now run in the plural number, Ezra. vi. 8. and vii. 13. But this ſenſe that ſome have forced on theſe words is clearly refuted, by comparing Gen.

General Reflections on Chap. I.

Let us ſtand ſtill, and admire this amazing work of God! How great, how aſtoniſhingly great is that power, who can from nothing form ſuch prodigious and ſuch well-ordered worlds of creatures, both animate and inanimate, rational and irrational! How ſuperlative is his wiſdom diſplayed in the continued variety and dependency of all things, to the good of one another! How unfathomable his goodneſs, in creating ſuch an infinity of beings to participate of his liberality and the bounties of his providence! and how diſtinguiſhing is his love to man, in forming him after his own expreſs image, enduing him with faculties that exalt him ſo much above the brute creation: preparing this world as a convenient habitation for him, in his progreſs to the everlaſting abodes of light and bleſſedneſs. Let us, then, in all things that are in heaven and earth, behold the wonders of our God! Let us uſe them all as his property, and for his glory and honour! Let us enjoy God himſelf in all things, and all things in God.

iii. 22. "the Lord God ſaid, Behold the man is become as one of us." It was then evidently an addreſs of the Father to his Son and Spirit, one in nature, but three in perſon, to employ their divine power and wiſdom in the formation of that creature that was to be the maſter-piece and lord of this lower world.

In our image, &c.] This image of God, in which man was created, conſiſted in that natural perfection, and thoſe moral enduements in which he was made, and in which he bears ſome reſemblance to his all perfect Maker. It conſiſts in that ſpiritual, rational and immortal ſoul, reſembling the nature of God, and in thoſe faculties of underſtanding, will, and active powers, reſembling the natural perfections of the Deity, with which the human ſoul was endued; his body too had then ſome ſignatures of the divine perfection, in majeſty and immortality, that raiſed it far above the brutes; and, as far as it was capable, made it reſemble God. But the completing and diſtinguiſhing part of the divine image upon man, was thoſe moral enduements of perfect knowledge, entire rectitude, and univerſal holineſs, with which the human underſtanding, will, and affections, were created and adorned, in which the ſoul of man bore a moſt ſtriking reſemblance to the moral perfections of the God that made it. So St. Paul affirms, when he tells us, that if we would recover this divine image that ſin hath ſo miſerably defaced, we muſt be "renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created us; and put on the new man, which after God is created in righteouſneſs and true holineſs," Col. iii. 10. iv. 24.

27 Male and female, &c.] Hence we learn, that Adam and Eve were both created on the ſame day, though the particular manner of Eve's creation is related in the next chapter.

28 And God bleſſed them] Adam and his wife, whom he had made, with all the bleſſings of nature and providence, with all the good things of life; with his preſence, and with communion with himſelf in a natural way, though the creatures; and particularly with a power of increaſing their ſpecies.

And have dominion, &c.] God next inveſts man with an unlimited dominion over all the creatures in earth and ſea, to be employed by him in ſobriety, for his Maker's glory, and his own good. This was to make the external part of the divine image upon man; that, as God is the ſupreme ruler of the univerſe, man might repreſent him as his viceroy, in the ſupreme dominion over this earth.

29 I have given you every herb, &c.] Having given them the animal creatures for their ſubjects, God now gives our firſt parents the vegetable world, the herbs bearing ſeed, and the trees bearing fruit, for their food and ſuſtenance. We have here no permiſſion given them of animal food, and do not hear of its being uſed till after the deluge. Gen. ix. 4.

31 And God ſaw every thing, &c.] The Creator now takes a general ſurvey of the great ſyſtem of creation he had made; and beholding the perfection of every part, and the grandeur, conſiſtence, and harmony of the whole, declared it was very good, expreſſive of the Creator's glory, and conducive to the happineſs of his creatures, the great ends for which he created it. Often ſhould we contemplate his works, and trace out the exiſtence, power, wiſdom, and goodneſs of the divine architect therein diſplayed; and "devoutly worſhip him that created the heavens, the earth, and the ſeas; for of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to him be glory and dominion for ever."

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. II.

1 And all the hoſt of them] Of the heavens and the earth; the hoſt of the heavens are the ſun, moon, and ſtars, often ſo called in ſcripture, and alſo the angels; Luke ii. 13. wherefore this may be conſidered as a proof of their creation within the above ſpace of time, probably on the firſt day, though the Jews ſay on the ſecond; for if all the hoſt of heaven were made at this time, and angels are at leaſt a part of that hoſt, they muſt be then made, or otherwiſe all the hoſt of heaven were not then and there made, as here affirmed: and the hoſt of the earth, or terraqueous globe, are the plants, herbs, and trees, the fowls, fiſhes, animals, and man; and theſe are like hoſts of armies, very numerous, and at the command of God, and are marſhalled and kept in order by him; even ſome of the ſmalleſt of creatures are his army, which are at his beck, and he can make uſe of to the annoyance of others, as particularly locuſts are called ſo, Joel ii. 11, 20.

2 And on the ſeventh day God ended his work which he had made] This no way inſinuates that God did any work on the ſeventh day, all his works having been finiſhed by the cloſe of the ſixth: it would read much better, if tranſlated thus, "In the ſeventh day, when God had ended or finiſhed his work."

And he reſted, &c.] This reſting from his work implies not that God was wearied; for the Creator of the ends of the earth fainteth not, neither is weary, Iſa. xl. 28. but only that he ceaſed from producing any more ſpecies of being than what he had already made.

3 And God bleſſed the ſeventh day, &c.] He bleſſed it, by appointing it to be the weekly memorial of his having finiſhed the creation, and a bleſſed time for us to worſhip and glorify the Creator, our nobleſt ſervice; and for him to confer on us his ſpecial bleſſings, our greateſt happineſs. He alſo ſanctified it for thoſe ends by ſetting it apart, both by his own example and appointment, from common employments, and by conſecrating it as a day of holy reſt, to be ſacred in a peculiar manner to the ſolemn exerciſes of piety and devotion. When God renews this original inſtitution, to Iſrael, at Mount Sinai, he gives it under his own hand, "That in ſix days he made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that in them is, and reſted the ſeventh day; wherefore the Lord bleſſed the ſabbath-day, and hallowed it." Exodus xx. 11. Philo, the Jew, calls it, "the birth-day of the world," and from the general obſervation of it in the firſt ages, the "univerſal feſtival."

4 Theſe are the generations, &c.] What follows of this chapter, is a ſupplement to the account of the creation given us in the former, particularly with reſpect to the formation and ſettlement of man. Here another name is added to God, his name Jehovah, expreſſive of his being and perfections, particularly his eternity and immutability, being the everlaſting and unchangeable I am, which is, and was, and is to come: this name, according to the Jews, is not to be pronounced, and therefore they put the points of Adonai, directing it ſo to be read; and theſe two names, Jehovah Elohim, or Adonai and Elohim, with them make the full and perfect name of God, and which they obſerve is here very pertinently given him, upon the perfection and completion of his works.

6 But there went up a miſt, &c.] God, by his creative power, brought the vegetables at firſt to perfection without ſeed, and without concurrence of the ſoil, ſun, rain, or any other natural cauſe.

GENERAL

7 And the Lord God formed man, &c.] As we were created in the image of God, to conſtitute our dignity; ſo our bodies are formed of the duſt to teach us humility. Of the duſt, not dry, but moiſt, were we framed; ſo ſeveral underſtand it, and the name Adam ſignifies red earth, or freſh and moiſt clay, of which he was made, as the veſſel by the potter. Having organized our animal frame, in all our parts, the Father of Spirits next infuſes into it the vital and active principle, the immortal ſoul. This is expreſſed here by God's breathing into man's body the breath of life, to ſignify, that the ſoul is produced by God's immediate power, and not formed of any created ſubſtance, as the body was; that it is a diſtinct eſſence from the body, ſuperior to it in nature, and the great principle of life in the human frame: which being formerly a lifeleſs, inactive lump, animated with this active principle, becomes a living man.

8 And the Lord God planted a garden eaſtward in Eden, &c.] Eden ſignifies pleaſure; implying, that this garden was a moſt pleaſant and delightful place; prepared by God for the reception of Adam. Indeed the whole world was as a garden, in compariſon of what it is now, ſince the fall: what then muſt this ſpot of ground, this garden be, which was ſeparated and diſtinguiſhed from the reſt, and the more immediate plantation of God, and therefore is called the garden of the Lord, Gen. xiii. 10. Ezek. xxviii. 13. The various conjectures among the learned concerning the ſituation of Paradiſe, and the garden of Eden, are rather curious than uſeful, nor can the preciſe ſpot be certainly aſcertained. The word eaſtward can only mean, that it was ſituated more to the eaſt than the place where Moſes was when he wrote. Some have conjectured it to be in the delightful plains of Armenia, but that opinion is not ſupported by any other reaſon but the beauty of the place. Poſſibly the garden of Eden never exiſted after the deluge, and that ſince that event, ſuch alterations have happened, as render its ſituation difficult to be known.

9 The tree of life, &c.] Various have been the conjectures with regard to the nature and uſe of this tree. Some have conſidered it as a conſtant memorial only of that life, and the continuance of it, which our firſt parents derived from God. Others have thought it was ſo called, becauſe the fruit of it had a certain vital influence, to cheriſh and maintain man in immortal health and vigor, till he ſhould have been tranſlated from the earthly to the heavenly Paradiſe. But though both theſe may well have been meant, yet it was, no doubt, called the tree of life, becauſe it was a memorial, pledge, and ſeal, of that eternal life, that, had man continued obedient, he would have been raiſed to the poſſeſſion of in the Paradiſe above.

The tree of knowledge of good and evil] This tree was ſo called, not becauſe it had any power to inſpire thoſe who might eat of it with any uſeful, much leſs with univerſal knowledge, as the ſerpent afterwards pretended; but becauſe, by their abſtaining from, or eating of it, after it was prohibited, God would ſee, in fact, whether our firſt parents would prove good or evil in that ſtate of probation in which he placed them; and eſpecially, becauſe they would know in their experience, what good they ſhould forfeit or retain, and what evil they would eſcape or incur, according as they ſhould eat, or not eat, of that forbidden tree.

15 And the Lord God took the man, &c.] The place from whence Adam is ſuppoſed to be taken was near Damaſcus, where he is ſaid to be created; the place whereon the temple was afterwards built. In the Targum we read, that God "gave Adam the law, and he put him into the garden of Eden, that is, the garden of the law, to dreſs it, to do the affirmative precepts of the law, and to keep it, the negative precepts:" though Aben Ezra interprets this ſervice, watering the garden, and keeping wild beaſts from entering into it. And indeed the word may be rendered to till, as well as to dreſs, as it is in chap. iii. 23. and ſome have thought Adam was to have planted and ſowed, had he continued in the garden.

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou ſhalt not eat of it] Having given Adam an unlimited grant of all the other trees of the garden to participate of, it could be no unkindneſs in God to prohibit this one, as a trial of his obedience to his commands, under whoſe government he was, and whom it was fit he ſhould obey in all things.

For in the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou ſhalt ſurely die.] Or, "in dying, die," which denotes the certainty of it, and may have regard to more deaths than one; not only a corporal one, which in ſome ſenſe immediately took place; man became at once a mortal creature, who otherwiſe continuing in a ſtate of innocence, and by eating of the tree of life, he was allowed to do, would have lived an immortal life; of the eating of which tree, by ſinning he was debarred, and his natural life not now to be continued long, at leaſt not for ever; he was immediately arraigned, tried, and condemned to death, was found guilty of it, and became obnoxious to it, and death at once began to work in him; ſin ſowed the ſeeds of it in his body, and a train of miſeries, afflictions, and diſeaſes, began to appear, which at length terminated in death. Moreover, a ſpiritual or mortal death immediately enſued: he loſt his original righteouſneſs, in which he was created; the image of God in him was deformed; the powers and faculties of his ſoul were corrupted, and he became dead in ſins and treſpaſſes; the conſequence of which, had it not been for the interpoſition of a Surety and Saviour, who engaged to make ſatisfaction to law and juſtice, muſt have been eternal death, or an everlaſting ſeparation from God, to him and all his poſterity; for the wages of ſin is death, even death eternal, Rom. vi. 23.

18 And the Lord God ſaid, It is not good that the man ſhould be alone, &c.] It is not proper, either for his own perſonal comfort, or for my purpoſe of the increaſe of mankind to people the earth. Next to the divine favour, our greateſt and moſt rational happineſs, ariſes from our ſocial relations and connections in life. Our bounteous Creator was well ſenſible of this, and therefore determines here to make a help-meet for the man, or of the ſame nature or ſpecies, diverſified only into another ſex; one with whom he might live in the moſt intimate friendſhip, and who, by their mutual intercourſe, might promote their mutual comfort and happineſs.

22 And the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, &c.] God formed the woman of a rib, with the fleſh thereon, out of Adam's ſide, to note the wife's equality with her huſband; and that ſhe is his companion, and to be treated with the utmoſt kindneſs and affection.

And brought her unto the man] To honour the inſtitution of marriage; Adam accepted her as an help meet for him, ſuitable to his perſon, and uſeful on all occaſions for their mutual comfort, and the propagation of their ſpecies. And God, by Adam, declared the general law of marriage, requiring the moſt affectionate cohabitation, inſeparable union, and intimate communion, during life, as if the parties were but one perſon.

25 And were not aſhamed] Having nothing in them, or on them, or about them, that cauſed ſhame; nothing ſinful, defective, ſcandalous, or blame-worthy; no ſin in their nature, no guilt on their conſciences, or wickedneſs in their hands or actions; and particularly they were not aſhamed of their being naked, no more than children are to ſee each other, or we to behold them: beſides, they were

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. II.

We are to obſerve theſe three things in this chapter, Firſt, God, having created the world in ſix days, reſted on the ſeventh, and hallowed that day, that the obſervation of the ſabbath might ſerve afterwards to keep up among men the remembrance of the creation of the world. Secondly, God placed Adam in Paradiſe, that he might be happy; but, to make trial of his obedience, at the ſame time gave him a law, attended with ſevere threatenings, forbidding him, upon pain of death, to eat of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. In this proceeding of the Almighty, we ſee the great goodneſs of God towards man in his ſtate of innocence; but we ſee likewiſe, that man could not be independent, that he was obliged to ſubmit to the laws of his Creator, and that by his obedience alone, he was entitled to the effects of his divine love. Thirdly, What Moſes relates of the inſtitution of marriage, obliges us to acknowledge the great wiſdom and goodneſs of God, appearing in this law, which he made at the beginning, for the good of mankind: it obliges us alſo to honour marriage as a holy ſtate, which has God for its author; and to avoid every thing that is contrary to ſo holy an inſtitution, particularly impurity and all manner of ſenſuality.

CHAP. III.

1 The ſerpent deceiveth Eve. 6 Man's fall. 9 God arraigneth them. 14 The ſerpent is curſed, and his overthrow by the ſeed of the woman foretold. 16 The puniſhment of mankind. 21 Their firſt cloathing. 22 Their expulſion out of Paradiſe.

NOW the ſerpent was more ſubtil than any beaſt of the field which the LORD God had made. And he ſaid unto the woman, Yea, hath God ſaid, ye ſhall not eat of every tree of the garden?

Before CHRIST 4004.

2 And the woman ſaid unto the ſerpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden:

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midſt of the garden, God hath ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it leſt ye die.

4 And the ſerpent ſaid unto the woman, Ye ſhall not ſurely die:

5 For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be opened, and ye ſhall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

6 ¶ And when the woman ſaw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleaſant to the eyes, and a tree to be deſired to make one wiſe; ſhe took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave alſo unto her huſband with her; and he did eat.

7 And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they ſewed fig leaves together, and made themſelves aprons.

8 And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themſelves from the preſence of the LORD God amongſt the trees of the garden.

9 And the LORD God called unto Adam, and ſaid unto him, Where art thou?

10 And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I was afraid, becauſe I was naked; and I hid myſelf.

not only alone, and none to behold them, but their being naked was no diſgrace to them, but was agreeable to their nature; and they were not ſenſible that there was any neceſſity or occaſion to cover themſelves, nor would they have had any, had they continued in their innocent ſtate: moreover, there was not the leaſt reaſon to be aſhamed to appear in ſuch a manner, ſince they were but one fleſh.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

1 Now the ſerpent was more ſubtil than any beaſt of the field, &c.] From the account given of this ſerpent, it is evident that it was not a mere creature of the ſerpentine kind, as no animal, however ſubtil, could reaſon and ſpeak as this does; but it was one of the chief of the fallen angles, "the old ſerpent," Rev. xii. 9. who being for his diſobedience caſt out of heaven, from reſentment to God, and envy of man's happineſs, who was God's favourite creature, bent all his malice to involve and draw our firſt parents into diſobedience and ruin with himſelf. What kind of ſerpent it was he employed for this purpoſe, we are not told. But it is not improbable that good angels appeared in Paradiſe to our firſt parents, in one form or another, with them; and it may be in the form of a beautiful flying ſerpent, which looked very bright and ſhining, and that ſort called ſeraph, Numb. xxi. 6. So that it might not be at all ſurpriſing to Eve to hear the ſerpent ſpeak, it being what ſhe might have been uſed to hear, and might take this to be a good angel in ſuch a ſhape, that was come to bring a meſſage to her from God, and to converſe with her for her good, and who thus accoſted her:

Yea, hath God ſaid, &c.] By this the devil ſeems to try her knowledge and belief of the divine prohibition, or make her queſtion either the truth or reaſonableneſs of it, as if he had ſaid, are all the trees of this garden allowed you to eat? or hath God, after giving you this the whole inferior creation, and particularly Paradiſe, limited the grant, by forbidding you the fruit of any of its trees?

3 God hath ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of it, &c.] Finding ſhe was perfectly clear as to the prohibition, but obſerving ſhe had expreſſed herſelf a little faintly with regard to the threatening, the cunning adverſary tries next to make her doubt or miſbelieve the penalty denounced.

4 Ye ſhall not ſurely die.] In direct contradiction to the divine threatening, and which he would inſinuate was a mere threatening, and which God never intended to put in execution; ſo that they had nothing to fear from that: God would never be ſo rigid and ſevere, and bear ſo hard upon them, as to put them to death for ſuch an offence, if it was one; he only gave out to menace and frighten them, and deter them from it: however, at moſt it was not a certain thing they ſhould die, and they might ſafely conclude they would not.

5 Then your eyes ſhall be opened, &c.] To enforce the temptation, he tells her, that the very name of the tree pointed out the effects of it to be the reverſe of death; that inſtead of dying, ſhe and her huſband would, immediately upon their eating of it, be inſpired with univerſal knowledge, reſembling their omniſcient Creator himſelf; and impiouſly appeals to God for the truth of it.

6 She took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, &c.] Overcome by the artful perſuaſions of the ſerpent, and prompted with the beauty and delicious fragrance of the tree, and the pleaſing hopes of ſuperior wiſdom, our unhappy mother reaches forth her hand, takes and eats of the forbidden fruit. In what manner ſhe ſeduced her huſband is merely conjecture, it not being particularly mentioned; every part of the tranſaction, however, ſeems to point out, that he was abſent when ſhe complied and liſtened to the force of the temptation.

7 And the eyes of them were opened, &c.] Not of their bodies, but of their minds: not ſo as to have an advanced knowledge of things pleaſant, profitable, and uſeful, as was promiſed and expected, but of things very diſagreeable and diſtreſſing. Their eyes were opened to ſee that they had been deceived by the ſerpent; that they had broke the commandment of God, and incurred the diſpleaſure of their Creator and kind benefactor, and had brought ruin and deſtruction upon themſelves; they ſaw what bleſſings and privileges they had loſt, communion with God, and dominion of the creatures, the purity and holineſs of their nature, and what miſeries they had involved themſelves and their poſterity in; how expoſed they were to the wrath of God, the curſe of the law, and to eternal death. Looking down on themſelves and on one another, they now became aſhamed of their bodily nakedneſs; and as the fig tree preſented them with the broadeſt leaves, they took ſome of its ſlendereſt twigs, it is likely, with the leaves on them, and having twiſted them together, tied them about their bodies as girdles, and the broad leaves hanging down, ſerved for aprons to conceal their nakedneſs.

8 And they heard, &c.] At "the wind of the day," as the Hebrew has it, which was towards the evening, Adam and his wife heard the voice of the Lord walking in the garden, and coming toward them. By ſome noiſe or ruſtling among the trees, was this approach of the Deity notified to our firſt parents. They knew it to be the approach of their Creator. But inſtead of going out with joy and love, to meet and worſhip him, they now begin to act a different part.

And Adam and his wife hid themſelves from the preſence of the Lord God amongſt the trees of the garden.] Conſcious of their guilt, aſhamed of their nakedneſs, ignorant of a Mediator, and therefore apprehenſive that God was coming to puniſh them with that death they now incurred, they flee from his preſence, which is every where, and ſeek to hide themſelves from his ſight, before whom every creature is manifeſt, be it where it will; and very fooliſhly fancying, that the thick trees and buſhes in the garden would be a cover and ſhelter for them. It is in the ſingular in the original, "in the midſt of the tree of the garden;" which ſome underſtand of the fig-tree, whoſe leaves they covered themſelves with, and under the ſhade of which they now hid themſelves. The Indian fig tree is ſo large, that it is ſaid, by ſome, that four hundred horſemen may ſhade themſelves at noon day under it.

9 And the Lord God called unto Adam] The Jeruſalem Targum is, "The word of the Lord God," the ſecond perſon in the trinity; and this is the voice he is ſaid to have heard before.

And ſaid unto him, Where art thou?] We are not to ſuppoſe that God was ignorant of the place where Adam was, nor of what he had done, nor the circumſtances he was in, nor of the anſwers he would make; but rather it ſhews all the reverſe, that he knew where he was, what he had done, and in what condition he was, and therefore it was in vain to ſeek to hide himſelf; or elſe as a ſummons to appear before him, the judge of all, and anſwer for his conduct, it was in vain for him to ſecrete himſelf, he muſt and ſhould appear: the force of which words he felt, and therefore was obliged to ſurrender himſelf, as appears from what follows.

10 And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, &c.] No ſooner does Adam commit one ſin, than he added another to it, by concealing the cauſe, and giving an evaſive and deceitful reply to his Maker. He had often heard the voice of God with pleaſure in the garden, but now he is to meet him as an almighty judge, whom he had offended: he now hides himſelf through fear of his 11 And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?

12 And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the LORD God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

14 ¶ And the LORD God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life:

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

16 ¶ Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee.

17 And unto Adam he said, because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life;

18 Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;

19 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve, because she was the mother of all living.

22 ¶ And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever:

23 Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground, from whence he was taken.

24 So he drove out the man: and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden, Cherubims, and a flaming sword, which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

Here we are informed, how sin and death came into the world. This account of Adam's sin was committed to writing, that it might appear that God is not the author of sin, but that man fell into it wilfully, and through his own fault. We learn also, from the fall of our first parents, how dangerous it is to disbelieve what God has declared, to give ear to temptations, and to follow the desire of the flesh; and with how much care we ought to watch over ourselves, and be obedient in all things to the laws of the Lord, even in those things that appear to be of the least importance. We may also learn from what happened to Adam and Eve after their sin, and the punishment that God inflicted on them, in making them subject to the miseries of this life, and to death itself, and driving them out of the garden of Eden, that the divine threatenings are never in vain, and that God cannot suffer man's disobedience to go unpunished. But the goodness of God, at the same time, appeared in the promise, that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head;" the meaning of which was, that God would deliver men from sin and death, which were entered into the world by the seducement of the devil. Let us bless God for fulfilling this promise, by sending Jesus Christ into the world to destroy the works of the devil, and to procure us an admission into the heavenly paradise, where he has prepared for us happiness that shall never have an end.

wrath and displeasure, which he had justly incurred by his disobedience, and because of his sin, which had made his soul naked, though he was not as yet ingenuous to confess it.

11, 12, 13 And he said, &c.] The trembling criminals being called from their retreat, before their judge, were asked whether they had eaten of the forbidden tree. They cannot deny their crimes; but, before they confess, endeavour as much as possible to excuse it. Adam throws the blame of his transgression upon his wife; insinuating, that the very woman who had been given as a help meet for him, pointing to her, had become his ruin; thereby tacitly impeaching the goodness of God, who had given her. The woman, convinced that the charge brought against her was just, endeavours to exculpate herself, by transferring the crime upon the serpent.

14 And the Lord God said unto the serpent, &c.] Having brought our first parents to a just sense of their crime, God next pronounces upon them and the serpent some proper punishments. He begins with the serpent, as the principal offender. As the serpent had cooperated with the devil, to the dishonour of God and destruction of mankind, God curses it above the whole animal creation, and degrades it from flying in the air, or walking with its head and breast erect, to go crawling upon the ground; and, instead of feeding on herbs and fruits, to live, in a great measure, on the dust of the earth. "That old serpent, the devil," he curses above the whole rational creation, by degrading him farther from heaven, and abandoning him finally to the love and practice of evil, as his sole delight, and to that utter disgrace and misery to which he should be condemned to all eternity.

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, &c.] Though this is true of the animal serpent, yet it has a particular respect to the old serpent, the devil; and implies, that however he and the woman had been combined against God, their friendship should soon issue in the greatest enmity between each other, and especially between their seed. By the seed of the woman, all interpreters understand Christ the Saviour; not excluding his friends and followers in every age and nation of the world.

16 Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow, &c.] Next to the serpent, the woman was in the transgression; and therefore next to the serpent, she receives her sentence. Her punishment was sorrow in conception, and pain in child-birth, which women above all creatures have been observed to endure; subjection in all her desires to the will of her husband, whose advice she had neglected, following her own; and, Adam's greater dominion over her than was either given him, or he would ever have exercised, in a state of innocence.

17 And unto Adam he said, &c.] Last of all, Adam received his sentence; which was, that the ground, instead of its original fertility, should be cursed with barrenness, briers, and thorns; and whereas it would have produced every thing with little culture, all things must now be forced from it by toilsome labour; that instead of the dilicious fruits of Paradise, he must now go eat the herbs of the field, in common with the beasts; that, with the sweat of his brow, he must earn his bread; and finally, that instead of being translated, soul and body, to the Paradise above, his body should return to its original dust, and the immortal spirit, to God who gave it.

20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve, &c.] The only name given to her before in the original was Ischa, woman or wife; now Adam calls her Chavah, or Eve, "living" or "giving life;" because, by the promise of God, she was not only to live herself, but to be the mother of all mankind, and particularly of the great Redeemer, by whom they were to be recovered from death to life everlasting.

21 God made coats of skins, and clothed them.] These were made of the skins of beasts, slain, not merely for this purpose, nor for food, but for sacrifice; as a type of the woman's seed, whose heel was to be bruised, and who was to suffer death for the sins of men, and therefore to keep up and direct the faith of our first parents to the slain Lamb of God from the foundation of the world, and of all believers in all ages, until the Messiah should come and die, and become a sacrifice for sin, the sacrifices of slain beasts were appointed: and of the skins of these the Lord God, either by his almighty power, made coats for the man and his wife, or by the ministry of angels; or he instructed and directed themselves to make them, which was an instance of goodness to them, not only to provide food for them as before, but also raiment; and which, though not rich, fine, and soft, yet was substantial, and sufficient to protect them from all inclemencies of the weather; and as they might serve to put them in mind of their fall, so of their mortality by it, and of the condition sin had brought them into; being in themselves, and according to their deserts, like the beasts that perish; as also they were emblems of the robe of Christ's righteousness, and the garments of his salvation, to be wrought out by his obedience, sufferings, and death: with which being arrayed, they should not be found naked, nor be condemned, but be secured from wrath to come.

22 Behold, the man is become as one of us, &c.] What God here says has generally been considered as an irony or sarcasm, upbraiding our first parents with that knowledge of good and evil, and the resemblance thereby of the divine omniscience they had acquired. But there is plainly no irony here, but on the contrary, a most pathetic lamentation over his ruined condition and gracious resolution to turn him out of Paradise, lest his vain hopes to fortify himself against death, by eating of the tree of life, should tempt him to neglect the great salvation, which was offered to him in God's covenant.

24 So he drove out the man, &c.] Who being unwilling to go out upon the orders given, some degree of force was exerted, to oblige him to depart: the word used for the turning man out of Paradise, signifies that he was turned out as a divorced woman from the house of her husband, never to be admitted back; so Adam was driven from the presence and communion with God, from his house and habitation, from his seat of pleasure and garden of delight, and from all the comfortable enjoyments of life, an emblem of that separation and distance, which sin makes between God and his creature, and of that loss which is sustained thereby.

CHAP. IV.

Before CHRIST 4003.

1 The birth, occupation, and religious behaviour of Cain and Abel. 8 The murder of Abel, and the arraignment and curse of Cain for it. 17 Enoch born; the first city built; the generations of Cain. 19 Lamech and his two wives. 25 The birth of Seth and Enos.

AND Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the LORD.

2 And she again bare his brother Abel. And Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3 And in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the LORD had respect unto Abel and to his offering:

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

6 And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7 If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him.

8 ¶ And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him.

9 And the LORD said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper?

10 And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.

11 And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand;

12 When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive, and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth.

13 And Cain said unto the LORD, My punishment is greater than I can bear.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IV.

1 And Adam knew his wife.] Several Jewish writers are of opinion, especially Jarchi, that Adam "had known" his wife, even before he sinned and was drove out of the garden, and think he otherwise would not have observed the command, "Be fruitful and multiply:" but if Adam had begotten children in a state of innocence, they would have been free from sin, and not tainted with the corruption of nature after contracted; however others imagine it was thirty years after their expulsion out of paradise.

I have gotten a man from the Lord] A gift or blessing from him, as children are; some render it, "I have gotten a man, the Lord;" that promised seed that should break the serpent's head; by which it appears, that she took the seed to be a divine person, the true God, even Jehovah, that should become man; though she must have been ignorant of the mystery of his incarnation, or of his taking flesh of a virgin, since she conceived and bare Cain through her husband's knowledge of her: however, having imbibed this notion, it is no wonder she should call him Cain, a possession or inheritance, since had this been the case, she had got a goodly one indeed: but in the event she was sadly mistaken, he proved not only to be a mere man, but to be a very bad man.

2 And she again bare his brother Abel, &c.] We are not informed what time elapsed between the birth of Cain and Abel, but perhaps the following year. It is the common opinion of the Jews, that with Abel, as with Cain, was born a twin-sister. Abel signifies vanity. This name, if given him from his birth, might denote the small esteem his mother had of him, in comparison of Cain, who she hoped was to be the promised seed: or if he was so called, as some have thought, only after his death, his name is expressive of that disappointment in their hopes in Cain, and their sense of the vanity of human life, that the fate of Abel plainly taught them.

3, 4 And in process of time, &c.] "In the end of days," as the Hebrew text is; that is, either at the end of the year, or of the days of the week, the two brothers brought each of them an oblation to the Lord. Cain, as an husbandman, brought of the produce of the grounds he cultivated: Abel, as a shepherd, some of the firstlings of his flock, with the fat of them. Cain's sacrifice was wholly a thank-offering to God for the blessings of his providence. Abel's was not only a thank-offering, but also of the expiatory kind; and while it was an expression of gratitude for the blessings of the divine Providence, it was also typical of the atonement of Christ, and expressive of his hope of redemption through him. Cain, it would seem, offered not the best of his fruits, but Abel the very best of his flock. But what made the chief difference between them, was, that Cain presented his offering while his heart was withheld: Abel brought both his person and sacrifice an offering to the Lord. He presented his oblation, and performed the other parts of worship, with faith in God and the promised Saviour, Heb. xi. 4. and with sincerity, humility, and love. Accordingly God had respect to Abel and to his sacrifice; and signified his acceptance of it either by words, by fire from the Shechinah consuming the sacrifice, or some other mark of approbation, conspicuous to those that beheld it. Upon seeing Abel's offering accepted, and his rejected, Cain is displeased with God, for the distinction he had made, and enraged at Abel for the preference he had obtained.

7 If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted, &c.] To appease Cain's wrath, God here assures him, that he was no respecter of persons; that if Cain were influenced by the same faith and piety with Abel, he and his sacrifice should be equally respected; that if in any thing he acted contrary to his duty to God, or charity to his brother, the punishment due to his sin was ready to overtake him; and that whatever preference Abel held in religious matters, still, as the younger brother, he should be subject to the elder, and pay him all the respect his birth-right claimed.

8 And Cain talked with Abel his brother] In a kind and friendly manner, and thereby took the advantage of him. The Jerusalem Targum give us an account of what passed between them. "Cain said to Abel his brother, there is no judgment, nor judge, nor will a good reward be given to the righteous; nor will vengeance be taken of the wicked, neither is the world created in mercy, nor governed in mercy; otherwise, why is thine offering received with good will, and mine not?" Abel replied, "There is a judgment;" and went on denying every thing Cain had advanced, that gave reason why the offering of the one was accepted, and the other rejected.

Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him] In a furious manner assaulted him, without any just provocation, and took away his life with some instrument or other, perhaps that was used in husbandry, which might be on the spot where they were.

9 And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother?] Here God interposes, and takes notice of the concerns of this lower world, where human society was not so regularly formed, as to admit of a judicial government. He addresses himself to Cain, and enquires after his brother, in order to bring Cain to a conviction and confession of his sin, to touch his conscience with it, and fill his conscience with remorse for it; and for the aggravation of it, observes the relation of Abel to him, his brother.

And he said, I know not] This, however, did not strike the conscience of the murderer, for without the least regard to God, and apparently not afraid of his crime, he replies without the least concern,

Am I my brother's keeper?] Expressing his admiration that God should put such a question to him, since he knew he had not the charge of his brother, and that he was at the age to take care of himself; and if not, it rather belonged to God and his providence to take care of him, and not to him. This shews him to be under the influence of Satan, and that he was so blinded by him, as to forget whom he was speaking to; that he was the omniscient God, and knew the wickedness he had done, and the falsehoods he now uttered, and was capable of confronting him with both, and of inflicting deserved punishment on him.

10 And he said, What hast thou done?] The omniscient God, after Cain's evasive and irreverent answer, charges him expressly with the horrid crime of murder, and of the murder of his own brother. It is in the original bloods, in the plural number, which the Jews generally understood of the posterity that would have descended from Abel, had he not been murdered.

12 It shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength] The earth had been cursed for Adam's sin, and was not so fruitful as in its primogenial state; and now it was cursed again for Cain's sin; not the whole earth, but that part which belonged to Cain, and was cultivated by him; and so it must be supposed to be cursed, not only in the spot where he had been settled, but in every other place where he should come and occupy; and which, through this additional curse, became so barren, that it did not yield such good fruits, and such an increase of it, as before; it lost its native and vital juice, by which seed cast into it became not so fruitful, and did not increase; but instead of this, though much pains were taken to manure it, and much was sown, yet it brought forth little, at least but little to Cain, whatever it did to others; and therefore it is said, shall not yield unto thee; it would not turn much to his account, or yield much profit and increase to him, or bring forth much fruit. And God said, that he shall be banished far from the habitation of his father, to rove through the earth a fugitive, abhorred of him and man! The Septuagint render it "groaning and trembling;" the guilt of his sin lay heavy on his conscience, and filled him with such horror and terror, that he was continually sighing and groaning, and was seized with such a tremor, that he shook in all his limbs.

13 My punishment is greater than I can bear, &c.] Or, as it is in the original, "My sin is greater than can be forgiven," despairing of the mercy of God, having no faith in the promised seed, and in

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

This chapter exhibits to us two remarkable pictures: the firſt is that of Abel, who, as St. Paul ſays, "through faith offered a more excellent ſacrifice than Cain," and obtained witneſs that he was righteous; but, notwithſtanding his righteouſneſs, was expoſed to the envy and cruelty of his brother, who killed him. Thus God was pleaſed to ſhew, from the beginning of the world, that he accepts the ſervice of none but good people; whom, nevertheleſs, he ſuffers ſometimes to be oppreſſed by the wicked; a proof from the very firſt, that piety is not to expect its reward in this life. The other picture is that of Cain, in whom we have an image of wicked men, and particularly of ſuch as hate their brethren, and an inſtance of the ill effects of envy and jealouſy. We may alſo obſerve, in the terrors that haunted Cain after he had committed this horrid deed, that a guilty conſcience is generally tormented with horror and remorſe. The genealogy of Cain's deſcendants was preſerved, to ſhew the diſtinction there was afterwards between the impious poſterity of Cain, and that of Seth, the ſon of Adam, from whom the patriarchs and Meſſiah deſcended.

the pardon of ſin, through his atonement, blood, and ſacrifice. Cain recapitulates his puniſhment; that he was from that day forth to be baniſhed his native country, baniſhed God's preſence, to behold the Shechinah of glory no more; and, that being abandoned of God, and become obnoxious to man, whoſoever found him would certainly kill him. Cain ſeems to have been more afraid of a corporeal death, than to have any concern about his ſoul, and the eternal welfare of it, or to be in dread or fear of an eternal death, or wrath to come.

15 And the Lord ſaid unto him, &c.] To allay Cain's fears of being ſlain, God aſſures him that he meant to preſerve him alive as a monument of his indignation at murder, to deter mankind from ſuch horrid wickedneſs; that if any one ſhould kill him, he ſhould be puniſhed in a very high degree; and, to confirm the whole, ſet a mark upon him, to prevent any from ſlaying him. What this mark was is not ſaid; ſome think God ſtamped his forehead with ſome mark of infamy; others, that he blaſted his face with lightning from the Shechinah; others, that his whole body, but eſpecially his head, was immediately ſtruck with ſuch an inceſſant ſhaking, as made him a terror to himſelf and to all others.

16 And Cain went out, &c.] That is, he went out from the place where God then reſided in the ſymbol of his preſence, and dwelt in the land a fugitive, which the original word ſignifies, becauſe Cain wandered up and down in it a vagabond and outcaſt; continuing in no one place in it, his body and mind being reſtleſs and uneaſy. Some are of opinion that it was called "Nod," becauſe in every place where he went, the earth ſhook under him, and men ſaid, depart from living here, this is he that ſlew his brother.

23 And Lamech ſaid unto his wives, &c.] The occaſion of this ſpeech not being related, makes it impoſſible to determine the preciſe meaning of it, nor is it of great importance for us to know it. Some have conſidered this as a piece of poetry, compoſed by Lamech, to be ſet to muſic by his ſon Jubal, and performed before his wives in praiſe of his greatneſs. Others have imagined, that his wives' clamorous altercations had ſo vexed Lamech, that he commands them to be ſilent; and tells them, that their contentions had been ſo hurtful to him, when old and young, that in marrying them he had ſlain a man to his wounding, and a young man to his hurt. Others are of opinion, that the deſcendants of Cain had lived in perpetual fears that ſome of the family of Adam might ſome time take revenge upon them for the death of Abel, whom Cain had wickedly and inhumanly ſlain; and that Lamech here endeavours to reaſon his family, and particularly his wives, out of their fears, in ſuch words as theſe: "Have I killed a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt, as Cain did? No; I have done no injury to any of the other family." If God promiſed to preſerve Cain, and threatened powerful vengeance on any who ſhould kill him, much more will he preſerve us, and inflict ſeventy and ſeven-fold vengeance on any who ſhould ſlay Lamech, or any of his houſe.

26 Then began men to call on the name of the Lord.] That is, the profeſſors of the true religion, deſcended from Seth or others, ſeeing the impiety and wickedneſs that abounded among the Cainites, began now to meet more frequently, and in larger aſſemblies, for the public and ſolemn worſhip of God on the ſabbath, and on other occaſions; to worſhip the name of the eternal and gracious Jehovah, their Creator, Preſerver, and Redeemer; to diſtinguiſh themſelves from the idolatrous family of Cain, and maintain the true religion in the world.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. V.

1 This is the book of the generations of Adam, &c.] This chapter contains an account of the genealogy, age, and death of the patriarchs, who deſcended from him by generation in the line of Seth to Noah, conſiſting of ten generations, or a period of 1656 years; for a particular account of all his deſcendants is not here given, not of thoſe in the line of Cain, nor of the collateral branches in the line of Seth, only of thoſe that deſcended one from another in a direct line to Noah.

3 And begat a ſon in his own likeneſs, &c.] Not in the likeneſs, and after the image of God, in which Adam was created; for, having ſinned, he loſt that image, at leaſt it was greatly defaced, and he came ſhort of that glory of God, and could not convey it entire to his poſterity. However, ſome ſuppoſe, that his own likeneſs, may as well refer to Seth's likeneſs to his father in piety and virtue; but we humbly ſuppoſe nothing of conſequence can be deduced from it: nor is there any cauſe to imagine that it might not have been applied to Cain and Abel, with as much propriety as to Seth. The word ſeems to agree with the firſt chapter, and imply as much as if it had been ſaid, that, "as Adam was created in the image of God," ſo his ſon, (or poſterity) was formed in his image, a rational, moral, human creature, like himſelf.

5 And all the days that Adam lived, were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died.] From the firſt moment he had eaten the forbidden fruit, Adam became liable to death; but nine hundred and thirty years elapſed before it was actually inflicted. During that long interval, Adam, it is reaſonable to believe, had begotten many more children than thoſe recorded by Moſes. By his own baniſhment from Paradiſe, by Cain's murder of his brother Abel, and by the apoſtaſy, idolatry, and wickedneſs of the greateſt part of his offſpring, he had felt in himſelf, and beheld in his poſterity, the fatal

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

From the contents of this chapter, we should carefully remark, among other things, that with regard to the genealogy, the first-born of each person is not always mentioned; but such as Noah, the father of the new world, or the age after the flood, to shew which is the purport of this genealogy. Thus we know that Cain was Adam's first-born, and that he had also Abel, and in all probability many other sons, before Seth was born, which was in his one hundred and thirtieth year: and as Adam came into life in full maturity, it cannot be supposed that in the infancy of the world, when the quick multiplication of mankind was so necessary, that he should have only two sons in the space of one hundred and thirty years. Nor is it credible that the rest of the persons here should have lived so long as is here mentioned, before they began to propagate their species. We cannot rationally think that Noah lived five hundred years before he began to do it. What is added, therefore, to each person, "and begat sons and daughters," is equally to be understood of sons and daughters born before the particular person mentioned in this genealogy, as afterwards. Another thing to be noticed with respect to this genealogy, is, that Moses seems to have put down entire years only, without taking notice of odd months or days: for it cannot be supposed that so many persons should have propagated and died all just in even years. These and other important matters being duly considered, will lead us to an acquaintance with the sacred pages, and help to reconcile and unfold many particulars, which appear at first sight to be very mysterious, and beyond our comprehension.

fatal effects of his disobedience. At last, wearied and worn out with a life of affliction and sorrow, he resigns his body to its original dust: while his soul, we may believe was, through faith in the promised Deliverer, raised to the Paradise above, "where there is no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, nor any more pain;" but where mortality is swallowed up of everlasting life.

6 Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos.] Doubtless he had other children before, as we know Adam had Cain and Abel before he begat Seth. But Moses doth not mention them, it being his design to set down only those persons by whom the line of Noah was derived from Seth.

8 And all the days of Seth were, &c.] In chap. iv. ver. 26. we are told, that in the days of Seth men began to call upon the name of the Lord; and we are told by the Arabians and Jews, that Seth was a holy man, that he made excellent laws for the regulation of his family; and that before his death, he adjured his children by the blood of Abel, not to mix with the race of Cain, lest God should utterly destroy them.

11 And all the days of Enos, &c.] The Arabic writers say he was a prince, and governed his people according to the strictest rules of equity; and that when his end drew nigh, he also sent for his relations, and exhorted them not to mix with the impious race of Cain.

18 Enoch.] The Arabians represent him as a very learned man, and a prophet, and skilled in astronomy. The Greeks antiently had the same notions of him: and, according to Eusebius, he was the same person whom they call Atlas.

21 Begat Methuselah.] Methuselah lived till the very year of the deluge; whence it is conjectured that Enoch, being a prophet, Jude 14. and foreseeing the destruction that was coming upon the earth, immediately after the death of his son, gave him the name of Methuselah, which imports, He dieth, and the emission (viz. of waters) cometh.

24 Enoch walked with God.] He was stedfast in a religious course of life; he lived in an habitual sense of the divine presence, and as under the observation and inspection of his omnipotent judge, making it his study to please him, by never swerving from his precepts. He was also admitted into a happy intercourse with his Maker, and had revelations of his will communicated to him, probably by the intervention of angels.

And he was not; for God took him.] That is, he was translated into heaven without dying. The Divine Being, by this signal event, giving the virtuous men, in that early age, a sufficient proof that there was another life after this; a heavenly Paradise, far remote from this scene of labour and trouble.

27 Nine hundred sixty and nine years, &c.] The longest time that any man ever lived. He died but a little before the flood came; being taken away from the evil to come, from that deluge which swept away all mankind, Noah and his family only excepted.

28 Lamech, &c.] Not Lamech mentioned chap. iv. he was of the family of Cain: this was descended from Seth.

29 Called his name Noah, &c.] Noah signifies rest, and was given by Lamech to his son, because he was to be a comfort and relief in their laborious employments. Some pretend, that Lamech expected that his son was the promised seed which was to break the serpent's head; but the latter part of the verse sufficiently indicates, that this consolation was of an inferior kind: and accordingly the Jewish interpreters expound it, of his helping to make their labour easy in tilling the earth. If we refer the last words of the verse, "the ground which the Lord hath cursed," to the deluge which Enoch had foretold, Noah may be called their comforter, as he was to be the restorer of the desolated world.

32 Shem, Ham, and Japheth.] Shem, though Japheth was eldest, is here mentioned first, on account of his dignity, in being preferred by God before his brethren; and as God often gave demonstration that he would not be confined to the order of nature in the disposal of his favours, but frequently bestowed them upon the younger children; so the scriptures as frequently overlook the seniority of their birth, and hath respect principally to their excellence. Thus Abraham is mentioned before Nahor and Haran, Jabob before Esau, Isaac before Ishmael, and Ephraim before Manasseh.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

1 Men began to multiply, &c.] When we consider the prodigious length of men's lives, and that they began to beget children as early, and left off as late in proportion as they do now, the number of inhabitants before the flood will appear to be immense. Accordingly, several have shewn, from very moderate computations, that there were at least one hundred thousand millions of souls, that is, near twenty times as many as there are at present upon our earth.

2 The ſons of God, &c.] We underſtand by this term the children of Seth, and, by the daughters of men, the daughters of Cain, who were immerſed in wickedneſs, and abandoned to every vice. Hence the ſenſe of the verſe will be, that the children of Seth contracted an alliance with the daughters of Cain, and joined in the univerſal corruption of mankind.

3 My ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man] I will not ſuffer my laws and admonitions to be any longer trampled upon. God always conſiders men as moral agents, and therefore he makes uſe of every method that has any tendency to convert a rational being from the evil of his way. This, in the beautiful ſcriptural language, is called, drawing them with the cords of a man, with the bands of love. Theſe are the ſtrings of his Spirit, the ſtruggles of his goodneſs, exerting itſelf in unwearied efforts to reclaim mankind from their extreme folly and perverſeneſs.

Yet his days ſhall be an hundred and twenty years] Though the wickedneſs of man is great, yet I will allow him one hundred and twenty years to repent in.

4 There were giants, &c.] The Hebrew word, tranſlated giants, means men abandoned to all manner of wickedneſs, as well as ſuch as were diſtinguiſhed by their enormous bulk and ſtature.

5 That every imagination of the thoughts, &c.] This is not to be taken ſo ſtrictly, as if not ſo much as one good thought had ever entered into the heart of any man in that age. The worſt man that ever lived had ſome good diſpoſitions, however tranſient and ſhort-lived. But this emphatical deſcription of the antediluvian wickedneſs ſignifies, that mankind were then arrived at the higheſt depravation, both in principle and practice. See parallel inſtances, Pſalm xiv. 3. and liii. 4.

6 And it repented the Lord, &c.] All things paſt, preſent, and future, lie open at once to the view of the divine mind; and, therefore, that he is immutable in his counſels, and cannot repent, is one of the plaineſt dictates both of natural and revealed religion: for he is not a man that he ſhould repent. So that the expreſſion of God's repenting, grieving, and the like, are only figurative, and adapted to the weakneſs of our comprehenſions; ſignifying not any change in God himſelf, but only a difference in the event with regard to us. Thus good parents and princes, without any change in themſelves, encourage or diſcourage their reſpective children or ſubjects, according as they change their behaviour for the better or the worſe. Thus laws themſelves, which can have no affection, nor change of affection, towards one perſon or another, yet vary their effect, themſelves remaining unvaried. Thus, when it is here ſaid, God repented, &c. the meaning is, that he was reſolved to alter his conduct; and as men, when they repent of any thing, endeavour to undo it, ſo was the Almighty determined to deſtroy man, whom he had created; as it follows,

7 I will deſtroy—both man and beaſt, &c.] As God had made the beaſts for the ſervice and delight of man, ſo too they muſt periſh with him, as a part of the goods and inheritance which he had forfeited to the giver. Nor can God be charged with injuſtice or cruelty in their deſtruction, ſince, with reſpect to the innocent animals themſelves, it is no more a puniſhment than a natural death; it is only a recalling that temporary breath which God himſelf had given. And as the recalling at that time ſerved to render this example of the divine ſeverity againſt ſin the more ſignal and tremendous to future ages, we may venture to affirm, it anſwered the purpoſes of God's moral government, even better than if he had ſaved them by miracle from the common wreck. And conſidered in this light, it is ſo far from being an imputation upon his juſtice, that it is rather an act of mercy: for whatever tends to reclaim inconſiderate mortals from their infatuation in counteracting the laws which infinite wiſdom has deviſed to raiſe them to happineſs, is an act of goodneſs and benevolence.

8 Found grace, &c.] Obtained grace and favour, which is noted to ſhew, that Noah was ſo far guilty of the common corruption of human nature, that he needed God's grace and mercy to pardon him. When pardoned, he was exempted from the general ſentence; and having obtained forgiveneſs through faith, the flood that covered the world had no more power againſt him, than the flame which ſhall diſſolve the elements will have to hurt thoſe who ſhall at laſt be found ſincerely penitent.

9 Noah was a juſt man] Noah lived in an age that was entirely depraved; when all fleſh had corrupted its ways, and there were but ſeven perſons beſides himſelf left, who were ſervants of God, and lovers of righteouſneſs: and yet, notwithſtanding this univerſal degeneracy, behold how untouched he ſtood, and what a character he bore! Will any man, after this, pretend that it is impoſſible to withſtand the influence of ill example, and to live up to the principles of religion and virtue among thouſands, and ten thouſand times ten thouſands, that neglect and deſpiſe them?

In his generations, &c.] Theſe words have a very ſignificant meaning. They give us a right notion of the juſtice aſcribed to Noah; that he was juſt, not in an abſolute, but in a comparative ſenſe, namely, that he was a very extraordinary man, conſidering the ſtate of religion and virtue in thoſe times, when the world was ſo univerſally wicked. He was not one of thoſe who kept ſome commandments and broke others; but he was a man of uniform obedience and exact integrity.

11 The earth alſo was corrupt—and filled with violence.] The corruption here mentioned is thought to refer particularly to the impiety and irreligion of that age; that men had thrown off all reverence of the ſupreme being; were either groſs idolaters, or quite profane and atheiſtical. And the earth's being filled with violence, plainly points to thoſe notorious acts of oppreſſion and injuſtice that were generally committed or authorized by the great, and even countenanced by the judges, who, inſtead of being redreſſors of wrong, were become the patrons of iniquity; ſo that the world became ripe for deſtruction.

12 All fleſh had corrupted his way, &c.] The patience of God did not expire till he ſaw that the wickedneſs of man was grown great upon the earth, and that all fleſh had corrupted his way; nor till it was neceſſary to drown the world to cleanſe it, and to deſtroy mankind to reform it, by beginning a new world upon the only righteous family that was left of all the laſt generation of the old.

13 The end of all fleſh is come, &c.] That is, the time of deſtruction is at hand. So the prophet expreſſes himſelf, "The end is come upon my people Iſrael," Amos viii. 2.

14 Make thee an ark] This was of the cypreſs tree, which abounded in the parts of Aſſyria about Babylon. Alexander built a navy of theſe trees, for that there was great plenty of them in the country of Aſſyria, but a ſcarcity of other timber fit for making ſhips. This wood is ſaid to be very fit for the purpoſe, as being leſs liable to rot than any other timber. For which reaſon the Egyptian ſarcophagi, for preſerving the bodies of their dead heroes, were made of it.

Rooms, &c.] Little cabins, or cells, to ſever the beaſts from the birds, the clean beaſts from the unclean, and to preſerve their ſeveral ſorts of food.

15 The length of the ark ſhall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.] According to the common ſtandard of one foot and a half to a cubit, the ark will be four hundred and fifty feet long, ſeventy-five broad, and forty-five feet high. But ſome make it more, every cubit, according to the Egyptian meaſurement, conſiſting of twenty-one inches, and eight hundred and eighty-eight decimals.

16 A window] Some underſtand, by this, one great window, which does not exclude other leſſer ones. But others, with more reaſon, underſtand lights in general; nor was this the only uſe of windows, but to give air too to all the creatures in the ark. And it will be hard to conceive how one window could anſwer both theſe ends, eſpecially when we conſider that the ark had three ſtories.

ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second, and third stories shalt thou make it.

17 And, behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die.

18 But with thee will I establish my covenant; and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee; and it shall be for food for thee, and for them.

22 Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

General Reflections on Chap. VI.

This chapter affords much improvement to every attentive reader, and particularly gives an useful admonition to comply with the will of God as graciously revealed to the children of men. "If ye are of me," says our blessed Saviour, "ye will keep my commandments:" thus the same principle is also taught throughout the scriptures. To fear God, and keep his commandments, is the whole [duty] of man. This is the one thing necessary: this is the great and only point we need to regard: this is our light, our life, our support, and the lifter-up of our head. Noah did according to all that God had commanded him, and thereby prepared an ark for the saving of his house. We should observe, that this is mentioned of Noah twice, as it were to raise our attention to such an important lesson of obedience.

CHAP. VII.

Before CHRIST 2349.

1 Noah receiveth command from God, 7 and entereth into the ark with his family and the living creatures. 10 The beginning of the flood as soon as they are entered. 17 Its continual increase for forty days. 21 All flesh is destroyed by it. 24 Its duration.

AND the LORD said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation.

2 Of every clean beast thou shalt take to thee by sevens, the male and his female: and of beasts that are not clean by two, the male and his female.

3 Of fowls also of the air by sevens, the male and the female; to keep seed alive upon the face of all the earth.

4 For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights; and every living substance that I have made will I destroy from off the face of the earth.

5 And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him.

6 And Noah was six hundred years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth.

7 ¶ And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, because of the waters of the flood.

8 Of clean beasts, and of beasts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth.

9 There went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

10 ¶ And it came to pass after seven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. VII.

Therefore these words, chap viii. 6. "Noah opened the window of the ark," as if it had but one, might be better rendered, a window, or one of the windows.

In a cubit shalt thou finish it above.] i. e. When thou shalt have made all the rest of the ark, thou shalt then finish it by making thereto also a cover, which shall rise shelving, in order to throw off the rain: and in such proportion, as that the top of the roof or cover shall rise above the sides of the ark but one cubit, or a foot and a half. Others understand it of the main window, which was to be raised a cubit above the roof the ark.

17 Destroy all flesh, &c.] This proves, in the strongest manner, that the deluge was universal.

18 But with thee will I establish my covenant.] Made with Noah at this time, though not expressed, that on his making an ark as God directed him, and going into it at his command, he would preserve him whilst building it from the rage of wicked men, and save him in it, and his family, when the flood should come; and that they should come safe out of it, and repeople the world, which should be no more destroyed by a flood; for this covenant respects that after mentioned, chap. ix. the promise of the Messiah, which should spring from him, for the fulfilment of which Noah and his family were spared; and this in every article God would confirm, of which he might be assured from his power, veracity, and faithfulness, and other perfections of his.

And thou shalt come into the ark] When the covenant would begin more clearly to be established, and more plainly to be fulfilled; Noah on the one hand being obedient to the divine will, having built an ark, and entering into it; on the other, God giving him leave, and an order to enter into it, and shutting him in it to preserve him.

Thou and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.] That is, Noah and his wife, and his sons, and their wives, in all eight persons; and eight only, as the apostle Peter observes, 1 Pet. iii. 20. By this it appears that Noah's three sons were married before the flood, but as yet had no children.

19 Two of every sort, &c.] i. e. Of unclean beasts, chap. vii. 2.

20 Two of every sort shall come unto thee, &c.] In the foregoing verse it is said, "two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark." Which, lest Noah should think impossible, is explained in these words; "they shall come unto thee;" viz. by the care of God who made them, and by instinct moved them to it; or perhaps the ministry of angels was employed in bringing them into the ark.

22 So did he.] Though the work of building the ark was laborious, costly, tedious, and seemingly foolish and ridiculous, especially when all things continued in the same posture and safety for such numbers of years together. Noah without doubt was, during this period, the sport and scorn of all those who did not believe what God had foretold. So that it is not strange that this is mentioned as an heroic act of faith in Noah, Heb. xi. 7. whereby he humbly went on in the work God had ordered him to do.

1 The Lord said, &c.] When the ark was finished and furnished, and the time expired. Come, prepare to enter. The invitation comes from within the ark. Thy house, thy family; which consisted only of eight persons, Noah and his three sons, and their four wives: each had but one wife. If ever polygamy had been allowed, it must have been now, for the repeopling of the perishing world. Righteous, by faith, producing all the fruits of righteousness and true holiness. Before me, not only before men and seemingly, but really, and to my all-seeing eye.

2 Of every clean beast by sevens, &c.] The distinction of beasts into clean and unclean, with regard to their being eaten, was not established till the giving of the law to the Israelites. But with regard to their being offered in sacrifice, it is evident from this, that it obtained before the flood, and, it is natural to believe, was pointed out by God to mankind, from his first institution of sacrifice. Of the clean beasts Noah was to take seven seven, as it is in the original, that is, seven couple; because they were to be offered in sacrifice when he came out of the ark, and were thenceforth to be given to man for food, Gen. ix. 3.

3 Of fowls, &c.] Of clean fowls: and of the unclean by two; as before of the beasts. To keep seed alive, The breed of them.

4 Yet seven days, &c.] Within seven days, which time God had allowed to the world as a further space of repentance and accepting of mercy to their souls, though their bodies were doomed to death, whereof Noah doubtless gave them notice.

5 Lord commanded him.] Which is repeated, because an instance of his faith and obedience. How free from distraction that mind, which only has to know the will of God, and then to do it!

7 Noah went—into the ark, because of the waters of the flood.] Taking his last look of all the multitudes with whom he had lived, how must he be affected at their ruin: a prospect of distress, only supportable by the testimony God gave to the faithful discharge of his duty, in declaring to them, what God in mercy required him to make them acquainted with!

9 There went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female.] Of themselves, being impressed with an instinct from God so to do; or by the ministry of angels, as observed on chap. vi. 20. there were two of a sort, some think four, and of some seven, or seven pairs.

As God had commanded Noah.] Which respects his own and his family's entrance and the creatures; both were commanded by God, and attended to by Noah, who was obedient in all things.

10 The waters of the flood were upon the earth.] That is, they began to be upon the earth; for it continued to rain from hence forty days and forty nights; and still the waters continued to increase, and it was an hundred and fifty days before they began to ebb.

18 And the waters prevailed, and were increaſed greatly upon the earth; and the ark went upon the face of the waters.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high hills that were under the whole heaven, were covered.

20 Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the mountains were covered.

22 All in whoſe noſtrils was the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land, died.

23 And every living ſubſtance was deſtroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were deſtroyed from the earth: and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark.

24 ¶ And the waters prevailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days. Before CHRIST 2349.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

Let us here piouſly reflect, that in the laſt period of the old world, God gives a proof that the whole earth was his, and all that is therein; that every thing exiſted by his will only, and that he could utterly deſtroy the earth, and all the inhabitants thereof, whenever he ſaw fit: and that men might know that this was ſo, he publicly declared, that he would deſtroy all the inhabitants of the earth, and that the manner in which he intended to do it; one hundred and twenty years before he put it in execution, that all ſucceeding generations might know that it was he, even he, that had done it; and from hence let us learn to fear him, before whom all the nations are as a drop of the bucket, and are counted as the ſmall duſt of the balance; yea, even are leſs than nothing, and vanity.

AND God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to paſs over the earth, and the waters aſſwaged;

11 All the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened.] It is to be remembered, that in the midſt of the work of the creation, when God cauſed the dry land to appear, the waters under the heaven were gathered together under one place, Gen. i. 9. or, as the Pſalmiſt inſtructs us, that God founded the earth upon the ſeas, and eſtabliſhed it upon the floods, Pſalm xxiv. 2. Now the eruption of ſo immenſe a body of water as is laid up in that capacious ſtorehouſe the centre of the earth, (eſpecially when we add to this the other cauſe aſſigned by the hiſtorian, that the waters above the firmament came down to join thoſe below, when the windows or ſluices of heaven opened, and the waters fell upon the earth, not in ordinary ſhowers, but in floods or cataracts) certainly will afford a ſupply ſufficient to effect an univerſal deluge. And ſince the waters, we know, in the time of the chaos, did cover the earth, ſo that nothing of it could be ſeen, till God was pleaſed to make the ſeparation, there is no reaſon to imagine why, upon a proper occaſion, and at the will and for the ſervice of God, they ſhould not be able to reſume their former ſtation, and cover the earth again.

12 The rain was, &c.] How ſlowly does the juſtice of God here proceed, but how irreſiſtible. The great rain was God's teſtimony to Noah's meſſages to mankind, and the gradual manner in which it came in the courſe of forty days, without intermiſſion, was God's laſt call to the world to repent; and that mercy which made juſtice move ſo ſlowly, aſſuredly ſtood ready to receive, as at the eleventh hour, every penitent that truly turned to God, and caſt itſelf upon his mercy, through that Mediator firſt promiſed to Adam, believed in by Abel, Enoch, and all the faithful, and ſo long, and ſo much in vain preached by Noah.

13 The ſelf-ſame day entered Noah, &c.] On which the flood began: not in the dark, like one aſhamed, or afraid, but when it was clear daylight, in public view of the world.

14 Every bird, &c.] The firſt word ſignifies the greater, the ſecond the leſſer ſort of every kind of birds.

15 They went—into the ark, two and two of all fleſh, &c.] All living creatures. And would not their aſcending the ark be another call to a careleſs world?

16 The Lord ſhut him in.] Shut the door upon him. As the redeemed of the Lord will be at laſt ſhut in with God their Saviour in endleſs bleſſedneſs. Will there be no place of diſtinction for the deſpiſers of the juſtice and mercy of God in that day? Shall the proofs of the flood be known to us, without occaſioning any fears for the indignation which is revealed from heaven againſt all ungodlineſs and unrighteouſneſs of men?

17 The flood, &c.] That flood of waters which was poured down, increaſed, by the acceſſion of more waters from above and beneath.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered.] This verſe not only clearly proves the univerſality of the deluge, but alſo fully confutes the opinion, that the face of the earth, before the deluge, was ſmooth, regular, and uniform; and that the rocks and mountains, which every where now appear, are owing to the violent concuſſions which then happened, and are nothing elſe but the ruins and fragments of the old world. That this deluge was not partial, is alſo further evident, becauſe in every part of the known world there are certain records and traditions of it. The Americans, the Chineſe, (the moſt diſtant people of Aſia) and the ſeveral nations of Africa, have each their various and reſpective ſtories concerning it.

20 Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail, &c.] That is, the depth of the water, on the tops of the higheſt mountains, was twenty-two feet.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VIII.

1 God remembered, &c.] This expreſſion, when applied to God, ſignifies to regard with pity, compaſſion, and mercy, to take care of, ſuccour, or ſupport; and in this paſſage we may comprehend all theſe benevolent ideas.

4 And the ark reſted in the ſeventh month.] That is, in the beginning of May, when the ſummer was making its approach, and the heat of the ſun would help to carry off the waters, and warm the earth.

Upon the mountains of Ararat.] Various have been the opinions with regard to the true ſituation of mount Ararat; but the moſt conſonant to reaſon is, that which places it about the middle of Armenia, near the river Araxes. The Septuagint and Syriac copies, which read, the mountains of Armenia, ſupport this opinion. Joſephus ſays, it was on the Gordycean mountains that the ark reſted; and the Chaldee and Arabic, which read Cardu inſtead of Ararat, confirm his hypotheſis. The benevolence and wiſdom of God appears conſpicuous in his choice of one of the higheſt mountains for the benefit of Noah and the creatures at their coming out of the ark; for the eminences being covered by the waters but a few days, the quantity of ſediment would be inconſiderable, and the earth and vegetables in that ſituation, not much altered or damaged.

5 In the tenth month, &c.] This preciſe calculation of time ſhews, that the antediluvians had made their calendar of years, months, &c. though Moſes the legiſlator afterwards reformed them.

Before CHRIST 2348. 6 ¶ And it came to paſs at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made:

7 And he ſent forth a raven, which went forth to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

8 Alſo he ſent forth a dove from him, to ſee if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground;

9 But the dove found no reſt for the ſole of her foot, and ſhe returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and pulled her in unto him into the ark.

10 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days; and again he ſent forth the dove out of the ark;

11 And the dove came in to him in the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf pluckt off: ſo Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

12 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days; and ſent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs in the ſix hundredth and firſt year, in the firſt month, the firſt day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and, behold, the face of the ground was dry.

14 And in the ſecond month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month, was the earth dried.

15 ¶ And God ſpake unto Noah, ſaying,

16 Go forth of the ark, thou, and thy wife, and thy ſons, and thy ſons' wives with thee.

17 Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all fleſh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and be fruitful, and multiply upon the earth.

18 And Noah went forth, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons' wives with him.

19 Every beaſt, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatſoever creepeth upon the earth, after their kinds, went forth out of the ark. Before CHRIST 2348.

20 ¶ And Noah builded an altar unto the LORD; and took of every clean beaſt, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar.

21 And the LORD ſmelled a ſweet ſavour: and the LORD ſaid in his heart, I will not again curſe the ground any more for man's ſake; for the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; neither will I again ſmite any more every thing living, as I have done.

22 While the earth remaineth, ſeed-time and harveſt, and cold and heat, and ſummer and winter, and day and night ſhall not ceaſe.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

Let us here learn, from the ſeverity of God's puniſhing a ſinful world, what an odious thing ſin is in his ſight, who is of purer eyes than to behold iniquity. We may here likewiſe ſee the faithfulneſs of God in fulfilling his promiſe to Noah, when at the appointed time he delivered him out of the ark, and placed him ſafe on dry land. Alſo we here find that Noah is not forgetful of God's goodneſs. Humility taught, he could do nothing by which God could be profited, and therefore was thankful for the mercy ſhewn him. He gave the beſt proof he could of his ſincerity; and God was ſo pleaſed with him, that his ſacrifice was acceptable..

CHAP. IX.

1 God bleſſeth Noah, granting him animal food, but forbidding the eating of blood, and murder. 8 God's covenant ſignified by the rainbow. 18 The earth is repeopled from Noah. 20 He planteth a vineyard, is drunken, and mocked by Canaan, whom he curſeth, and bleſſeth his other ſons. 28 His age and death.

AND God bleſſed Noah and his ſons, and ſaid unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the earth.

6 Forty days, &c.] This interval had elapſed after the tops of the mountains appeared, and was about the end of July.

7 A raven, which went to and fro, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, It went forth in going forth and in returning; which implies, it fluttered backward and forward, or took its flight from the ark, and returned again. The ſcent of dead carcaſes, Noah knew would draw the raven to ſome diſtance, and that when the waters were ſufficiently abated, he would be ſo much employed in preying as not to return. The Vulgate, Septuagint, and Syriac, render this verſe ſo as to ſignify that the raven went forth and did not return; and Bochart eſpouſes this ſenſe, on the authority of ſeveral famous rabbins, though the Chaldee, Samaritan, and Arabic ſupport the common reading.

8 From him, &c.] The Septuagint and Vulgate tranſlation is, after him, applying the word "him" to the raven, which preſerves the connection, and ſhews that Noah ſtaid ſome time after the departure of the raven, before he ſent the dove.

9 The dove, &c.] The dove is famous for flying far; and being fond of feeding upon the ground, it was fit for making further diſcoveries; but finding no reſt for the hollow of her foot, on account of the ſlime, returned to the ark.

10 And again he ſent forth the dove out of the ark.] Very probably the ſelf-ſame dove he had ſent out before.

11 An olive leaf, &c.] This was probably brought from Aſſyria, a country famous for olive-trees, and might be choſen preferably to any other tree, becauſe the leaves continue green, even under water, and might not be damaged as thoſe of other trees were. This branch was a ſufficient token that the waters were departed from the lower grounds: as the return of the dove was, that the earth was ſtill wet, and covered with ſlime.

13, 14 In the ſix hundred and firſt year, &c.] Of Noah's life. The covering, though taken by moſt verſions for the roof, ſeems rather, from the original, to ſignify ſome looſe covering beſides, like that of the tabernacle, which is expreſſed by the ſame Hebrew word: and the uſe of it might probably have been to hang over, and defend the windows of the ark.

15 Go forth of the ark, &c.] Thus ended Noah's long and melancholy confinement, being the ſpace of a ſolar year's reſidence in the ark.

20 Clean beaſts, &c.] This is ſo far from proving that the diſtinction between clean and unclean beaſts was made prior to the Moſaic law, that it ſtrongly confirms the contrary. For if Moſes, in his compendious manner, intended to inform the Jews what beaſts were ſacrificed on this occaſion, he could not do it more briefly nor more plainly, than by naming them clean or the contrary. For the aſſociation of ideas acquired by the law would immediately bring to their minds the ſpecies that muſt have been offered.

21 The Lord ſmelled a ſweet ſavour] From the purity of the intention, not from the ſacrifice itſelf; his juſtice was ſatisfied, and the earth purged from ſinful men and their corrupt manners, and, in a ſpiritual ſenſe, ſweetened.

Neither will I again ſmite any more, &c.] Referring to the deſtruction of the earth by a general conflagration; as if he had ſaid, I will no more deſtroy the earth or its inhabitants by a flood, becauſe I will, at the final doom, deſtroy it by fire. Dr. Young has judiciouſly cenſured both the cavillers at, and the ſupporters of the univerſality of the deluge. To the firſt he oppoſes the oracles of God, after the manner of our Saviour, who ſays, "If they will not hear Moſes, or the prophets, neither will they be perſuaded, though one roſe from the dead." The ſecond he ſeverely reproves, for adopting the vain learning of the ſchools, who to diſplay their erudition, drew forth the artillery of natural cauſes in ſupport of the divine revelation, which ſupplies ſceptics with weapons to beat down the fundamentals of religion, that muſt ſtill reſt on its own eternal baſis, authority from God. However, not to omit giving ſome of the ſtrongeſt arguments in favour of the univerſality of the deluge, we ſee the largeſt mountains of the earth in almoſt every part of it, abounding with ſhells, and ſkeletons of ſea-fiſh, and ſea-monſters of all kinds, and exhibiting inconteſtible monuments of the ſpoils of the ocean every where; ſecondly, if it was not to be univerſal, where was the occaſion of an ark, the repoſitory of all then living, ſince Noah might as well have been inſtructed to retire to ſome country where the flood was not to have prevailed? The beaſts might have ſaved themſelves by flight into remote continents, and the birds of the air might have fled to the remote dry grounds; but, indeed there are ſo many rational proofs for the univerſality, and ſo few for the partial flood, that divine authority ſtands in need of no ſupport.

22 While the earth remaineth, &c.] In the original, "As yet all the days of the earth, and of ſowing and harveſt." The ſenſe of this verſe is, that as, during the former year, there had been neither reaping, ſowing, nor any deſtination of the ſeaſons, and the day differed but little from the night, while the rain continued; the world ſhould not be ſubjected any more to a ſimilar calamity, but that it ſhould be deſtroyed by the general conflagration.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IX.

1 And God bleſſed Noah, &c.] The bleſſing pronounced upon Noah and his poſterity, is renewed by this vaſt grant, no leſs than univerſal poſſeſſion and dominion of the new earth; the flood was the forfeiture and penalty for non-allegiance, whereas by this renewal of leaſe and tenure, the curſe on the old territory of man was fully accompliſhed, and man made a free tenant again, the Almighty ſtill reſerving to himſelf the clauſe of ſervice and obedience, from the date of the flood.

Before CHRIST 2348.

2 And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea; into your hand are they delivered.

3 Every moving thing that liveth shall be meat for you; even as the green herb have I given you all things.

4 But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat.

5 And surely your blood of your lives will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man.

6 Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man.

7 And you, be you fruitful, and multiply; bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

8 ¶ And God spake unto Noah, and to his sons with him saying,

9 And I, behold, I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you;

10 And with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth with you; from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth.

11 And I will establish my covenant with you; neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood; neither shall there any more be a flood to destroy the earth.

12 And God said, This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:

13 I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

14 And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud: Before CHRIST 2348.

15 And I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.

17 And God said unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant, which I have established between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.

18 ¶ And the sons of Noah, that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth: and Ham is the father of Canaan. 2347.

19 These are the three sons of Noah: and of them was the whole earth overspread.

20 ¶ And Noah began to be an husbandman, and he planted a vineyard:

21 And he drank of the wine, and was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent.

22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brethren without.

23 And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done unto him.

25 And he said, Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren.

26 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant.

3 Every moving thing that liveth, shall be meat for you, &c.] In this general grant there were implied exceptions as appears by the law of Moses afterwards, who forbad the use of several moving things: this was, however, the first grant of animal food to man, either to shorten his duration with respect to age, or to cut off gradually the over stock of animals, subsequent from their future propagation; or as more nutritious food, substituted to supply the deficiency of the fruits of the earth, and to retrieve the enfeebled radical moisture of men, arising from an esculent food.

4 But flesh with the life thereof, &c.] These and the foregoing precepts, are general interdicts, not only with regard to the wanton infringements before the flood, but preliminary to future violations on the animal species; for it may be supposed that men sported with the animal creation; and departing from the allotment of esculent food, made excursions on the creatures, which this divine institution guards against, confining them to a proper use of animal food. The Tartars, Indians, and other wild savages, break in upon this wise fundamental to this day. The precept is also written or delivered to inspire a due sense of tenderness to the blood of the animals, as the grand preservative against murder, with all its train of human sacrifices, which, notwithstanding this institute, prevailed in the world soon after, and still subsists among several barbarous nations.

5 And surely your blood, &c.] This, in the Hebrew, is "for surely," as an inference implying the commutation of blood for blood reciprocally.

6 In the image of God, &c.] Murder is the most heinous sacrilege, because, of all things in the world, nothing is more sacred, nothing stamped with more lively characters of the divinity, than man. Murder is an act of high treason against the divine majesty, whom man represents in this lower world.

13 I do set my bow in the cloud, &c.] When the covenant is with the whole race of mankind, and so the sign of the covenant to serve only for a remembrance, that sign may be either a moral duty, or a natural phenomenon. This was the case of God's promise in the text. Here the Almighty made a natural and beautiful phenomenon, seen over the whole habitable world, the token of that covenant. It is wonderful to consider how this matter has been mistaken. Perhaps the word "set" did not a little contribute to it: the expression being understood absolutely, when it should have been taken for the qualified sense of setting for a token; and in this sense, and only in this sense, the bow was then first set in the cloud. Burnet supposing the Phenomenon of the rainbow did not exist before the flood, says, "It could not be a token of God's covenant, because being a common appearance, it would have given no extraordinary assurance of security." Tindal asserts, "Perhaps, not knowing the natural cause of the rainbow, occasioned that account we have in Genesis of its institution. God's appointing the rainbow to be a token, for perpetual generations, of his covenant with mankind, is called his institution of the rainbow." The words shew, this author took it for granted, that Moses represents God as then first setting his bow in the clouds. But this is founded in gross ignorance, of the nature of simple compacts and promises, in which the only security for performance is, the known good faith of the promiser. But in the case before us, the most novel, or most supernatural appearance, could add nothing to their assurance, arising from the evidence of God's veracity. As, on the contrary, had the children of Noah been ignorant of this attribute of the Deity, such an extraordinary phenomenon could have given no assurance at all. For what then, served the rainbow? For the wise purpose so well expressed by the sacred writer, "for a token of the covenant," that is, for a memorial or remembrance of it throughout all generations; a method of universal practice in contracts of all civilized nations.

20 And Noah began to be an husbandman, &c.] The word which we translate "began," signifies also "continued;" and the true sense is, Noah continued to be an husbandman; that is, he returned to the occupation he followed before the flood.

21 And he drank of the wine, &c.] It has justly been observed, that the word which we render "drunken," does not absolutely imply a great degree of intoxication, but only that he was discomposed, or heated by the liquor. And with regard to his being uncovered, the loose dress of those times rendered it easy for the wind, or any slight movement of the body, to expose those parts, which nature teaches us to conceal.

22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness, &c.] Interpreters are divided with regard to the crime of Ham; but that which seems most consonant to reason is, that seeing the nakedness of his aged father, he made him the subject of his wanton mirth and raillery. Some are of opinion that Ham's crime consisted in committing incest with his father's wife; as the scripture phrase, to see or uncover his father's nakedness, signifies to lie with his father's wife. He supposes that Ham took the opportunity of his father's drunkenness, to execute his wicked design; that his brethren, having surprised him in the act, threw their garments over him and his accomplice, and then went and gave an account to their father of all they had seen: that Noah, highly enraged at this base action, ordered that Canaan, the issue of that incestuous commerce, should be wholly deprived of the inheritance. The text may be explained easily, if we consider the passage as a prophecy, which Noah then uttered, in order to mortify his wicked son, by foretelling that his violation of filial duty, would be retaliated upon him in the wretchedness and degeneracy of his children, particularly of Canaan's race. Nor will this appear at all forced, when it is considered that the words in the original are only "cursed Canaan," as much as to say, ah, wretched, ill-fated Canaan! "A servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren."

26 Blessed be, &c.] If we refer the word "blessed," directly to Shem, as the word "cursed," is to the father of Canaan, the words may be rendered, "blessed of Jehovah, my God, be Shem;" or, if we follow our own translation, we may observe the patriarch does not say, "blessed be Shem," as he said, "cursed be," &c.

Before CHRIST 2347. 27 God ſhall enlarge Japheth, and he ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem: and Canaan ſhall be his ſervant.

28 ¶ And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

29 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years: and he died.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

We cannot help inſerting here, the following practical remarks. It is one excellence of the holy ſcriptures, as well as a mark of their veracity, that they relate the frailties of good men, ſo as to make them an uſeful example of inſtruction to us, in all circumſtances. In the ſcriptures we find no flattering and extravagant praiſes of its worthies, no abſolute perfection is attributed to them, their faults are recorded as well as their virtues. Noah, we learn, had kept himſelf undefiled from all the pollutions of the old world; it is recorded of him, that even God himſelf ſaid to him, "Thee have I ſeen righteous before me in this generation." But we here find him giving way to intemperance, and overcome with wine. Uſeful example to us of perpetual caution, and to keep a conſtant guard over ourſelves, leſt, when we think we ſhall ſtand, we may ſhamefully fall. Inſtructive example too, of the deceitfulneſs of ſtrong drink, and how unawares it intoxicates and overthrows all the powers of the human reaſon; and of conſequence how much it behoves us to be upon our guard againſt its enticements; and that we "look not upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itſelf aright. for at the laſt it biteth like a ſerpent, and ſtingeth like an adder." Its fatal miſchiefs ſteal upon us like a treacherous enemy, unnoticed and unmaſked: Who hath woe? (ſays the wiſe man) who hath ſorrow? who hath contentions? who hath babblings? who hath wounds without cauſe? They that tarry long at the wine. It maketh the eyes to behold ſtrange women, and the heart to utter perverſe things.

We may further obſerve in this place, that the ſcriptures never mention any wickedneſs, without remarking the deceitfulneſs of ſin; that it never gives us what it promiſeth us, but the direct contrary. We have already ſeen how much all Cain's hopes and expectations from the murder of his brother failed him; inſtead of honour, and praiſe, and pleaſure, and ſatisfaction, which it promiſed him, it gave him nothing but diſgrace, and want, and trouble, and anguiſh of mind, and bitterneſs of ſoul. Noah expected pleaſure, joy, and gladneſs of heart, from indulging in wine, but found himſelf thereby, made a deriſion to his children, and experienced diſguſt, and ſhame, and anguiſh.

It is a great truth, and the holy ſcriptures inculcate it, that ſin always brings its puniſhment in its conſequences, and that it never profiteth: "When ye were the ſervants of ſin, what profit had you?"—We ſhall always find that ſin will beguile us, and produce the contrary of what it promiſeth us.

CHAP. X.

1 The generations of Noah. 2 The ſons of Japheth. 6 The ſons of Ham; Nimrod the firſt monarch; 15 Canaan's deſcendants, and their ſettlement. 21 The ſons of Shem.

NOW theſe are the generations of the ſons of Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and unto them were ſons born after the flood.

2 ¶ The ſons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meſhech, and Tiras. Before CHRIST 2347.

3 And the ſons of Gomer; Aſhkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 And the ſons of Javan; Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim, and Dodanim.

5 By theſe were the iſles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations.

6 ¶ And the ſons of Ham; Cuſh, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan.

7 And the ſons of Cuſh; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtechah: and the ſons of Raamah, Sheba, and Dedan.

8 And Cuſh begat Nimrod: he began to be a mighty one in the earth. 2128.

9 He was a mighty hunter before the LORD: wherefore it is ſaid, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

10 And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

11 Out of the land went forth Aſſhur, and builded Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12 And Reſen between Nineveh and Calah: the ſame is a great city.

13 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim,

14 And Pathruſim, and Caſluhim, (out of whom came Philiſtim,) and Caphtorim.

15 ¶ And Canaan begat Sidon his firſt born, and Heth,

16 And the Jebuſite, and the Amorite, and the Girgaſite,

17 And the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite,

18 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite: and afterward were the families of the Canaanites ſpread abroad.

19 And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon as thou comeſt to Gerar unto Gaza; as thou goeſt unto Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, even unto Laſha.

20 Theſe are the ſons of Ham, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

21 ¶ Unto Shem alſo, the father of all the children of Eber, the brother of Japheth the elder, even to him were children born.

22 The children of Shem, Elam, and Aſſhur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram.

The Lord being called the "God of Shem," intimates he would be ſo in a particular manner; and accordingly, the church of God was among the poſterity of Shem for many generations; and of them, Rom. ix. 5. as concerning the fleſh, came Chriſt.

27 God ſhall enlarge Japheth] That is, God ſhall enlarge the bounds of the countries poſſeſſed by the children of Japheth; a prediction which was fully accompliſhed; for not only Europe, but Leſſer Aſia, Media, part of Armenia, Iberia, Albania, and the vaſt regions towards the north, antiently inhabited by the Scythians, but now by the Tartars, fell to the ſhare of his poſterity.

He ſhall dwell in the Tents of Shem, &c.] That is, ſome of the countries of Shem ſhall be poſſeſſed by the deſcendants of Japheth, a prediction fully accompliſhed, when the Medes and Babylonians overthrew the Aſſyrian empire, and the Greeks and Romans conquered that part of Aſia belonging to Shem.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. X.

1 Generations, &c.] It is to be obſerved, that though this chapter be placed before the eleventh, yet, in order of time, it ought to follow; for the foundation of Nimrod's kingdom, and the diſperſion of mankind through the different regions of the earth, are facts poſterior to the confuſion of Babel, in chap. xi.

This genealogy is of ſingular advantage to confirm the truth of Moſes's hiſtory, by giving an account of the ſucceſſion of mankind from the creation to the flood, and from the flood to his own time; ſhewing from whom all nations were derived, and how they came to be diſperſed. Beſides, by tracing theſe genealogies, we come to know how exactly the predictions in the former chapter, relating to Noah, were fulfilled.

5 Iſles of the Gentiles, &c.] We are not to underſtand by the word "iſles," only ſuch countries as are ſurrounded by the ſea, but all ſuch countries as were divided from the land of Canaan by the ſea; for the word which we tranſlate "iſle," ſignifies alſo a country, region, or province.

8 He began to be a mighty one, &c.] The original, tranſlated "a mighty one," or powerful, is differently rendered by the antient verſions; the Septuagint tranſlate it "a giant," an appellation in ſcripture, applied to perſons of prodigious ſtature and ſtrength, and likewiſe to ſuch who delighted in martial toils, in barbarity, and wickedneſs. The Chaldee renders the word "a robuſt man." But the Syriac and the Arabic confirm the reading of the Septuagint, and ſeem to include, under the term, the ideas of immenſe ſtature, extraordinary ſtrength, and inſatiate barbarity.

9 He was a mighty hunter before the Lord, &c.] That is, he taught the people to chaſe and deſtroy the wild beaſts. And if we conſider that men now dwelt in tents, weakly defended, and conſequently expoſed to the ravages of wild beaſts, we ſhall not be ſurpriſed that Nimrod, by delivering his aſſociates from theſe ſavage enemies, ſhould ſo far gain their affection, that it was an eaſy tranſition to raiſe himſelf from the ſtate in which he was conſidered as their friend and benefactor, to the ſovereign authority. He ſeems to have been a very tyrannical prince, his very name ſignifying a rebel, an apoſtate. He was the founder of the Babyloniſh empire, whence the prophet Micah calls it "the land of Nimrod."

10 The beginning of his kingdom was Babel, &c.] We may, by this expreſſion, underſtand either that Babylon was the firſt city that he built, or the capital of his kingdom. He began his reign in the year of the world one thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty-ſeven, and reigned about one hundred and forty-eight years.

2247. 25 And unto Eber were born two sons: the name of one was Peleg; for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Joktan.

26 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah,

27 And Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah,

28 And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba,

29 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all these were the sons of Joktan.

30 And their dwelling was from Mesha, as thou goest unto Sephar, a mount of the east.

31 These are the sons of Shem, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations: and by these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

In the latter part of this chapter, we see the origin of all the different nations now on the earth; which may teach us to look upon all men, of whatever country or nation, however different in manners and customs, with respect, brotherly good nature, and affection. For, in reality, however separated, we are all brethren, as being descended from one and the same stock, or family.

CHAP. XI.

1 One language in the world. 3 The building of Babel interrupted by the confusion of tongues. 10 The generations of Shem, 27 and of Terah the father of Abram. 31 Terah goeth from Ur to Haran, and dieth there.

AND the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech.

2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there.

3 ¶ And they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and burn them throughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar.

4 And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth. Before CHRIST 2247.

5 And the LORD came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded.

6 And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do.

7 Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech.

8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city.

9 Therefore is the name of it called Babel: because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

10 ¶ These are the generations of Shem; Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood:

11 And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. 2346.

12 And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, and begat Salah: 2311.

13 And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

14 And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber: 2281.

15 And Salah lived after he begat Eber four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

16 And Eber lived four and thirty years, and begat Peleg: 2247.

17 And Eber lived after he begat Peleg four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.

18 And Peleg lived thirty years and begat Reu: 2217.

19 And Peleg lived after he begat Reu two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters.

20 And Reu lived two and thirty years, and begat Serug. 2185.

---

25 Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided, &c.] Abram was descended from this son of Eber. His name was called Peleg, which implies "division," because about the time of his birth, the great dispersion of mankind, related in the succeeding chapter, happened. From the deluge to Peleg's birth, is that period which the antient poets call the golden age, because then men enjoyed all things in common; and Noah, whom they call Saturn, governed them, not as kings do their subjects, but as parents their children.

27 Hadoram.] Some footsteps of this name, it is thought, are preserved in the Drimoti of Pliny, towards the Persian gulf.

Uzal, &c.] This is the name given to Sanaa, the capital of Yaman, by the Jews who dwelt there.

28 Obal.] The Arabic pronunciation is Aubal, whose posterity passed the Arabian gulf, out of Arabia Felix, into that part of Africa, called Troglodytica, where we meet with some traces of his name, in the gulf named Abalites, and a great trading town of the same name.

Abimael, &c.] Which the Arabians pronounce Ahimal, i. e. the father of the Mali or Malitæ, a people in Arabia, mentioned by Ptolomy and others. So that Mali is probably the contraction of Abimali, as Salem for Jerusalem.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XI.

1 Of one language, &c.] The language now universally spoke, is allowed to be the same with that used by Adam, from whom it might easily be communicated to Methuselah, and from him to his grandson Noah, who propagated it among his posterity to this time.

2 And they found a plain in the land of Shinar, &c.] The plain here mentioned, is situated on the banks of the Tigris, and is supposed to comprehend the whole country of Eden, the happy seat of man in a state of innocence.

3 Slime they had for mortar.] The slime here mentioned, is the asphaltites, or what some authors call bitumen, a kind of liquid pitch. Suidas says, that this cement, being mixed with bricks and small stones, became as strong as iron.

4 Let us build us a city, and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven] Some interpreters are of opinion, that the raising a tower to heaven implies, erecting a temple in honour to heaven, or the heavenly bodies. It has also been conjectured, that this tower was consecrated, by the builders of it, to the sun, as the cause of drying up the waters of the deluge. Others, with better authority, think they began a strong city.

Let us make us a name, &c.] That is, let us render our name famous among future generations, by some monument that may command their admiration. Thus we see ambition was what animated them to undertake this laborious task. They had no sooner fixed on a place to settle in, but they determined to render it remarkable to future ages, by building a strong city, which should be the wonder of the world. Their intention was to settle here, and build an useless monument for fame, instead of replenishing the earth, as was then necessary; and therefore God, in his wisdom, scattered them abroad.

5 The Lord came down, &c.] That is, he observed their works, and knew the intention of their hearts.

6 And now nothing will be restrained from them, &c.] The true sense is evidently this. And now nothing will hinder them from executing their project, unless I interpose, or rather, they imagine to do as they will.

7 Let us go down, and there confound their language, &c.] We have here an account of a transaction which has greatly perplexed the heathen philosophers, namely, how mankind came to speak such a multiplicity of languages. But the sacred historian has cleared up this difficulty, by shewing us that it was effected by the same almighty power, which taught our first parents to speak one tongue in the beginning, and, in after ages, inspired the apostles of our blessed Redeemer, with the gift of many.

8 And they left off to build the city.] This structure, however, long remained a monument of human vanity. Herodotus, who viewed the building attentively, tells us, that it was a square of a furlong on each side, and consequently half a mile in circumference. The height was equal to the circumference of the base, and divided into eight towers, built one upon another; but probably what made it appear like eight towers, was, the manner of its ascent, which was a circular, or winding way, carried round the outside of the building to its highest point. This ascent was so very broad, that it afforded room for horses, and carriages to pass by each other, and even to turn: and the towers, which appeared like so many stories, one upon another, were each of them seventy-five feet high, containing many stately rooms, with arched roofs, supported by pillars, which were made parts of the temple, after the tower was consecrated to the worship of false gods.

9 The name of it called Babel, &c.] Which is not that tower which was built by Belus, and which perpetuated his name to future ages; for that was a production of great art: whereas this tower of Babel cannot well be imagined to have been any other but a rude, mountainous structure, raised with no great art, by a multitude of untaught, and unexperienced builders.

1996. 27 ¶ Now these are the generations of Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran begat Lot.
28 And Haran died before his father Terah in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees.
29 And Abram and Nahor took them wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; and the name of Nahor's wife, Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah.
30 But Sarai was barren; she had no child.
1923. 31 ¶ And Terah took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter in law, his son Abram's wife; and they went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there.
1921. 32 And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years: and Terah died in Haran.

General Reflections on Chap. XI.

We may observe, in the above chapter, a remarkable particular: the great decrease of the number of years of man's life after the flood. Many are of opinion, that this proceeded from an alteration in the air, and other natural causes: however, we have reason to think it an act of great wisdom in God. For, had the lives of men been continued to the length they were at first, the earth would, in a course of years, have been overstocked; whereas now, life and death keep nearly an equal pace with each other. Besides this, it is highly probable, that the great length of the lives of those before the flood made men insolent, and thoughtless of any thing but the present world; and therefore the shortening of the lives of men, without doubt, was an act of great benevolence as well as wisdom, and contributed to make them less vain of their own strength, and to reflect that they were but weak mortal creatures, beings, as it were, of a day.

CHAP. XII.

Before CHRIST 1921.

1 God calleth Abram, and blesseth him with a promise of Christ. 4 He with Lot departeth from Haran. 6 He journeyeth through Canaan, which is promised him in a vision. 10 He is driven by a famine into Egypt, where fear maketh him feign his wife to be his sister. 14 Pharaoh taketh her into his house, but by plagues is compelled to restore her; and sendeth Abram away.

NOW the LORD had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:
2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing:
3 And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.
4 ¶ So Abram departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.
5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and into the land of Canaan they came.
6 ¶ And Abram passed through the land into the place of Sichem, unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite was then in the land.
7 And the LORD appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.
8 And he removed from thence unto a mount on the east of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai on the east: and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.
9 And Abram journeyed, going on still toward the south.
10 ¶ And

26 And Terah lived seventy years, and begat Abram, &c.] This is the first time that we meet with Abram, the father of the faithful, and though he is named first, does not appear to be the eldest, but rather Haran; nay, it seems pretty plain, that Abram was not born until the hundred and thirtieth year of his father's life, for Terah was two hundred and five years old when he died, ver. 32. and Abram was but seventy-five years of age when he went out of Haran to Canaan, chap. xii. 4. and that was as soon as his father died there; and so that if seventy-five were taken out of two hundred and five, there will remain one hundred and thirty, in which year, and not before, Abram must be born: the wife of Terah, of whom Abram was born, according to some Jewish writers, was named Chamtelaah, the daughter of Carnebo; and others call her Amthalai: the Jews say Terah was the first that found out the way of coining money, and that in his days men began to worship images, and that he was the chief of their priests, but afterwards repented; and that he was an idolater, appears from Josh. xxiv. 2.

28 And Haran died before his father Terah] In his father's presence, before his face, in his life-time, as Jarchi; he seeing him, as Aben Ezra: It does not so much respect the time of his death, that it was before his father, though this is true, as the place where he died, his father being present there, at the time this was.

In the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees.] Ur, which some translate a valley, was the place of his birth, as it was of Abram's; it was in Mesopotamia, that part of it next to Assyria, being called the land of the Chaldeans. Josephus says, that Haran died among the Chaldeans, in a city called Ur, where, he adds, his grave is shewn to this day. The Jews have a fable concerning the death of Haran: they say that Terah was not only an idolater, but a maker and seller of images; and that one day going abroad, he left his son Abram in the shop, to sell them, who, during his father's absence, broke them all to pieces, except one; upon which, when Terah returned and found what was done, he had him before Nimrod, who ordered him to be cast into a burning furnace, and he should see whether the God he worshipped would come and save him; and whilst he was in it, they asked his brother Haran in whom he believed? he answered, if Abram overcomes, he would believe in his God, but if not, in Nimrod; wherefore they cast him into the furnace, and he was burnt; and with respect to this it is said, "and Haran died before the face of Terah his father," but Abram came out safe before the eyes of them all.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XII.

1 Had said unto Abram] The Almighty had revealed himself to Abram before his father's death, while he lived in Ur of the Chaldees; but probably it was by a voice, the Shechinah, or symbol of the Divine presence; for Stephen expresly says, The God of glory appeared unto him before he dwelt in Haran, Acts vii. 2.

Get thee out, &c.] As the Lord did not shew him whither he was to go, the readiness with which he complied, added to the merit of his faith, as appears from Heb. xi. 8. "He went out, not knowing whither he went."

3 And in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed.] This part of the promise is remarkable, as containing the proper end of God's choice, and separation of him and his posterity, and so very fitly made, by the sacred writer, the foundation of the history of God's dispensations to him, and a mark to direct the reader to what they are all ultimately to be referred.

5 The souls that they had gotten, &c.] The word rendered "souls," signifies "persons, or servants," and the word translated "gotten," signifies "to secure or get possession of." The sentence, therefore, implies "domestics, or servants." The Jews add, which the text seems to countenance, that these servants were proselyted to the belief of the true God.

6 The place of Sichem, &c.] That is, the spot where Sichem was built afterwards. "The plain of Moreh," is the sense of the Chaldee, but the Hebrew signifies, "the oak of Moreh;" the Septuagint read, "the lofty oak," but the Syriac and Arabic, "the oak of Mamre." This place was probably grown with oaks, or remarkable for an exceeding high one. The Samaritan will bear the sense of "the valley of vision," which sense the Vulgate supports, by rendering "the illustrious valley." The faith of Abram is strongly recommended, by his venturing into these parts, which were settled or invaded by the Canaanites, a cruel and savage people.

7 Unto thy seed, &c.] Abraham, at his first leaving his father's house, entirely resigned himself to the disposal of heaven, without knowing for certain whither he was to go. When he was come into the land of Canaan, his faith was rewarded by God, with a farther revelation of his will, and he was now told that this was the land which God said he would shew him, and which was to be inherited by his seed.

8 And called, &c.] The Chaldee renders these words, "he prayed in the name of God;" to distinguish his addresses and his

Before CHRIST 1921. 10 ¶ And there was a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt to ſojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.

11 And it came to paſs, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he ſaid unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon.

12 Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, when the Egyptians ſhall ſee thee, that they ſhall ſay, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will ſave thee alive.

13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my ſiſter: that it may be well with me for thy ſake; and my ſoul ſhall live becauſe of thee.

1920. 14 ¶ And it came to paſs, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that ſhe was very fair.

15 The princes alſo of Pharaoh ſaw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's houſe.

16 And he entreated Abram well for her ſake: and he had ſheep, and oxen, and he aſſes, and menſervants, and maidſervants, and ſhe aſſes, and camels.

17 And the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his houſe with great plagues becauſe of Sarai Abram's wife.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and ſaid, What is this that thou haſt done unto me? why didſt thou not tell me that ſhe was thy wife?

19 Why ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? ſo I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him: and they ſent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

We may here ſee that the world was not as yet become ſo corrupt and full of violence ſince the flood, as it had been before. We find in Pharaoh, and afterwards in the caſe of Abimelech, on the like occaſion, a kind of integrity of mind, love of juſtice, even to ſtrangers, and reſpect for the ſacredneſs of the marriage union, even in kings who had power in their hands to do what they would. From this, and Abram's travelling unmoleſted through different countries, we are of opinion, that the Egyptians, and ſeveral other kingdoms, ſtill continued in the worſhip of the true God.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Abram and Lot return out of Egypt. 7 On a ſtrife between their ſervants they agree to part. 10 Lot goeth to Sodom. 14 God reneweth his promiſe to Abram. 18 He removeth to Hebron, and there buildeth an altar.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the ſouth.

2 And Abram was very rich in cattle, in ſilver, and in gold. Before CHRIST 1918.

3 And he went on his journeys from the ſouth even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai;

4 Unto the place of the altar, which he had made there at the firſt: and there Abram called on the name of the LORD.

5 And Lot alſo, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their ſubſtance was great, ſo that they could not dwell together.

7 ¶ And there was a ſtrife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

8 And Abram ſaid unto Lot, Let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren.

9 Is not the whole land before thee? ſeparate thyſelf, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

10 ¶ And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comeſt unto Zoar.

11 Then Lot choſe him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed eaſt: and they ſeparated themſelves the 1917. one from the other.

12 Abram dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were wicked and ſinners before the LORD exceedingly.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Abram, after that Lot was ſeparated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and weſtward:

15 For all the land which thou ſeeſt, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed for ever.

16 And I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the earth: ſo that if a man can number the duſt of the earth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be numbered.

17 Ariſe, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for I will give it unto thee.

18 ¶ Then Abram removed his tent, and came and dwelt in the plain of Mamre, which is in Hebron, and built there an altar unto the LORD.

confidence towards the true God, from thoſe of the ſurrounding idolaters.

10 Went down into Egypt, &c.] This kingdom is repreſented as abounding in corn, and capable of relieving others in a time of famine, which no kingdom can do, where agriculture has not been improved by art, and regulated by a civil policy.

13 Say—thou art my ſiſter, &c] This action of Abram has been ſeverely cenſured by ſeveral of the antient fathers; but Sarai was in reality his ſiſter, both having the ſame father, though a different mother. The Chaldee renders "becauſe of thee," by "becauſe of thy words."

17 The Lord plagued Pharaoh] To prevent abuſe, God inflicted ſome terrible diſtemper upon the king and his court, which is thought to have been of ſuch a nature, that they who were ſeized with it, were rendered incapable to enjoy her, or any other woman. Joſephus ſays Pharaoh was viſited with a plague and ſedition at once, and that in this diſtreſs he had recourſe to the prieſts, who, upon ſacrificing, reported that this calamity was befallen him for the violence and abuſe he deſigned upon the wife of a ſtranger.

Becauſe of Sarai, Abram's wife.] We are apt to imagine, that becauſe Pharaoh clears himſelf of any intention to violate a married woman, he was therefore quite innocent in this matter. But it was an argument of very intemperate luſt, to deſire and ſeize on a ſtrange woman, merely becauſe ſhe was commended for her beauty. He was guilty in taking from a ſtranger his ſuppoſed ſiſter, to make her his concubine, thus breaking all the ſacred laws of hoſpitality.

20 And Pharaoh, &c.] Here is no mention made of Abram's reply by way of excuſe, he having doubtleſs been ſenſible of his weakneſs in that particular, and acknowledged the ſame freely, together with the ſpecial favor of the Lord, in managing the whole buſineſs to ſuch an iſſue.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XIII.

4 And called on the name of the Lord.] See ch. viii. 12.

6 The land was not able to bear them, &c.] This was not ſo much owing to its want of fruitfulneſs, as want of room, it being already ſettled by other nations.

8 And Abram ſaid unto Lot, let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, &c.] How ready was Abram to prevent all kinds of animoſity! To prevent any miſunderſtanding between him and Lot, he propoſes a friendly ſeparation; nor does he propoſe even this, without adding an endearing reaſon, "for we be brethren."

10 As thou comeſt unto Zoar.] Zoar was not in the land of Egypt, but at a prodigious diſtance from it. But if we inſert the words, "even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt," in a parentheſis, then the meaning of the verſe will amount to this; that before the Lord deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, the plain of Jordan was like a delightful garden, well watered, even to the utmoſt ſkirts of the plain, where Zoar was ſituated. But if, with the Syriac verſion, inſtead of Zoar, we read Zoan, the antient ſeat of the kings of Egypt, Numb. xii. 22. which ſtood in the ſouth part of it, in a country well watered, the true import of the paſſage will be this; that the plain of Jordan, before the Lord deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, was well watered every where; yea, the plain was ſo well watered, that it was like the garden of Eden, or the land of Egypt, and particularly as thou goeſt to Zoan.

13 Sinners before the Lord, &c.] Abominably wicked. This is added to prepare the reader for their terrible cataſtrophe, related ch. xviii.

14, 15 Look from the place, &c.] Every ſucceſſive revelation given to Abram, was a reward of his piety, and clearer than that which preceded. Thus God marks out the bounds of the land, which he aſſured him ſhould be given to him, and his ſeed for ever; which ſeed ſhould be as the duſt of the earth for number.

Before CHRIST 1917.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIII.

The above chapter naturally furniſhes us with this reflection, that Love is called, in the New Teſtament, the royal law, the fulfilling of the law, Rom. xii. ult. and is accounted one of the two pillars on which hang all the law and the prophets. Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, the light of the world, our true inſtructor, after having told men, "that to love the Lord our God with all our heart, and with all our ſoul, and with all our mind, is the firſt and great commandment," adds, "and the ſecond is like unto it, thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf."

What great inducement is here to be kind and affectionate to each other, to avoid ſtrife, contention, and quarrelling, to love as brethren: how inſtructive is Abram's behaviour! Though he was the elder, and might juſtly claim ſome ſuperiority over Lot, yet how nobly and modeſtly does he give it up! "Separate thyſelf, I pray thee, from me; if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left."

What a noble example have we of modeſty and condeſcenſion; to give up what may be our juſt due, for the ſake of brotherly love; to be humble, how great ſoever our ſtation; and to be kind and ſubmitting upon all occaſions!

CHAP. XIV.

1 The battle of four kings againſt five. 12 Lot is taken priſoner. 14 Abram reſcueth Lot, 17 Is met by the king of Sodom, and bleſſed by Melchizedek, to whom he giveth tithe. 21 He reſtoreth the reſt of the ſpoil to the king of Sodom, except the portion of his confederates.

AND it came to paſs in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellaſar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of the nations;

2 That theſe made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birſha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shemeber king or Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar.

3 All theſe were joined together in the vale of Siddim, which is the ſalt ſea.

4 Twelve years they ſerved Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

5 And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and ſmote the Rephaims in Aſhteroth Karnaim, and the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in Shaveh Kiriathaim,

6 And the Horites in their mount Seir, unto Elparan, which is by the wilderneſs.

7 And they returned, and came to Enmiſhpat, which is Kadeſh, and ſmote all the country of the Amalekites, and alſo the Amorites, that dwelt in Hazezon-tamar.

8 And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (the ſame is Zoar;) and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim;

9 With Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellaſar; four kings with five.

10 And the vale of Siddim was full of ſlimepits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there; and they that remained fled to the mountain. Before CHRIST 1917.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way. 1913.

12 ¶ And they took Lot, Abram's brother's ſon, and who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.

13 And there came one that had eſcaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother to Eſhcol, and brother of Aner: and theſe were confederate with Abram.

14 ¶ And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he armed his trained ſervants, born in his own houſe, three hundred and eighteen, and purſued them unto Dan.

15 And he divided himſelf againſt them, he and his ſervants, by night, and ſmote them, and purſued them unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damaſcus.

16 And he brought back all the goods, and alſo brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women alſo, and the people.

17 ¶ And the king of Sodom went out to meet him after his return from the ſlaughter of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings that were with him, at the valley of Shaveh, which is the king's dale.

18 And Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was the prieſt of the moſt high God.

19 And he bleſſed him, and ſaid, Bleſſed be Abram of the moſt high God, poſſeſſor of heaven and earth:

20 And bleſſed be the moſt high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him tithes of all.

21 ¶ And the king of Sodom ſaid unto Abram, Give me the perſons, and take the goods to thyſelf.

22 And Abram ſaid to the king of Sodom, I have lift up mine hand unto the LORD, the moſt high God, the poſſeſſor of heaven and earth,

23 That I will not take from a thread even to a ſhoe-latchet, and that I will not take any thing that is thine, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, I have made Abram rich:

24 Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me, Aner, Eſhcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIV.

In this chapter is an inſtance, as there are many in other places, of particulars omitted in Moſes' narration, which are to be underſtood or gathered from the circumſtances. For it is plain, from the laſt verſes, that ſome of the neighbouring people had joined Abram in the purſuit of the kings, although Moſes has not given the leaſt indication of it in the narrative.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIV.

1 Shinar, &c.] That is, Babylon; Elaſſar is Syria; Elamis, Perſia; nations of a country inhabited by many nations; perhaps the ſame with that artery ards called Galilee. Joſh. xii. 23.

10 Full of ſlimepits, &c.] Pits or wells of bitumen, with which the country abounded.

12 And they took Lot—who dwelt in Sodom, &c.] Lot being a neighbour of the men of Sodom, and a ſojourner among them, partakes of their puniſhment, he and his family being taken captives, and all his ſubſtance, his cattle, wealth, and riches of every ſort, were carried off by the invaders: and that was a juſt correction of him, for being allured by temporal conveniences, to dwell among ſuch a wicked people.

13 Abram the Hebrew, &c.] The word "Heber," rendered "the Hebrew," ſignifies "the ſide," and accordingly the Septuagint tranſlate it, "the ſtranger from beyond the river:" an appellation given by the Canaanites to Abram and his family, from their coming, "from the other ſide of the Euphrates."

18 Melchizedek.] Some think it was Shem. But can it be thought that Shem ſhould reign over the children of Ham? Shem's progenitors were known, but Melchizedek's were not, Heb. vii. Beſides, Abram paid his tythes to one who was of a different family, Heb. vii. 6. conſequently Melchizedek could not be Shem. Some of the antient writers took him for the Son of God, who appeared to Abram in the form of a man; while others ſay, how could the Son of God be a type of himſelf, as the apoſtle plainly tells us Melchizedek was a type of Chriſt. Heb. vii. 3. Some ſuppoſe him to be Ham; and others, one of the princes of Canaan, who, on account of his ſingular virtue and piety, was called Melchizedek, that is, king of righteouſneſs, which the Arabic tranſlates as his character, not his name.

King of Salem.] By Salem, moſt commentators, and the Chaldee, underſtand Jeruſalem, which is called Salem in ſcripture. "In Salem, alſo, is his tabernacle, and his dwelling place in Zion." Pſal. lxxvi. 2.

He was the prieſt of the moſt high God.] The word "cohen," tranſlated prieſt, ſignifies a high-prieſt, and a nobleman; it was probably borrowed from the Egyptians; the Hebrews having no order of prieſthood before that inſtituted by Moſes. It is uſed here with great propriety to communicate the idea of the dignity as well as ſacredneſs of Melchizedek's character.

20 And he gave him tithes of all.] i. e. Abram, as it is explained, Heb. xvii. 2. gave Melchizedek, as the prieſt of God, the tenth of all the ſpoil he had taken in the battle, according to the cuſtom of thoſe times, Gen. xxxviii. 22. Thoſe tithes were thus conſecrated to God; they were ſet apart for the maintenance of religion, for the relief of the poor, and other pious uſes.

CHAP. XV.

1 God encourageth Abram, who complaineth for want of an heir. 4 God promiſeth him a ſon, and a numerous ſeed. 6 He is juſtified by his faith. 7 The promiſe of Canaan is renewed, and confirmed to him by a ſign and a viſion.

AFTER theſe things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a viſion, ſaying, Fear not, Abram: I am thy ſhield, and thy exceeding great reward.

2 And Abram ſaid, Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, ſeeing I go childleſs, and the ſteward of my houſe is this Eliezer of Damaſcus?

3 And Abram ſaid, Behold, to me thou haſt given no ſeed: and, lo, one born in my houſe is mine heir.

4 ¶ And, behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying, This ſhall not be thine heir; but he that ſhall come forth out of thine own bowels ſhall be thine heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and ſaid, Look now toward heaven, and tell the ſtars, if thou be able to number them: and he ſaid unto him, So ſhall thy ſeed be.

6 ¶ And he believed in the LORD; and he counted it to him for righteouſneſs.

7 ¶ And he ſaid unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it.

8 And he ſaid, Lord GOD, whereby ſhall I know that I ſhall inherit it?

9 And he ſaid unto him, Take me an heifer of three years old, and a ſhe goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle dove, and a young pigeon.

10 And he took unto him all theſe, and divided them in the midſt, and laid each piece one againſt another: but the birds divided he not.

11 And when the fowls came down upon the carcaſes, Abram drove them away.

12 ¶ And when the ſun was going down, a deep ſleep fell upon Abram; and, lo, an horror of great darkneſs fell upon him.

13 And he ſaid unto Abram, Know of a ſurety that thy ſeed ſhall be a ſtranger in a land that is not theirs, and ſhall ſerve them; and they ſhall afflict them four hundred years; Before CHRIST 1913.

14 And alſo that nation, whom they ſhall ſerve, will I judge: and afterward ſhall they come out with great ſubſtance.

15 And thou ſhalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou ſhalt be buried in a good old age.

16 But in the fourth generation they ſhall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.

17 And it came to paſs, that, when the ſun went down, and it was dark, behold a ſmoaking furnace, and a burning lamp that paſſed between thoſe pieces.

18 In the ſame day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, ſaying, Unto thy ſeed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates:

19 The Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites,

20 And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims,

21 And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Jebuſites.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

In this chapter we have a clear proof of God's knowing what will come to paſs through all times; and that however much the affairs of the world may ſeem to be ordered and governed by the inhabitants of the earth, yet that God's providence ſuperintends and directs in all. Here we have the ſtate of a particular nation marked out for four hundred years to come, and diſtinguiſhed by very remarkable events, of which there were then no appearance. It is the incommunicable character of God, to ſee into futurity. In the ſcriptures we often find him challenging the falſe deities to foretel what is to come: "Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know ye are gods," Iſaiah xli. 23, &c.

We may likewiſe further obſerve, that theſe events came to paſs ſeemingly by accident, and in the natural courſe of things, though it is plain God ordered them; and therefore we have reaſon to conclude, that God at all times, and in all countries, and even families, does order thoſe frequent changes, revolutions, and events, which happen to them, as beſt ſuits with the purpoſes of his infinite wiſdom and goodneſs, though they all ſeem to us to happen by natural cauſes, and as it were by chance.

Thus we may obſerve, that the ſeed of Abram were not, nor did they return into the land of Canaan, till it became fit, in the wiſdom of God's providence, or government of the world, to puniſh the iniquity of the Amorites, then come to ſuch a height, that it was not conſiſtent with God's wiſdom or juſtice to ſuffer them to go any longer unpuniſhed.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XV.

1, 2, 3, 4 Fear not, Abram, &c.] After the gracious and repeated aſſurances of a numerous poſterity, Abram was now grown uneaſy at his wife's barrenneſs, and his own want of iſſue to inherit the promiſes. Accordingly, we find him diſturbed with thoſe apprehenſions; and that God, to remove them, appeared to him, in a viſion, and ſaid, "Fear not, Abram, &c." That his fears were not occaſioned from any apprehenſions of danger from the nations among whom he was ſettled; but ſolely for the reaſon aſſigned, is evident, as appears from the words immediately following. For Abram being thus encouraged to tell his grief, confeſſed it to be for want of iſſue, and for that he ſuſpected the promiſed bleſſings were to be inherited by his adopted children, the ſons of his ſervant Eliezer of Damaſcus.

9 And he believed, &c.] Though his wife had been long barren, was very much advanced in years, and it was contrary to the courſe of nature for him to expect children; yet, againſt hope, he believed in God; and on account of the ſtrength of his faith, which had ſo many objections to weaken it, he ſhewed he had a true idea of the divine veracity and omnipotence; and it was pleaſing in the ſight of God.

10 Divided them, &c.] St. Cyril, St. Chryſoſtom, and others, aſſert, that the ancient manner of making alliances at this time, was, to divide the victims into two parts, and to lay them on two altars oppoſite each other; after which, the contracting parties walked between, ſignifying, that the party which violated the covenant ſhould be cut aſunder as the victim was. Jeremiah alludes to this cuſtom, chap. xxxiv. 18, 19. and conformed to it by paſſing between the altars in the ſimilitude of a camp. ver. 17.

11 When the fowls came down, &c.] The Hebrew, as well as the Septuagint, ſignify, he placed the birds upon the quarters or carcaſes of the victims, in the ſame manner as the ſacrifices in Leviticus are ordered to be covered with fat. The word we tranſlate "drove away," ſignifies, when read according to the Vulgate, "to breathe upon or whiſtle;" and alludes to the cuſtom obſerved in ſacrificing, which was either to play upon the flute, or to ſing an hymn. According to this interpretation, the ſenſe of this verſe is, that Abram placed the birds upon the quarters of the victims, and paſſed between the altars ſinging or playing on the flute, in honour of the covenant which the Lord made with him, by paſſing between the two victims in the form of a camp.

13 Four hundred years.] Theſe years muſt be counted from Iſaac's birth; for from the birth of Iſaac to that of Jacob were ſixty years; thence to the birth of Joſeph were ninety; thence to Joſeph's death, one hundred and ten years; thence to the birth of Moſes, ſixty years; and in the eightieth year of Moſes's life the children of Iſrael came out of Egypt. Theſe ſeveral ſums, added together, amount to four hundred years, the time determined by this viſion. Abram was now ſatisfied that the ſeed of his loins was to inherit the promiſes; but Sarai, being uneaſy on account of her ſterility, perſuaded her huſband to go in unto her hand-maid Hagar, the Egyptian. In this ſhe indulged her own vanity and ambition; ſhe would have a ſon whom ſhe might adopt, and ſhe flattered herſelf with being at the ſame time an inſtrument to promote the deſigns of Providence.

16 In the fourth generation] Reckoned from Jacob's deſcent into Egypt: Aaron and Moſes were the fourth deſcent from Levi, Exod. vi. 16, 18, 20.

The iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.] Hence we may learn, God is long ſuffering, and infinitely merciful, as well as infinitely juſt.

17 A ſmoaking furnace and a burning lamp, &c.] The Hebrew word ſignifies a lamp of fire, or lightning, and is uſed to ſignify the Shechina or divine preſence.

18 Unto thy ſeed.] The Lord, for the farther aſſurance of Abram, having inſtructed him in the various fortunes of his poſterity, ver. 13, 14. he more particularly marks out the bounds of the promiſed land, and reckons up the ſeveral nations which then inhabited it. And Moſes, by this anecdote, animates the Iſraelites to undertake the conqueſt of their dominions.

19 The Kenites, &c.] Some, for want of obſerving the forementioned diſtinction, both the poſſeſſion and dominion promiſed to the Iſraelites, have taken the Kenites for the deſcendants of Canaan. But what is ſaid of the Kenites, 1 Sam. xv. 6. is commonly underſtood of the Midianites, who ſhewed kindneſs to the children of Iſrael by the direction of Jethro, Moſes' father-in-law, Exod. xvi. 1. Numb. x. 29.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Sarai being barren giveth Hagar to Abram. 4 Hagar having conceived deſpiſeth her miſtreſs, and being hardly treated runneth away. 7 An angel ſendeth her back to ſubmit herſelf, and informeth her of her ſon's fortunes. 15 Iſhmael is born.

NOW Sarai Abram's wife bare him no children: and ſhe had an handmaid, an Egyptian, whoſe name was Hagar.

2 And Sarai ſaid unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD hath reſtrained me from bearing: I pray thee, go in unto my maid; it may be that I may obtain children by her. And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai.

1911. 3 And Sarai Abram's wife took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her huſband Abram to be his wife.

4 ¶ And he went in unto Hagar, and ſhe conceived: and when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, her miſtreſs was deſpiſed in her eyes.

5 And Sarai ſaid unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy boſom; and when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, I was deſpiſed in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee.

6 But Abram ſaid unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her as it pleaſeth thee. And when Sarai dealt hardly with her, ſhe fled from her face.

7 ¶ And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderneſs, by the fountain in the way to Shur.

8 And he ſaid, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence cameſt thou? and whither wilt thou go? And ſhe ſaid, I flee from the face of my miſtreſs Sarai.

9 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Return to thy miſtreſs, and ſubmit thyſelf under her hands.

10 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, I will multiply thy ſeed exceedingly, that it ſhall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and ſhalt bear a ſon, and ſhalt call his name Iſhmael; becauſe the LORD hath heard thy affliction.

12 And he will be a wild man; his hand will be againſt every man, and every man's hand againſt him; and he ſhall dwell in the preſence of all his brethren. Before CHRIST 1911.

13 And ſhe called the name of the LORD that ſpake unto her, Thou God ſeeſt me: for ſhe ſaid, Have I alſo here looked after him that ſeeth me?

14 Wherefore the well was called Beer-lahai-roi; behold, it is between Kadeſh and Bered.

15 ¶ And Hagar bare Abram a ſon: and Abram called his ſon's name, which Hagar bare, Iſhmael.

16 And Abram was fourſcore and ſix years old, 1910. when Hagar bare Iſhmael to Abraham.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI.

God knows all things; he underſtands what they will be, long before they happen; all the circumſtances of our lives, where we ſhall be placed on the earth, and the bounds of our habitation, are known to him before we are born. We have here, and in ſome of the following chapters, the diſtinguiſhing particulars of Iſhmael, and his deſcendants, to this very day, after the long ſpace of above three thouſand years: for it is to be remarked, that, according to the language of ſcripture, what is ſpoken of the head or founder of any people, muſt be underſtood to be ſpoken of his deſcendants likewiſe, and to be their general character, as well as his in particular.

CHAP. XVII.

1 God reneweth his covenant with Abram. 5 Abram's name is changed in token of greater bleſſings. 9 Circumciſion is inſtituted. 15 Sarai's name is changed, and Iſaac with the bleſſing of a numerous iſſue, promiſed her. 23 Abraham, his ſon Iſhmael, and all his men-ſervants are circumciſed.

AND when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and ſaid unto him, I am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou perfect.

2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and will multiply thee exceedingly.

3 And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, ſaying,

4 As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou ſhalt be a father of many nations.

5 ¶ Neither ſhall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name ſhall be Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

4 He went in unto Hagar, &c.] Abram not yet having had any ſpecial aſſurance that the promiſed ſeed ſhould ſpring from Sarai in particular, took Hagar to bed, thinking, perhaps, that God would fulfil his promiſe in this way.

11 Shall call his name Iſhmael, &c.] Iſhmael is derived from the Hebrew word Jiſhma, "he will hear," and El, "God;" which alludes to the words immediately following. The word rendered "affliction," ſignifies a cry or prayer cauſed by affliction: the Chaldee and Arabic render it "a prayer made in affliction;" and Joſephus, that Hagar prayed to God to pity her diſtreſs.

13 A wild man] In the original, "a wild-aſs-man," or one reſembling that creature, deſcribed Job xxxix. 5, 6, 7. This was fulfilled not only in Iſhmael himſelf, Gen. xxi. 20. but likewiſe by the Ituſeens, the men of Kedar, Job xxi. 17. and by the wild Arabs or Bedoweens, his deſcendants.

His hand ſhall be againſt every man] Iſhmael lived by prey in the wilderneſs, and his poſterity have continued to infeſt Arabia, and all the neighbouring countries, to this day, with their robberies and incurſions; and it is remarkable that they aſſign the hardſhips of Iſhmael as a reaſon for their juſtification.

He ſhall dwell in the preſence, &c.] The original word ſignifies, to "dwell in tents;" the Scenites formerly, and Bedoweens at preſent, do ſo. This clauſe of the prophecy was fulfilled in the perſon of Iſhmael, chap. xxv. 17. His poſterity likewiſe dwelt in the preſence of all their brethren, and ſtill continue a diſtinct people, and inhabited the country of their progenitors, notwithſtanding the perpetual enmity between them and the reſt of mankind: They were never reduced by the Perſians; neither could the Aſſyrians, Medes, or Macedonians, ſubdue them. Modern travellers ſtill aſſert their depredations and independency.

13 She called, &c.] The original ſignifies, ſhe called the name of Jehovah, that ſpake unto her, the God of viſion; for ſhe ſaid, What do I ſee here after the viſion? The vulgar explains the latter clauſe, by rendering it, Truly, I have ſeen the hinder parts of him that ſaw me. The Chaldee paraphraſes the whole thus: She prayed in the name of the Lord, who ſpake unto her; ſaying, Thou art a God that ſeeth all things; becauſe, ſhe ſaid, I began to ſee, after he appeared unto me. But the Arabic reads, She called the name of God, that converſed with her, Thou art powerful, thou ſeeſt; becauſe, ſhe ſaid, I have ſeen or experienced thy mercy, after I had ſeen affliction. The religion of names was of great conſequence in Egypt; it was one of their eſſential ſuperſtitions; it was one of their native inventions. Thus when Hagar, who was an Egyptian, ſaw the angel of God in the wilderneſs, ſhe called the name of the Lord, that ſpake unto her, Elroi, "the God of viſion," or the viſible God; that is, according to the eſtabliſhed cuſtom of Egypt, ſhe gave him a name of honour; not merely a name of diſtinction; for ſuch all nations had, before their communications with Egypt.

14 The well was called, &c.] That is, the well of the living viſion.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVII.

1 Almighty God, &c.] The Hebrew is El Shaddai, from El, "God," and Shaddai, derived from ſhin, put inſtead of aſher, ſignifies "who," and dai, "ſufficient;" a title aſſuring him, that he was able to perform the promiſe. The Septuagint tranſlate the latter end of the verſe, "Do thou that which is well pleaſing in my ſight, and be blameleſs before me." The Chaldee renders "do thou ſerve," inſtead of "do thou walk;" the Syriac, "do good before me, and be without blot;" and the Arabic, "walk in my obedience," &c.

4 Father of many nations.] In a literal ſenſe, the inhabitants of Arabia, Idumea, and Canaan, beſides the tribes, ſprung from his children by Keturah, were the deſcendants of Abram; in a ſpiritual ſenſe, he is the father of the faithful in all nations. See Rom. iv. 16, 17. Gal. iii. 7.

5 Neither ſhall thy name be any more called Abram; but thy name ſhall be Abraham, &c.] If the name Abraham be derived from the Hebrew, it ſhould have been written Abhammon; i. e. the father of a multitude. Others, indeed, derive it from ab, "a father," rab, "many," and hammon, "a multitude;" but then it ſhould have been written Abrahamon. But this objection vaniſhes, if it be derived from the Arabic, where abu ſignifies "a father," and roham "a multitude." His former name was derived from ab, "a father," and ram, "high," i. e. a high father.

6 And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of thee, and kings ſhall come out of thee.

7 And I will eſtabliſh my covenant between me and thee and thy ſeed after thee in their generations for an everlaſting covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee.

8 And I will give unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee, the land wherein thou art a ſtranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlaſting poſſeſſion; and I will be their God.

9 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Thou ſhalt keep my covenant therefore, thou, and thy ſeed after thee in their generations.

10 This is my covenant, which ye ſhall keep, between me and you and thy ſeed after thee; Every man child among you ſhall be circumciſed.

11 And ye ſhall circumciſe the fleſh of your foreſkin; and it ſhall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and you.

12 And he that is eight days old ſhall be circumciſed among you, every man-child in your generations, he that is born in the houſe, or bought with money of any ſtranger, which is not of thy ſeed.

13 He that is born in thy houſe, and he that is bought with thy money, muſt needs be circumciſed: and my covenant ſhall be in your fleſh for an everlaſting covenant.

14 And the uncircumciſed man-child whoſe fleſh of his foreſkin is not circumciſed, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant.

15 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou ſhalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah ſhall her name be.

16 And I will bleſs her, and give thee a ſon alſo of her: yea, I will bleſs her, and ſhe ſhall be a mother of nations; kings of people ſhall be of her.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed, and ſaid in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and ſhall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear?

18 And Abraham ſaid unto God, O that Iſhmael might live before thee!

19 And God ſaid, Sarah thy wife ſhall bear thee a ſon indeed; and thou ſhalt call his name Iſaac: and I will eſtabliſh my covenant with him for an everlaſting covenant, and with his ſeed after him. Before CHRIST 1898.

20 And as for Iſhmael, I have heard thee: behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly; twelve princes ſhall he beget, and I make him a great nation.

21 But my covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac, which Sarah ſhall bear unto thee at this ſet time in the next year.

22 And he left off talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

23 ¶ And Abraham took Iſhmael his ſon, and all that were born in his houſe, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's houſe; and circumciſed the fleſh of their foreſkin in the ſelf-ſame day, as God had ſaid unto him.

24 And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his foreſkin.

25 And Iſhmael his ſon was thirteen years old, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his foreſkin.

26 In the ſelf-ſame day was Abraham circumciſed, and Iſhmael his ſon.

27 And all the men of his houſe, born in the houſe, and bought with money of the ſtranger, were circumciſed with him.

General Reflections on Chap. XVII.

What a noble example have we, in this chapter, of a ready obedience to God's command! Here is, indeed, a pattern of ſuch obedience, as is truly and rightly due, from all created beings, however exalted, to their great Creator. For it is not only founded in the right of ſovereignty, but in the nature of things; for all created beings whatſoever muſt have leſs of every attribute than their original, and conſequently ought to conclude, that every thing he orders muſt be right, and wiſe, and good.

Though circumciſion was ſo ſevere, ſo painful, and was ſo dangerous an injunction, at Abraham's years, and which undoubtedly he might not ſee the neceſſity of, yet in the ſelf-ſame day that God commanded it, did he ſubmit himſelf unto it. And in this we are taught to be reſigned, under all God's diſpenſations of providence, however grievous they may ſeem; and in every thing to ſubmit ourſelves to God.

7, 8 I will eſtabliſh, &c.] This promiſe contains in it both a literal and a ſpiritual ſenſe, though ſome will have a ſpiritual to be the only one. In the literal ſenſe, it contains a promiſe of the land of Canaan to Abraham and his poſterity; and in this ſenſe it was literally fulfilled, though Abraham was never perſonally in poſſeſſion of it; ſince Abraham and his poſterity, put collectively, ſignify the race of Abraham, and that race poſſeſſed the land of Canaan. Though God tells Abraham, he would give him the land, yet at the ſame time, he aſſures him it would be many hundred years before his poſterity ſhould be put in poſſeſſion of it, chap. xv. 13. A whole country is given to Abraham and his ſeed. Could it poſſibly be God's deſign to place his family in the land of Canaan, till they were numerous enough to occupy and defend it? His poſterity was his repreſentative, and therefore putting them into poſſeſſion, was putting him into it. The giving an heavenly Canaan could not be the literal ſenſe, becauſe an earthly Canaan is the direct, immediate ſenſe of the promiſe. Manaſſeh Ben Iſrael contends for a ſpiritual Canaan, as the literal; but then he holds, that, at the reſurrection, Abraham will ariſe, and take poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan.

11 And ye ſhall circumciſe, &c.] The revelations of God to this patriarch were gradual, and the rite of circumciſion could not have been enjoined him, before his going into Egypt; nor, indeed, at any other time than that in which we found it to have been given. Had Abraham borrowed it as an Egyptian rite, he would have been circumciſed in Egypt, or ſoon after his return; for in Egypt it was a perſonal, not a family rite; and thoſe who went into Egypt, either to copy their manners, or to be initiated into their wiſdom, were, as a previous ceremony, commonly circumciſed by the Egyptian prieſts themſelves. Circumciſion was not given to Abraham and his race as a mark of diſtinction and ſeparation from all other people, but what its conſtant uſe made it only fit for, a ſtanding memorial of the covenant between God and Abraham. But though it was not given as a mark of ſeparation, yet it effectually anſwered that purpoſe; for it preſerved the memory, or was a token of a covenant, which naturally kept them ſeparate and diſtinct from the reſt of mankind.

14 That ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people, &c.] This expreſſion refers to the parents, who were to be cut off for neglecting, as appears from Exod. iv. 24. to perform this ceremony on their children: and this ſenſe is ſupported by the Syriac verſion, which renders, "whoever ſhall not circumciſe, &c." ſhall be cut off; other think it related to the children themſelves, who were to be cut off, unleſs they took care to have this ceremony performed before they were thirteen years of age. By cutting off, is implied an untimely death, which was generally inflicted by God himſelf. See Lev. xvii. 10.

15 Thou ſhalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah ſhall her name be.] The word Sarai, in the Hebrew, ſignifies "my princeſs," and Sarah, "princeſs of multitudes."

16—21 The good patriarch was now grown fond of Iſhmael, and reckoned upon him for the inheritor of the promiſes: to correct the miſtake, God gave him a new revelation, in which he is told, that it was not the ſon of the bond-woman, but of Sarah, who was ordained to be heir of the promiſes. But Abraham had ſo long indulged himſelf in his miſtake, and conſequently in his affection for Iſhmael, that he begs God would indulge it too—"O that Iſhmael, &c." And God, in compaſſion to his paternal fondneſs, graciouſly promiſes that the poſterity of Iſhmael ſhould become great and powerful (which we find accompliſhed, chap. xxv.) but that his covenant ſhould be with Iſaac. But this promiſe having been received with ſome kind of doubt, as appears from ver. 17. God was pleaſed to repeat the promiſe of a ſon by Sarah, and even to mark out the time of his birth, according to which ſhe conceived and bare a ſon. The word tranſlated "laughed," is by the Chaldee rendered "rejoiced," and the Arabic confirms this ſenſe by paraphraſing it "laughed for joy." The name of Iſaac alludes to this circumſtance, the Hebrew word for "laughed" being jitzſhack, and the Hebrew for Iſaac being jitzſhack likewiſe.

22 God went up, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, "the glory of the Lord went up, &c." The Syriac, "God was taken up, &c." and the Arabic, "the angel of the Lord was taken up, &c."

23 In the ſelf-ſame day, &c.] The faith and piety of Abraham are conſpicuous in his performing this rite the ſame day, notwithſtanding the operation muſt have been both painful and dangerous to a perſon of his age.

25 Iſhmael was thirteen years old when he was circumciſed.] And hence Joſephus tells us, the Arabians, deſcended from Iſhmael, did not circumciſe their children till they were thirteen years old.

27 And all the men of his houſe, &c.] All the males, whether children or adults, by their conſent, they being before trained up by him in religious exerciſes, were eaſily prevailed upon to follow his example.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Abraham entertaineth three angels. 9 The promiſe of Iſaac is renewed, at which Sarah laugheth, and is reproved. 17 The deſtruction of Sodom is revealed to Abraham, 23 who ſtrongly intercedeth for the inhabitants of it.

AND the LORD appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre: and he ſat in the tent door in the heat of the day;

2 And he lift up his eyes and looked, and, lo, three men ſtood by him: and when he ſaw them, he ran to meet them from the tent door, and bowed himſelf toward the ground,

3 And ſaid, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy ſight, paſs not away, I pray thee, from thy ſervant:

4 Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and waſh your feet, and reſt yourſelves under the tree:

5 And I will fetch a morſel of bread, and comfort ye your hearts; after that ye ſhall paſs on: for therefore are ye come to your ſervant. And they ſaid, So do, as thou haſt ſaid.

6 And Abraham haſtened into the tent unto Sarah, and ſaid, Make ready quickly three meaſures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth.

7 And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetcht a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he haſted to dreſs it.

8 And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dreſſed, and ſet it before them; and he ſtood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

9 ¶ And they ſaid unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he ſaid, Behold, in the tent.

10 And he ſaid, I will certainly return unto thee according to the time of life; and, lo, Sarah thy wife ſhall have a ſon. And Sarah heard it in the tent door, which was behind him.

11 Now Abraham and Sarah were old and well ſtricken in age; and it ceaſed to be with Sarah after the manner of women.

12 Therefore Sarah laughed within herſelf, ſaying, After I am waxed old ſhall I have pleaſure, my lord being old alſo?

13 And the LORD ſaid unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, ſaying Shall I of a ſurety bear a child, which am old?

14 Is any thing too hard for the LORD? At the time appointed I will return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah ſhall have a ſon.

15 Then Sarah denied, ſaying, I laughed not; for ſhe was afraid. And he ſaid, Nay; but thou didſt laugh.

16 And the men roſe up from thence, and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way.

17 ¶ And the LORD ſaid, Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do?

18 Seeing that Abraham ſhall ſurely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth ſhall be bleſſed in him?

19 For I know him, that he will command his children and his houſhold after him, and they ſhall keep the way of the LORD, to do juſtice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath ſpoken of him.

20 And the LORD ſaid, Becauſe the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and becauſe the ſin is very grievous;

21 I will go down now, and ſee whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know.

22 And the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham ſtood yet before the LORD.

23 ¶ And Abraham drew near, and ſaid, Wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked?

24 Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou alſo deſtroy and not ſpare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?

25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to ſlay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous ſhould be as the wicked, that be far from thee: ſhall not the judge of all the earth do right?

26 And the Lord ſaid, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will ſpare all the place for their ſakes.

27 And Abraham anſwered and ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD, which am but duſt and aſhes:

28 Peradventure there ſhall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou deſtroy all the city for lack of five? And he ſaid, If I find there forty and five, I will not deſtroy it.

29 And he ſpake unto him yet again, and ſaid, Peradventure there ſhall be forty found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it for forty's ſake.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVIII.

1 And the Lord appeared unto him, &c.] Many are of opinion that it was the Logos, or Son of God, who now deigned to viſit him. The text ſufficiently indicates, that he was eminently conſpicuous from the other two, becauſe Abraham makes his addreſſes to him as chief. Compare chap. xiii. 18. Iſa. ix. 6. Rev. xix. 12.

3 Paſs not, &c.] The epiſtle to the Hebrews ſeems to allude to this inſtance of hoſpitality, and the reward which was the conſequence of it, chap. xiii. 2.

5 I will fetch, &c.] The goodneſs and humility of the patriarch are conſpicuous, in his offering little, and in giving much. See ver. 8.

6 Three meaſures, &c.] A meaſure weighing about twelve pounds, the quantity of bread muſt have amounted to thirty-ſix pounds, which, with the calf, a great delicacy in thoſe countries, was not only an ample, but likewiſe an elegant entertainment.

8 They did eat.] Some qualify this ſentence, by rendering it "they ſeemed to eat."

10 I will return, &c.] Many explain this verſe thus: The angels ſaid they ſhould return ſoon, and ſhould then find Sarah pregnant. This occaſioning her ridicule, as expreſſed in the next verſe, they diſcovered themſelves to be angels; and that one of them was ſent to notify the birth of a ſon to Abraham; but the other two to deſtroy Sodom.

12 Laughed within herſelf, &c.] Some aſſert, that Iſaac, which ſignifies "Laughter," received his name from Sarah's laughing at the prediction of the angels; but it appears, from the foregoing chapter, he received it from Abraham's laugh, occaſioned by exceſſive joy.

20 Becauſe the cry of Sodom, &c.] An old tranſlation illuſtrates this expreſſion thus: "Becauſe the cry of thoſe who are oppreſſed in Sodom," &c.

21 I will go down, &c.] The Chaldee paraphraſes it thus: "I will appear, and will judge whether," &c. The Arabic is remarkable, and reads thus: "I will ſend my monitor, or meſſenger to them, that he may ſee whether or no they all do according to their cry, which hath reached my ear." See Gen. xi. 7.

22 Stood before the Lord, &c.] In the preſence of the angel, who was the word of God, the Son of God, the viſible image of the inviſible God, repreſenting the majeſty of his Father, and acting in his name, the angel who appeared to Manoah, Judges xiii. 18. deſcribed in Iſa. ix. 6. and ſpoken of in Rev. xix. 12. For there were three angels who appeared to Abraham, but only two of them went to Sodom; and he who remained is, in the Hebrew, honoured with the title of Jehovah, the incommunicable name of God. The Chaldee tranſlates the words, "prayed before the Lord."

25 Judge of all the earth, &c.] This is a confirmation of what we have aſſerted, ver. 22. It expreſsly confines the ſenſe to that Being, who is the expreſs image of God, who made the worlds, and who, as the writer of the epiſtle to the Philippians aſſerts, thought it no robbery to be equal with God. Theſe dawnings, or faint glimmerings of the incarnation, demand our moſt profound attention, reverence, and adoration; and as the day-ſpring from on high hath viſited us, we ought to ariſe from the death of ſin, and to ſhine in good works; for our light is now come, and the glory of our Lord is upon us, Iſa. lx. 1.

26 If I find in Sodom] This city is mentioned as the metropolis, and comprehending the reſt of the country of Pentapolis, Gen. xiv. 12.

Then will I ſpare, &c.] Not Sodom only, but the whole country.

27 Who am but duſt and aſhes.] An humble expreſſion of his meanneſs and unworthineſs in the ſight of God. It carries a plain alluſion to the vile and periſhable materials, out of which the human body was originally compoſed.

Before CHRIST 1898.

30 And he said unto him, Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will speak: peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the LORD: peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for twenty's sake.

32 And he said, Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: peradventure ten shall be found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for ten's sake.

33 And the LORD went his way, as soon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

How urgent and moving is the intreaty of Abraham for the men of Sodom, though, from the corruption of their manners, it may be presumed that he had little society with them; and therefore his was a pure and generous philanthropy, which looked upon all mankind as his friends or brethren.

We may likewise observe in this place, how highly precious and regarded in the sight of God, the good and righteous are, and how much they contribute to the happiness of the world; for it is not only by their just and kind conduct or behaviour in life, that they do good to mankind, but it is probable from the instance before us, that they contribute to avert God's severe judgments from the respective communities they live in. And this, perhaps, may account for God's delay in making examples of cities and kingdoms, which are notoriously wicked. The few righteous mingled among them, who would be involved in their ruin, are so dear to him, that it turns aside his anger, and he cannot do any thing whilst they are there.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Lot entertaineth two angels. 4 The vicious Sodomites beset the house, and are stricken with blindness. 12 Lot is directed to flee with his family to the mountain, but obtaineth leave to retire into Zoar. 24 Sodom and Gomorrah are destroyed. 26 Lot's wife is made a pillar of salt. 27 Abraham seeth the dreadful overthrow. 30 Lot retireth from Zoar to a cave in the mountain. 31 The incestuous origin of Moab and Ammon.

AND there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground;

2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, Nay; but we will abide in the street all night.

3 And he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat. Before CHRIST 1898.

4 ¶ But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter:

5 And they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them.

6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and shut the door after him,

7 And said, I pray you, brethren, do not so wickedly.

8 Behold now, I have two daughters which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto these men do nothing; for therefore came they under the shadow of my roof.

9 And they said, Stand back. And they said again, This one fellow came in to sojourn, and he will needs be a judge: now will we deal worse with thee, than with them. And they pressed sore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door.

10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut the door.

11 And they smote the men that were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great: so that they wearied themselves to find the door.

12 ¶ And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? son in law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring them out of this place:

13 For we will destroy this place, because the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD; and the LORD hath sent us to destroy it.

14 And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons in law, which married his daughters, and said, Up, get you out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city. But he seemed as one that mocked unto his sons in law.

15 And when the morning arose, then the angels hastened Lot, saying, Arise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which are here; lest thou be consumed in the iniquity of the city.

16 And while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the LORD being merciful unto him: and they brought him forth, and set him without the city.

17 And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he said, Escape for thy life; look

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XIX.

1 There came two angels, &c.] These are called men, ch. xviii. 2, 22, on account of the manner in which they appeared. That they were beings of an inferior order to the third, who remained talking with Abraham, we have shewn in the notes on the place just quoted; and, at the same time, have enabled the reader to detect an error of most modern commentators, who roundly assert, that all the three angels went towards Sodom, though we find from this place, that only two came there.

2 Turn in, I pray you, &c.] The warm benevolence, and hearty hospitality of Lot, are remarkable, in the importunities which he uses to the angels; and they are the more remarkable, as he was then settled among a people who were insolent on account of their wealth, void of benevolence to men, or piety to God; who were strangers to hospitality, and lost to every principle of virtue. Amidst this sink of vice, Lot remained untainted, receives the heavenly guests with the greatest humanity, and seems not only to have been an exact imitator, but likewise a rival of Abraham's hospitality.

3 Unleavened bread, &c.] This shews the haste he was in to accommodate his guests: For bread without leaven in it, was sooner baked than that which had leaven in it.

4 All the people, &c.] This shews that their depravity was universal, and had seized not only on all ranks, but likewise on all ages. We need not, therefore, wonder to find, chap. xviii. 32. that there were not "ten righteous persons in the city."

5 Bring them out unto us, &c.] The inhabitants were struck with the extraordinary beauty of the divine messengers, and were on that account so furious to infringe the laws of hospitality, and burst through the barriers of virtue.

8 Behold now, I have two daughters, &c.] The sacred laws of hospitality, thus attacked by these furious wretches, Lot endeavours to maintain inviolate, even at his own expence; and by an heroic effort of disinterested generosity, offers to sacrifice his own daughters, to preserve the guests, who had taken refuge under the shadow of his roof. Some have, indeed, blamed this action, as carrying the ideas of hospitality too high; and endeavour to excuse Lot, by saying his perturbation was so great, that he spoke unadvisedly; but he is thus vindicated: "Lot made his remonstrance to the multitude, shewing the iniquity of their demand, and the sacredness of the laws of hospitality; adding, that if they remained obstinate, notwithstanding his advice, he would rather subject his daughters to their intentions, than yield up his guests." This proposal required some time for deliberation, and was not to be put in force till the rabble had given their answer; but their answer was perhaps, as Lot expected, such as freed him from exposing his daughters, though he was determined not to give up his guests.

9 Stand back, &c.] They who are abandoned to wickedness, are so far from being sensible of their danger, that they are rather enraged against the friendly person who endeavours either to convince them of the nature of their condition, or the consequences of their actions. Thus it happened to Lot; thus it happened to the prophets; thus it happened to our blessed Lord and his apostles; and thus it happened, and will happen, to the ministers of the gospel, who are sent as lambs among wolves.

11 Blindness, &c.] This was only a temporary defect of sight, such as is mentioned 2 Kings vi. 8.

15 Take thy wife, &c.] This illustrates the twenty-fourth verse of the preceding chapter, and demonstrates, that God is no less just than he is merciful.

Before CHRIST 1898. look not behind thee, neither ſtay thou in all the plain; eſcape to the mountain, leſt thou be conſumed.

18 And Lot ſaid unto them, Oh, not ſo, my Lord:

19 Behold now, thy ſervant hath found grace in thy ſight, and thou haſt magnified thy mercy, which thou haſt ſhewed unto me in ſaving my life; and I cannot eſcape to the mountain, leſt ſome evil take me, and I die:

20 Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: oh, let me eſcape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my ſoul ſhall live.

21 And he ſaid unto him, See, I have accepted thee concerning this thing alſo, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou haſt ſpoken.

22 Haſte thee, eſcape thither; for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither. Therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.

23 The ſun was riſen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar.

24 ¶ Then the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimſtone and fire from the LORD out of heaven;

25 And he overthrew thoſe cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

26 ¶ But his wife looked back from behind him, and ſhe became a pillar of ſalt.

27 ¶ And Abraham gat up early in the morning to the place where he ſtood before the LORD:

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo, the ſmoke of the country went up as the ſmoke of a furnace.

29 And it came to paſs, when God deſtroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham, and ſent Lot out of the midſt of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

30 ¶ And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

31 ¶ And the firſtborn ſaid unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth:

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father. Before CHRIST 1898.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night: and the firſtborn went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe.

34 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the firſtborn ſaid unto the younger, Behold, I lay yeſternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night alſo; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night alſo: and the younger aroſe, and lay with him; and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father.

37 And the firſtborn bare a ſon, and called his name Moab: the ſame is the father of the Moabites unto this day. 1897.

38 And the younger, ſhe alſo bare a ſon, and called his name Ben-ammi: the ſame is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIX.

In the courſe of our preceding remarks, we have ſeen ſeveral ſignal and evident interpoſitions of God in the affairs of the earth, to ſhew mankind that he was the Lord of all; that they depended entirely on him; that he could alter their condition as he pleaſed; that virtue and goodneſs were regarded, protected, and rewarded by him; and that vice was hateful to him, and contrary to his will, and what he would take cogniſance of, and puniſh.

What is related in the twenty-fifth verſe, is another ſignal inſtance, intended to inculcate theſe great truths in the hearts of mankind; and this was wiſely ordered to that end; for by God's acquainting Abraham before-hand with what he purpoſed to do, it was ſufficiently made known, beyond a doubt, in his numerous family, and through them, when diſperſed, to the reſt of the world, that it was, indeed, God himſelf that did it. And Lot being called out from the very place where he had lived for ſome years, the moment before it was deſtroyed, was another corroborating evidence of God's particular ordering of the whole affair; ſo that by theſe means, God, in his great wiſdom, took care that this remarkable deſtruction ſhould not be attributed to any natural cauſes, but to his anger only, that thereby man might be brought to fear him. And this could not but contribute greatly to the keeping alive virtue in the world, and to the reſtraining of vice; particularly, as God ſo ordered it, that the place remained a perpetual witneſs of its own deſtruction.

22 Therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.] The reaſon of its receiving this name, is comprehended in ver. 20. becauſe Zoar ſignifies little.

23 The ſun was riſen, &c.] We imagine that this particularly was intended to ſhew that Zoar was near Sodom: and that when God is ſaid to have rained, it might not be thought to be natural, but miraculous, as there were no clouds, commonly mentioned in other great rains.

24 The Lord rained, &c.] The brimſtone and fire, in the Hebrew, ſignifying lightning; and the addition of the words "from the Lord," implies, that thunder, or the thunderbolt, attended this dreadful ſtorm; or that the Lord caſt his dart, or bolt, from heaven. As this country abounded in ſlime-pits, it is eaſy to account for the deſtruction of theſe places from this cauſe; a dreadful deſtruction! of which there were ocular proofs remaining, even in latter days.

25 And he overthrew thoſe cities, &c.] The ſtorm of thunder and lightning, or, as others think, of liquid fire, which overthrew theſe cities, is thought to have been alſo accompanied with a dreadful earthquake. But, be this as it may, we ſhould learn from hence, that if God ſpared not the old world, but brought in a flood upon the ungodly; and if he, turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into aſhes, condemned them with an overthrow, or, according to St. Jude, condemned them to the vengeance of eternal fire; we need not doubt, but that, as he is in all ages the ſame, a God of juſtice as well as of mercy, no iniquity can ultimately eſcape, for though he does not on every occaſion lay bare his vindictive arm; though he is ſtrong and patient, ſo that he ſeldom whetteth his ſword, and prepareth the inſtruments of death; yet a few of theſe remarkable inſtances of his ſeverity againſt ſin, are ſufficient to convince us, that he hath reſerved the unjuſt, however they may eſcape at preſent, unto the day of judgment, to be puniſhed. Treaſure up theſe reflections in thy remembrance, O reader; recollect them with the moſt ſerious attention, when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up; when thou walkeſt, receive them as thy companion; when thou talkeſt, liſten to them as thy prompters; and whatever thou doeſt, conſult them as thy directors. Influenced by theſe conſiderations, thy views will enlarge, thy affections be exalted, and thou thyſelf raiſed above the tantalizing powers of periſhing things. Duly mindful of theſe, it will be the ſum of thy deſires, and the ſcope of thy endeavours, to gain the approbation of that ſovereign being, who, at the laſt day, will fill the throne of judgment, and pronounce the deciſive ſentence. Thou wilt ſee nothing worth a wiſh, in compariſon of having his will for thy guide, his glory for thy aim, and his holy Spirit for thy ever actuating principle.

26 His wife looked back, &c.] The Jeruſalem Targum ſays, that ſhe was a native of Sodom, and ſhe might, for that reaſon, have been guilty of ſhewing too great an affection for the calamity of her native place, in contradiction to the command given her and her huſband, ver. 17. Some, indeed, from our Saviour's words, Luke xviii. 31. infer, that ſhe really turned back, and by that means met with her fate. Commentators are divided in their opinion concerning the words "a pillar of ſalt," ſome take them figuratively to imply a laſting monument of the divine wrath, a laſting covenant, being ſtiled a covenant of ſalt, Numb. xviii. 19. others are for taking them in a literal ſenſe. Joſephus ſays, that he ſaw this pillar himſelf. Some of the fathers are for ſupporting this literal ſenſe, which others are for turning into ridicule, imagining the Jewiſh writers might have been impoſed upon by the natives, which a traveller from our own country inſinuates to be poſſible, when he writes, On the weſt ſide is a promontory, near which, as our guides told us, ſtood the monument of Lot's wife; part of which, if they may be credited, is viſible at this day.

31 In the earth, &c.] That is, in the land; though ſome take the word in its utmoſt latitude, and repreſent the expreſſion as implying an apprehenſion that the whole human race would be extinct.

32 Come let us, &c.] It is no improbable opinion, which has been adopted by biſhop Patrick, and other commentators, that their anxiety to preſerve ſeed of their father, proceeded from an eager deſire after the Meſſiah, who, they might hope, would ſpring from them, their father being a deſcendant of Shem, and a ſon of Abraham's eldeſt brother: and in fact, Ruth the Moabiteſs, who was of the race of the eldeſt daughter of Lot, ſtands in the genealogy of our Lord.

37, 38, Moab, &c.] Alluding to the perſon from whom he owned his birth, ſhe called his name Moab; that is, in the Hebrew, "from my father." Ben-ammi, the name given by the ſecond daughter to her ſon, implies, "the ſon of my people."

CHAP. XX.

1 Abraham ſojourneth at Gerar, and denieth his wife; Abimelech taketh her, but is reproved of God in a dream, and commanded to reſtore her. 9 He rebuketh Abraham, who excuſeth himſelf. 14 Sarah is reſtored with preſents after a gentle reproof. 17 Abimelech and his houſe are healed at Abraham's prayer.

AND Abraham journeyed from thence toward the ſouth country, and dwelled between Kadeſh and Shur, and ſojourned in Gerar.

2 And Abraham ſaid of Sarah his wife, She is my ſiſter: and Abimelech king of Gerar ſent, and took Sarah.

3 But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and ſaid to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou haſt taken; for ſhe is a man's wife.

4 But Abimelech had not come near her: and he ſaid, LORD, wilt thou ſlay alſo a righteous nation?

5 Said he not unto me, She is my ſiſter? and ſhe, even ſhe herſelf ſaid, He is my brother: in the integrity of my heart and innocency of my hands have I done this.

6 And God ſaid unto him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didſt this in the integrity of thy heart; for I alſo withheld thee from ſinning againſt me: therefore ſuffered I thee not to touch her.

7 Now therefore reſtore the man his wife, for he is a prophet, and he ſhall pray for thee, and thou ſhalt live: and if thou reſtore her not, know thou that thou ſhalt ſurely die, thou, and all that are thine.

8 Therefore Abimelech roſe early in the morning, and called all his ſervants, and told all theſe things in their ears: and the men were ſore afraid.

9 ¶ Then Abimelech called Abraham, and ſaid unto him, What haſt thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that thou haſt brought on me and on my kingdom a great ſin? thou haſt done deeds unto me that ought not to be done.

10 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What ſaweſt thou, that thou haſt done this thing?

11 And Abraham ſaid, Becauſe I thought, Surely the fear of God is not in this place; and they will ſlay me for my wife's ſake.

12 And yet indeed ſhe is my ſiſter; ſhe is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and ſhe became my wife. Before CHRIST 1898.

13 And it came to paſs, when God cauſed me to wander from my father's houſe, that I ſaid unto her, This is thy kindneſs which thou ſhalt ſhew unto me; at every place whither we ſhall come, ſay of me, He is my brother.

14 ¶ And Abimelech took ſheep, and oxen, and menſervants, and womenſervants, and gave them unto Abraham, and reſtored him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech ſaid, Behold, my land is before thee: dwell where it pleaſeth thee.

16 And unto Sarah he ſaid, Behold, I have given thy brother a thouſand pieces of ſilver: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other: thus ſhe was reproved.

17 ¶ So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maidſervants; and they bare children.

18 For the LORD had faſt cloſed up all the wombs of the houſe of Abimelech, becauſe of Sarah Abraham's wife.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XX.

On this chapter, we find Abraham reaſoned, that if there was no awe of religion among them there could be no ſufficient reſtraint from doing any act of injuſtice and cruelty, which tended to the gratification of their appetites. And herein he reaſoned right; for there cannot be any perfect morality expected, where there is no belief of the firſt principles of religion. Thus, as it is agreeable to experience, ſo it has always been the ſentiment of the wiſeſt men in all ages. It is our fixed opinion, that if piety towards God was once taken away, there would be an end of all fidelity, a diſſolution of the bonds of human ſociety, and even of juſtice itſelf, the ſun of all virtues.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Iſaac is born, and circumciſed. 6 Sarah's joy. 9 Hagar and Iſhmael are caſt forth at Sarah's inſtance, and by God's direction. 15 Hagar in diſtreſs is relieved and comforted by an angel. 22 Abimelech's covenant with Abraham, 33 who calleth upon the LORD in Beer-ſheba.

AND the LORD viſited Sarah as he had ſaid, and the LORD did unto Sarah as he had ſpoken.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XX.

2 Abimelech, &c.] This was a name common to the kings of Paleſtine, as Pharaoh was to thoſe of Egypt; it ſignifies, my father the king. The tranſlation here related, is recorded out of the due order of time, as her age and her pregnancy rendered her no fit object to captivate the heart of a ſovereign lover.

3 But God came to Abimelech.] He was afflicted with a very dangerous diſeaſe, to reſtrain him from his intended crime; and in a viſion, when his life was deſpaired of, he was forbidden to violate the wife of his gueſt; which he afterwards related to his phyſicians; adding, that God had ſtruck him with the diſeaſe, to prevent his being guilty of adultery.

4 A righteous nation.] That is, an innocent people, as they certainly were. See ver. 17, 18. The Septuagint renders, a juſt and an ignorant, &c. which agrees with the Vulgate; but the Arabic applies the ſentence to Abimelech himſelf, tranſlating the words, a chaſte or modeſt man.

6 For I alſo with-held thee from ſinning, &c.] The word for, renders the ſenſe obſcure, and therefore ſhould be omitted, as it is not in the original.

16 A thouſand pieces of ſilver, &c.] The Chaldee explains the ſum given to be a thouſand ſhekels, for the word pieces is not in the Hebrew: now a ſhekel being two ſhillings and four-pence farthing of our money, the whole ſum amounts to an hundred and twenty pounds. The ſenſe of this verſe has very much embarraſſed ſome commentators; but it may be eaſily collected from comparing the antient verſions. The original may be tranſlated, Behold he is to thee a covering of the eyes unto all who are with thee, and with all, and he reproved himſelf. The Vulgate tranſlates, lo, I have given, &c. that ſhall be unto thee a covering of the eyes unto all that are with thee, and whitherſoever thou ſhalt go, and remember thou haſt been detected. The Septuagint, as well as the Vulgate, make the relative agree with the preſent given, rendering, They ſhall be as a reward, or honour of thy face, and to all the women with thee, and always be ingenuous, or ſpeak the truth. The Chaldee conſtrues the relative in the ſame manner, ſaying, It ſhall be a vail of honour, on account of my having ſent for thee, and having ſeen thee, and all that are with thee; and ſhe was rebuked or provoked upon, or by, all that he had ſaid. The Syriac renders, I have granted them to thee, becauſe thou haſt vailed or covered the eyes of all that were with me, and above all things, haſt reproved me. The Arabic tranſlates, I have now given thy brother a thouſand ſhekels, let them be laid out for thee for a beautiful veſture, for all that are with thee, and in all things that are for thy modeſty. From hence we may conclude, that the money, not the brother, was for a covering of the eyes; and that the ſenſe of the verſe is, that Abimelech, by that preſent, acknowledged both the charms and the modeſty of Sarah, and that he gave it with a deſign to make her virtue conſpicuous to all her attendants, at the ſame time he made her a compenſation for the injury he intended.

17 So Abraham prayed unto God, &c.] Not being able to requite Abimelech for his favours to him in kind, he interceded with God in behalf of him and his family, which he had the more reaſon to do, as he had drawn him and them into a ſnare, by relapſing into this piece of diſſimulation, after he had ſeen the ill effects of it in a former caſe.

18 Had faſt cloſed up, &c.] God had ſmitten them with barrenneſs. Hence Sarah muſt have ſpent ſome conſiderable time at Abimelech's court, otherwiſe the Philiſtines could not have known whether their wives were barren or not: a circumſtance which ſeems to confirm the opinion, that this piece of hiſtory is recorded out of the order of time when it happened. But if the caſe was as others underſtand it, that they were ſtruck with ſuch ſwellings in the ſecret parts, that the men could neither enjoy their wives, nor the women who were with child be delivered, they muſt have been quickly ſenſible of ſuch an alteration.

Before CHRIST 1898. 3 And Abraham called the name of his ſon that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, Iſaac.

4 And Abraham circumciſed his ſon Iſaac being eight days old, as God had commanded him.

5 And Abraham was an hundred years old, when his ſon Iſaac was born unto him.

6 ¶ And Sarah ſaid, God hath made me to laugh, ſo that all that hear will laugh with me.

1897. 7 And ſhe ſaid, Who would have ſaid unto Abraham, that Sarah ſhould have given children ſuck? for I have born him a ſon in his old age.

8 And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feaſt the ſame day that Iſaac was weaned.

9 ¶ And Sarah ſaw the ſon of Hagar the Egyptian, which ſhe had born unto Abraham, mocking.

1892. 10 Wherefore ſhe ſaid unto Abraham, Caſt out this bondwoman and her ſon: for the ſon of this bondwoman ſhall not be heir with my ſon, even with Iſaac.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abraham's ſight becauſe of his ſon.

12 And God ſaid unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy ſight becauſe of the lad, and becauſe of thy bondwoman; in all that Sarah hath ſaid unto thee, hearken unto her voice: for in Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called.

13 And alſo of the ſon of the bondwoman will I make a nation, becauſe he is thy ſeed.

14 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her ſhoulder, and the child, and ſent her away; and ſhe departed, and wandered in the wilderneſs of Beer-ſheba.

15 ¶ And the water was ſpent in the bottle, and ſhe caſt the child under one of the ſhrubs.

16 And ſhe went, and ſat her down over againſt him a good way off, as it were a bowſhot: for ſhe ſaid, Let me not ſee the death of the child. And ſhe ſat over againſt him, and lift up her voice, and wept.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad; and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and ſaid unto her, What aileth thee Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is.

18 Ariſe, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand; for I will make him a great nation.

19 And God opened her eyes, and ſhe ſaw a well of water; and ſhe went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink. Before CHRIST 1897.

20 And God was with the lad: and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderneſs, and became an archer.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderneſs of Paran: and his mother took him a wife of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs at that time, that Abimelech and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt ſpake unto Abraham, ſaying, God is with thee in all that thou doeſt:

23 Now therefore ſwear unto me here by God that thou wilt not deal falſly with me, nor with my ſon, nor with my ſon's ſon: but according to the kindneſs that I have done unto thee, thou ſhalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou haſt ſojourned. 1892.

24 And Abraham ſaid, I will ſwear.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech becauſe of a well of water, which Abimelech's ſervants had violently taken away.

26 And Abimelech ſaid, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didſt thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it, but to day.

27 And Abraham took ſheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech; and both of them made a covenant.

28 And Abraham ſet ſeven ewe lambs of the flock by themſelves.

29 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What mean theſe ſeven ewe lambs which thou haſt ſet by themſelves?

30 And he ſaid, For theſe ſeven ewe lambs ſhalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witneſs unto me, that I have digged this well.

31 Wherefore he called that place Beer-ſheba; becauſe there they ſware both of them.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-ſheba: then Abimelech roſe up, and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt, and they returned into the land of the Philiſtines. 1891.

33 ¶ And Abraham planted a grove in Beer-ſheba, and called there on the name of the LORD, the everlaſting God.

34 And Abraham ſojourned in the Philiſtines' land many days.

6 God hath made me to laugh, &c.] The laughter mentioned, chap. xviii. 12. proceeded from diſtruſt, and was the effect of ridicule, but that mentioned in this verſe, proceeded from joy, ariſing from the fruition of a great and unexpected bleſſing. The Chaldee tranſlation confirms this ſenſe, by rendering the words, the Lord has cauſed me joy, every one who ſhall hear it, will rejoice together with me. The Syriac likewiſe paraphraſes it, the Lord has this day given me great joy, &c.

9 Mocking.] The original implies laughing, and alludes to Iſaac's name, which ſignifies laughter; and as the verb reſembles the noun ſo much, it may have cauſed the omiſſion of Iſaac, the object of Iſhmael's deriſion or ridicule, which is preſerved in the Septuagint. The Jewiſh doctors imagine, that Iſhmael derided or ridiculed Iſaac, on account of his piety; and as the apoſtle, Gal. iv. 29. ſtiles it perſecution, we may conclude, that Iſaac's piety was the continual ſubject of Iſhmael's ridicule, deriſion, or hard uſage.

11 And the thing was very grievous, &c.] Our tranſlators have in this verſe adhered to the ſenſe of the Arabic paraphraſe. From hence we may collect, that Abraham was not yet cured of his unreaſonable partiality for Iſhmael, but ſtill reckoned upon him as his ſecond hopes, in caſe any diſaſter or misfortune ſhould happen to Iſaac. This appears from Iſhmael's inſolent behaviour, from Abraham's great unwillingneſs to diſmiſs him, and from God's aſſuring him, in order to make him eaſy, that in Iſaac his ſeed ſhould be called, ver. 12.

14 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, &c.] The behaviour of Abraham towards his ſon Iſhmael, has been repreſented as cruel to the laſt degree. In order to remove the opprobrium that has been thrown upon it, it will be neceſſary to obſerve, that though Iſhmael was called a child in our tranſlation, yet he was really fifteen or ſixteen years old; and that by bread and water, is meant in ſcripture all kinds of proviſion. Theſe obſervations being premiſed, we proceed to aſſert, that it was no difficult thing for any perſon to find a livelihood in this early age of the world; thoſe who had flocks, found ground enough to ſpare in every country, to maintain them; and creatures were ſo numerous, that a perſon who had no flocks, might, in cultivated places, kill enough of all ſorts for his maintenance, and accordingly we find, that Iſhmael choſe to reſide in the wilderneſs, where he became an archer. And it appears from the ſequel, that Hagar met with no great difficulty in providing for herſelf, and her ſon. Jacob was diſmiſſed in the ſame manner from Iſaac, without ſervants or attendants. All the proviſions, therefore, made by parents for their younger ſons in thoſe days, was, the ſending them abroad to acquire an independent ſettlement. Conſequently it is only from our not being acquainted with the cuſtoms of the times, that we imagine Abraham was guilty of a cruel action, in thus diſmiſſing Hagar and Iſhmael. And though wandering in the wilderneſs, till their water was conſumed, had almoſt deſtroyed both her and the child, yet this was no fault of Abraham's, but purely an accident, occaſioned by her miſſing the way.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad, &c.] By which it appears that he cried alſo; but whether it was in prayer to God, or through the diſtreſs and miſery he was in, is not certain; and, be it which it may, his cries came up into the ears of the Lord, and he had compaſſion on him, and ſupplied his wants, and delivered him out of his miſerable condition.

19 God opened her eyes, &c.] The angel of the Lord met her, ſhewed her a well that was near, and commanded her to take care of the child.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech, &c.] In theſe hot and dry countries, a well of water was an ineſtimable treaſure, and the digging it a work of prodigious labour, both on account of the rockineſs of the ſoil, and the great depth it was neceſſary to dig before they could find a ſpring.

31 He called that place Beer-ſheba, &c.] Beer ſignifies "a well," and ſheba, both "an oath," and "ſeven," ſo that the name alludes not only to the oath, as mentioned in the text, but likewiſe to the ſeven ſheep given by Abraham, in purchaſe for the well.

32 They returned into the land of the Philiſtines.] To that part of it where they dwelt; for this covenant was made in the land of the Philiſtines.

33 And Abraham planted a grove, &c.] The ſilence and natural gloom which reign in theſe bowery ſolitudes, diſpoſe the mind to ſerious contemplation; on which account they were choſen, by the pious fathers of antiquity, as their temples, and ſolemn places of devotion.

Before CHRIST 1879.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXI.

This chapter may also lead us to reflect with great seriousness and attention, on those promises and threatnings, made to us in the gospel, which, though according to our thinking, they are long delayed, and all things continue as they were, from the beginning of the creation; yet were they notwithstanding, as surely to be accomplished, as was the promise of Isaac, which, according to the nature of the thing, to Abraham's thinking, was as long delayed. Though we see things go on in their accustomed manner; though we see men inconsiderate, and not thinking about it; though we even see scoffers who cry out with taunts, Where is the promise of his coming? Yet the day of the Lord may come notwithstanding; when the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall awake to appear before the judgment seat of Christ; for every one to receive for the things done in his body, according to that he has done, whether it be good or bad. And we have sufficient information from the scriptures, that this great and tremendous day will come, when it is least expected, like a thief in the night, when the world is going on at its usual rate, while men are eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, hurrying in business, immersed in pleasure, fixing their thoughts and hopes on earth, and believing themselves in security.

CHAP. XXII.

Abraham is tempted to offer Isaac. 3 He giveth proof of his faith and obedience: 11 The angel stayeth him from slaying his son, in whose stead he offereth a ram. 15 Abraham is blessed again. 20 The generation of Nahor, from whom came Rebekah.

AND it came to pass after these things that God did tempt Abraham, and said unto him, Abraham: and he said, Behold, here I am.

2 And he said, Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and get thee into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

3 ¶ And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt offering, and rose up, and went unto the place of which God had told him. Before CHRIST 1872.

4 Then on the third day Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off.

5 And Abraham said unto his young men, Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you.

6 And Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering, and laid it upon Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife; and they went both of them together.

7 And Isaac spake unto Abraham his father, and said, My father: and he said, Here am I, my son. And he said, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?

8 And Abraham said, My son, God will provide himself a lamb for a burnt offering: so they went both of them together.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar upon the wood.

10 And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son.

11 ¶ And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham: and he said, Here am I.

12 And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from me.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XXII.

1 God did tempt Abraham, &c.] It is evident, from the words of Christ, John xii. that Abraham was desirous of being acquainted with the manner in which the promise of the redemption of mankind should be effected. The principal intention of this command was, to reveal to Abraham by action, instead of words, the manner of this redemption; yet, as this was a favour of a very high nature, and conferred on Abraham at his earnest request; it was but fit he should himself approve it by some proportionable trial. On this account, therefore, God was pleased by the very manner in which this mystery was revealed, to tempt or try Abraham; where the making the favour itself the trial of his deserving it hath all the superior elegance and beauty which is conceived in the dispensations of divine wisdom only. The very manner in which this reason is recorded, shews it an inferior one: for it is not said that God gave this command to try Abraham, which expresses a principal reason, but, that in giving the command, God did try him, which only implies an inferior one.

2 Take now thy son, thine only son.] The order in which the words are placed in the original, gradually increase the sense, and raise the passions higher and higher. Take now thy son, thine only son, whom thou lovest, even Isaac: This was to preclude any doubt in Abraham. Abraham desired earnestly to be let into the mystery of the redemption: and God, to instruct him, (in the best manner humanity is capable of receiving instruction) in the infinite extent of the divine goodness to mankind, who spared not his own son, but delivered him up for us all; let Abraham feel, by experience, what it was to lose a beloved son; the son born miraculously, when Sarah was past childbearing, as Jesus was miraculously born of a virgin. The duration too of the action, ver. 4. was the same as that between Christ's death and resurrection, both which were designed to be represented in it; and still farther, not only the final arch typical sacrifice of the Son of God, was figured in the command to offer Isaac, but the intermediate typical sacrifice in the Mosaic œconomy, was represented by the permitted sacrifice of the ram offered up, ver. 13. instead of Isaac.

Land of Moriah.] Conformably to the interpretation given of this command, Abraham calls the land to which he went with Isaac, the land of vision, according Jerom's interpretation; which shews, that the words of Jesus, "Abraham saw my day," evidently allude to this extraordinary circumstance. In a word, Jesus says, "Abraham saw my day;" and Abraham, by the name he imposed on the scene of action, declares the same thing.

Offer him, &c.] The command was only the conveyance of an information by action, instead of words, in conformity to the common mode of conversing in former times; and as it was only the grant of an earnest request, and known by Abraham at the time of imposing, to be such a grant, he could not possibly have any doubt concerning the author of it. The action likewise being mere scenery, and, like words, only of arbitrary signification, it had no moral import; consequently, the injunction in such an action, as it hath not, can in no way affect the moral character of the person commanding; and consequently, this could occasion no mistakes concerning the divine attributes, with regard to God's delighting in human sacrifices.

6 Abraham took the wood and laid, &c.] In this was represented another circumstance attending the crucifixion, that of Christ's bearing his own cross.

7 And Isaac said my father, &c.] This sentence is the most expressive, and, if we may be allowed the expression, the most voluminous that ever was uttered. Let the tender parent substitute himself in the stead of Abraham, and then he will not only understand, but likewise feel all the pathos comprehended in these few words; words that were echoed by our dearest Saviour, amidst his agony, in the garden of Gethsemane; "Abba, Father," said he, "all things are possible for thee, &c." Mark xiv. 36.

9 Bound Isaac his son, &c.] The sacred historian has, like the celebrated painter, drawn a vail over the sorrows of Abraham, and the resignation of Isaac; that the imagination of the reader might paint to him more forcibly the struggles of the parent, and the agonies of the son, than it is in the power of language to express. An excellent author has, upon this occasion, presented us with a very pathetic speech to Isaac, to prevail upon him to submit to this sacrifice; but the silence of Moses is abundantly more expressive: Isaac was, at this period, about five and twenty years of age, and his father enfeebled with years; his resignation, therefore, at this time, must certainly have been voluntary; and in this respect he was a strong and exact type of our ever blessed Saviour, who voluntarily laid down his life for us, though no one could otherwise take it from him, John x. 17, 18. 1 John iii. 16.

12 Lay not thine hand, &c.] As by the command Abraham understood the nature of man's redemption; he must know how the scenical presentation was to end. Isaac was made the person, or representative of Christ's dying for us: the Son of God, he knew, could not possibly be under the dominion of the grave. Hence he must needs conclude, either that God would stop his hand when he came to give the sacrificing stroke; or, that, if the revelation of this mystery was to be represented throughout in action, that then his son, sacrificed under the person of Christ, was soon to be restored to life; accounting, that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead, as the author of the epistle to the Hebrews assures us, chap. xi. 19. The law of nature commands us to protect and cherish our offspring: was that transgressed in giving a stroke, whose hurt was presently to be repaired? The law of nature forbids all injury to our fellow creature; and was he injured, who, being thus highly honoured, in becoming the representative of the Son of God, was to share with his father in the rewards of his obedience? Thus it appears, that this command was a mere information by action; and, when regarded in this view, all the arguments against God's giving it to Abraham, are absolutely enervated and overthrown. This interpretation of the command,

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXII. Before CHRIST 1872.

In this chapter we ſhould obſerve, that, in the greateſt extremities, God will make a ſuitable proviſion for the deliverance and ſupport of thoſe who fear and truſt in him, even as he did to Abraham upon the mount itſelf, when he was in the greateſt extremity, and had no immediate proſpect before him of any deliverance.—And this points out to us the great moral of this paſſage of ſacred hiſtory; namely, that in the moſt difficult duties, we ought to be obedient and reſigned to the will of God; and ſomething ſimilar to the order given to Abraham to offer up Iſaac, as to the ſpirit of it, is commanded us by Chriſt, when he ſays, "He that loveth father and mother more than me, is not worthy of me: and he that loveth ſon and daughter more than me, is not worthy of me," Matt. x. 37. that is, he who will not relinquiſh or leave them all; if he cannot, without doing it, profeſs the religion of Chriſt, and live according to his precepts.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 The age and death of Sarah. 3 The purchaſe of Machpelah, 19 where Sarah was buried.

AND Sarah was an hundred and ſeven and twenty years old: theſe were the years of the life of Sarah.

3 ¶ And Abraham ſtood up from before his dead, and ſpake unto the ſons of Heth, ſaying,

4 I am a ſtranger and a ſojourner with you: give me a poſſeſſion of a buryingplace with you, that I may bury my dead out of my ſight.

5 And the children of Heth anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him,

6 Hear us, my lord: thou art a mighty prince among us: in the choice of our ſepulchres bury thy dead; none of us ſhall withhold from thee his ſepulchre, but that thou mayeſt bury thy dead.

7 And

for the real ſacrifice of Chriſt, and the proper redemption of mankind. For if the command was an information by action, inſtead of words the proof conveyed in it is deciſive, there being here no room for their evaſion of its being a figurative expreſſion, ſince the figurative action, the original of ſuch expreſſion, denotes either a real ſacrifice, or nothing at all.

Feareſt God, &c.] This was not a ſervile, ſuperſtitious fear, ariſing from narrow ideas of the divine goodneſs and power, but a filial fear, which generated hope in the greateſt extremity, and indicated ſuch a generoſity of diſpoſition, as is better conceived than expreſſed.

14 Called the name of the place Jehovah-jireh, &c.] When Iſaac aſked his father, Where is the lamb? he anſwered in the Hebrew, "Elohim-jireh;" which this name alludes to. The anſwer of Jeſus to the Jew in theſe words, "Abraham rejoiced to ſee my day," alludes to this verſe. Jehovah-jireh ſignifies, the Lord ſhall be ſeen. But with what propriety could this name be given to it by Abraham, if, in this tranſaction, he had not ſeen the repreſentation of our Lord's paſſion? And, if he did ſee it, how appoſite was the name? The hiſtorian goes on: "As it is ſaid to this day, In the mount of the Lord it ſhall be ſeen; or, more exactly to the Hebrew, for he ſaid, In the mount of the Lord it ſhall be ſeen. In the firſt part of the verſe, the ſacred hiſtorian tells us; that Abraham called the mount, The Lord ſhall be ſeen; and in the latter part he acquaints us with the manner how Abraham impoſed that application; namely, by the uſe of a proverbial ſpeech, implying the reaſon of the name. In a word, Jeſus ſays, Abraham ſaw his day; and Abraham, by the name he impoſed upon the mount, declares the ſame thing. But as the viſion was of a public, not of a private nature, he expreſſes himſelf in terms which ſignify what mankind in general ſhall ſee, not what he himſelf had ſeen. The Lord ſhall be ſeen.

16 By myſelf, &c.] In the preceding verſe it is ſaid, the angel of the Lord called; but in this, "by myſelf have I ſworn, ſaith the Lord." This was, therefore, the Deity himſelf, as appears from Heb. vi. 13. "When God made promiſe to Abraham, becauſe he could ſwear by no greater, ſwore by himſelf."

20 And it came to paſs, &c.] The following genealogy is chiefly ſet down to ſhew whence Rebekah the wife of Iſaac was deſcended, and it connects with the beginning of chap. xxiv. for this news of Nahor's having children born to him, puts Abraham upon the reſolution of ſeeking a wife from thence for his ſon.

21 Huz] Or Uz. There was likewiſe one of this name among the poſterity of Edom, chap. xxxvi. 28. from whom Idumea was called the land of Uz, Lam. iv. 21. But from this ſon of Nahor, Job's country is ſuppoſed to be called the land of Uz.

Buz] From whom came Elihu the Buzite, Job xxxii. 2. A people likewiſe in Arabia, Jer. xxv. 23.

Aram.] Probably ſettled in the ſame country. There was another of the name, a ſon of Shem, the father of the Syrians.

22 Cheſed, &c.] Thought to be the father of the Chaldeans, called Chaſdim in ſcripture.

24 His concubine, &c.] His ſecondary wife, who was not the miſtreſs of the family, but only taken according to the cuſtom of thoſe times, for the increaſe of children. The Jewiſh doctors make this diſtinction between concubines and legitimate wives; that the children of concubines could only enjoy legacies, not inherit the eſtate; which they confirm by the example of Abraham, who left all to Iſaac, but to the ſons of the concubines he only gave gifts, chap. xxv. 5, 6. But this practice ſeems to have depended more upon the pleaſure of the parent, than to have been eſtabliſhed by any law, or fixed rule of acting, as may be gathered from the inſtance of Jacob's children by concubines, who ſhared equally with his other children. See Gen. xxi. 10. It is probable that concubines were upon a much more precarious footing than the legitimate wives, and that they might, upon occaſion, be turned away by the huſband, even though guilty of no breach of conjugal fidelity, as in the caſe of Hagar, chap. xxi. 14.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIII.

1 Sarah was, &c.] Sarah is the only woman whoſe age is reckoned in the holy ſcripture.

2 To mourn and weep, &c.] This is a kind of pleonaſm frequent in holy writ; though ſome imagine that mourning implied private ſorrow, but weeping public grief. In the ſecond verb in the Hebrew, which expreſſes Abraham's weeping, the caph, the fourth letter, is leſs than the preceding or following letters. The Cabaliſtic Jews inform us, that Moſes wrote that letter leſs than the reſt, to intimate to us, that we are not to indulge grief for our departed friends, ſince Abraham wept but little for Sarah; as appears from the little letter. But as the moſt ancient manuſcripts acknowledge no ſuch irregularity in the letters, we may reject this obſervation, as being rather ingenious than true.

Stood up, &c.] Though moſt commentators imagine this expreſſion alludes to the eaſtern manner of mourning, Job ii. yet as they find the word uſed again in the ſeventh verſe, the alteration of poſture was only to ſhew reverence to the council, whom he could not have addreſſed with any decorum, eſpecially as he was requeſting a favour, in any other attitude.

4. 5, Give me poſſeſſion, &c.] The moſt ancient and natural method of burying the dead, was by interment: it was reckoned ignominous for any perſon to bury in a ſepulchre belonging to another. Abraham, who was, as the Hebrew expreſſes it, a prince of Elohim, or God, juſtly complied with this cuſtom; and the reaſon aſſigned by the children of Heth for their acquieſcence, gives us a noble idea of the patriarch's character.

6 In the choice of our ſepulchres bury thy dead, &c.] As they had many, every family a diſtinct ſepulchre for itſelf; they made offer of them to him, to bury his dead in the choiceſt of them, the moſt grand and magnificent, or in which of them ſoever he pleaſed; which was very kind, generous, and reſpectful.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIII.

Before CHRIST 1860.

From Abraham's treating with the people of Heth, and from many other tranſactions related in the ſcriptures, it ſeems as if kings in thoſe days, did nothing of a public nature, but in conjunction with the people; and that the people had a great ſhare in the management of all affairs.

We may remark in this chapter, that Abraham finds favour in the ſight of every people, wherever he goes: ſuch a noble, candid, upright, generous character as Abraham's, will naturally procure love, eſteem, and reſpect; but undoubtedly the peculiar favour he found amongſt all people, was owing more to the providence of God; for the ſcriptures always ſpeak of finding favour in the ſight of man, as one of God's bleſſings.

4 But thou ſhalt go unto my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon Iſaac.

9 Machpelah, &c.] This word ſignifies a double cave; it might poſſibly be the name given to a field, on account of its having ſuch a cave in it; though it muſt be confeſſed the Septuagint, and oriental tranſlations, make uſe of it as an appellative, not as a proper name, mentioning only the words "double cave."

10 Ephron dwelled.] The word rendered, dwelled, by our tranſlators, the Vulgate and Syriac interpret, ſat, and is rendered in that ſenſe by the Septuagint. The Chaldee tranſlates it ſtood, and the Arabic, he ſpake in the preſence, &c. whence it follows, that Ephraim was preſent at this aſſembly, ſitting, while Abraham addreſſed them, but that he roſe after the patriarch had finiſhed his harangue, in order to make the reply which follows, v. 11.

In at the gate, &c.] The Hebrew word for "gate," implies that they were citizens, or inhabitants of that place. See chap. xxxiv. 24.

16 Four hundred ſhekels, &c.] This amounted to forty-ſix pounds thirteen ſhillings, and upwards, and was weighed, becauſe at that time no coinage was invented; its currency, which the merchant mentioned at the end of the verſe, implies, that no baſe alloy was mixed with it, nor any artifice or fraud uſed to impoſe on the ſeller.

18 For a poſſeſſion.] This purchaſe not only prevented any diſſenſion between the poſterity of Abraham and the natives, but likewiſe verified in part, the promiſe which God had made, that he and his ſeed ſhould have a poſſeſſion in that land.

Before all that went in at the gate, &c.] See ver. 10. This is added, becauſe the leaders of the people, in ancient times, uſed to hold their aſſemblies in ſome apartment, in or over the gates of their cities, chap. xxxiv. 20. Deut. xxi. 19. Ruth iv. 1.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIV.

1 And Abraham was old, &c.] Abraham was an hundred years old when Iſaac was born, and Iſaac was forty when he married Rebekah; conſequently Abraham was now about one hundred and forty years of age.

2 Put thy hand under my thigh.] This was the common method of taking an oath, both among the Hebrews and all the oriental nations. The reaſons aſſigned for this ceremony, are entirely conjectural; however, as it was not the ceremony, but the words of the oath which were binding, we need not be careful to explain the ceremony.

3 The Lord, the God of heaven.] This oath ſtrongly proves the purity of Abraham's religion, and aſſerts the unity of the ſupreme Being. The gods of the nations round him, were either the celeſtial bodies, or deified heroes; they were local and tutelary, not univerſal and omnipreſent deities! as they did not make, they could not be ſuppoſed to protect the univerſe; their power was reſtrained within bounds almoſt as narrow as their exiſtence; and the ſphere of their knowledge being conſequently circumſcribed, their aſſiſtance was ſuppoſed limited to the country in which they were born. In oppoſition to theſe deities, Moſes repreſents Abraham as ſwearing by the Lord, the God of heaven, and the God of earth; his omnipreſence rendering him a fit object of ſo ſolemn an appeal, and his omnipotence capable of puniſhing any violation of it.

2 Thou ſhalt not take, &c.] The Canaanites were immerſed in practices which were the diſgrace of humanity; they were likewiſe, on that account, devoted to deſtruction; an intermarriage of the promiſed ſeed to any of them, would therefore have counteracted the divine predictions, would have been inconſiſtent with the deſign of Providence, in making choice of Abraham's poſterity to preſerve the idea of the unity of the Deity, and would conſequently have endangered both their religion and their morals.

4 But thou ſhalt go into my country, &c.] To Meſopotamia, the place of Abraham's nativity, and where he lived many years.

5 Muſt I needs bring thy ſon again into the land from whence thou cameſt?] That is, if the woman refuſe to follow me into the land of Canaan, muſt I return and fetch thy ſon to her? A queſtion which Abraham immediately reſolves in the negative. No conſideration could prevail upon him to let his ſon return to a land, which he himſelf was obliged to quit, on account of the inhumanity and idolatry of its inhabitants.

ſend his angel before thee, and thou ſhalt take a wife unto my ſon from thence.

8 And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then thou ſhalt be clear from this my oath: only bring not my ſon thither again.

9 And the ſervant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his maſter, and ſware to him concerning that matter.

10 ¶ And the ſervant took ten camels of the camels of his maſter, and departed; for all the goods of his maſter were in his hand: and he aroſe, and went to Meſopotamia, unto the city of Nahor.

11 And he made his camels to kneel down without the city by a well of water at the time of the evening, even the time that women go out to draw water.

12 ¶ And he ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, I pray thee, ſend me good ſpeed this day, and ſhew kindneſs unto my maſter Abraham.

13 Behold, I ſtand here by the well of water; and the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water:

14 And let it come to paſs, that the damſel to whom I ſhall ſay, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and ſhe ſhall ſay, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: let the ſame be ſhe that thou haſt appointed for thy ſervant Iſaac; and thereby ſhall I know that thou haſt ſhewed kindneſs unto my maſter.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs, before he had done ſpeaking, that, behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel, ſon of Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her ſhoulder.

16 And the damſel was very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and ſhe went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

17 And the ſervant ran to meet her, and ſaid, Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water of thy pitcher.

18 And ſhe ſaid, Drink, my lord: and ſhe haſted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

19 And when ſhe had done giving him drink, ſhe ſaid, I will draw water for thy camels alſo, until they have done drinking.

20 And ſhe haſted, and emptied her pitcher into a trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man wondering at her held his peace, to wit, whether the LORD had made his journey proſperous or not.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden earring of half a ſhekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands of ten ſhekels weight of gold;

23 And ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy father's houſe for us to lodge in?

24 And ſhe ſaid unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuel the ſon of Milcah, which ſhe bare unto Nahor. Before CHRIST 1857.

25 She ſaid moreover unto him, We have both ſtraw and provender enough, and room to lodge in.

26 And the man bowed down his head, and worſhipped the LORD.

27 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, who hath not left deſtitute my maſter of his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the houſe of my maſter's brethren.

28 And the damſel ran, and told them of her mother's houſe theſe things.

29 ¶ And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And it came to paſs, when he ſaw the earring and bracelets upon his ſiſter's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his ſiſter, ſaying, Thus ſpake the man unto me; that he came unto the man; and, behold, he ſtood by the camels at the well.

31 And he ſaid, Come in, thou bleſſed of the LORD; wherefore ſtandeſt thou without? for I have prepared the houſe, and room for the camels.

32 And the man came into the houſe: and he ungirded his camels, and gave ſtraw and provender for the camels, and water to waſh his feet, and the men's feet that were with him.

33 And there was ſet meat before him to eat: but he ſaid, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he ſaid, Speak on.

34 ¶ And he ſaid, I am Abraham's ſervant.

35 And the LORD hath bleſſed my maſter greatly; and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and ſilver, and gold, and menſervants, and maidſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

36 And Sarah my maſter's wife bare a ſon to my maſter when ſhe was old: and unto him hath he given all that he hath.

37 And my maſter made me ſwear, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife to my ſon of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whoſe land I dwell:

38 But thou ſhalt go unto my father's houſe, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon.

39 And I ſaid unto my maſter, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he ſaid unto me, The LORD before whom I walk, will ſend his angel with thee, and proſper thy way; and thou ſhalt take a wife for my ſon of my kindred, and of my father's houſe:

41 Then ſhalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comeſt to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou ſhalt be clear from my oath.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, if now thou do proſper my way which I go:

12 And he ſaid, O Lord God of my maſter Abraham, &c.] We have here a pleaſing inſtance of the patriarch's care in training up his ſervants in the paths of religion, as well as a noble example of truſt in providence.

14 Let it come to paſs, &c.] After his prayer, he addreſſed himſelf to the firſt damſel that came, who, with the greateſt humanity, granted his requeſt of drinking. Her extraordinary kindneſs raiſed the curioſity of Abraham's ſteward, who inquired into her family, and was informed by her, that her name was Rebekah; that her father Bethuel was dead; and that ſhe lived with Laban her brother, who took care of her mother and herſelf.

19 I will draw water, &c.] It was cuſtomary for the young women in the eaſt to draw water for the cattle, and the uſe of the family, as appears from 1 Sam. ix. 11. The kindneſs which Rebekah ſhewed on this occaſion, ſtrongly marks the ſimplicity of thoſe early ages, and vindicates the fidelity of Abraham's ſervant, chuſing a perſon whoſe morals rendered her worthy of Iſaac's affection.

22 The man took a golden earring, &c.] The word tranſlated "earring," being in the ſingular number, it is probable that it was ſome ornament worn on the face, or forehead, called in other parts of ſcripture, a noſe-jewel, which was worn in moſt of the eaſtern countries. The value of theſe preſents, is eſtimated differently by different authors; for while ſome compute them at eighteen guineas, others raiſe them to upward of twenty-five pounds ſterling. Theſe preſents were intended as Rebekah's dowry; it being cuſtomary for the huſband to bring a portion to his wife, in former ages.

28 Mother's houſe, &c.] The women in the eaſtern countries had, in thoſe days, ſeparate tents for themſelves, as at preſent they lodge by themſelves in ſeraglios.

31 Come in, thou bleſſed of the Lord, &c.] How amiable a picture of ancient hoſpitality and warm benevolence, does this verſe preſent us with! Abraham's ſervant was a ſtranger, whom Laban had never ſeen: he had not, as yet, imparted his buſineſs, but is received with all the tenderneſs of a brother, and is complimented with a title which every one muſt wiſh to deſerve: with the title of the bleſſed of the Lord.

32 He ungirded, &c.] Though the relative "he," ſeems to imply that the man ungirded his camels, yet it was Laban, or his ſervants, that performed this kind office, as appears from the biſhop of Cheſter's comment on this place.

33 I will not eat, until I have told mine errand.] We have here a picture of a faithful ſervant, one who prefers his maſter's buſineſs to his own pleaſures; and is, therefore, impatient till he has delivered his meſſage, and ſatisfied himſelf whether his journey ſhould be proſperous or not.

49 That

43 Behold, I ſtand by the well of water; and it ſhall come to paſs, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I ſay to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;

44 And ſhe ſay to me, Both drink thou, and I will alſo draw for thy camels: let the ſame be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out for my maſter's ſon.

45 And before I had done ſpeaking in mine heart, behold Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her ſhoulder; and ſhe went down unto the well, and drew water: and I ſaid unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And ſhe made haſte, and let down her pitcher from her ſhoulder, and ſaid, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: ſo I drank, and ſhe made the camels drink alſo.

47 And I aſked her, and ſaid, whoſe daughter art thou? And ſhe ſaid, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's ſon, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the earring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands.

48 And I bowed down my head, and worſhipped the LORD, and bleſſed the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take my maſter's brother's daughter unto his ſon.

49 And now if ye will deal kindly and truly with my maſter, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left.

50 ¶ Then Laban and Bethuel anſwered and ſaid, The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot ſpeak unto thee bad or good.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy maſter's ſon's wife, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

52 And it came to paſs, that, when Abraham's ſervant heard their words, he worſhipped the LORD, bowing himſelf to the earth.

53 And the ſervant brought forth jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave alſo to her brother and to her mother precious things.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night; and they roſe up in the morning, and he ſaid, Send me away unto my maſter.

55 And her brother and her mother ſaid, Let the damſel abide with us a few days, at the leaſt ten; after that ſhe ſhall go.

56 And he ſaid unto them, Hinder me not, ſeeing the LORD hath proſpered my way; ſend me away that I may go to my maſter.

57 And they ſaid, We will call the damſel, and enquire at her mouth.

58 And they called Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And ſhe ſaid, I will go.

59 And they ſent away Rebekah their ſiſter, and her nurſe, and Abraham's ſervant, and his men. Before CHRIST 1857.

60 And they bleſſed Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Thou art our ſiſter, be thou the mother of thouſands of millions, and let thy ſeed poſſeſs the gate of thoſe which hate them.

61 And Rebekah aroſe, and her damſels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and the ſervant took Rebekah, and went his way.

62 ¶ And Iſaac came from the way of the well Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the ſouth country.

63 And Iſaac went out to meditate in the field at the eventide: and he lifted up his eyes, and ſaw, and, behold, the camels were coming.

64 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and when ſhe ſaw Iſaac, ſhe lighted off the camel.

65 For ſhe had ſaid unto the ſervant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the ſervant had ſaid, It is my maſter: therefore ſhe took a vail, and covered herſelf.

66 And the ſervant told Iſaac all things that he had done.

67 And Iſaac brought her into his mother Sarah's tent, and took Rebekah, and ſhe became his wife; and he loved her: and Iſaac was comforted after his mother's death.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIV.

We may remark here, how careful Abraham is, that his ſon ſhould not marry with one of corrupt manners. He, we find, was in ſo high eſtimation with the Canaanites, that undoubtedly he could have married his ſon to one of the daughters of the princes of the land: but this has no weight with him; one whoſe manners were not corrupted, is all that he fixes his thoughts upon. He knew what an important matter this was, and how much his ſon's happineſs depended on it; and therefore ſends even to a different country for ſuch a one. Alas! how different is this from our manners! Wealth is the chief object we fix our thoughts on, in marrying our children: we ſeek not, in our choice, thoſe that are ſincere and devout worſhippers of God, but thoſe who have the largeſt poſſeſſions; not thoſe rich in good works, but thoſe rich in the things of the world. And this, perhaps, is one chief and principal cauſe of the too great corruption of manners amongſt us.

49 That I may turn to the right hand, &c.] Some take this expreſſion literally, interpreting the right hand by the Iſhmaelites, and the left hand by Lot and his poſterity; but it rather ſeems to be a figurative expreſſion, ſignifying alteration of conduct.

55 Abide with us a few days, &c.] Though ſome interpret the Hebrew word iamim, by "years," which it ſometimes ſignifies, yet as this ſenſe is inconſiſtent with the eagerneſs that Abraham's ſervant expreſſes to return, in the fifty-ſixth and preceding verſes, the ſenſe of our tranſlators ſeems the beſt. The Arabic, indeed, renders the words a whole year, or at leaſt, ten months; the Syriac, A month of days; the Samaritan, Days or a month; the Chaldee, For ſome time, or ten months; the Septuagint, About ten days; and the Vulgate, at leaſt ten days.

58 And ſhe ſaid, I will go.] The authority which parents have over children, being founded in nature, was, and muſt be always the ſame. But we find that no force was put upon the will of Rebekah in this caſe, and why ſhould it? The happineſs of the connubial ſtate, depends upon the reciprocal affection which the parties bear to each other; but this affection muſt proceed from the will, and the will cannot be forced; the choice, therefore, ſhould be voluntary, nay, if it be not voluntary, the ſeeds of unhappineſs are ſown by the perſon who compels, becauſe we are generally diſpleaſed with that which is forced upon us.

63 To meditate, &c.] The word tranſlated "meditate," is rendered, in the Syriac, To walk; and by the Chaldee, the Samarit n, and Arabic traſlations, To pray; in which ſenſe it is uſed likewiſe in Pſalm cii. 1. Whence we may collect, that the employment of Iſaac's thoughts was religious; and can any thing give us a nobler idea of Iſaac's piety, than this verſe, wherein he is repreſented as abſtracting himſelf from ſociety, in order to meditate on the beauties of the creation, and offer up his prayers and praiſes to that Being, who openeth his hands, and filleth all things living with good!

65 She took a vail, and covered herſelf.] The word tranſlated "vail," is by the Septuagint, rendered, A ſummer cloak, or garment. It was a common practice among the women of the eaſt, to wear a vail whenever they went abroad; but this particular action of Rebekah's ſeems to be done in conformity to the cuſtom of all brides, who covered themſelves with the nuptial vail, when they were firſt introduced to their huſbands.

67 And Iſaac was comforted after his mother's death.] A remarkable inſtance of filial affection! Sarah had now been dead three years, and yet Iſaac continued to lament her.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on Chap. XXV.

1 Took a wife, &c.] It appears from 1 Chron. i. 32. that ſhe was only a concubine, a perſon admitted to his bed without the uſual forms of matrimony; but in order to prevent his poſterity from imitating a practice neceſſary for repleniſhing the earth in the firſt ages of the world, Moſes probably calls her by the honourable name of a wife.

2 And ſhe bare, &c.] This was a pledge of the divine veracity, in fulfilling the promiſe made him, chap. xvii. 6.

8 Gave up the ghoſt] Signifies a death without pain or agony. The antient tranſlators are induſtrious to preſerve this ſenſe, as reflecting honour on Abraham's memory.

Full of years] In the Hebrew text there are no words for "years," printed by our tranſlators in italics; but the ſenſe not being perfect without the addition of ſome ſuch word, we muſt allow that the word iamim, "days," not "years," is omitted. This appears to be more than conjecture, when we remark, that the Samaritan, the Septuagint, the Syriac, Arabic, and Vulgate, have ſupplied this word; beſides, it is a phraſe often uſed on theſe occaſions; and the very word we have ſupplied occurs Gen. xxxv. 29. See 1 Chron. xxiii. 1. Though the word iamim, or "days," is omitted in the Targum of the London polyglot, yet ſome printed copies, ſuch as thoſe of the Complutenſian and Antwerp editions, preſerve it. It is found in a manuſcript of the Hebrew and Chaldee, in the Bodleian library, numbered five thouſand two hundred and thirty-three; and is likewiſe preſerved in one belonging to the Harleian collection at the Britiſh Muſeum.

Was gathered to his people.] In the eaſtern language, which gives action or motion to every thing, this ſentence ſignifies, to be reduced to one common lot or condition; beſides, as the Hebrew abounds in pleonaſms, "to die, and to be gathered to his people," are but two different phraſes of the ſame thing. It muſt ſtill be allowed, that this phraſe originally aroſe from the notion of ſome common receptacle of ſouls. But we know how ſoon terms and phraſes loſe the memory of their original. The truth of this interpretation is confirmed by the ſeveral contexts wherein theſe expreſſions occur; the hiſtorian's purpoſe being evidently nothing elſe than to record the period of their exiſtence here on earth.

18 He died in the preſence of all his brethren.] In the Hebrew it is, He fell; in the Chaldee and Arabic, He dwelt; and in this ſenſe the verſe is an accompliſhment of the prediction at his birth.

20 And Iſaac was forty years old, &c.] Many of the following particulars happened ſeveral years before the death of Abraham; though they are related after that event; for the patriarch lived fifteen years after Eſau and Jacob were born.

22 If it be ſo, why am I thus?] The Chaldee renders it, If it was to be ſo, why did I conceive? The Arabic paraphraſes it thus, If I knew that the thing would have been ſo, I would not have requeſted it. That is, Why did I conceive, if I muſt ſuffer ſuch uncommon excruciating pains? Yes, better for me to die, than to live in ſuch continual miſery.

She went to enquire of the Lord.] The Chaldee renders it, She went to enquire of the oracle. Some commentators are not agreed in what manner Rebekah enquired of the Lord; they ſeem in general to agree, that ſhe had recourſe to ſome prophet, but who that prophet was, is difficult to determine, unleſs it was God himſelf.

23 Two nations] The founders of two nations; namely, the Iſraelites and Idumeans, the former being deſcended from Jacob, and the latter from Eſau. The Edomites were the offspring of Eſau, as the Iſraelites were of Jacob; and who but the author and giver of life could foreſee that two children in the womb would multiply into two nations! But they were not only to grow up into two nations, but into two very diſtinct nations, and two manner of people were to be ſeparated from her bowels. And have not the Edomites and Iſraelites been all along two very different people in their manners, cuſtoms, and religions, which made them to be perpetually at variance one with another? The children ſtruggled together in the womb; and when they were grown up, they manifeſted different inclinations. The like diverſity ran through their poſterity: there was a continual enmity between the two nations. The king of Edom would not ſuffer the Iſraelites, in their return out of Egypt, to paſs through his territories; and the hiſtory of the Edomites afterwards is little more than the hiſtory of their wars with the Jews.

The elder ſhall ſerve the younger.] The Hebrew may be tranſlated, The greater ſhall ſerve the leſſer. The family of Eſau was the elder, and for ſome time the greater and more powerful of the two, theſe having been dukes and kings in Edom, before there reigned any king over the children of Iſrael. But David made an entire conqueſt of the Edomites, and compelled them to become his tributaries. In this ſtate of ſervitude they continued about one hundred and fifty years. In the reign of Jehoram they recovered their liberties; but were afterwards defeated by Amaziah. Judas Maccabeus took their capital city; and his nephew Hyrcanus reduced them to the neceſſity of embracing the Jewiſh religion, or leaving their country.

25 Red all over like a hairy garment, &c.] This expreſſion may denote, either that Eſau, at his birth, was wholly covered with red hair, or that the colour of his fleſh was ruddy, like a garment of red hair. And hence his name was called Eſau, from Eſchau, which, among the antient Hebrews ſignified "a hair cloth."

26 His name was called Jacob, &c.] From hekeb, "the heel;" whence the Hebrew verb, to ſupplant, and Jacob a ſupplanter.

27 A plain man dwelling in tents.] He was of a mild and gentle nature, one that delighted in the ſoft acts of peace, and the innocent pleaſures of a paſtoral life. The word, in the original, ſignifies not "plain," but "perfect;" and in this ſenſe it is rendered by the Syriac, Samaritan, and Chaldee; and by the Arabic, Perfect virtues. But the word perfect being a general term, and put in oppoſition to the rough and ruſtic manners of Eſau, it muſt import that Jacob was more humane and gentle, as we have explained it.

Before CHRIST 1837. 29 And Jacob sod pottage: and Esau came from the field, and he was faint:

30 And Esau said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom.

31 And Jacob said, Sell me this day thy birthright.

1805. 32 And Esau said, Behold, I am at the point to die: and what profit shall this birthright do to me?

33 And Jacob said, Swear to me this day; and he sware unto him: and he sold his birthright unto Jacob.

34 Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way: thus Esau despised his birthright.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXV.

In this place we cannot but consider it as wonderful, that the same people should retain the same disposition for so many ages, without changing their manners at all in so long a course of years; their continuance is still more astonishing: the great empires around them have all in their turns fallen to ruin, while they have continued the same from the beginning, and are likely to continue the same to the end. And this, in the natural course of human affairs, was so highly improbable, if not altogether impossible, that as nothing but a divine prescience could have foreseen it, so nothing but a divine power could have accomplished it.

We may with more confidence believe the particulars related of Abraham and Ishmael, when we see them verified in their posterity at this day. This is having, as it were, ocular demonstration for our faith. This is proving by plain matter of fact, that the Most High ruleth in the kingdoms of men, and that his truth, as well as his mercy, endureth for ever.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Isaac because of the famine goeth to Gerar. 2 God instructeth and blesseth him. 6 He denieth his wife, and is reproved by Abimelech. 12 He groweth rich, and the Philistines envy him. 18 He diggeth sundry wells. 23 God appeareth to him in Beer-sheba, and blesseth him. 26 Abimelech maketh a covenant with him there. 34 Esau's Canaanitish wives are a grief to his parents.

1804. AND there was a famine in the land, beside the first famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went unto Abimelech king of the Philistines unto Gerar. Before CHRIST 1804.

2 ¶ And the LORD appeared unto him, and said, Go not down into Egypt; dwell in the land which I shall tell thee of:

3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee; for unto thee, and unto thy seed, I will give all these countries, and I will perform the oath which I sware unto Abraham thy father;

4 And I will make thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;

5 Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws.

6 ¶ And Isaac dwelt in Gerar:

7 And the men of the place asked him of his wife; and he said, She is my sister: for he feared to say, She is my wife; lest, said he, the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah; because she was fair to look upon.

8 And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked out at a window, and saw, and, behold, Isaac was sporting with Rebekah his wife.

9 And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold, of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Lest I die for her.

10 And Abimelech said, What is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife, and thou shouldest have brought guiltiness upon us.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that toucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death.

12 ¶ Then Isaac sowed in that land, and received in the same year an hundred-fold: and the LORD blessed him:

13 And the man waxed great, and went forward, and grew until he became very great:

14 For

29 Sod, &c.] This signifies to boil, and is the old preterite of the verb, to seethe.

30 Feed me with that same red pottage, &c.] The words in the original are, Feed me with that red, that same red; which some consider as a plain proof that Esau did not know the ingredients of which this pottage was made; but others think the repetition is used to express his extreme faintness, and the impatience of his appetite.

31 Sell me this day thy birthright.] It is thought that whoever enjoyed the birthright, had a right to the land of Canaan; which included a blessing promised to the peculiar seed of Abraham, from whom the Messiah was to descend. It is evident that fathers in those early days conferred a blessing on their first-born, which was conceived to extend to their posterity, according to the words of the son of Sirach: "The blessing of the father establisheth the houses of children; but the curse of the mother rooteth out foundations," Eccles. iii. 9. And hence we see the propriety of the epithet applied to this action by the apostle; for it doubtless shewed a profane, dissolute mind, to be thus regardless of his future dignity, unmindful of his posterity, and, for a trivial consideration, to give up his right to a father's dying benediction.

32 I am at the point to die, &c.] We have here a true picture of a profane sensualist, who, for a sordid momentary pleasure, will give up the most solid and permanent joys of futurity.

34 He did eat, and drink, and rose up, and went his way, &c.] He shewed no concern at what he had done, hoping, perhaps, to recover that by force, which he had lost by his brother's craft. And possibly he might depend so much upon Isaac's partial fondness for him, as to imagine he would not suffer Jacob to deprive him of any privileges of his birthright, notwithstanding this solemn agreement.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVI.

1 Besides the first famine.] See chap. xii. 10. We are of opinion that this event preceded the birth of Jacob and Esau, because it is not probable that Rebekah would dissemble her being a wife after she had borne twins.

Unto Abimelech, &c.] Probably the son of him to whom Abraham went. Abimelech was the common appellation of the kings of Palestine, as is said chap. xx. 2. Thus he who is called Achish, 1 Sam. xxi. 10. is styled Abimelech, Psalm xxxiv.

2 Go not down into Egypt] It appears from this passage, that Isaac had formed a design of going into Egypt, because of the famine which then raged in the land of Canaan; but God dissuaded him from it, lest that fruitful country should have induced him to fix his residence there; his seed, by that means, would have been confounded with the Egyptians; and the doctrine of the one God (a principle which they were separated in order to preserve) should by that means be lost.

3 The oath, &c.] All the promises which God had confirmed to Abraham by an oath; namely, "that he would multiply his seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that is upon the sea-shore; and that his seed should possess the gate of their enemies."

4 I will make thy seed to multiply, &c.] Not to mention the vast increase of their other posterity, how soon did their descendants by Jacob grow up into a mighty nation! and how numerous were they formerly in the land of Canaan? How numerous were they in other parts of the world, according to all accounts? How numerous are they still in their present dispersion among all nations! It is impossible to fix the number this nation is at present composed of; but yet we have reason to believe there are still three millions of people who profess this religion; and, as their phrase is, are witnesses of the unity of God in all the nations of the world. And who could foretel such a wonderful increase by propagation of a branch only of one man's family, but the same divine power that could effect it?

5 Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, &c.] By using such a variety of expressions, God seems to indicate how highly he was pleased with the punctuality of Abraham's obedience to every thing he commanded him.

7 She is my sister, &c.] Isaac, in this particular, imitated the weakness of his father, and made use of a prevarication which was more dangerous than the truth.

8 Abimelech king of the Philistines, &c.] This occurrence shews the difference between an Egyptian monarch, and a petty king of the Philistines. Abimelech is described as little different from a simple person without his guards, or great princes; so jealous and afraid was he of Isaac's growing power, that he obliged him to depart out of his dominions; and not satisfied with that, went afterwards to beg a peace of him, and would swear him to the observance of it.

12 Sowed in the land, &c.] All the patriarchs, like their posterity, were under an extraordinary providence; and the blessings which were heaped upon them were all designed to render the ends of infinite wisdom effectual; in preserving them, in order to perpetuate the idea of the one supreme being, till it was a proper season to propagate it all over the world.

Before CHRIST 1804.

14 For he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of servants: and the Philistines envied him.

15 For all the wells which his father's servants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines had stopped them, and filled them with earth.

16 And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us; for thou art much mightier than we.

17 And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 ¶ And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

19 And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of springing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar did strive with Isaac's herdmen, saying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well Esek; because they strove with him.

21 And they digged another well, and strove for that also: and he called the name of it Sitnah.

22 And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it Rehoboth; and he said, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

23 ¶ And he went up from thence to Beer-sheba.

24 And the LORD appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake.

25 And he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Isaac's servants digged a well.

26 ¶ Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and Phichol the chief captain of his army.

27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore came ye to me, seeing ye hate me, and have sent me away from you?

28 And they said, We saw certainly that the LORD was with thee: and we said, Let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee;

29 That thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have sent thee away in peace: thou art now the blessed of the LORD.

30 And he made them a feast, and they did eat and drink.

31 And they rose up betimes in the morning, and sware one to another: and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace. Before CHRIST 1804.

32 And it came to pass the same day, that Isaac's servants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and said unto him, We have found water.

33 And he called it Shebah: therefore the name of the city is Beer-sheba unto this day.

34 ¶ And Esau was forty years old when he took to wife Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Bashemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite: 1796.

35 Which were a grief of mind unto Isaac and to Rebekah.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVI.

Let us here with grateful satisfaction reflect, that God never forsakes his servants in distress; he is not as the sons of men, but as a ready help in the time of trouble. It is better to trust in the Lord, than to put confidence even in princes, or the most powerful of men. God is a help that will never forsake or deceive us; God's love is like his essence, immutable, eternal, reaching from everlasting to everlasting. What St. James tells us, that "every good and perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the father of lights," chap. i. 17. he adds, (to complete our consolation) "with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." And what God once said to Joshua, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee," he says and performs to all that fear him.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Isaac sendeth Esau for venison. 6 Rebekah instructeth Jacob to obtain the blessing. 18 Jacob under the person of Esau obtaineth it. 30 Esau bringeth venison; Isaac is alarmed, but confirmeth the blessing to Jacob. 34 Esau complaineth, and by importunity obtaineth a blessing. 41 He threateneth Jacob's life, 42 whom Rebekah sendeth away.

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son: and he said unto him, Behold, here am I. 1760.

2 And he said, Behold now, I am old, I know not the day of my death:

3 Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and take me some venison;

4 And make me savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my soul may bless thee before I die.

5 And Rebekah heard when Isaac spake to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.

6 ¶ And

16 Go from us.] Notwithstanding all the friendship which Abimelech had shewn to Isaac, and the league that had been made with Abraham; yet, when he feared that Isaac would rival him in power, he acts according to the policy of kings, and desires Isaac to retire from him.

Thou art much mightier than we.] This passage might be better rendered, Because thou art increased, or made mighty by us; a plain indication that envy was the motive that induced Abimelech to act in this ungenerous manner.

18 Which they had digged, &c.] The relative "they" having no antecedent but the word Isaac, we may suppose some mistake, and may correct it by the Samaritan text, which reads ebedi, "the servants," instead of beiomi, in "the days." This correction is not only necessary in the Hebrew context, but the Samaritan is confirmed by the Greek, Syriac, and vulgate Latin translations. By these means the sentence will be, And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which the servants of Abraham his father had digged, &c.

19 Of springing water.] In the Hebrew it is, living waters; a name the orientals gave to waters of perennial springs, in contradistinction to rain water, which they saved in cisterns. And the value of such a spring was doubtless the cause why the herdmen of Gerar strove with those of Isaac for the well, pretending they had a right to it, because it was found in their soil, and hence Isaac called the well "Esek," that is, contention.

21 Sitnah.] i. e. Hatred, according to the best interpretation.

22 Rehoboth, &c.] Free space, or room; because his flocks had now room to feed at large, and range the country in search of the richest pastures.

24 I am with thee, &c.] The Chaldee reads, My word shall be thy help.

30 And they made a feast, &c.] This was customary between the parties when they entered into a covenant; especially when a sacrifice preceded, as appears from chap. xxxi. 54. Feasting, or eating and drinking, were likewise esteemed a token of friendship and mutual benevolence, as may be collected from Joshua ix. 14. Judges xiii. 23, &c.

35 A grief of mind unto Isaac, &c.] In the Hebrew and Samaritan, bitterness of soul; the Septuagint render it, They were disobedient or contentious, &c. the Chaldee, they were rebellious and provoking; and the Arabic, They both contradicted, or were contrary to the opinion of, &c. Esau's marriage without his father's consent was the cause of his uneasiness. And if it be considered that they were Canaanites, a people notorious for atrocious inhumanity, and enemies to the religious sentiments of Isaac, his sorrow was well founded.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVII.

1 Isaac was old, &c.] He was now an hundred and thirty-seven years old, as appears from comparing the several parts of his history, but he lived thirty years after this transaction happened.

3 Thy quiver, &c.] The Chaldee and Syriac render it, A sword, or hanger.

4 Make me savoury meat, &c.] Isaac, who always loved Esau better than Jacob, now desires his son to procure him some venison, and make him savoury meat, that his spirits might be exhilarated, and his mind properly disposed for giving the prophetic benediction; such as pious parents in those days always bestowed upon their children, and which was held sacred, as being prophetic of their future fortunes.

5 And Rebekah heard, &c.] She well knew that Isaac preferred Esau to Jacob, and had now sent him to take venison, that he might pronounce upon him the blessing of Abraham. She was therefore determined, if possible, to prevent it, and by stratagem get it pronounced upon her younger son.

Before CHRIST 1760.

6 ¶ And Rebekah ſpake unto Jacob her ſon, ſaying, Behold, I heard thy father ſpeak unto Eſau thy brother, ſaying,

7 Bring me veniſon, and make me ſavoury meat, that I may eat, and bleſs thee before the LORD before my death.

8 Now therefore, my ſon, obey my voice according to that which I command thee.

9 Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence two good kids of the goats; and I will make them ſavoury meat for thy father, ſuch as he loveth:

10 And thou ſhalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he may bleſs thee before his death.

11 And Jacob ſaid to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Eſau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a ſmooth man:

12 My father peradventure will feel me, and I ſhall ſeem to him as a deceiver; and I ſhall bring a curſe upon me, and not a bleſſing.

13 And his mother ſaid unto him, Upon me be thy curſe, my ſon: only obey my voice, and go fetch me them.

14 And he went, and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made ſavoury meat, ſuch as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took goodly raiment of her eldeſt ſon Eſau, which were with him in the houſe, and put them upon Jacob her younger ſon:

16 And ſhe put the ſkins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the ſmooth of his neck:

17 And ſhe gave the ſavoury meat and the bread, which ſhe had prepared, into the hand of her ſon Jacob.

18 ¶ And he came unto his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, Here am I; who art thou, my ſon?

19 And Jacob ſaid unto his father, I am Eſau thy firſtborn; I have done according as thou badeſt me: ariſe, I pray thee, ſit and eat of my veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

20 And Iſaac ſaid unto his ſon, How is it that thou haſt found it ſo quickly, my ſon? And he ſaid, Becauſe the LORD thy God brought it to me.

21 And Iſaac ſaid unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my ſon, whether thou be my very ſon Eſau or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Iſaac his father; and he felt him, and ſaid, The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Eſau.

23 And he diſcerned him not, becauſe his hands were hairy, as his brother Eſau's hands: ſo he bleſſed him. Before CHRIST 1760.

24 And he ſaid, Art thou my very ſon Eſau? And he ſaid, I am.

25 And he ſaid, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my ſon's veniſon, that my ſoul may bleſs thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Iſaac ſaid unto him, Come near now, and kiſs me, my ſon.

27 And he came near, and kiſſed him: and he ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, and bleſſed him, and ſaid, See, the ſmell of my ſon is as the ſmell of a field which the LORD hath bleſſed:

28 Therefore God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatneſs of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine:

29 Let the people ſerve thee, and nations bow down to thee, be lord over thy brethren, and let thy mother's ſons bow down to thee: curſed be every one that curſeth thee, and bleſſed be he that bleſſeth thee.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs, as ſoon as Iſaac had made an end of bleſſing Jacob, and Jacob was yet ſcarce gone out from the preſence of Iſaac his father, that Eſau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he alſo had made ſavoury meat, and brought it unto his father, and ſaid unto his father, Let my father ariſe, and eat of his ſon's veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

32 And Iſaac his father ſaid unto him, Who art thou? And he ſaid, I am thy ſon, thy firſtborn Eſau.

33 And Iſaac trembled very exceedingly, and ſaid, Who? where is he that hath taken veniſon, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou cameſt, and have bleſſed him? yea, and he ſhall be bleſſed.

34 ¶ And when Eſau heard the words of his father, he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and ſaid unto his father, Bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father.

35 And he ſaid, Thy brother came with ſubtilty, and hath taken away thy bleſſing.

36 And he ſaid, Is not he rightly named Jacob? for he hath ſupplanted me theſe two times: he took away my birthright; and, behold, now he hath taken away my bleſſing. And he ſaid, Haſt thou not reſerved a bleſſing for me?

37 And Iſaac anſwered and ſaid unto Eſau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for ſervants; and with corn and wine have I ſuſ-

13 Upon me be thy curſe, &c.] Rebekah ſeems to have been perſuaded, that Jacob had a juſt title to the firſt bleſſing which Eſau had ſold with his birthright, and which God had deſigned for Jacob from the beginning; whence ſhe thought it her duty to deceive Iſaac into an action which he ought to have done voluntarily, and therefore takes the whole curſe upon herſelf, provided Iſaac ſhould diſcover the fallacy. But though theſe circumſtances have a great tendency to palliate the guilt either of Jacob or his mother, yet they are far from being ſufficient entirely to exculpate them; the former having increaſed his crime by affirming himſelf to be Eſau, which was an abſolute falſhood. We ſhould therefore lament the weakneſs of human nature, which cannot always ſtand upright; and at the ſame time admire the impartiality of the ſacred writings, in which the very blemiſhes and tranſgreſſions of thoſe who make the greateſt figure therein are recorded for our inſtruction.

21 Come near that I may feel thee, &c.] Iſaac ſtill ſuſpected that this was not Eſau; and therefore deſires his ſon to approach his bed, that he might feel him, being perſuaded that he ſhould by that means fully ſatisfy himſelf, whether it was Eſau or not.

27 He ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, &c.] From hence we may infer, that the orientals perfumed their garments with the odoriferous ſcent of flowers, in which the country of Arabia abounded; and this elegant ſmell had ſuch an influence on the ſpirits of Iſaac, that he breaks out into a kind of rapture, "See, the ſmell of my ſon is as the ſmell of a field which the Lord hath bleſſed." That is, the ſmell of my ſon's raiment conveys to my mind the inchanting idea of a field adorned with fruits, and enamelled with flowers.

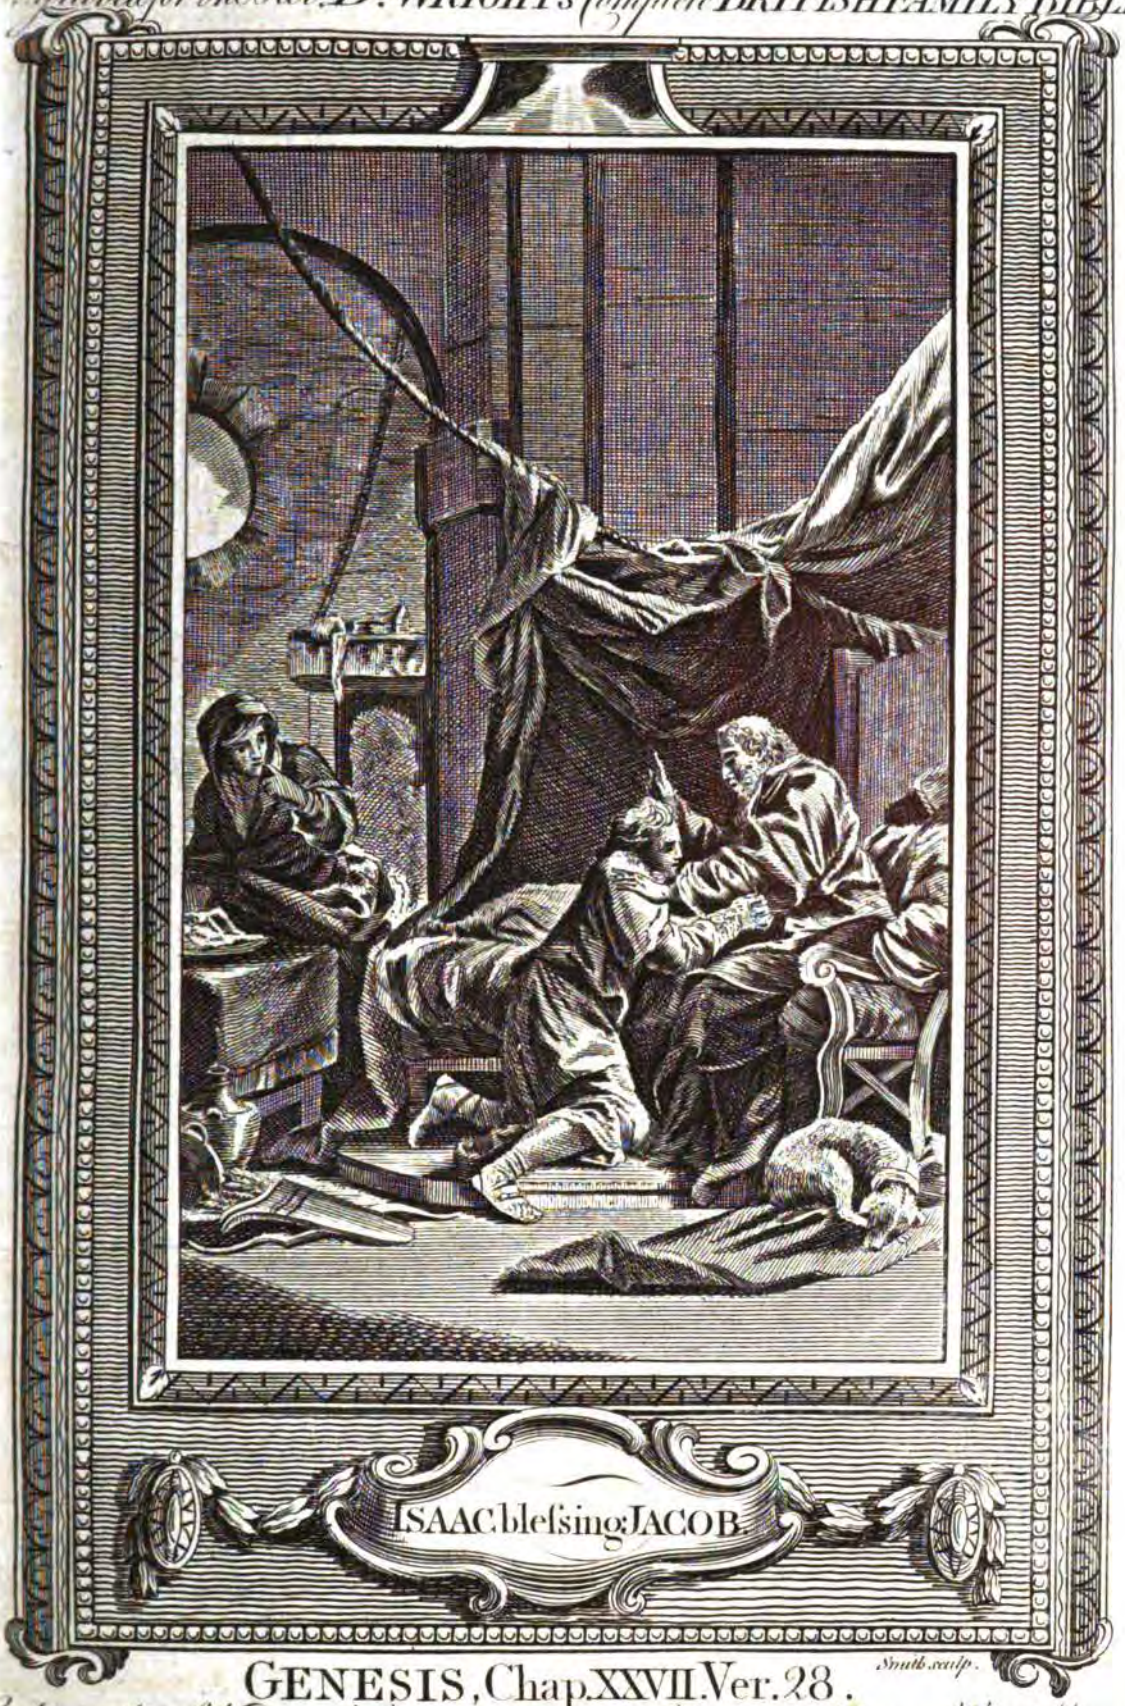
28 Give thee of the dew of heaven.] In the hot country where Iſaac dwelt, ſhowers being leſs frequent than with us, the morning and evening dews were of the utmoſt importance to refreſh the earth, and produce that plenty for which the country was ſo remarkable.

And the fatneſs of the earth, &c.] Under theſe expreſſions Iſaac wiſhes his ſon all the bleſſings which a fruitful country can produce. And this prophecy was remarkably verified by God's ſettling the Iſraelites in the poſſeſſion of Canaan, a land flowing with milk and honey.

29 Let the people ſerve thee.] What is predicted concerning Eſau and Jacob, was not verified in themſelves, but in their poſterity. Jacob was ſo far from bearing rule over Eſau, that he was forced to fly his country for fear of him. When he returned, he ſent a ſupplicatory meſſage to his brother Eſau. When he heard of Eſau's coming to meet him with four hundred men, he was greatly afraid and diſtreſſed. He ſent a magnificent preſent before him to appeaſe his brother, calling himſelf Eſau's ſervant: and after he had found a gracious reception, acknowledged, "I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God, &c." chap. xxxiii. 3. Jacob then had no temporal ſuperiority over Eſau, and therefore we muſt look for the completion of the prophecy among their poſterity.

Curſed be every one, &c.] The ſame promiſe was made to Abraham in the name of God, chap. xii. 3. and it is here repeated, and thus paraphraſed: "He who ſhall curſe thee, my ſon Jacob, ſhall be curſed, like Balaam the ſon of Beor; and he who ſhall bleſs thee, ſhall be bleſſed, as Moſes the prophet, the lawgiver of Iſrael."

33 Iſaac trembled very exceedingly.] The Hebrew is, Iſaac trembled with a great trembling greatly. What words can convey anxiety, ſolicitude, and agonizing terror more forcibly!



Who? where is he?] Aſtoniſhment and perturbation not only confuſed the ideas, but likewiſe ſtopped the voice of the patriarch; and the broken and imperfect ſentences the ſacred hiſtorian has put in his mouth, are the voice of nature, and inimitably proper.

Yea, and he ſhall be bleſſed.] Perhaps it would be more expreſſive of the original to read, Yea, and he will be bleſſed: for the whole of this tranſaction ſeems not to have been ſo much the private wiſhes of a parent, as a prophecy inſpired by God; and if we conſider it in this ſenſe, which is confirmed by the event, the patriarch's character is freed from that partiality which obſcures it, and the interpoſition of Providence is rendered more conſpicuous.

Before CHRIST 1760. I sustained him: and what shall I do unto thee, my son?

38 And Esau said unto his father, Hast thou but one blessing, my father? bless me, even me also, O my father. And Esau lifted up his voice, and wept.

39 And Isaac his father answered and said unto him, Behold thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above;

40 And by thy sword shalt thou live, and shalt serve thy brother; and it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

41 ¶ And Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are at hand; then will I slay my brother Jacob.

42 ¶ And these words of Esau her elder son were told to Rebekah: and she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said unto him, Behold thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth comfort himself, purposing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran;

44 And tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away;

45 Until thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him: then I will send, and fetch thee from thence: why should I be deprived also of you both in one day?

46 And Rebekah said to Isaac, I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, such as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good shall my life do me?

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVII. Before CHRIST 1760.

In this chapter we observe one thing of a very striking nature, viz. that Rebekah and Jacob seem to have fallen into the great error of our lives, the depending on our own wisdom rather than on God's. Though Rebekah, and probably Jacob, knew that God had declared that his posterity should become superior to Esau, yet they could not wait with patience till God should bring it to pass by his infinite wisdom, but must have recourse to their own; and Jacob must take an ungenerous advantage of his brother's necessity to procure one privilege, and Rebekah persuades her son to impose on his father by deceit and falshood, in order to gain another; which can never be justifiable on any account. And accordingly, though Jacob's posterity obtained the blessing which God had purposed they should have, yet Jacob and his mother brought evil upon themselves (which will always be the consequence of bad deeds) by the means they took to obtain the blessing; for Jacob, we find, was thereby obliged to fly from his friends and country, and endure a long exile, and many hardships; and fond Rebekah was obliged to send away her beloved son, not for a few days only, as she flattered herself, ver. 44. but never to set her eyes upon him more, as her life was finished before his return.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Jacob receiveth from Isaac a charge and blessing, and goeth to Padan-aram. 6 Esau marrieth a daughter of Ishmael. 10 The vision of Jacob's ladder; he receiveth a promise from God in a dream. 16 He awaketh, and setteth up the stone at Beth-el. 20 His vow.

AND Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him, and charged him, and said unto him, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.

2 Arise, go to Padan-aram, to the house of Bethuel thy mother's father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of Laban thy mother's brother.

3 And God Almighty bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayest be a multitude of people;

4 And

39 Behold, thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth, &c.] Some modern authors render these words, Thy dwelling shall be remote from the fatness of the earth; and say, Idumea, the country of the Edomites, was a dry, barren, and desart country. But it is not probable that any good author should use the very same words, with the very same prepositions in one sense, and within a very few lines after in a quite contrary sense; which the sacred writer must do, to justify the new translation. Besides, Esau solicited for a blessing; and the author of the epistle to the Hebrews says, that "Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau;" whereas, had he consigned Esau to such a barren and wretched country, it would have been a curse rather than a blessing. Wherever the Edomites were situated, whether at Mount Seir, or any other place, we find, in fact, that in temporal blessings they were little inferior to the Israelites. Esau went to dwell in Mount Seir, of his own accord; and he would hardly have removed thither with so many cattle, had it been such a barren and desolate country as some would represent it. When the Israelites desired leave to pass through the territories of Edom, Numb. xx. 17. it appears, that the country abounded in fruitful fields and vineyards; and the prophecy of Malachi, chap. i. 2. which is commonly alledged as a proof of its barrenness, is rather an argument to the contrary; for it implies, that the country was fruitful before, and that its present unfruitfulness was rather an effect of war and devastation, than any natural defect or failure in the soil.

40 When thou shalt have dominion, &c.] Some render the words, Thou shalt have dominion by laying down, shaking off; thou shalt shake off, and shalt loose his yoke from off thy neck. Others, If thou shalt repent, his yoke shall pass from off thy neck. But our translation is the most approved. It is not said that they should have dominion over the seed of Jacob, but simply have dominion, as they had when they appointed a king of their own. We shall thus paraphrase the whole: And it shall be when the sons of Jacob attend to the law, and observe the precepts, they shall impose the yoke of servitude upon thy neck; but when they shall turn away themselves, from studying the law, and shall not keep the precepts, behold, then thou shalt shake off the yoke from thy neck. It was David who imposed the yoke. Toward the latter end of Solomon's reign, Hadad, the Edomite, raised some disturbances, but was not able to recover his throne. But in the reign of Jehoram, the Edomites revolted and made themselves a king. Jehoram could not subdue them. "So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day," 2 Chron. xx. 8, 10. and hereby this part of the prophecy was fulfilled, about nine hundred years after it was delivered. It may not be improper to consider, that the younger was to be greatly superior in spiritual blessings. Jacob was a man of more religion than Esau. The posterity of Jacob likewise preserved the true religion, and the worship of one God, while the Edomites were sunk in idolatry; and of the seed of Jacob was born the Saviour of the world. This was the peculiar privilege and advantage of Jacob: this was his greatest superiority over Esau: and in this sense St. Paul understands the prophecy, "the elder shall serve the younger," Rom. ix. 12. And when the Gentiles were converted to Christianity, the prophecy was fulfilled literally, and will be more amply fulfilled, when the fulness of the Gentiles shall come in.

41 The days of mourning for my father, &c.] In this, however, he was mistaken: for his father lived at least forty years longer; for he was now one hundred, being sixty at the birth of Esau, chap. xxv. 26. who was past forty when he married, chap. xxvi. 34. and Isaac was one hundred and eighty when he died, chap. xxxv. 28. Esau, we see, had some reverence for his father; but none, it would seem, for his mother, who had helped Jacob to supplant him.

45 I will send and fetch thee from thence] Which however she did not, for Jacob lived with Laban twenty years, chap. xxxi. 38. either because Esau's anger lasted longer than she expected, or because she was prevented by death.

Why should I be deprived of you both, &c.] If Esau had killed Jacob, he would either have been punished with death according to the law of God, chap. ix. 6. or he must have fled from justice, and been an exile, as Cain and Absalom were when they had slain their brothers, chap. iv. 12. 2 Sam. xiii. 24. and either way she would have been deprived of them both.

46 And Rebekah said to Isaac,—If Jacob take a wife] She assigns only this reason for sending Jacob away among her kindred, without taking any notice of the danger his life was in, lest she should have afflicted her husband by telling the true reason.

What good shall my life do to me?] I shall have no comfort in it; death would be more eligible than such a life: this she said with great vehemence and affection, to move and work upon Isaac to lay his commands on Jacob, and give him orders and directions to go to her family and friends, and there take him a wife; and she succeeded according to her wishes, as the following chapter shews.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Thou shalt not, &c.] The anxious apprehensions shewn by Rebekah and Isaac on this occasion, flowed not only from parental affection, but likewise from a proper sense of the blessing entailed upon their posterity. To intermarry with a people who were decreed to destruction on account of their vices, would be, in one respect, to counteract, if not to frustrate, the plan of Providence. Besides, it might be the design of heaven to render its omnipotence conspicuous in the settlement of the Israelites in Canaan, which intermarriages with the natives would, in some respect, have obscured or rendered less remarkable. If these were the motives of Israel's conduct in this case, can we sufficiently admire his wisdom, or applaud his oratory?

3 God Almighty bless thee, &c.] As the blessing in the preceding chapter was obtained by fraud, this repetition of it may appear no ways unnecessary. It is likewise an addition to that given in the former chapter, and was a confirmation of that which Isaac had himself received from Abraham, and Abraham himself had derived from God.

4 And give thee the bleſſing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy ſeed with thee; that thou mayeſt inherit the land wherein thou art a ſtranger, which God gave unto Abraham.

5 And Iſaac ſent away Jacob: and he went to Padan-aram unto Laban, ſon of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Jacob's and Eſau's mother.

6 ¶ When Eſau ſaw that Iſaac had bleſſed Jacob, and ſent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he bleſſed him he gave him a charge, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

4 The bleſſing of Abraham, &c.] What this was, may be underſtood by comparing chap. xii. 2, 3. with chap. xxii. 17, 18.

9 He went unto Iſhmael] As Iſhmael was now dead, and had been dead about fourteen years, it is evident we muſt not take this expreſſion without ſome qualification. Patrick ſays, that the text means either the family or houſe of Iſhmael: other commentators imagine, it ſignifies no more than Iſhmael's country; and the Arabic, which renders the words, The nation or country of Iſhmael, ſeems to confirm this conjecture.

Mahalath, the daughter of Iſhmael, &c.] He imagined, that the affinity which ſhe bare to Abraham, the founder of Iſaac's family, would pleaſe his father, who inſiſted ſo much on Jacob's marrying one of his own relations. It is remarkable that this wife of Eſau is called Baſhemath, chap. xxxvi. 3. though ſhe is ſaid to be the daughter of the ſame perſon as Mahalath: whence we may conclude, it was the cuſtom of thoſe times for one perſon to have two names, which were uſed indifferently. Thus Eſau is likewiſe named Edom; and the mother of Abijam is called both Maacah and Micaiah, 1 Kings xv. 2. 1 Chron. xiii. 2.

11 Upon a certain place, &c.] So ſcrupulous was the patriarch in obſerving the command of his father, that he would not enter into any houſe that belonged to a Canaanite, but choſe rather to ſleep in the open air. The hardineſs in which he had been bred, rendered him indifferent to the manner in which he lodged; and he ſlept with as much comfort upon a pillow of ſtone, as thoſe who repoſed upon the bed of luxury. The place might perhaps have been pitched upon on account of its ſhade, eſpecially as it is named Luz, which ſignifies an almond, and might probably have received that name on account of the abundance of almond trees which grew there.

12 Behold a ladder, &c.] The explication of this viſion, formed of ſymbolic hieroglyphics, will be eaſy, if we attend either to the circumſtances of the patriarch, or the mode of information ſuited to thoſe rude and early ages. Jacob had now left his father's houſe without attendants, without any certain proſpect of ſucceſs in acquiring a wife or a ſettlement. It is true, he had obtained his father's bleſſing; but, having obtained it by fraud, had irritated his elder brother, who threatened his life, on account of the injuſtice he had been guilty of, and would perhaps have avenged himſelf if Jacob had not fled from his father's houſe. In theſe circumſtances he had much to fear, and little to hope; his confidence could only ariſe from his perſuaſion of the doctrine of a Providence, and that there was a perpetual, though inviſible communication between heaven and earth. This was the intent of the viſion; and what could be better adapted to communicate this truth, than the ſymbol of a ladder ſtanding upon the earth, and reaching to heaven, on which the angels of God were continually aſcending and deſcending. Nothing could teach him better, that there was a conſtant intercourſe between the angelic beings, the miniſters of a Providence, and the earth. Nothing conſequently could more effectualy baniſh any anxious ſuſpicion from his boſom, or compel him to reſign himſelf entirely to the direction of Providence, and confide in the parental care of the God of his father. When ſpeech was rude and imperfect, ideas were not only conveyed by words, but likewiſe by ſigns, actions, and a perpetual repreſentation of material images; and when God taught the patriarch, he condeſcended to the ſame mode of inſtruction, and the ſignificative action was changed into a viſion: a viſion that elevated his heart with the pleaſing aſſurance, that though he was an exile from his native country, and traverſing alone uninhabited deſarts; though he was endangered by the wild beaſts that roamed in the night-time for prey, and was ſurrounded by barbarous nations, who were loſt to every principle of humanity; yet he was ſtill in the preſence of his maker, whoſe almighty arm would protect him from danger, whoſe angels pitched their camp about his bed, and under the ſhadow of whoſe wings he might dwell in ſafety.

13 Behold, the Lord ſtood] The Hebrew for Lord, is Jehovah, the incommunicable name of God. The Chaldee renders it, the glory of the Lord, that is, the Shechinah; but the Arabic is remarkable, which reads, The angel of the Lord ſtood before him, ſpake unto him for, or the name of, the Lord, I am, &c.

I am the Lord God of Abraham] The nations which ſurrounded the family of Abraham were idolaters, and imagined that their ſeveral deities were local and tutelary; they looked upon themſelves as peculiarly under their protection, and as intitled to diſtinguiſhing marks of their favour. The different names they aſſigned them, demonſtrate the truth of this aſſertion. In compliance with this cuſtom, God diſtinguiſhes himſelf to Jacob by the title of "the God of Abraham, &c." and in aſſuming this title, he aſſures Jacob of his extraordinary providence and peculiar protection, at the ſame time as he recals to his mind the noble acts he had done for his anceſtors, and reminds him that he was the true and only Deity, in oppoſition to the falſe Gods of the neighbouring nations.

To thee will I give it, &c.] Though it may be objected that this prophecy was not perſonally verified to Jacob, yet the objection will ſoon vaniſh, if we conſider what has been offered concerning this promiſe, when delivered to Abraham and to Iſaac.

14 And in thee, and in thy ſeed, &c.] This promiſe attended upon the birthright. It was that which peculiarly diſtinguiſhed the bleſſing which Iſaac gave to his ſons, Jacob and Eſau, and was truly a conveyance of the birthright to him in the family of Abraham. Iſaac himſelf calls this right of primogeniture in his houſe, the bleſſing of Abraham; and God himſelf, in confirmation of Jacob's right of primogenation, aſſures him, that in him, and in his ſeed, all the families of the earth ſhall be bleſſed. And it is very obſervable, that this bleſſing ſo peculiarly belongs to this covenant, that it is never mentioned with reſpect to any other perſon whatever, than ſuch only to whom the right of this covenant, and the promiſe of the land of Canaan, deſcended.

16 Surely, the Lord is in this place, &c.] Had Jacob ſuch low ideas of the Deity, as to imagine that he was not preſent throughout all ſpace, and beyond all ſpace? Surely, he had not. The ſentence, therefore, ſignifies no more than this: that he could not have imagined before, that the Lord would have choſen that ſpot to manifeſt his peculiar and glorious preſence. This ſenſe is confirmed by the antient tranſlations, eſpecially by the Chaldee, which renders the words, Certainly, the glory of the Lord dwelleth in this place; and the Arabic, which paraphraſes it, The light of God is in this place.

17 How dreadful is this place, &c.] Or, as the Chaldee tranſlates it, This is no common place. Here the Deity keeps his court, as earthly monarchs did then, in the gates. This is the place wherein God has been pleaſed to manifeſt his glorious preſence; and if majeſty excites awe, the preſence, the glorious preſence of God, renders this place awful and dreadful indeed! O that all mankind would entertain the ſame idea of the Deity, who is preſent every where; but eſpecially when they approach the courts of the Lord's houſe, "where his honour loveth to dwell."

18 Took the ſtone—and ſet it up] Not only to preſerve the memory of this heavenly viſion, but likewiſe to make uſe of it as an altar, as appears from the words immediately following.

And poured oil, &c.] This ceremony was uſed in conſecrating ſuch things to a divine uſe; and among the heathens, every ſtone, that had received this rite, was eſteemed as divine, and honoured with adoration. Though the deceitful voice of tradition aſſirms, that this very ſtone is now lodged in Weſtminſter-Abbey, after a journey

20 ¶ And Jacob vowed a vow, ſaying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on,

21 So that I come again to my father's houſe in peace; then ſhall the LORD be my God:

22 And this ſtone, which I have ſet for a pillar, ſhall be God's houſe: and of all that thou ſhalt give me I will ſurely give the tenth unto thee.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVIII.

We may obſerve, in the above portion of divine writ, the modeſty of Jacob's petitions; he deſires nothing but to be preſerved in his journey, and food and raiment. This ſeems to be of the ſame nature as Agur's prayer, and is a proper pattern for our petitions and deſires of this ſort: and we are not to underſtand it as if Jacob bargained with God, but only that he vows or profeſſes, that when theſe things ſhould have happened to him, according to God's promiſe and good pleaſure, he would make a public acknowledgment, by grateful praiſe of the goodneſs and faithfulneſs of his God.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Jacob cometh to the well of Haran; 9 meeteth Rachel, maketh himſelf known to her, and is entertained by Laban, 15 whom he covenanteth to ſerve for Rachel. 21 He is deceived with Leah; 28 marrieth Rachel alſo, and ſerveth for her ſeven years more. 31 Leah is fruitful and beareth Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah.

THEN Jacob went on his journey, and came into the land of the people of the eaſt.

2 And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and, lo, there were three flocks of ſheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and a great ſtone was upon the well's mouth.

Before CHRIST 1760.

3 And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the ſtone from the well's mouth, and watered the ſheep, and put the ſtone again upon the well's mouth in his place.

4 And Jacob ſaid unto them, My brethren, whence be ye? And they ſaid, Of Haran are we.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Know ye Laban the ſon of Nahor? And they ſaid, We know him.

6 And he ſaid unto them, Is he well? And they ſaid, He is well: and, behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the ſheep.

7 And he ſaid, Lo, it is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle ſhould be gathered together: water ye the ſheep, and go and feed them.

8 And they ſaid, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the ſtone from the well's mouth; then we water the ſheep.

9 ¶ And while he yet ſpake with them, Rachel came with her father's ſheep: for ſhe kept them.

10 And it came to paſs, when Jacob ſaw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the ſheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near, and rolled the ſtone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother.

11 And Jacob kiſſed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, and wept.

12 And

to Jeruſalem, and from thence to Scotland; yet the ſober part of mankind muſt look upon the legend in the ſame light as that of the journey to the houſe of the Virgin Mary from Jeruſalem to Loretto.

19 Beth-el] That is, the houſe of God, from beth, "a houſe," and el, "God."

That city was called Luz, &c.] This by no means contradicts the aſſertion above, wherein we ſay, that Jacob laid himſelf down to ſleep in the open air, chuſing rather to lie on the ground, than to enter into any houſe of the Canaanites: for in the firſt place, this ſpot might have been within the incloſure of the city walls; but if this be looked upon as an evaſion, we may reply, ſecondly, that the place where Jacob ſlept, and the city of Luz, were not the ſame, as appears from the expreſſion of, that place, when applied to the ſpot where he had his viſion, and that city, when applied to Luz. There might have been a city near, which was at firſt named Luz, or Ulamluz, according to the tranſlation of the Vulgate and Septuagint, which ſignifies, The porch of nuts or almonds; but, in proceſs of time, it might have changed its name for that of Beth-el, which was given it on account of this celebrated viſion.

21 Then ſhall the Lord be my God] The Hebrew is more expreſſive, Then ſhall Jehovah be my God; which implies, that he would acknowledge and worſhip the only and true God, in oppoſition to the gods of the neighbouring nations; and that he would adore him as his tutelary God and defender, in alluſion to the cuſtom of the ſurrounding idolaters. Though this vow was conditional, we muſt not imagine that it betrays either want of faith, or want of religion in Jacob; for the condition expreſſed was neceſſary for the performance of his vow, it being impoſſible that he ſhould fulfil it, unleſs God preſerved him, and brought him back again to that place. Some call the vow euchariſtical, as proceeding from a due ſenſe of the divine veracity, and the bleſſing promiſed him, ver. 13. a ſenſe which it will bear even in the former acceptation; it being evident that the patriarch would, on his return, be filled with a grateful ſenſe of the divine favour, and would accompany his offering with thankſgiving and praiſe.

22 And this ſtone—ſhall be God's houſe.] Every place ſet apart for divine worſhip, or honoured with any extraordinary manifeſtation of the divine preſence, is in ſcripture ſtiled God's houſe. In either of theſe ſenſes, we may underſtand the words as uſed by Jacob; for it was his intention to ſet that place or ſtone apart for the worſhip of the Deity, in return for which he might reaſonably expect that God would manifeſt himſelf to him there. Some indeed underſtand by Jacob's ſaying, "this ſtone ſhall be God's houſe," that he intended to erect a ſtructure there for the public worſhip of God; but it ſhould be remembered, that in thoſe early ages they adored their great Creator under the open canopy of heaven, and that groves and mountains were their only temples.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIX.

1 Land of the people of the eaſt.] In the Hebrew, The land of the children of the eaſt. This was Meſopotamia, which lay eaſtward from Canaan.

2 Three flocks of ſheep, &c.] The verb tranſlated, watered, in the latter part of the verſe, is without any regular nominative caſe before it, and according to the preſent reading muſt be ſupplied by adding the word ſhepherds: but if it be ſuppoſed that the Hebrew word hederei, "flocks," was erroneouſly ſubſtituted by the tranſcriber inſtead of roe, "ſhepherds," this ſenſe will be complete; the participle, lying, is, in Iſaiah xiii. 20. applied to ſhepherds in this recumbent poſture, and affords ſome argument in favour of this emendation.

3 Flocks gathered.] In the four firſt verſes of this chapter, we are preſented with a dialogue; and yet no man is mentioned but Jacob; the only living creature preſent beſides him being three flocks of ſheep. The truth ſeems to be, that the word ſhepherds was originally expreſſed, and ſome tranſcriber has writ haderim, "flocks," inſtead of harvaim, "ſhepherds." That this miſtake has actually been made, is certain from the Samaritan and the Arabic; but it may be ſaid, that, with this emendation, the words, "all the ſhepherds were there gathered together," in this verſe, is contrary to thoſe in the eighth, which informs us, that the ſhepherds were not yet all aſſembled together: but to reconcile theſe two paſſages, it ſhould be obſerved, that this verſe ſpeaks only of the cuſtom of the ſhepherds aſſembling at that well, and watering their flocks all together; for all the verbs in this verſe, though preter, have a future ſignification, on account of the converſive particle prefixed to every one of them; and therefore, as future, cannot expreſs a paſt aſſembly or action. But being frequentative, and implying the continuance and cuſtom of doing a thing, expreſs this ſenſe. And there (at this well) all the ſhepherds uſually met together, and rolled the ſtone from the well's mouth, and watered the ſheep, and put the ſtone again upon the well's mouth. The ſignification given to this verſe, as expreſſive of a cuſtom, is confirmed by the Vulgate, which renders it, It was cuſtomary; but indeed reads, according to the Hebrew, Sheep, inſtead of ſhepherds.

4 Unto them, &c.] This expreſſion contains the emendation propoſed in the preceding verſe, and receives great light from it.

8 Until all the flocks, &c.] The word rendered "flocks," ſhould be ſhepherds, as appears from the note on ver. 3. and is ſupported by the Samaritan, the Arabic, and the Septuagint; nay, even from the context. The ſtone is repreſented to have been very large, ſo large, that it could not be moved any other way, than by rolling. It was probably too heavy for the three ſhepherds lying by it; if ſo, their excuſe is intelligible, when they tell Jacob, that they could not water their ſheep till it was rolled away; and being too much for their ſtrength, it was neceſſary for them to ſtay till that obſtacle was removed by the united efforts of all the ſhepherds who watered their ſheep at that place.

9 Rachel came, &c.] Whether ſhe received her name, which in Hebrew ſignifies a ſheep, on account of her occupation; or whether it was given her to intimate that meekneſs and innocence are the ſupreme ornament of her ſex, we leave to the determination of the reader. Her employ in thoſe early ages was reputed no diſgrace; the greateſt heroes of antiquity, the ſons of kings, and kings themſelves, are repreſented as engaged in this kind of employment, which was then as honourable as it is at preſent deſpicable.

10 And rolled the ſtone, &c.] Though Jacob only is mentioned in the text, yet it is probable that he might be aſſiſted by the ſhepherds. He is only mentioned, in order to ſhew the readineſs he diſcovered to oblige Rachel, who had already captivated his heart.

32 And Leah conceived, and bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name Reuben: for ſhe ſaid, Surely the LORD hath looked upon my affliction; now therefore my huſband will love me.

33 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this ſon alſo: and ſhe called his name Simeon.

34 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Now this time will my huſband be joined unto me, becauſe I have born him three ſons: therefore was his name called Levi.

35 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon: and ſhe ſaid, Now will I praiſe the LORD: therefore ſhe called his name Judah; and left bearing.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIX.

Here we may obſerve, the deſpiſed Leah is regarded by God, and bleſſed with children, to make up for her want of beauty; while Rachel, over whom Jacob was enamoured, has not the happineſs of giving one child to her huſband; whereby Jacob was puniſhed for his not treating Leah with a proper regard; who ſeems to have been blameable in nothing, however Laban might: an example to us, how we treat any one with injurious contempt. We may alſo obſerve, Leah attributes every child to the goodneſs and bleſſing of God. Thus ſhould we do in all things.

CHAP.

---

12 Her father's brother, &c.] The word brother is uſed in a greater latitude in the Hebrew, than in the Engliſh; in this place it ſignifies only a kinſman, or relation, as appears from ver. 13. and it is uſed in that ſenſe, chep. xiii. 8.

13 All theſe things.] That is, he gave him a detail of his circumſtances, and recapitulated what he had before related to Rachel.

14 Surely, thou art my bone and my fleſh.] The Chaldee renders it, Thou art my kinſman and my fleſh.

The ſpace of a month.] In the Hebrew, A month of days. The biſhop of Cheſter, in his comment, ſuppoſes that this ſpace was agreed on for a trial of his ſervice.

17 Leah was tender eyed] The Septuagint render it, Weak-eyed; the Vulgate, Blear-eyed; the Syriac agrees with our tranſlation; but the Chaldee and Arabic read, Leah had beautiful eyes.

Rachel was beautiful and well favoured.] The Hebrew ſignifies, that ſhe was beautiful in ſhape, as well as in her face.

20 And Jacob ſerved ſeven years, &c.] The reaſon which ſome aſſign for Laban's accepting this term of ſervice for Rachel is, that he was unwilling to part with her ſooner, on account of his entertaining a bad idea of the Canaanites; but we muſt not ſuppoſe with them, that Jacob did actually ſerve ſeven years before he married her, becauſe he could not then have thought, as this verſe aſſerts, that they ſeemed unto him but a few days; his love, which is repreſented as very ardent, would rather have made this ſpace appear intolerably tedious and long.

21 Jacob ſaid] The Hebrew word may be tranſlated, Had ſaid, which gives ſome countenance to the ſenſe we have affixed to the preceding verſe.

My days are fulfilled, &c.] By this is meant no more than the month of trial. It is certain it cannot be applied to the expiration of the ſeven years which he was to ſerve; for then Jacob muſt have had twelve children in the ſpace of ſeven years, which is inconſiſtent with the poſitive aſſertion of ſcripture. Leah had ſeven children at ſeven births, which might have been in ſeven years. Beſides, it is certain, from chap. xxix. 35. and xxx. 17. ſhe intermitted from bearing; and in the mean time we have an account of the birth of Dan, Naphtali, Gad and Aſher, before Leah bare Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Dinah. If we compare the age of Jacob when he went to Laban, with the birth of Hezron and Hamul, chap. xlv. 12. Judah could not have been more than four years older than Joſeph; theſe difficulties, when put together, ſtrongly convince, that Jacob did not ſerve his firſt ſeven years before, but after he married Leah.

23 Took Leah, and brought her unto him, &c.] As the women at that time wore vails, they were introduced to their huſbands with them on, and the darkneſs likewiſe contributed not a little to favour the fraud.

25 Wherefore then haſt thou beguiled me?] Jacob had not only conſented to ſerve, but had really ſerved one month, (ver. 14.) for Rachel; and ought to have received her as the reward of his labours. It is ſomewhat remarkable, that Jacob, who by fraud deprived Eſau of the bleſſing his father intended him, loſt what he eſteemed an invaluable bleſſing, by fraud likewiſe.

27 Fulfil her week, &c.] Conſummate thy marriage with Leah, by keeping the ſolemnity of ſeven days feaſting, the ſpace allowed for marriage feaſts, as appears from Judges xiv. 15.

28 And he gave him Rachel, &c.] Though ſome aſſert that Jacob did not obtain Rachel before the expiration of ſeven years; yet it is evident from ver. 27 and 30 that the term of ſervitude was to commence from his being in poſſeſſion of Rachel, not that it was to expire before he obtained her.

31 Leah was hated, &c.] The word rendered "hated," though explained in that ſenſe by the Chaldee and Arabic, is uſed in ſcripture, for ſhewing a leſs degree of love; and the Vulgate, which renders the word to be deſpicable, countenances this ſenſe. In this inſtance, we may ſee the kind ſeverity of Providence in the means it uſes to divert us from careſſing any perſon or thing with an immoderate affection, and we are taught at the ſame time, that no condition is without its inconveniencies, no miſery without its comforts. Jacob deſpiſed Leah, but ſhe was fruitful; Jacob loved Rachel, but ſhe was barren. Leah, amidſt the coldneſs of her huſband's affection, was bleſſed with many a tender pledge to attract his love; while Rachel, amidſt his warmeſt careſſes, had no tie to ſecure her againſt the loſs of his fondneſs.

32 Reuben, &c.] This name ſignifies, divine regard, or, divine mercy, alluding to her expreſſion, "Surely the Lord hath looked upon my affliction."

33 Simeon.] This name ſignifies, God hath heard, or conſidered me, from the Hebrew word ſhama, "to ſee," &c.

34 Levi.] This word ſignifies, joined, and is derived from the Hebrew lavah, "to join," uſed in this ſentence, "my huſband will be joined."

35 Judah.] That is, praiſe, and thankſgiving, alluding to the words, "I will praiſe the Lord;" the Hebrew word we render, Will praiſe, being the root from whence Judah, or Jehudah, is derived.

Left bearing.] The Hebrew ſignifies, She was at a ſtand from bearing; which the Septuagint have tranſlated word for word; the word "left," in our tranſlation, is rather too ſtrong, and conveys the idea

1 Rachel in grief for her barrenneſs giveth her maid Bilhah unto Jacob. 5 Bilhah beareth Dan and Naphtali. 9 Leah giveth Zilpah her maid, who beareth Gad and Aſher. 14 Reuben findeth mandrakes, for which Rachel yieldeth her huſband to Leah. 17 Leah beareth Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Dinah. 22 Rachel beareth Joſeph. 25 Jacob deſireth to depart, but is retained by Laban on a new agreement. 37 Jacob's policy, whereby he becometh rich.

AND when Rachel ſaw that ſhe bare Jacob no children, Rachel envied her ſiſter; and ſaid unto Jacob, Give me children, or elſe I die.

2 And Jacob's anger was kindled againſt Rachel: and he ſaid Am I in God's ſtead, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

3 And ſhe ſaid, Behold my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; and ſhe ſhall bear upon my knees, that I may alſo have children by her.

4 And ſhe gave him Bilhah her handmaid to wife: and Jacob went in unto her.

1748. 5 ¶ And Bilhah conceived and bare Jacob a ſon.

6 And Rachel ſaid, God hath judged me, and hath alſo heard my voice, and hath given me a ſon: therefore called his name Dan.

1747. 7 And Bilhah Rachel's maid conceived again, and bare Jacob a ſecond ſon.

8 And Rachel ſaid, With great wreſtlings have I wreſtled with my ſiſter, and I have prevailed: and ſhe called his name Naphtali.

1749. 9 ¶ When Leah ſaw that ſhe had left bearing, ſhe took Zilpah her maid, and gave her Jacob to wife.

10 And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a ſon. Before CHRIST 1748.

11 And Leah ſaid, A troop cometh: and ſhe called his name Gad.

12 And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a ſecond ſon. 1747.

13 And Leah ſaid, Happy am I, for the daughters will call me bleſſed: and ſhe called his name Aſher.

14 ¶ And Reuben went in the days of wheat harveſt, 1748. and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel ſaid to Leah, Give me, I pray thee, of thy ſon's mandrakes.

15 And ſhe ſaid unto her, Is it a ſmall matter that thou haſt taken my huſband? and wouldeſt thou take away my ſon's mandrakes alſo? And Rachel ſaid, Therefore he ſhall lie with thee to night for thy ſon's mandrakes.

16 And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and ſaid, Thou muſt come in unto me; for ſurely I have hired thee with my ſon's mandrakes. And he lay with her that night.

17 ¶ And God hearkened unto Leah, and ſhe con- 1747. ceived, and bare Jacob the fifth ſon.

18 And Leah ſaid, God hath given me my hire, becauſe I have given my maiden to my huſband: and ſhe called his name Iſſachar.

19 And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the ſixth ſon.

20 And Leah ſaid, God hath endued me with a good 1746. dowry; now will my huſband dwell with me, becauſe I have born him ſix ſons: and ſhe called his name Zebulun.

21 And afterwards ſhe bare a daughter, and called her name Dinah.

22 ¶ And God remembered Rachel, and God hear- 1745. kened to her, and opened her womb.

idea of her not having any more children; whereas the ſeries of the hiſtory informs us ſhe had ſeveral children afterwards, and was only at a ſtand, according to the Hebrew, or paſſed ſome time before ſhe had any more children. It is remarkable, that the Syriac omits this ſentence, though it is in all the oriental verſions, in the Septuagint and in the Vulgate.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXX.

1 Rachel envied her ſiſter.] Though barrenneſs was always conſidered as a curſe, yet Rachel had another motive for envy, namely, the deſire of fulfilling the promiſe to Abraham, that his ſeed ſhould be as the ſtars of heaven, and that in him all nations of the earth ſhould be bleſſed.

Give me children, or elſe I die.] We have here a lively picture of human folly in general. If children are like a flowery chaplet, whoſe beauties bloſſom with ornament, death, or ſome dreadful miſfortune, may blaſt it. Does Providence with-hold the thing that we long for? It denies in mercy, and only with-holds the occaſion of our miſery, if not the inſtrument of our ruin.

2 Am I in God's ſtead, &c.] The Chaldee paraphraſes theſe words thus: Why doſt thou aſk children of me? Oughteſt not thou to have aſked them from the face of the Lord? who has, &c. The Arabic renders it, Am I above God, who hath, &c. All of which ſhew the impropriety, if not irreligion, of her application; it being the received opinion, that children, rain, and the reſurrection of the dead, are the prerogative of God.

6 God hath judged, &c.] The word "judged," is uſed in a good, as well as in a bad ſenſe: in a good ſenſe, it implies, to decide in favour of a perſon, as in Pſalm xxvi. 1. in a bad ſenſe, it ſignifies, to caſt, condemn, or decide againſt. If we take the word here in a good ſenſe, it implies, that God had declared himſelf in her favour, by granting her a ſon; in a bad ſenſe, it implies, that by bleſſing her with offſpring, he had condemned her haſtineſs in accuſing her huſband, in envying her ſiſter, and in deſpairing of the bleſſing of Providence. The name given her ſon, which ſignifies, judging, alludes to this ſentence, and is derived from dannani, the Hebrew word, which is tranſlated "judged."

8 Naphtali.] This name ſignifies "ſtruggling," or "wreſtling," and plainly alludes to the Hebrew, which reads Naphtoli, "with ſtrugglings," Niphthalti, "have I ſtruggled;" and then concludes, therefore "ſhe called him Naphtali." Yet as the word pathal, from whence Naphtali is derived, ſignifies, "to contrive," or "counterplot," inſtead of "great wreſtlings," or "the wreſtlings of God." The Hebrew may be rendered, By a great, or excellent artifice or contrivance; and Naphtali will then ſignify, My plot, or contrivance. Rachel's artifice to ſecure her huſband's love, was, to have children from him by her maid, whom ſhe might adopt for her own; but this artifice was counteracted by Leah, who likewiſe gave her huſband one of her maids, by whom he had this ſon, who received his name from the ſucceſs of Leah's counterplot.

11 Gad.] That is, "a troop."

13 Iſher.] This name ſignifies "bleſſed," and alludes to the Hebrew word in the beginning of the verſe, beaſhri, "in my happineſs," and aſhroni, "they have bleſſed, or called me happy."

14 Mandrakes, &c.] The Hebrew word dudaim, is rendered "mandrake apples." The word occurs only once more in ſcripture, namely, in Solomon's Song, chap. vii. 13. and there they are celebrated for the pleaſantneſs or fragrance of the ſmell, and mentioned together with other pleaſant fruits. But it is well known that the mandrake has a very ſtrong, ſtupefying ſmell, and has nothing inviting, either in taſte or colour, to induce a child like Reuben, ſix years old, to chuſe them for either of thoſe qualities. Beſides, the time when they were gathered, ſhews that they could not have been the mandrake; for the wheat-harveſt in thoſe hot countries is in May, at which time the apples of this plant are far from being ripe. Their virtue in helping conception is ſo far from being an argument in their favour, that it is probable Leah would not have parted with them, had ſhe known they had that effect; nor would Rachel have bought them at ſo dear a rate, nor would ſhe have continued barren after the poſſeſſion of them. The word may be rendered, deſirable flowers, for it ſignifies, loves, or womens breaſts, in the plural number. Hence they have been taken for violets, lilies, jeſſamin, citron, and by others for a fruit, which the Syrians call mauz, reſembling the ſanana, or Indian fig tree in ſhape and taſte. But however, they muſt have poſſeſſed ſomething pleaſant and inviting, in taſte and ſmell, to a child, which the mandrake had not.

17 God hearkened, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, God received the prayers of Leah. Whence we may conclude, that ſhe made her addreſſes to him to remove her temporary barrenneſs, as a means to recover the affections of Jacob, which appears from ver. 15. to have been alienated from her.

18 Iſſachar.] The name implies, A man of reward, from iſh, "a man," and ſachar, "a reward;" and alludes to the Hebrew word, uſed in the beginning of the verſe, ſhachri, "my reward," or "mine hire."

20 Zebulun.] This ſignifies "dwelling," and is derived from the Hebrew word jeſebelenî, "he ſhall dwell with me," in the former part of this verſe.

21 Dinah.] This is the feminine of Dan, which ſignifies "judging," and ſeems to have been given as an acknowledgment that God had judged, or decided in her favour, by granting her ſo numerous an offſpring, which ſhe preferred to the greateſt preſent or dowry a man could bring his wife.

23 Reproach.] As fruitfulneſs is repreſented as a bleſſing, Gen. i. 28. Deut. vii. 14. and was peculiarly promiſed to Abraham and his ſeed, Gen. xii. 3. xv. 5. and xviii. 18. ſo barrenneſs was likewiſe eſteemed a great unhappineſs and reproach. See Iſaiah iv. 1. 1 Sam. i. 11. Luke i. 25.

Before CHRIST 1745.

24 And she called his name Joseph; and said, The LORD shall add to me another son.

25 ¶ And it came to pass, when Rachel had born Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, Send me away, that I may go unto mine own place, and to my country.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me go: for thou knowest my service which I have done thee.

27 And Laban said unto him, I pray thee, if I have found favour in thine eyes, tarry: for I have learned by experience that the LORD hath blessed me for thy sake.

28 And he said, Appoint me thy wages, and I will give it.

29 And he said unto him, Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how thy cattle was with me.

30 For it was little which thou hadst before I came, and it is now increased unto a multitude; and the Lord hath blessed thee since my coming: and now when shall I provide for mine own house also?

31 And he said, What shall I give thee? And Jacob said, Thou shalt not give me any thing: if thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock:

32 I will pass through all thy flock to day, removing from thence all the speckled and spotted cattle, and all the brown cattle among the sheep, and the spotted and speckled among the goats: and of such shall be my hire.

33 So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come, when it shall come for my hire before thy face: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown among the sheep, that shall be counted stolen with me.

34 And Laban said, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word.

35 And he removed that day the he goats that were ringstraked and spotted, and all the she goats that were speckled and spotted, and every one that had some white in it, and all the brown among the sheep, and gave them into the hand of his sons.

36 And he set three days journey betwixt himself and Jacob: and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

37 ¶ And Jacob took him rods of green poplar, and of the hazel and chesnut tree; and pilled white strakes in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods.

Before CHRIST 1745.

38 And he set the rods which he had pilled before the flocks in the gutters in the watering troughs when the flocks came to drink, that they should conceive when they came to drink.

39 And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle ringstraked, speckled, and spotted.

40 And Jacob did separate the lambs, and set the faces of the flocks toward the ringstraked, and all the brown in the flock of Laban; and he put his own flocks by themselves, and put them not unto Laban's cattle.

41 And it came to pass, whensoever the stronger cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: so the feebler were Laban's, and the stronger Jacob's.

43 And the man increased exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maidservants, and menservants, and camels, and asses.

General Reflections on Chap. XXX.

With respect to what is here said of Jacob's conduct, we may conclude that his behaviour was generous, fair, and candid; that he chose the ring-straked cattle without any view but to prevent disputes, trusting that God would so order it, agreeable to his petition at Beth-el, that he should have enough, being determined to be contented with what God's providence should think fit to give him; and that when he made use of the rods, it was an act of faith, and in obedience to God's command, without having any previous knowledge of what would be the event. We have the more reason to think this to be the case, because we find nothing but good arose to Jacob from it; whence we may remark, that though the scripture often mentions the misconduct of good men, yet it always takes care to inform us, that evil arose to them in consequence of such actions.

We may also observe God's faithfulness; he had promised Jacob at Beth-el to be with him in all places whither he should go, and we find him accordingly blessing Laban because he was with him: so that though Laban had but little when Jacob came to him, it was under him it increased to a multitude. We ought too to take notice, that though Jacob, from what he says to Laban in the following chapter, appears to have been a most industrious faithful servant, yet he attributes all the increase of the flock to the blessing of God, and not to his own care.

CHAP.

24 Joseph, &c.] In the Hebrew this name signifies "adding," and alludes to the Hebrew word jesep, "shall add," in the subsequent sentence: some explain it, The addition of something future.

25 When Rachel] Jacob had now served for Rachel fourteen years, was about ninety, his parents were much advanced in years, and was impelled, by the longings of filial piety, to visit them before they were gathered unto their fathers.

My place, &c.] To my native place, or my father's house, as appears from the Vulgate, and other antient versions.

30 Since my coming] The Hebrew is, At my foot; which the Arabic explains, For my sake, by my means, or because of me.

Mine own house, &c.] The generosity of Jacob's temper is manifested, in his delay to make any provision for his family, till he had enriched his father-in-law by his service. Afterwards prudence, as well as paternal affection, called upon him to make some provision for his own house or posterity.

32 I will pass through—removing] According to this reading it appears, that Jacob removed the party-coloured cattle; though in the 35th and 36th verses, it is evident that this was done by Laban. The Vulgate affords us an expedient to reconcile this seeming inconsistency, by rendering the passage, Go round all thy flocks, and separate all the speckled, &c. The Septuagint read likewise, Go through all thy flocks to-day, and separate, &c. The Chaldee confirms this sense, except that it assigns the act of passing through to Jacob, and the separating of the speckled cattle to Laban, which reconciles this verse with the 35th. This version reads, I will pass through all thy flocks this day, and do thou remove from thence all the speckled, &c.

Speckled] The Hebrew signifies, small specks, or points, and the word immediately following, large spots, like those which frequently appear in cattle.

Of such shall be my hire.] Jacob doth not mean all the cattle already speckled, as appears from his refusing any thing out of Laban's present store, ver. 31. "thou shalt give," but that he would separate out the speckled sheep and goats; and then, whatever those of one colour produced afterwards with the above variety, he would take for his wages; that Laban, whenever he pleased to look unto Jacob's cattle, might be convinced that they were really his own.

33 Answer for me, &c.] Jacob had already experienced Laban's want of honesty, and this covenant was to guard against it for the future; if we translate, When it shall come for my hire, by, When thou shalt come against my hire, this will appear plainly to have been the design of Jacob in this compact. The Chaldee confirms this version, by rendering the sentence in that manner; the Arabic gives it a farther support, by reading, My equity shall appear to-morrow, when I shall come to demand my hire.

36 He set three days journey, &c.] Three times the distance the flocks were able to travel in one day.

37 Hazel, &c.] The Hebrew word Luz, signifies rather the almond-tree, as we before observed.

39 The flocks conceived, &c.] The Samaritan copy inserts, between the 36th and 37th verses, a narrative of the vision described ver. 11. of the following chapter, which, though not to be found in any other version, throws a great light upon this passage, and vindicates the character of Jacob from the aspersions of fraud, freely bestowed on him by infidels. It signifies, in the first place, the reason why he made use of this artifice, which was, the command of God: it obviates the objection drawn from the power of the peeled rods to produce this effect, by ascribing it entirely to the interposition of the Deity; and it further furnishes us with an amiable idea of the divine justice, and the extraordinary providence, which at once protected the patriarchs, and enabled them to get the better of their enemies.

43 And the man increased exceedingly, &c.] Throughout this narrative of Jacob's contract with Laban, we cannot help remarking, that covetousness generally overshoots the mark, and disappoints itself. Thus Laban's covetousness would not allow him to settle upon Jacob any fixed wages, though he owed the greatest part of his riches to his care; but he eagerly embraced Jacob's offer, because it seemed an advantageous one; though, by the wise order of Providence, which takes the crafty in their own snares, he found himself deceived in the event.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Jacob is regarded with an evil eye by Laban and his ſons; 3 is commanded by God to return to his own land, and propoſeth his departure to his wives. 17 He removeth ſecretly with his family and ſubſtance; Rachel ſtealeth her father's images. 22 Laban purſueth after him; is warned of God, and overtaking Jacob complaineth of the wrong. 31 Jacob, ignorant of the theft, permitteth Laban to ſearch for the images; Rachel's policy to hide them. 36 Jacob's complaint of Laban. 43 The covenant of Jacob and Laban: Laban returneth home.

AND he heard the words of Laban's ſons, ſaying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our fathers; and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this glory.

2 And Jacob beheld the countenance of Laban, and, behold, it was not toward him as before.

3 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred; and I will be with thee.

4 And Jacob ſent and called Rachel and Leah to the field unto his flock,

5 And ſaid unto them, I ſee your father's countenance, that it is not toward me as before; but the God of my father hath been with me.

6 And ye know that with all my power I have ſerved your father.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages ten times; but God ſuffered him not to hurt me.

8 If he ſaid thus, The ſpeckled ſhall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare ſpeckled; and if he ſaid thus, The ringſtraked ſhall be thy hire; then bare all the cattle ringſtraked.

9 Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to paſs at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and ſaw in a dream, and, behold, the rams which leaped upon the cattle were ringſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled.

11 And the angel of God ſpake unto me in a dream, ſaying, Jacob: And I ſaid, Here am I.

12 And he ſaid, Lift up now thine eyes, and ſee, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ringſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled: for I have ſeen all that Laban doeth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Beth-el, where thou anointedſt the pillar, and where thou vowedſt a vow unto me: now ariſe, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. Before CHRIST 1739.

14 And Rachel and Leah anſwered and ſaid unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's houſe?

15 Are we not counted of him ſtrangers? for he hath ſold us, and hath quite devoured alſo our money.

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is our's, and our children's: now then, whatſoever God hath ſaid unto thee, do.

17 ¶ Then Jacob roſe up, and ſet his ſons and his wives upon camels;

18 And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, for to go to Iſaac his father in the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban went to ſhear his ſheep: and Rachel had ſtolen the images that were her father's.

20 And Jacob ſtole away unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled.

21 So he fled with all that he had; and he roſe up, and paſſed over the river, and ſet his face toward the mount Gilead.

22 ¶ And it was told Laban on the third day that Jacob was fled.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and purſued after him ſeven days journey; and they overtook him in the mount Gilead.

24 And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and ſaid unto him, Take heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

25 Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, What haſt thou done, that thou haſt ſtolen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters, as captives taken with the ſword?

27 Wherefore didſt thou flee away ſecretly, and ſteal away from me; and didſt not tell me, that I might have ſent thee away with mirth, and with ſongs, with tabret, and with harp?

28 And haſt not ſuffered me to kiſs my ſons and my daughters? thou haſt now done fooliſhly in ſo doing.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your father ſpake unto me yeſternight, ſaying, Take thou heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXI.

1 All this glory.] The antient verſions explain what is meant by "glory" in this place. The Chaldee renders it, Subſtance; the Syriac, Poſſeſſion; and the Arabic, Riches.

7 Ten times, &c.] That is, very often, as appears from Levit. xxvi. 26. Numb. xiv. 22. and 1 Sam. i. The number ten is peculiarly remarkable among the rabbinical writers.

8 All the cattle, &c.] That is, the greateſt part. See chap. xli. 57.

11 The angel of God, &c.] This was ſurely no created being, but rather God the Son; he being, ver. 13. expreſly named, The God of Beth-el. The note of ver. 39. of the foregoing chapter, enables us to fix the time when Jacob had this viſion, and ſhews that he was guided in every ſtep of his conduct by the divine direction.

13 I am the God of Beth-el, &c.] God communicates himſelf to the patriarch in terms adapted to the ideas of the ſurrounding nations, who looked on their deities as local, or confined to a particular place; and, at the ſame time, recals to his mind the idea of his diſtreſsful circumſtances, and the vow he had made at Beth-el.

14 Is there yet any portion, &c.] Interrogation in the Hebrew frequently carry with them a ſtrong negation, as is evident from the book of Job; and that this is the meaning of this ſentence, is confirmed by the Syriac, which renders it, We have not any portion, &c.

15 Sold us, &c.] The purchaſe of ſlaves, though inconſiſtent with every ſocial inſtinct, and with the principles of humanity, ſeems from hence to have been of great antiquity: and the unkind uſage by which Laban extorted ſo many years ſervitude from Jacob, at the ſame time that it ſhewed him to be void of paternal affection towards his daughters, made them appear in their own eyes as ſlaves, that were purchaſed at a dear rate. According to the cuſtom of thoſe times, the huſband uſed to bring a portion to his wife; but as the labour of Jacob was the only means he had of acquiring ſuch a dowry, they might truly ſay, that when Laban defrauded Jacob of his right, he had devoured alſo their money.

18 The cattle of his getting, &c.] This ſentence is omitted in the Septuagint, Arabic, Vulgate, Syriac, and Chaldee, though inſerted in the Samaritan. Dr. Kennicot remarks, that they are wanting in the Samaritan manuſcript, No. 1, at the Bodleian library. It is aſſerted, that Jacob, in order to conceal his flight, took only half his cattle with him; which is inconſiſtent with the expreſs words of ſcripture.

19 Images, &c.] The Hebrew word teraphim, ſignifies "idols," as appears from ver. 30. where they are termed elohai, or "gods;" but more eſpecially from Zech. x. 2. "the teraphim have uttered vain things." The Vulgate, Septuagint, and Samaritan tranſlations, render the word, Idols. That they were of human form, is evident, from the uſing the word for the image what Michal put into David's bed, 1 Sam. xix. 14. They were conſulted to foretel what was to come, to diſcover what was loſt, or to reveal what was hidden. It is imagined that they received this power either from ſome particular aſpects of the planets, or from ſome characters engraved upon them; both which ſuppoſitions are equally weak. Some apprehend that Rachel ſtole them to prevent her father from diſcovering her flight, by conſulting him; but others are of opinion, that her intention was, by thoſe means, to ſecure ſomething which might appeaſe her father's anger, if he ſhould overtake them in their flight.

21 The river, &c.] This was the Euphrates, as appears from the Chaldee and Arabic.

23 Seven days journey, &c.] The diſtance between Haran and Mount Gilead is near two hundred and fifty miles; conſequently Laban muſt have marched thirty-five miles each day.

24 Either good or bad.] That is, with a deſign to bring him back, or to do him any harm.

30 And now, though thou wouldeſt needs be gone, becauſe thou ſore longedſt after thy father's houſe, yet wherefore haſt thou ſtolen my gods?

31 ¶ And Jacob anſwered and ſaid to Laban, Becauſe I was afraid: for I ſaid, Peradventure thou wouldeſt take by force thy daughters from me.

32 With whomſoever thou findeſt thy gods, let him not live: before our brethren diſcern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee. For Jacob knew not that Rachel had ſtolen them.

33 And Laban went into Jacob's tent, and into Leah's tent, and into the two maidſervants' tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entered into Rachel's tent.

34 Now Rachel had taken the images, and put them in the camels' furniture, and ſat upon them. And Laban ſearched all the tent, but found them not.

35 And ſhe ſaid to her father, Let it not diſpleaſe my lord that I cannot riſe up before thee; for the cuſtom of women is upon me. And he ſearched, but found not the images.

36 ¶ And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob anſwered and ſaid to Laban, What is my treſpaſs? what is my ſin, that thou haſt ſo hotly purſued after me?

37 Whereas thou haſt ſearched all my ſtuff, what haſt thou found of all thy houſhold ſtuff? ſet it here before my brethren and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both.

38 This twenty years have I been with thee; thy ewes and thy ſhe goats have not caſt their young, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten.

39 That which was torn of beaſts I brought not unto thee; I bare the loſs of it; of my hand didſt thou require it, whether ſtolen by day, or ſtolen by night.

40 Thus I was, in the day the drought conſumed me, and the froſt by night; and my ſleep departed from mine eyes.

41 Thus have I been twenty years in thy houſe; I ſerved thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and ſix years for thy cattle: and thou haſt changed my wages ten times.

42 Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Iſaac, had been with me, ſurely thou hadſt ſent me away now empty. God hath ſeen mine affliction and the labour of my hands, and rebuked thee yeſternight.

Before CHRIST 1739.

43 ¶ And Laban anſwered and ſaid unto Jacob, Theſe daughters are my daughters, and theſe children are my children, and theſe cattle are my cattle, and all that thou ſeeſt is mine: and what can I do this day unto theſe my daughters, or unto their children which they have born?

44 Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and let it be for a witneſs between me and thee.

45 And Jacob took a ſtone, and ſet it up for a pillar.

46 And Jacob ſaid unto his brethren, Gather ſtones; and they took ſtones, and made an heap: and they did eat there upon the heap.

47 And Laban called it Jegar-ſahadutha: but Jacob called it Galeed.

48 And Laban ſaid, This heap is a witneſs between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed;

49 And Mizpah; for he ſaid, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are abſent one from another.

50 If thou ſhalt afflict my daughters, or if thou ſhalt take other wives beſides my daughters, no man is with us; ſee, God is witneſs betwixt me and thee.

51 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have caſt betwixt me and thee;

52 This heap be witneſs, and this pillar be witneſs, that I will not paſs over this heap to thee, and that thou ſhalt not paſs over this heap and this pillar unto me, for harm.

53 The God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge betwixt us. And Jacob ſware by the fear of his father Iſaac.

54 Then Jacob offered ſacrifice upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread: and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount.

55 And early in the morning Laban roſe up, and kiſſed his ſons and his daughters, and bleſſed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

---

30 My gods.] Laban ſeems to have imbibed the doctrine of intercommunity, ſo univerſal among the heathens, which taught them not only to worſhip the local, tutelary gods of their own country, but likewiſe to adore thoſe of other nations. Thus it is evident he acknowledged the true God, ver. 48. though at the ſame time his wrath for the loſs of his teraphim ſhews he was a worſhipper of idols. It was the conſtant language of idolaters in all ages, to call their conſecrated ſtatues, or images, their gods: becauſe they not only conſidered them as ſymbols or repreſentations of Divinity, but as proper pledges or receptacles of a divine preſence; conſequently, to rob them of their idols, was to deprive them of the preſence and protection of their gods.

32 With whomſoever thou findeſt thy gods, &c.] We infer from hence, that theft was at this time puniſhed with death.

33 And Laban went into Jacob's tent, &c.] The Septuagint reads, Laban went and ſearched diligently in Jacob's tent. That this word was omitted in the Hebrew by ſome tranſcriber, ſeems very evident from the words, "but found them not," in the latter part of the verſe, which imply a ſearch. The printed Samaritan reads indeed, vaiechabeſh, which ſignifies, "he proſtrated; but it appears from ſome Samaritan manuſcripts, that inſtead of vaiechabeſh, we ſhould read vaiechapeſh, which ſignifies, "to ſearch with care," confirms the tranſlation of the Septuagint, and agrees with what Jacob aſſerts, ver. 37. "thou haſt ſearched or felt all my ſtuff."

37 Thou haſt ſearched, &c.] We think it would be better rendered, Thou haſt felt, or handled.

40 And the froſt by night, &c.] In theſe countries it was cuſtomary for the ſhepherds to watch their flocks in the night, as appears from Luke ii. 8. The ſolicitude which Jacob deſcribes in this verſe, throws a noble ſplendor upon his character, and repreſents him as exemplary for his fidelity, as he was for his devotion.

42 The God of my father, &c.] It is remarkable that Jacob, in deſcribing the true God under the tutelary titles of the God of his father, and the God of Abraham, adds, "the fear," not the God "of Iſaac." Grotius ſays, that this variation is owing to a cuſtom among the Jews, who never ſtyle the Deity the peculiar God of the living, as Iſaac then was, but always confine this title to the deceaſed.

46 Gather ſtones] The cuſtom of heaping up a great number of looſe ſtones, as a memorial of ſome remarkable action, is of the higheſt antiquity, and may be traced in the earlieſt records of the hiſtory of all countries.

And they did eat there, &c.] In making covenants, the antients were accuſtomed either to offer up a ſacrifice, or make a feaſt; and the contracting parties uſed to eat together in token of their friendſhip, and their intention to keep the conditions without violation.

47 And Laban called it Jegar-ſahadutha, &c.] The words uſed by the two parties, though different in language, were in ſenſe the ſame. Laban, who uſed the Syriac, named it "Jegar-ſahadutha," which ſignifies, "the heap of witneſs;" and Jacob, who ſpoke in Hebrew, Galeed, which ſignifies, "the heap of ocular inſpection."

53 The God of their father, &c.] As Laban ſpeaks to Jacob, the pronoun "their" can refer only to Abraham and Nahor, and their father was Terah. But the God of Terah is an expreſſion which has no authority from ſcripture; and beſides, Terah was an idolater. The Septuagint entirely omits this ſentence, reading, The God of Abraham and the God of Nahor judge between us; which ſhews that it was introduced, and might have happened from the tranſcriber's beginning to write the ſame line twice. The difference between the oath taken by Laban and Jacob, is very remarkable: that of Laban is conformable to the idea of a local, gentilitial, and tutelary deity; and the name he aſcribes to him was, like that of other tutelary deities, a name of diſtinction. But Jacob, who had more enlarged ideas of the divine nature, appeals to God as the object of worſhip, and gives him not a name of diſtinction, but a name of honour.

54 Jacob offered ſacrifice] In gratitude to God for the peace he had obtained with Laban.

Called his brethren to eat bread, &c.] i. e. He invited Laban and his friends to partake of the remains of the ſacrifice, in token of their hearty reconciliation. This ſhews, that however Jacob and Laban might differ in ſome modes or forms of worſhip, yet they agreed in the belief and adoration of the one ſupreme being, ſince they partook of the ſame ſacrifice which Jacob offered to the true God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXI.

Let us obſerve the gracious hand of the Divine Being towards Jacob in this chapter. God, who ordereth all things aright, having bleſſed Jacob with greater ſubſtance in the houſe of Laban, than he could have obtained in his father's houſe, without great inconveniencies, perhaps irreconcileable and fatal hatred between him and his brother Eſau, now orders him to return to the land of his fathers; whereby he muſt be underſtood not what was properly theirs, but only that in which they ſojourned, and which was promiſed to them for their ſeed: and as Jacob was an inheritor of the promiſe, it was proper that he ſhould ſojourn in the land, to keep alive the hopes of it to his poſterity.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Jacob's viſion at Mahanaim. 3 His meſſage to Eſau. 6 He is afraid of Eſau's coming, 9 and prayeth for deliverance. 13 He ſendeth a preſent to Eſau; 24 wreſtleth with an angel at Peniel, and is called Iſrael. 31 He halteth.

AND Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God met him.

2 And when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, This is God's hoſt: and he called the name of that place Mahanaim.

3 ¶ And Jacob ſent meſſengers before him to Eſau his brother unto the land of Seir, the country of Edom.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto my lord Eſau; Thy ſervant Jacob ſaith thus, I have ſojourned with Laban, and ſtayed there until now:

5 And I have oxen, and aſſes, flocks, and menſervants, and womenſervants: and I have ſent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy ſight.

6 ¶ And the meſſengers returned to Jacob, ſaying, We came to thy brother Eſau, and alſo he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid and diſtreſſed: and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels, into two bands;

8 And ſaid, If Eſau come to the one company, and ſmite it, then the other company which is left ſhall eſcape.

9 ¶ And Jacob ſaid, O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Iſaac, the LORD which ſaidſt unto me, Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee:

10 I am not worthy of the leaſt of all the mercies, and of all the truth, which thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant; for with my ſtaff I paſſed over this Jordan; and now I am become two bands. Before CHRIST 1739.

11 Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Eſau: for I fear him, leſt he will come and ſmite me, and the mother with the children.

12 And thou ſaidſt, I will ſurely do thee good, and make thy ſeed as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

13 ¶ And he lodged there that ſame night; and took of that which came to his hand a preſent for Eſau his brother;

14 Two hundred ſhe goats, and twenty he goats, two hundred ews, and twenty rams.

15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and ten bulls, twenty ſhe aſſes, and ten foles.

16 And he delivered them into the hand of his ſervants, every drove by themſelves; and ſaid unto his ſervants, Paſs over before me, and put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove.

17 And he commanded the foremoſt, ſaying, When Eſau my brother meeteth thee, and aſketh thee, ſaying, Whoſe art thou? and whither goeſt thou? and whoſe are theſe before thee?

18 Then thou ſhalt ſay, They be thy ſervant Jacob's; it is a preſent ſent unto my lord Eſau: and, behold, alſo he is behind us.

19 And ſo commanded he the ſecond, and the third, and all that followed the droves, ſaying, On this manner ſhall ye ſpeak unto Eſau, when ye find him.

20 And ſay ye moreover, Behold thy ſervant Jacob is behind us. For he ſaid, I will appeaſe him with the preſent that goeth before me, and afterward I will ſee his face; peradventure he will accept of me.

21 So went the preſent over before him: and himſelf lodged that night in the company.

22 And he roſe up that night, and took his two wives, and his two womenſervants, and his eleven ſons, and paſſed over the ford Jabbok.

23 And he took them, and ſent them over the brook, and ſent over that he had.

24 ¶ And Jacob was left alone; and there wreſtled a man with him until the breaking of the day.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXII.

1 The angels of God met him.] As Jacob was favoured with a heavenly viſion when he firſt departed from his father's houſe; ſo the divine Being thought proper again to favour him with the ſame token of his protection at his return.

2 Mahanaim.] That is, "two hoſts or camps;" becauſe the angels appeared like two armies drawn up on either ſide for his protection, according to that elegant expreſſion of the Pſalmiſt, "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them." Pſalm xxxiv. 7.

3 And Jacob ſent meſſengers.] Though this patriarch had the greateſt reaſon to rely on the protection of the Almighty, yet he thought it his duty to make uſe of all prudential methods for his ſafety. He therefore ſent this meſſage to Eſau, in order to ſoften his reſentment, and to regain his affection.

The country of Edom.] The Hebrew might be better rendered, The field of Edom.

7 Greatly afraid, &c.] The fear of Jacob, though repreſented by ſome commentators as ariſing from a conſciouſneſs of guilt, was rather the effect of wiſdom than cowardice. He had left his brother highly exaſperated againſt him, reſolved to put him to death, and owed his life purely to his flight. On his return he hears that Eſau was making towards him with no leſs than four hundred men. This was a number ſufficient to raiſe ſuſpicion, when he recollected what diſpoſition he had left his brother in: it was enough to make him apprehenſive of the conſequences which ſuch a ſtep might have with reſpect to his ſubſtance; but when he conſidered how eaſy a prey his numerous herds of cattle would be to an enemy; ah! when he conſidered the danger which threatened his wives and his children, the dear pledges of his love; he could not help agonizing for their ſakes, and ſhuddering at the approach of an enraged brother! Yet amidſt his terror, he ſhewed the moſt conſummate prudence; he made uſe of every expedient to divert the impending ſtorm; did all that he could to protract the fate of his wives and his children; marched before them to defend them, or die in the attempt; and having done all that was in the power of human wiſdom, has recourſe to the God of his father for protection and deliverance.

10 I am not worthy of the leaſt.] If we conſider the purity and holineſs of the Deity, and the infinity of created beings: if we recollect that he chargeth his angels with folly, and that in his ſight no man living can be juſtified; if we reflect on the infinitude of the divine bleſſings ſhowered down upon us, and at the ſame time ponder on the innumerable ſins we are guilty of, we muſt acknowledge with Jacob, that "we are not worthy of the leaſt of all the mercies, and all the truth, he hath ſhewed unto us."

With my ſtaff, &c.] The Chaldee tranſlates it, By myſelf, or alone, which illuſtrates the contraſt mentioned in the latter end of the verſe, "now I am become two bands." The original word ſignifies not only a ſtaff, but likewiſe a military weapon, and it is mentioned among the inſtruments of war, Ezek. xxxix. 9.

11 Smite—the mother with the children.] This ſhould rather be rendered, Smite the mother upon the children; and ſignifies a havock and extirpation of all without mercy, like that mentioned in Hoſea, chap. ii. 14. The Arabic tranſlates it, Thoſe that are with me, the mother and the children; but the Syriac, Smite both me, and the mother, and the children. It is a proverbial expreſſion, ſignifying, extirpation.

24 And there wreſtled a man with him, &c.] That is a celeſtial being in the form of a man, called God, ver. 28, 30. and probably the Son of God. Information by action was at this time a very familiar mode of inſtruction, and the deficiencies of language were ſupplied by ſignificative ſigns. If we turn back to Jacob's prayer, and conſider the circumſtances he was in, when it pleaſed God to wreſtle with him, we may perceive that his intention was to inform him of the happy iſſue of his adventure, and that his petition was granted, by a ſignificative action. But as this is not followed by an expreſs explanation, this circumſtance in Jacob's hiſtory has afforded abundant mirth to illiterate libertines, and manifeſted their ignorance likewiſe: for this information by action concerning only the actor, who little needed to behold the meaning of a mode of inſtruction, at that time in vulgar uſe, hath now an obſcurity, which the ſcripture relations of the ſame mode of information to the prophets are free from, by reaſon of their being given for the uſe of the people to whom they were to be explained.

25 And when he ſaw that he prevailed not againſt him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wreſtled with him.

26 And he ſaid, Let me go, for the day breaketh: And he ſaid, I will not let thee go, except thou bleſs me.

27 And he ſaid unto him, What is thy name? And he ſaid, Jacob.

28 And he ſaid, Thy name ſhall be called no more Jacob, but Iſrael: for as a prince haſt thou power with God and with men, and haſt prevailed.

29 And Jacob aſked him, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name: And he ſaid, Wherefore is it that thou doſt aſk after my name? And he bleſſed him there.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have ſeen God face to face, and my life is preſerved.

31 ¶ And as he paſſed over Penuel the ſun roſe upon him, and he halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not of the ſinew which ſhrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: becauſe he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh in the ſinew that ſhrank.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXII.

Toward the beginning of this chapter we find Jacob, having done what prudence directed, put himſelf under the divine protection, as that which could avail him moſt, by an humble and fervent addreſs to God; in which he acknowledges his great goodneſs towards him, and his faithfulneſs. Thus ſhould we have recourſe to God, the ſure and almighty protector, in all our dangers; and thus ſhould we acknowledge all our bleſſings, all our ſubſtance, to be derived from him.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The kindneſs of Jacob and Eſau at their meeting. 17 Jacob cometh to Succoth. 18 At Shalem he buyeth a field, and buildeth an altar called El-elohe-Iſrael.

AND Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, Eſau came, and with him four hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

2 And he put the handmaids and their children foremoſt, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joſeph hindermoſt.

3 And he paſſed over before them, and bowed himſelf to the ground ſeven times, until he came near to his brother. Before CHRIST 1739.

4 And Eſau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him: and they wept.

5 And he lifted up his eyes, and ſaw the women and the children; and ſaid, Who are thoſe with thee? And he ſaid, The children which God hath graciouſly given thy ſervant.

6 Then the handmaids came near, they and their children, and they bowed themſelves.

7 And Leah alſo with her children came near, and bowed themſelves: and after came Joſeph near and Rachel, and they bowed themſelves.

8 And he ſaid, What meaneſt thou by all this drove which I met? And he ſaid, Theſe are to find grace in the ſight of my lord.

9 And Eſau ſaid, I have enough, my brother; keep that thou haſt unto thyſelf.

10 And Jacob ſaid, Nay, I pray thee, if now I have found grace in thy ſight, then receive my preſent at my hand: for therefore I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God, and thou waſt pleaſed with me.

11 Take, I pray thee, my bleſſing that is brought to thee; becauſe God hath dealt graciouſly with me, and becauſe I have enough. And he urged him, and he took it.

12 And he ſaid, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee.

13 And he ſaid unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with young are with me: and if men ſhould overdrive them one day, all the flock will die.

14 Let my lord, I pray thee, paſs over before his ſervant: and I will lead on ſoftly, according as the cattle that goeth before me and the children be able to endure, until I come unto my lord unto Seir.

15 And Eſau ſaid, Let me now leave with thee ſome of the folk that are with me: And he ſaid, What needeth it? let me find grace in the ſight of my lord.

16 So Eſau returned that day on his way unto Seir.

17 ¶ And

25 He touched the hollow of his thigh, &c.] To inform how eaſily he could have overpowered him.

28 No more Jacob] The Arabic renders it, Thy name ſhall not always be called Jacob only, but Iſrael likewiſe. Iſrael ſignifies "a prince powerful with God," and alludes to the Hebrew, Sharetha em Elohim, "Thou haſt acted, or behaved, like a prince (in wreſtling) with God."

For a prince, &c.] According to our tranſlation, Jacob is aſſerted to have prevailed over men, as well as over the angels; whereas he had been obliged to flee from Eſau and Laban, the only two enemies he ever had. The words ſhould therefore be tranſlated, Thou haſt acted, or behaved, like a prince with God, and thou ſhalt alſo prevail over men. The Vulgate renders it, Becauſe if thou haſt been ſtrong or powerful, or prevailed with God, how much more ſhalt thou prevail with man! The Chaldee, Becauſe thou haſt been as a prince with God, and ſhall prevail againſt men.

30 Peniel] or (as it is in the next verſe) Penuel: That is, "the face of God."

I have ſeen God face to face] I have been admitted to the greateſt familiarity with this repreſentation of the Almighty, and by his means enjoyed ſuch happy intercourſe with God, as is the portion of thoſe bleſſed ſpirits who approach neareſt the divine preſence.

And my life is preſerved.] Here Jacob preſerves and perpetuates, not the memory of his valour or victory, but the mercy of God's free grace.

32 Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not, &c.] The ſinew here meant is that which faſtens the hip-bone into its ſocket, comprehending the fleſh of that muſcle which is connected to it.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIII.

2 Rachel and Joſeph, &c.] Jacob places his wives in the rear of his retinue, that they might rather be the ſpectators, than the ſubject of Eſau's attack. They were the moſt remote from danger, and the ſituation aſſigned Rachel and Joſeph ſtrongly marks the ſuperior fondneſs he had for her and her ſon.

3 Bowed himſelf—ſeven times, &c.] The words "ſeven times" are uſed to ſignify many times. See 1 Sam. ii. 5. Prov. xxvi. 25.

4 Eſau ran to meet him, &c.] The ardour of Eſau's affection is painted by the ſacred hiſtorian in the ſtrongeſt colours, which ſhew that his reconciliation was ſincere. He does not ſtay till Jacob comes up to him, but runs to meet him; he embraces him; he hangs, ruſhes, or falls upon his neck; he kiſſes him, and, no longer able to ſupport his tranſport, pours out a ſtream of affection from his eyes, which mingles with that which iſſued from the eyes of his brother. "Behold, how good and pleaſant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! &c."

8 Theſe are to find grace in the ſight, &c.] This was not merely a temporal expedient, invented by Jacob to mollify the reſentment of his brother, but in purſuance of a conſtant cuſtom among the eaſtern and other nations, who always made a preſent to the perſon whom they viſited or paid their court to. See Matt. iii. 11.

9 I have enough, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, Much, and implies that he was as much contented with his circumſtances, as he was really reconciled to his brother; and that he was as great a ſtranger to avarice, and a mercenary ſpirit, as to an unforgiving and malicious temper.

11 Becauſe I have enough, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, All, and intimates, that Jacob was not inferior to his brother, either in affluence or gratitude to God, who had given him all that he enjoyed.

12 Let us take our journey, &c.] This invitation which Eſau gives his brother, to accompany him to mount Seir, is a further proof of his perfect reconciliation.

13 With young, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, Giving ſuck, which the Chaldee and Arabic have followed; but the Vulgate, Septuagint, Samaritan, and Syriac, agree with our tranſlation.

14 According as the cattle, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, According to the foot of the work, and to the foot of the children. The Chaldee renders it, According to the pace of my family which is with me, and according to the pace of the little ones. The Syriac is the ſame; but the Arabic, I will lead them ſlowly, on account of the ſubſtance I have with me, and one account of my ſons. This verſe may be looked upon as an evaſion of Eſau's offer, and has given occaſion to ſome to ſuppoſe, from the hiſtorian's ſilence, that Jacob, notwithſtanding his promiſe, never went to Mount Seir. But the profeſſed brevity of Moſes would rather incline us to imagine, that Jacob might have gone to Seir, though he has not recorded that circumſtance; as we reaſonably may ſuppoſe, that he viſited his father before his return to Canaan and coming to Mamre, which he has omitted likewiſe.

15 Let me now leave, &c.] This is agreeable to the Vulgate. But the Hebrew ſignifies, I will cauſe ſome of my people to ſtay with thee; and the Septuagint confirm this ſenſe.

Before CHRIST 1739. 17 ¶ And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called Succoth.

18 ¶ And Jacob came to Shalem a city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and pitched his tent before the city.

19 And he bought a parcel of a field, where he had ſpread his tent, at the hand of the children of Hamor, Shechem's father, for an hundred pieces of money.

20 And he erected there an altar, and called it El-elohe-Iſrael.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIII.

In this portion of divine revelation, we cannot help being ſtruck with admiration at the noble and tender behaviour of Eſau: though the elder brother, though he had received great injuries, yet his affection for his brother is ſo tender, that he cannot wait for the tedioufneſs of ceremony, but runs to meet him, embraces him, falls on his neck, kiſſes him, and weeps. What brother can have received greater injuries than Eſau had? and yet what implacable, and never to be mollified hatred do we too often ſee in brothers? Let them behold Eſau, and bluſh with ſhame. The paſſage in the original is marked with ſome marginal points, intimating that it is a remarkable paſſage: and indeed it is moſt highly worthy of our obſervation and imitation. We do not read of any extraordinary interpoſition of Providence here, as in the caſe of Laban; and therefore we may conclude, that reflection and brotherly affection, and a noble generoſity of ſoul, extinguiſhed his reſentment, and worked him up even to love and tenderneſs for a brother that had injured him. It is no leſs worthy of obſervation, if we conclude that God wrought this ſudden change in the heart of Eſau, as it ſhews the power of him who is thus able to turn the hearts of men as he pleaſes; and how able a protector he is of us, ſince in a moment he can make our worſt enemies our moſt tender friends.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Dinah is raviſhed by Shechem. 4 He ſueth to marry her. 13 The ſons of Jacob offer the condition of circumciſion to the Shechemites. 20 Hamor and Shechem perſuaded them to accept it. 25 The ſons of Jacob taking advantage thereof ſlay them and ſpoil their city. 30 Jacob reproveth Simeon and Levi.

AND Dinah the daughter of Leah, which ſhe bare unto Jacob, went out to ſee the daughters of the land.

2 And when Shechem the ſon of Hamor the Hivite, Before CHRIST 1732. prince of the country, ſaw her, he took her, and lay with her, and defiled her.

3 And his ſoul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damſel, and ſpake kindly unto the damſel.

4 ¶ And Shechem ſpake unto his father Hamor, ſaying, Get me this damſel to wife.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter: now his ſons were with his cattle in the field: and Jacob held his peace until they were come.

6 And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to commune with him.

7 And the ſons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it: and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth, becauſe he had wrought folly in Iſrael in lying with Jacob's daughter; which thing ought not to be done.

8 And Hamor communed with them, ſaying, The ſoul of my ſon Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her him to wife.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye ſhall dwell with us: and the land ſhall be before you; dwell and trade ye therein, and get you poſſeſſions therein.

11 And Shechem ſaid unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye ſhall ſay unto me I will give.

12 Aſk me never ſo much dowry and gift, and I will give according as ye ſhall ſay unto me: but give me the damſel to wife.

13 ¶ And the ſons of Jacob anſwered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and ſaid, becauſe he had defiled Dinah their ſiſter:

14 And they ſaid unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our ſiſter to one that is uncircumciſed; for that were a reproach unto us:

15 But in this will we conſent unto you: If ye will be as we be, that every male of you be circumciſed;

16 Then

17 To Succoth, &c.] This name is given it by anticipation, for it appears it was given to this place on account of the booths he made for his cattle: the word ſuccoth ſignifies "booth."

18 Came to Shalem a city of Shechem, &c.] Though the Vulgate, Septuagint, and Syriac, concur in this ſenſe, yet it ſeems probable that "Shalem" is not a proper name of a place, but an appellative or common town, ſignifying "peace" or "ſafety:" according to which the ſentence ſhould be rendered, Jacob came in peace, or ſafety, to the city of Shechem.

19 An hundred pieces of money.] The Septuagint, Vulgate, Chaldee, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, agree in tranſlating the original words, Lambs; but it is the unanimous opinion of all the Jewiſh writers, and expreſsly aſſerted by St. Stephen, Acts vii. 16. that they were pieces of money. To reconcile this difference, ſome have imagined that the coin was ſtamped with the figure of a lamb, and received its name from that circumſtance: to this it is objected, that money was not coined or ſtamped in thoſe days, but paid by weight, as appears from Gen. xxiii. 6. Exod. xxii. 17. The word keſeth, from whence keſita is derived, ſignifies "truth," and implies that juſtneſs of weight, and purity of metal, which rendered money current, as appears from Gen. xxiii. 16. The Jewiſh writers aſſert, that the money thus denominated was equal to the gerah, which was valued at five farthings and one-fourth of a farthing: according to which eſtimate, Jacob appears to have paid no more than ten ſhillings for the field; however inconſiderable this ſum may appear to us, yet if we reflect the proportion between the value of money then and at the preſent time, it will not be ſo trifling as it ſeems at firſt. One of theſe pieces of money was the value of a lamb then, and a hundred of them was worth one hundred lambs; which, if given in purchaſe for a field, would even now amount to no inconſiderable ſum.

20 El-elohe-Iſrael.] In Hebrew, God, the God of Iſrael; the Vulgate renders it, He called upon the moſt mighty God of Iſrael; the Chaldee, And ſacrificed upon it before the mighty God of Iſrael; the Samaritan, The mighty God of Iſrael; the Syriac, He called, or named it, the moſt mighty God of Iſrael; the Arabic, He prayed before the name of the God of Iſrael; but the Septuagint, He called upon the God of Iſrael.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Dinah—went out to ſee the daughters of the land.] On one of the feſtival days of the Shechemites, Dinah, who was now about fixteen years of age, and deſirous of ſeeing the dreſſes and ornaments of the women of that country, rambled from her mother's tent. This tranſaction muſt have happened ſeven or eight years, at leaſt, after Jacob's return into the land of Canaan, becauſe his ſons were grown up to manhood.

2 Took her] That is, Raviſhed, or took her by force.

Defiled, &c.] In the Hebrew, Afflicted, or humbled. The Septuagint confirm this ſenſe.

3 Spake kindly, &c.] In the Hebrew, Spake to the heart of the damſel. The Septuagint render it, According to the opinion; which is confirmed by the Samaritan. The Syriac tranſlates it, He comforted the virgin; and the Arabic, He ſoothed her grief.

5 And Jacob held his peace until they were come.] He concealed his reſentment till his ſons returned, who were then with his cattle in the field, and probably at ſome diſtance; it being common for them to range about the country in ſearch of paſture.

7 When they heard it, &c.] The Arabic connects this ſentence with the following, thus: When they heard it, they were very ſad, &c. and is ſupported by the Septuagint, Vulgate, and Syriac; but our tranſlation connects it with the ſentence preceding, aſſigning it as the reaſon why the ſons of Jacob came out of the field; which ſenſe is ſupported by the Chaldee and Samaritan.

8 Hath longed, &c.] No words can expreſs more ardent affection than the original; and it is remarkable that all the antient tranſlations ſeem to have laboured to retain the force of the original. The ſons of Jacob, and perhaps Leah herſelf, were preſent at this application, which ſhews that the words, "your daughter," were grammatically proper.

Trade ye therein] The Hebrew ſignifies, To circuit, and alludes to their cuſtom of ranging about for paſtures. The Vulgate, Septuagint, Chaldee, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, confirm our tranſlation.

Get you poſſeſſions, &c.] In the Hebrew, Inherit, or acquire inheritances.

12 Aſk me never ſo much dowry, &c.] In thoſe times marriage-portions were given by the men; and in the eaſt, eſpecially amongſt the Turks and Perſians, this cuſtom is preſerved even to this day.

13 Deceitfully] The Chaldee renders it, Wiſely.

And ſaid, becauſe, &c.] The Vulgate renders it, They anſwered (ſaying, on account of the rape of their ſiſter) we cannot, &c. The Septuagint particularize who the perſons were that made the reply: and Simeon and Levi, the brethren of Dinah ſaid, "We cannot, &c."

Before CHRIST 1732.

16 Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumciſed; then we will take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleaſed Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's ſon.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, becauſe he had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honourable than all the houſe of his father.

20 ¶ And Hamor and Shechem his ſon came unto the gate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, ſaying,

21 Theſe men are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them; let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

22 Only herein will the men conſent unto us for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumciſed, as they are circumciſed.

23 Shall not their cattle and their ſubſtance and every beaſt of their's be our's? only let us conſent unto them, and they will dwell with us.

24 And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his ſon hearkened all that went out of the gate of his city; and every male was circumciſed, all that went out of the gate of his city.

25 ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day, when they were ſore, that two of the ſons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren, took each man his ſword, and came upon the city boldly, and ſlew all the males.

26 And they ſlew Hamor and Shechem his ſon with the edge of the ſword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's houſe, and went out.

27 The ſons of Jacob came upon the ſlain, and ſpoiled the city, becauſe they had defiled their ſiſter.

28 They took their ſheep, and their oxen, and their aſſes, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field,

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and ſpoiled even all that was in the houſe.

30 ¶ And Jacob ſaid to Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled me to make me to ſtink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites: and I being few in number, they ſhall gather themſelves together againſt me, and ſlay me; and I ſhall be deſtroyed, I and my houſe. Before CHRIST 1732.

31 And they ſaid, ſhould he deal with our ſiſter as with an harlot.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIV.

Well might Jacob, in the above chapter, reproach his ſons, and ſay they had troubled him. Well might he always keep it in remembrance, and mention it with indignation on his death-bed; for nothing could be more treacherous, baſe, and cruel, than their conduct. We may alſo learn, what great evils are often the conſequence of love; and how deteſtable and dreadful it is to follow the furious dictates of revenge without conſideration.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 God commandeth Jacob to go to Beth-el; he purgeth his houſe of idols; 6 and buildeth an altar at Beth-el. 8 Deborah Rebekah's nurſe dieth, and is buried under an oak. 9 God again bleſſeth Jacob, and confirmeth to him the name of Iſrael, and the promiſe of the land of Canaan. 14 Jacob ſetteth up a pillar at Beth-el. 16 Rachel travailing of Benjamin dieth near Bethlehem, and is buried there. 22 Reuben lieth with Bilhah. The twelve ſons of Jacob. 27 Jacob cometh to Iſaac at Hebron. 28 Iſaac's age, death, and burial.

AND God ſaid unto Jacob, Ariſe, go up to Beth-el, and dwell there: and make there an altar unto God, that appeared unto thee when thou fleddeſt from the face of Eſau thy brother.

2 Then Jacob ſaid unto his houſhold, and to all that were with him, Put away the ſtrange gods that are among you, and be clean and change your garments:

3 And let us ariſe, and go up to Beth-el; and I will make there an altar unto God, who anſwered me in the day of my diſtreſs, and was with me in the way which I went.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the ſtrange gods which were in their hands, and all their earrings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under the oak which was by Shechem.

17 We will take our daughter, &c.] Some ſuppoſe from hence, that Jacob's ſons were commiſſioned to act in his name.

18 And their words pleaſed Hamor, &c.] The tranſaction informs us, that though Shechem had committed this action, yet he was paſſionately fond of Dinah. We may alſo obſerve, that both Hamor and all the inhabitants of the city had a great affection for Shechem, ſince they ſubmitted to ſo painful an operation, merely to ſerve their prince.

23 Shall not their cattle, &c.] They were moved by principles of intereſt, as well as reſpect to their prince, to ſubmit to this rite.

24 All that went out of the gate, &c.] All the inhabitants, or citizens.

25 Two of the ſons of Jacob, &c.] Notwithſtanding the Shechemites had ſubmitted to the painful rite of circumciſion, the propoſed condition of reconciliation with Jacob's family; yet Simeon and Levi took the advantage of their pain and anguiſh, when they were leaſt able to reſiſt, to fall upon the city, and deſtroy all the male inhabitants: an action ſhocking to humanity; for doubtleſs many of the ſufferers were entirely innocent of their leader's crime; and even the guilty, by ſubmitting to the propoſed terms of agreement, had made a proper compenſation to Jacob for the injury offered. Well, therefore, might their father deteſt ſo baſe an action, and, on his death-bed, cry out in theſe emphatical words "O my ſoul, come not thou into their ſecret: unto their aſſembly, mine honour, be not thou united: for in their anger they ſlew a man—Curſed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel," chap. xlix. 6, 7.

30 Make me to ſtink, &c.] The Vulgate renders it, Made me odious; the Chaldee, Ye will occaſion, or put enmity between me and the Canaanites; the Arabic, Ye have rendered me infamous, and corrupted my condition with reſpect to the Canaanites; and the Syriac, Ye have offended me to bring evil between me and the inhabitants, &c.

31 And they ſaid, Should he deal, &c.] Jacob, we ſee, was much concerned at theſe furious proceedings of his ſons; but Simeon and Levi were ſo warmed with the thoughts of the diſhonour done to their ſiſter and family, that they repented not of what they had done, but ſeem to think all was little enough to vindicate their ſiſter's reputation, that ſhe might not be reputed as a common woman.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXV.

1 And God ſaid unto Jacob, &c.] The national inhumanities of the Chaldeans, the cruelties by which Jacob's ſons had exaſperated them to make repriſals, and the defection which ſome of his family were making to idolatry, ſeem to have been the motives for ordering him to remove his ſettlement, and repair to that place which he had dedicated to the worſhip of the true God.

2 Put away the ſtrange gods] The Hebrew ſignifies, The gods of the ſtranger. The Chaldee renders, put away the idols of the people that are among you: but the Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, ſupport our tranſlation. Jacob, ſay ſome, perhaps meant the teraphim, which Rachel had ſtolen from Laban; but others ſuppoſe that they were the idols of the Canaanites or Shechemites, who were taken priſoners and incorporated into his family: and it muſt be confeſſed that the Chaldean tranſlation gives ſome countenance to this opinion.

Be clean, &c.] The word properly ſignifies, The waſhing away filth by water. As there is ſome analogy between external cleanlineſs and internal, it may denote repentance, by which the ſoul is cleanſed and purified, as the body is by waſhing it in water. And hence this rite of waſhing the body with water was uſed as a ſign of inward purification, not only among the idolatrous heathens, but alſo by the worſhippers of the true God, both before and under the law. "Waſh ye, make ye clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes," Iſaiah i. 16. And as men ſhould at all times have their ſouls adorned with this inward purity, it was highly commendable in Jacob, on this ſolemn occaſion, to enjoin all under his care to cleanſe and purify themſelves particularly from idolatry, and from thoſe guilty ſtains lately contracted by ſhedding innocent blood, as they would otherwiſe be very unfit to hold an intercourſe with their God: as if the patriarch had ſaid, put off your ſordid apparel, eſpecially thoſe garments in which you were ſo lately defiled with blood, and put on the cleaneſt raiment, as an emblem of your being diveſted of all impure affections, and cloathed with thoſe internal graces which are the ornament of the ſoul.

4 And all their earrings, &c.] It was cuſtomary for the Syrians to dedicate them to ſome idol; and they were worn to render their deities propitious; and being thus ſubſervient to the uſes of idolatry, we need not wonder they are particularly mentioned by Jacob.

5 And they journeyed: and the terror of God was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not purſue after the ſons of Jacob.

6 ¶ So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is, Beth-el, he and all the people that were with him.

7 And he built there an altar, and called the place El-beth-el; becauſe there God appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

8 ¶ But Deborah Rebekah's nurſe died, and ſhe was buried beneath Beth-el under an oak; and the name of it was called Allon-bachuth.

9 ¶ And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-aram, and bleſſed him.

10 And God ſaid unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name ſhall not be called any more Jacob, but Iſrael ſhall be thy name: and he called his name Iſrael.

11 And God ſaid unto him, I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply; a nation and a company of nations ſhall be of thee, and kings ſhall come out of thy loins;

12 And the land which I gave Abraham and Iſaac, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed after thee will I give the land.

13 And God went up from him in the place where he talked with him.

14 ¶ And Jacob ſet up a pillar in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of ſtone: and he poured a drink offering thereon, and he poured oil thereon.

15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God ſpake with him, Beth-el:

16 ¶ And they journeyed from Beth-el; and there was but a little way to come to Ephrath: and Rachel travailed, and ſhe had hard labour.

17 And it came to paſs, when ſhe was in hard labour, that the midwife ſaid unto her, Fear not; thou ſhalt have this ſon alſo.

18 And it came to paſs, as her ſoul was in departing, (for ſhe died) that ſhe called his name Ben-oni: but his father called him Benjamin.

19 And Rachel died, and was buried in the way to Ephrath, which is Beth-lehem.

20 And Jacob ſet a pillar upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachel's grave unto this day.

21 And Iſrael journeyed, and ſpread his tent beyond the tower of Edar. Before CHRIST 1732.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Iſrael dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine: and Iſrael heard it. Now the ſons of Jacob were twelve:

23 The ſons of Leah: Reuben, Jacob's firſtborn, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Zebulon:

24 The ſons of Rachel; Joſeph, and Benjamin:

25 And the ſons of Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid; Dan, and Naphtali:

26 And the ſons of Zilpah, Leah's handmaid; Gad, and Aſher: theſe are the ſons of Jacob, which were born to him in Padan-aram. 1729.

27 ¶ And Jacob came unto Iſaac his father unto Mamre, unto the city of Arbah, which is Hebron, where Abraham and Iſaac ſojourned.

28 ¶ And the days of Iſaac were an hundred and fourſcore years.

29 And Iſaac gave up the ghoſt, and died, and was gathered unto his people, being old and full of days: and his ſons Eſau and Jacob buried him. 1716.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXV.

It being a principal deſign to produce as great a variety as poſſible in the courſe of the General Reflections, we ſhall offer to our readers, as a practical remark, that Rachel, who longed for children ſo impatiently as to ſay, "Give me children, or elſe I die," died in child-bearing—a lively inſtance of the folly of our wiſhes! which, it is to be hoped, will be ſeriouſly attended to by all.

NOW theſe are the generations of Eſau, who is Edom. 1796.

5 And the terror of God was upon the cities, &c.] Some render it, A great terror. It was doubtleſs very ſingular, that the inhabitants of the land ſhould neglect to take ſignal vengeance on the ſons of Jacob, for the cruelty they had exerciſed on the unfortunate Shechemites: the ſacred hiſtorian, therefore, thought proper to inſert the reaſon for this ſupineneſs, namely, "the terror of the Lord;" which operated ſo ſtrongly upon their minds, that they durſt not attempt to follow the Hebrews, but ſuffered them to retire unmoleſted with their ſubſtance.

7 El-beth-el. &c.] That is, "the God of Beth-el."

8 Deborah Rebekah's nurſe died, &c.] This woman came with her miſtreſs from Meſopotamia to Canaan, when ſhe married Iſaac. Her death is here mentioned to ſhew the reaſon why the oak was called allon-bachuth, that is, "the oak of mourning."

9 God appeared, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, The angel of God appeared.

10 Iſrael ſhall be thy name, &c.] The word Iſrael implies, "a prince powerful with God," and was given before by the angel when they wreſtled together; but was now repeated to confirm his faith. See chap. xxx. 11, 28.

13 God went up from, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, The glory of the Lord, &c. and the Arabic, The angel of the Lord was taken up, &c. whence we may infer, that God had manifeſted himſelf to him by his glorious preſence, which now vaniſhed, or elſe by the miniſtry of angels, who now aſcended out of his ſight.

14 He poured a drink-offering, &c.] Or, He poured mixed wine and oil.

18 As her ſoul was in departing.] Rachel had impatiently longed for children; but was now fatally convinced, that what ſhe conſidered as the greateſt happineſs, was really the greateſt pain; and thence called this ſon Ben-oni, "the ſon of my ſorrow."

His father called him Benjamin.] Benjamin, in the Hebrew, ſignifies, "the ſon of my right hand," and might intimate the intenſe affection which Jacob had for this dear pledge of his beloved wife; the right hand, and the right eye, being uſed in ſcripture for ſome thing that engroſſes our affections; yet as Jacob may be ſuppoſed to have uſed the Syriac language, others interpret the name, according to its ſignification in the Syriac, The ſon of my days, or old age; which carries with it the idea of equal fondneſs.

No. 5.

21 The tower of Edar.] That is, "the tower of the flock." It is thought to have been ſituated near Jeruſalem, and is mentioned by the prophet Micah, chap. iv. 8. "And thou O tower of the flock, &c."

22 And Iſrael heard—Now the ſons, &c.] In the Hebrew manuſcripts, a blank ſpace is left between the words tranſlated "heard it," and "now the ſons." The Jews acknowledge in the margin, that ſome words are wanting to complete the ſenſe; and the Septuagint has preſerved the words that are wanting, by adding, that Jacob deteſted the crime of Reuben as vile and atrocious. According to this reading, the verſe ſhould be tranſlated, And it came to paſs when Iſrael dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine: and Iſrael heard it, and it appeared evil in his ſight. "Now the ſons of Jacob, &c."

26 Which were born unto him in Padan-aram.] Benjamin was not born in Padan-aram, but ſeveral years after Jacob's return into the land of Canaan, and is therefore to be excepted, as his birth is mentioned but a few verſes before.

29 And Iſaac—was gathered unto his people] His ſoul was gathered to the righteous, and his body was laid where his parents were buried.

And his ſons Eſau and Jacob buried him.] In the cave of Machpelah, where the remains of Abraham and Sarah, his father and mother, were depoſited. See chap. xlix. 31.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Theſe are the generations of Eſau, &c.] This genealogy of Eſau was inſerted to anſwer a double intention; firſt, to ſhew how truly his father's prophetic bleſſing was fulfilled; and ſecondly, to inform the Iſraelites which were the tribes of Edom, and the extent of the country they inhabited, that they might not, through ignorance, attack any of their cities, which God himſelf had given them for their inheritance, the Amalekites only being excepted.

2 The daughter of Anah, &c.] It appears from ver. 24. that Anah was Zibeon's ſon: the Hebrew tranſcriber, therefore muſt have written bath, "daughter," inſtead of ben, "a ſon;" which might eaſily have been occaſioned by writing twice the word bath in the beginning of the verſe. The Septuagint, Syriac, and Samaritan, have avoided this error by reading, Son.

6 And went into the country, &c.] Some, instead of "the," put his, understanding, by his country, the country of Seir, which he inhabited before he visited his father in the land of Canaan. The Septuagint translation, and the Samaritan text, read, Out of the land of Canaan; which seems to be the true reading.

8 Esau is Edom.] Though the word Esau occurs a second time in the Hebrew, yet it is omitted in the Vulgate, which reads, And Esau dwelt in Mount Seir: he is Edom. One of the Hebrew manuscripts, in the Bodleian library confirms this omission, by reading, Esau dwelt in Mount Seir; that is, Edom. Esau had the name of Edom, which signifies "red," given him on account of his being of a red colour, at the instant of his birth, chap. xxv. 25.

14 The daughter of Zibeon, &c.] The Samaritan text, and the Septuagint, read with great propriety, The son of Zibeon; the Hebrew being undoubtedly corrupted. See the note on ver. 2.

15 These were dukes, &c.] The persons stiled dukes were not rulers of provinces, but the heads or chiefs of particular families; for it was many years after that the Horites were conquered, before these were dukes of Edom, which are mentioned ver. 42, 43; but are plainly distinguished from those mentioned above, the former being styled dukes in the land of Edom," and the latter, "the dukes of Edom."

16 Duke Korah, &c.] It appears from ver. 4. that Eliphaz was Esau's son by Adah, and from ver. 11, 12. that Eliphaz had but six sons. It is also certain from ver. 5, and 14. that Korah was the son of Esau (not of Eliphaz, as asserted in this verse) by Aholibamah, and as such he is properly enumerated in ver. 18. Both the Samaritan text and translation have omitted these two words; which, though found in the Septuagint, Chaldee, Vulgate, Arabic, and Syriac, are undoubtedly interpolated.

24 The mules, &c.] The original, hayemim, has been interpreted "baths" and "hot waters;" by others, the first discovery of some useful plant; but the word must be severely tortured to make it capable of either of these significations. The word matza, translated, "found," imports the discovery of what has an existence already; consequently it could not mean the invention of breeding mules; besides no mention is made of Anah's feeding horses, but asses, the former of which were essential to his invention; and we may add, that no mules are mentioned in scripture till the days of David. From the Septuagint and Samaritan, hayemim seems to be the proper name of a people, whom Anah fell upon by surprize and defeated; a sense which has the countenance of several other places in scripture.

35 Who smote Midian, &c.] The Chaldee, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, concur in translating it, The Midianites. They were marching to invade him, but were defeated in the field of Moab, which was on the frontiers of his country. Moses recorded this exploit, as it proved a calamity to Jethro his father-in-law; and that it was Midian himself, who, according to the Hebrew text, was slain, being at that period one hundred and nine years old.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVI.

Here let us observe, that Moses, having given an account of the principal heads of Jacob's posterity, who, as the special seed of Abraham, inherited the land of Canaan, before he proceeds farther in their history, settles the account of Esau's family, in the most remarkable branches thereof; and that in order to shew how truly what was before prophetically spoken of him, chap. xxv. 23. and xxvii. 39. was fulfilled. Moses in this narrative, seems likewise to have had a particular view to let the Israelites distinctly know the tribes of the Edomites, and the country which they inhabited, that they might not offer to attack them, as they were their brethren.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 The history of Joseph, who is hated of his brethren. 5 His first dream. 9 His second dream. 12 Jacob sendeth him to visit his brethren. 18 They conspire his death, but Reuben saveth him. 23 He is cast into a pit, and afterwards taken out, and sold to the Ishmelites. 29 Reuben, not finding him in the pit, is sorely grieved. 31 Jacob deceived by the bloody coat mourneth for him. 36 He is sold to Potiphar in Egypt.

AND Jacob dwelt in the land wherein his father was a stranger, in the land of Canaan.

2 These are the generations of Jacob. Joseph being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father their evil report.

Before CHRIST 1729.

3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age: and he made him a coat of many colours.

4 And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.

5 ¶ And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: and they hated him yet the more.

6 And he said unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed:

7 For, behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and made obeisance to my sheaf.

8 And his brethren said to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? and they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

9 ¶ And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it his brethren, and said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and, behold, the sun and the moon and the eleven stars made obeisance to me.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVII.

1 Wherein his father was a stranger] The Hebrew signifies, In the land of his father's sojournings. The Septuagint render it, In which his father dwelt. The Chaldee, Syriac, and Arabic, Of his father's habitations or dwelling. In either of these senses, the text is free from the objection to which it is exposed by our translation; for it is evident that Isaac was a native of Canaan, had resided in it many years, and could not truly be named a stranger; but as he had made no conquests, and extended his authority no farther than the circle of his own family, he might, with the greatest propriety, be called a sojourner, according to the express sense of the Hebrew.

In the land of Canaan.] And particularly in Hebron, where Isaac and Abraham before him had dwelt.

2 These are the generations] See chap. ii. 4. vi. 9. and xxv. 19.

Seventeen years old.] This is the reading of the Hebrew, Septuagint, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic: but the Vulgate renders it, Sixteen years old. In order to reconcile this with the original, we must observe, that a person is said in scripture to be of that year of which he is only turned, as in Exod. xii. 5. To this we may add, that the Jews lay it down as a maxim, that part of the month is as the whole, and that of the year as the whole.

And Joseph brought unto his father, &c.] The Vulgate translates it, And he accused them to his father of the worst of crimes. The Chaldee renders it, Their criminal accusation; and the Arabic styles it, The worst species of obscenity; but the Septuagint make the brethren the accusers, translating the words, They brought an evil report of Joseph unto his father. Some say, that Joseph's motive, in accusing his brethren, was no other but that they should be reformed by their father's remonstrance.

3 The son of his old age.] An antient author assigns a different reason for Jacob's extraordinary fondness, ascribing it to his personal, as well as his intellectual graces; in the latter of which, especially in prudence, he supposed him to have surpassed all his brethren. The Chaldee supports this opinion, by rendering the words, Because he was a wise son unto him. It must be confessed, that the Vulgate, Septuagint, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, concur with the Hebrew, as it is rendered by our translators; yet we may observe, that they have confounded the original words ben zekenaim, "the son of senators or elders," with ben zikenah, "the son of old age." Joseph's being merely the son of Jacob's old age, could scarcely be the reason why his father had more affection for him than his brethren, because his brother Benjamin was fifteen years younger than he: but if we suppose that his father's preference of him was founded on his prudence, which was not only beyond what might have been expected from one of his years, but likewise surpassing that of his other children, the character of Jacob is vindicated from objections, and his extraordinary affection appears consistent with reason. And that this was really the case, seems evident from the sequel of Joseph's history, wherein he is represented as a person of consummate prudence, and one of the ablest counsellors that ever was employed in the most critical and difficult conjunctures.

Many colours.] The Hebrew is, Many pieces. The Arabic renders it, A silken coat. Whatever the matter might be of which it was made, it is plain that it was composed of different colours: some imagine it to have been woollen with threads of different colours; and others, that it was embroidered with variegated flowers and figures. It is evident that such garments were in high esteem among the eastern nations, and worn by persons of the highest distinction; whence we may infer, that Jacob's cloathing Joseph in a garment of this sort argues his having a peculiar affection for him, and, as it distinguished him above his brethren, gave rise to their envy and machinations against him.

4 And when his brethren saw—they hated] We must ascribe the hatred of Joseph's brethren to his superior knowledge and wisdom.

Could not speak peaceably unto him.] Our translation agrees with the Chaldee. The Arabic renders it, They could not salute him; which conveys to us the sense of the historian better than our translation. "Peace be unto thee," was the usual salutation of the eastern nations, and was always looked upon as a compliment of civility: it was this which Joseph's brethren denied him, and consequently treated him with great incivility, and with marks of enmity. This address is still retained in the east, and called, the compliment of peace.

5 Joseph dreamed a dream, &c.] The method of conveying ideas is either by figures or sounds. In conveying ideas by figures, the picture or image of a thing to be conveyed was represented: thus the idea of a horse was represented by the picture of that animal; but this method being attended with inconveniences, 1. The principal circumstance in the subject was made to stand for the whole; thus a scaling-ladder was painted to represent a siege. 2. The instrument of a thing, whether real or metaphorical, was put for the thing itself; thus an eye eminently placed denoted omniscience, and an eye and a sceptre, a monarch. 3. One thing stood for another when any quaint resemblance, or analogy in the representative, could be collected from nature or tradition; thus the sun-rise was designed by the two eyes of the crocodile, because they seem to emerge from its head; and he who had borne misfortunes with courage, and surmounted them, was signified by the hyæna, because the skin of that animal was supposed to be invulnerable. In sleep, where the information is rather by figures than by sound, ideas are commonly conveyed by pictures, which are termed dreams: and the whole art of the interpretation of dreams is founded upon this hypothesis; dreams may be divided into speculative and allegorical; the first kind is that which represents a plain and direct picture of the thing predicted; the second is an oblique intimation of it by tropical or symbolical images. The dream of Joseph was of this latter species.

6 This dream, &c.] We are told by a Jewish author, that it was a vision; and that he saw it when sent together with his brethren to gather in the harvest; and the subject of it gives some countenance to his assertion.

8 Shalt thou indeed reign over us? &c.] That dreams, consisting of symbolic hieroglyphics, were a common mode of information in those times, and generally understood by most persons, seems evident from this interrogation of Joseph's brethren. But when they were more complicate, and consisted of mysterious symbols, it was customary to have recourse to interpreters, who founded their solution on the mysterious sense concealed under the sacred symbols, which they made their peculiar study, as the Egyptian priests always did.

9 He dreamed yet another dream] This repetition was not only intended to confirm the event predicted by the former, but to heighten its signification, by foretelling, that not only the brethren, but likewise the parent of Joseph, should acknowledge the superiority of his condition.

The sun and moon, &c.] The heavenly bodies in symbolical hieroglyphics signified persons invested with authority and family power, as appears from Horapolis; and Artemidorus, who wrote the art of interpreting dreams upon the principles of symbolic hieroglyphics, asserts, that he who dreams that he has dominion over the stars and other heavenly bodies, shall subdue all the world: agreeable to this interpretation, understood in those times, Jacob might well ask his son, "Shall I and thy mother bow down to thee?" &c.

Before CHRIST 1729.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth?

11 And his brethren envied him; but his father observed the saying.

12 ¶ And his brethren went to feed their father's flock in Shechem.

13 And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? come, and I will send thee unto them. And he said to him, here am I.

14 And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, see whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks; and bring me word again. So he sent him out of the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem.

15 And a certain man found him, and, behold, he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou?

16 And he said, I seek my brethren: tell me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks.

17 And the man said, They are departed hence; for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in Dothan.

18 ¶ And when they saw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conspired against him to slay him.

19 And they said one to another, behold this dreamer cometh.

20 Come now therefore, and let us slay him, and cast him into some pit, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him: and we shall see what will become of his dreams.

21 And Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands; and said, Let us not kill him.

22 And Reuben said unto them, Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him; that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, when Joseph was come unto his brethren, that they stript Joseph out of his coat, his coat of many colours that was on him;

Before CHRIST 1729.

24 And they took him, and cast him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it.

25 And they sat down to eat bread: and they lifted up their eyes and looked, and, behold, a company of Ishmeelites came from Gilead with their camels bearing spicery and balm and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt.

26 And Judah said unto his brethren, What profit is it if we slay our brother, and conceal his blood?

27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and let not our hand be upon him; for he is our brother and our flesh. And his brethren were content.

28 Then there passed by Midianites merchantmen and they drew and lifted Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph to the Ishmeelites for twenty pieces of silver: and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

29 ¶ And Reuben returned unto the pit; and, behold, Joseph was not in the pit; and he rent his clothes.

30 And he returned unto his brethren, and said, The child is not; and I, whither shall I go?

31 ¶ And they took Joseph's coat, and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood;

32 And they sent the coat of many colours, and they brought it to their father; and said, This have we found: know now whether it be thy son's coat or no.

33 And he knew it, and said, It is my son's coat; an evil beast hath devoured him; Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces.

34 And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days.

35 And all his sons and all his daughters rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted; and he said, For I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning. Thus his father wept for him.

36 ¶ And the Midianites sold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh's, and captain of the guard.

11 His father observed the saying.] The Arabic renders the last word, Speech; but the Syriac, Speeches; applying it to both the dreams. Jacob had been no stranger to these nocturnal informations; and finding them repeated by the divine Being, stored them up in his memory, as predictions of events that would certainly come to pass.

13 Come, and I will send thee, &c.] It was no wonder that Jacob was uneasy with regard to his sons, who were now feeding their flocks in Shechem, the scene of their late inhuman cruelty; for fear that the inhabitants of the land should take the first favourable opportunity of revenging the death of their countrymen. He therefore thought proper to send Joseph to them, though it was near sixty miles distance from Hebron, the place where he now dwelt.

17 And found them in Dothan] Joseph repaired to Shechem, but he found his brethren were retired from thence in quest of pasture; he continued his search till he found them in Dothan, a place about eight miles north from Shechem.

19 Behold, this dreamer cometh.] In the Hebrew it is, Behold, this maker of dreams cometh; a proof that they considered his dreams as fictions of his own inventing.

20 Come now therefore, and let us slay him, &c.] This instance teaches us the natural progress of sin. The seeds of envy and emulation grew into actual hatred; and hatred, by an easy transition, degenerated into intentional murder.

22 And Reuben said, &c.] Reuben, who was the eldest brother, and consequently had the greatest authority among them, despairing to protect him by any open or direct method, persuaded them to cast him into a pit, that he might have an opportunity of delivering him again to his father.

25 A company of Ishmeelites] The Chaldee, Syriac, and Arabic, translate, Arabians; or Arabian merchants descended from Ishmael. See ver. 28.

Spicery and balm and myrrh, &c.] The ingredients made use of in embalming the dead, as appears from a prophane author, who says, that after the body had lain above thirty days in a different preparation, they preserved it with myrrh, cinnamon, and other spices. The merchants carrying down such a large quantity of these ingredients shews, that embalming was at this time become a general practice in Egypt, and the traffick which they carried on in young slaves, which are commodities only for a rich and luxurious people, sufficiently declares the established power and wealth of this celebrated nation.

28 There passed by Midianites] In ver. 25. they are called Ishmeelites. The Caravan seems to have consisted of both; for they were near neighbours, and appear to have lived promiscuously, and joined together in trade. And it has always been the custom in the eastern countries for merchants to travel together in companies, for security against robbers and wild beasts.

Twenty pieces of silver, &c.] The word "pieces" is not in the original; but as the sentence is elliptical, the word omitted is generally understood to be a shekel, so that the whole sum will be about forty-seven shillings sterling.

29 He rent his clothes.] This was one of the signs of antient mourning, and used in cases of the greatest distress. From this behaviour of Reuben it is plain, that he was not privy to the transaction of selling Joseph to the Ishmeelites.

30 Whither shall I go?] Whither shall I fly to conceal myself from my father's anger? For, being the eldest, he considered himself as responsible for the child's safety.

34 Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth on his loins, &c.] An affecting idea. The hoary patriarch rends his cloaths, covers his aged body with sackcloth, and refuses to be comforted.

35 I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning, &c.] The Arabic renders it, I will go down into the dust. Some, instead of, Unto my son, read, For the sake of my son: and it must be confessed, that the Hebrew particle el is used in that sense, 2 Sam. xxi. 2. The word sheol, translated "grave," is undoubtedly, in the prophetic writings, used for the mansion, or separate state of departed souls. The Arabic, which renders the words, I will go into the dust, countenances the sense we have given this sentence: and we add besides, that the words imply no more, than to be reduced to the same condition; and therefore Jacob might properly say, he would go down to the grave to a dead son, who was never buried, i. e. that he should find no ease to his sorrows, till he was reduced to the same condition.

36 An officer of Pharaoh's, &c.] In the Vulgate, Septuagint, Samaritan, Syriac, it is translated, An eunuch; probably in allusion to the eastern custom of appointing eunuchs to the great offices of state. But it is plain that the Hebrew word seris does not always signify an eunuch, but is sometimes used to signify a chamberlain, or a person having some considerable office about the king's person; and in this sense we must here take the word, especially as we find that the historian mentions his having a daughter who was married to Joseph. He is likewise dignified in the original by the title of "captain of the guard;" but as the word tabach signifies "to kill," some have thought that it should be translated, chief of the cooks or butchers; while others contend as positively, that it should be a captain of the guard, or soldiers who were dispersed about the royal palace. To clear up this difficulty, we should observe, that Potiphar is styled the priest of On; and it appears, that in the time of Joseph

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVII.

Let this one great and certain truth be always fixed deeply in our minds, that God orders every thing in the world, and orders it for the beſt for every one who truſteth in him, "that all things work together for good to thoſe that love God." This is what the holy ſcriptures ſtrongly inculcate; this is what reaſon teaches; and this alone, really and firmly believed as it ought to be, would baniſh all trouble from the breaſts of men; it would huſh all the ſtorms which aſſault us on the ſea of life, into a peaceful calm; it would pour a healing balm into every wound we might receive in our war with the world; it would ſweeten every bitter cup which is neceſſary for us, in the preſent ſtate of things, to drink.

the people of Egypt were divided into three claſſes, the king, the prieſts, and the people. With their revenues, they ſupplied all Egypt with public ſacrifices, ſupported a number of inferior officers, and maintained their families. They were conſtantly attached to the perſon of the king, as his coadjutors, counſellors, and inſtructors; were exempted from all charges and impoſts, and held the ſecond honours under the king in the adminiſtration. As Potiphar was prieſt of On, or Heliopolis, which was ſuperior in nobility to all the other claſſes of the prieſthood, the terms "officer of Pharaoh's," and "captain of the guard," in our tranſlation, imply no more nor leſs than that he was prime miniſter, or chamberlain, to the Egyptian king. That he could not belong to the ſoldiery is evident, becauſe the Egyptian prieſthood was always a ſeparate and diſtinct order, whoſe office was tranſmitted as an unalienable inheritance to their poſterity.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 And it came to paſs, at that time, &c.] Although theſe words ſeem to connect the following events with the preceding chapter, yet all the tranſactions were not actually performed after Joſeph was ſold into Egypt; for Judah's marriage happened long before, even about the time that Jacob came out of Meſopotamia into Canaan, though the ſacred hiſtorian thought proper to place them here. The words therefore, "in thoſe days, at that time, &c." often refer in ſcripture to a conſiderable ſpace of time.

2 A certain Canaanite, &c.] This marriage with a Canaanitiſh woman was oppoſite to the received cuſtom of his predeceſſors, who guarded their ſons from making any alliance with this nation. The Chaldee and Tigurine tranſlation render the word, A merchant, in which ſenſe it is likewiſe uſed, Prov. xxxi. 24.

3 He called his name] It is obſervable, that Judah names the firſt child, but his wife the other two.

Er.] In Hebrew, A watch, or enemy.

5 Shelah] In Hebrew it ſignifies ſomething that breaks, or unties; ſo that the names of all the three ſons, which Judah had by this match, preſaged their future calamities.

And he was at Chezib, &c.] Though the Septuagint, Samaritan, and Arabic read the word Chezib as the proper name of a place; yet the Vulgate, Chaldee, and Syriac render the ſentence, And ſhe ceaſed to bear any more children after he was born. Grotius aſſerts, that the word is uſed to ſignify, Ceaſe, as in Iſaiah xiii. 11. but in the place quoted by this learned author, it may be read, Lye, or deceive, and is uſed in that ſenſe, Micah i. 14. "The houſes of Achzib ſhall be Achzah," i. e. A lye. That the word uſed for the proper name of a place, is evident from the laſt quotation, and from Joſhua xv. 44. but if it is meant in that ſenſe by the ſacred hiſtorian, it muſt have been by anticipation, becauſe it received this name from the circumſtance of Shuah's delivery, whether it was becauſe ſhe then ceaſed to bear, or that ſhe was delivered of a ſpurious child, which ſeems to be intimated by thoſe tranſlations which lay a particular ſtreſs on the abſence of Judah at the time of her delivery.

7 Wicked in the ſight of the Lord, &c.] In the Hebrew, In the eyes of the Lord; that is, remarkably, or exceſſively wicked. Though the ſcripture is ſilent with reſpect to the nature of his ſin, yet the Jewiſh rabbins pretend that it was the ſame with that of his brother, though from a different motive.

8 Go in unto thy brother's wife, &c.] This was an Egyptian cuſtom. It was therefore no new thing, though adopted by Moſes in his inſtitutes, Deut. xxv. 5.

11 Remain a widow, &c.] Hence we may infer, that the contract of marriage in thoſe days obliged the woman, in caſe her huſband died without iſſue, to marry his next brother, and that as long as any of his brethren remained, they were bound to marry his wife, unleſs ſhe had a child.

14 And ſat in an open place, &c.] The original implies, that ſhe ſat in a place where two ways met. Among the Jews, as well as other nations, the harlots were not ſuffered to ply in the ſtreets, but haunted the common roads without the walls.

15 Thought her to be an harlot, becauſe ſhe had covered her face] If the women of thoſe days commonly wore vails, it may be aſked, how could Judah imagine that Tamar was a harlot upon that account? To this it may be replied, that though the words at firſt ſight may ſeem to convey this ſenſe, yet on mature conſideration they ſignify no more than that he did not know her to be his daughter-in-law; the word tranſlated "harlot" is by the Samaritan rendered, A vagabond, or one without the city, the uſual haunts of proſtitutes; and Judah finding her in that ſituation, might very well take her to be a proſtitute, becauſe ſhe was vailed; which he would not, he could not have done, had her vail been off, and he had ſeen her face.

18 Thy bracelets, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, a ſcarf or girdle. The Chaldee renders it, Handkerchief; but it is variouſly rendered by the Syriac and Arabic, which tranſlate it, Something twiſted, &c. It ſeems indeed to have been made of gold, twiſted in the manner of a thread, and ſuſpended from the neck, not, like a bracelet, from the arm.

General Reflections on Chap. XXXVIII.

With regard to the conduct of Judah, in this chapter, the moral turpitude of the action filled him with conscious shame, and made him rather chuse to suffer the loss of his property, than blemish his reputation, by making any further search after a person of her character. From whence we may learn, that this crime, however lightly made of in these days, was accounted highly shameful of in those early times. The original words, that we translate, "lest we be ashamed," have a stronger sense, viz. lest we become a contempt. Before CHRIST 1729.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Joseph is advanced in Potiphar's house. 7 He resisteth his mistress's temptation, is falsely accused by her, and cast in prison. 21 God is with him there.

AND Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither.

2 And the LORD was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

3 And his master saw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD made all that he did to prosper in his hand.

4 And Joseph found grace in his sight, and he served him: and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.

5 And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field.

6 And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand; and he knew not ought he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was a goodly person, and well favoured.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes upon Joseph; and she said, Lie with me.

8 But he refused, and said unto his master's wife, Behold, my master wotteth not what is with me in the house, and he hath committed all that he hath to my hand;

9 There is none greater in this house than I; neither hath he kept back any thing from me but thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do this great wickedness, and sin against God?

21 Where is the harlot, &c.] The Hebrew word used in this verse is kedeshah, which implies something sacred; whence we are of opinion, that she was one of those women who worshipped Baal-phegor, or some other impure deity, by an annual prostitution.

23 Lest we be ashamed, &c.] The Hebrew signifies, Become a contempt. The Septuagint, Chaldee, and Syriac, render it, Lest we should be a derision.

26 She hath been more righteous than I, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, She is justified, she has conceived by me. The Samaritan, She is truer than me; the Syriac, She is more innocent than I and the Arabic, She has said truly that it was by me.

29 This breach be upon thee, &c.] That is, Be thou for ever called irruption or breach; which is the meaning of the word Pharez. Perhaps she considered this circumstance as the presage of a future rupture between the two brothers for the right of primogeniture.

40 Zarah.] In Hebrew, He ariseth; because, like the sun, he had given a sign of his coming, by putting out his hand; or from the Arabic, Zaraba, To move, on account of the motion he had made, by withdrawing his hand. It is remarkable that Josephus has omitted the subject of this chapter in his history; a liberty he generally takes with the scripture, whenever it records any transactions that are not for the credit of his countrymen the Jews.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Joseph was brought down, &c.] The Hebrew signifies, Joseph was made to descend into Egypt; and the expression is extremely proper; first, because his descent was involuntary; and, secondly, because Egypt being situated in a lower ground, his journey thither was properly a descent. The historian now resumes his history, which had been interrupted by the transactions relative to Judah's family, highly necessary to our tracing the genealogy of our blessed Saviour, as will appear to the reader, on a perusal of the first chapter of St. Matthew.

2 And the Lord was with Joseph] The Chaldee reads, The word of the Lord was an help to Joseph. The Psalmist informs us, that God sent him for certain wise purposes into this country, and the patriarch himself avows the same, chap. xlv. 5. His extraordinary vicissitude from the abject state of slavery to the highest post of honour, strongly marks the interposition of divine Providence, which afflicts to bless, and humbles to exalt.

And he was in the house, &c.] His master gave him a liberal education, treated him in a manner superior to his condition, and made him overseer of his household.

6 He knew not ought—save the bread, &c.] The Arabic renders it, He did not look into any thing that he had, save the meat, &c. This conveys the idea of a boundless confidence in Joseph's integrity; and, at the same time, raises the character of the master above the conception of the suspicious and ungenerous.

Cast her eyes, &c.] The Hebrew reads, Lift up her eyes. Modesty is celebrated for a downcast look, and is fearful to stare any person in the face. But lust gazes undaunted, and, by amorous glances endeavours to captivate the object of desire, as Joseph's mistress did by her looks endeavour to captivate him.

8 But he refused, and said—Behold, my master, &c.] The shamefulness and heinousness of ingratitude is extremely great: this was strongly urged by Joseph against committing the crime to which he was so strongly excited. As a man, such conduct towards one of his own equals was absolutely indefensible; but from a servant to his master, who had highly caressed and honoured him, and loaded him with signal favours, it was so utterly unnatural, that whoever attempted it must be extravagantly wicked, and sunk to the very lowest degree of degeneracy. Ingratitude, added to adultery, would have rendered what is, in itself, one of the foulest stains to man's nature, infinitely more black and detestable, and have swelled the guilt of it to so vast a size, that it would scarce have admitted of any further aggravation. When we recollect all the instances we have met with in our reading, we cannot find one so generous, so honest, and so noble, as that of Joseph. When his master had trusted him so unreservedly, he was so unhappy as to appear irresistibly beautiful to his mistress; but when this shameless woman proceeds to solicit him, how gallant is his answer! The same argument which a base mind would have made to itself for committing the evil, was to this brave man the greatest motive for forbearing it, that he could do it with impunity.

9 How can I do this great wickedness, &c.] Joseph was a slave, and in a strange country; he was tempted by a lascivious and a vindictive mistress; had he complied, he could have been sure both of secrecy and rewards; would have been firmly rooted in his place, and been preferred to greater honour; but if he resisted, he could expect nothing less than to be accused and treated like a criminal, to be deprived of his place, and to lose his liberty, his fame, and perhaps his

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIX. Before CHRIST 1729.

The hiſtory of Joſeph is one of the fineſt and moſt remarkable in the ſcriptures, which affords us the cleareſt evidence of the providence of God, conducting all things with amazing and ſtupendous wiſdom, and making all things tend to promote the happineſs of them that love and fear him. We are led to admire and adore the ways of divine wiſdom, which makes uſe even of the wickedneſs of men to accompliſh his deſigns. God's deſign was, to raiſe Joſeph to ſuch a degree of greatneſs and power, as ſhould oblige his brethren to bow down humbly before him; Joſeph's brethren oppoſed it; but what they did to humble him, was the firſt ſtep by which God led him to elevation and glory; and the horrible calumny of his unchaſte miſtreſs, which ſeemed to complete his misfortunes, was the circumſtance which advanced him almoſt to the throne. This may afford us great comfort under all troubles, as we may from hence be aſſured, that God can make whatever ſhall be deſigned againſt us, the means of promoting our real good.

CHAP. XL.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that the butler of the king of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord the king of Egypt. 1720.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth againſt two of his officers, againſt the chief of the butlers, and againſt the chief of the bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the houſe of the captain of the guard, into the priſon, the place where Joſeph was bound.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joſeph with them, and he ſerved them: and they continued a ſeaſon in ward. 1718.

5 ¶ And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the priſon.

his life; yet all this could not influence him. Deaf to the ſolicitations of his miſtreſs, he chuſes to ſubmit to chains, to ignominy, to death, rather than be guilty of ſo foul a crime, and ſin againſt God. From hence we may learn, that the fear of God is a moſt effectual preſervative againſt all criminal indulgencies. It was this that reſtrained Joſeph from complying with the looſe ſolicitations of his miſtreſs; and will have the ſame effect on all mankind upon all other occaſions, and in every ſcene of life. It ſtrikes every paſſion, every ſpring of human action, and includes in it all the moſt powerful motives by which the conduct of mankind is determined. If intereſt be the principal thing that ſways us, ſurely that cannot be ſo certainly promoted, as by the ſecuring the favour of God, and avoiding his diſpleaſure. If we are governed by our fears, he is the moſt formidable being in the univerſe to a mind that has perverted its faculties, and tranſgreſſed the laws of its maker. If by hope, he is the ſupreme good. If by love, he is the moſt amiable and perfect excellence. If by gratitude, he is the author of all our happineſs.

10 She ſpake—day by day, &c.] This expreſſion conveys a very high idea of the patriarch's chaſtity, which was proof againſt ſo many repeated aſſaults; and his avoiding her company is as great a teſtimony of his conſummate prudence.

11 About this time, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, On a certain day; which the Vulgate, Septuagint, Chaldee, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, have faithfully rendered. It was a public feſtival, to which ſhe had avoided going, under pretence that ſhe was indiſpoſed.

13 He left his garment, &c.] The antient tranſlations render it, A cloak or mantle; which he might eaſily have quitted, in order to free himſelf from her embraces.

20 Put him into priſon, &c.] From the Pſalmiſt it appears, that the patriarch was treated with the greateſt rigour and inhumanity. He was fettered with fetters, which ate into his fleſh, or put him to the moſt exquiſite tortures, Pſalm cv. 18. he was thruſt down into the moſt noiſome place of the priſon. Such were the ſufferings of Joſeph, which he endured without murmuring, and ſubmitted, like our bleſſed Saviour, without attempting to refute the charge which malice had forged, and paſſion had credited.

21 The Lord was with Joſeph] Now he ſeems to have been quite loſt, and abandoned to miſery and deſpair: but vain are the counſels of man; for this very circumſtance was the occaſion of his being introduced into the preſence of Pharaoh, and of his appearing again on the ſtage of the world with extraordinary luſtre and dignity, for the preſervation and ſupport of his own family, which afterward ſprang up into a great and flouriſhing nation.

And gave him favour, &c.] We may aſcribe this ſudden revolution in the circumſtances of Joſeph not only to the interpoſition of Providence, but likewiſe to his graceful appearance, and to his induſtry and fidelity in diſcharging the gaol-keeper's command; in reward for which he rendered the rigours of his confinement more tolerable, and treated him better than the reſt of his priſoners.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XL.

1 The butler—and the baker] It is evident from the ſecond verſe, that theſe were men in conſiderable poſts in the king's houſhold, where they were ſtyled in the Hebrew, ſarāſai, which, as we have ſeen in the note on chap. xxxviii. 36. implies an officer in ſome high and conſiderable poſt.

Had offended, &c.] The crime for which theſe perſons were committed is not expreſſed; ſome have therefore imagined, that it may be inferred from the word tranſlated "lift up thine head," ver. 13. which ſignifies, To reckon or examine an account, that they were accuſed of embezzling the king's treaſure, by bringing in falſe accounts.

3 In the houſe of the captain of the guard] By this title it ſeems, that Potiphar, Joſeph's former maſter, was the warden of this priſon, and if ſo, we need not wonder that Joſeph's confinement was ſo eaſy. See chap. xxxvii. 36.

Was bound.] It ſhould have been rendered, according to the Vulgate, Chaldee, and Arabic, Where Joſeph had been bound, or impriſoned; becauſe it is evident from the cloſe of the xxxixth chapter, that he was releaſed from his chains, and employed by the under-keeper as his deputy.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joſeph with them] This was Potiphar, his old maſter, who muſt have now been convinced of his innocence, by the confidence he placed in him; though to conceal the diſhonour of his wife, he thought proper ſtill to confine him.

A ſeaſon in ward.] The word tranſlated "ſeaſon," ſignifies, Days or years. The Vulgate renders it, A little while; the Chaldee, Some days; and the Arabic, They were detained for ſome time. The Engliſh word "ward," ſignifies, Guard or cuſtody.

5 Each man according to the interpretation of his dream, &c.] That is, their dreams were very ſuitable to the reſpective offices they held, and to the events that were ſoon to happen to them.

8 And they ſaid unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, Do not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you.

9 And the chief butler told his dream to Joſeph, and ſaid to him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me;

10 And in the vine were three branches: and it was as though it budded, and her bloſſoms ſhot forth; and the cluſters thereof brought forth ripe grapes:

11 And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand: and I took the grapes, and preſſed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand.

12 And Joſeph ſaid unto him, This is the interpretation of it. The three branches are three days:

13 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh lift up thine head, and reſtore thee unto thy place: and thou ſhalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou waſt his butler.

14 But think on me when it ſhall be well with thee, and ſhew kindneſs, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this houſe:

15 For indeed I was ſtolen away out of the land of the Hebrews: and here alſo have I done nothing that they ſhould put me into the dungeon.

16 When the chief baker ſaw that the interpretation was good, he ſaid unto Joſeph, I alſo was in my dream, and, behold, I had three white baſkets on my head:

17 And in the uppermoſt baſket there was of all manner of bakemeats for Pharaoh: and the birds did eat them out of the baſket upon my head.

18 And Joſeph anſwered and ſaid, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baſkets are three days:

19 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and ſhall hang thee on a tree; and the birds ſhall eat thy fleſh from off thee.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs the third day, which was Pharaoh's birthday, that he made a feaſt unto all his ſervants: and he lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his ſervants.

21 And he reſtored the chief butler unto his butlerſhip again; and he gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand:

22 But he hanged the chief baker: as Joſeph had interpreted to them.

23 ¶ Yet did not the chief butler remember Joſeph, but forgat him.

General Reflections on Chap. XL.

How admirable is the behaviour of Joſeph! how worthy of imitation! However ſevere and unjuſt the treatment which Joſeph met with, he never let fall the leaſt word of murmuring or complaint. The great point he kept always in view was, to do his duty, whatever caſe or ſtation he was in. He never abandoned himſelf to deſpair whilſt he was a bond-ſlave, but gave himſelf up intirely to the ſervice of his maſter. When condemned unjuſtly, he had too much generoſity to make any remonſtrances to bring diſhonour on his maſter, though he might have vindicated himſelf thereby. And when prudence here required him to recommend himſelf to the chief butler, he does it with ſuch a moderation and charity, as cannot be ſufficiently admired: "For indeed I was ſtolen away out of the land of the Hebrews, and here alſo I have done nothing that they ſhould put me into the dungeon." He neither names his brethren who had ſold him, nor his miſtreſs who had unjuſtly accuſed him.

8 Do not interpretations belong to God, &c.] In this queſtion Joſeph may ſeem to allude to their opinion, which was, that the gods were the authors of dreams, and that the Egyptian prieſts, who interpreted them on the principles of ſymbolical hieroglyphics, were aſſiſted by them, eſpecially as they imagined that hieroglyphic writing was given to the gods likewiſe. The argument might likewiſe be purſued: you acknowledge that your deities are the authors of dreams, and aſſiſt your prieſts in interpreting them; why will you not acknowledge that God whom I ſerve is poſſeſſed of equal power, and can enable me to interpret your dreams, as well as your deities can enable their votaries to explain them?

13 Joſeph ſaid unto him, This is the interpretation, &c.] It is a received opinion, that our dreams generally conſiſt of ſuch images as make a ſtrong impreſſion upon our minds when awake. The ideas which compoſed the dream of the chief butler countenance this opinion; and the interpretation which Joſeph gave of it as ſtrongly ſupport what we ſaid, in the preceding notes, concerning the principles and art of interpretation of dreams. That the three branches ſhould ſignify three days, could not be deduced from any of the ſymbolic characters in Horapollo, or from the rules of Artemidorus, though the reſtoration of the butler poſſibly might; whence then did Joſeph acquire his interpretation? The ſcripture informs us, from God, ver. 8.

13 Lift up thine head, &c.] The Hebrew word, tranſlated "lift up," ſignifies to reckon, muſter, or to audit an account, and roſh, the word tranſlated "head," ſignifies likewiſe an aggregate, or ſum total of any number added together, as may be perceived from comparing Exod. xxx. 12. with Numb. i. 49. wherein both theſe words are uſed in that ſenſe; hence we may infer, that this opinion is plauſible who imagine, that the crime for which theſe delinquents were committed, was for a fraud, or bringing in falſe accounts, and that when they were audited, the butler's account appeared to be juſt, while that of the baker was confirmed to be fraudulent and falſe. Our tranſlators have therefore been thought to have rendered this ſentence too literally, as it implies that both the butler and baker would have met with the ſame fate, which is contrary to fact. We muſt not admit, that ſome commentators apprehend the ſentence implies only that Pharaoh would muſter or number the butler among his ſervants; and, to ſupport this ſenſe, pretend that on certain days the names or muſter roll of all the officers of his court were called over, and ſuch as heinouſly offended were ſtruck out of the roll, while the leſs guilty were pardoned, releaſed from priſon, and reſtored; the 20th verſe of this chapter is referred to as ſupporting this conjecture, but it muſt be wreſted miſerably to ſupport it. If the former expreſſion ſhould be objected to, it may ſuffice to add, that the lifting up a perſon's head is often uſed in ſcripture to ſignify deliverance from miſery, or the reſtoring of a perſon to his former dignity; thus did Evil-merodach lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, 2 Kings xxv. 27. Thus the Pſalmiſt, when reſtored to his kingdom, after he had been obliged to fly from thence by his ſon Abſalom, addreſſes himſelf to God, as "the lifter up of his head," Pſalm iii. 3. The antient tranſlations confirm this ſenſe, by rendering the word Pharaoh ſhall remember thee, or thy office.

14 But think on me when it ſhall be well with thee, &c.] Joſeph being divinely aſſured of the certainty of his predictions, conjures him to think on the perſon who foretold the happineſs he was to enjoy.

16 On my head.] The Egyptian men uſed always to carry their burdens on their heads, but the women carried them on their ſhoulders.

19 Thy head from off thee, &c.] The baker, in relating his dream to Joſeph, had, ver. 17. made uſe of the Hebrew words meal roſhi, "upon my head;" and in interpreting the dream, Joſeph echoes the words back again to him in this ſentence, roſheka mealeka, tranſlated, "thy head from off thee." Though it may ſeem ſtrange to find the hiſtorian aſſerting, that the baker ſhould be beheaded firſt, and hanged afterwards; yet it was cuſtomary to behead a criminal, and then to hang him up. Jeremiah ſeems to confirm this aſſertion, when he laments, "that the princes were hanged up by their hands." Lam. v. 12, which intimates that they had loſt their heads before.

23 Yet did not the chief butler remember Joſeph, &c.] This charge argues him not only to have been guilty of ingratitude, but of a breach of promiſe, and of inhumanity likewiſe. He muſt certainly have been a man of a narrow mind to be ſo ſoon corrupted with the pleaſures of a court, as to forget the danger from whence he had ſo lately eſcaped; he muſt have been ungrateful to have loſt all ſenſe of the perſon who had freed his mind from anxiety, when tormented with a viſion in the horrors of a priſon; he muſt have been void of humanity to have ſo ſoon forgotten the miſeries of a perſon who had done him a remarkable piece of ſervice, and was left by him languiſhing in a confinement which he had never merited: but luxury and grandeur too ſoon corrupt the mind, blunt its ſenſe of ſocial happineſs, and obliterate every generous ſentiment from the heart.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLI.

1 He ſtood by the river.] That is, by the Nile.

2 There came up out of the river.] Egypt owed its fertility to the overflowing of the Nile, and theſe fat and lean kine are with great propriety repreſented as riſing out of it.

Before CHRIST 1715.

3 And, behold, ſeven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill favoured and leanfleſhed; and ſtood by the other kine upon the brink of the river.

4 And the ill favoured and leanfleſhed kine did eat up the ſeven well favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he ſlept and dreamed the ſecond time: and, behold, ſeven ears of corn came up upon one ſtalk, rank and good,

6 And, behold, ſeven thin ears and blaſted with the eaſt wind ſprung up after them.

7 And the ſeven thin ears devoured the ſeven rank and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and, behold, it was a dream.

8 And it came to paſs in the morning that his ſpirit was troubled; and he ſent and called for all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wiſe men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream: but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

9 ¶ Then ſpake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, ſaying, I do remember my faults this day:

10 Pharaoh was wroth with his ſervants, and put me in ward in the captain of the guard's houſe, both me and the chief baker:

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream.

12 And there was there with us a young man, an Hebrew, ſervant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret.

13 And it came to paſs, as he interpreted to us, ſo it was; me he reſtored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

14 ¶ Then Pharaoh ſent and called Joſeph, and they brought him haſtily out of the dungeon: and he ſhaved himſelf, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

15 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard ſay of thee, that thou canſt underſtand a dream to interpret it.

16 And Joſeph anſwered Pharaoh, ſaying, It is not in me: God ſhall give Pharaoh an anſwer of peace. Before CHRIST 1715.

17 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, In my dream, behold, I ſtood upon the bank of the river:

18 And, behold, there came up out of the river ſeven kine fatfleſhed and well favoured; and they fed in a meadow:

19 And, behold, ſeven other kine came up after them, poor and very ill favoured and leanfleſhed, ſuch as I never ſaw in all the land of Egypt for badneſs:

20 And the lean and the ill favoured kine did eat up the firſt ſeven fat kine:

21 And when they had eaten them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them; but they were ſtill ill favoured, as at the beginning. So I awoke.

22 And I ſaw in my dream, and, behold, ſeven ears came up in one ſtalk, full and good:

23 And, behold, ſeven ears, withered, thin, and blaſted with the eaſt wind, ſprung up after them:

24 And the thin ears devoured the ſeven good ears: and I told this unto the magicians; but there was none that could declare it to me.

25 ¶ And Joſeph ſaid unto Pharaoh. The dream of Pharaoh is one: God hath ſhewed Pharaoh what he is about to do.

26 The ſeven good kine are ſeven years; and the ſeven good ears are ſeven years: the dream is one.

27 And the ſeven thin and ill favoured kine that came up after them are ſeven years; and the ſeven empty ears blaſted with the eaſt wind ſhall be ſeven years of famine.

28 This is the thing which I have ſpoken unto Pharaoh: What God is about to do he ſheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come ſeven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt:

30 And there ſhall ariſe after them ſeven years of famine; and all the plenty ſhall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine ſhall conſume the land;

31 And the plenty ſhall not be known in the land by reaſon of that famine following; for it ſhall be very grievous.

32 And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice;

In a meadow.] The original word ſignifies, A flag; which was a common name given to every vegetable that grows in a marſhy place. The word in the original is baachu, which is Egyptian, reſembles the Arabic acham, pools, or places overflown with water; and may be tranſlated, Luxuriant paſtures, cauſed by the overflowing of the Nile.

3 Upon the brink of the river.] As the overflowing of the Nile was the cauſe of fruitfulneſs, when its waters were ſo included within its banks that the kine reſorted thither for drink, nothing elſe but famine could be expected. That if any one ſees a river overflown, it is a ſign of fertility; a river ſunk within its banks, is a ſign of ſcarcity.

8 The magicians, &c.] The interpretation of dreams made up a conſiderable part of the ancient pagan religion, as we have obſerved on ver. 8. of the preceding chapter; and the Egyptian prieſts were the firſt who profeſſed this art. Their interpretation was founded upon the ſymbolic hieroglyphics, in which they were deeply read, and which are generally believed to have been given them by the gods. This ſyſtem of ſacred learning was not only preſerved by them in characters termed ſacred, but likewiſe recorded in a dialect of their own invention, and deemed ſacred likewiſe.

9 I do remember my faults, &c.] This may imply more than a bare recollection of the fault for which he had been committed, the confeſſion of which included a tacit acknowledgment of Pharaoh's mercy; for it may be ſuppoſed to imply likewiſe, a conſciouſneſs of his being ungrateful to Joſeph, in forgetting his requeſt to make uſe of his intereſt with Pharaoh for his releaſe.

14 They brought him haſtily.] In Hebrew, They made him run. He ſhaved himſelf, &c.] Joſeph ſeems to have copied the manners of the Egyptians and other oriental nations, who uſed in times of diſtreſs to let their beards grow, but at other ſeaſons to ſhave, and appear in linen garments remarkably clean.

15 That thou canſt underſtand a dream, &c.] In Hebrew, Thou wilt hear a dream to interpret it. But it muſt be obſerved, that the word ſhama ſignifies both to hear and to underſtand. The Samaritan confirms the literal ſenſe, by reading, When thou haſt heard dreams, thou canſt interpret them; and the Chaldee and Arabic ſupport this tranſlation.

16 It is not in me, &c.] Joſeph, in his reply, diſclaims the rules of interpretation uſed by the Egyptian prieſts, and aſcribes all his knowledge to immediate revelation.

17 Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, &c.] Relating both his dreams in a more ample manner, though to the ſame purpoſe, than before related.

18 There came up out of the river, &c.] Phantaſms in dreams were ſuperſtitiouſly thought to be ſymbolical; God, therefore, when it was his good pleaſure to ſend dreams to Pharaoh, made the foundation of them two well known ſymbols; and this, doubtleſs, in order to engage the dreamer's more ſerious attention: but then, to confound the Egyptian interpreters of dreams, theſe dreams were ſo circumſtanced with matter foreign to the principles of their art, that there was need of a truly divine interpreter.

25 The dream of Pharaoh is one] The Arabic explains the meaning of this expreſſion, by rendering, The ſenſe or meaning of the two dreams is one, or the ſame.

God hath ſhewed Pharaoh, &c.] That is, the dream is a prediction of ſome future event. The Jewiſh rabbins pretend that the magi had interpreted the kine to ſignify Pharaoh's daughters.

26 The ſeven good kine] Pharaoh had two dreams, one of the ſeven kine, the other of ſeven ears of corn. Both of theſe phantaſms were ſymbols of Egypt; the ears, denoting its diſtinguiſhed fertility; the kine, its great tutelary patroneſs, Iſis. Pharaoh knew thus much without an interpreter: and hence aroſe his ſolicitude and anxiety to underſtand the reſt, as a matter that concerned the public: accordingly when Joſeph came to decypher theſe dreams, he does not tell the king that the two ſevens denoted ſeven years in Egypt, but ſimply ſeven years.

Are ſeven years, &c.] Kine are ſaid to ſignify years: likewiſe we are informed, that cows denote time, or ſeaſons; if they be fat, they ſignify fruitful ſeaſons; but if lean, dearth or ſcarcity.

30 The famine ſhall conſume, &c.] This circumſtance was plainly ſignified by the lean kine eating up the fat ones, ver. 20.

32 Doubled—twice—becauſe the thing is eſtabliſhed by God, &c.] The natural cauſe of plenty or famine in Egypt is the Nile; for when that river in its annual overflowing riſes only twelve cubits, a famine enſues; when fourteen, they have a good year; when fifteen, to very good; and if it riſes to ſixteen, they have a luxuriant plenty. Now that this river ſhould overflow ſo largely for ſeven years ſucceſſively as to produce an extraordinary plenty, and during the next ſeven years riſe ſo little as to lay a long and grievous famine, is a circumſtance out of the common courſe of nature, could only be cauſed by the interpoſition of Providence, and could only be foreſeen and foretold by an omniſcient being.

Before CHRIST 1715. twice; it is becauſe the thing is eſtabliſhed by God. and God will ſhortly bring it to paſs.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man diſcreet and wiſe, and ſet him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the ſeven plenteous years.

35 And let them gather all the food of thoſe good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

36 And that food ſhall be for ſtore to the land againſt the ſeven years of famine, which ſhall be in the land of Egypt; that the land periſh not through the famine.

37 And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his ſervants.

38 ¶ And Pharaoh ſaid unto his ſervants, Can we find ſuch a one as this is, a man in whom the ſpirit of God is?

39 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Foraſmuch as God hath ſhewed thee all this, there is none ſo diſcreet and wiſe as thou art:

40 Thou ſhalt be over my houſe, and according unto thy word ſhall all my people be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater than thou.

41 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, See, I have ſet thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring from his hand, and put it upon Joſeph's hand, and arrayed him in veſtures of fine linen, and put a gold chain about his neck;

43 And he made him to ride in the ſecond chariot which he had; and they cried before him, Bow the knee: and he made him ru'er over all the land of Egypt.

44 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I am Pharaoh, and without thee ſhall no man lift up his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And Pharaoh called Joſeph's name Zathnath-paaneah; and he gave him to wife Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prieſt of On. And Joſeph went out over all the land of Egypt. Before CHRIST 1715.

46 ¶ And Joſeph was thirty years old when he ſtood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joſeph went out from the preſence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

47 And in the ſeven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls.

48 And he gathered up all the food of the ſeven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the ſame.

49 And Joſeph gathered corn as the ſand of the ſea, very much, until he left numbering; for it was without number.

50 ¶ And unto Joſeph were born two ſons before the years of famine came, which Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prieſt of On bare unto him.

51 And Joſeph called the name of the firſtborn Manaſſeh: For God, ſaid he, hath made me to forget all my toil, and all my father's houſe. 1712.

52 And the name of the ſecond called he Ephraim: For God hath cauſed me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction. 1712.

53 ¶ And the ſeven years of plenteouſneſs, that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

54 And the ſeven years of dearth began to come, according as Joſeph had ſaid: and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. 1708.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh ſaid unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joſeph; what he ſaith to you, do.

35 And lay up corn, &c.] This ſhould have been tranſlated zea, or "ſpelt," in conformity to the Egyptian manners; for they accounted it a reproach to eat bread made of barley or wheat. Inſtead of this, they uſed a fine flour, called by ſome olyra, and by others zea, or "ſpelt;" and the bread made with it they named colloſtris, from its glutinous quality.

37 The thing was good, &c.] Or, the word was good, &c. The Vulgate renders it, The counſel pleaſed Pharaoh.

38 Can we find, &c.] In Hebrew, Can we find any thing like the man, who has the Spirit of God in him? The Chaldee renders it, Can we find ſuch a man, in whom is the ſpirit of prophecy from the face of the Lord? and the Arabic, Can we find a man ſo ſkilful as this, in whom the Spirit of God is?"

40 Shall all my people be ruled.] Some commentators, finding that the original word is tranſlated, Armed, as it is rendered in 1 Chron. xii 2. imagine, that Pharaoh inveſted Joſeph with the military power; which ſeems inconſiſtent with the words immediately following in this verſe. The Pſalmiſt, who is a good commentator on this text, Pſalm cv. 22. on the contrary, ſhews that it was the civil power, and the reaſon why he was preſented to this dignity, aſſigned in ver. 34, 35, and 36, ſhews it could be no other.

Only in the throne will I be, &c.] This ſhews that the office with which Joſeph was inveſted was purely miniſterial.

42 The ring from his hand.] The ring or ſignet which the eaſtern kings wore was a badge of the royal dignity, which generally deſcended to their anceſtors. This ceremony, therefore, was not only a mark of Pharaoh's favour, but likewiſe a mark of the authority with which he inveſted Joſeph.

Veſtures of fine linen, &c.] The linen of this country was celebrated for fineneſs all over the world; it was therefore dyed purple, and was the uſual dreſs of the prieſts, who were the chief perſons in the adminiſtration. The antient tranſlations, for want of attending to this circumſtance, have rendered the words, Veſtures of ſilk.

43 Second chariot.] The chariot which immediately followed his own in any public cavalcade. The Samaritan tranſlation renders it, His double chariot; and the Arabic, He was mounted upon his ſecond horſe.

They cried before him.] Or, they cried to his face. The Vulgate renders it, A herald proclaiming; with which the Septuagint agrees. The Chaldee tranſlates, He ordered to be proclaimed before, &c.

Bow the knee, &c.] That is, his guard that attended him when he rode out in his chariot, called to the people as they paſſed along, to bow the knee to Joſeph, as a token of veneration and reſpect; or they proclaimed him abrech, "this is the father of the king."

45 Zaphnath-paaneah] Which ſignifies one to whom hidden things are revealed. It was cuſtomary for princes to give foreigners a new name, to denote their naturalization, to take away all invidious diſtinction, and to declare them worthy of their moſt intimate favour. See Dan. i. 7.

Gave him to wife the daughter of Poti-pherah] That the king was in a diſpoſition to do Joſeph the higheſt honours, is plain from the circumſtances of the ſtory; and that he principally conſulted his eſtabliſhment in this alliance, as appears alſo plain. The public adminiſtration was in the hands of the prieſthood, who would unwillingly bear a ſtranger at the head of affairs. The bringing Joſeph, therefore, into their family, an order which was hereditary, was the beſt expedient to allay their prejudices and envy; and this Pharaoh did moſt effectually, by marrying him into that caſt which was then of greateſt name and credit among them.

Prieſt of On] The ſame with Aven. Ezek. xxx. 17. about twenty-two miles from Memphis, and ſaid to be the metropolis of the Heliopolitan name; and has been ſince called Heliopolis, as it is here in the Septuagint verſion, which ſignifies the city of the ſun, and is the ſame with bethſhemeſh, "the houſe of the ſun," Jer. xlii. 13.

Went out, &c.] The Chaldee and Arabic render it, He went as a ruler, or exerciſing his authority.

46 Joſeph was thirty years old.] He muſt conſequently have been thirteen years in ſlavery, as he was but ſeventeen when he firſt came to Egypt.

Stood before Pharaoh, &c.] In the eaſtern countries, none but the great officers of ſtate were admitted into the royal preſence; this phraſe therefore intimates the dignity of his poſt.

47 Brought forth by handfuls.] The fertility of Egypt was ſo remarkable, that it was by tradition ſuppoſed to be the firſt place that was inhabited on that account. But how great ſoever its fruitfulneſs was by nature, it ſeems by this account to be ſo much increaſed, that the miraculous interpoſition of providence was not only viſible, but, if we may uſe the expreſſion, palpably likewiſe.

48 Gathered up all the food, &c.] The word "all" cannot be uſed in its utmoſt latitude, but muſt be reſtrained either to ſignify the fifth part, mentioned ver. 34. or elſe all the ſuperfluous corn which he acquired by purchaſe, and laid up, not only to ſupport the wants of the Egyptians, but likewiſe thoſe of the neighbouring ſtates, during the ſeven years of famine.

49 As the ſand of the ſea, &c.] This is the common phraſe uſed in ſcripture, to expreſs a prodigious quantity or number.

51 Manaſſeh] In Hebrew, Forgetfulneſs. This name alludes to the Hebrew words, naſſane Elohim, rendered, "God hath made me to forget.

All my toil, and all my father's houſe.] That is, all the troubles to which I was expoſed while I lived with my father, and all the diſtreſs which I endured in Egypt from the perfidy of my brethren.

And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed, &c.] As the increaſe was extraordinary, Joſeph could not have occaſioned this ſcarcity, by exacting only a fifth. But is is probable that the famine was felt ſooner in the neighbouring nations than in Egypt, and that the Egyptians had made large exports, in order to ſupply their demands.

Before CHRIST 1708. 56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth: And Joſeph opened all the ſtorehouſes, and ſold unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed ſore in the land of Egypt.

57 And all countries came into Egypt to Joſeph for to buy corn; becauſe that the famine was ſo ſore in all lands.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XLI.

This chapter furniſhes us with an uſeful admonition reſpecting the impriſonment of Joſeph, who remained in confinement three years. This may ſeem a long time to us, and as if God was not mindful of him. We ſhould have looked upon him with concern, had we ſeen him in bonds, and known his innocence; we ſhould have haſted to have freed him. But God, who had a far more indulgent and tender compaſſion for him, left him in a condition from which we ſhould have delivered him. He knew what was neceſſary to confirm Joſeph in humility, patience, and ſubmiſſion to his will. He knew what was wanting to his virtue, he ſaw his future temptations and dangers, and prepared him by his bondage for his advancement. Thus he often deals with good men; he ſtrengthens them in patience and humility, and does not expoſe them to temptation till they are duly prepared to reſiſt it.

CHAP. XLII.

1 Jacob ſendeth ten of his ſons to buy corn in Egypt. 6 They are impriſoned by Joſeph for ſpies, but ſet at liberty on condition to bring Benjamin. 21 Their remorſe for Joſeph, who commandeth his tenderneſs, and detaineth Simeon for a pledge. 25 They return with corn and their money. 29 Their relation to Jacob. 35 He is afraid, and refuſeth to ſend Benjamin.

1707. NOW when Jacob ſaw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob ſaid unto his ſons, Why do ye look one upon another?

2 And he ſaid, Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may live, and not die.

3 And Joſeph's ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joſeph's brother, Jacob ſent not with his brethren; for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure miſchief befall him.

5 And the ſons of Iſrael came to buy corn among thoſe that came: for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6 ¶ And Joſeph was the governor over the land, and he it was that ſold to all the people of the land: and Joſeph's brethren came and bowed down themſelves before him with their faces to the earth.

7 And Joſeph ſaw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himſelf ſtrange unto them, and ſpake roughly unto them; and he ſaid unto them, Whence come ye? And they ſaid, from the land of Canaan to buy food. Before CHRIST 1707.

8 And Joſeph knew his brethren, but they knew not him.

9 And Joſeph remembered the dreams which he dreamed of them, and ſaid unto them, Ye are ſpies; to ſee the nakedneſs of the land ye are come.

10 And they ſaid unto him, Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy ſervants come.

11 We are all one man's ſons; we are true men, thy ſervants are no ſpies.

12 And he ſaid unto them, Nay, but to ſee the nakedneſs of the land ye are come.

13 And they ſaid, Thy ſervants are twelve brethren, the ſons of one man in the land of Canaan; and, behold, the youngeſt is this day with our father, and one is not.

14 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, That is it that I ſpake unto you, ſaying, Ye are ſpies:

15 Hereby ye ſhall be proved: By the life of Pharaoh ye ſhall not go forth hence, except your youngeſt brother come hither.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye ſhall be kept in priſon, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you: or elſe by the life of Pharaoh ſurely ye are ſpies.

17 And he put them altogether into ward three days.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto them the third day, This do, and live; for I fear God:

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the houſe of your priſon: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houſes:

20 But bring your youngeſt brother unto me; ſo ſhall your words be verified, and ye ſhall not die. And they did ſo.

21 ¶ And they ſaid one to another, We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we ſaw the anguiſh of his ſoul, when he beſought us, and we would not hear; therefore is this diſtreſs come upon us.

22 And Reuben anſwered them, ſaying, Spake I not unto you, ſaying, Do not ſin againſt the child; and ye would not hear? therefore, behold, alſo his blood is required.

23 And

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLII.

1 Saw, &c.] The Hebrew word tranſlated "ſaw," ſignifies to underſtand, and is ſubſtituted inſtead of hearing, as appears from ver. 2. Exod. xx. 18. and from Acts vii. 12.

2 I have heard, &c.] This confirms the ſenſe we have given in the firſt verſe; though it is not at all improbable but Jacob might have ſeen the corn brought by thoſe perſons, who informed him that it was to be purchaſed in Egypt.

4 Leſt peradventure miſchief, &c.] His extraordinary affection to Benjamin was, becauſe he was the ſon of Rachel, whom he loved more than her ſiſter; and what ſtill heightened his affection was, his imagination that Benjamin was the only ſurviving ſon that was left by her.

6 Joſeph was the governor] The word ſhalit, which we render "governor," has two ſenſes: 1. Abſolute and independent authority; or, 2. That derived from another. It is here uſed in the latter ſenſe, Joſeph being deputy-governor under Pharaoh.

And bowed down themſelves before him, &c.] This manner of ſalutation was not in uſe among the Egyptians; but by uſing the cuſtomary form of their family, the dreams of Joſeph, as far as they had any relation to themſelves, had doubtleſs brought thoſe dreams to Joſeph's remembrance.

8 And Joſeph knew—but they knew not, &c.] He had been ſeparated from them when young, and his features might probably have been ſo much altered by age, that they could not recollect him; but if we conſider the alteration made by dreſs and grandeur, and that he ſpake unto them by an interpreter, they could not poſſibly have had the leaſt ſuſpicion that he was their brother.

9 Ye are ſpies] This expreſſion ſhould have been rendered interrogatively, Are ye not ſpies? and is rather to be underſtood as a charge than a poſitive affirmation.

To ſee the nakedneſs of the land, &c.] To obſerve the fortifications, and remark the weakneſs or nakedneſs of the land. And it ſhould be obſerved, that Joſeph's brethren entered Egypt through thoſe paſſes, by which alone it is liable to be invaded.

11 We are all one man's ſons, &c.] As if they had ſaid, Thy ſervants are no ſpies, but all the ſons of one man; and ſurely it can never be ſuſpected that any perſon would ſend all his children on ſo dangerous a deſign, nor that a whole country has any thing to fear from the efforts of a ſingle family.

15 By the life of Pharaoh, &c.] This expreſſion is by the generality of interpreters conſidered as an oath, though the words could not ſignify any more than, As ſure as Pharaoh liveth; or, As ſincerely as I deſire the life of Pharaoh. If we conſider the words attentively, we ſhall be ſoon convinced that they only imply a ſolemn aſſeveration, that he would certainly do ſo and ſo, as he valued the life and honour of his prince. Thus Hannah, when ſhe preſented her ſon to Eli, the prieſt, makes a ſimilar aſſeveration, "As thy ſoul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that ſtood by thee here praying unto the Lord." That the ſons of Jacob underſtood it only in this ſenſe, is ſufficiently evident from the words of Judah to his father, "The man did ſolemnly proteſt unto us," chap. xliii. 3. It muſt however be confeſſed, that this was the moſt ſolemn appeal an Egyptian could make.

18 For I fear God.] This was either a ſolemn aſſurance of his veracity, according to the literal ſenſe of the words, and added to gain credit with them; or elſe it was a tacit reproach of their perfidy towards him.

20 Bring your youngeſt brother, &c.] The roughneſs with which Joſeph treated his brethren may be juſtified, if we ſuppoſe it was with an intention to bring their treatment of him to their minds; and induce them to repent of the evil they had done him. His aſperity was deſigned to try how they were affected to each other. Accordingly, his view in inſiſting upon ſeeing his brother Benjamin, was no other than to ſatisfy ſome ſuſpicions he entertained, that they were capable of treating him with the ſame inhumanity as he himſelf had experienced from them.

21 We are verily guilty concerning our brother, &c.] Adverſity is often the moſt effectual monitor to awaken conſcience, and make mankind acquainted with themſelves. The behaviour of Joſeph's brethren

Before CHRIST 1707.

23 And they knew not that Joſeph underſtood them; for he ſpake unto them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himſelf about from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes.

25 ¶ Then Joſeph commanded to fill their ſacks with corn, and to reſtore every man's money into his ſack, and to give them proviſion for the way: and thus did he unto them.

26 And they laded their aſſes with the corn, and departed thence.

27 And as one of them opened his ſack to give his aſs provender in the inn, he eſpied his money; for, behold, it was in his ſack's mouth.

28 And he ſaid unto his brethren, My money is reſtored; and, lo, it is even in my ſack: and their heart failed them, and they were afraid, ſaying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

29 ¶ And they came unto Jacob their father unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befell unto them; ſaying,

30 The man, who is the lord of the land, ſpake roughly to us, and took us for ſpies of the country.

31 And we ſaid unto him, We are true men; we are no ſpies:

32 We be twelve brethren, ſons of our father; one is not, and the youngeſt is this day with our father in the land of Canaan.

33 And the man, the lord of the country, ſaid unto us, Hereby ſhall I know that ye are true men; leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your houſholds, and be gone:

34 And bring your youngeſt brother unto me: then ſhall I know that ye are no ſpies, but that ye are true men: ſo will I deliver you your brother, and ye ſhall traffick in the land.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs as they emptied their ſacks, that, behold, every man's bundle of money was in his ſack: and when both they and their father ſaw the bundles of money, they were afraid.

36 And Jacob their father ſaid unto them, Me have ye bereaved of my children: Joſeph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will take Benjamin away: all theſe things are againſt me.

37 And Reuben ſpake unto his father, ſaying, Slay my two ſons, if I bring him not to thee: deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to thee again.

38 And he ſaid, My ſon ſhall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he is left alone: if miſchief befall him by the way in the which ye go, then ſhall ye bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XLII.

In the above chapter we ſee the happy uſe of affliction, how effectual it is to awaken conſcience, and ſhew men to themſelves when nothing elſe will produce that effect. Men can never entirely efface the ſenſe which God has impreſſed upon their hearts, of his preſence and juſtice. They will never ſucceed in perſuading themſelves that ſin is in its nature indifferent, or was not ſeen, or will remain unpuniſhed. Their fears may be removed ſometimes by the patience and ſilence of their judge, or the number of accomplices; but when vengeance comes to ſhew itſelf, they ſhall be the firſt to own that they have deſerved it, and their accomplices will then ſeem to ſhun as ſo many witneſſes, who are ready to accuſe and confound them.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 Jacob is hardly perſuaded to ſend Benjamin. 15 Joſeph's brethren are brought into Joſeph's houſe. 19 They diſcover their fears to the ſteward, who pacifieth them. 26 Joſeph maketh them a feaſt.

AND the famine was ſore in the land.

2 And it came to paſs, when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father ſaid unto them, Go again, buy us a little food.

3 And Judah ſpake unto him, ſaying, The man did ſolemnly proteſt unto us, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you.

4 If thou wilt ſend our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food:

5 But if thou wilt not ſend him, we will not go down: for the man ſaid unto us, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you.

6 And Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore dealt ye ſo ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?

7 And they ſaid, The man aſked us ſtraitly of our ſtate, and of our kindred, ſaying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the tenor of theſe words: could we certainly know that he would ſay, Bring your brother down?

8 And Judah ſaid unto Iſrael his father, Send the lad with me, and we will ariſe and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, and alſo our little ones.

9 I will be ſurety for him; of my hand ſhalt thou require him: if I bring him not unto thee, and ſet him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever:

10 For except we had lingered, ſurely now we had returned this ſecond time.

11 And their father Iſrael ſaid unto them, If it muſt be ſo now, do this; take of the beſt fruits in the land in your veſſels, and carry down the man a preſent, a little balm, and a little honey, ſpices, and myrrh, nuts, and almonds:

12 And

brethren affords us a lively inſtance of this. They, who before were ſo blinded with envy and paſſion, as to be inſenſible of the anguiſh and ſupplication of their brother, now relent into pity, when experience had convinced them what poignant grief and diſtreſs an innocent ſupplicant feels, when all his prayers and intreaties are rejected.

23 Spake he unto them by an interpreter.] In Hebrew, An interpreter was between them. Joſeph, doubtleſs, did this in order to ſupport an air of majeſty, and at the ſame time to prevent his being diſcovered.

24 And he turned—from them and wept] Though Joſeph could counterfeit the ſtranger in his looks, his air, his voice, he ſtill retained the brother in his heart. The confuſion and diſtreſs of his brethren awakened all his fraternal tenderneſs, and drew tears of compaſſion from his eyes.

And took—Simeon, and bound him, &c.] Simeon was the principal actor in the murder of the Shechemites, and there is reaſon to think from his fiery nature, that he was one of the moſt implacable enemies to Joſeph. The rabbins ſay, that he was the very perſon who put him in the pit.

28 Their heart failed them, &c.] In Hebrew, their heart went forth; the Arabic tranſlates it, Their hearts were much diſtreſſed. Hence we may conclude, that they were under a great conſternation, and, as the original expreſſes it, ſhuddered at the conſequences.

36 All theſe things are againſt me.] In Hebrew, All theſe things are (ala) upon me; which ſhews the burden of grief under which Jacob laboured, and is a tacit charge againſt his ſons, as conſpiring together to render his old age miſerable.

37 Reuben ſpake unto his father] He was Jacob's firſt born, and on that account preſumed to addreſs him; he had likewiſe addreſſed Joſeph in Egypt, and might imagine that he ſhould be more certain of ſucceeding than any other of his brethren.

Slay my two ſons, if I bring him not unto thee, &c.] Reuben could not but know that it was not in his power to ſecure Benjamin's ſafe return; but he was ſo fully convinced of his own and his brethren's intention, and ſo confident that Joſeph would inviolably obſerve his promiſe, that he dares ſtake the life of his two ſons on the event; and who could do more?

38 Bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.] This verſe is remarkably pathetic and picturesque; it paints to us the hoary patriarch in the attitude of grief, lamenting the loſs of his children, in the moſt melting expreſſions of paternal fondneſs.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLIII.

3 Judah ſpake, &c.] Reuben had already addreſſed him without ſucceſs: Levi probably was ſtill odious to him on account of the maſſacre of the Shechemites; Judah therefore, being the next in birth, and a man of a warm and ſanguine diſpoſition, undertakes to perſuade him, and ſpeaks to him with ſome warmth.

8 Send the lad, &c.] Benjamin was now twenty-four years of age, and had children of his own, but is here called a lad, becauſe he was the youngeſt of all the ſons of Jacob, and the darling of their aged father. The word in the Hebrew properly ſignifies, A young man, and is ſo rendered, 2 Sam. xviii. 12.

11 Take of the beſt fruits] In Hebrew, Take of the praiſe of the land.

12 And take double money in your hand; and the money that was brought again in the mouth of your ſacks, carry it again in your hand; peradventure it was an overſight:

13 Take alſo your brother, and ariſe, go again unto the man:

14 And God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may ſend away your other brother, and Benjamin. If I be bereaved of my children, I am bereaved.

15 ¶ And the men took that preſent, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin; and roſe up, and went down to Egypt, and ſtood before Joſeph.

16 And when Joſeph ſaw Benjamin with them, he ſaid to the ruler of his houſe, Bring theſe men home, and ſlay, and make ready; for theſe men ſhall dine with me at noon.

17 And the man did as Joſeph bade; and the man brought the men into Joſeph's houſe.

18 And the men were afraid, becauſe they were brought into Joſeph's houſe; and they ſaid, Becauſe of the money that was returned in our ſacks at the firſt time are we brought in; that he may ſeek occaſion againſt us, and fall upon us, and take us for bondmen, and our aſſes.

19 ¶ And they came near to the ſteward of Joſeph's houſe, and they communed with him at the door of the houſe,

20 And ſaid, O ſir, we came indeed down at the firſt time to buy food:

21 And it came to paſs, when we came to the inn, that we opened our ſacks, and behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his ſack, our money in full weight: and we have brought it again in our hand.

26 ¶ And when Joſeph came home, they brought him the preſent which was in their hand into the houſe, and bowed themſelves to him to the earth.

27 And he aſked them of their welfare, and ſaid, Is your father well, the old man of whom ye ſpake? Is he yet alive?

28 And they anſwered, Thy ſervant our father is in good health, he is yet alive. And they bowed down their heads, and made obeiſance.

29 And he lifted up his eyes, and ſaw his brother Benjamin, his mother's ſon, and ſaid, Is this your younger brother, of whom ye ſpake unto me? And he ſaid, God be gracious unto thee, my ſon.

33 And they ſat before him, the firſt born according to his birthright, and the youngeſt according to his youth: and the men marvelled one at another.

34 And he took and ſent meſſes unto them from before him: but Benjamin's meſs was five times ſo much as any of their's. And they drank, and were merry with him.

GENERAL

Balm] The Vulgate and Chaldee tranſlate it, Reſin; but it was certainly the balm of Gilead, a valuable commodity.

Honey] In the Hebrew, deboſh, which ſignifies likewiſe "dates," as the Jewiſh rabbins obſerve; and as Judea abounded in palm-trees, this was one of the fruits of the land. But honey was ſo common every where, that it could not poſſibly have been ſelected by Jacob as a rarity.

Spices] In Hebrew, nekoth. The Septuagint tranſlates it by Frankincenſe, or the aromatics uſed in ſacrifices; it ſeems indeed to have been ſtorax, a precious aromatic gum, uſed in moſt ſpicy ointments, and it is ſo tranſlated by the Vulgate.

Myrrh, &c.] In Hebrew, lot. This was the ſtacte, or laudanum of the Septuagint and Chaldee. It is ſuppoſed to be the gum of the cypreſs-tree.

12 Take double money, &c.] That is, both the money that was returned in the mouth of your ſacks, and as much more, to purchaſe a ſecond ſupply of corn.

14 If I be bereaved—I am, &c.] The Vulgate renders it, And I ſhall be without children, as if I had no children ſurviving; the Arabic, I am afraid that I ſhall be bereaved of my children, as I have been bereaved. This ſentence may be underſtood in different ſenſes, all of which are expreſſive of deep diſtreſs; it may ſignify, I reſign myſelf to the will of God, and if it be agreeable to him that I ſhould be robbed of all my children, I muſt be robbed of them; or it may denote the exclamation of ſudden diſtreſs, generally expreſſed by the repetition of the cauſe of ſorrow, and this the Hebrew ſeems expreſsly to denote, ſhacholti, ſhacolti, "I am bereaved! I am bereaved!" Or it may paint the malancholy circumſtances they would leave him in, without one of his children left behind to comfort him, and full of apprehenſions that all his offſpring might fall as victims to the reſentment of Joſeph, whom they had repreſented as an auſtere and rough man.

16 Slay] The Hebrew is, Kill a Killing; which expreſſes a very great ſlaughter of animals for their feaſt. From this expreſſion, compared with Joſeph's interpretation of the dream of Pharaoh's baker, it is evident that animal food was cuſtomary in Egypt long before the time aſcribed for its introduction by Sir Iſaac Newton.

Shall dine, &c.] In Hebrew, Shall eat.

18 Seek occaſion againſt us, &c.] In Hebrew, To roll himſelf upon us; this expreſſion is uſed again, Job xxx. 14. and is borrowed from wreſtling, wherein the perſon who throws his antagoniſt rolls himſelf upon him to keep him down; and implies, that Joſeph would omit no ſtratagem to juſtify his ill-treatment of them.

23 Peace be to you] This was a uſual ſalutation of civility; and being uſed by Joſeph's ſervant, teſtified his friendly diſpoſition, and quieted their perturbations,

Treaſure] The Hebrew word ſignifies ſomething hidden or concealed; and may intimate that he was not concerned, or privy to the putting of the money in their ſacks; for, adds he, according to the Hebrew, your money came to me."

He brought Simeon out unto them.] We have gathered from profane hiſtory, that he was dreſſed very neat.

26 Bowed themſelves, &c.] This circumſtance is a more complete accompliſhment of Joſeph's dream.

27 Is your father well, &c.] The burſts of filial affection and impetuous curioſity are ſtrongly marked by theſe interrupted expreſſions, which are extremely natural, and vaſtly affecting: but let us read them again: "Is your father well? The old man of whom ye ſpake? Is he yet alive?"

29 Is this your younger brother—God be gracious] There never was a ſtronger picture of nature, than this whole narrative of the interview between Joſeph and his brethren. He ſees his brother Benjamin, and leſt he ſhould be miſtaken by the alteration which age had wrought in his lineaments, he aſks whether it really was their younger brother. But nature anſwered his queſtion, and before his brethren could reply, he addreſſes him with the warm glowings of fraternal love, "God be gracious unto thee my ſon." Which was an appellation of the greateſt tenderneſs, and ſuitable to the characters of a ſupreme magiſtrate, who is properly the father of his country.

30 Joſeph made haſte, &c.] Joſeph's affection was now worked up to the higheſt pitch, and where can we read of a more affecting, a more natural deſcription of the effects of fraternal love?

32 Becauſe the Egyptians, &c.] From this verſe we find, that the common proviſion for the entertainment was animal food, and no one can doubt but Joſeph conformed to the Egyptian diet; therefore the reaſon aſſigned by the Chaldee paraphraſe for the Egyptians refuſing to eat with the Hebrews, namely, Their eating ſheep, which were worſhipped by the Egyptians, is not juſt. Joſeph ſat ſingle, out of ſtate, with regard to the Egyptians; the Egyptians ſat apart with regard to the ſhepherds, and both were ſupplied from the governor's table, which was furniſhed from the ſteward's ſlaughter-houſe. The enmity, therefore, which ſubſiſted between the Egyptians and Hebrews was not on account of their eating animal food, but on account of their being ſhepherds; a profeſſion which they abominated on account of the heavy ſlavery they groaned under from the invaſion and conqueſts of the Hykſos, or royal ſhepherds, in the reign of Timaus.

34 Sent meſſes unto them] This was a cuſtom obſerved amongſt moſt ancient nations.

Benjamin's meſs was five times, &c.] This ſeems to have proceeded from Joſeph's extraordinary affection, and was intended as a GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XLIII.

In this chapter we have a lively picture of the good old patriarch's firm and pious confidence in God, for obtaining favour with Joſeph, at the ſame time that his grief ſorely preſſed him in parting with Benjamin; which ſhould teach us, that in all our troubles, the protection and aſſiſtance of the Almighty ſhould be implored. We may alſo remark, that notwithſtanding the corruptions of a court, Joſeph ſtill taught his family to fear God, and retained on his mind a ſenſe of true religion; and remark likewiſe, from the tender and fraternal affection Joſeph expreſſed towards his beloved brother Benjamin, that when religion has its proper influence on the mind, it will evidence itſelf in the diſplay of every ſocial relative virtue.

CHAP. XLIV.

1 Joſeph's policy to ſtay his brethren. 6 His cup is found in Benjamin's ſack. 14 They are brought before Joſeph. 18 Judah's humble ſupplication to him.

AND he commanded the ſteward of his houſe, ſaying, Fill the men's ſacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his ſack's mouth.

2 And put my cup, the ſilver cup, in the ſack's mouth of the youngeſt, and his corn money. And he did according to the word that Joſeph had ſpoken.

3 As ſoon as the morning was light, the men were ſent away, they and their aſſes.

4 And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joſeph ſaid unto his ſteward, Up, follow after the men; and when thou doſt overtake them, ſay unto them, Wherefore have ye rewarded evil for good?

5 Is not this it in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he divineth? ye have done evil in ſo doing.

6 ¶ And he overtook them, and he ſpake unto them theſe ſame words.

7 And they ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſaith my lord theſe words? God forbid that thy ſervants ſhould do according to this thing:

8 Behold, the money which we found in our ſacks' mouth, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then ſhould we ſteal out of thy lord's houſe ſilver or gold?

9 With whomſoever of thy ſervants it be found, both let him die, and we alſo will be my lord's bondmen.

10 And he ſaid, Now alſo let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found ſhall be my ſervant; and ye ſhall be blameleſs.

11 Then they ſpeedily took down every man his ſack to the ground, and opened every man his ſack.

12 And he ſearched, and began at the eldeſt, and left at the youngeſt: and the cup was found in Benjamin's ſack.

13 Then they rent their clothes, and laded every man his aſs, and returned to the city.

14 ¶ And Judah and his brethren came to Joſeph's houſe; for he was yet there: and they fell before him on the ground.

15 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not that ſuch a man as I can certainly divine?

16 And Judah ſaid, What ſhall we ſay unto my lord? what ſhall we ſpeak? or how ſhall we clear ourſelves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy ſervants: behold, we are my lord's ſervants, both we, and he alſo with whom the cup is found.

17 And he ſaid, God forbid that I ſhould do ſo: but the man in whoſe hand the cup is found, he ſhall be my ſervant; and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

18 ¶ Then Judah came near unto him, and ſaid, Oh my lord, let thy ſervant, I pray thee, ſpeak a word in my lord's ears, and let not thine anger burn againſt thy ſervant: for thou art even as Pharaoh.

19 My lord aſked his ſervants, ſaying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we ſaid unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one; and his particular kindneſs; poſſibly it might be deſigned to try whether they had conquered their inclination to envy, which had been the cauſe of his own ſlavery. But Joſeph's placing his brethren according to their reſpective ages, and his diſtinguiſhing kindneſs to Benjamin, might be intended for the unravelling of the plot preparative to his diſcovery of himſelf, and deſigned to give credit to his aſſertions, when he declared himſelf to be their brother.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLIV.

2 Put my cup—in the ſack's mouth of the youngeſt, &c.] Joſeph made uſe of this artifice to try the affection of his brethren towards Benjamin, and whether, when they found him chargeable with theft, and in danger of ſlavery, they would ſurrender him without difficulty, and return unconcerned to their father.

5 My lord drinketh, and—divineth, &c.] That this was a common drinking-cup, and not one uſed in libations or divinations, is expreſsly aſſerted in this verſe. Beſides which, it cannot be ſuppoſed that Joſeph would apply the ſame veſſel to both uſes; nor was it ever cuſtomary to do ſo. It muſt therefore follow, that the word tranſlated "divineth" is improperly rendered, if it will bear any other ſenſe; and that it will bear another ſenſe appears from chap. xxx. 17. and 1 Kings xx. 33. where it ſignifies, To try, ſearch, or make experiment.

8 Behold, the money, &c.] This is a moſt excellent defence, and indeed the argument made uſe of was a very concluſive one. The Vulgate has thus rendered it, The money which we found in the mouths of our ſacks we have brought again unto thee from the land of Canaan; how improbable then is it that we ſhould take out of thy maſter's houſe either gold or ſilver?

10 Ye ſhall be blameleſs.] The Hebrew ſignifies, Innocent or faultleſs; in ſcripture language, ſin is ſubſtituted inſtead of puniſhment, and innocence inſtead of impunity. See Gen. xlix. 9. 1 Kings i. 21. Exod. xx. 7. and xxxvii. 7.

11 They ſpeedily, &c.] In Hebrew, They haſtened and took down. What could be a ſtronger proof of their innocence?

13 Rent their clothes, &c.] This is an inſtance of that kind of beauty which is ſo highly admired in the works of the greateſt maſters, who, by ſingling out one ſtriking circumſtance in a narrative, infuſe into the mind a whole ſeries of ideas which are connected with it. When Moſes ſays, "they rent their clothes," he at the ſame time paints their inward anguiſh and confuſion in more lively colours than the ſtrongeſt expreſſions could have done; and pleaſes the reader more than if he had expreſſed the whole, by leaving room for the exerciſe of the imagination.

14 They fell before him on the ground.] What ſcene could be imagined more affecting than the ſight of a whole family with their clothes rent, tears ſtreaming from their eyes, and their bodies lying proſtrate on the ground.

15 Wot ye not] The word "wot" is derived from the Saxon witan, "to know;" the ſentence therefore ſhould be rendered, according to our preſent mode of writing, Know ye not?

Can certainly divine?] The art of divination and interpretation of dreams was monopolized by the Egyptian prieſts; and theſe prieſts were the conſtant companions of the king, and held the chief poſts in the adminiſtration. Joſeph's queſtion alludes to this cuſtom, and implies thus much, You ſee by my office, that I am one of the great officers of the ſtate, but theſe are preferred only from the college of prieſts; divination is profeſſed only by the prieſthood; and therefore, when you conſider the dignity of my office, could you help acknowledging that it was in my power to divine or detect your robbery?

16 And Judah ſaid] Judah had perſuaded his father, though very reluctantly, to ſend Benjamin with him; beſides which, he was of a bold, enterprizing, warm, and ſanguine diſpoſition; and being hurried by his natural impetuoſity, undertook to plead the common cauſe of his father, his brother Benjamin, and the reſt of his brethren.

What ſhall we ſpeak?] The crimes they ſtood charged with were a violation of the ſacred rites of hoſpitality, and the moſt heinous ingratitude; crimes that are ſubverſive of ſociety, and contrary to the ſocial nature of man. When Judah reflected on the miſeries to which Benjamin was expoſed; when he thought on the conſequences his detention would have on a fond parent, whoſe life was wrapped up in the life of his ſon, his grief might reaſonably ſwell too big for words, and his conſternation expreſs itſelf in broken ſentences like theſe, "What ſhall we ſay unto my lord? what ſhall we ſpeak? or how ſhall we clear ourſelves?"

God hath found out, &c.] This may be interpreted as a tacit or oblique acknowledgment of Joſeph's charge, in order to appeal to his mercy and conciliate his favour. This ſenſe ſeems to be ſupported by the Chaldee, which renders it, Sin hath been found in thy ſervants from the face of God. But the Arabic is more explicit, tranſlating, God has made thy ſervants to fall into their crime. Some commentators imagine that the words "found out" ſignify to puniſh; and that the ſentence implies an acknowledgment of the juſtice of God, in taking this method of puniſhing them for their former ſins.

18 Thou art even as Pharaoh.] That is, equally abſolute in thy determinations, equally to be dreaded by us, and, like him, inveſted with the power of pardoning crimes, and inflicting puniſhment.

30 His

Before CHRIST 1707. his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.

21 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him.

22 And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for if he should leave his father, his father would die.

23 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more.

24 And it came to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my lord.

25 And our father said, Go again, and buy us a little food.

26 And we said, We cannot go down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us.

27 And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye know that my wife bare me two sons:

28 And the one went out from me, and I said, Surely he is torn in pieces; and I saw him not since:

29 And if ye take this also from me, and mischief befall him, ye shall bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.

30 Now therefore when I come to thy servant my father, and the lad be not with us; seeing that his life is bound up in the lad's life;

31 It shall come to pass, when he seeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die: and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave.

32 For thy servant became surety for the lad unto my father, saying, If I bring him not unto thee, then I shall bear the blame to my father for ever.

33 Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy servant abide instead of the lad a bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brethren.

34 For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? lest peradventure I see the evil that shall come on my father.

General Reflections on Chap. XLIV.

In this chapter we have a very strong expression of paternal affection, which denotes that the father's life so entirely depended upon that of his son, that he could not survive the thought of his being dead.

30 His life is bound up, &c.] This is a very strong expression of fraternal affection. The very same phrase is used in speaking of Jonathan's love to David, which surpassed the love of woman, 1 Sam. xviii. 1.

34 Lest peradventure I see, &c.] In Hebrew, That shall meet, &c. When misfortunes are foreseen, they may either be evaded or rendered more tolerable; but when they meet us, their weight is increased, and it is impossible to shun them. This whole speech of Judah highly deserves the reader's attention. He acts the part both of a faithful brother, and dutiful son, who rather than behold the misery of his father, in case Benjamin was left behind, submits to become a bondman in his stead. Such an act of candour and generosity runs through the whole, the sentiments are so tender and affecting, the expressions so pathetic, and flow so much from artless nature, that it is no wonder they came home to Joseph's heart, and rendered it impossible for him to conceal himself any longer.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XLV.

1 Could not refrain himself] The efforts of nature could be no longer suppressed; his tender passions, by the moving speech of Judah, are wound up to such a pitch as to oblige him to throw off all disguise, notwithstanding the presence of so many spectators.

No man with him, &c.] The Vulgate explain it, by rendering it, No stranger.

2 He wept aloud] Words are but ill adapted to express the sentiments of the heart on such an important occasion, joy, pity, fraternal love, intermixed with a high veneration of Providence, in bringing about so surprizing an event, swell his soul with motions too big for utterance, and which can only be vented by the more expressive language of nature, that of tears and sighs.

And the Egyptians, &c.] The Hebrew is very nervous, The Egyptians heard, and Pharaoh's house heard. This strongly marks the impetuosity of his passion, and agrees with fact; the passions generally growing the more impetuous the more they are restrained.

CHAP. XLV.

Before CHRIST 1707.

1 Joseph maketh himself known to his brethren; comforteth them in ascribing all that had past to God's providence; sendeth for his father by them; 14 and cordially embraceth them. 16 Pharaoh confirmeth Joseph's invitation: 21 Joseph furnisheth his brethren for their journey, and exhorteth them to concord. 25 Jacob at first hardly believeth, but is at length revived with the news.

THEN Joseph could not refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me. And there stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren.

2 And he wept aloud: and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard.

3 And Joseph said unto his brethren, I am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him; for they were troubled at his presence.

4 And Joseph said unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you. And they came near. And he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt.

5 Now therefore be not grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither: for God did send me before you to preserve life.

6 For these two years hath the famine been in the land: 1706.
and yet there are five years, in the which there shall neither be earing nor harvest.

7 And God sent me before you to preserve you a posterity in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance.

8 So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God: and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh; and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 Haste ye, and go up to my father, and say unto him, Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come down unto me, tarry not:

10 And thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, and thou shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou hast:

11 And there will I nourish thee; for yet there are five years of famine; lest thou, and thy household, and all that thou hast, come to poverty.

12 And,

3 I am Joseph, doth my father yet live?] How quick the transition! his soul is so full of filial affection for his father, that before he has finished his sentence, he enquires after him, though they had before told him he was alive. And how must such an abrupt declaration affect his brethren! No wonder they were dumb for some time with astonishment, and unable to answer the question proposed to them.

His brethren could not answer him] This silence was certainly very expressive; it shews the inspired writer to be a consummate master of nature, and conveys to the mind a truer idea of conscious guilt and anxious terror, than could have been expressed by any words.

Troubled, &c.] In Hebrew, They were terrified.

5 Now therefore be not grieved, &c.] Abundantly convinced by their whole behaviour that they repented of what they had done; with sentiments equally generous and pious, he bids them think no more of their former ill usage of him, but adore the divine Providence that had turned their action into so signal a blessing to them and the whole family.

6 Earing nor harvest] The word "earing," in our translation, is derived from the Saxon, To plow or till the ground. The Egyptians have not the laborious task of plowing, digging, or harrowing; but when the river Nile is retired after its inundations, they only mingle a little sand with the mud to abate its strength, after which they sow without pains or expence. Antiently they used to put their hogs to tread the seed into the ground, and when the harvest came, let the hogs in again to tread the corn out of the ear.

8 It was not you that sent me hither, but God] The good event of their selling him was indeed to be imputed to God, though the fault was theirs. This spontaneous apology for the perfidy of his brethren is a noble instance of magnanimity and a forgiving temper.

Hath made me a father to Pharaoh, &c.] The Arabic renders it, As a master unto Pharaoh; which implies that he consulted him in all his measures, and was honoured by him for his prudence, as a father is by his son.

12 And, behold, your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that ſpeaketh unto you.

13 And ye ſhall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that ye have ſeen; and ye ſhall haſte and bring down my father hither.

14 ¶ And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 Moreover he kiſſed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that his brethren talked with him.

16 ¶ And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaoh's houſe, ſaying, Joſeph's brethren are come: and it pleaſed Pharaoh well, and his ſervants.

17 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye; lade your beaſts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan;

18 And take your father and your houſholds, and come unto me: and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye ſhall eat the fat of the land.

19 Now thou art commanded, this do ye; take you wagons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come.

20 Alſo regard not your ſtuff; for the good of all the land of Egypt is your's.

21 ¶ And the children of Iſrael did ſo: and Joſeph gave them wagons, according to the commandment of Pharaoh, and gave them proviſion for the way.

22 To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of ſilver, and five changes of raiment.

23 And to his father he ſent after this manner; ten aſſes laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten ſhe aſſes laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way.

24 So he ſent his brethren away, and they departed: and he ſaid unto them, See that ye fall not out by the way.

25 ¶ And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan to Jacob their father,

26 And told him, ſaying, Joſeph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt. And Jacob's heart fainted, for he believed them not.

27 And they told him all the words of Joſeph, which he had ſaid unto them: and when he ſaw the wagons which Joſeph had ſent to carry him, the ſpirit of Jacob their father revived:

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XLV.

We may gather an important inſtruction from what Joſeph remarks in this chapter; as from hence we may learn, that however unhappy the firſt appearances of ſufferings may be, and however wicked the intentions of thoſe who are the inſtruments of them, they are under the diſpoſal of a wiſe and good providence, which knows how to bring good out of evil.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 Jacob is comforted by God at Beer-ſheba. 5 He goeth thence with his family into Egypt. 8 The number of thoſe that went with him. 28 Joſeph meeteth Jacob. 31 He inſtructeth his brethren how to anſwer Pharaoh.

AND Iſrael took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beer-ſheba, and offered ſacrifices unto the God of his father Iſaac.

2 And God ſpake unto Iſrael in the viſions of the night, and ſaid, Jacob, Jacob. And he ſaid, Here am I.

3 And he ſaid, I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation:

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will alſo ſurely bring thee up again: and Joſeph ſhall put his hand upon thine eyes.

5 ¶ And Jacob roſe up from Beer-ſheba: and the ſons of Iſrael carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the wagons which Pharaoh had ſent to carry him.

6 And they took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt, Jacob, and all his ſeed with him:

7 His ſons, and his ſons' ſons with him, his daughters, and all his ſeed brought he with him into Egypt.

8 ¶ And theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael, which came into Egypt, Jacob and his ſons: Reuben, Jacob's firſtborn:

9 And the ſons of Reuben; Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.

10 And the ſons of Simeon; Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and Jachin, and Zohar, and Shaul the ſon of a Canaanitiſh woman.

12 Your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, &c.] That is, you muſt ſurely be convinced, when you view me attentively, and hear me ſpeak in your own language, that it is certainly your brother who now talks with you.

15 After that his brethren talked with him.] When they were recovered from their aſtoniſhment, and he had tenderly embraced them, they began to talk familiarly with them,

20 Regard not your ſtuff, &c.] Be not too ſolicitous about implements of huſbandry, or other moveables; for the land of Egypt will abundantly ſupply you with whatever you want.

24 See that ye fall not out by the way.] Joſeph was no ſtranger to the tempers of his brethren, and therefore thought proper to admoniſh them in this gentle manner, which at the ſame time implied a reproof. Probably he ſuſpected that they might accuſe each other with the cruelty they had exerciſed towards him, or caſt invidious reflections on Benjamin, becauſe he had been eminently diſtinguiſhed by him.

26 Jacob's heart, &c.] The tide of joy which ſuddenly ruſhed upon him at hearing that his favourite ſon, whom he had ſo long conſidered as dead, was ſtill in being, was too impetuous to be reſiſted.

27 Revived.] The bare mention of the name of Joſeph, whom he had long accounted to be dead, revived his ſorrows for his loſs, and overpowered his ſpirits. But when he ſaw the carriages ſent by his beloved ſon, his diffidence vaniſhed, and joy revived his heart, juſt as freſh oil poured upon a dying lamp, makes it rekindle and burn with a new and more vigorous blaze.

28 It is enough; Joſeph my ſon, &c.] The Vulgate tranſlates it, It is ſufficient for me: my ſon is yet alive: the Septuagint, It is a great thing to me, &c. and the Chaldee, The chief thing with me is this, that my ſon is yet alive. His ſons had informed him that Joſeph was alive, and that he was governor of Egypt; the latter was what Joſeph had particularly ordered them to acquaint him with; but the good patriarch was ſo little affected with the advancement of his ſon, that he replies, "It is enough! Joſeph my ſon is yet alive."

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLVI.

1 Came to Beer-ſheba] This lay in his road from Hebron; Abraham had formerly planted a grove here, and offered up his adorations to the everlaſting God, chap. xxxi. 31.

The God of—Iſaac.] The appellation was aſcribed to God, becauſe Iſaac was dead. See chap. xxxv. 29.

2 Here am I.] This tranſlation agrees with the Vulgate, Samaritan, and Syriac. The Septuagint render it, What is it? and the Arabic, What is thy pleaſure? The expreſſion is often uſed in ſcripture, in reply to an immediate call from God, and implies a curioſity to know, and a readineſs to obey the will of God.

3 I am God, the God] The Vulgate renders it, I am the almighty God of thy father; and is ſupported by the Chaldee and Samaritan. It is an elliptical expreſſion, and the ſenſe is, God has commanded me to ſay unto thee, &c.

Fear not to go down] Jacob might have been diſinclined to go into Egypt, had he not been honoured with this viſion, on ſeveral accounts. Abraham had been injured there; it had been predicted that his ſeed ſhould be afflicted by the Egyptians; Iſaac had been warned not to go thither, and the occupation of his family was odious to the Egyptians. See chap. xii. 15. xv. 13. xxvi. 2. ver. 34. of this chapter, and xliii. 32.

For I will there make of thee a great nation.] This prophecy was miraculouſly fulfilled; there were no more than ſeventy that went into Egypt, and behold, in the ſpace of two hundred and fifteen years, they increaſed to about ſix hundred thouſand.

4 Shall put his hand upon thine eyes.] This laſt and ſolemn office that could be paid a dying parent was generally performed by the neareſt relations of the deceaſed. And the prophecy muſt have afforded great conſolation to Jacob; for what could have given him greater comfort, than to be aſſured, that the ſon whom he loved moſt, ſhould be preſent with him, and perform this laſt office of kindneſs to a beloved parent?

7 Brought he with him into Egypt.] The promiſe God had made to Abraham, to give his poſterity the land of Canaan, could not be performed

33 And it ſhall come to paſs, when Pharaoh ſhall call you, and ſhall ſay, What is your occupation?

34 That ye ſhall ſay, Thy ſervants' trade hath been about cattle from our youth even until now, both we, and alſo our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goſhen; for every ſhepherd is an abomination unto the Egyptians.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XLVI.

Let us here call to mind the bleſſed ſituation of the good patriarch. O happy Jacob! that had God to go with thee whitherſoever thou wenteſt. O happy every one of us! ſince we may have the ſame divine almighty protector to guard us from all evil, if we will put ourſelves under his protection, and truſt under the ſhadow of his wings.

CHAP. XLVII.

Joſeph preſenteth five of his brethren and his father before Pharaoh. 11 He giveth them habitation and maintenance. 13 He getteth all the money, cattle, and lands of the Egyptians, the land of the prieſts only excepted, for Pharaoh. 23 He letteth them the land again for the fifth of the increaſe. 27 Iſrael multiplieth in Goſhen. 28 Jacob's age: he ſweareth Joſeph to bury him with his fathers.

THEN Joſeph came and told Pharaoh, and ſaid, My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and, behold, they are in the land of Goſhen.

2 And he took ſome of his brethren, even five men, and preſented them unto Pharaoh.

performed till that family was grown ſtrong enough to take and keep poſſeſſion of it. In the mean time, therefore, they were neceſſitated to reſide amongſt idolaters, and to reſide unmixed; but whoever examines their hiſtory will ſee, that the Iſraelites ever had a violent propenſity to join themſelves to Gentile nations, and to practiſe their manners. God therefore, in his infinite wiſdom, brought them into Egypt, and kept them there during this period, the only place where they could remain, for ſo long a time, ſafe and unconfounded with the nations; the antient Egyptians being, by numerous inſtitutions, forbidden all fellowſhip with ſtrangers; and bearing beſides a particular averſion to the profeſſion of the Iſraelites who were ſhepherds. From the Iſraelites going into Egypt, ariſes a new occaſion to adore the footſteps of eternal wiſdom in his diſpenſations to his choſen people.

15 Thirty and three.] Moſt commentators agree in including Jacob himſelf in this number, becauſe otherwiſe there would be only thirty-two. The whole number of Jacob's poſterity by Leah, including Er and Onan, amounted only to thirty-five; but as theſe two are excluded from the pedigree by the hiſtorian himſelf, there conſequently remain only thirty-two; how then can we authenticate the ſacred text, which aſſerts, that there were thirty and three? By including Jacob himſelf in the number, as he certainly is in ver. 27.

21 Sons of Benjamin, &c.] If, with ſome commentators, we ſuppoſe that Benjamin was at this time ſeven-and-twenty years of age, and that he might poſſibly have two wives, according to the mode of the times, he might certainly have had all the ſons mentioned before the deſcent into Egypt.

28 To direct his face unto Goſhen, &c.] In the Hebrew, To prepare before him Goſhen; the Vulgate renders it, To acquaint him of his coming, that he might meet him in Goſhen; which is ſupported by ver. 29. The Chaldee tranſlates, To prepare for him in Goſhen.

29 Preſented himſelf unto him, &c.] In Hebrew, Was ſeen by him; the Vulgate and Oriental tranſlations render, When he ſaw him.

30 Now let me die, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, May I, or I will die now; the Vulgate renders it, I ſhall now die gladly, ſince, &c. and the Chaldee, Though I ſhould die now, I ſhall be comforted, &c. an expreſſion that implies the greateſt reſignation, joy, and affection, and is ſimilar to that of Simeon, Luke ii. 29.

32 The men are ſhepherds, &c.] In Hebrew, They have been men of cattle. See chap. xliii. 32.

34 That ye may dwell in the land of Goſhen, &c.] Though the Septuagint call it in this verſe Geſem, yet in verſe 29. they call it Heroopolis. It lay on the north-weſterly part of the Arabian gulph, towards the confines of Canaan. It was Abaris which Pharaoh gave them, and that it was then void of cattle. The chief motives which induced Joſeph to acquire this ſettlement for his family, were, to prevent their diſperſion, and to provide for their attendance upon his aged father, and likewiſe to prevent any miſunderſtanding or enmity between them and the Egyptians, as they could not look upon them as rivals, on account of their following a profeſſion which they eſteemed as illicit. Some commentators ſay, that he was induced to this meaſure becauſe this country was not only very fertile and proper for that employment, but likewiſe becauſe, with reſpect to ſituation, it lay the moſt convenient to favour their return into Canaan. Beſides which, it was at a proper diſtance from the ſnares of the court, and kept them freer from the contagion of idolatry than a nearer ſituation to Memphis, the capital, would certainly have done.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XLVII.

1 Behold, they are in the land of Goſhen.] They ſtopt there till they knew the king's pleaſure; for it was in the entrance of Egypt. See chap. xlvi. 34.

2 Some of his brethren, &c.] The Hebrew word ketzeh, tranſlated "ſome," ſignifies, Extremity, or the meaneſt, as appears from 1 Kings xii. 31. It ſometimes ſignifies, The beſt, as in Judges xviii. 2. yet it muſt be confeſſed, that it ſignifies likewiſe, A part, and may be uſed in that ſenſe, according to our tranſlation, which is ſupported by the Septuagint, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic.

Before CHRIST 1706.

3 And Pharaoh ſaid unto his brethren, What is your occupation? And they ſaid unto Pharaoh, Thy ſervants are ſhepherds, both we, and alſo our fathers.

4 They ſaid moreover unto Pharaoh, For to ſojourn in the land are we come; for thy ſervants have no paſture for their flocks; for the famine is ſore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy ſervants dwell in the land of Goſhen.

5 And Pharaoh ſpake unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee:

6 The land of Egypt is before thee; in the beſt of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell; in the land of Goſhen let them dwell: and if thou knoweſt any men of activity among them, then make them rulers over my cattle.

7 And Joſeph brought in Jacob his father, and ſet him before Pharaoh: and Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh.

8 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Jacob, How old art thou?

9 And Jacob ſaid unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my pilgrimage are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.

10 And Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 ¶ And Joſeph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a poſſeſſion in the land of Egypt, in the beſt of the land, in the land of Rameſes, as Pharaoh had commanded.

12 And Joſeph nouriſhed his father, and his brethren, and all his father's houſhold, with bread, according to their families.

13 ¶ And there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very ſore, ſo that the land of Egypt and all the land of Canaan fainted by reaſon of the famine.

14 And Joſeph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joſeph brought the money into Pharaoh's houſe. Before CHRIS 1706.

15 And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joſeph, and ſaid, Give us bread: for why ſhould we die in thy preſence? for the money faileth. 1702

16 And Joſeph ſaid, Give your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joſeph: and Joſeph gave them bread in exchange for horſes, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the aſſes: and he fed them with bread for all their cattle for that year.

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the ſecond year, and ſaid unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is ſpent; my lord alſo hath our herds of cattle; there is not ought left in the ſight of our lord, but our bodies and our lands:

19 Wherefore ſhall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh: and give us ſeed, that we may live, and not die, that the land be not deſolate.

20 And Joſeph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians ſold every man his field, becauſe the famine prevailed over them: ſo the land became Pharaoh's.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt even to the other end thereof. 1701

22 Only the land of the prieſts bought he not; for the prieſts had a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they ſold not their lands.

4 To ſojourn, &c.] As their intention was not to ſettle, but only to ſojourn, their requeſt ſeemed the more modeſt; and their deſire to be ſituated in the land of Goſhen, which lay on the confines of Canaan, ſhewed them ſincere in their intention to return to their own country. The propriety of deſiring this place will appear more plainly, if we recollect that the land of Canaan was higher than that of Goſhen, which, lying in a low, marſhy ground, might afford ſome ſuſtenance for their cattle, when all the forage of Canaan was entirely conſumed. Pharaoh ſeems to confirm this motive, in ver. 6. wherein he firſt orders Joſeph to ſettle his family "in the beſt of the land," and immediately adds, "in the land of Goſhen let them dwell."

6 In the land of Goſhen, &c.] The Septuagint omit this ſentence; the Arabic renders it, Said; which if it be the antient Thebais, or country now ſtyled Al Saida, is more ſouthern than that wherein Hieropolis was ſituated.

7 Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh.] The word "bleſs," when applied to God ſignifies to thank or praiſe, to reward, or beſtow ſome ſingular favour; but when applied to men, it ſignifies to wiſh health, proſperity, or happineſs. The Septuagint verſion confirms this expoſition, by aſſerting, that he ſaluted the king, and prayed for the proſperity of his kingdom.

9 The days of the years of my pilgrimage] From this ſpeech it is concluded, that Moſes taught a future ſtate; and eſpecially ſince the author of the epiſtle to the Hebrews hath brought it, chap. xi. 13. as a proof that Jacob and the patriarchs looked for a better country: that Jacob did ſo, is unqueſtionable; but it can never be allowed, that the words in their literal and obvious meaning expreſs any ſuch thing. Pharaoh is here queſtioning the patriarch not of human life in general, but of his own; therefore, to make the reply pertinent, Jacob muſt be underſtood to mean, by his "pilgrimage," the unſettled way of life, living in tents, and removing from place to place, as the convenience of paſturage gave him invitation, and by the "evil of his days," the ſtraits he ſuffered from the fraud of Laban, and the hatred of his brother Eſau. As for the complaint of the "ſhortneſs of his days," he himſelf explains it to be, not on account of the ſhortneſs of human life in general, but becauſe he "had not attained unto the days of the years of the life of his fathers." The ſenſe, therefore, which the writer of the epiſtle to the Hebrews puts upon theſe words, muſt needs be the ſpiritual ſenſe.

Have not attained, &c.] Abraham was one hundred and ſeventy years old, and Iſaac one hundred and eighty.

11 Rameſes, &c.] They who imagine that this is the place mentioned Exod. i. 11. and xii. 37. ſuppoſe that it is ſo named here by anticipation. Yet it muſt be recollected that the land of Egypt was divided among the king, prieſts, and ſoldiery; and Rameſes, was at this time the reigning king of Egypt; the land of Rameſes will then ſignify only that part of the land which was the king's own property; that it was the beſt, we need not doubt, and that he had a right to beſtow it on the Iſraelites, on one can object to. The land inveſted in the prieſts, or ſoldiery, was certainly at that time not in the king's diſpoſal, though that which was his own property was, and that might with the greateſt propriety be ſtyled, from his own name, the land of Rameſes, as in the text.

14 Found in the land, &c.] The word rendered "found," ſignifies, Received, chap. xxvi. 12. and implies that Joſeph collected all the money that was received, and brought it in into the king's houſe, or treaſury. Joſeph was guilty of no injuſtice in making the Egyptians pay for the corn he ſold them, becauſe part of it belonged to Pharaoh, as his fifth, the revenues of Egypt being collected from the produce of the land; and the other part was plainly purchaſed with Pharaoh's money.

16 Give your cattle, &c.] This demand was made with a view of ſaving their cattle; which they could not provide food for, as they would ſcarcely purchaſe corn enough for themſelves. Beſides, as they were by this means rid of the expence which their cattle would ſubject them to, they were the more able to ſupply their own neceſſities.

19 We and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh, &c.] According to profane hiſtory the lands were divided between the king, the prieſts and the ſoldiers, as before obſerved; and Moſes, ſpeaking of this famine, expreſsly ſays, that they were divided between the king, the prieſts, and the people. Now, as contrary as theſe two accounts look, it will be found, upon comparing them, that human teſtimony fully ſupports all that Moſes hath delivered concerning this matter. Moſes tells us, that before the famine, all the lands of Egypt were in the hands of the king, the prieſts, and the people; but that this national calamity made a great revolution in property, and brought the whole poſſeſſions of the people into the king's hands; which muſt needs make a prodigious acceſſion of power to the crown. But Joſeph, in whom the miniſter and patriot ſupported each other, and jointly concurred to the public ſervice, prevented for ſome time the ill effects of this acceſſion, by his farming out the new domain to the old proprietors, on very eaſy conditions.

21 The people, he removed them to cities from, &c.] The purport of Joſeph in tranſplanting the people, reciprocally, from one end of Egypt to the other, was, to ſecure Pharaoh in his new property, by defeating the ill effects of that fondneſs which people naturally have to old paternal inheritances. Others aſſign a different motive, which they ſupport as follows: in chap. xli. 48. Joſeph is ſaid "to gather up the food of every field, which was round every city, and to have laid it up in that city." So that he removed them into the cities where the corn was laid up, for the better conveniency of feeding them; an act of the greateſt prudence, compaſſion, and generoſity.

22 Only the lands of the prieſts bought he not, &c.] The prieſts were a diſtinct order in the ſtate, and had a fixed landed revenue; and

25 And they ſaid, Thou haſt ſaved our lives: let us find grace in the ſight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's ſervants.

26 And Joſeph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh ſhould have the fifth part: except the land of the prieſts only, which became not Pharaoh's.

29 And the time drew nigh that Iſrael muſt die: and he called his ſon Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, If now, I have found grace in thy ſight, put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, and deal kindly and truly with me; bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.

30 But I will lie with my fathers, and thou ſhalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burying place. And he ſaid, I will do as thou haſt ſaid.

31 And he ſaid, Swear unto me. And he ſware unto him. And Iſrael bowed himſelf upon the bed's head.

General Reflections on Chap. XLVII.

In this chapter Joſeph acts with a noble generoſity; inſtead of taking advantage of the neceſſities of the Egyptians, inſtead of even inſiſting on the bargain they had made themſelves, he returns them their eſtates, only laying a tax on them, for the better ſupport of the government, at the rate of a fifth part, which he found by trial, from what was taken up in the ſeven years of plenty, Egypt could well ſpare.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 Joſeph with his ſons viſiteth his ſick father, who ſtrengtheneth himſelf to bleſs them. 3 He repeateth God's promiſe; taketh Ephraim and Manaſſeh as his own; and telleth Joſeph of his mother's grave. 8 He bleſſeth Joſeph's two ſons with their father, and preferreth the younger before the elder. 21 He propheſieth their return to Canaan, in which he giveth Joſeph a double portion.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that one told Joſeph, Behold, thy father is ſick: and he took with him his two ſons, Manaſſeh and Ephraim.

2 And one told Jacob, and ſaid, Behold, thy ſon Joſeph cometh unto thee: and Iſrael ſtrengthened himſelf, and ſat upon the bed. Before CHRIST 1689.

3 ¶ And Jacob ſaid unto Joſeph, God Almighty appeared unto me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and bleſſed me,

4 And ſaid unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy ſeed after thee for an everlaſting poſſeſſion.

5 And now thy two ſons, Ephraim and Manaſſeh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they ſhall be mine.

6 And thy iſſue, which thou begetteſt after them, ſhall be thine, and ſhall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance.

7 And as for me, when I came from Padan, Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath; the ſame is Beth-lehem.

8 ¶ And Iſrael beheld Joſeph's ſons, and ſaid, Who are theſe?

9 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, They are my ſons, whom God hath given me in this place. And he ſaid, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bleſs them.

10 Now the eyes of Iſrael were dim for age, ſo that he could not ſee. And he brought them near unto him; and he kiſſed them, and embraced them.

11 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, I had not thought to ſee thy face: and, lo, God hath ſhewed me alſo thy ſeed.

12 And Joſeph brought them out from between his knees, and he bowed himſelf with his face to the earth.

13 And Joſeph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand towards Iſrael's left hand, and Manaſſeh in his left hand toward Iſrael's right hand, and brought them near unto him.

14 And Iſrael ſtretched out his right hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manaſſeh's head, guiding his hands wittingly; for Manaſſeh was the firſt born.

15 And he bleſſed Joſeph, and ſaid, God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Iſaac did walk, the God which fed me all my life long unto this day.

16 The Angel which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Iſaac; and let and that when the famine raged ſo ſeverely that the people were compelled to ſell their lands to the crown for bread, the prieſts ſtill kept theirs unalienated, and were ſupplied gratis. Thus we ſee not only the reverence in which the order was held, but the public uſes of religion, to which two thirds of their revenues were applied, kept Pharaoh from attempting on their property.

23 I have bought you, &c.] Nothing can be more unjuſt and abſurd, than the accuſation of Joſeph's making the free monarchy of Egypt deſpotic: for allowing it did at this time ſuffer ſuch a revolution, who is to be eſteemed the author of it, but Pharaoh himſelf? Joſeph indeed was prime miniſter, but it does not appear that his maſter was of that tribe of crazy monarchs who entruſted their ſceptre to the hands of their ſervants. Moſes deſcribes him as active, vigilant, jealous of his authority, anxious for his country, and little indulgent to his officers of ſtate. But the terms in which he inveſts Joſeph in his office, ſhews that office to be purely miniſterial, "Thou ſhalt be, &c." Gen. xli. 40. i. e. thou ſhalt adminiſter juſtice, but I will reſerve to myſelf the prerogative of giving law.

29 Under my thigh, &c.] See chap. xxiv. 2.

31 Bowed himſelf upon the bed's head.] The Chaldee tranſlates it, He worſhipped upon the bed's head; the Vulgate, He worſhipped God, having turned towards his bed's head; this paſſage ſignifies, that he proſtrated himſelf on his bed, ſupporting himſelf upon his pillow to return thanks to God for the burial Joſeph had promiſed him, in the ſame manner as David is ſaid to have done, 1 Kings i. 47. The Septuagint have rendered the ſentence, And Iſrael worſhipped upon the top of his ſtaff; the Chaldee is much the ſame; and the writer of the epiſtle to the Hebrews, chap. xi. 21. is quoted as confirming the ſenſe of the Septuagint. But to this it is objected, that the writer alludes to a different action, namely, Jacob's bleſſing Joſeph's children, which did not happen till ſome time after. In this paſſage the patriarch ſeems to have been confined to his bed; but in the other, referred to by the writer to the Hebrews, to have received freſh ſpirits, and to have ſat on it, leaning, perhaps, on his ſtaff.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on Chap. XLVIII.

1 One told Joſeph, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, And it was after theſe things; and he ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold thy father, &c. The Oriental tranſlations agree in rendering, It was told, or news was brought; which implies, that a meſſenger was diſpatched with this news to Joſeph.

2 Strengthened himſelf, &c.] In Hebrew, He comforted himſelf. The Chaldee and other tranſlations render, Iſrael was comforted.

5 And now thy two ſons, &c.] That is, ſhall become the heads of diſtinct tribes, and have each an inheritance in the land of Canaan, equal with the reſt of his ſons. Thus Jacob beſtows a double portion upon Joſeph, which was the privilege of the firſt-born, by making his ſons equal with his own children.

6 And thy iſſue which thou begetteſt after them, ſhall be thine, &c.] That is, they ſhall not make diſtinct tribes, but be conſidered as the deſcendants of my other ſons.

7 Rachel died by me, &c.] Jacob ſeems to mention this circumſtance as a reaſon why he adopted Ephraim and Manaſſeh, being willing to honour her memory, who died in child-birth, by adding her two grandchildren to the number of his own ſons.

14 Who was the younger] The preference of the younger before the elder occurs ſo frequently in ſcripture, that it is very remarkable; thus Abel was preferred before Cain, Shem before Japheth, Iſaac before Iſhmael, Jacob before Eſau, Judah and Joſeph before Reuben,

17 And when Joſeph ſaw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it diſpleaſed him: and he held up his father's hand, to remove it from Ephraim's head unto Manaſſeh's head.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, Not ſo, my father: for this is the firſtborn; put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refuſed, and ſaid, I know it, my ſon, I know it: he alſo ſhall become a people, and he alſo ſhall be great: but truly his younger brother ſhall be greater than he, and his ſeed ſhall become a multitude of nations.

20 And he bleſſed them that day, ſaying, In thee ſhall Iſrael bleſs, ſaying, God make thee as Ephraim and as Manaſſeh: and he ſet Ephraim before Manaſſeh.

21 ¶ And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold, I die: but God ſhall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers.

22 Moreover I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my ſword and with my bow.

General Reflections on Chap. XLVIII.

The promiſe of the land of Canaan to the ſeed of Abraham is ſeveral times repeated in this book of Geneſis, as well as in this chapter: it is always ſpoken of with the utmoſt aſſurance, through the long courſe and various revolutions of above four hundred years; and it was not even till the death of Moſes, who wrote theſe things, that the deſcendants of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to whom the promiſe was made, got poſſeſſion of the land under the command of Joſhua; and then they remained in poſſeſſion of it for ſeveral ages: ſo that here is a plain demonſtration that God certainly made his purpoſe known to the patriarchs long before it was executed; and that Moſes, in writing, only recorded what had been divinely revealed to them; for it was not poſſible for any man of himſelf to ſpeak with ſo much confidence of things long before they happened, which depended upon ſo many cauſes and circumſtances to bring them to paſs, and which indeed, as we may find by the account of the children of Iſrael's getting poſſeſſion of the land, the greateſt difficulties lay in the way of, and every thing ſeemed againſt. From hence we may learn, that whatever obſtacles are in the way of any of God's promiſes, how little proſpect ſoever theſe may ſeem of their being accompliſhed, yet we may expect them with a full aſſurance. ben, Ephraim before Benjamin, Moſes before Aaron, and David before his brethren. May it not likewiſe be worthy of our notice, that Jacob, who deprived his brother of his father's bleſſing by ſtratagem, ſhould be influenced by the divine Being to give the younger ſon of Joſeph the ſuperior bleſſing by choice?

Guiding his hands wittingly, &c.] The word "wittingly" ſignifies knowingly, and is derived from the Saxon, To know. The Hebrew ſignifies, He made his hands to know, though Manaſſeh was the firſtborn. The Vulgate, Septuagint, and Chaldee render it, Changing or croſſing his hands; and the Arabic, Perverting his hands. If we tranſlate the Hebrew particle chi, "though" or "becauſe," which it generally ſignifies, inſtead of for, the ſenſe will be more eaſy than it is at preſent.

16 The angel which redeemed me from all evil] The word in the Hebrew, which we render "angel," ſignifies a meſſenger. Moſt commentators underſtand by this the Meſſiah, who is called "the meſſenger of the covenant," Mal. iii. 1.

Grow into a multitude, &c.] In Hebrew, Let my name increaſe like thoſe creatures which are the moſt prolific.

20 In thee ſhall Iſrael bleſs, &c.] That is, theſe two tribes ſhall be ſo eminent and proſperous, that it ſhall become a proverbial form among my poſterity, in wiſhing happineſs to others, God make you as happy as Ephraim and Manaſſeh. And this form is preſerved to this day.

21 Bring you again unto the land of your fathers.] The land of Canaan, God having given it to the ſeed of Abraham.

22 One portion above thy brethren, &c.] This appears from Joſh. xvii. 1. and xx. 7. to have been Sychem, and it is mentioned by the name of Sychar, as the parcel of ground which Jacob gave to his ſon Joſeph; but it is much diſputed how he got it, and of whom he had conquered or obtained it. It could not be had from Hamor, becauſe his father was a Shechemite, and we find no warlike exploit recorded of the patriarch throughout his hiſtory. The beſt ſolution of this difficulty is as follows: when his ſons had poſſeſſed this country by the maſſacre of the inhabitants, Jacob was forced to maintain himſelf in the poſſeſſion by force of arms, till he removed to Beth-el, and afterwards to recover it from the Amorites, who, living intermixed with the Hivites, had taken poſſeſſion of it during his abſence. And this aſſigns a reaſon why he ſhould ſay, that he got or recovered it from the Amorites, and not from the Hivites.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on Chap. XLIX.

1 In the laſt days, &c.] That is, hereafter, or in future time. Jacob ſpeaks to his ſons as the heads of a people, and not as ſingle perſons; ſo that what he ſays relates to them and their poſterity collectively, and not to them perſonally.

3 Reuben, thou art my firſtborn—the excellency of dignity—and power.] All the epithets uſed here refer to the prerogatives of the firſtborn, which conſiſted in the honour of the prieſthood, which was conferred on Levi; the rule of government, on Judah; and a double portion of the inheritance, on Joſeph; theſe Reuben forfeited by his crime in defiling his father's bed.

4 Unſtable as water, thou ſhalt not excel] In Hebrew, Do not thou excel; which words ſome connect with the former thus, The excellency of dignity is poured out like water, i. e. is like water ſpilt upon the ground. But according to our tranſlation the ſenſe is, As water is prone to flow, and ſtill tend downward to an inferior ſituation, ſo ſhalt thou fall from thy pre-eminence, and ſink into a level with the reſt of thy brethren. It is obſerved, nothing great is recorded of this tribe.

He went up to my couch] Jacob, warmed with indignation againſt the crime, turns from Reuben, and addreſſes this apoſtrophe to his ſons. This is one of the many beauties in writing, with which this chapter abounds.

5 Simeon and Levi are brethren, &c.] They were ſimilar in their diſpoſitions, being both alike turned to cruelty; they were brethren in iniquity, aſſociates in contriving the deſtruction of the Shechemites: "their ſwords are inſtruments of cruelty."

6 Secret] The Hebrew word is ſometimes rendered counſel, as in Pſalm xliv. 2. whence we may collect, that Jacob was far from conſenting to their crime, either explicitly or implicitly; and his apoſtrophizing his ſoul in this manner ſhews that he regarded their maſſacre with the higheſt indignation and abhorrence. The Chaldee renders it, My ſoul was not in their ſecrets; and the Arabic, My ſoul did not enter into their conſpiracy.

For in their anger they ſlew a man, and in their ſelf-will, &c.] This paſſage has been variouſly rendered by commentators; but the true ſenſe of it ſeems to be, In their anger they ſlew a nation (the Shechemites): and in their ſelf-will, or headſtrong paſſion, they ſlew a prince (Hamor or Shechem); for the word tranſlated, Man, is read in the plural by the antient verſions; and the word, which in our tranſlation is rendered a wall, may alſo be interpreted, a prince.

7 Curſed be their anger] Some verſions connect theſe words with the foregoing ſentences, and the third Cambridge MS. countenances this opinion, therefore the ſenſe is, In their anger they ſlew the men; and in their fury they deſtroyed the princes: curſed be their anger for it was fierce, and their fury for it was inflexible.

I will divide them in Jacob, &c.] Was not this eminently fulfilled in the tribe of Levi, who had no portion or inheritance of their own, but were diſperſed among the other tribes? Neither had the tribe of Simeon any inheritance properly of their own, but only a portion in the midſt of the tribe of Judah, from whence ſeveral of them afterwards went in queſt of new habitations, and ſo were divided from the reſt, Joſh. xix. 1—9. 1 Chron. iv. 39. A conſtant tradition too has prevailed among the Jews, which is alſo confirmed by the Jeruſalem Targum, that the tribe of Simeon were ſo ſtraitened in their ſituation and circumſtances, that great numbers of them were neceſſitated to ſeek a ſubſiſtence among the other tribes, by teaching and inſtructing their children.

8 Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren ſhall praiſe] The alluſion made to Judah's name in this paſſage will be more evident from the Hebrew, wherein it is ſaid, jehudah jodukah, "ſhall praiſe." See chap. xxix. 35. The Chaldee inſerts a ſentence which is not in the Hebrew, or the other tranſlations; and reads, Judah, I will praiſe thee, and thou art not confounded; thy brethren ſhall praiſe thee. Some ſay the word joduka may be rendered, "ſhall confeſs thee;" and imagine that the prophecy was fulfilled in the nation being named Jews, and the whole country Judea, from Judah, Eſther iii. 6. Matt. xxvii. 37.

Thy hand ſhall be in the neck of thine enemies] The Septuagint tranſlate, In the back of thy enemies; the Chaldee, Thy hand ſhall prevail againſt thine enemies, thy enemies ſhall be diſperſed, they ſhall be turned backwards in thy ſight.

Thy father's children ſhall bow down, &c.] This part of the prophecy was remarkably fulfilled in God's chuſing David out of this tribe, and ſettling the ſucceſſion in his deſcendants, Pſalm lxxviii. 68—71. but more remarkably in the Meſſiah's being born of this tribe, to whom every knee ſhall bow.

9 Judah is a lion's whelp] The continual gradation in the expreſſion of Judah's bravery is beautifully magnificent. He is firſt compared to a lion's whelp, which fills the mind of the reader with an idea full of terror; but the patriarch, thinking he had not done juſtice to his valour, adds, He is like a grown lion, as the Hebrew ſignifies. Thus having added the idea of ſtrength to that of fierceneſs, one would imagine nothing could be added to the character; but the patriarch is ſtill diſſatisfied, and finiſhes the portrait, by ſubjoining, He is like a lioneſs, as the Hebrew word labi ſignifies; which is by naturaliſts eſteemed fiercer than a lion. What an idea of terror muſt this convey to the mind! But this prediction is not leſs ſublime than true; for this tribe was diſtinguiſhed by its valour, and led the van in the army of the twelve tribes, and was the firſt that poſſeſſed the land of Canaan.

From the prey, my ſon] This alludes to the cuſtom of the lions, who return to the mountains, after they are ſatiated with the prey they have gotten in the plains.

An old lion, &c.] The Hebrew word labi ſignifies "lioneſs," and it is ſo rendered by the Vulgate, Chaldee, Samaritan, and Arabic.

10 The ſcepter ſhall not depart] This famous prophecy intimates, that the theocracy ſhould continue over the Jews until Chriſt came to take poſſeſſion of his Father's kingdom; for there was never any lawgiver in Judah but God, by the miniſtry of Moſes, until the coming of his Son. But this interpretation of the prophecy is different from the common, which underſtands it to foretel that the Jewiſh nation ſhould not be bereft of ſovereign power, by falling under a foreign yoke, till the advent of the Meſſiah. The common notion of the ſcepter of Judah is explained in theſe three different ways: firſt, ſome ſuppoſe it to ſignify the ſovereignty of the Jewiſh nation at large: ſecondly, others ſuppoſe it to ſignify the ſovereignty of the tribe of Judah: and a third ſort contend, that it ſignifies not a ſovereign or regal, but a tribal ſcepter only. In the ſenſe of a ſovereignty in the Jewiſh people at large, which is the moſt general opinion of the three, the prophecy was not only never fulfilled, but has been overthrown; becauſe long before the coming of Shiloh, or of Chriſt, the ſceptre or ſovereignty of the Jewiſh people was departed. During the Babyloniſh captivity, and while they continued in a tributary dependance on the Grecks, they could in no reaſonable ſenſe be ſaid to have retained their ſcepter, their ſovereignty, and independent rule. Though it ſhould be allowed that by departure, a final, not a temporary departure was meant, yet we muſt confeſs, that the Romans, who under Pompey reduced Judea to a dependent province, effectually overthrew the prophecy. Pompey took Jeruſalem, and left to Hyrcanus, the laſt of the Aſmonean family, only the office of high-prieſt. From this time to the birth of Chriſt, it was ever in dependence to the Romans, who diſpoſed of all things at their pleaſure. The ſenate gave the government to Antipater, and then to Herod his ſon, under the title of king; and Archelaus did not dare to take poſſeſſion till he had obtained leave of Auguſtus, who afterwards baniſhed him. Now the precarious rule of a dependent monarch could no more be called a ſcepter, which, in the figurative mode of all languages, ſignifies ſovereignty, than the condition of the Jews could be ſaid to be ſovereign, when this Archelaus was depoſed, and Coponius, a Roman knight, made procurator of Judea at this time, which the ſupporters of this interpertation fix for the departure of the ſcepter. The ſecond opinion is, that by ſcepter is ſignified a civil ſovereignty in the tribe of Judah. This has leſs ſtability than the other; it ſuppoſes that the ſcepter, or ſupreme rule of the Jewiſh people, remained in perſons of that tribe from the time of David. But Petavius hath ſhewn, that from the giving of the prophecy to the time of David (a ſpace of about ſix hundred years) all the rulers of the Jewiſh people were of other tribes; the Aſmonean princes, particularly, being all of the tribe of Levi. Theſe two ſenſes being found to be untenable, men caſt about for a third; and a happy one it was thought to be, which contrived, that ſcepter ſhould ſignify domeſtic, not civil rule; a tribal, not a ſovereign ſcepter, of which they ſay Judah, at the giving of the prophecy, was already poſſeſſed. The ſubject is a ſcepter, which could in no ſenſe, not even in the ſenſe of a tribal ſcepter, be in poſſeſſion of Judah before he became a tribe. The tribal ſcepter ſprung up from the aſhes of Jacob, and flouriſhed in the wilderneſs, as may fairly be preſumed from the occaſion the Iſraelites had of a tribal ſcepter, namely, to fit them for the warfare they were about to undertake, as may be clearly proved from the firſt chapter of the book of Numbers. The ſcepter, whatever was its nature, was ſomething in reverſion. Jacob's own words, ver. 1. of this chapter, declare the ſubject of his prophecy to be of things future. Having told his ſons, that he would inform them of what would befal them in the laſt days, when he comes to Judah, he ſays, "Thy father's children ſhall bow down before thee." This, if it was any thing, was the promiſe of a future ſcepter, and conſequently it was a grant. For if Jacob made a declaration concerning ſome future prerogative, as the words, "thy father's children, &c." ſhew he did; and that this was the firſt time that Judah heard of it, as the words, "I will tell you, &c." ſhew it was; what can this prophecy be, but the grant of a ſcepter? Of Judah's ſcepter it is ſaid, "Thy father's children ſhall bow down before thee." Who were the children but the eleven tribes? So that here a civil and ſovereign ſcepter is expreſly marked out for Judah. Benjamin's, and the remnants of the other tribes adhered to Judah as their head. Now ſuch an adherence can be no other than an acknowledgment of a civil ſcepter in Judah. From what has been ſaid it appears, that of all the three branches, into which the common interpretation ſpreads, though they be equally weak, the laſt betrays its weakneſs moſt, and is leaſt ſuitable to the dignity of the prophecy; the whole body of which has a perpetual reference to one or other of the diſpenſations of divine grace. What remains for us to conclude, but that the true and real meaning of the ſcepter of Judah is that theocratic government which God, by the vicegerency of judges, kings, and rulers, exerciſed over the Jewiſh nation?

Nor a lawgiver from between his feet] The ſenſe of the word "lawgiver" will follow the ſenſe of the word "ſcepter." It has been proved that the former was a ſovereign ſcepter; the lawgiver, therefore, muſt be ſovereign too. The Hebrew word implies both a legiſlator, and an interpreter or teacher of the law; but the firſt is its original and proper ſignification. And thus, Iſaiah xxxiii. 22. "The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will ſave us;" where the word is uſed in its proper ſignification of lawgiver; the other ſenſe of diſpenſer or interpreter of the law being contained in the titles of judge and king. Now there never was any lawgiver in Judah, but God, by the miniſtry of Moſes, till the coming of his Son; the prophecy therefore in this ſenſe was accompliſhed in the coming of Chriſt, as the theocracy of the Jews remained till his abolition of it, and his ſubſtituting a ſpiritual kingdom inſtead of the temporal theocracy of God his Father.

Until Shiloh come] Though the word "Shiloh" is variouſly rendered, yet the moſt ancient doctors amongſt the Jews have unanimouſly appropriated the term to the Meſſiah. The Chaldee, Targum, and Talmudic writers all concur in this opinion, Shiloh is Chriſt. Now Chriſt is not the ſucceſſor of thoſe vicegerents of the Jewiſh ſtates, but of God himſelf, the king of the Jews. The ſcepter, therefore, which deſcends to him, through the hands of thoſe vicegerents, is not merely a civil, but a theocratic ſcepter. This, at the ſame time, explains the evangelic, or goſpel doctrine of Chriſt's kingdom ariſing out of the theocracy or kingdom of God. Hence the diſtinction of Chriſt's kingdom not being of this world: the theocracy which was adminiſtered unto the Jews only, and in a carnal manner, was a kingdom of this world; but when transferred to Shiloh, and extended over all mankind, and adminiſtered in a ſpiritual manner, it became a kingdom not of this world.

And unto him ſhall the gathering of the people be.] The Hebrew word, rendered, Gathering together, ſignifies, Expectation, and obedience likewiſe. The Vulgate tranſlates it, The deſire, or expectation of nations; in which it is followed by the Septuagint and Syriac. The Chaldee reads, The people ſhall obey him; the Jeruſalem Targum, The kingdoms of the earth ſhall obey him; or, The people of the age ſhall bring gifts to the Meſſiah, the ſon of David. The preſent ſtate of chriſtianity ſhews this prophecy to be accompliſhed in part; but to reſtrain it to the tribe of Judah, and their ſituation in the land of promiſe, ſeems to contradict the whole tenor of the prophecy, and to be contrary to the words in the firſt verſe, "the laſt days," which are granted to reſpect the days of the Meſſiah; and to that dignity which the prediction receives by being conſidered as an intimation that the kingdom of God, as confined to the Jews, ſhould be ſuperſeded by the kingdom of Chriſt, which would extend to all the ſons of Adam.

11, 12 Binding his fole unto the vine, &c.] Not to mention the valley of Eſhcol, and other fruitful places, by the accounts of the beſt travellers, the mountains about Jeruſalem were particularly fitted for the cultivation of the vine, and for the feeding of cattle. The mountains of the country abound with ſhrubs, and a delicate ſhort graſs, both which the cattle are more fond of than of ſuch plants as are common to fallow grounds and meadows. The milk of cattle fed in this manner is far more rich and delicious, as their fleſh is more ſweet and nouriſhing. It may be preſumed likewiſe, that the vine was not neglected in a ſoil ſo proper for it to thrive in. The many tokens which are to be met with of antient vineyards about Jeruſalem and Hebron, and the great quantities of grapes and raiſins which were from thence brought daily to the markets of Jeruſalem, and ſent early to Egypt, verify all that the ſcriptures have delivered concerning it.

13 Zebulun ſhall dwell at the haven of the ſea, &c.] And accordingly the tribe of Zebulun extended from the ſea of Galilee to the Mediterranean, where they had commodious havens for ſhipping, Joſh. xix. 10, &c. And how could Jacob have foretold the ſituation of any tribe, which was determined two hundred years afterwards by caſting of lots, unleſs he had been directed by that divine power who diſpoſeth of all events? It is remarkable, that Zebulun is mentioned before Iſſachar, though the latter was the eldeſt. Might not the patriarch prophetically allude to Zebulun's lot being famous for the chief reſidence of the Meſſiah, who was himſelf denominated a Nazarene, from the city of Nazareth, which was his conſtant abode, and in the tribe of Zebulun?

14 Iſſachar is a ſtrong aſs, &c.] The Septuagint tranſlate this ſentence, Iſſachar has deſired that which is good; reading thamad, "he deſired," for hhamad, "an aſs." The Chaldee renders it, Iſſachar is rich in ſubſtance; the Syriac, Iſſachar is a giant; and the Arabic, Iſſachar is a body disjoined. The prediction undoubtedly foretels both the natural diſpoſition and the ſituation of this tribe. It ſtrongly points out its indolent ſubmiſſion to hoſtile attacks, at the ſame time that it aſſigns the cauſe of that effeminacy, a luxurious life amidſt an unbounded plenty. The land of this tribe was the moſt fertile ſpot in all the land of Canaan; it was fruitful to admiration, abounding with paſtures and nurſeries of all kinds, ſo that it would make any one in love with huſbandry. But this fertility raiſed them enemies; and their country was often infeſted and attacked by foreign enemies, eſpecially in the time of the judges.

16 Dan ſhall judge his people as one of the tribes, &c.] Alluding to the name Dan, which ſignifies Judging. The patriarch's meaning is, that Dan, notwithſtanding his being the ſon of a concubine, ſhould not be inferior to his brethren, but that his poſterity ſhould be a ſeparate tribe, and be governed by one of their own line, in the ſame manner as the tribes which deſcended from his wives.

17 Dan ſhall be a ſerpent by the way, an adder in the path, that biteth the horſe-heels, &c.] The Chaldee apply this to Sampſon. "There ſhall be a man who ſhall be choſen, and ſhall ariſe out of the tribe of Dan, the fear of whom ſhall fall upon the people, and he ſhall ſmite the Philiſtines bravely like a ſnake; like an aſp he ſhall lie in wait about the path, and he ſhall ſlay the ſtrongeſt of the Philiſtines, both horſe and foot; he ſhall hough the horſes, and break in pieces the chariots, and caſt down their riders backwards." The word nachaſh ſignifies any ſerpent; but the word ſhephiphin, tranſlated adder, may be rendered the ceraſtes, which hides its body in the ſand, and by that artifice ſprings on its prey by ſurprize. It alſo intimates, that the Danites ſhould be more remarkable for ſtratagems in war, than for conquering by open force; and Moſes gives them the ſame character, Deut. xxxiii. 22. Inſtances of this ſubtlety, may be found in Judges xviii. 27. and xv. and xvi.

18 I have waited for thy ſalvation, &c.] Moſt commentators think, that this exclamation has a reſpect to the ſalvation of mankind by Chriſt. It doth ſo in the ſpiritual ſenſe, nay, in a literal: But yet it ſhould be obſerved, that the terms of the ſalvation of God, or the Lord, are perpetually employed throughout the whole bible, to ſignify God's temporal mercies to the patriarchs and their poſterity.

19 Gad, a troop ſhall overcome him, &c.] The word "troop," alludes to the name of Gad, as will appear from the Hebrew word Gadgedud; i. e. Gad, a troop. This prophecy has been doubly accompliſhed; for reſiding in a frontier country, they were expoſed to the incurſions of the neighbouring people, who ſometimes poſſeſſed part of their lot, and exerciſed great cruelties againſt the inhabitants. Theſe enemies were ſubdued by Jephtha; and ſome conſiderable time afterwards, by the aſſiſtance of Reuben and Manaſſeh, this tribe gained a complete victory over their enemies the Hagarenes and the Arabs, Judges x. 8. and xi. 33. Jer. xlix. 1. Amos i. 13. and 1 Chron. v. 18—20.

20 Out of Aſher his bread ſhall be fat, &c.] The lot of this tribe was remarkable for its plenty, and the produce of the moſt delicate fruits, Iſa. xxxv. 2. and Deut. xxxiii. 24. From theſe words of Moſes, ſome chuſe to apply this prophecy to the delicious oil for which this land was famous, though as it was equally eminent for producing the beſt corn in Paleſtine, it would be moſt reaſonable to make the prophecy include both theſe products.

21 Naphtali—giveth goodly words.] Some imagine that the firſt part of this verſe deſcribes the promptitude of this tribe in military engagements; and that the latter part implies their reluctance to embark in wars, till they had tried all other methods in vain, Judg. iv. and v. 18. and Deut. xxxiii. 23. But others, rejecting the inconſiſtency of a hind's giving goodly words, obſerve, that the word ailah, tranſlated "a hind," ſignifies, A great tree; and that the words "goodly words," or words of beauty, may be rendered, Its branches. According to this interpretation, the verſe will ſignify, "Naphtali is a ſpreading tree, which produces beautiful branches." A tree producing branches, is a uſual ſymbol for a numerous iſſue; and the wonderful increaſe of this tribe, verifies the ſenſe of the prophecy. Naphtali had but four ſons when he came into Egypt, yet, in leſs than two hundred and twenty years, when they departed from thence, this tribe amounted to upwards of fifty-three thouſand, able to bear arms.

22 Joſeph is a fruitful bough, even a fruitful bough by a well.] The Hebrew MS. ſignifies, Son of the fruitful [vine] "Whoſe branches," in the Hebrew, Daughters, "run over the wall." Joſeph is compared to a fruitful ſtock of a vine, ſhooting forth her branches, which ſhould multiply and ſpread themſelves exceedingly.

23 The archers have ſorely grieved him, &c.] In the Hebrew, They have embittered him; they have ſhot their arrows at him, and hated him. From the Septuagint it appears, that the archers meant are thoſe, That ſhoot out their arrows, even bitter words, and groundleſs calumnies; in which ſenſe, the verſe particularly points to the ſlander of Joſeph's miſtreſs. Some extend the ſenſe ſo as to include the perfidy of his brethren, his impriſonment in Egypt, and the ingratitude of Pharaoh's butler.

24 But his bow abode in ſtrength] For as his enemies were archers, and had bows and arrows, ſo had he, and repelled force by force; but then his bow and arrows were of a different ſort; the virtues and graces that he was poſſeſſed of, which remained unmoved, and in their full exerciſe, notwithſtanding the powerful attacks made upon them.

And the arms of his hands were made ſtrong, by—the mighty God of Jacob.] So that he held his bow, and drew it with great ſtrength againſt his enemies, as an archer being uſed to the bow, his nerves become ſtrong, and he is not weakened by drawing it, nor weary of uſing it; but Joſeph had not his ſtrength of himſelf, but from the Lord, the mighty one, that had ſtrengthened his father Jacob, and ſupported him under all his trouble.

From thence is the ſhepherd the ſtone, &c.] The word "ſtone," is uſed for an aſſured ground of confidence, in the ſame manner as the word "rock" is uſed, Pſalm xviii. 2. Our bleſſed Lord is called a ſtone, Iſa. xxviii. 16. The ſenſe of this ſentence is, that Joſeph, by the bleſſing of providence, nouriſhed the Iſraelites, as a ſhepherd does his flock, and was their confidence and ſupport, in the ſame manner as a ſtone ſupports any building.

25 Even by the God, &c.] The Hebrew may be rendered, From the God, &c. Some refer this verſe to the 22d, reading the 24th and 25th verſes in a parentheſis; but others connect it with the 24th, intimating that the bleſſings of heaven, &c. proceeded from the ſame divine Providence, as the delivery of Joſeph did. The bleſſings of heaven are ſeaſonable, or rather fertilizing rains. The bleſſings of the deep are ſprings and rivers, and the bleſſings of the breaſts, are great quantities of cattle, and a numerous poſterity.

26 The bleſſings of thy father, &c.] This will appear to be literally true, if we conſider that they were greater than thoſe which Abraham or Iſaac conferred on their ſons; for Jacob bleſſed Joſeph's two ſons, whereas Abraham ſuffered Iſhmael, one of his ſons, to be baniſhed; and Iſaac again beſtowed the bleſſing on Jacob, at the ſame time rejecting Eſau; whereas all the ſons of Jacob, which were many,

General Reflections on Chap. XLIX.

This chapter calls for our ſtricteſt attention, for it contains a number of predictions or prophecies, which were to be fulfilled, at diſtant periods, through a long ſucceſſion of years; things depending upon ſo many various circumſtances, upon ſuch remote cauſes, ſo hid from all human view, ſo contrary to all appearances at the time they were ſpoken of, that it was impoſſible for any human foreſight or conjecture to imagine them. And yet all were exactly and fully accompliſhed, many of them in diſtant ages, long after both the prophet and the recorder of the prophecies were dead. Nothing can give us an higher idea of the ſcriptures, than to ſee things ſpoken of in them with the moſt certain aſſurance, ages before they happened; and this muſt wonderfully confirm our faith in them, as it is a ſure and convincing proof that they are divine; for it is the prerogative of God alone, or thoſe that are commiſſioned by him, certainly to foretel future events.

many, were all partakers of the inheritance in the land of promiſe, either in themſelves, or their deſcendants, without any excluſion.

Unto the utmoſt bound of the—hills.] The words tranſlated "bounds" may ſignify, Deſire, and the ſenſe is then illuſtrated by Deut. xxxiii. 15. and confirmed by the Vulgate. Yet it muſt be confeſſed, that "the height of hills" is ſometimes uſed as a metaphor to convey the idea of duration, as in Iſa. liv. 10. and in that ſenſe the durableneſs of the bleſſings is the object of the prophecy.

On the crown of the head of him that was ſeparate from his brethren.] The word nazir, rendered Separate, ſignifies either ſeparated by a vow, or by dignity; and hence Joſeph is called the Nazarite of his brethren, becauſe of the eminent dignity to which he was advanced above them. But the words may be likewiſe rendered, Upon the head, even upon thy crowned head, &c. alluding to his advancement in Egypt.

27 Benjamin ſhall ravin as a wolf.] As Judah had been compared to a lion, Iſſachar to a ſtrong aſs, Dan to a ſerpent, Naphtali to a hind let looſe, Joſeph to a fruitful bough, or tree; ſo Benjamin, is fitly compared to a ravenous wolf, for his courage and ſucceſs in war. And was not that a fierce and warlike tribe, as appears in ſeveral inſtances, and particularly in the caſe of the Levite's wife, when they alone waged war againſt the other tribes, and overcame them in two battles?

In the morning, &c.] The morning and night, in this place, can mean nothing elſe but the morning and night of the Jewiſh ſtate; for this ſtate is the ſubject of all Jacob's prophecy, from one end to the other; and conſequently, it is here foretold of Benjamin that he ſhould continue to the very laſt times of the Jewiſh ſtate. This interpretation is confirmed by Moſes's prophecy, Deut. xxxiii. 12. wherein are uſed the words, "all the day long." What is this "all the day long?" The ſame, certainly, as the morning and night. Does not this import a promiſe of a longer continuance to Benjamin, than to the other tribes? And was it not moſt exactly fulfilled?

33 He gathered up his feet into the bed, &c.] While he pronounced theſe benedictions, he ſat up on the bed-ſide with his feet hanging down to the ground; but having ended them, he drew his feet into the bed, and reclining his head on his pillow, calmly yielded up his breath into the hands of his beneficent Creator.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. L.

1 And kiſſed him.] Joſeph firſt cloſed his father's eyes, as God had promiſed Jacob he ſhould; and then, according to the cuſtom of thoſe times, parted from the body with a kiſs.

2 His ſervants the phyſicians] In Egypt every diſtemper had its peculiar phyſician, who confined himſelf to that alone, ſo that all places were crouded with phyſicians. A body of theſe domeſtics would now appear an extravagant piece of ſtate, even in a firſt miniſter. But then it could not be otherwiſe, where each diſtemper had its proper phyſician; ſo that every great family, as well as city, muſt needs ſwarm with the faculty. This was a circumſtance for which Egypt was peculiarly diſtinguiſhed, and is repreſented by the prophet Jeremiah, chap. xlvi. 11. as the characteriſtic of this nation.

The phyſicians embalmed Iſrael.] The art of embalming being allotted to the phyſicians, it was one of the beſt, if not the only expedient of improving medicaments to an art: for, as it was natural that each of the phyſicians ſhould, in embalming, inſpect that part of the corpſe to which his practice was confined, he thereby obtained a knowledge of the occult diſeaſes to which it was ſubject.

3 Forty days were fulfilled—mourned threeſcore and ten days.] The time of mourning was while the body remained with the embalmers, which was ſeventy days; this explains why the Egyptians mourned for Jacob threeſcore and ten days. During this time the body lay in nitre, the uſe of which was, to dry up the ſuperfluous moiſture; and when in the compaſs of thirty days this was reaſonably well effected, the remaining forty were employed in anointing it with gums to preſerve it, which was the proper embalming. Previous to this, they firſt drew out the brain with a hooked iron through the noſtrils, filling the vacancy with ſpices; then an inciſion was made on the left ſide of the belly, and all the inteſtines taken out, except the heart and the kidnies; they were then cleanſed and waſhed with palm-wine, and perfumed with aromatic odours. The cavity of the belly being filled with pounded myrrh, caſſia, and other aromatics, and the inciſion ſewn up, the proceſs was completed as above deſcribed.

4 Joſeph ſpake unto the houſe of Pharaoh, &c.] It was cuſtomary, among the inhabitants of the eaſt, for all mourners not to enter the royal preſence, and for this reaſon Joſeph made application to the great officers of the court, and not to Pharaoh himſelf.

Which I have digged for me, &c.] The common interpretation followed by moſt of the tranſlations, eſpecially the Chaldee, is, that Jacob had prepared a peculiar ſpot for his ſepulchre in the cave of Machpelah, which might be, by digging or hollowing out a niche in the cave. Jacob, and other worthies of old, prepared themſelves a ſepulchre in their health: O let us be equally prepared for death, leſt it come upon us as a thief in the night.

7 All the ſervants, &c.] "All" is put for a great number, as in Matt. iii. 5. The pomp of this woful proceſſion muſt be very affecting, if we conſider that it was conducted for near three hundred miles.

17 So shall ye say unto Joseph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the trespass of thy brethren, and their sin; for they did unto thee evil: and now, we pray thee, forgive the trespass of the servants of the God of thy father. And Joseph wept when they spake unto him.

18 And his brethren also went and fell down before his face; and they said, Behold, we be thy servants.

19 And Joseph said unto them, Fear not: for am I in the place of God?

23 And Joseph saw Ephraim's children of the third generation: the children also of Machir the son of Manasseh were brought up upon Joseph's knees.

24 ¶ And Joseph said unto his brethren, I die: and God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land unto the land which he sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

25 And Joseph took an oath of the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones from hence.

26 ¶ So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

General Reflections on Chap. L.

In the foregoing chapter we find Jacob, though then a dependent in a foreign country, without hope or means to execute any thing, so strong in faith, that he allots to each of his sons a particular portion in the land of Canaan, as if he had been already in the possession of it.

In this chapter we observe the exemplary conduct of Joseph respecting the mourning for his pious father. In the following books, we are going to see the full accomplishment of the promise given to Abraham, and afterwards removed to Isaac and Jacob: by their seed being put into possession of the promised land, about four hundred years after the promise had been first given.

Thus have we gone through the first book of Moses; we hope, through the grace of God, with some advantage to the reader. May he, with whom alone is wisdom and understanding, enable us to proceed aright in the further prosecution of our arduous undertaking!

10 And they came to the threshing-floor of Atad] The word Atad signifies Brambles, as appears from Judges ix. 14. Psalm lviii. 9. and hence the Arabic translates the passage, The threshing-floor of brambles; perhaps the threshing-floor was encompassed with brambles. Others think Atad was the name of a person eminent in the country for husbandry. The place is supposed to be situated about two leagues from Jericho, on the other side Jordan, and fifty miles distant from Hebron.

Beyond Jordan, &c.] Atad and Abel-mizraim lay on the west of Jordan; but were on the other side of that river, with respect to the place where Moses was when he wrote this history, which was in the wilderness of Arabia, on the east of Jordan. Others translate the word Heber, Passage; and then the sense will be, At the passage of Jordan; which is confirmed by the Samaritan and Arabic.

11 Abel-mizraim, &c.] In Hebrew, The mourning of the Egyptians.

16 Thy father did command, &c.] The wrongs they had done their brother filled their minds with such gloomy apprehensions, that they fancied Joseph had only smothered his resentment out of respect to his father, and would now take ample vengeance on them for their perfidious behaviour, and perhaps what they urge as their father's dying command was a mere fiction.

17 And Joseph wept when they spake unto him.] His tears discovered the compassion and generosity of his soul, and afforded an evident proof of his sincerity, and how unjustly they suspected him capable of such permanent and deep resentment.

16 For am I in the place of God?] See note on chap. xxx. 2. The Vulgate renders, Fear not; can we resist the will of God? The Septuagint, Fear not, for I am God's, &c. The Chaldee, Fear not, for I fear God; which is confirmed by the Arabic; but the Syriac renders, I am under God.

20 Ye thought evil, &c.] This is a generous and noble apology for their perfidious treatment; and, at the same time as it palliates their crime, teaches us, that the eyes of the Lord are over all his works; that he disappoints the malice of wicked men, counteracts their mischievous intentions, and perpetually educes good out of evil.

21 Spake kindly, &c.] In Hebrew, Spake unto their heart.

23 Ephraim's children, of the third generation] Joseph had the pleasure of seeing his father's prophetic blessing upon his sons in part fulfilled; which could not fail of giving him the most confident assurance that the rest would be accomplished at its proper time.

Were brought up, &c.] In Hebrew, Were born; which is literally preserved by the Vulgate, Septuagint, Syriac, and Arabic; the Chaldee renders it, The sons of Machir were born, whom Joseph educated; the Arabic translates the latter words, In his bosom; which intimates the affectionate tenderness with which Joseph watched over their infancy.

25 Carry up my bones from hence, &c.] He was so confident that God would give them the land of Canaan, that he desires his remains might be kept unburied till the God of their fathers thought proper to visit them.

26 In a coffin, &c.] This was undoubtedly one of those chests in which the embalmed bodies of the dead were deposited; they were made in the shape of a man, and deposited in cells, raised on an end against the wall.

The Second BOOK of MOSES, CALLED EXODUS.

THE ARGUMENT.

The title of this book is derived from the Greek ex out, and odos, a way; which it received according to the cuſtom of the Greeks, from the principal ſubject of the book, viz. the departure of the Iſraelites from Egypt. In Hebrew, it is called, according to the cuſtom of the Jews, Veelleh Shemoth; theſe names are taken from the two firſt words. This book comprehends a great variety of incidents, all of which are of the greateſt importance. The ways of providence are here deſcribed in the moſt ſtriking light, and diſplayed in ſuch a manner, as amply vindicates the ways of God to man. In this book we have the hiſtory of Moſes's birth, education, flight, and the oppreſſion of the Iſraelites in Egypt; we are informed of his return to Midian, his miſſion to Pharaoh, the wonders he wrought in Egypt, the departure of the Jews, their paſſage through the Red-ſea and the wilderneſs. It deſcribes the manner of giving the law, the celebration of the ſacred paſſover, and contains the tranſactions of about one hundred and forty-five years, from the death of Joſeph to the building of the tabernacle.

CHAP. I.

Before CHRIST 1706. 1 The children of Iſrael after Joſeph's death multiply greatly. 8 They are oppreſſed by a new king, but multiply ſo much the more. 15 The piety of the midwives in ſaving the men children alive is rewarded by God. 22 Pharaoh commandeth the male children to be caſt into the river.

NOW theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael, which came into Egypt; every man and his houſhold came with Jacob.

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah,

3 Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin,

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Aſher.

5 And all the ſouls that came out of the loins of Jacob were ſeventy ſouls: for Joſeph was in Egypt already.

6 And Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

1635. 7 And the children of Iſrael were fruitful, and increaſed abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and the land was filled with them.

8 ¶ Now there aroſe up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joſeph.

9 And he ſaid unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Iſrael are more and mightier than we. Before CHRIST 1635.

10 Come on, let us deal wiſely with them; leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs, that, when there falleth out any war, they join alſo unto our enemies, and fight againſt us, and ſo get them up out of the land.

11 Therefore they did ſet over them taſkmaſters to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treaſure cities, Pithom and Raamſes.

12 But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſervewith rigour:

14 And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in mortar, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field: all their ſervice, wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

15 ¶ And the king of Egypt ſpake to the Hebrew midwives, of which the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah:

16 And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools; if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live.

17 But

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. I.

1 Now theſe are—the children, &c.] This account of the number of perſons who came into Egypt, demonſtrates that God had fulfilled his promiſe to Abraham, in multiplying his ſeed, Gen. xv. 5.

6 And Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.] If we conſider that Levi and Amram lived one hundred and thirty-ſeven years, chap. vi. 16, 20. we ſhall eaſily perceive that a pretty long ſpace of time muſt here be underſtood.

8 Which knew not Joſeph.] In ſcripture, to know ſignifies to approve, or eſteem, as in Matt. xxv. 12. It may in this place imply, that this king was averſe to Joſeph's ſyſtem of policy, and endeavour to bury his memory in oblivion. In this ſenſe the word is frequently uſed, as Judges ii. 10. "And there aroſe another generation, which knew not the Lord, &c." Here "knew not" can only ſignify, Deſpiſed, ſet at nought, &c.

9 More and mightier than we.] By the whole turn of this relation it appears, that "more and mightier" ſignify only, More fruitful and healthy; and that was in truth the caſe. The Egyptians were at this time very luxurious, while the manners of the Iſraelites concurred with their condition to render them hardy and fruitful, by an abſtemious and laborious courſe of life. On this account the king expreſſed his fear. But of what? Certainly not that they ſhould ſubdue their maſters, but that they ſhould eſcape out of bondage, which, even to the very moment of their egreſſion, was the ſole object of the Egyptians' fear; "Leſt they multiply, and ſo get them up out of the land." This was a reaſonable apprehenſion; for Egypt was in every age ſubject to the incurſions of that fierce and barbarous people the Arabians, on that very ſide which the Iſraelites inhabited: who poſſeſſing their own diſtrict, unmixed with the Egyptians, had the keys of the country in their hands, to admit or exclude an invader, at pleaſure. To prevent, then, ſo probable a danger, their taſkmaſters are ordered to increaſe their oppreſſions; and they groan under them without power to reſiſt, till ſet free by the all powerful hand of God.

10 Leſt—they join alſo unto our enemies, &c.] The Iſraelites never conſidered themſelves as ſettled in Egypt, but as ſojourners only; and therefore it is natural to ſuppoſe that they had often mentioned their intention of leaving the country, which doubtleſs contributed to raiſe this jealouſy in the king of Egypt.

11 Built for Pharaoh treaſure cities, &c.] The word rendered "treaſure-cities," occurs 2 Chron. xvi. 4. and is there tranſlated "ſtore-cities." Its proper ſignification is, Magazines for preſerving ſtores of corn, as well as treaſures of money. The Septuagint render it, Fortified cities. The Syriac and Arabic, Storehouſes for corn.

15 The name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah.] Theſe ſeem to have been the chief of the midwives; and perhaps all the reſt acted under their directions. The Egyptian midwives were employed to ſuperintend the delivery of the Hebrew women.

16 If it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him, &c.] Joſephus aſſerts, that this cruel order was occaſioned by a pretended prediction, that a child ſhould be born of the Hebrews, who would be a ſcourge to the Egyptians. We find no intimations of this in the ſacred hiſtory; only that Pharaoh dreading the power of the Iſraelites, was deſirous of deſtroying all the males, it being from them alone any danger was to be apprehended.

Before CHRIST 1635. 17 But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them.

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men children alive?

19 And the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them.

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that he made them houſes.

1573. 22 ¶ And Pharaoh charged all his people, ſaying, Every ſon that is born ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. I.

How quickly one generation paſſeth away, and another cometh! How neceſſary that ſuch as wax great or numerous, remember their original meanneſs! How remarkable is the birth of God's promiſe, when its full time cometh! In two hundred and fifteen years, Abraham's promiſed ſeed had increaſed to ſeventy perſons; in as many more, they are increaſed to about three millions. How quickly the ſervices done to men are forgotten; while thoſe done to God are had in everlaſting remembrance! How often God's kindneſs ſharpens man's cruelty! And to what horrid and ſavage barbarity their ſelfiſh deſigns often puſh them! But how vain for devils or men to contend with the Lord! Their beſt-laid attempts againſt his deſigns will but promote their accompliſhment. God's church often thrives beſt in the fiery furnace of troubles, one after another! Let us therefore always depend on God; always obey God rather than man.

CHAP. II.

1 Moſes is born, and laid in an ark among the flags: 5 He is found, and brought up by Pharaoh's daughter: 11 He ſlayeth an Egyptian; reproveth an Hebrew; and is obliged to flee into Midian. 16 The prieſt of Midian entertaineth him, and giveth him his daughter Zipporah, of whom is born Gerſhom. 23 God reſpecteth the cry of the Iſraelites.

AND there went a man of the houſe of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi.

2 And the woman conceived, and bare a ſon: and when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe hid him three months. Before CHRIST 1571.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and ſhe laid it in the flags by the river's brink.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afar off, to wit what would be done to him.

5 And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh herſelf at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's ſide; and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and, behold, the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrew's children.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee?

8 And Pharaoh's daughter ſaid to her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother.

9 And Pharaoh's daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away, and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her ſon. And ſhe called his name Moſes: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days, when Moſes was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

12 And he looked this way and that way, and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian, and hid him in the ſand. 1531.

13 And when he went out the ſecond day, behold, two men of the Hebrew ſtrove together: and he ſaid to 17 The midwives feared God, &c.] Had they complied with the king's orders, they would not only have been guilty of murder, but perjury too, by deſtroying thoſe innocent children they had undertaken to ſave.

19 They are lively, &c.] In Hebrew, For they are midwives themſelves. If we conſider that the Hebrew women, on account of their being inured to toil and labour, muſt be of a more robuſt and vigorous conſtitution than the Egyptians, the midwives will appear not to have told a lye, though poſſibly they might have concealed ſome part of the truth.

21 Becauſe the midwives feared God—he made them houſes.] The obvious ſenſe of theſe words is, that God, in return for their kindneſs to the Iſraelites, bleſt their children, and rendered them proſperous. But we may obſerve, that "them," in the original, is of the maſculine gender, and therefore cannot refer to the midwives. Some, therefore, apply it to the Iſraelites; and then the ſenſe is, that providence, by means of the piety of the midwives, continued to increaſe the children of Iſrael. Some apply this to the increaſe of the families of the Hebrew midwives. But others refer it to Pharaoh and his ſervants, who built houſes for the midwives, whither the Hebrew women were obliged to repair, in order to be delivered before commiſſioners appointed for that purpoſe, that the king's order might not be any longer eluded.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, ſaying, Every ſon that is born ye ſhall caſt into the river, &c.] Pharaoh finding himſelf diſappointed by the midwives, now iſſues orders for his own ſervants to execute his inhuman decree.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. II.

1 A man] His name was Amram. See Exod. vi. 20. Numb. xxvi. 59.

A daughter of Levi.] Her name was Jochebed, and ſhe was Amram's father's ſiſter. See Exod. vi. 20.

2 Bare a ſon] Moſes was not the firſt-born, his brother Aaron being three years older. See chap. vii. 7.

And when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, &c.] He was remarkable for his ſize and beauty. Heb. xi. 23. Acts. vii. 20.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him] That is, when the child grew too big to be concealed any longer, for fear of being informed againſt by ſome of her Egyptian neighbours, with whom the Iſraelites lived intermixed. Thus the perſon who was afterwards the deliverer of Iſrael was expoſed to the greateſt dangers, and had almoſt fallen himſelf a ſacrifice to an inhuman tyrant! Doubtleſs the providence of God directed things in this manner, that Moſes might conceive an higher deteſtation of the Egyptians, and labour with a greater zeal to deliver his brethren from the hands of ſuch bloody men.

Of bulruſhes] Rather of papyrus, a kind of flaggy ſhrub or reed, which grew particularly on the banks of the Nile.

And ſhe laid it in the flags, &c.] Pliny and other authors tell us, that the Egyptians made boats of the papyrus; and probably the ark in which Moſes was placed was made in the form of a boat, that if by any accident it ſhould be carried away by the ſtream, it might ſwim in the river.

4 His ſiſter, &c.] Her name was Miriam, as appears from Numb. xxvi. 59. Moſes's parents were induced to expoſe him from a ſtrong confidence that divine providence would preſerve him; as Amram had been informed by a dream antecedent to his birth.

5 Daughter of Pharaoh, &c.] Her name was Thermuthis.

6 Behold, the babe wept, &c.] The princeſs was irreſiſtibly moved with the ſight of ſo much innocence and beauty in diſtreſs.

9 Take this child away, and nurſe it for me, &c.] Had the child been found by any other perſon, the king himſelf excepted, they muſt have thrown him into the river; but Pharaoh's daughter is conducted by an inviſible hand to the place where the forlorn infant was expoſed, and by her put to nurſe to his own mother.

10 And he became her ſon] That is, ſhe adopted him for her own ſon, and ſhe gave him a princely education. As Moſes grew up, he was remarkable for the tallneſs of his ſtature, and elegance of his form, ſhewed a pregnancy of underſtanding that far ſurpaſſed his years, and ſufficiently indicated what in time might be expected from him.

She called his name Moſes, &c.] Some derive the word Moſes from the Egyptian mo, "water," and iſes, or yſes, "preſerved;" conſequently the word implies, Saved from the waters, or preſerved from drowning. But Moſes, finding the Hebrew word maſha, "to draw out," bear ſome reſemblance in ſound and ſenſe to his own name, writes it Moſheh, and introduces Pharaoh's daughter giving this reaſon why ſhe impoſed it, becauſe meſhitihu, "I drew him out of the waters."

11 He went out unto his brethren, &c.] He abandoned the pleaſures of the Egyptian court, and joined himſelf to the Hebrews, who were all his brethren, as being all deſcended from their common father Abraham, "chuſing rather (ſays the apoſtle to the Hebrews) to ſuffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleaſures of ſin for a ſeaſon." Heb. xi. 24.

12 He ſlew the Egyptian, &c.] This Egyptian was one of the taſkmaſters, who fell unmercifully upon the Hebrew, becauſe he did not work ſo faſt as he deſired, and almoſt beat him to death. But the wrongs ſuffered by the Iſraelites ſo animated Moſes with an abhorrence

Before CHRIST 1531. to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

14 And he ſaid, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us? intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared, and ſaid, Surely this thing is known.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſat down by a well.

16 ¶ Now the prieſt of Midian had ſeven daughters: and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock.

17 And the ſhepherds came and drove them away: but Moſes ſtood up and helped them, and watered their flock.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father, he ſaid, How is it that ye are come ſo ſoon to day.

19 And they ſaid, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the ſhepherds, and alſo drew water enough for us, and watered the flock.

20 And he ſaid unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? call him, that he may eat bread.

21 And Moſes was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter.

22 And ſhe bare him a ſon, and he called his name Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I have been a ſtranger in a ſtrange land.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs in proceſs of time, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Iſrael ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up unto God by reaſon of the bondage.

24 And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Iſaac, and with Jacob. Before CHRIST 1531.

25 And God looked upon the children of Iſrael, and God had reſpect unto them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. II.

The hardſhips which Moſes endured in the deſert land of Midian, and the virtues he learned in this ſchool of adverſity, at a diſtance from the pleaſures of a court, where he had been educated, ſerved not a little to qualify himſelf for the part he was afterwards to act, as the deliverer of God's people.

CHAP. III.

1 Moſes keepeth Jethro's flock: God appeareth to him in a burning buſh: 7 He ſendeth him to deliver Iſrael 11 Moſes enquireth, and is told the name of God. 15 God's meſſage to Iſrael, and to the king of Egypt. 19 Pharaoh's obſtinacy foretold, and its conſequences.

NOW Moſes kept the flock of Jethro his father in law, the prieſt of Midian: and he led the flock to the backſide of the deſert, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb. 1491.

2 And the Angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midſt of a buſh: and he looked, and, behold, the buſh burned with fire, and the buſh was not conſumed.

3 And Moſes ſaid, I will now turn aſide, and ſee this great ſight, why the buſh is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD ſaw that he turned aſide to ſee, God called unto him out of the midſt of the buſh, and ſaid, Moſes, Moſes. And he ſaid, Here am I.

5 And he ſaid, Draw not nigh hither: put off thy ſhoes

horrence againſt ſuch flagrant oppreſſion, and with ſuch ardent love for his brethren, that he could not ſuffer this outrage to eſcape unpuniſhed. But it has been queſtioned whether, granting the Iſraelite to have ſuffered wrong, this action of Moſes was juſtifiable? and whether he ſhould not have appealed to the civil magiſtrate, in whoſe hands the ſociety had lodged the power of redreſſing private wrongs? In reply, it ſhould be remembered, that as the Egyptian kings authorized the oppreſſing the Iſraelites, it would have been in vain to apply for redreſs of their grievances; and, conſequently, the ſociety being degenerated into a confederacy in oppreſſion and injuſtice, it was as lawful to uſe private force and reſiſtance as againſt a band of robbers and banditti. It is highly probable that Moſes did this action by a divine impulſe.

14 And Moſes feared, &c.] Some have ſuſpected that there is a contradiction between this account and that of the apoſtle, Heb. xi. 26. "By faith he forſook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king." But theſe words of the apoſtle may refer to Moſes's courage, in conducting the Iſraelites out of Egypt, in which action he was ſo fortified by faith in the divine protection, that he feared not Pharaoh and all his hoſt.

15 And dwelt in the land of Midian, &c.] This country is ſuppoſed to be part of Arabia Petræa, which bordered on Goſhen. In this deſert he acquired virtues which rendered him more capable of undertaking the deliverance of his brethren.

16 Prieſt of Midian, &c.] He was a prieſt of the true God, and in great eſteem in thoſe parts. The Chaldee tranſlates it, The prince of Midian.

17 And the ſhepherds came and drove them away, &c.] That is, the ſhepherds drove the flocks from the well; for the word "them" is in the maſculine gender, and therefore cannot refer to the daughters. Nor will this action of the ſhepherds appear ſurpriſing, if it be conſidered, that in theſe countries there is a great ſcarcity of water; and that every ſhepherd would endeavour to get the firſt poſſeſſion of the wells, leſt others, coming thither before them, ſhould not leave water enough for their cattle.

18 When they came to Reuel their father, &c.] This perſon is perhaps called Hobab, the ſon of Raguel, Numb. x. 29. Ceni, in Judges i. 16. and Jethro, in Exod. iii. 1. ſo that one and the ſame perſon is thought to have been called by four names, Raguel or Reuel, Hobab, Ceni, and Jethro.

21 And he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter.] Though the ſcripture has not mentioned any tranſaction between the arrival of Moſes at Reuel's houſe, and his marriage of Zipporah; yet, it is highly probable, that Reuel did not give him his daughter till he had been ſome time in the country, and given ſufficient proofs of his virtuous qualifications.

22 Called his name Gerſhom, &c.] That is, A ſtranger, or an alien. Or as in the Hebrew, I have been a ſtranger, &c.

23 The king of Egypt died] His name was Rameſes, according to biſhop Uſher, who places his death in the year of the world 2494; his ſucceſſor was Amenophis, who was drowned in the Red-ſea.

Their cry, &c.] The Samaritan renders it, Their groan; the Arabic, Their prayer or ſupplication; which is confirmed by the Syriac rendering the words, They cried, they prayed.

24, 25 And God, &c.] In theſe two verſes, four different words, namely, "heard, remembered, looked upon them, had reſpect unto them," are made uſe of, the more emphatically to expreſs God's tenderneſs towards them.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

1 The backſide of the deſert] The Septuagint and Samaritan omit the word rendered "the back-ſide." The Arabic reads, The extremities; the Vulgate, The inner parts; and the Chaldee, The beſt paſtures of the deſert.

Mountain of God] The Septuagint omit theſe words. The Chaldee renders them, He came to Horeb, where the glory of the Lord was revealed; according to this verſion, it received the title of the mountains of God by anticipation. Yet it muſt be owned, that in various places of ſcripture "the mountain of God" ſignifies only a very lofty one. Joſephus pretends that the ſhepherds were afraid to aſcend this mountain, on account of an antient tradition that ſome god kept his reſidence upon it.

Even to Horeb.] St. Stephen, Acts vii. 30. calls it Sinai, becauſe Horeb and Sinai were two ſummits of the ſame mountain. He alſo informs us that this happened after Moſes had dwelt forty years in the land of Midian.

2 And the angel of the Lord appeared] Many are of opinion, that by the angel of the Lord is meant the Meſſiah, the "meſſenger of the covenant," that all-glorious perſon, who, to make an atonement for ſinful man, ſpilt his moſt precious blood. We are of opinion, that it was the appearance of the Shechinah, or Jehovah himſelf, accompanied with a glorious retinue of angels as his miniſters. And the Vulgate, which renders it, The Lord appeared, partly confirms this ſenſe.

In a flame of fire] The element of fire was frequently made uſe of by God to notify his preſence. Thus when he determined to ratify his covenant with Abraham, "a ſmoking furnace and a lamp of fire paſſed between the pieces of the victims." When the people were to be ſatisfied of the divine miſſion of Moſes, the Lord deſcended in fire from mount Sinai. When our Saviour was initiated in his miniſtry, the divine glory, or fire, ſettled upon his head; and when the diſciples were filled with the Holy Ghoſt, fiery cloven tongues manifeſted his preſence, and convinced the ſpectators of the reality of their inſpiration.

Out of the midſt of a buſh] The word ſeneh, which we render a "buſh," properly ſignifies a bramble buſh; thence the wilderneſs and adjacent mountains were called Sinai from their being full of brambles.

And the buſh was not conſumed.] Philo the Jew has informed us of the doctrine couched under this extraordinary appearance. The burning buſh was a ſymbol, ſays he, of the oppreſſed, and the flaming fire of the oppreſſor. The buſh burning with fire, and not conſumed, portended, that they who were oppreſſed by violence ſhould not be deſtroyed; the deſign of their enemies ſhould be fruſtrated: and the preſent troubles with which they were afflicted ſhould, in the event, prove to their advantage.

5 Put off thy ſhoes from off thy feet, &c.] We cannot approach the great Creator of the univerſe with too much reverence. And how great is the condeſcenſion of the almighty Being, who fills immenſity with his glory, that he deſigns to reveal himſelf to ſinful mortals!

16 Go, and gather the elders of Iſrael together, and ſay unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Iſaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, ſaying, I have ſurely viſited you, and ſeen that which is done to you in Egypt:

17 And I have ſaid, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.

18 And they ſhall hearken to thy voice: and thou ſhalt come, thou and the elders of Iſrael, unto the king of Egypt, and ye ſhall ſay unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews has met with us: and now let us go, we beſeech thee, three days journey into the wilderneſs, that we may ſacrifice to the LORD our God.

19 ¶ And I am ſure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, no, not by a mighty hand.

20 And I will ſtretch out my hand, and ſmite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midſt thereof: and after that he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians: and it ſhall come to paſs, that, when ye go, ye ſhall not go empty:

22 But every woman ſhall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment: and ye ſhall put them upon your ſons, and upon your daughters; and ye ſhall ſpoil the Egyptians.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

Here we obſerve the reverence that is due to God, whenever we approach him in prayer, when we come into his temple, or when we even do but ſpeak of him; and indeed when we conſider what a great and glorious Being he is, the profoundeſt reverence, the loweſt abaſement, the moſt awful veneration, will appear too little, when we come before him.

CHAP.

mortals! Though the divinity be preſent every where; though the whole world be his auguſt temple, yet we ſhould be remarkably cautious when we approach the place where his honour dwelleth, the houſe ſet apart for his worſhip; for we ſee that even Moſes himſelf was commanded, when he approached the divine majeſty, to put off his ſhoes from his feet, for the place on which he ſtood was holy ground.

6 And Moſes hid his face] In token of profound humility and veneration. The angels themſelves are ſaid to cover theirs in the preſence of God. Iſaiah vi. 2.

Upon God.] In the Hebrew, To look back towards God. The Chaldee renders it, To look towards the glory of God.

7 Their cry, by reaſon of their taſkmaſters, &c.] It will appear from the ſequel of their hiſtory, that their cry was not for ſuch a deliverance as was promiſed to their forefathers, i. e. to be brought up out of Egypt; but for ſuch a one as might enable them to live at eaſe among their fleſh-pots in it.

8 Unto a land flowing with milk and honey, &c.] The ſacred writings are full of encomiums on the fertility of the land of Canaan; and the expreſſion, "flowing with milk and honey," was a common proverb, denoting plenty.

11 And Moſes ſaid unto God, Who am I, that I ſhould go unto Pharaoh, &c.] He modeſtly declines the ſervice, from an apprehenſion that it was unlikely that a perſon ſo long abſent from Egypt ſhould be able to prevail with the people to follow him, or with the prince to releaſe them from his dominions.

12 I will be with thee] I will ſupport and defend thee in all dangers and difficulties. The Chaldee renders it, My word ſhall be thy aid.

And this ſhall be a token unto thee, &c.] That is, the viſion which thou haſt now ſeen of the buſh burning, but not conſumed.

14 I AM THAT I AM, &c.] A name was ſo peculiar and diſtinct to a local tutelary deity, that the one ſupreme God had no name, or title of diſtinction. Out of indulgence, therefore, to the weakneſs of Moſes, God was pleaſed to give himſelf a name, "I AM THAT I AM, &c." where we may obſerve (according to the conſtant method of divine wiſdom, when it condeſcends to the prejudices of men) how in the very inſtance of indulgence to their ſuperſtition, he gives a corrective of it. The religion of names aroſe from an idolatrous polytheiſm; and the name here given implying eternity and ſelf-exiſtence, directly oppoſeth that ſuperſtition.

18 Hath met with us, &c.] The Vulgate render, It hath called us; the Septuagint, Hath called upon us; the Arabic, Hath commanded us; the Syriac, Hath appeared to us; and the Chaldee, Hath been invoked by us. The Hebrew word, nikrah, which ſignifies "met," is in the Samaritan written nikra, which ſignifies, "to call:" and as ſeveral Hebrew MSS. confirm the latter as the genuine reading, we may ſafely adopt it.

19 No, not by a mighty hand.] The Vulgate renders it, Unleſs by a mighty hand; the Septuagint, Unleſs with a mighty hand; the Chaldee, Nor indeed, becauſe his power is great. The Samaritan agrees with the Septuagint.

20 And I will ſtretch out my hand] The two moſt populous regions at this time in the world were Canaan and Egypt; the firſt diſtinguiſhed from all others by its violence and unnatural crimes; the latter by its ſuperſtitions and idolatries. It concerned God's moral government that a ſpeedy ſtop ſhould be put to both; the inhabitants of theſe two being now ripe for divine vengeance. And as the inſtruments he employed to puniſh their preſent enormities were deſigned for the barrier againſt future, the Iſraelites went out of Egypt with a high hand, which deſolated their haughty tyrants, and were led into the poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan, whoſe inhabitants they were utterly to exterminate. Vice and idolatry had now filled up their meaſure. Egypt, the capital of falſe religion, being likewiſe the nurſery of arts and ſciences, was preſerved from total deſtruction, for the ſake of civil and poliſhed manners, which was to derive their ſource from thence; but the Canaanites were to be utterly exterminated, to vindicate the honour of humanity, and to put a ſtop to a ſpreading contagion which changed the reaſonable nature into brutal.

Smite Egypt with all my wonders, &c.] This kingdom was choſen by God to be the ſcene of all his wonders in ſupport of his elect people; for this very reaſon, that through the celebrity of ſo famed an empire the powers of the true God might be ſpread abroad, and ſtrike the obſervation of the whole habitable world, Rom. ix. 7.

22 Every woman ſhall borrow] The word ſhaal, which we render "borrow," ſignifies to aſk, as appears from Gen. xxxii. 17. Joſh. xix. 50. Judges viii. 24. It likewiſe ſignifies, To return any thing obtained by great difficulty and importunity, as in 1 Sam. i. 28. And therefore the true ſenſe of the paſſage will be, Every woman ſhall aſk of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold and raiment, as ſome compenſation for the injuries the Iſraelites have received. Conſequently the Egyptians, in compliance with their requeſt, ſhewed they were willing to pay the tax deſired as a ranſom for their lives, and a compenſation for the injuries they had done the Iſraelites.

And ye ſhall ſpoil, &c.] The Chaldee renders it, Ye ſhall leave the Egyptians empty; and the Arabic, Ye ſhall extirpate the Egyptians.

CHAP. IV.

1 Moſes' rod is turned into a ſerpent: 6 His hand is leprous: 10 He is loth to be ſent; Aaron is appointed to aſſiſt him. 18 Moſes departeth from Jethro. 21 God's meſſage to Pharaoh. 24 Zipporah circumciſeth her ſon. 27 Aaron is ſent to meet Moſes. 29 They go to the Iſraelites, and the people believe them.

AND Moſes anſwered and ſaid, But, behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will ſay, The LORD hath not appeared unto thee.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he ſaid, A rod.

3 And he ſaid, Caſt it on the ground. And he caſt it on the ground, and it became a ſerpent; and Moſes fled from before it.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail. And he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand:

5 That they may believe that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared unto thee.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy boſom. And he put his hand into his boſom: and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous as ſnow.

7 And he ſaid, Put thine hand into thy boſom again. And he put his hand into his boſom again; and plucked it out of his boſom, and, behold, it was turned again as his other fleſh.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the firſt ſign, that they will believe the voice of the latter ſign.

9 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe alſo theſe two ſigns, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou ſhalt take of the water of the river, and pour it upon the dry land: and the water which thou takeſt out of the river ſhall become blood upon the dry land.

10 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor ſince thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant: but I am ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſlow tongue. Before CHRIST 1491.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Who hath made man's mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the ſeeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?

12 Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou ſhalt ſay.

13 And he ſaid, O my Lord, ſend, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt ſend.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Moſes, and he ſaid, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can ſpeak well. And alſo, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when he ſeeth thee, he will be glad in his heart.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, and put words in his mouth: and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye ſhall do.

16 And he ſhall be thy ſpokeſman unto the people: and he ſhall be, even he ſhall be to thee inſtead of a mouth, and thou ſhalt be to him inſtead of God.

17 And thou ſhalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou ſhalt do ſigns.

18 ¶ And Moſes went and returned to Jethro his father in law, and ſaid unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and ſee whether they be yet alive. And Jethro ſaid to Moſes, Go in peace.

19 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes in Midian, Go, return into Egypt: for all the men are dead which ſought thy life.

20 And Moſes took his wife and his ſons, and ſet them upon an aſs, and he returned to the land of Egypt: and Moſes took the rod of God in his hand.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, When thou goeſt to return into Egypt, ſee that thou do all thoſe wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand: but I will harden his heart, that he ſhall not let the people go.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

1 Behold, they will not believe me, &c.] The reluctance which Moſes diſcovers to accept this commiſſion, may ſeem unaccountably ſtrange, if we conſider that from the former part of his hiſtory, chap. ii. ver. 12. he was neither wanting in forwardneſs or zeal to promote the welfare of his brethren. Whence then could his backwardneſs proceed? Whence! From his thinking that the recovery of the Iſraelites from the Egyptian ſuperſtitions was altogether deſperate. And, humanly ſpeaking, he did not judge amiſs, as will appear from their behaviour during the whole time God was working this amazing deliverance.

3 And it became a ſerpent, &c.] The word tranſlated "ſerpent" is rendered by the Vulgate, A ſnake, and by others, A prodigious large dragon.

5 That they may believe, &c.] That is, thou ſhalt do this before them, in order to convince them, if they doubt whether I have ſent thee.

6, 7 His hand was leprous as ſnow—and it was turned again as his other fleſh.] The leproſy, eſpecially the white leproſy, is eſteemed almoſt incurable; and the inflicting this diſeaſe, and the curing it again inſtantly, ſhews the greatneſs of the miracle.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs] Here God condeſcended to give the reaſon why he is pleaſed to add another ſign to the former; namely, that he might overcome the incredulity which he foreſaw would be found in many of the Iſraelites.

They will believe the voice of the latter ſign.] They who cannot be prevailed upon by the firſt ſign, ſhall be convinced by the ſecond; and if any ſhould be ſo obſtinate as to ſtand out againſt the ſecond, they ſhould be convinced by a third. We may obſerve a great propriety and energy in this expreſſion, "the voice of the ſign," ſince thoſe miracles, in effect, ſpoke in the ear of reaſon, and ſaid, Believe in him whom God hath ſent.

10 Slow of ſpeech, &c.] The words chebah peh, rendered "ſlow of ſpeech," ſignify, in Ezek. iii. 5. a ſtrange language underſtood with difficulty; in which ſenſe Moſes not only inſinuates that he was no orator, but likewiſe that he had almoſt loſt the true pronunciation of the Egyptian language, in the abſence of forty years.

11 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Who hath made man's mouth? &c.] This is a very ſtrong, and ought to have been taken as a ſatisfactory anſwer to his objection.

13 Send, I pray thee, by the hand, &c.] Becauſe the word rendered, "whom thou wilt ſend," is in Hebrew teſhilahh, whence the word ſhiloh, mentioned Gen. xlix. 10. is derived; ſome have imagined, that Moſes here alludes to the Meſſiah. The Septuagint render, Send by ſome other perſon who is able; the Chaldee, Send by the hand of him who is worthy to be ſent. Grotius obſerves, that the Hebrew word jad, A hand, ſignifies fitneſs in general; and that Moſes's reluctance is an argument of his modeſty: but it ſeems rather more probable, that his backwardneſs proceeded from his knowledge of the ſtrong attachment which the Hebrews had to the Egyptian ſuperſtitions.

17 Thou ſhalt take this rod, &c.] Moſes was ordered to take the rod, that he might have a perpetual memorial of the divine omnipotence; and to perſuade him, that as God had already converted it into a different form, he was equally able to change it into any other, and endue it with a power which in its natural ſtate it was not endued with.

19 For all the men are dead, &c.] Joſephus confines this merely to the demiſe of the Egyptian king, from whom he had fled into Midian; and repreſents the information of his death as the effect of rumour, not of divine inſpiration, as it is affirmed to be in the text. But this circumſtance bears a ſtrong reſemblance of that in Matt. ii. 20.

20 And his ſons] Though the ſcripture mentions only Gerſhom, till chap. xviii. 4. of this book, we are in that place informed, that he had another named Eliezer, who was ſo called in alluſion to Moſes's being aided by God in his flight from Egypt.

Upon an aſs, &c.] Though in the Hebrew the ſingular number is uſed, yet, from the circumſtances of the ſtory, it is evident more than one is implied. May we not therefore aſſert, that he placed each of them upon an aſs? The Septuagint give us room to think he did, tranſlating the expreſſion, Beaſts of burden, in the plural; and the Arabic uſes the ſame number.

21 I will harden his heart, &c.] This expreſſion ſhould be underſtood ſo as not to contradict that in chap. ix. 34. where Pharaoh is ſaid to harden it himſelf; and this may be eaſily done, if we conſider it as ſignifying, God would ſuffer him to harden it himſelf; and that in ſcripture every thing is aſcribed to the immediate agency of the divine Being, though it might be accounted for from natural cauſes: and God might be ſaid to harden Pharaoh's heart, by giving him up to the perverſeneſs of his own diſpoſition, and the natural effects of his own prejudices. The accidental effect of a thing is very often looked upon, and very often repreſented, as the efficient cauſe: thus Chriſt ſays, he came to ſend fire and diviſions on earth, Luke xii. 49. No one will aſſert that the goſpel naturally produced, or Chriſt originally intended theſe calamities. No, they are the accidental, not the natural effects of his doctrine. So the miracles of Moſes, which occaſioned the obduracy of Pharaoh, ſhould not be conſidered as the efficient, but the accidental cauſes of it.

25 Then Zipporah took a ſharp ſtone, and cut off the foreſkin of her ſon, and caſt it at his feet, and ſaid, Surely a bloody huſband art thou to me.

26 So he let him go: then ſhe ſaid, A bloody huſband thou art, becauſe of the circumciſion.

27 ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Go into the wilderneſs to meet Moſes. And he went, and met him in the mount of God, and kiſſed him.

28 And Moſes told Aaron all the words of the LORD who had ſent him, and all the ſigns which he had commanded him.

29 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Iſrael:

30 And Aaron ſpake all the words which the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, and did the ſigns in the ſight of the people.

31 And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had viſited the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worſhipped.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

From the circumſtance of Moſes being threatened by a divine viſion, on account of his not having circumciſed his ſon, we may learn, that the commands of God, even thoſe which relate only to things external, and indifferent in their own nature, ought to be inviolably obſerved.

CHAP. V.

1 Pharaoh chideth Moſes and Aaron for their meſſage: 6 He increaſeth the taſk of the Iſraelites. 10 The people have no ſtraw allowed them. 15 Pharaoh checketh their complaints. 20 They cry out upon Moſes and Aaron. 22 Moſes complaineth to God.

Before CHRIST 1491.

AND afterward Moſes and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Let my people go, that they may hold a feaſt unto me in the wilderneſs.

2 And Pharaoh ſaid, Who is the LORD, that I ſhould obey his voice to let Iſrael go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Iſrael go.

3 And they ſaid, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the deſert, and ſacrifice unto the LORD our God; leſt he fall upon us with peſtilence, or with the ſword.

4 And the king of Egypt ſaid unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their works? get ye unto your burdens.

5 And Pharaoh ſaid, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and ye make them reſt from their burdens.

6 ¶ And Pharaoh commanded the ſame day the taſkmaſters of the people, and their officers, ſaying,

7 Ye ſhall no more give the people ſtraw to make brick, as heretofore: let them go and gather ſtraw for themſelves.

8 And the tale of the bricks, which they did make heretofore, ye ſhall lay upon them; ye ſhall not diminiſh ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, ſaying, Let us go and ſacrifice to our God.

9 Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein; and let them not regard vain words.

10 ¶ And the taſkmaſters of the people went out, and their officers, and they ſpake to the people, ſaying, Thus ſaith Pharaoh, I will not give you ſtraw.

11 Go ye, get ye ſtraw where ye can find it: yet not ought of your work ſhall be diminiſhed.

12 So the people were ſcattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather ſtubble inſtead of ſtraw.

13 And the taſkmaſters haſted them, ſaying, Fulfil your works, your daily taſks, as when there was ſtraw.

22 Iſrael is my ſon, &c.] The Arabic adds, that this was ſaid in order to convey honour to the Iſraelites, and at the ſame time to expreſs the kindneſs of God towards them. The Egyptians, and all the ſurrounding nations, looked upon their hero-gods, as local, tutelary, and particularly engaged in the protection and proſperity of the nation from which they ſprung. God, in alluſion to this prejudice, orders Moſes to addreſs Pharaoh in the words of this verſe; and as he was convinced of the conſequences of the doctrine of a tutelary deity, he could not be applied to in a ſtronger or a more proper manner.

24 The Lord met him, &c.] Moſt of the tranſlations, and particularly the Syriac, mention Moſes as the perſon whom the Lord met, and ſought to kill; but the Arabic ſays expreſsly, That the angel of the Lord fell or ruſhed upon his ſon, and ſought to kill him. Yet the original ſignifies no more than that the angel appeared in an attitude which threatened the child's life, in order to try the affection of his father, and to compel him to the obſervance of a rite which was the token of the covenant between God and the poſterity of Abraham.

25 Took a ſharp ſtone] The Egyptians uſed a flint ſtone to make the inciſion in the bodies that were to be embalmed. Juſtin Martyr ſtyles theſe inſtruments ſwords, or knives of ſtone; in the firſt ages of the world they were in univerſal uſe; and modern diſcoveries convince us, that in the ruder ages all countries had no other inſtruments.

Surely a bloody huſband art thou to me.] The word chatan, rendered "huſband," ſignifies a ſon-in-law, or one eſpouſed to God, and was the name given a child on the day of circumciſion; and that the words are applied to the ſon, not to Moſes, who is called a bloody ſon, on account of the circumciſion. According to ſome, the ſenſe of this paſſage will run thus: She caſt the foreſkin at the child's feet, and ſaid, by this blood of the circumciſion thou art a member of the church; and the Chaldee is ſo remarkable, that we have reſerved the tranſlation of the whole verſe to this place, Zipporah took a ſtone, and circumciſed the foreſkin of her ſon, and offered it before him, and ſaid, Becauſe of the blood of this circumciſion, let my huſband be given unto us.

26 So he let him go, &c.] This ſignifies that the angel ſuffered Moſes to proceed on his journey.

30 And did the ſigns, &c.] It ſeems as if Aaron performed the miracles; and agreeable to this, we find, chap. vii. 10. that Aaron did in fact perform the miracle; and as he acted by the command of Moſes, and was, as the ſcripture ſtyles him, his prophet; Moſes might be looked upon as the agent, agreeable to the words in chap. iv. 7. and Aaron as his inſtrument.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. V.

1 And afterward, &c.] After they had convinced the elders of Iſrael of their divine miſſion.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael.] In Hebrew, Thus ſaith Jehovah, the God of Iſrael.

My people.] The ſeparation of this people has been arraigned as inconſiſtent with the divine attributes. It muſt, however, be owned, that it became the goodneſs of God to preſerve the doctrine of the unity amidſt an idolatrous world. Nor could ſuch a ſeparation be made otherwiſe, than by bringing that part of mankind under God's peculiar protection. Now as ſome people muſt needs be ſelected for this purpoſe, it ſeems moſt agreeable to our ideas of divine wiſdom, to make the bleſſings attendant on ſuch a ſelection, the reward of ſome exalted virtue in the progenitors of the choſen people. The ſeparation was made for the ſake of mankind in general, though one people became the honoured inſtruments to teſtify God's faithfulneſs to his promiſe made to their fathers.

Hold a feaſt, &c.] The Septuagint, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, concur in the ſenſe of our tranſlation. The Vulgate and Chaldee, agree in rendering it, That they may ſacrifice. The original, jachagu, primarily ſignifies, To dance; and as ſome ſacred rites were accompanied with this mark of feſtivity, the word came at laſt to be uſed for ſacrificing, or celebrating ſome ſolemn or religious feſtival.

2 Who is the Lord? &c.] In the original, Who is Jehovah?

3 Leſt he fall upon us with peſtilence, &c.] The Septuagint render it, Leſt death or ſlaughter befall us.

5 Behold, the people of the land now are many, &c.] Pharaoh denies this requeſt, and inſinuates, that they were the ringleaders of ſedition, and diſturbers of the peace.

6 The taſkmaſters of the people, and their officers, &c.] The former were Egyptians, and the officers were Iſraelites, deputed by them to ſee that they performed what was exacted of them. The Septuagint and Samaritan render the latter word, Scribes, a term uſually applied to the elders of the Iſraelites.

9 Let there be more work.] In Hebrew, Let the work be made heavy upon the men. The Vulgate renders it, Let them be oppreſſed with works, and let them fulfil them; the Septuagint, Let their works be made more heavy, and let them be rendered ſolicitous by them.

Let them not regard vain words.] In Hebrew, In the words of a lye. The Chaldee renders, In idle words; the Arabic, In vain things; the Vulgate, In lying words; but the Septuagint, Samaritan, and Syriac, agree with our tranſlation.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and to day, as heretofore?

15 ¶ Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and, behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people.

17 But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the LORD.

22 ¶ And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, LORD, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me?

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; neither hast thou delivered thy people at all.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

In this chapter we see a true picture of our nature in general. By whatsoever name, or in whatsoever manner, God is pleased to reveal himself to us; how many instances soever of his providences we are struck with, how much and often soever we are obliged by the force of evidence to say, "Surely the Lord is in all!" and to acknowledge that it is his hand that saves and delivers us, and blesseth us in all things; yet no sooner does his wisdom act in any other manner than our weak wisdom thinks it should, but we immediately fall into fears and distrust, as if God's power was at an end, as if he could forget his promises, and as if his hand was shortened that he could not save.

CHAP. VI.

Before CHRIST 1491.

1 God reneweth his promise by his name JEHOVAH: 10 He sendeth Moses to Pharaoh. 14 The genealogy of Reuben, 15 of Simeon, 16 and of Levi, of whom came Moses and Aaron. 28 Moses in answer to God's charge pleadeth his defect of speech.

THEN the LORD said unto Moses, Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land.

2 And God spake unto Moses, and said unto him, I am the LORD:

3 And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of God Almighty, but by my name JEHOVAH was I not known to them.

4 And I have also established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers.

5 And I have also heard the groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage; and I have remembered my covenant.

6 Wherefore say unto the children of Israel, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and I will redeem you with a stretched out arm, and with great judgments:

7 And I will take you to me for a people, and I will be to you a God: and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

8 And I will bring you in unto the land, concerning the which I did swear to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it to you for an heritage: I am the LORD.

9 And Moses spake so unto the children of Israel: but they hearkened not unto Moses for anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

---

21 The Lord look upon you, and judge.] In the Chaldee, May the Lord appear upon you, and take vengeance. The Samaritan renders the last word, Let him interpret; and the Arabic, Judge against you.

Savour to be abhorred.] In Hebrew, To stink. The Septuagint render, To be execrable; the Arabic, Ye have corrupted our state with Pharaoh; and the Syriac, Ye have done evil to our spirit.

To put a sword, &c.] The Syriac renders, Delivering unto the sword in their hands.

22 Moses returned, &c.] The antient translations concur in representing it, That he addressed the Lord; and the original will bear this sense, as appears from Psalm lxxiii. 10. xciv. 15. and Isa. xxix. 17.

23 Since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people, &c.] Thus Moses, forgetting that God hath foretold him of Pharaoh's obstinacy, chap. iii. 19. and iv. 21. with some indecent warmth, expostulates with God upon the present ill success of his embassy, and complains that God had done nothing towards fulfilling his promise of delivering his people.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

1 Then the Lord said unto Moses, &c.] Here God graciously condescends to satisfy the complaints which Moses had made in the end of the foregoing chapter; telling him, that if he would but be patient awhile, he should see in how wonderful and terrible a manner he would force the obstinate king to dismiss his people, and make him even glad to get rid of them.

2 And said unto him, I am the Lord.] Rather, I am Jehovah: for the emphasis lies upon the significancy of his name, as the reader will judge by the context.

3 By the name of God Almighty, &c.] That is, as the God of Abraham, I before condescended to have a name of distinction, but now, in compliance to another prejudice, I condescend to have a name of honour. This seems to be the true interpretation of this very difficult text; for the word Jehovah, whose name is here said to be unknown to the patriarchs, frequently occurring in the book of Genesis, had furnished unbelievers with a pretext that the same person could not be the author of the two books of Genesis and Exodus. But the assertion is, that the word Jehovah was not used in the times of the patriarchs; but that the name Jehovah, as a title of honour, (whereby a new idea was affixed to an old word,) was unknown to them.

6 With a stretched out arm, &c.] The Septuagint, Vulgate, Chaldee, and Syriac, render, With a lifted-up arm; but both the expressions convey the idea of a strong effort.

7 I will take you to me for a people] They who ask a reason why God should prefer so perverse and sottish a people to all others, may recollect, that one reason has been given already; that it was for the sake of their forefathers; and to fulfill the promise made to the patriarchs. Another may be, that the extraordinary providence, by which they were protected, might become the more visible and illustrious; for had they been endued with the shining qualities of the more polished nations, the effects of that providence might have been ascribed to their own wisdom. And their impotence and inability, when left unto themselves, is finely represented in the prophet Ezekiel, by the similitude of the vine tree, chap. xv. 3.

And I will be to you a God, &c.] This was in condescension to the Egyptian system of religion, whose idolatries the Israelites had eagerly imbibed, whence the doctrine of a tutelary deity was universally acknowledged.

I am the Lord, &c.] The old translation connects this with the preceding sentence, Even in the Lord. In the Hebrew it is only, I Jehovah; and if read in that manner, without the word "am," which is inserted in our translation, it strengthens the sense; "I will bring you, I did swear, I will give it, I Jehovah."

9 For anguish of spirit, &c.] Grotius interprets it, Anxiety of mind; the Septuagint, Pusillanimity, or despondency; and the Syriac, Anguish of Spirit. The Samaritan adds, And they said to Moses, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians; because it is better for us to serve the Egyptians, than to die in the desert. This passage seems to be transcribed from chap. xiv. 12. and is properly introduced in that place, but bears all the marks of an interpolation in this.

12 Who am of uncircumcised lips.] The word "uncircumcised" among the Jews, is a term of contempt; and it is usual in scripture to call those parts which were unfit to perform their natural functions, uncircumcised. Hence "uncircumcised ears," Jer. vi. 10. are those which either cannot hear, or will not listen. "The uncircumcised in heart," Jer. ix. 26. are those who would not, or could not understand. "Uncircumcised lips," therefore, imply such as are unfit for articulating sounds, or convey the idea of a bad and contemptible utterance.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VI. Before CHRIST 1491.

How often in our greatest extremity, God interposeth for our relief! How easily is the hardest work effected when he puts his hand to it! if his mighty arm of mercy or judgement be stretched out, when he begins he will make an end. How certain is that deliverance for which the character, the covenant, the pity, the purpose, and the power of God, are all engaged! And yet how often the objects thereof, through anguish of spirit, put his strong consolations from them! How often the frowardness of hearers make ministers despair of success with others, and to repeat the excuses which God hath already answered, and so make him charge them, on their perils, to obey his appointments! O the perverseness of human hearts! When he calls not, what numbers run unsent! When he calls to his service, what averseness to comply! Whatever our pedigree be, whether honourable or ignominious, let us reckon it our chief honour to be God's favourite, and to be made useful in doing good. Let us, without gainsaying, obey his voice, and provoke him not. If our work be difficult or dangerous, as our days are, so shall our strength be.

CHAP. VII.

1 Moses is encouraged to go to Pharaoh. His and Aaron's age. 8 Aaron casteth down his rod, which becometh a serpent. The magicians do the like; their rods are swallowed up by Aaron's: Pharaoh's heart is hardened. 14 Another message from God to Pharaoh. 19 The river is turned into blood.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee a God to Pharaoh: and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet.

2 Thou shalt speak all that I command thee: And Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, that he send the children of Israel out of his land.

3 And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 But Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you, that I may lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt by great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I stretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Israel from among them.

6 And Moses and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, so did they.

7 And Moses was fourscore years old, and Aaron fourscore and three years old, when they spake unto Pharaoh.

8 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

10 And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did so as the LORD had commanded: and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it became a serpent.

20 And she bare him Aaron and Moses, &c.] This verifies the promise of God, Gen. xv. 16. of delivering the Israelites out of Egypt in the fourth generation; for Moses was the son of Amram, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, the son of Jacob.

24 And the sons of Korah, &c.] He himself perished in the rebellion against Moses, who was his cousin-german; but his family remained, and were famous in the days of David, being often mentioned in the book of Psalms.

25 Eleazar Aaron's son took him one of the daughters of Putiel] This Putiel, or Phetiel, seems to have been an Egyptian, one of whose daughters Eleazar married in Egypt. For the name Putiel seems derived from Phut, the brother of Mizraim, Gen. x. 6. with the addition of El, the name of God.

These are the heads of the fathers of the Levites, &c.] He says nothing of the other tribes, it being his intention in this place only to derive his own pedigree and his brother Aaron's from Israel.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VII.

1 A god to Pharaoh.] In the old translation, it is rendered, I have made thee Pharaoh's god. This expression is explained already, in chap. iv. 16. but we add, the mysteries which had their origin in Egypt, taught that the popular deities were deified heroes, or dead men, deified on account of some noble exertion of power, or eminent intellectual abilities. Pharaoh, who had been initiated, must have been taught this secret; and as he thus learnt that the popular deities were but men, so when he saw Moses performing such wondrous exertions of power, he might justly conclude that he deserved to be reckoned a deity, as much as those heroes who were esteemed the objects of popular adoration.

And Aaron—shall be thy prophet.] The Chaldee and Arabic render, Thy interpreter.

5 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, &c.] The intention of the miracles wrought by Moses in Egypt, was, not only to procure the deliverance of the Israelites, but likewise to explode their superstition, and to punish the crimes by which they supported it. What could be better calculated for this purpose, than to prove, even to the people, (for their priests and chief magistrates knew it before) that every one of their pretended deities were invested with no power, either to punish or to save them? All the miracles wrought in Egypt, were wrought in opposition to some deity, worshipped by the natives; and, considered in this light, were admirably well fitted to confirm the Israelites in the doctrine of the unity, and appear at the same time a regular chain of facts, proper to reclaim the Egyptians, and to convince the world, that "The heavens and the earth are the Lord's."

10 Rod—became a serpent.] Pharaoh had before asked who Jehovah was? And to shew that he was really God, and that they were sent by him, Aaron throws down his rod, and it becomes a serpent: A serpent, in the Egyptian hieroglyphics, denoted a diety.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

Here we may obſerve, that whatever men have inconſiderately thought, yet ſedate, attentive, and unprejudiced reaſon, will, the longer, and more accurately it weighs the ſubject, be more and more determined, that no power whatſoever but God can create or change the powers of nature, ſo that inanimate motion ſhould become animate, and a ſtick become a ſerpent. The allowing of this, is in effect allowing a plurality of Gods. It leaves no characteriſtic to diſtinguiſh God by, or on which he may found his claim to a worſhip excluſive of all others, which is the great point the ſcriptures labour to eſtabliſh, and which is the foundation of true religion. What is God's claim to our ſole worſhip, but that he is the father of beings, the creator of all things, the maker of heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that is therein? But if we allow other beings can create things, or bring other beings into exiſtence, we overthrow the foundation of this claim, and take away God's characteriſtic, or that which makes him God. They therefore moſt grievouſly err, who think that the wiſe men of Egypt actually changed their rods into ſerpents, by the aſſiſtance of evil dæmons or ſpirits. If their rods were actually changed into ſerpents, we may conclude for certainty without having the leaſt doubt about it, that it was done by the power of God alone, who might ſee fit reaſons for doing ſome things the ſame by their hands, as he did by Aaron's; but with this diſtinction that Aaron, who was his meſſenger, had the ſuperiority preſerved to him. Thus his rod ſwallowed up all the rods of the magicians; and it ſeems probable that he turned a much greater quantity of water into blood than they did.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The plague of frogs is threatened: 5 They are ſent. 8 Pharaoh ſueth to Moſes, who by prayer removeth them. 16 The duſt is turned into lice, which the magicians could not do. 20 The plague of flies. 25 Pharaoh inclineth to let the people go, but is hardened.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Go unto Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 And if thou refuſe to let them go, behold, I will ſmite all thy borders with frogs:

3 And the river ſhall bring forth frogs abundantly, which ſhall go up and come into thine houſe, and into thy bedchamber, and upon thy bed, and into the houſe of thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy kneading troughs:

4 And the frogs ſhall come up both on thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy ſervants.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the ſtreams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cauſe frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.

12 But Aaron's rod ſwallowed up all.] Thus far both parties appear equal; but the ſuperiority ſoon became manifeſt, when Aaron's rod ſwallowed thoſe of the magicians; an evident prognoſtic of the event of the enſuing conteſt, wherein Jehovah vanquiſhed and deſtroyed all the gods of Egypt in reality, as he did here in ſymbols.

and he hardened, &c.] It here appears that Pharaoh's obduracy was owing to himſelf, and that he was inclinable to give credit to Moſes, till he ſaw his own prieſts perform an equal miracle. Yet he overlooked the manifeſt advantage which appeared on the ſide of Moſes, that of Aaron's rod ſwallowing up thoſe of the magicians.

14 Heart is hardened, &c.] In Hebrew, Is heavy.

15 Go forth unto the water, &c.] Either to pay his devotion to the river, or to bathe, in order to purify himſelf to offer up his adoration to the ſun, or ſome other deity. Moſes is directed to take this opportunity to meet with Pharaoh, becauſe he might not have had ſo eaſy an acceſs to him at court.

20 All the waters—were turned to blood.] The Egyptians looked upon waters as objects of adoration, but eſpecially the river Nile. Therefore God's depriving them of all its utility, was no unlikely means to reclaim them from this ſpecies of idolatry. And ſince they were ſo barbarouſly ſuperſtitious in their devotions to this river, as to ſtain its current with human ſacrifices; his turning their water into blood, was but a juſt and ſuitable puniſhment for ſuch bloody cruelties.

21 And the fiſh, &c.] The fiſh became immediately unfit for uſe, the nutritive property being inſtantly changed, into another of a moſt peſtiferous nature. The water was not only of the colour of blood, but it brought great pains and bitter torments upon thoſe who ventured to drink of it. Howeves, Joſephus ſays, that the waters were reduced to this ſtate of putrefaction, only to the Egyptians; and that to the Iſraelites they continued ſweet, potable, and in their natural ſtate.

22 And the magicians—did ſo, &c.] They were the perſons named Jannes and Jambres, mentioned 2 Tim. iii. 1. Pliny calls them Jamnes and Jotapha, and mentions them as the founders of the ſect of magicians. In the Talmud, they are celebrated under the names of Jochani and Marari. The difference between the power which accompanied Moſes in this miracle, and that which the magicians were inveſted with, appears with great advantage in favour of the former; for though the magicians imitated the Jewiſh legiſlator in working the miracle, they were not able to remove the calamities which it expoſed them to.

23 Neither did he ſet his heart to this alſo.] To acquire an adequate idea of the greatneſs of this calamity, we ſhould recollect that the land of Egypt was not refreſhed by gentle ſhowers, or rendered fruitful by the early or the latter rain; but that all their water in theſe parts was ſupplied by the river Nile; and that river was turned into blood! The magicians, who could imitate the miracle by turning water into blood, were unable to reſtore the waters of the Nile to their natural ſtate; but Pharaoh did not hearken or attend to this circumſtance, and inſtead of learning wiſdom from his misfortunes, grew vain of the power of his magicians.

25 And ſeven days were fulfilled, &c.] This verſe does not determine how long the plague continued; but only how long a ſpace intervened between the turning of the waters into blood, and the miracles of the frogs. It ſhould be obſerved, the Bible originally formed one continued narrative, the diviſion into chapters being a modern invention; and if we join this verſe with the firſt of the next chapter, it will run thus. And ſeven days after the turning of the waters into blood, God ſpake unto Moſes.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON Chap. VIII.

1 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, Go unto Pharaoh, &c.] What renders Pharaoh utterly inexcuſable, is, that he has ſtill warning given him, before God ſends his plagues upon him, that ſo, by timely repentance, he might have prevented them.

2 With frogs.] The original word is Egyptian, and ſignifies toads, which were peculiar to this country.

3 Shall bring forth, &c.] In the Vulgate and Samaritan, Shall boil out; the Septuagint, Shall belch out; in the Arabic, Shall ſwarm out; and in the old Engliſh tranſlation, Shall ſcral with frogges.

Before CHRIST 1491

6 And Aaron ſtretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt; and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

7 And the magicians did ſo with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

8 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid, Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do ſacrifice unto the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Pharaoh, Glory over me: when ſhall I intreat for thee, and for thy ſervants, and for thy people, to deſtroy the frogs from thee and thy houſes, that they may remain in the river only?

10 And he ſaid, To-morrow. And he ſaid, Be it according to thy word: that thou mayeſt know that there is none like unto the LORD our God.

11 And the frogs ſhall depart from thee, and from thy houſes, and from thy ſervants, and from thy people; they ſhall remain in the river only.

12 And Moſes and Aaron went out from Pharaoh: and Moſes cried unto the LORD becauſe of the frogs which he had brought againſt Pharaoh.

13 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes; and the frogs died out of the houſes, out of the villages, and out of the fields.

14 And they gathered them together upon heaps: and the land ſtank.

15 But when Pharaoh ſaw that there was reſpite, he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had ſaid.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and ſmite the duſt of the land, that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

Before CHRIST 1491.

17 And they did ſo; for Aaron ſtretched out his hand with his rod, and ſmote the duſt of the earth, and it became lice in man, and in beaſt; all the duſt of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

18 And the magicians did ſo with their enchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not: ſo there were lice upon man and upon beaſt.

19 Then the magicians ſaid unto Pharaoh, This is the finger of God: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them; as the Lord had ſaid.

20 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh; lo, he cometh forth to the water; and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

21 Elſe, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will ſend ſwarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thy houſes: and the houſes of the Egyptians ſhall be full of ſwarms of flies, and alſo the ground whereon they are.

22 And I will ſever in that day the land of Goſhen, in which my people dwell, that no ſwarms of flies ſhall be there; to the end thou mayeſt know that I am the LORD in the midſt of the earth.

23 And I will put a diviſion between my people and thy people: to morrow ſhall this ſign be.

24 And the LORD did ſo; and there came a grievous ſwarm of flies into the houſe of Pharaoh, and into his ſervants' houſes, and into all the land of Egypt: the land was corrupted by reaſon of the ſwarm of flies.

6 And the frogs came up, &c.] As the banks of the Nile was the grand ſcene of their magical operations, in which blood and frogs made the principal part of the apparatus, ſo, by commanding the river to produce ſuch an infinite multitude of theſe creatures to annoy them, he adapted their chaſtiſement to the nature of their crimes; adapted it indeed with wonderful propriety; for frogs were not only the inſtruments of their abominations, but likewiſe the emblems of thoſe impure demons whom they invoked by their incantations.

7 Brought up frogs, &c.] We have already pointed out an advantage which the miracles of Moſes had over thoſe of the magicians, in the note on ver. 22. of the preceding chapter. It will not be amiſs to attend to an objection made againſt this miracle by infidels. It is known, ſay they, that the Nile, after its inundations, generally leaves a ſlime, which teems with an infinite multitude of frogs and other vermin: to aſſert, therefore, that the producing of frogs from a river which abounded with them, is ſo far from being miraculous, that it ſhould be eſteemed a natural and common event. In reply, we beg leave to obſerve, that miracles are of two ſorts; thoſe where the laws of nature are ſuſpended or reverſed; and thoſe which only give a new direction to its laws. As it would be impious to bring in natural cauſes to explain the firſt ſort, ſo totally to exclude thoſe cauſes in the latter would be ſuperſtitious. Miracles not being an oſtentatious, but a neceſſary inſtrument of God's moral government, we need not ſuppoſe he would create the frogs on this occaſion, but make uſe of thoſe which already lay ſtored up againſt the day of viſitation. By this means his wiſdom appears as conſpicuous as his power, when it is ſeen that the animals which had been of no detriment to the Egyptians before were turned into ſcourges, when their king became tyrannically cruel and impiouſly rebellious to his demands.

8 Intreat the Lord, that he may take away, &c.] The multitude of frogs was ſo great, that they waſted all that part of Egypt; the river ſwarmed with them to ſo great a degree, that all the water was polluted with them, they died and rotted in ſuch numbers. This inconvenience ſpread all over the land, and every domeſtic office was ſtopt by them; they were in their victuals and in their drink, and made their way in many places into their beds. Well might Pharaoh beg Moſes to intreat the Lord to take them away. Pharaoh called for Moſes, becauſe he ſaw that the magicians had only added to the plague, and could not leſſen it.

9 Glory over me, &c.] In Hebrew, Have this honour over me. This circumſtance is not only calculated to raiſe our admiration, but likewiſe to obviate every objection which the prejudices of the Egyptians might ſuggeſt; they were permitted to aſſign their own time when they would have the plague removed; whence they might plainly ſee, that Jehovah alone was the author both of their ſufferings and deliverances; and that no planetary aſpect was ſo favourable or malign, but that he could afflict or relieve them at what time ſoever he pleaſed.

10 Because of the frogs, &c.] In Hebrew, Concerning the word of the frogs. The Vulgate renders it, for the promiſe of the frogs; the Chaldee, for the affair of the frogs; the Samaritan, Arabic, and Syriac, ſupport our tranſlation.

15 He hardened his heart, &c.] This illuſtrates what has been offered on the ſubject of his obduracy, chap. iv. 21. and vii. 13. and vindicates the attributes of God.

17 Smote the duſt of the earth, and it became lice, &c.] The Vulgate, Septuagint, Chaldee, and Samaritan, tranſlate, Gnats. Our tranſlation is ſupported by Joſephus; and if we conſider how remarkably nice and cleanly the Egyptians are reported to have been, nothing could have ſhocked them more, nothing could have been more grievous than this plague. The earth was, under the name of Iſis, an object of their adoration. To convince them, therefore, that it does not afford its life-ſuſtaining productions, by an independent virtue of its own, but only in conſequence of a divine eſtabliſhment, God reverſed the nature of his productions. Before they were nouriſhed by what the earth produced, now they were devoured by it.

18 And the magicians did ſo, &c.] The ancient tranſlations render this ſo as to imply that they uſed the ſame viſible action to produce life; i. e. they ſtruck the duſt with the rod, or endeavoured likewiſe, but were unable to produce the miracle.

19 The finger of God, &c.] Some apply this expreſſion to the miracle, and then it ſignifies, that it was undoubtedly the operation of ſome deity, and conſequently above the powers of humanity or magic to imitate. Others apply it to the inability of the magicians to perform this miracle; and in that caſe it ſignifies, that they were reſtrained by ſome ſuperior power from being imitated.

21 Swarms of flies, &c.] The Hebrew word hearob, ſignifies A mixture; the Vulgate and Septuagint ſupport our tranſlation; the Septuagint tranſlate it, The dog-flies; the Syriac renders it, Gnats, which ſeems more conſiſtent with the context; and as this inſect, among others, was introduced by the Egyptian hieroglyphics into the muſter-roll of their religious ſymbols, this miracle ſhewed the natives that the gods worſhipped under thoſe ſymbols were not able to ſave, though they might be forced to afflict them.

22 I will ſever in that day] The Hebrew ſignifies, I will make a glorious diſtinction or ſeparation, &c. The Vulgate renders, I will make the land of Goſhen wonderful.

I am the Lord in the midſt of the earth.] This truth ſubverted the whole ſyſtem of the pagans, by laying open the ſecrets of their myſteries, exploding the doctrine of local tutelary deities, and aſſerting that there was but one God, who was no reſpecter of perſons; who was confirmed in his eſſence by place, unlimitted in the exerciſe of his power by diſtance, and, being every where preſent, was every where the only object of adoration.

23 Put a diviſion, &c.] In Hebrew, A redemption; which is ſupported by the Samaritan and Chaldee. The Arabic renders, I will procure liberty to my people from what ſhall happen unto thy people, &c.

24 And the Lord did ſo] The Samaritan repreſents Moſes and Aaron as going to Pharaoh, and repeating before him the ſpeech which God had made to them in the preceding verſes, which this tranſlation inſerts at length; and it muſt be confeſſed, that the initial words of this verſe, "And the Lord did ſo," muſt naturally follow the viſitation of God's ſpeech by Moſes before Pharaoh, than the ſpeech of God to Moſes, as in the Hebrew text.

The land was corrupted, &c.] In Hebrew, Was deſtroyed; the Septuagint may be rendered, Was laid waſte.

Before CHRIST 1491. 25 ¶ And Pharaoh called for Moſes and for Aaron, and ſaid, Go ye, ſacrifice to your God in the land.

26 And Moſes ſaid, It is not meet ſo to do; for we ſhall ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians to the LORD our God: lo, ſhall we ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not ſtone us?

27 We will go three days' journey into the wilderneſs, and ſacrifice to the LORD our God, as he ſhall command us.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid, I will let you go, that ye may ſacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderneſs; only ye ſhall not go very far away: intreat for me.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will intreat the LORD that the ſwarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people, to-morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to ſacrifice to the LORD.

30 And Moſes went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

31 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes; and he removed the ſwarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people; there remained not one.

32 And Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time alſo, neither would he let the people go.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

The great point that was intended by all theſe plagues that were brought upon Egypt, was, not only that Pharaoh, but that all the earth, might know that the God of Iſrael, the creator and poſſeſſor of heaven and earth, could do every thing; that all things were in his hand; that all the powers of nature, in whatever ſhape or being, were no more than laws of his eſtabliſhing, which he could ſuſpend or alter in whatſoever manner he pleaſed. And this is the God we profeſs to ſerve! What confidence and truſt ought we then to have in him! and what high conceptions ought we to entertain of him!

CHAP. IX.

1 The murrain of beaſts. 8 The plague of boils and blains. 13 The plague of hail is threatened, 22 and ſent. 27 Pharaoh ſueth to Moſes, but is ſtill hardened.

THEN the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 For if thou refuſe to let them go, and wilt hold them ſtill, Before CHRIST 1491.

3 Behold, the hand of the LORD is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horſes, upon the aſſes, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the ſheep: there ſhall be a very grievous murrain.

4 And the LORD ſhall ſever between the cattle of Iſrael and the cattle of Egypt: and there ſhall nothing die of all that is the children's of Iſrael.

5 And the LORD appointed a ſet time, ſaying, To morrow the LORD ſhall do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and all the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Iſrael died not one.

7 And Pharaoh ſent, and, behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Iſraelites dead. And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

8 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of aſhes of the furnace, and let Moſes ſprinkle it toward the heaven in the ſight of Pharaoh.

9 And it ſhall become ſmall duſt in all the land of Egypt, and ſhall be a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beaſt, throughout all the land of Egypt.

10 And they took aſhes of the furnace, and ſtood before Pharaoh; and Moſes ſprinkled it up toward heaven; and it became a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beaſt.

11 And the magicians could not ſtand before Moſes becauſe of the boils; for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

12 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes.

13 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

14 For I will at this time ſend all my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people; that thou mayeſt know that there is none like me in all the earth.

15 For now I will ſtretch out my hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy people with the peſtilence: and thou ſhalt be cut off from the earth.

26 We ſhall ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians, &c.] The Egyptians eſteemed it a profanation to ſacrifice any kind of cattle, except ſwine, bulls, clean calves, and geeſe; and heifers, rams, and goats, were held ſacred either in one province or another. According to this, the Iſraelites could not have avoided ſacrificing the abomination of the Egyptians, and with hatred and revenge they purſued ſuch imaginary impieties, is notorious to all that are acquainted with their hiſtory.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out—and I will intreat the Lord] Theſe plagues were ſent for his reformation, not for his deſtruction; therefore he is not more ready to deſire, than Moſes is to intreat, and the Lord to grant, the total removal thereof.

To morrow, &c.] He is ſuffered to be a while under the ſmart of the rod, that he might be truly humbled.

There remained not one.] The frogs remained in heaps and ſtank, ver. 14. But theſe flies were all ſwept away, perhaps by a mighty wind, either into the ſea, or into the deſerts of Lybia.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IX.

3 The hand of the Lord is upon, &c.] This threat is expreſſed in the preſent tenſe in the original, to ſhew the certainty and ſuddenneſs of this calamity.

4 There ſhall nothing die—that is the children of Iſrael's.] To convince the Egyptians, that the God who wrought theſe miracles among them was the God of Iſrael, he made a viſible diſtinction between the two nations. From whence they might eaſily draw this concluſion, that the Lord was as gracious to the faithful and obedient, as he was terrible to the rebellious and ungodly.

5 Between this and the fixth verſe, the Samaritan introduces Moſes as having acceſs to Pharaoh, and repeating the charges and ſpeech which God commands him to deliver in the preceding verſes.

To morrow the Lord ſhall do this, &c.] Theſe miraculous judgements came upon them by progreſſive advances; and proper intervals of reſpite were allowed them to conſider and reflect upon what had been done; that, ſeeing, by their puniſhment, wherein they had offended, they might return from their wickedneſs, and believe in the Lord.

6 All the cattle, &c.] All thoſe that were in the field, as appears from ver. 19. The deities of the Egyptians were, during the moſt early ages deſcribed by hieroglyphics, in which beaſts, birds, plants, reptiles, and every ſpecies of the animal or vegetable creation, were uſed as ſymbols, or characters of their deities. The living animals, expreſſed in hieroglyphic characters, were in proceſs of time deemed ſacred on account of this circumſtance, though not worſhipped till after the time of Moſes; the ſubjecting therefore the living animals to this peſtilence (whoſe pictures, in ſymbolic hieroglyphics, denoted the peculiar deities of the Egyptians) was, in effect, oppoſing and warring againſt the deities themſelves.

9 Shall be a boil breaking forth, &c.] Vulcan, or the element of fire, was a peculiar deity of the Egyptians, which was borrowed from the Greeks; and this plague which proceeded from the hot aſhes, or aſhes of the furnace, was wrought in oppoſition to this deity, and to convince the Egyptians of the vanity of confiding either in his aid or protection.

11 Could not ſtand before Moſes, &c.] They had been able to contend with him hitherto; but his ſuperiority over them was now ſo manifeſt, by their being afflicted with the boil, as well as the reſt of the Egyptians, that they were not only obliged to acknowledge his pre-eminence, but were aſhamed to appear in his ſight, or come into Pharaoh's preſence, though they waited on his perſon.

15 I will—ſmite thee and thy people, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, Now I have, or had ſtretched out my hand, and thou hadſt been cut off. And in this ſenſe ſome interpreters have rendered the words, to evade what they think a contradiction, which is, that Pharaoh and his people were not deſtroyed with the peſtilence. According to them, this verſe ſhould be connected with the following, thus: I had ſtretched out my hand to deſtroy thee and thy people by the (late) peſtilence, and thou ſhouldſt have been cut off from the earth; but, indeed, for this very cauſe I have preſerved thee, to ſhew in thee, my power, &c.

Before CHRIST 1491.

16 And in very deed for this cauſe have I raiſed thee up, for to ſhew in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth.

17 As yet exalteſt thou thyſelf againſt my people, that thou wilt not let them go?

18 Behold, to morrow about this time I will cauſe it to rain a very grievous hail, ſuch as hath not been in Egypt ſince the foundation thereof even until now.

19 Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou haſt in the field; for upon every man and beaſt which ſhall be found in the field, and ſhall not be brought home, the hail ſhall come down upon them, and they ſhall die.

20 He that feared the word of the LORD among the ſervants of Pharaoh made his ſervants and his cattle flee into the houſes:

21 And he that regarded not the word of the LORD left his ſervants and his cattle in the field.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man, and upon beaſt, and upon every herb of the field, throughout all the land of Egypt.

23 And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod toward heaven: and the LORD ſent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, ſuch as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt ſince it became a nation.

25 And the hail ſmote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beaſt; and the hail ſmote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field.

26 Only in the land of Goſhen, where the children of Iſrael were, was there no hail.

27 ¶ And Pharaoh ſent, and called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid unto them, I have ſinned this time: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

28 Intreat the LORD (for it is enough) that there be no more mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye ſhall ſtay no longer.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, As ſoon as I am gone out of the city, I will ſpread abroad my hands unto the LORD; and the thunder ſhall ceaſe, neither ſhall there be any more hail; that thou mayeſt know how that the earth is the LORD's.

30 But as for thee and thy ſervants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God.

31 And the flax and the barley was ſmitten: for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was boiled. Before CHRIST 1491.

32 But the wheat and the rye were not ſmitten: for they were not grown up.

33 And Moſes went out of the city from Pharaoh, and ſpread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceaſed, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh ſaw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceaſed, he ſinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his ſervants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Iſrael go; as the LORD had ſpoken by Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

In this chapter it ſhould be noticed, that God, and Moſes (who acts under his authority) appoint a ſet or particular time both for bringing on the plagues and removing them, and this too at as ſhort a diſtance as the nature of an appointment would admit; and once we find it left to Pharaoh himſelf to fix it; which was done, that the Egyptians, who were poſſeſſed with highly ſuperſtitious notions of the influences of the heavenly bodies at particular times, ſhould not think that Moſes took advantage of his knowledge of theſe times to work all the wonders that he did.

CHAP. X.

1 God threateneth to ſend locuſts. 7 Pharaoh at the inſtance of his ſervants is inclined to let the Iſraelites go, but at length refuſeth. 12 The plague of locuſts. 16 Pharaoh again ſueth to Moſes, getteth them removed, and is hardened. 21 The plague of darkneſs. 24 Pharaoh ſueth again to Moſes, 27 but ſtill is hardened.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh: for I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his ſervants, that I might ſhew theſe my ſigns before him:

2 And that thou mayeſt tell in the ears of thy ſon, and of thy ſon's ſon, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my ſigns which I have done among them; that ye may know how that I am the LORD.

3 And Moſes and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuſe to humble thyſelf before me? let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

4 Elſe, if thou refuſe to let my people go, behold, to morrow will I bring the locuſts into thy coaſts.

5 And they ſhall cover the face of the earth, that one cannot be able to ſee the earth: and they ſhall eat the reſidue of that which is eſcaped, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and ſhall eat every tree which groweth for you out of the field:

16 For this cauſe have I raiſed thee up. &c.] In Hebrew, I have made thee to ſtand. The word hagmamad ſignifies not to raiſe into being, but to preſerve, eſtabliſh, or reſtore, as 1 Kings xv. 4. Prov. xxix. 4.

18 I will cauſe it to rain a very grievous hail, &c.] The air was one of their chief divinities. And to convince them that the ſalubrity of their climate, the healthineſs of their conſtitutions, the exuberance, growth, and maturity of their vegetable productions, did not, as they imagined, proceed immediately, independently, and ſolely from this element; the Lord ſtrengthened the air to reprove their error, and cauſed it to produce ſuch dreadful ſtorms of hail, thunder, and lightning, as had never been known ſince the foundation of Egypt; whereby the greateſt part of the herbage and fruit was blaſted and deſtroyed.

20 He that feared, &c.] Which conduct of Pharaoh's ſervants muſt have been in conſequence of the delivery of the preceding meſſage, though that delivery is not recorded in the Hebrew, as it is in the Samaritan. Hence we may infer, that if theſe ſpeeches were originally expreſſed twice, as ſeems probable from the irregularity of the Hebrew, we muſt conclude, that the repetitions, now regularly obtaining in the Samaritan, were deſignedly omitted in the Hebrew for brevity; and they were omitted very early, as they are expreſſed only once in the Septuagint, and other tranſlations.

32 The wheat.] The Egyptians were averſe to eating wheat; this word ſhould therefore be tranſlated rea, or "ſpelt," which was then in frequent uſe; and, as modern travellers inform us, in uſe at preſent.

Not grown up.] In Hebrew, Hidden, or dark. Though ſome commentators interpret it in the ſame ſenſe as our tranſlators, yet Bochart judiciouſly obſerves, that it ſignifies, they were not yet aſed.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. X.

1 For I have hardened, &c.] The Hebrew particle chi, rendered "for," may be tranſlated, Though, and the ſenſe will then be, Though all my judgments have hitherto had no other effect upon him, than to render him more reſolute, more obdurate, and more pertinacious.

2 That thou mayeſt tell in the ears of thy ſon, &c.] Though the immediate object of the miracles wrought in Egypt, was, the deliverance of the Iſraelites, yet they had no other collateral and future ones; they were intended to give the neighbouring nations a conſpicuous, and the Egyptians an ocular demonſtration, that the doctrine of local, tutelary deities, was inconſiſtent with the divine majeſty, and that the ſuppoſed tutelar god of the Hebrews was likewiſe the God of all the earth; they were intended as a barrier to idolatry for the future, and were ordered to be tranſmitted by the Iſraelites to their lateſt poſterity, as the beſt expedient to counteract the ſtrong attachment they had to incorporate the idolatrous rites of other nations with thoſe of the worſhip of the true God, and to prevent their adopting the ſuperſtitions of Egypt, which were the more dangerous, as they were the moſt venerable, and the foundation of all others.

3 And Moſes and Aaron came—and ſaid, &c.] The Samaritan copy continues the meſſage of God till the ſixth verſe, without any interruption; and, inſtead of the firſt words of this verſe, reads, And ye ſhall ſay unto Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the Hebrews, &c.

4, 5 I will bring the locuſts—and they ſhall cover, &c.] The poſſibility of ſuch an event is ſtrongly aſſerted; for in Scythia they are brought thither by the north-eaſt wind in ſuch numbers, that they form a vaſt cloud, ſometimes fifteen or eighteen miles long and about ten or twelve broad; which obſcures the light of the ſun, and produces a ſudden darkneſs amidſt the brighteſt day.

Before CHRIST 1491. 6 And they ſhall fill thy houſes, and the houſes of all thy ſervants, and the houſes of all the Egyptians; which neither thy fathers, nor thy father's fathers have ſeen, ſince the day that they were upon the earth unto this day. And he turned himſelf, and went out from Pharaoh.

7 ¶ And Pharaoh's ſervants ſaid unto him, How long ſhall this man be a ſnare unto us? let the men go, that they may ſerve the LORD their God: knoweſt thou not yet that Egypt is deſtroyed?

8 And Moſes and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he ſaid unto them, Go, ſerve the LORD your God: but who are they that ſhall go?

9 And Moſes ſaid, We will go with our young and with our old, with our ſons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for we muſt hold a feaſt unto the LORD.

10 And he ſaid unto them, Let the LORD be ſo with you, as I will let you go and your little ones: look to it; for evil is before you.

11 Not ſo: go now ye that are men, and ſerve the LORD; for that ye did deſire. And they were driven out from Pharaoh's preſence.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locuſts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land, even all that the hail hath left.

13 And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an eaſt wind upon the land all that day, and all that night; and when it was morning, the eaſt wind brought the locuſts.

14 And the locuſts went up over all the land of Egypt, and reſted in all the coaſts of Egypt: very grievous were they; before them there were no ſuch locuſts as they, neither after them ſhall be ſuch.

15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, ſo that the land was darkened; and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

16 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron in haſte; and he ſaid, I have ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and againſt you.

17 Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my ſin only this once, and intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty ſtrong weſt wind, which took away the locuſts, and caſt them into the Red ſea; there remained not one locuſt in all the coaſts of Egypt. Before CHRIST 1491.

20 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkneſs over the land of Egypt, even darkneſs which may be felt.

22 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick darkneſs in all the land of Egypt three days.

23 They ſaw not one another, neither roſe any from his place for three days: but all the children of Iſrael had light in their dwellings.

24 ¶ And Pharaoh called unto Moſes, and ſaid, Go ye, ſerve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be ſtayed: let your little ones alſo go with you.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Thou muſt give us alſo ſacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may ſacrifice unto the LORD our God.

26 Our cattle alſo ſhall go with us; there ſhall not an hoof be left behind; for thereof muſt we take to ſerve the LORD our God; and we know not with what we muſt ſerve the LORD, until we come thither.

27 ¶ But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thyſelf, ſee my face no more; for in that day thou ſeeſt my face thou ſhalt die.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Thou haſt ſpoken well, I will ſee thy face again no more.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

Let us with holy care obſerve, that God intends the judgments which he executeth as ſtanding memorials of his ſupreme power and authority over all creatures, and of his victorious power over the kingdom of Satan, in reſtraining the malice and chaſtiſing the inſolence of his and his people's enemies: that there is nothing, for which God more readily quarrels with men, than for their pride: that whole nations are often ruined, through the pride and obſtinacy of their governors: that when Satan hath got ſinners to the brink of ruin, he exerts all his might in puſhing them down headlong: that the early engagement of children in the ſervice of God is exceedingly contrary to the inclination and intereſts of the devil and his agents: that proud contemners of God's meſſengers will be obliged to ſtoop to them at laſt: that profeſſions of repentance, extorted by puniſhment, are but hypocritical, and quickly iſſue in more obſtinate relapſes into wickedneſs: that ſuch as baffle manifold convictions, may expect to be given up to ſuch hardneſs of heart, that nothing, however alarming, will impreſs their conſcience: that the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much: it often, for a time, diverts the juſt vengeance of God from his inſolent enemies: that the wicked need not haſten the godly from among them; for if once a full ſeparation be made, the former will be inexpreſſibly miſerable.

CHAP.

---

6 Between the words, "unto this day, and he turned himſelf," the Samaritan repreſents Moſes as going to Pharaoh, and delivering the ſpeech included in the 3d, 4th, and 5th verſes of this chapter.

8 Who are they that ſhall go?] In Hebrew, Who and who are going? which the Septuagint, Chaldee, Samaritan, Syriac, and Arabic, have preſerved in their tranſlations.

9 And Moſes ſaid, We will go with our young, and with our old, &c.] The reaſon why all were to go, was, becauſe they were to hold a feaſt unto the Lord; and in theſe ſolemnities the whole body of the nation, men, women, and children, aſſiſted.

10 Let the Lord be ſo with you, as I will let you go] Though ſome imagine this to be an ironical expreſſion, yet it ſeems rather to be a ſtrong denial, expreſſed in the form of an imprecation.

Look to it, for evil, &c.] This ſentence may imply, that Pharaoh perceived the injury they intended him in withdrawing from his kingdom, or that he threatened them with ſome puniſhment in caſe they quitted it.

13 The eaſt wind brought the locuſts.] The word kedim is rendered, the "ſouth-wind," by the Septuagint; but it ſhould be obſerved, that the Greeks divided the heavens into two parts, the north and the ſouth; the former of which included the north and weſt, and the latter the ſouth and eaſt; according to this rule, it was the ſouth-wind, properly ſo called, which brought the locuſts into Egypt, from Ethiopia, where they abound more than in any country. The winds were worſhipped by the Egyptians; and the making uſe of them as inſtruments of their puniſhment, ſhewed at once the vanity of their ſuperſtition, and the wiſdom of the God of the univerſe.

15 The face of the whole earth, &c.] Some Jewiſh commentators imagine, that the ſwarm of locuſts intercepted the light of the ſun; which agrees with the next ſentence, "ſo that the land was darkened."

16 Called for Moſes, &c.] In Hebrew, Pharaoh haſtened to call; which is preſerved in all the oriental tranſlations, and conveys the idea of his impatience and celerity.

17 Take away from me this death, &c.] This is a ſtrong expreſſion; it is preſerved in all the antient tranſlations; and as the locuſts ranged the fields, killed the vegetables, and deſtroyed the neceſſary ſupport of life, it will be found to have been no leſs true than it is ſtrong.

19 A mighty ſtrong weſt wind.] In the Hebrew, A wind of the ſea.

And caſt them into the Red ſea, &c.] This ſentence in the Hebrew conveys the idea of ſuch a removal of them, that it ſhould not be in their power to return.

22 And there was a thick darkneſs, &c.] The ſun, moon, and ſtars, were the ſupreme objects of their adorations; the firſt religious adoration paid by the creature was the worſhip of the heavenly bodies. They were the only deities that were worſhipped by the firſt inhabitants of the earth, and this ſpecies of idolatry was the firſt every where alſo, as well as in Egypt. But that it was ſo there, we have good internal evidence, from a circumſtance in their hieroglyphics, the moſt antient method of recording knowledge, where a ſtar denoted or expreſſed the idea of the deity. Jehovah, to demonſtrate his ſuperiority over theſe exalted parts of nature, ſuſpended their lights and emanations, and covered all the land of Egypt with thick darkneſs for three days.

23 Neither roſe any from his place, &c.] The Septuagint render, Neither aroſe any from his bed.

25 Thou muſt give us alſo ſacrifices, &c.] In Hebrew, and thou ſhalt give in our hands ſacrifices, &c. They were not only to ſacrifice, but likewiſe to hold a feaſt, at which both ſacrifices and burnt-offerings were requiſite.

29 I will ſee thy face again no more.] Though the next chapter repreſents Moſes as making the denunciation of the death of the firſt-born

1 God's message to the Israelites to borrow jewels of their neighbours. 4 Moses threateneth Pharaoh with the death of the firstborn. 9 Pharaoh is still hardened.

Before CHRIST 1491. AND the LORD said unto Moses, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether.

2 Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold.

3 And the LORD gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants, and in the sight of the people.

4 ¶ And Moses said, Thus saith the LORD, About midnight will I go out into the midst of Egypt:

5 And all the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne, even unto the firstborn of the maidservant that is behind the mill; and all the firstborn of beasts.

6 And there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as there was none like it, nor shall be like it any more.

7 But against any of the children of Israel shall not a dog move his tongue, against man or beast: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.

8 And all these thy servants shall come down unto me, and bow down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people that follow thee: and after that I will go out. And he went out from Pharaoh in a great anger.

9 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you; that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt. Before CHRIST 1491.

10 And Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XI.

Here are two remarks to be made for our instruction: 1st, That God having commanded the Israelites to carry away with them the gold and silver of the Egyptians, they did it justly, because they did it by the order of God, who is the absolute master of all things in the world, and bestows them upon whom he pleases. 2dly, It is of importance to observe, that the hardness of Pharaoh ought to be attributed to nothing but his own desperate wickedness; and though it be often said in this history, that God hardened Pharaoh's heart, it must not be understood as if God was the author of his obstinacy. God permits, indeed, sinners to harden themselves, and to have opportunities of establishing themselves in their wickedness; yet their destruction proceeds only from themselves, and not from God; who, far from being the cause of it, does all that is necessary to keep them from falling into it.

CHAP. XII.

1 The beginning of the year is changed. 3 The passover is instituted. 11 The rite of the passover. 15 The days of unleavened bread. 21 Moses giveth directions to keep the passover. 29 The first born are slain. 31 The Israelites are driven out of the land. 37 They come to Succoth. 40 The time of the Israelites' sojourning in Egypt. 43 The ordinance of the passover.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, born after this promise; yet it may be reconciled with truth, if we allow that the legislator intended to take his leave in the manner he expressed: but God immediately inspiring him with the speech related in the next chapter, he delivered it to Pharaoh before he quitted his palace.

3 ¶ Speak

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XI.

1 And the Lord said unto Moses] Or, had said unto Moses. The attentive reader will observe, that the fourth verse of this chapter immediately connects with the end of the preceding, and is a continuation of Moses's conference with Pharaoh; for he himself tells us, chap. x. 29. that he would see Pharaoh's face no more; and true it is said, ver. 8. "he went out from Pharaoh in a great anger," therefore the connection will be plain, if we include the three first verses of this chapter in a parenthesis, and make the words "the Lord said" refer to some time past, "the Lord had said," chap. iii. 20, 21, 22, and iv. 22.

He shall surely thrust, &c.] In Hebrew, Thrusting out, i. e. he shall urge you earnestly and hastily to be gone, chap xii. 31, 33.

2 Let every man borrow of his neighbour] The Hebrew word saal, as we have observed before, signifies not to borrow, but to ask, to beg, or to pray for, as appears from Psalm xxi. 4. cxxii. 6. and Prov. xx. 4.

Jewels of silver, &c.] In Hebrew, Vessels of silver. The original word cheli signifies "vessels;" and the rendering it so is far better than jewels, since a silver jewel, or a golden jewel, is not so intelligible as a silver and golden vessel or thing in general. It is probable that the chargers, bowls, or spoons of silver and gold, mentioned Numb. vii. were the very vessels given by the Egyptians.

3 And the Lord gave the people, &c.] This verse in the Hebrew text containing no part of any speech, and being purely the narration of the historian, we totally lose sight of Pharaoh. The interview is intirely at an end, and we wonder to read in the verse following, "And Moses said, Thus saith," &c. when it is not obvious to whom he can be addressing himself. Besides this, a great impropriety and anachronism is introduced; for the time when God actually gave the people this favour, was not before Moses had declared to Pharaoh the destruction of the firstborn, but after that this judgment had been executed; and therefore we find the history of this matter regularly given in chap. xii. 36. The Samaritan, which reads this verse, And I will give this people favour in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they shall give them what they ask; represents the verse as a continuation of God's speech to Moses, gives consistency to the chapter, and preserves the unity of the interview.

4 The Samaritan continues the speech till ver. 7. in the person of God, thus: "About midnight I will go forth into the midst of the land of Egypt, &c." And after premising the character of Moses, and insinuating that he was held in great esteem and veneration both by Pharaoh and his great officers, as well as by the inferior class of Egyptians; the Samaritan opens Moses's speech in the fourth, in the following manner, And Moses said unto Pharaoh, Thus saith the Lord, Israel is my son, my firstborn; and I said unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me: but thou hast refused to let him go: behold, therefore, Jehovah slayeth thy son, thy firstborn. After which, it proceeds in repeating the general message contained in the following verses: Thus, saith the Lord, &c. If we look back to chap. iv. 21, 22, 23. we shall find, that as Moses was in the way to Egypt, to demand the dismission of his brethren, God commanded him, that when he had done all the wonders before Pharaoh, and to no purpose, then he should say unto Pharaoh, "Israel is my son," &c. This then being expressly in the original commission of Moses, we find it not in the speech of Moses in this chapter.

I will go out, &c.] In the Chaldee, I will appear; in the Arabic, I will make my angel walk through the land of Egypt.

5 All the firstborn, &c.] The death of every firstborn of the Egyptians carried so lively a resemblance, and bore so natural a relation to their sin in destroying every male of the Israelites, that they must needs perceive it was inflicted as a punishment for that very cruelty; and consequently must conclude, that the God of Israel took particular cognizance of human transactions, and sooner or later, rewarded every man according to his works.

8 All the people that follow thee] In Hebrew, All the people that is at thy feet; in the Vulgate, All the people that is subject unto thee; in the Septuagint, All the people, whom thou leadest away; in the Chaldee, All the people that is with thee; in the Samaritan, All the people that is behind thy feet. The Syriac and Arabic confirm the Chaldee.

He went out from Pharaoh in a great anger.] In Hebrew, In anger of fury; in the Samaritan text, With ardour, or burning of anger; but in the Samaritan version, With vehemence of anger; which is confirmed by the Arabic. Some contend, that it should be rendered, He went out from Pharaoh, who was in great anger.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XII.

1 And the Lord spake unto Moses, &c.] This passage may be in the preter tense, And the Lord spoke; for it appears from ver. 3. and 6. that Moses had this revelation before the tenth day, on which most interpreters think the three days darkness began; and the subject of this chapter was postponed, to prevent the breaking the series of wonders wrought by Moses.

2 This month shall be unto you the beginning of months, &c.] Their year commenced about the autumnal equinox; but to commemorate their happy deliverance from Egypt, was to commence from this month, which they called Abib, "an ear of corn," because the corn was then eared in that country, and it answers nearly to our March. It should likewise be observed, that this month is the first

3 ¶ Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house:

4 And if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the souls; every man according to his eating shall make your count for the lamb.

5 Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats:

6 And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening.

7 And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side posts, and on the upper door post of the houses, wherein they shall eat it.

8 And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs they shall eat it.

9 Eat not of it raw, nor sodden at all with water, but roast with fire; his head with his legs, and with the purtenance thereof.

10 And ye shall let nothing of it remain until the morning; and that which remaineth of it until the morning ye shall burn with fire.

11 ¶ And thus shall ye eat it; with your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and ye shall eat it in haste: it is the LORD'S passover.

12 For I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: I am the LORD.

13 And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are: and when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you, when I smite the land of Egypt.

14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a feast to the LORD throughout your generations; ye shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever.

15 ¶ Seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread; even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall be cut off from Israel.

16 And in the first day there shall be an holy convocation, and in the seventh day there shall be an holy convocation to you; no manner of work shall be done in them, save that which every man must eat, that only may be done of you.

17 And ye shall observe the feast of unleavened bread; for in this selfsame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore shall ye observe this day in your generations by an ordinance for ever. Before CHRIST 1491.

18 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even.

19 Seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or born in the land.

20 Ye shall eat nothing leavened; in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread.

21 ¶ Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out and take you a lamb according to your families, and kill the passover.

22 And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike the lintel and the two side posts with the blood that is in the bason; and none of you shall go out at the door of his house until the morning.

23 For the LORD will pass through to smite the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side posts, the LORD will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you.

24 And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever.

25 And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service.

26 And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service?

27 That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the LORD'S passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people bowed the head and worshipped.

28 And the children of Israel went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

29 ¶ And it came to pass, that at midnight the LORD smote all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sat on his throne unto the firstborn of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the firstborn of cattle.

30 And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

31 ¶ And he called for Moses and Aaron by night, and of the sacred, not of the civil year. It was at this time that our Lord suffered for our redemption: and there is a tradition among the Jews, that as they were redeemed from Egypt on the fifteenth day of Nisan, so they should on the same day be redeemed by the Messiah.

3 In the tenth day of this month] This interval was allowed them to procure themselves as many lambs as were necessary; but in future ages they did not begin their preparation till the thirteenth, or the day before the passover. Though this circumstance be peculiar to the passover in Egypt, yet it justly represents our Saviour's triumphant entry into Jerusalem, on the 10th day of this month, John xii. 1, 12.

They shall take to every man a lamb] The Hebrew signifies likewise a kid.

A lamb for an house] The Hebrew word beth, rendered "a house," signifies a whole people, as the house of Israel; and sometimes a tribe, as the house of Levi. But in this place it denotes those who lived under one master, or head of a family.

4 If the household be too little, &c.] The rabbinical authors inform us, that these were no less than ten, nor more than twenty persons to one lamb.

5 Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year, &c.] The lamb was to be without blemish, or perfect, as the Hebrew signifies, to represent that moral purity without which no act of worship can be acceptable to God.

7 They shall take of the blood, and strike it, &c.] They were not to stain the threshold with blood, because it was always considered as profane to tread on the blood.

8 Unleavened bread] Pure, unmixed, incorrupted, leaven being a kind of corruption. The use of unleavened bread might be enjoined to remind them of sincerity; though others think it was ordered to commemorate their hasty deliverance, which did not allow them time to leaven it.

With bitter herbs, &c.] To remind them of their Egyptian bondage, which made their lives bitter to them.

9 Eat not of it raw, &c.] Left any of the blood remain in it; but thoroughly roasted, that so it might be wholly eaten up.

11 Shall ye eat it, with your loins girded, your shoes on your feet] You shall eat in a travelling posture, that you may be ready to set out on your journey at a moment's warning.

It is the Lord's passover.] A sacrifice in remembrance of Jehovah's passing over, or sparing the Israelites, when he smote the Egyptians.

12 Against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment, &c.] The idol gods, which the Egyptians worshipped; which seem to be alluded to, Isaiah xix. 1. and Jer. xliii. 13.

16 An holy convocation, &c.] A solemn festival, when the people were assembled by the sound of trumpets, to offer sacrifices, and perform other duties of religion.

18 At even, &c.] The Jewish feasts begin at even.

19 Whether he be a stranger, &c.] That is, a person of another nation who had embraced the Jewish religion; for no other strangers were admitted to this feast.

21 Kill the passover] That is, kill the paschal lamb.

23 When he seeth the blood, &c.] The whole sacrifice was a type of the Messiah, who took the human nature upon him, and shed his precious blood to wash away the sins of the world.

29 All the firstborn of cattle.] That is, the best, the prime of their cattle. The Egyptians lived promiscuously with their cattle, so that the angel smote at the same time both them and those animals they considered as sacred.

32 Bless

Before CHRIST 1491. and said, Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both thee and the children of Israel; and go, serve the Lord, as ye have said.

32 Also take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone; and bless me also.

33 And the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; for they said, We be all dead men.

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their kneading troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders.

35 And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses; and they borrowed of the Egyptians jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment:

36 And the LORD gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they lent unto them such things as they required. And they spoiled the Egyptians.

37 ¶ And the children of Israel journeyed from Rameses to Succoth, about six hundred thousand on foot that were men, beside children.

38 And a mixed multitude went up also with them; and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle.

39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened; because they were thrust out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themselves any victual.

40 ¶ Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

42 It is a night to be much observed unto the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: this is that night of the LORD to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof:

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

45 A foreigner and an hired servant shall not eat thereof.

46 In one house shall it be eaten; thou shalt not carry forth ought of the flesh abroad out of the house; neither shall ye break a bone thereof.

47 All the congregation of Israel shall keep it.

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

49 One law shall be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to pass the selfsame day, that the LORD did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies. Before CHRIST 1491.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

We may learn from this history, how God subdued the fierceness of Pharaoh, and constrained him to let the children of Israel go; and how that people went out of Egypt in full liberty, and with great riches. This memorable event proves clearly the love of God to his people, and the faithful performance of his promises; we see likewise his pleasure, that the memory of so wonderful a deliverance should be preserved by means of the passover; and thereby we ought to learn to remember God's favours towards us, and all his wonderful works; but especially what Jesus Christ has done to save us; and to return him for ever those thanks which are due to him.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The firstborn are sanctified to God. 3 The memorial of the deliverance from Egyptian bondage commanded to be observed yearly. 11 The firstlings of man and beast are set apart to God. 17 The Israelites carry Joseph's bones with them out of Egypt. 20 They come to Etham, God guided them by a pillar of a cloud, and of fire.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Sanctify unto me all the firstborn, whatsoever openeth the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and of beast: it is mine.

3 ¶ And Moses said unto the people, Remember this day, in which ye came out from Egypt, out of the house of bondage; for by strength of hand the LORD brought you out from this place: there shall no leavened bread be eaten.

4 This day came ye out in the month Abib.

5 And it shall be when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which he sware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, that thou shalt keep this service in this month.

6 Seven days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and in the seventh day shall be a feast to the LORD.

7 Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days; and there shall no leavened bread be seen with thee, neither shall there be leaven seen with thee in all thy quarters.

8 And thou shalt shew thy son in that day, saying, This is done because of that which the LORD did unto me when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be for a sign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes, that the LORD's law may be in thy mouth: for with a strong hand hath the LORD brought thee out of Egypt.

10 Thou shalt therefore keep this ordinance in his season from year to year.

11 ¶ And it shall be when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, as he sware unto thee and to thy fathers, and shall give it thee,

12 That thou shalt set apart unto the LORD all that opened the matrix, and every firstling that cometh of a beast which thou hast; the male shall be the LORD's.

13 And every firstling of an ass thou shalt redeem with a lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou shalt break his neck: and all the firstborn of man among thy children shalt thou redeem.

32 Bless me also.] That is, to pray to Jehovah, that I and my people may be delivered from this terrible pestilence.

37 Succoth.] Booths, from the tents they erected for their cattle. There was another place of the same name in the land of Canaan, Gen. xxxiii. 17, &c.

Six hundred thousand on foot, &c.] i. e. Persons fit to bear arms; twenty years old and upwards. But this was not above one-third of the whole number of people that went up out of Egypt. A surprising increase in little more than two hundred years, from seventy persons only!

38 A mixed multitude went up also with them, &c.] Egyptians who had embraced the religion of the Hebrews.

41 The hosts of the Lord, &c.] They are termed "the hosts of the Lord," because he led them by a pillar of a cloud by day, and a pillar of fire by night, during their whole route through the wilderness. From the word "hosts" we learn, that they went out of Egypt in good order, like troops marching to meet the enemy.

46 Neither shall ye break a bone thereof.] This type was particularly fulfilled in Christ the great Redeemer of mankind.

48 No uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.] Many Israelites who had neglected this rite in Egypt, were now circumcised, that they might keep the passover.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XIII.

2 Sanctify unto me all the firstborn.] Let them be accounted sacred, to put them in mind of the tender mercy of the Almighty in sparing their firstborn, when those of the Egyptians were destroyed.

Both of man and of beast: it is mine.] This was afterwards revoked, the Levites being chosen to officiate in their stead.

8 Thou shalt shew thy son in that day, &c.] Moses commands the Israelites to inform their children, when they were settled in Canaan, of the true intent of the passover, that they might offer thanksgivings to God, who had so miraculously delivered the people from the slavish bondage of the Egyptians.

13 Thou shalt break his neck, &c.] Or cut off his neck; it was to die one way or other, and not to be employed in common use.

Before CHRIST 1491.

14 And it shall be when thy son asketh thee in time to come, saying, What is this? that thou shalt say unto him, By strength of hand the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the house of bondage:

15 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD slew all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of man, and the firstborn of beast: therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males; but all the firstborn of my children I redeem.

16 And it shall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes: for by strength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, Lest peradventure the people repent when they see war, and they return to Egypt:

18 But God led the people about, through the way of the wilderness of the Red sea: and the children of Israel went up harnessed out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him: for he had straitly sworn the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you; and ye shall carry up my bones away hence with you.

20 ¶ And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness.

21 And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night:

22 He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIII.

God's command to the people of Israel, to celebrate the passover every year, and to consecrate to him the firstborn, should teach us to remember the favour that he bestows upon us; and to testify our acknowledgments, by devoting to him our persons, and all that we have most valuable. This history teaches us in particular, that the remembrance of the deliverance wrought for us by Jesus Christ our Lord, ought never to slip out of our minds; but should be perpetually celebrated in the church by the means of the holy supper, which was instituted with that design by Jesus Christ himself. The wonderful manner in which God led the Israelites into the desert, after their departure from Egypt, in pillars of cloud and fire, makes us see his power, wisdom, and goodness; and affords likewise an instance of the care he has of his children, and the protection wherewith he shields them.

CHAP. XIV.

1 God instructeth the Israelites in their journey. 5 Pharaoh pursuing after them. 10 The Israelites murmur. 13 Moses comforteth them. 15 God instructeth Moses. 19 The cloud removeth behind the camp. 21 The Israelites pass through the Red sea. 23 The Egyptians go in after them, 26 and are drowned.

Before CHRIST 1491.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they turn and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, over against Baal-zephon: before it shall ye encamp by the sea.

3 For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, They are entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut them in.

4 And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he shall follow after them; and I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did so.

5 ¶ And it was told the king of Egypt that the people fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned against the people, and they said, Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

6 And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him:

7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt, and captains over every one of them.

8 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued after the children of Israel: and the children of Israel went out with an high hand.

9 But the Egyptians pursued after them, all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army, and overtook them encamping by the sea, beside Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

10 ¶ And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians marched after them; and they were sore afraid: and the children of Israel cried out unto the LORD.

11 And they said unto Moses, Because there were no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt?

12 Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness.

13 ¶ And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will shew to you to day: for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to day, ye shall see them again no more for ever.

14 The LORD shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace.

15 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward.

17 God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near, &c.] The distance from Egypt to Canaan, through the land of the Philistines, was a journey only of a few days. But the Israelites were no strangers to the fierce temper of the Philistines; and as the slavery they had endured in Egypt must have broken their spirits, and rendered them unfit for war, therefore God was pleased to lead them a very different way through the desert.

18 God let the people about, &c.] The pillar of fire went before them, and conducted them in the way through the wilderness, which was not the direct way to Canaan.

20 Encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness.] Etham lay on the border of the wilderness of Shur, next to Egypt.

21 The Lord went before] i. e. The Shechinah, or divine presence, &c.

In a pillar] The original word signifies more generally strength and stability, or a fixed posture; so that in this sense the word pillar will not so much denote the form and dimensions of the cloud, as the stationary attendance of it to lead them in the way. It is called a pillar, because it extended from the earth to the clouds, and assumed the appearance of a stately column. Its principal use was, to direct the Israelites in the way; but it also defended them from the piercing rays of the sun, which in these hot countries are very troublesome.

By night in a pillar of fire, &c.] That they might travel by night as well as by day. These appearances continued till the death of Moses, when the Israelites passed over Jordan, and were directed in their march by the ark of the covenant.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIV.

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they turn] Their intention at first was, to have entered the wilderness from Etham, but they are now directed to turn to the right, and keep along the west side of the Red sea.

Before Pi-hahiroth] This seems to have been the name of a narrow passage, between the mountains on the west side of the Red sea; the word pi, in the Hebrew, signifying A month: it lay about sixteen miles from Etham.

Between Migdol and the sea, &c.] The word Migdol signifies A castle, and was probably a fortress raised on one of the mountains of Pi-hahiroth. This place was situated on the western shore of the Red sea.

3 Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, they are entangled in the land] He will be persuaded that you are hemmed in by rocks on one side, and by the sea on the other.

The wilderness hath shut them in.] By the word "wilderness" must be understood wild rugged mountains; for the children of Israel were now near the shore of the Red sea, among mountains almost impassable, especially to a numerous army.

4 And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, &c.] The situation of the Israelites, now inclosed between impassable rocks and mountains on one side, and the sea on the other, will render Pharaoh so hardy and desperate as to attempt to follow, and, by force, bring them back to his Egyptian bondage.

9 All the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, &c.] The army of the Egyptians consisted solely of chariots and horsemen; for they were in haste to overtake them.

15 Wherefore criest thou unto me? &c.] This passage contains an excellent moral lesson, namely, that it is not by inactive invocations of God that we are to expect relief from heaven in our exigencies; but by joining with prayer to God our most active and prudent endeavours: to neglect to use the natural means that are in our power,

Before CHRIST 1491.

16 But lift thou up thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand over the ſea, and divide it: and the children of Iſrael ſhall go on dry ground through the midſt of the ſea.

17 And I, behold, I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they ſhall follow them: and I will get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his hoſt, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen.

18 And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen.

19 ¶ And the angel of God, which went before the camp of Iſrael, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and ſtood behind them:

20 And it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Iſrael; and it was a cloud and darkneſs to them, but it gave light by night to theſe: ſo that the one came not near the other all the night.

21 ¶ And Moſes ſtretched out his hand over the ſea; and the LORD cauſed the ſea to go back by a ſtrong eaſt wind all that night, and made the ſea dry land, and the waters were divided.

22 And the children of Iſrael went into the midſt of the ſea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.

23 ¶ And the Egyptians purſued, and went in after them to the midſt of the ſea, even all Pharaoh's horſes, his chariots, and his horſemen.

24 And it came to paſs, that in the morning watch the LORD looked unto the hoſt of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the hoſt of the Egyptians.

25 And took off their chariot wheels, that they drave them heavily: ſo that the Egyptians ſaid, Let us flee from the face of Iſrael; for the LORD fighteth for them againſt the Egyptians.

26 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the ſea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horſemen.

27 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand over the ſea, and the ſea returned to his ſtrength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled againſt it; and the LORD overthrew the Egyptians in the midſt of the ſea.

28 And the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horſemen, and all the hoſt of Pharaoh that came into the ſea after them; there remained not ſo much as one of them.

29 But the children of Iſrael walked upon dry land in the midſt of the ſea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left. Before CHRIST 1491.

30 Thus the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day out of the hand of the Egyptians; and Iſrael ſaw the Egyptians dead upon the ſea ſhore.

31 And Iſrael ſaw that great work which the LORD did upon the Egyptians; and the people feared the LORD, and believed the LORD, and his ſervant Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIV.

This chapter repreſents to us the blindneſs and ſtubbornneſs of the king of Egypt, who, after all the plagues wherewith God had ſmitten him, obſtinately purſued the people of Iſrael; the wonderful deliverance that God wrought for that people, in making them paſs on foot through the Red ſea; and the total deſtruction of Pharaoh, who periſhed in the waters of the ſaid ſea. In this hiſtory we are to obſerve very attentively on one ſide what obſtinate ſinners are capable of; and with what blindneſs and fury they haſten to their ruin; on the other hand, the mighty power that God diſplays for the deliverance of his children, and the deſtruction of his enemies.

CHAP. XV.

1 Moſes' ſong. 20 Miriam and the women join in it. 22 The people want water. 23 The waters at Marah are bitter; a tree ſweeteneth them. 27 They remove to Elim.

THEN ſang Moſes and the children of Iſrael this ſong unto the LORD, and ſpake, ſaying, I will ſing unto the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriouſly: the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea.

2 The LORD is my ſtrength and ſong, and he is become my ſalvation: he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt him.

3 The LORD is a man of war: the LORD is his name.

4 Pharaoh's chariots and his hoſt hath he caſt into the ſea: his choſen captains alſo are drowned in the Red ſea.

5 The depths have covered them: they ſank into the bottom as a ſtone.

6 Thy right hand, O LORD, is become glorious in power: thy right hand, O LORD, hath daſhed to pieces the enemy.

and truſt intirely to vows and prayers, is only to tempt providence, and increaſe the evil.

17 I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they ſhall follow them] Of all the infatuation that ever poſſeſſed the Egyptians, this was the ſtrongeſt, that they ſhould venture to purſue the Iſraelites, when they ſaw, or might have ſeen, the ſea opening her boſom to give them a paſſage; an evident proof that they were under the protection of the God of nature, whoſe voice that unruly element was thus miraculouſly made to obey.

I will get me honour, &c.] My power and my juſtice ſhall be magnified and rendered more conſpicuous in the eyes of the world, by means of their miraculous deſtruction.

21 And the Lord cauſed the ſea to go back, &c.] The Pſalmiſt gives us a moſt beautiful deſcription of this miracle, by repreſenting the waters ſtruck with amazement at the ſight of God, and ſtarting back in awe of his majeſty: "The waters ſaw thee, O God, the waters ſaw thee, they were afraid: the depths alſo were troubled," Pſalm lxxvii. 16.

24 The Lord looked upon the hoſt of the Egyptians] He looked upon them in anger, he viewed them with the marks of his diſpleaſure, by confounding and baffling their meaſures.

Through the pillar of fire, and of the cloud] The cloudy part of the pillar had been towards the Egyptians; but it ſeems probable to imagine, that the other ſide was now turned towards them, and confounded them with its amazing brightneſs.

And troubled the hoſt of the Egyptians.] This was done either by the glorious ſplendor iſſuing from the pillar of the cloud flaſhing in their faces; or, by a dreadful tempeſt, with thunder and hail-ſtones ſhot from the cloud, which put them into the greateſt diſorder: compare Pſalm lxxvii. 17. "The clouds poured out water; the ſkies ſent out a ſound; the voice of thy thunder was in the heaven; the lightnings lightened the world: the earth trembled and ſhook."

25 And took off their chariot wheels, &c.] Some of their wheels were broken by lightning and tempeſt.

27 The ſea returned to his ſtrength, &c.] This enormous maſs of waters, which had been ſuſpended by the power of God, had now full ſcope given to its impetuous rage.

31 And the people feared the Lord, &c.] This great miracle for ſome time filled their minds with awful ideas of God; but theſe were immediately defaced by the firſt preſſure of a difficulty; and this temporary fit of religion turned into infidelity towards God, and impatient murmurings againſt their leader.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XV.

1 Then ſang Moſes, &c.] This ſong is the moſt antient piece of poetry in the world: but in what kind of meaſure it is compoſed, is not eaſy to determine; nor is this of any great conſequence, ſince every competent judge muſt own, that it contains ſomething much more eſſential to poetry, elevation of ſentiment, and loftineſs of expreſſion; and is an inſtance of the true uſe to which poetry ought to be applied, namely, to ſing the praiſe of God, and his glorious works.

2 The Lord is my ſtrength and ſong, and he is become my ſalvation] The Lord is my powerful protector, the object of my praiſe, the author of my ſafety, and glorious deliverance.

He is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation, &c.] This might be better rendered, He is my God, and I will honour him; my father's God, and I will exalt him. For the original word has two ſenſes; to build one a comely dwelling, and, to honour; the latter of which is preferable here, as it anſwers to the other member of the ſentence, "My father's God, and I will exalt him."

3 The Lord is a man of war, &c.] The Arabic has it, The Lord is mighty in war; which is much more elegant than our tranſlation.

6 Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious, &c.] This, O God, was the work of thy divine power, which is magnified for the overthrow of ſuch adverſaries.

8 With the blaſt of thy noſtrils] A poetical expreſſion for the wind, which blew vehemently by order of the Almighty. It ſtrongly

Before CHRIST 1491. gathered together, the floods ſtood upright as an heap, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the ſea.

9 The enemy ſaid, I will purſue, I will overtake, I will divide the ſpoil; my luſt ſhall be ſatisfied upon them: I will draw my ſword, my hand ſhall deſtroy them.

10 Thou didſt blow with thy wind, the ſea covered them: they ſank as lead in the mighty waters.

11 Who is like unto thee, O LORD, among the gods? who is like thee, glorious in holineſs, fearful in praiſes, doing wonders?

12 Thou ſtretchedſt out thy right hand, the earth ſwallowed them.

13 Thou in thy mercy haſt led forth the people which thou haſt redeemed: thou haſt guided them in thy ſtrength unto thy holy habitation.

14 Thy people ſhall hear, and be afraid: ſorrow ſhall take hold on the inhabitants of Paleſtina.

15 Then the dukes of Edom ſhall be amazed; the mighty men of Moab, trembling ſhall take hold upon them; all the inhabitants of Canaan ſhall melt away.

16 Fear and dread ſhall fall upon them; by the greatneſs of thine arm they ſhall be as ſtill as a ſtone; till thy people paſs over, O LORD, till the people paſs over, which thou haſt purchaſed.

17 Thou ſhalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance, in the place, O LORD, which thou haſt made for thee to dwell in, in the ſanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands have eſtabliſhed.

18 The LORD ſhall reign for ever and ever.

19 For the horſe of Pharaoh went in with his chariots and with his horſemen into the ſea, and the LORD brought again the waters of the ſea upon them; but the children of Iſrael went on dry land in the midſt of the ſea.

20 ¶ And Miriam the propheteſs, the ſiſter of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances.

21 And Miriam anſwered them, Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriouſly; the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea.

22 ¶ So Moſes brought Iſrael from the Red ſea, and they went out into the wilderneſs of Shur; and they went three days in the wilderneſs, and found no water.

23 ¶ And when they came to Marah, they could not drink of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called Marah.

24 And the people murmured againſt Moſes, ſaying, What ſhall we drink?

25 And he cried unto the LORD; and the LORD ſhewed him a tree, which when he had caſt into the waters, the waters were made ſweet; there he made for them a ſtatute and an ordinance, and there he proved them, Before CHRIST 1491.

26 And ſaid, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his ſight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his ſtatutes, I will put none of theſe diſeaſes upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD that healeth thee.

27 ¶ And they came to Elim, where were twelve wells of water, and threeſcore and ten palm trees: and they encamped there by the waters.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

The ſong of the children of Iſrael ſhould ſerve to ſtir us up to praiſe the Lord for his favours; but chiefly to be always celebrating the mercy and power which he has made appear in our redemption. We ſhould next reflect upon the murmurings to which the children of Iſrael abandoned themſelves after their deliverance, upon their wanting of water: in that we ſee the diſtruſt and ingratitude of men, who can ſo ſoon forget the bleſſings of God, and ſo eaſily fall into impatience. We may alſo obſerve therein, the aſſiſtance of the Lord, who, notwithſtanding thoſe murmurings, ſpared them, and ceaſed not to make them ſenſible of the effects of his love.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The Iſraelites come to Sin, and murmur for want of bread. 4 God promiſeth them bread and fleſh from heaven. 13 Quails and manna are ſent. 16 The ordering of the manna. 22 A double proviſion of it is made on the ſixth day. 27 None to be found on the ſabbath. 32 An omer of it is preſerved.

AND they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael came unto the wilderneſs of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the ſecond month after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron in the wilderneſs:

3 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we ſat by the fleſh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderneſs, to kill this whole aſſembly with hunger.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the LORD unto Moſes, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people ſhall go out and gather a certain rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no.

marks the power of God, intimating, that merely by breathing on the ſea, he had made that unruly element to fly back. The royal Pſalmiſt uſes nearly the ſame expreſſion, when he tells us, "That all the hoſts of heaven were made by the breath of his mouth," Pſalm xxxiii. 6.

9 The enemy ſaid, I will purſue, &c.] How did the enemy ſwell with revenge, and feaſt upon the hope of ſatiating their malice and fury upon us, when God, by one blaſt of his diſpleaſure, put a period at once to their lives and expectations!

11 Who is like unto thee, &c.] O powerful Jehovah! what are all the imaginary deities of the heathen world, when compared to thy tranſcendent and infinite perfections!

12 The earth ſwallowed them.] It received them into its capacious boſom, wherein the ocean is contained.

13 Thou haſt guided them in thy ſtrength unto thy holy habitation.] The Almighty is here conſidered as a ſhepherd, leading his people in peaceful ſociety, like a flock, to their promiſed reſt in the land of Canaan.

14 Thy people ſhall hear, &c.] The fame of theſe wonders ſhall go before us, ſtriking terror into all the people whoſe countries we are to poſſeſs, and into ſuch as ſhall attempt to obſtruct our paſſage thither.

17 The mountain of thine inheritance, &c.] This ſeems to refer to the mountains which ſtood within the walls of Jeruſalem, on one of which the temple was built: "He brought them to the border of his ſanctuary; even to the mountain which his right hand had purchaſed," Pſalm lxxviii. 54.

20 Took a timbrel in her hand, &c.] It was a cuſtom from the earlieſt ages, to uſe muſical inſtruments in the ſervice of their Maker, eſpecially in celebrating the divine praiſes, which is the moſt ſpirited part of worſhip, and indeed the moſt raviſhing and exalted employment of a rational being.

21 And Miriam anſwered them, &c.] The meaning ſeems to be, that after every verſe ſung by Moſes and the men, Miriam and the women interpoſed, and repeated this verſe, "Sing to the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriouſly, &c." This way of ſinging alternately was uſed in after times, as appears from Ezra iii. 11. and Pſalm cxxxvi. and is repreſented as practiſed by the angels themſelves, in their worſhip of the divine majeſty, Iſaiah vi. 3. "And one cried unto another, and ſaid, Holy, holy, holy! is the Lord of hoſts! The whole earth is full of his glory." And ſurely nothing can be ſo truly becoming a dependant ſtate, as to pay our homage of thankſgiving to the fountain of perfection, and magnify the ſupreme governor of the univerſe.

26 If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, &c.] All now required of them was, to do juſtice, love mercy, and walk humbly with their God. They were not yet loaded with that yoke of ceremonies which God, becauſe of the hardneſs of their hearts, thought proper afterwards to lay upon them.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured, &c.] This murmuring ſeems to have been much more general than that mentioned in the preceding chapter: for there it is only ſaid "the people murmured;" but here, "the whole congregation."

3 Would to God we had died, &c.] Happy would it have been for us had we periſhed with the firſt born of Egypt. Is this thy gratitude, O Iſrael, to thy God for all his benefits! "O Judah, thy goodneſs is like the morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away!" Hoſea vi. 4. Surely they might, without any high degree of faith, have truſted in God, by whoſe command they had undertaken that dangerous expedition, that he would not ſuffer them to die in it by hunger or thirſt.

4 The people ſhall—gather a certain rate every day, &c.] It came down in daily ſhowers, that they might be kept in a perpetual and thankful dependence upon providence.

Before CHRIST 1491.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that on the ſixth day they ſhall prepare that which they bring in; and it ſhall be twice as much as they gather daily.

6 And Moſes and Aaron ſaid unto all the children of Iſrael, At even, then ye ſhall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt:

7 And in the morning, then ye ſhall ſee the glory of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings againſt the LORD: and what are we, that ye murmur againſt us?

8 And Moſes ſaid, This ſhall be, when the LORD ſhall give you in the evening fleſh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur againſt him: and what are we? your murmurings are not againſt us, but againſt the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, Say unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, Come near before the LORD: for he hath heard your murmurings.

10 And it came to paſs, as Aaron ſpake unto the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael, that they looked toward the wilderneſs, and, behold, the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael: ſpeak unto them, ſaying, At even ye ſhall eat fleſh, and in the morning ye ſhall be filled with bread; and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs, that at even the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning the dew lay round about the hoſt.

14 And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderneſs there lay a ſmall round thing, as ſmall as the hoar froſt on the ground.

15 And when the children of Iſrael ſaw it, they ſaid one to another, It is manna: for they wiſt not what it was. And Moſes ſaid unto them, This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.

16 ¶ This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating, an omer for every man, according to the number of your perſons; take ye every man for them which are in his tents.

17 And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and gathered, ſome more, ſome leſs.

18 And when they did mete it with an omer, he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack; they gathered every man according to his eating.

19 And Moſes ſaid, Let no man leave of it till the morning.

20 Notwithſtanding they hearkened not unto Moſes; but ſome of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and ſtank: and Moſes was wroth with them.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the ſun waxed hot, it melted.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs, that on the ſixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moſes.

23 And he ſaid unto them, This is that which the LORD hath ſaid, To morrow is the reſt of the holy ſabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake to day, and ſeethe that ye will ſeethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept until the morning.

Before CHRIST 1491.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moſes bade: and it did not ſtink, neither was there any worm therein.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Eat that to day; for to day is a ſabbath unto the LORD: to day ye ſhall not find it in the field.

26 Six days ye ſhall gather it; but on the ſeventh day, which is the ſabbath, in it there ſhall be none.

27 ¶ And it came to paſs, that there went out ſome of the people on the ſeventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long refuſe ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

29 See, for that the LORD hath given you the ſabbath, therefore he giveth you on the ſixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the ſeventh day.

30 So the people reſted on the ſeventh day.

31 And the houſe of Iſrael called the name thereof manna: and it was like coriander ſeed, white: and the taſte of it was like wafers made with honey.

32 ¶ And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may ſee the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderneſs, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo Aaron laid it up before the teſtimony, to be kept.

35 And the children of Iſrael did eat manna forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.

36 Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI.

This chapter ſhews us the ingratitude of the children of Iſrael, who, after ſo many miracles that God had wrought for them, were always murmuring againſt Moſes, and longing after Egypt, from whence they came. One may alſo obſerve the goodneſs of God for putting a ſtop to thoſe murmurings, and providing food for them, by ſending them manna; but what is moſt worthy of our conſideration here, is, that which Jeſus Chriſt tells us in the goſpel, John vi. that the children of Iſrael did not eat the true bread from heaven; that the manna whereof they did eat in the wilderneſs, could not preſerve them from death; whereas in Jeſus Chriſt we have that true bread which came down from heaven, and gives us life everlaſting. Let us beſeech him to give us always that heavenly food, while we are in the wilderneſs of this world; and let us make a better uſe of it than the Jews did formerly of the manna that God gave them.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The people murmur for water at Rephidim, and are ſent for it by God to the rock in Horeb. 8 Amalek is overcome by the holding up of Moſes' hands. 14 God's vengeance againſt Amalek, in token of which Moſes buildeth the altar JEHOVAH-niſſi.

AND all the congregation of the children of Iſrael journeyed from the wilderneſs of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the LORD, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink.

2 Wherefore the people did chide with Moſes, and ſaid, Give us water that we may drink. And Moſes ſaid unto them, Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye tempt the LORD?

3 And

10 And, behold, the glory of the Lord, &c.] They were ſuddenly ſtruck with an unwonted brightneſs from the pillar of the cloud.

13 Quails, &c.] Some think it ſhould have been tranſlated locuſts, which they apprehend anſwers beſt to the circumſtances of the narration both here and in Numb. xi. 31.

15 It is manna, &c.] They took it for common manna from its reſembling it; though it was, in reality, a very different thing: the common manna is hardened by the heat of the ſun, whereas this melted and flowed away in ſtreams.

23 To morrow is the reſt, &c.] It ſeems reaſonable to conclude, from hence, that reſt on the ſabbath was now firſt appointed: that however religiouſly they might have obſerved a day in ſeven before, in memory of the ſix days creation, yet they did not ceaſe from all labour till now; for in that caſe the rulers of the people would have no need to be informed of it.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVII.

1 And pitched in Rephidim, &c.] A dry and ſandy part of the deſert, within a march or two of Sinai.

2 Wherefore do ye tempt the Lord?] Can you be ſo baſe as to diſtruſt the power, the goodneſs, the faithfulneſs of God, who has ſo often and ſo miraculouſly provided for you?

3 And the people thirſted there for water; and the people murmured againſt Moſes, and ſaid, Wherefore is this that thou haſt brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirſt?

4 And Moſes cried unto the LORD, ſaying, What ſhall I do unto this people? they be almoſt ready to ſtone me.

5 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Iſrael; and thy rod, wherewith thou ſmoteſt the river, take in thine hand, and go.

6 Behold, I will ſtand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou ſhalt ſmite the rock, and there ſhall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moſes did ſo in the ſight of the elders of Iſrael.

7 And he called the name of the place Maſſah, and Meribah, becauſe of the chiding of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe they tempted the LORD, ſaying, Is the LORD among us, or not?

8 ¶ Then came Amalek, and fought with Iſrael in Rephidim.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Joſhua, Chooſe us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek: to morrow I will ſtand on the top of the hill with the rod of God in mine hand.

10 So Joſhua did as Moſes had ſaid to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moſes, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill.

11 And it came to paſs, when Moſes held up his hand, that Iſrael prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.

12 But Moſes' hands were heavy; and they took a ſtone, and put it under him, and he ſat thereon; and Aaron and Hur ſtayed up his hands, the one on the one ſide, and the other on the other ſide; and his hands were ſteady until the going down of the ſun.

13 And Joſhua diſcomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the ſword.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearſe it in the ears of Joſhua: for I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven.

15 And Moſes built an altar, and called the name of it JEHOVAH-niſſi:

16 For he ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath ſworn that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVII.

The miracle wrought by Moſes, in bringing water out of the rock, to allay the thirſt, and ſtop the murmurings of the Iſraelites, obliges us to reflect upon the incredulity of that people, who were always diſtruſting the power of God, and rebelling againſt Moſes. We may alſo obſerve the great patience of the Lord, in working this new miracle for their ſakes. As for their victory over the Amalekites, that is an inſtance of the juſt puniſhment of God inflicted on the enemies of his people; but we muſt particularly take notice, that God granted this victory to the prayers of Moſes. It is an example whereby we may learn, that calling upon the name of God, and perſeverance in prayer, is the moſt effectual way to obtain his aſſiſtance, and to triumph over all our enemies, both ſpiritual and temporal. CHAP. XVIII.

1 Jethro bringeth to Moſes his wife and two ſons. 7 Moſes entertaineth him. 9 Jethro bleſſeth God for his goodneſs to Iſrael. 13 He counſelleth Moſes to provide fit perſons, who may aſſiſt him in judging the people; his counſel is accepted. 27 Jethro departeth.

WHEN Jethro, the prieſt of Midian, Moſes' father in law, heard of all that God had done for Moſes, and for Iſrael his people, and that the LORD had brought Iſrael out of Egypt;

2 Then Jethro, Moſes' father in law, took Zipporah, Moſes' wife, after he had ſent her back,

3 And her two ſons; of which the name of the one was Gerſhom; for he ſaid, I have been an alien in a ſtrange land:

4 And the name of the other was Eliezer; for the God of my father, ſaid he, was mine help, and delivered me from the ſword of Pharaoh:

5 And Jethro, Moſes' father in law, came with his ſons and his wife unto Moſes into the wilderneſs, where he encamped at the mount of God:

6 And he ſaid unto Moſes, I thy father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two ſons with her.

7 ¶ And Moſes went out to meet his father in law, and did obeiſance, and kiſſed him; and they aſked each other of their welfare; and they came into the tent.

8 And Moſes told his father in law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Iſrael's ſake, and all the travail that had come upon them by the way, and how the LORD delivered them.

9 ¶ And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodneſs which the LORD had done to Iſrael, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And Jethro ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know that the LORD is greater than all gods:

3 And the people thirſted there for water, &c.] The water they had brought from Elim was now ſpent, and they chid Moſes for bringing them into ſuch an inconvenient ſtation.

5 Take with thee of the elders of Iſrael, &c.] That they may be witneſſes that thou doſt really bring water out of the rock.

6 I will ſtand before thee there upon the rock] That is, the glory of the Lord in the cloud ſhall appear in this place, to ſtrengthen thy faith, and convince the people of Iſrael that the water is divinely given them.

And Moſes did ſo, &c.] That is, he ſmote the rock, and brought water out in ſuch plenty, that it ran down like rivers, Pſalm lxxviii. 15, 16. It became a continual fountain or ſtream of water, which rendered this part of Arabia habitable in future ages. Travellers into theſe parts tell us, that at the foot of mount Horeb is a monaſtery well ſupplied with a cool limpid ſtream, that flows down from the mountain.

7 And he called the name—Maſſah, and Meribah] The former of theſe names ſignifies "temptation," and the latter "chiding."

Is the Lord among us, or not?] Are we under his ſpecial providence and protection, or not?

8 Then came Amalek, &c.] Though this battle with Amalek is recorded after the miracle at Horeb, yet it certainly happened before it; for it is here ſaid that they came and fought with Iſrael in Rephidim: which circumſtance is cleared up, by comparing this paſſage with Deut. xxv. 18. where we read, that "Amalek met, or fell upon them by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of them, even all that were feeble, when they were faint and weary;" that is, when they were fainting with thirſt, in their march to Horeb.

14 I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven.] God denounces this heavy doom upon them, to terrify others from the like malice. Accordingly they were partly deſtroyed by Saul, David, and the children of Simeon.

15 Called the name of it JEHOVAH-niſſi.] That is, Jehovah my banner.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVIII.

1 Jethro, the prieſt of Midian, &c.] The word ſignifies both prince and prieſt. That he was the latter, appears from his offering ſacrifice; and there is alſo great reaſon to think that he was the former. It was no uncommon thing for theſe two offices to be united in the ſame perſon. It is very probable, that Jethro arrived in the camp of Iſrael immediately after the battle with Amalek, though he did not give Moſes the advice for the better adminiſtration of juſtice till ſome conſiderable time after, when God delivered the law from mount Sinai.

2 Took Zipporah, Moſes' wife, after he had ſent her back.] Moſes ſent his wife back from the inn, chap. iv. 26. where her child was circumciſed; becauſe, probably, he thought ſhe and her children would live more comfortably at home with her father, than among ſuch frightful ſpectacles of public diſaſter and terror in Egypt.

4 Eliezer, &c.] "My God is mine help;" to remind him of his obligations to God, for protecting him from Pharaoh.

6 And he ſaid unto Moſes, &c.] By meſſengers, as appears from ver. 7.

8 And Moſes told his father in law all that the Lord had done unto Pharaoh, &c.] From this paſſage it is highly probable, that Jethro's viſit happened in order of time as here related; for had it happened after the giving of the law, it can hardly be imagined that Moſes would have omitted to mention God's glorious appearance on mount Sinai, and the law he had delivered to them.

11 Now I know that the Lord is greater than all gods] I am fully perſuaded that Jehovah, the God whom the Iſraelites adore, is greater than all the gods of Egypt, or of any other nation in the world.

Before CHRIST 1491. gods: for in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them.

12 And Jethro, Moſes' father in law, took a burnt offering and ſacrifices for God: and Aaron came, and all the elders of Iſrael, to eat bread with Moſes' father in law before God.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſat to judge the people: and the people ſtood by Moſes from the morning unto the evening.

14 And when Moſes' father in law ſaw all that he did to the people, he ſaid, What is this thing that thou doeſt to the people? why ſitteſt thou thyſelf alone, and all the people ſtand by thee from morning unto even?

15 And Moſes ſaid unto his father in law, Becauſe the people come unto me to enquire of God:

16 When they have a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between one and another, and I do make them know the ſtatutes of God and his laws.

17 And Moſes' father in law ſaid unto him, The thing that thou doeſt is not good.

18 Thou wilt ſurely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee; thou art not able to perform it thyſelf alone.

19 Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counſel, and God ſhall be with thee: be thou for the people to God-ward, that thou mayeſt bring the cauſes unto God:

20 And thou ſhalt teach them ordinances and laws, and ſhall ſhew them the way wherein they muſt walk, and the work that they muſt do.

21 Moreover thou ſhalt provide out of all the people able men, ſuch as fear God, men of truth, hating covetouſneſs; and place ſuch over them, to be rulers of thouſands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens:

22 And let them judge the people at all ſeaſons: and it ſhall be, that every great matter they ſhall bring unto thee, but every ſmall matter they ſhall judge: ſo ſhall it be eaſier for thyſelf, and they ſhall bear the burden with thee.

23 If thou ſhalt do this thing, and God command thee ſo, then thou ſhalt be able to endure, and all this people ſhall alſo go to their place in peace.

24 So Moſes hearkened to the voice of his father in law, and did all that he had ſaid.

25 And Moſes choſe able men out of all Iſrael, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thouſands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

26 And they judged the people at all ſeaſons: the hard cauſes they brought unto Moſes, but every ſmall matter they judged themſelves.

27 ¶ And Moſes let his father in law depart; and Before CHRIST 1491. he went his way into his own land.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

We hear, in the firſt place, that Jethro, the father in law of Moſes, came to ſee him, not only to bring him his wife and children, but chiefly to rejoice with him, and with all the people, upon God's delivering them from the bondage of Egypt. This example of piety and charity ſhould excite us to ſhare in the good that happens to our brethren, and eſpecially to rejoice when the glory of God is promoted, and when he cauſes his power and juſtice to appear in the eyes of all the world. Secondly, That which is ſaid in this chapter concerning the eſtabliſhment of judges and magiſtrates, and the qualities they ought to have, is a leſſon, firſt, to thoſe who are in civil employments, to teach them to diſcharge them with diligence and integrity; to be perſons fearing God, virtuous, juſt, and, above all, diſintereſted, and far from filthy lucre. In the next place, we ought all to acknowledge of how great conſequence it is that theſe ſhould be magiſtrates, for the producing of order in ſocieties; that their eſtabliſhment comes from God; and that every body ought to ſubmit to them and their authority.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The people come to Sinai. 3 God's meſſage unto the people out of the mount. 7 Moſes delivereth it, and returneth the people's anſwer. 10 The people are ordered to be prepared againſt the third day; the mountain is not to be touched. 14 The people are ſanctified. 16 The fearful preſence of God upon the mount.

IN the third month, when the children of Iſrael were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the ſame day came they into the wilderneſs of Sinai.

2 For they were departed from Rephidim, and were come to the deſert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderneſs; and there Iſrael camped before the mount.

3 ¶ And Moſes went up unto God, and the LORD called unto him out of the mountain, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſay to the houſe of Jacob, and tell the children of Iſrael;

4 Ye have ſeen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how I bare you on eagles' wings, and brought you unto myſelf.

5 Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine:

6 And ye ſhall be unto me a kingdom of prieſts, and an holy nation. Theſe are the words which thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael.

7 ¶ And Moſes came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all theſe words which the LORD commanded him.

8 And all the people anſwered together, and ſaid, All that the LORD hath ſpoken we will do. And Moſes returned the words of the people unto the LORD.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Lo, I come unto thee in a thick cloud, that the people may hear when I ſpeak

---

For in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them.] Jehovah ſhewed himſelf ſuperior to all gods, by confounding the Egyptians; even when, preſuming on the aſſiſtance of their gods, they proudly threatened the ruin of his people.

To eat bread] To partake of the ſacrifice that had been offered, for this comprehends the whole meal.

Before God.] That is, before the divine preſence appearing in the cloud. Or it may be underſtood in general, that they behaved in a religious manner under the impreſſion of the divine preſence, as it is ſaid of Daniel, chap. vi. 10. that "he gave thanks in his houſe before God."

15 Come—to enquire of God.] In particular caſes, Moſes conſulted the oracle of God, and received an anſwer by an audible voice from heaven.

19 Be thou for the people to God-ward, that thou mayeſt bring the cauſes unto God.] Do thou interpret the mind of God to the people, and bring the cauſes of the people to God. Jethro here deſires Moſes to confine himſelf to his proper offices, as a prophet: for the prophets had a double promiſe, to reveal the will of God to the people, and to repreſent their cauſes to God, and ſometimes to aſk counſel at his oracle.

21 Rulers of thouſands, &c.] Theſe ſeveral courts of judicature ſeem to have been duly ſubordinate to each other; ſo that cauſes which could not be decided by the "decurio," or judge of ten, were brought before the judge of fifty, and ſo on, till they frequently came before Moſes, whoſe buſineſs it was to lay them before God.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIX.

3 And Moſes went up unto God, &c.] He aſcended the mountain, the ſymbol of the divine preſence having reſted on it.

4 How I bare you on eagles' wings, &c.] The eagle is remarkable for ſoaring high, even above the clouds, where neither rains nor ſnows face, nor thunders break, but the air is always calm and ſerene. The meaning therefore is, that they had paſſed the ſea, and eſcaped the greateſt dangers from their enemies, as if they had been borne aloft on eagles' wings.

5 If ye will obey my voice] Hence we ſay, that national virtue, and a pious obedience to the will of God, was the unalterable condition on which the divine protection, and all the other national bleſſings, were promiſed to the Iſraelites.

A peculiar treaſure unto me, &c.] You ſhall be the objects of my peculiar care, as jewels and valuable treaſure are of kings. I will eſtabliſh my kingdom among you, with ſuch laws as ſhall not only diſtinguiſh you from all other nations, but make you to excel them.

6 And ye ſhall be to me a kingdom of prieſts] As ſacred, and therefore as dear to God, as if they were all prieſts, not in name only, but ſuch as live ſuitably to their profeſſion.

An holy nation, &c.] A nation that ſhall exhibit ſhining examples of piety and goodneſs to a degenerate world.

8 All that the Lord hath ſpoken we will do, &c.] They conſent to have God for their king, and promiſe to be obedient to his laws. And then they became the ſubjects of the divine government in a peculiar ſenſe; the theocracy, therefore, ſo famous in the Jewiſh hiſtory, had now its beginning.

9 In a thick cloud, &c.] The divine voice was delivered out of the midſt of the fire, which burnt the mountain: in alluſion to which, God is often, in ſcripture, called "a conſuming fire." But with reſpect to the people, clouds and darkneſs were round about him.

10 Go

Before CHRIST 1491. ſpeak with thee, and believe thee for ever. And Moſes told the words of the people unto the LORD.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go unto the people, and ſanctify them to day and to morrow, and let them waſh their clothes,

11 And be ready againſt the third day: for the third day the LORD will come down in the ſight of all the people upon mount Sinai.

12 And thou ſhalt ſet bounds unto the people round about, ſaying, Take heed to yourſelves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: whoſoever toucheth the mount ſhall be ſurely put to death:

13 There ſhall not an hand touch it, but he ſhall ſurely be ſtoned, or ſhot through; whether it be beaſt or man, it ſhall not live: when the trumpet ſoundeth long, they ſhall come up to the mount.

14 ¶ And Moſes went down from the mount unto the people, and ſanctified the people; and they waſhed their clothes.

15 And he ſaid unto the people, Be ready againſt the third day: come not at your wives.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day in the morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; ſo that all the people that was in the camp trembled.

17 And Moſes brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they ſtood at the nether part of the mount.

18 And mount Sinai was altogether on a ſmoke, becauſe the LORD deſcended upon it in fire: and the ſmoke thereof aſcended as the ſmoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet ſounded long, and waxed louder and louder, Moſes ſpake, and God anſwered him by a voice.

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount; and Moſes went up.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD to gaze, and many of them periſh.

22 And let the prieſts alſo, which come near to the LORD, ſanctify themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them. Before CHRIST 1491

23 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctify it.

24 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the prieſts and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.

25 So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIX.

What is chiefly to be obſerved in this chapter, is, that the firſt thing God did, after delivering his people out of Egypt, was, to engage them to fear him, and to make laws for them; to which purpoſe, he directed them to ſanctify themſelves, that they might hear the publication of the ten commandments, when he came down upon mount Sinai, in a dreadful appearance. The inſtruction that we ought to draw from thence, is, that God has not redeemed and choſen us for his people, but to the end that we ſhould ſerve him, and reverence his holy laws; and that thoſe that break them, ſhall not eſcape his vengeance.

CHAP. XX.

1 The ten commandments. 3 The firſt table. 12 The ſecond table. 18 The people are afraid; Moſes comforteth them. 22 Idolatry is forbidden. 24 Directions concerning building an altar of earth, and altars of ſtone.

AND God ſpake all theſe words, ſaying,

2 I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, and out of the houſe of bondage.

3 ¶ Thou ſhalt have no other gods before me.

4 Thou ſhalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 Thou ſhalt not bow down thyſelf to them, nor ſerve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And ſhewing mercy unto thouſands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou

10 Go unto the people, and ſanctify them to day and to morrow, &c.] They were to purify themſelves from all uncleanneſs; to abſtract their minds from the world, by a ceſſation from their ordinary employments, by prayer and faſting, and by abſtinence from even lawful pleaſures.

13 There ſhall not an hand touch it, &c.] This ſevere order was given to impreſs the minds of a ſtiff-necked people with a profound veneration for the author of their laws. The words ſhould have been rendered, Let not a hand touch him; referring to the perſon who ſhould dare to venture within the conſecrated bounds; a crime which they ſhould look upon with ſuch deteſtation, that they ſhould ſtone or ſhoot the offender on the ſpot.

18 Becauſe the Lord deſcended upon it in fire] The divine majeſty deſcended in a cloud with a glorious retinue of angels, who appeared like flames of fire, as Moſes himſelf ſeems to expound it, "He came with ten thouſands of his ſaints; from his right hand went a fiery law for them," Deut. xxxiii. 2.

And the whole mount quaked greatly.] To this the Pſalmiſt alludes, "The earth ſhook, the heavens alſo dropped at the preſence of God, even Sinai itſelf was moved at the preſence of God, the God of Iſrael," Pſalm lxviii. 8. "He looketh upon the earth, and it trembleth; he toucheth the hills, and they ſmoke," Pſalm civ. 32.

20 And the Lord called Moſes up, &c.] He was called up to the very place where the Shechinah or divine glory was, and entered into the midſt of the cloud, where God is ſaid to have ſpoken to him face to face, as a man ſpeaketh to his friend, chap. xxxiii. 11. ſo biſhop Patrick underſtands it: but it appears, from chap. xx. 21. compared with Deut. v. 4, 5. that even Moſes himſelf was not permitted to enter within the cloud of glory, but only drew near to the thick darkneſs with which it was encompaſſed, and ſo ſtood between Jehovah or the divine preſence, and the people.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XX.

1 And God ſpake all theſe words, &c.] That is, the ten commandments. Theſe laws were proclaimed from Mount Sinai, with ſuch circumſtances of pomp and terror, as natural means to extort a political obedience, more than to raiſe and improve a religious and moral temper.

2 I am the Lord thy God which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, &c.] The firſt words of this ſentence, I am the Lord, "I am Jehovah," contain the reaſons for man's obedience to the divine laws, and extend to all rational beings throughout the univerſe.

3 Thou ſhalt have no other gods before me.] That is in my ſight or preſence; and as God is preſent in all places, it becomes an abſolute prohibition of having any other god. But as the precept forbids the worſhip of any other god, ſo it alſo commands the worſhip of that being to whom we owe our creation, whom we muſt believe and acknowledge the parent of the univerſe, and ſhould therefore hearken to his voice, and obey the dictates of his will.

4 Thou ſhalt not make unto thee any graven image] The ſin of idolatry is of two kinds; the worſhip of a falſe god forbidden in the firſt commandment, and the worſhip of the true God under a falſe repreſentation, forbidden more particularly in this ſecond commandment.

Or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above] Thou ſhalt not worſhip the hoſt of heaven, the ſun, moon, and ſtars, or any imaginary inviſible powers in them; neither repreſent God under the ſimilitude of theſe things; for the whole heavens are the work of his hands.

Or that is in the earth beneath] Thou ſhalt not repreſent the almighty under the ſimilitude of man or beaſt, or pay divine honours to any creature.

Or that is in the water, &c.] The Egyptians worſhipped the crocodile; and therefore this prohibition was added here, to prevent the Iſraelites from committing that kind of idolatry. The particular deſign of the law was, to bring them back to the pure, primitive, and ſpiritual worſhip of God.

5 For I the Lord thy God am a jealous God] The Iſraelites were bound by ſpecial ties to worſhip God with ſuch unalienable affections, as a chaſte ſpouſe bears to her huſband. And, in purſuance of the ſame metaphor, God is called a jealous God; that is, his unalienable right to our ſervices will not ſuffer him to bear a rival or competitor in his worſhip.

Viſiting the iniquities of the fathers upon the children, &c.] By the word "viſiting" is to be underſtood puniſhing with ſignal judgments. And the true ſenſe of it is, that God will puniſh the tranſgreſſors of his laws, eſpecially the tranſgreſſors of this commandment, with ſignal judgments, in ſuch a manner, that the woful effects thereof ſhall reach even to their poſterity, and that for ſeveral generations.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXI.

We have heard the ten commandments which God formerly publiſhed from his own mouth. We are to conſider, firſt, That theſe commandments concern us as well as the Jews, for our Saviour, as he ſays himſelf, Matt. v. "came not to aboliſh but to fulfil the law." Secondly, That this law does not only forbid actual ſins, nor regulate our actions alone, but even our thoughts and deſires, and that God will judge us all by this law, as it is explained in the goſpel. Thirdly, The dread that came upon the Iſraelites when God publiſhed his law, ſhould put us in mind of the warning of St. Paul, Heb. xii. 18—28 which ſee.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Laws concerning the releaſe of menſervants, and concerning the ſervant whoſe ear is bored; 7 concerning womenſervants; 12 murder and manſlaughter; 15 ſmiters of parents; 16 ſtealers of men; 17 curſers of parents; 18 ſmiting without loſs of life; 20 ſmiting of ſervants to death; 22 a hurt by chance to a woman with child; 26 the loſs of a ſervant's eye or tooth; 28 an ox that goreth a man or woman; 33 harm occaſioned by leaving a pit uncovered; 35 or by one man's ox hurting the ox of another man.

NOW theſe are the judgments which thou ſhalt ſet before them.

2 If thou buy an Hebrew ſervant, ſix years he ſhall ſerve: and in the ſeventh he ſhall go out free for nothing.

3 If he came in by himſelf, he ſhall go out by himſelf: if he were married, then his wife ſhall go out with him.

4 If his maſter have given him a wife, and ſhe have born him ſons or daughters; the wife and her children ſhall be her maſter's, and he ſhall go out by himſelf.

5 And if the ſervant ſhall plainly ſay, I love my maſter, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:

6 Then his maſter ſhall bring him unto the judges; he ſhall

7 Thou ſhalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain, &c.] This is a general prohibition againſt falſe or vain ſwearing, eſpecially againſt the horrid crime of perjury; and in the latter ſenſe our bleſſed Saviour himſelf cites this law, Matt. v. 33. "Ye have heard that it hath been ſaid by them of old time, Thou ſhalt not forſwear thyſelf; ſo that the principal thing here forbidden is perjury, or making uſe of the name of God, by way of appeal to him as omniſcient, and to whom belongs the final deciſion of all caſes of equity, in atteſtation and ſupport of falſhood; a crime repugnant to all our ideas of God, and utterly ſubverſive of public order.

8 Remember the ſabbath-day, &c.] Remember the day of reſt, which God hath appointed thee to obſerve; for the word "ſabbath" properly ſignifies reſt. That we ſhould with grateful ſenſe reflect upon the glorious works of God, eſpecially that grand and fundamental one, wherein his goodneſs, wiſdom, and power, are ſo illuſtriouſly diſplayed, the creation of the world; that we ſhould not be unmindful of the ſpecial favours of God, nor ſpend all our time in taking care of our bodies and the buſineſs of this life, but ſhould aſſign a competent portion of time for the relaxation of our mind, and for attending to the concerns of our immortal ſouls.

10 The ſeventh day is the ſabbath of the Lord thy God, &c.] That is, the ſeventh day is ſacred to Jehovah thy God, being that on which he reſted from his works of creation; we are to perform no works on that ſacred day but thoſe of neceſſity and mercy.

11 Reſted the ſeventh day, &c.] The word "reſted" is not to be underſtood literally, as if creating the world was any labour to God, but the expreſſion is accommodated to our ideas, and means ceaſed.

12 Honour thy father and thy mother, &c.] Our duty to our earthly parents is next to that we owe to God. When we reflect that they are, under God, the authors of our being; that they have preſerved and ſupported us, when it was impoſſible for us to ſupport ourſelves; we ſhall be convinced, that we juſtly owe them the filial duty required by this commandment.

13 Thou ſhalt not kill.] The words are better rendered, in an old tranſlation uſed in the communion ſervice of the eſtabliſhed church, "Thou ſhalt do no murder;" for the life of a man may be taken away without committing murder, or being guilty of breaking this commandment, "Whoſo ſheddeth man's blood, by man ſhall his blood be ſhed." Gen. ix. 6.

14 Thou ſhalt not commit adultery.] This is a crime of the deepeſt dye; it is a violation of the moſt ſacred bond of all ſociety, upon which the happineſs of mankind more immediately and expreſly depends: it ſows the ſeeds of implacable diſſenſion between families, and diſſolves the friendſhip of the moſt intimate acquaintance.

15 Thou ſhalt not ſteal.] Juſtice is the great bond of human ſociety; take away this, and mankind will no longer be diſtinguiſhed from the wild beaſts of the foreſts, where the ſtrongeſt devour the weakeſt.

16 Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs againſt thy neighbour.] Next to the life and property of our neighbour, there is nothing, generally, dearer to men than their reputation or good name: nay, in ſome caſes, it has been accounted more valuable than life itſelf.

17 Thou ſhalt not covet, &c.] The precept is intended to prohibit all unjuſt deſires or appetites, and conſequently ſtrikes at the root of all evil diſpoſitions.

24 An altar of earth ſhalt thou make unto me] An altar of plain turfs, which could eaſily be had in the wilderneſs, and therefore moſt proper for the Iſraelites in their wandering ſtate.

25 If thou wilt make me an altar, &c.] If thou wilt erect an altar of ſtone, the whole ſtructure muſt be as plain and ſimple as poſſible; to convince a groſs people it was not the coſtlineſs of the materials, nor the external modes and forms of worſhip that God regarded, but the devotion of the mind with which it was accompanied.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXI.

1 Now theſe are the judgments, &c.] The chief heads of moral law being thus ſolemnly given, Moſes was commanded to preſcribe ſeveral other particular laws concerning the judicial and civil government, of the civil ſtate, the rights between man and man, and thoſe relating to the ceremonial parts of worſhip under the Jewiſh diſpenſation.

Before CHRIST 1491. shall also bring him to the door, or unto the door post; and his master shall bore his ear through with an aul; and he shall serve him for ever.

7 ¶ And if a man sell his daughter to be a maidservant, she shall not go out as the menservants do.

8 If she please not her master, who hath betrothed her to himself, then shall he let her be redeemed: to sell her unto a strange nation he shall have no power, seeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her.

9 And if he hath betrothed her unto his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters.

10 If he take him another wife; her food, her raiment, and her duty of marriage, shall he not diminish.

11 And if he do not these three unto her, then shall she go out free without money.

12 ¶ He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death.

13 And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee.

14 But if a man come presumptuously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile; thou shalt take him from mine altar that he may die.

15 And he that smiteth his father, or his mother, shall be surely put to death.

16 ¶ And he that stealeth a man, and selleth him, or if he be found in his hand, he shall be surely put to death.

17 ¶ And he that curseth his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

18 ¶ And if men strive together, and one smite another with a stone, or with his fist, and he die not, but keepeth his bed:

19 If he rise again, and walk abroad upon his staff, then shall he that smote him be quit: only he shall pay for the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed.

20 ¶ And if a man smite his servant or his maid, with a rod, and he die under his hand; he shall be surely punished.

21 Notwithstanding, if he continue a day or two, he shall not be punished: for he is his money.

22 ¶ If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart from her, and yet no mischief follow: he shall be surely punished, according as the woman's husband will lay upon him; and he shall pay as the judges determine.

23 And if any mischief follow, then thou shalt give life for life.

24 Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

26 ¶ And if a man smite the eye of his servant, or the eye of his maid, that it perish; he shall let him go free for his eye's sake.

27 And if he smite out his manservant's tooth, he shall let him go free for his tooth's sake. Before CHRIST 1491.

28 ¶ And if an ox gore a man or a woman, that they die: then the ox shall be surely stoned, and his flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be quit.

29 But if the ox were wont to push with his horn in time past, and it hath been testified to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, but that he hath killed a man or a woman; the ox shall be stoned, and his owner also shall be put to death.

30 If there be laid on him a sum of money, then he shall give for the ransom of his life whatsoever is laid upon him.

31 Whether he have gored a son, or have gored a daughter, according to this judgment shall it be done unto him.

32 If the ox shall push a manservant or a maidservant; he shall give unto their master thirty shekels of silver, and the ox shall be stoned.

33 ¶ And if a man shall open a pit, or if a man shall dig a pit, and not cover it, and an ox or an ass fall therein;

34 The owner of the pit shall make it good, and give money unto the owner of them; and the dead beast shall be his.

35 ¶ And if one man's ox hurt another's, that he die; then shall they sell the live ox, and divide the money of it; and the dead ox also shall they divide.

36 Or if it be known that the ox hath used to push in time past, and his owner hath not kept him in; he shall surely pay ox for ox; and the dead shall be his own.

General Reflections on Chap. XXI.

We may gather from this chapter that those who strike or wound their neighbours ought not to go unpunished. Secondly, That those who occasion any evil or mischief to another, whether willingly or accidentally, should bear the penalty, and make reparation for it. Thirdly, That although slavery obtained among the Jews, God did not intend thereby that they should treat their slaves cruelly, as most other people did; from whence it appears, that Christians should use yet more more gentleness towards their servants.

CHAP. XXII.

IF a man shall steal an ox, or a sheep, and kill it, or sell it; he shall restore five oxen for an ox, and four sheep for a sheep.

2 If a thief be found breaking up, and be smitten that he die, there shall no blood be shed for him.

8 Bore his ear] Denoting his obligation to hearken, and obey his master's orders.

Shall serve him for ever.] i. e. Till the year of Jubilee sets him free of course, or till his master's death.

7 She shall not go out as the menservants do.] The true meaning of this passage seems to be this: that if a father, through extreme poverty, is obliged to sell his daughter for a maidservant, she shall be treated in a different manner from those who have been sold by the judges, and obtain her freedom on much easier terms.

9 After the manner of daughters.] i. e. He shall portion her as one of his daughters.

10 If he take him another wife, her food, her raiment, and her duty of marriage, &c.] If after the son had married her, he took another wife besides, he was still to perform to this all the duties of marriage, viz. give her food and raiment, and, at certain times (which were determined by law) to cohabit with her as her husband.

14 Thou shalt take him from mine altar that he may die.] To make the altar a place of refuge for voluntary crimes, would be to make piety a screen for wickedness, and God a patron for iniquity; hence we see how directly contrary to the divine law the papists act, who make their churches asylums for murderers and other pests of society.

20 If a man smite his servant, &c.] That is, whoever beats a servant, or slave (though a Gentile) so that he die under his hand, he shall be treated as a murderer.

23 If any mischief follow, &c.] If the child was formed and alive, then life shall be given for life.

27 If he smite out his manservant's tooth, &c.] To check the cruelty of tyrannical masters, the legislature mercifully ordains, that a master shall loose the service of his slave, not only for depriving him of an eye but even of a tooth.

33 If a man shall open a pit, &c.] It was a common practice in those hot countries to dig for springs, and make large pits or cisterns as receptacles for rain water, which if left uncovered, cattle might easily fall into them.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XXII.

2 If a thief be found, &c.] Notwithstanding this permission of killing the person who attempts our houses in the night-time, when the world is buried in sleep and darkness, yet we ought to be careful in making use of it; for our consciences will never acquit us for taking away the life of a fellow-creature, unless we have very good reason to believe that he had a design upon our own.

3 If the sun be risen, &c.] Because it was then easy to pursue him, and call the neighbours to our assistance. Besides, his coming at that time indicated that he had no design upon our lives.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXII.

In this chapter we have ſeveral inſtructions. The firſt (which is repeated ſeveral times) is, that he who has wronged another, either by theft, cheating, even unwittingly, is obliged to make reſtitution; that things that have been pledged or depoſited with any one, ſhould be faithfully returned. That oaths ſhould be reverenced: uncleanneſs and idolatry abominated. God alſo declares herein, how great a crime it is to oppreſs widows and ſtrangers, and rigorouſly to exact our due from the poor; that theſe are ſins that cry to God, and provoke him to wrath. Here likewiſe we learn to ſpeak of magiſtrates with reſpect; and the command laid upon the Jews to offer their firſt-fruits to God, ſhews that religion and holineſs lay us under an obligation of devoting ſome part of thoſe goods that God hath given us, to divine ſervice, and to works of charity.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Laws concerning ſlander, falſe witneſs, and partial favouring of the poor; 4 charitableneſs; 6 juſtice in judgment; 8 taking bribes; 9 oppreſſing a ſtranger; 10 the year of reſt; 12 the ſabbath. 13 A caution againſt idolatry. 14 Laws concerning the three ſet feaſts; 18 the blood and fat of the ſacrifice; and the firſt fruits. 20 An angel is promiſed for a guide, with a bleſſing, in caſe they obey him.

THOU ſhalt not raiſe a falſe report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witneſs.

2 Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither ſhalt thou ſpeak in a cauſe to decline after many to wreſt judgment:

3 Neither ſhalt thou countenance a poor man in his cauſe.

4 ¶ If thou meet thine enemy's ox or his aſs going aſtray, thou ſhalt ſurely bring it back to him again.

5 If

If a fire break out, &c.] The ſole intention of this law was, to make men careful how they lighted fires, even at a diſtance from corn or buildings; becauſe often the moſt terrible conſequences have followed from ſuch practices.

16 If a man entice, &c.] It is devoutly to be wiſhed that this law was revived in this chriſtian country.

18 Thou ſhalt not ſuffer a witch to live.] This precept is given, becauſe all witches, whether real or pretended, were open profeſſors, and practiſers of idolatry, and conſequently enemies to the Jewiſh ſtate and polity.

21 Thou ſhalt neither vex a ſtranger, nor oppreſs him, &c.] Hoſpitality was enjoined to the Jews, as a duty they were ſtrictly to obſerve; for this reaſon, becauſe Abraham, and the other patriarchs, their forefathers, had been ſtrangers and pilgrims, wandering and unſettled, and depending, under Providence, on the hoſpitality of other nations.

25 Thou ſhalt not be to him as an uſurer, &c.] An exacting creditor, rigid and urgent.

26 By that the ſun goeth down.] The Hebrew canons ſay, that when one takes a pledge of his neighbour, if he be a poor man, and his pledge be a thing that he hath need of, it is commanded that he reſtore the pledge, when he needeth; he is to reſtore him his bedding at night, that he may ſleep on it; and his working-tools by day, that he may not neglect his buſineſs; if he does not reſtore the inſtrument of the day, by day, and the inſtrument of the night, at night, he tranſgreſſeth the law.

28 Thou ſhalt not revile the gods, &c.] By this, the people were taught due reverence to magiſtrates, as God's vicegerents; for the Hebrew word elohim, ſignifies here, princes, judges or magiſtrates.

29 Ripe fruits] Wheat, barley, grapes, figs, dates, pomegranates, and olives.

Liquors, &c.] That is, wine and oil.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIII.

1 Put thine hand not with the wicked, &c.] That is, join not with a wicked man to promote a bad cauſe, by being a falſe witneſs.

2, 3 Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude, &c.] Though the antient tranſlations ſupport ours, yet the word rabbini, tranſlated "a multitude," is by ſome ſuppoſed to ſignify, rich and powerful perſons; and then the contraſt of theſe two verſes will appear with great elegance; for as in the former, the judge is forbid to be biaſſed in favour of the great, ſo in the latter, he is prohibited to be moved by diſtreſs, ſo as to pervert judgment.

4 If thou meet thine enemy's ox, &c.] Though private injuries are ſufficient reaſons to juſtify our not treating a man as a friend, or familiar companion, yet they can never juſtify our denying him the common

6 ¶ Thou ſhalt not wreſt the judgment of thy poor in his cauſe.

7 Keep thee far from a falſe matter; and the innocent and righteous ſlay thou not: for I will not juſtify the wicked.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt take no gift: for the gift blindeth the wiſe, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

9 ¶ Alſo thou ſhalt not oppreſs a ſtranger: for ye know the heart of a ſtranger, ſeeing ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt.

10 ¶ And ſix years thou ſhalt ſow thy land, and ſhalt gather in the fruits thereof:

11 But the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let it reſt and lie ſtill; that the poor of thy people may eat: and what they leave the beaſt of the field ſhall eat. In like manner thou ſhalt deal with thy vineyard, and with thy oliveyard

13 ¶ And in all things that I have ſaid unto you be circumſpect: and make no mention of the name of other gods, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

14 ¶ Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt unto me in the year.

15 Thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of unleavened bread: (thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread ſeven days, as I commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month Abib; for in it thou cameſt out from Egypt: and none ſhall appear before me empty:)

16 And the feaſt of harveſt, the firſtfruits of thy labours, which thou haſt ſown in thy field: and the feaſt of ingathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou haſt gathered in thy labours out of the field.

17 Three times in the year all thy males ſhall appear before the LORD God.

18 ¶ Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leavened bread; neither ſhall the fat of my ſacrifice remain until the morning.

19 The firſt of the firſtfruits of thy land thou ſhalt bring into the houſe of the LORD thy God. Thou ſhalt not ſeeth a kid in his mother's milk.

20 ¶ Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not; for he will not pardon your tranſgreſſions: for my name is in him.

22 ¶ But if thou ſhalt indeed obey his voice, and do all that I ſpeak; then I will be an enemy unto thine enemies, and an adverſary unto thine adverſaries.

23 For mine Angel ſhall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites: and I will cut them off. Before CHRIST 1491.

24 Thou ſhalt not bow down to their gods, nor ſerve them, nor do after their works: but thou ſhalt utterly overthrow them, and quite break down their images.

25 And ye ſhall ſerve the LORD your God, and he ſhall bleſs thy bread, and thy water; and I will take ſickneſs away from the midſt of thee.

26 There ſhall nothing caſt their young, nor be barren in thy land: the number of thy days I will fulfil.

27 I will ſend my fear before thee, and will deſtroy all the people to whom thou ſhalt come, and I will make all thine enemies turn their backs unto thee.

28 And I will ſend hornets before thee, which ſhall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee.

29 I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; leſt the land become deſolate, and the beaſts of the field multiply againſt thee.

30 By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou be increaſed, and inherit the land.

31 And I will ſet thy bounds from the Red ſea even unto the ſea of the Philiſtines, and from the deſert unto the river: for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hands: and thou ſhalt drive them out before thee.

32 Thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods.

33 They ſhall not dwell in thy land, leſt they make thee ſin again me: for if thou ſerve their gods, it will ſurely be a ſnare unto thee.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIII.

In this chapter we find the five following principal inſtructions; 1ſt, to avoid ſlander and evil reports. 2dly, That judges ought to do juſtice uprightly, without having reſpect to perſons, and eſpecially without taking any bribes. 3dly, That the Jews ſhould obſerve the ſabbath day, and moreover let the land reſt the ſeventh year; which taught them to truſt in God's providence, and to be charitable to the poor, which is our duty, as well as it was that of the Jews. 4thly, That the three ſolemn feaſts of the Iſraelites were appointed for preſerving among them the remembrance of thoſe favours which God had done their nations, which duty of gratitude is alſo to be practiſed by us. Laſtly, The promiſe which God made of ſending his Angels to bring the Jews into the land of Canaan, and the command he gave them to hearken to the voice of that Angel, and not to provoke him, ſhould be a warning to us, not to provoke the Lord by our diſobedience, who is preſent, and in the midſt of us, after a more particular manner than he was amongſt the Jews.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Moſes is called up into the mountain. 3 The people promiſe obedience. 4 Moſes buildeth an altar and twelve pillars; and ſprinkleth the blood of the covenant. 9 The glory of God appeareth to Moſes, Aaron, and the elders of Iſrael. 12 Moſes being called up into the mount leaveth Aaron and Hur in charge of the people. 15 Moſes goeth into the mount, and continueth there forty days and forty nights.

AND

common offices of humanity, for this would be a breach of the law of nations. Though we remember a man is not our friend, yet we ought not to forget that he is a man.

11 Let it reſt and lie ſtill, &c.] This was an order to beget in them a pious truſt to God, and an humble dependance on his providence. It was likewiſe a curb to avarice, and taught them to exerciſe humanity towards their ſlaves and beaſts, and to ſhew mercy and liberality to the poor.

14 Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt, &c.] The feaſt of the paſſover, pentecoſt, and tabernacles, at which three ſolemn ſeaſons the whole body of the nation aſſembled.

16 The feaſt of harveſt] That is alſo called the feaſt of weeks becauſe it was ſeven weeks after the paſſover; and pentecoſt, which in Greek ſignifies the fiftieth, becauſe it fell on the fiftieth day after the paſſover.

The feaſt of ingathering, &c.] Called the feaſt of tabernacles, Lev. xxiii. 34.

19 Thou ſhalt not ſeeth a kid in his mother's milk.] It was a cuſtom among the antient idolators, at the time when they had gathered in all the fruits of the earth, to ſeeth a kid in his mother's milk, and to ſprinkle the trees, fields and gardens with the broth, after a magical manner, to render them the more fruitful the next year. The reaſon of the prohibition therefore is evident, viz. that they ſhould not practiſe ſuperſtition.

20 I ſend an Angel, &c.] Whether this was one of the heavenly orders, who, though ſuperior to mankind, are created, or whether it was Chriſt, commentators have not ventured to determine; ſome indeed take the word to be an appellative, and to ſignify only a meſſenger, and in that ſenſe apply it particularly to Joſhua.

21 My name is in him.] The word "name" often ſignifies authority.

25 Thy bread and thy water, &c.] This denotes proviſion in general.

26 The number of thy days I will fulfil.] The number of days here ſpoken of, is the common period of human life, to that time, which was ſeventy or eighty years, See Pſalm xc. 10.

27 I will ſend my fear, &c.] Will ſtrike a terror and panic into the inhabitants of Canaan.

28 And I will ſend hornets before thee, &c.] Theſe words are generally underſtood as metaphorical, though Joſhua tells us they were literally performed. Joſhua xxiv. 12.

31 From the Red ſea even unto the ſea of the Philiſtines] From the Red ſea on the ſouth-eaſt, to the Mediterranean ſea on the north-weſt.

From the deſert unto the river, &c.] From the deſert of Arabia to the river Euphrates.

32 With them, nor with their gods.] Have no correſpondence with them in matters either politic or religious.

33 It will ſurely be a ſnare unto thee.] That is, it will be a means of ſeducing you into idolatry, and will involve you in the puniſhment due to it.

Before CHRIST 1491. AND he ſaid unto Moſes, Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael; and worſhip ye afar off.

2 And Moſes alone ſhall come near the LORD: but they ſhall not come nigh; neither ſhall the people go up with him.

3 And Moſes came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgements: and all the people anſwered with one voice, and ſaid, All the words which the LORD hath ſaid will we do.

4 ¶ And Moſes wrote all the words of the LORD, and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

5 And he ſent young men of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt offerings, and ſacrificed peace offerings of oxen unto the LORD.

6 And Moſes took half of the blood, and put it in baſons; and half of the blood he ſprinkled on the altar.

7 And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they ſaid, All that the LORD hath ſaid will we do, and be obedient.

8 And Moſes took the blood, and ſprinkled it on the people, and ſaid, Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all theſe words.

9 ¶ Then went up Moſes, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael:

10 And they ſaw the God of Iſrael: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of ſapphire ſtone, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearneſs.

11 And upon the nobles of the children of Iſrael he laid not his hand: alſo they ſaw God, and did eat and drink.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Come up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee tables of ſtone, and a law, and commandments which I have written; that thou mayeſt teach them.

13 And Moſes roſe up, and his miniſter Joſhua: and Moſes went up into the mount of God.

14 And he ſaid unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you: and, behold, Aaron and Hur are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

15 ¶ And Moſes went up into the mount, and a cloud covered the mount.

16 And the glory of the LORD abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it ſix days: and the ſeventh day he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud.

17 And the ſight of the glory of the LORD was like devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Iſrael.

Before CHRIST 1491. 18 And Moſes went into the midſt of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount: and Moſes was in the mount forty days and forty nights.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIV.

The promiſes that Moſes obliged the people to make, that they would keep the law of God, and the great ſolemnity whereby thoſe promiſes, and the covenant between God and the people were confirmed, ſhould induce us to conſider, that God having choſen us to be his people, and having made known his will to us, we are indiſpenſibly obliged to keep his laws; that we alſo ſolemnly promiſed him to do it; and that this covenant has been confirmed, as St. Paul ſays, not with the blood of calves or goats, but by the blood of Jeſus Chriſt, who offered himſelf up to God a ſacrifice without ſpot or blemiſh, that he might purify our conſciences from dead works to ſerve the living God. From whence we may conclude, that they who ſhall break this commandment, muſt expect terrible puniſhments.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring me an offering: of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart ye ſhall take my offering.

3 And this is the offering which ye ſhall take of them; gold, and ſilver, and braſs,

4 And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair,

5 And rams' ſkins dyed red, and badgers' ſkins, and ſhittim wood,

6 Oil for the light, ſpices for anointing oil, and for ſweet incenſe,

7 Onyx ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet in the ephod, and in the breaſt-plate.

8 And let them make me a ſanctuary; that I may dwell among them.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIV.

1 Nadab, and Abihu, &c.] Aaron's eldeſt ſons.

4 All the words] That is, the ten commandments, which are called "the ten words," chap. xxxviii. 28.

An altar—and twelve pillars, &c.] The altar was, to repreſent God, the one and chief party in the covenant; and the twelve pillars, the twelve tribes, the other party in the ſaid covenant.

5 Young men.] Theſe were the eldeſt ſons of the principal families, appointed to the prieſthood.

Burnt offerings, and—peace offerings, &c.] Burnt offerings ſometimes ſignify ſacrifices in general, but properly only ſuch as were wholly conſumed by fire. Peace offerings were made in gratitude for favours received.

8 On the people] Or this may be underſtood of the twelve pillars which repreſented the people. It is to be obſerved, that one way of making covenants antiently was, by ſprinkling the blood of the ſacrifices on both parties.

The blood of the covenant, &c.] The relation between God and the Iſraelites as their king, their civil magiſtrate, and their tutelar God, aroſe from their free conſent, and is therefore, with great propriety, termed both here, and in other places, a covenant.

10 They ſaw the God of Iſrael] Both the Jewiſh and Chriſtian religion teach, that God is of a ſpiritual nature, and inviſible; we are not therefore to imagine that they ſaw any viſible ſhape, but only the ſymbol of the divine majeſty, or ſigns of his glory. Accordingly, the Chaldee expounds it, They ſaw the glory of the God of Iſrael.

Under his feet] At the lower part of the divine appearance, or glory.

A paved work of a ſapphire ſtone, and as—the body of heaven in his clearneſs.] That is, the pure azure ſky.

11 He laid not his hand, &c.] This may allude to their being exempted from the danger threatened, chap. xix. for too near an approach to the mountain.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXV.

2 An offering, &c.] The Hebrew word terumah ſignifies, An heave-offering: it is likewiſe uſed for ſomething ſeparated and given to God.

4 Scarlet] In Hebrew, The worm of ſcarlet; becauſe inſects were made uſe of in dying that colour.

Goats' hair.] This hair was in vaſt eſteem in the oriental countries, and preferred very much before either the wool of ſheep or lambs.

5 Badgers' ſkins] Some imagine, that as a badger is pronounced by the law to be an unclean beaſt, this cannot be the meaning of the word tichaſhem; ſome therefore render it, Rams' ſkins, of a red, and of a purple colour; and this is ſupported by the Vulgate, Septuagint, and the Samaritan. The Arabic reads, Black ſkins.

Shittim wood.] It is generally thought to be the wood of the cedar-tree; though ſome think it rather the wood of a certain tree which grows common in ſome parts of the wilderneſs, and reſembles the acacia of Egypt.

10 An ark] It was a cheſt or coffer, overlaid with gold. It was called, "the ark of the covenant," being a ſymbol of the covenant which God made with his people, and contained the two tables, the pot of manna, and Aaron's miraculous rod.

Two cubits and a half, &c.] That is, about four feet five inches long, and two feet ſix inches high or broad.

11 A crown of gold round about.] A cornice, or rich moulding of maſſy gold, was to go round the top of it.

12 And thou ſhalt caſt four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof; and two rings ſhall be in the one ſide of it, and two rings in the other ſide of it.

13 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou ſhalt put the ſtaves into the rings by the ſides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them.

15 The ſtaves ſhall be in the rings of the ark: they ſhall not be taken from it.

16 And thou ſhalt put into the ark the teſtimony which I ſhall give thee.

17 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a mercy ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and a half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

18 And thou ſhalt make two cherubims of gold, of beaten work ſhalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy ſeat.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even of the mercy ſeat ſhall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

20 And the cherubims ſhall ſtretch forth their wings on high, covering the mercy ſeat with their wings, and their faces ſhall look one to another; toward the mercy ſeat ſhall the faces of the cherubims be.

21 And thou ſhalt put the mercy ſeat above upon the ark; and in the ark thou ſhalt put the teſtimony that I ſhall give thee.

22 And there I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee from above the mercy ſeat, from between the two cherubims which are upon the ark of the teſtimony, of all things which I ſhall give thee in commandment unto the children of Iſrael.

23 ¶ Thou ſhalt alſo make a table of ſhittim wood: two cubits ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

24 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about.

25 And thou ſhalt make unto it a border of an hand breadth round about, and thou ſhalt make a golden crown to the border thereof round about.

26 And thou ſhalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof.

27 Over againſt the border ſhall the rings be for places of the ſtaves to bear the table.

28 And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be borne with them.

29 And thou ſhalt make the diſhes thereof, and ſpoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof, to cover withal: of pure gold ſhalt thou make them.

30 And thou ſhalt ſet upon the table ſhewbread before me alway.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work ſhall the candleſtick be made: his ſhaft, and his branches, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, ſhall be of the ſame. Before CHRIST 1491.

32 And ſix branches ſhall come out of the ſides of it; three branches of the candleſtick out of the one ſide, and three branches of the candleſtick out of the other ſide;

33 Three bowls made like unto almonds, with a knop and a flower on one branch; and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower: ſo in the ſix branches that come out of the candleſtick.

34 And in the candleſtick ſhall be four bowls made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers.

35 And there ſhall be a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches that proceed out of the candleſtick.

36 Their knops and their branches ſhall be of the ſame: all of it ſhall be one beaten work of pure gold.

37 And thou ſhalt make the ſeven lamps thereof: and they ſhall light the lamps thereof, that they may give light over againſt it.

38 And the tongs thereof, and the ſnuffdiſhes thereof, ſhall be of pure gold.

39 Of a talent of pure gold ſhall he make it, with all theſe veſſels.

40 And look that thou make them after their pattern which was ſhewed thee in the mount.

General Reflections on Chap. XXV.

From God's being ſo particular in preſcribing a form of worſhip for the Iſraelites, we are to underſtand, that at all times we muſt be decent and orderly in our approaches to him. As the ceremonial law had a ſplendid appearance, we muſt learn, that our works of obedience muſt, on all occaſions, ſhine with the moſt conſpicious luſtre. As God commanded that a tabernacle or tent ſhould be built for the regular performance of divine ſervice, we muſt obſerve that it is our duty to build places for his worſhip, according to the rules preſcribed in the goſpel. And as thoſe things were calculated only for the uſe of the people while they ſojourned in the wilderneſs; let us learn that we have no fixed abode here, being ſeeking after that everlaſting haven of reſt which God has promiſed to all who love him.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The ten curtains of the tabernacle. 7 The eleven curtains of goat's hair. 14 The covering of ram's ſkins. 15 The boards of the tabernacle with their ſockets and bars. 31 The vail for the ark. 36 The hanging for the door.

MOREOVER thou ſhalt make the tabernacle with ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work ſhalt thou make them.

2 The length of one curtain ſhall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and every one of the curtains ſhall have one meaſure.

3 The

16 Teſtimony, &c.] The tables of the law.

17 A mercy ſeat, &c.] Here it was the ſhekinah generally became viſible; it was of beaten gold, and fixed, with the cherubims that overſhadowed it, in a frame, or as Moſes deſcribes it, a crown of an oblong ſquare form, which incloſed the upper part of the ark in the nature of a rim.

18 Two cherubims of gold, &c.] From this general deſcription of Moſes, it appears, theſe cherubims were human figures, with wings ſtretched out, covering the mercy-ſeat, and, as it may be reaſonably concluded, in a bowing poſture. Theſe repreſented the angels which ſtand before the celeſtial glory; as the ſanctuary did heaven, and the mercy-ſeat the throne of God.

22 There I will meet with, &c.] From this part of the ſanctuary the oracles were ſometimes delivered to Moſes in an audible voice, Numb. vi. 39. Hitherto the deſcription is limited to the holy of holies; what follows relates to the principal furniture of the holy place, or outward part.

23 Thou ſhalt alſo make a table, &c.] The Iſraelites being ſunk into the groſſeſt idolatry in Egypt, it was neceſſary the idea of God and his attributes ſhould be impreſſed upon them in the moſt ſenſible manner: but this could not be commodiouſly done under his character of God of the univerſe; under his character of king and tutelary God, it well might. Hence he is repreſented with affections analogous to human paſſions; his civil relation qualified ſuch a repreſentation; the greatneſs of their conceptions rendered ſuch a repreſentation neceſſary, and the guarded manner in which it was always done, prevented it from being miſchievous. Agreeable to this notion, he is repreſented as chooſing a particular nation for his reſidence, and having a dwelling wherein he manifeſted his real preſence.

30 Shewbread, &c.] Or, the bread of preſence, being ſet before God's preſence continually.

31 A candleſtick of pure gold, &c.] The branches of this candleſtick were placed at equal diſtances, adorned with ſix flowers like lilies, as many knops reſembling apples, and alſo little bowls, like half almond ſhells; theſe were placed alternate and equidiſtant; upon each of the branches there was a golden lamp, which was lighted every evening, and extinguiſhed every morning.

37 They ſhall light the lamps, &c.] The lighting of lamps in religious worſhip was alſo an Egyptian cuſtom.

39 A talent of pure gold, &c.] A talent contained three thouſand ſhekels, or five thouſand four hundred and ſixty-four pounds ſterling.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XXVI.

1 Moreover thou ſhalt make the tabernacle] The Hebrew word ohal, ſignifies A tent; this ſacred place was therefore to be conſtructed in ſuch a manner, as to be eaſily ſet up, and taken down; which was neceſſary, on account of their frequent marches.

2 The length of one curtain, &c.] That is, about ſixteen yards twelve inches long, and two yards twelve inches broad. With theſe the roof of the tabernacle was covered, and the ſides alſo, almoſt to the ground.

3 The five curtains ſhall be coupled together one to another; and other five curtains ſhall be coupled one to another.

4 And thou ſhalt make loops of blue upon the edge of the one curtain from the ſelvedge in the coupling; and likewiſe ſhalt thou make in the uttermoſt edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond.

5 Fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the ſecond; that the loops may take hold one of another.

6 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches: and it ſhall be one tabernacle.

7 ¶ And thou ſhalt make curtains of goats' hair to be a covering upon the tabernacle: eleven curtains ſhalt thou make.

8 The length of one curtain ſhall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and the eleven curtains ſhall be all of one meaſure.

9 And thou ſhalt couple five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves, and ſhalt double the ſixth curtain in the forefront of the tabernacle.

10 And thou ſhalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmoſt in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond.

11 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of braſs, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one.

12 And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remaineth, ſhall hang over the backſide of the tabernacle.

13 And a cubit on the one ſide, and a cubit on the other ſide of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it ſhall hang over the ſides of the tabernacle on this ſide and on that ſide, to cover it.

14 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a covering for the tent of rams' ſkins died red, and a covering above of badgers' ſkins.

15 ¶ And thou ſhalt make boards for the tabernacle of ſhittim wood ſtanding up.

16 Ten cubits ſhall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half ſhall be the breadth of one board.

17 Two tenons ſhall there be in one board, ſet in order one againſt another: thus ſhalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

18 And thou ſhalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the ſouth ſide ſouthward.

19 And thou ſhalt make forty ſockets of ſilver under the twenty boards; two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

20 And for the ſecond ſide of the tabernacle on the north ſide there ſhall be twenty boards:

21 And their forty ſockets of ſilver; two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

22 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward thou ſhalt make ſix boards.

23 And two boards ſhalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

24 And they ſhall be coupled together beneath, and they ſhall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring: thus ſhall it be for them both: they ſhall be for the two corners. Before CHRIST 1491.

25 And they ſhall be eight boards, and their ſockets of ſilver, ſixteen ſockets; two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

26 And thou ſhalt make bars of ſhittim wood; five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle,

27 And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the ſide of the tabernacle, for the two ſides weſtward.

28 And the middle bar in the midſt of the boards ſhall reach from end to end.

29 And thou ſhalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and thou ſhalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou ſhalt rear up the tabernacle according to the faſhion thereof which was ſhewed thee in the mount.

31 And thou ſhalt make a vail of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen of cunning work: with cherubims ſhall it be made:

32 And thou ſhalt hang it upon four pillars of ſhittim wood overlaid with gold: their hooks ſhall be of gold, upon the four ſockets of ſilver.

33 And thou ſhalt hang up the vail under the taches, that thou mayeſt bring in thither within the vail the ark of the teſtimony: and the vail ſhall divide unto you between the holy place and the moſt holy.

34 And thou ſhalt put the mercy ſeat upon the ark of the teſtimony in the moſt holy place.

35 And thou ſhalt ſet the table without the vail, and the candleſtick over againſt the table on the ſide of the tabernacle toward the ſouth: and thou ſhalt put the table on the north ſide.

36 ¶ And thou ſhalt make an hanging for the door of the tent, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needlework.

37 And thou ſhalt make for the hanging five pillars of ſhittim wood, and overlay them with gold, and their hooks ſhall be of gold: and thou ſhalt caſt five ſockets of braſs for them.

General Reflections on Chap. XXVI.

Let us obſerve, that as the tabernacle was often removed from one place to another, ſo will the church of Chriſt; for God will remove the goſpel from thoſe people who make an improper uſe of it. Let us learn, that as the ſervice of the tabernacle was to laſt no longer than the death of Chriſt; ſo when the end and deſign of his coming is anſwered, he will appear a ſecond time unto ſalvation. Hence let us reflect, that we ſhould worſhip God in ſpirit and in truth.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 The altar of burnt offering with the veſſels thereof. 9 The court of the tabernacle incloſed with hangings and pillars. 18 The meaſure of the court, and the furniture of braſs. 20 The oil for the lamp.

AND thou ſhalt make an altar of ſhittim wood, five cubits long, and five cubits broad; the altar ſhall be fourſquare: and the height thereof ſhall be three cubits.

---

14 A covering, &c.] The tabernacle had three different ſorts of coverings; one on the outſide, made of fine linen, curiouſly embroidered in various colours of crimſon, ſcarlet, purple, and hyacinth; another of goat's hair, neatly woven; and a third of badger's ſkins, ſome dyed red, and ſome an azure blue; theſe were to preſerve the rich curtains from wet, and the tabernacle itſelf from the injuries of the weather.

18 Twenty boards, &c.] Each board being about thirty-two inches broad, the whole length of the tabernacle muſt have been about ſeven yards and a half. The Septuagint render the word we have tranſlated "boards," Pillars, which ſeems to be the true reading, by St. Paul's alluſion, 1 Tim. iii. 5.

31 Thou ſhalt make a vail, &c.] This vail divided the tabernacle into two parts, and ſeparated the holy from the moſt holy place; it was adorned with cherubims, feſtoons, and other ornaments, curiouſly embroidered upon it.

33 The moſt holy.] This place is, in the New Teſtament, made a figure of heaven, into which Chriſt our high-prieſt is entered, as our fore-runner.

34 Thou ſhalt put the mercy ſeat upon the ark of the teſtimony in the moſt holy place.] The tabernacle was a type of our Redeemer dwelling in our nature: the mercy-ſeat, placed upon the ark of the teſtimony, was an emblem of him from whoſe mouth we received a law founded upon better promiſes, by whoſe interceſſion we have acceſs, with boldneſs, to the throne of grace; and whoſe ſatisfaction is our true propitiatory, or mercy-ſeat.

36 The door of the tent, &c.] The ark and mercy-ſeat were placed at the weſt end of the tabernacle, ſo that the door fronted the eaſt; and the Iſraelites, in worſhipping the great Jehovah, turned their faces towards the weſt, and from the ſun, the idol of the neighbouring nations.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XXVII.

1 And thou ſhalt make an altar of ſhittim wood.] Should it be aſked, how it was poſſible to prevent the burning of the altar, by reaſon of the continual fire; it may be anſwered, that the top, with its crown or frame, was fixed ſo as to be at ſome ſmall diſtance above the wood of the altar.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVII.

Firſt, By the fire being continually burning on the altar, we may learn, that the fear and love of God ſhould be continually kept alive in our hearts. Secondly, By the lamp being kept burning in the night, is meant, that even in the darkeſt and moſt barbarous ages God will always have ſome perſons who will perpetuate the memory of his name. And further, that God would have us in all afflictions, and in the whole of our conduct, to be as lamps burning in a dark day. Let miniſters of the goſpel, in a more immediate manner, attend to this; becauſe whatever darkneſs may be in the world, they are, by their precept and example, to give light.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND take thou unto thee Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him, from among the children of Iſrael, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office, even Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's ſons.

2 ¶ And thou ſhalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother for glory and for beauty.

3 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto all that are wiſe hearted, whom I have filled with the ſpirit of wiſdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to conſecrate him, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office.

4 And theſe are the garments which they ſhall make; a breaſtplate, and an ephod, and a robe, and a broidered coat, a mitre, and a girdle: and they ſhall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and his ſons, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office.

Five cubits long, &c.] That is, near three yards ſquare at the top, and above five feet in height. As the height was at leaſt five feet, it might either have been let into the earth, or muſt have been ſurrounded with a bank of earth, to enable the prieſt to reach the grate in ſacrificing.

2 And thou ſhalt make the horns of it, &c.] By "horns," we are to underſtand little pyramids, or ſpires, made out of the ſame wood with the altar, and placed one at each corner; their uſe was, both to tie the ſacrifice to, and alſo to keep the wood from falling off. It was cuſtomary for thoſe who fled to the altar for refuge, to lay hold on theſe horns.

3 Baſons] Theſe were to receive the blood of the ſacrifice.

Fleſh hooks] Or forks, for taking up the pieces of ſacrifice, in order to lay them right on the fire.

9 Court of the tabernacle] This was an area or court-yard without any covering, incloſed with hangings, and ſupported by pillars overlaid with ſilver; towards the upper end ſtood the tabernacle, between which and the entrance, was placed the altar of burnt-offerings, in the open air, that ſo the ſmoke might not ſoil the inſide of the tabernacle. Thus the habitation of God was divided into three parts; the outward court, which was in the open light and view of all; the holy place, which received light from the ſeven lamps of the golden candleſtick; and the holy of holies, which had no external light, but the preſence of God reſted on the mercy-ſeat between the cherubims.

An hundred cubits long, &c.] About fifty-eight yards.

18 And the height five cubits, &c.] That is, near five yards; ſo that the tabernacle, which was almoſt as high again as the incloſure, might eaſily be ſeen by the people.

20 Pure oil olive] That is, ſuch as runs freely from the olives on being bruiſed.

To burn always] Three of the lamps were kept burning by day, and the remainder were lighted in the evening. This was not only neceſſary on account of the darkneſs of the holy place, but was likewiſe typical of the conſtant vigilance and preparation neceſſary in this life of probation and uncertainty. This is beautifully alluded to in the parable of the wiſe and fooliſh virgins.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVIII.

2 Holy garments, &c.] Permitted to be worn by none but the prieſts; and by them only at ſuch times as they miniſtered before God.

3 Wiſe-hearted, whom I have filled with the ſpirit of wiſdom, &c.] This was the uſual term to expreſs ſkilful artiſts, not only in the Hebrew, but in other dead languages. God diſpenſes divers gifts and endowments to different people; and mechanical ingenuity is to be aſcribed to God as the author, who forms the mind with all its powers; for from him cometh every good and perfect gift.

4 A breaſt-plate] Where the ephod croſſed the high-prieſt's breaſt, there was a ſquare ornament called the breaſt-plate or pectoral; it was ſet with twelve precious ſtones in gold, in four rows, three in each row, with the names of the twelve tribes engraven, on each ſtone one. The whole was faſtened to the ephod at four corners; the top, by a golden hook or ring, at the end of a wreathed chain to each ſhoulder-piece; the bottom, to the girdle of the ephod, by two blue ſtrings or ribbons, having likewiſe two rings or hooks.

An ephod] This was a kind of ſquare cloak, about two feet in length, hanging down from the ſhoulders, curiouſly wrought with gold, and other variegated embroidery; on the top, on each ſide, were two ſhoulder-pieces, to which were faſtened two precious ſtones, ſet in gold, upon which were engraven the names of the twelve tribes, ſix on each ſtone.

A robe] This was a long garment made of blue cloth, hanging down to the heels; it was faſhioned like a ſurplice, the ſkirts wrought with blue, purple, and ſcarlet yarn, in the ſhape of pomegranates, between each of which hung a bell of gold.

23 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſtplate two rings of gold, and ſhalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breaſtplate.

24 And thou ſhalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breaſtplate.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains thou ſhalt faſten in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder pieces of the ephod before it.

26 And thou ſhalt make two rings of gold, and thou ſhalt put them upon the two ends of the breaſtplate in the border thereof, which is in the ſide of the ephod inward.

27 And two other rings of gold thou ſhalt make, and ſhalt put them on the two ſides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart thereof, over againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

30 ¶ And thou ſhalt put in the breaſtplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim; and they ſhall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the LORD; and Aaron ſhall bear the judgment of the children of Iſrael upon his heart before the LORD continually.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt make the robe of the ephod all of blue.

32 And there ſhall be an hole in the top of it, in the midſt thereof: it ſhall have a binding of woven work round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of an habergeon, that it be not rent.

33 And beneath upon the hem of it thou ſhalt make pomegranates of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, round about the hem thereof; and bells of gold between them round about:

A broidered coat] In Hebrew, A coat with eyes; whence ſome imagine that it had eyes or ſpangles, varied with little holes. This was the undermoſt garment, not much unlike a ſhirt; it was made of fine linen, embroidered, ſtuck pretty cloſe to the body, and likewiſe reached to the heels.

A mitre] The mitre was made of fine linen, it covered the head, and upon the forehead there was a plate of gold, whereon were engraven theſe words, "Holineſs to the Lord;" and this was tied behind the head with two ribbons, faſtened to its two ends.

A girdle, &c.] This was made of gold thread, and others of different colours; it was brought from behind the neck, and over the two ſhoulders, then put croſs upon the ſtomach, carried round the waiſt, and brought back again about the body, where it girded the tunic like a ſaſh, and ſo fell down before, hanging as low as the feet.

11 Like the engraving of a ſignet] That is, "en creux," or hollow like the impreſſion of a ſeal. As the engraving in ſtone is an affair of ſome difficulty, and was one of the later inventions of luxury, we may from hence gueſs at the high antiquity of the polite arts in Egypt, from whom the Jews, or the artificers at this time employed by them, had certainly borrowed them.

Set in ouches, &c.] The word "ouch" was originally uſed to expreſs a ſpangle, or glittering ornament, made of ſmall plates of gold and ſilver, and of ſparks, when applied to jewels.

17 A ſardius] A precious ſtone of a red flaming colour, ſemi-pellucid, or half-tranſparent, and ſometimes with a yellow caſt in it. Our modern jewellers call it a cornelian.

A topaz] A tranſparent ſtone, and of a beautiful yellow or gold colour.

A carbuncle, &c.] Is a ſpecies of ruby, of a glowing red colour, and is ſurnamed from "carbo," an hot coal.

18 An emerald] This gem is of a moſt lively green, tranſparent, and free from the leaſt mixture of any other colour.

A ſapphire] Is of a fine blue colour.

A diamond] This gem is eſteemed above all others, on account of its ſuperior hardneſs and luſtre.

19 A ligure] This is generally thought to be a kind of jacinth, nearly of the colour of amber.

An agate] Is partly tranſparent, and partly opake, for the moſt part variegated with veins, and diſpoſed in a very elegant manner.

An Amethyſt] Is a precious ſtone of a violet colour, bordering on purple, or nearly the colour of red wine.

20 A beryl] A gem of a pale green, generally known by the name of aqua marina; from its reſemblance to ſea water in colour.

An onyx] The ground of this gem reſembles a human nail in colour, from whence it derives its name; it is variegated in a very regular manner with zones of brown colour.

A jaſper, &c.] Is generally of a green colour, ſpeckled with yellow, brown, white, and blue.

21 The ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael, &c.] Upon the ſardius was engraven the name of Reuben; the topaz, Simeon; the carbuncle, Levi; the emerald, Judah; the ſapphire, Iſſachar; the diamond, Zebulon; the ligure, Dan; the agate, Naphtali; the amethyſt, Gad; the beryl, Aſher; the onyx, Joſeph; and the jaſper, Benjamin.

30 The Urim and the Thummim] There have been various opinions concerning the true meaning of theſe words; but the moſt probable appears to be this, That when Moſes was commanded to put into the breaſt-plate the Urim and Thummim, i. e. lights and perfections, it implied, that he ſhould chooſe the moſt precious ſet of ſtones, and cauſe them to be poliſhed in the moſt elegant manner, in order to increaſe their natural luſtre. What we read, ver. 30, confirms this conjecture, where, after God had given particular directions for making the breaſt-plate, he adds, "And thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment the Urim and Thummim," which, when literally tranſlated, runs thus: And thou ſhalt give to the breaſt-plate of judgment thoſe lights and perfections, viz. of the twelve ſtones.

They ſhall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the Lord] In what manner God was conſulted by Urim and Thummim, hath been variouſly conjectured: it ſeems to have been in the following manner: the high-prieſt preſented himſelf with his breaſt-plate on, over all his other robes, and ſtood oppoſite the mercy-ſeat, where the ſhekinah, or viſible glory reſted, and then God gave him anſwers from thence with an audible voice, as he did to Moſes.

The judgment, &c.] The breaſt-plate of judgment.

36 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a plate of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

37 And thou ſhalt put it on a blue lace, that it may be upon the mitre; upon the forefront of the mitre it ſhall be.

38 And it ſhall be upon Aaron's forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts; and it ſhall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD.

42 And thou ſhalt make them linen breeches to cover their nakedneſs; from the loins even unto the thighs they ſhall reach.

43 And they ſhall be upon Aaron, and upon his ſons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar to miniſter into the holy place; that they bear not iniquity, and die: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto him and his ſeed after him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVIII.

From the particular care that was taken of the ſacrifices, we may learn firſt, That God would have us, in all places of worſhip, to have the ordinances ſo conducted, as to make a laſting impreſſion on our mind. Secondly, From the grand appearance that the robes of the high-prieſt made, let us learn, that in our whole conduct in life our light ſhould ſo ſhine before men, that others ſeeing our good works, may glorify our Father who is in heaven. Laſtly, by holineſs to the Lord being inſcribed on the breaſt-plate, let us learn that we ſhould carry along with us, not only holineſs of heart through life, but we ſhould keep a holy jealouſy over all our actions, and on every occaſion take care not to offend, leſt we bring upon ourſelves the diſpleaſure of God.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 The ſacrifice and ceremonies of conſecrating the prieſts. 38 The continual burnt offering. 43 God's promiſe to ſanctify and dwell among the children of Iſrael.

AND this is the thing that thou ſhalt do unto them to hallow them, to miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office: take one young bullock, and two rams without blemiſh, Before CHRIST 1491.

2 And unleavened bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour ſhalt thou make them.

3 And thou ſhalt put them into one baſket, and bring them in the baſket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his ſons thou ſhalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhalt waſh them with water.

5 And thou ſhalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breaſtplate, and gird him with the curious girdle of the ephod:

6 And thou ſhalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre.

7 Then ſhalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him.

8 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and put coats upon them.

9 And thou ſhalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his ſons, and put the bonnets on them: and the prieſt's office ſhall be their's for a perpetual ſtatute: and thou ſhalt conſecrate Aaron and his ſons.

10 And thou ſhalt cauſe a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the bullock.

11 And thou ſhalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

12 And thou ſhalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beſide the bottom of the altar.

13 And thou ſhalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar.

14 But the fleſh of the bullock, and his ſkin, and his dung, ſhalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a ſin offering.

15 Thou ſhalt alſo take one ram; and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

16 And thou ſhalt ſlay the ram, and thou ſhalt take his blood, and ſprinkle it round about upon the altar.

17 And thou ſhalt cut the ram in pieces, and waſh the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his pieces, and unto his head.

18 And thou ſhalt burn the whole ram upon the altar:

35 His ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in, &c.] What the number of bells are, we are not told, only their uſe. When the high-prieſt was going into the ſanctuary, he wore theſe little bells on the hem of his robe, as well to give notice to the people to prepare and fix their attention, as out of reſpect to the divine preſence, reſiding in the ſanctum ſanctorum, or holy of holies; firſt deſiring, as it were, permiſſion to enter, and that he might not be puniſhed with death for an unmannerly intruſion.

36 HOLINESS TO THE LORD.] This motto could not fail to remind the prieſt, that he was conſecrated to Jehovah, the great God of all things.

38 That Aaron might bear the iniquity of the holy things, &c.] That he may obtain pardon for the omiſſions and deficiencies of the people, in their performance of religious duties.

40 Bonnets, &c.] In this particular we have an inſtance wherein the Jewiſh habit was ordained in oppoſition to that of the Egyptians; for the Egyptian prieſts miniſtered always bareheaded, but the Jewiſh had their heads covered.

42 Linen breeches, &c.] This was in oppoſition to the unchaſte ritual of the neighbouring nations, who, in their adoration of Baalpeor, were guilty of the groſſeſt obſcenities.

43 A ſtatute for ever, &c.] That is, as long as the Jewiſh ſtate ſhall continue, or there ſhall be any prieſthood of the order of Aaron, they ſhall appear before God in theſe garments.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIX.

1 And this is the thing, &c.] This chapter contains a ſuccinct account of the manner of conſecrating the Jewiſh prieſts, the ceremonies of which were doubtleſs in order to give them and the people a deep ſenſe of the ſacredneſs of their office. The high prieſt was a manifeſt type of Chriſt Jeſus, our great high-prieſt, who is gone into the heavens, there to appear before God, and make interceſſion for us, as is fully and ſublimely explained in the epiſtle to the Hebrews.

4 And ſhalt waſh them with water.] Ablution was an antient ceremony, and obſerved in acts of worſhip as an emblem of inward purity.

5 Thou ſhalt take the garments, &c.] This typically repreſented, that after the prieſts had by ſpiritual waſhing purified themſelves from ſin, they were to be clothed with the garments of righteouſneſs, of which the holy veſtments were types or ſymbols. Pſalm cxxxii. 9, 16.

6 The holy crown] The golden plate, upon which was engraved, Holineſs to the Lord.

10 Shall put their hands upon the head of the bullock] By this denoting, that they diſburdened themſelves of their ſins, and laid them upon the head of the ſacrifice to be killed. This prefigured Chriſt the great ſacrifice, upon whom was laid the iniquity of us all.

Tabernacle of the congregation, &c.] In Hebrew, Tabernacle of the meeting; ſo called, becauſe the people met or aſſembled there to perform their religious duties.

13 All the fat, &c.] This was the omentum, or caul; it might typically repreſent the neceſſity of mortifying all thoſe vices which ſtupify and deaden the ſoul, or teach the neceſſity of giving God the beſt of our ſubſtance.

14 Without the camp, &c.] Intimating that the guilt of ſin was carried out far from the people. So Chriſt ſuffered without the gate.

15 Thou ſhalt take one ram, &c.] Rams, heifers, and goats, were eſteemed ſacred animals, becauſe in ſymbolic hieroglyphics they were altar: it is a burnt offering unto the LORD: it is a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

19 And thou ſhalt take the other ram; and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

20 Then ſhalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his ſons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And thou ſhalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and ſprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon the garments of his ſons with him: and he ſhall be hallowed, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons' garments with him.

22 Alſo thou ſhalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right ſhoulder; for it is a ram of conſecration:

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the baſket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD:

24 And thou ſhalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his ſons; and ſhalt wave them for a wave offering before the LORD.

25 And thou ſhalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt offering, for a ſweet ſavour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou ſhalt take the breaſt of the ram of Aaron's conſecration, and wave it for a wave offering before the LORD: and it ſhall be thy part.

27 And thou ſhalt ſanctify the breaſt of the wave offering, and the ſhoulder of the heave offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up, of the ram of the conſecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his ſons:

28 And it ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons' by a ſtatute for ever from the children of Iſrael: for it is an heave offering: and it ſhall be an heave offering from the children of Iſrael of the ſacrifice of their peace offerings, even their heave offering unto the LORD.

29 And the holy garments of Aaron ſhall be his ſon's after him, to be anointed therein, and to be conſecrated in them.

30 And that ſon that is prieſt in his ſtead ſhall put them on ſeven days, when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation to miniſter in the holy place.

31 And thou ſhalt take the ram of the conſecration, and ſeethe his fleſh in the holy place.

32 And Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat the fleſh of the ram, and the bread that is in the baſket, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

33 And they ſhall eat thoſe things wherewith the atonement was made, to conſecrate and to ſanctify them: but a ſtranger ſhall not eat thereof, becauſe they are holy.

34 And if ought of the fleſh of the conſecrations, or of the bread, remain unto the morning, then thou ſhalt burn the remainder with fire: it ſhall not be eaten, becauſe it is holy.

Before CHRIST 1491.

35 And thus ſhalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his ſons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: ſeven days ſhalt thou conſecrate them.

36 And thou ſhalt offer every day a bullock for a ſin offering for atonement: and thou ſhalt cleanſe the altar, when thou haſt made an atonement for it, and thou ſhalt anoint it, to ſanctify it.

37 Seven days thou ſhalt make an atonement for the altar, and ſanctify it; and it ſhall be an altar moſt holy: whatſoever toucheth the altar ſhall be holy.

38 ¶ Now this is that which thou ſhalt offer upon the altar; two lambs of the firſt year day by day continually.

39 The one lamb thou ſhalt offer in the morning; and the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even:

40 And with the one lamb a tenth deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil; and the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink offering.

41 And the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even, and ſhalt do thereto according to the meat offering of the morning, and according to the drink offering thereof, for a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 This ſhall be a continual burnt offering throughout your generations at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD: where I will meet you, to ſpeak there unto thee.

43 ¶ And there I will meet with the children of Iſrael, and the tabernacle ſhall be ſanctified by my glory.

44 And I will ſanctify the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: I will ſanctify alſo both Aaron and his ſons, to miniſter to me in the prieſt's office.

45 And I will dwell among the children of Iſrael, and will be their God.

46 And they ſhall know that I am the LORD their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them: I am the LORD their God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIX.

Firſt, The ſolemn rites made uſe of at the conſecration of Aaron and his ſons, ſhould teach us, that ſome ſort of ſolemity ſhould be offered at the ordination of miniſters. Secondly, The law concerning morning and evening ſacrifices ſhould alſo teach us, that nothing can excuſe us from beginning the day, and ending it, in begging the divine bleſſing upon our labour and ſleep, and giving thanks to God for his mercies. Laſtly, As God promiſed that he would dwell among the children of Iſrael, as long as the memory of his name was kept up; ſo Chriſtians may be aſſured of his favour, in attending to their duty, and on all occaſions ſhewing mercy and kindneſs to each other.

uſed to repreſent ſome deity; the picture of the ram at firſt, and the living animal in proceſs of time, were peculiarly worſhipped at Thebes; and in oppoſition to this ſpecies of idolatry, this command was probably given.

20 Put it upon the tip of the right ear, &c.] The ear is uſed, in ſcripture, as the ſymbol of obedience, the hand of action, and the foot as the ſymbol of the path or conduct of life; the prieſts were therefore taught by this ceremony to apply their ears diligently to the ſtudy of the law, to employ their hands with the like diligence in the work of the ſacred miniſtry, and to direct their feet to walk in the way of God's commandments.

27 The wave offering, and—the heave offering, &c.] The words "wave" and "heave" are uſed to denote any offering whatever; however, the rabbins made a diſtinction, and tell us, that the firſt was waved up and down, eaſt, weſt, north, and ſouth; to ſignify that God was the Lord of the earth as well as the heavens; the laſt was only lifted up towards heaven, in token of its being devoted to God.

30 Shall put them on ſeven days, &c.] That is, the ſeven days of conſecration, before he entered upon his office, during which time the prieſts were not to ſtir from the door of the tabernacle by night or by day. It is worthy of remark, that the number "ſeven" is much regarded in ſacred matters. The blood of the atonement was ſprinkled before the mercy-ſeat ſeven times; the conſecrating oil was ſprinkled on the altar ſeven times; the leper was ſprinkled ſeven times; the days appointed for his cleanſing were ſeven; the time for the conſecration of prieſts was ſeven days, as alſo for purifying the unclean: Naaman was commanded to waſh in Jordan ſeven times; Jericho was ſeven days beſieged; every ſeventh day was a ſabbath; every ſeventh year a year of reſt; and every ſeven times ſeven the year of jubilee.

37 Whatſoever toucheth the altar, &c.] Our bleſſed Saviour alludes to this, Matt. xxiii. 19.

40 A tenth deal] A tenth part of the ephah, ſometimes called an omer, equivalent to about half a peck Engliſh meaſure.

An hin, &c.] That is, about our gallon.

9 Ye ſhall offer no ſtrange incenſe thereon, nor burnt ſacrifice, nor meat offering; neither ſhall ye pour drink offering thereon.

10 And Aaron ſhall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year with the blood of the ſin offering of atonements: once in the year ſhall he make atonement upon it throughout your generations: it is moſt holy unto the LORD.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 When thou takeſt the ſum of the children of Iſrael after their number, then ſhall they give every man a ranſom for his ſoul unto the LORD, when thou numbereſt them; that there be no plague among them, when thou numbereſt them.

13 This they ſhall give, every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered, half a ſhekel after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: (a ſhekel is twenty gerahs:) an half ſhekel ſhall be the offering of the LORD.

14 Every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, ſhall give an offering unto the LORD.

15 The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs than half a ſhekel, when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

16 And thou ſhalt take the atonement money of the children of Iſrael, and ſhalt appoint it for the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael before the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

17 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Thou ſhalt alſo make a laver of braſs, and his foot alſo of braſs, to waſh withal: and thou ſhalt put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou ſhalt put water therein. Before CHRIST 1491.

19 For Aaron and his ſons ſhall waſh their hands and their feet thereat:

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they ſhall waſh with water, that they die not; or when they come near to the altar to miniſter, to burn offering made by fire unto the LORD:

21 So they ſhall waſh their hands and their feet, that they die not: and it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever to them, even to him and to his ſeed throughout their generations.

22 ¶ Moreover the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Take thou alſo unto thee principal ſpices, of pure myrrh five hundred ſhekels, and of ſweet cinnamon half ſo much, even two hundred and fifty ſhekels, and of ſweet calamus two hundred and fifty ſhekels,

24 And of caſſia five hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, and of oil olive one hin:

25 And thou ſhalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the apothecary: it ſhall be an holy anointing oil.

26 And thou ſhalt anoint the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the teſtimony.

27 And the table and all his veſſels, and the candleſtick and his veſſels, and the altar of incenſe,

28 And the altar of burnt offering with all his veſſels, and the laver and his foot.

29 And thou ſhalt ſanctify them that they may be moſt holy: whatſoever toucheth them ſhall be holy.

30 And thou ſhalt anoint Aaron and his ſons, and conſecrate them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office.

31 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This ſhall be an holy anointing oil unto me throughout your generations.

32 Upon man's fleſh ſhall it not be poured, neither ſhall ye make any other like it, after the compoſition of it: it is holy, and it ſhall be holy unto you.

33 Whoſoever compoundeth any like it, or whoſoever putteth any of it upon a ſtranger, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

34 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take unto thee ſweet ſpices, ſtacte, and onycha, and galbanum; theſe ſweet ſpices with pure frankincenſe: of each ſhall there be a like weight:

35 And thou ſhalt make it a perfume, a confection after the art of the apothecary, tempered together, pure and holy:

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXX.

6 I will meet, &c.] See chap. xxv. 22.

7 Sweet incenſe, &c.] This incenſe was compounded of many fragrant and odoriferous ſpices. See ver. 34.

9 Strange incenſe, &c.] That is, either ſuch as is uſed by idolatrous nations, or ſuch as is not expreſsly preſcribed by God himſelf.

12 Then ſhall they give every man a ranſom for his ſoul, &c.] This tax was as a pious acknowledgment to God, for having redeemed them from the bondage of Egypt, and delivered them from ſo many dangers and difficulties with his own right hand.

13 Half a ſhekel] About fourteen pence of our money.

After the ſhekel of the ſanctuary] Some have ſuppoſed that there was an ordinary and an holy ſhekel, and that the latter was twice as much as the former; but it is moſt probable there was but one kind of ſhekel, which is here called, "of the ſanctuary," becauſe there was one kept there as a proof, or ſtandard, by which all theſe coins were maintained in their juſt value, goodneſs, and weight.

Twenty gerahs, &c.] This gerah was ſomething more than a penny.

15 The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs, &c.] All ſouls are equal, alike in the eſteem of God, who made them all.

18 A laver of braſs, &c.] This, on account of its extraordinary ſize, was called the brazen ſea. It was placed in the court of the tabernacle, not far from the altar of burnt offerings.

23 Of pure myrrh] The word mor, in the original, is generally ſuppoſed to mean "myrrh," though ſome are of opinion that it ſignifies ambergris, and others frankincenſe.

Five hundred ſhekels] Something more than twenty pounds weight.

Sweet cinnamon] The cinnamon of the antients has been thought to differ from ours, for this reaſon, becauſe it is not known at preſent to be produced in any other part of the eaſt, except in Ceylon, an iſland of the Indian ſea; but is not impoſſible that the ſame ſpice might be found in ſome of the foreſts of Arabia; and that it does grow in other parts of the world beſides Ceylon, is evident, as it is found in one of the foreſts of America.

Sweet calamus, &c.] This is a ſpicy root belonging to a particular flag or iris, called "calamus aromaticus," or ſweet cane.

24 Caſſia, &c.] As the drug now known by the name of caſſia is not aromatic, it is imagined that the antient coſtus is here meant, which was ſometimes burnt on the heathen altars, the beſt ſort of which grew in Arabia. There are ſaid to be various kinds of it; but that in uſe with us is brought from the Eaſt Indies, and has a fragrant ſmell, not unlike that of violets.

34 Stacte] The beſt ſort of myrrh, or that which flows ſpontaneouſly from the tree. Some think it was liquid ſtorax, which is the produce of a particular tree growing near Suez, in Arabia, and in great eſteem among the eaſtern people.

Onycha] There are various opinions concerning this onycha. Some take it for the ſhell of a fiſh which fed upon ſpikenard, found in certain pools and lakes, the beſt of which Dibſcrides affirms, was brought from the Red ſea. The Arabic tranſlation has it, Laudanum, an aromatic gum, made uſe of by the Arabians in the compoſition of their perfumes. Others think it was bdellium.

Galbanum] This was the gum of liquor of a plant reſembling fennel, which was common in Syria. Some tranſlations diſtinguiſh the galbanum here rendered, by calling it galbanum of ſweet odour, to diſtinguiſh it from the common ſort, which is of a diſagreeable ſcent. There was a particular ſpecies, the product of mount Amaria, in Syria, of a very pleaſing odour.

Frankincenſe, &c.] This is a dry reſinous ſubſtance, of an agreeable ſmell, common in ſome parts of Arabia, particularly in that called Sabæa.

36 And thou ſhalt beat ſome of it very ſmall, and put of it before the teſtimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, where I will meet with thee: it ſhall be unto you moſt holy.

37 And as for the perfume which thou ſhalt make, ye ſhall not make to yourſelves according to the compoſition thereof: it ſhall be unto thee holy for the LORD.

38 Whoſoever ſhall make like unto that, to ſmell thereto, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXX.

By the altar of incenſe being placed before the vail, we are to learn, firſt, That till Chriſt came, there would be a ſtate of darkneſs that would reſemble the ſhade made by a vail. Secondly, As the money paid by way of ranſom for the people was to ſupport the tabernacle; ſo it is our duty to contribute towards ſupporting ſuch places as are ſet apart for the ſervice of the divine being. Thirdly, The prieſts were commanded to waſh themſelves, before they performed any ſervices; and this ſhould teach us, that in all our approaches to God we ſhould be diveſted of every impurity. Laſtly, The ſtrict charge given to them not to employ the oil to any purpoſe but that which had been preſcribed, implies, that great reſpect ſhould be ſhewn to every thing ſet apart for a religious uſe.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Bezaleel and Aholiab are called, and qualified for the work of the tabernacle. 12 The obſervance of the ſabbath is again commanded. 18 Moſes receiveth the two tables.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 See, I have called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah:

3 And I have filled him with the ſpirit of God, in wiſdom, and in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip,

4 To deviſe cunning works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs,

5 And in cutting of ſtones, to ſet them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanſhip.

6 And I, behold, I have given with him Aholiab, the ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan: and in the hearts of all that are wiſe hearted I have put wiſdom, that they may make all that I have commanded thee;

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the teſtimony, and the mercy ſeat that is thereupon, and all the furniture of the tabernacle,

8 And the table and his furniture, and the pure candleſtick with all his furniture, and the altar of incenſe,

9 And the altar of burnt offering with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot,

10 And the cloths of ſervice, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons, to miniſter in the prieſt's office,

11 And the anointing oil, and ſweet incenſe for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee ſhall they do.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

Before CHRIST 1491.

13 Speak thou alſo unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep: for it is a ſign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth ſanctify you.

14 Ye ſhall keep the ſabbath therefore; for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it ſhall ſurely be put to death: for whoſoever doeth any work therein, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people.

15 Six days may work be done; but in the ſeventh is the ſabbath of reſt, holy to the LORD: whoſoever doeth any work in the ſabbath day, he ſhall ſurely be put to death.

16 Wherefore the children of Iſrael ſhall keep the ſabbath, to obſerve the ſabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.

17 It is a ſign between me and the children of Iſrael for ever: for in ſix days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the ſeventh day he reſted, and was refreſhed.

18 ¶ And he gave unto Moſes, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, two tables of teſtimony, tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXI.

We here find, that God did not leave it to the people to make choice of proper perſons for the ſervice; and from hence we may learn, firſt, That we have no right to nominate any other officers for his ſervice than are mentioned in his word. Secondly, That although the Iſraelites had been long oppreſſed in Egypt, yet they had many ingenious perſons among them; which points out to us, that God can give many things to the oppreſſed which have been denied by their cruel taſkmaſters. Thirdly, From the frequent mention here made of the ſabbath, we may obſerve, that as God knows of how much value divine worſhip is to us, ſo he would have it carefully attended to. Laſtly, Let the care that God took to enjoin the whole law, remind us to make that part which is moral the unalterable rule of our conduct.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 The people in the abſence of Moſes cauſe Aaron to make a calf. 7 God is angered thereby. 11 At the intreaty of Moſes he is appeaſed. 15 Moſes cometh down with the tables: 19 He breaketh them: 20 He deſtroyeth the calf. 21 Aaron's excuſe for himſelf. 25 Moſes cauſeth the idolaters to be ſlain. 30 He prayeth for the people. 33 God's anſwer.

AND when the people ſaw that Moſes delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themſelves together unto Aaron, and ſaid unto him, Up, make us gods, which ſhall go before us; for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

2 And

36 Put of it before the teſtimony, &c.] Upon the altar of incenſe, placed before the ark, but without the vail.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXI.

2 See, I have called by name] That is, I have choſen him, or appointed.

Bezaleel, the ſon of Uri, &c.] This genealogy is deſcribed 1 Chron. ii. 18—20.

8 The pure candleſtick, &c.] This was ſo denominated, either from its being conſecrated, or becauſe it was made of pure gold; though moſt probably on the latter account.

10 The cloths of ſervice, &c.] That is, the vail, curtains, and coverings of the tabernacle, the hangings of the court, and all the coverings which ſerved to wrap up the holy things in, in their removals.

13 Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep] As the Hebrew particle ach is uſed as an exceptive particle, the words may be rendered, Nevertheleſs my ſabbath ye ſhall keep. Notwithſtanding I have been thus particular in my directions concerning the number, form, and materials of all theſe things, yet do not imagine that all I require conſiſts merely in ſuch externals, which will not acquit you of your neglect of other duties, and, in particular, the obſervation of my ſabbath.

It is a ſign between me and you, &c.] By which you ſignify, that you are the worſhippers of the one ſupreme being, who in the ſpace of ſix days created all things, and on the ſeventh reſted or ceaſed from his works.

14 Every one that defileth it, &c.] The ſabbath being peculiarly given to the Jews, as a ſign of the covenant between them and God, the violation of this day, omitting the moral events it produced, was in effect an infringement of the covenant, conſequently an act of rebellion, and juſtly puniſhed with immature death, as the words "cut off" implies.

15 The ſabbath of reſt, &c.] In the Hebrew it is, The reſt of reſts; and ſignifies, that of all others, this day ought moſt religiouſly to be obſerved, and kept with great punctuality.

18 Tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God.] Many conſider this as a metaphorical expreſſion, implying, that the words of the decalogue were written by the hand of Moſes, by the particular direction of God; though the phraſe ſeems rather to ſignify, that God employed neither Moſes, nor any other inſtrument in writing them, but that he did it by his own powerful operation.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXII.

1 Up, make us gods] It ſhould have been rendered in the ſingular, Up, make us a god. From hence it is evident, that the Iſraelites had imbibed the idolatrous notions of the Egyptians, who worſhipped the golden calf. They had waited above a month for Moſes's return from the mount, but now deſpairing of it, they thought it neceſſary to have a god of ſome kind, to direct them in their way through the wilderneſs. Some are of opinion that the Iſraelites evidently intended the worſhip of the true God under this ſimilitude; accordingly we find, ver. 5. their feaſt was proclaimed to the Lord, or Jehovah. However, not only to worſhip a falſe deity, but alſo

Before CHRIST 1491.

2 And Aaron ſaid unto them, Break off the golden earrings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your ſons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

3 And all the people brake off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron.

4 And he received them at their hand, and faſhioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they ſaid, Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron ſaw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made proclamation, and ſaid, To morrow is a feaſt to the LORD.

6 And they roſe up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people ſat down to eat and to drink, and roſe up to play.

7 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughteſt out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themſelves:

8 They have turned aſide quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worſhipped it, and have ſacrificed thereunto, and ſaid, Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, I have ſeen this people, and, behold, it is a ſtiffnecked people:

10 Now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot againſt them, and that I may conſume them: and I will make of thee a great nation.

11 ¶ And Moſes beſought the LORD his God, and ſaid, LORD, why doth thy wrath wax hot againſt thy people, which thou haſt brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a mighty hand?

12 Wherefore ſhould the Egyptians ſpeak, and ſay, For miſchief did he bring them out, to ſlay them in the mountains, and to conſume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil againſt thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, thy ſervants, to whom thou ſwareſt by thine own ſelf, and ſaidſt unto them, I will multiply your ſeed as the ſtars of heaven, and all this land that I have ſpoken of will I give unto your ſeed, and they ſhall inherit it for ever.

14 And the LORD repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

15 ¶ And Moſes turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the teſtimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their ſides; on the one ſide and on the other were they written.

16 And the tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables. Before CHRIST 1491.

17 And when Joſhua heard the noiſe of the people as they ſhouted, he ſaid unto Moſes, There is a noiſe of war in the camp.

18 And he ſaid, It is not the voice of them that ſhout for maſtery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for being overcome: but the noiſe of them that ſing do I hear.

19 ¶ And it came to paſs, as ſoon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he ſaw the calf, and the dancing: and Moſes' anger waxed hot, and he caſt the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount.

20 ¶ And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and ſtrawed it upon the water, and made the children of Iſrael drink of it.

21 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee, that thou haſt brought ſo great a ſin upon them?

22 And Aaron ſaid, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot; thou knoweſt the people, that they are ſet on miſchief.

23 For they ſaid unto me, Make us gods, which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

24 And I ſaid unto them, Whoſoever hath any gold, let them break it off. So they gave it me: then I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf.

25 ¶ And when Moſes ſaw that the people were naked; (for Aaron had made them naked unto their ſhame among their enemies:)

26 Then Moſes ſtood in the gate of the camp, and ſaid, Who is on the LORD's ſide? let him come unto me. And all the ſons of Levi gathered themſelves together unto him.

27 And he ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes: and there fell of the people that day about three thouſand men.

29 For Moſes had ſaid, Conſecrate yourſelves to day to the LORD, even every man upon his ſon, and upon his brother; that he may beſtow upon you a bleſſing this day.

30 ¶ And

---

the true by an external image, was equally forbidden by the ſecond commandment.

Which ſhall go before us, &c.] Their intention was, to return into Egypt; and they flattered themſelves, that by carrying before them the god ſo highly adored in that country, the Egyptians would forgive their defection, and receive them again into their land.

4 And faſhioned it with a graving tool] The verb tzur, ſignifies "to bind, or tie up," and cherret denotes "a bag," as well as a graving tool; this paſſage therefore may be rendered, And he received them, (viz. the golden ear-rings) at their hand, and tied them in a bag, and cauſed them to be caſt into a molten calf.

A molten calf, &c.] In imitation of the Egyptian god Apis or Serapis, which was a living ox, as well as an image made in the likeneſs of that creature.

5 Aaron made proclamation, &c.] Some have endeavoured to excuſe the conduct of Aaron upon this occaſion, but certainly it will admit of no palliation: ſuch examples of human frailty and weakneſs ought to teach us to be conſtantly on our guard, and carefully to avoid every ſinful temptation.

6 To play.] The Hebrew ſignifies, To laugh. It was the cuſtom of the Egyptians when they had found out their god Apis, to bring him with great pomp and ſolemnity to Memphis, the royal city, the children going before in proceſſion, and the company ſinging a ſong of praiſe to the deity. This rejoicing of the Iſraelites might therefore be in imitation of the Egyptian practice.

7 Thy people, &c.] A term of diſdain, by which God diſavowed them from being his people, who had ſo grievouſly corrupted themſelves.

9 A ſtiffnecked people.] Or, refractory. It is a metaphorical expreſſion, taken from oxen, that will not yield their necks to the yoke.

14 The Lord repented, &c.] A figurative expreſſion, adapted to the ſentiments and affections of human nature.

19 Brake them beneath the mount.] Purpoſely, by which he gave them to underſtand, they had broken their ſolemn covenant with God, through their idolatry.

20 He took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire] That is, he calcined it, and reduced it to duſt.

Made the children of Iſrael drink of it.] That is, he caſt the powder into the brook that deſcended out of the mount of Horeb (Deut. ix. 21.) which being the only water in the thirſty deſert, the Iſraelites were obliged to drink of it. This was to render them the more ſenſible of their folly, in worſhipping that for a god which was to paſs through their bodies.

22 They are ſet on miſchief.] That is, they are prone to the ſin of idolatry.

24 I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf.] Here Aaron diſſembles, and endeavours to extenuate his crime, by pretending that the calf was made rather by chance than deſign.

25 Were naked, &c.] Some underſtand by this, that they were diveſted of their virtue and piety; but (though this was true) the moſt natural ſignification ſeems to be, that they wanted arms, and for that reaſon were not able to reſiſt the Levites, a few of whom ſlew 3000 of the people.

26 All the ſons of Levi gathered themſelves together, &c.] Hence we learn, that not only all the other tribes had joined in the idolatrous feaſt, but even ſome of the Levites, becauſe Moſes commands them to ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, in caſe he ſhould come in his way.

28 The children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes, &c.] This zeal of the tribe of Levi was amply rewarded; for it not only helped to wipe off that ſtain their anceſtors had entailed upon them, by the cruel and ſhocking murder of the Shechemites; but, in a ſhort time, procured them the Levitical prieſthood; which, though inferior to the Aaronical, entitled them to the tythe, or tenth part; to the lower miniſtry of the tabernacle, and afterwards of the temple; to a place in the tribunal of each city and town; to the property of thirty-five cities of refuge, and other privileges.

29 Conſecrate yourſelves to day, &c.] This paſſage may be rendered, Conſecrate yourſelves to-day to the Lord, becauſe every man hath been againſt his ſon, and againſt his brother, &c.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſaid unto the people, Ye have ſinned a great ſin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; peradventure I ſhall make an atonement for your ſin.

31 And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Oh, this people have ſinned a great ſin, and have made them gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their ſin—; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou haſt written.

33 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Whoſoever hath ſinned againſt me, him will I blot out of my book.

34 Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have ſpoken unto thee: behold, mine Angel ſhall go before thee: nevertheleſs in the day when I viſit I will viſit their ſin upon them.

35 And the LORD plagued the people, becauſe they made the calf, which Aaron made.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXII.

Here we are to conſider, firſt, The great ſin of the Iſraelites, who, notwithſtanding ſo many warnings that God had given them to ſhun idolatry, and the ſolemn promiſes lately made by them, fell into that ſin. Secondly, That although they pretended to worſhip the true God, under the figure of a golden calf, yet they were guilty of real idolatry; which ſhews, that it is abſolutely forbidden to worſhip any image; and that thoſe things which God had forbid, cannot be rendered lawful by the intention. Thirdly, We may likewiſe obſerve the weakneſs of Aaron, who, inſtead of oppoſing the idolatry, conſented to it; and learn pretences to reſiſt all evil with courage. Fourthly, The great charity of Moſes, who interceded with ſo much zeal for the children of Iſrael, ſhould ſerve us for an example, and a motive too, to intercede and pray for ſinners. The puniſhment which the Levites executed upon the idolatrous people muſt be acknowledged to be very juſt, though it was very ſevere, God having expreſsly ordered to put to death thoſe that were guilty of idolatry. Laſtly, This chapter ſhould bring to our mind what St. Paul ſays, 1 Cor. x. that theſe things are our examples, to the intent that we ſhould not luſt after evil things, as did the Iſraelites; and that we ſhould not imitate them in their idolatry, their wanderings, and diſobedience.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The Lord refuſeth to go with the people. 4 The people mourn thereat. 7 The tabernacle is removed out of the camp. 9 The Lord talketh familiarly with Moſes out of the cloudy pillar. 12 Moſes prayeth for the continuance of God's preſence, 18 and deſireth to ſee the glory of God.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Depart, and go up hence, thou and the people which thou haſt brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I ſware unto Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, ſaying, Unto thy ſeed will I give it:

2 And I will ſend an angel before thee; and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite:

3 Unto a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midſt of thee; for thou art a ſtiffnecked people: leſt I conſume thee in the way.

4 ¶ And when the people heard theſe evil tidings, they mourned: and no man did put on him his ornaments. Before CHRIST 1491.

5 For the LORD had ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto the children of Iſrael, Ye are a ſtiffnecked people: I will come up into the midſt of thee in a moment, and conſume thee: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee.

6 And the children of Iſrael ſtripped themſelves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

7 ¶ And Moſes took the tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and called it the Tabernacle of the congregation. And it came to paſs, that every one which ſought the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

8 And it came to paſs, when Moſes went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people roſe up, and ſtood every man at his tent door, and looked after Moſes, until he was gone into the tabernacle.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs, as Moſes entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar deſcended, and ſtood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moſes.

10 And all the people ſaw the cloudy pillar ſtand at the tabernacle door: and all the people roſe up and worſhipped, every man in his tent door.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes face to face, as a man ſpeaketh unto his friend. And he turned again into the camp: but his ſervant Joſhua, the ſon of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

12 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, See, thou ſayeſt unto me, Bring up this people: and thou haſt not let me know whom thou wilt ſend with me. Yet thou haſt ſaid, I know thee by name, and thou haſt alſo found grace in my ſight.

13 Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy ſight, ſhew me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy ſight: and conſider that this nation is thy people.

14 And he ſaid, My preſence ſhall go with thee, and I will give thee reſt.

15 And he ſaid unto him, If thy preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence.

16 For wherein ſhall it be known here that I and thy people have found grace in thy ſight? is it not in that thou goeſt with us? ſo ſhall we be ſeparated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth.

17 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, I will do this thing alſo that thou haſt ſpoken: for thou haſt found grace in my ſight, and I know thee by name.

18 ¶ And he ſaid, I beſeech thee, ſhew me thy glory.

19 And he ſaid, I will make all my goodneſs paſs before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before thee; and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will ſhew mercy on whom I will ſhew mercy.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIII.

2 I will ſend an angel before thee, &c.] This was a being of an order inferior to that which went before them in the cloud, as appears from ver. 3. See Exod. xxiii. 20. Deut. vii. 22. Joſh. xxiv. 11.

5 I will come up into the midſt of thee, &c.] This may with greater propriety be rendered, Should I come up into the midſt of thee, I would conſume thee in a moment.

6 By the mount, &c.] In Hebrew, mehar, "from the mount," i. e. at ſome diſtance from it.

7 The tabernacle, &c.] This muſt have been either the tent of Moſes, or ſome other; for the ſacred tabernacle was not yet erected.

9 Cloudy pillar, &c.] This appearance ſhewed that Moſes had not moved the tabernacle without the expreſs orders or approbation of God.

11 The Lord ſpake unto Moſes face to face] That is, God revealed his will to him in an audible voice, and in a familiar condeſcending manner; not in dreams and viſions, nor in awful and tremendous circumſtances.

Young man, &c.] Joſhua muſt have been upwards of fifty. The Hebrew word naar, ſignifies "a miniſter or ſervant," as appears from Gen. xiv. 24. and if we tranſlate it ſo here, the inconſiſtency of the text will be removed, as it will run thus: His ſervant Joſhua who miniſtered unto him, departed, &c.

12 I know thee by name, &c.] To "know," is in ſcripture, often uſed for to approve of, or favour; and the words "by name" ſignify, In an eſpecial manner.

13 Shew me now thy way, &c.] This requeſt may either ſignify, that Moſes was deſirous of knowing the manner in which God deſigned to behave towards the Iſraelites, after their defection; or that he beſought him to diſcover his mercy towards them for the future.

19 I will make all my goodneſs paſs before thee] This means, that God would diſplay his glory before him in ſuch a manner, as ſhould not harm, but rather gratify and delight him; or it may ſignify his gracious intentions concerning the Iſraelites.

I will proclaim] The meaning is, either that God would give him notice by a voice of his glorious preſence; or elſe that he would give him aſſurance of the truth of his promiſes.

Will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, &c.] As I know the hearts of all men, I am the only true judge who are the proper objects of my grace and mercy.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIII.

The example of the Iſraelites, who ſtript themſelves of their ornaments, after they had been puniſhed for their idolatry, teaches us to humble ourſelves, and to ſhew marks of our contrition when God is angry with us. Secondly, The manner in which God ſpake, and communicated himſelf to Moſes, ſhews that he was a very weak prophet, and that his laws and his doctrine came from God, and conſequently that they ought to be conſidered by us with great reſpect. Thirdly, It is alſo to be obſerved, in the prayers that Moſes continued to pour forth for the Iſraelites, the extreme tenderneſs he had for them, and his great zeal for the glory of God. Fourthly, God's anſwer to Moſes, when that prophet beſought him to let him ſee his glory, ſhews us, that God dwells in inacceſſible light, as St. Paul ſays, 1 Tim. vi. and that no man can ſee him in this life. This ought to convince us that Jeſus Chriſt our Lord is infinitely above Moſes; ſince he has ſeen God, and was with him from the beginning, John i. Laſtly, We ought to believe, that though we cannot ſee God in this life, we ſhall ſee him as he is in the life to come; and this hope ſhould engage us to purify ourſelves as he is pure, 1 John iii.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Moſes is commanded to prepare new tables, and to go up again to the top of the mount. 4 The name of the Lord is there proclaimed before him. 8 Moſes intreateth God to go with the people. 10 God maketh a covenant with them, in which he reſtraineth idolatry; and 18, 21, 22, 23, 25 repeateth certain duties before preſcribed. 27 Moſes continueth in the mount forty days, and by God's command writeth upon the tables the ten commandments. 29 On his return his face ſhineth, and he covereth it with a vail.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt: and I will write upon theſe tables the words that were in the firſt tables, which thou brakeſt.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and preſent thyſelf there to me in the top of the mount.

3 And no man ſhall come up with thee, neither let any man be ſeen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount.

4 ¶ And he hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt; and Moſes roſe up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of ſtone.

5 And the LORD deſcended in the cloud, and ſtood with him there, and proclaimed the name of the LORD.

6 And the LORD paſſed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD, The LORD God, merciful and gracious, longſuffering, and abundant in goodneſs and truth,

7 Keeping mercy for thouſands, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion and ſin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation. Before CHRIST 1491.

8 ¶ And Moſes made haſte, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worſhipped.

9 And he ſaid, if now I have found grace in thy ſight, O LORD, let my Lord, I pray thee, go among us; for it is a ſtiffnecked people; and pardon our iniquity and our ſin, and take us for thine inheritance.

10 ¶ And he ſaid, Behold, I make a covenant: before all thy people I will do marvels, ſuch as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people among which thou art ſhall ſee the work of the LORD: for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee.

11 Obſerve thou that which I command thee this day: behold, I drive out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebuſite.

12 Take heed to thyſelf, leſt thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land whither thou goeſt, leſt it be for a ſnare in the midſt of thee:

13 But ye ſhall deſtroy their altars, break their images, and cut down their groves:

14 For thou ſhalt worſhip no other god: for the LORD, whoſe name is jealous, is a jealous God:

15 Leſt thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring after their gods, and do ſacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of his ſacrifice;

16 And thou take of their daughters unto thy ſons, and their daughters go a whoring after their gods, and make thy ſons go a whoring after their gods.

17 Thou ſhalt make thee no molten gods.

18 ¶ The feaſt of unleavened bread ſhalt thou keep. Seven days thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time of the month Abid: for in the month Abid thou cameſt out from Egypt.

19 All that openeth the matrix is mine; and every firſtling among thy cattle whether ox or ſheep, that is male.

20 But the firſtling of an aſs thou ſhalt redeem with a lamb: and if thou redeem him not, then ſhalt thou break his neck. All the firſtborn of thy ſons thou ſhalt redeem. And none ſhall appear before me empty.

21 ¶ Six days thou ſhalt work, but on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt: in earing time and in harveſt thou ſhalt reſt.

22 ¶ And thou ſhalt obſerve the feaſt of weeks, of the firſtfruits of wheat harveſt, and the feaſt of ingathering at the year's end.

23 ¶ Thrice in the year ſhall all your menchildren appear before the LORD God, the God of Iſrael.

24 For I will caſt out the nations before thee, and enlarge thy borders: neither ſhall any man deſire thy land, when thou ſhalt go up to appear before the LORD thy God thrice in the year.

25 ¶ Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leaven; neither ſhall the ſacrifice of the feaſt of the paſſover be left unto the morning.

26 The firſt of the firſtfruits of thy land thou ſhalt bring

23 Thou ſhalt ſee my back parts: but my face ſhall not be ſeen.] Moſes here ſpeaks of God in terms borrowed from groſs ſenſe: for though God is a pure Spirit, without either body or parts, yet as we can underſtand nothing but by the mediation of our ſenſes, it was abſolutely neceſſary for him to uſe ſuch terms. By his back-parts, we may underſtand the brightneſs of his majeſty, though not in its full ſplendor; by his face, his full glory, and his brightneſs unveiled; and by his hand, with which he covered Moſes, may be denoted a cloud which he caſt about him, that he might not receive hurt by the refulgence of the divine rays.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIII.

1 Hew the two tables of ſtone, &c.] This command indicates how greatly God had been offended; for the firſt tables were the work of God, and written with his finger; but theſe were the work of men.

6 Merciful and gracious, long ſuffering, and abundant in goodneſs and truth.] Daily experience muſt neceſſarily convince us all how truly theſe epithets belong to God.

7 And that will by no means clear the guilty, &c.] Though the word "guilty" is not in the original, the ſenſe requires it to be added.

9 For it is a ſtiffnecked people, &c.] The particle "for," may be better rendered "though," and then the ſenſe will be, Pardon our iniquity and our ſin, though we are a ſtiff necked people.

10 It is a terrible thing that I will do with thee.] That is, I will work ſuch awful miracles as ſhall make the inhabitants of Canaan tremble.

15 Go a whoring] Adultery and whoredoms are the terms generally uſed to imply their idolatries.

And thou eat of his ſacrifice.] Sacrifices were religious feaſts, conſequently, to partake of idolatrous ſacrifices, was, to countenance and make a profeſſion of idolatry.

27 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write thou theſe words: for after the tenor of theſe words I have made a covenant with thee and with Iſrael.

28 And he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten commandments.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Moſes came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of teſtimony in Moſes' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moſes wiſt not that the ſkin of his face ſhone while he talked with him.

30 And when Aaron and all the children of Iſrael ſaw Moſes, behold, the ſkin of his face ſhone; and they were afraid to come nigh him.

31 And Moſes called unto them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moſes talked with them.

32 And afterwards all the children of Iſrael came nigh: and he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had ſpoken with him in mount Sinai.

33 And till Moſes had done ſpeaking with them, he put a vail on his face.

34 But when Moſes went in before the LORD to ſpeak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out. And he came out, and ſpake unto the children of Iſrael that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Iſrael ſaw the face of Moſes, that the ſkin of Moſes' face ſhone: and Moſes put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to ſpeak with him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIV.

Here we are to obſerve three things: Firſt, That the laws about the firſt-born, firſt-fruits, ſabbath, and feaſts, were eſtabliſhed by the great wiſdom of God, to the end that the Iſraelites might remember the frowns that God had ſhewed them; and to prevent them from imitating the cuſtoms and ſuperſtitions of the idolatrous nations. Secondly, That when the Iſraelites celebrated their ſolemn feſtivals, God hindered their enemies from coming into their country; which was a very particular mark of the divine protection over this people, and ſhould be a leſſon to us, that God bleſſes thoſe who ſerve him, and defends them from the dangers to which they might be expoſed by their obedience. Thirdly, The ſhining of Moſes's face, when he came down from the mount, was an aſſurance to the people of Iſrael, that he ſpake to them from God; and it gives us an idea of the glory that will encompaſs the bleſſed, when they ſhall ſee God, and enjoy his preſence in heaven.

CHAP. XXXV.

2 The ſabbath. 4 The free gifts for the tabernacle. 20 The readineſs of the people to offer. 30 Bezaleel and Aholiab are called to the work.

AND Moſes gathered all the congregation of the children of Iſrael together, and ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye ſhould do them.

2 ¶ Six days ſhall work be done, but on the ſeventh day there ſhall be to you an holy day, a ſabbath of reſt to the LORD: whoſoever doeth work therein ſhall be put to death.

3 Ye ſhall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the ſabbath day.

4 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, ſaying, Before CHRIST 1491.

5 Take ye from among you an offering unto the LORD: whoſoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the LORD; gold and ſilver, and braſs,

6 And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair,

7 And rams' ſkins dyed red, and badgers' ſkins, and ſhittim wood,

8 And oil for the light, and ſpices for anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe,

9 And onyx ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet for the ephod, and for the breaſtplate.

10 And every wiſe hearted among you ſhall come, and make all that the LORD hath commanded;

11 The tabernacle, his tent, and his covering, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his ſockets,

12 The ark, and the ſtaves thereof, with the mercy ſeat, and the vail of the covering,

13 The table and his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, and the ſhewbread,

14 The candleſtick alſo for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light,

15 And the incenſe altar, and his ſtaves, and the anointing oil, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the door at the entering in of the tabernacle,

16 The altar of burnt offering, with his braſen grate, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot,

17 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and their ſockets, and the hanging for the door of the court,

18 The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords,

19 The cloths of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons, to miniſter in the prieſt's office.

20 ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Iſrael departed from the preſence of Moſes.

21 And they came, every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up, and every one whom his ſpirit made willing, and they brought the LORD's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his ſervice, and for the holy garments.

22 And they came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought bracelets, and earrings, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered offered an offering unto the LORD.

23 And every man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, and red ſkins of rams, and badgers' ſkins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of ſilver and braſs brought the LORD's offering: and every man, with whom was found ſhittim wood for any work of the ſervice, brought it.

25 And all the women that were wiſe hearted did ſpin with their hands, and brought that which they had ſpun, both of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whoſe heart ſtirred them up in wiſdom ſpun goats' hair.

---

29 The ſkin of his face ſhone, &c.] The word, in the Hebrew, ſignifies, Was horned, being permitted ſo near an approach to the divine glory, he carried off (though unknown to himſelf) ſuch a beamy luſtre, as played about his head and face for a conſiderable time. The heathens (perhaps from hence) uſed to repreſent their gods with a beamy glory around their heads. The Roman emperors, who were honoured as a ſort of deities, were likewiſe thus repreſented. Pliny in his panegyric, makes the ſhining head of Domitian the ſubject of ſome banter. Homer in like manner makes Minerva irradiate the head and armour of Diomede.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXV.

1 And Moſes gathered, &c.] The hiſtorian here reſumes his account of the prieſts, which had been interrupted by his relation of the molten calf, and proceeds to the execution of the divine commands.

2 Six days ſhall work be done, &c.] The frequent repetition ſhews the great importance of this precept. It is repeated here, to prevent the people from violating the ſabbath by too great an aſſiduity in erecting the tabernacle.

3 Ye ſhall kindle no fire, &c.] They might not kindle a fire even to dreſs their meat, nor for any ſervile work, only to warm themſelves in cold weather.

22 Tablets, &c.] Some think theſe were golden buckles worn at the girdle; but we imagine it was a kind of ribbon or girdle, worn by the women round their breaſts.

23 With whom was found blue, &c.] Yarn, or wool of this colour, was woven into garments and hangings for the uſe of the tabernacle.

25 Brought that which they had ſpun, &c.] Theſe were the offerings of the lower ſorts of people. See chap. xxv. 4.

27 And the rulers brought onyx ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, for the ephod, and for the breaſtplate;

28 And ſpice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe.

29 The children of Iſrael brought a willing offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whoſe heart, made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made by the hand of Moſes.

30 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, See, the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah;

31 And he hath filled him with the ſpirit of God, in wiſdom, in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip;

32 And to deviſe curious works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs,

33 And in the cutting of ſtones, to ſet them, and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work.

34 And he hath put in his heart that he may teach, both he, and Aholiab, the ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan.

35 Them hath he filled with wiſdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in ſcarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of thoſe that deviſe cunning work.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXV.

The chearfulneſs and the liberality ſhewn by the people of Iſrael, in giving what was neceſſary to the tabernacle, ſhould ſtir us up to contribute as freely to the ſervice of God, and with pleaſure to devote our goods to pious and charitable uſes. We may alſo learn from this chapter, that every one, according to his condition, ſhould contribute to the edification of the church, and that there are none but ought to do it, as far as God gives them ſtrength and means.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 The offerings are delivered to the workmen. 4 The liberality of the people is reſtrained. 8 The curtains with cherubims. 14 The curtains of goats' hair. 19 The covering of ſkins. 20 The boards with their ſockets. 31 The bars. 35 The vail. 37 The hanging for the door.

THEN wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe hearted man, in whom the LORD put wiſdom and underſtanding to know how to work all manner of work for the ſervice of the ſanctuary, according to all that the LORD had commanded.

2 And Moſes called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe hearted man, in whoſe heart the LORD had put wiſdom, even every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up to come unto the work to do it:

3 And they received of Moſes all the offering, which the children of Iſrael had brought for the work of the ſervice of the ſanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free offering every morning.

4 ¶ And all the wiſe men, that wrought all the work of the ſanctuary, came every man from his work which they made;

5 And they ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, The people bring much more than enough for the ſervice of the work, which the LORD commanded to make.

6 And Moſes gave commandment, and they cauſed it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, ſaying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the ſanctuary. So the people were reſtrained from bringing. Before CHRIST 1491.

7 For the ſtuff they had was ſufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.

8 ¶ And every wiſe hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them.

9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one ſize.

10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain from the ſelvedge in the coupling: likewiſe he made in the uttermoſt ſide of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond.

12 Fifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the ſecond: the loops held one curtain to another.

13 And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches: ſo it became one tabernacle.

14 ¶ And he made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them.

15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one ſize.

16 And he coupled five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves.

17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermoſt edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond.

18 And he made fifty taches of braſs to couple the tent together, that it might be one.

19 ¶ And he made a covering for the tent of rams' ſkins dyed red, and a covering of badgers' ſkins above that.

20 ¶ And he made boards for the tabernacle of ſhittim wood, ſtanding up.

21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half.

22 One board had two tenons, equally diſtant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 And he made boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the ſouth ſide ſouthward:

24 And forty ſockets of ſilver he made under the twenty boards; two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

25 And for the other ſide of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards,

26 And their forty ſockets of ſilver; two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

27 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward he made ſix boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

29 And they were coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners.

30 And there were eight boards: and their ſockets were ſixteen ſockets of ſilver, under every board two ſockets.

31 ¶ And

27 The rulers brought onyx ſtones, &c.] Such precious ſtones as the lower claſs of people could not furniſh, together with gold, ſilver, ſpices, and oil, were the valuable offerings of the wealthy.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Then wrought Bezaleel, &c.] The particle "then" is not in the Hebrew: Junius therefore connects this paſſage with the laſt verſe of the preceding chapter, and reads the whole ſentence in the future tenſe: thus, Bezaleel therefore ſhall do the work, and Aholiab, and every wiſe hearted man, &c. As the diviſion of the ſcriptures into chapters was a modern invention, this variation in Junius's tranſlation may be conſidered as an expedient which frees the ſacred text from a great inconveniency, which it is in our tranſlation expoſed to; in as much as it repreſents Bezaleel and Aholiab ſetting about the work, before they were required by Moſes to do it.

3 And they brought yet unto him free offerings every morning.] Out of an earneſt deſire to ſhew their zeal for God's ſervice, as they had lately done for erecting the molten calf.

5 The people bring much more than enough, &c.] Imagining, perhaps, that theſe external performances would atone for the omiſſion of the weightier duties of religion and morality.

8, 9, 10, &c. Every thing mentioned in theſe verſes is deſcribed in the twenty-ſixth chapter.

33 And he made the middle bar to ſhoot through the boards from the one end to the other.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

35 ¶ And he made a vail of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work.

38 And the five pillars of it with their hooks: and he overlaid their chapiters and their fillets with gold: but their five ſockets were of braſs.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVI.

In the firſt place, the particular directions here given concerning the building of the tabernacle are ſufficient to convince us of the great care God took of his external worſhip; hence we may learn, that decent external rites are at all times neceſſary in divine worſhip. Secondly, By the artiſts being inſpired to execute the different pieces of workmanſhip, we are taught, that whenever God has any thing to accompliſh, either for his own glory or the good of his church, he will be ſure to furniſh the means. Laſtly, From the whole, let us be careful to make a proper uſe of the goſpel, that does not come to us burdened with rites and ceremonies, but ſuited to our nature, and calculated to promote our trueſt intereſts.

1 The ark. 6 The mercy ſeat with cherubims. 10 The table with his veſſels. 17 The candleſtick with his lamps and inſtruments. 25 The altar of incenſe. 29 The anointing oil, and ſweet incenſe.

AND Bezaleel made the ark of ſhittim wood: two cubits and a half was the length of it, and a cubit and a half the breadth of it, and a cubit and a half the height of it:

2 And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about.

3 And he caſt for it four rings of gold, to be ſet by the four corners of it; even two rings upon the one ſide of it, and two rings upon the other ſide of it.

4 And he made ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

5 And he put the ſtaves into the rings by the ſides of the ark, to bear the ark.

6 ¶ And he made the mercy ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and a half was the length thereof, and one cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

7 And he made two cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, on the two ends of the mercy ſeat;

8 One cherub on the end on this ſide, and another cherub on the other end on that ſide: out of the mercy ſeat made he the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

9 And the cherubims ſpread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy ſeat, with their faces one to another; even to the mercy ſeatward were the faces of the cherubims.

10 ¶ And he made the table of ſhittim wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof:

11 And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round about. Before CHRIST 1491.

12 Alſo he made thereunto a border of an hand breadth round about; and made a crown of gold for the border thereof round about.

13 And he caſt for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof.

14 Over againſt the border were the rings, the places for the ſtaves to bear the table.

15 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table.

16 And he made the veſſels which were upon the table, his diſhes, and his ſpoons, and his bowls, and his covers to cover withal, of pure gold.

17 ¶ And he made the candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candleſtick; his ſhaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, were of the ſame:

18 And ſix branches going out of the ſides thereof; three branches of the candleſtick out of the one ſide thereof, and three branches of the candleſtick out of the other ſide thereof:

19 Three bowls made after the faſhion of almonds in one branch, a knop and a flower; and three bowls made like almonds in another branch, a knop and a flower: ſo throughout the ſix branches, going out of the candleſtick.

20 And in the candleſtick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops, and his flowers:

21 And a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches going out of it.

22 Their knops and their branches were of the ſame: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold.

23 And he made his ſeven lamps, and his ſnuffers, and his ſnuffdiſhes, of pure gold.

24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the veſſels thereof.

25 ¶ And he made the incenſe altar of ſhittim wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit; it was four ſquare; and two cubits was the height of it; the horns thereof were of the ſame.

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the ſides thereof round about, and the horns of it: alſo he made unto it a crown of gold round about.

27 And he made two rings of gold for it under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two ſides thereof, to be places for the ſtaves to bear it withal.

28 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

29 ¶ And he made the holy anointing oil, and the pure incenſe of ſweet ſpices, according to the work of the apothecary.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVII.

The care that God took to keep the children of Iſrael from falling into idolatry, ſhould ſhew us, that God, as a moſt tender and benevolent father, provides at all times for the happineſs of his creatures, that they may truſt in him for the future, and act conſiſtent with his will. Secondly, The alacrity with which the artiſts performed their work, ſhould prompt us to diligence in the diſcharge of every duty. Laſtly, Though it is not poſſible to aſſign a reaſon why ſo many articles were made for the uſe of the tabernacle, yet we ought to reſt ſatisfied that it was by the appointment of God, and conſequently for the beſt purpoſes.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVII.

9 With their faces one to another; even to the mercy-ſeatward, &c.] Some commentators, eſpecially the learned Mede, from this paſſage have been of opinion, that the cherubims were in the form of flying oxen, imagining that otherwiſe they could not have their faces at the ſame time towards one another, and towards the mercy-ſeat. But if they were of a human figure, their faces might be turned towards each other, and at the ſame time their eyes directed downwards to the mercy-ſeat.

16 To cover withal, &c.] The Hebrew ſignifies, To pour out withal. See chap. xxv. 29.

Before CHRIST 1491. AND he made the altar of burnt offering of ſhittim wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof; it was fourſquare; and three cubits the height thereof.

2 And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it; the horns thereof were of the ſame: and he overlaid it with braſs.

3 And he made all the veſſels of the altar, the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons, and the fleſhhooks, and the firepans: all the veſſels thereof made he of braſs.

4 And he made for the altar a braſen grate of network under the compaſs thereof beneath unto the midſt of it.

5 And he caſt four rings for the four ends of the grate of braſs, to be places for the ſtaves.

6 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlaid them with braſs.

7 And he put the ſtaves into the rings on the ſides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards.

8 ¶ And he made the laver of braſs, and the foot of it of braſs, of the looking glaſſes of the women aſſembling, which aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

9 ¶ And he made the court: on the ſouth ſide ſouthward the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, an hundred cubits:

10 Their pillars were twenty, and their braſen ſockets twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of ſilver.

11 And for the north ſide of the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their ſockets of braſs twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of ſilver.

12 And for the weſt ſide were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of ſilver.

13 And for the eaſt ſide eaſtward fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of the one ſide of the gate were fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

15 And for the other ſide of the court gate, on this hand and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillows three, and their ſockets three.

16 All the hangings of the court round about were of fine twined linen.

17 And the ſockets for the pillars were of braſs; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of ſilver; and the overlaying of their chapiters of ſilver; and all the pillars of the court were filleted with ſilver.

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was needlework, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, anſwerable to the hangings of the court.

19 And their pillars were four, and their ſockets of braſs four; their hooks of ſilver, and the overlaying of their chapiters and their fillets of ſilver.

20 And all the pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about, were of braſs. Before CHRIST 1491.

21 ¶ This is the ſum of the tabernacle, even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moſes, for the ſervice of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, ſon to Aaron the prieſt.

22 And Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

23 And with him was Aholiab, ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in ſcarlet and fine linen.

24 All the gold that was occupied for the work in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

25 And the ſilver of them that were numbered of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary:

26 A bekah for every man, that is, half a ſhekel, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty men.

27 And of the hundred talents of ſilver were caſt the ſockets of the ſanctuary, and the ſockets of the vail; an hundred ſockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a ſocket.

28 And of the thouſand ſeven hundred ſeventy and five ſhekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them.

29 And the braſs of the offering was ſeventy talents, and two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels.

30 And therewith he made the ſockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the braſen altar, and the braſen grate for it, and all the veſſels of the altar.

31 And the ſockets of the court round about, and the ſockets of the court gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVIII.

Firſt, Obſerve, that the people ſpared no coſt in adorning the ſanctuary of God. Let this teach us who ought to be the living temples of our God, that we ſhould be fruitful in every good work. Secondly, Let us learn from their chearfulneſs, that good works alone, are the moſt certain marks of genuine repentance, without which, we can never enjoy the divine favour. Laſtly, No ſorts of riches can be better employed, than ſuch as are uſed to promote the intereſts of true religion and virtue.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 And he made the altar, &c.] The Septuagint begin this chapter with a deſcription of the making of the ark. But the variations from the Hebrew copy being too numerous, and too prolix to be inſerted here, the reader will excuſe the omiſſion of them.

8 Looking-glaſſes] Theſe were of poliſhed braſs; and it was a cuſtom for the Egyptian women to carry theſe mirrors with them to places of public worſhip.

Of the women aſſembling, &c.] The word tranſlated "aſſembling" is tzaba, which ſignifies, A troop, or army. The Vulgate renders it, Which watched; the Chaldee, Who came to pray, &c. and the Arabic, Who aſſembled in troops. The propriety of applying this military term to this aſſembly of women, will appear, if we conſider that not only the Levites, but likewiſe the reſt of the Iſraelites, aſſembled in companies, at the temple, or tabernacle, and alternately relieved each other; whence they are ſtyled in the Pſalms, the ſacred watch. 1 Sam. ii. 22. Pſalm xcii. 2. and cxix. 147.

18 The height in the breadth, &c.] The propriety of this Hebrew idiom will be proved, if we conſider that it refers to two different ſtates of the hanging, both as it lay down on the ground, and as it hung up; for what was its breadth when it lay along, was its height when hung up.

21 This is the ſum] From the context it appears, that by the word "ſum," is meant the full amount of the expences and value of the tabernacle. We imagine that it ſignifies only the whole ſum of the particulars belonging to the tabernacle; and it muſt be confeſſed, the Septuagint, Vulgate, Chaldee, and Arabic, ſupport this interpretation.

According to the commandment of Moſes, &c.] In the Hebrew, Becauſe the ſervice of the Levites was viſited, or preſcribed by the mouth of Moſes, in the hand of Ithamar, &c. In the Vulgate, Which are enumerated, according to the command of Moſes, in the ceremonies of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, &c. In the Chaldee, Theſe are which are enumerated according to the precept of Moſes; the miniſtry of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, &c. And the Arabic, The bearing or miniſtration of which, pertains to the Levites, by the hand of, &c. Some moderns render it, By the ſervice or miniſtry of the Levites, under the conduct of Ithamar.

24 Twenty and nine talents, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, &c.] This ſum amounts to upwards of an hundred and fifty pounds ſterling.

25 And the ſilver of them that were numbered, &c.] As ſix hundred and three thouſand five hundred and fifty men, offered half a ſhekel each, they amount to three hundred and one thouſand ſeven hundred and ſeventy-five ſhekels; which, at two ſhillings and fourpence each, amount to thirty-five thouſand two hundred and ſeven pounds ſterling.

Before CHRIST 1491. AND of the blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, they made cloths of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

2 ¶ And he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the ſcarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work.

4 They made ſhoulderpieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod, that was upon it, was of the ſame, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

6 And they wrought onyx ſtones incloſed in ouches of gold, graven, as ſignets are graven, with the names of the children of Iſrael.

7 And he put them on the ſhoulders of the ephod, that they ſhould be ſtones for a memorial to the children of Iſrael; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

8 ¶ And he made the breaſtplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet and fine twined linen.

9 It was fourſquare; they made the breaſtplate double: a ſpan was the length thereof, and a ſpan the breadth thereof, being doubled.

10 And they ſet it in four rows of ſtones: the firſt row was a ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the firſt row.

11 And the ſecond row, an emerald, a ſapphire, and a diamond.

12 And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt.

13 And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jaſper: they were incloſed in ouches of gold in their incloſings.

14 And the ſtones were according to the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a ſignet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes.

15 And they made upon the breaſtplate chains at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold.

16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings, and put the two rings in the two ends of the breaſtplate.

17 And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breaſtplate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they faſtened in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulderpieces of the ephod, before it.

19 And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breaſtplate, upon the border of it, which was on the ſide of the ephod inward.

20 And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two ſides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart of it, over againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

21 And they did bind the breaſtplate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſtplate might not be looſed from the ephod; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 ¶ And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue.

23 And there was an hole in midſt of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it ſhould not rend.

24 And they made upon the hems of the robe pomegranates of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and twined linen. Before CHRIST 1491.

25 And they made bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates;

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the hem of the robe to miniſter in; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

27 ¶ And they made coats of fine linen of woven work for Aaron, and for his ſons,

28 And a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and linen breeches of fine twined linen,

29 And a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, of needlework; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

30 ¶ And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

31 And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to faſten it on high upon the mitre; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

32 ¶ Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finiſhed: and the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

33 And they brought the tabernacle unto Moſes, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his ſockets,

34 And the covering of rams' ſkins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' ſkins, and the vail of the covering,

35 The ark of the teſtimony, and the ſtaves thereof, and the mercy ſeat,

36 The table, and all the veſſels thereof, and the ſhew bread,

37 The pure candleſtick, with the lamps thereof, even with the lamps to be ſet in order, and all the veſſels thereof, and the oil for light,

38 And the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the tabernacle door.

39 The braſen altar, and his grate of braſs, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot,

40 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and his ſockets, and the hanging for the courtgate, his cords, and his pins, and all the veſſels of the ſervice of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation,

41 The cloths of ſervice to do ſervice in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and his ſons' garments, to miniſter in the prieſt's office.

42 According to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael made all the work.

43 And Moſes did look upon all the work, and, behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even ſo had they done it: and Moſes bleſſed them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIX.

Firſt, We have here, a remarkable inſtance of the great ingenuity of theſe men, in making the moſt curious ſtructures that ever were ſeen; but as their knowledge was freely beſtowed upon them, we muſt conſider God as the giver of wiſdom, and every thing we enjoy. Secondly, As theſe artiſts finiſhed the tabernacle exactly according to the directions given, we may note, that the ſame God who paſſed by before Moſes on the mount, and gave him the original directions, inſpired the hearts of thoſe artiſts to complete the work in a proper manner. Laſtly, Let us here learn how neceſſary it is to ſeek the divine aſſiſtance in every thing we do; in which caſe, we need not doubt but we ſhall, in the end, obtain a bleſſing.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIX.

1 He made the breaſt-plate, &c.] As Moſes here, in giving an account of the making the breaſt-plate, and the ſeveral parts of it, makes no mention of the Urim and Thummim, it is looked upon as an argument, that they were not diſtinct things, but only related to the precious ſtones of the breaſt-plate. See the note on chap. xxviii. 30.

42 According to all that the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo, &c.] This has reſpect to the charge before given, Moſes has been very exact in repeating all the ſeveral particulars of the tabernacle, to ſhew the care which he and the workmen had to make all things, both for matter and form, according to the pattern and commandment given of God.

43 Moſes bleſſed them.] Pronounced a bleſſing from the Lord upon the workmen.

CHAP. XL.

Before CHRIST 1491.

1 The tabernacle is commanded to be reared with all its furniture, 9 and anointed. 12 Aaron and his ſons to be ſanctified. 16, 17, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 33 Moſes performeth all things accordingly. 34 A cloud covereth the tabernacle.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 On the firſt day of the firſt month ſhalt thou ſet up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

3 And thou ſhalt put therein the ark of the teſtimony, and cover the ark with the vail.

4 And thou ſhalt bring in the table, and ſet in order the things that are to be ſet in order upon it; and thou ſhalt bring in the candleſtick, and light the lamps thereof.

5 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of gold for the incenſe before the ark of the teſtimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

7 And thou ſhalt ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and ſhalt put water therein.

8 And thou ſhalt ſet up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court gate.

9 ¶ And thou ſhalt take the anointing oil, and anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and ſhalt hallow it, and all the veſſels thereof: and it ſhall be holy.

10 And thou ſhalt anoint the altar of the burnt offering, and all his veſſels, and ſanctify the altar: and it ſhall be an altar moſt holy.

11 And thou ſhalt anoint the laver and his foot, and ſanctify it.

12 ¶ And thou ſhalt bring Aaron and his ſons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and waſh them with water.

13 And thou ſhalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and anoint him, and ſanctify him; that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office.

14 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and clothe them with coats:

15 And thou ſhalt anoint them, as thou didſt anoint their father, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office: for their anointing ſhall ſurely be an everlaſting prieſthood throughout their generations.

16 ¶ Thus did Moſes: according to all that the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs in the firſt month in the ſecond year, on the firſt day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up.

18 And Moſes reared up the tabernacle, and faſtened his ſockets, and ſet up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars.

19 And he ſpread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

20 ¶ And he took and put the teſtimony into the ark, and ſet the ſtaves on the ark, and put the mercy ſeat above upon the ark:

21 And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and ſet up the vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the teſtimony; as the LORD commanded Moſes. Before CHRIST 1491.

22 ¶ And he put the table in the tent of the congregation, upon the ſide of the tabernacle northward, without the vail.

23 And he ſet the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moſes.

24 ¶ And he put the candleſtick in the tent of the congregation, over againſt the table, on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward.

25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

26 ¶ And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation before the vail:

27 And he burnt ſweet incenſe thereon; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

28 ¶ And he ſet up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.

29 And he put the altar of burnt offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt offering and the meat offering; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

30 ¶ And he ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to waſh withal.

31 And Moſes and Aaron and his ſons waſhed their hands and their feet thereat:

32 When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they waſhed; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

33 ¶ And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and ſet up the hanging of the court gate. So Moſes finiſhed the work.

34 ¶ Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

35 And Moſes was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation, becauſe the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

36 And when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Iſrael went onward in all their journeys:

37 But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was on it by night, in the ſight of all the houſe of Iſrael, throughout all their journeys.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XL.

Firſt, As the Jewiſh tabernacle was made according to the order of God, let that teach us that no man has a right to ſet up a new religion, without a ſpecial call from God. Secondly, As God was pleaſed ſo to diſpoſe every thing, as to ſuit the conveniencies of the people, it is the duty of princes, and even inferior magiſtrates, when they eſtabliſh places for divine worſhip, to take care that the people may be as well accommodated as poſſible. Laſtly, As all theſe things, both in this and the preceding chapters, were typical of Chriſt, let us bleſs God that we live under the goſpel diſpenſation, where ſhadows and types are done away by the death of our Redeemer; who was the end of the law for ſalvation to all thoſe who believe his word, and obey his precepts.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XL.

2 On the firſt day of the firſt month, &c.] That is, on the firſt day of the ſecond year after their coming out of Egypt. On the fifteenth day of the firſt month the Iſraelites came out of Egypt; on the fiftieth day after, the law was given, with ſeveral intervening delays. Moſes ſpent at leaſt eighty days upon the mount: half of the year muſt therefore be expired, or perhaps more, before they began to work upon the tabernacle: and in half a year, or ſomewhat leſs, the whole was completed.

15 An everlaſting prieſthood, &c.] By this firſt unction, the inferior prieſts ſhall be conſecrated once for all, and inſtalled in their office; and the calling ſhall paſs to their generations, from father to ſon, unto the end of the ceremonial worſhip, the anointing being no more required to be reiterated in their poſterity; for they were the high-prieſts only, who were anointed in following times. Joſephus informs us, that this ceremony was laid aſide during the ſecond temple, becauſe of the failure of the holy oil, though the other rites of inauguration were retained.

34 A cloud covered the tent, &c.] The cloud, that teſtimony of the divine preſence which had led them hither, and for ſome time had reſted on the tent of Moſes, now took poſſeſſion of the tabernacle, where it continued in the form of a cloud by day, and a glorious light by night. The ſhekinah now made an aweful and pompous entry into the tabernacle, through the outer part of which, it paſſed into the moſt holy place, as the preſence chamber, and there ſeated itſelf between the cherubim. Thus the Lord teſtified his acceptance of their ſervice, his intire reconciliation to them as his people, and his gracious reſidence amongſt them. The cloud reſted above the tabernacle; a more reſplendent glory filled it, by reaſon of which Moſes himſelf could not enter for a time: but probably it afterwards was confined to the holy of holies, above the mercy-ſeat.

36 When the cloud was taken up, &c.] This cloud was the guide to the camp of Iſrael through the wilderneſs. While it continued on the tabernacle, they reſted; when it removed, they removed alſo, and followed it, being purely under a divine conduct.

The Third BOOK of MOSES, CALLED

LEVITICUS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book contains an account of the Jewiſh ſervice and worſhip, and deſcribes the office of the Levitical prieſthood; for which reaſon it is termed, both by the Latin and Greek tranſlations, Leviticus. It contains ſeveral intereſting particulars, which ſerve to eſtabliſh the divinity of Moſes's legation. The hiſtorical parts are but few, though very inſtructive; taking up no more than about the ſpace of one month.

CHAP. I.

Before CHRIST 1490.

1 The burnt offerings, 3 of the herd, 10 of the flocks, 14 of the fowls.

AND the LORD called unto Moſes, and ſpake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, If any man of you bring an offering unto the LORD, ye ſhall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock.

3 ¶ If his offering be a burnt ſacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male without blemiſh: he ſhall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD.

4 And he ſhall put his hand upon the head of the burnt offering; and it ſhall be accepted for him to make atonement for him.

5 And he ſhall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the prieſts, Aaron's ſons, ſhall bring the blood, and ſprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And he ſhall flay the burnt offering, and cut it into his pieces.

7 And the ſons of Aaron the prieſt ſhall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire.

8 And the prieſts, Aaron's ſons, ſhall lay the parts, the head, and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar.

9 But his inwards and his legs ſhall he waſh in water: and the prieſt ſhall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

10 ¶ And if his offering be of the flocks, namely, of the ſheep, or of the goats, for a burnt ſacrifice; he ſhall bring it a male without blemiſh.

11 And he ſhall kill it on the ſide of the altar northward before the LORD: and the prieſts, Aaron's ſons, ſhall ſprinkle his blood round about upon the altar.

12 And he ſhall cut it into his pieces with his head and his fat: and the prieſt ſhall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar. Before CHRIST 1490.

13 But he ſhall waſh the inwards and the legs with water: and the prieſt ſhall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

14 ¶ And if the burnt ſacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowls, then he ſhall bring his offering of turtledoves, or of young pigeons.

15 And the prieſt ſhall bring it unto the altar, and wring off his head, and burn it on the altar: and the blood thereof ſhall be wrung out at the ſide of the altar.

16 And he ſhall pluck away his crop with his feathers, and caſt it beſide the altar on the eaſt part, by the place of the aſhes.

17 And he ſhall cleave it with the wings thereof, but ſhall not divide it aſunder: and the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. I.

Beſides the great ſacrifices at ſtated times, there were others of a voluntary nature; hence we learn, that beſides our attendance on public worſhip, we ſhould ſet apart particular times for worſhipping God in private. Nothing is more pleaſing to him, than when with hearts free, open, and ſincere, we approach God in a way of duty. Let us alſo admire the great goodneſs of God, who demanded nothing in ſacrifice, but what ſuited the circumſtances of the perſon to give. God requires truth and ſincerity of heart, as more valuable than all the creation; and as he is ſo condeſcending as to conſider the poor, ſo it is our duty to ſympathize with them, and relieve their wants.

CHAP. II.

1 The meat offering of flour with oil and incenſe, 4 either baken in the oven, 5 or on a plate, 7 or in a fryingpan. 12 The oblation of firſtfruits not to be burnt. 13 The ſalt of the meat offering. 14 The meat offering of the firſtfruits in the ear.

AND

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. I.

2 If any man of you bring an offering, &c.] It is to be remarked, that the offering of ſacrifices is here not a poſitive but rather a permiſſive injunction of Moſes. The very light of nature directs man, ſome way or other, to do honour to his Maker, and to pay homage to his Lord: ſacrifices, attended with a great variety of ceremonies, had been common in the world long before the moſaical inſtitution; and the lawgiver takes it for granted, that the people would be inclined to bring their offerings to the Lord.

3 Of his own voluntary will, &c.] There was a ſtated number of burnt offerings for the whole congregation, continually offered up year by year; two were daily offered, called the morning and evening ſacrifice, beſides the additional ones on every ſabbath, new moon and feſtival; thoſe for private perſons, and to be offered on particular occaſions and emergencies, are ſpecified in the law; but beſides theſe, there were many offered voluntarily.

5 He ſhall kill, &c.] The Greek renders it, They ſhall kill; meaning the prieſts or Levites, whoſe charge it was.

7 Shall put fire upon the altar, &c.] Shall keep up, by adding freſh fuel, and preſerve the fire, which fell from heaven, Lev. ix. 24. upon the altar: for the law ſays afterwards, "the fire upon the altar ſhall be burning in it, it ſhall not be put out," chap. vi. 12.

8 The fat, &c.] Or, the inwards and entrails.

9 The prieſt ſhall burn, &c.] Not the high prieſt, but one of the inferior prieſts.

14 If the burnt ſacrifice—be of fowls, &c.] Thoſe who could not afford a ſheep or a goat, might offer a bird; a ſufficient argument that it was not the gift, but only the diſpoſition of the giver that was regarded by God; a turtledove being as acceptable to the ſupreme being, as the choiceſt offerings of the herd and the flock.

25 And the prieſt ſhall bring it unto the altar, &c.] The ſouth-eaſt horn of it; near which was the place of the aſhes, into which the crop and its feathers were caſt.

Before CHRIST 1490.

AND when any will offer a meat offering unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense thereon.

2 And he shall bring it to Aaron's sons the priests: and he shall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincense thereof: and the priest shall burn the memorial of it upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD:

3 And the remnant of the meat offering shall be Aaron's and his sons'; it is a thing most holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

4 ¶ And if thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.

5 ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat offering baken in a pan, it shall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oil.

6 Thou shalt part it in pieces, and pour oil thereon: it is a meat offering.

7 ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat offering baken in the fryingpan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil.

8 And thou shalt bring the meat offering that is made of these things unto the LORD: and when it is presented unto the priest, he shall bring it unto the altar.

9 And the priest shall take from the meat offering a memorial thereof, and shall burn it upon the altar: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

10 And that which is left of the meat offering shall be Aaron's and his sons': it is a thing most holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

11 No meat offering, which ye shall bring unto the LORD, shall be made with leaven: for ye shall burn no leaven, nor any honey, in any offering of the LORD made by fire.

12 ¶ As for the oblation of the first fruits, ye shall offer them unto the LORD: but they shall not be burnt on the altar for a sweet savour.

13 ¶ And every oblation of thy meat offering shalt thou season with salt: neither shalt thou suffer the salt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat offering: with all thine offerings thou shalt offer salt.

14 ¶ And if thou offer a meat offering of thy firstfruits unto the LORD, thou shalt offer for the meat offering of thy firstfruits green ears of corn dried by the fire, even corn beaten out of full ears.

15 And thou shalt put oil upon it, and lay frankincense thereon: it is a meat offering.

16 And the priest shall burn the memorial of it, part of the beaten corn thereof, and part of the oil thereof, with all the frankincense thereof: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. II.

With respect to the meat offerings, part of them were given to the priests; which should teach us, that faithful ministers are intitled to part of the fruits of our industry. The vast number of ceremonies shew the infinite goodness of God, in taking so much pains to preserve the people from falling into idolatry; and as all these rites and ceremonies were binding on the children of Israel, let us take heed that we neglect not to perform every duty of the gospel.

Before CHRIST 1490.

CHAP. III.

1 The peace offering of the herd: 6 of the flock; whether a lamb, 12 or a goat.

AND if his oblation be a sacrifice of peace offering, if he offer it of the herd; whether it be a male or female, he shall offer it without blemish before the LORD.

2 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's sons the priests shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

3 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace offering an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

5 And Aaron's sons shall burn it on the altar upon the burnt sacrifice, which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

6 ¶ And if his offering for a sacrifice of peace offering unto the LORD be of the flock, male or female; he shall offer it without blemish.

7 If he offer a lamb for his offering, then shall he offer it before the LORD.

8 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's sons shall sprinkle the blood thereof round about upon the altar.

9 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace offering an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat thereof, and the whole rump, it shall he take off hard by the backbone: and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

10 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

11 And the priest shall burn it upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire unto the LORD.

12 ¶ And if his offering be a goat, then he shall offer it before the LORD.

13 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation; and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about.

14 And he shall offer thereof his offerings, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

15 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. II.

1 A meat offering, &c.] This for the most part being made of the flour of wheat, might with greater propriety be called a wheat offering.

11 A meat offering—shall be made with leaven, &c.] Partly to remind them of their great deliverance out of Egypt, when they were forced to carry away their dough before it was leavened; and partly in opposition to the custom of the heathens in such cases, who made their sacrificed bread of the lightest and sweetest kind possible.

12 They shall not be burnt, &c.] The first-fruits were not offered to God by fire; but after consecration, were for the priest's use. See Numb. xviii. 13.

16 Shall burn the memorial, &c.] From the meat offerings that were offered on the altar, the priest took an handful, and burnt for a memorial, the remainder being for the use of the priests.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

1 A sacrifice of peace offering, &c.] A sacrifice of thanksgiving for any kind of blessing. The burnt offerings had regard to God, as he is, in himself, the best of Beings, most perfect, and most excellent; were purely expressive of adoration, and therefore were wholly burned; but the peace offering had regard to God, as he is the great benefactor to his creatures, and the giver of all good things; and therefore these were divided between the altar, the priest, and the owner. The priest, who was ordained for men in things pertaining to God, gave part of the peace offerings to God, burning it upon his altar; part he gave to the offerer, to be eaten by him with his family and friend; and part with his own portion. This participation, as it were of the offering, spoke harmony and agreement, was a symbol of friendship and fellowship between God and man, and a confirmation of the covenant of peace.

5 Upon the burnt sacrifice, &c.] We are to observe, that the offerings never begun with the sacrifices of peace offerings or thanksgiving, but with those of expiation or atonement; and the peace offering is enjoined upon or after the burnt sacrifice, to shew that no work of service or homage can be acceptable to God, if the expiation or atonement for sin go not before.

9 The whole rump, &c.] The whole rump of the sheep was to be burned with the fat of the inwards upon the altar, because in those countries it was very fat and large.

16 And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire for a ſweet ſavour: all the fat is the LORD's.

17 It ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor blood.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

From the neceſſity the people were under to offer ſacrifices to God, let us learn firſt, That we ſhould deny ourſelves many indulgences, in order to remove the burden from the poor. Secondly, From the victims being burnt, that God would have us ſubdue all our luſts, and that our devotions ſhould aſcend, as on a flame, up to his throne. Laſtly, Seeing God took ſo much care of the Iſraelites, he will alſo take equal care of us, if we love and ſerve him.

CHAP. IV.

1 The ſin offering of ignorance for the prieſt, 13 for the congregation, 22 for a ruler, 27 for any of the people.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a ſoul ſhall ſin through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the LORD concerning things which ought not to be done, and ſhall do againſt any of them:

3 If the prieſt that is anointed do ſin according to the ſin of the people; then let him bring for his ſin, which he hath ſinned, a young bullock without blemiſh unto the LORD for a ſin offering.

4 And he ſhall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD; and ſhall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before the LORD.

5 And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall take of the bullock's blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in the blood, and ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times before the LORD, before the vail of the ſanctuary.

7 And the prieſt ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar of ſweet incenſe before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of the congregation; and ſhall pour all the blood of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And he ſhall take off from it all the fat of the bullock for the ſin offering; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

9 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

10 As it was taken off from the bullock of the ſacrifice of peace offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar of the burnt offering.

11 And the ſkin of the bullock, and all his fleſh, with his head, and with his legs, and his inwards, and his dung,

12 Even the whole bullock ſhall he carry forth without the camp unto a clean place, where the aſhes are poured out, and burn him on the wood with fire: where the aſhes are poured out ſhall he be burnt.

Before CHRIST 1490.

13 ¶ And if the whole congregation of Iſrael ſin through ignorance, and the thing be hid from the eyes of the aſſembly, and they have done ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD concerning things which ſhould not be done, and are guilty;

14 When the ſin, which they have ſinned againſt it, is known, then the congregation ſhall offer a young bullock for the ſin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the elders of the congregation ſhall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock ſhall be killed before the LORD.

16 And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall bring of the bullock's blood to the tabernacle of the congregation.

17 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in ſome of the blood, and ſprinkle it ſeven times before the LORD, even before the vail.

18 And he ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar which is before the LORD, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

19 And he ſhall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he ſhall do with the bullock as he did with the bullock for a ſin offering, ſo ſhall he do with this: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for them, and it ſhall be forgiven them.

21 And he ſhall carry forth the bullock without the camp, and burn him as he burned the firſt bullock: it is a ſin offering for the congregation.

22 ¶ When a ruler hath ſinned, and done ſomewhat through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the LORD his God concerning things which ſhould not be done, and is guilty;

23 Or if his ſin, wherein he hath ſinned, come to his knowledge; he ſhall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a male without blemiſh:

24 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the goat, and kill it in the place where they kill the burnt offering before the LORD; it is a ſin offering.

25 And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and ſhall pour out his blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt offering.

26 And he ſhall burn all his fat upon the altar, as the fat of the ſacrifice of peace offerings; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him as concerning his ſin, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

27 ¶ And if any one of the common people ſin through ignorance, while he doeth ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD concerning things which ought not to be done, and be guilty;

28 Or

---

17 Throughout all your dwellings, &c.] Not only in the public ſacrifices, but alſo in private dwellings; where thoſe kinds of fat not being offered to God, it is likely were thrown away, as the blood was, and not eaten.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IV.

2 Shall ſin through ignorance, &c.] As for thoſe ſins which were committed preſumptuouſly, and with an avowed contempt of the law, that offender was to be cut off; but if the offender was either ignorant of the law, as in divers inſtances, we may ſuppoſe many were, ſo numerous and various were the injunctions and prohibitions; or if he was ſurpriſed into a tranſgreſſion of the law unawares; in theſe caſes relief was provided by the remedial law of the ſin offering. The offender might expiate by ſacrifice for crimes, if committed ignorantly; for which, if they had been done preſumptuouſly, the criminal was to have been cut off.

3 If the prieſt, &c.] His office did not ſo far excuſe his offences, as that they ſhould be forgiven without a ſacrifice; nor yet on the other hand did it ſo far aggravate them, but that they ſhould be forgiven him, if he brought his ſacrifice.

12 Without the camp—where the aſhes are poured out, &c.] This circumſtance is expreſſively typical of Chriſt, who ſuffered without the gate, in the place of a ſcull, where the aſhes of dead men, as thoſe of the altar, were poured out. And of this the apoſtle takes notice, making the ſame application of this ceremony: "the bodies of thoſe beaſts, whoſe blood is brought into the ſanctuary by the high-prieſt for ſin, are burnt without the camp: wherefore Jeſus alſo, that he might ſanctify the people with his own blood, ſuffered without the gate: let us go therefore unto him without the camp, &c." Heb. xiii. 11, 12, 13.

13 If the whole congregation of Iſrael ſin, &c.] This is the law for expiating the ſin of the whole community, and one of the repreſentatives only and the rulers of the people, as ſome commentators underſtand it.

23 Or if his ſin, &c.] And if his ſin, &c. or, as ſoon as his ſin, &c.

26 The prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, &c.] There is a remarkable difference between the ſin offering for a ruler, and thoſe for the high-prieſt or the whole congregation. For the ſin of the high-prieſt or of the whole congregation, a bullock was required; for the ſin of a ruler, a kid of the goats was ſufficient: in the former caſe, the ſacrifice was burned without the camp: in the latter, no ſuch precept was enjoined. All which intimated, that the ſin of the ruler, though worſe than that of a common perſon, yet was not ſo heinous, nor of ſuch pernicious conſequence, as the ſin of the high prieſt, or of the congregation; and that it is bad when great men give ill examples, but worſe when all men follow them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

Firſt, Learn, that God would have us repent of every ſin, ſeeing ſacrifices were enjoined for ſins of ignorance. Secondly, As the rulers or magiſtrates were obliged to offer ſacrifice, we are taught, that no perſon is exempted from repentance, even for ſins of ignorance. Thirdly, As the ſinner laid his hand on the head of the victim, let us learn, if we would be ſaved, to lay hold of the goſpel by faith. Laſtly, That though theſe ceremonies had no virtue in themſelves, yet God made them efficacious by his power.

CHAP. V.

1 The treſpaſs offering of one that ſinneth in concealing his knowledge, in touching an unclean thing, or in making an oath; from the flock, 7 or of fowls, 11 or of flour. 14 The treſpaſs offering in caſes of ſacrilege, 17 and in ſins of ignorance.

AND if a ſoul ſin, and hear the voice of ſwearing, and is a witneſs, whether he hath ſeen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he ſhall bear his iniquity.

2 Or if a ſoul touch any unclean thing, whether it be a carcaſe of an unclean beaſt, or a carcaſe of unclean cattle, or the carcaſe of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him; he alſo ſhall be unclean, and guilty.

3 Or if he touch the uncleanneſs of man, whatſoever uncleanneſs it be that a man ſhall be defiled withal, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he ſhall be guilty.

4 Or if a ſoul ſwear, pronouncing with his lips to do evil or to do good, whatſoever it be that a man ſhall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe.

5 And it ſhall be, when he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe things, that he ſhall confeſs that he hath ſinned in that thing:

6 And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs offering unto the LORD for his ſin which he hath ſinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a ſin offering; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him concerning his ſin.

7 ¶ And if he be not able to bring a lamb, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs, which he hath committed, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt offering.

8 And he ſhall bring them unto the prieſt, who ſhall offer that which is for the ſin offering firſt, and wring off his head from his neck, but ſhall not divide it aſunder:

9 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood of the ſin offering upon the ſide of the altar; and the reſt of the blood ſhall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a ſin offering.

10 And he ſhall offer the ſecond for a burnt offering, according to the manner: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him for his ſin which he hath ſinned, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

11 ¶ But if he be not able to bring two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, then he that ſinned ſhall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a ſin offering; he ſhall put no oil upon it, neither ſhall he put any frankincenſe thereon: for it is a ſin offering.

12 Then ſhall he bring it to the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall take his handful of it, even a memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a ſin-offering.

13 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him as touching his ſin that he hath ſinned in one of theſe, and it ſhall be forgiven him; and the remnant ſhall be the prieſt's, as a meat offering.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

15 If a ſoul commit a treſpaſs, and ſin through ignorance, in the holy things of the LORD; then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs unto the LORD a ram without blemiſh out of the flocks, with thy eſtimation by ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for a treſpaſs offering:

16 And he ſhall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing, and ſhall add the fifth part thereto, and give it unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the treſpaſs offering, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. V.

1 Hear the voice of ſwearing, &c.] This is not meant of taking an oath, but of a general denunciation from a judge, or an adjuration, as was uſual, in the name of God, to reveal ſome ſecret fact, about which the evidence was to bear witneſs, an inſtance of which kind of adjuration we have in Matt. xxvi. 63. "I adjure thee, ſays the high prieſt, by the living God, that thou tell us," &c. upon which adjuration Jeſus immediately gave an anſwer, and confeſſed it; whereas before, he held his peace.

2 Shall be unclean] This is, unclean until the even, when waſhing was required. See Lev. xi. 24, 25.

And guilty.] Bound to expiate the accidental uncleanneſs, and be reſtored to corporeal purity required by the ceremonial law. Though his touching the unclean thing contracted only a ceremonial defilement, yet a neglect to waſh himſelf according to the law, would be ſuch an inſtance either of careleſſneſs or contempt, as would contract a moral guilt.

4 If a ſoul ſwear, pronouncing with, &c.] By this is meant raſh and inconſiderate ſwearing to do any thing; of which if the performance proves afterwards to be either unlawful or impracticable, ſo that he is diſcharged from the obligation, yet he is required to bring an offering to atone for his folly in ſwearing ſo unadviſedly and raſhly.

7 If he be not able to bring a lamb, &c.] Proviſion is here made for the poor, and the pacifying their conſciences under the ſenſe of guilt. Thoſe who were not able to bring a lamb, might bring for their ſin offering a pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons; nay, if any were ſo extremely poor, that they were not able to procure thoſe ſo often as they might have occaſion, they might bring a pottle of fine flour, and that ſhould be accepted. Thus the expence of the ſin offering was brought lower than that of any other offering, to teach us that no man's poverty ſhall ever be a bar in the way of his pardon.

15 If a ſoul commit a treſpaſs, and ſin through ignorance, in the holy things of the Lord, &c.] If a man alienated, or converted to his own uſe, ignorantly or inadvertently, any thing that was dedicated to God, he was to offer a ram, before making amends to the prieſt.

Before CHRIST 1490. things which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD; though he wiſt it not, yet is he guilty, and ſhall bear his iniquity.

18 And he ſhall bring a ram without blemiſh out of the flock, with thy eſtimation, for a treſpaſs offering, unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him concerning his ignorance wherein he erred and wiſt it not, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

19 It is a treſpaſs offering: he hath certainly treſpaſſed againſt the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

We are here taught, firſt, That it is a heinous crime not to declare the truth, when called upon. Secondly, When we have committed any ſin through ignorance, and are conſcious of it, we ought to confeſs it, in order to obtain forgiveneſs. Let us alſo learn, that as the offender among the Iſraelites was to add one-fifth to what he had unjuſtly taken away from any thing ſet apart for a ſacred uſe; ſo we ought, when we have injured any of our fellow creatures, to make them an additional recompence for the injury.

1 The treſpaſs offering for ſins done wittingly. 8 The law of the burnt offering, 14 and of the meat offering. 19 The offering at the conſecration of a prieſt. 24 The law of the ſin offering.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 If a ſoul ſin, and commit a treſpaſs againſt the LORD, and lie unto his neighbour in that which was delivered him to keep, or in fellowſhip, or in a thing taken away by violence, or hath deceived his neighbour;

3 Or have found that which was loſt, and lieth concerning it, and ſweareth falſely; in any of all theſe that a man doeth, ſinning therein:

4 Then it ſhall be, becauſe he hath ſinned, and is guilty, that he ſhall reſtore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the loſt thing which he found,

5 Or all that about which he hath ſworn falſely; he ſhall even reſtore it in the principal, and ſhall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, in the day of his treſpaſs offering.

6 And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs offering unto the LORD, a ram without blemiſh out of the flock, with thy eſtimation, for a treſpaſs offering, unto the prieſt:

7 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it ſhall be forgiven him for any thing of all that he hath done in treſpaſſing therein.

8 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

9 Command Aaron and his ſons, ſaying, This is the law of the burnt offering: It is the burnt offering, becauſe of the burning upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar ſhall be burning in it.

10 And the prieſt ſhall put on his linen garment, and his linen breeches ſhall he put upon his fleſh, and take up the aſhes which the fire hath conſumed with the burnt offering on the altar, and he ſhall put them beſide the altar.

11 And he ſhall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the aſhes without the camp unto a clean place.

12 And the fire upon the altar ſhall be burning in it; it ſhall not be put out: and the prieſt ſhall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order upon it; and he ſhall burn thereon the fat of the peace offerings. Before CHRIST 1490.

13 The fire ſhall ever be burning upon the altar; it ſhall never go out.

14 ¶ And this is the law of the meat offering: the ſons of Aaron ſhall offer it before the LORD, before the altar.

15 And he ſhall take of it his handful, of the flour of the meat offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincenſe which is upon the meat offering, and ſhall burn it upon the altar for a ſweet ſavour, even the memorial of it, unto the LORD.

16 And the remainder thereof ſhall Aaron and his ſons eat: with unleavened bread ſhall it be eaten in the holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they ſhall eat it.

17 It ſhall not be baken with leaven. I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire; it is moſt holy, as is the ſin offering, and as the treſpaſs offering.

18 All the males among the children of Aaron ſhall eat it. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: every one that toucheth them ſhall be holy.

19 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

20 This is the offering of Aaron and of his ſons, which they ſhall offer unto the LORD in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night.

22 In a pan it ſhall be made with oil; and when it is baken, thou ſhalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat offering ſhalt thou offer for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

22 And the prieſt of his ſons that is anointed in his ſtead ſhall offer it: it is a ſtatute for ever unto the LORD: it ſhall be wholly burnt.

23 For every meat offering for the prieſt ſhall be wholly burnt: it ſhall not be eaten.

24 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

25 Speak unto Aaron and to his ſons, ſaying, This is the law of the ſin offering: In the place where the burnt offering is killed ſhall the ſin offering be killed before the LORD: it is moſt holy.

26 The prieſt that offereth it for ſin ſhall eat it: in the holy place ſhall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

27 Whatſoever ſhall touch the fleſh thereof ſhall be holy; and when there is ſprinkled of the blood thereof upon any garment, thou ſhalt waſh that whereon it was ſprinkled in the holy place.

28 But the earthen veſſel wherein it is ſodden ſhall be broken: and if it be ſodden in a braſen pot, it ſhall be both ſcoured and rinſed in water.

29 All the males among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it is moſt holy.

30 And no ſin offering, whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to reconcile withal in the holy place, ſhall be eaten: it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

2 And lie unto his neighbour, &c.] This is a continuation of the law of the treſpaſs offering; and the kinds of treſpaſſes which are here inſtanced, are, denying a truſt; defrauding a partner; diſowning a wrong and robbery; deceiving in dealings; and detaining what is found. Though all theſe inſtances relate to our neighbour, yet they are called treſpaſſes againſt the Lord, not only becauſe of the affront which is hereby given to his maſter and our maſter, but becauſe alſo the ſins here mentioned are principally ſuch as are committed in ſecret, and may therefore emphatically be ſaid to be committed againſt the Lord, to whom alone the ſecrets of all hearts are open.

9 Command Aaron and his ſons, &c.] Hitherto the inſtructions given to Moſes were concerning the ſacrifices that were to be offered, but here begin the inſtructions he was to give to the prieſts.

13 The fire ſhall ever be burning. &c.] By this law we are taught to keep up in our minds a conſtant diſpoſition to all acts of piety and devotion, an habitual affection to divine things, ſo as to be always ready to every good word and work.

17 For their portion, &c.] The law of the burnt offerings was ſuch as impoſed upon the prieſts a great deal of care and work, and allowed them little profit; for the fleſh was wholly burned, and the prieſts had nothing but the ſkin: but to make them amends, the greateſt part of the meat offering was their own.

CHAP. VII.

1 The law of the treſpaſs offering, 11 and of the peace offering, whether it be for a thankſgiving, a vow, or a freewill offering. 22 The fat and the blood are forbidden to be eaten. 28 The prieſts' portion in the peace offerings. 35 Recapitulation.

LIKEWISE this is the law of the treſpaſs offering: it is moſt holy.

2 In the place where they kill the burnt offering ſhall they kill the treſpaſs offering: and the blood thereof ſhall he ſprinkle round about upon the altar.

3 And he ſhall offer of it all the fat thereof; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it he ſhall take away.

5 And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a treſpaſs offering.

6 Every male among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it ſhall be eaten in the holy place: it is moſt holy.

7 As the ſin offering is, ſo is the treſpaſs offering: there is one law for them: the prieſt that maketh atonement therewith ſhall have it.

8 And the prieſt that offereth any man's burnt offering, even the prieſt ſhall have to himſelf the ſkin of the burnt offering which he hath offered.

9 And all the meat offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dreſſed in the frying pan, and in the pan, ſhall be the prieſt's that offereth it.

10 And every meat offering, mingled with oil, and dry, ſhall all the ſons of Aaron have, one as much as another.

11 ¶ And this is the law of the ſacrifice of peace offerings, which he ſhall offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thankſgiving, then he ſhall offer with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, fried.

13 Beſides the cakes, he ſhall offer for his offering leavened bread with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving of his peace offerings.

14 And of it he ſhall offer one out of the whole oblation for an heave offering unto the LORD, and it ſhall be the prieſt's that ſprinkleth the blood of the peace offerings.

15 And the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace offerings for thankſgiving ſhall be eaten the ſame day that it is offered; he ſhall not leave any of it until the morning.

16 But if the ſacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it ſhall be eaten the ſame day that he offereth his ſacrifice: and on the morrow alſo the remainder of it ſhall be eaten:

17 But the remainder of the fleſh of the ſacrifice on the third day ſhall be burnt with fire.

18 And if any of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it ſhall not be accepted, neither ſhall it be imputed unto him that offereth it: it ſhall be an abomination, and the ſoul that eateth of it ſhall bear his iniquity.

19 And the fleſh that toucheth any unclean thing ſhall not be eaten: it ſhall be burnt with fire: and as for the fleſh, all that be clean ſhall eat thereof.

20 But the ſoul that eateth of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace offerings, that pertain unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people. Before CHRIST 1490.

21 Moreover the ſoul that ſhall touch any unclean thing, as the uncleanneſs of man, or any unclean beaſt, or any abominable unclean thing, and eat of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace offerings, which pertain unto the LORD, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſhall eat no manner of fat, of ox, or of ſheep, or of goat.

24 And the fat of the beaſt that dieth of itſelf, and the fat of that which is torn with beaſts, may be uſed in any other uſe: but ye ſhall in no wiſe eat of it.

25 For whoſoever eateth the fat of the beaſt, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the ſoul that eateth it ſhall be cut off from his people.

26 Moreover ye ſhall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl or of beaſt, in any of your dwellings.

27 Whatſoever ſoul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

28 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

29 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, He that offereth the ſacrifice of his peace offerings unto the LORD ſhall bring his oblation unto the LORD of the ſacrifice of his peace offerings.

30 His own hands ſhall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire, the fat with the breaſt, it ſhall he bring, that the breaſt may be waved for a wave offering before the LORD.

31 And the prieſt ſhall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breaſt ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons'.

32 And the right ſhoulder ſhall ye give unto the prieſt for an heave offering of the ſacrifices of your peace offerings.

33 He among the ſons of Aaron, that offereth the blood of the peace offerings, and the fat, ſhall have the right ſhoulder for his part.

34 For the wave breaſt and the heave ſhoulder have I taken of the children of Iſrael from off the ſacrifices of their peace offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the prieſt and unto his ſons by a ſtatute for ever from among the children of Iſrael.

35 ¶ This is the portion of the anointing of Aaron, and of the anointing of his ſons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day when he preſented them to miniſter unto the LORD in the prieſt's office;

36 Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Iſrael, in the day that he anointed them, by a ſtatute for ever throughout their generations.

37 This is the law of the burnt offering, of the meat offering, and of the ſin offering, and of the treſpaſs offering, and of the conſecrations, and of the ſacrifice of the peace offering;

38 Which the LORD commanded Moſes in mount Sinai, in the day that he commanded the children of Iſrael to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

The manner in which the treſpaſs offering was offered up, points out what a neceſſary thing true repentance is; and as the ſacrifice could not be offered up without action, ſo true repentance is an active thing; for unleſs there is a total change in the converſation, no real repentance has taken place. Laſtly, From God's enjoining the Iſraelites to ſupport the prieſts, we are taught to treat with reverence every thing ſet apart for divine ſervice, eſpecially the miniſters of the word.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VII.

7 Sin offering—treſpaſs offering, &c.] Sin offering and treſpaſs offering are ſometimes put one for the other; but ſtrictly the former implies an offering for an offence committed directly againſt God; the latter, for an offence committed more immediately againſt man.

8 Shall have to himſelf the ſkin, &c.] This is meant only of the burnt offerings which were offered by particular perſons; for the profit of the daily offerings for the congregation went to the repair of the ſanctuary.

11 Peace offerings, &c.] Peace offerings were made either in thankfulneſs for ſome ſpecial mercy received; or in performance of ſome vow, which a man made when he was in diſtreſs; or in ſupplication for ſome ſpecial mercy which a man was in purſuit and expectation of.

23 No manner of fat, &c.] Not the fat which is mixed with the meat, but only that which is upon the inwards, and upon the two kidneys.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Moses consecrateth Aaron and his sons. 14 Their sin offering. 18 Their burnt offering. 22 The ram of consecration. 31 The place and time of their consecration.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
2 Take Aaron and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and a bullock for the sin offering, and two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread;
3 And gather thou all the congregation together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.
4 And Moses did as the LORD commanded him; and the assembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.
5 And Moses said unto the congregation, This is the thing which the LORD commanded to be done.
6 And Moses brought Aaron and his sons, and washed them with water.
7 And he put upon him the coat, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.
8 And he put the breastplate upon him: also he put in the breastplate the Urim and Thummim.
9 And he put the mitre upon his head; also upon the mitre, even upon his forefront, did he put the golden plate, the holy crown; as the LORD commanded Moses.
10 And Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was therein, and sanctified them.
11 And he sprinkled thereof upon the altar seven times, and anointed the altar and all his vessels, both the laver and his foot, to sanctify them.
12 And he poured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and anointed him, to sanctify him.
13 And Moses brought Aaron's sons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and put bonnets upon them; as the LORD commanded Moses.
14 ¶ And he brought the bullock for the sin offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the sin offering.
15 And he slew it; and Moses took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and sanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it.
16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moses burnt it upon the altar.
17 But the bullock, and his hide, his flesh, and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp; as the LORD commanded Moses.
18 ¶ And he brought the ram for the burnt offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.
19 And he killed it; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.
20 And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.
21 And he washed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moses burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt sacrifice for a sweet savour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD; as the Lord commanded Moses.
22 ¶ And he brought the other ram, the ram of consecration: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.
23 And he slew it; and Moses took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.
24 And he brought Aaron's sons, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet: and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.
25 And he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right shoulder:
26 And out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and upon the right shoulder:
27 And he put all upon Aaron's hands, and upon his sons' hands, and waved them for a wave offering before the LORD.
28 And Moses took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar upon the burnt offering: they were consecrations for a sweet savour: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.
29 And Moses took the breast, and waved it for a wave offering before the LORD: for of the ram of consecration it was Moses' part; as the LORD commanded Moses.
30 And Moses took up the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and sprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon his sons' garments with him; and sanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.
31 ¶ And Moses said unto Aaron and to his sons, Boil the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and there eat it with the bread that is in the basket of consecrations, as I commanded, saying, Aaron and his sons shall eat it.
32 And that which remaineth of the flesh and of the bread shall ye burn with fire.
33 And ye shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in seven days, until the days of your consecration be at an end: for seven days shall he consecrate you.
34 As he hath done this day, so the LORD hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you.
35 Therefore shall ye abide at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation day and night seven days, and keep the charge of the LORD, that ye die not: for so I am commanded.
36 So Aaron and his sons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

The solemn consecration of the priests shews, that no person has a right to take upon him the work of the ministry, till he is ordained; and the holiness enjoined such, should excite them to be exemplary in their lives. Lastly, The readiness with which Moses obeyed the divine command, should teach us to be obedient in all things.

CHAP. IX.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VIII.

3 All the congregation, &c.] The elders and principal men of the congregation, who represented the body of the people.

22 The ram of consecration, &c.] This was a kind of peace offering.

33 Ye shall not go out of the door] This should have been rendered, Ye shall not go from the door; for the consecration was not performed in, but at the door of the tabernacle; nor were they permitted to enter the sanctuary, till the ceremony was performed.

Before CHRIST 1490.

2 And he said unto Aaron, Take thee a young calf for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD.

3 And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, Take ye a kid of the goats for a sin offering; and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt offering;

4 Also a bullock and a ram for peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD; and a meat offering mingled with oil: for to day the LORD will appear unto you.

5 And they brought that which Moses commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and stood before the LORD.

6 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye should do: and the glory of the LORD shall appear unto you.

7 And Moses said unto Aaron, Go unto the altar, and offer thy sin offering, and thy burnt offering, and make an atonement for thyself, and for the people: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them: as the LORD commanded.

8 ¶ Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and slew the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself.

9 And the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him; and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar:

10 But the fat, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the sin offering, he burnt upon the altar; as the LORD commanded Moses.

11 And the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp.

12 And he slew the burnt offering; and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood which he sprinkled round about upon the altar.

13 And they presented the burnt offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

14 And he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt offering on the altar.

15 ¶ And he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and slew it, and offered it for sin, as the first.

16 And he brought the burnt offering, and offered it according to the manner.

17 And he brought the meat offering, and took an handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar, beside the burnt sacrifice of the morning.

18 He slew also the bullock and the ram for a sacrifice of peace offerings, which was for the people: and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood, which he sprinkled upon the altar round about,

19 And the fat of the bullock and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver:

20 And they put the fat upon the breasts, and he burnt the fat upon the altar.

Before CHRIST 1490.

21 And the breasts and the right shoulder Aaron waved for a wave-offering before the LORD; as Moses commanded.

22 And Aaron lifted up his hand toward the people, and blessed them, and came down from offering of the sin offering, and the burnt offering, and peace offerings.

23 ¶ And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out and blessed the people: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people.

24 And there came a fire out from before the LORD, and consumed upon the altar the burnt offering and the fat: which when all the people saw, they shouted, and fell on their faces.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

As Aaron offered up sacrifices first for himself; so ministers should practice the duties they teach. God's appearing visibly to the people encourages us to hope, that whenever we properly address God in prayer, he will send us his blessing; and the prostration of the Israelites teaches us, that in all our approaches to God, we should give him homage with our bodies, as well as with our hearts.

CHAP. X.

1 Nadab and Abihu for offering strange fire are burned by fire from the Lord. 6 Aaron and his sons are forbidden to mourn for them. 8 The priests are forbidden wine when they are to go into the tabernacle. 12 The law of eating the holy things. 16 Aaron's excuse for transgressing it.

AND Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered strange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not.

2 And there went out fire from the LORD, and devoured them, and they died before the LORD.

3 Then Moses said unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake, saying, I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace.

4 And Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, Come near, carry your brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp.

5 So they went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said.

6 ¶ And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons, Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes; lest ye die, and lest wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled.

7 And ye shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses.

8 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Aaron, saying,

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IX.

8 And slew the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself.] These being the first offerings that ever were made by the levitical priesthood, according to the new enacted law of sacrifices, the historian is very particular in relating the manner of offering them, that it might appear how exactly they agreed with the institution. Some interpreters have been of opinion, that by the appointment of a calf for the sin offering of Aaron, is intimated the sin which Aaron had committed, when he made the golden calf.

23 Went into the tabernacle, &c.] We are not told what Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle to do: some of the Jewish writers say, they went in to pray for the appearance of the divine glory: most probably they went in, that Moses might instruct Aaron how to perform the service that was to be done there.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. X.

1 Offered strange fire before the Lord, which he commanded them not.] The words, "which he commanded them not," certainly imply a prohibition of any other fire than what lately came out from before the Lord, and remained upon the altar, though the history makes no mention of it: and then the crime of Nadab and Abihu consisted in kindling the incense with fire different from what the Lord had ordered them to use. God as yet had given no law for the offering up of incense in censers; all that had been commanded about it, was, that Aaron should burn it upon the altar of incense every morning and every evening; but these men took upon them to introduce a service into religion, which was not appointed, and which, if it had been suffered, would have opened a door to great irregularities: and therefore God, by an exemplary judgment upon the first offenders, put an effectual stop to it.

3 Aaron held his peace.] He patiently submitted to the will of God in this sad providence: was dumb, and opened not his mouth, because it was the Lord's doing.

6 Uncover not your heads, &c.] Shew no signs of grief and lamentation. The original signifying both to make bare, and to uncover the head, which was customary in the times of mourning; whilst others understanding the word in the latter acceptation, refer it to their taking off their mitres, and stripping their heads of their ornaments.

7 For the anointing oil of the Lord is upon you, &c.] Seeing you are consecrated to God, you must dedicate your affections to him likewise; nor let worldly, inferior objects, possess your minds, and exercise your passions; but devote them all entirely to God, and be concerned only for his service.

9 Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink, thou nor thy ſons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt ye die: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations:

10 And that ye may put difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean.

11 And that ye may teach the children of Iſrael all the ſtatutes which the LORD hath ſpoken unto them by the hand of Moſes.

12 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his ſons that were left, Take the meat offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it without leaven beſide the altar: for it is moſt holy:

13 And ye ſhall eat it in the holy place, becauſe it is thy due, and thy ſons' due of the ſacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for ſo I am commanded.

14 And the wave breaſt and heave ſhoulder ſhall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy ſons, and thy daughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy ſons' due, which are given out of the ſacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Iſrael.

15 The heave ſhoulder and the wave breaſt ſhall they bring with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave offering before the LORD; and it ſhall be thine, and thy ſons' with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: as the LORD hath commanded.

16 ¶ And Moſes diligently ſought the goat of the ſin offering, and, behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the ſons of Aaron which were left alive, ſaying,

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

18 Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the holy place: ye ſhould indeed have eaten it in the holy place, as I commanded.

19 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, this day have they offered their ſin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD; and ſuch things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the ſin offering to day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the LORD?

20 And when Moſes heard that, he was content.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

By the dreadful end of Nadab and Abihu we learn what a dangerous thing it is to miniſter in divine ordinances without real knowledge, lively faith, and ſincere repentance; and that we muſt worſhip God in ſpirit and in truth, with pure conſciences, and not introduce human inventions. By Aaron's being forbidden to mourn for his ſons, we are directed to lament only when God cuts off a notorious ſinner, that he ſhould have incurred ſuch a puniſhment by his wickedneſs and rebellion.

CHAP. XI.

1 What beaſts may, and what may not be eaten: 9 What fiſhes: 13 What fowls: 29 The creeping things which are unclean.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and to Aaron, ſaying unto them,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat among all the beaſts that are on the earth.

3 Whatſoever parteth the hoof, and is clovenfooted, and cheweth the cud, among the beaſts, that ſhall ye eat.

Before CHRIST 1490.

4 Nevertheleſs theſe ſhall ye not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

5 And the coney, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

6 And the hare, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

7 And the ſwine, though he divide the hoof, and be clovenfooted, yet he cheweth not the cud; he is unclean to you.

8 Of their fleſh ſhall ye not eat, and their carcaſe ſhall ye not touch; they are unclean unto you.

9 ¶ Theſe ſhall ye eat of all that are in the waters: whatſoever hath fins and ſcales in the waters, in the ſeas, and in the rivers, them ſhall ye eat.

10 And all that have not fins and ſcales in the ſeas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters and of any living thing which is in the waters, they ſhall be an abomination unto you:

11 They ſhall be even an abomination unto you; ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, but ye ſhall have their carcaſes in abomination.

12 Whatſoever hath no fins nor ſcales in the waters, that ſhall be an abomination unto you.

13 ¶ And theſe are they which ye ſhall have in abomination among the fowls; they ſhall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, and the oſſifrage, and the oſpray,

14 And the vulture, and the kite after his kind;

15 Every raven after his kind;

16 And the owl, and the night hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,

17 And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,

18 And the ſwan, and the pelican, and the gier eagle,

19 And the ſtork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

20 All fowls that creep, going upon all four, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

21 Yet theſe may ye eat of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth;

22 Even theſe of them ye may eat; the locuſt after his kind, and the bald locuſt after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the graſhopper after his kind.

23 But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

24 And for theſe ye ſhall be unclean: whoſoever toucheth the carcaſe of them ſhall be unclean until the even.

25 And whoſoever beareth ought of the carcaſe of them ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

26 The carcaſes of every beaſt which divideth the hoof, and is not clovenfooted, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them ſhall be unclean.

27 And whatſoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beaſts that go on all four, thoſe are unclean unto you: whoſo toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean until the even.

28 And

19 If I had eaten the ſin offering to day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the Lord? Would the great Judge of the whole earth have been pleaſed with me, had I, in ſuch confuſion and heavineſs of heart, eaten the ſacrifice? The voice both of nature and religion declares, that men ought to celebrate feaſts with a chearful heart; but was it poſſible for me, on this melancholy occaſion, to diſpoſe myſelf properly for ſuch a ſervice?

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XI.

2 Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat, &c.] As for the beaſts, allowed to be eaten, the rule laid down is general and plain, namely, thoſe beaſts, and thoſe only, which did both part the hoof and chew the cud, were accounted clean.

4 Theſe ſhall ye not eat, &c.] Many are the reaſons aſſigned, why God was pleaſed to allow ſome kinds of baaſts, and to prohibit others. By this he exerciſed the obedience of his people, not only in the ſolemnities of his altar, but in matters of daily occurrence at their own table, that they might at all times remember that they were under his authority. By this he would teach his people to diſtinguiſh themſelves from other people, not only in their religious worſhip, but in the common actions of life, ſome aſſert, that the meats forbidden were unwholeſome or hurtful, or held in veneration among the heathens.

18 The gier eagle] Or the vulture eagle; gier being an old Engliſh word for vulture.

28 And he that beareth the carcaſe of them ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 ¶ Theſe alſo ſhall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the weaſel, and the mouſe, and the tortoiſe after his kind,

30 And the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the ſnail, and the mole.

31 Theſe are unclean to you among all that creep: whoſoever doth touch them when they be dead, ſhall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatſoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it ſhall be unclean; whether it be any veſſel of wood, or raiment, or ſkin, or ſack, whatſoever veſſel it be, wherein any work is done, it muſt be put into water, and it ſhall be unclean until the even; ſo it ſhall be cleanſed.

33 And every earthen veſſel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatſoever is in it ſhall be unclean; and ye ſhall break it.

34 Of all meat which may be eaten, that on which ſuch water cometh ſhall be unclean: and all drink that may be drunk in every ſuch veſſel ſhall be unclean.

35 And every thing whereupon any part of their carcaſe falleth ſhall be unclean; whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they ſhall be broken down: for they are unclean, and ſhall be unclean unto you.

36 Nevertheleſs a fountain or pit. wherein there is plenty of water, ſhall be clean: but that which toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean.

37 And if any part of their carcaſe fall upon any ſowing ſeed which is to be ſown, it ſhall be clean.

38 But if any water be put upon the ſeed, and any part of their carcaſe fall thereon, it ſhall be unclean unto you.

39 And if any beaſt, of which ye may eat, die; he that toucheth the carcaſe thereof ſhall be unclean until the even.

40 And he that eateth of the carcaſe of it ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he alſo that beareth the carcaſe of it ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

41 And every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth ſhall be an abomination; it ſhall not be eaten.

42 Whatſoever goeth upon the belly, and whatſoever goeth upon all four, or whatſoever hath more feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, them ye ſhall not eat; for they are an abomination.

43 Ye ſhall not make yourſelves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither ſhall ye make yourſelves unclean with them, that ye ſhould be defiled thereby.

44 For I am the LORD your God: ye ſhall therefore ſanctify yourſelves, and ye ſhall be holy: for I am holy: neither ſhall ye defile yourſelves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

45 For I am the LORD that bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: ye ſhall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 This is the law of the beaſts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth:

47 To make a difference between the unclean and the clean, and between the beaſt that may be eaten and the beaſt that may not be eaten.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XI.

From God's appointing what creatures were to be uſed for food, we learn, that he is the univerſal Lord of nature, and has a right to preſcribe to his creatures; and we ſhould admire his goodneſs, in prohibiting whatever is hurtful. When God is pleaſed to reveal the knowledge of himſelf to any people, he would have them keep up the perpetual remembrance of his name. We are alſo taught, that as the Iſraelites were ſo ſtrictly enjoined to keep their bodies pure from infection by an improper uſe of meats and drinks, ſo it is neceſſary for us to keep our minds free from guilt, that we may be conſidered not merely as nominal Chriſtians, but as the temples of the Holy Ghoſt.

CHAP. XII.

1 The purification of a woman after childbirth: 6 her offerings for her purifying.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a woman have conceived ſeed, and born a man child: then ſhe ſhall be unclean ſeven days; according to the days of the ſeparation for her infirmity ſhall ſhe be unclean.

3 And in the eighth day the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed.

4 And ſhe ſhall then continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirty days; ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing, nor come into the ſanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled.

5 But if ſhe bear a maid child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean two weeks, as in her ſeparation: and ſhe ſhall continue in the blood of her purifying threeſcore and ſix days.

6 ¶ And when the days of her purifying are fulfilled, for a ſon, or for a daughter, ſhe ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year for a burnt offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtledove, for a ſin offering unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the prieſt:

7 Who ſhall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her; and ſhe ſhall be cleanſed from the iſſue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath born a male or a female.

8 And if ſhe be not able to bring a lamb, then ſhe ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons; the one for the burnt offering, and the other for the ſin offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be clean.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

As women were forbidden to attend divine worſhip for a certain time, let us learn to be modeſt, decent, and humane, in all our actions. God's compaſſion to the infirmities of women ſhould teach us to uſe them with tenderneſs, as the weaker veſſels. The poor condition of the mother of our Lord, who had only the ſmalleſt thing to offer for her purification, ſhould induce us to eſteem the riches of Chriſt above all things, and his croſs as our higheſt honour.

CHAP. XIII.

1, 9, 18, 24, 29, 38 The laws and tokens whereby the prieſt is to be guided in diſcerning the leproſy in man or woman; 47 and in a garment.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, ſaying,

2 When

---

40 And be unclean until the even.] This law is often repeated, to poſſeſs them with a dread of every thing that was prohibited, though no particular reaſon for the prohibition did appear, but only the will of the law-maker. Not that theſe things were to be looked upon as defiling to the conſcience, or that it was a ſin againſt God to touch them, in order to remove them: but it was a ceremonial uncleanneſs they contracted, which continued indeed only until the even; to ſignify that all ceremonial pollutions were to ceaſe by the death of Chriſt in the end, or the evening of the world.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XII.

3 In the eighth day the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed.] One reaſon for deferring this rite was the mother's uncleanneſs for ſome days after her delivery, and the uncleanneſs which ſhe communicated to the child itſelf during that period.

4 Three and thirty days; ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing, &c.] This law not only ſerved to repreſent that reverence and reſpect which is due to the public worſhip of God, but was alſo a political inſtitution, and ſupported by natural reaſon, the weakneſs of women at this time requiring repoſe and little company.

5 She ſhall be unclean two weeks, &c.] The time of purification was doubled for the birth of a female; which law ſeemed to remind them of the fall of man, in which the woman was the firſt and principal in the tranſgreſſion.

6 She ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year, &c.] It is probable that this law, as well as ſeveral others, were intended only during the peregrination of the Jewiſh commonwealth.

7 She ſhall be cleanſed, &c.] That is, ſhe ſhall be reſtored to the liberty of attending the public worſhip, and of partaking of the holy things.

Before CHRIST 1490.

2 When a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a rising, a scab, or bright spot, and it be in the skin of his flesh like the plague of leprosy; then he shall be brought unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests:

3 And the priest shall look on the plague in the skin of the flesh: and when the hair in the plague is turned white, and the plague in sight be deeper than the skin of his flesh, it is a plague of leprosy: and the priest shall look on him, and pronounce him unclean.

4 If the bright spot be white in the skin of his flesh, and in sight be not deeper than the skin, and the hair thereof be not turned white; then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague seven days:

5 And the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and, behold, if the plague in his sight be at a stay, and the plague spread not in the skin, then the priest shall shut him up seven days more:

6 And the priest shall look on him again the seventh day: and, behold, if the plague be somewhat dark, and the plague spread not in the skin, the priest shall pronounce him clean: it is but a scab: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

7 But if the scab spread much abroad in the skin, after that he hath been seen of the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen of the priest again:

8 And if the priest see that, behold, the scab spreadeth in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a leprosy.

9 ¶ When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought unto the priest;

10 And the priest shall see him: and, behold, if the rising be white in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be quick raw flesh in the rising;

11 It is an old leprosy in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, and shall not shut him up: for he is unclean:

12 And if a leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of him that hath the plague from his head even to his foot, wheresoever the priest looketh;

13 Then the priest shall consider: and, behold, if the leprosy have covered all his flesh, he shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean.

14 But when raw flesh appeareth in him, he shall be unclean.

15 And the priest shall see the raw flesh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw flesh is unclean: it is a leprosy.

16 Or if the raw flesh turn again, and be changed unto white, he shall come unto the priest:

17 And the priest shall see him: and, behold, if the plague be turned into white; then the priest shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

18 ¶ The flesh also, in which, even in the skin thereof, was a boil, and is healed,

19 And in the place of the boil there be a white rising, or a bright spot, white, and somewhat reddish, and it be shewed to the priest;

20 And if, when the priest seeth it, behold, it be in sight lower than the skin, and the hair thereof be turned white; the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy broken out of the boil.

Before CHRIST 1490.

21 But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days:

22 And if it spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague.

23 But if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not, it is a burning boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

24 ¶ Or if there be any flesh in the skin whereof there is a hot burning, and the quick flesh that burneth have a white bright spot, somewhat reddish, or white;

25 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and it be in sight deeper than the skin; it is a leprosy broken out of the burning: wherefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

26 But if the priest look on it, and behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days:

27 And the priest shall look upon him the seventh day; and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

28 And if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not in the skin, but it be somewhat dark; it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning.

29 ¶ If a man or woman have a plague upon the head or the beard;

30 Then the priest shall see the plague: and, behold, if it be in sight deeper than the skin; and there be in it a yellow thin hair: then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the head or beard.

31 And if the priest look on the plague of the scall, and, behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin; and that there is no black hair in it: then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague of the scall seven days:

32 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague: and, behold, if the scall spread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the scall be not in sight deeper than the skin;

33 He shall be shaven, but the scall shall he not shave; and the priest shall shut up him that hath the scall seven days more:

34 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the scall: and, behold, if the scall be not spread in the skin, nor be in sight deeper than the skin; then the priest shall pronounce him clean: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

35 But if the scall spread much in the skin after his cleansing;

36 Then the priest shall look on him: and, behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for yellow hair; he is unclean.

37 But if the scall be in his sight at a stay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the scall is healed, he is clean: and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. II.

2 The plague of leprosy, &c.] The antient leprosy appears to have been one of those diseases with which Providence occasionally afflicts mankind in certain ages and countries, and which continue but a short period. Calmet says, this distemper is owing to little worms or animalcula, which, though not discernable to the eye, may be easily discovered by microscopes, as frequently happens in other cutaneous disorders. Galen says, it renders the part affected utterly insensible, which at length by falling off, anticipate the death of the patient.

10 Quick raw flesh, &c.] This means sound flesh.

13 It is all turned white: he is clean.] When the whole body is turned white, it was not a symptom of leprosy: but when some parts of the skin was remarkably white, and others retained the natural colour, that preternatural whiteness was to be deemed to arise from a leprosy, and so became unclean. The word leprosy is often used here to denote only the appearance of that disorder.

16 Turn again, &c.] That is, if those spots in in the flesh, which had for some time appeared of a white ruddy colour, like that of flesh in its natural state, shall turn white again. so that the body shall again become of one colour, white all over, then the priest shall pronounce him clean.

29 A plague upon the head, &c.] This was called by the Latins, Mentagra, from its seat, which was generally in the chin. It began in the chin, spread all over the face, and from thence proceeded to the neck, breast, and hands. It was so intolerable, so filthy a disorder, that any death was reckoned preferable to it.

36 Shall not seek, &c.] The symptom of the spreading of the disease is sufficient of itself, without the addition of the changing of the colour of the hair.

38 ¶ If a man also or a woman have in the skin of their flesh bright spots, even white bright spots;

39 Then the priest shall look: and, behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be darkish white; it is a freckled spot that groweth in the skin; he is clean.

40 And the man whose hair is fallen off his head, he is bald; yet is he clean.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald: yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddish sore; it is a leprosy sprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

43 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leprosy appeareth in the skin of the flesh;

44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean: the priest shall pronounce him utterly unclean; his plague is in his head.

45 And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be rent, and his head bare, and he shall put a covering upon his upper lip, and shall cry, Unclean, unclean.

46 All the days wherein the plague shall be in him he shall be defiled; he is unclean: he shall dwell alone; without the camp shall his habitation be.

47 ¶ The garment also that the plague of leprosy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment;

48 Whether it be in the warp, or woof; of linen, or of woollen; whether in a skin, or in any thing made of skin;

49 And if the plague be greenish or reddish in the garment, or in the skin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin; it is a plague of leprosy, and shall be shewed unto the priest:

50 And the priest shall look upon the plague, and shut up it that hath the plague seven days:

51 And he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of skin; the plague is a fretting leprosy; it is unclean.

52 He shall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosy; it shall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the priest shall look, and, behold, the plague be not spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin;

54 Then the priest shall command that they wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more:

55 And the priest shall look on the plague, after that it is washed: and, behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not spread; it is unclean; thou shalt burn it in the fire: it is fret inward, whether it be bare within or without.

56 And if the priest look, and, behold, the plague be somewhat dark after the washing of it; then he shall rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof:

Before CHRIST 1490.

57 And if it appear still in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin; it is a spreading plague: thou shalt burn that wherein the plague is with fire.

58 And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatsoever thing of skin it be, which thou shalt wash, if the plague be departed from them, then it shall be washed the second time, and shall be clean.

59 This is the law of the plague of leprosy in a garment of woollen or linen, either in the warp, or woof, or any thing of skins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIII.

From the tenor of this chapter, we may remark the care which God took to preserve the health of his people: let this consideration excite us to love and obey him as our most generous benefactor and preserver. We are also herein taught, that it becomes us to be cleanly in our persons; for God hates nastiness; and cleanliness is next to godliness.

CHAP. XIV.

2 The rites and sacrifices in cleansing the leper. 33 The signs of leprosy in a house. 48 The cleansing of that house.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 ¶ This shall be the law of the leper in the day of his cleansing: He shall be brought unto the priest;

3 And the priest shall go forth out of the camp; and the priest shall look, and, behold, if the plague of leprosy be healed in the leper;

4 Then shall the priest command to take for him that is to be cleansed two birds alive and clean, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop:

5 And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over running water:

6 As for the living bird, he shall take it, and the cedar wood, and the scarlet, and the hyssop, and shall dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water:

7 And he shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy seven times, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose into the open field.

8 And he that is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and wash himself in water, that he may be clean: and after that he shall come into the camp, and shall tarry abroad out of his tent seven days.

9 But it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave all his hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows, even all his hair he shall shave off: and he shall wash his clothes, also he shall wash his flesh in water, and he shall be clean.

10 And on the eighth day he shall take two he lambs without blemish, and one ewe lamb of the first year without blemish, and three tenth deals of fine flour for a meat offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil.

---

45 His clothes shall be rent—his head bare] These were marks of sorrow; and another was, covering the upper lip, which was performed either with the hand, or by throwing the skirt of their garments over their heads. These ceremonies seem intended not only to preserve passengers from legal impurity, but likewise from catching the disease by infection.

Shall cry, Unclean, unclean.] To warn every one not to touch, or come near him. See Lam. iv. 15.

47 The garment also, &c.] This leprosy in the garments, and in the houses, chap. xiv. 34. in no wise resembled the infection of the plague in clothes, utensils and houses, infected by exhalations of the air, excrements, and the like; which lying upon the superficies, might be cleansed and purified; but it was a corruption peculiar to those times and places, rotting and gnawing them, and spreading as in a living body. We find no mention of any such disease elsewhere.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XIV.

2 Shall be brought, &c.] Without the camp, to a place appointed by the priest.

4 Cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop.] The hyssop bound with scarlet round a stick of cedar, served as an instrument to sprinkle the blood and water. The juice or resin of cedar, together with hyssop, were esteemed medicinal for cutaneous distempers; the former was particularly used in curing the elephantiosis, a species of leprosy known only in Egypt; and hyssop was of virtue to dissolve spots, and recover the colour of the skin. By scarlet, in this place, is meant scarlet-wood, which perhaps was likewise looked upon as sanative in such disorders.

7 And shall let the living bird loose into the open field.] This was done to shew that the leper being cleansed, was no longer under restraint and confinement, but was restored to a free conversation with his neighbours, as the bird was to the rest of its kind.

10 Two he lambs—and one ewe lamb] These were necessary, because he was to offer three sacrifices, viz. a trespass offering, a sin offering, and a burnt offering.

One log of oil] It contained upwards of half a pint of our measure.

Before CHRIST 1490.

11 And the prieſt that maketh him clean ſhall preſent the man that is to be made clean, and thoſe things, before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

12 And the prieſt ſhall take one he lamb, and offer him for a treſpaſs offering, and the log of oil, and wave them for a wave offering before the LORD:

13 And he ſhall ſlay the lamb in the place where he ſhall kill the ſin offering and the burnt offering, in the holy place: for as the ſin offering is the prieſt's, ſo is the treſpaſs offering: it is moſt holy:

14 And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs offering, and the prieſt ſhall put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

15 And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand:

16 And the prieſt ſhall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and ſhall ſprinkle of the oil with his finger ſeven times before the LORD:

17 And of the reſt of the oil that is in his hand ſhall the prieſt put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the blood of the treſpaſs offering:

18 And the remnant of the oil that is in the prieſt's hand he ſhall pour upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD.

19 And the prieſt ſhall offer the ſin offering, and make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed from his uncleanneſs; and afterward he ſhall kill the burnt offering:

20 And the prieſt ſhall offer the burnt offering and the meat offering upon the altar: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, and he ſhall be clean.

21 And if he be poor, and cannot get ſo much; then he ſhall take one lamb for a treſpaſs offering to be waved, to make an atonement for him, and one tenth deal of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering, and a log of oil;

22 And two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, ſuch as he is able to get; and the one ſhall be a ſin offering, and the other a burnt offering.

23 And he ſhall bring them on the eighth day for his cleanſing unto the prieſt, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD.

24 And the prieſt ſhall take the lamb of the treſpaſs offering, and the log of oil, and the prieſt ſhall wave them for a wave offering before the LORD:

25 And he ſhall kill the lamb of the treſpaſs offering, and the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs offering, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot:

26 And the prieſt ſhall pour of the oil into the palm of his own left hand:

27 And the prieſt ſhall ſprinkle with his right finger ſome of the oil that is in his left hand ſeven times before the LORD.

28 And the prieſt ſhall put of the oil that is in his hand upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the place of the blood of the treſpaſs offering:

29 And the reſt of the oil that is in the prieſt's hand he ſhall put upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD. Before CHRIST 1490.

30 And he ſhall offer the one of the turtledoves, or of the young pigeons, ſuch as he can get;

31 Even ſuch as he is able to get, the one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, with the meat offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed before the LORD.

32 This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leproſy, whoſe hand is not able to get that which pertaineth to his cleanſing.

33 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and unto Aaron, ſaying,

34 When ye be come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you for a poſſeſſion, and I put the plague of leproſy in a houſe of the land of your poſſeſſion;

35 And he that owneth the houſe ſhall come and tell the prieſt, ſaying, It ſeemeth to me that there is as it were a plague in the houſe:

36 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they empty the houſe, before the prieſt go into it to ſee the plague, that all that is in the houſe be not made unclean: and afterward the prieſt ſhall go in to ſee the houſe:

37 And he ſhall look on the plague, and, behold, if the plague be in the walls of the houſe with hollow ſtrakes, greeniſh or reddiſh, which in ſight are lower than the wall;

38 Then the prieſt ſhall go out of the houſe to the door of the houſe, and ſhut up the houſe ſeven days:

39 And the prieſt ſhall come again the ſeventh day, and ſhall look: and, behold, if the plague be ſpread in the walls of the houſe;

40 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they take away the ſtones in which the plague is, and they ſhall caſt them into an unclean place without the city:

41 And he ſhall cauſe the houſe to be ſcraped within round about, and they ſhall pour out the duſt that they ſcrape off without the city into an unclean place:

42 And they ſhall take other ſtones, and put them in the place of thoſe ſtones; and he ſhall take other morter, and ſhall plaiſter the houſe.

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the houſe, after that he hath taken away the ſtones, and after he hath ſcraped the houſe, and after it is plaiſtered;

44 Then the prieſt ſhall come and look, and, behold, if the plague be ſpread in the houſe, it is a fretting leproſy in the houſe: it is unclean.

45 And he ſhall break down the houſe, the ſtones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the morter of the houſe; and he ſhall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place.

46 Moreover he that goeth into the houſe all the while that it is ſhut up ſhall be unclean until the even.

47 And he that lieth in the houſe ſhall waſh his clothes; and he that eateth in the houſe ſhall waſh his clothes.

48 ¶ And if the prieſt ſhall come in, and look upon it, and, behold, the plague hath not ſpread in the houſe, after the houſe was plaiſtered: then the prieſt ſhall pronounce the houſe clean, becauſe the plague is healed.

49 And he ſhall take to cleanſe the houſe two birds, and cedar wood, and ſcarlet, and hyſſop:

50 And

12 And offer him for a treſpaſs offering, &c.] Not that there was any treſpaſs in the diſeaſe itſelf, but that ſin being the cauſe of diſeaſes, that ſacrifice was an act of humiliation for ſin, from whence all the evils and miſeries incident to our nature take their riſe. The very pagans themſelves acknowledged the moral to be the cauſe of natural evil.

18 And the remnant of the oil, &c.] The oil typified the healing, or recovery from the leproſy, as the blood did the remiſſion of ſins.

19 Afterward he ſhall kill the burnt offering.] This being of the nature of a preſent to God, in gratitude for having worked his cure, was not to be offered till by the previous offerings for treſpaſs and ſin, the man made public profeſſion of his ſincere repentance, without which he could not meet with acceptance from God.

21 If he be poor, and cannot get, &c.] It is remarkable, that though two turtledoves or two young pigeons were to be ſubſtituted inſtead of two of the lambs, yet no perſon, whether rich or poor, could be cleanſed without the ſacrifice of one lamb: and is not this a ſtriking type of the lamb of God, who taketh away the ſins of the world? See chap. xiv. 7, 11.

34 And I put the plague of leproſy in a houſe, &c.] We cannot aſſign a natural cauſe of this ſtrange plague, but muſt reſolve it unto the power of the God of nature; for ſhall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it? Thus we read of the plague of Athens, the plague of Florence, Marſeilles, and others.

50 And he ſhall kill the one of the birds in an earthen veſſel over running water.

51 And he ſhall take the cedar wood, and the hyſſop, and the ſcarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the ſlain bird, and in the running water, and ſprinkle the houſe ſeven times.

52 And he ſhall cleanſe the houſe with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyſſop, and with the ſcarlet:

53 But he ſhall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make an atonement for the houſe: and it ſhall be clean.

54 This is the law for all manner of plague of leproſy, and ſcall,

55 And for the leproſy of a garment, and of a houſe,

56 And for a riſing, and for a ſcab, and for a bright ſpot:

57 To teach when it is unclean, and when it is clean: this is the law of leproſy.

General Reflections on Chap. XIV.

An inſtructive leſſon is afforded us by the ceremonies uſed by the prieſt reſpecting the cure of the leproſy; which is, that though it is our duty to make uſe of all proper means for the recovery of health, yet we are not to truſt in them: and the malignant nature of the leproſy points out to us, how odious ſin is in the ſight of an infinitely holy God.

CHAP. XV.

1 The uncleanneſs of men in their iſſues, and their cleanſing.
19 The uncleanneſs of women in their iſſues, and their cleanſing.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes and to Aaron, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When any man hath a running iſſue out of his fleſh, becauſe of his iſſue he is unclean.

3 And this ſhall be his uncleanneſs in his iſſue: whether his fleſh run with his iſſue, or his fleſh be ſtopped from his iſſue, it is his uncleanneſs.

4 Every bed whereon he lieth that hath the iſſue, is unclean: and every thing, whereon he ſitteth, ſhall be unclean.

5 And whoſoever toucheth his bed ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

6 And he that ſitteth on any thing whereon he ſat that hath the iſſue ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

7 And he that toucheth the fleſh of him that hath the iſſue ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

8 And if he that hath the iſſue ſpit upon him that is clean; then he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

9 And what ſaddle ſoever he rideth upon that hath the iſſue ſhall be unclean.

10 And whomſoever toucheth any thing that was under him ſhall be unclean until the even: and he that beareth any of thoſe things ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

11 And whomſoever he toucheth that hath the iſſue, and hath not rinſed his hands in water, he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

12 And the veſſel of earth, that he toucheth which hath the iſſue, ſhall be broken: and every veſſel of wood ſhall be rinſed in water.

Before CHRIST 1490.

13 And when he that hath an iſſue is cleanſed of his iſſue; then he ſhall number to himſelf ſeven days for his cleanſing, and waſh his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in running water, and ſhall be clean.

14 And on the eighth day he ſhall take to him two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, and come before the Lord unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the prieſt:

15 And the prieſt ſhall offer them, the one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt offering; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the Lord for his iſſue.

16 And if any man's ſeed of copulation go out from him, then he ſhall waſh all his fleſh in water, and be unclean until the even.

17 And every garment, and every ſkin, whereon is the ſeed of copulation, ſhall be waſhed with water, and be unclean until the even.

18 The woman alſo with whom man ſhall lie with ſeed of copulation, they ſhall both bathe themſelves in water, and be unclean until the even.

19 ¶ And if a woman have an iſſue, and her iſſue in her fleſh be blood, ſhe ſhall be put apart ſeven days: and whoſoever toucheth her ſhall be unclean until the even.

20 And every thing that ſhe lieth upon in her ſeparation ſhall be unclean: every thing alſo that ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean.

21 And whoſoever toucheth her bed ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

22 And whoſoever toucheth any thing that ſhe ſat upon ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

23 And if it be on her bed, or on any thing whereon ſhe ſitteth, when he toucheth it, he ſhall be unclean until the even.

24 And if any man lie with her at all, and her flowers be upon him, he ſhall be unclean ſeven days; and all the bed whereon he lieth ſhall be unclean.

25 And if a woman have an iſſue of her blood many days out of the time of her ſeparation, or if it run beyond the time of her ſeparation; all the days of the iſſue of her uncleanneſs ſhall be as the days of her ſeparation: ſhe ſhall be unclean.

26 Every bed whereon ſhe lieth all the days of her iſſue ſhall be unto her as the bed of her ſeparation: and whatſoever ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean, as the uncleanneſs of her ſeparation.

27 And whoſoever toucheth thoſe things ſhall be unclean, and ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

28 But if ſhe be cleanſed of her iſſue, then ſhe ſhall number to herſelf ſeven days, and after that ſhe ſhall be clean.

29 And on the eighth day ſhe ſhall take unto her two turtles, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

30 And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her before the Lord for the iſſue of her uncleanneſs.

31 Thus ſhall ye ſeparate the children of Iſrael from their uncleanneſs; that they die not in their uncleanneſs,

57 This is the law of leproſy.] That is, the concluſion of the law of leproſy. There is no repetition of that law in Deuteronomy, only a general memorandum, "Take heed in the plague of leproſy," Deut. xxiv. 8.

COMMENTARY and NOTES on CHAP. XV.

1 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, &c.] Moſes and Aaron are next inſtructed in the other caſes of uncleanneſs in man or woman, which are intended not only to teach the neceſſity of moral purity, but alſo to put a reſtraint upon immoderate gratification of the paſſions.

2 A running iſſue out of his fleſh, &c.] Or a gonorrhœa, which might proceed as well from additional cauſes, as from a lewd courſe of life. The lues venerea, it is generally ſuppoſed, was not known till about three centuries ago.

13 Shall be clean.] That is, he may converſe with other men, and come near the tabernacle to perform religious duties.

24 Lie with her at all, &c.] That is, unawares, for it was death to him who did it knowingly, chap. xx. 18.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

As all impurities among the Iſraelites were to be purged away, and an atonement made for them by many ceremonies under the law, ſo Chriſtians are not to expect pardon and forgiveneſs of their ſins, unleſs they come to the throne of grace as ſincere penitents. By the prieſt performing all theſe ceremonies, is pointed out to us Jeſus Chriſt, our more excellent high-prieſt, who having offered up himſelf as a ſacrifice for our ſins, is now ſet down at the right hand of God, and become a moſt powerful advocate and interceſſor for us.

CHAP. XVI.

1 How the high prieſt muſt enter into the holy place. 11 The ſin offering for himſelf. 15 The ſin offering for the people. 20 The ſcapegoat. 29 The yearly feaſt of the expiations.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes after the death of the two ſons of Aaron, when they offered before the LORD, and died;

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all times into the holy place within the vail before the mercy ſeat, which is upon the ark; that he die not: for I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy ſeat.

3 Thus ſhall Aaron come into the holy place: with a young bullock for a ſin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering.

4 He ſhall put on the holy linen coat, and he ſhall have the linen breeches upon his fleſh, and ſhall be girded with a linen girdle, and with the linen mitre ſhall he be attired: theſe are holy garments; therefore ſhall he waſh his fleſh in water, and ſo put them on.

5 And he ſhall take of the congregation of the children of Iſrael two kids of the goats for a ſin offering, and one ram for a burnt offering.

6 And Aaron ſhall offer his bullock of the ſin offering, which is for himſelf, and make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe.

7 And he ſhall take the two goats, and preſent them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Arron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats; one lot for the LORD, and the other lot for a ſcapegoat. Before CHRIST 1490.

9 And Aaron ſhall bring the goat upon which the LORD's lot fell, and offer him for a ſin offering.

10 But the goat on which the lot fell to be the ſcapegoat, ſhall be preſented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him, and to let him go for a ſcapegoat into the wilderneſs.

11 ¶ And Aaron ſhall bring the bullock of the ſin offering, which is for himſelf, and ſhall make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe, and ſhall kill the bullock of the ſin offering which is for himſelf:

12 And he ſhall take a cenſer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands full of ſweet incenſe beaten ſmall, and bring it within the vail:

13 And he ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incenſe may cover the mercy ſeat that is upon the teſtimony, that he die not:

14 And he ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy ſeat eaſtward; and before the mercy ſeat ſhall he ſprinkle of the blood with his finger ſeven times.

15 ¶ Then ſhall he kill the goat of the ſin offering, that is for the people, and bring his blood within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it upon the mercy ſeat, and before the mercy ſeat:

16 And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy place, becauſe of the uncleanneſs of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe of their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins: and ſo ſhall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation, that remaineth among them in the midſt of their uncleanneſs.

17 And there ſhall be no man in the tabernacle of the congregation when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſhold, and for all the congregation of Iſrael.

18 And he ſhall go out unto the altar that is before the LORD, and make an atonement for it; and ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

19 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger ſeven times, and cleanſe it, and hallow it from the uncleanneſs of the children of Iſrael.

31 When they defile my tabernacle, &c.] From hence it is plain, that theſe laws were inſtituted to impreſs the minds of that carnal people with a reſpect and veneration for the worſhip of God. If, then, ſuch kind of natural and unavoidable pollutions as were their affliction, and not their ſin, rendered them unfit for communion either with God or man; how thankful ought we to be for our privileges, under the Chriſtian diſpenſation, that we are not ſubject to theſe carnal ordinances, and that nothing but ſin can now defile us!

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

1 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes after the death of the two ſons of Aaron, &c.] This chapter ſhould have immediately ſucceeded the tenth, where the death of theſe two perſons is related; but it is placed here, as it gave occaſion to declare the preceding laws concerning thoſe uncleanneſſes that rendered an Iſraelite incapable of approaching the ſanctuary.

2 That he come not at all times] None but the high-prieſt himſelf was permitted to enter in the holy place within the vail, generally called the moſt holy place, and even he only once a year, which was on the day of general expiation or atonement.

For I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy ſeat] This is to be underſtood of the incenſe which the high-prieſt burnt, when he entered into the moſt holy place, the mercy ſeat being at that time covered with this cloud.

3 With a young bullock for a ſin offering, &c.] Before the high-prieſt thus entered into the moſt holy place, he was to prepare himſelf, by offering his ſacrifices for himſelf and family; a bullock for a ſin-offering, and a ram for a burnt offering.

4 He ſhall put on the holy linen coat, &c.] As this was a day of general repentance and humiliation for ſin, the high-prieſt, in token thereof, was to wear thoſe linen clothes only which he wore in common with the inferior prieſts.

6 For his houſe.] That is, for all the prieſts.

8 The ſcapegoat.] The meaning of the Hebrew word Lazazel has much puzzled many commentators. The moſt probable opinion is, that this goat was ſymbolically charged with the ſins of the whole nation, and therefore being unworthy to be offered to the Lord, or to be admitted into the reſt of the flock, was to be ſent away to Hazazel, the foul ſpirit, dwelling in the wilderneſs; ſignifying, thereby the total oblivion or remiſſion of their ſins. Deſarts and uninhabited places are repreſented in ſcripture as the peculiar reſidences of dæmons and impure ſpirits. See Matt. iv. 1. and xii. 43. Luke viii. 20.

9 The goat] One reaſon why goats are peculiarly appropriated for this expiatory ſacrifice, might be, to cure the Iſraelites of the ſuperſtitious veneration they had contracted in Egypt, where Pan was particularly worſhipped under the ſymbol of this animal; and that the ſeat of his worſhip, and the name by which he was known among the Egyptians, was Mendes, that is, a goat.

Lot fell, &c.] In Hebrew, Aſcended, or went up; alluding to the lots being taken out of the urn or veſſel.

12 And bring it within the vail.] That is, within the holy of holies, which was ſeparated by a vail from the holy place. This appears to have been the firſt time of Aaron's entering into it.

13 He ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire, &c.] He was ordered, at his entrance, to caſt incenſe on the burning coals; by which the holy place was filled with a cloud of ſmoke, preventing him from ſeeing the ark, leſt he ſhould have been overpowered by the refulgence iſſuing from thence.

14 And he ſhall take of the blood, &c.] For which he was obliged to come without the vail.

15 Then ſhall he kill, &c.] This was the third time of his entering the holy of holies upon this day.

16 He ſhall make an atonement for the holy place, &c.] By way of acknowledgement that this place was, through the ſins of the paſt year, rendered an unworthy dwelling for the divine preſence.

17 There ſhall be no man in the tabernacle of the congregation, &c.] In like manner our goſpel high-prieſt Chriſt Jeſus, "his own ſelf bare our ſins in his body on the tree;" he "trod the wine-preſs alone, and of the people there were none with him."

20 ¶ And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat:

21 And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the goat, and shall send him away by the hand of a fit man into the wilderness:

22 And the goat shall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited: and he shall let go the goat in the wilderness.

23 And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of the congregation, and shall put off the linen garments, which he put on when he went into the holy place, and shall leave them there:

24 And he shall wash his flesh with water in the holy place, and put on his garments, and come forth, and offer his burnt offering, and the burnt offering of the people, and make an atonement for himself, and for the people.

25 And the fat of the sin offering shall he burn upon the altar.

26 And he that let go the goat for the scapegoat shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward come into the camp.

27 And the bullock for the sin offering, and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall one carry forth without the camp; and they shall burn in the fire their skins, and their flesh, and their dung.

28 And he that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp.

29 ¶ And this shall be a statute for ever unto you: that in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, ye shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all, whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger that sojourneth among you:

30 For on that day shall the priest make an atonement for you, to cleanse you; that ye may be clean from all your sins before the LORD.

31 It shall be a sabbath of rest unto you, and ye shall afflict your souls, by a statute for ever.

32 And the priest, whom he shall anoint, and whom he shall consecrate to minister in the priests office in his father's stead, shall make the atonement, and shall put on the linen clothes, even the holy garments:

Before CHRIST 1490.

33 And he shall make an atonement for the holy sanctuary, and he shall make an atonement for the tabernacle of the congregation, and for the altar, and he shall make an atonement for the priests, and for all the people of the congregation.

34 And this shall be an everlasting statute unto you, to make an atonement for the children of Israel for all their sins once a year. And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI.

This chapter directs our eye to the following important truths: that Christ, by the sacrifice of himself, has made an atonement for the sins of all those who believe and obey his gospel. That the priests offered sacrifices for their own sins; but Christ, when offered up on the cross, was a lamb without spot: he knew no sin, though made sin for us: that the high-priest must once a year go into the holy place: but Christ, by his death, has opened heaven to all believers. And since the blood of these sacrifices could not take away sin, but were only shadows of good things to come, let us bless God for Jesus Christ, the great antitype, whose blood cleanseth from all sin.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The blood of all slain beasts must be offered to the Lord at the door of the tabernacle, and no sacrifices made to devils. 10 All eating of blood is forbidden, 13 and of that which dieth of itself, or is torn.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them; This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying,

3 What man soever there be of the house of Israel, that killeth an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp,

4 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD; blood shall be imputed unto that man; he hath shed blood; and that man shall be cut off from among his people:

5 To the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices, which they offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest, and offer them for peace offerings unto the LORD.

---

21 And confess over him] It does not appear that God prescribed any particular form of confession at this time; though in the latter ages the Jewish church had a mode of confession which is transmitted to us by tradition.

All the iniquities—transgressions—sins] By sins are signified offences committed through ignorance or mistake, and not deliberately; by iniquities, such as were committed deliberately, against the negative precepts; and by transgressions, those sins which were committed against the positive precepts.

Putting them upon the head of the goat, &c.] It was thus that the sins of the world were laid upon our Saviour, Isaiah, liii. 6. 1 Pet. ii. 24. The true sense of Christ's dying for us, is, that the punishment of our sins were transferred upon him, in the same manner as the punishment due to the sins of the Israelites were transferred to the goat.

22 Bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited, &c.] This was a symbolical representation, that by faith and repentance they might obtain pardon for all their sins.

24 He shall wash his flesh with water] As Christ's entering into the wilderness on the day of atonement was typified by the ceremony of the scapegoat; so his baptism on the same day was prefigured by the legal ceremony of Aaron's washing his body in the holy place.

Put on his garments, &c.] His ordinary cloaths, and not his pontificals, which he never wore but when he went into the sanctuary.

29 For ever] That is, so long as the Jewish dispensation shall last; and till the type shall be superseded by the antitype.

The seventh month, &c.] Called Tisri, answering to our September; as the sacred year commenced with the month Abib, which answered to our March.

30 That ye may be clean from all your sins, &c.] The sins which are meant in this passage could only be such sins as had sacrifices provided for them. Violations of the great duties of the moral law, such as murder, adultery, idolatry, &c. were punished with death.

32 And the priest whom he shall anoint, &c.] It would be better rendered, And the priest, who shall be anointed, and who shall be consecrated.

34 To make an atonement—once a year, &c.] The ceremonies used by the modern Jews on the day of expiation are said to be greatly different from those of the antients. They prepare themselves for this day of humiliation by prayer; which done, they repair to their burial place, beg pardon for their sins, in consideration of the merit of the saints there interred; and then plunge themselves into the water, to complete the ablution. In the evening the solemnity begins, when they repair to the synagogue, singing and carrying a wax taper lighted; the women light up candles in their houses, and draw omens from them; if they burn clear, they suppose their sins are pardoned; if dull, they are tormented with scruples; and if the tallow or wax runs, they dread the divine vengeance. The next day they go to the synagogue again, and in a long prayer declare, that all the oaths and promises, not having been performed within the year, are void, since atonement has been made for sin. Thus the solemnity concludes, when the rabbi, with uplifted hands, gives a benediction to the people, who, in token of respect, put their hands before their eyes, and cover their faces. They then sound an horn in commemoration of the jubilee, and every one departs home, fully persuaded his sins are forgiven him. When they are come to their respective dwellings, they dress themselves in clean white cloaths, sit down at table, and break their fasts, having till then entirely abstained from eating and drinking.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVII.

3 What man soever there be of the house of Israel, that killeth an ox, or lamb, &c.] Though the ox or lamb was killed for food, as well as if it had been for sacrifice; for these animals, slain by an Israelite for family use, were first of all presented to God by way of peace offering; the blood was poured out at the bottom of the altar, and the fat burnt thereon; this law however, was restrained only to beasts that were sacrificed, after they came into the land of Canaan.

4 Blood shall be imputed unto that man, &c.] He was to suffer for such offence as a murderer who had spilt innocent blood: such was the rigour of the laws against idolatry.

8 And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers which ſojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering or ſacrifice,

9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD; even that man ſhall be cut off from among his people.

14 For it is the life of all fleſh; the blood of it is for the life thereof: therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Ye ſhall eat blood of no manner of fleſh: for the life of all fleſh is the blood thereof: whoſoever eateth it ſhall be cut off.

15 ¶ And every ſoul that eateth that which died of itſelf, or that which was torn with beaſts, whether it be one of your own country, or a ſtranger, he ſhall both waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even: then ſhall he be clean.

16 But if he waſh them not, nor bathe his fleſh; then he ſhall bear his iniquity.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVII.

As the Jews were to worſhip none but the Lord Jehovah; neither are we to introduce any thing of a carnal nature into his worſhip or ordinances. We have abundant reaſon to bleſs God that we enjoy the goſpel in its purity, without being burdened with ſo many ceremonies.

CHAP. XVIII.

The Iſraelites muſt not follow the practices of Egypt and Canaan, but the ordinances of God. 6 Unlawful marriages. 19 Unlawful luſts.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Before CHRIST 1490.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, I am the LORD your God.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, ſhall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, ſhall ye not do: neither ſhall ye walk in their ordinances.

4 Ye ſhall do my judgments, and keep my ordinances, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.

5 Ye ſhall therefore keep my ſtatutes, and my judgments: which if a man do, he ſhall live in them: I am the LORD.

6 ¶ None of you ſhall approach to any that is near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedneſs: I am the LORD.

7 The nakedneſs of thy father, or the nakedneſs of thy mother, ſhalt thou not uncover: ſhe is thy mother; thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

8 The nakedneſs of thy father's wife ſhalt thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedneſs.

9 The nakedneſs of thy ſiſter, the daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, whether ſhe be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover.

10 The nakedneſs of thy ſon's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover: for their's is thine own nakedneſs.

11 The nakedneſs of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, ſhe is thy ſiſter, thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

12 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy father's ſiſter: ſhe is thy father's near kinſwoman.

13 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mother's ſiſter: for ſhe is thy mother's near kinſwoman.

14 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy father's brother, thou ſhalt not approach to his wife: ſhe is thine aunt.

15 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy daughter in law: ſhe is thy ſon's wife: thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs.

16 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedneſs.

17 Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of a woman and her daughter, neither ſhalt thou take her ſon's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedneſs; for they are her near kinſwomen: it is wickedneſs.

18 Neither ſhalt thou take a wife to her ſiſter, to vex her, to uncover her nakedneſs, beſide the other in her life time.

19 ¶ Alſo thou ſhalt not approach unto a woman to uncover her nakedneſs, as long as ſhe is put apart for her uncleanneſs.

20 Moreover thou ſhalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyſelf with her.

---

7 And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices unto devils, &c.] The Hebrew properly ſignifies a goat, and denotes thoſe idols which were worſhipped under the ſymbol of a goat; a ſpecies of idolatry to which the Iſraelites were greatly addicted while in Egypt, and which ſome of them retained in the wilderneſs. The Zabians worſhipped dæmons under the figure of goats, imagining them to appear in that form, whence they called them ſegnirim, that is, "rough or rugged," like hairy goats. This cuſtom being almoſt univerſal, gave occaſion to the precept.

10 Or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you] By ſtrangers, is meant proſelytes or converts from paganiſm. The ſcripture mentions three ſorts of ſtrangers; profeſſed idolaters, who were not permitted to dwell in the land of Iſrael; thoſe who did not practiſe idolatry, but yielded to ſome of the chief grounds of true religion, and were permitted to dwell in the gates or cities of Iſrael; from whence they were called proſelytes of the gate; and laſtly, pagan converts, who were bound to obſerve all the laws equally with the Jews: theſe are the ſtrangers mentioned in this chapter, who were uſually denominated proſelytes of righteouſneſs.

I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul, &c.] This expreſſion is never made uſe of concerning any other ſins but thoſe of idolatry and eating of blood.

11 For the life of the fleſh is in the blood, &c.] That is, the life of the beaſt conſiſting in the blood, I have ordained it to expiate your ſin, that by its death in your ſtead, your life may be preſerved.

13 He ſhall even pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with duſt] Becauſe it was ſacred, being a ranſom for the forfeited lives of ſinners; it was therefore to be treated with reverence, and covered out of ſight, leſt any beaſt ſhould lick it up, or leſt idolatry (as was their cuſtom) ſhould render it ſubſervient to ſuperſtitious purpoſes.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVIII.

5 Which if a man do, he ſhall live in them] The Chaldee and Arabic render it, He ſhall live by them to life eternal. But man, by original ſin, is deprived of the power of attaining perfect obedience; this then muſt be underſtood of the diſciplinary and external obſervance of the law, which hath moreover its temporary reward.

I am the Lord] In the Hebrew, I am Jehovah, who keep my covenant and fulfil my promiſes; therefore he who keeps my laws, ſhall ſurely live.

6 None of you ſhall approach to any that is near of kin, &c.] Theſe laws relate to the ſeventh commandment; and as they are agreeable to nature and right reaſon, are without doubt obligations on us as under the goſpel.

17 It is wickedneſs.] The Septuagint render it, Impiety; the Vulgate, Inceſt; and the other tranſlations, It is abominable, obſcene, or nefarious wickedneſs; a term applied by the inſtitutes of civil law, to thoſe marriages which are contrary to nature.

20 Thou ſhalt not lie, &c.] In the preceding verſes Moſes guards the Iſraelites from the inceſtuous cuſtoms of the Egyptians, and in thoſe that follow from the barbarous and horrid rites of the Canaanites.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

We may observe, in this chapter, the horrid crimes of uncleanness into which the Canaanites had been drawn; and in order to prevent the Israelites from falling into the same, God gave them laws concerning marriages. Hence we should learn to shun uncleanness, and avoid what is contrary to the laws of Moses and of the gospel, which so expressly enjoin purity and chastity. Observe also, that God here most positively declares, that the crimes committed by the inhabitants of a country, defile that country, and bring down the curse of God upon it, when they become frequent. and no stop is put to the committing them.

CHAP. XIX.

8 Therefore every one that eateth it shall bear his iniquity, because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD: and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

21 Thou shalt not let any of thy seed pass through the fire to Molech, &c.] Molech was the tutelary deity of the Ammonites, whose names signifies, A prince; and was peculiarly, or by way of eminence, applied to the sun, the prince of the heavenly bodies. The manner in which the pagans dedicated their children to this idol was twofold, either by making them pass through the fire, or by offering them to him in sacrifice. The ceremony of passing through the fire was a rite of initiation, whereby the parents consecrated their children to this deity; and the Hebrew word rendered "to pass through," which signifies, To go over to any party, shews that this is the meaning of this sentence. Whether this rite was performed by waving a child in the flames; whether they passed between two fires, which were kindled at a small distance from each other, agreeable to the rite of the ancient Druids, or danced through the fire; yet that the children were not, in this rite, sacrificed, is evident from 2 Kings xvi. 3. where Ahaz is asserted to have made his son pass through the fire; who was so far from being destroyed in this ceremony, that we find his son named Hezekiah not only surviving this rite, but likewise outliving his father, and succeeding him in the throne.

23 Neither shalt thou lie with any beast, &c.] This abominable crime was not only practised among the Egyptians, but likewise was deemed a sacred rite of their religion, as appears from Strabo and Herodotus.

25 The land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants.] This is a figurative speech, taken from an overcharged stomach, which loaths the food it cannot digest: it describes the heinousness of sin.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIX.

3 Ye shall fear, &c.] That is, Ye shall reverence.

4 Idols, &c.] The Hebrew word elilim, translated "idols," carries with it the secondary idea of vain things, or things of no value.

9 Thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, &c.] This precept shews that the Jewish laws were founded on mercy and charity; and gives us an high idea of the benevolence of the mosaic dispensation.

11, 12 Ye shall not steal, &c.] See Exod. xx. 15. By dealing falsely, is meant the denying any thing deposited; and by lying, not only all falsehood, but especially that species by which any one was deprived of his property.

13 The wages of him that is hired, shall not abide with thee all night, &c.] That is, they were by no means to refuse the wages of a labouring person, when he required them; for as these were generally the sole means of his subsistence, the detaining them was the greatest cruelty and oppression. The excellence of the mosaic law is therefore manifested in this merciful provision for the poor.

14 Thou shalt not curse the deaf, &c.] To curse or calumniate any one, is unlawful and repugnant to the laws of humanity; but to curse the deaf, who was incapable of vindicating himself, carried with it the highest degree of barbarity, and indicated a base and sordid disposition.

26 Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer, &c.] This practice is uncharitable, and odious to God and man: it is also contrary to the precept of our blessed Saviour, which enjoins us first to take the beam out of our own eye, before we see, i. e. expose the mote in our brother's eye.

17 Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart.] Hatred and malice are diabolical. To be angry upon some occasions, however, is reasonable. That precept of the apostle is most just, "Be angry, and sin not." Our blessed Saviour has set this precept in a beautiful light, Matt. xviii. 15.

Rebuke thy neighbour, and not suffer sin upon him.] It is the greatest kindness to reprove the offender, and to reclaim those who are fallen into an error, by bringing them back into the right path.

18 Thou shalt not avenge.] Revenge is as odious and detestable a crime as a man can well commit, and was prohibited both by the law of Moses, and that of Jesus Christ.

But thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.] Do to him as you would be done by.

I am the Lord.] The creator of all men, and who has commanded them to love one another. and to whom alone vengeance belongs, and who expects obedience to his laws.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIX.

Moſt of theſe laws were given to the Jews, to keep them from following idolatrous cuſtoms; God forbad the mixture of kinds, that they might avoid ſuperſtition and idolatry. He forbad them to eat of the firſt fruits, to teach them, that whatever the earth produced, was owing to his bounty. The other laws teach us how great a wickedneſs it is to conſult ſorcerers: forbid us to afflict ourſelves immoderately for the dead; that impurity is a ſin, which ought to be puniſhed; to reſpect old age; to do juſtice to ſtrangers; and keep true weights and meaſures.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 ¶ Again, thou ſhalt ſay to the children of Iſrael, Whoſoever he be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn in Iſrael, that giveth any of his ſeed unto Molech; he ſhall ſurely be put to death: the people of the land ſhall ſtone him with ſtones.

---

19 Thou ſhalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverſe kind.] This prohibition was intended partly to preſerve the different ſpecies of animals as they were at firſt created, and partly to reſtrain the vanity and curioſity of men from attempting to alter the form or nature of God's creatures, by endeavouring to make a greater diverſity than he thought proper to create at firſt.

Thou ſhalt not ſow thy field with mingled ſeed.] Perhaps to ſet bounds to the huſbandman's covetouſneſs; and not only ſo, but the ſowing ground with mixed ſeeds, is thought by ſome an effectual way to wear it out.

A garment mingled of linen and woollen, &c.] This prohibition was intended to guard the Iſraelites from the idolatrous ſuperſtition of the Egyptians and Sabians; whoſe prieſts wore ſuch mixtures from a perſuaſion that they were endued with ſome magical influence.

23 Three years ſhall it be as uncircumciſed unto you: it ſhall not be eaten of.] God here requires the firſt fruits to be dedicated to his ſervice, in like manner as he had before commanded that the firſt of all other things ſhould be appropriated to his uſe; but as he certainly has an undoubted right to the very beſt of all, he would not accept of them till they were arrived to perfection, nor was man to be allowed to eat of them before he had the firſtfruits.

26 Uſe enchantment, nor obſerve times.] Place no confidence in diviners, and vain pretenders to preſcience; be not ſuperſtitious in obſerving certain days indifferent in themſelves; neither regard common accidents in a prognoſtic or judicial light; nor be ſo weak and timorous as to be alarmed at every trivial occurrence.

27 Ye ſhall not round the corners of your heads.] It was the ſuperſtitious practice of the Arabians to cut the extremities of their hair round, in order to reſemble their God Baechus.

Corners of thy beard.] This prohibition was intended to preſerve the Iſraelites from the ſuperſtition of the Egyptians, who, in their mournings of Iſis, uſed to ſhave their heads and beards, and at other times ſuffered the hair of their beards to grow only on their chin.

28 Ye ſhall not make any cuttings in your fleſh, &c.] The heatheniſh rite of cutting their fleſh in honour of the deceaſed, is here prohibited; not any of the mere tokens of mourning and affection.

29 Do not proſtitute thy daughter, &c.] This ſpecies of uncleanneſs ſeems to have been practiſed by the heathens in their idolatrous worſhip.

31 Regard not them that have familiar ſpirits.] Thoſe who pretended to a familiarity with evil ſpirits, were mere cheats and impoſtors, and amuſed the credulous vulgar with dark and ambiguous predictions, ſuch as were calculated to anſwer the event, let it happen which way it would.

Neither ſeek after wizards, &c.] The Hebrew word tyregnonim, is derived from jadahn, "to know;" and anſwers to thoſe perſons whom we call fortune-tellers, or cunning-men.

32 Thou ſhalt riſe up before the hoary head, &c.] This injunction was judiciouſly adopted in the moſaic inſtitutions, as paying reverence to the aged is one of the dictates of nature, and has been enjoined by all the wiſe legiſlators of antiquity. The prophet deſcribes it as a mark of degeneracy, when the child ſhall behave himſelf proudly againſt the antient, Iſaiah iii. 5. Juvenal tells us, it was eſteemed highly criminal, in the moſt virtuous age of the world, for a young man not to riſe to an old man.

35 In meteyard, &c.] The Hebrew for "meteyard" is middah, which ſignifies the meaſure of a continued quantity. In weight; by this means they paid and received money, and ſold braſs, iron, &c. In meaſure; the Hebrew word meſurah, denotes the meaſure of diſcreet quantity, ſuch as corn, ſalt, &c. and of liquors, as of wine, oil, &c.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XX.

1 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.] The principal laws in the two preceding chapters are here recapitulated, and enforced, with penalties; which have been already explained.

2 That giveth any of his ſeed unto Molech, &c.] We have obſerved on chap. xviii. 21. that the worſhip of Molech was two-fold; in one of which the prieſts ſuffered their children to paſs through the fire to Molech, as a rite of initiation: beſides which, they had another, wherein they ſacrificed their children; which the word "give" ſeems to imply, becauſe it is uſed in that ſenſe, when we ſay, that "Chriſt gave himſelf for us." That it was different from the paſſing through the fire, mentioned in chap. xviii. ſeems evident from the different functions given to each, becauſe in the firſt place no puniſhment is threatened, but in this the penalty of death is denounced. The manner in which children were ſacrificed to Molech, is thus deſcribed: the image of Molech was of braſs, having in the inſide ſeven cells, the firſt of which was allotted for flour, the ſecond for turtledoves, the third for an ewe, the fourth for a ram, the fifth for a calf, the ſixth for an ox, and the ſeventh for a child: which being included in this image, as the victims were in the wicker idols of the Druids, were, by the means of a fire, burnt to death; while the people danced about the idol, beating timbrels, in order to prevent the cries of the tormented infant from being heard.

3 And I will ſet my face againſt that man, and will cut him off from among his people; becauſe he hath given of his ſeed unto Molech, to defile my ſanctuary, and to profane my holy name.

4 ¶ And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his ſeed unto Molech, and kill him not:

5 Then I will ſet my face againſt that man, and againſt his family, and will cut him off, and all that go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

6 ¶ And the ſoul that turneth after ſuch as have familiar ſpirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them, I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul, and will cut him off from among his people.

7 ¶ Sanctify yourſelves therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the LORD your God.

8 And ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes, and do them: I am the LORD which ſanctify you.

9 ¶ For every one that curſeth his father or his mother ſhall be ſurely put to death; he hath curſed his father or his mother; his blood ſhall be upon him.

10 ¶ And the man that committeth adultery with another man's wife, even he that committeth adultery with his neighbour's wife, the adulterer and the adultreſs ſhall ſurely be put to death.

11 ¶ And the man that lieth with his father's wife hath uncovered his father's nakedneſs: both of them ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

12 And if a man lie with his daughter in law, both of them ſhall ſurely be put to death: they have wrought confuſion; their blood ſhall be upon them.

13 ¶ If a man alſo lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

14 ¶ And if a man take a wife and her mother, it is wickedneſs: they ſhall be burnt with fire, both he and they; that there be no wickedneſs among you.

15 ¶ And if a man lie with a beaſt, he ſhall ſurely be put to death: and ye ſhall ſlay the beaſt.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beaſt, and lie down thereto, thou ſhalt kill the woman, and the beaſt: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

17 ¶ And if a man ſhall take his ſiſter, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and ſee her nakedneſs, and ſhe ſee his nakedneſs; it is a wicked thing; and they ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people: he hath uncovered his ſiſter's nakedneſs: he ſhall bear his iniquity.

18 ¶ And if a man ſhall lie with a woman having her ſickneſs, and ſhall uncover her nakedneſs; he hath diſcovered her fountain, and ſhe hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them ſhall be cut off from among their people.

19 ¶ And thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mother's ſiſter, nor of thy father's ſiſter: for he uncovereth his near kin: they ſhall bear their iniquity.

20 And if a man ſhall lie with his uncle's wife, he hath uncovered his uncle's nakedneſs: they ſhall bear their ſin; they ſhall die childleſs.

21 And if a man ſhall take his brother's wife, it is an unclean thing: he hath uncovered his brother's nakedneſs; they ſhall be childleſs. Before CHRIST 1490.

22 ¶ Ye ſhall therefore keep all my ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, ſpue you not out.

23 And ye ſhall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I caſt out before you: for they committed all theſe things, and therefore I abhorred them.

24 But I have ſaid unto you, Ye ſhall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to poſſeſs it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have ſeparated you from other people.

25 Ye ſhall therefore put difference between clean beaſts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: and ye ſhall not make your ſouls abominable by beaſt, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that creepeth on the ground, which I have ſeparated from you as unclean.

26 And ye ſhall be holy unto me: for I the LORD am holy, and have ſevered you from other people, that ye ſhould be mine.

27 ¶ A man alſo or woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, or that is a wizard, ſhall ſurely be put to death: they ſhall ſtone them with ſtones: their blood ſhall be upon them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XX.

The prohibition of burning children, and offering them to the idol Molech, ſhews us to what horrible cruelties idolatrous people abandon themſelves, in the ſervice of their falſe gods; and what men, who know not God, are capable of. God ordered thoſe who applied themſelves to ſorcerers, to be puniſhed with death; as alſo adulterers, both men and women, and thoſe that curſed father and mother. Obſerve the repeated exhortations of God to the Jews, that they ſhould not imitate the Canaanites, but become a holy people to him. Thus Chriſtians, being ſeparated from the world, ſhould not be conformed to it, but be holy in all manner of converſation.

17 They ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people, &c.] That is, they ſhall be put to death publickly.

18 If a man ſhall lie with a woman having her ſickneſs, &c.] The obſervation of this law was doubtleſs preſcribed, leſt the Jewiſh commonwealth ſhould be overſtocked with weak and ſickly people. God fixed a ſtigma upon leprous perſons, becauſe they were ſuppoſed to have been conceived at this time.

27 A man alſo or woman that hath a familiar ſpirit—ſhall ſurely be put to death, &c.] This means thoſe who pretended to a ſpirit of divination, or to practiſe ſorcery and conjuring.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXI.

1 There ſhall none be defiled for the dead, &c.] If any one touched a dead body, looked at it, entered an houſe where a corpſe lay, aſſiſted at a funeral, or even touched a grave, he was unclean for ſeven days. The Hebrew canons ſay, that if a man came within ſix feet of the dead, he was unclean.

2 But for his kin that is near unto him, &c.] Here God indulges a natural affection, and diſpenſes with their attendance for the ſpace of ſeven days, in caſe of the death of a parent, a child, or a brother: to have denied the payment of theſe laſt duties, would have favoured of cruelty and rigour, but God ever eſteems mercy before ſacrifice.

4 He ſhall not defile himſelf, being a chief man, &c.] The verſe would be better tranſlated, "He ſhall not defile himſelf for the chief man of the nation," &c.

9 ¶ And the daughter of any prieſt, if ſhe profane herſelf by playing the whore, ſhe profaneth her father: ſhe ſhall be burnt with fire.

10 ¶ And he that is the high prieſt among his brethren, upon whoſe head the anointing oil was poured, and that is conſecrated to put on the garments, ſhall not uncover his head, nor rend his clothes;

11 Neither ſhall he go in to any dead body, nor defile himſelf for his father, or for his mother;

12 Neither ſhall he go out of the ſanctuary, nor profane the ſanctuary of his God; for the crown of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, ſaying, Whoſoever he be of thy ſeed in their generations that hath any blemiſh, let him not approach to offer the bread of his God.

18 For whatſoever man he be that hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat noſe, or any thing ſuperfluous,

19 Or a man that is brokenfooted, or brokenhanded,

20 Or crookbackt, or a dwarf, or that hath a blemiſh in his eye, or be ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, or hath his ſtones broken;

21 No man that hath a blemiſh of the ſeed of Aaron the prieſt ſhall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemiſh; he ſhall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

22 He ſhall eat the bread of his God, both of the moſt holy, and of the holy.

23 Only he ſhall not go in unto the vail, nor come nigh unto the altar, becauſe he hath a blemiſh; that he profane not my ſanctuaries: for I the LORD do ſanctify them.

24 And Moſes told it unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXI.

Theſe laws were given in two principal views; Firſt, to reſtrain both prieſts and people from idolatry, and the manners of the idolaters; and to prevent, in the perſons or families of the prieſts, the ſame diſorders that were to be ſeen among the prieſts of falſe religions. Secondly, That the holineſs of the prieſts might render religion itſelf, more venerable; and their good example might teach the reſt of the Iſraelites to be holy alſo. The reflection that we ought to make herefrom, which regard to the Chriſtian church, is, that the paſtors and miniſters of religion, ſhould be diſtinguiſhed by a holy and exemplary life; and their families ought to be very regular.

CHAP. XXII.

Before CHRIST 1490.

1 The prieſts in their uncleanneſs muſt abſtain from the holy things. 10 Who of the prieſt's houſe may eat of them. 14 Of ſatisfaction to be made by him who eateth of them unwittingly. 17 The ſacrifices muſt be without blemiſh. 26 The age of the ſacrifice. 29 The law of eating the ſacrifice of thankſgiving.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron and to his ſons, that they ſeparate themſelves from the holy things of the children of Iſrael, and that they profane not my holy name in thoſe things which they hallow unto me: I am the LORD.

3 Say unto them, Whoſoever he be of all your ſeed among your generations, that goeth unto the holy things, which the children of Iſrael hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from my preſence: I am the LORD.

4 What man ſoever of the ſeed of Aaron is a leper, or hath a running iſſue; he ſhall not eat of the holy things, until he be clean. And whoſo toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or a man whoſe ſeed goeth from him;

5 Or whoſoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or a man of whom he may take uncleanneſs, whatſoever uncleanneſs he hath;

6 The ſoul which hath touched any ſuch ſhall be unclean until even, and ſhall not eat of the holy things, unleſs he waſh his fleſh with water.

7 And when the ſun is down, he ſhall be clean, and ſhall afterward eat of the holy things; becauſe it is his food.

8 That which dieth of itſelf, or is torn with beaſts, he ſhall not eat to defile himſelf therewith: I am the LORD.

9 They ſhall therefore keep mine ordinance, leſt they bear ſin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do ſanctify them.

10 ¶ There ſhall no ſtranger eat of the holy thing: a ſojourner of the prieſt, or an hired ſervant, ſhall not eat of the holy thing.

11 But if the prieſt buy any ſoul with his money, he ſhall eat of it, and he that is born in his houſe: they ſhall eat of his meat.

12 If the prieſt's daughter alſo be married unto a ſtranger, ſhe may not eat of an offering of the holy things.

13 But if the prieſt's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's houſe, as in her youth, ſhe ſhall eat of her father's meat: but there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof.

14 ¶ And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he ſhall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and ſhall give it unto the prieſt with the holy thing.

15 And they ſhall not profane the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they offer unto the LORD;

16 Or ſuffer them to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do ſanctify them.

17 ¶ And

7 They ſhall not take a wife, &c.] In order to preſerve the dignity of the office, the prieſt is prohibited from marrying with ſuch perſons as would leſſen him in the eyes of the public.

9 She profaneth her father,' &c.] By diſparaging the good example and education ſhe received, ſhe wounds her father's honour, as well as ſtains her own reputation.

10 Nor rend his clothes.] Notwithſtanding this prohibition, we find that on ſome occaſions it was cuſtomary with them to rend their clothes, as in caſe of blaſphemy; this prohibition, therefore, was doubtleſs reſtrained to the high prieſt's garments, and the times of mourning.

11 Nor defile himſelf for his father, &c.] The high-prieſt might not enter an houſe where a dead body lay, though it were even that of his father or mother.

12 Neither ſhall he go out of the ſanctuary, &c.] He was by no means to neglect his adminiſtration, though news was brought him of the death of his neareſt and deareſt relative, ſuch was the regard to be paid to God's ſervice.

17 That hath any blemiſh; &c.] That is, defect or imperfection, whether natural or accidental.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXII.

2 That they ſeparate themſelves, &c.] In the Greek, Let them take heed of the holy things; that is, not to defile them; for they were not to preſume to officiate in the ſanctuary, being unclean, by reaſon of any ceremonial pollution.

3 Shall be cut off from my preſence, &c.] That is, he ſhall for ever be deprived of the prieſthood by the judge; or elſe ſhall be taken away by premature death, by the hand of God.

4 He ſhall not eat of the holy things until he be clean, &c.] He might eat of the tythes, but not of the wave-breaſt, or heave-ſhoulder.

10 There ſhall no ſtranger eat of the holy thing, &c.] The term "ſtranger," ſignifies any perſon, whether a gentile, proſelyte, or a Jew, not being of the prieſt's family.

14 And ſhall give it unto the prieſt with the holy thing.] He was to pay the full value of the thing ſo eaten, and a fifth part more. This law relates to laymen, who, through ignorance or inadvertency, had appropriated to their own uſe the firſt fruits, or other things conſecrated to God.

18 Strangers

17 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,
18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Whatſoever he be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers in Iſrael, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his freewill offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt offering;
19 Ye ſhall offer at your own will a male without blemiſh, of the beeves, of the ſheep, or of the goats.
20 But whatſoever hath a blemiſh, that ſhall ye not offer: for it ſhall not be acceptable for you.
21 And whoſoever offereth a ſacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD to accompliſh his vow, or a freewill offering in beeves or ſheep, it ſhall be perfect to be accepted; there ſhall be no blemiſh therein.
22 Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, ye ſhall not offer theſe unto the LORD, nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD.
23 Either a bullock or a lamb that hath any thing ſuperfluous or lacking in his parts, that mayeſt thou offer for a freewill offering; but for a vow it ſhall not be accepted.
24 Ye ſhall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruiſed, or cruſhed, or broken, or cut; neither ſhall ye make any offering thereof in your land.
25 Neither from a ſtranger's hand ſhall ye offer the bread of your God of any of theſe; becauſe their corruption is in them, and blemiſhes be in them: they ſhall not be accepted for you.
26 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,
27 When a bullock, or a ſheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then it ſhall be ſeven days under the dam; and from the eighth day and thenceforth it ſhall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.
28 And whether it be cow or ewe, ye ſhall not kill it and her young both in one day.
29 ¶ And when ye will offer a ſacrifice of thankſgiving unto the LORD, offer it at your own will.
30 On the ſame day it ſhall be eaten up; ye ſhall leave none of it until the morrow: I am the LORD.
31 Therefore ſhall ye keep my commandments, and do them: I am the LORD.
32 Neither ſhall ye profane my holy name; but I will be hallowed among the children of Iſrael: I am the LORD which hallow you,
33 That brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXII.

From this chapter, we are taught to reverence the ordinances of God, who is greatly to be feared in the aſſembly of his ſaints; and that as the children of Iſrael were not to offer any thing that had a blemiſh on it, ſo it is our duty to preſent unto God our beſt ſervices.

18 Strangers of Iſrael, &c.] That is, ſuch as were not circumciſed, but had renounced idolatry, and were denominated proſelytes of the gates.

28 Cow or ewe, ye ſhall not kill it and her young both in one day.] The humanity and tenderneſs expreſſed in this precept, reflects no ſmall honour upon the divine law-giver; for there is ſomething cruel in the idea of butchering both parent and offſpring at the ſame time, and to bring the dam to the altar, where it is ſtill mourning the loſs of its young, ſlain in its ſight. The law here enjoined, is ſimilar with that in Deut. xxii. 6. "If a bird is found ſitting upon the young or upon the eggs, thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young."

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIII.

2 Concerning the feaſts of the Lord, &c.] Under this general term, is comprehended the day of atonement, which was not a feſtival, but a faſt, or a day of ſolemn humiliation; therefore the Hebrew word moadai, ſhould have been rendered "ſolemn aſſemblies, or ſeaſons," which it properly ſignifies.

4 In their ſeaſons.] God appointed the ſeaſons for theſe ſolemnities, to be in March, May, and September, agreeable to our preſent computation, and not in the winter; becauſe the ſhortneſs of the days, and the badneſs of the way, rendered travelling then very uncomfortable; and becauſe in the height of the ſummer ſeaſon, in thoſe countries, they could but ill be ſpared from their employ, in gathering in the harveſt and vintage.

10 When ye be come into the land—and ſhall reap the harveſt] Or more properly, "are about to reap the harveſt;" for the ſheaf was to be brought before the reſt of the harveſt was cut.

The firſt fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt.] Theſe firſt-fruits being preſented to the prieſt, he waved them towards the four quarters of the world, in token of their being conſecrated to the Lord of the univerſe, and by this all the ſheaves of the field were made holy. As the ſheaf was lifted up and waved, and the lamb was offered on that day, ſo Chriſt died, and offered himſelf up to God, for us, and for our ſalvation.

11 On the morrow after the ſabbath, &c.] This ceremony was performed on the ſecond day of the unleavened bread (and not the weekly ſabbath) the firſt being termed "ſabbath or reſt," becauſe it was a feſtival, in which they were to deſiſt from all ſervile labour.

14 And ye ſhall eat neither bread, &c.] That is, ye ſhall eat nothing of this year's growth, till you have firſt made an offering to God.

15 From the morrow after the ſabbath] See note on ver. 11.

Seven ſabbaths, &c.] The word "ſabbath," muſt here ſignify. A week, ſo that it ſhould have been rendered, Seven weeks complete, from the ſixteenth day of the ſecond month, or the ſecond of unleavened bread.

16 Unto the morrow after the ſeventh ſabbath, ſhall ye number fifty days, and—offer a new meat offering, &c.] This firſt is called pentecoſt, or the feaſt of weeks, being obſerved fifty days, or ſeven weeks, after the paſſover. It is called likewiſe the feaſt of harveſt, Exod. xxiii. 16.

19 Then ye ſhall ſacrifice one kid of the goats for a ſin offering, and two lambs of the firſt year for a ſacrifice of peace offerings.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them with the bread of the firſtfruits for a wave offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: they ſhall be holy to the LORD for the prieſt.

21 And ye ſhall proclaim on the ſelfſame day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22 ¶ And when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou ſhalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapeſt, neither ſhalt thou gather any gleaning of thy harveſt: thou ſhalt leave them unto the poor, and to the ſtranger: I am the LORD your God.

23 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

24 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, In the ſeventh month, in the firſt day of the month, ſhall ye have a ſabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, an holy convocation.

25 Ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: but ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

27 Alſo on the tenth day of this ſeventh month there ſhall be a day of atonement: it ſhall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

28 And ye ſhall do no work in that ſame day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God.

29 For whatſoever ſoul it be that ſhall not be afflicted in that ſame day, he ſhall be cut off from among his people.

30 And whatſoever ſoul it be that doeth any work in that ſame day, the ſame ſoul will I deſtroy from among his people.

31 Ye ſhall do no manner of work: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

32 It ſhall be unto you a ſabbath of reſt, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, ſhall ye celebrate your ſabbath.

33 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

34 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The fifteenth day of this ſeventh month ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles for ſeven days unto the LORD. Before CHRIST 1490.

35 On the firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

36 Seven days ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth day ſhall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a ſolemn aſſembly; and ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

37 Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, which ye ſhall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt offering, and a meat offering, a ſacrifice, and drink offerings, every thing upon his day:

38 Beſide the ſabbaths of the LORD, and beſide your gifts, and beſide all your vows, and beſide all your free-will offerings, which ye give unto the LORD.

39 Alſo in the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye ſhall keep a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days: and on the firſt day ſhall be a ſabbath, and on the eighth day ſhall be a ſabbath.

40 And ye ſhall take you on the firſt day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and ye ſhall rejoice before the LORD your God ſeven days.

41 And ye ſhall keep it a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days in the year. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations: ye ſhall celebrate it in the ſeventh month.

42 Ye ſhall dwell in booths ſeven days; all that are Iſraelites born ſhall dwell in booths:

43 That your generations may know that I made the children of Iſrael to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

44 And Moſes declared unto the children of Iſrael the feaſts of the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIII.

We here find, that God enjoined the Jews to celebrate every year a general faſt; and that there ſhould be made a ſolemn atonement for ſin; therefore faſting and humiliation, are duties abſolutely neceſſary; but ſince the atonement was repeated every year, it was a ſign that ſin was not then expiated, as it has been ſince, by the ſacrifice of Chriſt. The feaſt of tabernacles, ſhould remind us of the continual goodneſs of God: and we ſhould particularly bleſs him, for redeeming us by his Son.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The oil for the lamps. 5 The ſhewbread. 10 Shelomith's ſon blaſphemeth; his ſentence; and the law of blaſphemy. 17 The law of murder; 18 of damage. 23 The blaſphemer is ſtoned.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael, that they bring unto thee pure oil olive beaten for the light, to cauſe the lamps to burn continually.

3 Without the vail of the teſtimony, in the tabernacle of the congregation, ſhall Aaron order it from the evening

---

17 They ſhall be baken with leaven, &c.] This is different from the eſtabliſhed law relating to other meat-offerings of this kind; but it is to be conſidered, that part of the latter were burnt upon altars, whereas the former were only waved before the Lord, and given to the prieſt for his portion.

19 One kid of the goats for a ſin offering, &c.] The offering for particular ſins of the congregation was a bullock, but for the ſins of the nation in general, a kid of the goats. The reaſon aſſigned by ſome for this difference, is the following: The more grievous the ſin was, the viler was the ſacrifice; there being no greater ſin than idolatry, nor viler ſacrifice than a ſhe-goat; this was appointed for the expiation of that ſin.

24 A memorial of blowing of trumpets, &c.] Theſe words might be rendered more properly, A feſtival for commemorating and praiſing God, with the ſound of the trumpets. They blew the trumpet every new moon; but in that of the ſeventh month, it was to be done with a more than ordinary ſolemnity, the trumpets ſounding from ſun-riſe till ſun-ſet.

34 The fifteenth day of this ſeventh month ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles, &c.] This feaſt was inſtituted in memory of their having dwelt in tents in the wilderneſs for forty years, under the protection of the Almighty. The firſt day of this feſtival was uſhered in by a general proceſſion, in which they carried branches of palm-trees in their hands, waving them about towards the four winds, and ſinging pſalms and hymns ſuitable to the occaſion, at the ſame time crying out, Hoſannah; or ſave, we beſeech thee: from this word, the laſt day of the feaſt, and the ceremony of carrying palm-branches round about the altar, was called, Hoſannah rabbah, or "the day of the great Hoſannah."

36 It is a ſolemn aſſembly, &c.] In the Hebrew, gnatſereth, "a reſtraint," or detention, was a term uſed for the laſt day of every great feſtival, becauſe all work was prohibited, and the people were detained in the holy places.

39 On the eighth day ſhall be a ſabbath, &c.] As the feaſt happened in the time of vintage, when the fruits of the earth were gathered, it is called in Exod. xxiii. 16. the feaſt of in-gatherings. This day was peculiarly appropriated to this end, as the ſeven days preceding were to the commemorating their dwelling in tents; becauſe on the ſeven preceding days, the Jews did dwell in tents, but on this eighth day they returned to their houſes.

40 Ye ſhall rejoice before the Lord, &c.] Theſe ſeven days were ſpent in rejoicing, and returning thanks to God, who had brought them from the barren wilderneſs, to a fertile land.

Before CHRIST 1490. evening unto the morning before the LORD continually: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations.

4 He ſhall order the lamps upon the pure candleſtick before the LORD continually.

5 ¶ And thou ſhalt take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes thereof: two tenth deals ſhall be in one cake.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet them in two rows, ſix on a row, upon the pure table before the LORD.

7 And thou ſhalt put pure frankincenſe upon each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

8 Every ſabbath he ſhall ſet it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Iſrael by an everlaſting covenant.

9 And it ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons': and they ſhall eat it in the holy place: for it is moſt holy unto him of the offerings of the LORD made by fire by a perpetual ſtatute.

10 ¶ And the ſon of an Iſraelitiſh woman, whoſe father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Iſrael: and this ſon of the Iſraelitiſh woman and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together in the camp;

11 And the Iſraelitiſh woman's ſon blaſphemed the name of the LORD, and curſed. And they brought him unto Moſes: (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan:)

12 And they put him in ward, that the mind of the LORD might be ſhewed them.

13 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

14 Bring forth him that hath curſed without the camp; and let all that heard him lay their hands upon his head, and let all the congregation ſtone him.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Whoſoever curſeth his God ſhall bear his ſin.

16 And he that blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, he ſhall ſurely be put to death, and all the congregation ſhall certainly ſtone him: as well the ſtranger, as he that is born in the land, when he blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, ſhall be put to death.

17 ¶ And he that killeth any man ſhall ſurely be put to death.

18 ¶ And he that killeth a beaſt ſhall make it good; beaſt for beaſt.

19 And if a man cauſe a blemiſh in his neighbour; as he hath done, ſo ſhall it be done to him;

20 Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: as he hath cauſed a blemiſh in a man, ſo ſhall it be done to him again.

21 And he that killeth a beaſt, he ſhall reſtore it: and he that killeth a man, he ſhall be put to death.

22 Ye ſhall have one manner of law, as well for the ſtranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the LORD your God. Before CHRIST 1490.

23 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould bring forth him that had curſed out of the camp, and ſtone him with ſtones. And the children of Iſrael did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIV.

The law about the oil for the lamps relates only to the external and ceremonial ſervice of the Jews. The ſhew-bread, conſiſting of twelve loaves, which were always expoſed in the ſanctuary, was a ſolemn acknowledgment, made by all the Iſraelites, that they held all good things from God; which ſhould teach Chriſtians to be grateful for the bleſſings he beſtows upon them. The law againſt blaſphemers, and the example of him who was ſtoned, is very remarkable and awful, and ſhould inſpire us with extreme horror for blaſphemy.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The ſabbath of the ſeventh year. 8 The jubile in the fiftieth year. 14 Oppreſſion forbidden. 18 A bleſſing promiſed to obedience. 23 The redemption of land, 29 and of houſes. 35 Compaſſion to be had of the poor; and uſury reſtrained. 39 The uſage of bondſervants. 47 The redemption of ſervants.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in mount Sinai, 1491. ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then ſhall the land keep a ſabbath unto the LORD.

3 Six years thou ſhalt ſow thy field, and ſix years thou ſhalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof;

4 But in the ſeventh year ſhall be a ſabbath of reſt unto the land, a ſabbath for the LORD: thou ſhalt neither ſow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

5 That which groweth of its own accord of thy harveſt thou ſhalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy vine undreſſed: for it is a year of reſt unto the land.

6 And the ſabbath of the land ſhall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy ſervant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired ſervant, and for thy ſtranger that ſojourneth with thee,

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beaſts that are in thy land, ſhall all the increaſe thereof be meat.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt number ſeven ſabbaths of years unto thee, ſeven times ſeven years; and the ſpace of the ſeven ſabbaths of years ſhall be unto thee forty and nine years.

9 Then ſhalt thou cauſe the trumpet of the jubile to

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIV.

6 In two rows, &c.] They were placed one upon another, and ſet lengthwiſe over the breadth of the table. They were ten hands breadth long, five hands breadth broad, and ſeven fingers thick.

7 On the bread, &c.] The Hebrew may be rendered, "for the bread," that is offered unto God inſtead of the bread which was given unto the prieſt.

10 This ſon of the Iſraelitiſh woman and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together, &c.] The Jews tell us, that this perſon attempted to ſet up his tent among the Danites, in right of his mother, who belonged to their tribe; and that being oppoſed by the Iſraelites, and told, that as his father was an Egyptian, he had no right to do ſo, that he was thereupon ſo hurried away by rage, that he uttered blaſphemies againſt God.

11 Blaſphemed, &c.] It is imagined that his cauſe came before the judges, and that their determination was, he had no right to the privileges of a true Iſraelite; and that being aggrieved by the divine appointment, which made this diſtinction between the Iſraelites, and ſtrangers, he audaciouſly reproached both the law and the law-maker, and ſet them both at defiance.

12 That the mind of the Lord might be ſhewed them.] This ſignifies, that Moſes was to pronounce ſentence, according as God ſhould direct him.

13 Let all the congregation ſtone him.] Every perſon preſent caſt his ſtone at the blaſphemer, to ſignify that himſelf was wounded by the blow levelled by the impious perſon at the Almighty. The putting blaſphemers to death has been looked upon as a moral law, as well among Chriſtians as Jews, and therefore ſuch were condemned by Juſtinian of old.

20 Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, &c.] Though Chriſtians indeed live under a milder diſpenſation, and perhaps for that reaſon may think this to have been a very ſevere decree; yet the laws of other nations, as well as the Jewiſh, ſhew they did not think it unreaſonable; for it obtained a place among the celebrated Roman laws of the twelve tribes.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXV.

2 The land keep a ſabbath, &c.] The ſanctification of the ſabbath was the moſt antient of all divine inſtitutions, calculated to preſerve the knowledge and worſhip of God among men; Moſes therefore not only revived the obſervance of the weekly ſabbath, but likewiſe inſtituted a ſabbatical year for the advancement of the honour due to it.

4 A ſabbath of reſt unto the land.] This year of reſt was not appointed, that the tired land might acquire ſtrength, which is the uſual practice, but for an holy and religious reſt, dedicated to God's ſervice, and typical of the eternal reſt in heaven.

8 Thou ſhalt number ſeven ſabbaths of years, &c.] Beſides the ſabbatical year, Moſes inſtituted another, to be celebrated every fiftieth year; when ſlaves were releaſed, all debts cancelled, poſſeſſions reſtored, &c. This law was a wiſe proviſion for fixing the Jews in the land of Canaan, and for preſerving the diſtinction between tribes and families, by which that of the Meſſiah, when born, might certainly be known to be of the tribe of Judah, and lineage of David, as predicted by the prophets.

9 The trumpet of the jubile, &c.] In the Hebrew, jerughath, i. e. the trumpet of loud ſound, becauſe the trumpets were ſounded loud at the beginning, in every quarter of the land, to ſignify that the whole year was to be celebrated with great joy, it being intended to remind them of their Egyptian bondage, and to prevent them to ſound, on the tenth day of the ſeventh month, in the day of atonement ſhall ye make the trumpet ſound throughout all your land.

10 And ye ſhall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it ſhall be a jubile unto you; and ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion, and ye ſhall return every man unto his family.

11 A jubile ſhall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye ſhall not ſow, neither reap that which groweth of itſelf in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undreſſed.

12 For it is the jubile; it ſhall be holy unto you: ye ſhall eat the increaſe thereof out of the field.

13 In the year of this jubile ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion.

14 ¶ And if thou ſell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyeſt ought of thy neighbour's hand, ye ſhall not oppreſs one another:

15 According to the number of years after the jubile thou ſhalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he ſhall ſell unto thee:

16 According to the multitude of years thou ſhalt increaſe the price thereof, and according to the fewneſs of years thou ſhalt diminiſh the price of it; for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he ſell unto thee.

17 Ye ſhall not therefore oppreſs one another; but thou ſhalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

18 ¶ Wherefore ye ſhall do my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; and ye ſhall dwell in the land in ſafety.

19 And the land ſhall yield her fruit, and ye ſhall eat your fill, and dwell therein in ſafety.

20 And if ye ſhall ſay, What ſhall we eat the ſeventh year? behold, we ſhall not ſow, nor gather in our increaſe:

21 Then I will command my bleſſing upon you in the ſixth year, and it ſhall bring forth fruit for three years.

22 And ye ſhall ſow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit until the ninth year; until her fruits come in ye ſhall eat of the old ſtore.

23 ¶ The land ſhall not be ſold for ever: for the land is mine; for ye are ſtrangers and ſojourners with me.

24 And in all the land of your poſſeſſion ye ſhall grant a redemption for the land.

25 If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath ſold away ſome of his poſſeſſion, and if any of his kin come to redeem it, then ſhall he redeem that which his brother ſold.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, and himſelf be able to redeem it;

27 Then let him count the years of the ſale thereof, and reſtore the overplus unto the man to whom he ſold it; that he may return unto his poſſeſſion.

Before CHRIST 1491.

28 But if he be not able to reſtore it to him, then that which is ſold ſhall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of jubile: and in the jubile it ſhall go out, and he ſhall return unto his poſſeſſion.

29 ¶ And if a man ſell a dwelling houſe in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is ſold; within a full year may he redeem it.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the ſpace of a full year, then the houſe that is in the walled city ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever to him that bought it throughout his generations: it ſhall not go out in the jubile.

31 But the houſes of the villages which have no wall round about them ſhall be counted as the fields of the country: they may be redeemed, and they ſhall go out in the jubile.

32 Notwithſtanding the cities of the Levites, and the houſes of the cities of their poſſeſſion, may the Levites redeem at any time.

33 And if a man purchaſe of the Levites, then the houſe that was ſold, and the city of his poſſeſſion, ſhall go out in the year of jubile: for the houſes of the cities of the Levites are their poſſeſſion among the children of Iſrael.

34 But the field of the ſuburbs of their cities may not be ſold; for it is their perpetual poſſeſſion.

35 ¶ And if thy brother be waxen poor, and fallen in decay with thee: then thou ſhalt relieve him: yea, though he be a ſtranger, or a ſojourner; that he may live with thee.

36 Take thou no uſury of him, or increaſe: but fear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee.

37 Thou ſhalt not give him thy money upon uſury, nor lend him thy victuals for increaſe.

38 I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

39 ¶ And if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be ſold unto thee; thou ſhalt not compell him to ſerve as a bondſervant:

40 But as an hired ſervant, and as a ſojourner, he ſhall be with thee, and ſhall ſerve thee unto the year of jubile:

41 And then ſhall he depart from thee, both he and his children with him, and ſhall return unto his own family, and unto the poſſeſſion of his fathers ſhall he return.

42 For they are my ſervants, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they ſhall not be ſold as bondmen.

43 Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour; but ſhalt fear thy God.

from the like oppreſſion of their own brethren. It is very remarkable, that the laſt year of our Saviour's life was a year of jubile, and the very laſt that ever was kept; which verifies the confeſſion of the book of Zohar, wherein we are told, that "the divine glory ſhould be freedom and redemption in a year of jubile."

15 According to the number of years, &c.] There was not the leaſt injuſtice in this law, nor any reaſon to complain; ſince every purchaſer of an eſtate was well appriſed of the year of jubile; and in the ſale of lands it was always conſidered, when they ſold at an higher or lower price, according as the jubile was nearer or more remote.

20 If ye ſhall ſay, what ſhall we eat, &c.] That they might not object againſt ſo wiſe and good a law, the Almighty graciouſly promiſed them, that their lands ſhould bring forth ſo abundantly in the preceding year, as ſhould be ſufficient to ſupply all their wants.

23 The land is mine, &c.] In this expreſſion God ſpeaks to them in conformity to their idea of him as a local deity, who preferred the land of Judea to all other countries for his perſonal reſidence; a notion which was an eſtabliſhed principle in the Gentile world.

29 If a man ſell a dwelling houſe, &c.] Houſes in the city, if not redeemed within a year, were never more to return to their firſt owner, not even at the jubile; but country houſes, as being a part of their hereditary eſtates, were ſubject to the ſame law as their eſtates. This proviſion ſeems to have been made for the encouragement of ſtrangers and proſelytes to come and ſettle among them, who, though they could not purchaſe land to them and their heirs, yet might purchaſe houſes within walled cities, as being moſt convenient for thoſe who were ſuppoſed to live by trade.

34 But the field of the ſuburbs, &c.] The Hebrews inform us, that round the cities of the Levites, a thouſand cubits (about a quarter of a mile) was meaſured for their ſuburbs; without which, all round, were meaſured two thouſand more, to feed their cattle in, and for vineyards: this portion being undivided, and lying in common, no particular perſon had any power to bargain for it.

36 May live with thee.] That is, may live happily with thee.

39 Thou ſhalt not compel him to ſerve as a bondſervant.] That is, he ſhould not be treated as a ſlave whom they bought of other nations, or took in their wars, over whom they had an abſolute dominion, and might ſell them and their children at pleaſure.

42 They are my ſervants, &c.] The meaneſt as well as the moſt opulent Iſraelite was the peculiar ſervant and worſhipper of the true God, and therefore as ſerving one common maſter, they were ſecured from the ſlavery and oppreſſion of their brethren.

43 Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour, &c.] The practice againſt which this precept is levelled, is but too frequent among men; and it is a melancholy conſideration, that Chriſtians ſhould violate it, by their inhuman treatment of their negro-ſlaves in the American colonies; and notwithſtanding the Jewiſh rabbins aſſert that a man may uſe his ſlave as he pleaſes, provided he does not maim him; yet this is contrary to religion and humanity.

44 Both thy bondmen, and thy bondmaids, which thou ſhalt have, ſhall be of the heathen that are round about you; of them ſhall ye buy bondmen and bondmaids.

45 Moreover of the children of the ſtrangers that do ſojourn among you, of them ſhall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land: and they ſhall be your poſſeſſion.

46 And ye ſhall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a poſſeſſion; they ſhall be your bondmen for ever: but over your brethren the children of Iſrael, ye ſhall not rule one over another with rigour.

47 ¶ And if a ſojourner or ſtranger wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and ſell himſelf unto the ſtranger or ſojourner by thee, or to the ſtock of the ſtranger's family:

48 After that he is ſold he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren may redeem him:

49 Either his uncle, or his uncle's ſon, may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him; or if he be able, he may redeem himſelf.

50 And he ſhall reckon with him that bought him from the year that he was ſold to him unto the year of jubile: and the price of his ſale ſhall be according unto the number of years, according to the time of an hired ſervant ſhall it be with him.

51 If there be yet many years behind, according unto them he ſhall give again the price of his redemption out of the money that he was bought for.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubile, then he ſhall count with him, and according unto his years ſhall he give him again the price of his redemption.

53 And as a yearly hired ſervant ſhall he be with him: and the other ſhall not rule with rigour over him in thy ſight.

54 And if he be not redeemed in theſe years, then he ſhall go out in the year of jubile, both he, and his children with him.

55 For unto me the children of Iſrael are ſervants; they are my ſervants whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXV.

We may draw from hence two inſtructions; 1ſt, That it is a crying ſin before God, to lend money to neceſſitous perſons upon hard and unjuſt terms; and that the poor and ſtrangers are to be treated with equity and humanity. The ſecond is, That God would not have the Jews ſubject thoſe of their own nation to ſlavery, nor uſe too much rigour to ſtrange ſlaves; which ſhould teach Chriſtian maſters not to be too rigorous towards their own ſervants; and to remember that their ſervants, and they themſelves too, have a maſter in heaven; and that with him there is no reſpect of perſons, Eph. vi. 9.

YE ſhall make you no idols nor graven image, neither rear you up a ſtanding image, neither ſhall ye ſet up any image of ſtone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD your God. Before CHRIST 1491.

2 Ye ſhall keep my ſabbaths, and reverence my ſanctuary: I am the LORD.

3 ¶ If ye walk in my ſtatutes, and keep my commandments, and do them;

4 Then I will give you rain in due ſeaſon, and the land ſhall yield her increaſe, and the trees of the field ſhall yield their fruit.

5 And your threſhing ſhall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage ſhall reach unto the ſowing time: and ye ſhall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land ſafely.

6 And I will give peace in the land, and ye ſhall lie down, and none ſhall make you afraid: and I will rid evil beaſts out of the land, neither ſhall the ſword go through your land.

7 And ye ſhall chaſe your enemies, and they ſhall fall before you by the ſword.

8 And five of you ſhall chaſe an hundred, and an hundred of you ſhall put ten thouſand to flight: and your enemies ſhall fall before you by the ſword.

10 And ye ſhall eat old ſtore, and bring forth the old becauſe of the new.

11 And I will ſet my tabernacle among you: and my ſoul ſhall not abhor you.

12 And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people.

13 I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye ſhould not be their bondmen; and I have broken the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright.

14 ¶ But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all theſe commandments;

15 And if ye ſhall deſpiſe my ſtatutes, or if your ſoul abhor my judgments, ſo that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break my covenant:

16 I alſo will do this unto you; I will even appoint over you terror, conſumption, and the burning ague, that ſhall conſume the eyes, and cauſe ſorrow of heart: and ye ſhall ſow your ſeed in vain, for your enemies ſhall eat it.

17 And I will ſet my face againſt you, and ye ſhall be ſlain before your enemies: they that hate you ſhall reign over you; and ye ſhall flee when none purſueth you.

18 And if ye will not yet for all this hearken unto me, then I will puniſh you ſeven times more for your ſins.

19 And I will break the pride of your power; and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as braſs:

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVI.

1 A ſtanding image] Theſe ſeem to have been a kind of rude ſtones which the heathens erected to their gods, and to which they paid divine worſhip.

Any image of ſtone, &c.] In the original the words ſignify a picture ſtone, or ſtones painted with pictures, like thoſe of the Egyptian hieroglyphics. The Septuagint render it, A ſtone conſecrated to the gods in pictures, or the tutelar deities of the country.

4 I will give you rain in due ſeaſon, &c.] In Canaan and Syria, it was unuſual to have rain but at two ſeaſons; in the ſpring before harveſt, and at the end of autumn at ſeed time; called by the prophet, "the former and the latter rain," Jer. v. 24. When either of theſe failed, the year was quite barren; hence theſe countries were ſubject to famine. This promiſe therefore of rain in due ſeaſon was a moſt gracious one, and an invaluable bleſſing.

5 Your threſhing ſhall reach unto the vintage, &c.] God promiſed that their fruits ſhould be produced in ſuch abundance, that they ſhould ſcarce have time enough to receive and diſpoſe of one bleſſing before another was ſhowered upon them: before they had reaped their corn, their vintage would be ready; and before the vintage was finiſhed, the ſowing ſeaſon would commence. "The plowman overtook the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that ſoweth ſeed." Amos ix. 13.

10 Bring forth the old becauſe of the new.] Ye ſhall have ſo large a ſtock of the old corn remaining at harveſt, that ye ſhall be obliged to remove the former, in order to make room for the latter.

13 Made you go upright.] A metaphor taken from a perſon lightened of his load; it ſignifies, liberty, eaſe, and pleaſure.

16 Terror, conſumption, and the burning ague, &c.] By the Hebrew word, rendered "terror," is meant the diſeaſe called an epilepſy, or falling ſickneſs. "Conſumption" is, in the interlineary tranſlations, rendered the phthyſick; but in the Vulgate, Septuagint, and Chaldee, want or famine. The Hebrew word ſachepeth is variouſly rendered. Some imagine it to be an hectic fever.

19 I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as braſs.] A figurative expreſſion, conveying an awful idea of the anger of God; the heavens are repreſented as impenetrable to rain, as iron; and the earth as having its vegetation ſtores locked up beneath a ſurface of braſs; from whence a dreadful famine muſt be the conſequence.

21 And if ye walk contrary unto me, and will not hearken unto me; I will bring ſeven times more plagues upon you according to your ſins.

22 I will alſo ſend wild beaſts among you, which ſhall rob you of your children, and deſtroy your cattle, and make you few in number; and your high ways ſhall be deſolate.

23 And if ye will not be reformed by me by theſe things, but will walk contrary unto me;

24 Then will I alſo walk contrary unto you, and will puniſh you yet ſeven times for your ſins.

25 And I will will bring a ſword upon you, that ſhall avenge the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will ſend the peſtilence among you; and ye ſhall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

26 And when I have broken the ſtaff of your bread, ten women ſhall bake your bread in one oven, and they ſhall deliver you your bread again by weight: and ye ſhall eat, and not be ſatisfied.

27 And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me;

28 Then I will walk contrary unto you alſo in fury; and I, even I, will chaſtiſe you ſeven times for your ſins.

29 And ye ſhall eat the fleſh of your ſons, and the fleſh of your daughters ſhall ye eat.

30 And I will deſtroy your high places, and cut down your images, and caſt your carcaſes upon the carcaſes of your idols, and my ſoul ſhall abhor you.

31 And I will make your cities waſte, and bring your ſanctuaries unto deſolation, and I will not ſmell the ſavour of your ſweet odours.

32 And I will bring the land into deſolation: and your enemies which dwell therein ſhall be aſtoniſhed at it.

33 And I will ſcatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a ſword after you: and your land ſhall be deſolate, and your cities waſte.

34 Then ſhall the land enjoy her ſabbaths, as long as it lieth deſolate, and ye be in your enemies' land; even then ſhall the land reſt, and enjoy her ſabbaths.

35 As long as it lieth deſolate it ſhall reſt; becauſe it did not reſt in your ſabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And upon them that are left alive of you I will ſend a faintneſs into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and the ſound of a ſhaken leaf ſhall chaſe them; and they ſhall flee, as fleeing from a ſword; and they ſhall fall when none purſueth.

37 And they ſhall fall one upon another, as it were before a ſword, when none purſueth; and ye ſhall have no power to ſtand before your enemies.

38 And ye ſhall periſh among the heathen, and the land of your enemies ſhall eat you up.

39 And they that are left of you ſhall pine away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and alſo in the iniquities of their fathers ſhall they pine away with them.

Before CHRIST 1491.

40 ¶ If they ſhall confeſs their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their treſpaſs which they treſpaſſed againſt me, and that alſo they have walked contrary unto me;

41 And that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumciſed hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity:

42 Then will I remember my covenant with Jacob, and alſo my covenant with Iſaac, and alſo my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land.

43 The land alſo ſhall be left of them, and ſhall enjoy her ſabbaths, while ſhe lieth deſolate without them: and they ſhall accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity: becauſe, even becauſe they deſpiſed my judgments, and becauſe their ſoul abhorred my ſtatutes.

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, I will not caſt them away, neither will I abhor them to deſtroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God.

45 But I will for their ſakes remember the covenant of their anceſtors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt in the ſight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

46 Theſe are the ſtatutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Iſrael in Mount Sinai by the hand of Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVI.

We ought to liſten very attentively to the curſes contained in this chapter; and which, we ſee clearly, were all to happen to the people of Iſrael, by reaſon of their ſins. God viſited them upon divers occaſions, by famine, death, war, and other ſcourges; and at laſt delivered them up to their enemies, and drove them out of the land of Canaan, when they were carried away captive into Aſſyria and Babylon, and at laſt deſtroyed by the Romans. But we alſo ſee here the promiſes of the re-eſtabliſhment of the Jews, which partly happened when they returned from their captivity; and which will be entirely accompliſhed in the latter times, when they ſhall be converted. Theſe are noble and ſtrong evidences of the divinity of the ſcripture; and this example of the Jews ſhould make us dread the curſes denounced in the goſpel againſt impenitent ſinners; eſpecially ſince thoſe curſes are much more terrible than thoſe we have now read.

22 I will alſo ſend wild beaſts, &c.] A metaphorical expreſſion, ſignifying wicked and tyrannical rulers, who prey upon the lives and fortunes of their people.

26 Ten women ſhall bake your bread in one oven, &c.] The ſcarcity threatened was to be ſo great, that one oven ſhould be ſufficient to bake the bread for ten families.

28 Seven times for your ſins.] That is, I will puniſh you with new and more grievous puniſhments: fulfilled in their captivity in the days of Manaſſeh, Jehoiakin, and Zedekiah. Theſe latter calamities, both for extent and duration, were at leaſt ſeven times greater than their ſufferings by the Philiſtines, and neighbouring nations.

29 Ye ſhall eat the fleſh of your ſons, &c.] The ſoreſt calamity that can befal a people. It is deſcribed in Deut. xxviii. 53, &c. and happened to this rebellious people in the ſiege of Samaria, 2 Kings vi. 29. in the ſiege of Jeruſalem, before the Babyloniſh captivity, Lam. iv. 10. and in the deſtruction of it by the Romans; the horrors of which were very great.

30 I will deſtroy your high places] The places where you worſhip your idols.

Your images, &c.] This may be tranſlated more properly, Your temples erected for the worſhip of the ſun.

31 I will not ſmell the ſavour, &c.] I will neither hear your prayers, nor accept your ſacrifices.

34 Then ſhall the land reſt, and enjoy her ſabbaths.] Which your covetouſneſs would not ſuffer to reſt in the ſabbatical years. This expreſſion intimates, that the very ground would be re-created, when rid of its ſinful inhabitants, for whom it was wearied and fatigued in bringing forth food.

36 The ſound of a ſhaken leaf ſhall chaſe them, &c.] I will fill them with ſuch timidity, that they ſhall be afraid of their own ſhadow, and tremble at the ſhaking of a leaf.

38 The land of your enemies ſhall eat you up.] You ſhall be ſwallowed up or loſt in the body of another nation, and ſhall never return more to the promiſed land. This ſentence was executed in the captivity of the ten tribes, who did never return, nor is it known what became of them.

40—45 If they ſhall confeſs—I will for their ſakes remember the covenant, &c.] This is one of the paſſages of ſcripture from whence the Jews derive their hopes of a temporal deliverance; but ſince the moſaic diſpenſation is at an end, they can lay no claim to ſuch promiſes, unleſs they previouſly embrace Chriſtianity; unleſs they confeſs their iniquity in crucifying the Lord of glory, the true Meſſiah; which when they do, God will for their ſakes, that is, their anceſtors who believed in Chriſt that was to come, remember the land.

Before CHRIST 1491. 3 ¶ And thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male from twenty years old even unto ſixty years old, even thy eſtimation ſhall be fifty ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

4 And if it be a female, then thy eſtimation ſhall be thirty ſhekels.

5 And if it be from five years old even unto twenty years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male twenty ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

6 And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male five ſhekels of ſilver, and for the female thy eſtimation ſhall be three ſhekels of ſilver.

7 And if it be from ſixty years old and above; if it be a male, then thy eſtimation ſhall be fifteen ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

8 But if he be poorer than thy eſtimation, then he ſhall preſent himſelf before the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall value him; according to his ability that vowed ſhall the prieſt value him.

9 ¶ And if it be a beaſt, whereof men bring an offering unto the LORD, all that any man giveth of ſuch unto the LORD ſhall be holy.

10 He ſhall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good: and if he ſhall at all change beaſt for beaſt, then it and the exchange thereof ſhall be holy.

11 And if it be any unclean beaſt, of which they do not offer a ſacrifice unto the LORD, then he ſhall preſent the beaſt before the prieſt:

12 And the prieſt ſhall value it, whether it be good or bad: as thou valueſt it, who art the prieſt, ſo ſhall it be.

13 But if he will at all redeem it, then he ſhall add a fifth part thereof unto thy eſtimation.

14 ¶ And when a man ſhall ſanctify his houſe to be holy unto the LORD, then the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, ſo ſhall it ſtand.

15 And if he that ſanctified it will redeem his houſe, then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be his.

16 ¶ And if a man ſhall ſanctify unto the LORD ſome part of a field of his poſſeſſion, then thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſeed thereof: an homer of barley ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver.

17 If he ſanctify his field from the year of jubile, according to thy eſtimation it ſhall ſtand.

18 But if he ſanctify his field after the jubile, then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it ſhall be abated from thy eſtimation.

19 And if he that ſanctified the field will in any wiſe redeem it, then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be aſſured to him.

20 And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have ſold the field to another man, it ſhall not be redeemed any more. Before CHRIST 1491.

21 But the field, when it goeth out in the jubile, ſhall be holy unto the LORD, as a field devoted; the poſſeſſion thereof ſhall be the prieſt's.

22 And if a man ſanctify unto the LORD, a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his poſſeſſion;

23 Then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the worth of thy eſtimation, even unto the year of the jubile: and he ſhall give thine eſtimation in that day, as a holy thing unto the LORD.

24 In the year of the jubile the field ſhall return unto him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the poſſeſſion of the land did belong.

25 And all thy eſtimations ſhall be according to the ſhekel of the ſanctuary; twenty gerahs ſhall be the ſhekel.

26 ¶ Only the firſtling of the beaſts, which ſhould be the LORD's firſtling, no man ſhall ſanctify it; whether it be ox, or ſheep: it is the LORD's.

27 And if it be of an unclean beaſt, then he ſhall redeem it according to thine eſtimation, and ſhall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it ſhall be ſold according to thy eſtimation.

28 ¶ Notwithſtanding no devoted thing, that a man ſhall devote unto the LORD of all that he hath, both of man and beaſt, and of the field of his poſſeſſion, ſhall be ſold or redeemed: every devoted thing is moſt holy unto the LORD,

29 None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men, ſhall be redeemed; but ſhall ſurely be put to death.

30 ¶ And all the tythe of the land, whether of the ſeed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD's: it is holy unto the LORD.

31 And if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he ſhall add thereto the fifth part thereof.

32 And concerning the title of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatſoever paſſeth under the rod, the tenth ſhall be holy unto the LORD.

33 He ſhall not ſearch whether it be good or bad, neither ſhall he change it: and if he change it at all, then both it and the change thereof ſhall be holy; it ſhall not be redeemed.

34 Theſe are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moſes for the children of Iſrael in mount Sinai.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVII.

This chapter affords us chiefly the following inſtruction: That vows ought to be religiouſly obſerved; and that when a thing has been devoted to God, and to holy uſes, it cannot be applied to any other, without the guilt of ſacrilege. We learn hence likewiſe, that we ſhould not be guilty of any fraud in that which we ſet apart for divine ſervice, or other religious uſes; but act ſincerely, and give with pleaſure, even the beſt and moſt precious of our ſubſtance.

The

The perſons ſhall be for the Lord by thy eſtimation.] If a man conſecrated himſelf or his child to the ſervice of the tabernacle, ſuch as ſweeping the floor, carrying out aſhes, running on errands, or the like, the perſons ſo conſecrated ſhall be for the Lord: that is, God will accept the good will; but ſeeing there was an whole tribe devoted to this ſervice, thoſe who were vowed, were not wanted, but were to be redeemed; and the redemption-money was appropriated to defray the expence of repairing the tabernacle, and other uſes.

10 He ſhall not alter, nor change, &c.] "Alter" ſignifies the ſubſtituting any other kind of beaſt or thing in its ſtead; but "change," the giving any other beaſt of the ſame ſpecies, inſtead of it.

16 An homer of barley ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels, &c.] As much land as an homer of barley will ſow, ſhall be rated at fifty ſhekels, which was equivalent to about five pounds ſeven ſhillings of our money. The homor, Exod. xvi. 16, 36, was the tenth part of an ephah; but the homer, or meaſure ſpoken of in this place, ten ephahs, that is about ten buſhels.

18 He ſhall add the fifth part, &c.] If the owner was inclined to redeem himſelf, he might not purchaſe his redemption ſo cheap as another, but was to add a fifth part of the price; by this God would lead men into a ſerious conſideration before they vowed.

29 None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men, ſhall be redeemed; but ſhall ſurely be put to death.] This paſſage has been the occaſion of much diſpute among ſome commentators; but the true meaning ſeems to be this: every thing which is devoted of men ſhall not be redeemed, but ſhall ſurely die, i. e. he ſhall die in that devoted ſtate. Our tranſlation indeed has it, "he ſhall ſurely be put to death;" which is not to be underſtood of being ſacrificed, or put to a violent death; but that he is to continue till death in a devoted ſtate. See 1 Sam. i. 11.

32 Whatſoever paſſeth under the rod, &c.] The Jews pretend this alludes to the tything rod, coloured with oker, with which the perſon placed himſelf at the door of the fold, numbered the cattle as they came out, and marked every tenth with his rod. The manner of decimating cattle was this: they ſhut up all the lambs, kids, or calves, in a ſtable, having but one door, ſo narrow that two could not paſs abreaſt, and then brought their dams to the door, that the young ones hearing their voice, might ſtrive to get out by paſſing under the rod; as faſt as they come out, thoſe who ſtood by marked every tenth with red lead, and whether a male or female, with or without blemiſh, the owner ſaid, This ſhall be conſecrated to pay the tythes.

The Fourth BOOK of MOSES, CALLED NUMBERS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book receives its title from the numbering the Iſraelites in the ſecond year after they came out of Egypt. It is here worth obſerving, that though the names of the five books of Moſes were borrowed from the Greek, yet this is the only book whoſe title is rendered into Engliſh, each of the other books retaining the Greek words, viz. Geneſis, Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy. This book recites ſeveral remarkable events of the hiſtorical kind, beſides ſeveral additional laws, civil and religious, comprehending, in the whole, a ſpace of about thirty-eight years and nine months.

CHAP. I.

1 God commandeth Moſes to number the people. 5 The princes of the tribes. 17 The numbering of the people. 20, 22, &c. The number of each tribe. 44 The ſum total. 47 The Levites are exempted for the ſervice of the tabernacle.

Before CHRIST 1490. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the firſt day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 Take ye the ſum of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their polls;

3 From twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Iſrael: thou and Aaron ſhall number them by their armies.

4 And with you there ſhall be a man of every tribe; every one head of the houſe of his fathers.

5 ¶ And theſe are the names of the men that ſhall ſtand with you: of the tribe of Reuben; Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

6 Of Simeon; Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

7 Of Judah; Naſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

8 Of Iſſachar; Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

9 Of Zebulun; Eliab the ſon of Helon.

10 Of the children of Joſeph: of Ephraim; Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud: of Manaſſeh; Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

11 Of Benjamin; Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

12 Of Dan; Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

13 Of Aſher; Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

14 Of Gad; Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

15 Of Naphtali; Ahira the ſon of Enan.

Before CHRIST 1490. 16 Theſe were the renowned of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, heads of thouſands in Iſrael.

17 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron took theſe men which are expreſſed by their names:

18 And they aſſembled all the congregation together on the firſt day of the ſecond month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their polls.

19 As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo he numbered them in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

20 ¶ And the children of Reuben, Iſrael's eldeſt ſon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of their names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

21 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and ſix thouſand and five hundred.

22 ¶ Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, thoſe that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

23 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. I.

1 The Lord ſpake unto Moſes] It was now about thirteen months ſince the Iſraelites had left Egypt, twelve of which they had reſided at Mount Sinai, in which place they received all the preceding laws; but before they left this ſtation, Moſes and Aaron received an order from God to make a general muſter, and take an exact poll of all the Hebrew men, from twenty years of age and upwards, the Levites excepted.

On the firſt day of the ſecond month, &c.] This general muſter of the people, ſeems to have been ordered for ſeveral reaſons; for by it the accompliſhment of the promiſe God made to Abraham, of multiplying his ſeed, was evidently ſeen to be fulfilled, by their increaſe from ſeventy-five perſons, to upwards of ſix hundred thouſand. By this means alſo, God's promiſes for aſcertaining the genealogy of the Meſſiah, by a careful diſtinction of each particular tribe, family, and houſhold. The word "all," is not to be underſtood abſolutely, for the women were excepted; all the males under twenty years of age, the Levites, and thoſe who were diſabled through age or infirmity. The cuſtom of numbering all that were capable of bearing arms and obliging them to go forth to battle, was common among other nations, as well as the Jews; and hence it is, we read of ſuch mighty armies being ſent into the field, as appears ſcarcely credible in theſe days.

5 Of the tribe of Reuben, &c.] It is to be obſerved, that the tribes are not placed in the order of their birth, but of their mothers who bare them, the children of Leah firſt; then of Rachael; and laſtly, the children of the two handmaids.

14 The ſons of Deuel.] He is called Reuel. chap. ii. 14.

16 Theſe were the renowned of the congregation, princes, &c.] That is, they were perſons of rank and diſtinction in their reſpective tribes; this is evident, from their noble offerings at the dedication of the altar, chap. vii. 2. It is very probable they were judges and officers.

23 Of the tribe of Simeon, &c.] As he had ſix children at his deſcent into Egypt, and Reuben but four, the greater increaſe of this tribe may be accounted for upon natural reaſons. This obſervation will alſo hold good of the increaſe of the tribe of Gad, when compared with this, though the exertion of an extraordinary providence, muſt be called in to account for the vaſt increaſe of the tribes of Judah, Iſſachar, and Dan.

43 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

44 ¶ Theſe are thoſe that were numbered, which Moſes and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Iſrael, being twelve men: each one was for the houſe of his fathers:

45 So were all thoſe that were numbered of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Iſrael;

46 Even all they that were numbered were ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty.

47 ¶ But the Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among them.

48 For the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, ſaying,

49 Only thou ſhalt not number the tribe of Levi, neither take the ſum of them among the children of Iſrael:

50 But thou ſhalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of teſtimony, and over all the veſſels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they ſhall bear the tabernacle, and all the veſſels thereof; and they ſhall miniſter unto it, and ſhall encamp round about the tabernacle.

51 And when the tabernacle ſetteth forward, the Levites ſhall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites ſhall ſet it up: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

52 And the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch their tents, every man by his own camp, and every man by his own ſtandard, throughout their hoſts.

53 But the Levites ſhall pitch round about the tabernacle of teſtimony, that there be no wrath upon the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and the Levites ſhall keep the charge of the tabernacle of teſtimony.

54 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. I.

This vaſt increaſe of the children of Iſrael, is an evidence of God's faithfulneſs in fulfilling his promiſes, for in about two hundred years, they were increaſed from ſeventy, to upwards of ſix hundred thouſand. God's goodneſs is alſo manifeſt in ſupporting the Iſraelites in the deſart; for when he pleaſes to beſtow bleſſings upon his creatures, he can even change, or ſet aſide the order of nature.

3 ¶ And on the east side toward the rising of the sun shall they of the standard of the camp of Judah pitch throughout their armies: and Nashon the son of Amminadab shall be captain of the children of Judah.

4 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred.

5 And those that do pitch next unto him shall be the tribe of Issachar: and Nethaneel the son of Zuar shall be captain of the children of Issachar.

6 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

7 Then the tribe of Zebulun: and Eliab the son of Helon shall be captain of the children of Zebulun.

8 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

9 All that were numbered of the camp of Judah were an hundred thousand and fourscore thousand and six thousand and four hundred, throughout their armies. These shall first set forth.

10 ¶ On the south side shall be the standard of the camp of Reuben according to their armies: and the captain of the children of Reuben shall be Elizur the son of Shedeur.

11 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

12 And those which pitch by him shall be the tribe of Simeon: and the captain of the children of Simeon shall be Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

13 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

14 Then the tribe of Gad: and the captain of the sons of Gad shall be Eliasaph the son of Reuel.

15 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and five thousand and six hundred and fifty.

16 All that were numbered in the camp of Reuben were an hundred thousand and fifty and one thousand and four hundred and fifty, throughout their armies. And they shall set forth in the second rank.

17 ¶ Then the tabernacle of the congregation shall set forward with the camp of the Levites in the midst of the camp: as they encamp, so shall they set forward, every man in his place by their standards.

18 ¶ On the west side shall be the standard of the camp of Ephraim according to their armies: and the captain of the sons of Ephraim shall be Elishama the son of Ammihud.

19 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty thousand and five hundred.

20 And by him shall be the tribe of Manasseh: and the captain of the children of Manasseh shall be Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur. Before CHRIST 1490.

21 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

22 Then the tribe of Benjamin: and the captain of the sons of Benjamin shall be Abidan the son of Gideoni.

23 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

24 All that were numbered of the camp of Ephraim were an hundred thousand and eight thousand and an hundred, throughout their armies. And they shall go forward in the third rank.

25 ¶ The standard of the camp of Dan shall be on the north side by their armies: and the captain of the children of Dan shall be Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

26 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were threescore and two thousand and seven hundred.

27 And those that encamp by him shall be the tribe of Asher: and the captain of the children of Asher shall be Pagiel the son of Ocran.

28 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.

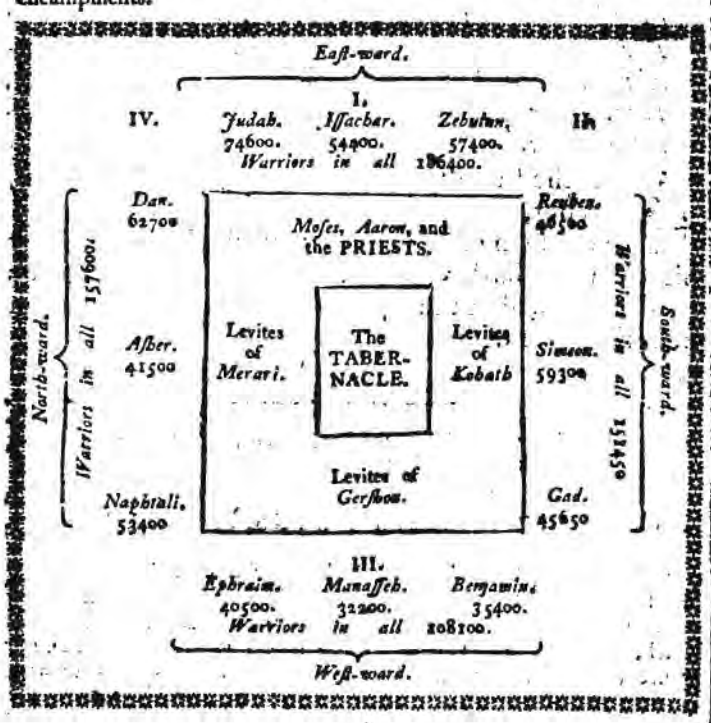
29 Then the tribe of Naphtali: and the captain of the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira the son of Enan.

30 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.

31 All they that were numbered in the camp of Dan were an hundred thousand and fifty and seven thousand and six hundred. They shall go hindmost with their standards.

32 ¶ These are those which were numbered of the children of Israel by the house of their fathers: all those that were numbered of the camps throughout their hosts, were six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

33 But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel; as the Lord commanded Moses.



34 And the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses: so they pitched by their standards, and so they set forward, every one after their families, according to the house of their fathers.

General Reflections on Chap. II.

The beautiful and regular order in which the Israelites march, may serve as a lesson to Christians, that their walk be uniformly upright and sincere. The tabernacle being in the midst of the camp, intimates to us, that the love of Christ should possess our inmost soul. By the constant attendance of the children of Israel on the tabernacle, we are directed to a diligent attendance on the duties of religion, and the worship of God.

CHAP.

the stone on Aaron's pectoral, on which the name of the tribe whereupon it belonged, was written. In this manner they pitched their tents about the tabernacle, agreeable to the following plan of their encampments.

17 So shall they set forward every man in his place by their standards.] The encampment of the Israelites was as follows: In the centre was the tabernacle, in the front of which, Moses and Aaron, with the priests, were encamped; and behind the tabernacle, on the right and left, the Levites of Kohath, Merari, and Gershon; in the front, eastward, were encamped the tribes of Judah, Issachar and Zebulun, 186,400 warriors; on the right southward, lay the tribes of Reuben, Simeon, and Gad, 151,450 warriors; to the left, northward, the tribes of Dan, Asher, and Naphtali, 157,600 warriors; and in the rear, westward, the tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Benjamin, 108,100 warriors. The Jews tell us, that the camp of Israel made a square of twelve miles, or three miles on a side.

34 The children of Israel did according to all that the Lord commanded Moses.] Formed themselves into camps, so many tribes to a camp, and over each tribe or host appointed a captain, and erected a standard to each camp, by which they pitched as directed, which is next particularly observed.

And so they set forward, &c.] Whenever the Israelites were to decamp, which was always when the pillar of the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle, the trumpet sounded, and upon the first alarm, the standard of Judah being raised, the three tribes belonging to it set forward; whereupon the tabernacle was immediately taken down, and the Gershonites and the Merarites attended the waggon, with the boards and staves of it. These being on their march, a second alarm was sounded, upon which the standard of Reuben's camp advanced, with the three tribes under it; after them followed the Kohathites, bearing the sanctuary, which, being more sacred, and not so cumbersome as the pillars and boards of the tabernacle, was not put into a waggon, but carried upon their shoulders; next follows the standard of Ephraim's camp, with his three tribes; and last of all the three tribes under the standard of Dan, brought up the rear.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

1 Theſe alſo are the generations, &c.] The proper ſignification of the word, "generations" is, Poſterity and deſcendants; but Aaron's poſterity being only mentioned, it is moſt natural to underſtand it in this place, as implying paſſages in their hiſtory, or a relation of what happened to them. In this ſenſe the word is uſed, Gen. ii. 4.

4 And Eleazar and Ithamar miniſtered in the prieſt's office, &c.] The reaſon why Aaron's ſons were ſettled in the prieſthood, while thoſe of Moſes were only Levites, was, probably, becauſe the ſons of Moſes had an Egyptian to their mother, and were not deſcended from any of the tribes of Iſrael. Beſides this, Aaron was the eldeſt brother, and the prieſthood was generally conſidered as an appendage to the primogeniture, or the title of eldeſt born.

6 Preſent them before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him.] That is, that they may receive their orders of Aaron, and aſſiſt him and the reſt of the prieſts who were the immediate meſſengers of God. In the wilderneſs the Levites had a peculiar charge not only to guard the tabernacle, by keeping watch about it day and night, but likewiſe to take it down, to carry it in their removals, and ſet it up again when they reſted: when ſettled in Canaan, they had leſs to do of this kind, though ſtill the charge of the tabernacle lay upon them, and they miniſtered to the prieſts as before. The Levites killed the ſacrifices; the prieſts only ſprinkled the blood, and burned the fat; the Levites prepared the incenſe, the prieſts burned it. In David's time, ſome of the Levites were appointed ſingers, and players upon inſtruments, in the morning and evening ſervice; others were porters at the ſeveral gates of the tabernacle, and afterwards of the temple, as guards of the ſacred treaſury, and of ſuch things as were dedicated to God; and they were diſtributed into different claſſes, for the more regular diſcharge of their functions.

9 They are wholly given unto him out of the children of Iſrael.] That is, they are ſeparated from the body of Iſrael, to ſerve under the prieſts, in the ſacred miniſtry of the tabernacle; and as they attended on the public ſervice, ſo they had a public maintenance allowed them.

12 I have taken the Levites—inſtead of all the firſtborn, &c.] Every firſt-born was conſecrated to the ſervice of the Lord, in memory of their preſervation in Egypt; but God was now pleaſed to releaſe the Iſraelites from this obligation, by ſubſtituting the tribe of Levi to be the perpetual miniſters of religion, inſtead of the firſt born males. The Levites obtained this favour for their religious zeal againſt the idolaters, Exod. xxxii. 28.

15 Every male from a month old, &c.] The other tribes were numbered from twenty years old and upwards, to know how many were fit to bear arms; but the Levites were numbered only to know how many they were in all, that ſo they might be exchanged for an equal number of the firſt-born; therefore it was requeſted all ſhould be numbered, without diſtinction, even from a month old, the age at which the firſt-born was appointed to be redeemed.

23 The families of the Gerſhonites ſhall pitch behind the tabernacle weſtward.] The camp of the prieſts and Levites was ordered to be of a ſquare form, like that of the other Iſraelites. The ſons of Gerſhon lay on the weſt ſide; the ſons of Kohath, on the ſouth; the ſons of Merari, on the north; and the tents of Moſes and Aaron were pitched before the entrance of the tabernacle on the eaſt.

48 And thou ſhalt give the money, wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his ſons.

49 And Moſes took the redemption money of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites:

Before CHRIST 1491.

50 Of the firſtborn of the children of Iſrael took he the money; a thouſand three hundred and threeſcore and five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary:

51 And Moſes gave the money of them that were redeemed unto Aaron and to his ſons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

The great care God took to divide the Levites, according to the proper duties aſſigned them, is worthy to be remembered, and affords a leſſon to the church in future ages, to make a ſuitable proviſion for thoſe who miniſter in holy things; and that the concerns of religion are, of all others, the moſt important.

CHAP. IV.

1 The age and time of ſervice of the Kohathites. 4 They are appointed to bear the ſanctuary and its veſſels, after that the prieſts have taken down and covered them. 16 The charge of Eleazar. 17 The care of the prieſts required in covering the holy things. 21 The age, time of ſervice, and burden, of the Gerſhonites: 29 and of the Merarites. 34 The number of the Kohathites, 38 of the Gerſhonites, 42 and of the Merarites.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 Take the ſum of the ſons of Kohath from among the ſons of Levi, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers.

3 From thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all that enter into the hoſt, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 ¶ This ſhall be the ſervice of the ſons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the moſt holy things:

5 And when the camp ſetteth forward, Aaron ſhall come, and his ſons, and they ſhall take down the covering vail, and cover the ark of teſtimony with it:

6 And ſhall put thereon the covering of badgers' ſkins, and ſhall ſpread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof.

7 And upon the table of ſhewbread they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the diſhes, and the ſpoons, and the bowls, and covers to cover withal: and the continual bread ſhall be thereon:

8 And they ſhall ſpread upon them a cloth of ſcarlet, and cover the ſame with a covering of badgers' ſkins, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof.

9 And they ſhall take a cloth of blue, and cover the candleſtick of the light, and his lamps, and his tongs, and his ſnuffdiſhes, and all the oil veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter unto it:

10 And they ſhall put it and all the veſſels thereof within a covering of badgers' ſkins, and ſhall put it upon a bar.

11 And

38 The ſtranger, &c.] By "ſtranger," in this place, is to be underſtood any one, except Aaron and his ſons; by this they were forbid to invade the prieſt's office, and the prieſts were charged to be the ſtore-keepers of God's houſe, and not to ſuffer any to enter in, who were forbidded by the law. The Jews inform us, that in after-times, there was hung over the door of the temple a golden ſword, (perhaps alluding to the flaming ſword, at the entrance of the garden of Eden) on which was engraven, "The ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death."

39 Were twenty and two thouſand.] The particular ſums mentioned, ver. 22, 28, and 34, amount, in all, to twenty-two thouſand three hundred; but the three hundred are here omitted, becauſe it is ſuppoſed that number was the firſt-born of the Levites themſelves; who, as ſuch, did already belong to God; and for that reaſon could not be ſet down inſtead of the firſt-born of the people, as the other Levites were. Mr. Pennington ſuppoſes there is an error in the ſum of the Gerſhonites, where the letter that denotes "two" hundred, might eaſily be miſtaken for that which denotes "five" hundred.

43 And all the firſtborn males—were twenty and two thouſand two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen.] It is to be remembered, that thoſe only were numbered, who had been born ſince the ſlaughter of the Egyptians, which was not much above a year ago, it being only from that time that the firſt born were to be conſecrated to God; elſe it might ſeem ſtrange, that from more than ſix hundred thouſand full-grown men, there ſhould be no more firſt-born ſons.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IV.

3 From thirty years old.] Thoſe who were numbered out of the other tribes to go forth to war, were from twenty years of age and upwards; but of the Levites, for the ſervice of God, only from thirty to fifty. God requires the beſt of our ſtrength, and the prime of our years.

To do the work in the tabernacle, &c.] It ſhould have been tranſlated "about the tabernacle," they not being permitted to enter into it. The work of the Levites was, the carrying the ark, and other ſacred things on their ſhoulders, which was very laborious; but then ſuch perſons were ſelected out of the afore-mentioned families of the Levites, as were moſt ſtrong and able for the purpoſe.

6 The covering of badgers' ſkins] The firſt covering of the ark was with the vail; then there were two others, one of leather, and the other of blue ſtuff. The uſe of theſe coverings was not only to defend the ſacred things from the weather, but likewiſe to conceal them from the curious eyes of the multitude. Some imagine that the Hebrew words which we tranſlate "badgers' ſkins," are improperly rendered, the badger being eſteemed unclean by the law of Moſes.

Put in the ſtaves thereof.] The Hebrew word veſhamu, ſignifies "to put," not to put in; as the ſtaves were never taken out, the impropriety of our tranſlation will appear the more evidently. They were only to order them ſo, that they might fall into the two notches which were made in the ſtaves, to prevent the ark from ſliding.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

22 Take alſo the ſum of the ſons of Gerſhon, throughout the houſes of their fathers, by their families;

23 From thirty years old and upward until fifty years old ſhalt thou number them; all that enter in to perform the ſervice, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

24 This is the ſervice of the families of the Gerſhonites, to ſerve, and for burdens:

25 And they ſhall bear the curtains of the tabernacle, and the tabernacle of the congregation, his covering, and the covering of the badgers' ſkins that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

26 And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the inſtruments of their ſervice, and all that is made for them: ſo ſhall they ſerve.

27 At the appointment of Aaron and his ſons ſhall be all the ſervice of the ſons of the Gerſhonites, in all their burdens and in all their ſervice: and ye ſhall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens.

28 This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon in the tabernacle of the congregration: and their charge ſhall be under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

29 ¶ As for the ſons of Merari, thou ſhalt number them after their families, by the houſe of their fathers; Before CHRIST 1490.

30 From thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old ſhalt thou number them, every one that entereth into the ſervice, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation.

31 And this is the charge of their burden according to all their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation; the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and the ſockets thereof,

32 And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their inſtruments, and with all their ſervice: and by name ye ſhall reckon the inſtruments of the charge of their burden.

33 This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Merari, according to all their ſervice, in the tabernacle of the congregation, under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

34 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron and the chief of the congregation numbered the ſons of the Kohathites after their families, and after the houſe of their fathers,

35 From thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one that entereth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation:

36 And thoſe that were numbered of them by their families were two thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty.

37 Theſe were they that were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, which Moſes and Aaron did number according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

38 ¶ And thoſe that were numbered of the ſons of Gerſhon, throughout their families, and by the houſe of their fathers,

39 From thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one that entereth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation,

40 Even thoſe that were numbered of them, throughout their families, by the houſe of their fathers, were two thouſand and ſix hundred and thirty.

41 Theſe are they that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon, of all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moſes and Aaron did number according to the commandment of the LORD.

42 ¶ And thoſe that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Merari, throughout their families, by the houſe of their fathers,

43 From thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one that entereth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation,

44 Even thoſe that were numbered of them after their families, were three thouſand and two hundred.

45 Theſe be thoſe that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Merari, whom Moſes and Aaron numbered according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

46 All thoſe that were numbered of the Levites, whom Moſes and Aaron and the chief of Iſrael numbered, after their families, and after the houſe of their fathers,

47 From thirty years old and upward even unto fifty years old, every one that came to do the ſervice of the miniſtry,

32 By name ye ſhall reckon, &c.] The prieſts were to give them an inventory, expreſſing every pin by name, and the place where it belonged to, that they might not be loſt, or wanted when the tabernacle was to be ſet up.

34 And Moſes—numbered, &c.] The number of thoſe who were able to ſerve the Lord, may be viewed thus:

	Able	Unfit	In all
Kohathites, - -	2,750	5,850	8,600
Gerſhonites, - -	2,630	4,879	7,500
Merarites, - -	3,200	3,000	6,200
	8,580	13,720	22,300

It is remarkable that the Merarites, though upon the whole, feweſt in number, produced the largeſt number of effective men, which was a ſingular providence; the heavieſt burden, ſuch as carrying the boards of the ſanctuary, the pillars, and the ſockets, &c. lying upon them.

ministry, and the service of the burden in the tabernacle of the congregation,

48 Even those that were numbered of them, were eight thousand and five hundred and fourscore.

49 According to the commandment of the LORD, they were numbered by the hand of Moses, every one according to his service, and according to his burden: thus were they numbered of him, as the LORD commanded Moses.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

By the particular distinction which God made between the Levites, and those of other tribes, we are taught that those who are his ambassadors, commissioned by him to offer salvation to guilty sinners, should be treated with peculiar respect: we also learn from hence, the great importance of the work of the ministry, which should not be rashly entered upon, without suitable qualification; but should be engaged in with great diffidence, and prayer to God for ability. The impression which the consideration of this important office made upon the mind of the pious Mr. Herbert was so deep, that it is said, in his life, he continued incessant in prayer all the night before he was ordained, without allowing himself a moment for sleep.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The unclean to be removed out of the camp. 5 Restitution to be made in cases of trespass. 9 All offerings and hallowed things belong to the priest. 11 The trial of jealousy.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they put out of the camp every leper, and every one that hath an issue, and whosoever is defiled by the dead:

3 Both male and female shall ye put out, without the camp shall ye put them; that they defile not their camps, in the midst whereof I dwell.

4 And the children of Israel did so, and put them out without the camp: as the LORD spake unto Moses, so did the children of Israel.

5 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Speak unto the children of Israel, When a man or woman shall commit any sin that men commit, to do a trespass against the LORD, and that person be guilty;

7 Then they shall confess their sin which they have done: and he shall recompense his trespass with the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him against whom he hath trespassed.

8 But if the man have no kinsman to recompense the trespass unto, let the trespass be recompensed unto the LORD, even to the priest; beside the ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement shall be made for him.

9 ¶ And every offering of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring unto the priest, shall be his.

10 And every man's hallowed things shall be his: whatsoever any man giveth the priest, it shall be his. Before CHRIST 1490.

11 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, If any man's wife go aside, and commit a trespass against him,

13 And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her husband, and be kept close, and she be defiled, and there be no witness against her, neither she be taken with the manner;

14 And the spirit of jealousy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she be defiled: or if the spirit of jealousy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she be not defiled:

15 Then shall the man bring his wife unto the priest, and he shall bring her offering for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley meal; he shall pour no oil upon it, nor put frankincense thereon; for it is an offering of jealousy, an offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to remembrance.

16 And the priest shall bring her near, and set her before the LORD:

17 And the priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel; and of the dust that is in the floor of the tabernacle the priest shall take, and put it into the water:

18 And the priest shall set the woman before the LORD, and uncover the woman's head, and put the offering of memorial in her hands, which is the jealousy offering: and the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that causeth the curse:

19 And the priest shall charge her by an oath and say unto the woman, If no man have lain with thee, and if thou hast not gone aside to uncleanness with another instead of thy husband, be thou free from this bitter water that causeth the curse:

20 But if thou hast gone aside to another instead of thy husband, and if thou be defiled, and some man have lain with thee beside thine husband:

21 Then the priest shall charge the woman with an oath of cursing, and the priest shall say unto the woman, The LORD make thee a curse and an oath among thy people, when the LORD doth make thy thigh to rot, and thy belly to swell;

22 And this water that causeth the curse shall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to swell, and thy thigh to rot: and the woman shall say, Amen, amen.

23 And the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall blot them out with the bitter water.

24 And he shall cause the woman to drink the bitter water that causeth the curse: and the water that causeth the curse shall enter into her, and become bitter.

25 Then

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. V.

2 That they put out of the camp every leper, &c.] It is probable the camp of each tribe had a vacant space left, which was reckoned without the camp, and that they lodged the unclean there by themselves; since to banish them quite beyond the bounds of the camp, at a great distance from their friends and relations, seems too severe. These legal pollutions were a figure of the pollutions of sin; and the removing them out of the camp represented the exclusion of impure and impenitent sinners out of the kingdom of heaven.

6 That person be guilty.] Or rather, be sensible of his guilt.

7 Then they shall confess, &c.] Or, if they shall confess. Instead of "and he shall recompense," it should be rendered, Then he shall recompense.

13 No witness against her, &c.] That is, no witness of her having committed the sin; for if her crime could be proved upon evidence, the woman was not to be tried after the manner here prescribed, but was to be put to death.

14 And he be jealous of his wife, &c.] It was necessary that there should appear some just cause for suspicion, before the husband could oblige his wife to submit to the trial of the bitter water. The rule prescribed was, If the husband had said unto his wife, be not thou in secret with such a man; and notwithstanding the admonition, it should be afterwards proved that she was in secret with that man, he might then compel her to drink the bitter water.

17 Put it into the water.] Or upon the water; for the Jews say, he put the dust upon the top of the water, that it might be seen upon the surface; and as dust was an emblem of sorrow and affliction, and this was the dust of the tabernacle, it taught her to fear judgment from the Lord.

18 Uncover the woman's head] By this the Jews understood the shaving the woman's head, cutting off her curls, or at least taking off her head-dress. They add, that they tore her cloaths down to her breast, and tied them with a packthread; others say, that her cloaths were exchanged for a black suit, in token of mourning, and in this manner she was exposed to public view.

Bitter water, &c.] An antient writer fancies it was so named on account of its being mixed with wormwood; but Nachman asserts, that nothing was mixed with it but dust, yet that it nevertheless tasted bitter. It is, however, not improbable that this is only a figurative expression, alluding to the terrible effects it had upon the guilty.

19 The priest shall charge her by an oath, &c.] That is, he shall adjure her, in the name of God, to declare the truth, assuring her, if she was conscious of her innocence, she had nothing to fear; but if she was guilty, she must expect to suffer every thing threatened in the law.

21 The Lord make thee a curse, &c.] The Lord make thee so dreadful a monument of his vengeance, that it may become a common imprecation to say, If I swear falsely, may God punish me as he did such a woman!

23 He shall blot them out with the bitter water.] Or, as it might have been better rendered, He shall blot them out into the bitter water; for he was to scrape them into it, or else wash them with it, till they were quite obliterated, that the woman might, as it were, drink the words of the execration.

24 He shall cause the woman to drink, &c.] That is, if she said, I am pure, they then proceeded to trial; but in case she refused to make confession of her guilt, and to drink the bitter water; they compelled her to do it: if she said, I am defiled, the priest then flung down the water, and cast her offering among the ashes; and she was not put to death, but was divorced, and lost her dowry.

25 Then the prieſt ſhall take the jealouſy offering out of the woman's hand, and ſhall wave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar:

26 And the prieſt ſhall take an handful of the offering, even the memorial thereof, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water, then it ſhall come to paſs, that, if ſhe be defiled, and have done treſpaſs againſt her huſband, that the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly ſhall ſwell, and her thigh ſhall rot: and the woman ſhall be a curſe among her people.

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean; then ſhe ſhall be free, and ſhall conceive ſeed.

29 This is the law of jealouſies, when a wife goeth aſide to another inſtead of her huſband, and is defiled;

30 Or when the ſpirit of jealouſy cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and the prieſt ſhall execute upon her all this law.

31 Then ſhall the man be guiltleſs from iniquity, and this woman ſhall bear her iniquity.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

From this chapter we learn, that exact and complete reſtitution ſhould be made for wrongs done to our neighbour, and if the perſon wronged cannot be found, what is reſtored ſhould be devoted and given to God. The law concerning the waters of jealouſy, ſets forth the heinous nature of the ſin of adultery; which though it be not now puniſhed in the ſame manner as among the Jews, yet God will, in the great day of account, inflict a more heavy puniſhment upon impenitent ſinners who have been guilty of it.

CHAP. VI.

1 The law of the Nazarite in the days of his ſeparation, 13 and after the completion of thoſe days. 22 The form of bleſſing the people.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When either man or woman ſhall ſeparate themſelves to vow a vow of a Nazarite, to ſeparate themſelves unto the LORD:

3 He ſhall ſeparate himſelf from wine and ſtrong drink, and ſhall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of ſtrong drink, neither ſhall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moiſt grapes, or dried.

4 All the days of his ſeparation ſhall he eat nothing that is made of the vine tree, from the kernels even to the huſk.

5 All the days of the vow of his ſeparation there ſhall no razor come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled, in the which he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall be holy, and ſhall let the locks of the hair of his head grow. Before CHRIST 1490.

6 All the days that he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD he ſhall come at no dead body.

7 He ſhall not make himſelf unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his ſiſter, when they die: becauſe the conſecration of his God is upon his head.

8 All the days of his ſeparation he is holy unto the LORD.

9 And if any man die very ſuddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his conſecration; then he ſhall ſhave his head in the day of his cleanſing, on the ſeventh day ſhall he ſhave it.

10 And on the eighth day he ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons, to the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

11 And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he ſinned by the dead, and ſhall hallow his head that ſame day.

12 And he ſhall conſecrate unto the LORD the days of his ſeparation, and ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year for a treſpaſs offering: but the days that were before ſhall be loſt, becauſe his ſeparation was defiled.

13 ¶ And this is the law of the Nazarite, when the days of his ſeparation are fulfilled: he ſhall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

14 And he ſhall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh for a burnt offering, and one ewe lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh for a ſin offering, and one ram without blemiſh for peace offerings,

15 And a baſket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and wafers of unleavened bread anointed with oil, and their meat offering, and their drink offerings.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring them before the LORD, and ſhall offer his ſin offering, and his burnt offering:

17 And he ſhall offer the ram for a ſacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD, with the baſket of unleavened bread: the prieſt ſhall offer alſo his meat offering, and his drink offering.

18 And the Nazarite ſhall ſhave the head of his ſeparation at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall take the hair of the head of his ſeparation,

---

27 The water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, &c.] The Jews inform us, that if ſhe was guilty, the conſequences were immediately ſeen in her countenance; for ſhe grew pale, and her eyes ſeemed ready to ſtart out of her head; and leſt the temple ſhould be polluted by her death, ſhe was immediately carried out, and died inſtantly, with all the ignominious circumſtances related in the curſe.

29 This is the law of jealouſies, &c.] That is, the methods to be obſerved in diſcovering the crime of adultery; but this ceremony was never made uſe of after the return of the Jews from the Babyloniſh captivity, and for theſe reaſons: firſt, becauſe adulteries became ſo frequent, that the performing the ceremonies on theſe occaſions would have engroſſed the whole time of the prieſts; and ſecondly, becauſe they deemed it unpardonable to eraſe the name of God ſo often in the waters of bitterneſs: when the huſband, therefore, had any juſt ground of ſuſpecting his wife's fidelity, and could produce witneſſes to depoſe that they had ſeen her privately with the ſuſpected perſon, contrary to the charge of her huſband, ſhe was immediately divorced, and deprived of her dowry. It is obſervable, that the Jews were not the only people who had recourſe to ſuch portentous and extraordinary methods for diſcovering the truth, in caſe of ſuſpected guilt. The heathens had in like manner their waters of conviction. The inhabitants of the gold coaſt gave a ſolemn potion called bitter water, by way of trial, upon any light ſuſpicion of injury, and eſpecially of adultery. Among our Saxon anceſtors, the manner of trial by fire-ordeal, and others of the ſame kind, had a great affinity to this of the Jews, it being expected that God would work a miracle to clear the innocent, or convict the guilty.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

2 When either man or woman ſhall ſeparate themſelves.] A woman might make the vow of a Nazarite, as well as a man; but then ſhe muſt be at her own diſpoſal, and not under the power of a parent or huſband, by whoſe authority the vow might be annulled.

A vow of a Nazarite, &c.] The word "Nazarite" ſignifies Separated; becauſe ſuch as came under this vow ſeparated themſelves from others by a peculiar abſtinence, lived apart from company, and conſequently from the gaieties and diverſions of the world. There were two ſorts of theſe vows, the one perpetual, or for life; the other for a certain time only; the latter of which is here mentioned.

4 From the kernels even to the huſk.] That is, no liquor made from any part of the grape.

5 There ſhall no razor come upon his head, &c.] He was to let the locks of his hair and beard grow, to denote his auſterity, renunciation of the pleaſures of the world, and betaking himſelf to a ſeverer way of life. And ſuch perſons not only let their hair grow, but alſo wore an hairy garment, as St. John did, Matt. iii. 4. and Elijah before him, 2 Kings i. 8.

7 The conſecration of his God is upon his head.] The word which we render "conſecration," ſignifies alſo a crown. A celebrated French writer therefore reads it, The crown of his God is upon his head. So the wiſe man tells us, that "the hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteouſneſs," Prov. xvi. 31.

9 He hath defiled the head of his conſecration, &c.] As the whole perſon was defiled, conſequently the hair of his head; which therefore was unfit to be offered to God, and burnt to his honour; whence the polluted hair was to be ſhaved clean off, that new might grow in its ſtead.

11 He ſinned by the dead, &c.] That is, he hath contracted a legal uncleanneſs, which, tho' it was involuntary, was a breach of the ceremonial law, and was to be purged after this manner.

12 The days that were before ſhall be loſt, &c.] That is, ſhall not be reckoned; for if he had vowed to be a Nazarite for a whole year, and had happened to touch a dead carcaſe in the twelfth month, all the preceding eleven months were accounted nothing, but he was to renew his vow for another year.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VI.

Vows ought to be strictly kept; and Christians are more especially called upon to devote themselves to God by a life of sobriety, temperance, purity of manners, and an exemplary conduct. The blessing which the priest pronounced over the people of Israel is an excellent pattern of prayer, teaching us, that the favour and blessing of God is the fountain of all our happiness; that we ought incessantly to implore that blessing, as well for ourselves as others; and that the ministers of the Lord especially ought to pour out their constant prayers for the people over whom they are set.

CHAP. VII.

AND it came to pass on the day that Moses had fully set up the tabernacle, and had anointed it, and sanctified it, and all the instruments thereof, both the altar and all the vessels thereof, and had anointed them, and sanctified them;

2 That the princes of Israel, heads of the house of their fathers, who were the princes of the tribes, and were over them that were numbered, offered:

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered waggons, and twelve oxen; a waggon for two of the princes, and for each one an ox: and they brought them before the tabernacle. Before CHRIST 1490.

4 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

5 Take it of them, that they may be to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to his service.

6 And Moses took the waggons and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two waggons and four oxen he gave unto the sons of Gershon, according to their service:

8 And four waggons and eight oxen he gave unto the sons of Merari, according unto their service, under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

9 But unto the sons of Kohath he gave none: because the service of the sanctuary belonging unto them was that they should bear upon their shoulders.

10 ¶ And the princes offered for dedicating of the altar in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, they shall offer their offering, each prince on his day, for the dedicating of the altar.

12 ¶ And he that offered his offering the first day was Nahshon the son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah:

13 And his offering was one silver charger, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering:

16 One kid of the goats for a sin offering:

17 And for a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he goats, five lambs of the first year: this was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VII.

1 On the day that Moses had fully set up the tabernacle, &c.] That is, in the first day after the things relating to the tabernacle, the priests, Levites, &c. were finished; the camp formed, and the tribes ranged under their several standards.

10 Princes offered for dedicating of the altar, &c.] As there was a great number of the sacrifices offered, it is inferred that the wilderness could not be entirely desart, but must have had pastures in many places; since the Israelites had still so many cattle, as to be able to supply the offerings here mentioned, as well as to celebrate the passover, which required a very great number both of kids and lambs. That we find mention made of the flocks of the Amalekites, and of those of Nabal, in the wilderness of Paran, 1 Sam. xv. 9.

11 They shall offer—each prince on his day, &c.] It is not easy to determine absolutely when the offerings began; though it may be reasonably computed thus; the tabernacle was erected on the first day of the first month of the second year after the Israelites came out of Egypt. Exod. xl. 17. In the consecration of that and the altar, &c. were consumed seven days, chap. xxix. 37. The consecration of the priests began on the eighth day, which lasted seven days longer, Lev. viii. 33. The passover and the feasts of unleavened bread were kept on the fourteenth day, and lasted till the twenty-second, Numb. ix. 5. The remainder of the month we may suppose to have been spent in delivering the laws mentioned in Leviticus. Upon the first day of the second month began the numbering of the people, Numb. i. which may be supposed to have lasted three days: the Levites were numbered on the fourth, Numb. iii. 4. The next day we may imagine they were offered to God, and given to the priests. On the sixth day their consecration followed, chap. viii. 7. Their several charges were delivered on the seventh, chap. iv. After which we may suppose the princes began to offer on the eighth day of the second month, which lasted twelve days, that is to say, till the nineteenth inclusive, and on the twentieth of the second month they removed to the wilderness of Paran.

13 One silver charger] All the vessels of the sanctuary were of gold; this charger therefore, or broad dish, seems to have been designed for the altar of burnt offerings in the court of the tabernacle: its use was probably to receive the flesh, which was offered at the altar, or the fine flour for meat offerings.

An hundred and thirty shekels, &c.] Or, about sixty-five ounces.

14 One spoon, &c.] The Hebrew word signifies any concave or hollow vessel; its use therefore might be to take up the incense, in order to throw it on the coals in the censer. In the solemn expiation, indeed, the high-priest was to take up the incense in his hand, and throw it on the fire, Lev. xvi. 12. But it might be ordered otherwise on special occasions.

19 He offered for his offering one silver charger, &c.] It may not be improper to observe in this place, that the reason for these offerings of the princes, or heads of the several tribes, being all of them of the same number and value, was probably in order to prevent all vain boasting and emulation among them, as being men of equal rank and authority.

84 This was the dedication of the altar, in the day when it was anointed, by the princes of Israel: twelve chargers of silver, twelve silver bowls, twelve spoons of gold;

85 Each charger of silver weighing an hundred and thirty shekels, each bowl seventy: all the silver vessels weighed two thousand and four hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary.

86 The golden spoons were twelve, full of incense weighing ten shekels apiece, after the shekel of the sanctuary: all the gold of the spoons was an hundred and twenty shekels.

87 All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the first year twelve, with their meat offering: and the kids of the goats for sin offering twelve.

88 And all the oxen for the sacrifice of the peace offerings were twenty and four bullocks, the rams sixty, the he goats sixty, the lambs of the first year sixty. This was the dedication of the altar, after that it was anointed.

89 ¶ And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation to speak with him, then he heard the voice of one speaking unto him from off the mercy seat that was upon the ark of testimony, from between the two cherubims: and he spake unto him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

When we reflect on the chearfulness with which the people contributed towards finishing the tabernacle, we may conclude that their repentance for their idolatry was sincere, which they evidenced by a pious work; in like manner should we bestow of our temporal things for the support of the gospel, and be always ready to distribute, willing to communicate; and also with Moses, draw near with humble boldness to the mercy seat of our Redeemer, who shed his blood upon the cross for our sins.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The lighting of the lamps. 5 The consecration of the Levites. 23 Their age and time of service.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and say unto him, When thou lightest the lamps, the seven lamps shall give light over against the candlestick.

3 And Aaron did so; he lighted the lamps thereof over against the candlestick, as the LORD commanded Moses.

4 And this work of the candlestick was of beaten gold, unto the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was beaten work: according unto the pattern which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick.

5 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Take the Levites from among the children of Israel, and cleanse them.

7 And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: sprinkle water of purifying upon them, and let them shave all their flesh, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean. Before CHRIST 1490.

8 Then let them take a young bullock with his meat-offering, even fine flour mingled with oil, and another young bullock shalt thou take for a sin offering.

9 And thou shalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt gather the whole assembly of the children of Israel together:

10 And thou shalt bring the Levites before the LORD: and the children of Israel shall put their hands upon the Levites:

11 And Aaron shall offer the Levites before the LORD for an offering of the children of Israel, that they may execute the service of the LORD.

12 And the Levites shall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks: and thou shalt offer the one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.

13 And thou shalt set the Levites before Aaron, and before his sons, and offer them for an offering unto the LORD.

14 Thus shalt thou separate the Levites from among the children of Israel: and the Levites shall be mine.

15 And after that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt cleanse them, and offer them for an offering.

16 For they are wholly given unto me from among the children of Israel; instead of such as open every womb, even instead of the firstborn of all the children of Israel, have I taken them unto me.

17 For all the firstborn of the children of Israel are mine, both man and beast: on the day that I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified them for myself.

18 And I have taken the Levites for all the firstborn of the children of Israel.

19 And I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron and to his sons from among the children of Israel, to do the service of the children of Israel in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Israel: that there be no plague among the children of Israel, when the children of Israel come nigh unto the sanctuary.

20 And Moses, and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel, did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did the children of Israel unto them.

21 And the Levites were purified, and they washed their clothes, and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD: and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them.

22 And after that went the Levites in to do their service

8 5. All the silver vessels weighed two thousand and four hundred shekels, &c.] That is, about one hundred pounds troy.

89. Heard the voice of one speaking unto him from off the mercy seat, &c.] Moses here informs us in what manner God communicated his will to him; not by any impression on his mind, in a vision, or by the representation of things to him in a dream; but by a clear and distinct voice, which he heard of one speaking to him from between the cherubim, as he stood in the outer court of the sanctuary; but at the same time saw no image or similitude. Hence the most holy place, containing the ark and the mercy seat, from whence this divine voice proceeded, was called debir, or "the oracle." See 1 Kings vi. 19.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VIII.

2 Shall give light over against the candlestick.] This passage might be better rendered, Shall shine from before the face of the candlestick; i. e. shall give light to every part of the room; for as the sanctuary had no windows, consequently it had no light but what proceeded from the lamps placed on the candlestick.

3 He lighted the lamps thereof.] They used to light the middlemost lamp from the fire on the altar, and then all the others were lighted from that lamp.

Over against the candlestick, &c.] Or rather, he lighted the lamps placed on all the branches of the candlestick. Maimonides asserts, that the six lamps which were fastened on the branches which proceeded from the candlestick, had all of them their faces and their wicks turned towards the middlemost lamp, which was on the body of the candlestick.

7 Sprinkle water of purifying upon them, &c.] That is, water of purification from sin; which was prepared with the ashes of a red heifer, that had been offered up for a burnt offering, chap. xix. 17.

9 The children of Israel shall put their hands upon the Levites.] The Israelites, by this action, expressed their separating the Levites to the service of the sanctuary, instead of their first-born; and their transferring to the former the charge which would otherwise have belonged to the latter.

11 Aaron shall offer, &c.] In the Hebrew, Aaron shall wave the Levites for a wave offering. Le Clerc supposes that they were only presented before God at the altar, or went round about it, at Aaron's command; for the word often signifies to offer in general.

14 The Levites shall be mine.] They were to attend wholly on the service of the tabernacle, as God's peculiar servants and ministers; and for that reason they were exempted from all taxes and military services.

15 Thou shalt cleanse them, &c.] It ought to be rendered, After thou hast cleansed them.

19 That there be no plague, &c.] In order to prevent others from incurring the judgments due to irreverence and profanation, by presumptuously intermeddling in sacred things, I have given the Levites to Aaron and his sons, that they may officiate in the house of God, and prevent others from approaching.

Before CHRIST 1490. service in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his sons: as the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

23 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

24 This is it that belongeth unto the Levites: from twenty and five years old and upward they shall go in to wait upon the service of the tabernacle of the congregation:

25 And from the age of fifty years they shall cease waiting upon the service thereof, and shall serve no more:

26 But shall minister with their brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, to keep the charge, and shall do no service. Thus shalt thou do unto the Levites touching their charge.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

The purification insisted upon in this chapter, denotes the necessity there is that our consciences be sprinkled with the blood of Christ; and as the Levites were to be touched by the people, and to present sacrifices for themselves, we may learn that it is our duty to draw nigh to God, through the merits of Jesus Christ, who is now our high priest in heaven; and also, that both ministers and people, are in duty bound to crave mercy of God, as no man liveth and sinneth not.

CHAP. IX.

1 The passover is commanded again. 6 The case of some that were unclean. 9 A second passover is allowed for such, and for the absent at the first. 15 The cloud guideth the removals and encampments of the Israelites.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying,

2 Let the children of Israel also keep the passover at his appointed season.

3 In the fourteenth day of this month, at even, ye shall keep it in his appointed season: according to all the rites of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof, shall ye keep it.

4 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover.

5 And they kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month at even in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

6 ¶ And there were certain men, who were defiled by the dead body of a man, that they could not keep the passover on that day: and they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day:

7 And those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed season among the children of Israel?

8 And Moses said unto them, Stand still, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Before CHRIST 1490.

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your posterity shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the LORD.

11 The fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

12 They shall leave none of it unto the morning, nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the passover they shall keep it.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the passover, even the same soul shall be cut off from among his people: because he brought not the offering of the LORD in his appointed season, that man shall bear his sin.

14 And if a stranger shall sojourn among you, and will keep the passover unto the LORD; according to the ordinance of the passover, and according to the manner thereof, so shall he do: ye shall have one ordinance both for the stranger, and for him that was born in the land.

15 ¶ And on the day that the tabernacle was reared up the cloud covered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the testimony: and at even there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until the morning.

16 So it was alway: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And when the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents.

18 At the commandment of the LORD the children of Israel journeyed, and at the commandment of the LORD they pitched: as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle they rested in their tents.

19 And when the cloud tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Israel kept the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not.

20 And so it was, when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

21 And so it was, when the cloud abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed: whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.

22 Or whether it were two days, or a month, or a year, that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Israel abode in their tents, and journeyed not: but when it was taken up, they journeyed.

23 At the commandment of the LORD they rested in their tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed;

---

26 And shall do no service, &c.] That is, they shall not do any servile work, but shall only instruct others how such work is to be done.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IX.

1 The Lord spake, &c.] This should be translated, "The Lord had spoken," because the subject of this narrative was transacted a month before, though, for particular reasons, not recorded till now.

5 They kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month at even, in the wilderness, &c.] This was the second time of their keeping this feast, after their coming out of Egypt; and the last time of their keeping it, till they entered into the land of Canaan.

7 Wherefore are we kept back, &c.] The law of the passover required every Israelite to eat of it; but they who had contracted any ceremonial pollution, were, by the subsequent laws, forbidden to eat of the holy things. Here, then, was a very difficult dilemma, for if they neglected to come to this sacred ordinance, they were guilty of a contempt of it; and if they came polluted, they were guilty of a profanation of it. So that it was necessary, and a proof of their wisdom, to lay their complaint before Moses.

8 I will hear what the Lord will command, &c.] I will go into the sanctuary, and consult the oracle of God.

10 If any man—be unclean by reason of a dead body, &c.] This is likewise to be understood of all other cases of legal uncleanness.

13 Shall be cut off, &c.] That is, shall be separated from the community, either by death, banishment, or excommunication, though it is generally thought to imply a cutting off by death.

14 If a stranger, &c.] Here is a clause added in favour of strangers. This kind of admission of those who were not native Israelites, (though it was necessary they should be circumcised) to eat of the passover, was an intimation of the favour of God designed to bestow upon the Gentiles at the coming of Christ; namely, that he would make Jew and Gentile one people.

16 The cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.] That which appeared like a cloud by day, appeared as a fire all night; a cloud only, would not have been visible by night; nor would a fire have been so conspicuous and discernible in the day time.

21 Whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.] However impatient soever the people might be to arrive at the promised land, where they expected the enjoyment of so many temporal blessings; and how tedious and troublesome soever their journeys proved, we never find them (though otherwise refractory enough) murmuring when this signal was made them, whether it happened by night or day. As long and as far as the cloud moved, so long and so far they marched; and where ever it rested, there they pitched their tents.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

Since the Jews celebrated the passover as God had appointed, so we should inviolably attend upon all the divine ordinances, and the duties that relate to the service of God. Secondly, As those who were outwardly defiled, were not allowed to keep the passover till a month after, when they were purified; much less are obstinate and impertinent sinners to present themselves before God, or partake of the Lord's supper, till purified by sincere repentance. Thirdly, It was a glorious privilege of the Jews, to be led by the cloud in the desart, which betokened the presence of God; but how much more happy are we, to be guided by the light of the gospel, which shews us the way wherein to walk, during our stay here below, preparatory to our arrival in heaven, our true country, where all imperfection will be done away!

CHAP. X.

1 The use of the silver trumpets. 11 The Israelites remove from Sinai to Paran. 14, 18, 22, 25 The order of their march. 29 Hobab is intreated by Moses not to leave them. 33 The blessing of Moses at the removing and resting of the ark.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Make thee two trumpets of silver; of a whole piece shalt thou make them: that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps.

3 And when they shall blow with them, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are heads of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an alarm, then the camps that lie on the east parts shall go forward.

6 When ye blow an alarm the second time, then the camps that lie on the south side shall take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow, but ye shall not sound an alarm.

8 And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

9 And if ye go to war in your land against the enemy that oppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be remembered before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies.

10 Also in the day of your gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye Before CHRIST 1490. shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace-offerings; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

11 ¶ And it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the testimony.

12 And the children of Israel took their journeys out of the wilderness of Sinai; and the cloud rested in the wilderness of Paran.

13 And they first took their journey according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

14 ¶ In the first place went the standard of the camp of the children of Judah according to their armies: and over his host was Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

15 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethaneel the son of Zuar.

16 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon.

17 And the tabernacle was taken down: and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set forward, bearing the tabernacle.

18 ¶ And the standard of the camp of Reuben set forward according to their armies: and over his host was Elizur the son of Shedeur.

19 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

20 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

21 And the Kohathites set forward, bearing the sanctuary: and the other did set up the tabernacle against they came.

22 ¶ And the standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim set forward according to their armies: and over his host was Elishama the son of Ammihud.

23 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

24 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

25 ¶ And the standard of the camp of the children of Dan set forward, which was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hosts: and over his host was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

26 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran.

27 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

23 They kept the charge, &c.] These were centinels appointed to watch day and night, within view of the cloud of fire, to give timely notice to the camp of its beginning to rise, and also when it rested.

By the hand of Moses.] Who was their law-giver and director, and who, at every march and encampment, accompanied the divine signal with a solemn prayer, saying, when the ark set forward, "Rise up, Lord, let thine enemies be scattered;" and when it rested, "Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel," &c.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. X.

2 Make thee two trumpets, &c.] These were for the two priests, Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron; afterwards, as the priests were increased, so were the number of trumpets. In Solomon's time, we read of "an hundred and twenty priests, sounding with trumpets, 2 Chron. v. 12.

3 When they shall blow with them, &c.] When the priests shall blow an equal and uniform sound.

5 When ye blow an alarm, &c.] That is, with a quick, broken, and quivering sound.

7 When the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow, but—not sound an alarm.] An alarm was directed to be sounded in the former case, because a broken, sharp sound, was best adapted to stir up and encourage the people to rise, and march forward in battle against the Canaanites; but when the congregation was to be assembled, then it was ordered they should blow a continued, equal sound, as being most suitable to the quiet assembling of the people.

8 The sons of Aaron shall blow with the trumpets, &c.] The priests alone were appointed to this office, that the people might pay the greater regard to the soundings, as if they heard God calling upon them by his ministers to attend his summons.

For ever, &c.] That is, as long as your establishment lasts.

9 If ye go to war] Previously to the Israelites going to war, they were called together to implore a blessing on their arms; and a fast was proclaimed by the sound of trumpet, at the same time that an alarm of war was sounded. "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion," says the prophet, "sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly." Joel ii. 15.

Ye shall be remembered, &c.] As the trumpets were sounded by the command of God, it was therefore a kind of call upon him for assistance. Accordingly we find, that when Judah saw themselves beset with dangers "before and behind, they cried unto the Lord, and the priests sounded with the trumpets," &c. 2 Chron. xiii. 14.

10 That they may be to you for a memorial, &c.] Exciting you to worship God with earnestness and fervour.

12 The wilderness of Paran.] The wilderness of Paran is thought to signify, in a strict sense, that part of the desarts of Arabia, only between Hazaroth on the west, and Mount Seir on the east; but in a larger sense, it seems to denote all the desart lying between the wilderness of Shur westward; towards Egypt and Mount Seir, or the land of Edom, eastward; and between the land of Canaan northward; and the Red Sea southward; in which sense it comprehended Kibroth-hattaavah, and Hazeroth; and in this sense it seems to be meant by Moses, in this place, as also in Deut. i. 19.

17 The tabernacle was taken down, &c.] The taking down and removing the tabernacle, denotes the instability of that legal, figurative worship, the unsettled state of the church, and all its members in this world; as also the removal of the church from one place to another, from Jews to Gentiles.

21 The other did set up the tabernacle against they came.] By "the other," are meant the Gershonites and Merarites, who before had set forward with the waggons, bearing the boards, pillars, &c. of the sanctuary, between the standard of Judah and Reuben.

25 The rereward of all the camps, &c.] This passage should have been translated, "Dan set forward, gathering to it all the camps;" that is, all the rest of the people who did not belong to any particular camp, but to all the camps in general.

Before CHRIST 1490.

28 Thus were the journeyings of the children of Israel according to their armies, when they set forward.

29 ¶ And Moses said unto Hobab, the son of Raguel the Midianite, Moses' father in law, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD said, I will give it you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good: for the LORD hath spoken good concerning Israel.

30 And he said unto him, I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred.

31 And he said, Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes.

32 And it shall be, if thou go with us, yea, it shall be, that what goodness the LORD shall do unto us, the same will we do unto thee.

33 ¶ And they departed from the mount of the LORD three days' journey: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them in the three days' journey, to search out a resting place for them.

34 And the cloud of the LORD was upon them by day, when they went out of the camp.

35 And it came to pass, when the ark set forward, that Moses said, Rise up, LORD, and let thine enemies be scattered; and let them that hate thee flee before thee.

36 And when it rested, he said, Return, O LORD, unto the many thousands of Israel.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

The instructions we are to draw from this chapter, are, from the excellent rules laid down by Moses for calling the people together to divine worship, to observe decency and good order in all sacred matters, as becomes those who profess the holy religion of Jesus: and, secondly, That as the ark of the covenant was carried before the people when they marched, so it is our duty, through the whole of our christian course or pilgrimage through this world, to follow Christ, who is to us what the ark was to the children of Israel.

CHAP. XI.

1 The burning at Taberah is quenched by Moses' prayer.
4 The people lust for flesh, and lothe manna. 10 Moses complaineth of his charge. 16 God promiseth to divide the burden of it among seventy elders, and to give the people flesh for a month. 21 Moses' faith is staggered.
24 God giveth of his spirit unto the seventy elders.
31 Quails are given in wrath at Kibroth-hattaavah.

AND when the people complained, it displeased the LORD: and the LORD heard it; and his anger was kindled; and the fire of the LORD burnt among them, and consumed them that were in the uttermost parts of the camp.

2 And the people cried unto Moses; and when Moses prayed unto the LORD, the fire was quenched.

3 And he called the name of the place Taberah: Before CHRIST 1490. because the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

4 ¶ And the mixt multitude that was among them fell a lusting: and the children of Israel also wept again, and said, Who shall give us flesh to eat?

5 We remember the fish, which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick:

6 But now our soul is dried away: there is nothing at all, beside this manna, before our eyes.

7 And the manna was as coriander seed, and the colour thereof as the colour of bdellium.

8 And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.

9 And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

10 ¶ Then Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent: and the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; Moses also was displeased.

11 And Moses said unto the LORD, Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me?

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldest say unto me, Carry them in thy bosom, as a nursing father beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou swarest unto their fathers?

13 Whence should I have flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may eat.

14 I am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy for me.

15 And if thou deal thus with me, kill me I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy sight; and let me not see my wretchedness.

16 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Gather unto me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and officers over them; and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may stand there with thee.

17 And I will come down and talk with thee there: and I will take of the spirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thyself alone.

18 And say thou unto the people, Sanctify yourselves against to morrow, and ye shall eat flesh: for ye have

29 Hobab, the son of Raguel, &c.] Raguel is another name for Jethro, who being returned to his own country, Hobab his son, and the brother of Moses's wife, had accompanied Moses all the time the Israelites encamped at Sinai, which was not far from Midian; but since the people were now marching towards Canaan, he was desirous of returning to his father.

31 Leave us not] Moses urges his request with some warmth; because Hobab having lived all his days on the borders of the wilderness, was consequently acquainted with every part of it, and able to shew them the conveniencies and inconveniencies of the places they passed through, and to advise them how to conduct themselves in case they should be attacked by the neighbouring nations.

Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes.] Or, as a guide to the blind. The Syriac has it, Thou shalt be dear to us as our eyes.

33 The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them] The meaning is, the ark of the Lord marched in their presence, the cloud being over it in the midst of their army.

To search out a resting place, &c.] That is, to direct them where to find one.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XI.

1 The people complained] They began secretly to murmur among themselves, being weary of living on manna, and wanting a variety of food.

The fire of the Lord, &c.] Some by this expression understand lightning, which is called "the fire of God," 2 Kings i. 12. Job i. 16. proceeding either immediately from heaven, or from the pillar of the cloud: others think it might be one of those hot blighting winds, common in the deserts of Arabia, and which the prophet speaks of, Ezek. xix. 12.

2 Was quenched, &c.] That is, ceased from destroying the people.

4 Who shall give us fish, &c.] This abrupt question is an expression of a vehement, impatient desire, mixed with despair, as in Psalm cxiii. 5.

5 We remember the fish, &c.] The Egyptian proselytes, who appear to have been the fomenters of this murmuring, having spread the spirit of dissension among the Israelites; they openly reproach their deliverer, as having decoyed them from a very plentiful country, abounding with a variety of delicious fish, such as the lake Mœris and the river Nile in Egypt were famed for; and a rich soil, producing the best herbs, sallads, and fruits; all which they had now exchanged for a miserable, starving condition, and had nothing but manna to cloy them.

10 The anger of the Lord, &c.] We are not to understand this and similar passages of scripture, in a literal sense; for God is not moved or actuated by passion; such expressions are only accommodated to our capacities and manner of speaking.

14 I am not able to bear all this people, &c.] I have not strength to undergo the toil of bearing all their complaints, and appeasing their tumults.

15 Let me not see my wretchedness.] An expression of great affection towards so ungrateful a people. The meaning is, let me not live to see the miseries which they are inevitably drawing upon themselves by their murmurings, while the enemies of God insult over them, and rejoice in their destruction.

18 Sanctify yourselves, &c.] Make yourselves ready to receive this present from God with gratitude.

20 Until

Before CHRIST 1490. have wept in the ears of the LORD, ſaying, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt: therefore the LORD will give you fleſh, and ye ſhall eat.

19 Ye ſhall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days;

20 But even a whole month, until it come out at your noſtrils, and it be loathſome unto you: becauſe that ye have deſpiſed the LORD which is among you, and have wept before him, ſaying, Why came we forth out of Egypt?

21 ¶ And Moſes ſaid, The people, among whom I am, are ſix hundred thouſand footmen; and thou haſt ſaid, I will give them fleſh, that they may eat a whole month.

22 Shall the flocks and the herds be ſlain for them, to ſuffice them; or ſhall all the fiſh of the ſea be gathered together, for them to ſuffice them?

23 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Is the LORD's hand waxed ſhort? thou ſhalt ſee now whether my word ſhall come to paſs unto thee or not.

24 ¶ And Moſes went out, and told the people the words of the LORD, and gathered the ſeventy men of the elders of the people, and ſet them round about the tabernacle.

25 And the LORD came down in a cloud, and ſpake unto him, and took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the ſeventy elders: and it came to paſs, that when the ſpirit reſted upon them they propheſied, and did not ceaſe.

26 But there remained two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad: and the ſpirit reſted upon them; and they were of them that were written, but went not out unto the tabernacle: and they propheſied in the camp.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moſes, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſy in the camp.

28 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men, anſwered and ſaid, My lord Moſes forbid them.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Enviеſt thou for my ſake? would God that all the LORD's people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his ſpirit upon them.

30 And Moſes gat him into the camp, he and the elders of Iſrael.

31 ¶ And there went forth a wind from the LORD, and brought quails from the ſea, and let them fall by the camp, as it were a day's journey on this ſide, and as it were a day's journey on the other ſide, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth. Before CHRIST 1490.

32 And the people ſtood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered leaſt gathered ten homers: and they ſpread them all abroad for themſelves round about the camp.

33 And while the fleſh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was kindled againſt the people, and the LORD ſmote the people with a very great plague.

34 And he called the name of that place Kibroth-hattaavah: becauſe there they buried the people that luſted.

35 And the people journeyed from Kibroth-hattaavah unto Hazeroth; and abode at Hazeroth.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XI.

This hiſtory teaches us, that we ſhould not luſt after evil things, as the children of Iſrael luſted: that we ſhould not be diſpleaſed at the favour of God to others, nor prefer earthly things to heavenly: that God puniſhed the children of Iſrael, by giving them fleſh, as they deſired, which ſhews that God gives men ſometimes in his wrath what they aſk of him; and they are often puniſhed in obtaining their wiſhes. Laſtly, The anſwer and wiſh of Moſes, that all the Lord's people were prophets, admoniſhes us not to envy the bleſſings that God beſtows upon others; but, on the contrary, to rejoice as often as we ſee the glory of God promoted, either by ourſelves or our neighbours.

CHAP. XII.

1 God rebuked the ſedition of Miriam and Aaron. 10 Miriam's leproſy; Moſes prayeth for her. 14 God commandeth her to be ſhut out of the camp ſeven days. 16 The people encamp in the wilderneſs of Paran.

AND Miriam and Aaron ſpake againſt Moſes because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for he had married an Ethiopian woman.

2 And they ſaid, Hath the LORD indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? hath he not ſpoken alſo by us? And the LORD heard it.

3 (Now the man Moſes was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

4 And the LORD ſpake ſuddenly unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation. And they three came out.

5 And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

6 And he ſaid, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myſelf

---

20 Until it come out at your noſtrils, &c.] Until your impatient appetites be glutted, and you are convinced to your ſhame and confuſion, of your monſtrous ingratitude to God.

23 Is the Lord's hand waxed ſhort? &c.] Is not the ſame omnipotence that created the world, the ſame power that divided the ſea, and opened the rocks, ſtill able to procure bread for his people?

25 Took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it to the ſeventy elders, &c.] That is, beſtowed upon them the gifts of inſpiration or prophecy, whereby they were enabled with uncommon power of words, and ſupernatural ſtrength and vivacity of argument, to ſet forth the praiſes of God, the excellencies of his laws, and to perſuade the people to a paſſive ſubmiſſion to his will.

26 There remained two of the men in the camp, &c.] That is, two of thoſe ſeventy elders whom Moſes had now ordained.

28 My lord Moſes, forbid them.] Some have thought that Joſhua himſelf was one of the ſeventy, and that his zeal for the honour of the order made him deſire they might be reſtrained; ſince he took it for granted they were not inſpired as the reſt were.

29 Enviеſt thou] Moſes reproves his adviſer, and rejects his counſel; becauſe ſuppoſing they had been guilty of an irregularity, Joſhua was too warm upon them. Hence we learn, that our zeal ſhould always be tempered with meekneſs and wiſdom.

Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets, &c.] Moſes wiſhes that they were all inſpired to ſing the praiſes of Jehovah, and recommend virtue and religion one to another: but then he wiſhes alſo, that the Lord would put his Spirit upon them, and would not have thoſe ſet up for prophets who are not properly qualified. Let thoſe vain, formal, and illiterate pretenders conſider this, who intrude themſelves into the ſacred office.

31 There went forth a wind from the Lord] A ſouth wind, Pſalm xxviii. and it is ſaid to be "from the Lord," becauſe it was ordered and directed by his ſpecial power and providence.

And brought quails from the ſea, &c.] In like manner as before Exod. xvi. 13.

33 The wrath of the Lord was kindled, &c.] Becauſe they were not in the ſame diſtreſsful circumſtances now as before: when they firſt murmured, they were really in want of proviſion, and therefore God pitied their diſtreſs, and ſent them a ſupply; but now they complained not from neceſſity, but wantonneſs, ſince they had plenty of manna.

34 Kibroth-hattaavah, &c.] That is, the graves of luſt; becauſe thoſe were buried there who by their luſt had occaſioned the plague.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XII.

1 Becauſe of the Ethiopian woman, &c.] That is, as moſt interpreters think, of Zipporah, whom Aaron and Miriam in contempt called an Ethiopian, though it ſhould have been rendered the Cuſhite, or Arabian woman, ſhe being a native of Midian, a diſtrict of Arabia.

2 And they ſaid, Hath the Lord indeed ſpoken only by Moſes, &c.] It is conjectured that this difference between Moſes, his brother, and ſiſter, aroſe from hence—When Jethro his father-in-law was in the camp, Moſes, purſuant to his advice, appointed judges, to determine inferior cauſes; and afterwards finding his ſon Hobab very ſerviceable to him, he intreated him to ſtay with him, repoſing great confidence in him; in the preceding chapter too we read that ſeventy elders were nominated by Moſes, without conſulting Aaron and Miriam; the ſtory of their quarrel therefore being immediately ſubjoined, it ſeems as if they thought themſelves neglected, and that they were diſpleaſed becauſe their advice was not aſked in an affair of ſuch importance; but being afraid to charge Moſes directly, they vented their ſpleen upon his wife, giving her opprobrious names, and probably complained to the people of the two great influences which Zipporah and Hobab had over Moſes.

Before CHRIST 1490. myſelf known in a viſion, and will ſpeak unto him in a dream.

7 My ſervant Moſes is not ſo, who is faithful in all mine houſe.

8 With him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark ſpeeches; and the ſimilitude of the LORD ſhall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to ſpeak againſt my ſervant Moſes?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt them; and he departed.

10 ¶ And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, behold, Miriam became leprous, white as ſnow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and, behold, ſhe was leprous.

11 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Alas, my lord, I beſeech thee, lay not the ſin upon us, wherein we have done fooliſhly, and wherein we have ſinned.

12 Let her not be as one dead, of whom the fleſh is half conſumed when he cometh out of his mother's womb.

13 And Moſes cried unto the LORD, ſaying, heal her now, O God, I beſeech thee.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, If her father had but ſpit in her face, ſhould ſhe not be aſhamed ſeven days? let her be ſhut out from the camp ſeven days, and after that let her be received in again.

15 And Miriam was ſhut out from the camp ſeven days: and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again.

16 ¶ And afterward the people removed from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Paran.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

From the events in this chapter we may remark, that good men are often expoſed to croſſes and trials, even from thoſe who ought to ſupport and aſſiſt them: that God puniſhes thoſe who maltreat his ſervants; and, laſtly, that Moſes prayed for Miriam, though he was ſo much injured by her; which teaches us to do good to thoſe that do us evil, and to pray for them, rather than wiſh them evil, or do any to them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The names of the men who are ſent to ſearch the land: 17 Their inſtructions: 21 Their acts: 26 Their relation.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Send thou men, that they may ſearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael: of every tribe of their fathers ſhall ye ſend a man, every one a ruler among them.

Before CHRIST 1490.

3 And Moſes by the commandment of the LORD ſent them from the wilderneſs of Paran: all thoſe men were heads of the children of Iſrael.

4 And theſe were their names: of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the ſon of Zaccur.

5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the ſon of Hori.

6 Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

7 Of the tribe of Iſſachar, Igal the ſon of Joſeph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oſhea the ſon of Nun.

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the ſon of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the ſon of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joſeph, namely, of the tribe of Manaſſeh, Gaddi the ſon of Suſi.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the ſon of Gemalli.

13 Of the tribe of Aſher, Sethur the ſon of Michael.

14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the ſon of Vophſi.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the ſon of Machi.

16 Theſe are the names of the men which Moſes ſent to ſpy out the land. And Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun Jehoſhua.

17 ¶ And Moſes ſent them to ſpy out the land of Canaan, and ſaid unto them, Get you up this way ſouthward, and go up into the mountain:

18 And ſee the land what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many;

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in ſtrong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the firſtripe grapes.

21 ¶ So they went up, and ſearched the land from the wilderneſs of Zin unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath.

22 And they aſcended by the ſouth, and came unto Hebron; where Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak, were. (Now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt.)

---

7 My ſervant Moſes is not ſo] He is a prophet of a ſuperior rank, to whom I impart my mind in a far more noble and extenſive manner; who in his interviews with God is not intranced in viſions, but is always awake, and perfect maſter of himſelf.

Who is faithful in all mine houſe.] Who executed the divine commands with great exactneſs, doing nothing of himſelf, as he was now falſely accuſed. Moſes in this was a type of Chriſt, who is conſtituted head of the chriſtian church, though with a far greater extent of power and authority. Heb. iii. 2.

8 With him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth.] That is, after that familiar manner in which one friend ſpeaks to another.

The ſimilitude of the Lord ſhall he behold, &c.] According to the preſent tranſlation, this is directly contrary to what Moſes himſelf expreſsly declares, Deut. iv. 25. that he ſaw no ſimilitude; it ſhould therefore be rendered as follows, being connected with the foregoing words: Not in dark ſpeeches, and in a figure, ſhall he behold the Lord.

10 The cloud departed from off the tabernacle] Standing at a diſtance, till Miriam was removed from the tabernacle, and carried out of the camp.

Miriam became leprous] This leproſy did not proceed, as was the uſual caſe, from a previous ill diſpoſition of the blood and juices, but it ſeized her inſtantaneouſly, and was turned ſuddenly into that infinity of ſmall imperceptible and corroding worms which naturally were the more immediate cauſe of that diſtemper; a juſt puniſhment for her pride and detraction!

Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold ſhe was leprous.] The reaſon why Aaron was exempted from this puniſhment ſeems to have been, becauſe he was appointed to be a judge of leproſy, which office he could not have performed, had he been a leper himſelf; and becauſe as he was ſo lately conſecrated an high prieſt, God did not think proper, for the preſervation of his authority, ſo ſoon to render him vile and contemptible in the eyes of the people; it is thought too that Miriam might be the firſt in the tranſgreſſion, and that ſhe drew Aaron (who ſeems in other inſtances to have been a perſon of too much facility) over to her party.

11 Lay not the ſin upon us, &c.] Aaron, ſenſible of the ſuperior dignity of Moſes and of his own folly, begs of him in the moſt ſubmiſſive terms to forgive him, and to intercede with God for the life of his ſiſter, who muſt have died of her diſtemper, had not the divine power miraculouſly interpoſed.

14 If her father had but ſpit in her face, &c.] This was a token of great anger and contempt; a daughter under ſuch circumſtances would be aſhamed for ſome time to look her father in the face; and as Miriam had by his diſſenſion offended Moſes her civil parent, and in oppoſing him had diſpleaſed God her ſpiritual father, ſhe ought to take ſhame to herſelf, and likewiſe on account of her diſtemper undergo that temporary exile, which was preſcribed for legal impurities. Job xxx. 10. Iſaiah l. 6. Lev. xxi. 8. Numb. vi. 9.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIII.

2 Send thou men, that they may ſearch the land, &c.] It appears from Deut. i. 22, 23. that the people firſt requeſted that ſpies might be ſent, and therefore Moſes in ſending them did it in compliance to their humour.

16 Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun Jehoſhua.] When he went to fight the Amalekites, Exod. xvii. 9. he was called Joſhua, a word of the ſame import with Jeſus, which ſignified a ſaviour; and he is more than once called by that name in the Septuagint tranſlation. He was a type of Chriſt; for as he led the Iſraelites into Canaan, ſo does our bleſſed Saviour bring us to the heavenly Canaan, "the reſt which remaineth for the people of God."

18 See the land, what it is, &c.] Hence we may ſuppoſe that little commerce had been carried on between Egypt and Canaan ſince Jacob's days; otherwiſe they could not have been unacquainted with theſe matters.

19 Whether in tents, or in ſtrong holds.] The Vulgate and Septuagint render it, Whether in cities with or without walls.

21 The wilderneſs of Zin] It lay near Kadeſh-barnea, on the ſouth-eaſt of Canaan. There was a place called the wilderneſs of Sin, Exod. xvi. 1. which lay on the ſouth-weſt; and therefore muſt not be confounded with the former.

Unto Rehob, &c.] This city ſtood north of Canaan, near the ſea coaſt, not far from Zidon.

22 The children of Anak, &c.] Theſe were a gigantic race of men, who took their name from Anak their progenitor; they were ſo terrible to their neighbours, that it became a proverbial ſaying among them, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak?

Before CHRIST 1490.

23 And they came unto the brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

24 The place was called the brook Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence.

25 And they returned from ſearching of the land after forty days.

26 ¶ And they went and came to Moſes, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the wilderneſs of Paran, to Kadeſh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and ſhewed them the fruit of the land.

27 And they told him, and ſaid, We came unto the land whither thou ſenteſt us, and ſurely it floweth with milk and honey; and this is the fruit of it.

28 Nevertheleſs the people be ſtrong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover we ſaw the children of Anak there.

29 The Amalekites dwell in the land of the ſouth: and the Hittites, and the Jebuſites and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains: and the Canaanites dwell by the ſea, and by the coaſt of Jordan.

30 And Caleb ſtilled the people before Moſes, and ſaid, Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it; for we are well able to overcome it.

31 But the men that went up with him ſaid, We be not able to go up againſt the people: for they are ſtronger than we.

32 And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had ſearched unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land, through which we have gone to ſearch it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof: and all the people that we ſaw in it are men of a great ſtature.

33 And there we ſaw the giants, the ſons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own ſight as graſhoppers, and ſo we were in their ſight.

General Reflections on Chap. XIII.

God was pleaſed to ſend ſpies into Canaan, to encourage his people to obtain that country, and ſtrengthen their faith in his promiſes. Thoſe ſpies, who frightened the people, repreſent to us ſuch perſons as, inſtead of animating themſelves to do their duty, and overcome difficulties in their way to heaven, loſe their courage, and diſhearten others, by pretending that the difficulties are inſurmountable, and the duties of holineſs beyond our reach. But Joſhua and Caleb deſcribe to us thoſe zealous perſons who do not ſuffer themſelves to be miſled by the multitude, but who always cleave to God and their duty, and are not diſcouraged at the ſight of thoſe conflicts which they are to undergo, relying on the divine aid for ſupport.

CHAP. XIV.

Before CHRIST 1490.

1 The people murmur at the news. 6 Joſhua and Caleb labour to pacify them. 11 God threateneth them. 13 Moſes intercedeth with God, and obtaineth pardon; 26 but the murmurers are excluded from entering into the promiſed land. 36 The men who raiſed the evil report concerning the land die by a plague. 40 The people, that againſt the will of God would invade the land, are ſmitten by the inhabitants of it.

AND all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried: and the people wept that night.

2 And all the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron: and the whole congregation ſaid unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or would God we had died in the wilderneſs!

3 And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to fall by the ſword, that our wives and our children ſhould be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

4 And they ſaid one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us return into Egypt.

5 Then Moſes and Aaron fell on their faces before all the aſſembly of the congregation of the children of Iſrael.

6 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of them that ſearched the land, rent their clothes:

7 And they ſpake unto all the company of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land which we paſſed through to ſearch it, is an exceeding good land.

8 If the LORD delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us; a land which floweth with milk and honey.

9 Only rebel not ye againſt the LORD, neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us: their defence is departed from them, and the LORD is with us: fear them not.

10 But all the congregation bade ſtone them with ſtones. And the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation before all the children of Iſrael.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long will this people provoke me? and how long will it be ere they believe me, for all the ſigns which I have ſhewed among them?

12 I will ſmite them with the peſtilence, and diſinherit them, and will make of thee a greater nation and mightier than they.

13 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Then the Egyptians

23 A branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff, &c.] Both on account of its weight, and to preſerve it from bruiſing. That there are vines and grapes of a prodigious ſize in the eaſtern and ſouthern parts of the world, is recorded by ſeveral writers; particularly Strabo, Pliny, Olearius, and the learned Huet.

24 The brook Eſhcol, &c.] The Hebrew word nahhal ſignifies "a valley" as well as a torrent or brook.

30 Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it, &c.] Such was the confidence of Caleb, that he entertained no doubt of conqueſt; therefore he ſaid not, Let us go up and conquer it, but, "Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it," as if it was already conquered.

32 A land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof, &c.] This expreſſion ſeems to relate to the vaſt number of inhabitants, and to ſignify they were ſo numerous, that the land was ſcarce ſufficient for their maintenance.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIV.

1 All the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried, &c.] Nothing but lamentations were to be heard, and grievous complaints of the melancholy condition of themſelves and families; who, as they falſely ſuppoſed, after all their hardſhips, were now to be expoſed to the mercy of their cruel enemies.

3 Wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land, &c.] They not only accuſe Moſes, but even God himſelf, as if he had dealt deceitfully with them.

4 Let us make us a captain, and let us return into Egypt.] Their outrageous diſpoſition had infatuated their minds; for how could they propoſe to get thither without food? could they imagine God would ſend it them from heaven, after they had ſo ſhamefully forſaken him? how were they to find their way, when the cloud which directed them was withdrawn? or if they did, how were they to contend with the nations that ſhould oppoſe them in their paſſage? and, after all, when they came into Egypt, what reception could they expect from a people who had ſuffered ſo ſeverely through them? It is amazing, that notwithſtanding all theſe difficulties, they ſhould perſiſt in their madneſs, and reſolve to chuſe a new commander to lead them back again! Nehemiah tells us, chap. ix. 17. that they did actually appoint them a captain.

5 Fell on their faces, &c.] To deprecate the wrath of God.

8 If the Lord delight in us, &c.] That is, if we do not forfeit his favour, he will enable us to drive out the Canaanite, and ſettle us in the poſſeſſion of this land.

9 They are bread for us] That is, they are an eaſy prey. See chap. xxiv. 8.

Their defence is departed from them, &c.] They have filled up the meaſure of their iniquities, and the divine protection is withdrawn from them; which, if we do not forfet it by our rebellion, is inſured to us.

11 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes] Out of the cloud upon the tabernacle.

How long will this people provoke me?] Which ſuggeſts that they had often provoked him, and had done it long ago, and ſtill continued to do ſo; and he had long bore their provocations; but it was not reaſonable, nor could it be expected by Moſes or any other, that he would bear them much longer.

And how long will it be ere they believe me, &c.] Unbelief was a ſin they had often and long been guilty of, and which greatly prevailed among them, and was the root of all their murmurings, mutiny and rebellion; and what was highly provoking to the Lord, ſince they ought to have believed him, and that he was able to make good, and would make good his promiſes to them.

Before CHRIST 1490. Egyptians ſhall hear it, (for thou broughteſt up this people in thy might from among them;)

14 And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land: for they have heard that thou LORD art among this people, that thou LORD are ſeen face to face, and that thy cloud ſtandeth over them, and that thou goeſt before them, by day time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night.

15 Now if thou ſhalt kill all this people as one man, then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will ſpeak, ſaying,

16 Becauſe the LORD was not able to bring this people into the land which he ſware unto them, therefore he hath ſlain them in the wilderneſs.

17 And now, I beſeech thee, let the power of my LORD be great, according as thou haſt ſpoken, ſaying,

18 The LORD is longſuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion, and by no means clearing the guilty, viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation.

19 Pardon, I beſeech thee, the iniquity of this people according unto the greatneſs of thy mercy, and as thou haſt forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now.

20 And the LORD ſaid, I have pardoned according to thy word:

21 But as truly as I live, all the erath ſhall be filled with the glory of the LORD.

22 Becauſe all thoſe men which have ſeen my glory, and my miracles, which I did in Egypt and in the wilderneſs, have tempted me now theſe ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice;

23 Surely they ſhall not ſee the land which I ſware unto their fathers, neither ſhall any of them that provoked me ſee it.

24 But my ſervant Caleb, becauſe he had another ſpirit with him, and hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his ſeed ſhall poſſeſs it.

25 (Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley.) Tomorrow turn you, and get you into the wilderneſs by the way of the Red ſea.

26 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and unto Aaron, ſaying,

27 How long ſhall I bear with this evil congregation, which murmur againſt me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, which they murmur againſt me.

28 Say unto them, As truly as I live, ſaith the LORD, as ye have ſpoken in mine ears, ſo will I do to you:

29 Your carcaſes ſhall fall in this wilderneſs; and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured againſt me. Before CHRIST 1490.

30 Doubtleſs ye ſhall not come into the land, concerning which I ſware to make you dwell therein, ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

31 But your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, them will I bring in, and they ſhall know the land which ye have deſpiſed.

32 But as for you, your carcaſes, they ſhall fall in this wilderneſs.

33 And your children ſhall wander in the wilderneſs forty years, and bear your whoredoms, until your carcaſes be waſted in the wilderneſs.

34 After the number of the days in which he ſearched the land, even forty days, each day for a year, ſhall ye bear your iniquities, even forty years, and ye ſhall know my breach of promiſe.

35 I the LORD have ſaid, I will ſurely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together againſt me: in this wilderneſs they ſhall be conſumed, and there they ſhall die.

36 ¶ And the men, which Moſes ſent to ſearch the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur againſt him, by bringing up a ſlander upon the land,

37 Even thoſe men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, died by the plague before the LORD.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to ſearch the land, lived ſtill.

39 And Moſes told theſe ſayings unto all the children of Iſrael: and the people mourned greatly.

40 ¶ And they roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, ſaying, Lo, we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promiſed: for we have ſinned.

41 And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do ye tranſgreſs the commandment of the LORD? but it ſhall not proſper.

42 Go not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye ſhall fall by the ſword: becauſe ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you.

44 But they preſumed to go up unto the hill top: nevertheleſs the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moſes, departed not out of the camp.

45 Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and ſmote them, and diſcomfited them, even unto Hormah.

---

15 Then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will ſpeak, ſaying.] Moſes is more ſolicitous for the honour of God, than anxious about his own intereſt. He pleads that the eyes both of Egypt and Canaan were upon them; that great expectations were raiſed concerning them; and that if God ſuffered this people, who had made ſo great noiſe in the world, to be all conſumed, he inſinuates that thoſe heathen nations would raſhly conclude, that it was for want of power in their God, to bring them ſafely through the wilderneſs into the promiſed land!

17 Let the power of my Lord be great, &c.] Let the fame of thy power be magnified among the nations, by ſubduing the enemies of the Lord's people.

18 And by no means clearing the guilty, &c.] The word "guilty" is not in the original, and as it is directly oppoſite to the intention of Moſes' petition, the paſſage would be better rendered as follows: Who will not make quite deſolate, though he viſit the iniquity of the father upon the children, &c.

19 As thou haſt forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now.] Spare them this once; add this one inſtance of divine mercy and patience to the many thou haſt already given. Surely the boundleſs extent of the divine goodneſs is ſtill a foundation of hope to the greateſt ſinners; if they repent, they have no reaſon abſolutely to deſpair, ſince "the mercy of God endureth for ever."

21 All the earth ſhall be filled with the glory of the Lord.] That is, all the earth ſhall acknowledge and confeſs the juſtice of the Lord's proceeding againſt his people Iſrael.

22 Have tempted me, &c.] That is, have rebelled againſt me.

25 Dwelt in the valley] It ſhould be rendered, Lie in wait for you in the valley.

Turn you, &c.] Since ye have not courage enough notwithſtanding all the promiſes made you, to force the Canaanites, it will be moſt prudent in you to remove hence; and inſtead of proceeding to take poſſeſſion of the land, to return through the wilderneſs towards the Red ſea, from whence ye came.

33 Your children ſhall wander in the wilderneſs forty years] A terrible reflection this! to be doomed themſelves to periſh in the wilderneſs, and not be ſuffered to enter the promiſed land, on the borders of which they were juſt arrived; and that their poſterity ſhould be doomed to wander in the wilderneſs forty years, in queſt of food, after the manner of the Arabian ſhepherds.

And bear your whoredoms, &c.] That is, ſhall feel the fatal effects of your idolatry and defection from your God.

34 My breach of promiſe,] Or rather, my reſentment.

40 We be here, and will go up, &c.] The Iſraelites now repented of their folly, acknowledged their error, and would very willingly have taken poſſeſſion of the land, to which they were averſe before; but it was now too late, the decree was gone forth, and the conſumption of the people determined. This ſhould teach ſinners not to proceed reſolutely in ſinning.

44 They preſumed to go up, &c.] Deſperately reſolved, as it were, to act diametrically oppoſite to God's command in every thing; he bid them go, and they would not; he forbad them, and they would.

45 And ſmote them] They ſucceeded accordingly; and indeed how could they expect otherwiſe? The enemy had poſted themſelves upon the top of the hill, in order to defend that paſs againſt the invaders; and being informed of their approach by their ſcouts they ſallied out upon them, overcame them, and killed many of them.

Hormah.] This city was ſituated in the ſouth of Canaan, but had not this name, which ſignifies "utter deſtruction," till many years after; when the Canaanites who inhabited it were devoted to utter deſtruction. See chap. xxi. 3. Moſes is thought to have compoſed the nineteenth pſalm in memory of this event: in which he gives us a moſt lively image of the ſhortneſs and frailty of human life.

Before CHRIST 1490.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIV.

From the examples of the Jews, who on account of their rebellion and unbelief, were excluded from the land of Canaan, and died in the wilderneſs, we may learn, that thoſe who provoke the Lord by diſtruſt and diſobedience, ſhall not inherit his promiſes. The puniſhment inflicted on the ten ſpies, and the promiſe God made to Joſhua and Caleb, ſhew us, that they who are the occaſion of offences, and draw others into ſin, ſhall receive the puniſhment due to it; but that God is kind, and will bleſs thoſe that are faithful to him. Laſtly, The defeat of the children of Iſrael by the Canaanites, points out to us, that whatever is undertaken againſt the will of God, can never ſucceed.

CHAP. XV.

1 The law of the meat offering and the drink offering with the ſacrifices, 14 in which the ſtranger is included. 17 The law of the firſt of the dough for an heave offering. 22 The ſacrifice of the congregation for ſins of ignorance. 27 The ſacrifice of a private perſon for the ſame. 30 The puniſhment of preſumption. 32 The ſabbath breaker is ſtoned. 37 The law of fringes.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you,

3 And will make an offering by fire unto the LORD, a burnt offering, or a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or in a freewill offering, or in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, of the herd, or of the flock:

4 Then ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the LORD bring a meat offering of a tenth deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of oil.

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink offering ſhalt thou prepare with the burnt offering or ſacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat offering two tenth deals of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oil.

7 And for a drink offering thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

8 And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or peace offerings unto the LORD:

9 Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat offering of three tenth deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil.

10 And thou ſhalt bring for a drink offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

11 Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one according to their number.

13 All that are born of the country ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

14 ¶ And if a ſtranger ſojourn with you, or whoſoever be among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD; as ye do, ſo he ſhall do.

15 One ordinance ſhall be both for you of the congregation, and alſo for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, ſo ſhall the ſtranger be before the LORD. Before CHRIST 1490.

16 One law and one manner ſhall be for you, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you.

17 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land whither I bring you,

19 Then it ſhall be, that, when ye eat of the bread of the land, ye ſhall offer up an heave offering unto the LORD.

20 Ye ſhall offer up a cake of the firſt of your dough for an heave offering: as ye do the heave offering of the threſhing floor, ſo ſhall ye heave it.

21 Of the firſt of your dough ye ſhall give unto the LORD an heave offering in your generations.

22 ¶ And if ye have erred, and not obſerved all theſe commandments, which the LORD hath ſpoken unto Moſes,

23 Even all that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moſes, from the day that the LORD commanded Moſes, and henceforward among your generations;

24 Then it ſhall be, if ought be committed by ignorance without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation ſhall offer one young bullock for a burnt offering, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, with his meat offering, and his drink offering, according to the manner, and one kid of the goats for a ſin offering.

25 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and it ſhall be forgiven them; for it is ignorance: and they ſhall bring their offering, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their ſin offering before the LORD, for their ignorance:

26 And it ſhall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them; ſeeing all the people were in ignorance.

27 And if any ſoul ſin through ignorance, then he ſhall bring a ſhe goat of the firſt year for a ſin offering.

28 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for the ſoul that ſinneth ignorantly, when he ſinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him; and it ſhall be forgiven him.

29 Ye ſhall have one law for him that ſinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born among the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them.

30 ¶ But the ſoul that doeth ought preſumptuouſly, whether he be born in the land, or a ſtranger, the ſame reproacheth the LORD; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people.

31 Becauſe he hath deſpiſed the word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment, that ſoul ſhall utterly be cut off; his iniquity ſhall be upon him.

32 ¶ And while the children of Iſrael were in the wilderneſs, they found a man that gathered ſticks upon the ſabbath day.

33 And they that found him gathering ſticks brought him unto Moſes and Aaron, and unto all the congregation.

34 And they put him in ward, becauſe it was not declared what ſhould be done to him.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XV.

1 The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.] The ſubſequent laws ſeem to have been delivered near the period of their wandering in the wilderneſs, but were not to be obſerved till they came into Canaan, becauſe they could not be provided with neceſſaries requiſite for the performance of theſe ceremonies.

4 A tenth deal of flour] About half a peck.

The fourth part of an hin of oil.] A quart of oil.

14 And if a ſtranger ſojourn with you, &c.] By a "ſtranger" is to be underſtood one who had renounced idolatry, and become a proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion. This law, which made no diſtinction between them and the Iſraelites in matters relating to divine worſhip, was wiſely calculated to invite and encourage ſtrangers to embrace their religion, as well as to engage the Hebrews to ſhew them kindneſs.

19 The bread of the land, &c.] This is, ſuch corn as is uſed in making bread, comprehending wheat, barley, rye, or oats.

30 The ſoul that doeth ought preſumptuouſly, &c.] In the Hebrew it is, With a high hand; and in the Greek, With a hand of pride. The meaning is, whoever ſhall preſumptuouſly, and againſt all admonition, violate the commands of God; that delinquent ſhall be cut off by death, and no atonement ſhall be admitted. Theſe violations of the laws are to be underſtood of thoſe relating to religious worſhip, which if not direct idolatry, were at leaſt a degree of apoſtacy from the true religion, and a contempt of God and his word.

32 The man that gathereth ſticks upon the ſabbath day.] The uſe of thoſe ſticks was undoubtedly to make a fire with; but as they were commanded to bake and ſeethe what they had occaſion for on the day before the ſabbath, this offence was a violation of the law of the ſabbath; and conſequently an implicit contempt of the Creator to whoſe honour it was dedicated.

35 And the LORD said unto Moses, The man shall be surely put to death: all the congregation shall stone him with stones without the camp.

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moses.

37 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid them that they make them fringes in the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband of blue:

39 And it shall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them; and that ye seek not after your own heart and your own eyes, after which ye use to go a whoring:

40 That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

41 I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

In this chapter, we observe the difference between sins committed through ignorance, and wilful sins, both which are to be atoned for by repentance. Sins committed through stubbornes are very heinous, since no sacrifices could atone for them, but they were punished with death; which was the case of the man that had gathered sticks on the sabbath day. The law concerning the fringes that the Jews were to wear upon their cloaths, was to put them in mind never to depart from the commandments of God: may we take warning from hence, always to have the law of the Lord before our eyes, and to conform ourselves according to it.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The rebellion of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. 4 Moses opposeth it. 12 He sendeth for Dathan and Abiram, who refuse to come. 16 Korah and his company bring incense before the Lord. 23 Moses separateth the people from the tents of the rebels and denounceth their judgment. 31 The earth swallowed up some, a fire consumeth the rest. 36 The censers are reserved to holy use. 41 The people murmur. 44 God's anger is kindled. 46 Aaron by Moses' direction stayeth the plague, in which fourteen thousand and seven hundred perished.

Before CHRIST 1471.

NOW Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men:

2 And they rose up before Moses, with certain of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the assembly, famous in the congregation, men of renown:

3 And they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them, Ye take too much upon you, seeing all the congregation are holy, every one of them, and the LORD is among them: wherefore then lift ye up yourselves above the congregation of the LORD?

4 ¶ And when Moses heard it, he fell upon his face:

5 And he spake unto Korah and unto all his company, saying, Even to morrow the LORD will shew who are his, and who is holy; and will cause him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath chosen will he cause to come near unto him.

6 This do; Take your censers, Korah, and all his company;

7 And put fire therein, and put incense in them before the LORD to morrow: and it shall be that the man whom the LORD doth choose, he shall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye sons of Levi.

8 And Moses said unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi:

9 Seemeth it but a small thing unto you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to himself to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to minister unto them?

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee: and seek ye the priesthood also?

11 For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together against the LORD: and what is Aaron, that ye murmur against him?

12 ¶ And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab: which said, We will not come up:

13 Is it a small thing that thou hast brought us up out

35 The man shall be surely put to death, &c.] The reason why the breach of the sabbath is ordered to be so severely punished, is, because it was an implicit denial of God to be the creator of the world. The sabbath was a sign, by which the worshippers of that omnipotent being were distinguished from idolaters, who thought the world to be eternal, and adored the heavenly luminaries, the sun, moon, and stars, as deities, and a multiplicity of other nominal gods: the violation of this institution therefore implied a defection from the true religion to polytheism and idolatry.

38 That they make them fringes in the borders of their garments, &c.] This ornament was intended to distinguish them in their dress, as circumcision did their persons, from other nations: so that whenever they looked upon this mark, they might be reminded of their being worshippers of the true God, as holy and peculiar people. Many of the Jews considered these ornaments in a very different light, and prided themselves in wearing them. The Pharisees, in our Saviour's time, used to enlarge their fringes, in order to make them more observable, and gain them the reputation of superior sanctity, Matt. xxiii. 5.

39 To go a whoring.] This is an usual phrase in scripture for idolatry, Exod. xxxiv. 15. God is ever considered as the spiritual spouse of his church.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

1 Now Korah] The sacred historian has not informed us at what time, and in what encampment, this rebellion of Korah happened; but the general opinion is, that the cause of the mutiny was owing to his resentment upon the advancement of Aaron and his family to the office of high-priest. Being sensible he had no hopes of aiming at that dignity as matters now stood, he was determined to endeavour after it, by compelling them to change their measures, or by depriving them forcibly of their authority; and, therefore, in order to render himself more certain of success, he drew Dathan and Abiram, and others of the Reubenites, into rebellion; and being joined by two hundred and fifty persons of authority among the other tribes, they became a party, and declared themselves for a change of government.

On, the son of Peleth] "On" is here mentioned as one of the chiefs of the faction, but is not mentioned afterwards; it is imagined, therefore, either that he repented, and deserted their party, or that he did not render himself so remarkable as Dathan and Abiram.

Sons of Reuben] That is, of the posterity and tribe of Reuben. As Korah was disgusted at the preferment of Aaron to the priesthood, and perhaps too because Elizaphan was appointed chief of the family of the Kohathites; so it is probable that the Reubenites, the first-born of Israel, were offended at the preference given to Judah, and that they themselves were not placed in the front of the camp.

Took men.] The word "men" is not in the original, and since "took" is the first word in the text, it would be more natural if translated thus: Korah took both Dathan and Abiram, &c. i. e. he drew them over to his party, or formed an association or conspiracy with them.

3 Against Moses] As if he had advanced his brother and family to the priesthood by his own authority, and not by the direction of God.

Ye take too much upon you, &c.] The priesthood ought not to be confined to your family alone; you ought to think it sufficient to be on a level with your brethren, who are all members of the community, and alike favoured with the divine presence and protection.

4 And when Moses heard it, &c.] This prostration was not a sign of fear, though, if we believe Josephus, the insurgents approached him in a riotous manner, and threatened to stone him. This prostration was intended for the same end as that mentioned chap. xvi. 5. that is, for deprecating God's displeasure against the Israelites, and for supplicating his direction in so dangerous a crisis.

5 Will cause him to come near unto him, &c.] Meaning that person who is to serve him in the sacred offices.

9 Seemeth it but a small thing, &c.] As if he had said, you ought, instead of repining, because Aaron's family is advanced above yours, to consider your own privileges, who are distinguished above the other tribes, by being ordained Levites.

11 What is Aaron, &c.] He has done nothing of himself; God is the doer of all, Exod. xxi. 7.

12 Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, &c.] Suspecting they had been drawn into the conspiracy by the artifice and insinuations of Korah, he sends for them to argue the case mildly.

13 Thou hast brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, &c.] This seems a sarcastical reflection on Moses, who, in his description of the promised land, used so paint it as "a land flowing with milk and honey."

Before CHRIST 1471. out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thyſelf altogether a prince over us?

14 Moreover thou haſt not brought us into a land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou put out the eyes of theſe men? we will not come up.

15 And Moſes was very wroth, and ſaid unto the LORD, Reſpect not thou their offering: I have not taken one aſs from them, neither have I hurt one of them.

16 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to morrow.

17 And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers; thou alſo, and Aaron, each of you his cenſer.

18 And they took every man his cenſer, and put fire in them, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moſes and Aaron.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them under the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation.

20 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and unto Aaron, ſaying,

21 Separate yourſelves from among this congregation, that I may conſume them in a moment.

22 And they fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſhall one man ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?

23 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

24 Speak unto the congregation, ſaying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

25 And Moſes roſe up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Iſrael followed him.

26 And he ſpake unto the congregation, ſaying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of theſe wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs: leſt ye be conſumed in all their ſins.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every ſide: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and ſtood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their ſons, and their little children.

28 And Moſes ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the LORD hath ſent me to do all theſe works; for I have not done them of mine own mind.

29 If theſe men die the common death of all men, or if they be viſited after the viſitation of all men; then the LORD hath not ſent me.

30 But if the LORD make a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and ſwallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; then ye ſhall underſtand that theſe men have provoked the LORD. Before CHRIST 1471.

31 ¶ And it came to paſs, as he had made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words, that the ground clave aſunder that was under them:

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſes, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth cloſed upon them: and they periſhed from among the congregation.

34 And all Iſrael that were round about them fled at the cry of them: for they ſaid, Leſt the earth ſwallow us up alſo.

35 And there came out a fire from the LORD, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incenſe.

36 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, that he take up the cenſers out of the burning, and ſcatter thou the fire yonder; for they are hallowed.

38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: and they ſhall be a ſign unto the children of Iſrael.

39 And Eleazar the prieſt took the braſen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael, that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the LORD; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the LORD ſaid to him by the hand of Moſes.

41 ¶ But on the morrow all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, ſaying, Ye have killed the people of the LORD.

42 And it came to paſs, when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and, behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared.

43 And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation:

44 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Get you up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment. And they fell upon their faces.

46 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun.

---

14 Wilt thou put out the eyes of theſe men? &c.] Doſt thou think to blind us, ſo that none of us ſhall be able to diſcern this impoſture? or ſhall we ſuffer thee to lead us about after this manner, like blind men, whither thou pleaſeſt, ſometimes towards Canaan, and now back again towards Egypt?

15 Moſes was very wroth] As this ſeems to contradict Moſes's character, of being the meekeſt man upon earth, the Septuagint render, It was very grievous to him; or it made him very ſad; and the Arabic, It was very troubleſome to Moſes.

I have not taken one aſs, &c.] This is a proverbial expreſſion, implying, that he had not in the leaſt inſtance deprived them of their property.

17 Before the Lord, &c.] That is, at the door of the tabernacle.

19 Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them, &c.] A plain indication, that the people were inclined to diſpute the authority of Moſes and Aaron.

22 God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, &c.] O thou God and father of the ſpirits of all fleſh, wilt thou not have mercy upon thoſe ſpirits which thou haſt created, whoſe frame thou knoweſt, and canſt diſtinguiſh between the leaders and miſled.

24 From about the tabernacle, &c.] It is thought theſe rebels had erected a tabernacle in the midſt of their tents, in which they met in council, and hung out a flag of defiance againſt Moſes: hence called the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

30 A new thing] That is, a new and unexperienced kind of judgment; for God has many arrows in his quiver; nor is he limited to one way of puniſhing; but the earth, when he pleaſeth, ſhall execute his vengeance, as well as the fire.

Into the pit, &c.] The word which we render "pit" ſometimes ſignifies the grave, and ſometimes the region of departed ſouls: here it denotes that pit or cavity in the earth into which the bodies and ſubſtance of theſe men were ſwallowed up.

35 A fire from the Lord, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men, &c.] That is, the men who had aſſumed the prieſts office. This was the more aſtoniſhing, as Moſes and Aaron were then among them, though they received no hurt.

38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls, &c.] It may be better tranſlated, The cenſers of theſe ſinners are ſanctified by their intentions.

41 All the congregation—of Iſrael murmured, &c.] It might naturally have been expected that ſuch a ſignal vengeance would have effectually ſilenced all murmurings and diſcontent; but it had a different effect upon this inflexible people; for the very next day they aſſembled in a tumultuous manner, charging Moſes and Aaron with the blood of theſe men.

42 They looked toward the tabernacle, &c.] The faith and intrepidity of Moſes and Aaron on this occaſion is rendered very conſpicuous in this paſſage, which ſignifies that they firmly relied on the interpoſition of Providence in their favour, who, in order to eſtabliſh their faith, and comfort them in this critical juncture, manifeſted his glorious preſence in the cloud.

47 And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atonement for the people.

48 And he ſtood between the dead and the living; and the plague was ſtayed.

49 Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, beſide them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moſes unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was ſtayed.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI.

The terrible puniſhments theſe rebellious Iſraelites drew upon themſelves by their incorrigibility and hardneſs of heart, ſhews us, that they who will not be humbled by leſſer judgments, only expoſe themſelves to greater; and that God not only puniſhes the authors of diſorders and offences, but likewiſe, thoſe who ſuffer themſelves to be drawn away to do evil.

CHAP. XVII.

1 God commandeth the rods of the tribes to be brought before the teſtimony. 6 They are laid up, and Aaron's rod only flouriſheth. 10 It is left for a monument againſt the rebels.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and take of every one of them a rod according to the houſe of their fathers, of all their princes according to the houſe of their fathers twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod.

3 And thou ſhalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers.

4 And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the teſtimony, where I will meet with you.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the man's rod, whom I ſhall chooſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you.

6 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their father's houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

7 And Moſes laid up the rods before the LORD in the tabernacle of witneſs.

8 And it came to paſs, that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs; and, behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds.

9 And Moſes brought out all the rods from before the LORD unto all the children of Iſrael: and they looked, and took every man his rod. Before CHRIST 1471.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Bring Aaron's rod again before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the rebels; and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not.

11 And Moſes did ſo: as the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

12 And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh.

13 Whoſoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD ſhall die: ſhall we be conſumed with dying?

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVII.

From this chapter we perceive, that after God had ſupported the miniſtry of Aaron, by puniſhing thoſe who had ſet themſelves up againſt him, he was pleaſed to confirm it again by this new miracle: from whence we may learn, that it is in no caſe lawful to oppoſe divine ordinances; that we muſt ſubmit ourſelves to thoſe whom God has eſtabliſhed in his church, or the government thereof; and that no one ought to oppoſe them, or uſurp their office and authority.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The charge of the prieſts and Levites. 8 The portion of the prieſts. 21 The portion of the Levites. 25 The heave offering to the prieſts out of the portion of the Levites.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Aaron, Thou and thy ſons and thy father's houſe with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary: and thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood.

2 And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be joined unto thee, and miniſter unto thee: but thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall miniſter before the tabernacle of witneſs.

3 And they ſhall keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tabernacle: only they ſhall not come nigh the veſſels of the ſanctuary and the altar, that neither they, nor ye alſo, die.

4 And they ſhall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the ſervice of the tabernacle: and a ſtranger ſhall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye ſhall keep the charge of the ſanctuary, and the charge of the altar: that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Iſrael.

6 And I, behold, I have taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: to you they are given as a gift for the LORD, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

49 They that died in the plague were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, &c.] As the people, inſtead of being led to repentance by the dreadful cataſtrophe of Korah and his accomplices, murmured on account of the death of thoſe delinquents: God now ſilences their complaints by the ſlaughter of many thouſands.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVII.

5 I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, &c.] I will work ſuch a miracle as ſhall be ſufficient to prevent their murmuring any more; and ſhall be a ſtanding teſtimony to them, of the perſons on whom I have conferred the prieſthood.

6 Every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece, &c.] It is thought that theſe rods were twigs cut off from an almond-tree; and probably from one and the ſame tree, that there might be no manner of difference between them.

8 Was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds.] In ſome parts of the rod, there was an appearance of buds coming forth; in others they were fully thruſt out; in others they were opened into bloſſoms; and in other parts thoſe bloſſoms had grown into almonds. This was truly aſtoniſhing; and we find that the Iſraelites were ſo thoroughly convinced by this miraculous ſign, that they never after called the authority of Aaron's prieſthood in queſtion.

10 Before the teſtimony.] It has been a matter of enquiry, whether Aaron's rod was put within the ark of the covenant, or only by it; God commanded Moſes only to put it in the tabernacle, there to be preſerved. St. Paul ſays it was placed within the ark, Heb. iv. 4. together with a pot of manna, and the tables of the law. In 1 Kings viii. 9. it ſeems to be intimated, that there was nothing in the ark but the tables of the law; and for that reaſon others will have it, that it was only placed on the ſide of the ark.

To be kept for a token, &c.] To convince the conſciences of men, and to ſilence all diſputes concerning the prieſthood. We find no mention in ſcripture, how long this wonderful rod continued in this ſacred repoſitory. When the ark was brought into the temple of Solomon, no notice is taken of it; and yet it is reaſonable to think it was preſerved for a conſiderable time in the verdure in which it now appeared, for the conviction of poſterity.

12 We die, we periſh, we all periſh.] This is a natural picture of the great conſternation of their minds. The Iſraelites were ever in extremes; either daring and preſumptuous, or abject and deſponding.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XVIII.

1 Shall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary, &c.] That is, you ſhall take care that ſuch people as are legally defiled, do not approach the tabernacle. This charge lieth upon you, and if you ſuffer theſe inſtitutions to be profaned through your negligence, you ſhall bear the puniſhment of ſuch profanation. Theſe declarations proved uſeful on removing the envy of the people from the prieſts, whoſe dignity they ſaw attended with ſo great danger.

4 A ſtranger ſhall not, &c.] The Hebrew word zar implies not only a perſon of a different nation, but likewiſe any Iſraelite who was not a Levite.

your priest's office for every thing of the altar, and within the vail; and ye shall serve: I have given your priest's office unto you as a service of gift: and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

8 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Behold, I also have given thee the charge of mine heave offerings of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them by reason of the anointing, and to thy sons, by an ordinance for ever.

9 This shall be thine of the most holy things, reserved from the fire: every oblation of their's, every meat offering of their's, and every sin offering of their's, and every trespass offering of their's, which they shall render unto me, shall be most holy for thee and for thy sons.

10 In the most holy place shalt thou eat it; every male shall eat it: it shall be holy unto thee.

11 And this is thine; the heave offering of their gift, with all the wave offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto thee, and to thy sons, and to thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: every one that is clean in thy house shall eat of it.

12 All the best of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, the first fruits of them which they shall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee.

13 And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, which they shall bring unto the LORD, shall be thine; every one that is clean in thine house shall eat of it.

14 Every thing devoted in Israel shall be thine.

15 Every thing that openeth the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless the first born of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem.

16 And those that are to be redeemed from a month old shalt thou redeem, according to thine estimation, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, which is twenty gerahs.

17 But the firstling of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem; they are holy: thou shalt sprinkle their blood upon the altar, and shalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

18 And the flesh of them shall be thine, as the wave breast and as the right shoulder are thine.

19 All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the LORD, have I given thee, and thy sons and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: it is a covenant of salt for ever before the LORD unto thee and to thy seed with thee.

20 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part and thine inheritance among the children of Israel.

21 ¶ And, behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, lest they bear sin, and die. Before CHRIST 1471.

23 But the Levites shall do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall bear their iniquity: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel, they have no inheritance.

24 But the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer as an heave offering unto the LORD, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have said unto them, Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

25 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

26 Thus speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye shall offer up an heave offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part of the tribe.

27 And this your heave offering shall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threshingfloor, and as the fulness of the winepress.

28 Thus ye also shall offer an heave offering unto the LORD of all your tithes, which ye receive of the children of Israel; and ye shall give thereof the LORD's heave offering to Aaron the priest.

29 Out of all your gifts ye shall offer every heave offering of the LORD, of all the best thereof, even the hallowed part thereof out of it.

30 Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have heaved the best thereof from it, then it shall be counted unto the Levites as the increase of the threshingfloor, and as the increase of the winepress.

31 And ye shall eat it in every place, ye and your households: for it is your reward for your service in the tabernacle of the congregation.

32 And ye shall bear no sin by reason of it, when ye have heaved from it the best of it: neither shall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

By God's regulating the offices of the priests and Levites, and providing for their subsistence, we are taught, that all things ought to be done in the church according to order; that provision should be made in the church, for the maintenance of the pastors, and those that serve in it; and that if the Jews were obliged to give the tithes and first fruits, &c. for the maintenance of the priests, Christians also are no less obliged to devote some part of their goods to the service of God, of the poor, and to other holy uses.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The water of separation made of the ashes of a red heifer. 11 The law for the use of it in purification of the unclean.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law, which the LORD hath commanded, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring thee a red heifer without spot, wherein is no blemish, and upon which never came yoke:

3 And

---

8 By reason of the anointing, &c.] Because thou art anointed with sacred oil, and consecrated to the office of a priest.

9 Every oblation, &c.] The Hebrew word kerban, rendered an "oblation," is a general term, comprehending all the particulars specified afterwards; it includes not only the animal sacrifices, but likewise the inanimate oblations, termed meat offerings.

10 In the most holy place, &c.] That is, the court of the tabernacle, termed "most holy," in respect of the camp.

19 A covenant of salt, &c.] That is, a firm and inviolable covenant, or one that shall continue as long as the dispensation lasts. A perpetual covenant was termed "a covenant of salt," because salt is of a preserving nature. It was a symbol of friendship and fidelity. Perhaps it was usual, in all solemn covenants which were confirmed by sacrifice, to offer salt with the sacrifice, to denote the perpetuity of the covenant.

20 Neither shalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part, &c.] The provision made for the priests was so ample, that their proportion, without any share in the land of Canaan, upon computation, will be found to have been far richer than of any other persons.

23 Shall bear their iniquity, &c.] That is, the effect or punishment of their iniquity.

24 The tithes,—which they offer—unto the Lord, I have given to the Levites, &c.] It was indeed highly reasonable that they should be provided for by the public, who had parted with their own inheritance to them; had yielded up many national advantages to the other tribes, and eased the nation by their services.

31 In every place, &c.] That is, at their own houses, or wherever they pleased.

32 Lest ye die.] In the Hebrew, Nor shall ye eat; as they did who intermeddled with those sacred things which God had reserved for his ministers.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIX.

2 A red heifer, &c.] The original word properly signifies, A young cow, between the age of a calf and an heifer; one that is not past three years old, and which has not yet felt the yoke. The reason why a heifer was required for this sacrifice, was probably in opposition to the superstition of the Egyptians, who, though they offered bullocks in sacrifice, yet held cows in great veneration.

Before CHRIST 1471. 3 And ye shall give her unto Eleazar the priest, that he may bring her forth without the camp, and one shall slay her before his face:

4 And Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood with his finger, and sprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle of the congregation seven times:

5 And one shall burn the heifer in his sight; her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, shall he burn:

6 And the priest shall take cedar wood, and hyssop, and scarlet, and cast it into the midst of the burning of the heifer.

7 Then the priest shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp, and the priest shall be unclean until the even.

8 And he that burneth her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water, and shall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean shall gather up the ashes of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel for a water of separation: it is a purification for sin.

10 And he that gathereth the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it shall be unto the children of Israel, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among them, for a statute for ever.

11 ¶ He that toucheth the dead body of any man shall be unclean seven days.

12 He shall purify himself with it on the third day, and on the seventh day he shall be clean: but if he purify not himself the third day, then the seventh day he shall not be clean.

13 Whosoever toucheth the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himself, defileth the tabernacle of the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from Israel: because the water of separation was not sprinkled upon him, he shall be unclean; his uncleanness is yet upon him.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent: all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, shall be unclean seven days.

15 And every open vessel, which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean.

16 And whosoever toucheth one that is slain with a sword in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

17 And for an unclean person they shall take of the ashes of the burnt heifer of purification for sin, and running water shall be put thereto in a vessel:

18 And a clean person shall take hyssop, and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or one slain, or one dead, or a grave:

19 And the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean on the third day, and on the seventh day: and on the seventh day he shall purify himself, and wash his clothes, and bath himself in water, and shall be clean at even. Before CHRIST 1471.

20 But the man that shall be unclean, and shall not purify himself, that soul shall be cut off from among the congregation, because he hath defiled the sanctuary of the LORD: the water of separation hath not been sprinkled upon him; he is unclean.

21 And it shall be a perpetual statute unto them, that he that sprinkleth the water of separation shall wash his clothes; and he that toucheth the water of separation shall be unclean until even.

22 And whatsoever the unclean person toucheth shall be unclean; and the soul that toucheth it shall be unclean until even.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIX.

The red colour of the heifer may serve to denote the heinous nature of sin and rebellion against God, and setting his commands at defiance. As the sins of the people could not be expiated without blood, that circumstance may direct our view to the efficacy of the blood of Christ, which cleanseth from all sin; and that as God commanded the children of Israel to avoid external impurity by not touching an infected person, so we should carefully avoid the conversation of such persons as would tend to corrupt our morals.

CHAP. XX.

1 The children of Israel come to Zin, where Miriam dieth. 2 They murmur for want of water. 7 Moses smiting the rock bringeth forth water. 12 God is displeased with Moses and Aaron at Meribah. 14 Moses at Kadesh desireth a passage through Edom, which is denied. 22 At mount Hor Aaron resigneth his place to Eleazar, and dieth.

THEN came the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, into the desert of Zin in the first month: and the people abode in Kadesh; and Miriam died there, and was buried there. 1453.

3 And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying, Would God that we had died when our brethren died before the LORD!

4 And why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our cattle should die there?

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates: neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they fell upon their faces: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

3 Ye shall give her unto Eleazar, &c.] Had the high-priest been employed in the following work, he would have been defiled; a thing which he was carefully to avoid; but as it was an affair of great concern, it was to be performed by one next to Aaron in dignity.

9 A water of separation: it is a purification for sin.] It has been a matter of dispute, why this water, mixed with the ashes of a red heifer, should purify the unclean, and yet pollute not only those who assisted at the slaying, burning, or gathering the ashes of it; but even those who sprinkled the unclean person with it. This sacrifice was a type of Christ, who was of much greater efficacy towards the purifying and sanctifying of men, than that of bulls and goats, the ashes of an heifer, or any other legal sacrifice. See Heb. xiii. 11, 12. and ix. 13.

20 That soul shall be cut off, &c.] The ceremonial pollution, by neglecting the purification prescribed, became a mortal guilt, for which the offender was to be cut off. It is a dangerous thing to despise divine institutions, how inconsiderable soever they may seem to us. A small sin unrepented of will hazard our salvation; yet the wound is not so fatal as the contempt of the remedy.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XX.

1 Then came the children of Israel—into the desert of Zin, in the first month.] The people having now wandered in the wilderness, near forty years, and that generation of murmurers being almost extinct, they are again brought back to Kadesh. It is probable there were no new laws delivered in all that time.

Miriam died there, and was buried there.] She was sister of Moses and Aaron, and daughter of Amram and Jochebed; was born about ten or twelve years before Moses, and about the year of the world 2424, and was probably about ten or twelve years of age at the time her brother was exposed upon the banks of the Nile, where she was watching when Pharaoh's daughter found him. She was enlightened with the supernatural gift of prophecy, as she herself insinuates, chap. xii. 2. She died in the first month of the fortieth year after the Israelites left Egypt.

2 There was no water for the congregation] The water which had hitherto supplied them from Horeb, now failed; intimating that they were now to quit the wilderness, and to be introduced into the land of promise, a land abounding with springs and rivers.

They gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron.] Notwithstanding this new generation had so evidently seen the accomplishment of the divine judgments threatened to their parents, who were now almost all dead; yet the pain of thirst threw them into the very same sin of murmuring and mutinying.

8 Assembly, &c.] This must be understood the whole concourse or congregation of the people.

Before CHRIST 1453.

the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his water, and thou shalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: so thou shalt give the congregation and their beasts drink.

9 And Moses took the rod from before the LORD, as he commanded him.

10 And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he said unto them, Hear now, ye rebels; must we fetch you water out of this rock?

11 And Moses lifted up his hand, and with his rod he smote the rock twice: and the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beasts also.

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, Because ye believed me not, to sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them.

13 This is the water of Meribah; because the children of Israel strove with the LORD, and he was sanctified in them.

14 ¶ And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom, Thus saith thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the travel that hath befallen us:

15 How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time; and the Egyptians vexed us, and our fathers:

16 And when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and sent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and, behold, we are in Kadesh, a city in the uttermost of thy border:

17 Let us pass, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not pass through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders.

18 And Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with the sword.

19 And the children of Israel said unto him, We will go by the high way: and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, then I will pay for it: I will only, without doing any thing else, go through on my feet.

20 And he said, Thou shalt not go through. And Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand.

21 Thus Edom refused to give Israel passage through his border: wherefore Israel turned away from him.

22 ¶ And the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, journeyed from Kadesh, and came unto mount Hor. Before CHRIST 1453.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coast of the land of Edom, saying,

24 Aaron shall be gathered unto his people: for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because ye rebelled against my word at the water of Meribah.

25 Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up unto mount Hor:

26 And strip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son: and Aaron shall be gathered unto his people, and shall die there.

27 And Moses did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor in the sight of all the congregation.

28 And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son; and Aaron died there in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came down from the mount.

29 And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XX.

We may remark, from this chapter, the many mercies the Israelites received from God, and the many chastisements inflicted on them for their murmurings: that God, nevertheless, gave them water after a wonderful manner; that Moses and Aaron were not permitted to enter the land of Canaan, through their unbelief; and that Aaron died about the same time: which represents to us, on the one hand, the hardness and incredulity of sinners, on whom neither mercies nor chastisements have any effect. We also learn, that God punishes the want of faith, even in the faithful themselves; and though he pardons their infirmities, he does not always exempt them from temporal punishments.

16 Hear now, ye rebels; must we fetch you water out of this rock?] It is to this passage the psalmist seems to allude, where he says of Moses, that "he spoke unadvisedly with his lips," Psalm cvi. 33. Perhaps he might be guilty of arrogating too much to himself and Aaron on this occasion; for he says, without mentioning God, "must we fetch you water out of this rock?" as if they could do it by their own power.

11 And Moses lifted up his hand, and with his rod he smote the rock twice, &c.] His not waiting at all for the eruption of the water upon the first stroke, had somewhat the appearance of impatience; add to which, that this behaviour was in public, in the sight of the Israelites, to whom Moses and Aaron were designed to be examples of faith, and ~~patience, meekness~~ and hope.

12 Because ye believed me not] That is, they had a less degree of faith than was required, or than they ought to have had at this time; for it is evident they did not actually disbelieve, since they smote the rock, which was an intimation that they entertained some hope of the water flowing from thence, upon the sign given.

Ye shall not bring this congregation into the land, &c.] As Moses, the minister of the law, conducted the people through the wilderness to the borders of the promised land, but could not bring them into it, but Joshua put them into possession; so neither can the works of the law, or legal dispensation, put us in possession of heaven; it is our spiritual Joshua, or Jesus, only can do this.

13 Meribah] That is, "strife or contention." In Deut. xxxii. 51. it is called Meribah Kadesh, to distinguish it from that other Meribah at Horeb, where the Israelites were guilty of the same crime, Exod. xvii. 7.

He was sanctified in them.] That is, God glorified his power, his goodness, and his veracity, in the sight of Israel; and demonstrated the impartiality of his justice by this signal miracle, by punishing even his greatest favourites for their incredulity.

14 Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom] It is said, Deut. xx. 10. "When thou comest nigh unto a city to fight against it, then proclaim peace unto it." On this text the Jews have founded a tradition, that the Israelites were obliged to send a herald, to offer peace to every city and people in their name, before they made any attempts to conquer it by the sword; if they accepted it, they became tributaries only; if not, they were devoted to destruction. The reason for sending this message was, because the nearest passage to the land of Canaan was through the country of Edom or Idumea.

Thy brother Israel, &c.] Moses, in his message, kindly reminds them of their relation and descent; the Edomites being the posterity of Esau, and the Israelites of Jacob, who were brothers.

20 Thou shalt not go through, &c.] As Esau hated Jacob, on account of his having obtained the blessing, so in his descendants that hatred now revived, when Jacob's posterity were just going to inherit that blessing.

22 Mount Hor.] This mountain, or rather chain of mountains, was in the eastern border of the land of Edom, and was probably so named from Hori, the first possessor of it, Gen. xxxvi. 30.

24 Shall be gathered unto his people, &c.] Aaron is not cut off, as it was usually expressed concerning those who died by the hand of justice; but he is gathered unto his people, as one who died in the arms of divine grace.

28 And Aaron died there in the top of the mount, &c.] Aaron was born in the year of the world 2430: he was three years older than his brother. In point of dignity, he was considered as next to him, being immediately appointed by God to exercise the office of priesthood in the tabernacle, and his sons for ever after him. He had four sons by his wife Elisheba, namely, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. He died in the arms of Moses his brother, and Eleazar his son, A. M. 2552, at the age of one hundred and twenty-three years, and was buried by Moses and his sons in a cave of this mountain.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXI.

Before CHRIST 1453. If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their cities.

3 And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Iſrael, and delivered up the Canaanites; and they utterly deſtroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place Hormah.

4 ¶ And they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red ſea, to compaſs the land of Edom: and the ſoul of the people was much diſcouraged becauſe of the way.

5 And the people ſpake againſt God, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and our ſoul lotheth this light bread.

6 And the LORD ſent fiery ſerpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Iſrael died.

7 ¶ Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned, for we have ſpoken againſt the LORD, and againſt thee; pray unto the LORD that he take away the ſerpents from us. And Moſes prayed for the people.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent, and ſet it upon a pole: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live.

9 And Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs, and put it upon a pole, and it came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in Oboth.

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, and pitched at Ije-abarim, in the wilderneſs which is before Moab, toward the ſunriſing.

12 From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared.

13 From thence they removed, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon, which is in the wilderneſs that cometh out of the coaſts of the Amorites: for Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.

1452. 14 Wherefore it is ſaid in the book of the wars of the LORD, What he did in the Red ſea, and in the brooks of Arnon.

15 And at the ſtream of the brooks that goeth down to the dwelling of Ar, and lieth upon the border of Moab.

16 And from hence they went to Beer: that is the well whereof the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.

17 Then Iſrael ſang this ſong, Spring up, O well; ſing ye unto it:

18 The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the lawgiver, with their ſtaves. And from the wilderneſs they went to Mattanah: Before CHRIST 1452.

19 And from Mattanah to Nahaliel: and from Nahaliel to Bamoth:

20 And from Bamoth in the valley, that is in the country of Moab, to the top of Piſgah, which looketh towards Jeſhimon.

21 ¶ And Iſrael ſent meſſages unto Sihon king of the Amorites, ſaying,

22 Let me paſs through thy land: we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards; we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the king's high way, until we be paſt thy borders.

23 And Sihon would not ſuffer Iſrael to paſs through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out againſt Iſrael into the wilderneſs: and he came to Jahaz, and fought againſt Iſrael.

24 And Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword, and poſſeſſed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong.

25 And Iſrael took all theſe cities: and Iſrael dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heſhbon, and in all the villages thereof.

26 For Heſhbon was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought againſt the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

27 Wherefore they that ſpeak in proverbs ſay, Come into Heſhbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared:

28 For there is a fire gone out of Heſhbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath conſumed Ar of Moab, and the lords of the high places of Arnon.

29 Woe to thee, Moab! thou art undone, O people of Chemoſh: he hath given his ſons that eſcaped, and his daughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 We have ſhot at them; Heſhbon periſhed even unto Dibon, and we have laid them waſte even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba.

31 Thus Iſrael dwelt in the land of the Amorites.

32 And Moſes ſent to ſpy out Jaazer, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorites that were there.

33 ¶ And they turned and went up by the way of Baſhan: and Og the king of Baſhan went out againſt them, he, and all his people, to the battle at Edrei.

34 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Fear him not: for yet it ſhould be remembered, that theſe nations had grown ſo abandoned in vice, that they had already provoked God to denounce their extermination, in order to vindicate his own attributes, and prevent their example from proving contagious.

3 Hormah.] That is, "utter deſtruction." See note on chap. xiv. 45.

4 Soul—was much diſcouraged, &c.] They were not only tired with the circuit they were obliged to take on account of the refuſal of the Edomites, but were impatient of ſtaying any longer in the wilderneſs, which their return towards the Red ſea indicated.

5 There is no bread, neither is there any water, &c.] It was their rage cauſed them to utter falſhoods; for they had both, being fed with manna from heaven, and ſupplied with water from the rock.

6 The Lord ſent fiery ſerpents among the people, &c.] The ſacred hiſtorian informs us, that they were exceedingly numerous in this place, Deut. viii. 15. and as we have not met with any inſtance of their proving fatal in the preceding part of this hiſtory, we muſt ſuppoſe that the Iſraelites were hitherto preſerved from their rage by an extraordinary providence, which being ſuſpended on account of their crimes, they were expoſed to the attacks of theſe creatures. It was now in the heat of ſummer, when creatures of this kind are naturally moſt venomous, and they raiſed ſuch ſores and ſudden inflammations whereſoever they fell, as occaſioned death in ſome of the guilty, and violent pains in all.

8 Make thee a fiery ſerpent] It has been matter of great ſurprize and perplexity in the Jews, why God, who had forbidden all manner of images, ſhould upon this occaſion command one to be made; but had they known the nature of Chriſt's ſufferings, they would have quickly perceived that it was an eminent type of his crucifixion.

And ſet it upon a pole, &c.] The word which we render "a pole," ſignifies a banner or enſign, erected with an intention that the people ſhould gather unto it.

9 And Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs] A figure of the ſharaph, the ſerpent above-mentioned.

When he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived.] This healing virtue was derived from God alone, who was pleaſed in this manner to diſplay his great power, to make the Iſraelites ſenſible that thoſe ſerpents were ſent by him; and that if he was their enemy, he could employ any inſtrument to their deſtruction, and if their friend, he could provide a remedy for the worſt of evils.

24 Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword, &c.] As the Amalekites were become irreclaimably wicked, and had "filled up the meaſure of their iniquity," the Almighty gave them up to national deſtruction, according to his prediction, Deut. xxxiii. 34.

27 They that ſpeak in proverbs] That is, thoſe who ſpeak or write in a lofty and figurative ſtyle, ſuch as the following poem appears to be, which was the compoſition of ſome ancient poet among the Amorites, on Sihon's victory over the Moabites.

Come into Heſhbon, let the city of Sihon be built, &c.] That is, let Heſhbon now become the city of Sihon, and be made fit for his royal ſeat.

28 For there is a fire gone out of Heſhbon, &c.] The poet here riſes into raptures, and propheſies the conqueſt of the whole country, by the deſolating army of Sihon marching out of Heſhbon.

29 O people of Chemoſh, &c.] So he calls the Moabites, on account of their worſhipping the god Chemoſh, 1 Kings xi. 7. Chemoſh is underſtood to be the ſun.

33 Baſhan] This mountain is much celebrated in ſcripture for its rich paſtures, excellent breed of cattle, and ſtately oaks.

Before CHRIST 1452. for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land; and thou ſhalt do to him as thou didſt unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

35 So they ſmote him, and his ſons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive: and they poſſeſſed his land.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXI.

The defeat of the kings mentioned in this chapter indicates a beginning of the accompliſhment of thoſe promiſes that God had made to the children of Iſrael, that he would give them the land of Canaan, even whilſt Moſes lived. From the hiſtory of the fiery ſerpents we may obſerve the puniſhment of the Iſraelites for their frequent murmurings; and alſo the wonderful manner by which the people were healed of the bite of thoſe ſerpents; but, above all, this hiſtory ought to lead our minds to Chriſt, the great antitype, who died on the croſs to expiate ſin.

3 And Moab was ſore afraid of the people, becauſe they were many: and Moab was diſtreſſed becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

4 And Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian, Now ſhall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the graſs of the field. And Balak the ſon of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time.

5 He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam the ſon of Beor to Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, ſaying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the face of the earth and they abide over againſt me:

6 Come now therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou bleſſeſt is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt is curſed.

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatſoever thou ſayeſt unto me: come therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people.

18 And Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto the ſervants of Balak, If Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, I cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do leſs or more.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye alſo here this night, that I may know what the LORD will ſay unto me more.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXII.

1 In the plains of Moab, &c.] Theſe plains formerly belonged to Moab, but were now in the poſſeſſion of the Amorites: they lay oppoſite to the fords of Jordan; that river flowing between them and the town of Jericho.

4 Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian] That is, by his meſſengers, whom he ſent unto the kings and princes of Midian, inviting them to join with him as confederates againſt the Iſraelites, whom he repreſented as their common enemy.

As the ox licketh up the graſs of the field, &c.] By this metaphor he ſignified with what eaſe the Iſraelites would conquer them, and what an univerſal deſolation they would make, in caſe they did not meet with timely oppoſition.

5 He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam, &c.] The ſcripture expreſsly calls Balaam a prophet; and ſome are of opinion, that he had been a good man, till loving the wages of unrighteouſneſs, he apoſtatized from God; and, betaking himſelf to idolatry, fell under the deluſion of Satan.

6 Curſe me this people, &c.] Some of the wiſeſt nations among the heathens believed the perſons of their prophets to be in ſuch great eſteem with their gods, that they would liſten to, and ratify their benedictions or execrations; and that ſuch had effect not only on private perſons, but even whole communities.

9 God came unto Balaam, &c.] That is, manifeſted his will to him by an angel, ver. 23.

12 They are bleſſed.] They are under the protection of heaven, and no imprecations againſt them will avail.

18 If Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, &c.] Thus far his regard to the divine command had ſome aſcendancy over his covetouſneſs and ambition; but yet thoſe paſſions were not intirely ſubdued, ſince the next words ſhew, he would have gratified them, if he could by any means have ſatisfied his conſcience.

19 Tarry ye alſo here this night, &c.] The iniquity of his heart now began to diſcloſe itſelf: he had an avaricious eye on the tempting rewards, and therefore hinted to the meſſengers, that there was ſome upon his interceſſions, that the counſels of heaven might be altered; and that the unchangeable Being might poſſibly recede from his former decree.

20 If the men come to call thee, riſe up and go with them] He would not hearken to the voice of God, and ſo was left to periſh by his own devices; and was, with the princes of Moab, ſlain by the Iſraelites, Joſh. xiii. 22.

But yet the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee, that ſhalt thou do.] The meaning ſeems to be, that he might go with the meſſengers of Balak, provided they did not require him to do any thing contrary to what God had before commanded him.

21 Balaam roſe up in the morning, &c.] His great haſte betrayed the inclinations of his heart, ſhewed how much he hankered after the wages of unrighteouſneſs, and his wicked intention of curſing the Iſraelites.

22 God's anger was kindled becauſe he went, &c.] Becauſe he went voluntarily, and waited not for the meſſengers to call him; in all probability, he ſet out with an intention to curſe Iſrael, according to the earneſt deſire of Balak.

23 The aſs ſaw the angel—and—turned aſide out of the way, &c.] Terrified, as it ſeems, by the brightneſs and dazzling appearance of the angel; which yet the eye of Balaam did not perceive, being blinded

Before CHRIST 1452.

24 But the angel of the LORD ſtood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this ſide, and a wall on that ſide.

25 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe thruſt herſelf unto the wall, and cruſhed Balaam's foot againſt the wall: and he ſmote her again.

33 And the aſs ſaw me, and turned from me theſe three times: unleſs ſhe had turned from me, ſurely now alſo I had ſlain thee, and ſaved her alive.

34 And Balaam ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I have ſinned; for I knew not that thou ſtoodeſt in the way againſt me: now therefore, if it diſpleaſe thee, I will get me back again.

35 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Balaam, Go with the men: but only the word that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, that thou ſhalt ſpeak. So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

36 ¶ And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmoſt coaſt.

37 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Did I not earneſtly ſend unto thee to call thee? wherefore cameſt thou not unto me? am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour?

38 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to ſay any thing? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that ſhall I ſpeak.

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto Kirjath-huzoth.

40 And Balak offered oxen and ſheep, and ſent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him. Before CHRIST 1452.

41 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal, that thence he might ſee the utmoſt part of the people.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXII.

From the conduct of Balaam, we may infer, that covetous men will even act againſt the dictates of their conſciences, to gratify their avarice; but that God can effectually employ the meaneſt inſtruments to ſtop their mad career, eſpecially when they are bent on the deſtruction of the people of the moſt high. From Balaam's being ordered to continue his journey when he would have returned, we may learn, that God accepts of no forced obedience, which proceeds from fear; and that when ſinners embark in undertakings contrary to his, he can produce a quite contrary effect from their evil deſigns, by making it appear that he will be always maſter, and cauſe them to bring about his purpoſes, even againſt their own minds.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Balak's ſacrifice. 7 Balaam's firſt parable. 14 Balak ſacrificeth again. 18 Balaam's ſecond parable. 25 Balak is diſpleaſed with Balaam; but bringeth him to the top of Peor, and ſacrificeth there.

AND Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven oxen and ſeven rams.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had ſpoken; and Balak and Balaam offered on every altar a bullock and a ram.

3 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Stand by thy burnt offering, and I will go: peradventure the LORD will come to meet me: and whatſoever he ſheweth me I will tell thee. And he went to an high place.

4 And God met Balaam: and he ſaid unto him, I have prepared ſeven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram.

5 And the LORD put a word in Balaam's mouth, and ſaid, Return unto Balak, and thus thou ſhalt ſpeak.

6 And he returned unto him, and, lo, he ſtood by his burnt ſacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 ¶ And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the eaſt, ſaying, Come, curſe me Jacob, and come, defy Iſrael.

8 How ſhall I curſe, whom God hath not curſed? or how ſhall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied?

9 For from the top of the rocks I ſee him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, the people ſhall dwell alone, and ſhall not be reckoned among the nations.

10 Who can count the duſt of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Iſrael? Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my laſt end be like his!

11 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, What haſt thou done blinded with the glare of filthy lucre, with bribery and corruption; and having his head and heart filled with the greateſt expectations from Balak.

28 Opened the mouth of the aſs, &c.] The end of this extraordinary miracle probably was, to ſhew the mercenary prophet, that his paſſions had blinded and ſtupified him; that he had not even the ſenſe and diſcernment of a brute, and that it would be a dangerous and vain attempt for him to proceed to prevaricate, and not to ſay to Balak what God ſhould put in his mouth.

29 Balaam ſaid unto the aſs] Balaam might poſſibly not regard or attend to the wonder through exceſs of rage or madneſs; and his threatening to kill the beaſt implies that his paſſion was downright frenzy, and the behaviour of a man quite beſide himſelf, who, though awake, had not the proper uſe of his faculties.

Becauſe thou haſt mocked me, &c.] That is, expoſed me to ſcorn.

31 The Lord opened the eyes of Balaam] Either by preſenting the angel to his view, who was concealed before; or elſe by awakening his attention, ſo as that he might take notice of the angel, whom he had not hitherto obſerved.

He bowed down his head, and fell flat on his face.] Through fear and aſtoniſhment.

35 Go with the men, &c.] A man of ſo covetous a diſpoſition as Balaam, not daring to imprecate evil againſt the Iſraelites, though prompted by the greateſt rewards, was a ſufficient token and aſſurance to the Moabites, that they were the peculiar care of Providence.

39 Kirjath-huzoth.] In the Hebrew, The city of ſtones, or of many ſtones: Perhaps it was another name for Ar, the metropolis of Moab.

41 Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal, &c.] "Baal" ſignifies Lord; and was a name given to many different deities, both male and female.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIII.

1 Seven altars and ſeven rams.] Theſe ſacrifices were obſerved, according to the religious rites in worſhipping the God of Iſrael.

3 He went to an high place.] In the margin, He went ſolitarily, or into the moſt retired part of the grove; for he was already on an high place.

5 The Lord put a word in Balaam's mouth, &c.] In the Hebrew, Jehovah put a word, &c. Hence it is reaſonable to conclude, that Balaam was a prophet of the true God.

7 His parable, &c.] That is, his prophetical ſpeech.

8 How ſhall I curſe, &c.] How can I perform an improbability, and curſe thoſe whom God Almighty has determined to bleſs.

9 The people ſhall dwell alone, &c.] That is, ſhall be ſeparated from all other nations, by laws, religion, and manners peculiar to themſelves.

10 Who can count the duſt of Jacob?] The Septuagint render it, Who can count the ſeed of Jacob? A people like the duſt in multitude.

Let me die the death of the righteous] He vainly wiſhes to die like thoſe who were in the favour of God, after having enjoyed a proſperous, if not wicked, life, in this world.

Let my laſt end be like his.] The Hebrew word, tranſlated "laſt end," properly ſignifies, a future ſtate after death. The deſire of Balaam, therefore, is a ſtriking proof that a future ſtate was generally believed and acknowledged in thoſe early and remote times.

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bleſs: and he hath bleſſed; and I cannot reverſe it.

23 Surely there is no enchantment againſt Jacob, neither is there any divination againſt Iſrael: according to this time it ſhall be ſaid of Jacob and of Iſrael, What hath God wrought!

24 Behold, the people ſhall riſe up as a great lion, and lift up himſelf as a young lion: he ſhall not lie down until he eat of the prey, and drink the blood of the ſlain.

25 ¶ And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Neither curſe them at all, nor bleſs them at all.

26 But Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto Balak, Told not I thee, ſaying, All that the LORD ſpeaketh, that I muſt do?

27 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place; peradventure it will pleaſe God that thou mayeſt curſe me them from thence. Before CHRIST 1452.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had ſaid, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIII.

We may obſerve from this chapter, that though Balak uſed his utmoſt endeavours to induce Balaam to curſe the Iſraelites; and though the prophet, allured by the promiſes made him, was inclined to curſe them, yet God did not permit him, but obliged him to bleſs them; by which we may learn, that God always rules over the wicked; that he does not ſuffer them to do his children the harm they deſire; nay, that he makes uſe of them to do good to them; and that nothing can hurt thoſe whom God bleſſes and favours.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Balaam, leaving divinations, propheſieth the happineſs of Iſrael. 10 Balak in anger diſmiſſeth him. 15 He propheſieth of the Star of Jacob, and the deſtruction of ſome nations.

AND when Balaam ſaw that it pleaſed the LORD to bleſs Iſrael, he went not, as at other times, to ſeek for enchantments, but he ſet his face toward the wilderneſs.

2 And Balaam lifted up his eyes, and he ſaw Iſrael abiding in his tents according to their tribes; and the ſpirit of God came upon him.

3 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man whoſe eyes are open hath ſaid:

4 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

5 How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Iſrael!

6 As the valleys are they ſpread forth, as gardens by the river's ſide, as the trees of lign aloes which the LORD hath planted, and as cedar trees beſide the waters.

7 He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets, and his ſeed ſhall be in many waters, and his king ſhall be higher than Agag, and his kingdom ſhall be exalted.

8 God brought him forth out of Egypt; he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn: he ſhall eat up the nations his enemies, and ſhall break their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows.

14 The field of Zophim, &c.] That is, the field of the watchmen, who were placed on the top of Piſgah, a very high mountain in the country of Moab, to give notice of an enemy's approach. It ſeems to have been a plain on the top of the mountain, where theſe watchmen were placed.

16 The Lord met Balaam, &c.] The Lord came to him perſonally, in a glorious manifeſtation of the Shechinah; which ſo amazed and confounded him, that he never afterwards went to enquire what he ſhould ſay.

19 God is not a man that he ſhould lie.] It is in vain for me to importune a Being, who is in his nature immutable, to reverſe the bleſſings he has promiſed to Iſrael, or to curſe thoſe whom he hath ſaid he will bleſs.

21 He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, &c.] The Vulgate renders it, There is no idol in Jacob, neither is there any image ſeen in Iſrael. Intimating, that notwithſtanding the Iſraelites might have been guilty of violating the divine laws in many inſtances, yet ſo long as they kept themſelves from the worſhip of falſe gods, the true one whom they ſerved, would preſerve them from their enemies, and crown all their undertakings with ſucceſs.

22 He hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn.] Some commentators take the Hebrew word reem, tranſlated "unicorn" for the rhinoceros; a creature which, from its make, and the ſtructure of its body, appears to be the ſtrongeſt of quadrupeds, the elephant not excepted. Many think it ſignifies the algazel, or gazellus, a kind of mountain or wild goat, of a conſiderable ſize, very common in Arabia.

23 There is no enchantment againſt Jacob, &c.] No imprecations whatever, uttered by a diviner, can affect a people who are under the immediate protection of the Almighty.

28 Balak brought Balaam to the top of Peor, &c.] This was the moſt famous eminence in all the country of Moab, where Baal is ſuppoſed to have had a temple, and was therefore called Baal-Peor.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XXIV.

1 He went not, as at other times, to ſeek for enchantments, &c.] That is, he did not uſe unwarrantable arts, as before.

3 The man, whoſe eyes are open, hath ſaid.] The words ſhould be rendered, The man who had his eyes ſhut, but now open; alluding to his not ſeeing the angel.

4 Falling into a trance, but having his eyes open.] Or rather, "falling," and his eyes were opened; in alluſion to what happened in the way.

6 As the valleys] As the word nechalim ſignifies either brooks, or valleys, this ſentence may be rendered, As ſtreams of water they are extended. The imagery which compoſes this beautiful ſimile, conveys the higheſt degree of beauty, order, and utility.

As the trees of lign aloes, &c.] This tree, (which is not the common aloe) grows in Arabia and the Eaſt Indies, and diffuſes a very fragrant odour.

7 He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets] God ſhall bleſs them with plentiful harveſts; to which rain greatly contributes in thoſe countries.

His ſeed ſhall be in many waters] Or, by many waters; it ſhall be ſown in a well watered ground, and produce a plentiful crop; probably implying the great increaſe of the Iſraelites.

His king ſhall be higher than Agag, &c.] Agag was a general name for the kings of the Amalekites; he was very powerful: but, ſays Balaam, "his king," i. e. Chriſt, the king of Iſrael, "ſhall be higher than Agag;" ſhall be exalted above all the kings of the earth.

8 Shall eat up, &c.] He ſhall utterly deſtroy or extirpate.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, and took up his parable, and said, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rock.

22 Nevertheless the Kenite shall be wasted, until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas, who shall live when God doeth this! Before CHRIST 1452.

24 And ships shall come from the coast of Chittim, and shall afflict Asshur, and shall afflict Eber, and he also shall perish for ever.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went and returned to his place: and Balak also went his way.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIV.

These prophecies of Balaam import, that a great king should destroy the Moabites and the Edomites; that the Amalekites should likewise be destroyed; that the Kenites should be carried away into captivity by the Assyrians; that afterwards the Assyrians should be conquered by the people of Chittim, that is, by the Macedonians. These prophecies are all of them remarkable, because they foretel what was to happen several ages after to all those people.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Israel at Shittim commit whoredom and idolatry. 6 Phinehas killeth Zimri and Cozbi. 10 God therefore giveth him an everlasting priesthood. 16 God commandeth Moses to vex the Midianites.

AND Israel abode in Shittim, and the people began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab.

2 And they called the people unto the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods.

3 And Israel joined himself unto Baal-peor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD against the sun, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto the judges of Israel, Slay ye every one his men that were joined unto Baal-peor.

6 ¶ And, behold, one of the children of Israel came and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 And when Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from among the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;

8 And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the 9 He couched, &c.] Implying, that the Israelites should conquer the Canaanites, and settle in their land, and that all attempts to disturb them would prove ineffectual.

10 Smote his hands together, &c.] So as to make a loud explosion. This was an expression of great anger or concern, Ezek. xxi. 17.

11 The Lord hath kept thee back from honour.] Meaning, that he had deprived himself of great advantages by being less solicitous of pleasing Jehovah, than Baal-peor.

14 Come—and I will advertise thee, &c.] Probably Balaam here gave to Balak that wicked politic council mentioned chap. xxxi. 16.

17 I shall see him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not nigh.] The true sense of the passage is, I see him (the person of whom he is about to speak) though not yet in being: I behold him, though as yet afar off.

There shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall arise out of Israel] This prophecy belongs principally to Christ: the metaphor here used of a star was of a mysterious kind, and is to be understood only as relating to Christ, the eternal Son of God, who was the star seen by the eastern sages, Matt. ii. 2. and "the bright and morning star," Rev. xxii. 16.

Shall smite the corners of Moab.] That is, shall totally destroy the Moabites. It means, spiritually, Christ's glorious victory over the Gentiles, by captivating their minds to the love of goodness, and subduing their will and affections to the service of the true God.

And destroy all the children of Sheth.] We may reasonably conclude, that not all mankind in general (as the words seem to imply) but some particular persons, were intended by "the children of Sheth." The Jerusalem Targum translates it, the sons of the east.

18 Edom shall be a possession, &c.] This was fulfilled by David, 2 Sam. viii. 14. See also Psalm lx. 8. and cviii. 9.

19 Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, &c.] This prophecy was fulfilled literally in David, and was spiritually accomplished in Christ.

20 Amalek was the first of the nations] They were possessed of these countries before the days of Abraham and Lot. See Gen. iv.

But his latter end shall be that he perish for ever.] This prediction was literally fulfilled by Saul, 1 Sam. xv. 18.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, &c.] By the Kenites we should understand the Midianites, Jethro's posterity, who is called the Kenite, Judges i. 16.

22 Nevertheless the Kenite shall be wasted, until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.] The power and number of the Kenites shall decline, till in the end they are carried away captive by the Assyrians.

23 Alas! who shall live when God doeth this!] Who shall escape the ravages of the Assyrians, when God shall permit them to over-run a great part of the world!

24 Ships shall come from the coast of Chittim] By Chittim is meant Greece, Gen. x. 4. This prophecy was fulfilled by Alexander the Great.

And shall afflict Asshur, &c.] The Grecians under Alexander the Great subdued all those countries: and the Romans afterwards extended their empire into the same regions.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXV.

1 Shittim] This was in the plains of Moab.

The people began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab.] Balaam devised this mean stratagem to deprive the Israelites of the favour of the Almighty, and to bring them under a curse.

2 They called the people to the sacrifices of their gods, &c.] The feasts following these sacrifices, were accompanied with music and dancing, which had a great tendency to inflame their carnal appetites, which these fair deluders would not permit them to satisfy, till they had first consented to worship their idols.

4 Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up] More properly thus, take all the heads or judges of the people to thy assistance, and hang them up; that is, all those that have quitted God for Baal peor.

Against the sun, &c.] That is, openly or publicly.

5 Slay ye every one his men, &c.] It seems the judges were very dilatory in executing this order; seeing God himself thought proper to visit the principal offenders with exemplary punishment.

12 Wherefore ſay, Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace:

16 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Vex the Midianites, and ſmite them:

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXV.

The ſin committed by the Iſraelites with the Moabitiſh women, ſhould warn us to reſiſt with more eagerneſs the temptations of the fleſh, than the malice of our enemies. See 1 Cor. x. The zeal of Moſes and Phinehas, and the reward the latter met with, prove that it is our duty zealouſly to oppoſe and rebuke all thoſe who openly offend God.

expreſs command of Moſes, the ſupreme magiſtrate, who ordered the judges of the people to fall upon thoſe who had joined themſelves to Baal-Peor, and to ſlay every one his men, ver. 5.

9 Thoſe that died in the plague were twenty and four thouſand.] St. Paul, in 1 Cor. x. 8. mentions only twenty and three thouſand, who fell in one day; whence it ſeems as if one thouſand were ſlain by the judges, and twenty and three thouſand by the hand of God.

11 He was zealous for my ſake, &c.] Or, he was jealous with my jealouſy. Such was his zeal for the honour of God, and the national intereſt, he could not bear ſo notorious a breach of allegiance.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVI.

2 Take the ſum of all the congregation, &c.] God commands a third poll, or regiſter of males, to be taken to demonſtrate his faithfulneſs in fulfilling his threats denounced againſt their ungrateful and diſobedient predeceſſors, and in performing his promiſe of multiplying Abraham's ſeed.

10 The earth ſwallowed them up with Korah.] It is very probable that Korah was conſumed with the fire of God, with thoſe who offered incenſe unbidden. See chap. xvi. 35.

51 Theſe were the numbered of the children of Iſrael, ſix hundred thouſand and a thouſand ſeven hundred and thirty.

52 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

53 Unto theſe the land ſhall be divided for an inheritance according to the number of names.

54 To many thou ſhalt give the more inheritance, and to few thou ſhalt give the leſs inheritance: to every one ſhall his inheritance be given according to thoſe that were numbered of him.

55 Notwithſtanding the land ſhall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they ſhall inherit.

56 According to the lot ſhall the poſſeſſion thereof be divided between many and few.

60 And unto Aaron was born Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

61 And Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD.

62 And thoſe that were numbered of them were twenty and three thouſand, all males from a month old and upward: for they were not numbered among the children of Iſrael, becauſe there was no inheritance given them among the children of Iſrael.

63 ¶ Theſe are they that were numbered by Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, who numbered the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab by Jordan, near Jericho.

64 But among theſe there was not a man of them whom Moſes and Aaron the prieſt numbered, when they numbered the children of Iſrael in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

65 For the LORD had ſaid of them, They ſhall ſurely die in the wilderneſs. And there was not left a man of them, ſave Caleb, the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVI.

God's care for his people was a great act of mercy; he cauſed them to be numbered, in order to prevent diſputes when they divided the land. Their number was nearly the ſame as it was forty years before; upwards of ſix hundred thouſand men, beſides women and children, had died; from which we may learn, what a heinous ſin it is to murmur againſt God. Caleb and Joſhua, on the contrary, are particularly mentioned, becauſe they believed in the promiſe God had made, and were not afraid of the Canaanites.

55 Notwithſtanding the land ſhall be divided by lot, &c.] This diviſion only reſpected that quarter which each tribe was to poſſeſs; and in whatever quarter the lot fell, the portion of the land was larger or ſmaller, according to the goodneſs of the ſoil, and as the people were more or leſs numerous.

THEN came the daughters of Zelophehad, the ſon of Hepher, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph: and theſe are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

2 And they ſtood before Moſes, and before Eleazar the prieſt, and before the princes and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, ſaying,

3 Our father died in the wilderneſs, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themſelves together againſt the LORD in the company of Korah; but died in his own ſin, and had no ſons.

4 Why ſhould the name of our father be done away from among his family, becauſe he hath no ſon? Give unto us therefore a poſſeſſion among the brethren of our father.

5 And Moſes brought their cauſe before the LORD.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

7 The daughters of Zelophehad ſpeak right: thou ſhalt ſurely give them a poſſeſſion of an inheritance among their father's brethren; and thou ſhalt cauſe the inheritance of their father to paſs unto them.

8 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a man die, and have no ſon, then ye ſhall cauſe his inheritance to paſs unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if ye have no brethren, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his father's brethren.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his kinſman that is next to him of his family, and he ſhall poſſeſs it: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael a ſtatute of judgment, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Get thee up into this mount Abarim, and ſee the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael.

13 And when thou haſt ſeen it, thou alſo ſhalt be gathered unto thy people, as Aaron thy brother was gathered.

14 For ye rebelled againſt my commandment in the deſert of Zin, in the ſtrife of the congregation, to ſanctify me at the water before their eyes: that is the water of Meribah in Kadiſh in the wilderneſs of Zin.

15 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the LORD, ſaying,

16 Let the LORD, the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſet a man over the congregation,

17 Which may go out before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not as ſheep which have no ſhepherd.

18 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take thee Joſhua the ſon of Nun, a man in whom is the ſpirit, and lay thine hand upon him; Before CHRIST 1452.

19 And ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation; and give him a charge in their ſight.

20 And thou ſhalt put ſome of thine honour upon him, that all the congregation of the children of Iſrael may be obedient.

21 And he ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt, who ſhall aſk counſel for him after the judgment of Urim before the LORD: at his word ſhall they go out, and at his word they ſhall come in, both he, and all the children of Iſrael with him, even all the congregation.

22 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him: and he took Joſhua, and ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation:

23 And he laid his hands upon him, and gave him a charge, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVII.

By the law concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, it appears that God deſigned to preſerve the diſtinction of families and inheritances among the Jews, and that daughters ſhould have their right; from whence we ſhould learn to adminiſter impartial juſtice to all, reſpecting property. The eſtabliſhing Joſhua in the place of Moſes, is a token of God's care of his people; and ſhews us, that when he removes any of his ſervants from us, he uſually raiſes up others to ſucceed them.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XXVII.

1 Then came the daughters of Zelophehad, &c.] Theſe apprehending that, being females, they were to be excluded from all ſettled inheritance in the lands and eſtates of the country, drew up a repreſentation of their caſe, and preſented it to Moſes, then in the great court of judicature at the tabernacle.

3 He died in his own ſin, &c.] That is, he did not die as an aſſociate in the rebellion, but as a common ſinner, to whom death is due. His ſin was perſonal, and therefore did not affect his children.

4 Why ſhould the name of our father be done away? &c.] When any one's family was extinct, his name was raiſed out of the genealogical tables.

12 Get thee up into this mount Abarim, &c.] Theſe words were ſpoken after all that follows in this book, and in Deuteronomy; as appears from Deut. xxxii. 49.

14 Ye rebelled, &c.] See chap. xx. ver. 12.

18 Take thee Joſhua, the ſon of Nun] As the high office of judge of Iſrael required a perſon of the moſt eminent qualifications, God appointed Joſhua to ſucceed Moſes, though he was not only of another family, but another tribe; viz. that of Ephraim.

Lay thine hand upon him, &c.] Moſes, by this ceremony, transferred the public truſt upon Joſhua, which was delegated to him from God.

20 Put ſome of thine honour upon him, &c.] Moſes is ordered to permit him to ſhare with him immediately in the government, that the people might thereby have the greater reſpect for this his ſucceſſor.

21 He ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt] This privilege ſhews the pre-eminence Joſhua had above other Iſraelites, who, though not admitted to ſo near an intercourſe with God as Moſes, was nevertheleſs aſſured, he ſhould not want direction from the oracle, in any doubt, by conſulting the high-prieſt, who was to receive the anſwer.

After the judgment of Urim, &c.] See note on Exod. xxviii. 30.

22 Moſes did as the Lord commanded him, &c.] This ſhews him to have been governed by a principle of diſintereſtedneſs, which places him above all other law-givers, who generally took care to advance their own family.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVIII.

1 The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.] The ſtated ſacrifices and ſervice of the tabernacle, having now for many years been very much interrupted by reaſon of the frequent and tedious journies of the Iſraelites; God commands Moſes to repeat them to the people in the following order, of daily, weekly, monthly, and anniverſary ſacrifices.

2 My offering, and my bread, &c.] Thoſe ſacrifices which were conſumed on the altar, were conſumed as the food of God. Lev. iii. 11.

3 Two lambs of the firſt year, &c.] The firſt national ſacrifice was to be offered every day, morning and evening, throughout the whole year.

29 A ſeveral tenth deal unto one lamb, throughout the ſeven lambs;

30 And one kid of the goats to make an atonement for you.

31 Ye ſhall offer them beſide the continual burnt offering, and his meat offering, (they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh) and their drink offerings.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVIII.

From this chapter, we may diſcern the watchfulneſs of God over his people, by a new promulgation of the law before the death of Moſes, and juſt after the inveſtiture of Joſhua. Hence we ſhould learn to treaſure up the word of God in our hearts, and practiſe it in our lives. By the firſt day of every month being ſet apart for the exerciſe of religious duties, we are to obſerve, that we ſhould dedicate as much of our time as poſſible, to the worſhip of the God of nature, providence, and grace.

CHAP. XXIX.

AND in the ſeventh month, on the firſt day of the month, ye ſhall have an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no ſervile work; it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you.

2 And ye ſhall offer a burnt offering for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD; one young bullock, one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh:

3 And their meat offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram,

4 And one tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the ſeven lambs:

5 And one kid of the goats for a ſin offering, to make an atonement for you:

6 Beſides the burnt offering of the month, and his meat offering, and the daily burnt offering, and his meat offering, and their drink offerings, according unto their manner, for a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And ye ſhall have on the tenth day of this ſeventh month an holy convocation; and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls: ye ſhall not do any work therein:

---

9 On the ſabbath day two lambs, &c.] The ſecond national ſacrifice was weekly. On this day the burnt offerings and meat offerings were ordered to be double, as appears from ver. 10.

11 In the beginnings of your months ye ſhall offer, &c.] The third ſtated ſacrifice was monthly, to be offered upon the firſt day of every month. As one of the moſt natural diviſions of time is, by the periodical revolutions of the moon, which, in theſe ſerious climates, could be eaſily diſcerned by all; ſo it is natural to think, that the ſolemn celebration of the new moon, in honour of the true God, was in uſe even before the riſe of idolatry, and probably made a part of the patriarchal religion.

15 Unto the Lord, &c.] Not to the moon, as was practiſed by the Egyptians, and other nations.

16 The fourteenth day—is the paſſover, &c.] This fourth and national ſacrifice was annually, viz. the great paſſover feſtival, with the feaſt of unleavened bread, annexed to it. Exod. xii. 5, 6.

24 After this manner ye ſhall offer] This ſolemn feſtival was deſigned as an acknowledgment of God's goodneſs in bringing them forth from Egypt, and making them a free people, which was the foundation of all their future happineſs.

26 In the day of the firſt fruits, &c.] The firſt national ſacrifice was alſo annual, viz. at the harveſt-feſtival, when the firſt fruits of corn were to be offered up.

After your weeks be out, &c.] Seven weeks to be counted from Eaſter to Pentecoſt, Lev. xxiii. 15, 16.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIX.

1 In the ſeventh month, &c.] The fifth national and annual ſacrifice was performed on the feaſt of trumpets, about the time of our September. As the ſcripture no where gives the reaſon of this feſtival, authors are much divided about it. Some of the fathers were of opinion, it was in memory of the law given on mount Sinai, at which time the trumpet and thunder was heard. Others have conceived that it was intended to put mankind in remembrance of the general reſurrection, which is to be uſhered in with the ſound of the trumpet, Lev. xxiii. 24. Univ. Hiſt.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIX.

We may here learn, that no religion can be of God, that does not inculcate the doctrine of repentance; nor is repentance genuine, unleſs it be habitual. As the ſacrifices were not ſo numerous on the laſt day as on the others, we are hereby admoniſhed not to truſt in any thing for ſalvation but the merits of Chriſt, and to turn to him by faith and true repentance.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Vows are not to be broken. 3 The exceptions of a maid's vow, of a wife's, 9 of a widow's, or of her that is divorced.

AND Moſes ſpake unto the heads of the tribes concerning the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded.

2 If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or ſwear an oath to bind his ſoul with a bond; he ſhall not break his word, he ſhall do according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

3 ¶ If a woman alſo vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herſelf by a bond, being in her father's houſe in her youth;

4 And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, and her father ſhall hold his peace at her: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul ſhall ſtand.

5 But if her father diſallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand: and the LORD ſhall forgive her, becauſe her father diſallowed her.

6 ¶ And if ſhe had at all an huſband, when ſhe vowed, or uttered ought out of her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul;

7 And her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows ſhall ſtand, and her bonds wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul ſhall ſtand.

13 Thirteen young bullocks, &c.] All theſe troubleſome ſervices, and expenſive ſacrifices, made their religion a very grievous yoke, under which the beſt men among them groaned, longing for the coming of the Meſſiah; when, their own doctors ſay, "No ſacrifices ſhall remain but thoſe of thankſgiving, praiſe and prayer." It appears from the account, that there were every year ſacrificed at the tabernacle and temple, at the national charge, the following number of beaſts; viz. lambs, 1101; bullocks, 132; rams, 72; kids, 21; goats, 2; excluſive of a prodigious number of voluntary vow and treſpaſs-offerings.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXX.

1 Unto the heads of the tribes, &c.] This law was delivered to them, that they might inſtruct thoſe committed to their charge, explain the law to them, give them neceſſary cautions upon it, and alſo call them to account for the breach of their vows.

2 If a man vow a vow unto the Lord.] Vows were early in uſe among the Jews; thus Jacob vowed a tenth of all his acquiſitions to the Lord, when he retired to Padan-aram for fear of his brother Eſau, Gen. xxviii. 20. and Hannah, deſirous of a ſon, in order to obtain her requeſt, vowed before-hand, to conſecrate him to God, 1 Sam. ii. 21.

An oath to bind his ſoul, &c.] A promiſe to man is but a bond upon the eſtate; but a promiſe to God, is a bond upon the ſoul.

3 If a woman alſo vow a vow, &c.] Women at their own diſpoſal, were bound, if poſſible, to perform their vows; but if a woman unmarried, and conſequently at her parent's diſpoſal, ſhould vow a vow, the law here orders that her vow ſhould be no longer obligatory, than in reſpect to her parents conſent to it at firſt making thereof; and it was the ſame with regard to wives, orphans, and ſervants, who are under the power of their huſbands, guardians, and maſters.

Before CHRIST 1451. 8 But if her huſband diſallowed her on the day that he heard it; then he ſhall make her vow which ſhe vowed, and that which ſhe uttered with her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, of none effect: and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

9 ¶ But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their ſouls, ſhall ſtand againſt her.

10 And if ſhe vowed in her huſband's houſe, or bound her ſoul by a bond with an oath;

11 And her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her, and diſallowed her not: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul ſhall ſtand.

12 But if her huſband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatſoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her ſoul, ſhall not ſtand: her huſband hath made them void; and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the ſoul, her huſband may eſtabliſh it, or her huſband may make it void.

14 But if her huſband altogether hold his peace at her from day to day; then he eſtabliſheth all her vows, or all her bonds, which are upon her: he confirmeth them, becauſe he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he ſhall any ways make them void after that he hath heard them; then he ſhall bear her iniquity.

16 Theſe are the ſtatutes, which the LORD commanded Moſes, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her father's houſe.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXX.

From this chapter we are taught, that all lawful vows ſhould be performed, and that nothing (if we have ability) can releaſe us from them; that raſh vows, and ſuch as we have no right to make, may be annulled, provided it be done lawfully, and by thoſe who have proper right and authority; and that God takes care to preſerve the power of fathers, huſbands, and guardians.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The Midianites are ſpoiled, and Balaam ſlain. 13 Moſes is wroth with the officers for ſaving the women alive, and ordereth the ſoldiers with their captives and ſpoil to be purified. 21 Eleazar ſheweth the law of purification. 25 The proportion whereby the prey is to be divided. 48 The voluntary oblation of the officers unto the treaſury of the Lord.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites: afterward ſhalt thou be gathered unto thy people.

3 And Moſes ſpake unto the people, ſaying, Arm ſome of yourſelves unto the war, and let them go againſt the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of Midian.

4 Of every tribe a thouſand, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſhall ye ſend to the war.

Before CHRIST 1452. 5 So they were delivered out of the thouſands of Iſrael, a thouſand of every tribe, twelve thouſand armed for war.

6 And Moſes ſent them to the war, a thouſand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, to the war, with the holy inſtruments, and the trumpets to blow in his hand.

7 And they warred againſt the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moſes; and they ſlew all the males.

8 And they ſlew the kings of Midian, beſide the reſt of them that were ſlain; namely, Evi, and Reken, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: Balaam alſo the ſon of Beor they ſlew with the ſword.

9 And the children of Iſrael took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the ſpoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods.

10 And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly caſtles, with fire.

11 And they took all the ſpoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beaſts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the ſpoil, unto Moſes, and Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 ¶ And Moſes, and Eleazar the prieſt, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp.

14 And Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the battle.

15 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Have ye ſaved all the women alive?

16 Behold, theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through the counſel of Balaam, to commit treſpaſs againſt the LORD in the matter of Peor, and there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

17 Now therefore kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with him.

18 But all the women children, that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourſelves.

19 And do ye abide without the camp ſeven days: whoſoever hath killed any perſon, and whoſoever hath touched any ſlain, purify both yourſelves and your captives on the third day, and on the ſeventh day.

20 And purify all your raiment, and all that is made of ſkins, and all work of goats' hair, and all things made of wood.

21 ¶ And Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battle, This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moſes;

22 Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead,

23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go through the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs

14 If her huſband—hold his peace, &c.] His ſilence, or not contradicting it at the firſt propoſal, ſhall be interpreted a conſent, nor ſhall it be in the huſband's or father's power to retract that conſent, or hinder her from performing her vow; if he does, "He ſhall bear her iniquity;" God ſhall puniſh him, and not her, for a breach of ſacred faith.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXI.

2 Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites, &c.] The Midianites were the poſterity of Abraham by Keturah; ſome of them ſettled ſouth of Canaan, among whom Jethro lived, and they retained the worſhip of the true God; but theſe were ſettled eaſt of Canaan, and were idolaters, neighbours to, and in confederacy with the Moabites. In conformity to the counſel given them by Balaam, theſe latter had ſeduced the Iſraelites to uncleanneſs, and the worſhip of their gods; for which Moſes is here ordered to ſend an army againſt them, and utterly to deſtroy them.

4 Of every tribe a thouſand, &c.] By this ſmall number, to let them ſee they were to rely more upon God, than the ſtrength of their army.

6 And Phinehas] Some have thought, that from the late courageous act of Phinehas, chap. xxv. 8. he was appointed to command the troops who were to avenge the Lord of Midian. But as Moſes in the war with the Amorites, had ſent the forces under the conduct of Joſhua, it was moſt probable he was commander at that time; and that the province appointed Phinehas, was only to take care of the holy things.

With the holy inſtruments and the trumpets, &c.] The moſt probable opinion is, that by theſe inſtruments, are to be underſtood the ark of the covenant, and what was included in it.

7 They ſlew all the males.] That is, all they met with, giving no quarter. But it is not to be underſtood of all the males of the nation; becauſe the Midianites of this country, who are reckoned with the children of the eaſt, Judges vi. 3. were a potent and formidable enemy to Iſrael, in the days of Gideon.

17 Kill every male] Moſes ordered the male children to be ſlain, that he might thereby extirpate the whole nation, as far as lay in his power, and prevent their revenging the death of their parents, in caſe they were ſuffered to live to man's eſtate.

Kill every woman that hath known man, &c.] Becauſe they had been the chief inſtruments of drawing the Iſraelites to idolatry.

18 All the women children—keep alive, &c.] Being young, they might be brought to embrace the Jewiſh religion.

lets it shall be purified with the water of separation: and all that abideth not the fire ye shall make go through the water.

24 And ye shall wash your clothes on the seventh day, and ye shall be clean, and afterward ye shall come into the camp.

25 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

26 Take the sum of the prey that was taken, both of man and of beast, thou, and Eleazar the priest, and the chief fathers of the congregation:

27 And divide the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battle, and between all the congregation:

28 And levy a tribute unto the LORD of the men of war which went out to battle: one soul of five hundred, both of the persons, and of the beeves, and of the asses, and of the sheep:

29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the priest, for an heave offering of the LORD.

30 And of the children of Israel's half, thou shalt take one portion of fifty, of the persons, of the beeves, of the asses, and of the flocks, of all manner of beasts, and give them unto the Levites, which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.

31 And Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD commanded Moses.

32 And the booty, being the rest of the prey which the men of war had caught, was six hundred thousand and seventy thousand and five thousand sheep.

33 And threescore and twelve thousand beeves,

34 And threescore and one thousand asses,

35 And thirty and two thousand persons in all, of women that had not known man by lying with him.

36 And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thousand and seven and thirty thousand and five hundred sheep:

37 And the LORD's tribute of the sheep was six hundred and threescore and fifteen.

38 And the beeves were thirty and six thousand; of which the LORD's tribute was threescore and twelve.

39 And the asses were thirty thousand and five hundred; of which the LORD's tribute was threescore and one.

40 And the persons were sixteen thousand; of which the LORD's tribute was thirty and two persons.

41 And Moses gave the tribute, which was the LORD's heave offering, unto Eleazar the priest, as the LORD commanded Moses.

42 And of the children of Israel's half, which Moses divided from the men that warred,

43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation was three hundred thousand and thirty thousand and seven thousand and five hundred sheep,

44 And thirty and six thousand beeves,

45 And thirty thousand asses and five hundred,

46 And sixteen thousand persons;)

47 Even of the children of Israel's half, Moses took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beast, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moses.

48 ¶ And the officers which were over thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moses:

49 And they said unto Moses, Thy servants have taken the sum of the men of war which are under our charge, and there lacketh not one man of us.

50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath gotten, of jewels, of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our souls before the LORD. Before CHRIST 1452.

51 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thousands, and of the captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels.

53 (For the men of war had taken spoil, every man for himself.)

54 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXI.

Several things are observable in this history, of the victory gained over the Midianites; namely, the subduing the enemies of the Israelites; that Balaam, and the women who had caused the people to sin, were slain; the division of the spoil equally between those who were in the war, and those who remained in the camp; and that the officers presented to God the most valuable things taken from the Midianites, teaching us to do him homage for all our prosperity, and devote all his gifts to his service and glory.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 The Reubenites and Gadites sue for their inheritance on the east side of Jordan. 6 Moses reproveth them. 16 They offer conditions; 20 he is content; and assigneth the land them, and to half the tribe of Manasseh. 34 They build cities, and conquer what remained.

NOW the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they saw the land of Jazer, and the land of Gilead, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle;

2 The children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spake unto Moses, and to Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, saying,

3 Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Shebam, and Nebo, and Beon,

4 Even the country which the LORD smote before the congregation of Israel, is a land for cattle, and thy servants have cattle:

5 Wherefore, said they, if we have found grace in thy sight, let this land be given unto thy servants for a possession, and bring us not over Jordan.

6 ¶ And Moses said unto the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and shall ye sit here?

7 And wherefore discourage ye the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

8 Thus did your fathers, when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to see the land.

9 For when they went up unto the valley of Eshcol, and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land which the LORD had given them.

10 And the LORD's anger was kindled the same time, and he sware, saying,

11 Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, shall see the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob; because they have not wholly followed me:

12 Save

27 Divide the prey, &c.] The captives and cattle; as to the plate, jewels, and other goods, every man kept what he took. See ver. 50, 53.

49 There lacketh not one man of us.] An evident proof that Omnipotence fought for them, and defended them; this was so extraordinary an instance of the divine protection, as can scarcely be paralleled in history.

52 Sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels.] About five talents and a half, or 27,919 l. sterling. Three hundred shekels make a talent.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. XXXII.

1 Now the children of Reuben, &c.] The tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, observing that the country was fertile, and stored with good pasturage, desired they might be permitted to settle there, as a place very commodious for them, having large stocks of cattle.

7 Wherefore discourage ye the heart, &c.] Moses suspected that it was either cowardice, or a love of ease, that made them petition to stay where they were, which ill example might have proved of bad consequence in disheartening the rest of their brethren.

12 Save Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua the son of Nun: for they have wholly followed the LORD.

13 And the LORD's anger was kindled against Israel, and he made them wander in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation, that had done evil in the sight of the LORD, was consumed.

14 And, behold, ye are risen up in your fathers' stead, an increase of sinful men, to augment yet the fierce anger of the LORD toward Israel.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderness; and ye shall destroy all this people.

16 ¶ And they came near unto him, and said, We will build sheepfolds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones:

17 But we ourselves will go ready armed before the children of Israel, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fenced cities because of the inhabitants of the land.

18 We will not return unto our houses, until the children of Israel have inherited every man his inheritance.

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder side Jordan, or forward; because our inheritance is fallen to us on this side Jordan eastward.

20 ¶ And Moses said unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD to war,

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him,

22 And the land be subdued before the LORD: then afterward ye shall return, and be guiltless before the LORD, and before Israel; and this land shall be your possession before the LORD.

23 But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD: and be sure your sin will find you out.

24 Build ye cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth.

25 And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spake unto Moses, saying, Thy servants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Gilead:

27 But thy servants will pass over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, as my lord saith.

28 So concerning them Moses commanded Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel:

29 And Moses said unto them, If the children of Gad and the children of Reuben will pass with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle, before the LORD, and the land shall be subdued before you; then ye shall give them the land of Gilead for a possession:

30 But if they will not pass over with you armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan.

31 And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying, As the LORD hath said unto thy servants, so will we do.

32 We will pass over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the possession of our inheritance on this side Jordan may be our's.

Before CHRIST 1452.

33 And Moses gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land, with the cities thereof in the coasts, even the cities of the country round about.

34 ¶ And the children of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer,

35 And Atroth, Shophan, and Jaazer, and Jogbehah,

36 And Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, fenced cities: and folds for sheep.

37 And the children of Reuben built Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim.

38 And Nebo, and Baal-meon, (their names being changed,) and Shibmah: and gave other names unto the cities which they builded.

39 And the children of Machir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead, and took it, and dispossessed the Amorite which was in it.

40 And Moses gave Gilead unto Machir the son of Manasseh; and he dwelt therein.

41 And Jair the son of Manasseh went and took the small towns thereof, and called them Havoth-jair.

42 And Nobah went and took Kenath, and the villages thereof, and called it Nobah, after his own name.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXII.

This chapter points out to us, that the distribution made to the two tribes and a half, of the country beyond Jordan, was the beginning of the accomplishment of the promises God made to his people, to give them all that country; and also that God ordered they should be assisting in the reduction of the land of Canaan, for their brethren who had helped them to subdue that part of the country; we are here instructed to act justly towards, and assist each other, on all lawful occasions.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 Two and forty journeys of the Israelites. 50 The Canaanites are to be destroyed.

THESE are the journeys of the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt with their armies under the hand of Moses and Aaron.

2 And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys by the commandment of the LORD: and these are their journeys according to their goings out.

3 And they departed from Rameses in the first month: on the fifteenth day of the first month, on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out with an high hand in the sight of all the Egyptians.

4 For the Egyptians buried all their first-born, which the LORD had smitten among them: upon their gods also the LORD executed judgments.

5 And the children of Israel removed from Rameses, and pitched in Succoth.

6 And they departed from Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wilderness.

7 And they removed from Etham, and turned again unto Pi-hahiroth, which is before Baal-zephon: and they pitched before Migdol.

8 And they departed from before Pi-hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, and

---

17 But we ourselves will go ready armed, &c.] The offer which they made to go in the front of the battle, and risque their lives against such potent enemies, without any farther advantage to themselves, was an expression of their faith in God, and love to their brethren.

33 Moses gave unto them] The dominions of Sihon and Og, the two vanquished kings of the Amorites, extended from the river Arnon to mount Hermon. These countries Moses gave to the tribe of Reuben, the tribe of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh.

Even the cities of the country round about.] It is observable, that as these tribes were first settled before the others, so they were afterwards displaced before them, being, for their idolatry, first carried captive into Assyria, 1 Chron. v. 25, 26. Probably their early defection from the true religion, was owing to their being placed at so great a distance from the public worship. We see by this, how Providence proportions his dispensations by balancing prosperity and adversity, and setting the one against the other.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIII.

1 These are the journeys of the children of Israel, &c.] Moses was particularly commissioned to preserve their history for the benefit of posterity; therefore he here recapitulates the principal stages of this long journey, setting them all before the reader in one view, that all who would take pains to examine things, might be satisfied by what a train of miracles such a multitude of people were fed every day, for forty years together, in a barren and inhospitable desart.

52 Then ye ſhall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and deſtroy all their pictures, and deſtroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their high places:

53 And ye ſhall diſpoſſeſs the inhabitants of the land, and dwell therein: for I have given you the land to poſſeſs it.

54 And ye ſhall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families: and to the more ye ſhall give the more inheritance, and to the fewer ye ſhall give the leſs inheritance: every man's inheritance ſhall be in the place where his lot falleth; according to the tribes of your fathers ye ſhall inherit.

55 But if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you; then it ſhall come to paſs, that thoſe which ye let remain of them ſhall be pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your ſides, and ſhall vex you in the land wherein ye dwell.

56 Moreover it ſhall come to paſs, that I ſhall do unto you, as I thought to do unto them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIII.

The ſeveral journies of the Iſraelites indicate to us, that we have no continuing city here, but ſhould look for an heavenly one: their various changes ſhew the tranſitorineſs of all ſublunary things; which ſhould remind us, that peace of conſcience only is durable, which will follow from the performance of the divine commands, and that we ſhould beg of God to accept of our moſt imperfect ſervices through the merits of Chriſt.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 The borders of the land. 16 The names of the men which ſhall divide the land.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

31 Bene-jaakan.] A name abbreviated from Beeroth-Bene-jaakan; i. e. the wells of the ſons of Jaakan. Deut. x. 6.

45 Dibon-gad.] So named after the conqueſt, to diſtinguiſh it from Dibon, in the tribe of Reuben.

51 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, &c.] One intention of the Iſraelites ſojourning ſo long in the wilderneſs, might be, that the people might forget the idols of Egypt, and be purified from their infection; and that the new generation that entered Canaan, might be ſuch as had not known the ſuperſtitious practices of their fathers.

52 Deſtroy all their pictures.] See note on Lev. xxvi. 1.

Pluck down all their high places.] The groves and altars erected in mountains, which places they ſuppoſed nearer to their deities, than other parts of the earth.

54 Ye ſhall divide the land by lot, &c.] This partition of the country by lot, was a moſt prudent contrivance; tending to prevent effectually all diſagreements among ſuch an obſtinate people; as the lots were to bear a proportion to each tribe and family.

Pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your ſides, &c.] As the eye is a part the moſt ſenſibly affected by pain, this image pathetically expreſſes the grievous afflictions they ſhould ſuffer by thoſe of the inhabitants whom they neglected to extirpate, according to the divine command.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIV.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the ſon of Chiſlon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the ſon of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joſeph, for the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, Hanniel the ſon of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the ſon of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the ſon of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, Paltiel the ſon of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Aſher, Ahihud the ſon of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the ſon of Ammihud.

29 Theſe are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Iſrael in the land of Canaan.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIV.

We are to remark from this chapter, that the different habitations, pointed out by Moſes before the Iſraelites took poſſeſſion of Canaan, afterwards took place juſt as he had predicted; that Moſes teſtified his obedience, and reliance on God's faithfulneſs to his promiſe, by making known the will of God to the children of Iſrael; and that God gave a clear proof of his love, by appointing proper leaders for his people before the death of Moſes.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 The Levites are to have eight and forty cities (ſix of them to be cities of refuge) with their ſuburbs of a certain meaſure. 9 The laws of murder and manſlaughter. 31 No ſatisfaction to be taken for either of them.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying, 1451.

2 Command the children of Iſrael, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion cities to dwell in; and ye ſhall give alſo unto the Levites ſuburbs for the cities round about them.

3 And the cities ſhall they have to dwell in; and the ſuburbs of them ſhall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beaſts.

4 And the ſuburbs of the cities, which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, ſhall reach from the wall of the city and outward a thouſand cubits round about.

5 And ye ſhall meaſure from without the city on the eaſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the ſouth ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the weſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the north ſide two thouſand cubits; and the place, the boundaries of the land were fixed and deſcribed; as well to aſcertain where they were to ſtop their conqueſts, as to prevent incroachments.

3 Your ſouth quarter ſhall be from the wilderneſs of Zin, &c.] They were to terminate at the laſt point of the Salt or Dead-ſea, running by the borders of Idumea, to the moſt northern part of the river Nile; and to the Mediterranean ſea weſtward, and along by the wilderneſs of Zin, making the bounds of the river Jordan. The determined border of the land of Canaan on the ſouth was Idumea and the deſarts of Arabia.

4 From the ſouth to the aſcent of Akrabbim, &c.] Maaleh akrabbim, or "the mount of ſcorpions," Joſh. xv. 3. ſo called from the multitude of ſcorpions found there.

5 From Azmon unto the river of Egypt] That is, to the river Nile.

At the ſea.] That is, the Mediterranean-ſea, called the "great ſea," ver. 6.

7 Ye ſhall point out for you mount Hor.] It was a long ridge of hills, of which one part might be called Hor, the other parts Shenir, Sirion, Sion, Miſar; ſee Deut. iii. 9. and iv. 18. and Pſalm xlii. 6. and therefore the general name is ſometimes expreſſed in the plural Hormonim, i.e. the Hormonian hills.

9 The goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan, &c.] That is, "the village of the fountain;" viz. of Jordan, which took its riſe in that track.

11 The coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham to Riblah] Shepham and Riblah were two towns on the banks of the river Jordan; ſo that the eaſtern bounds of the land began from the head of Jordan, and extended along the whole courſe of the river to the Dead-ſea, until it met with the ſouth bounds in the borders of Edom.

The ſea of Chinnereth, &c.] This is called in the New Teſtament, the ſea of Tiberias, or Galilee.

12 The goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt ſea, &c.] Here the eaſtern and ſouthern borders met.

13 This is the land which ye ſhall inherit, &c.] From the foregoing deſcription, it appears that they were placed in a very pleaſant country, being bounded on the ſouth by lofty mountains, which ſheltered them from the ſultry air of the Arabian deſarts; on the weſt, by the Mediterranean-ſea, which afforded them refreſhing breezes; on the north, by mount Lebanon, which kept off the colder blaſts from that quarter; and, on the eaſt, by the delightful plains of Jordan.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXV.

2 That they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion cities to dwell in.] The Levites were plentifully provided for, by the laws concerning tythes and offerings; but it was alſo neceſſary, that when they came to Canaan, proper habitations ſhould be appointed for them, where they might live comfortably and uſefully.

Suburbs, &c.] Theſe were certain ſpaces of ground about and belonging to the cities, for paſtures, orchards, gardens, ſheep-houſes, barns, and other little rural conveniences.

4 A thouſand cubits, &c.] It is two thouſand in the Greek tranſlation; which, in the next verſe, is proved to be the right reading. Two thouſand cubits is about three-fourths of a mile.

the city ſhall be in the midſt: this ſhall be to them the ſuburbs of the cities.

6 And among the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites there ſhall be ſix cities for refuge, which ye ſhall appoint for the manſlayer, that he may flee thither: and to them ye ſhall add forty and two cities.

7 So all the cities which ye ſhall give to the Levites ſhall be forty and eight cities: them ſhall ye give with their ſuburbs.

8 And the cities which ye ſhall give ſhall be of the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael: from them that have many ye ſhall give many; but from them that have few ye ſhall give few: every one ſhall give of his cities unto the Levites according to his inheritance which he inheriteth.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come over Jordan into the land of Canaan;

11 Then ye ſhall appoint you cities to be cities of refuge for you; that the ſlayer may flee thither, which killeth any perſon at unawares.

12 And they ſhall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger; that the manſlayer die not, until he ſtand before the congregation in judgment.

13 And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge.

14 Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge.

15 Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger, and for the ſojourner among them: that every one that killeth any perſon unawares may flee thither.

16 And if he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron, ſo that he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

17 And if he ſmite him with throwing a ſtone, wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

18 Or if he ſmite him with an hand weapon of wood, wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

19 The revenger of blood himſelf ſhall ſlay the murderer: when he meeteth him, he ſhall ſlay him.

20 But if he thruſt him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die;

21 Or in enmity ſmite him with his hand, that he die: he that ſmote him ſhall ſurely be put to death; for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood ſhall ſlay the murderer, when he meeteth him.

22 But if he thruſt him ſuddenly without enmity, or have caſt upon him any thing without laying of wait,

23 Or with any ſtone, wherewith a man may die, ſeeing him not, and caſt it upon him, that he die, and was not his enemy, neither ſought his harm.

24 Then the congregation ſhall judge between the ſlayer and the revenger of blood according to theſe judgments:

25 And the congregation ſhall deliver the ſlayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation ſhall reſtore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he ſhall abide in it unto the death of the high prieſt, which was anointed with the holy oil.

Before CHRIST 1451.

26 But if the ſlayer ſhall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled;

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the ſlayer; he ſhall not be guilty of blood:

28 Becauſe he ſhould have remained in the city of his refuge until the death of the high prieſt: but after the death of the high prieſt the ſlayer ſhall return into the land of his poſſeſſion.

29 So theſe things ſhall be for a ſtatute of judgment unto you throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

30 Whoſo killeth any perſon, the murderer ſhall be put to death by the mouth of witneſſes: but one witneſs ſhall not teſtify againſt any perſon to cauſe him to die.

31 ¶ Moreover ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is guilty of death: but he ſhall be ſurely put to death.

32 And ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he ſhould come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the prieſt.

33 So ye ſhall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood it defileth the land: and the land cannot be cleanſed of the blood that is ſhed therein, but by the blood of him that ſhed it.

34 Defile not therefore the land which ye ſhall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for I the LORD dwell among the children of Iſrael.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXV.

The habitations for the Levites teach us to provide for thoſe who miniſter in holy things; and the laws about murderers denote the heinouſneſs of the crime, the curſe and puniſhment entailed upon it; and the extreme horror even the thought, and eſpecially whatever may lead to the crime, ſhould affect us with.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 The inconvenience of the inheritance of daughters is ſet forth. 5 It is remedied by their being reſtrained to marry in their own tribes. 10 The daughters of Zelophehad are married to their father's brothers' ſons.

AND the chief fathers of the families of the children of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of the ſons of Joſeph, came near, and ſpake before Moſes, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael:

2 And they ſaid, The LORD commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Iſrael: and my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother unto his daughters.

3 And if they be married to any of the ſons of the other tribes of the children of Iſrael, then ſhall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and ſhall be put to the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

---

6 Six cities for refuge, &c.] The Levites were to have, in all, forty-eight cities, ver. 7. out of theſe, ſix were to be privileged places, or cities of refuge, whither any perſon, who had the misfortune to kill another undeſignedly, might flee and take ſanctuary. Theſe aſylums were very different from thoſe of other nations; they did not ſcreen them who were guilty of wilful murder; but ſuch, according to the tenor of the ſame law, were to be dragged even from the horns of the altar.

16 If he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron, &c.] It was preſumed, if he aſſaulted a man with a weapon, he intended him a miſchief; though perhaps there was no malice prepenſe, and he did it in a paſſion.

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders—and—kill the ſlayer; he ſhall not be guilty, &c.] If Chriſtians, who have fled to Chriſt for ſuccour, forſake and wander from him, how can they, without an abſurdity, expect to be protected and ſaved by him!

30 One witneſs ſhall not teſtify againſt any perſon, &c.] In right reaſon there ſhould be two; for the witneſs who affirms, and the accuſed who denies, make an equal balance; a third, therefore, is neceſſarily required, to incline the ſcale.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXVI.

1 The chief fathers of the families, &c.] The portion that hath been given to the daughters of Zelophehad, and the laws which ordered the eſtates of thoſe who died without iſſue male, ſhould deſcend to their daughters, gave the elders of Iſrael ſome reaſon to fear, that by theſe heireſſes marrying into different tribes, the parts allotted to each would be confounded; as theſe eſtates would of courſe be alienated from their own tribe, and incorporated into another by the rights of their huſbands; nor would the year of jubile rectify this inconvenience, ſince theſe inheritances would, by the common right of marriage, deſcend, at the jubile, to the heirs of thoſe women who married in another tribe. Theſe conſiderations induced them to preſent a petition to Moſes, to deſire him to prevent this inconvenience by a particular law.

4 And when the jubile of the children of Iſrael ſhall be, then ſhall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

5 ¶ And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael according to the word of the LORD, ſaying, The tribe of the ſons of Joſeph hath ſaid well.

6 This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, ſaying, Let them marry to whom they think beſt; only to the family of the tribe of their father ſhall they marry.

7 So ſhall not the inheritance of the children of Iſrael remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

8 And every daughter, that poſſeſſeth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Iſrael, ſhall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Iſrael may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

9 Neither ſhall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to his own inheritance.

Before CHRIST 1451.

10 ¶ Even as the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did the daughters of Zelophehad:

11 For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers' ſons:

12 And they were married into the families of the ſons of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 Theſe are the commandments and the judgments, which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes unto the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXVI.

In what concerns private property, we are hereby taught to act with judgment, prudence and diſcretion, if we expect the divine bleſſing. As the people conſulted Moſes in difficult caſes, let us learn to ſeek advice from God in prayer, relying on the divine promiſe for aſſiſtance; and that to be regular in our conduct, will make us in ſome meaſure reſemble the bleſſed above, where all is harmony, order, peace and love.

6 Let them marry to whom they think beſt, &c.] They were not to marry to thoſe of another tribe or family, but in their own tribe. This was enjoined to preſerve order in the commonwealth; and particularly to prevent the mixture of the tribe of Judah (from which the Meſſiah was to deſcend) with other tribes.

8 Every daughter, that poſſeſſeth an inheritance, &c.] Heireſſes were to obſerve what is here commanded: but thoſe who had no inheritance, might marry into what tribe they pleaſed.

12 They were married into the families, &c.] In the Hebrew, To ſome who were of the families; that is, into one of the families of Manaſſeh, from whom ſeveral families deſcended; for they did not marry promiſcuouſly, but into their father's family, viz. that of Hepher.

13 Theſe are the commandments and the judgments, &c.] By "commandments," in this place, the precepts relating to the worſhip of God, ſeem to be underſtood; and by "judgments," the laws of civil polity.

The Fifth BOOK of MOSES, CALLED DEUTERONOMY.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book is called from the Greek, Deuteronomy, or, a ſecond law, being a recapitulation of the ſeveral laws already delivered. Thoſe Iſraelites, to whom the law was firſt given in the wilderneſs, being dead; a repetition of it ſeemed neceſſary to this new generation of men. There are contained ſeveral additional laws, explications, and enlargements, enforced by the ſtrongeſt and moſt pathetic motives to obedience, taking up about the ſpace of one month.

CHAP. I.

1 Moſes' ſpeech at the end of the fortieth year, 6 in which he rehearſeth the ſtory of God's ſending Iſrael from Horeb to go and poſſeſs the promiſed land, 9 of giving them officers, 19 of paſſing through the wilderneſs to Kadeſh, 22 of ſending the ſpies to ſearch the land, 34 and of God's anger for their incredulity and diſobedience.

1451. THESE be the words which Moſes ſpake unto all Iſrael on this ſide Jordan in the wilderneſs, in the plain over againſt the Red ſea, between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab.

3 And it came to paſs in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the firſt day of the month, that Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them;

4 After he had ſlain Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in Heſhbon, and Og the king of Baſhan, which dwelt in Aſtaroth in Edrei:

5 On this ſide Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moſes to declare this law, ſaying,

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. I.

1 Theſe be the words] All the paſſages and ſpeeches of this book were comprehended in the ſpace of a month. It begins on the firſt day of the eleventh month, and on the firſt day of the twelfth month Moſes is ſuppoſed to have died.

On this ſide Jordan] That is, on the eaſt, where they are encamped at this time.

Over againſt the Red ſea, &c.] Some interpreters explain it not of the ſea Zuph, (the Red or Arabian ſea) but rather of ſome flaggy place on the banks of the river Jordan; or elſe on the ſides of the Dead ſea, towards the wilderneſs of Arabia.

2 There are eleven days' journey, &c.] This was inſerted to ſhew, that it was the will and pleaſure of the Almighty, that what might have been effected in eleven days, the Iſraelites ſhould not accompliſh in leſs than thirty and eight years.

Before CHRIST 1451.

6 ¶ The LORD our God ſpake unto us in Horeb, ſaying, Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount:

7 Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the ſouth, and by the ſea ſide, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates.

8 Behold, I have ſet the land before you: go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to give unto them and to their ſeed after them.

9 ¶ And I ſpake unto you at that time, ſaying, I am not able to bear you myſelf alone:

10 The LORD your God hath multiplied you, and, behold, ye are this day as the ſtars of heaven for multitude.

11 (The LORD God of your fathers make you a thouſand times ſo many more as ye are, and bleſs you, as he hath promiſed you!)

12 How can I myſelf alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your ſtrife?

13 Take you wiſe men, and underſtanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you.

14 And ye anſwered me, and ſaid, The thing which thou haſt ſpoken is good for us to do.

15 So I took the chief of your tribes, wiſe men, and known, and made them heads over you, captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes.

16 And I charged your judges at that time, ſaying, Hear the cauſes between your brethren, and judge righteouſly between every man and his brother, and the ſtranger that is with him.

17 Ye ſhall not reſpect perſons in judgment; but ye ſhall hear the ſmall as well as the great; ye ſhall not be afraid of the face of man; for the judgment is God's: and the cauſe that is too hard for you, bring it unto me, and I will hear it.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye ſhould do.

19 ¶ And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible wilderneſs, which ye ſaw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the LORD our God commanded us; and we came to Kadeſh-barnea.

20 And I ſaid unto you, Ye are come unto the mountains of the Amorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath ſet the land before thee: go up and poſſeſs it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath ſaid unto thee; fear not, neither be diſcouraged.

22 ¶ And ye came near unto me every one of you, and ſaid, We will ſend men before us, and they ſhall ſearch us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we muſt go up, and into what cities we ſhall come.

23 And the ſaying pleaſed me well; and I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe:

24 And they turned and went up into the mountain, and came into the valley of Eſhcol, and ſearched it out.

25 And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and ſaid, It is a good land which the LORD our God doth give us.

Before CHRIST 1451.

26 Notwithſtanding ye would not go up, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God:

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hands of the Amorites, to deſtroy us.

28 Whither ſhall we go up? our brethren have diſcouraged our heart, ſaying, The people is greater and taller than we; the cities are great and walled up to heaven; and moreover we have ſeen the ſons of the Anakims there.

29 Then I ſaid unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them.

30 The LORD your God which goeth before you, he ſhall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes;

31 And in the wilderneſs, where thou haſt ſeen how that the LORD thy God bare thee, as a man doth bear his ſon, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.

32 Yet in this thing ye did not believe the LORD your God,

33 Who went in the way before you, to ſearch you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night, to ſhew you by what way ye ſhould go, and in a cloud by day.

34 ¶ And the LORD heard the voice of your words and was wroth, and ſware, ſaying,

35 Surely there ſhall not one of theſe men of this evil generation ſee that good land, which I ſware to give unto your fathers,

36 Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh; he ſhall ſee it, and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, becauſe he hath wholly followed the LORD.

37 Alſo the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, ſaying, Thou alſo ſhalt not go in thither.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, which ſtandeth before thee, he ſhall go in thither: encourage him: for he ſhall cauſe Iſrael to inherit it.

39 Moreover your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, and your children, which in that day had no knowledge between good and evil, they ſhall go in thither, and unto them will I give it, and they ſhall poſſeſs it.

40 But as for you, turn you, and take your journey into the wilderneſs by the way of the Red ſea.

41 Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, We have ſinned againſt the LORD, we will go up and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready to go up into the hill.

42 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Say unto them, Go not up, neither fight; for I am not among you; leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies.

43 So I ſpake unto you; and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD, and went preſumptuouſly up into the hill.

44 And the Amorites, which dwelt in that mountain, came out againſt you, and chaſed you, as bees do, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

45 And ye returned and wept before the LORD; but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you.

46 So ye abode in Kadeſh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

6 In Horeb, &c.] This paſſage would have been more properly tranſlated by or near Horeb; for God did not deliver his oracle from the mountain, but from the tabernacle.

14 The thing which thou haſt ſpoken is good for us to do.] This he mentions, not to court their applauſe, but to aggravate the ſin of their mutinies after this, to ſhew them, that the government they quarrelled with was what they themſelves had conſented to.

17 The judgment is God's, &c.] They were God's miniſters, and acted by his authority; and therefore ought to give judgment with perfect equity, reſolution, and impartiality, as being accountable to him.

28 Walled up to heaven, &c.] An hyperbolical expreſſion, implying no more than that the walls were exceedingly lofty.

38 Encourage him, &c.] Strengthen him; namely, by the impoſition of hands, whereby Moſes imparted ſome of his honour to Joſhua, and he was filled with the Spirit.

41 Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, We have ſinned againſt the Lord, &c.] God, by Moſes, forbad the attempt, and yet they went preſumptuouſly up to the hill; and, as if governed by a ſpirit of contradiction, acted now in contempt of the threatening, as they had before acted in contempt of the promiſe.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. I.

The author of the epiſtle to the Hebrews ſhews us the uſe we ought to make of this hiſtory, when he tells us, that as the murmurings and rebellions of the Iſraelites was the reaſon why they did not enter into the land of Canaan; ſo we ſhould take care that we be not excluded by our unbelief and diſobedience to the goſpel, from the heavenly Canaan, and from that reſt which is reſerved for the people of God.

CHAP. II.

1 The ſtory is continued, ſetting forth that they were not to meddle with the Edomites, 9 nor with the Moabites, 16 nor with the Ammonites: 24 but Sihon the Amorite was given up to be ſubdued by them.

THEN we turned, and took our journey into the wilderneſs by the way of the Red ſea, as the LORD ſpake unto me: and we compaſſed mount Seir many days.

2 And the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

3 Ye have compaſſed this mountain long enough: turn you northward.

4 And command thou the people, ſaying, Ye are to paſs through the coaſt of your brethren the children of Eſau, which dwell in Seir; and they ſhall be afraid of you: take ye good heed unto yourſelves therefore:

5 Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, no, not ſo much as a foot breadth; becauſe I have given mount Seir unto Eſau for a poſſeſſion.

6 Ye ſhall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye ſhall alſo buy water of them for money, that ye may drink.

7 For the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee in all the works of thy hand: he knoweth thy walking through this great wilderneſs: theſe forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee; thou haſt lacked nothing.

8 And when we paſſed by from our brethren the children of Eſau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, and from Ezion-gaber, we turned and paſſed by the way of the wilderneſs of Moab.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto me, Diſtreſs not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a poſſeſſion; becauſe I have given Ar unto the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion.

10 The Emims dwelt therein in times paſt, a people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims;

11 Which alſo were accounted giants, as the Anakims; but the Moabites call them Emims.

12 The Horims alſo dwelt in Seir beforetime; but the children of Eſau ſucceeded them, when they had deſtroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ſtead; as Iſrael did unto the land of his poſſeſſion, which the LORD gave unto them.

13 Now, riſe up, ſaid I, and get you over the brook Zered. And we went over the brook Zered.

14 And the ſpace in which we came from Kadeſh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were waſted out from among the hoſt, as the LORD ſware unto them.

15 For indeed the hand of the LORD was againſt them, to deſtroy them from among the hoſt, until they were conſumed.

16 ¶ So it came to paſs, when all the men of war were conſumed and dead from among the people, Before CHRIST 1451.

17 That the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying;

18 Thou art to paſs over through Ar, the coaſt of Moab, this day:

19 And when thou comeſt nigh over againſt the children of Ammon, diſtreſs them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any poſſeſſions; becauſe I have given it unto the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion.

20 (That alſo was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time; and the Ammonites call them Zamzummims;

21 A people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims; but the LORD deſtroyed them before them; and they ſucceeded them, and dwelt in their ſtead:

22 As he did to the children of Eſau, which dwelt in Seir, when he deſtroyed the Horims from before them: and they ſucceeded them, and dwelt in their ſtead even unto this day:

23 And the Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto Azzah, the Caphtorims, which came forth out of Caphtor, deſtroyed them, and dwelt in their ſtead.)

24 ¶ Riſe ye up, take your journey, and paſs over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thine hand Sihon the Amorite, king of Heſhbon, and his land: begin to poſſeſs it, and contend with him in battle.

25 This day will I begin to put the dread of thee and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who ſhall hear report of thee, and ſhall tremble, and be in anguiſh becauſe of thee.

26 And I ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs of Kedemoth unto Sihon king of Heſhbon with words of peace, ſaying,

27 Let me paſs through thy land: I will go along by the high way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left.

28 Thou ſhalt ſell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only I will paſs through on my feet;

29 (As the children of Eſau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I ſhall paſs over Jordan into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

30 But Sihon king of Heſhbon would not let us paſs by him: for the LORD thy God hardened his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

31 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee: begin to poſſeſs, that thou mayeſt inherit his land.

32 Then Sihon came out againſt us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz.

33 And the LORD our God delivered him before us; and we ſmote him, and his ſons, and all his people.

34 And we took all his cities at that time, and utterly deſtroyed the men, and the women, and the little ones, of every city, we left none to remain:

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on Chap. II.

1 Then we turned, &c.] From the borders of Canaan to go ſouthward. Moſes preſerves not the record of any thing that happened during that tedious march back to the Red ſea; but paſſeth it over in ſilence, as a dark time, and makes his narrative immediately begin again when they faced about towards Canaan. See ver. 3.

5 Meddle not with them, &c.] Thus, before God brought Iſrael to deſtroy their enemies in Canaan, he taught them to forgive their enemies in Edom.

6 Buy water, &c.] This may be underſtood of buying wells already digged.

9 I have given Ar] Ar was the name of the chief city of the Moabites; but here it implies the whole country.

Unto the children of Lot, &c.] God out of remembrance of the righteouſneſs of his ſervant Lot, is propitious to the Moabites, who were his poſterity.

10 The Emims, &c.] The original word ſignifies "terrible;" and was probably given them by the Moabites, from their being remarkably terrible to their neighbours.

12 The Horims alſo dwelt in Seir, &c.] This part of the hiſtory encourages the Iſraelites not to fear their ſtouteſt enemies, but rather to hope, that if the providence of God had done thus much for the Moabites and Edomites, he would do much more for Iſrael his peculiar people.

13 The brook Zered, &c.] Or bourn; a valley, with a river running through it.

20 Zamzummims.] They are ſuppoſed to be the ſame as are called Zuzims, Gen. xiv. 5. and the name ſignifies "vile" or "wicked."

23 The Avims] The antient inhabitants of the country, of which the Philiſtines afterwards poſſeſſed themſelves.

The Caphtorims, &c.] Theſe were a people joined both in kindred and habitation with the Philiſtines. See Gen. x. 14. Amos ix. 7.

30 The Lord thy God hardened his ſpirit, &c.] That is, gave him over to his own inflexible humour, and ſuffered his heart to be hardened: for he, denying their requeſt, drew upon himſelf their reſentment, provoked the war, and was the occaſion of his own deſtruction.

35 Only the cattle we took for a prey unto ourſelves, and the ſpoil of the cities which we took.

36 From Aroer, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too ſtrong for us: the LORD our God delivered all unto us:

37 Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou cameſt not, nor unto any place of the river Jabbok, nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatſoever the LORD our God forbad us.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. II.

We are taught, from this chapter, by the proceedings of the Edomites, never to injure others, eſpecially thoſe of our own kindred. By the Iſraelites being forbidden to do any harm to the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites, we may obſerve the care God took of thoſe people for the ſake of the patriarchs their progenitors; and that we ought not to revenge ourſelves, nor deprive others of what God has given them. The ſubduing the country of the Amorites by the aſſiſtance of God, and his promiſes thereby beginning to be accompliſhed, was an earneſt that God would put them into the poſſeſſion of the whole country. Let us, therefore, by faith in God's promiſes, look for the heavenly Canaan above.

CHAP. III.

1 The ſtory of the conqueſt of Og king of Baſhan; the ſize of his bed; 12 the diſtribution of the conquered lands to the two tribes and half; 18 the charge given to theſe by Moſes, 21 and his exhortation to Joſhua; 23 his prayer that he might enter into the land, which is not accepted; but he is permitted to ſee the land.

THEN we turned, and went up the way to Baſhan: and Og the king of Baſhan came out againſt us, he and all his people, to battle at Edrei.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land, into thy hand; and thou ſhalt do unto him as thou didſt unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

3 So the LORD our God delivered into our hands Og alſo, the king of Baſhan, and all his people: and we ſmote him until none was left to him remaining.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threeſcore cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

5 All theſe cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars; beſide unwalled towns a great many.

6 And we utterly deſtroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king of Heſhbon, utterly deſtroying the men, women, and children, of every city.

7 But all the cattle, and the ſpoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourſelves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites the land that was on this ſide Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Hermon;

9 (Which Hermon the Sidonians call Sirion; and the Amorites call it Shenir;)

10 All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and all Baſhan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

11 For only Og king of Baſhan remained of the remnant of giants; behold, his bedſtead was a bedſtead of iron; is it not in Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

12 ¶ And this land, which we poſſeſſed at that time, from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and to the Gadites. Before CHRIST 1451.

13 And the reſt of Gilead, and all Baſhan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manaſſeh; all the region of Argob, with all Baſhan, which was called the land of giants.

14 Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh took all the country of Argob unto the coaſts of Geſhuri and Maachathi; and called them after his own name, Baſhan-havoth-jair, unto this day.

15 And I gave Gilead unto Machir.

16 And unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon half the valley, and the border even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon;

17 The plain alſo, and Jordan, and the coaſt thereof, from Chinnereth even unto the ſea of the plain, even the ſalt ſea, under Aſhdoth-piſgah eaſtward.

18 ¶ And I commanded you at that time, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you the land to poſſeſs it: ye ſhall paſs over armed before your brethren the children of Iſrael, all that are meet for the war.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (for I know that ye have much cattle,) ſhall abide in your cities which I have given you;

20 Until the LORD have given reſt unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they alſo poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then ſhall ye return every man unto his poſſeſſion, which I have given you.

21 ¶ And I commanded Joſhua at that time, ſaying, Thine eyes have ſeen all that the LORD your God hath done unto theſe two kings: ſo ſhall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou paſſeſt.

22 Ye ſhall not fear them: for the LORD your God he ſhall fight for you.

23 ¶ And I beſought the LORD at that time, ſaying,

24 O Lord GOD, thou haſt begun to ſhew thy ſervant thy greatneſs, and thy mighty hand: for what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might?

25 I pray thee let me go over, and ſee the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon.

26 But the LORD was wroth with me for your ſakes, and would not hear me: and the LORD ſaid unto me, Let it ſuffice thee; ſpeak no more unto me of this matter.

27 Get thee up into the top of Piſgah, and lift up thine eyes weſtward, and northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

28 But charge Joſhua, and encourage him, and ſtrengthen him: for he ſhall go over before this people, and he ſhall cauſe them to inherit the land which thou ſhalt ſee.

29 So we abode in the valley over againſt Beth-peor.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

What is moſt remarkable in this chapter, is, the earneſt requeſt of Moſes, that he might go into the land of Canaan, and God's refuſing him that favour. This is a leſſon to us, that God does not always hear thoſe prayers which concern temporal affairs; and that though he pardons thoſe whom he loves, he nevertheleſs thinks fit ſometimes to puniſh them in this life, for certain ſins which they have committed. David was a notable inſtance of this.

CHAP.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

9 Which Hermon the Sidonians call, &c.] This mountain had five names, Hermon, Sirion, Shenir, Sion, and Hor; ſome of which Moſes here enumerates that the Iſraelites, who were to conſider this mountain as the northern boundary, might not be miſled by this diverſity of appellations.

11 Of the remnant of giants] What we render giants, is in the Hebrew rephaim; ſee Gen. xiv. 5.

A bedſtead of iron] Bedſteads of iron were not uncommon in antient days, though of much later date. When the Thebans took Platæa, they made bedſteads of the braſs and iron they found there.

Is it not in Rabbath] As a monument of his extraordinary ſtature, his bedſtead was preſerved by the Ammorites, and ſhewed as a curioſity in their chief city.

Nine cubits, &c.] Hence it appears, that Og was ſix cubits high, reckoning the bedſtead to have been made, according to the common cuſtom, a third part larger than the perſon who lay in it; conſequently he was ten feet and an half of our meaſure in height, or twice as tall as an ordinary man.

14 Baſhan-havoth-jair, &c.] Baſhan, the towns of Jair.

CHAP. IV.

Before CHRIST 1451.

1 An exhortation to obedience from God's paſt dealings; 15 and a particular diſſuaſive againſt idolatry, 25 and ſolemn admonition of the ill conſequences of diſobedience, and of the happy conſequences of returning to God. 32 The eſpecial regard ſhewn to the Iſraelites in God's wonderful dealings with them. 41 Moſes appointeth the three cities of refuge on the eaſt ſide of Jordan. 44 Recapitulation.

NOW therefore hearken, O Iſrael, unto the ſtatutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth you.

2 Ye ſhall not add unto the word which I command you, neither ſhall ye diminiſh ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you.

3 Your eyes have ſeen what the LORD did becauſe of Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath deſtroyed them from among you.

4 But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God are alive every one of you this day.

5 Behold, I have taught you ſtatutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye ſhould do ſo in the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it.

6 Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wiſdom and your underſtanding in the ſight of the nations, which ſhall hear all theſe ſtatutes, and ſay, Surely this great nation is a wiſe and underſtanding people.

7 For what nation is there ſo great, who hath God ſo nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

8 And what nation is there ſo great, that hath ſtatutes and judgments ſo righteous as all this law, which I ſet before you this day?

9 Only take heed to thyſelf, and keep thy ſoul diligently, leſt thou forget the things which thine eyes have ſeen, and leſt they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but teach them thy ſons, and thy ſons' ſons;

10 Specially the day that thou ſtoodeſt before the LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD ſaid unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they ſhall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children.

11 And ye came near and ſtood under the mountain; and the mountain burned with fire unto the midſt of heaven, with darkneſs, clouds, and thick darkneſs.

12 And the LORD ſpake unto you out of the midſt of the fire: ye heard the voice of the words, but ſaw no ſimilitude; only ye heard a voice.

13 And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even ten commandments; and he wrote them upon two tables of ſtone.

14 And the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you ſtatutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to poſſeſs it.

15 ¶ Take ye therefore good heed unto yourſelves; for ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude on the day that the LORD ſpake unto you in Horeb out of the midſt of the fire: Before CHRIST 1451.

16 Leſt ye corrupt yourſelves, and make you a graven image, the ſimilitude of any figure, the likeneſs of male or female,

17 The likeneſs of any beaſt that is on the earth, the likeneſs of any winged fowl that flieth in the air,

18 The likeneſs of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeneſs of any fiſh that is in the waters beneath the earth:

19 And leſt thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun, and the moon, and the ſtars, even all the hoſt of heaven, ſhouldeſt be driven to worſhip them, and ſerve them, which the LORD thy God hath divided unto all nations under the whole heaven.

20 But the LORD hath taken you, and brought you forth out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day.

21 Furthermore the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, and ſware that I ſhould not go over Jordan, and that I ſhould not go in unto that good land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance:

22 But I muſt die in this land, I muſt not go over Jordan: but ye ſhall go over, and poſſeſs that good land.

23 Take heed unto yourſelves, leſt ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, and make you a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For the LORD thy God is a conſuming fire, even a jealous God.

25 ¶ When thou ſhalt beget children, and children's children, and ye ſhall have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt yourſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger:

26 I call heaven and earth to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it; ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it, but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

27 And the LORD ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD ſhall lead you.

28 And there ye ſhall ſerve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and ſtone, which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell.

29 But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him with all thy heart and with all thy ſoul.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things are come upon thee, even in the latter days, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and ſhalt be obedient unto his voice;

31 (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God;) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he ſware unto them.

32 ¶ For aſk now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IV.

1 Now therefore hearken, &c.] Moſes exhorts them, in the moſt ſerious and affectionate manner, as they were about to enter into and poſſeſs the promiſed land, to be punctually obedient to the laws of God, and cautious of offending him, for fear of incurring his diſpleaſure.

2 Ye ſhall not add—neither ſhall ye diminiſh, &c.] He ſhall neither add to the law which I have given you, any heatheniſh ſuperſtition, or modes of worſhip, of your own invention; nor ſhall you wilfully omit any plain duty which it requires.

7 Who hath God ſo nigh them, &c.] The Jews were the only nation under heaven that had a ſymbol of God's preſence continually among them.

15 For ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude, &c.] Moſes puts them in mind of this particular, as a ſtrong and everlaſting argument to keep them clear of all ſuperſtitious or idolatrous worſhip of him, by the uſe of any kind of image, picture, or reſemblance of any created being.

19 Leſt thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun, &c.] The heavenly luminaries were the firſt prophane objects of adoration, and the moſt plauſible idolatry; leading the adoration to thoſe creatures that not only are in ſituation above us, but are moſt ſerviceably glorious in themſelves. The plauſibility of this ſpecies of idolatry made it the more dangerous, and the more neceſſary for Moſes to caution the people againſt it; ſo ſtrong is the temptation to ſenſe! ſo forcible is the impulſe of a vain imagination, and the impetuous torrent of the cuſtom of the nations! and ſo weak is faith in an inviſible God, and an inviſible world!

24 The Lord thy God is a conſuming fire, &c.] God, from the rectitude of his nature, will be as far from letting moral evils paſs with impunity, as fire is from conſuming its proper fuel.

26 I call heaven and earth to witneſs, &c.] He conjures them, by all that is ſacred in heaven and earth, not to incur thoſe evils which await their diſobedience.

upon the earth, and ask from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it?

33 Did ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live?

34 Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

35 Unto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest know that the LORD he is God; there is none else beside him.

36 Out of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire.

37 And because he loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and brought thee out in his sight with his mighty power out of Egypt;

38 To drive out nations from before thee greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else.

40 Thou shalt keep therefore his statutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, for ever.

41 ¶ Then Moses severed three cities on this side Jordan toward the sun rising:

42 That the slayer might flee thither, which should kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times past: and that fleeing unto one of these cities he might live:

43 Namely, Bezer in the wilderness, in the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, of the Manassites.

44 ¶ And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel:

45 These are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came forth out of Egypt,

46 On this side Jordan, in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel smote, after they were come forth out of Egypt:

47 And they possessed his land, and the land of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this side Jordan toward the sun rising;

48 From Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is Hermon,

49 And all the plain on this side Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the springs of Pisgah.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

The admonitions and cautions given by Moses to the Israelites, as they were to them incentives to duty; so also should they make a still greater impression upon us, whom God has chosen to be his true people, and for whom he has wrought greater miracles than he did for the Jews.

CHAP. V.

Before CHRIST 1451.

1 A commemoration of the covenant in Horeb. 6 The ten commandments. 7 The first table. 16 The second table 22 At the people's request Moses receiveth the law from God.

AND Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgment which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them.

2 The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. 1491.

3 The LORD made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day.

4 The LORD talked with you face to face in the mount out of the midst of the fire,

5 (I stood between the LORD and you at that time, to shew you the word of the LORD: for ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and went not up into the mount;) saying,

6 ¶ I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

7 Thou shalt have none other gods before me.

8 Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth:

9 Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of thy fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me,

10 And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me and keep my commandments.

11 Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain: for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

12 Keep the sabbath day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee.

13 Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work:

14 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thine ox, nor thine ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates; that thy manservant and thy maidservant may rest as well as thou.

15 And remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand and by a stretched out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath day.

16 ¶ Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

17 Thou shalt not kill.

18 Neither shalt thou commit adultery.

19 Neither shalt thou steal.

20 Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour.

21 Neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's wife, neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's house, his field, or his manservant, or his maidservant, his ox, or his ass, or any thing that is thy neighbour's.

22 ¶ These

36 His great fire, &c.] Some rays of that transcendent brightness with which he is said to clothe himself, and which shines out in all its glory to the saints in heaven.

46 Beth-peor, &c.] An idol temple of the Moabites.

49 The sea of the plain, &c.] Or, the sea of salt; that is, the lake of Sodom, or the Dead sea.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. V.

4 Talked with you face to face, &c.] Not in dark visions, as of old he spake unto the fathers; but so as that all the thousands of Israel might hear and understand. The Israelites beheld a conspicuous symbol of the divine presence, and heard a divine voice, clearly and distinctly, as one man talks with another face to face.

6 I am the Lord, &c.] See the commentary on Exod. xx.

15 Remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, &c.] The argument brought to enforce the observation of the sabbath, is the deliverance of the Israelites out of Egypt; perhaps, because it was typical of our redemption by Jesus Christ; in remembrance of which the Christian sabbath was to be observed.

16 That it may go well with thee, &c.] This is also an addition to what we meet with, Exod. xx. 12, as a farther motive to obedience.

Before CHRIST 1451.

22 ¶ Theſe words the LORD ſpake unto all your aſſembly in the mount out of the midſt of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkneſs, with a great voice: and he added no more. And he wrote them in two tables of ſtone, and delivered them unto me.

23 And it came to paſs, when ye heard the voice out of the midſt of the darkneſs, (for the mountain did burn with fire,) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders;

24 And ye ſaid, Behold, the LORD our God hath ſhewed us his glory and his greatneſs, and we have heard his voice out of the midſt of the fire: we have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and he liveth.

25 Now therefore why ſhould we die? for this great fire will conſume us: if we hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we ſhall die.

26 For who is there of all fleſh, that hath heard the voice of the living God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as we have, and lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God ſhall ſay: and ſpeak thou unto us all that the LORD our God ſhall ſpeak unto thee; and we will hear it, and do it.

28 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye ſpake unto me; and the LORD ſaid unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have ſpoken unto thee: they have well ſaid all that they have ſpoken.

29 O that there were ſuch an heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever!

30 Go ſay to them, Get you into your tents again.

31 But as for thee, ſtand thou here by me, and I will ſpeak unto thee all the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which thou ſhalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to poſſeſs it.

32 Ye ſhall obſerve to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you: ye ſhall not turn aſide to the right hand or to the left.

33 Ye ſhall walk in all the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye ſhall poſſeſs.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

The dread which the publication of the law cauſed in the Jews, ſhould make us remember that our God is a conſuming fire to the tranſgreſſors of it; and fear the terrible puniſhment with which thoſe are threatened who deſpiſe the voice of Jeſus Chriſt. We may learn from hence, that nothing is more acceptable to God than the chearful obedience of his creatures; and that his care is, to load them with his favours.

CHAP. VI.

1 The end of the law is obedience: 3 An exhortation thereto. 20 What they are required to teach their children concerning it.

NOW theſe are the commandments, the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it:

Before CHRIST 1451.

2 That thou mighteſt fear the LORD thy God, to keep all his ſtatutes and his commandments, which I command thee, thou, and thy ſon, and thy ſon's ſon, all the days of thy life; and that thy days may be prolonged.

3 ¶ Hear therefore, O Iſrael, and obſerve to do it; that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increaſe mightily, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee, in the land that floweth with milk and honey.

4 Hear, O Iſrael: the LORD our God is one LORD:

5 ¶ And thou ſhalt love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy might.

6 And theſe words, which I command thee this day, ſhall be in thine heart:

7 And thou ſhalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up.

8 And thou ſhalt bind them for a ſign upon thine hand, and they ſhall be as frontlets between thine eyes.

9 And thou ſhalt write them upon the poſts of thy houſe, and on thy gates.

10 And it ſhall be, when the LORD thy God ſhall have brought thee into the land which he ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give thee great and goodly cities, which thou buildeſt not,

11 And houſes full of all good things, which thou filledſt not, and wells digged, which thou diggedſt not, vineyards and olive trees, which thou plantedſt not; when thou ſhalt have eaten and be full;

12 Then beware leſt thou forget the LORD, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage.

13 Thou ſhalt fear the LORD thy God, and ſerve him, and ſhalt ſwear by his name.

14 Ye ſhall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you;

15 (For the LORD thy God is a jealous God among you) leſt the anger of the LORD thy God be kindled againſt thee, and deſtroy thee from off the face of the earth.

16 Ye ſhall not tempt the LORD your God, as ye tempted him in Maſſah.

17 Ye ſhall diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes, which he hath commanded thee.

18 And thou ſhalt do that which is right and good in the ſight of the LORD: that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayeſt go in and poſſeſs the good land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, 19 To caſt out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

20 ¶ And when thy ſon aſketh thee in time to come, ſaying, What mean the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which the LORD our God hath commanded you?

21 Then thou ſhalt ſay unto thy ſon, We were Pharaoh's bondmen in Egypt; and the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand:

22 And the LORD ſhewed ſigns and wonders, great and

22 And he added no more, &c.] God pronounced the decalogue immediately to the people; the reſt of the law was given to Moſes, and by him delivered to the people.

29 O that there were ſuch an heart in them, &c.] This expreſſion denotes, that men's compliance with their duty, and the happineſs which from thence ariſes to them, are things highly pleaſing and acceptable to God.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VI.

3 Obſerve to do it, &c.] To do them, namely, the ſtatutes and commandments.

4 The Lord our God is one Lord.] As polytheiſm is the great error of the world, the Jewiſh religion and laws were calculated to ſtrike at the root of this epidemical evil; therefore the firſt and fundamental article of their creed is, that as there is but one ſupreme God, Jehovah, ſo he alone is to be the object of worſhip, in oppoſition to heatheniſh idols and falſe gods.

8 For a ſign upon thine hand, &c.] See commentary on Exod. xiii. 9.

9 Upon the poſts of thy houſe, and on thy gates.] Some wrote them on little rolls of parchment, which they faſtened to their gates; others incloſed them in a caſe, which they faſtened to the gate, or put into a hole in the wall; on this place the devotees laid their hands when they went out, and ſaid, "the Lord preſerve my going out, and my coming in."

13 And ſhall ſwear by his name.] To ſwear to the Lord of hoſts, is to profeſs the true religion, Iſaiah xix. 18. and in Pſalm lxiii. 11. every one that ſweareth by him, means every worſhipper of the true God.

15 Leſt the anger of the Lord, &c.] We never find, either in the law or the prophets, that anger, fury, jealouſy, or indignation, are attributed to God, but upon occaſion of idolatry.

and ſore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his houſhold, before our eyes:

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers.

24 And the LORD commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the LORD our God, for our good always, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is at this day.

25 And it ſhall be our righteouſneſs, if we obſerve to do all theſe commandments before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VI.

This chapter inſtructs us, that our chief care ought to be to love and obey God, and to adhere inviolably to his word; that the bounden duty of parents is, to teach their children in the law and fear of the Lord; and to be always ſpeaking of his mercies, his commandments and judgments; we ſhould alſo learn, never to abuſe the favours of God, but to be always meditating upon them, ſo that we may both fear and love him, which alone can make us happy.

CHAP. VII.

1 All communication with the ſeven nations of Canaan is forbidden for fear of idolatry, 6 and in conſideration of the holineſs of the people. 9 The juſtice and mercy of God's nature a motive to obedience. 12 Bleſſings and victory are aſſured to them from God in return. 25 Images muſt be wholly deſtroyed.

WHEN the LORD thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, ſeven nations greater and mightier than thou;

2 And when the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them before thee, thou ſhalt ſmite them, and utterly deſtroy them: thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor ſhew mercy unto them:

3 Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter ſhalt thou take unto thy ſon.

4 For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods: ſo will the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly.

5 But thus ſhall ye deal with them; ye ſhall deſtroy their altars, and break down their images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire.

6 ¶ For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God: the LORD thy God hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial people unto himſelf, above all people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The LORD did not ſet his love upon you, nor chuſe you, becauſe ye were more in number than any people; for ye were the feweſt of all people:

8 But becauſe the LORD loved you, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondmen, from the hand of Pharoah king of Egypt.

9 ¶ Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thouſand generations;

Before CHRIST 1452.

10 And repayeth them that hate him to their face, to deſtroy them: he will not be ſlack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face.

11 Thou ſhalt therefore keep the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them.

12 ¶ Wherefore it ſhall come to paſs, if ye hearken to theſe judgments, and keep, and do them, that the LORD thy God ſhall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he ſware unto thy fathers:

13 And he will love thee, and bleſs thee, and multiply thee: he will alſo bleſs the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep, in the land which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee.

14 Thou ſhalt be bleſſed above all people: there ſhall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle.

15 And the LORD will take away from thee all ſickneſs, and will put none of the evil diſeaſes of Egypt, which thou knoweſt, upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

16 And thou ſhalt conſume all the people which the LORD thy God ſhall deliver thee; thine eye ſhall have no pity upon them: neither ſhalt thou ſerve their gods; for that will be a ſnare unto thee.

17 If thou ſhalt ſay in thine heart, Theſe nations are more than I; how can I diſpoſſeſs them?

18 Thou ſhalt not be afraid of them: but ſhalt well remember what the LORD thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

19 The great temptations which thine eyes ſaw, and the ſigns, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the ſtretched out arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: ſo ſhall the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid.

20 Moreover the LORD thy God will ſend the hornet among them, until they that are left, and hide themſelves from thee, be deſtroyed.

21 Thou ſhalt not be affrighted at them: for the LORD thy God is among you, a mighty God and terrible.

22 And the LORD thy God will put out thoſe nations before thee by little and little: thou mayeſt not conſume them at once, leſt the beaſts of the field increaſe upon thee.

23 But the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them unto thee, and ſhall deſtroy them with a mighty deſtruction, until they be deſtroyed.

24 And he ſhall deliver their kings into thine hand, and thou ſhalt deſtroy their name from under heaven: there ſhall no man be able to ſtand before thee, until thou have deſtroyed them.

25 ¶ The graven images of their gods ſhall ye burn with fire: thou ſhalt not deſire the ſilver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, leſt thou be ſnared therein: for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God.

26 Neither ſhalt thou bring an abomination into thine houſe,

---

25 It ſhall be our righteouſneſs, &c.] The Greek tranſlateth it, Mercy ſhall be to us; but here it meaneth juſtice, or righteouſneſs; whereby men, if they could perform the law (which indeed they cannot do) might be juſtified before God.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VII.

2 And utterly deſtroy them, &c.] If either the incorrigible wickedneſs of my people, or the danger of their corrupting others by their enticements and bad examples, may be deemed a ſufficient reaſon (as it is in all civil governments to cut off obnoxious members) for God to rid himſelf of any nation that has incurred his higheſt diſpleaſure; the Iſraelites, who were only inſtruments in God's hands, are no more to be blamed for executing the Almighty's commands, than the perſon who apprehends a malefactor, and brings him to condign puniſhment, is to be thought culpable by the laws of the land.

7 The Lord did not ſet his love upon you, &c.] It is not your numbers, nor your ſtrength, nor any qualifications of your own, that induced God to confer theſe ſingular privileges upon you; but it was the completion of the promiſes made to your anceſtors, to which you are indebted for all the diſtinguiſhing bleſſings of your nation.

18 Shalt well remember what the Lord thy God did unto Pharaoh, &c.] The Iſraelites might perhaps think, that the moſt numerous muſt needs be victorious; but to fortify them againſt this temptation, they were to call to mind the deſtruction of Pharaoh and all the power of Egypt, the ſigns and wonders wherewith God had brought them out of Egypt, in order to ſettle them in Canaan.

20 The Lord thy God will ſend the hornet, &c.] They were not to diſhearten themſelves on account of the weakneſs and deficiency of their own forces; for God would ſend them in auxiliary troops of hornets and waſps, which ſhould ſo terrify and moleſt their enemies, that their moſt numerous armies would become an eaſy prey to Iſrael.

Before CHRIST 1451. houſe, leſt thou be a curſed thing like it: but thou ſhalt utterly deteſt it, and thou ſhalt utterly abhor it; for it is a curſed thing.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

To make a right uſe of this chapter, we ſhould conſider that the Canaanites were deſtroyed not only for their abominable wickedneſs, but that the Iſraelites might not by them be drawn into iniquity and idolatry; whence it appears, that God does at laſt deſtroy nations, when their wickedneſs is become enormous; and that we ſhould be afraid to have any dealings with the prophane, leſt we be involved in their ſins and puniſhment.

CHAP. VIII.

An exhortation to obedience in regard of God's mercy and goodneſs in his dealings with Iſrael.

ALL the commandments which I command thee this day ſhall ye obſerve to do that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers.

2 And thou ſhalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee theſe forty years in the wilderneſs, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldeſt keep his commandments, or no.

3 And he humbled thee, and ſuffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, which thou kneweſt not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.

4 Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot ſwell, theſe forty years.

5 Thou ſhalt alſo conſider in thine heart, that, as a man chaſteneth his ſon, ſo the LORD thy God chaſteneth thee.

6 Therefore thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that ſpring out of valleys and hills;

8 A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates; a land of oil olive, and honey;

9 A land wherein thou ſhalt eat bread without ſcarceneſs, thou ſhalt not lack any thing in it; a land whoſe ſtones are iron, and out of whoſe hills thou mayeſt dig braſs.

10 When thou haſt eaten and art full, then thou ſhalt bleſs the LORD thy God for the good land which he hath given thee.

11 Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day:

12 Leſt when thou haſt eaten and art full, and haſt built goodly houſes, and dwelt therein;

13 And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy ſilver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou haſt is multiplied;

14 Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage; Before CHRIST 1451.

15 Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderneſs, wherein were fiery ſerpents, and ſcorpions, and drought, where there was no water; who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint;

16 Who fed thee in the wilderneſs with manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end;

17 And thou ſay in thine heart, My power and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou ſhalt remember the LORD thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may eſtabliſh his covenant which he ſware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

19 And it ſhall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and ſerve them, and worſhip them, I teſtify againſt you this day that ye ſhall ſurely periſh.

20 As the nations which the LORD deſtroyeth before your face, ſo ſhall ye periſh; becauſe ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

We have, in this chapter, two inſtructions, drawn from the favours and corrections of God to excite us to fear him, and alſo to meditate upon the mercies and afflictions which come from his hand. From hence we are alſo taught, that men are too prone to abuſe proſperity; that they forget God, and fall into pride and ſin, when they are too much at their eaſe; and thereby force God to take from them thoſe comforts and that plenty of which they made ſo ill an uſe.

CHAP. IX.

1 Moſes diſſuadeth them from the opinion of their own righteouſneſs, 7 by rehearſing their ſeveral rebellions.

HEAR, O Iſrael: Thou art to paſs over Jordan this day, to go in to poſſeſs nations greater and mightier than thyſelf, cities great and fenced up to heaven,

2 A people great and tall, the children of the Anakims, whom thou knoweſt, and of whom thou haſt heard ſay, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak!

3 Underſtand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before thee; as a conſuming fire he ſhall deſtroy them, and he ſhall bring them down before thy face: ſo ſhalt thou drive them out, and deſtroy them quickly, as the LORD hath ſaid unto thee.

4 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath caſt them out from before thee, ſaying, For my righteouſneſs the LORD hath brought me in to poſſeſs this land: but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.

5 Not for thy righteouſneſs, or for the uprightneſs of thine heart, doſt thou go to poſſeſs their land: but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform the word which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob.

6 Underſtand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. VIII.

3 Man doth not live by bread only, but by every word, &c.] He ſupplies your wants by his miraculous hand, to convince you, that the ſuſtenance and preſervation of your life is not owing to mere bread or ordinary food; but to the word or power of God, and to any thing that he ſhall pleaſe to appoint to be the means of your nouriſhment.

4 Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy feet ſwell, &c.] As nothing hindered the Iſraelites from trafficking with their Arabian neighbours, it is evident they might have been ſupplied with cloaths, either by making or purchaſing them: theſe words of Moſes have therefore been explained thus: "Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee;" that is, Providence has been ſo liberal in ſupplying your wants in this deſert land, that you have never through poverty, been obliged to let your cloaths wax old upon you, but have always been ſupplied with new before the old were worn out.

9 Whoſe ſtones are iron, &c.] Whoſe iron mines are as plentiful as quarries of ſtone in other places.

14 Then thine heart be lifted up, &c.] For want of reflecting on the inſtability of human affairs, men think themſelves ſelf-ſufficient, and loſe that juſt ſenſe which they ought to have of the ſovereignty of their Maker, and their abſolute and neceſſary dependance upon him.

15 The rock of flint.] The rock of Meribah, which has continued to this day, without the leaſt injury from time or accidents, and is here called "the rock of flint," may, from its purple or reddiſh colour, be more properly rendered, the rock of amethyſt, or the granate rock. It is about ſix yards ſquare, lying looſe near the valley of Rephidim, and ſeems to have been formerly a cliff of mount Sinai, which hangs in a variety of precipices all over this valley.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on CHAP. X.

1 This day, &c.] At this time, that is, very ſhortly; "day" is often uſed in ſcripture for time; among other places, ſee 2 Cor. vi. 2.

5 Not for thy righteouſneſs, &c.] Though the Canaanites were expelled for their national wickedneſs, it does not follow that the Iſraelites were ſettled in their room for their own virtue. God often chaſtiſes the wicked by means of others, who are full as wicked as they.

Before CHRIST 1451. giveth thee not this good land to poſſeſs it for thy righteouſneſs; for thou art a ſtiffnecked people.

7 ¶ Remember, and forget not how thou provokedſt the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderneſs: from the day that thou didſt depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD.

8 Alſo in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, ſo that the LORD was angry with you to have deſtroyed you.

9 When I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights, I neither did eat bread nor drink water:

10 And the LORD delivered unto me two tables of ſtone written with the finger of God; and on them was written according to all the words, which the LORD ſpake with you in the mount out of the midſt of the fire in the day of the aſſembly.

11 And it came to paſs at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Ariſe, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt have corrupted themſelves; they are quickly turned aſide out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.

13 Furthermore the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, I have ſeen this people, and, behold, it is a ſtiffnecked people:

14 Let me alone, that I may deſtroy them, and blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they.

15 So I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And I looked, and, behold, ye had ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aſide quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you.

17 And I took the two tables, and caſt them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes.

18 And I fell down before the LORD, as at the firſt, forty days and forty nights: I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, becauſe of all your ſins which ye ſinned, in doing wickedly in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

19 For I was afraid of the anger and hot diſpleaſure, wherewith the LORD was wroth againſt you to deſtroy you. But the LORD hearkened unto me at that time alſo.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have deſtroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron alſo the ſame time.

21 And I took your ſin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, even until it was as ſmall as duſt: and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook that deſcended out of the mount.

22 And at Taberah, and at Maſſah, and at Kibrothhataavah, ye provoked the LORD to wrath.

23 Likewiſe when the LORD ſent you from Kadeſhbarnea, ſaying, Go up and poſſeſs the land which I have given you; then ye rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice. Before CHRIST 1451.

24 Ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD from the day that I knew you.

25 Thus I fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the firſt; becauſe the LORD had ſaid he would deſtroy you.

26 I prayed therefore unto the LORD, and ſaid, O Lord GOD, deſtroy not thy people and thine inheritance, which thou haſt redeemed through thy greatneſs, which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

27 Remember thy ſervants, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob; look not unto the ſtubbornneſs of this people, nor to their wickedneſs, nor to their ſin:

28 Leſt the land whence thou broughteſt us out ſay, Becauſe the LORD was not able to bring them into the land which he promiſed them, and becauſe he hated them, he hath brought them out to ſlay them in the wilderneſs.

29 Yet they are thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt out by thy mighty power and by thy ſtretched out arm.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

The inſtruction we are to derive from this chapter is, that it is to the mercy of God alone that we are obliged for all our happineſs; and that the remembrance of his mercies, and of our own unworthineſs, ought always to be preſent with us, and incline us to humility and gratitude.

CHAP. X.

1 Moſes proceedeth to relate the mercy of God in reſtoring the two tables, 6 continuing the prieſthood, 8 ſeparating the tribe of Levi, 10 and hearkening unto his ſuit for the people. 12 He exhorteth to obedience.

AT that time the LORD ſaid unto me, Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark of wood.

2 And I will write on the tables the words that were in the firſt tables which thou brakeſt, and thou ſhalt put them in the ark.

3 And I made an ark of ſhittim wood, and hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand.

4 And he wrote on the tables, according to the firſt writing, the ten commandments, which the LORD ſpake unto you in the mount out of the midſt of the fire in the day of the aſſembly: and the LORD gave them unto me.

5 And I turned myſelf and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made; and there they be, as the LORD commanded me.

6 ¶ And the children of Iſrael took their journey from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to Moſera: there Aaron died, and there he was buried; and Eleazar his ſon miniſtered in the prieſt's office in his ſtead.

7 From thence they journeyed unto Gudgodah; and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters.

8 ¶ At that time the LORD ſeparated the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to ſtand

7 Forget not, how thou provokeſt the Lord thy God to wrath, &c.] That they might have no pretence to think that God brought them into the land of Canaan for their righteouſneſs: he here ſhews them, what a miracle of mercy it was, that they had not long ere this been deſtroyed in the wilderneſs: ſo far from purchaſing his favour, he reminds them, that they had many times laid themſelves open to his diſpleaſure.

12 Thy people which, &c.] This expreſſion denotes the extreme anger of God: he ſeems here to abandon them, throws them out of his care, and diſowns them: they are thy people, ſays he to Moſes, they are none of mine, nor ſhall they be dealt with as mine.

26 I prayed therefore unto the Lord, &c.] From the manner of this prayer it appears, that it was entirely owing to the mercy of God, and the importunity of Moſes, and not to any merit of theirs, that the Iſraelites ſtood indebted for pardon and reconciliation.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. X.

6 Took their journey from Beeroth—to Moſera: there Aaron died, &c.] It ſeems very plain, from the account which we have of their encampments, in Numb. xxxiii. that mount Hor and Moſera were two diſtinct places; and therefore ſome have maintained, that the ſixth and ſeventh verſes of this chapter, in the common Hebrew text, have been extremely corrupted by the ignorance of ſome tranſcribers; becauſe the Samaritan makes the account, here given, exactly agree with the order of the encampments mentioned Numb. xxxiii. and there it is ſaid that Aaron died, and was buried in mount Hor.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

We are taught, from this chapter, that the end which God propoſes to himſelf in all that he does for mankind, and what he requires from us, above all other things, is, that we ſhould love him with all our heart, and ſerve him with all our ſtrength; that we ſhould fear him, walk in his ways, and love our neighbour as ourſelves.

19 Love ye therefore the ſtranger, &c.] Be kind therefore to all your fellow-creatures, out of honour to your common creator, and in imitation of that tender care which he exerciſes over all the ſons of men.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on Chap. XI.

1 Therefore, &c.] That is, becauſe the Lord thy God hath made thee as the ſtars of heaven for multitude, with which the preceding chapter concludes.

2 I ſpeak not with your children, &c.] All that were now above fifty could very well remember their deliverance out of Egypt; for all thoſe who, at the time of the deliverance, were turned of twenty, were now (except only three of them) all dead; but of thoſe, who at that time were under twenty, many were now living and to them he ſpeaks, and not to their children, who could know it only by hearſay.

10 And wateredſt it with thy foot, &c.] The meaning is, that whereas Egypt was watered by human art, Canaan was watered by rain from heaven: or as the foot is ſometimes metaphorically uſed for labour, the import of the phraſe may be, Which thou wateredſt with great labour.

11 But the land, whither ye go to poſſeſs it, &c.] Whilſt the Egyptians were inventing methods, and labouring to moiſten and refreſh their grounds; the Iſraelites knew no ſuch neceſſity, and were releaſed from all that toil; they had their God to "water their furrows, and to ſend rain into the little vallies thereof: he bleſſed their increaſe, he crowned the year with his goodneſs, and his clouds dropped fatneſs," Pſalm lxv. 11, 12.

12 A land which the Lord thy God careth for, &c.] Not ſo much fruitful of itſelf, as by the peculiar bleſſings of God upon it; God often declares, that he would either ſend or withhold the rain, and they were to expect to find the country fruitful or barren, as they were faithful or remiſs in their duty.

14 The firſt rain and the latter rain, &c.] The firſt at the autumnal, and the ſecond at the vernal equinox: the firſt, to cauſe the ſeed ſown to ſpring up; and the ſecond, to nouriſh the corn until the harveſt.

27 A bleſſing, if ye obey the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you this day:

28 And a curſe, if ye will not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aſide out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which ye have not known.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XI. Before CHRIST 1451.

We ſhould always remember, that if Moſes denounced bleſſings and curſes to the Jews to oblige them to fear the Lord; the goſpel contains much more valuable bleſſings, and more terrible curſes. Let us think well of this, and learn to obey the commands of God.

CHAP. XII.

1 Monuments of idolatry muſt be deſtroyed. 4 The ſervice of God muſt be attended upon in the place of his chooſing. 15, 20 Fleſh for common food may be killed and eaten elſewhere, only without the blood; 17, 26 but all holy things muſt be brought and eaten in the holy place. 19 The Levite not to be forſaken. 29 Idolatrous practices not to be enquired after.

THESE are the ſtatutes and judgments, which ye ſhall obſerve to do in the land, which the LORD God of thy fathers giveth thee to poſſeſs it, all the days that ye live upon the earth.

2 Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy all the places, wherein the nations which ye ſhall poſſeſs ſerved their gods, upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree:

3 And ye ſhall overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire; and ye ſhall hew down the graven images of their gods, and deſtroy the names of them out of that place.

4 ¶ Ye ſhall not do ſo unto the LORD your God.

5 But unto the place which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe out of all your tribes to put his name there, even unto his habitation ſhall ye ſeek, and thither thou ſhalt come:

6 And thither ye ſhall bring your burnt offerings, and your ſacrifices, and your tithes, and heave offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your freewill offerings, and the firſtlings of your herds and of your flocks:

7 And there ye ſhall eat before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall rejoice in all ye put your hand unto, ye and your houſholds, wherein the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee.

8 Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the reſt and to the inheritance, which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you reſt from all your enemies round about, ſo that ye dwell in ſafety;

11 Then there ſhall be a place which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe to cauſe his name to dwell there; thither ſhall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt offerings, and your ſacrifices, your tithes, and the heave offering of your hand, and all your choice vows which ye vow unto the LORD:

12 And ye ſhall rejoice before the LORD your God, ye, and your ſons, and your daughters, and your menſervants, and your maidſervants, and the Levite that is within your gates; foraſmuch as he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

13 Take heed to thyſelf that thou offer not thy burnt offerings in every place that thou ſeeſt:

Upon mount Gerizim, and upon mount Ebal.] The above-mentioned mountains were ſeparated by a valley two hundred paces wide, and ſituated in the tribe of Ephraim, near the oaks or plains of Moreh; where God appeared to Abraham, after he came into the land of Canaan, and where Abraham built an altar unto the Lord.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XII.

1 Theſe are the ſtatutes, &c.] Moſes begins with thoſe ſtatutes which relate to the worſhip of God; and particularly thoſe which explain the ſecond commandment, about which God is in a ſpecial manner jealous.

2 Upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, &c.] The firſt altars (of nature's raiſing) acquired a relative ſanctity; that is, they were conſidered as holy places; but the temples and altars there raiſed being afterwards abuſed to the vileſt purpoſes of ſuperſtition, and barbarous idol-worſhip, Moſes wiſely ordered them to be deſtroyed.

3 And burn their groves, &c.] Being the places where the works of darkneſs were committed, they muſt all be deſtroyed, with the altars, pillars, and images that had been uſed by the heathens in the worſhip of their gods, ſo as the very names of them might be buried in oblivion; and not only not to be remembered with reſpect, but not remembered at all.

5 To put his name there, &c.] The Chaldee paraphraſe expounds it, To cauſe his majeſty or divine preſence to dwell there.

6 Your tithes, &c.] Thoſe which were uſed at feaſts of thankſgiving, in ſolemn feſtivals.

8 Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here this day, &c.] In the wilderneſs, while the Iſraelites were deſtitute of many things requiſite to the exact performance of their ſacred rites, they were excuſed from the obſervance of many of them, and, among the reſt, of that of circumciſion.

30 Take heed to thyſelf that thou be not ſnared by following them, after that they be deſtroyed from before thee; and that thou enquire not after their gods, ſaying, How did theſe nations ſerve their gods? even ſo will I do likewiſe. Before CHRIST 1451.

31 Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the LORD thy God: for every abomination to the LORD which he hateth have they done unto their gods; for even their ſons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

From this chapter Chriſtians may learn, that God will not be ſerved otherwiſe than as he preſcribes in his word; that they ought to abominate all ſorts of idolatry and ſuperſtition; to keep themſelves from evil cuſtoms and evil examples; and to employ in the ſervice of God, and ſupport of the poor, thoſe temporal goods which God has beſtowed on them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Enticers to idolatry muſt be ſtoned to death, 6 without regard to nearneſs of relation. 12 Idolatrous cities muſt be utterly deſtroyed.

IF there ariſe among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a ſign or a wonder,

3 Thou ſhalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your ſoul.

4 Ye ſhall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye ſhall ſerve him, and cleave unto him.

5 And that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, ſhall be put to death; becauſe he hath ſpoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondage, to thruſt thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in. So ſhalt thou put the evil away from the midſt of thee.

14 In the place which the Lord ſhall chooſe in one of thy tribes, there thou ſhalt offer, &c.] There is not any particular precept in all the law of Moſes, ſo largely preſſed and ſo frequently inculcated as this, by which they were all tied to bring their ſacrifices to that one altar which was ſet up in the court of the tabernacle, and there to perform all the rituals of their religion.

18 The Levite that is within thy gates, &c.] Beſides the Levites who attended the altar, as aſſiſtants to the prieſts, there were other Levites alſo, diſperſed in the country, to inſtruct the people in the law of God; and to aſſiſt them in their devotions.

23 Be ſure that thou eat not the blood, &c.] Why the Iſraelites were forbidden thus ſtrictly the eating of blood, has been ſuppoſed to be, to prevent the ſuperſtitions of the old idolaters, about the blood of their ſacrifices, which they thought their dæmons delighted in, and by eating of which they imagined that they had communion with them.

31 Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the Lord thy God, &c.] They were not to introduce the inhuman cuſtoms of the idolaters, becauſe it would be abſurd to make thoſe their patterns whom God had made their ſlaves and captives.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIII.

1 If there ariſe among you a prophet, &c.] Moſes, foreſeeing that the Iſraelites would, in after-ages, be expoſed to the deluſions of falſe prophets, lays down this certain rule whereby to judge of ſuch pretenders to inſpiration; namely, the exiſtence of the one true God, and the authority, goodneſs, and truth of his laws and religion, in oppoſition to the idolatrous cuſtoms, abſurdities, follies, and wickedneſſes of the worſhip of the heathens.

9 Thou ſhalt ſurely kill him, &c.] It is not ſufficient for thee to diſſent from his wicked perſuaſions; but thou muſt alſo, without any mercy, procure vengeance on him by way of juſtice, in accuſing him to the magiſtrate, either by information, to have it enquired into, or by ſufficient proof; and, in caſe he is condemned, thou oughteſt to be the firſt that ſhall put his condemnation in execution.

18 When thou ſhalt hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep all the commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIII.

This chapter teaches us, that we ſhould, by all poſſible and juſt means, oppoſe ſuch as draw away others into error and wickedneſs, yea, though they be our neareſt relations; and that the church ought to make uſe of diſcipline, and the means that Jeſus Chriſt has appointed, to prevent ſcandals, to reclaim ſuch as are the authors thereof, and to exclude them from the communion, if they become incorrigible.

CHAP. XIV.

1 God's children muſt not diſfigure themſelves in mourning. 3 What may, and what may not be eaten, of beaſts, 9 of fiſhes, 11 of fowls. 21 That which dieth of itſelf muſt not be eaten. 22 Tithing to be truly performed. 23 Tithes and firſtlings of cattle to be eaten before the LORD. 24 What is to be done in caſe of very diſtant abode. 28 The third year's tithes of alms and charity.

YE are the children of the LORD your God: ye ſhall not cut yourſelves, nor make any baldneſs between your eyes for the dead.

2 For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath choſen thee to be a peculiar people unto himſelf, above all the nations that are upon the earth.

3 ¶ Thou ſhalt not eat any abominable thing.

4 Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat: the ox, the ſheep, and the goat,

5 The hart, and the roebuck, and the fallow deer, and the wild goat, and the pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois.

6 And every beaſt that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud among the beaſts, that ye ſhall eat.

Before CHRIST 1451. 7 Nevertheleſs theſe ye ſhall not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the ſwine, becauſe it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, nor touch their dead carcaſe.

9 ¶ Theſe ye ſhall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and ſcales ſhall ye eat:

10 And whatſoever hath not fins and ſcales ye may not eat; it is unclean unto you.

11 ¶ Of all clean birds ye ſhall eat.

12 But theſe are they of which ye ſhall not eat: the eagle, and the oſſifrage, and the oſpray,

13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,

14 And every raven after his kind,

15 And the owl, and the night hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,

16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the ſwan,

17 And the pelican, and the gier eagle, and the cormorant,

18 And the ſtork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

19 And every creeping thing that flieth is unclean unto you: they ſhall not be eaten.

20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.

21 ¶ Ye ſhall not eat of any thing that dieth of itſelf: thou ſhalt give it unto the ſtranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it; or thou mayeſt ſell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God. Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk.

22 ¶ Thou ſhalt truly tithe all the increaſe of thy ſeed, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 ¶ And thou ſhalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the firſtlings of thy herds and of thy flocks; that thou mayeſt learn to fear the LORD thy God always.

24 ¶ And if the way be too long for thee ſo that thou art not able to carry it; or if the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe to ſet his name there, when the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee:

25 Then ſhalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and ſhall go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe:

26 And thou ſhalt beſtow that money for whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after, for oxen, or for ſheep, or for wine, or for ſtrong drink, or for whatſoever thy ſoul deſireth: and thou ſhalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou ſhalt rejoice, thou and thine houſhold,

27 And the Levite that is within thy gates; thou ſhalt not forſake him; for he hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

28 ¶ At the end of three years thou ſhalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increaſe the ſame year, and ſhalt lay it up within thy gates:

29 And the Levite, (becauſe he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, which are within thy gates, ſhall come, and ſhall eat and be ſatisfied; that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doeſt.

GENERAL

13 Children of Belial, &c.] The word "Belial," ſignifies one who is ſubject to no law; and therefore a very proper word for the devil, and all the children of diſobedience.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIV.

1 Ye ſhall not cut yourſelves.] The Iſraelites are reminded that they were the children of the Lord their God; that therefore they were to bear all evil accidents and afflictions with patience; they were not to ſorrow as men without hope; being intitled after death, to an heavenly and eternal inheritance.

Nor make any baldneſs between your eyes, &c.] They were not to make themſelves bald, by ſhaving or plucking off the hair between their eyes, or on the fore part of their head.

3 Any abominable thing.] That is, Any thing which I have made abominable to you, or put far from you.

5 The hart, and the roebuck, &c.] The beaſts which Moſes here enumerates, are moſt probably the deer, the antelope, the wild beeve, the goat-deer, the white bullocks, the buffalo, and the jeraffa, or mountain goat.

29 And ſhall eat and be ſatisfied, &c.] Concerning the diſtribution of tithe, the Hebrew writers tell us, that the owner of the field, when the poor paſſed by him, and he had there the tithe of the poor, gave to every one of them that paſſed by, ſo much of that tithe as would ſatisfy him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIV.

The inſtructions to be drawn from this chapter are, that thoſe who have a better hope, ſhould not afflict themſelves beyond meaſure for the deceaſed; that the creatures of God are to be uſed with ſobriety and thankfulneſs, and in ſuch a manner that nobody may be ſcandalized; that the miniſters of the church ſhould be maintained; and that care ſhould be taken of the poor.

CHAP. XV.

1 The ſeventh year a year of releaſe for the poor. 7 It muſt be no hindrance to lending or giving. 12 An Hebrew ſervant, unleſs he be unwilling to depart, muſt in the ſeventh year go forth free and well furniſhed. 19 All firſtling males of the cattle are to be ſanctified unto the LORD.

AT the end of every ſeven years thou ſhalt make a releaſe.

2 And this is the manner of the releaſe: Every creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour, ſhall releaſe it; he ſhall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; becauſe it is called the LORD's releaſe.

3 Of a foreigner thou mayeſt exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother thine hand ſhall releaſe;

4 Save when there ſhall be no poor among you; for the LORD ſhall greatly bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it:

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all theſe commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God bleſſeth thee, as he promiſed thee; and thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, but thou ſhalt not borrow; and thou ſhalt reign over many nations, but they ſhall not reign over thee.

7 ¶ If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of thy gates in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not harden thine heart, nor ſhut thine hand from thy poor brother:

8 But thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto him, and ſhall ſurely lend him ſufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

9 Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart, ſaying, The ſeventh year, the year of releaſe, is at hand; and thine eye be evil againſt thy poor brother, and thou giveſt him nought; and he cry unto the LORD againſt thee, and it be ſin unto thee.

10 Thou ſhalt ſurely give him, and thine heart ſhall not be grieved when thou giveſt unto him: becauſe that for this thing the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy works, and in all that thou putteſt thine hand unto.

11 For the poor ſhall never ceaſe out of the land: therefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

12 ¶ And if thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman, be ſold unto thee, and ſerve thee ſix years; then in the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou ſendeſt him out free from thee, thou ſhalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou ſhalt furniſh him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy flour, and out of thy winepreſs: of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee thou ſhalt give unto him.

15 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day. Before CHRIST 1451.

16 And it ſhall be, if he ſay unto thee, I will not go away from thee; becauſe he loveth thee and thine houſe, becauſe he is well with thee;

17 Then thou ſhalt take an aul, and thruſt it through his ear unto the door, and he ſhall be thy ſervant for ever. And alſo unto thy maidſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe.

18 It ſhall not ſeem hard unto thee, when thou ſendeſt him away free from thee; for he hath been worth a double hired ſervant to thee, in ſerving thee ſix years: and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all that thou doeſt.

19 ¶ All the firſtling males that come of thy herd and of thy flock thou ſhalt ſanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou ſhalt do no work with the firſtling of thy bullock, nor ſhear the firſtling of thy ſheep.

20 Thou ſhalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe, thou and thy houſhold.

21 And if there be any blemiſh therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemiſh, thou ſhalt not ſacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

22 Thou ſhalt eat it within thy gates: the unclean and the clean perſon ſhall eat it alike, as the roebuck, and as the hart.

23 Only thou ſhalt not eat the blood thereof; thou ſhalt pour it upon the ground as water.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

We are taught from this chapter, to treat our ſervants with equity and gentleneſs, and not to be ſevere in exacting our debts from the poor; to take great care of people in want, and never to forſake them, ſince it is a crying ſin to oppreſs them, or leave them deſtitute of help; and that God will extend his bleſſings to thoſe who have compaſſion on the miſerable.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The feaſt of the paſſover, 9 of weeks, 13 of tabernacles. 16 Every male muſt offer according to his ability at theſe three feaſts. 18 Of judges, and of juſtice. 21 Groves and images are forbidden.

OBSERVE the month of Abib, and keep the paſſover unto the LORD thy God: for in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night.

2 Thou ſhalt therefore ſacrifice the paſſover unto the LORD thy God, of the flock and the herd, in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe to place his name there.

3 Thou ſhalt eat no leavened bread with it; ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction; for thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt in haſte: that thou mayeſt remember the day when thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life.

4 And there ſhall be no leavened bread ſeen with thee in all thy coaſt ſeven days; neither ſhall there any thing of the fleſh, which thou ſacrificedſt the firſt day at even, remain all night until the morning.

5 Thou mayeſt not ſacrifice the paſſover within any of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee:

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XV.

4 Save when there ſhall be no poor among you, &c.] This is much better rendered, as in the margin, "To the end that there be no poor among you, or that none among you may be pinched by extreme poverty."

9 Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart, &c.] Moſes here gives the Iſraelites a charge, that they ſhould look upon every poor neighbour as a member of the ſame happy ſociety, equally related to God as himſelf; who, therefore, would be ſure to puniſh all uncharitableneſs to ſuch as were his own, as he would be to bleſs and reward thoſe, who, with a generous and bountiful heart, humbly and gratefully depended upon his providence, and obeyed his commands.

18 Worth a double hired ſervant, &c.] The ordinary time for hiring mercenary ſervants, was not leſs than one year, nor more than three years: "Within three years, as the years of an hireling," ſays Iſaiah, xvi. 14. but the bond-ſervant, having ſerved ſix years, is therefore ſaid to be worth a double hired ſervant, in ſerving ſix years.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou shalt roast and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God shall choose: and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go into thy tents.

8 Six days thou shalt eat unleavened bread: and on the seventh day shall be a solemn assembly to the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work therein.

9 ¶ Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn.

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:

11 And thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

12 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt: and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

13 ¶ Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine:

14 And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD shall choose: because the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thine increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.

16 ¶ Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and they shall not appear before the LORD empty:

17 Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

18 ¶ Judges and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, throughout thy tribes: and they shall judge the people with just judgment.

19 Thou shalt not wrest judgment; thou shalt not respect persons, neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous.

20 That which is altogether just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

21 ¶ Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou shalt make thee.

22 Neither shalt thou set thee up any image; which the LORD thy God hateth.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI. Before CHRIST 1451.

This chapter conveys the following instructions; that as the Jews observed certain feasts in memory of national mercies, so Christians ought to celebrate God's goodness with greater zeal and devotion, not only at peculiar times, but at all times, and in all their ways; for the life of a Christian ought to be a perpetual feast; that magistrates and judges ought to administer exact justice, take no bribe, nor have respect of persons; and that every species of idolatry should be avoided, and whatever might be an occasion of sin or scandal to ourselves or others.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The thing sacrificed must be sound. 2 Idolaters must be put to death. 8 Hard controversies must be determined by the priests and judges, the contemner of whose determination must be put to death. 14 The election and duty of a king.

THOU shalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or sheep, wherein is blemish, or any evil favouredness: for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

2 ¶ If there be found among you within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman, that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the LORD thy God, in transgressing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either the sun or moon, or any of the host of heaven, which I have not commanded;

4 And it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and enquired diligently, and, behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel:

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, which have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and shalt stone them with stones till they die.

6 At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death.

7 The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So thou shalt put the evil away from among you.

8 ¶ If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the place which the LORD thy God shall choose;

9 And thou shalt come unto the priests the Levites, and unto the judge that shall be in those days, and enquire; and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment:

10 And thou shalt do according to the sentence, which they of that place which the LORD shall choose shall shew thee; and thou shalt observe to do according to all that they inform thee:

11 According to the sentence of the law which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they shall tell thee, thou shalt do: thou shalt not decline from the sentence which they shall shew thee, to the right hand, nor to the left.

12 And the man that will do presumptuously, and will

7 And go into thy tents.] Unto thine own habitations. The words are only a permission, not an absolute command: after they had eaten the paschal lamb, they were permitted to return home, if they pleased.

9 Seven weeks shalt thou number, &c.] The feast of Pentecost was kept in solemn commemoration of the awful delivery of the law at mount Sinai; and in thankfulness to God for the fruits of the year.

13 The feast of tabernacles, &c.] This feast was instituted in order to commemorate the providential preservation of the Israelites, during their wandering in the wilderness.

18 Judges and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates, &c.] Accordingly judges were appointed, and tribunals erected, in every city, to determine all differences arising out of the law; though not as to the power of life and death. It was customary for the Israelites to keep their courts in the gates, or in the chambers over the gates of their cities; which custom accounts for the expression, "In all thy gates."

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVII.

13 And all the people shall hear, and fear, and do no more presumptuously.

14 ¶ When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt dwell therein, and shalt say, I will set a king over me, like as all the nations that are about me;

15 Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom the LORD thy God shall choose: one from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger over thee, which is not thy brother.

16 But he shall not multiply horses to himself, nor cause the people to return to Egypt, to the end that he should multiply horses: forasmuch as the LORD hath said unto you, Ye shall henceforth return no more that way.

17 Neither shall he multiply wives to himself, that his heart turn not away: neither shall he greatly multiply to himself silver and gold.

18 And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book out of that which is before the priests the Levites:

19 And it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and these statutes, to do them:

20 That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn not aside from the commandment, to the right hand, or to the left: to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he, and his children, in the midst of Israel.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVII.

We learn hence, to oppose those who would turn us away from the true worship of God, and the obedience we owe to him; that Christians should submit themselves to their spiritual and temporal guides; that kings and magistrates ought not to heap up riches, live deliciously, or oppress the people, but live within the bounds of humility, govern the people with equity, and, above all, meditate on the law of God, and conform themselves strictly to it.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The LORD is the inheritance of the priests and Levites. 3 The priest's due. 6 All Levites who minister are entitled to like portions. 9 The abominations of the Canaanites to be avoided. 15 A prophet to arise, like unto Moses, who must be hearkened unto. 20 The presumptuous prophet must be put to death. 21 How he may be known.

THE priests the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel: they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance.

2 Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them. Before CHRIST 1451.

3 ¶ And this shall be the priest's due from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep; and they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

4 The firstfruit also of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the first of the fleece of thy sheep, shalt thou give him.

5 For the LORD thy God hath chosen him out of all thy tribes, to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons for ever.

6 ¶ And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Israel, where he sojourned, and come with all the desire of his mind unto the place which the LORD shall choose;

7 Then he shall minister in the name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which stand there before the LORD.

8 They shall have like portions to eat, beside that which cometh of the sale of his patrimony.

9 ¶ When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.

10 There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch,

11 Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer.

12 For all that do these things are an abomination unto the LORD: and because of these abominations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

13 Thou shalt be perfect with the LORD thy God.

14 For these nations, which thou shalt possess, hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not suffered thee so to do.

15 ¶ The LORD thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken;

16 According to all that thou desiredst of the LORD thy God in Horeb in the day of the assembly, saying, Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not.

17 And the LORD said unto me, They have well spoken that which they have spoken.

18 I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth: and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him.

19 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in thy name, I will require it of him.

20 ¶ But the prophet, which shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to 16 He shall not multiply horses, &c.] For the reason given in the next words; it was customary to buy horses out of Egypt, and so it continued to the days of Solomon.

17 Neither shall he multiply wives, &c.] Lest he be seduced from the true religion, by marrying the worshippers of strange gods, as Solomon was.

18 Shall write him a copy of this law, &c.] Some hereby understand the book of Deuteronomy, which is an abridgment of the law; others are of opinion, that it means the whole pentateuch.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVIII.

3 The two cheeks, and the maw.] See Lev. vii. 32. By "the maw" is meant the stomach, which was accounted by the antients a great dainty.

6 If a Levite] By "a Levite" is here understood any of the levitical tribe, whether a priest or an ordinary Levite.

Come with all the desire of his mind, &c.] To encourage all those of the sacred order to take delight in the exercise of their ministry, and to promote the honour of divine service, he appointed that such of the priests as chose to serve at their tabernacle out of their ordinary course, and addicted themselves to a constant attendance upon the public ministry, should have the same continual allowance with the priests and Levites in waiting.

10 An observer of times] That sort of divination which consisted in observing the face of the heavens, the motion and figure of the clouds, the appearance of meteors, thunder, lightning, and the like.

Or an enchanter] One who divines by means of serpents.

Or a witch.] One who does mischief to men or beasts by evil acts.

11 Or a charmer] One who pretends to foretel future events from the positions of the planets.

Or a necromancer.] One who enquires of the dead, or a consulter of dead idols.

15 Like unto me, &c.] The words are applicable to none but the Messiah, who was a second law-giver, like unto Moses, which none of the other prophets were; nor had any of the other prophets, but the Messiah, such a near and familiar intercourse with God, as Moses.

18 And will put my words, &c.] This prediction was fully accomplished in our Saviour, who, though he confirmed his doctrine by miracles, yet were they calculated to promote the good of mankind, and not to render him an object of dread and terror.

19 I will require it of him.] The Greek translateth this passage, I will take vengeance on him.

to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, even that prophet shall die.

21 ¶ And if thou say in thine heart, How shall we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken?

22 When a prophet speaketh in the name of the LORD, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not be afraid of him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

From this chapter we may note, that it is a great sin to use divination, observe times, and other superstitious rites, and that these practices ought not to be suffered among those who know the true God: and that the command given by God, not to listen to false prophets, shews us that we must not believe all sorts of teachers and doctrines, but try the persons that teach, and avoid those that preach doctrines contrary to the scriptures, and obey those that declare the truth.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The cities of refuge. 4 The privilege thereof allowed to the manslayer; 11 but not to him that is guilty of wilful murder. 14 The landmark not to be removed. 15 Two witnesses at the least are required to prove a criminal fact. 16 The punishment of false witness.

WHEN the LORD thy God hath cut off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou succeedest them, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses;

2 Thou shalt separate three cities for thee in the midst of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

3 Thou shalt prepare thee a way, and divide the coasts of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit, into three parts, that every slayer may flee thither.

4 ¶ And this is the case of the slayer, which shall flee thither, that he may live: whoso killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not in time past;

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slippeth from the helve, and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live:

6 Lest the avenger of the blood pursue the slayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and slay him; whereas he was not worthy of death, inasmuch as he hated him not in time past.

7 Wherefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt separate three cities for thee.

8 And if the LORD thy God enlarge thy coast, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, and give thee all the land which he promised to give unto thy fathers;

9 If thou shalt keep all these commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his way; then shalt thou add three cities more for thee, beside these three:

10 That innocent blood be not shed in thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and so blood be upon thee. Before CHRIST 1451.

11 ¶ But if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of these cities:

12 Then the elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

13 Thine eye shall not pity him, but thou shalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with thee.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not remove thy neighbour's landmark, which they of old time have set in thine inheritance, which thou shalt inherit in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

15 ¶ One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.

16 ¶ If a false witness rise up against any man to testify against him that which is wrong;

17 Then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges, which shall be in those days;

18 And the judges shall make diligent inquisition; and, behold, if the witness be a false witness, and hath testified falsely against his brother;

19 Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

20 And those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you.

21 And thine eye shall not pity; but life shall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIX.

We are taught from this chapter, that wilful murder is a crime that should never pass unpunished by the magistrate; that land-marks are not to be removed; and that false witnesses should suffer the same punishment as would have been inflicted upon those against whom they gave their testimony. Hence we may see, that it is the will of God, that justice and uprightness should take place in societies, and that they who wrong their neighbours, by bearing false witness, or in any other manner, expose themselves to God's vengeance.

CHAP. XX.

1 The priest's exhortation before the battle. 5 The officer's proclamation signifying who are to be dismissed. 10 How the cities that accept or refuse the proclamation of peace are to be treated. 16 The cities of the seven nations are devoted to utter destruction. 19 Trees good for food must not be cut down in the siege.

WHEN thou goest out to battle against thine enemies, and seest horses, and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD

20 That prophet shall die.] Shall be judged, and condemned to death by the magistrate.

22 If the thing follow not, &c.] If a prophet appeal to some miracle or future event, as an absolute sign of his being sent from God, and the miracle should fail, or the prediction not be fulfilled, he shall be considered as an impostor.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIX.

1 In the midst of thy land, &c.] Within thy land; they were to be placed so conveniently in several parts of the country, that men might easily and speedily flee to them.

3 Thou shalt prepare thee a way.] The senate, or Jewish magistrates, were obliged to prepare the ways to the cities of refuge; and that on the fifteenth of the month Adar (answering to our February) they set people every year upon this work; these ways were thirty-two cubits in breadth, without any impediments or obstructions in them.

Divide the coasts of thy land, &c.] They were to divide their possessions into three equal parts, and in the central part of each they were to open an asylum, that, being nearly at an equal distance with respect to the inhabitants of each district, each might enjoy the same benefit from them.

9 Then thou shalt add three cities more, &c.] In David's time the bounds of the children of Israel were enlarged quite to the river Euphrates; yet three other cities were not added; so that we may conjecture that David did not drive out the heathen which were beyond Lebanon, but only subdued and made them tributary.

12 The elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, &c.] Upon any suspicion or information of murder, laid against any one that took refuge there, the magistrate of the town or district where the fact was committed, shall send for the person out of the refuge-town, bring him to a fair trial, and, upon a clear evidence of wilful murder, shall condemn him to death, and cause execution to be done, without fear, partiality, or affection.

21 Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, &c.] See commentary on Luke xxiv. 20.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XX.

1 And seest horses, and chariots, &c.] The armies of the Israelites consisted wholly of foot, and their law seems to have continued so, in order to a more intire reliance upon God, the Canaanites and other nations having the advantage of chariots and horses.

Before CHRIST 1451. LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2 And it ſhall be, when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the prieſt ſhall approach and ſpeak unto the people,

3 And ſhall ſay unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, ye approach this day unto battle againſt your enemies: let not your hearts faint, fear not, and do not tremble, neither be ye terrified becauſe of them;

4 For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you againſt your enemies, to ſave you.

5 ¶ And the officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, ſaying, What man is there that hath built a new houſe, and hath not dedicated it; let him go and return to his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten of it? let him alſo go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man eat of it.

7 And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man take her.

8 And the officers ſhall ſpeak further unto the people, and they ſhall ſay, What man is there that is fearful and fainthearted? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt his brethren's heart faint as well as his heart.

9 And it ſhall be, when the officers have made an end of ſpeaking unto the people, that they ſhall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

10 ¶ When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, then proclaim peace unto it.

11 And it ſhall be, if it make thee anſwer of peace, and open unto thee, then it ſhall be, that all the people that is found therein ſhall be tributaries unto thee, and they ſhall ſerve thee.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war againſt thee, then thou ſhalt beſiege it:

13 And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thine hands, thou ſhalt ſmite every male thereof with the edge of the ſword:

14 But the women, and the little ones, and the cattle, and all that is in the city, even all the ſpoile thereof, ſhalt thou take unto thyſelf; and thou ſhalt eat the ſpoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

15 Thus ſhalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of theſe nations.

16 ¶ But of the cities of theſe people, which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth:

17 But thou ſhalt utterly deſtroy them; namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites; as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee:

18 That they teach you not to do after all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods; ſo ſhould ye ſin againſt the LORD your God.

19 ¶ When thou ſhalt beſiege a city a long time, in making war againſt it to take it, thou ſhalt not deſtroy the trees thereof by forcing an ax againſt them: for thou mayeſt eat of them, and thou ſhalt not cut them down (for the tree of the field is man's life) to employ them in the ſiege: Before CHRIST 1451.

20 Only the trees which thou knoweſt that they be not trees for meat, thou ſhalt deſtroy and cut them down; and thou ſhalt build bulwarks againſt the city that maketh war with thee, until it be ſubdued.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XX.

From this chapter we learn, that as the Jews were exhorted to engage in no unjuſt wars, on which they could not aſk a bleſſing on their attempts; and that they were to be carried on with temper and moderation, ſparing as much as poſſible, the lives of men and the fruits of the earth; much more ought Chriſtians to ſhew their moderation and mercy in this reſpect, and that they are animated with the Spirit of Jeſus Chriſt, the ſpirit of meekneſs and love.

CHAP. XXI.

1 The expiation of a murder, when the ſlayer is unknown. 10 The uſage of a captive taken to wife. 15 The firſt-born not to be diſinherited upon private affection. 18 A rebellious ſon muſt be ſtoned to death. 22 The malefactor muſt not hang all night on a tree.

IF one be found ſlain in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it, lying in the field, and it be not known who hath ſlain him:

2 Then thy elders and thy judges ſhall come forth, and they ſhall meaſure unto the cities which are round about him that is ſlain:

3 And it ſhall be, that the city which is next unto the ſlain man, even the elders of that city ſhall take an heifer, which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke;

4 And the elders of that city ſhall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor ſown, and ſhall ſtrike off the heifer's neck there in the valley:

5 And the prieſts the ſons of Levi ſhall come near; for them the LORD thy God hath choſen to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in the name of the LORD; and by their word ſhall every controverſy and every ſtroke be tried:

6 And all the elders of that city, that are next unto the ſlain man, ſhall waſh their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley:

7 And they ſhall anſwer and ſay, Our hands have not ſhed this blood, neither have our eyes ſeen it.

8 Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Iſrael, whom thou haſt redeemed, and lay not innocent blood unto thy people of Iſrael's charge. And the blood ſhall be forgiven them.

9 So ſhalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the LORD.

10 ¶ When thou goeſt forth to war againſt thine enemies, and the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou haſt taken them captive,

12 Then

2 The prieſt ſhall approach, &c.] A prieſt was particularly appointed to blow with the trumpet when they were preparing for battle, and exhort them, in the moſt perſuaſive manner, to a courageous performance of their duty; to look upon their cauſe as the cauſe of God, and to aſſure themſelves of ſucceſs under his protection.

5 The officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, &c.] The heralds were to make proclamation, allowing an exemption from the war to ſuch as had lately purchaſed eſtates, newly built houſes, and not yet ſettled in them, planted new vineyards, or were newly married; leſt the thoughts of ſuch men, continually hankering after their private affairs, might diſpirit them from the buſineſs of the war, and indiſpoſe them for the public ſervice.

8 What man is there that is fearful and fainthearted? &c.] We may obſerve from this paſſage, that though the Iſraelites were not abſolutely to rely upon their own ſtrength and valour, and the conduct of their men, for the victory, yet they were to employ only ſuch perſons in their wars as had a mind diſpoſed and qualified for the buſineſs, and were looking for a bleſſing upon their endeavours.

10 Then proclaim peace unto it.] See commentary on Numb. xx. 14.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXI.

1 If one be found ſlain in the land, &c.] The expiation for a concealed murder, when the criminal could not be found, was attended with great ſolemnity, in order to ſhew the heinouſneſs of the fact, and to deter others from committing the like.

2 Thy elders, &c.] Not "the elders," as in the next verſe, (it not being yet known to what particular city it belongeth) but "thy elders," O Iſrael, which were of the general ſtate of the land, and members of the great council, or ſanhedrim.

4 Unto a rough valley, &c.] The original ſignifies both a valley and a ſtream; a valley with a brook running through it.

20 And they ſhall ſay unto the elders of his city, This our ſon is ſtubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

21 And all the men of his city ſhall ſtone him with ſtones, that he die: ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you; and all Iſrael ſhall hear, and fear.

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a ſin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

23 His body ſhall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou ſhalt in any wiſe bury him that day; (for he that is hanged is accurſed of God;) that thy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXI.

This chapter ſhews us, that judges and magiſtrates cannot be too ſtrict in diſcovering and puniſhing murderers; and that the puniſhment of diſobedient children, ſhould make ſuch fear the anger and curſe of God.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of humanity toward brethren. 5 The ſex to be diſtinguiſhed by apparel. 6 The dam not to be taken with her young ones. 8 Every houſe muſt have battlements. 9 Three ſorts of confuſion to be avoided. 12 Fringes to be worn upon the veſture. 13 The puniſhment of him that ſlandereth his wife, and of the wife, if convicted of unchaſtity before marriage. 22 Adultery to be puniſhed with death. 23 Of a rape committed in the city, 25 or in the field. 28 Of fornication. 30 Inceſt is forbidden.

Before CHRIST 1451.

THOU ſhalt not ſee thy brother's ox or his ſheep go aſtray, and hide thyſelf from them: thou ſhalt in any caſe bring them again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou ſhalt bring it unto thine own houſe, and it ſhall be with thee until thy brother ſeek after it, and thou ſhalt reſtore it to him again.

3 In like manner ſhalt thou do with his aſs; and ſo ſhalt thou do with his raiment; and with all loſt thing of thy brother's, which he hath loſt, and thou haſt found, ſhalt thou do likewiſe: thou mayeſt not hide thyſelf.

4 Thou ſhalt not ſee thy brother's aſs or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyſelf from them: thou ſhalt ſurely help him to lift them up again.

5 ¶ The women ſhall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither ſhall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do ſo are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

6 ¶ If a bird's neſt chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam ſitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young:

7 But thou ſhalt in any wiſe let the dam go, and take the young to thee; that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayeſt prolong thy days.

8 ¶ When thou buildeſt a new houſe, then thou ſhalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine houſe, if any man fall from thence.

9 ¶ Thou ſhalt not ſow thy vineyard with divers ſeeds: leſt the fruit of thy ſeed which thou haſt ſown, and the fruit of thy vineyard, be defiled.

10 Thou ſhalt not plough with an ox and an aſs together.

11 Thou ſhalt not wear a garment of divers ſorts, as of woollen and linen together.

12 ¶ Thou ſhalt make thee fringes upon the four quarters of thy veſture, wherewith thou covereſt thyſelf.

13 ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her,

14 And give occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and ſay, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid:

15 Then ſhall the father of the damſel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damſel's virginity unto the elders of the city in the gate:

16 And the damſel's father ſhall ſay unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her;

17 And, lo, he hath given occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, ſaying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet theſe

---

12 She ſhall ſhave her head, and pare her nails.] The Chaldee paraphraſe tranſlateth it, She ſhall let her nails grow; which ſeems moſt ſuitable to a ſtate of mourning.

13 The raiment of her captivity, &c.] Namely, the garments in which ſhe was taken: theſe ſhe was to lay aſide, and, in their room, to put on mourning, as another ſign of her humiliation, and to withdraw the man's affection from her if ſhe continued in her unbelief.

15 Two wives, &c.] Though bigamy was contrary to God's inſtitution, and was begun by the poſterity of Cain (ſee Gen. iv. 9.) yet the corruption being ſpread over all, and even in the church, God for a while only ſuffered it, until the time of reformation; but (notwithſtanding what a modern writer has aſſerted) approved not of it, as appears from our Saviour's words, Matt. xiv. 4, 5.

18 If a man have a ſtubborn and rebellious ſon, &c.] When all means of admonition and correction were loſt upon any ſon, and the parent ſaw nothing but ruin to the eſtate and family, he was directed to make complaint to the magiſtrates in court; who, upon ſufficient evidence given, were to condemn him to death, as a terrible example of diſobedience to the laws of God.

22 And thou hang him on a tree.] The Hebrews underſtand this, not of putting him to death by hanging, but of hanging a man up after he was ſtoned to death.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXII.

5 The women ſhall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, &c.] If the ſexes were not diſtinguiſhed by their habits, it would open a door to all manner of iniquity; for which reaſon, if there was no other, this law was very wiſe and good.

6 Thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young.] This is one of thoſe merciful conſtitutions in the law of Moſes, which reſpect the animal creation, and tend to humanize the hearts of the people, to produce in them a ſenſe of the divine providence, extending itſelf to all creatures, and to teach them to exerciſe their dominion over them with gentleneſs.

8 Thou ſhalt make a battlement for thy roof, &c.] That is, a baluſtrade of rails round the top of the houſe: the houſes of the Iſraelites had ſix roofs, on which they walked, and converſed from thence with the people in the ſtreets; and this illuſtrates the meaning of our Saviour's words, when he mentions ſpeaking and proclaiming upon the houſe-tops. See Matt. x. 27. Luke xii. 3.

10 Thou ſhalt not plough with an ox and an aſs, &c.] An ox and an aſs were not to be coupled together in the ſame carriage; with this merciful intent, that one beaſt of greater ſtrength might not ſtrain a creature of leſs beyond its ability.

Before CHRIST 1451. theſe are the tokens of my daughter's virginity. And they ſhall ſpread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city ſhall take that man and chaſtiſe him;

19 And they ſhall amerce him in an hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and give them unto the father of the damſel, becauſe he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Iſrael: and ſhe ſhall be his wife; he may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damſel:

21 Then they ſhall bring out the damſel to the door of her father's houſe, and the men of her city ſhall ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die: becauſe ſhe hath wrought folly in Iſrael, to play the whore in her father's houſe: ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you.

22 ¶ If a man be found lying with a woman married to an huſband, then they ſhall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: ſo ſhalt thou put away evil from Iſrael.

23 ¶ If a damſel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an huſband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her;

24 Then ye ſhall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye ſhall ſtone them with ſtones that they die; the damſel, becauſe ſhe cried not, being in the city; and the man becauſe he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: ſo thou ſhalt put away evil from among you.

25 ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damſel in the field, and the man force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her ſhall die:

26 But unto the damſel thou ſhalt do nothing; there is in the damſel no ſin worthy of death: for as when a man riſeth againſt his neighbour, and ſlayeth him, even ſo is this matter:

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damſel cried, and there was none to ſave her.

28 ¶ If a man find a damſel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found;

29 Then the man that lay with her ſhall give unto the damſel's father fifty ſhekels of ſilver, and ſhe ſhall be his wife; becauſe he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

30 ¶ A man ſhall not take his father's wife, nor diſcover his father's ſkirt.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXII.

By this chapter we are exhorted honeſtly to reſtore things that are found. The law forbidding men and women to change the habits of their ſex, teaches us to obſerve modeſty and decency in apparel, and to avoid all that is unſeemly, or that may tend to impurity. The law prohibiting the mixture of divers kinds, was in oppoſition to the cuſtoms of the idolaters. By the laws againſt uncleanneſs, we ſee, that they who are guilty of fornication and adultery, ought to be puniſhed, and that they are obliged to make reparation by all poſſible means, which ſhould deter us from the practice of thoſe infamous ſins, and prompt us to live in great chaſtity.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 What perſons may not enter into the congregation. 3 An Ammonite or Moabite are excluded to the tenth generation; 7 but an Edomite or Egyptian may be admitted in the third. 9 Every wicked thing to be avoided in the hoſt. 10 An unclean perſon muſt remove out of the camp. 12 Cleanlineſs to be attended to therein becauſe of God's preſence. 15 Of the fugitive ſervant. 17 Whoredom and ſodomy not to be committed in Iſrael. 18 Of abominable ſacrifices. 19 Of uſury. 21 Of vows. 24 Of treſpaſſes.

Before CHRIST 1451. HE that is wounded in the ſtones, or hath his privy member cut off, ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

2 A baſtard ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to his tenth generation ſhall he not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

3 ¶ An Ammonite or Moabite ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD for ever:

4 Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and becauſe they hired againſt thee Balaam the ſon of Beor of Pethor of Meſopotamia, to curſe thee.

5 Nevertheleſs the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam; but the LORD thy God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee, becauſe the LORD thy God loved thee.

6 Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace nor their proſperity all thy days for ever.

7 ¶ Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite; for he is thy brother: thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian; becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land.

8 The children that are begotten of them ſhall enter into the congregation of the LORD in their third generation.

9 When the hoſt goeth forth againſt thine enemies, then keep thee from every wicked thing.

10 ¶ If there be among you any man, that is not clean by reaſon of uncleanneſs that chanceth him by night, then ſhall he go abroad out of the camp, he ſhall not come within the camp:

11 But it ſhall be, when evening cometh on, he ſhall waſh himſelf with water: and when the ſun is down, he ſhall come into the camp again.

12 ¶ Thou ſhalt have a place alſo without the camp, whither thou ſhalt go forth abroad:

13 And thou ſhalt have a paddle upon thy weapon; and it ſhall be, when thou wilt eaſe thyſelf abroad, thou ſhalt dig therewith, and ſhalt turn back and cover that which cometh from thee:

14 For the LORD thy God walketh in the midſt of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee; therefore ſhall thy camp be holy: that he ſee no unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

15 ¶ Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his maſter the ſervant which is eſcaped from his maſter unto thee:

16 He ſhall dwell with thee, even among you, in that place which he ſhall chooſe in one of thy gates, where it liketh him beſt: thou ſhalt not oppreſs him.

17 ¶ There ſhall be no whore of the daughters of Iſrael, nor a ſodomite of the ſons of Iſrael.

18 ¶ Thou

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIII.

3 An Ammonite or Moabite ſhall not, &c.] Though an Iſraelitiſh woman was not to marry an Ammonite or a Moabite, yet a man of Iſrael might marry one of theſe women, after they had embraced the Jewiſh religion, of which we have an inſtance in Boaz, the anceſtor of David, who married Ruth, the Moabiteſs.

6 Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace, &c.] "Thou ſhalt have no public league or friendſhip with theſe nations," otherwiſe the particular duties of human and civil ſociety, and of ordinary juſtice, are not here forbidden.

7 Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite] The Edomites were the deſcendants of Eſau, and conſequently a kindred nation; and as they were a circumciſed people, they might make marriages with them, provided they worſhipped the true God.

Thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, &c.] It appears from this injunction of the Almighty, that the memory of paſt favours ſhould not be effaced by ſucceeding injuries.

9 Then keep thee from every wicked thing.] We are not to ſuppoſe that this advice is confined to the time of the hoſt going forth, but is a duty at all times neceſſary and incumbent; but yet if there is any one time, wherein abſtinence from ſin becomes more neceſſary than any other, ſurely it is in the time of war.

13 Thou ſhalt have a paddle upon thy weapon, &c.] Or, Thou ſhalt have a paddle beſides thy arms; a paddle was an inſtrument of iron, the uſe of which, is deſcribed in the ſucceeding part of the verſe.

14 The Lord—walketh in the midſt of—thee, &c.] The ark, the ſymbol of God's preſence, went along with them.

15 Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his, &c.] This is thought to have a particular relation to times of war, when heathen ſoldiers or ſervants might deſert, and come over to the Iſraelites, with intent to embrace the true religion.

17 Nor a ſodomite, &c.] More probably, a whore-maſter; the Iſraelites being notoriouſly guilty of thoſe abominable practices.

Before CHRIST 1451.

18 ¶ Thou shalt not bring the hire of a whore, or the price of a dog, into the house of the LORD thy God for any vow: for even both these are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

19 ¶ Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of any thing that is lent upon usury:

20 Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all that thou settest thine hand to in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

21 ¶ When thou shalt vow a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it: for the LORD thy God will surely require it of thee; and it would be sin in thee.

22 But if thou shalt forbear to vow, it shall be no sin in thee.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips thou shalt keep and perform; even a freewill offering, according as thou hast vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou hast promised with thy mouth.

24 ¶ When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes thy fill at thine own pleasure; but thou shalt not put any in thy vessel.

25 When thou comest into the standing corn of thy neighbour, then thou mayest pluck the ears with thine hand; but thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing corn.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIII.

From this chapter, we may perceive that God abhors impiety, which ought to be banished from those who profess to serve him: that we ought not to use extortion, nor forget to use great moderation and equity in exacting payment; that lawful vows should be punctually accomplished; that the tendency of the law relating to plucking the ears of corn, or the grapes, was to keep the Jews from covetousness, and a churlish disposition, to make them avoid injustice; and, in using another's property, not to abuse that liberty, by doing mischief to their neighbour's goods.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The law of divorce. 5 A new married man is exempt from war and civil offices for the space of a year. 6, 10 Of pledges. 7 Of manstealers. 8 Of leprosy. 14 The hire of a servant must not be detained. 16 Every man must be answerable for his own sin. 17 Of doing justice to the fatherless. 19 Of charity.

WHEN a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house.

2 And when she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife;

3 And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and sendeth her out of his house; or if the latter husband die, which took her to be his wife;

4 Her former husband, which sent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that she is defiled; for that is abomination before the LORD: and thou shalt not cause the land to sin, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

5 ¶ When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken.

6 ¶ No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge: for he taketh a man's life to pledge. Before CHRIST 1451.

7 ¶ If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die; and thou shalt put evil away from among you.

8 ¶ Take heed in the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently, and do according to all that the priests the Levites shall teach you: as I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do.

9 Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

10 ¶ When thou dost lend thy brother any thing, thou shalt not go into his house to fetch his pledge.

11 Thou shalt stand abroad, and the man to whom thou dost lend shall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee.

12 And if the man be poor, thou shalt not sleep with his pledge:

13 In any case thou shalt deliver him the pledge again when the sun goeth down, that he may sleep in his own raiment, and bless thee: and it shall be righteousness unto thee before the LORD thy God.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not oppress an hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy strangers that are in thy land within thy gates:

15 At his day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it; for he is poor, and setteth his heart upon it: lest he cry against thee unto the LORD, and it be sin unto thee.

16 ¶ The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin.

17 ¶ Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless; nor take the widow's raiment to pledge:

18 But thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

19 ¶ When thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hands.

20 When thou beatest thine olive tree, thou shalt not go over the boughs again: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not glean it afterward: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

22 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIV.

We may hence observe, with our Lord, that the divorces tolerated among the Jews, are no longer so among Christians; and that the bond of marriage cannot be dissolved, unless in the cases mentioned, Matt. xix. and 1 Cor. vii.—That we should not be too rigorous when we take pledges, or when we make poor persons pay their debts to us; that we should pay readily and honestly the wages of the hireling, and use kindness to strangers, widows, and orphans; also that we should remember the poor with our substance, if we expect God's blessing upon it.

CHAP.

---

18 Of a dog, &c.] Dog is understood here, by some, in a figurative sense, for the sodomite or whore-master above mentioned.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIV.

1 Then let him write her a bill of divorcement, &c.] Whoever had conceived an insurmountable dislike to his wife, had hereby the privilege of repudiating her, not in a precipitate manner, but deliberately, by giving her a discharge from any further relation to him, signed with his own hand, by which she acquired full liberty to marry any other person.

4 May not take her again, &c.] Lest this permission should give occasion to abuses, it was ordained by the law, that the husband who had once repudiated his wife, should, upon her being married to another, become incapable of retaking her, though she should grow rich, or be otherwise again desirable; this consideration prevented them from parting with their wives; since, if she was once married to a second, she was irrecoverably lost to her former husband.

10 Thou shalt not go into his house, &c.] This was a merciful provision for the poor, whose houses he privileged in such a manner, that no man might enter them without his content, and then choose what he pleased for the security of what was due to him.

16 The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, &c.] This is a rule of common equity, and not at all inconsistent with God's threatening to punish the sins of the fathers upon the children; as that refers to the strokes of heaven: whereas the present text relates to punishments inflicted upon criminals by men.

CHAP. XXV.

Before CHRIST 1451. 1 Stripes muſt not exceed forty. 4 The ox not to be muzzled. 5 The law of raiſing up ſeed unto a deceaſed brother. 11 Of immodeſty in a woman. 13 Of unjuſt weights and meaſures. 17 The memory of Amalek to be blotted out.

IF there be a controverſy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them; then they ſhall juſtify the righteous, and condemn the wicked.

2 And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

3 Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed: leſt, if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhould ſeem vile unto thee.

4 ¶ Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox when he treadeth out the corn.

5 ¶ If brethren dwell together, and one of them die, and have no child, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without unto a ſtranger: her huſband's brother ſhall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an huſband's brother unto her.

6 And it ſhall be, that the firſtborn which ſhe beareth ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael.

7 And if the man like not to take his brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and ſay, My huſband's brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name in Iſrael, he will not perform the duty of my huſband's brother.

8 Then the elders of his city ſhall call him, and ſpeak unto him: and if he ſtand to it, and ſay, I like not to take her;

9 Then ſhall his brother's wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his ſhoe from off his foot, and ſpit in his face, and ſhall anſwer and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brother's houſe.

10 And his name ſhall be called in Iſrael, The houſe of him that hath his ſhoe looſed.

11 ¶ When men ſtrive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her huſband out of the hand of him that ſmiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the ſecrets:

12 Then thou ſhalt cut off her hand, thine eye ſhall not pity her.

13 ¶ Thou ſhalt not have in thy bag divers weights, a great and a ſmall.

14 Thou ſhalt not have in thine houſe divers meaſures, a great and a ſmall.

15 But thou ſhalt have a perfect and juſt weight, a perfect and juſt meaſure ſhalt thou have: that thy days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

16 For all that do ſuch things, and all that do unrighteouſly, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

17 ¶ Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye were come forth out of Egypt;

18 How he met thee by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou waſt faint and weary; and he feared not God. Before CHRIST 1451.

19 Therefore it ſhall be, when the LORD thy God hath given thee reſt from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it, that thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou ſhalt not forget it.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXV.

From this chapter we have the following inſtructions; that the guilty ſhould be puniſhed with humanity and moderation; that we ſhould provide a maintenance for thoſe who labour for the good of others, particularly for miniſters; ſee 1 Cor. ix. that fraud and deceit in weights and meaſures, is an abomination to the Lord; and that God's command to deſtroy the Amalekites, who had unjuſtly attacked the Iſraelites, ſhews us, that pride, cruelty, and injuſtice, often cauſe the ruin of nations, as well as individuals.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The confeſſion of him that offereth the baſket of firſtfruits. 12 The prayer of him that giveth his third year's tithes. 16 The covenant between God and the people.

AND it ſhall be, when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and poſſeſſeſt it, and dwelleſt therein;

2 That thou ſhalt take of the firſt of all the fruit of the earth, which thou ſhalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and ſhalt put it in a baſket, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe to place his name there.

3 And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt that ſhall be in thoſe days, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the country which the LORD ſware unto our fathers for to give us.

4 And the prieſt ſhall take the baſket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou ſhalt ſpeak and ſay before the LORD thy God, a Syrian ready to periſh was my father, and he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous:

6 And the Egyptians evil entreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage:

7 And when he cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion:

8 And the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an outſtretched arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns, and with wonders:

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 And, now behold, I have brought the firſtfruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, haſt given me. And thou ſhalt ſet it before the LORD thy God, and worſhip before the LORD thy God:

11 And thou ſhalt rejoice in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine houſe, thou, and the Levite, and the ſtranger that is among you.

12 ¶ When thou haſt made an end of tithing all the tithes

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXV.

1 If there be a controverſy, &c.] Having affixed puniſhments to the breaches of the moſt capital laws, Moſes now orders that the ſeveral inferior courts of juſtice ſhould take due cognizance of other criminal matters, deſerving only corporal penalties, and be juſt and impartial in their proceedings, upon all ſuch complaints.

4 Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox, &c.] It was the cuſtom of thoſe countries to uſe oxen in treading out the corn, either with their feet, or by drawing ſledges, which were a ſort of heavy tables, armed with iron nails, to ſeparate the grain from the ſtraw. By this allegorical precept, Moſes inſtructs the people to be kind to their ſervants and labourers, eſpecially to thoſe who miniſtered to them in holy things.

9 And looſe his ſhoe] He was ſtigmatized in this manner for want of natural affection; as this ceremony implied that he deſerved to be degraded to the condition of a ſlave, accuſtomed to go barefoot.

And ſpit in his face, &c.] In his ſight, or before him.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVI.

5 A Syrian ready to periſh was my father, &c.] Jacob was a Syrian by deſcent, Abraham being a native of that country, and he himſelf lived twenty years with Laban, the Syrian, and there he was called a Syrian; and at the time he went down into Egypt, he was ready to periſh by famine.

Before CHRIST 1451. tithes of thine increaſe the third year, which is the year of tithing, and haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates and be filled;

13 Then thou ſhalt ſay before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of mine houſe, and alſo have given them unto the Levite, and unto the ſtranger, to the fatherleſs, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou haſt commanded me: I have not tranſgreſſed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them:

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe, nor given ought thereof for the dead: but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou haſt commanded me.

15 Look down from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bleſs thy people Iſrael, and the land which thou haſt given us, as thou ſwareſt unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

16 ¶ This day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do theſe ſtatutes and judgments: thou ſhalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

17 Thou haſt avouched the LORD this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his ſtatutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice:

18 And the LORD hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldeſt keep all his commandments;

19 And to make thee high above all nations which he hath made, in praiſe, and in name, and in honour; and that thou mayeſt be an holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath ſpoken.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVI.

This chapter contains many edifying leſſons; namely, that we ſhould pay homage to God for all the good things we poſſeſs, acknowledge our own unworthineſs, and confeſs that we hold all things from his bounty; and that, to ſhew our piety and gratitude, we ought to reſerve part of our ſubſtance, and devote it to God in humility, either for his ſervice, or the ſupport of the poor. Alſo that in the practice of every duty, and in obedience to the laws of the Lord, conſiſts all our happineſs and our glory; by this we ſhall draw upon ourſelves the favour of God, and his holy bleſſings.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 The people are commanded to write the law upon ſtones, which are to be ſet up, and an altar of whole ſtones to be built, in mount Ebal. 9 Moſes and the prieſts recommend attention and obedience to the law. 11 Six tribes to be ſtationed on Gerizzim, and ſix on Ebal. 14 The curſes to be pronounced by the Levites.

AND Moſes with the elders of Iſrael commanded the people, ſaying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day. Before CHRIST 1451.

2 And it ſhall be on the day when ye ſhall paſs over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones, and plaiſter them with plaiſter:

3 And thou ſhalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art paſſed over, that thou mayeſt go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee.

4 Therefore it ſhall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye ſhall ſet up theſe ſtones, which I command you this day, in mount Ebal, and thou ſhalt plaiſter them with plaiſter.

5 And there ſhalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of ſtones: thou ſhalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou ſhalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole ſtones: and thou ſhalt offer burnt offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God:

7 And thou ſhalt offer peace offerings, and ſhalt eat there, and rejoice before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou ſhalt write upon the ſtones all the words of this law very plainly.

9 ¶ And Moſes and the prieſts the Levites ſpake unto all Iſrael, ſaying, Take heed, and hearken, O Iſrael; this day thou art become the people of the LORD thy God.

10 Thou ſhalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day.

11 ¶ And Moſes charged the people the ſame day, ſaying,

12 Theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Gerizzim to bleſs the people, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Joſeph, and Benjamin:

13 And theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Ebal to curſe; Reuben, Gad, and Aſher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 ¶ And the Levites ſhall ſpeak, and ſay unto all the men of Iſrael with a loud voice,

15 Curſed be the man that maketh any graven or molten image, an abomination unto the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftſman, and putteth it in a ſecret place. And all the people ſhall anſwer and ſay, Amen.

16 Curſed be he that ſetteth light by his father or his mother. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

17 Curſed be he that removeth his neighbour's landmark. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

18 Curſed

13 Before the Lord, &c.] Theſe words ſignify, that every man ſhould make this declaration before the moſt holy place at the ſanctuary; for the words "before the Lord," are generally ſo uſed in theſe books; and, unleſs they had been obliged to this, their covetous diſpoſition might have inclined them to defraud the poor.

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning] Nothing was more unſuitable to the worſhip of God, than melancholy and dejection of mind; therefore the Iſraelites were not allowed to eat of holy things when they were in a ſtate of mourning.

Nor given aught thereof for the dead, &c.] I have not offered any of my fruits to idols, which are only dead men deified.

15 Look down from thy holy habitation, &c.] Though God was pleaſed to dwell among them, by a glorious ſymbol of his preſence, yet Moſes teaches the Iſraelites to acknowledge that he dwelt in a more tranſcendent glory in the heavens.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVII.

2 Thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones] Unleſs we could determine how much of the law was to be written upon theſe ſtones, we cannot judge of their number; for if only the ten commandments, fewer than twelve would ſerve, if the whole book of Deuteronomy, ſo many were not ſufficient.

Plaiſter them with plaiſter.] From hence it appears that the law was not to be engraved on theſe ſtones, but to be written or painted on them.

3 All the words of this law, &c.] Probably the curſes which follow from ver. 15. to the end of the chapter.

7 And ſhalt eat there, and rejoice before the Lord, &c.] The people of Iſrael, to whom God promiſed the land of Canaan, being given to underſtand that God, having performed what he promiſed, expected that they, on their part, would be mindful of their obligations.

12 Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Joſeph, and Benjamin.] Theſe ſix tribes, who ſtood upon mount Gerizzim (on the top, and on the deſcent of it, down to the bottom) were all deſcended from the ſons of the free women, Leah and Rachel; and many think it was on that account that they were appointed to bleſs, which was more honourable than to curſe.

14 The Levites] The prieſts, who are often called "the prieſts, the Levites." See Joſh. viii. 33.

Shall ſpeak, and ſay unto all the men of Iſrael with a loud voice, &c.] The prieſts turning their faces firſt towards mount Gerizzim, proclaimed with a loud voice, "Bleſſed be the man that maketh not any graven, &c." to which all the people that ſtood there, anſwered Amen; and then, turning their faces towards mount Ebal, they ſaid "Curſed be the man that maketh, &c." to which alſo thoſe who ſtood on that mountain, made the ſame reply, and ſo alternately.

15 And putteth it in a ſecret place] That is, Hideth it, to avoid diſcovery and puniſhment.

The people ſhall anſwer and ſay, Amen.] Implying only a declaration, or confirmation, that to ſuch vices the curſe of God is due, agreeable to the revelation of his will in the ſacred volume.

19 Curſed be he that perverteth the judgment of the ſtranger, fatherleſs, and widow. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

20 Curſed be he that lieth with his father's wife; becauſe he uncovereth his father's ſkirt. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

21 Curſed be he that lieth with any manner of beaſt. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

25 Curſed be he that taketh reward to ſlay an innocent perſon. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

26 Curſed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do them. And all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVII.

We ſhould conſider ſeriouſly the bleſſings and curſings pronounced with ſo much ſolemnity to the Iſraelites; that ſinners are ſubject to the wrath of God, no leſs by the goſpel, than by the law; and that thoſe denounced by the goſpel are by far the moſt terrible.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 The bleſſings for obedience. 15 The curſes for diſobedience.

AND it ſhall come to paſs, if thou ſhalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will ſet thee on high above all nations of the earth:

2 And all theſe bleſſings ſhall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

3 Bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

4 Bleſſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

5 Bleſſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy ſtore.

6 Bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out.

7 The LORD ſhall cauſe thine enemies that riſe up againſt thee to be ſmitten before thy face: they ſhall come out againſt thee one way, and flee before thee ſeven ways.

8 The LORD ſhall command the bleſſing upon thee in thy ſtorehouſes, and in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto; and he ſhall bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 The LORD ſhall eſtabliſh thee an holy people unto himſelf, as he hath ſworn unto thee, if thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all the people of the earth ſhall ſee that thou art called by the name of the LORD; and they ſhall be afraid of thee.

11 And the LORD ſhall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers to give thee. Before CHRIST 1451.

12 The LORD ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his ſeaſon, and to bleſs all the work of thine hand: and thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD ſhall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou ſhalt be above only, and thou ſhalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to obſerve and to do them:

14 And thou ſhalt not go aſide from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to ſerve them.

15 ¶ But it ſhall come to paſs, if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all his commandments and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day; that all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and overtake thee:

16 Curſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and curſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

17 Curſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy ſtore.

18 Curſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

19 Curſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and curſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out.

20 The LORD ſhall ſend upon thee curſing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto for to do, until thou be deſtroyed, and until thou periſh quickly; becauſe of the wickedneſs of thy doings, whereby thou haſt forſaken me.

21 The LORD ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee, until he have conſumed thee from off the land, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

22 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with a conſumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the ſword, and with blaſting, and with mildew; and they ſhall purſue thee until thou periſh.

23 And the heaven that is over thy head ſhall be braſs, and the earth that is under thee ſhall be iron.

24 The LORD ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt: from heaven ſhall it come down upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed.

25 The LORD ſhall cauſe thee to be ſmitten before thine enemies: thou ſhalt go out one way againſt them, and flee ſeven ways before them: and ſhalt be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And thy carcaſe ſhall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beaſts of the earth, and no man ſhall fray them away.

27 The LORD will ſmite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the emerods, and with the ſcab, and with the itch, whereof thou canſt not be healed.

28 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with madneſs, and blindneſs, and aſtoniſhment of heart:

29 And thou ſhalt grope at noonday, as the blind gropeth in darkneſs, and thou ſhalt not proſper in thy ways:

19 The ſtranger, fatherleſs, and widow, &c.] This is a paraphraſe upon the poor.

24 That ſmiteth his neighbour ſecretly, &c.] This is to be underſtood not only of murder, but likewiſe of defamation and ſcandal, by which the fame of an abſent perſon is wounded and deſtroyed.

25 That taketh reward to ſlay an innocent perſon, &c.] This has reſpect to the judges, who, for money, not only gave a wrong judgment, but condemned the innocent to death. See Micah iii. 11.

26 That confirmeth not all the words of this law, &c.] That performeth not, &c.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXVIII.

2 And overtake thee, &c.] This expreſſion points out the quickneſs and unexpectedneſs of the bleſſings wherewith God would favour the Iſraelites:—he would ſurpriſe them, as it were, with his benefits, and not only exceed, but even prevent their wiſhes.

5 Bleſſed ſhall be thy baſket, &c.] Thou ſhalt proſper in all thy labours of huſbandry.

7 Flee before thee ſeven ways.] Promiſing not only victory, but a complete one.

12 Thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow.] That is, Thou ſhalt have ſuch plenty, as that, after thou haſt ſufficed thyſelf, thou ſhalt be able to lend unto others.

21 Cleave unto thee] That is, be incurable.

23 The earth—iron.] Hard as iron, for want of rain to ſoften it.

26 No man ſhall fray them away.] No man ſhall take ſo much compaſſion upon them, as to chaſe away the fowls of the air, and the beaſts of the earth, and to inter the remainders of the carcaſes which thoſe devourers had not conſumed.

27 The botch of Egypt] This is generally underſtood to be the leproſy.

The emerods, &c.] Suppoſed to be the piles.

ways: and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed and ſpoiled evermore, and no man ſhall ſave thee.

30 Thou ſhalt betroth a wife, and another man ſhall lie with her: thou ſhalt build an houſe, and thou ſhalt not dwell therein: thou ſhalt plant a vineyard, and ſhalt not gather the grapes thereof.

31 Thine ox ſhall be ſlain before thine eyes, and thou ſhalt not eat thereof: thine aſs ſhall be violently taken away from before thy face, and ſhall not be reſtored to thee: thy ſheep ſhall be given unto thine enemies, and thou ſhalt have none to reſcue them.

32 Thy ſons and thy daughters ſhall be given unto another people, and thine eyes ſhall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long: and there ſhall be no might in thine hand.

33 The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, ſhall a nation which thou knoweſt not eat up; and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed and cruſhed alway:

34 So that thou ſhalt be mad for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee.

35 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a ſore botch that cannot be healed, from the ſole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD ſhall bring thee, and thy king which thou ſhalt ſet over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and there ſhalt thou ſerve other gods, wood and ſtone.

37 And thou ſhalt become an aſtoniſhment, a proverb, and a byword, among all nations whither the LORD ſhall lead thee.

38 Thou ſhalt carry much ſeed out into the field, and ſhalt gather but little in; for the locuſt ſhall conſume it.

39 Thou ſhalt plant vineyards, and dreſs them, but ſhalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes; for the worms ſhall eat them.

40 Thou ſhalt have olive trees throughout all thy coaſts, but thou ſhalt not anoint thyſelf with the oil; for thine olive ſhall caſt his fruit.

41 Thou ſhalt beget ſons and daughters, but thou ſhalt not enjoy them; for they ſhall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land ſhall the locuſt conſume.

43 The ſtranger that is within thee ſhall get up above thee very high; and thou ſhalt come down very low.

44 He ſhall lend to thee, and thou ſhalt not lend to him: he ſhall be the head, and thou ſhalt be the tail.

45 Moreover all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and ſhall purſue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be deſtroyed; becauſe thou hearkenedſt not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which he commanded thee:

46 And they ſhall be upon thee for a ſign and for a wonder, and upon thy ſeed for ever.

47 Becauſe thou ſervedſt not the LORD thy God with joyfulneſs, and with gladneſs of heart, for the abundance of all things;

48 Therefore ſhalt thou ſerve thine enemies which the LORD ſhall ſend againſt thee, in hunger, and in thirſt, and in nakedneſs, and in want of all things: and he ſhall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have deſtroyed thee. Before CHRIST 1451.

49 The LORD ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far, from the end of the earth, as ſwift as the eagle flieth; a nation whoſe tongue thou ſhalt not underſtand;

50 A nation of fierce countenance, which ſhall not regard the perſon of the old, nor ſhew favour to the young:

51 And he ſhall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be deſtroyed: which alſo ſhall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increaſe of thy kine, or flocks of thy ſheep, until ye have deſtroyed thee.

52 And he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou truſtedſt throughout all thy land: and he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

53 And thou ſhalt eat the fruit of thine own body, the fleſh of thy ſons and of thy daughters, which the LORD thy God hath given thee, in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs, wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee:

54 So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye ſhall be evil toward his brother, and toward the wife of his boſom, and toward the remnant of his children which he ſhall leave:

55 So that he will not give to any of them of the fleſh of his children whom he ſhall eat: becauſe he hath nothing left him in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs, wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to ſet the ſole of her foot upon the ground for delicateneſs and tenderneſs, her eye ſhall be evil toward the huſband of her boſom, and toward her ſon, and toward her daughter,

57 And toward her young one that cometh out from between her feet, and toward her children which ſhe ſhall bear: for ſhe ſhall eat them for want of all things ſecretly in the ſiege and ſtraitneſs, wherewith thine enemy ſhall diſtreſs thee in thy gates.

58 If thou wilt not obſerve to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayeſt fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

59 Then the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy ſeed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and ſore ſickneſſes, and of long continuance.

60 Moreover he will bring upon thee all the diſeaſes of Egypt, which thou waſt afraid of; and they ſhall cleave unto thee.

61 Alſo every ſickneſs, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD bring upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed.

62 And ye ſhall be left few in number, whereas ye were

45 Moreover all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee—till thou be deſtroyed, &c.] The meaning is, that theſe puniſhments ſhould not ceaſe, but follow one upon another, till they had brought them to utter ruin.

46 They ſhall be upon thee for a ſign and for a wonder] The curſes ſhall remain fixed upon them, and continue unremoved from age to age, that all men may take notice of them, and look upon them as extraordinary tokens of God's high diſpleaſure, and take warning thereby, to avoid their guilt of infidelity and diſobedience.

And upon thy ſeed for ever.] All the world may clearly ſee that the God of their fathers hath caſt them off, they having no ſigns or badges of his antient wonted favours; whilſt innumerable marks and ſcars of his fearful indignation againſt their fathers, remain unhealed in their children, after more generations than their anceſtors had of proſperity in the promiſed land.

49 The Lord ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far] Much the ſame deſcription is given of the Chaldeans, Jer. v. 15. But this evidently belongs to the Romans.

From the end of the earth] The Romans, by whom they were laſt deſtroyed, came literally from far, and from the end of the earth, particularly Julius Severus, who was called by the emperor Adrian, to effect their deſtruction, from commanding here in Britain.

As ſwift as the eagle flieth, &c.] Metaphorically applied to the Roman eagles, or enſigns.

53 In the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs, wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee.] This was exactly fulfilled by Veſpaſian and his ſon Titus, who beſieged them ſo cloſely in Jeruſalem, that they could not ſtir out; ſo that ſeveral hundred thouſands periſhed by a lamentable famine and the ſword; there were deſtroyed by peſtilence, famine, and otherways, one million, one hundred thouſand, beſides above nine hundred thouſand carried into captivity.

55 So that he will not give to any, &c.] This is deſcriptive of more famines than one, whereby they were forced, after they had eaten up their horſes, dogs, cats, and ſuch like creatures, and their very belts and ſhoes, to eat even their own children; which the parents, who uſed to live deliciouſly, Moſes propheſied ſhould themſelves eat up privately, and let none ſhare with them.

62 Ye ſhall be left few in number, &c.] As Moſes foretold, they were left few in number; for Severus ſo beſet and attacked them ſeparately, in ſeveral parties, that very few of them eſcaped; fifty of their ſtrongeſt fortreſſes being utterly raſed, and nine hundred and eighty-five of their moſt noble and populous towns ſacked and conſumed by fire, and five hundred and eighty thouſand ſlain; ſo that Judea was in a manner laid waſte, and left as a deſert.

63 And it shall come to pass, that as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you; so the LORD will rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to nought: and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the LORD shall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

65 And among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: but the LORD shall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind:

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee; and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life:

67 In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even! and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning! for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

68 And the LORD shall bring thee into Egypt again with ships, by the way whereof I spake unto thee, Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bondmen and bondwomen, and no man shall buy you.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXVIII.

The threatenings and curses contained in this chapter having been accomplished, clearly prove the divinity of the holy scriptures; and ought to inspire us with a great fear of offending the Lord, lest we should incur those penalties and curses that are denounced in the gospel; and which are neither less certain, nor less dreadful, than those contained in the law.

CHAP. XXIX.

2 Moses exhorteth the people to obedience by the memory of the works they had seen. 10 They are all presented before the LORD to enter into covenant with him, and warned of the danger of flattering themselves in wickedness. Revealed things alone belong to men.

THESE are the words of the covenant, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, beside the covenant which he made with them in Horeb.

2 ¶ And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

3 The great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles:

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderness: your clothes are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot.

6 Ye have not eaten bread, neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink: that ye might know that I am the LORD your God.

7 And when ye came unto this place, Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them: Before CHRIST 1451.

8 And we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half tribe of Manasseh.

9 Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

10 ¶ Ye stand this day all of you before the LORD your God; your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel,

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water:

12 That thou shouldest enter into covenant with the LORD thy God, and into his oath, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

13 That he may establish thee to day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath said unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath;

15 But with him that standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, and also with him that is not here with us this day:

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt; and how we came through the nations which ye passed by;

17 And ye have seen their abominations, and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them:)

18 Lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; lest there should be among you a root that beareth gall and wormwood;

19 And it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk in the imagination of mine heart, to add drunkenness to thirst:

20 The LORD will not spare him, but then the anger of the LORD and his jealousy shall smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the LORD shall blot out his name from under heaven.

21 And the LORD shall separate him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in this book of the law:

22 So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses which the LORD hath laid upon it;

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:

24 Even all nations shall say, Wherefore hath the LORD

64 From the one end of the earth even unto the other, &c.] Adrian caused many of them to be transported into Spain, accounted the western end of the world; and many of them fled to Babylon, and almost the extremity of the east.

68 Ye shall be sold—and no man shall buy you.] This is generally understood to mean, that though some were sold at a very vile rate, next to nothing, yet others hung upon the sellers hands; the market being either overstocked with their numbers, that none would cheapen the greatest part of them; or they were so contemptible, that none would give what was asked for such useless slaves.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXIX.

1 These are the words, &c.] "These words" refer to the foregoing chapter.

6 Ye have not eaten bread, &c.] They were constantly supported by a miraculous supply from God, who took care of them, and thereby laid a greater obligation upon them to serve him, who had graciously fed them, without any labour of their own.

15 But with him that standeth, &c.] Instead of "but," it might be better translated, As with him that standeth here with us this day before the Lord our God, so also with him that is not with us this day.

18 A root that beareth gall and wormwood.] The expression denotes any wicked, idolatrous person lurking among, and mixed in with, the people; who, like the venom of an infectious plant, might diffuse their evil practices, and corrupt the rest.

19 To add drunkenness to thirst.] A metaphorical expression, to denote a presumptuous continuance in sin.

20 Shall lie upon him, &c.] Not fall only, but shall "lie" or remain upon him.

23 The whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, and burning, &c.] Pliny says, Omnis locus in quo reperitur sal, sterilis est, nihilque gignit; that is, All ground whereon salt is found, is barren, and produces nothing.

Before CHRIST 1451.

LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

25 Then men ſhall ſay, Becauſe they have forſaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt:

26 For they went and ſerved other gods, and worſhipped them, gods whom they knew not, and whom he had not given unto them:

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt this land, to bring upon it all the curſes that are written in this book:

28 And the LORD rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and caſt them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The ſecret things belong unto the LORD our God: but thoſe things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXIX.

From this chapter, and the threatenings denounced in it, we are taught to fear God, and not expoſe ourſelves to his wrath. Above all, we ſhould remember, that he has made for us a more excellent and permanent covenant in Jeſus Chriſt: we ſhould therefore take heed that we fear, love, and obey him.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Great mercies promiſed unto the penitent. 11 The commandment is of obvious interpretation. 15 Death and life are ſet before the people.

AND it ſhall come to paſs, when all theſe things are come upon thee, the bleſſing and the curſe, which I have ſet before thee, and thou ſhalt call them to mind among all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 And ſhalt return unto the LORD thy God, and ſhalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul;

3 That then the LORD thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compaſſion upon thee, and will return and gather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath ſcattered thee.

4 If any of thine be driven out unto the outmoſt parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee:

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers poſſeſſed, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And the LORD thy God will circumciſe thine heart, and the heart of thy ſeed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, that thou mayeſt live.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all theſe curſes upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which perſecuted thee.

8 And thou ſhalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

9 And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers:

Before CHRIST 1451.

10 If thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

11 ¶ For this commandment which I command thee this day, it is not hidden from thee, neither is it far off.

12 It is not in heaven, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

13 Neither is it beyond the ſea, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go over the ſea for us, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayeſt do it.

15 ¶ See, I have ſet before thee this day life and good, and death and evil;

16 In that I command thee this day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes and his judgments, that thou mayeſt live and multiply: and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, ſo that thou wilt not hear, but ſhalt be drawn away, and worſhip other gods, and ſerve them;

18 I denounce unto you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh, and that ye ſhall not prolong your days upon the land, whither thou paſſeſt over Jordan to go to poſſeſs it.

19 I call heaven and earth to record this day againſt you, that I have ſet before you life and death, bleſſing and curſing: therefore chooſe life, that both thou and thy ſeed may live:

20 That thou mayeſt love the LORD thy God, and that thou mayeſt obey his voice, and that thou mayeſt cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days: that thou mayeſt dwell in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXX.

This chapter exhibits to us the promiſes God made to the Jews, of re-eſtabliſhing them when they ſhould return to him; and ſhews, that God is full of goodneſs, and always ready to receive into mercy thoſe ſinners who are enabled to make a right uſe of his corrections, and are converted to him. If we conſider what Moſes ſays, "I ſet before thee life and death, bleſſing and curſing—chooſe thee bleſſing and life," it will appear, that there is nothing wanting on God's part to make men happy; and if they periſh, their condemnation will lie at their own door: this reflection ſhould excite us to love God with all our heart, obey his voice, and to adhere to him; becauſe he alone is our life and our happineſs.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Moſes encourageth the people, 7 and Joſhua. 9 He delivereth the law to the prieſts to be read by them every ſeventh year to the people. 14 Moſes and Joſhua appear before God. 16 God telleth Moſes of the people's future apoſtacy, and the conſequent evils, and giveth him a ſong to teſtify againſt them. 23 Joſhua receiveth a charge. 24 Moſes delivereth the book of the law to the Levites to keep, and calleth together the elders and officers to hear the ſong.

AND

29 The ſecret things belong, &c.] Some take the meaning of this to be, that men ſhould not ſearch into thoſe myſteries which God has, in his great wiſdom, thought proper to conceal from the ſons of men. It has likewiſe been tranſlated thus: That the ſecrets of the Lord our God are revealed to us and to our children; and this ſenſe has been adopted and maintained by many very eminent and learned men.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXX.

4 If any of thine be driven out unto the utmoſt parts of heaven, from thence will the Lord thy God gather thee, &c.] It is this promiſe which Nehemiah plainly alludes to, in his prayer to God, to proſper his endeavours for the reſtoration of Jeruſalem, Neh. i. 8, 9.

6 Will circumciſe thine heart, &c.] The Greek tranſlateth it, Will purge and cleanſe thine heart. The Jews reſted too much on the externals of their religion, and particularly the circumciſion of the fleſh.

13 Who ſhall go over the ſea for us, &c.] The Iſraelites needed not (like the Greek philoſophers) to undertake long and tedious voyages, or wearifome travels, to fetch their inſtructions from foreign countries, in order to acquire wiſdom; for God now taught his people in the wilderneſs, without any pains of their own.

15 See, I have ſet before thee life and good, and death and evil.] By "life" may be meant long life in the land God had promiſed them; and by "good," all the proſperity they could wiſh for there; ſo by "death" is underſtood their being cut off from the land of the living before their time; and by "evil," all the calamities he had threatened while they lived. In a higher ſenſe, it may be underſtood to mean, true happineſs both here and for ever.

Before CHRIST 1451. AND Moſes went and ſpake theſe words unto all Iſrael.

2 And he ſaid unto them, I am an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: alſo the LORD hath ſaid unto me, Thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The LORD thy God, he will go over before thee, and he will deſtroy theſe nations from before thee, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs them: and Joſhua, he ſhall go over before thee, as the LORD hath ſaid.

4 And the LORD ſhall do unto them as he did to Sihon and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them, whom he deſtroyed.

5 And the LORD ſhall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

6 Be ſtrong and of good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee.

7 ¶ And Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid unto him in the ſight of all Iſrael, Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou muſt go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath ſworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou ſhalt cauſe them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD, he it is that doth go before thee; he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, neither forſake thee: fear not, neither be diſmayed.

9 ¶ And Moſes wrote this law, and delivered it unto the prieſts the ſons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Iſrael.

10 And Moſes commanded them, ſaying, At the end of every ſeven years, in the ſolemnity of the year of releaſe, in the feaſt of tabernacles,

11 When all Iſrael is come to appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he ſhall chooſe, thou ſhalt read this law before all Iſrael in their hearing.

12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy ſtranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and obſerve to do all the words of this law:

13 And that their children, which have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

14 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thy days approach that thou muſt die: call Joſhua, and preſent yourſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. And Moſes and Joſhua went, and preſented themſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud ſtood over the door of the tabernacle.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers; and this people will riſe up, and go a whoring after the gods of the ſtrangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will forſake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

17 Then my anger ſhall be kindled againſt them in that day, and I will forſake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they ſhall be devoured, and many evils and troubles ſhall befal them; ſo that they will ſay in that day, Are not theſe evils come upon us, becauſe our God is not among us? Before CHRIST 1451.

18 And I will ſurely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they ſhall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye this ſong for you, and teach it the children of Iſrael: put it in their mouths, that this ſong may be a witneſs for me againſt the children of Iſrael.

20 For when I ſhall have brought them into the land which I ſware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they ſhall have eaten and filled themſelves, and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and ſerve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it ſhall come to paſs, when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this ſong ſhall teſtify againſt them as a witneſs; for it ſhall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their ſeed: for I know their imagination which they go about, even now, before I have brought them into the land which I ſware.

22 Moſes therefore wrote this ſong the ſame day, and taught it the children of Iſrael.

23 ¶ And he gave Joſhua the ſon of Nun a charge, and ſaid, Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou ſhalt bring the children of Iſrael into the land which I ſware unto them: and I will be with thee.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Moſes had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finiſhed,

25 That Moſes commanded the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſaying,

26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the ſide of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witneſs againſt thee.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy ſtiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD; and how much more after my death?

28 Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may ſpeak theſe words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record againſt them.

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourſelves, and turn aſide from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befal you in the latter days; becauſe ye will do evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moſes ſpake in the years of all the congregation of Iſrael the words of this ſong, until they were ended.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXI.

From hence we perceive the neceſſity there was that the word of God ſhould be put into writing, to the end that religion ſhould be preſerved pure and uncorrupted; that this word ſhould be read to the people; and that the chief care of the miniſters of religion ſhould be, to keep the true doctrine, and the true ſervice of God, free from any alteration; and that God will puniſh the diſobedience and ingratitude of thoſe who abuſe his goodneſs, corrupt his true worſhip, and rebel againſt him.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXI.

1 And Moſes went and ſpake, &c.] It is probable that after Moſes had renewed the covenant with the people (mentioned in the foregoing chapter) he diſmiſſed them, and retired to his own tent; but not long after gave them a new ſummons, and went again to take his leave of them.

2 I can no more go out and come in, &c.] I can no longer diſcharge the office I have long ſuſtained of your governor and leader; not for want of vigour either of body or mind, but becauſe God did not think fit to permit him to conduct them any farther.

Alſo the Lord hath ſaid, &c.] For the Lord hath ſaid, &c.

3 And Joſhua, he ſhall go over before thee, &c.] As their captain and leader, after the death of Moſes.

9 Which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, &c.] The Kohathites, who were Levites and not prieſts, carried the ark in their travels.

16 In the ſolemnity of the year of releaſe, in the feaſt of tabernacles.] This being at the end of every ſeventh year, when they were free from cares by the releaſe of their debts, the law was likely to make the greater impreſſion on them.

19 Thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers, &c.] "Sleep," in ſcripture, ſignifying death, this implies, that death ſhall not have dominion over the bodies of God's people for ever, but that in the morning of the reſurrection they ſhall awake as certainly as they fall aſleep.

25 Moſes commanded the Levites, &c.] The prieſts, who were of the tribe of Levi.

26 In the ſide of the ark, &c.] By the ſide of the ark; to be reſerved there as the authentic copy, by which all others were to be examined and corrected.

30 The words of this ſong, &c.] The ſcripture poetry conſiſts in brief and weighty ſentences, ſimply and ſincerely compoſed, in a lively manner, to enlighten the underſtanding, move the affections, and

Moſes' ſong, which ſetteth forth the perfections of God; 7 his ſpecial goodneſs to his people; 15 their ingratitude and apoſtaſy; 19 God's diſpleaſure and vengeance, but mercy in the end. 44 Moſes adviſeth the people to ſet their hearts unto all the words of the law. 48 God ſendeth him up to mount Nebo to ſee the promiſed land, and die.

1 GIVE ear, O ye heavens, and I will ſpeak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.

2 My doctrine ſhall drop as the rain, my ſpeech ſhall diſtil as the dew, as the ſmall rain upon the tender herb, and as the ſhowers upon the graſs:

3 Becauſe I will publiſh the name of the LORD: aſcribe ye greatneſs unto our God.

4 He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, juſt and right is he.

5 They have corrupted themſelves, their ſpot is not the ſpot of his children: they are a perverſe and crooked generation.

6 Do ye thus requite the LORD, O fooliſh people and unwiſe? is not he thy father that hath bought thee? hath he not made thee, and eſtabliſhed thee?

7 ¶ Remember the days of old, conſider the years of many generations: aſk thy father, and he will ſhew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee.

8 When the Moſt High divided to the nations their inheritance, when he ſeparated the ſons of Adam, he ſet the bounds of the people according to the number of the children of Iſrael.

9 For the LORD's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance.

10 He found him in a deſert land, and in the waſte howling wilderneſs; he led him about, he inſtructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye.

11 As an eagle ſtirreth up her neſt, fluttereth over her young, ſpreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings:

12 So the LORD alone did lead him, and there was no ſtrange god with him.

13 He made him ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increaſe of the fields; and he made him to ſuck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock;

14 Butter of kine, and milk of ſheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Baſhan, and goats, with the fat of kidneys of wheat; and thou didſt drink the pure blood of the grape.

15 ¶ But Jeſhurun waxed fat, and kicked: thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatneſs; then he forſook God which made him, and lightly eſteemed the Rock of his ſalvation.

16 They provoked him to jealouſy with ſtrange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger. Before CHRIST 1451.

17 They ſacrificed unto devils, not to God; to gods whom they knew not, to new gods that came newly up, whom your fathers feared not.

18 Of the Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and haſt forgotten God that formed thee.

19 ¶ And when the LORD ſaw it, he abhorred them, becauſe of the provoking of his ſons, and of his daughters.

20 And he ſaid, I will hide my face from them, I will ſee what their end ſhall be: for they are a very froward generation, children in whom is no faith.

21 They have moved me to jealouſy with that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities: and I will move them to jealouſy with thoſe which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a fooliſh nation.

22 For a fire is kindled in mine anger, and ſhall burn unto the loweſt hell, and ſhall conſume the earth with her increaſe, and ſet on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 I will heap miſchiefs upon them; I will ſpend mine arrows upon them.

24 They ſhall be burnt with hunger, and devoured with burning heat, and with bitter deſtruction: I will alſo ſend the teeths of beaſts upon them, with the poiſon of ſerpents of the duſt.

25 The ſword without, and terror within, ſhall deſtroy both the young man and the virgin, the ſuckling alſo with the man of gray hairs.

26 I ſaid, I would ſcatter them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to ceaſe from among men:

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, leſt their adverſaries ſhould behave themſelves ſtrangely, and leſt they ſhould ſay, Our hand is high, and the LORD hath not done all this.

28 For they are a nation void of counſel, neither is there any underſtanding in them.

29 O that they were wiſe, that they underſtood this, that they would conſider their latter end!

30 How ſhould one chaſe a thouſand, and two put ten thouſand to flight, except their Rock had ſold them, and the LORD had ſhut them up?

31 For their rock is not as our Rock, even our enemies themſelves being judges.

32 For their vine is of the vine of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their cluſters are bitter:

33 Their wine is the poiſon of dragons, and the cruel venom of aſps.

and fix the memory. Moſes led the way to all the excellencies contained in the antient poetry of the heathens; inaſmuch as his mind was raiſed to the nobleſt ſublimity of thoughts and ſpeech, by admiration of thoſe ſtrange events, of which he had been an eye-witneſs.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXII.

1 Give ear, O ye heavens, &c.] Moſes begins this inimitable piece of poetry by invoking the heavens and the earth to attend to what he is going to deliver. Such figurative and animated modes of ſpeech have a great tendency to awaken the attention.

2 My doctrine ſhall drop, &c.] Let my doctrine drop, &c. Sink into their hearts, to ſoften them, as the drops of rain and dew do the earth, and produce the fruits of obedience.

5 Their ſpot is not the ſpot of his children, &c.] Or, the ſons of pollution are not his. The true characteriſtic of the ſons of God, is, to imitate God himſelf; but the crimes of the Iſraelites were of ſo aggravating a nature, as to ſpeak them degenerate from their profeſſion of being God's peculiar people; they were the ſpots of a crooked and perverſe generation, who refuſed to be reclaimed.

8 When the Moſt High divided to the nations their inheritance, &c.] He directs them to look farther back, and they would find that long before Abraham's time God had them in his thoughts, even when he divided the earth among the ſons of Noah and their poſterity, after the flood.

10 He led him about, &c.] He compaſſed him about, that is, he incircled him with his divine protection.

11 As an eagle ſtirreth up her neſt, &c.] The care of Providence over the Iſraelites could not be expreſſed more emphatically than by this compariſon.

13 He made him ride, &c.] Probably fare ſumptuouſly, and live deliciouſly, as in Hoſea x. 11. the meaning of which is, the people of Iſrael ſhall live in pleaſure, while Judah ſhall live laborioufly.

15 Jeſhurun waxed fat, &c.] Moſes prophetically declares, that Iſrael, in their proſperity, ſhould abuſe God's mercies, ſpurn at his laws, and become wanton and inſolent as a pampered horſe. The word "Jeſhurun" may be derived from jaſher, "righteouſneſs;" becauſe they were a people profeſſing righteouſneſs, or governed by righteous laws.

21 I will move them to jealouſy with thoſe which are not a people, &c.] God threatens to repay their frequent revolts from him in their own kind, by cauſing the very Gentiles, whom they ſo much deſpiſed, not only to become their conquerors, but alſo to be taken into his covenant, while they themſelves were excluded from it.

23 I will ſpend mine arrows upon them, &c.] I will empty my quiver, and ſhoot all my arrows, till I have not one left. Meaning, God's judgments and plagues.

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, &c.] God would not have their enemies inſult and grow outrageous in their inſolent language, even againſt himſelf.

32 Their vine is of the vine of Sodom, &c.] The ſoil about Sodom produced nothing but blaſted fruit, of a black hue, and without ſubſtance.

33 Their wine is the poiſon of dragons, &c.] Their works are ſo pernicious, that they reſemble the poiſon of dragons, or ſerpents.

36 For

34 Is not this laid up in ſtore with me, and ſealed up among my treaſures?

35 To me belongeth vengeance, and recompence; their foot ſhall ſlide in due time: for the day of their calamity is at hand, and the things that ſhall come upon them make haſte.

36 For the LORD ſhall judge his people, and repent himſelf for his ſervants, when he ſeeth that their power is gone, and there is none ſhut up, or left.

37 And he ſhall ſay, Where are their gods, their rock in whom they truſted, 38 Which did eat the fat of their ſacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink offerings? let them riſe up and help you, and be your protection.

39 See now that I, even I, am he, and there is no god with me: I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.

40 For I lift up my hand to heaven, and ſay, I live for ever.

41 If I whet my glittering ſword, and mine hand take hold on judgment; I will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me.

42 I will make mine arrows drunk with blood, and my ſword ſhall devour fleſh; and that with the blood of the ſlain and of the captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy.

43 Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge the blood of his ſervants, and will render vengeance to his adverſaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 ¶ And Moſes came and ſpake all the words of this ſong in the ears of the people, he, and Hoſhea the ſon of Nun.

45 And Moſes made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words to all Iſrael:

46 And he ſaid unto them, Set your hearts unto all the words which I teſtify among you this day, which ye ſhall command your children to obſerve to do, all the words of this law.

47 For it is not a vain thing for you; becauſe it is your life: and through this thing ye ſhall prolong your days in the land, whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

48 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes that ſelf-ſame day, ſaying,

49 Get thee up into this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over againſt Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael for a poſſeſſion:

50 And die in the mount whither thou goeſt up, and be gathered unto thy people; as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people:

51 Becauſe ye treſpaſſed againſt me among the children of Iſrael at the waters of Meribah-Kadeſh, in the wilderneſs of Zin: becauſe you ſanctified me not in the midſt of the children of Iſrael.

52 Yet thou ſhalt ſee the land before thee; but thou ſhalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Iſrael.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXII. Before CHRIST 1451.

In this ſong of Moſes we find it plainly foretold, that the Gentiles ſhould be called to partake of the covenant of God, in the place of the Jews, and the Jews themſelves ſhould alſo be admitted in the latter days. Here we ſhould bleſs the Lord for having honoured us with his knowledge, who were formerly heathens, and pray for the converſion of the Jews, and of all the other nations in the world.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 Moſes' prophecy before his death, beginning with a diſplay of God's majeſty, and regard for Iſrael. 6 The bleſſing of Reuben; 7 of Judah; 8 of Levi; 12 of Benjamin; 13 of Joſeph; 18 of Zebulun and Iſſachar; 20 of Gad; 22 of Dan; 23 of Naphtali; 24 of Aſher. 26 The excellency of Iſrael.

AND this is the bleſſing, wherewith Moſes the man of God bleſſed the children of Iſrael before his death.

2 And he ſaid, The LORD came from Sinai, and roſe up from Seir unto them; he ſhined forth from mount Paran, and he came with ten thouſands of ſaints: from his right hand went a fiery law for them.

3 Yea, he loved the people; all his ſaints are in thy hand: and they ſat down at thy feet; every one ſhall receive of thy words.

4 Moſes commanded us a law, even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.

5 And he was king in Jeſhurun, when the heads of the people and the tribes of Iſrael were gathered together.

6 ¶ Let Reuben live, and not die; and let not his men be few.

7 ¶ And this is the bleſſing of Judah: and he ſaid, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let his hands be ſufficient for him; and be thou an help to him from his enemies.

8 ¶ And of Levi he ſaid, Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one, whom thou didſt prove at Maſſah, and with whom thou didſt ſtrive at the waters of Meribah;

9 Who ſaid unto his father, and to his mother, I have not ſeen him; neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children: for they have obſerved thy word, and kept thy covenant.

10 They ſhall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Iſrael thy law: they ſhall put incenſe before thee, and whole burnt ſacrifice upon thine altar.

11 Bleſs, LORD, his ſubſtance, and accept the work of his hands: ſmite through the loins of them that riſe againſt him, and of them that hate him, that they riſe not again.

12 ¶ And of Benjamin he ſaid, The beloved of the LORD ſhall dwell in ſafety by him; and the LORD ſhall cover him all the day long, and he ſhall dwell between his ſhoulders.

13 ¶ And of Joſeph he ſaid, Bleſſed of the LORD be his land, for the precious things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath,

14 And for the precious fruits brought forth by the ſun, and for the precious things put forth by the moon,

15 And

36 For the Lord, &c.] Nevertheleſs the Lord, &c. Upon their repentance, he will ſhew them compaſſion.

38 Which did eat the fat of their ſacrifices, &c.] The ſame rites were uſed among the Gentiles as among the Jews, who offered all the fat upon the altar, and there poured out the wine which accompanied the meat offering.

40 I lift up my hand to heaven, &c.] I ſwear ſolemnly. It was uſual to ſtretch out the hand in ſwearing; agreeable to Virgil, Suſpicions cœlum tenditque ad ſidera dextram.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIII.

1 And this is the bleſſing, &c.] Moſes having ſeen them vaſtly increaſed, and ready to enter upon the promiſed land, takes his farewel of them, with a bleſſing pronounced upon the people in general, and upon each tribe in particular.

2 A fiery law, &c.] Becauſe the law was given out of the midſt of the fire.

6 Let not his men be few.] The verſe may be tranſlated, Let Reuben live, and not die, though his men be few. As there is no mention made of Simeon, it is generally thought that his tribe is included in the bleſſing of Judah, with whom his poſſeſſions were mixed.

7 Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, &c.] This benediction cannot relate to the time when it was given, but to the time of the return of the Iſraelites from Babylon, when Judah, with Benjamin, the Levites, and the remnant of Iſrael, made only forty-two thouſand three hundred and ſixty. Ezra ii. 64.

9 Neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor know his own children, &c.] This relates to the impartial execution of judgment by the Levites, upon the worſhippers of the golden calf without reſpect of perſons.

11 The work of his hands, &c.] The acts of the miniſterial office.

12 The beloved of the Lord ſhall dwell in ſafety by him] The temple of Jeruſalem (the place where the divine Majeſty eminently reſided) was in the tribe of Benjamin.

His ſhoulders.] This ſignifies ſides or borders. The temple was built on the borders of Benjamin.

13, 14 Bleſſed of the Lord be his land, &c.] Moſes here foretells that this tribe ſhould be ſituated in a moſt plentiful country, and enriched by the divine bleſſing upon it.

15 And for the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the lasting hills,

16 And for the precious things of the earth and fulness thereof, and for the good will of him that dwelt in the bush: let the blessing come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the top of the head of him that was separated from his brethren.

17 His glory is like the firstling of his bullock, and his horns are like the horns of unicorns: with them he shall push the people together to the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Manasseh.

18 ¶ And of Zebulun he said, Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out; and Issachar, in thy tents.

19 They shall call the people unto the mountain; there they shall offer sacrifices of righteousness: for they shall suck of the abundance of the seas, and of treasures hid in the sand.

20 ¶ And of Gad he said, Blessed be he that enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, and teareth the arm with the crown of the head.

21 And he provided the first part for himself, because there, in a portion of the lawgiver, was he seated; and he came with the heads of the people, he executed the justice of the LORD, and his judgments with Israel.

22 ¶ And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp: he shall leap from Bashan.

23 ¶ And of Naphtali he said, O Naphtali, satisfied with favour, and full with the blessing of the LORD: possess thou the west and the south.

24 ¶ And of Asher he said, Let Asher be blessed with children; let him be acceptable to his brethren, and let him dip his foot in oil.

25 Thy shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be.

26 ¶ There is none like unto the God of Jeshurun, who rideth upon the heaven in thy help, and in his excellency on the sky.

27 The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms: and he shall thrust out the enemy from before thee; and shall say, Destroy them.

28 Israel then shall dwell in safety alone: the fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine; also his heavens shall drop down dew.

29 Happy art thou, O Israel: who is like unto thee, O people saved by the LORD, the shield of thy help, and who is the sword of thy excellency! and thine enemies shall be found liars unto thee; and thou shalt tread upon their high places.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIII.

From this chapter we may consider, that how great soever those blessings of Moses were, they became vain and unprofitable, by the disobedience of the Jews, who are now thereby deprived of all the benefits that Moses wished them before his death. Hence we may learn, that it is not sufficient for the servants of God to bless and pray for men (even thongh God be ready to bestow those blessings) if men by their sins and negligence defeat the same. Before CHRIST 1451.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Moses from mount Nebo viewеth the land: 5 His death and burial: 7 His age. 8 Thirty days' mourning for him. 9 Joshua succeedeth him. 10 The praise of Moses.

AND Moses went up from the plains of Moab unto the mountain of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, that is over against Jericho. And the LORD shewed him all the land of Gilead, unto Dan,

2 And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea,

3 And the south, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, unto Zoar.

4 And the LORD said unto him, This is the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed: I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go over thither.

5 ¶ So Moses, the servant of the LORD, died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

6 And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-Peor: but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

7 ¶ And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated.

8 ¶ And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days: so the days of weeping and mourning for Moses were ended.

9 And Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Moses had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moses.

10 ¶ And there arose not a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face,

11 In all the signs and the wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land,

12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moses shewed in the sight of all Israel.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XXXIV.

It is our duty to honour the memory of Moses; to reverence the law he promulged; to imitate his virtues, particularly that faith, meekness, zeal, and diligence, in which he served God. But, above all, we should believe in him whose coming he foretold, and who is infinitely superior to him by the divinity of his person, perfection of his doctrine, glory of his miracles, and holiness of his life; namely, our Lord Jesus Christ, to whom belong glory and praise for ever and ever. Amen.

22 A lion's whelp.] The Chaldee paraphrase has it, Strong as a lion's whelp.

He shall leap from Bashan.] Bashan was a mountain famous for breeding very fierce lions; metaphorically alluding to the valour and courage of this tribe.

25 Thy shoes shall be iron and brass, &c.] Alluding to the mines of those metals, with which that country abounded.

26 There is none like unto the God of Jeshurun, &c.] Moses in general pronounces their happiness, that their God was not like the gods of other nations, but super-eminent in all perfections.

28 The fountain of Jacob, &c.] The posterity of Jacob, who flowed from him as a river from a fountain.

29 Happy art thou, O Israel, &c.] Unable further to express their happiness, he here breaks out into admiration of it.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XXXIV.

It is an opinion, which seems very consonant both to reason and matter of fact, that this last book of Moses ended with his prophetic blessing upon the twelve tribes, "Happy art thou, O Israel, &c." and that the chapter now before us was formerly the first of Joshua, but thence removed, and joined to the other by way of supplement.

4 I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, &c.] It may be supposed, that upon this occasion God strengthened the eyes of Moses with greater vigour than ordinary, to enable him to take a larger prospect; and that, as the extent of the country was above the stretch of mere human sight, God was pleased to assist his visive faculties, and to give them greater power.

6 No man knoweth of his sepulchre, &c.] The reason why this great prophet and lawgiver was so secretly buried, was, to prevent the people from paying idolatrous worship to his remains; a species of idolatry still prevalent in pagan and popish countries.

Thus ends the Pentateuch; which contains the history of two thousand five hundred and fifty-two years and a half, from the beginning of the world to the death of Moses.

The Book of JOSHUA.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book is so called, not so much upon the account of its author, as of its subject matter; since it contains the history of the wars, the many signal victories obtained by Joshua over the inhabitants of Canaan, the division of the land among the several tribes, and of other affairs which happened under the administration of that great captain. The Jewish church generally allow Joshua to have been the author of this book, and we have no sufficient authority to oppose their judgment in this respect. It comprehends the history of about seventeen years.

CHAP. I.

1 The Lord appointeth Joshua to succeed Moses. 3 The extent of the promised land. 5 God promiseth to assist Joshua, and instructeth him. 10 Joshua prepareth the people to pass over Jordan. 12 He putteth the two tribes and half in mind of their engagement to Moses. 16 They promise him obedience.

Before CHRIST 1451. NOW after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD it came to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying,

2 Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel.

3 ¶ Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses.

4 From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea, toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast.

5 ¶ There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

6 Be strong and of a good courage: for unto this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give them.

7 Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest.

8 This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success.

9 Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

10 ¶ Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying, Before CHRIST 1451.

11 Pass through the host and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for within three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land, which the LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

12 ¶ And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying,

13 Remember the word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, The LORD your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall pass before your brethren armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them;

15 Until the LORD have given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD's servant gave you on this side Jordan toward the sunrising.

16 ¶ And they answered Joshua, saying, All that thou commandest us we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: only the LORD thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses.

18 Whosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him, he shall be put to death: only be strong and of a good courage.

CHAP. II.

1 Rahab receiveth and concealeth the two spies sent from Shittim. 8 The covenant between her and them. 23 Their return and report.

AND Joshua the son of Nun sent out of Shittim two men to spy secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and came into an harlot's house, named Rahab, and lodged there.

2 And it was told the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in hither to night of the children of Israel to search out the country.

3 And

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. I.

1 Moses' minister, &c.] Joshua had been trained up under Moses during the greatest part of the time the Israelites wandered in the wilderness; had seen the wonderful works of God wrought by Moses; well understood the nature and disposition of the people; had been one of the twelve spies sent to search out the promised land, and one of the two who gave a faithful account of it; and was consequently every way qualified for the important office of conducting the children of Israel to the possession of it.

6 Be strong and of a good courage, &c.] This exhortation, together with the preceding and the following encouragement, was necessary to animate this new leader, and inspire him with zeal in the execution of the momentous charge he had just undertaken.

11 Prepare you victuals, &c.] They were to provide themselves with such victuals as the country of Sihon and Og, which they had lately conquered, afforded.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. I.

We are hereby taught, that God, whenever he takes to himself his faithful servants, raises up others, and endues them with the gifts of his Spirit. The obedience paid to Joshua, by the two tribes and a half, in helping their brethren to conquer Canaan, should incite us to obey and submit to our leaders, and assist each other in all just matters, particularly in the great work of our salvation.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. II.

1 Jericho] This was a city of Canaan, which afterwards fell to the lot of the tribe of Benjamin, about seven leagues distant from Jerusalem, and two from Jordan.

Into a harlot's house, &c.] The original, which is here translated "harlot," signifies, An hostess; and therefore, as the expression is capable of a double sense, when we consider the faith which Rahab expressed in God, and her behaviour to the two Israelites, charity will incline us to take it here in the more favourable sense.

Before CHRIST 1451.

3 And the king of Jericho ſent unto Rahab, ſaying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine houſe: for they be come to ſearch out all the country.

4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them, and ſaid thus, There came men unto me, but I wiſt not whence they were:

5 And it came to paſs about the time of ſhutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went I wot not: purſue after them quickly; for ye ſhall overtake them.

6 But ſhe had brought them up to the roof of the houſe, and hid them with the ſtalks of flax, which ſhe had laid in order upon the roof.

7 And the men purſued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords: and as ſoon as they which purſued after them were gone out, they ſhut the gate.

8 ¶ And before they were laid down, ſhe came up unto them upon the roof;

9 And ſhe ſaid unto the men, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that your terror is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land faint becauſe of you.

10 For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red ſea for you, when ye came out of Egypt; and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites, that were on the other ſide Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly deſtroyed.

11 And as ſoon as we had heard theſe things, our hearts did melt, neither did there remain any more courage in any man, becauſe of you: for the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, ſwear unto me by the LORD, ſince I have ſhewed you kindneſs, that ye will alſo ſhew kindneſs unto my father's houſe, and give me a true token:

13 And that ye will ſave alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my ſiſters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.

14 And the men anſwered her, Our life for your's, if ye utter not this our buſineſs. And it ſhall be, when the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

15 Then ſhe let them down by a cord through the window: for her houſe was upon the town wall, and ſhe dwelt upon the wall.

16 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Get you to the mountain, leſt the purſuers meet you; and hide yourſelves there three days, until the purſuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.

17 And the men ſaid unto her, We will be blameleſs of this thine oath which thou haſt made us ſwear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, thou ſhalt bind this line of ſcarlet thread in the window which thou didſt let us down by: and thou ſhalt bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy father's houſhold, home unto thee.

19 And it ſhall be, that whoſoever ſhall go out of the doors of thy houſe into the ſtreet, his blood ſhall be upon his head, and we will be guiltleſs: and whoſoever ſhall be with thee in the houſe, his blood ſhall be on our head, if any hand be upon him.

Before CHRIST 1451.

20 And if thou utter this our buſineſs, then we will be quit of thine oath which thou haſt made us to ſwear.

21 And ſhe ſaid, According unto your words, ſo be it. And ſhe ſent them away, and they departed: and ſhe bound the ſcarlet line in the window.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days, until the purſuers were returned: and the purſuers ſought them throughout all the way, but found them not.

23 ¶ So the two men returned, and deſcended from the mountain, and paſſed over, and came to Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and told him all things that befel them:

24 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, Truly the LORD hath delivered into our hands all the land; for even all the inhabitants of the country do faint becauſe of us.

CHAP. III.

1 Joſhua cometh to Jordan. 2 The officers inſtruct the people concerning their paſſage. 5 Joſhua giveth directions relating thereto. 7 God encourageth and inſtructeth Joſhua. 9 Joſhua encourageth and directeth the people. 14 The waters of Jordan are divided.

AND Joſhua roſe early in the morning; and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Iſrael, and lodged there before they paſſed over.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs after three days, that the officers went through the hoſt;

3 And they commanded the people, ſaying, When ye ſee the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the prieſts the Levites bearing it, then ye ſhall remove from your place, and go after it.

4 Yet there ſhall be a ſpace between you and it, about two thouſand cubits by meaſure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye muſt go: for ye have not paſſed this way heretofore.

5 ¶ And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Sanctify yourſelves: for to morrow the LORD will do wonders among you.

6 And Joſhua ſpake unto the prieſts, ſaying, Take up the ark of the covenant, and paſs over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

7 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, This day will I begin to magnify thee in the ſight of all Iſrael, that they may know that, as I was with Moſes, ſo I will be with thee.

8 And thou ſhalt command the prieſts that bear the ark of the covenant, ſaying, When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan, ye ſhall ſtand ſtill in Jordan.

9 ¶ And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Come hither, and hear the words of the LORD your God.

---

4 I wiſt not whence they were.] The beſt apology that has been made for Rahab on this occaſion, is founded on the ſuppoſition that the deſign of God towards the inhabitants of Canaan, was, ſome way or other, revealed to the king and people of Jericho, and that both he and they had been ſufficiently warned to ſave themſelves from the deſtruction that was coming upon them.

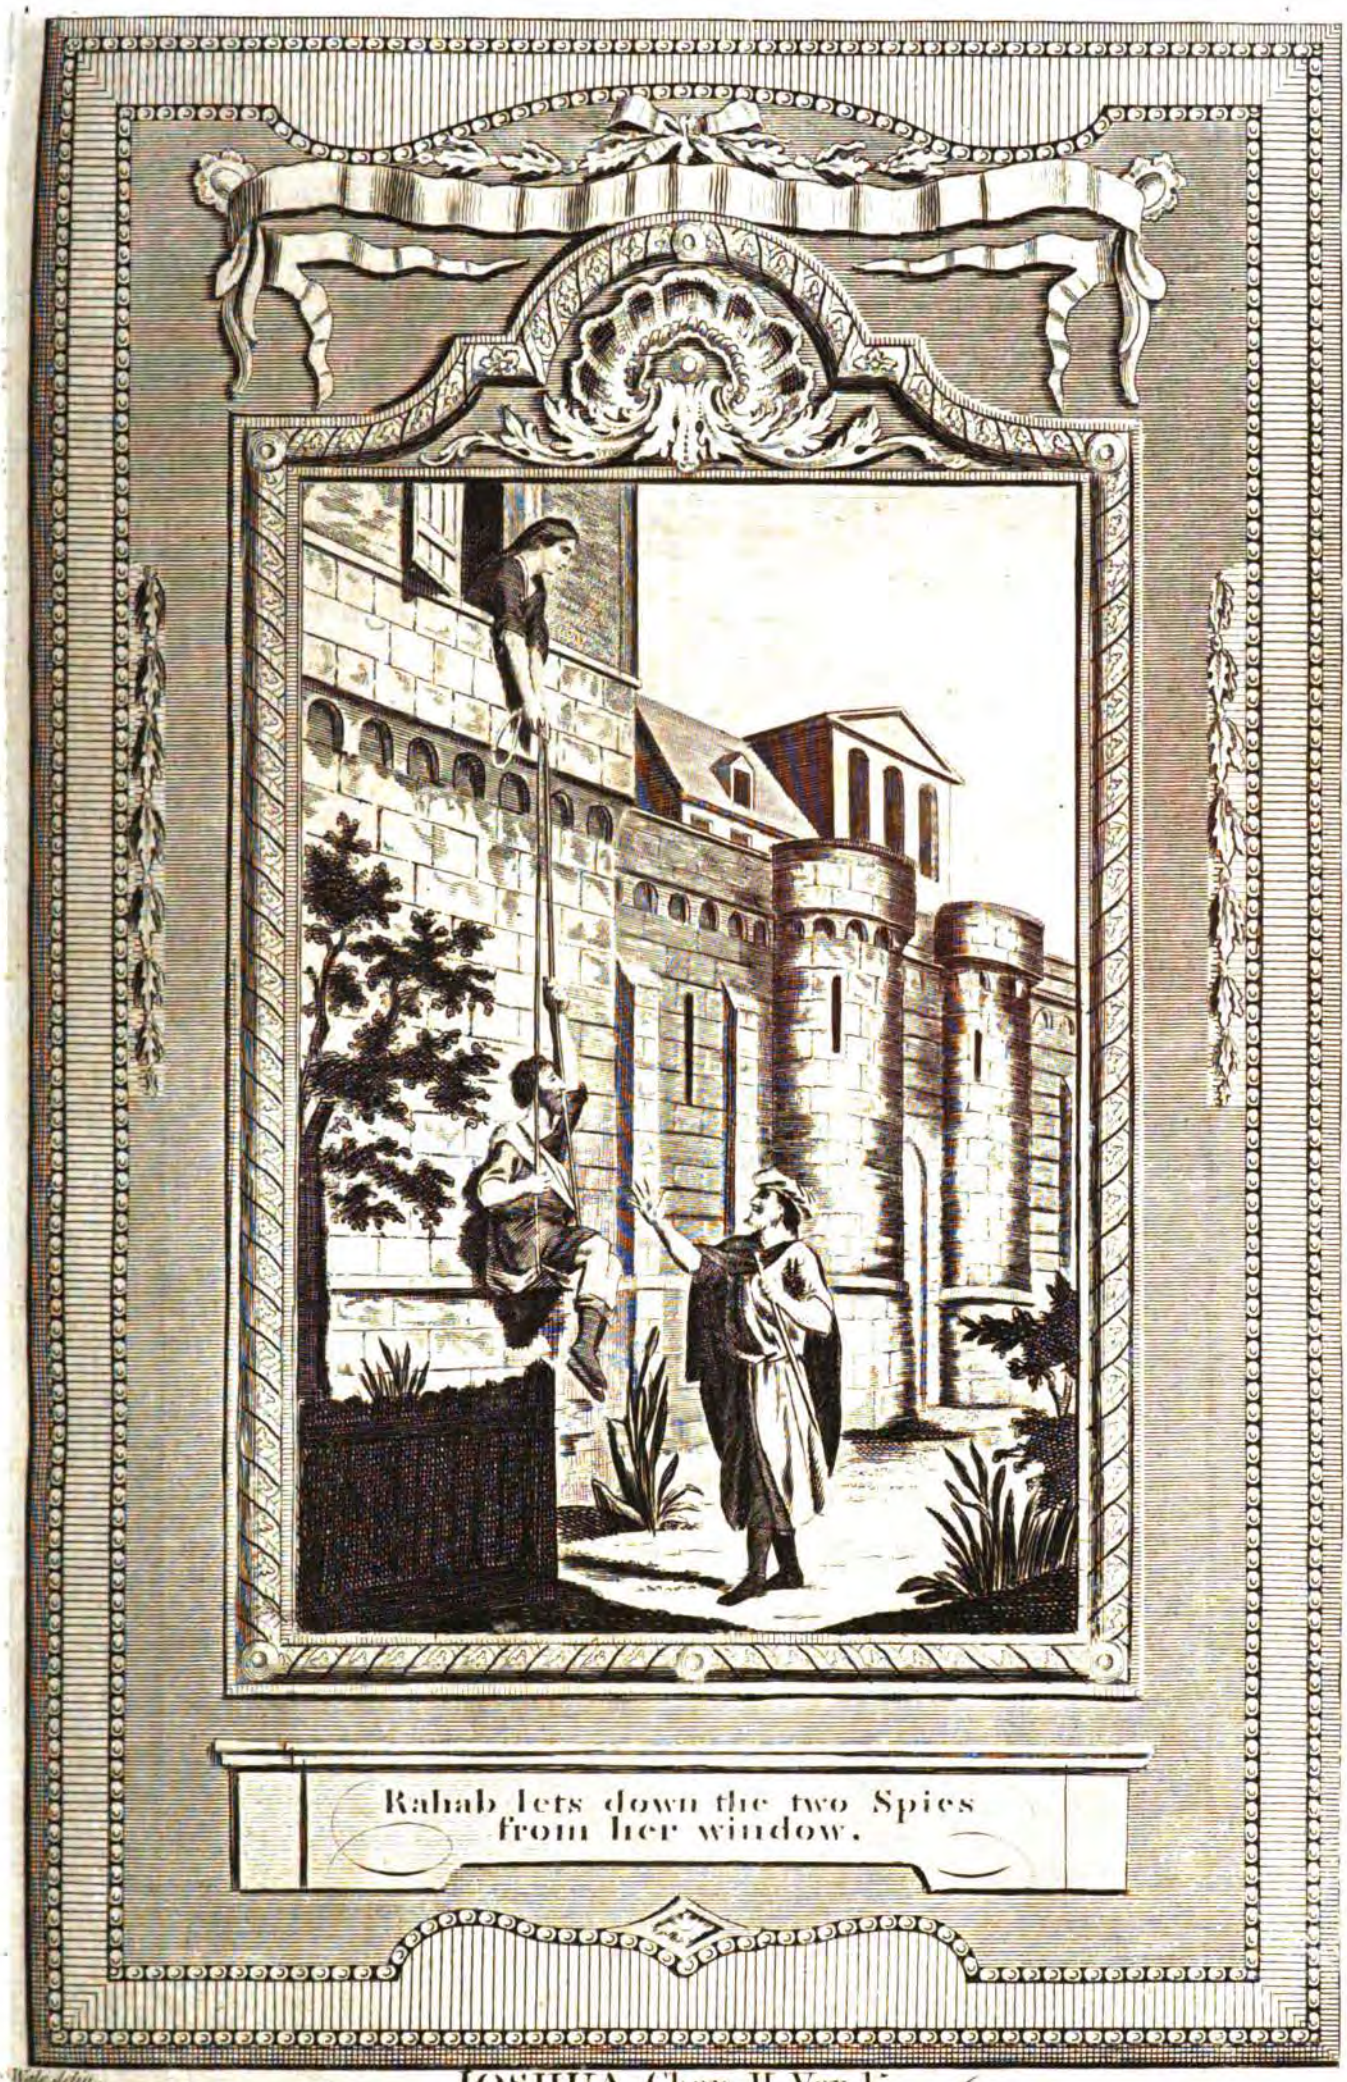
10 We have heard how the Lord dried up the water of the Red ſea for you, &c.] Setting aſide her faith, (for which ſhe is ſo juſtly commended in the goſpel) if ſhe had heard of the deſtruction of Pharaoh in the Red Sea, and of the other two kings on the eaſt ſide of Jordan, the king of Jericho can hardly be ſuppoſed to have been ignorant of their fate; and therefore it was as natural for her to be terrified at it, and to provide for her ſafety, as it was for him to make a brave reſiſtance, or periſh in the attempt.

15 Her houſe was upon the town wall, &c.] As ſoon as it was dark, ſhe let them down from one of her windows; for the gates of the city had been ſhut by the king's orders.

19 Whoſoever ſhall go out of the doors of thy houſe into the ſtreet, his blood ſhall be upon his head, &c.] This was but reaſonable; for they did not know how to diſtinguiſh them from others, if they were in the ſtreet.

24 Truly the Lord hath delivered into our hands all the land, &c.] They found the people of the land under ſuch a general conſternation, that they were fully perſuaded God would deliver them into their hands, and crown the armies of Iſrael with ſucceſs.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. II.



In this chapter two things are remarkable; firſt, The prudence of Joſhua in ſending ſpies to Jericho, to encourage the people to invade the land; ſecondly, The conduct of Rahab, who, being perſuaded that God had reſolved to give Canaan to the Iſraelites, might act innocently; otherwiſe her behaviour might appear blameable reſpecting her king and country: however, ſhe may ſerve for an example, in teaching us to ſhew the ſincerity of our faith by good works.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. III.

4 That ye may know the way by which ye muſt go, &c.] It was only at their firſt removal from mount Sinai, and now upon this preſent occaſion, that the ark was carried in the front of their army; whereas it was uſually ordered to be carried in the middle of their camps.

9 Come hither, &c.] To the ſanctuary, where Joſhua now was.

JOSHUA, Chap. II. Ver. 15.

She let them down by a cord through the window, for her House was upon the Town Wall.

Before CHRIST 1451.

10 And Joſhua ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the living God is among you, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Jebuſites.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the LORD of all the earth paſſeth over before you into Jordan.

12 Now therefore take you twelve men out of the tribes of Iſrael, out of every tribe a man.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs, as ſoon as the ſoles of the feet of the prieſts that bear the ark of the LORD, the LORD of all the earth, ſhall reſt in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan ſhall be cut off from the waters that come down from above; and they ſhall ſtand upon an heap.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs, when the people removed from their tents, to paſs over Jordan, and the prieſts bearing the ark of the covenant before the people;

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the prieſts that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water, (for Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harveſt,)

16 That the waters which came down from above ſtood and roſe up upon an heap very far from the city Adam, that is beſide Zaretan: and thoſe that came down toward the ſea of the plain, even the ſalt ſea, failed, and were cut off: and the people paſſed over right againſt Jericho.

17 And the prieſts that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD ſtood firm on dry ground in the midſt of Jordan, and all the Iſraelites paſſed over on dry ground, until all the people were paſſed clean over Jordan.

CHAP. IV.

1 Twelve men are appointed to take ſtones for a memorial out of Jordan. 9 Twelve other ſtones are ſet up in the midſt of Jordan. 10 The people paſs over. 14 God magnifieth Joſhua. 15 The prieſts are commanded to bring the ark up out of Jordan, which floweth again as before. 19 The date of the paſſage. 20 The twelve ſtones are pitched in Gilgal.

AND it came to paſs, when all the people were clean paſſed over Jordan, that the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

2 Take you twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man,

3 And command ye them, ſaying, Take you hence out of the midſt of Jordan, out of the place where the prieſts' feet ſtood firm, twelve ſtones, and ye ſhall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging place, where ye ſhall lodge this night.

4 Then Joſhua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Iſrael, out of every tribe a man:

5 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Paſs over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midſt of Jordan, and take you up every man of you a ſtone upon his ſhoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Iſrael:

6 That this may be a ſign among you, that when your children aſk their fathers in time to come, ſaying, What mean ye by theſe ſtones? Before CHRIST 1451.

7 Then ye ſhall anſwer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it paſſed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and theſe ſtones ſhall be for a memorial unto the children of Iſrael for ever.

8 And the children of Iſrael did ſo as Joſhua commanded, and took up twelve ſtones out of the midſt of Jordan, as the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Iſrael, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 ¶ And Joſhua ſet up twelve ſtones in the midſt of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the prieſts which bare the ark of the covenant ſtood: and they are there unto this day.

10 ¶ For the prieſts which bare the ark ſtood in the midſt of Jordan, until every thing was finiſhed that the LORD commanded Joſhua to ſpeak unto the people, according to all that Moſes commanded Joſhua: and the people haſted and paſſed over.

11 And it came to paſs, when all the people were clean paſſed over, that the ark of the LORD paſſed over, and the prieſts, in the preſence of the people.

12 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, paſſed over armed before the children of Iſrael, as Moſes ſpake unto them:

13 About forty thouſand prepared for war paſſed over before the LORD unto battle, to the plains of Jericho.

14 ¶ On that day the LORD magnified Joſhua in the ſight of all Iſrael; and they feared him, as they feared Moſes, all the days of his life.

15 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

16 Command the prieſts that bear the ark of the teſtimony, that they come up out of Jordan.

17 Joſhua therefore commanded the prieſts, ſaying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

18 And it came to paſs, when the prieſts that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD were come up out of the midſt of Jordan, and the ſoles of the prieſts' feet were lifted up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned unto their place, and flowed over all his banks, as they did before.

19 ¶ And the people came up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the firſt month, and encamped in Gilgal, in the eaſt border of Jericho.

20 ¶ And thoſe twelve ſtones, which they took out of Jordan, did Joſhua pitch in Gilgal.

21 And he ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, When your children ſhall aſk their fathers in time to come, ſaying, What mean theſe ſtones?

22 Then ye ſhall let your children know, ſaying, Iſrael came over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the LORD your God dried up the waters of Jordan from before you, until ye were paſſed over,

as

15 Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harveſt.] The time of harveſt, in thoſe hot countries, happens early in the ſpring, when, by reaſon of haſty rains, and the melting of the ſnow upon mount Lebanon, and other neighbouring mountains, the river Jordan is always full of water, and generally overflows all its banks.

16 The people paſſed over right againſt Jericho.] Having that famous city in view; from whence, perhaps, the people on the walls might, with amazement, ſee the Iſraelites walk through the river on dry ground.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. III.

The ſeveral miraculous events recited in this chapter, particularly the ſtopping the waters of Jordan on the approach of the ark of the covenant, gave the Iſraelites to underſtand, that it would be only by the divine aſſiſtance that they would be able to ſubdue the Canaanites; and that his preſence in the midſt of them conſtituted all their ſtrength and glory; which may teach us likewiſe, that they who have God with them, and who walk under his guidance and protection, have nothing to fear.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. IV.

7 Theſe ſtones ſhall be for a memorial, &c.] It has been a cuſtom in all ages to erect monuments of ſtone, in order to preſerve the memory of covenants, victories, and other great tranſactions.

10 According to all that Moſes commanded Joſhua, &c.] We do not read that Moſes gave any particular directions about the foregoing matters; therefore the meaning is, that Joſhua punctually executed all that God ordered, as Moſes had admoniſhed him.

13 About forty thouſand prepared for war, &c.] By the laſt muſter they conſiſted of above one hundred thouſand able ſoldiers; and we can hardly ſuppoſe that their number was now decreaſed. The forty thouſand, therefore, that here went over Jordan, were but a part of them; and the reſt were left behind, to guard their new conqueſt againſt the vanquiſhed nations, that had abundant reaſon to become their enemies.

19 In Gilgal, &c.] A place famous in after-times; it had its name from the rite of circumciſion, which was there renewed; it lay about two miles eaſtward of Jericho.

CHAP. V.

1 The Canaanites are afraid. 2 Joſhua reneweth circumciſion. 10 The paſſover is kept at Gilgal. 12 The manna ceaſeth. 13 An angel appeareth to Joſhua.

AND it came to paſs, when all the kings of the Amorites, which were on the ſide of Jordan weſtward, and all the kings of the Canaanites, which were by the ſea, heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Iſrael, until we were paſſed over, that their heart melted, neither was their ſpirit in them any more, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

2 ¶ At that time the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Make thee ſharp knives, and circumciſe again the children of Iſrael the ſecond time.

3 And Joſhua made him ſharp knives, and circumciſed the children of Iſrael at the hill of the foreſkins.

4 And this is the cauſe why Joſhua did circumciſe: all the people that came out of Egypt, that were males, even all the men of war, died in the wilderneſs by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

5 Now all the people that came out were circumciſed: but all the people that were born in the wilderneſs by the way as they came forth out of Egypt, them they had not circumciſed.

6 For the children of Iſrael walked forty years in the wilderneſs, till all the people that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were conſumed, becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: unto whom the LORD ſware that he would not ſhew them the land, which the LORD ſware unto their fathers that he would give us, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

7 And their children, whom he raiſed up in their ſtead, them Joſhua circumciſed: for they were uncircumciſed, becauſe they had not circumciſed them by the way.

8 And it came to paſs, when they had done circumciſing all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, till they were whole.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt from off you. Wherefore the name of the place is called Gilgal unto this day. Before CHRIST 1451.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael encamped in Gilgal, and kept the paſſover on the fourteenth day of the month at even in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they did eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow after the paſſover, unleavened cakes, and parched corn in the ſelfſame day.

12 ¶ And the manna ceaſed on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land; neither had the children of Iſrael manna any more; but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Joſhua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there ſtood a man over againſt him with his ſword drawn in his hand: and Joſhua went unto him, and ſaid unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adverſaries?

14 And he ſaid, Nay; but as captain of the hoſt of the LORD am I now come. And Joſhua fell on his face to the earth, and did worſhip, and ſaid unto him, What ſaith my lord unto his ſervant?

15 And the captain of the LORD's hoſt ſaid unto Joſhua, Looſe thy ſhoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy. And Joſhua did ſo.

CHAP. VI.

1 Jericho is ſhut up. 2 God inſtructeth Joſhua how to carry on the ſiege. 6 Joſhua directeth the prieſts with the ark followed by the people to compaſs the city. 8 It is compaſſed ſix days; and on the ſeventh day it is compaſſed ſeven times. 17 The city is accurſed. 20 At the people's ſhout the walls fall down, and the city is utterly deſtroyed. 22 Rahab is ſaved. 26 The man that buildeth Jericho again is laid under a curſe.

NOW Jericho was ſtraitly ſhut up becauſe of the children of Iſrael: none went out, and none came in.

2 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye ſhall compaſs the city, all ye men of war, and

---

23 As the Lord your God did to the Red ſea, &c.] It muſt add freſh courage to the Iſraelites, when they conſidered that the ſame God, who, about forty years before, had wrought the like miracle for them in their paſſage of the Red ſea; that then he divided the waves, to confirm the commiſſion which he had given to Moſes; and now had parted the ſtream, to ſtrengthen the authority of his ſucceſſor Joſhua, and to give them aſſurance, that he would be with the one, as he had been with the other; and impower the latter to make good their poſſeſſion of the land of promiſe, even as he had enabled the former to accompliſh their deliverance out of the land of bondage.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IV.

As God commanded the children of Iſrael to raiſe a memorial of the paſſage through Jordan, and to acquaint their poſterity of ſo wonderful an event; we likewiſe ſhould perpetuate the remembrance of the Lord's mercies and moſt ſignal favours, and eſpecially of what Jeſus Chriſt has done for us; and alſo inſtruct our children in the truths of religion, that they may be early induced to love and fear the Lord.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. V.

1 Their heart melted, neither was their ſpirit in them any more, &c.] This ſeems to be one of the reaſons why God divided the river for the Iſraelites, who were to be the inſtruments of his vengeance, to paſs over; namely, that thereby he might inject a terror into the inhabitants of Canaan, and to facilitate the conqueſt of their country.

2 Circumciſe again the children of Iſrael the ſecond time.] This does not ſignify that they who had been circumciſed heretofore were to be now circumciſed again (from whence ſome have drawn an argument for repeating baptiſm); but that there had been ſuch a general circumciſion heretofore ordered, as there was to be now, after a long omiſſion of that rite.

9 I have rolled away the reproach of Egypt] The moſt common opinion is, that by "the reproach of Egypt" is meant nothing elſe but circumciſion, with which the Iſraelites always upbraided other people, and particularly the Egyptians, with whom they had lived ſo long, and were beſt acquainted. Admitting this to be true, this paſſage is a plain proof that the Iſraelites could not learn the rite of circumciſion from the Egyptians (as ſome pretend), but that the Egyptians, on the contrary, muſt have had it from them.

Is called Gilgal, &c.] Removed, taken away, or devolved: the Septuagint tranſlate it by ἀφεῖλον, and the Vulgate by ahſtuli, I have taken away.

12 The manna ceaſed, &c.] Becauſe they had now no need of it, being ſupplied by the ſtore of old corn, which they found in the land of Canaan, and by what was growing upon the ground.

13 There ſtood a man over againſt him, &c.] Some are of opinion that this perſon was an angel; and there are ſeveral circumſtances, in this very account of his apparition, which denote him to be a divine, and not a created being; particularly from Joſhua's calling him Jehovah, and worſhipping him.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. V.

The terror that ſeized the Canaanites, on the approach of the children of Iſrael, points out to us, how God prepares things for the execution of his deſigns, and that he turns the hearts of men which way he pleaſes. The circumciſion of the Jews at their entrance into Canaan, and their celebration of the paſſover, teach us, that all God's ordinances, even thoſe reſpecting external duties, ſhould be ſtrictly obſerved. The manna ceaſing to fall, ſhews that it was a miraculous food, and that for the future the land ſhould furniſh a ſupply of all neceſſaries; and the apparition of an angel to Joſhua, was a new ſign of the protection of the Lord, and an aſſurance that he would give them poſſeſſion of the land, as he had promiſed.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on Chap. VI.

3 Ye ſhall compaſs the city, &c.] God intended to ſhew the Iſraelites that the conqueſt of Canaan was to be aſcribed to him, and not to human power, ordered Joſhua not to attack the city, but compaſs it about ſeven days, when the walls would fall down, and open a paſſage for the Iſraelites to enter the city.

9 And the armed men went before the prieſts that blew with the trumpets, and the rereward came after the ark, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And Joſhua had commanded the people, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſhout, nor make any noiſe with your voice, neither ſhall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you ſhout; then ſhall ye ſhout.

11 So the ark of the LORD compaſſed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 And Joſhua roſe early in the morning, and the prieſts took up the ark of the LORD.

13 And ſeven prieſts bearing ſeven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them; but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the ſecond day they compaſſed the city once, and returned into the camp: ſo they did ſix days.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that they roſe early about the dawning of the day, and compaſſed the city after the ſame manner ſeven times: only on that day they compaſſed the city ſeven times.

16 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, when the prieſts blew with the trumpets, Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Shout; for the LORD hath given you the city.

17 ¶ And the city ſhall be accurſed, even it, and all that are therein, to the LORD: only Rahab the harlot ſhall live, ſhe and all that are with her in the houſe, becauſe ſhe hid the meſſengers that we ſent.

18 And ye in any wiſe keep yourſelves from the accurſed thing, leſt ye make yourſelves accurſed, when ye take of the accurſed thing, and make the camp of Iſrael a curſe and trouble it. Before CHRIST 1451.

19 But all the ſilver, and gold, and veſſels of braſs and iron, are conſecrated unto the LORD: they ſhall come into the treaſury of the LORD.

20 ¶ So the people ſhouted when the prieſts blew with the trumpets: and it came to paſs, when the people heard the ſound of the trumpet, and the people ſhouted with a great ſhout, that the wall fell down flat, ſo that the people went up into the city, every man ſtraight before him, and they took the city.

21 And they utterly deſtroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and ſheep, and aſs, with the edge of the ſword.

22 ¶ But Joſhua had ſaid unto the two men that had ſpied out the country, Go into the harlot's houſe, and bring out thence the woman, and all that ſhe hath, as ye ſware unto her.

23 And the young men that were ſpies went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that ſhe had; and they brought out all her kindred, and left them without the camp of Iſrael.

24 And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels of braſs and of iron, they put into the treaſury of the houſe of the LORD.

25 And Joſhua ſaved Rahab the harlot alive, and her father's houſhold, and all that ſhe had; and ſhe dwelleth in Iſrael even unto this day; becauſe ſhe hid the meſſengers, which Joſhua ſent to ſpy out Jericho.

26 ¶ And Joſhua adjured them at that time, ſaying, Curſed be the man before the LORD, that riſeth up and buildeth this city Jericho: he ſhall lay the foundation thereof in his firſtborn, and in his youngeſt ſon ſhall he ſet up the gates of it.

27 So the LORD was with Joſhua; and his fame was noiſed throughout all the country.

CHAP. VII.

1 Achan's treſpaſs. 2 The Iſraelites are ſmitten by the men of Ai. 6 Joſhua's complaint. 10 God inſtructeth him what to do. 16 Achan is taken by lot. 19 His confeſſion. 24 He and all that belonged to him are deſtroyed in the valley of Achor.

BUT the children of Iſrael committed a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing: for Achan, the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accurſed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt the children of Iſrael.

2 ¶ And Joſhua ſent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beſide Beth-aven, on the eaſt ſide of Beth-el, and ſpake

---

4 Trumpets of rams' horns, &c.] Some derive the word jobel not from the Arabic, which ſignifies "a ram," but from Jubal, the firſt inventor of muſical inſtruments; according to this ſenſe, the trumpets uſed upon this occaſion may be ſaid to have been faſhioned after the pattern of thoſe which were invented by Jubal.

9 The rereward came after the ark, &c.] That is, the reſt of the people, who had no arms, old men, women, and children, came in the rear of the ark.

15 On the ſeventh day, &c.] The Jewiſh writers ſay, that this was the ſabbath; and it is worth obſerving, that it was the Lord who gave this command to compaſs the city on this day, as well as any other: that great Lord, who gave the command to keep the ſabbath, now diſpenſes with it.

20 The wall fell down flat, &c.] Or, fell under it, as it is in the Hebrew; which ſeems to ſignify, that the foundations of the wall were ſubverted, ſo that it ſunk and fell into the ditch; or ſunk into the very ground on which it ſtood, ſo as to leave no ruins as in the common fall of walls.

26 Curſed be the man before the Lord, that riſeth up and buildeth this city Jericho, &c.] This anathema was pronounced, that the miracle of the ſubverſion of Jericho might be kept in perpetual remembrance; for whoſoever ſaw the walls ſink deep into the earth, would clearly diſcern, that this was not the form of a building deſtroyed by men, but miraculouſly thrown down by God. In the reign of Ahab, Hiel rebuilt the city, and incurred the curſe denounced by Joſhua; ſee 1 Kings xvi. 34. Some late travellers inform us, that at preſent it is no more than a poor deſpicable village of Arabs.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VI.

From this chapter, we ſee the beginning of the accompliſhment of God's promiſe to his people, and that he truly fought for them. We may further obſerve, how early God began to give the Iſraelites an inſtance of his deſign to incorporate the Gentiles into the church, by the preſervation of Rahab, who was afterwards married to Salmon, and has the honour to be mentioned in the genealogy of our Saviour, Matt. i. 5. In the ruins of Jericho we ſee a ſtanding monument of the wrath of God againſt his enemies, when their iniquity is full; and how certainly the curſe of God will overtake preſumptuous ſinners, as in the caſe of Hiel abovementioned.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VII.

1 The children of Iſrael committed a treſpaſs] That is, one among them; it is uſual, in ſcripture-language, to aſcribe that to many indefinitely, wherein one only is concerned; becauſe where men are united in a ſociety, they are all to partake of the good or evil that is done by the individual members.

Achan, &c.] In 1 Chron. ii. 7. he is called Achar, "the troubler of Iſrael," (as the word Achar ſignifies); it is likely that in after-times they changed his name from Achan to Achar.

Before CHRIST 1451. ſpake unto them, ſaying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joſhua, and ſaid unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let about two or three thouſand men go up and ſmite Ai; and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thouſand men: and they fled before the men of Ai.

5 And the men of Ai ſmote of them about thirty and ſix men: for they chaſed them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and ſmote them in the going down: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

6 ¶ And Joſhua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the eventide, he and the elders of Iſrael, and put duſt upon their heads.

7 And Joſhua ſaid, Alas, O LORD God, wherefore haſt thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to deſtroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other ſide Jordan!

8 O LORD, what ſhall I ſay, when Iſrael turneth their backs before their enemies!

9 For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land ſhall hear of it, and ſhall environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do unto thy great name?

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Get thee up; wherefore lieſt thou thus upon thy face?

11 Iſrael hath ſinned, and they have alſo tranſgreſſed my covenant which I commanded them: for they have even taken of the accurſed thing, and have alſo ſtolen, and diſſembled alſo, and they have put it even among their own ſtuff.

12 Therefore the children of Iſrael could not ſtand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, becauſe they were accurſed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye deſtroy the accurſed from among you.

13 Up, ſanctify the people, and ſay, Sanctify yourſelves againſt to morrow: for thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, There is an accurſed thing in the midſt of thee, O Iſrael: thou canſt not ſtand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accurſed thing from among you.

14 In the morning therefore ye ſhall be brought according to your tribes: and it ſhall be, that the tribe which the LORD taketh ſhall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the LORD ſhall take ſhall come by houſholds; and the houſhold which the LORD ſhall take ſhall come man by man.

15 And it ſhall be, that he that is taken with the accurſed thing ſhall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: becauſe he hath tranſgreſſed the covenant of the LORD, and becauſe he hath wrought folly in Iſrael. Before CHRIST 1451.

16 ¶ So Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and brought Iſrael by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

18 And he brought his houſhold man by man; and Achan, the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 ¶ And Joſhua ſaid unto Achan, My ſon, give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Iſrael, and make confeſſion unto him; and tell me now what thou haſt done; hide it not from me.

20 And Achan anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Indeed I have ſinned againſt the LORD God of Iſrael, and thus and thus have I done:

21 When I ſaw among the ſpoils a goodly Babyloniſh garment, and two hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and a wedge of gold of fifty ſhekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them; and, behold, they are hid in the earth in the midſt of my tent, and the ſilver under it.

22 So Joſhua ſent meſſengers, and they ran unto the tent; and, behold, it was hid in his tent, and the ſilver under it.

23 And they took them out of the midſt of the tent, and brought them unto Joſhua, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and laid them out before the LORD.

24 ¶ And Joſhua, and all Iſrael with him, took Achan the ſon of Zerah, and the ſilver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his ſons, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto the valley of Achor.

25 And Joſhua ſaid, Why haſt thou troubled us? the LORD ſhall trouble thee this day. And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, and burned them with fire, after they had ſtoned them with ſtones.

26 And they raiſed over him a great heap of ſtones unto this day: ſo the LORD turned from the fierceneſs of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called, The valley of Achor, unto this day.

CHAP. VIII.

1 God encourageth Joſhua. 3 The ſtratagem for taking Ai. 9 Joſhua placeth the ambuſh, and advanceth toward the city. 14 Ai is taken, and the king thereof hanged. 30 The altar is built in Ebal, the law written on ſtones, and the bleſſings and curſings pronounced before the people, as Moſes had commanded.

---

3 Let not all the people go up; but let about two or three thouſand men, &c.] In this counſel a good providence of God interpoſed; for if the flight of three thouſand men put the Iſraelites into ſuch a conſternation, (as we read ver. 5, 6.) what a condition would they have been in, if all the people had been routed, as they would have been, if they had attacked Ai, while the guilt of Achan's ſacrilege remained unpuniſhed!

5 The hearts of the people melted, and became as water.] It may be doubted, perhaps, whether the Iſraelites were a people of the greateſt bravery in the world; but it may be truly ſaid, that there was no neceſſity for their being ſo, becauſe upon all occaſions they had the Lord of hoſts to protect them.

6 And put duſt upon their heads.] This manner of expreſſing their grief was uſual among the Jews, and was alſo imitated by the Gentiles; ſee Jonah iii. 6.

10 Get thee up; wherefore lieſt thou thus upon thy face?] Theſe words are not a reproof, but a gracious anſwer to his prayer; for when a perſon, who ſupplicates a prince, is commanded to riſe up from his knees, it is a token of acceptance.

11 Put it even among their own ſtuff.] Converted it immediately to their own private uſe; in this verſe, how beautifully does each circumſtance riſe upon the foregoing! and every expreſſion is a ſtill additional aggravation of his guilt.

18 And Achan—was taken.] It is probable that the diſcovery was made by the caſting of lots in the preſence of God, which was the uſual way, in after-times, of diſcovering noxious perſons: ſee 1 Sam. xiv. 41, 42. Jonah i. 7.

21 A goodly Babyloniſh garment, &c.] The general opinion is, that the richneſs and excellency of it conſiſted not ſo much in the ſtuff whereof it was made, as in the colour of the die, which moſt ſuppoſe to have been ſcarlet, a colour in high eſteem among the antients, and for which the Babylonians were juſtly famous.

24 His ſons and his daughters] Some think that his ſons and daughters did not ſuffer death with him; and the next verſe ſays, that "all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones;" and as, in the ſentence denounced againſt him, we find no mention made of them, why ſhould we ſuppoſe that they were partakers in his puniſhment, any otherwiſe than as they were brought out to be ſpectators of it?

His oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep, &c.] Theſe are here taken notice of, to let us ſee that Achan was a wealthy man, and therefore the more inexcuſable in committing this fact.

25 All Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, &c.] The Jews affirm, that this was done not judiciouſly, but inadvertently by the people, who were ſo highly provoked, that they could not forbear caſting ſtones at him as he was led to execution.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VII.

This hiſtory points out to us, from the conduct of Achan, to what ſin the love of riches drives men; and that nothing is ſacred to thoſe whom this paſſion poſſeſſeth: that the ſin of one man may bring down the curſe of God upon the public, and deprive them of his protection; and that ſins committed in ſecret cannot eſcape his knowledge and vengeance; neither will ill-gotten riches profit the poſſeſſors, who obtain them unlawfully.

Before CHRIST 1451. AND the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear not, neither be thou diſmayed: take all the people of war with thee, and ariſe, go up to Ai: ſee, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land:

2 And thou ſhalt do to Ai and her king as thou didſt unto Jericho and her king: only the ſpoil thereof, and the cattle thereof, ſhall ye take for a prey unto yourſelves: lay thee an ambuſh for the city behind it.

3 ¶ So Joſhua aroſe, and all the people of war, to go up againſt Ai: and Joſhua choſe out thirty thouſand mighty men of valour, and ſent them away by night.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Behold, ye ſhall lie in wait againſt the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

5 And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it ſhall come to paſs, when they come out againſt us, as at the firſt, that we will flee before them,

6 (For they will come out after us) till we have drawn them from the city; for they will ſay, They flee before us, as at the firſt: therefore we will flee before them.

7 Then ye ſhall riſe up from the ambuſh, and ſeize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it ſhall be, when ye have taken the city, that ye ſhall ſet the city on fire: according to the commandment of the LORD ſhall ye do. See, I have commanded you.

9 ¶ Joſhua therefore ſent them forth: and they went to lie in ambuſh, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the weſt ſide of Ai: but Joſhua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Iſrael, before the people to Ai.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north ſide of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

12 And he took about five thouſand men, and ſet them to lie in ambuſh between Beth-el and Ai, on the weſt ſide of the city.

13 And when they had ſet the people, even all the hoſt that was on the north of the city, and their liers in wait on the weſt of the city, Joſhua went that night into the midſt of the valley.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs, when the king of Ai ſaw it, that they haſted and roſe up early, and the men of the city went out againſt Iſrael to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he wiſt not that there were liers in ambuſh againſt him behind the city.

15 And Joſhua and all Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderneſs.

16 And all the people that were in Ai were called together to purſue after them: and they purſued after Joſhua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el, Before CHRIST 1451. that went not out after Iſrael: and they left the city open, and purſued after Iſrael.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, ſtretch out the ſpear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joſhua ſtretched out the ſpear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambuſh aroſe quickly out of their place, and they ran as ſoon as he had ſtretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and haſted and ſet the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they ſaw, and, behold, the ſmoke of the city aſcended up to heaven, and they had no power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderneſs turned back upon the purſuers.

21 And when Joſhua and all Iſrael ſaw that the ambuſh had taken the city, and that the ſmoke of the city aſcended, then they turned again, and ſlew the men of Ai.

22 And the other iſſued out of the city againſt them; ſo they were in the midſt of Iſrael, ſome on this ſide, and ſome on that ſide: and they ſmote them, ſo that they let none of them remain or eſcape.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joſhua.

24 And it came to paſs, when Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderneſs wherein they chaſed them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the ſword, until they were conſumed, that all the Iſraelites returned unto Ai, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword.

25 And ſo it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thouſand, even all the men of Ai.

26 For Joſhua drew not his hand back, wherewith he ſtretched out the ſpear, until he had utterly deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 Only the cattle and the ſpoil of that city Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves, according unto the word of the LORD which he commanded Joſhua.

28 And Joſhua burnt Ai, and made it an heap for ever, even a deſolation unto this day.

29 And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until eventide: and as ſoon as the ſun was down, Joſhua commanded that they ſhould take his carcaſe down from the tree, and caſt it at the entering of the gate of the city, and raiſe thereon a great heap of ſtones, that remaineth unto this day.

30 ¶ Then Joſhua built an altar unto the LORD God of Iſrael in mount Ebal,

31 As Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded the children of Iſrael, as it is written in the book of the law of Moſes, an altar of whole ſtones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt offerings unto the LORD, and ſacrificed peace offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the ſtones a copy of the law of Moſes, which he wrote in the preſence of the children of Iſrael.

33 And

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. VIII.

1 Go up to Ai, &c.] God would not deſtroy Ai by a miracle, as he had done Jericho, becauſe the people were now to appear formidable to other nations, on account of their courage and policy.

3 Thirty thouſand mighty men of valour, &c.] It is reaſonable to ſuppoſe, that the whole body deſigned for the ambuſcade, conſiſted of thirty thouſand men; and that the five thouſand, mentioned ver. 12. was a ſmall party detached from theſe.

15 All Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them, and fled, &c.] Though God could by one ſingle act of his will, have deſtroyed the city of Ai, and all the inhabitants thereof, and without ſuffering his people to ſtrike a blow, have put them in poſſeſſion of the promiſed land; yet he choſe to act by ſecondary means, as more conducive to his glory.

17 Or Beth-el, &c.] It appears by theſe words, that the men of Beth-el were come to the aſſiſtance of Ai, before any of the army of Iſrael arrived; for afterwards they could not, becauſe the ambuſh lay between Beth-el and Ai.

20 They had no power to flee this way or that way, &c.] Either they were ſo diſmayed that they ſtood, as we ſay, ſtock ſtill; or elſe found themſelves ſo environed, that they could no way eſcape.

23 The king of Ai they took alive, &c.] Perhaps they were ordered ſo to do, that he might be made a public ſpectacle of the divine vengeance.

30 Joſhua built an altar—in mount Ebal, &c.] The ſcripture plainly deſcribes this mount Ebal as near Shechem, for there was only a valley between Ebal and Gerizim, from whence Jotham ſpake to the men of Shechem (Judg. ix. 7.) which was at a great diſtance from Ai; and therefore we muſt ſuppoſe that which is here related, not to have been done till they had the country about Shechem.

32 He wrote there upon the ſtones a copy of the law, &c.] Some think it not unlikely that this was a copy of the covenant, by which the children of Iſrael acknowledged that they held the land of Canaan of God, upon condition that they obſerved his laws, to which they and their poſterity had obliged themſelves.

Before CHRIST 1451.

33 And all Iſrael, and their elders, and officers, and their judges ſtood on this ſide the ark and on that ſide before the prieſts the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the ſtranger, as he that was born among them: half of them over againſt mount Gerizim, and half of them over againſt mount Ebal; as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had commanded before, that they ſhould bleſs the people of Iſrael.

34 And afterward he read all the words of the law, the bleſſings and curſings, according to all that is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moſes commanded, which Joſhua read not before all the congregation of Iſrael, with the women, and the little ones, and the ſtrangers that were converſant among them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The kings of Canaan combine againſt Iſrael. 3 The Gibeonites by craft obtain a league: 16 The fraud is diſcovered, but are ſaved on account of the oath of the princes. 22 Joſhua judgeth them to perpetual bondage.

AND it came to paſs, when all the kings which were on this ſide Jordan, in the hills, and in the valleys, and in all the coaſts of the great ſea over againſt Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite, heard thereof;

2 That they gathered themſelves together, to fight with Joſhua and with Iſrael, with one accord.

3 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joſhua had done unto Jericho and to Ai,

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambaſſadors, and took old ſacks upon their aſſes, and wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound up;

5 And old ſhoes and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them; and all the bread of their proviſion was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joſhua unto the camp at Gilgal, and ſaid unto him, and to the men of Iſrael, We be come from a far country: now therefore make ye a league with us.

7 And the men of Iſrael ſaid unto the Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us; and how ſhall we make a league with you?

8 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, We are thy ſervants. And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye?

9 And they ſaid unto him, From a very far country thy ſervants are come becauſe of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt,

10 And all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heſhbon, and to Og king of Baſhan, which was at Aſhtaroth.

11 Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country ſpake to us, ſaying, Take victuals with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and ſay unto them, We are your ſervants: therefore now make ye a league with us. Before CHRIST 1451.

12 This our bread we took hot for our proviſion out of our houſes on the day we came forth to go unto you; but now, behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy:

13 And theſe bottles of wine, which we filled, were new; and, behold, they be rent: and theſe our garments and our ſhoes are become old by reaſon of the very long journey.

14 And the men took of their victuals, and aſked not counſel at the mouth of the LORD.

15 And Joſhua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live: and the princes of the congregation ſware unto them.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs at the end of three days after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Iſrael journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day. Now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim.

18 And the children of Iſrael ſmote them not, becauſe the princes of the congregation had ſworn unto them by the LORD God of Iſrael. And all the congregation murmured againſt the princes.

19 But all the princes ſaid unto all the congregation, We have ſworn unto them by the LORD God of Iſrael: now therefore we may not touch them.

20 This will we do to them; we will even let them live, leſt wrath be upon us, becauſe of the oath which we ſware unto them.

21 And the princes ſaid unto them, Let them live; but let them be hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation; as the princes had promiſed them.

22 ¶ And Joſhua called for them, and he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, ſaying, We are very far from you; when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are curſed, and there ſhall none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood and drawers of water for the houſe of my God.

24 And they anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Becauſe it was certainly told thy ſervants, how that the LORD thy God commanded his ſervant Moſes to give you all the land, and to deſtroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were ſore afraid of our lives becauſe of you, and have done this thing.

25 And now, behold, we are in thine hand: as it ſeemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do.

26 And ſo did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Iſrael, that they ſlew them not.

27 And Joſhua made them that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, in the place which he ſhould chooſe.

CHAP.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. VIII.

From the puniſhment of Achan we may remark, that every forbidden thing muſt be removed from us, before we can expect a bleſſing on our undertakings. From the taking of Jericho by miracle, and Ai by force, we may learn, that though God has promiſed his protection to thoſe who fear him, we ought nevertheleſs to uſe every lawful means for our ſafety and defence. The reading of the bleſſings and curſes was commanded, that the children of Iſrael might be engaged to walk in the laws of the Lord, and teſtify their thankfulneſs, when the promiſes which God had made to their anceſtors were accompliſhed.

15 Joſhua made peace with them, &c.] Though by a poſitive law of God, the Iſraelites were enjoined to make no peace with the inhabitants of Canaan, as a nation, yet if any of them were willing to relinquiſh their idolatry, and other crimes, and embrace the true religion, they might be ſpared.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. IX.

From this hiſtory we may be convinced, that promiſes (how fraudulently ſoever they may be obtained) muſt, if lawful, be religiouſly obſerved; eſpecially when an oath has intervened; and that the reverence due to our oaths, and to the God we worſhip, obliges us to fulfil them.

CHAP. X.

1 Five kings war againſt Gibeon. 6 The Gibeonites ſue to Joſhua, who goeth to their aſſiſtance. 8 God encourageth him, and caſteth down hailſtones from heaven upon the enemy. 12 At Joſhua's word the ſun and moon ſtand ſtill. 16 The five kings are diſcovered and ſhut up in a cave till the purſuit is ended. 22 They are brought forth, ſcornfully uſed, and hanged. 28 Makkedah deſtroyed with her king, 29 and Libnah, 31 and Lachiſh, 33 and the king of Gezer, 34 and Eglon, 36 and Hebron, 38 and Debir. 40 After theſe conqueſts the army returned to Gilgal.

NOW it came to paſs, when Adoni-zedec king of Jeruſalem had heard how Joſhua had taken Ai, and had utterly deſtroyed it; as he had done to Jericho and her king, ſo he had done to Ai and her king; and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Iſrael, and were among them;

2 That they feared greatly, becauſe Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal cities, and becauſe it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedec king of Jeruſalem ſent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Jahia king of Lachiſh, and unto Debir king of Eglon, ſaying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may ſmite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joſhua and with the children of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, the king of Eglon, gathered themſelves together, and went up, they and all their hoſts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war againſt it.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon ſent unto Joſhua to the camp to Gilgal, ſaying, Slack not thy hand from thy ſervants; come up to us quickly, and ſave us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together againſt us.

7 So Joſhua aſcended from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there ſhall not a man of them ſtand before thee.

9 Joſhua therefore came unto them ſuddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10 And the LORD diſcomfited them before Iſrael, and ſlew them with a great ſlaughter at Gibeon, and chaſed them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and ſmote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

11 And it came to paſs, as they fled from before Iſrael, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the LORD caſt down great ſtones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died with hailſtones than they whom the children of Iſrael ſlew with the ſword.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Joſhua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Iſrael, and he ſaid in the ſight of Iſrael, Sun, ſtand thou ſtill upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon.

13 And the ſun ſtood ſtill, and the moon ſtayed, until the people had avenged themſelves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jaſher? So the ſun ſtood ſtill in the midſt of heaven, and haſted not to go down about a whole day.

Before CHRIST 1451.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the LORD fought for Iſrael.

15 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 ¶ But theſe five kings fled, and hid themſelves in a cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joſhua, ſaying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joſhua ſaid, Roll great ſtones upon the mouth of the cave, and ſet men by it for to keep them:

19 And ſtay ye not, but purſue after your enemies, and ſmite the hindmoſt of them; ſuffer them not to enter into their cities: for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand.

20 And it came to paſs, when Joſhua and the children of Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying them with a very great ſlaughter, till they were conſumed, that the reſt which remained of them entered into fenced cities.

21 And all the people returned to the camp to Joſhua at Makkedah in peace: none moved his tongue againſt any of the children of Iſrael.

22 ¶ Then ſaid Joſhua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out thoſe five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did ſo, and brought forth thoſe five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to paſs, when they brought out thoſe kings unto Joſhua, that Joſhua called for all the men of Iſrael, and ſaid unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings. And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.

25 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Fear not, nor be diſmayed, be ſtrong and of good courage: for thus ſhall the LORD do to all your enemies, againſt whom ye fight.

26 And afterward Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees until the evening.

27 And it came to paſs at the time of the going down of the ſun, that Joſhua commanded, and they took them down off the trees, and caſt them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great ſtones in the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

28 ¶ And that day Joſhua took Makkedah, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof he utterly deſtroyed, them, and all the ſouls that were therein; he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah as he did unto the king of Jericho.

29 ¶ Then Joſhua paſſed from Makkedah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Libnah, and fought againſt Libnah:

30 And the LORD delivered it alſo, and the king thereof, into the hand of Iſrael; and he ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein; he let none remain in it; but did unto the king thereof as he did unto the king of Jericho.

31 ¶ And Joſhua paſſed from Libnah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Lachiſh, and encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it:

32 And the LORD delivered Lachiſh into the hand of

2 As one of the royal cities, &c.] Gibeon was not a royal city; that is, had no king in it, but was yet equal to thoſe cities that had kings, being governed by elders, who were perſons of great authority.

11 The Lord caſt down great ſtones, &c.] The Septuagint calls them, Hail ſtones of a vaſt bigneſs; which ſome think were accompanied with thunder and lightning.

33 ¶ Then Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachiſh; and Joſhua ſmote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

34 ¶ And from Lachiſh Joſhua paſſed unto Eglon, and all Iſrael with him; and they encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it:

35 And they took it on that day, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein he utterly deſtroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachiſh.

36 ¶ And Joſhua went up from Eglon, and all Iſrael with him, unto Hebron; and they fought againſt it:

37 And they took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the ſouls that were therein; he left none remaining, according to all that he had done to Eglon; but deſtroyed it utterly, and all the ſouls that were therein.

38 ¶ And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, to Debir; and fought againſt it:

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof; and they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and utterly deſtroyed all the ſouls that were therein; he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, ſo he did to Debir, and to the king thereof; as he had done alſo to Libnah, and to her king.

40 ¶ So Joſhua ſmote all the country of the hills, and of the ſouth, and of the vale, and of the ſprings, and all their kings: he left none remaining, but utterly deſtroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Iſrael commanded.

41 And Joſhua ſmote them from Kadeſh-barnea even unto Gaza, and all the country of Goſhen, even unto Gibeon.

42 And all theſe kings and their land did Joſhua take at one time, becauſe the LORD God of Iſrael fought for Iſrael.

43 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

1 Divers other kings aſſembled againſt Iſrael by the waters of Merom. 6 God encourageth Joſhua, who ſmiteth them. 10 Hazor is taken and burned; and the cities of the other kings are taken and ſpoiled. 16 All the country taken by Joſhua. 21 The Anakims are cut off. 23 The land being ſubdued reſteth from war.

AND it came to paſs, when Jabin king of Hazor had heard thoſe things, that he ſent to Joab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achſhaph,

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains ſouth of Chinneroth, and in the valley, and in the borders of Dor in the weſt,

3 And to the Canaanite on the eaſt and on the weſt, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebuſite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon in the land of Mizpeh. Before CHRIST 1450.

4 And they went out, they and all their hoſts with them, much people, even as the ſand that is upon the ſea ſhore in multitude, with horſes and chariots very many.

5 And when all theſe kings were met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight againſt Iſrael. 1451.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Be not afraid becauſe of them: for to-morrow about this time will I deliver them up all ſlain before Iſrael: thou ſhalt hough their horſes, and burn their chariots with fire.

7 So Joſhua came, and all the people of war with him, againſt them by the waters of Merom ſuddenly; and they fell upon them.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Iſrael, who ſmote them, and chaſed them unto great Zinon, and unto Miſrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of Mizpeh eaſtward; and they ſmote them, until they left them none remaining.

9 And Joſhua did unto them as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horſes, and burnt their chariots with fire.

10 ¶ And Joſhua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and ſmote the king thereof with the ſword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all thoſe kingdoms.

11 And they ſmote all the ſouls that were therein with the edge of the ſword, utterly deſtroying them: there was not any left to breathe: and he burnt Hazor with fire.

12 And all the cities of thoſe kings, and all the kings of them did Joſhua take, and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and he utterly deſtroyed them, as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded.

13 But as for the cities that ſtood ſtill in their ſtrength, Iſrael burned none of them, ſave Hazor only; that did Joſhua burn.

14 And all the ſpoil of theſe cities, and the cattle, the children of Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves; but every man they ſmote with the edge of the ſword, until they had deſtroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

15 As the LORD commanded Moſes his ſervant, ſo did Moſes command Joſhua, and ſo did Joſhua; he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

16 ¶ So Joſhua took all that land, the hills, and all the ſouth country, and all the land of Goſhen, and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Iſrael, and the valley of the ſame;

17 Even from the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and ſmote them, and ſlew them.

18 Joſhua made war a long time with all thoſe kings.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Iſrael, ſave the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon: all other they took in battle.

20 For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that 40 As the Lord God of Iſrael commanded.] This is added as a juſtification of the Iſraelites from all imputation of cruelty or ſeverity; for they only executed a divine ſentence againſt this people, for their abominable wickedneſs, wherewith the Iſraelites would have been in danger of being infected, if they had not been extirpated.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. X.

In this chapter, we ſee the miraculous power of God exerted in the deſtruction of the enemies of his people, and the happy effects of prayer. This teaches us, that all our ſucceſs proceeds from the favour of God, in whom we ſhould always truſt, when we uſe our utmoſt efforts. All the victories of Joſhua plainly ſhew that God was with him, that all the divine promiſes were founded in truth and faithfulneſs; that God is almighty to fulfil them, and that his bleſſing ever accompanies thoſe who confide in him, and walk in his ways.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XI.

4 As the ſand that is upon the ſea ſhore in multitude] Their whole army is computed at three hundred thouſand foot, ten thouſand horſe, and two thouſand chariots. To oppoſe theſe numerous armies, Iſrael had no horſe: God had interdicted their traffic with Egypt, for them, leſt they ſhould be enſnared to idolatry, or place greater confidence in them, than in the divine aſſiſtance.

And chariots, &c.] Theſe chariots made a terrible ſlaughter among an army of foot, being armed with ſpikes, faulchions, ſcythes, and javelins, to the yokes of the horſes, ſpokes, and felloes of the wheels, and to the axle-trees.

5 At the waters of Merom, &c.] Theſe waters are generally ſuppoſed to be the lake of Semechon, which lies between the head of the river Jordan, and the lake of Genneſareth; and that the city of Hazor, where Jabin reigned, was ſituated upon this lake.

6 Thou ſhalt hough their horſes, &c.] Cut their hamſtrings, to render them unfit for ſervice.

21 ¶ And at that time came Joſhua, and cut off the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Iſrael: Joſhua deſtroyed them utterly with their cities.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Iſrael: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Aſhdod, there remained.

23 ¶ So Joſhua took the whole land, according to all that the LORD ſaid unto Moſes; and Joſhua gave it for an inheritance unto Iſrael according to their diviſions by their tribes. And the land reſted from war. 1445.

CHAP. XII.

1 The two kings whoſe countries Moſes took and diſpoſed of. 7 The one and thirty kings on the weſt ſide of Jordan which Joſhua ſmote.

1452. NOW theſe are the kings of the land, which the children of Iſrael ſmote, and poſſeſſed their land on the other ſide Jordan toward the riſing of the ſun, from the river Arnon unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the eaſt:

2 Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heſhbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and from the middle of the river, and from half Gilead, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon;

4 And the coaſt of Og king of Baſhan, which was of the remnant of the giants, that dwelt at Aſhtaroth and at Edrei,

5 And reigned in mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Baſhan, unto the border of the Geſhurites, and the Maachathites, and half Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heſhbon.

6 Them did Moſes the ſervant of the LORD and the children of Iſrael ſmite: and Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave it for a poſſeſſion unto the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh.

7 ¶ And theſe are the kings of the country which Joſhua and the children of Iſrael ſmote on this ſide Jordan on the weſt, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon even unto the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir; which Joſhua gave unto the tribes of Iſrael for a poſſeſſion according to their diviſions;

11 The king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachiſh, one;

12 The king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one;

13 The king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one;

14 The king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one;

15 The king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one;

16 The king of Makkedah, one; the king of Beth-el, one;

17 The king of Tappuah, one; the king of Hepher, one;

18 The king of Aphek, one; the king of Laſharon, one;

19 The king of Madon, one; the king of Hazor, one;

20 The king of Shimron-meron, one; the king of Achſhaph, one;

21 The king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one;

22 The king of Kedeſh, one; the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one;

23 The king of Dor in the coaſt of Dor, one; the king of the nations of Gilgal, one;

24 The king of Tirzah, one: all the kings thirty and one.

CHAP. XIII.

1 What parts of the land remained yet unſubdued: Joſhua is commanded to divide the whole by lot; the two tribes and half being excepted out of this diviſion, and the tribe of Levi. 15 The bounds of Reuben's inheritance, (Balaam ſlain, ver. 22.) 24 of the inheritance of Gad, 29 and of the half tribes of Manaſſeh, as allotted by Moſes, who gave no inheritance to the Levites, but God only.

NOW Joſhua was old and ſtricken in years; and the LORD ſaid unto him, Thou art old and 1445. ſtricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land to be poſſeſſed.

2 This is the land that yet remaineth: all the borders of the Philiſtines, and all Geſhuri,

3 From Sihor, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: five lords of the Philiſtines; the Gazathites,

---

21 The Anakims, &c.] They were a diſtinct people from the Canaanites; gigantic in ſtature, and cruel in diſpoſition. Their habitations were in the mountains, where they fortified themſelves; which probably was the reaſon why Joſhua did not attack them before he had finiſhed his other conqueſts.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XI.

From this chapter, we perceive the wonderful effects of the power of God, and alſo his veracity; and that he had ordained to exterminate the Canaanites, becauſe they were become abominable by their practices, and that they ſhould not corrupt the Iſraelites: but though the juſtice of God is conſpicuous in this, yet the proceedings of the children of Iſrael, as inſtruments, by no means juſtifies cruelty and inhumanity in war. By leaving ſome of the Canaanites alive, for the trial of the Iſraelites, and their puniſhment afterwards, we may learn, that God ſends us croſſes and afflictions in this world, for our correction and good, and for the trial of our faith and patience, and that he may do us good in our latter end.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XII.

23 The king of the nations of Gilgal, &c.] This is not that Gilgal where Joſhua incamped when he came over Jordan, for there was no city there, nor any king of that country, but the king of Jericho.

24 All the kings thirty and one.] It is ſurpriſing that in ſo ſmall a country, there ſhould be ſo many kings; but it is to be conſidered that theſe kings were only petty princes, or lords of cities, which had a few villages depending on them, the inhabitants of which, were their tenants. We know that the king of Beth-el, and the king of Ai, when joined together, had in all, no more than twelve thouſand ſubjects. Kingdoms, like other things, were antiently very ſmall in their beginnings.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XII.

We here find that God continued to enlarge the dominions of the children of Iſrael, as he had promiſed, for truth is one of his attributes. Since it is evident Joſhua never could have ſubdued all thoſe kings, unleſs he had been ſupported by the almighty power of God, let this encourage us under all our afflictions; for "If God be for us, who can be againſt us?"

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIII.

1 Now Joſhua was old, &c.] He is ſuppoſed to have been near one hundred years old.

3 From Sihor, which is before Egypt] Sihor was a little ſtream from one of the branches of the Nile, by which Paleſtine was bounded on that ſide.

29 ¶ And Moſes gave inheritance unto the half tribe of Manaſſeh: and this was the poſſeſſion of the half tribe of the children of Manaſſeh by their families.

30 And their coaſt was from Mahanaim, all Baſhan, all the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, and all the towns of Jair, which are in Baſhan, threeſcore cities:

31 And half Gilead, and Aſhtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh, even to the one half of the children of Machir by their families.

32 Theſe are the countries which Moſes did diſtribute for inheritance in the plains of Moab, on the other ſide Jordan, by Jericho, eaſtward.

33 But unto the tribe of Levi Moſes gave not any inheritance: the LORD God of Iſrael was their inheritance, as he ſaid unto them.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The nine tribes and half are to have their inheritance by lot. 6 Caleb by privilege obtaineth Hebron.

AND theſe are the countries which the children of Iſrael inherited in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael, diſtributed for inheritance unto them. 1444.

2 By lot was their inheritance, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe.

3 For Moſes had given the inheritance of two tribes and an half tribe on the other ſide Jordan: but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.

4 For the children of Joſeph were two tribes, Manaſſeh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, ſave cities to dwell in, with their ſuburbs for their cattle and for their ſubſtance.

5 As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael did, and they divided the land.

6 ¶ Then the children of Judah came unto Joſhua in Gilgal: and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the Kenezite ſaid unto him, Thou knoweſt the thing that the LORD ſaid

Alſo the Avites.] A remnant of thoſe antient inhabitants, who continued, and were mixed in with the people.

6 Them will I drive out] This promiſe was conditional, and depended on the Iſraelites obſerving the laws given them by Moſes; but as they did not perſiſt in the true worſhip of God, great part of theſe places were never conquered: the Sidonians were never ſubdued by the Iſraelites, and the people of Lebanon were only tributary in the days of David.

Divide thou it by lot unto the Iſraelites for an inheritance, &c.] "Though they be not driven out, yet, ſince I have promiſed to expel them, aſſign all the forementioned countries to the children of Iſrael by lot, as the inheritance I have beſtowed upon them."

9 The city that is in the midſt of the river, &c.] The Septuagint read, In the midſt of the valley.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIII.

From this chapter we learn, that God did not think proper to put the children of Iſrael in poſſeſſion of the land all at once, in order to teach them to depend on him from time to time; but though the heathens were not totally ſubdued at that time, yet they were ſo ſome ages after. This is very emblematical of the progreſs of a chriſtian through life.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIV.

1 Theſe are the countries, &c.] Namely, thoſe mentioned in the following chapters, this being no more than a kind of preface to the diviſion of the land.

6 The children of Judah came unto Joſhua—and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh ſaid unto him, &c.] Now that the Reubenites were provided for, the tribe of Judah was the eldeſt of thoſe that wanted their portion: they came therefore to Joſhua; and Caleb, who was not only a conſiderable perſon, but one of thoſe princes who were appointed of God to aſſiſt in the diviſion of the land, addreſſes Joſhua concerning a particular caſe of his own; in which he would not take upon himſelf to judge, but deſires to have it ſettled by Joſhua, the ſupreme governor of God's people.

said unto Moſes the man of God concerning me and thee in Kadeſh-barnea.

7 Forty years old was I when Moſes the ſervant of the LORD ſent me from Kadeſh-barnea to eſpy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in mine heart.

8 Nevertheleſs my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly followed the LORD my God.

9 And Moſes ſware on that day, ſaying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden ſhall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, becauſe thou haſt wholly followed the LORD my God.

10 And now, behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as he ſaid, theſe forty and five years, even ſince the LORD ſpake this word unto Moſes, while the children of Iſrael wandered in the wilderneſs: and now, lo, I am this day fourſcore and five years old.

11 As yet I am as ſtrong this day as I was in the day that Moſes ſent me: as my ſtrength was then, even ſo is my ſtrength now, for war, both to go out, and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD ſpake in that day; for thou heardeſt in that day how the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if ſo be the LORD will be with me, then I ſhall be able to drive them out, as the LORD ſaid.

13 And Joſhua bleſſed him, and gave unto Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance.

14 Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, becauſe that he wholly followed the LORD God of Iſrael.

15 And the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. And the land had reſt from war.

CHAP. XV.

1 The borders of the lot of Judah. 13 Caleb's portion and conqueſt. 16 Othniel for his valour hath Achſah Caleb's daughter to wife, who obtaineth a bleſſing from her father. 21 The cities of Judah. 63 The Jebuſites remain unconquered.

THIS then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families; even to the border of Edom the wilderneſs of Zin ſouthward was the uttermoſt part of the ſouth coaſt.

2 And their ſouth border was from the ſhore of the ſalt ſea, from the bay that looketh ſouthward:

3 And it went out to the ſouth ſide to Maaleh-acrabbim, and paſſed along to Zin, and aſcended up on the ſouth ſide unto Kadeſh-barnea, and paſſed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compaſs to Karkaa:

4 From thence it paſſed toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coaſt were at the ſea: this ſhall be your ſouth coaſt.

5 And the eaſt border was the ſalt ſea, even unto the end of Jordan. And their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the ſea at the uttermoſt part of Jordan.

6 And the border went up to Beth-hogla, and paſſed by the north of Beth-arabah; and the border went up to the ſtone of Bohan the ſon of Reuben:

Before CHRIST 1444.

7 And the border went up toward Debir from the valley of Achor, and ſo northward, looking toward Gilgal, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the ſouth ſide of the river: and the border paſſed toward the waters of En-ſhemeſh, and the goings out thereof were at En-rogel:

8 And the border went up by the valley of the ſon of Hinnom unto the ſouth ſide of the Jebuſite; the ſame is Jeruſalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before the valley of Hinnom weſtward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants northward:

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron; and the border was drawn to Baalah, which is Kirjath-jearim:

10 And the border compaſſed from Baalah weſtward unto mount Seir, and paſſed along unto the ſide of mount Jearim, which is Cheſalon, on the north ſide, and went down to Beth-ſhemeſh, and paſſed on to Timnah:

11 And the border went out unto the ſide of Ekron northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and paſſed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border were at the ſea.

12 And the weſt border was to the great ſea, and the coaſt thereof. This is the coaſt of the children of Judah round about according to their families.

13 ¶ And unto Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joſhua, even the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

14 And Caleb drave thence the three ſons of Anak, Sheſhai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak.

15 And he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-ſepher.

16 ¶ And Caleb ſaid, He that ſmiteth Kirjath-ſepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achſah my daughter to wife.

17 And Othniel the ſon of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him Achſah his daughter to wife.

18 And it came to paſs, as ſhe came unto him, that ſhe moved him to aſk of her father a field: and ſhe lighted off her aſs; and Caleb ſaid unto her, What wouldeſt thou?

19 Who anſwered, Give me a bleſſing; for thou haſt given me a ſouth land; give me alſo ſprings of water. And he gave her the upper ſprings, and the nether ſprings.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families.

21 ¶ And the uttermoſt cities of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coaſt of Edom ſouthward were Kabzeel, and Eder, and Jagur,

22 And Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah,

23 And Kedeſh, and Hazor, and Ithnan,

24 Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth,

25 And Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which is Hazor, 26 Amam,

---

12 This mountain, &c.] The mountainous country where Hebron lay.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XIV.

In this chapter we ſee the accompliſhment of the promiſe that God made to Joſhua and Caleb, when he told them, that none but they two ſhould enter into the land of Canaan. Caleb arrived at a happy and advanced old age; God gave mount Hebron to him and his poſterity, which recompence proved to future ages a laſting monument of the faith and zeal of that holy man. Thus God rewards the piety of thoſe who fear him, with temporal bleſſings, as well as thoſe which are eternal.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XV.

8 The valley of the ſon of Hinnom, &c.] A valley on the eaſt ſide of Jeruſalem, ſo delightfully ſhaded, that it invited them to perform their idolatrous worſhip in this valley, for which it became infamous. See 2 Kings xxiii. 10. and Jer. vii. 32.

12 This is the coaſt of the children of Judah, &c.] The meaning of this text is, that their lot was bounded in this manner in the firſt draught of it.

19 Give me alſo ſprings of water] He not only begged the ſprings, but the ground in which they were, as appears from the foregoing, where ſhe moved her huſband to aſk a field.

He gave her the upper ſprings, and the nether ſprings.] He ſeems to have given her more than ſhe deſired; not only thoſe which were below; that ſo neither the riſing ground nor the plain, might want water.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The general borders of the ſons of Joſeph. 5 The border of Ephraim's inheritance. 10 The Canaanites of Gezer are not driven out, but become tributaries.

AND the lot of the children of Joſeph fell from Jordan by Jericho, unto the water of Jericho on the eaſt, to the wilderneſs that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el.
2 And goeth out from Beth-el to Luz, and paſſeth along unto the borders of Archi to Ataroth,
3 And goeth down weſtward to the coaſt of Japhleti, unto the coaſt of Beth-horon the nether, and to Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the ſea.
4 So the children of Joſeph, Manaſſeh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.
5 ¶ And the border of the children of Ephraim according to their families was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the eaſt ſide was Ataroth-addar, unto Beth-horon the upper;
6 And the border went out toward the ſea to Michmethah on the north ſide; and the border went about eaſtward unto Taanath-ſhiloh, and paſſed by it on the eaſt to Janohah;
7 And it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan.
8 The border went out from Tappuah weſtward unto the river Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the ſea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.
9 And the ſeparate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manaſſeh, all the cities with their villages.
10 ¶ And they drave not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and ſerve under tribute.

THERE was alſo a lot for the tribe of Manaſſeh; for he was the firſtborn of Joſeph; to wit, for Machir the firſtborn of Manaſſeh, the father of Gilead: becauſe he was a man of war, therefore he had Gilead and Baſhan.
2 There was alſo a lot for the reſt of the children of Manaſſeh by their families; for the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Aſriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: theſe

32 All the cities are twenty and nine, with their villages.] The cities, which fell to the lot of Judah amounted to thirty-eight: nine of theſe cities, namely, Beer-ſheba, Moldaheh, Hazar-ſhual, Baalah, Azem, Hormah, Ziklag, Ain, and Rimmon, were taken from Judah, and given to the tribe of Simeon; which nine, with the twenty-nine mentioned in the preceding verſes, complete the number of thirty-eight.

62 The city of ſalt, &c.] It was called, "the city of ſalt," either on account of its vicinity to the ſalt ſea, or becauſe Lot's wife was, in that neighbourhood, turned into a pillar of ſalt.

63 As for the Jebuſites, &c.] This ſuppoſes that Jeruſalem belonged to the children of Judah; and ſo it did in part, though not the whole; for ſome of it was in the tribe of Benjamin.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XV.

The inſtruction to be drawn from this chapter, is, that as the land was divided among the people by lot, in the moſt ſolemn manner, ſo we, who profeſs to be Chriſtians, ſhould never ſeek after any inheritance in this world, unleſs we have reaſon to hope for the divine bleſſing in the enjoyment of it.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVI.

1 The lot of the children of Joſeph, &c.] That is, of Ephraim, and of that half of the tribe of Manaſſeh which was not yet provided for. One cannot but obſerve the providence of God, in bringing up their lot next to Judah's. For as Judah had the prerogative of being made the chief of all Jacob's children, ſo Joſeph had the privilege of the firſtborn transferred to his family; and therefore they are conſidered before any of the other tribes, except Judah.

10 They drave not out the Canaanites, &c.] They ſo far ſubdued them, as to make them tributaries. Grotius is of opinion that the inhabitants of Gezer ſubmitted and accepted the terms of peace, which Joſhua was bound to offer them before he began the war.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVI.

We may hence learn how careful Joſhua was, in order to obey the will of God, by giving to each of the tribes their ſhare, and ſuffering them to draw theſe ſhares by lot, that there might be no reaſon to ſuſpect partiality, nor to occaſion any diſputes.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES on Chap. XVII.

1 A lot for the tribe of Manaſſeh, &c.] That is, for that half of it which had received an inheritance, and yet had no portion on the other ſide Jordan.

Before CHRIST 1444

theſe were the male children of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph by their families.

3 ¶ But Zelophehad, the ſon of Hepher, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, had no ſons, but daughters: and theſe are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

4 And they came near before Eleazar the prieſt, and before Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and before the princes, ſaying, The LORD commanded Moſes to give us an inheritance among our brethren. Therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

5 And there fell ten portions to Manaſſeh, beſide the land of Gilead and Baſhan, which were on the other ſide Jordan;

6 Becauſe the daughters of Manaſſeh had an inheritance among his ſons: and the reſt of Manaſſeh's ſons had the land of Gilead.

7 ¶ And the coaſt of Manaſſeh was from Aſher to Michmethah, that lieth before Shechem: and the border went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8 Now Manaſſeh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah on the border of Manaſſeh belonged to the children of Ephraim;

9 And the coaſt deſcended unto the river Kanah, ſouthward of the river: theſe cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manaſſeh: the coaſt of Manaſſeh alſo was on the north ſide of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the ſea:

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manaſſeh's, and the ſea is his border; and they met together in Aſher on the north, and in Iſſachar on the eaſt.

11 And Manaſſeh had in Iſſachar and in Aſher Beth-ſhean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countries.

12 ¶ Yet the children of Manaſſeh could not drive out the inhabitants of thoſe cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

13 Yet it came to paſs, when the children of Iſrael were waxen ſtrong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but did not utterly drive them out.

14 ¶ And the children of Joſeph ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying, Why haſt thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, ſeeing I am a great people, foraſmuch as the LORD hath bleſſed me hitherto?

15 And Joſhua anſwered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyſelf there in the land of the Perizzites and of the giants, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.

16 And the children of Joſeph ſaid, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have chariots of iron, both they who are of Beth-ſhean and her towns, and they who are of the valley of Jezreel.

17 And Joſhua ſpake unto the houſe of Joſeph, even to Ephraim and to Manaſſeh, ſaying, Thou art a great people, and haſt great power: thou ſhalt not have one lot only:

Before CHRIST 1444

18 But the mountain ſhall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou ſhalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it ſhall be thine: for thou ſhalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be ſtrong.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The tabernacle is ſet up at Shiloh. 2 Joſhua cauſeth the remainder of the land not yet divided to be deſcribed into ſeven parts. 8 The deſcription of it is made and brought to Joſhua. 10 He diſtributeth it by lot. 11 The lot and border of the children of Benjamin. 21 Their cities.

AND the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael aſſembled together at Shiloh, and ſet up the tabernacle of the congregation there. And the land was ſubdued before them.

2 ¶ And there remained among the children of Iſrael ſeven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, How long are ye ſlack to go to poſſeſs the land, which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will ſend them, and they ſhall riſe, and go through the land, and deſcribe it according to the inheritance of them; and they ſhall come again to me.

5 And they ſhall divide it into ſeven parts: Judah ſhall abide in their coaſt on the ſouth, and the houſe of Joſeph ſhall abide in their coaſts on the north.

6 Ye ſhall therefore deſcribe the land into ſeven parts, and bring the deſcription hither to me, that I may caſt lots for you here before the LORD our God.

7 But the Levites have no part among you; for the prieſthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the eaſt, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave them.

8 ¶ And the men aroſe, and went away: and Joſhua charged them that went to deſcribe the land, ſaying, Go and walk through the land, and deſcribe it, and come again to me, that I may here caſt lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

9 And the men went and paſſed through the land, and deſcribed it by cities into ſeven parts in a book, and came again to Joſhua to the hoſt at Shiloh.

10 ¶ And Joſhua caſt lots for them in Shiloh before the LORD: and there Joſhua divided the land unto the children of Iſrael according to their diviſions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coaſt of their lot came forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joſeph.

12 And their border on the north ſide was from Jordan; and the border went up to the ſide of Jericho on the north ſide, and went up through the mountains weſtward;

---

4 According to the commandment of the Lord he gave them an inheritance, &c.] After the lot had determined what land every tribe ſhould have, Eleazar, Joſhua, and the princes, conſidered how many families there were in the tribe, and how large they were, and accordingly divided among them.

12 The children of Manaſſeh could not drive out the inhabitants, &c.] Through want of faith in God, and of zeal to perform his commands; which made them ſlack in their attempts to expel the inhabitants of this country.

15 If mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.] If that mount which was given them for their portion did not afford them room enough, he exhorts them to enlarge their bounds, by taking in thoſe woodlands before-mentioned.

16 Chariots of iron, &c.] Not made of iron, but armed with iron; having a kind of ſcythes of two cubbins, faſtened to long axle-trees on both wheels.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVII.

The portion given to Manaſſeh being inferior to that beſtowed on Ephraim, may ſerve to convince us of the truth of Jacob's prophecy when he bleſſed the two ſons of Joſeph. We are here alſo ſhewn the truly laudable conduct of Ephraim, and the reward of their valour; and, laſtly, that the prudent conduct of Joſhua as a commander ought to be imitated by all who act in a military capacity.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XVIII.

2 Had not yet received their inheritance.] No lot had been drawn for ſeven tribes in Gilgal; perhaps, becauſe the tribes of the houſe of Joſeph were not ſatisfied with the diviſion begun there.

5 Judah ſhall abide in their coaſts on the ſouth, and the houſe of Joſeph ſhall abide in their coaſts on the north.] The lot of Judah, which was ſoutherly, and the lot of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, which with reſpect to the former, were northerly, were not to be altered: theſe tribes were to remain undiſturbed in their poſſeſſions, unleſs it ſhould be found that they had more than they needed, and others had leſs.

22 And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and Beth-el,

23 And Avim, and Parah, and Ophah,

24 And Chepar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba; twelve cities with their villages:

25 Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth,

26 And Mizpeh, and Chephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah,

28 And Zelah, Eleph, and Jebuſi, which is Jeruſalem, Gibeath, and Kirjath; fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according their families.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The lot of Simeon, 10 of Zebulun, 17 of Iſſachar, 24 of Aſher, 32 of Naphtali, 40 of Dan. 49 The children of Iſrael give an inheritance to Joſhua.

AND the ſecond lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families: and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And they had in their inheritance Beer-ſheba, Sheba, and Moladah,

3 And Hazar-ſhual, and Balah, and Azem,

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-markaboth, and Har-ſuſah,

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen; thirteen cities and their villages:

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Aſhan; four cities and their villages:

8 And all the villages that were round about theſe cities to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the ſouth. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families. Before CHRIST 1444.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun according to their families: and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid:

11 And their border went up toward the ſea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbaſheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam;

12 And turned from Sarid eaſtward toward the ſunriſing unto the border of Chiſloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath, and goeth up to Japhia,

13 And from thence paſſeth on along the eaſt to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon-methoar to Neah;

14 And the border compaſſeth it on the north ſide to Hannathon: and the outgoings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el:

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem: twelve cities with their villages.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

17 ¶ And the fourth lot came out to Iſſachar, for the children of Iſſachar according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel, and Cheſhulloth, and Shunem,

19 And Haphraim, and Shihon, and Anaharath,

20 And Rabbith, and Kiſhion, and Abez,

21 And Remeth, and En-gannim, and En-haddah, Beth-pazzez;

22 And the coaſt reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-ſhemeſh; and the outgoings of their border were at Jordan: ſixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Aſher according to their families.

25 And their border was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achſhaph,

26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Miſheal; and reacheth to Carmel weſtward, and to Shihor-libnath;

27 And turneth toward the ſunriſing to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north ſide of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand,

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, even unto great Zidon;

29 And then the coaſt turneth to Ramah, and to the ſtrong city Tyre; and the coaſt turneth to Hoſah; and the outgoings thereof are at the ſea from the coaſt to Achzib:

30 Ummah alſo, and Aphek, and Rehob: twenty and two cities with their villages.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Aſher according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

14 And compaſſed the corner of the ſea ſouthward, &c.] The word which is here tranſlated "corner," may ſignify the ſide of the ſea; as if it had been ſaid, that it ran in a parallel line with the ſea.

28 This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, &c.] This was one of the ſmalleſt, with reſpect to the quantity of ground which they poſſeſſed; but the ſoil was richer than that of all the other tribes.

GENERAL REFLECTIONS on Chap. XVIII.

We may obſerve the prudent conduct of Joſhua, in this chapter, in ſatisfying the ſcruples of the people; his ordering their lots to be drawn in the moſt ſacred places, evinced his regard for religion; and the diviſion here made, ſerved to preſerve a diſtinction among the tribes, which continued till the coming of the Meſſiah.

COMMENTARY AND NOTES ON CHAP. XIX.

1 Even for the tribe of the children of Simeon, &c.] This repetition ſeems to imply, that though their inheritance was included in that of Judah, this tribe had another ſhare by lot, beſides the cities here ſpoken of.

2 Beer ſheba, Sheba, &c.] Or rather Beer-ſheba, which is Sheba; for they were one and the ſame place.

9 The children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.] The original is here very juſtly and very ſignificantly tranſlated "within," though it ſignifies, in the midſt; for the lot of Simeon did not lie in the midſt, or in the heart, but in the ſkirts of the country of Judah.

16 Theſe cities with their villages.] That is, theſe were the bounds of their inheritance; but all the cities belonging to it are not here ſet down.

Before CHRIST 1444.

32 ¶ The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, even for the children of Naphtali according to their families.

33 And their coast was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum; and the outgoings thereof were at Jordan:

34 And then the coast turneth westward to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sunrising.

35 And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and Chinnereth,

36 And Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor,

37 And Kedesh, and Edrei, and Enhazor,

38 And Iron, and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh; nineteen cities with their villages.

39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

40 ¶ And the seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families.

41 And the coast of their inheritance was Zorah, and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh,

42 And Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, and Jethlah,

43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and Ekron,

44 And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalath,

45 And Jehud, and Bene-berak, and Gath-rimmon,

46 And Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border before Japho.

47 And the coast of the children of Dan went out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

49 ¶ When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coasts, the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun among them:

50 According to the word of the LORD they gave him the city which he asked, even Timnah-serah in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt therein.

51 These are the inheritances, which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot in Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. So they made an end of dividing the country.

34 To Judah upon Jordan, &c.] The meaning is, that this tribe had a communication with that of Judah, by means of the river Jordan.

46 Before Japho.] Afterwards called Joppa.
